Introduction by the director of the al-Ma'had al-Sadiqin (the Al-Sadiqin Institute).

In the name of God, the Most Beneficent, the Most Merciful.

Our research at Al Sadiqin necessitated a translation of the tafsir (commentaries) on the Holy Qur'an that allowed easy searching, comparison between similar ahadith and immediate reference to the original Arabic text for those not fluent in Arabic.

Al Sadiqin contributes to fulfilling this need by providing this publication.

The online form of this book makes for easy "copy and paste" of ahadith for use in research papers. In the printed form, it allows the reader who may not be fluent in Arabic to find references to the original Arabic text.

The Tafsir Al-Qur'an: A Complete English

Translation of Classical Qur'anic Commentaries Volume 5 presents a simple, but complete English translation of the major classical commentaries on the Qur'an, covering the next verses of Sūrat āl 'Im'rān. These tafsir works are foundational to Islamic scholarship, each offering a distinct methodology and historical perspective:

- Tafsir al-Tabari (923 CE) – One of the earliest and most comprehensive tafsirs, authored by Imam al-Tabari. It is based on tafsir bi'l-ma'thur (interpretation through transmitted reports) and includes extensive narrations from the Prophet (pbuh), the Sahabah, and early scholars.
- Tafsir al-Baghawi (1122 CE) – Written by Imam al-Baghawi, this tafsir is known for its conciseness and reliance on authentic hadith and narrations. It is widely used in Sunni circles as a balanced and straightforward commentary.
- Tafsir al-Qurtubi (1273 CE) – Authored by Imam al-Qurtubi, this tafsir is famous for its focus on fiqh (Islamic jurisprudence) and legal interpretations, making it essential for scholars studying Qur'anic law.
- Tafsir al-Baidawi (1286 CE) – A concise and refined commentary by Imam al-Baidawi, often studied in traditional madrasahs. It is particularly valuable for its linguistic analysis and summarization of earlier tafsirs like al-Zamakhshari's.
- Tafsir Ibn Kathir (1372 CE) – One of the most widely read tafsirs today, written by Ibn Kathir, emphasizing tafsir bi'l-ma'thur and the use of hadith and narrations from the Sahabah.

- Tafsir al-Jalalayn (1505 CE) – A brief yet highly regarded tafsir written by Jalal al-Din al-Mahalli and completed by Jalal al-Din al-Suyuti. It is a widely studied introductory tafsir, particularly in traditional Islamic education.
- Tafsir al-Suyuti (1505 CE) – Compiled by Imam al-Suyuti, this tafsir is a rich source of tafsir bi'l-ma'thur (narrative-based exegesis), incorporating extensive hadith and historical reports.
- Fath al-Qadir (1834 CE) – Written by Imam al-Shawkani, this tafsir combines tafsir bi'l-ma'thur with rational analysis and legal insights, making it a comprehensive and independent work.

This book serves as an essential resource for students, researchers, and general readers seeking a comprehensive understanding of the Qur'an through classical scholarship. As part of a 34-volume complete translation, this work aims to make these monumental Islamic commentaries accessible to English readers for the first time.

Surat Al Imran 3:74

He bestows His mercy on whom He wills, and God is the possessor of great bounty.

Surat Al Imran 3:74

He bestows His mercy on whom He wills, and God is the possessor of great bounty.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

He chooses for His mercy whom He wills, and God is the possessor of great bounty.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: What he means by his saying: He singles out for His mercy whomever He wills, is the verb yaf'ala from the saying of the speaker: I singled out so-and-so with such-and-such, I singled him out with it.

As for his mercy, in this context, it is Islam and the Qur'an, along with prophethood, as:

Muhammad bin Amr told me, he said, Abu Asim told us, on the authority of Isa, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid: He chooses for His mercy whomever He wills, he said: Prophethood, He chooses for it whomever He wills.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Abu Hudhayfah told us, he said, Shabl told us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, similarly.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Ishaq told us, he said, Abdullah bin Abi Jaafar told us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-Rabi': He chooses for His mercy whomever He wills, he said: He chooses for prophethood whomever He wills.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Suwaid told us, he said, Ibn al-Mubarak told us, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj: He chooses for His mercy whom He wills, he said: the Qur'an and Islam.

Al-Qasim told us, he said, Al-Hussein told us, he said, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, the same.

And God is the possessor of great bounty, meaning: He is the possessor of bounty with which He bestows it upon whomever He loves and wills of His creation. Then He described His bounty as great, saying: His bounty is great, because nothing is like Him in the greatness of His position among those whom He favors over Him [with bounty] from the favors of His creation, and nothing comes close to Him in the majesty of its importance or approaches it.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

That is, through his prophethood and guidance, according to Al-Hasan, Mujahid, and others. Ibn Jurayj: Through Islam and the Qur'an, whoever He wills. Abu Uthman said: The most beautiful statement is to leave with him the hope of the hopeful and the fear of the fearful, And God is the possessor of great bounty.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The Almighty tells about the Jews' envy of the believers, and their desire to mislead them, and He informed that the consequences of that only come back to themselves, and they do not realize that they are being tricked. Then the Almighty said, denouncing them, O People of the Scripture, why do you disbelieve in the verses of God while you witness it?

That is, you know its truth and realize its truth. O People of the Scripture, why do you mix truth with falsehood and conceal the truth while you know? That is, you conceal what is in your books about the description of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, while you know that and realize it. "And a party of the People of the Scripture say, 'Believe in that which has been revealed to those who believe at the beginning of the day and disbelieve at its end.' " This is a plot they wanted to confuse the weak among the people about their religion, which is that they agreed among themselves to show faith at the beginning of the day, and to pray the dawn prayer with the Muslims, but when the day came, they would return to their religion so that the ignorant among the people would say: What brought them back to their religion was their discovery of a contradiction and a defect in the religion of the Muslims. For this reason they said, Perhaps they They return. Ibn Abi Nujayh said: On the authority of Mujahid, in the words of God Almighty, informing about the Jews in this verse, he means the Jews who prayed the dawn prayer with the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and disbelieved at the end of the day, as a plot on their part, so that people would see that they had become misguided from him after they had followed him.

Al-Awfi said on the authority of Ibn Abbas: A group of the People of the Book said: When you met the companions of Muhammad at the beginning of the day, then believe, and when it is the end of it, then pray your prayers so that they may say, These are the People of the Book, and they are more knowledgeable than us. And this is how it was narrated on the authority of Qatada, Al-Suddi, Al-Rabi', and Abu Malik.

And the Almighty said: And do not believe except to him who follows your religion meaning do not be reassured or reveal your secret and what you have except to him who follows your religion, and do not reveal what is in your hands to the Muslims so that they believe in it and use it as evidence against you. God Almighty said: Say, 'Indeed, the guidance is the guidance of God' meaning He is the One who guides the hearts of the believers to the most perfect faith in what He sent down to His servant and Messenger Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, of clear signs, decisive evidence, and evident arguments, even if you, O Jews, conceal what is in your hands of the description of Muhammad, the unlettered prophet, in your books that you transmitted from the earlier prophets. And His saying, That someone should be given the like of what you have been given, or that they should argue with you before your Lord, they say: Do not show the knowledge you have to the Muslims, so that they learn it from you, and become equal to you in it and have an advantage over you because of the strength of their faith in it, or argue with you about it before your Lord, meaning that they take it as an argument against you with what is in your hands, so that evidence is established against you, and the argument is formed in this world and the hereafter. God Almighty said: "Say: Verily, bounty is in the hand of God. He gives it to whom He wills," meaning that all matters are under His control, and He is the Giver and the Withholder. He bestows upon whomever He wills faith, knowledge, and perfect perception, and He misguides whomever He wills, blinding his sight and insight, and sealing his heart and hearing, and placing a veil over his vision. He has the perfect argument and conclusive wisdom. "And God is All-Encompassing, All-Knowing. He singles out for His mercy whomever He wills, and God is the possessor of great bounty," meaning that He singled you out, O believers, with bounty that is limitless and indescribable, with which He honored your Prophet Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, over all the other prophets. And He guided you to the most perfect of laws.

Fath al-Qadir

And His saying 74- He chooses for His mercy whomever He wills. It was said: It is prophecy, and it was said: It is more general than that, and it is a response to them and a refutation of what they said and planned.

Ibn al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Sufyan who said: Everything in Al Imran that mentions the People of the Book is about the Christians. This is refuted by the fact that many of the addresses to the People of the Book mentioned in this Surah cannot be applied to the Christians at all, including these verses that we are about to interpret. The group that wanted to mislead the Muslims, as well as the group that says, Believe in that which has been revealed to those who believe at the beginning of the day, are specifically from the Jews. Abd ibn Humayd, Ibn Jarir, and Ibn al-Mundhir narrated on the authority of Qatadah regarding his statement, O People of the Book, why do you disbelieve in the verses of God while you bear witness? He said: You bear witness that the description of the Prophet of God, Muhammad, is in your Book, then you disbelieve in him and deny him and do not believe in him, while you find him written with you in the Torah and the Gospel, the unlettered Prophet. Ibn Jarir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated something similar on the authority of al-Rabi'. They also narrated something similar on the authority of al-Suddi. Ibn Abi Hatim narrated something similar on the authority of Muqatil. Ibn Jarir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, And you bear witness that the religion with God is Islam, and that God has no other religion. They narrated on the authority of al-Rabi', regarding his statement, Why do you mix truth with falsehood? He said: Why do you mix Judaism and Christianity with Islam, while you know that the religion of God that is not accepted from anyone other than Him is Islam? And you conceal the truth He said: You conceal the matter of Muhammad, while you find it written with you in the Torah and the Gospel. Abd ibn Humayd and Ibn Jarir narrated something similar on the authority of Qatadah. Ibn Ishaq, Ibn Jarir, Ibn al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: Abdullah ibn al-Sayf, Adi ibn Zayd and al-Harith ibn Awf said to each other: Come, let us believe in what was revealed to Muhammad and his companions in the morning and disbelieve in it in the evening, so that we may confuse them about their religion, perhaps they will do as we do and turn back from their religion. So God revealed about them, O People of the Scripture, why do you mix truth with falsehood? until His statement, And God is All-Encompassing and Knowing. Something similar to this has been narrated on the authority of a group of the Salaf. Ibn al-Mundhir, Ibn Abi Hatim, Ibn Mardawayh and al-Dhiya' in al-Mukhtara narrated on the authority of Abu Dhibyan on the authority of Ibn Abbas regarding the verse, And a group said, he said: They would be with them at the beginning of the day and sit with them and talk to them, but when the evening came and the time for prayer came, they disbelieved in him and abandoned him. Ibn Jarir and Ibn al-Mundhir narrated on the authority of Qatadah regarding the verse, And do not believe except in him who follows your religion, he said: This is what some of them said to each other. Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of al-Rabi' something similar. He also narrated on the authority of al-Suddi something similar. Abd ibn Humayd, Ibn Jarir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Mujahid, That someone should be given what you have been given, out of envy on the part of the Jews that prophethood would be for someone other than them, and the desire that they would follow in their religion. Abd ibn Humayd, Ibn al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Abu Malik and Sa'id ibn Jubayr, That someone should be given what you have been given, he said: The nation of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace. Ibn Jarir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Al-Suddi that God said to Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace: Indeed, the guidance is the guidance of God, that someone should be given the like of what you have been given, O nation of Muhammad, or that they should argue with you before your Lord, the Jews said: God did such and such an honor to us until He sent down manna and quails upon us. What I have given you is better, so say: "Say: Indeed, bounty is in God's hand; He gives it to whom He wills." Abd ibn Humayd, Ibn Jarir, and Ibn Al-Mundhir narrated on the authority of Qatadah: "Say: Indeed, the guidance is the guidance of God, that someone should be given the like of what you have been given," meaning: When God sent down a book like your book and sent a prophet like your prophet, you envied him for that. "Say: Indeed, bounty is in God's hand; He gives it to whom He wills." Ibn Jarir narrated something similar on the authority of Al-Rabi'. Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, "Say: Verily, the guidance is the guidance of God, that someone should be given the like of what you have been given." He said: This is the matter that God has bestowed upon him. That someone should be given the like of what you have been given, or that they should argue with you before your Lord. He said: Some of them said to each other, Do not tell them what God has made clear to you in His Book, "so that they may argue with you about it before your Lord, so that it will be an argument for them against you. "Say: Verily, the bounty is in God's hand." He said: Islam. He chooses for His mercy whom He wills. He said: The Qur'an and Islam. Abd ibn Humayd, Ibn Jarir, Ibn al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Mujahid, He chooses for His mercy whom He wills. He said: Prophethood. Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of al-Hasan, who said: His mercy is Islam, and He chooses for it whom He wills.

He bestows His mercy on whom He wills, and God is the possessor of great bounty.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

74- God Almighty says: He chooses for His mercy meaning His prophethood whoever He wills, and God is the possessor of great bounty.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

74 He chooses for His mercy whom He wills, and God is the possessor of great bounty. A response and refutation of what they claimed with clear evidence.

Surat Al Imran 3:75

And among the People of the Scripture is he who, if you entrust him with a great amount, he will return it to you. And among them is he who, if you entrust him with a dinar, he will not return it to you unless you remain standing over him. That is because they say, There is no blame upon us concerning the unlettered ones, and they speak a lie about God while they know.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And among the People of the Scripture is he who, if you entrust him with a great amount of money, will return it to you for his trustworthiness, like Abdullah ibn Salam, to whom a man entrusted one thousand two hundred ounces of gold, and he returned it to him. And among them is he who, if you entrust him with a dinar, will not return it to you for his betrayal unless you stand over him and do not leave him, and when you leave him, he denies it. Like Ka'b ibn al-Ashraf, to whom a Qurayshite entrusted a dinar, and he denied it. That that is, he did not return it because they said because of their saying There is no way for us concerning the unlettered ones that is, the Arabs to do that is, sin, because they consider permissible the oppression of those who oppose their religion and attribute it to God Almighty. God Almighty said And they tell a lie about God in attributing that to Him while they know.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Jaafar said: This is report from God Almighty: that among the People of the Book - and they are the Jews from the Children of Israel - are people of trust who fulfill their trust and do not betray it, and among them is the one who betrays his trust, is wicked in his oath, and considers it permissible.

If someone says: What is the reason for God Almighty informing His Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, of this, when you know that people have always been like this: some of them fulfill their trusts and some of them betray them?

It was said: God Almighty intended, by informing the believers of their report - as He explained in His Book with these verses - to warn them against entrusting them with their money, and to frighten them from being deceived by them, because many of them consider the money of the believers permissible.

The interpretation of the statement: Among the People of the Book is he who, O Muhammad, if you entrust him with a great deal of wealth, he will return it to you and will not deceive you concerning it. And among them is he who, if you entrust him with a dinar, he will deceive you concerning it and will not return it to you unless you insist on litigation and demand it from him.

The letter ba in his saying: with a dinar and ala alternate in this topic, as one says: I passed by him and I passed by him.

The interpreters differed in their interpretation of his statement: Except as long as you are standing on it.

Some of them said: Except as long as you are suing him.

Who said that?

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: Except as long as you are standing upon it, except what you seek and follow.

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said, Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said, Muammar told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: Except as long as you are standing on it, he said: It requires it of him.

Muhammad bin Amr told me, he said, Abu Asim told us, on the authority of Isa, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding his statement: Except as long as you are standing upon it, he said: Persistent.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Abu Hudhayfah told us, he said, Shabl told us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, similarly.

Others said: The meaning of this is: Except as long as you are standing over his head.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Al-Husayn told me, he said, Ahmad bin Al-Mufaddal told us, he said, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi, his saying: I am standing over him, meaning: He acknowledges his trust as long as I am standing over his head, but if you stand up and then come to seek him, you are a disbeliever - the one who fulfills and the one who denies.

Abu Ja'far said: The more correct of the two interpretations of the verse is the one that says: The meaning of this is: Except as long as I am standing up for it by demanding and exacting it. From their saying: So-and-so exacted my right from so-and-so until he extracted it for me, meaning he worked to free him and strove to extract it from him until he extracted it. Because God the Almighty described them as making the wealth of the illiterate permissible, and that among them are those who do not pay what they owe except by severe exacting and demanding. Standing up for the one who owes the debt does not require him to move from what he is doing by making permissible what is permissible for him, but it may be - along with his considering what he owes to the owner of the right permissible - to extracting it by exacting, litigating and litigating. So that exacting is the owner of the money taking his right from the one who owes it.

Abu Ja'far said: By that, may His praise be glorified, He means: that whoever among the Jews considers treachery permissible, and denies the rights of the Arab that are due to him, and does not pay what the Arab entrusted to him except as long as he is a claimant and demands it from him, for the sake of saying: There is no blame upon us for what we have taken from the Arabs' money and no sin, because they are not on the right path, and they are polytheists.

And among the People of the Scripture is he who, if you entrust him with a great amount, he will return it to you. And among them is he who, if you entrust him with a dinar, he will not return it to you unless you remain standing over him. That is because they say, "There is no blame upon us concerning the unlettered ones," and they speak a lie about God while they know.

The interpreters differed in their interpretation of this, and some of them said something similar to what we said about it.

Who said that?

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada: That is because they said, 'We have no claim against the unlettered people,' the verse. The Jews said: We have no claim against the Arabs' money that we have taken.

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said, Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said, Muammar told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: There is no blame upon us concerning the unlettered ones, he said: There is no blame upon us concerning the polytheists, meaning those who are not from the People of the Book.

Muhammad told us, Ahmad told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi: That is because they said, 'We have no responsibility for the illiterate.' He said: It will be said to him: Why do you not fulfill your trust? He will say: There is no blame on us for the money of the Arabs, God has made it lawful for us!!

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Yaqub al-Qummi told us, on the authority of Ja'far, on the authority of Sa'id bin Jubayr: When the verse was revealed: "And among the People of the Scripture is he who, if you entrust him with a great amount, will return it to you. And among them is he who, if you entrust him with a dinar, will not return it to you except as long as you stand over him. That is because they say, 'We have no responsibility for the unlettered ones,'" the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The enemies of God have lied. There is nothing that existed in the Age of Ignorance but that it is under my feet, except for trusts, for they are returned to the righteous and the wicked.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Ishaq told us, he said, Hisham bin Ubaid God told us, on the authority of Ya'qub al-Qummi, on the authority of Ja'far, on the authority of Sa'id bin Jubayr, he said: When the Jews said: We have no right to take the money of the illiterate, meaning taking their money, the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said, then he mentioned something similar, except that he said: Except that it is under these two feet of mine, except for the trust, for it is to be fulfilled, and he did not say more than that.

Muhammad ibn Sa'd told me, he said, my father told me, he said, my uncle told me, he said, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn 'Abbas: That is because they said, 'There is no blame upon us concerning the unlettered ones,' that is because the People of the Book used to say: There is no blame upon us concerning what we take from these people, because they are unlettered. So that is what He said: There is no blame upon us concerning the unlettered ones, to the end of the verse.

Others said about that, what:

Al-Qasim narrated to us, he said: Al-Husayn narrated to us, he said: Hajjaj narrated to me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj: "That is because they said: We have no right to deal with the unlettered ones." He said: The Jews pledged allegiance to some Muslims during the pre-Islamic period, and when they converted to Islam, they demanded the price of their sales from them, and they said: You have no trust from us, and we have no right to judge you, because you have abandoned the religion that you were following! He said: And they claimed that they found that in their book, so God Almighty said: And they tell lies about God while they know.

Ibn Wakee' told us, he said, my father told us, he said, Sufyan told us, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Sa'sa'ah, he said: I said to Ibn Abbas: Do we raid the People of the Book and take a share of their fruits? He said: And you say as the People of the Book said: We have no right to the unlettered!!

Al-Hasan bin Yahya narrated, he said: Abd al-Razzaq narrated, he said: Muammar narrated, on the authority of Abu Ishaq al-Hamadani, on the authority of Sa'sa'ah: A man asked Ibn Abbas and said: We take from the wealth of the People of the Book in the war - or: [the cluster], the doubt is from al-Hasan - a chicken and a sheep. Ibn Abbas said: What do you say? He said: We say: There is no problem with that! He said: This is like what the People of the Book said: We have no responsibility for the illiterate! If they pay the jizyah, their wealth is not permissible for you except with their willing consent.

Abu Ja'far said: By that, may His praise be glorified, He means: Those among them who say: There is no blame upon us for the wealth of the illiterate Arabs if we betray them, they say - by saying that God has permitted that for us, so there is no blame upon us for betraying them and abandoning their judgment - lying about God, intentionally committing a sin by saying a lie about God, that He has permitted that for them. And that is what the Almighty said: and they know, as:

Muhammad told us, Ahmad told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of al-Suddi: He tells a lie about God, and He knows it. He means the one among them who says - if it is said to him: Why do you not fulfill your trust? -: There is no blame on us regarding the money of the Arabs, God has made it permissible for us!

Al-Qasim told us, he said, Al-Hussein told us, he said, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj: And they tell lies about God while they know, meaning: their claim that they found in their book their saying: We have no authority over the unlettered.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

It contains eight issues:

The first: The Almighty's saying: And among the People of the Scripture is he who, if you entrust him with a great amount, will return it to you, such as Abdullah ibn Salam. And among them is he who, if you entrust him with a dinar, will not return it to you. He is Phinehas ibn Azura the Jew. A man entrusted him with a dinar and he betrayed him. It was also said: Ka'b ibn al-Ashraf and his companions. Ibn Wathab and al-Ashhab al-Uqaili read min in yamanhu according to the language of those who read nasta'in, which is the language of Bakr and Tamim. In the version of Abdullah Malik, it is not a good omen for Yusuf, and the rest read it with an alif. Nafi' and al-Kisa'i read yu'da hi with a ya' in the inclusion. Abu Ubaid said: Abu Amr, al-A'mash, Asim and Hamzah agreed in the narration of Abu Bakr on stopping the ha', so they read yu'da ilaika. Al-Nahhas said: With the sukoon of the ha', it is not permissible except in Ash'ar according to some grammarians, and some of them do not allow it at all and see that it was a mistake from those who read it, that he thought that the jazm falls on the ha', and Abu Amr is too noble for such a thing to be permissible for him. The correct view is that he used to break the ha', which is the reading of Yazid ibn al-Qa'qa'. Al-Farra' said: The doctrine of some of the 'Abbas is to jazm the ha' if what precedes it is moved, and they say: I struck him with a severe strike, just as they make the mim of 'antum wa-qamatum quiescent, and its origin is the nominative, as the poet said:

When he saw that he was not satisfied, he went to a palm grove and lay down.

It was said: The sukoon of the ha' in this position is permissible because it occurred in the position of the jazm and it is the missing ya'. Abu al-Mundhir Salam and al-Zuhri read yu'dah with a damma on the ha' without a waw. Qatada, Hamid and Mujahid read yu'dahhu with a waw in the insertion, the waw was chosen for it from the lip and the ha' has a distant point of articulation. Sibawayh said: The waw in the masculine is like the alif in the feminine and it is replaced by a ya' because the ya' is lighter if it is preceded by a kasra or a ya', and the ya' is deleted and the kasra remains because the ya' was deleted and the verb was raised so it was maintained in its state.

Second: The Most High informed that among the People of the Book there is the traitor and the trustworthy, and the believers do not distinguish between them, so all of them should be avoided. He mentioned the People of the Book specifically, even though the believers are like that, because treachery is more common among them, so the statement was based on the most common. And God knows best. The interpretation of the qintar has already been mentioned. As for the dinar, it is twenty-four qirats, and the qirat is three grains of medium barley, so the total is seventy-two grains, and this is agreed upon. And whoever preserves a lot and pays it, the little is more deserving, and whoever betrays or prevents it in a little, then that is more common in a lot. This is the clearest evidence for the statement of the implication of the address. There is much disagreement among the scholars about it, mentioned in the principles of jurisprudence. The Most High mentioned two categories: those who pay and those who do not pay except by persisting in doing so. And there may be among the people those who do not pay even if you persist in doing so. The Most High mentioned the two categories because it is the most common and usual, and the third is rare, so the statement was based on the most common. Talha bin Masraf, Abu Abdul Rahman Al-Salami and others read Damt with a kasra on the dal. These are two dialects, and the kasra is the dialect of Azd Al-Sarat, from Damt Tadum, like Khafat Takhaf. Al-Akhfash narrated Damt Tadum, as an anomaly.

Third: Abu Hanifa based his doctrine on the obligation of the debtor to remain with him on the words of God Almighty: Except as long as you stand over him. The rest of the scholars rejected it, and it was mentioned earlier in Surat Al-Baqarah. Some of our scholars from Baghdad based their evidence on the imprisonment of the two debtors on the words of God Almighty: And among them is he who, if you entrust him with a dinar, will return it to you unless you stand over him. That is, he faces you, but he fears you and is shy of you, because shyness is in the eyes. Do you not see the saying of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with him: And do not ask a blind person for a need, because shyness is in the eyes. And if you ask your brother for a need, look at him with your face until he is shy and fulfills it. It is said that he is constantly with him, because if you give him a look, he will deny you. It was said that by standing he meant the continuation of the demand, not the very act of standing. The original word dinar is dinar, but one of the two nuns was replaced with a ya in order to make it easier, due to its frequent use. This is indicated by the fact that the plural form is dinars and the diminutive is dinarinir.

Fourth: Trust is of great value in religion, and one of the great things about it is that it and the womb stand on both sides of the Sirat, as in Sahih Muslim. So no one can cross the Gemini except those who preserve them. Muslim narrated on the authority of Hudhayfah that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, told us about the lifting of trust. He said:

A man sleeps a sleep and the trust is taken from his heart. It was mentioned in its entirety at the beginning of Surat Al-Baqarah. Ibn Majah narrated: Muhammad ibn Al-Musaffa told us, Muhammad ibn Harb told us, on the authority of Saeed bin Sinan, on the authority of Abu Al-Zahariyyah, on the authority of Abu Shajarah, many times, on the authority of Ibn Umar, that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said:

"When God, the Almighty, wants to destroy a servant, He strips him of his modesty. If He strips him of his modesty, you will find him only as a hated and detestable person. If He strips him of his trustworthiness, you will find him only as a traitor and a betrayer. If He strips him of his mercy, you will find him only as an accursed and cursed person. If He strips him of his mercy, you will find him only as an accursed and cursed person. The meaning of his, peace be upon him, saying, "Fulfill the trust of the one who

And among the People of the Scripture is he who, if you entrust him with a great amount, he will return it to you. And among them is he who, if you entrust him with a dinar, he will not return it to you unless you remain standing over him. That is because they say, "There is no blame upon us concerning the unlettered ones," and they speak a lie about God while they know.

entrusted you with it, and do not betray the one who betrayed you," has already been mentioned in Al-Baqarah. And God knows best.

Fifth: This verse does not include any justification for the People of the Book or for some of them, contrary to those who have held this view, because there are some wicked Muslims who fulfill trusts and insure a great deal of money, and they are not therefore just. The path of justice and testimony does not suffice in fulfilling trusts in money in terms of transactions and deposits. Do you not see their saying: We have no responsibility for the illiterate. So how can someone who believes that it is permissible to take our money and our women without any hardship on him be just? If that were sufficient for them to be just, their testimony against the Muslims would have been accepted.

Sixth: The Almighty's saying: That is because they said meaning the Jews We have no blame for the unlettered ones. It was said that when the Jews pledged allegiance to the Muslims, they would say: We have no blame for the unlettered ones, meaning that there is no blame on us for their injustice because they oppose us. They claimed that this was in their book, so God, the Almighty, denied them and responded to them, saying: Yes, yes, there is a path of punishment for them because of their lies and their taking the Arabs' money as permissible. Abu Ishaq al-Zajaj said: The speech was completed, then He said: Whoever fulfills his covenant and fears God. It is said that the Jews had borrowed money from the Arabs, and when the people who had rights converted to Islam, the Jews said: We have nothing against you, because you abandoned your religion, so your debt was dropped from us. They claimed that it was the ruling of the Torah, so God, the Almighty, said: Yes, in response to their saying: We have no blame for the unlettered ones. That is, it is not as you say. Then He resumed and said: Whoever fulfills his covenant and fears polytheism, then he is not one of the liars, but God and His Messenger love him.

Seventh: A man said to Ibn Abbas: We take a share of the wealth of the People of the Covenant, a chicken or a sheep, and we say: There is no harm in that. He said to him: This is like what the People of the Book said: There is no blame upon us regarding the unlettered ones. If they pay the jizyah, their wealth is not permissible for you except with their own consent. Abd al-Razzaq mentioned it on the authority of Muammar on the authority of Abu Ishaq al-Hamadani on the authority of Sa'sa'ah that a man said to Ibn Abbas, and he mentioned it.

Eighth: The Almighty's statement: And they tell lies about God while they know indicates that the unbeliever is not considered worthy of having his testimony accepted, because God the Almighty described him as a liar. It contains a refutation of the unbelievers who forbid and permit other than what God forbade and permitted, and they make that part of the Shari'ah. Ibn al-Arabi said: From this comes the refutation of those who rule by istihsan without evidence, and I do not know of anyone from the people of the Qiblah who said this. In the hadith: When this verse was revealed, the Prophet, may God's prayers and peace be upon him, said:

There is nothing that existed in the days of ignorance that is not under my feet except for trust, for it is given to the righteous and the wicked.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

God the Almighty tells us about the Jews, that among them are traitors, and He warns the believers against being deceived by them, for among them is one who, if you entrust him with a great amount of money, will return it to you meaning, money, and among them is one who, if you entrust him with a dinar, will not return it to you unless you stand over it meaning, by demanding, persisting, and insisting on getting your right, and if this is what he does with the dinar or anything above it, then it is more likely that he will not return it to him. We have already discussed the great amount at the beginning of the surah, but as for the dinar, it is well-known. Ibn Abi Hatim said: Saeed bin Amr Al-Sakuni told us, Baqiyah told us on the authority of Ziyad bin Al-Haitham, Malik bin Dinar told us, he said: The dinar was called so because it is a debt and a fire. It was said: Its meaning is that whoever takes it rightfully, it is his debt, and whoever takes it wrongfully, the fire is for him. It is appropriate to mention here the hadith that Al-Bukhari included in more than one place in his Sahih, and the best of them is its context in the Book of Guarantee, where he said: Al-Layth said: Ja'far bin Rabi'ah told me, on the authority of 'Abd al-Rahman bin Harmaz al-A'raj, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, may God be pleased with him, on the authority of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, "that he mentioned a man from the Children of Israel who asked some of the Children of Israel to lend him a thousand dinars. He said: Bring me witnesses so I may bear witness. He said: God is sufficient as a witness. He said: Bring me a guarantor. He said: God is sufficient as a guarantor. He said: You have spoken the truth. So he gave it to him for a specified period. He went out to sea and fulfilled his need, then looked for a ship to ride so that he could arrive at the specified period, but he did not find a ship. So he took a piece of wood and carved it, then put in it a thousand dinars and a document from him to its owner, then he pushed it in its place, then he brought it to the sea and said: O God, You know that I borrowed a thousand dinars from so-and-so, and he asked me for a witness, so I said: God is sufficient as a witness." He asked me for a guarantor, so I said: God is sufficient as a guarantor. So he agreed to that, and I tried hard to find a ship to which I could send what he had, but I was unable to. So I entrusted it to you. So he threw it into the sea until it entered it, then he turned away while he was looking for a ship to go to his country. Then the man who had given him a loan went out to see if a ship might bring him his money, and there was the piece of wood in which the money was, so he took it for his family as firewood. When he broke it, he found the money and the paper. Then the man from whom he had given him a loan came and brought him a thousand dinars, and said: By God, I have not ceased to strive to find a ship to bring you your money, but I have not found a ship before the one I came in. He said: Did you send me anything? He said: Did I not tell you that I did not find a mount before this? He said: Then God has fulfilled for you what I sent in the wood, so go back with a thousand dinars, guided." This is how Al-Bukhari narrated it in one place, suspended in the form of certainty, and he attributed it in some places in the Sahih on the authority of Abdullah bin Salih, the scribe of Al-Layth, on his authority. Imam Ahmad narrated it in his Musnad in this manner, at length, on the authority of Yunus bin Muhammad Al-Mu'addab on the authority of Al-Layth, and Al-Bazzar narrated it in his Musnad on the authority of Al-Hasan bin Mudrik on the authority of Yahya bin Hammad, on the authority of Abu Awanah, on the authority of Umar bin Abi Salamah, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Abu Hurairah, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, in a similar manner. Then he said: It is not narrated on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, except from this source with this chain of transmission. This is what he said, and it is a mistake for what came before. And his saying: That is because they said, 'We have no blame upon the unlettered ones' means that what led them to deny the truth was that they said: There is no blame upon us in our religion for eating the wealth of the unlettered ones, who are the Arabs, for God has made it permissible for us. God the Most High said: And they tell lies about God while they know. That is, they fabricated this statement and came up with this misguidance. God has forbidden them to eat wealth except by right. They are only a people of slander. Abd al-Razzaq said: Muammar informed us on the authority of Abu Ishaq al-Hamadani, on the authority of Sa'sa'ah ibn Yazid, that a man asked Ibn Abbas, saying: We take from the wealth of the People of the Covenant in warfare, chickens and sheep. Ibn Abbas said: So what do you say? He said: We say that there is no harm in that. He said this is like what the People of the Book said: We have no blame upon the unlettered ones, that is, if they pay the jizyah, their wealth is not permissible for you except with their consent. And thus, Ath-Thawri narrated it on the authority of Abu Ishaq in a similar manner. And Ibn Abi Hatim said: Muhammad ibn Yahya told us, Abu al-Rabi' al-Zahrani told us, Ya'qub told us, Ja'far told us on the authority of Sa'id ibn Jubayr, who said: When the People of the Book said: We have no blame upon the unlettered ones, the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "The enemies of God lied. There is nothing that existed in the Age of Ignorance except that it is under these two feet of mine except the trust, for it is given to the righteous and the wicked." Then God Almighty said: Yes, whoever fulfills his covenant and fears God, meaning, whoever fulfills his covenant and fears God among you, O People of the Book, that God has made a covenant with you regarding faith in Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, when he is sent, as He took the covenant and pledge from the prophets and their nations with that, and fears God's prohibitions, and follows His obedience and His law with which He sent the Seal of His Messengers and their Master. For God loves the righteous.

Fath al-Qadir

This is the beginning of explaining the Jews' treachery in money after explaining their treachery in religion, and the prepositional phrase in his saying 75- And among the people of the Book is in the nominative case as the subject, as mentioned in his saying And among the people is he who says and the explanation of Qintar has already been presented. And his saying You trust him is the reading of the majority. Ibn Waththab and Al-Ashhab Al-Uqaili read Taymanu with a kasra on the upper ta' according to the language of Bakr and Tamim, and similar is the reading of those who read Nasta'een with a kasra on the noon. Nafi' and Al-Kisa'i read yu'addah with a kasra on the ha' in Ad-Daraj. Abu Ubaid said: Abu Amr, Al-A'mash, Hamzou and Asim agreed in the narration of Abu Bakr on the sukoon on the ha'. An-Nahhas said: The sukoon on the ha' is not permissible except in poetry according to some grammarians, and some of them do not permit it at all and see that it is a mistake for those who read it, and it gives the impression that the jazm falls on the ha' and Abu Amr is too noble for anything like this to be permissible for him, and the correct thing about him is that he used to break the ha'. Al-Farra' said: The doctrine of some Arabs is to make the ha' quiescent if what precedes it is moved, so they say: We struck him with severe striking, just as they make the mim quiescent in you and you stood up. And he recited:

When he saw that there was no peace or satisfaction, he turned to his land and lay down.

Abu al-Mundhir Salam and al-Zuhri read it with a damma on the ha' without a waw. Qatada, Hamza and Mujahid read it with a waw in the inclusion. The meaning of the verse is that among the People of the Book is the trustworthy one who fulfills his trust even if it is large, and among them is the traitor who does not fulfill his trust even if it is small. Whoever is trustworthy in much, is even more trustworthy in little, and whoever is traitorous in little, is even more traitorous in much. His statement, except as long as you are standing over it is an empty exception, meaning that he will not return it to you under any circumstances except as long as you are standing over it, demanding it, pressuring it, and demanding its return. The reference in his statement, that, is to the omission of fulfillment indicated by his statement, does not return it. The illiterate are the Arabs who are not People of the Book: meaning, there is no blame on us for their injustice because they oppose us in our religion, and they claim, may God curse them, that this is in their book, so God Almighty responded to them by saying, "And they tell lies about God while they know." * Yes." meaning, yes, there is a way for them because of their lies and their taking the Arabs' money as permissible.

Surat Al Imran 3:75

And among the People of the Scripture is he who, if you entrust him with a great amount, he will return it to you. And among them is he who, if you entrust him with a dinar, he will not return it to you unless you remain standing over him. That is because they say, "There is no blame upon us concerning the unlettered ones," and they speak a lie about God while they know.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

75- The Almighty said: And among the People of the Scripture is he who, if you entrust him with a great amount, will return it to you The verse was revealed about the Jews. God Almighty informed us that among them are trustworthiness and treachery. The qintar is a large amount of money, and the dinar is a small amount of money. He says: Among them are those who will return the trust even if it is large, and among them are those who will not return it even if it is small. Muqatil said: And among the People of the Scripture is he who, if you entrust him with a great amount, will return it to you They are the believers of the People of the Scripture, such as Abdullah bin Salam and his companions. And among them is he who, if you entrust him with a great amount, will not return it to you meaning: the infidel Jews, such as Ka'b bin Al-Ashraf and his companions. Juwaybir said on the authority of Ad-Dahhak on the authority of Ibn Abbas regarding the Almighty's saying: And among the People of the Scripture is he who, if you entrust him with a great amount, will return it to you meaning: Abdullah bin Salam. A man entrusted him with one thousand two hundred ounces of gold and he returned it to him. And among them is he who, if you entrust him with a great amount, will not return it to you meaning: Phinehas bin Azura, he entrusted him with a man from Quraysh gave him a dinar and betrayed him. His saying, He returns it to you. Abu Amr, Abu Bakr, and Hamza read yu'duhu and la yu'duhu and naslah and nu'tuhu and nawlah with the ha' silent. Abu Ja'far, Qalun, and Ya'qub read it with the ikhtilas with a kasra, and the rest with the ishba' with a kasra. Whoever sukun the ha' said that it was placed in the place of the jazm, which is the missing ya'. Whoever ikhtilas was satisfied with the kasra instead of the ya', and whoever ashba' is based on the original, because the original in the ha' is the ishba'. Except as long as you are standing over it. Ibn Abbas said, Malhan, meaning he stands over it and demands it insistently. Ad-Dahhak said, Mawaziban, meaning he is persistent in it by demanding it. It was said, he meant I deposited it and then I took it back while you were standing over it and did not leave it, so he returned it to you. If you left it and delayed it, he denied it and did not return it. That means that is the permissibility and betrayal. Because they said, 'We have no right to the unlettered ones' meaning: there is a sin in the money of the Arab. And it is difficult, as God Almighty said: There is no blame upon the righteous. This is because the Jews said: The money of the Arabs is permissible for us, because they do not follow our religion and there is no sanctity for them in our book, and they considered it permissible to oppress those who differed from them in their religion.

Al-Kalbi said: The Jews said that all the money was ours, and whatever was in the hands of the Arabs was ours. They only wronged us and usurped it, so we had no way of taking it from them.

Al-Hasan, Ibn Jurayj and Muqatil said: The Jews pledged allegiance to some Muslim men during the pre-Islamic period. When they converted to Islam, they demanded the rest of their money from them. They said: You have no right over us, and we have no right to judge you. You have abandoned your religion and the covenant between us and you has been broken. They claimed that they found that in their books, but God Almighty called them liars. He, the Almighty, said: And they tell lies about God while they know. Then He said in response to them:

75 And among the People of the Scripture is he who, if you entrust him with a great amount, will return it to you such as Abdullah bin Salam, to whom a Qurayshite entrusted one thousand two hundred ounces of gold and he returned it to him. And among them is he who, if you entrust him with a dinar, will not return it to you such as Nahas bin Azura, to whom another Qurayshite entrusted a dinar and he denied it. It was said that those who are trusted with much money are the Christians, since trustworthiness is common among them, and the traitors with little money are the Jews, since treachery is common among them. Hamzah, Abu Bakr, and Abu Amr read yu'udhu 'ilak and la yu'udhu 'ilak with a sukoon on the ha' and Qalun with the stealing of the kasra of the ha' and likewise it was narrated from Hafsa and the rest with the full kasra. Except as long as you stand over him except for the period of time you stand over his head, exaggerating in demanding litigation, pleading, and presenting evidence. That is an indication of not returning the payment indicated by his saying will not return it. Because they said because of their saying. There is no blame or rebuke against us concerning the unlettered ones meaning, there is no blame or rebuke against us concerning those who are not from the People of the Book - and who are not of our religion. And they tell a lie about God by claiming that while they know that they are lying, because they considered it permissible to oppress those who opposed them and said: There was no sanctity for them in the Torah. It was said that the Jews dealt with a man from Quraysh, and when he converted to Islam, they took legal action against them and they said: Your right is forfeited since you abandoned your religion," and they claimed that this was also in their book. It was narrated that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said when this verse was revealed: "The enemies lied. There is nothing in the days of ignorance that is not under my feet except for the trust, for it is returned to the righteous and the wicked."

Surat Al Imran 3:76

Yes, whoever fulfills his covenant and fears God - then indeed, God loves the fearing.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

Yes there is a way for them in it whoever fulfills his covenant that which he made a covenant with or God's covenant with him of fulfilling the trust and other things and fears God by abandoning sins and performing acts of obedience then indeed, God loves the righteous in it He puts the apparent in place of the implicit, meaning He loves them in the sense that He rewards them

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: This is a statement from God, the Almighty, about what those who give their trust to those who entrusted it to fear God and are aware of Him, in His sight. So He, the Most High, said: The matter is not as those liars against God say from among the Jews, that there is no blame or sin upon them in the wealth of the illiterate. Then He said: Yes, but he who fulfills his covenant and fears God, meaning: but he who fulfills his covenant, and that is His command to them which He commanded them in the Torah, of believing in Muhammad and what he brought to them.

The letter ha in His statement: whoever fulfills his covenant refers back to the name God in His statement: and they tell lies about God. He says: Yes, whoever fulfills the covenant of God which He made in His Book, so he believes in Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and believes in him and in what he brought from God, from returning the trust to the one who entrusted it to him, and other than that of God's commands and prohibitions, and fears God, he says: and fears what God has forbidden him from, from disbelieving in Him, and all of His sins that He has forbidden him, so he avoids that out of awareness of God's threat and fear of His punishment, for God loves the righteous, meaning: for God loves those who fear Him, so they fear His punishment and are wary of His torment, so they avoid what He has forbidden them and prohibited them from, and they obey Him in what He has commanded them to do.

It was narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas that he used to say: It is avoiding polytheism.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Abdullah bin Saleh told us, he said, Muawiyah told us, on the authority of Ali, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding his statement: Yes, whoever fulfills his covenant and fears God meaning: fears polytheism then indeed, God loves the righteous, meaning: those who fear polytheism.

We have explained the differences of opinion among the people of interpretation regarding this and the correct statement regarding it, with evidence indicating it, in what has passed in our book, sufficiently so that we do not need to repeat it.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

(Min) is raised by the beginning and it is a condition and Awfa is in the place of Jazm. And itqa is conjoined to it, meaning and he feared God and did not lie and did not consider permissible what was forbidden to him. Indeed, God loves the righteous meaning He loves those. The meaning of God's love for His friends has been presented. The ha' in His statement by His covenant refers back to God the Almighty. It has been mentioned in His statement and they say lies about God while they know.

It may refer to the one who fulfills his promise, avoids disbelief, betrayal, and breaking a covenant. The covenant is a verbal noun that is added to the subject and the object.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

God the Almighty tells us about the Jews, that among them are traitors, and He warns the believers against being deceived by them, for among them is one who, if you entrust him with a great amount of money, will return it to you meaning, money, and among them is one who, if you entrust him with a dinar, will not return it to you unless you stand over it meaning, by demanding, persisting, and insisting on getting your right, and if this is what he does with the dinar or anything above it, then it is more likely that he will not return it to him. We have already discussed the great amount at the beginning of the surah, but as for the dinar, it is well-known. Ibn Abi Hatim said: Saeed bin Amr Al-Sakuni told us, Baqiyah told us on the authority of Ziyad bin Al-Haitham, Malik bin Dinar told us, he said: The dinar was called so because it is a debt and a fire. It was said: Its meaning is that whoever takes it rightfully, it is his debt, and whoever takes it wrongfully, the fire is for him. It is appropriate to mention here the hadith that Al-Bukhari included in more than one place in his Sahih, and the best of them is its context in the Book of Guarantee, where he said: Al-Layth said: Ja'far bin Rabi'ah told me, on the authority of 'Abd al-Rahman bin Harmaz al-A'raj, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, may God be pleased with him, on the authority of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, "that he mentioned a man from the Children of Israel who asked some of the Children of Israel to lend him a thousand dinars. He said: Bring me witnesses so I may bear witness. He said: God is sufficient as a witness. He said: Bring me a guarantor. He said: God is sufficient as a guarantor. He said: You have spoken the truth. So he gave it to him for a specified period. He went out to sea and fulfilled his need, then looked for a ship to ride so that he could arrive at the specified period, but he did not find a ship. So he took a piece of wood and carved it, then put in it a thousand dinars and a document from him to its owner, then he pushed it in its place, then he brought it to the sea and said: O God, You know that I borrowed a thousand dinars from so-and-so, and he asked me for a witness, so I said: God is sufficient as a witness." He asked me for a guarantor, so I said: God is sufficient as a guarantor. So he agreed to that, and I tried hard to find a ship to which I could send what he had, but I was unable to. So I entrusted it to you. So he threw it into the sea until it entered it, then he turned away while he was looking for a ship to go to his country. Then the man who had given him a loan went out to see if a ship might bring him his money, and there was the piece of wood in which the money was, so he took it for his family as firewood. When he broke it, he found the money and the paper. Then the man from whom he had given him a loan came and brought him a thousand dinars, and said: By God, I have not ceased to strive to find a ship to bring you your money, but I have not found a ship before the one I came in. He said: Did you send me anything? He said: Did I not tell you that I did not find a mount before this? He said: Then God has fulfilled for you what I sent in the wood, so go back with a thousand dinars, guided." This is how Al-Bukhari narrated it in one place, suspended in the form of certainty, and he attributed it in some places in the Sahih on the authority of Abdullah bin Salih, the scribe of Al-Layth, on his authority. Imam Ahmad narrated it in his Musnad in this manner, at length, on the authority of Yunus bin Muhammad Al-Mu'addab on the authority of Al-Layth, and Al-Bazzar narrated it in his Musnad on the authority of Al-Hasan bin Mudrik on the authority of Yahya bin Hammad, on the authority of Abu Awanah, on the authority of Umar bin Abi Salamah, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Abu Hurairah, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, in a similar manner. Then he said: It is not narrated on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, except from this source with this chain of transmission. This is what he said, and it is a mistake for what came before. And his saying: That is because they said, 'We have no blame upon the unlettered ones' means that what led them to deny the truth was that they said: There is no blame upon us in our religion for eating the wealth of the unlettered ones, who are the Arabs, for God has made it permissible for us. God the Most High said: And they tell lies about God while they know. That is, they fabricated this statement and came up with this misguidance. God has forbidden them to eat wealth except by right. They are only a people of slander. Abd al-Razzaq said: Muammar informed us on the authority of Abu Ishaq al-Hamadani, on the authority of Sa'sa'ah ibn Yazid, that a man asked Ibn Abbas, saying: We take from the wealth of the People of the Covenant in warfare, chickens and sheep. Ibn Abbas said: So what do you say? He said: We say that there is no harm in that. He said this is like what the People of the Book said: We have no blame upon the unlettered ones, that is, if they pay the jizyah, their wealth is not permissible for you except with their consent. And thus, Ath-Thawri narrated it on the authority of Abu Ishaq in a similar manner. And Ibn Abi Hatim said: Muhammad ibn Yahya told us, Abu al-Rabi' al-Zahrani told us, Ya'qub told us, Ja'far told us on the authority of Sa'id ibn Jubayr, who said: When the People of the Book said: We have no blame upon the unlettered ones, the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "The enemies of God lied. There is nothing that existed in the Age of Ignorance except that it is under these two feet of mine except the trust, for it is given to the righteous and the wicked." Then God Almighty said: Yes, whoever fulfills his covenant and fears God, meaning, whoever fulfills his covenant and fears God among you, O People of the Book, that God has made a covenant with you regarding faith in Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, when he is sent, as He took the covenant and pledge from the prophets and their nations with that, and fears God's prohibitions, and follows His obedience and His law with which He sent the Seal of His Messengers and their Master. For God loves the righteous.

Yes, whoever fulfills his covenant and fears G- then indeed, God loves the fearing.

Fath al-Qadir

His saying: 76- Yes is confirmation of what they denied from the path. Al-Zajaj said: The speech was completed by his saying Yes then he said whoever fulfills his covenant and fears God and this is a new sentence: meaning whoever fulfills his covenant and fears God is not among the liars. Or God loves him, and the pronoun in his saying with his covenant refers to whom, or to God the Most High, and the generality of the righteous takes the place of the one who refers to whom, meaning: God loves him.

76- Yes meaning: it is not as they said, but there is a way for them. Then he began and said: Who fulfilled meaning: but who or in "his covenant" meaning: the covenant of God that He entrusted to him in the Torah of belief in Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and the Qur'an and fulfilling the trust. It was said: the "ha in his covenant refers back to the one who fulfilled and feared disbelief, betrayal, and breaking the covenant, for God loves the righteous."

Abdul Wahid Al-Malhi told us, I told Ahmad bin Abdullah Al-Nuaimi, I told Muhammad bin Yusuf, I told Muhammad bin Ismail, I told Qubaysah bin Uqbah, I told Sufyan, on the authority of Al-A'mash, on the authority of Abdullah bin Marra, on the authority of Masruq, on the authority of Abdullah bin Umar, that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "There are four things in whomever they are found, he is a pure hypocrite, and whoever has one of them has one characteristic of hypocrisy until he gives it up: If he is entrusted, he betrays; if he speaks, he lies; if he makes a covenant, he breaks it; and if he quarrels, he behaves indecently."

Tafsir al-Baidawi

76 "Yes" is proof of what they denied, i.e. yes, there is a way for them. "Whoever fulfills his covenant and fears God - then indeed, God loves the righteous. A resumption confirming the sentence that yes filled in for, and the genitive pronoun for whoever or for God and the generality of the righteous replaced the one who returned from the reward to whoever", and I feel that piety is the essence of the matter and it includes fulfillment and other things such as performing duties and avoiding prohibitions.

Indeed, those who exchange the covenant of God and their oaths for a small price - those will have no portion in the Hereafter, and God will not speak to them, nor will He look at them on the Day of Resurrection, nor will He purify them, and they will have a painful punishment.

Surat Al Imran 3:77

Indeed, those who exchange the covenant of God and their oaths for a small price - those will have no portion in the Hereafter, and God will not speak to them, nor will He look at them on the Day of Resurrection, nor will He purify them, and they will have a painful punishment.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And it was revealed about the Jews when they changed the description of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and God's covenant with them in the Torah, and about those who swore falsely in a claim or in the sale of goods: Indeed, those who purchase they exchange God's covenant to them in belief in the Prophet and fulfilling the trust and their oaths their false oaths by Him, the Most High for a small price of this world they will have no portion share in the Hereafter, and God will not speak to them in anger nor look at them have mercy on them on the Day of Resurrection, nor will He purify them cleanse them and they will have a painful punishment painful.

The Almighty said: Indeed, those who buy the verse. The two sheikhs and others narrated that Al-Ash'ath said: There was a land between me and a Jewish man, and he denied it, so I brought him to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and he said: Do you have evidence? I said: No. He said to the Jew: Swear. I said: O Messenger of God, then he will swear and my money will be lost. Then God revealed: Indeed, those who buy the covenant of God and their oaths for a small price, until the end of the verse.

Al-Bukhari narrated on the authority of Abdullah bin Abi Awfa that a man displayed his merchandise in the market and swore by God that he had been given something that he had not been given in order to make a Muslim fall for it. Then this verse was revealed: Indeed, those who exchange the covenant of God and their oaths for a small price. Al-Hafiz Ibn Hajar said in his explanation of Al-Bukhari: There is no contradiction between the two hadiths, but rather it is understood that the revelation was for both reasons together.

Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of Ikrimah that the verse was revealed about Huyayy ibn Akhtab, Ka'b ibn al-Ashraf, and other Jews who concealed what God revealed in the Torah and changed it and swore that it was from God. Al-Hafiz Ibn Hajar said: The verse is ambiguous, but the main evidence for that is what is proven in Sahih.

Abu Ja'far said: By that, may His praise be glorified, He means: Those who exchange - by abandoning the covenant of God that He entrusted to them, and His commandment that He commanded them in the books that God revealed to His prophets, for following Muhammad, believing in him, and acknowledging him and what he brought from God - and their false oaths by which they make lawful what God has forbidden them of the money of the people that they were entrusted with, for a price, meaning: a lowly exchange and substitute for the worldly goods and its debris, for them there is no portion in the Hereafter, meaning: for those who do that there is no share in the good things of the Hereafter, nor a portion of the bliss of Paradise and what God has prepared for its people in it, without others.

We have previously explained the differences of the people of interpretation regarding the meaning of the Creator, and we have sufficiently demonstrated the first of their statements regarding that as being correct.

As for his saying: And God will not speak to them, it means: God will not speak to them in a way that pleases them. And He will not look at them, he says: He will not be kind to them with good, out of hatred from God for them, like the saying of one who says to another: Look at me as God looks at you, meaning: Be kind to me and God will be kind to you with good and mercy. And as it is said to a man: May God not hear your supplication, meaning: May God not answer you, and nothing is hidden from God. And as the poet said:

I called upon God until I was afraid that God might not hear what I was saying.

And His statement: And He will not purify them, meaning: He will not cleanse them from the filth of their sins and disbelief. And for them is a painful punishment, meaning: And for them is a painful punishment.

The interpreters differed about the reason for which this verse was revealed, and who it meant.

Some of them said that it was revealed about some of the Jewish rabbis.

Who said that?

Al-Qasim told us, Al-Husayn told us, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, on the authority of Ikrimah, who said: This verse was revealed: Indeed, those who exchange the covenant of God and their oaths for a small price, about Abu Rafi', Kinanah ibn Abi Al-Haqiq, Ka'b ibn Al-Ashraf, and Huyayy ibn Akhtab.

Others said: Rather, it was revealed about Al-Ash'ath bin Qais and his opponent.

Who said that?

Abu al-Sa'ib Salim ibn Junadah told me, he said, Abu Mu'awiyah told us, on the authority of al-A'mash, on the authority of Abu Wa'il, on the authority of Abdullah, he said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Whoever swears an oath in which he is wicked in order to seize the wealth of a Muslim, will meet God while He is angry with him.' Al-Ash'ath bin Qays said: 'By God, that was about me. There was a piece of land between me and a Jewish man, and he denied it. So I brought him to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to me: 'Do you have proof?' I said: 'No!' So he said to the Jew: 'Swear.' I said: 'O Messenger of God, then he will swear and my wealth will be lost!' Then God, the Almighty, revealed: 'Indeed, those who exchange the covenant of God and their oaths for a small price...'"

Mujahid bin Musa narrated that Yazid bin Harun narrated that Jarir bin Hazim narrated to us, on the authority of Adi bin Adi, on the authority of Raja bin Haywah and Al-Aras, that they both narrated to him, on the authority of his father Adi bin Umaira, who said: "There was a dispute between Imru' al-Qais and a man from Hadhramaut. They went to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and he said to the Hadrami: 'Your evidence, otherwise I swear.' He said: 'O Messenger of God, if he swears, he will take my land!' The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Whoever swears a false oath in order to seize the right of his brother, will meet God while He is angry with him.' Imru' al-Qais said: 'O Messenger of God, what is the reward for one who abandons it, knowing that it is true?' He said: 'Paradise.' He said: 'Then I bear witness that I have abandoned it.'" Jarir said: I was with Ayoub al-Sakhtiyani when we heard this hadith from Adi, and Ayoub said: 'Adi said in the hadith of Al-Aras bin Umaira: Then this verse was revealed. Those who exchange the covenant of God and their oaths for a small price to the end of the verse. Jarir said: I did not remember that day from Adi.

Al-Qasim narrated to us, he said, Al-Husayn narrated to us, he said, Hajjaj narrated to me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, he said: Others said: Al-Ash'ath bin Qais and a man disputed before the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, regarding a piece of land that was in the possession of that man, who had taken it to strengthen him during the pre-Islamic period. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Present your evidence. The man said: No one will testify for me against Al-Ash'ath! He said: Then you may take his oath. So Al-Ash'ath stood up to swear, and God, the Almighty, revealed this verse. Al-Ash'ath declined and said: I call God and you to witness that my opponent is truthful. So he returned his land to him, and gave him a great deal of his own land, for fear that something of his right would remain in his possession, and it would be for that man's descendants after him.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Jarir told us, on the authority of Mansur, on the authority of Shaiq, on the authority of Abdullah, who said: Whoever swears an oath to obtain money while he is wicked, will meet God while He is angry with him. Then God revealed confirmation of that: Indeed, those who exchange the covenant of God and their oaths for a small price Al-An'am 2:17.

Then Al-Ash'ath bin Qais came out to us and said: What did Abu Abd Al-Rahman tell you? So we told him what he said, and he said: He is right, for it was revealed! There was a dispute between me and a man over a well, so we brought the dispute to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Your two witnesses or his oath. I said: Then he swears and does not care! The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever swears an oath by which he deserves money is a sinner, and he will meet God while He is angry with him. Then God Almighty revealed the confirmation of that: Indeed, those who exchange the covenant of God and their oaths for a small price, the verse.

Others said:

Muhammad ibn al-Muthanna narrated to us: Abd al-Wahhab narrated to us: Dawud ibn Abi Hind informed me, on the authority of Aamer: A man displayed his merchandise at the beginning of the day, and at the end of the day a man came to bargain with him, so he swore that he had prevented it at the beginning of the day for such and such, and if it had not been for the evening he would not have sold it for that. Then God Almighty revealed: Indeed, those who exchange the covenant of God and their oaths for a small price.

Ibn Al-Muthanna told us, he said, Abd Al-A'la told us, he said, Dawud told us, on the authority of a man, on the authority of Mujahid, something similar.

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada: Indeed, those who exchange the covenant of God and their oaths for a small price the verse, to: and for them is a painful punishment, God has placed them in the same position as the magicians.

Bishr told us, Yazid told us, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada: Imran bin Husain used to say: Whoever swears a false oath to seize his brother's wealth, let him take his seat in Hell. Someone said to him: Did you hear something from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace? He said to them: You will surely find that. Then he recited this verse: Indeed, those who exchange the covenant of God and their oaths for a small price Al-Baqarah 2:170.

Musa bin Abdul Rahman Al-Masruqi told me, he said, Hussain bin Ali told us, on the authority of Zaidah, on the authority of Hisham, he said, Muhammad said, on the authority of Imran bin Husain: Whoever swears an oath that is not binding, let him face down his seat in the Fire. Then he recited this entire verse: Indeed, those who exchange the covenant of God and their oaths for a small price.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Ibn al-Mubarak told us, on the authority of Muammar, on the authority of al-Zuhri, on the authority of Saeed ibn al-Musayyab, who said: A false oath is one of the major sins. Then he recited: Indeed, those who exchange the covenant of God and their oaths for a small price.

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada: Abdullah bin Masoud used to say: We used to think, while we were with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, that among the sins that are not forgiven is the oath of patience, if its owner commits an immoral act in it.

cursing, God willing.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

There are two issues:

First: The Imams narrated on the authority of Al-Ash'ath bin Qais, who said: There was a land between me and a Jewish man, and he denied it to me, so I brought him to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to me: Do you have evidence? I said: No. He said to the Jew: Swear. I said: Then he will swear and take my money. Then God Almighty revealed: Indeed, those who exchange the covenant of God and their oaths for a small price. The Imams also narrated on the authority of Abu Umamah that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said:

Whoever usurps the right of a Muslim by falsely taking an oath, God has made Hell obligatory for him and has forbidden Paradise for him. A man said to him: Even if it is something insignificant, O Messenger of God? He said: Even if it is a twig of arak. The meaning of God will not speak to them, nor look at them on the Day of Resurrection, nor will He purify them has already been mentioned in Surat Al-Baqarah.

The second: This verse and the hadiths indicate that the judge's ruling does not make the hidden money permissible by ruling the apparent if the one in whose favor the ruling is made knows that it is invalid. The imams narrated on the authority of Umm Salamah that she said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said:

"You bring your disputes to me, but I am only a human being, and perhaps some of you are more eloquent in their arguments than others. I only judge between you based on what I hear from you. So whoever I judge in his favor regarding his brother's right, he should not take it, for I am only giving him a piece of the Fire which he will bring on the Day of Resurrection." There is no disagreement among the Imams about this. Abu Hanifa contradicted it and went to extremes and said: The ruling of the judge based on invalid testimony makes the vagina permissible for the one who is forbidden to him, as mentioned previously in Surat Al-Baqarah. He claimed that if two false witnesses testified against a man that his wife was divorced and the judge ruled based on their testimony, then her vagina would be permissible for the one who married her if he knew that the case was invalid. He was criticized for ignoring this clear and authentic hadith, and for protecting wealth and not considering it permissible based on corrupt rulings, and for not protecting the vagina from that, while the vagina is more deserving of being protected and preserved. The invalidity of his statement will come in the verse of

God the Almighty says: Indeed, those who exchange what they have pledged to God of following Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and mentioning his description to the people and explaining his command, and their false, wicked, sinful oaths for small, insignificant prices, which are the goods of this fleeting, transient worldly life, they will have no portion in the Hereafter, meaning they will have no share in it or portion of it, nor will God speak to them or look at them on the Day of Resurrection, meaning with mercy from Him to them, meaning God will not speak to them with words of kindness to them nor will He look at them with an eye of mercy, nor will He purify them, meaning from sins and impurities, rather He will order them to the Fire, and they will have a painful punishment. There are hadiths related to this noble verse, so let us mention what is easy from them.

The first hadith Imam Ahmad said: Affan told us, Shu'bah told us, Ali bin Mudrik told me, he said I heard Abu Zur'ah on the authority of Kharsha bin Al-Har, on the authority of Abu Dharr, he said the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: There are three whom God will not speak to, nor look at on the Day of Resurrection, nor purify them, and they will have a painful punishment. I said: O Messenger of God, who are they? They have lost and failed. He said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, repeated it three times, he said: The one who lets his garment trail, the one who sells his goods by swearing, the liar, and the one who boasts." Muslim and the people of Sunan narrated it on the authority of Shu'bah with it.

Another way Ahmad said: Ismail told us on the authority of Al-Jariry, on the authority of Abu Al-Ala' bin Al-Shakheer, on the authority of Abu Al-Ahmas, who said: I met Abu Dharr and said to him: I have heard from you that you narrate a hadith on the authority of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. He said: As for him, he does not think that I would lie about the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, after I heard it from him. So what have you heard from me? I said: I have heard that you say: Three are those whom God loves, and three are those whom God hates. He said: I said it and heard it. I said: Who are these whom God loves? He said: "A man meets the enemy in a group and he sets his throat for them until he is killed or he conquers for his companions, and the people travel and their journey is prolonged until they want to touch the ground and then they stop, and one of them moves aside and prays until he wakes them up for their departure, and a man has a neighbor who annoys him and he endures his annoyance until death or departure separates them. I said: Who are these people whom God hates? He said: The merchant who swears - or he said: the seller who swears - and the poor who is arrogant, and the miser who boasts." Strange from this aspect.

The second hadith Imam Ahmad said: Yahya bin Saeed told us, on the authority of Jarbar bin Hazim, Adi bin Adi told us, Raja bin Haywah and Al-Aras bin Umaira told me, on the authority of his father Adi, who is Ibn Umaira Al-Kindi, who said: A man from Kinda, whose name was Imru' Al-Qais bin Abis, disputed with a man from Hadhramaut before the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, regarding a piece of land. He ruled against the Hadrami with evidence, but he had no evidence, so he ruled against Imru' Al-Qais with an oath. The Hadrami said: If I allow him to swear, O Messenger of God? I swear by the Kaaba that I have left, and the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever swears a false oath to seize someone's money will meet God Almighty while He is angry with him. Raja said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, recited: Those who exchange the covenant of God and their oaths for a small price. Imru' al-Qais said: What is for the one who abandons it, O Messenger of God? He said: Paradise. He said: Then bear witness that I have abandoned it all for him. Al-Nasa'i narrated it from the hadith of 'Adi ibn 'Adi with it.

The third hadith Ahmad said: Abu Muawiyah told us, Al-A'mash told us, on the authority of Shuqaiq, on the authority of Abdullah, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever swears an oath in which he is wicked, in order to seize the wealth of a Muslim, will meet God, the Almighty, while He is angry with him. Al-Ash'ath said: By God, that was the case. There was a land between me and a Jewish man, and he denied it. So I brought him to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to me: Do you have proof? I said: No. So he said to the Jew: Swear. I said: O Messenger of God, then he will swear and my wealth will be lost. Then God, the Almighty, revealed: Indeed, those who exchange the covenant of God and their oaths for a small price Al-Bukhari and Muslim. They both narrated it from the hadith of Al-A'mash.

Another way Ahmad said: Yahya bin Adam told us, Abu Bakr bin Ayyash told us, on the authority of Asim bin Abi Al-Najoud, on the authority of Shaqiq bin Salamah, on the authority of Abdullah bin Masoud, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever takes the property of a Muslim unjustly will meet God while He is angry with him. Al-Ash'ath bin Qais came and said: What is Abu Abd Al-Rahman telling you? So we told him, and he said: "This hadith was in effect. I argued with my cousin before the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, about a well that was in his possession, but he denied it. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "Your proof is that it is your well, otherwise his oath." I said: "O Messenger of God, I have no proof, and if you make it his oath, my well will be gone. My opponent is a wicked man." The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever takes the property of a Muslim unjustly will meet God while He is angry with him. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, recited this verse: Indeed, those who exchange the covenant of God and their oaths for a small price...

The fourth hadith Ahmad said: Yahya bin Ghailan told us, he said: Rashdin told us on the authority of Zaban, on the authority of Sahl bin Muadh bin Anas, on the authority of his father, that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "God Almighty has servants whom He will not speak to on the Day of Resurrection, nor will He purify them, nor will He look at them. It was said: Who are those, O Messenger of God? He said: One who disowns his parents and is unwilling to be with them, one who disowns his children, and a man upon whom people bestowed a favor, but he was ungrateful for their favor and disowned them."

The fifth hadith Ibn Abi Hatim said: Al-Hasan bin Arfa told us, Hisham told us, Al-A'wam, meaning Ibn Hawshab, informed us, on the authority of Ibrahim bin Abdul Rahman, meaning Al-Sakaski, on the authority of Abdullah bin Abi Awfa, that a man displayed his merchandise in the market, and swore by God that he had been given something for it that he had not been given, in order to cause a Muslim to fall into it, so this verse was revealed: Indeed, those who exchange the covenant of God and their oaths for a small price Al-Bukhari. It was narrated by Al-Bukhari from more than one source on the authority of Al-A'wam.

The sixth hadith Imam Ahmad said: We were told by Wakee', on the authority of Al-A'mash, on the authority of Abu Salih, on the authority of Abu Hurairah, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "There are three whom God will not speak to on the Day of Resurrection, nor will He look at them, nor will He purify them, and they will have a painful punishment: a man who prevents a wayfarer from having excess water with him, a man who swears an oath regarding a commodity after the afternoon prayer, meaning falsely, and a man who pledges allegiance to an imam, so if he gives him something he fulfills it for him, and if he does not give him something he does not fulfill it for him." Abu Dawud and Al-Tirmidhi narrated it from the hadith of Wakee', and Al-Tirmidhi said: A good and sound hadith.

His statement 77- Indeed, those who exchange the covenant of God means: they exchange, as was previously stated more than once. The covenant of God is what they pledged to Him regarding belief in the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and the oaths are what they swore that they would believe in him and support him, and the reason for the revelation of the verse will come, Those meaning: those described with this description will have no portion in the Hereafter meaning: no share nor will God speak to them at all as is indicated by the deletion of the subject of the generalization, that He will not speak to them with what pleases them nor will He look at them on the Day of Resurrection with a look of mercy, rather He will be angry with them and punish them for their sins as is indicated by His statement and for them is a painful punishment.

Surat Al Imran 3:77

Indeed, those who exchange the covenant of God and their oaths for a small price - those will have no portion in the Hereafter, and God will not speak to them, nor will He look at them on the Day of Resurrection, nor will He purify them, and they will have a painful punishment.

Abd bin Hamid and Ibn Al-Mundhir narrated on the authority of Ikrimah regarding his statement: And among the People of the Scripture is he who, if you entrust him with a great amount, will return it to you, he said: This is from the Christians. And among them is he who, if you entrust him with a dinar, he said: This is from the Jews. Except as long as you stand over him, he said: Except as long as you seek him and follow him. Abd bin Hamid and Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of Qatadah regarding his statement: That is because they said, 'There is no blame upon us for the unlettered ones,' he said: The Jews said: There is no blame upon us for what we have taken from the wealth of the Arabs. Ibn Jarir narrated something similar from Al-Suddi. Abd bin Hamid, Ibn Jarir, Ibn Al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Saeed bin Jubair regarding his statement: That is because they said, 'There is no blame upon us for the unlettered ones,' the Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) said: "The enemies of God have lied. There is nothing that existed in the Age of Ignorance but that it is under these two feet of mine, except for the trust, for it is returned to the righteous and the wicked." Ibn Jarir, Ibn Al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Sa'sa'ah that he asked Ibn Abbas and said: We take from the wealth of the People of the Covenant during the conquest, chickens and sheep. Ibn Abbas said: What do you say? He said: We say that there is no harm in that. He said: This is like what Ibn Abbas said: There is no blame upon us regarding the unlettered ones if they pay the jizyah, their wealth is not lawful for you except with their willing consent. Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas: Yes, whoever fulfills his covenant and fears God meaning fears polytheism then indeed, God loves the righteous meaning those who fear polytheism. Al-Bukhari, Muslim, the Sunan scholars and others narrated on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud that he said: The Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) said: Whoever swears an oath in which he is wicked in order to seize the wealth of a Muslim will meet God while He is angry with him. Al-Ash'ath ibn Qays said: "By God, that was the case. There was a land between me and a Jewish man and he denied it, so I brought him to the Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him). The Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) said to me: "Do you have proof?" I said: No. He said to the Jew: Swear. I said: O Messenger of God, then he will swear and my wealth will be lost. Then God revealed: Indeed, those who exchange the covenant of God and their oaths for a small price until the end of the verse. It has been narrated that the reason for the revelation of the verse was that a man was swearing in the market that he had given for his goods what he had not been given for them. Narrated by Al-Bukhari and others. It has been narrated that the reason for its revelation was a dispute that took place between Al-Ash'ath, Imru' al-Qays and a man from Hadhramaut. Narrated by Al-Nasa'i and others.

77- The Almighty said: Indeed, those who exchange the covenant of God and their oaths for a small price. Ikrimah said: It was revealed regarding the heads of the Jews who concealed what God had covenanted with them in the Torah regarding Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and they changed it and wrote with their own hands something else and swore that it was from God so that they would not miss out on the food and bribes that were theirs from their followers.

Abdul Wahid bin Ahmad Al-Malhi told us, I told Ahmad bin Abdullah Al-Nuaimi, I told Muhammad bin Yusuf, I told Muhammad bin Ismail, I told Abu Awana, on the authority of Al-A'mash, on the authority of Abu Wa'il, on the authority of Abdullah, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever swears an oath, and is patient, to seize the wealth of a Muslim, will meet God on the Day of Resurrection while He is angry with him. So God, the Most High, revealed, confirming that: Indeed, those who exchange the covenant of God and their oaths for a small price to the end of the verse. Then Al-Ash'ath bin Qais entered and said: What is Abu Abd Al-Rahman telling you? They said: So-and-so. He said: It was revealed in the following: I had a well in the land of my cousin, so I came to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and told him. He said: Bring your evidence or his oath. I said: Then he will swear by it, O Messenger of God. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever swears an oath, and is patient, and is a sinner, to seize the wealth of a Muslim, will meet God on the Day of Resurrection while He is angry with him.

Ismail bin Abdul Qahir told us, Abdul Ghafir bin Muhammad Al Farsi told us, Muhammad bin Isa Al Jaludi told us, Ibrahim bin Muhammad bin Sufyan told us, Muslim bin Al Hajjaj told us, Qutaybah bin Saeed told us, Abu Al Ahwas, on the authority of Samak bin Harb, on the authority of Alqamah bin Wa'il bin Hajar, on the authority of his father, who said: "A man from Hadhramaut and a man from Kinda came to the Prophet, and the Hadrami said: O Messenger of God, this man has taken over my land that belonged to my father. The Kindi said: It is land in my possession that I cultivate, and he has no right to it. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to the Hadrami: Do you have proof? He said: No. He said: Then his oath is yours. He said: O Messenger of God, the man is immoral and does not care about what he swears to. He said: You have nothing from him except that. So he went to swear for him, and when he turned away, the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: If he swears to eat his money unjustly, he will meet God while He is averse to it." And Abdul Malik bin Himyar narrated it on the authority of Alqamah, and he said that he was Imru' Al Qais bin

Abis Al Kindi and his opponent was Rabi'ah bin Abdan.

It was narrated that when he was about to swear an oath, this verse was revealed, but Imru' al-Qais refused to swear, and acknowledged his right to his opponent and handed it over to him. Abu al-Hasan Muhammad ibn Muhammad al-Sarakhsi informed us, Zahir ibn Ahmad al-Sarakhsi informed us, Abu Mus'ab informed us, on the authority of Malik, on the authority of al-Ala' ibn Abd al-Rahman, on the authority of Sa'id ibn Ka'b, on the authority of his brother Abdullah ibn Ka'b ibn Malik, on the authority of Abu Umamah, that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever usurps the right of a Muslim by swearing an oath, God will forbid him Paradise and make Hell obligatory for him. They said: Even if it is something insignificant, O Messenger of God? He said: Even if it is a twig of arak. He said it three times.

Abdul Wahid bin Ahmed Al-Malhi told us, Ahmed bin Abdullah Al-Nuaimi told us, Muhammad bin Yusuf told us, Muhammad bin Ismail told us, Amr bin Muhammad told us, Hisham bin Muhammad told us, Al-Awam bin Hawshab told us, Ibrahim bin Abdul Rahman told us, Abdullah bin Abi Awfa told us that a man displayed a commodity in the market and swore by God that he had been given something for it that he had not been given, so that he could make a Muslim fall for it. Then the verse was revealed. Indeed, those who exchange the covenant of God and their oaths for a small price.

God the Almighty says: Indeed, those who exchange meaning they exchange the covenant of God and their false oaths for a small price" meaning: a small thing of the worldly debris they have no portion in the Hereafter" and its pleasures nor will God speak to them with words that will benefit them and please them. It was said that it means anger, as a man says: I will not speak to so-and-so if he is angry with him nor will He look at them on the Day of Resurrection meaning: He will not have mercy on them, nor will He treat them well, nor will He grant them goodness nor will He purify them meaning: He will not praise them with kindness nor purify them from sins and for them is a painful punishment.

Ismail bin Abdul Qahir told us, Abdul Ghaffar bin Muhammad Al Farsi told us, Muhammad bin Isa Al Jaloudi told us, Ibrahim bin Muhammad told us, Sufyan told us, Muslim bin Al Hajjaj told us, Muhammad bin Jaafar told us, on the authority of Shu'bah, on the authority of Ali bin Mudrik, on the authority of Abu Zur'ah, on the authority of Kharsha bin Al Har, on the authority of Abu Dharr, may God be pleased with him, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: There are three whom God will not speak to on the Day of Resurrection, nor will He look at them, nor will He purify them, and they will have a painful punishment. He said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, recited it three times. Abu Dharr said: They have failed and lost. Who are they, O Messenger of God? He said: The one who lets his garment trail, the one who shows off, and the one who sells his goods with false oaths. In another narration: The one who lets his garment trail.

Imam Abu Ali al-Husayn ibn Muhammad al-Qadi told us, I said, Asid Abu al-Hasan Muhammad ibn al-Husayn al-Alawi, I said, Abu Nasr Muhammad ibn Hamdawayh al-Marwazi, I said, Sufyan ibn Uyaynah, on the authority of Amr ibn Dinar, on the authority of Abu Salih, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, may God be pleased with him, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: There are three whom God will not speak to on the Day of Resurrection, nor will He look at them, nor will He purify them, and they will have a painful punishment. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, recited it three times. Abu Dharr said: "They have failed and lost. Who are they, O Messenger of God?" He said: The one who lets his garment hang down, the one who shows off, and the one who sells his goods by swearing falsely. In another narration: The one who lets his garment hang down. Imam Abu Ali al-Husayn ibn Muhammad al-Qadi told us, I said, Asid Abu al-Hasan Muhammad ibn al-Husayn al-Alawi, I said, Abu Nasr Muhammad ibn Hamdawayh al-Marwazi, I said, Sufyan ibn Uyaynah, on the authority of Amr ibn Dinar, on the authority of Abu Salih, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace: "There are three whom God will not speak to on the Day of Resurrection, nor will He look at them, nor will He purify them, and they will have a painful punishment: a man who swears an oath regarding the property of a Muslim and seizes it, A man who swears a false oath after the afternoon prayer that he was given more for his goods than he was given, and he is lying. A man who withholds the surplus of his money, then God Almighty says: Today I withhold from you the surplus of what your hands have not earned.

77 Those who exchange "the covenant of God" what they have pledged to God of belief in the Messenger and fulfillment of trusts. "and their oaths and what they have sworn by saying, By God, we will believe in him and support him, for a small price" the enjoyment of this world. "Those will have no portion in the Hereafter, nor will God speak to them" with what pleases them or with anything at all, and that the angels will ask Him on the Day of Resurrection, or they will not benefit from the words and verses of God. It appears that it is a metaphor for His anger with them, as He says: "nor will He look at them on the Day of Resurrection", for whoever is angry with someone else and belittles him, He turns away from him and from speaking to him and turning towards him, just as whoever is arrogant towards someone else, speaks to him and looks at him a lot. "nor will He purify them nor praise them and for them is a painful punishment" for what they did. It was said: It was revealed about rabbis who distorted the Torah and changed the description of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and the ruling on trusts and other things, and they took bribes for that. It was also said: It was revealed about a man who displayed goods in the market and swore that he had bought them for something he had not bought them for. It was also said: It was revealed about a dispute that took place between Al-Ash'ath bin Qais and a Jew over a well or land, and the oath was directed at the Jew.

Surat Al Imran 3:77

Indeed, those who exchange the covenant of God and their oaths for a small price - those will have no portion in the Hereafter, and God will not speak to them, nor will He look at them on the Day of Resurrection, nor will He purify them, and they will have a painful punishment.

Surat Al Imran 3:78

And indeed, among them is a party who distort the Scripture with their tongues so you may think it is from the Scripture, but it is not from the Scripture. And they say, It is from God, but it is not from God, and they speak a lie about God while they know.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And among them meaning the People of the Book is a party a group like Ka'b ibn al-Ashraf who twist their tongues with the Book meaning they bend it in reading it from the revealed to what they distorted of the description of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and the like so that you may think it meaning the distorted is from the Book that God revealed and it is not from the Book and they say, It is from God and it is not from God and they tell a lie about God while they know that they are lying.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: By that, may His praise be glorified, He means: And among the People of the Book, who are the Jews who were around the city of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, during his time, are the Children of Israel.

The ha and the mim in his saying: of them refer to the People of the Book whom he mentioned in his saying: And among the People of the Book is he who, if you entrust him with a great amount, he will return it to you.

And His statement: For a party, meaning: a group, they distort, meaning: they distort, their tongues with the Book so that you may think it is from the Book, meaning: so that you may think that what they distort with their speech is from the Book of God and His revelation. God Almighty says: And what is that which they have distorted their tongues with, distorted it and innovated from the Book of God, and they claim that what they have distorted their tongues with of distortion, lies and falsehood and inserted into the Book of God, is from God, meaning: from what God has revealed to His prophets, and it is not from God, meaning: And what is that which they have distorted their tongues with, so that they innovated from what God has revealed to any of His prophets, but rather it is from what they have innovated from themselves, inventing against God.

God Almighty says: And they tell lies about God while they know. By that, He means that they intentionally lie about God, bear false witness against Him, and add to the Book of God things that are not from it, seeking leadership and the lowly debris of this world.

And similar to what we said about the meaning of they distort the Book with their tongues, the people of interpretation said.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Amr told us, he said, Abu Asim told us, on the authority of Isa, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid: And among them is a party who distort the Scripture with their tongues, he said: they distort it.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Abu Hudhayfah told us, he said, Shabl told us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, similarly.

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada: And among them is a party who distort the Scripture with their tongues, until he reached: and they know, they are the enemies of God, the Jews, they distorted the Book of God, and innovated in it, and claimed that it was from God.

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada: And among them is a party who distort the Scripture with their tongues, until he reached: and they know, they are the enemies of God, the Jews, they distorted the Book of God, and innovated in it, and claimed that it was from God.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Ishaq told us, he said, Abdullah bin Abi Jaafar told us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-Rabi', similarly.

Muhammad bin Saad told me, he said, my father told me, he said, my uncle told me, he said, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, his statement: And among them is a party who distort the Scripture with their tongues so that you may think it is from the Scripture, and they are the Jews, they used to add to the Book of God what God had not revealed.

Al-Qasim told us, he said, Al-Hussein told us, he said, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj: And among them is a party who distort the Scripture with their tongues, he said: A party of the People of the Book, distort their tongues, and that is their distortion of it from its place.

Abu Jaafar said: The origin of lay is twisting and turning. It is from the saying of the speaker: So-and-so twisted the hand of so-and-so, meaning he twisted it and turned it. And from this is the saying of the poet:

God, who is victorious, twisted his hand.

It is said: He twisted his hand and tongue, twisting, and no one twisted someone's back, if no one defeated him, and no one twisted his back, and he is very persistent, if he is very argumentative, patient with it, and is not defeated in it, the poet said:

If Laila had any strength of enmity, I would have twisted the necks of her opponents.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

It means a group of Jews. They twist their tongues with the book. Abu Jaafar and Shaiba read yalawun on the basis of multiplication. If he inclines it, and from it the meaning is they distort the words and deviate from the intended meaning. The origin of li is inclination. He twisted with his hand, and he twisted his head. The

And indeed, among them is a party who distort the Scripture with their tongues so you may think it is from the Scripture, but it is not from the Scripture. And they say, "It is from God," but it is not from God, and they speak a lie about God while they know.

Almighty said: Twisting their tongues, meaning stubbornly from the truth and inclining away from it to something else. The meaning of do not twist anyone is do not turn towards him. It is said that he turned towards him if he stopped and stayed. And li is the one who delays. He twisted him with his religion, twisting it, twisting, delaying. He said:

I had borrowed Hassan for fear of bankruptcy and misery.

It improves the sale of the original and the visible

And Dhu al-Rummah said:

You want me to come to you while you are full and better, you who wear the scarf, to litigate

In the hadith, the one who finds it is permissible to expose and punish him. Tongues is the plural of tongue in the language of the male, and the feminine says tongues.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The Almighty tells us about the Jews, upon them be the curses of God, that there is a group among them who distort words from their places, and change the words of God and remove them from what is intended, to make the ignorant think that it is in the Book of God as well, and they attribute it to God, which is a lie against God, and they know from themselves that they have lied and fabricated all of that, and for this reason God the Almighty said: And they speak lies about God while they know. Mujahid, Al-Sha'bi, Al-Hasan, Qatadah, and Al-Rabi' bin Anas said: They distort the Book with their tongues they distort it, and thus Al-Bukhari narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas that they distort and add, and no one among God's creation removes the wording of a Book from God's Books, but they distort it and interpret it in a way other than its interpretation. Wahb ibn Munabbih said: The Torah and the Gospel are as God Almighty revealed them, not a single word of them was changed, but they go astray by distorting and interpreting, and books that they wrote from themselves and they say, 'It is from God,' but it is not from God. As for the Books of God, they are preserved and not changed. Narrated by Ibn Abi Hatim. If Wahb meant what they have in their hands of that, then there is no doubt that it has been changed, distorted, added, and subtracted. As for translating that scene into Arabic, there is a great error in it and many additions, subtractions, and gross delusion, and it is from the category of the interpreter's interpretation of the interpreter, and the understanding of many of them, rather most of them, rather all of them, is corrupt. But if he meant the Books of God, which are His Books with him, then those are as he said: preserved, nothing has entered them.

That is: a group of Jews who distort, that is, they distort and deviate from the intended meaning. The root of lay is inclination. He says: He twisted his head meaning he inclined it. It was also read: yalawun with emphasis, and yalawun with the conversion of the waw to a hamza, then its softening by deletion. The pronoun in His statement 78- that you may think it refers back to what yalawun indicates, which is the distortion that they brought. His statement and it is not from the Book is a circumstantial clause, as is His statement and it is not from God and His statement and they know meaning that they are liars and fabricators.

Ibn Jarir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Al-Awfi on the authority of Ibn Abbas regarding his statement, And among them is a party who distort their tongues, he said: They are the Jews, they used to add to the Book what God had not revealed. Abd bin Hamid, Ibn Jarir, Ibn Al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Mujahid, he said: They distort it.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

78- The Almighty said: And indeed, among them is a party meaning: from the People of the Book, a party, i.e. a group, and they are Ka'b bin Al-Ashraf, Malik bin Al-Saif, Huyayy bin Akhtab, Abu Yasir, and Shu'bah bin Umar the poet, distorting the Book with their tongues meaning: they bend their tongues by distorting and changing it - and that is what they changed from the description of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and the verse of stoning and other than that, it is said: If his tongue was like this, i.e. he changed it you would think it meaning: you would think / what they distorted from the Book, which God Almighty revealed, and it is not from the Book, and they say, It is from God and it is not from God, and they say a lie about God intentionally, while they know, that they are liars, and Ad-Dahhak said on the authority of Ibn Abbas: The verse was revealed about the Jews and Christians together, and that is because they distorted the Torah and the Gospel and added to the Book of God what is not from it.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

78 And indeed, among them is a group meaning the distorters such as Ka'b, Malik, and Huyayy ibn Akhtab. They twist their tongues with the Book twisting it by reading it, so they incline it away from the revealed text to the distorted text, or they bend it with something resembling the Book. Yalawn was read by changing the damma waw to a hamza, then lightening it by deleting it and placing its vowel on the consonant before it. That you may think it is from the Book, but it is not from the Book is the pronoun for the distorted text indicated by the statement they twist. That you may think it was read with a ya' and the pronoun also refers to the names. And they say it is from God, but it is not from God is an emphasis in His statement: And it is not from the Book and a denunciation of them and a clarification because they claim that explicitly, not implicitly, meaning that it was not revealed from Him. This does not mean that the servant's action is not the action of God Almighty. And they tell lies about God while they know is an emphasis and recording of them lying about God and doing so intentionally.

Surat Al Imran 3:79

It is not for a human being that God should give him the Scripture and wisdom and prophethood and then he should say to the people, "Be my servants instead of God." But be devout scholars of the Scripture because you have been taught the Scripture and because you have been studying.

Surat Al Imran 3:79

It is not for a human being that God should give him the Scripture and wisdom and prophethood and then he should say to the people, Be my servants instead of God. But be devout scholars of the Scripture because you have been taught the Scripture and because you have been studying.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And it was revealed when the Christians of Najran said that Jesus had commanded them to take him as a lord, and when some of the Muslims asked to prostrate to him, may God bless him and grant him peace. It is not befitting for a human being that God should give him the Scripture and wisdom meaning understanding of the Sharia and prophethood and then say to the people, Be worshippers of me instead of God. Rather he says be rabbis working scholars attributed to the Lord by adding an alif and a nun for emphasis because you used to know with emphasis and emphasis the Scripture and because you used to study meaning because of that, its benefit is that you work.

The Almighty said: It was not for a human being, the verse. Ibn Ishaq and Al-Bayhaqi narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas that Abu Rafi' al-Qurazi said: When the Jewish and Christian rabbis from Najran gathered at the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and he called them to Islam, do you want, O Muhammad, for us to worship you as the Christians worship Jesus? He said: God forbid. So God revealed regarding that: It was not for a human being until His saying: after you have become Muslims.

And Abd al-Razzaq narrated in his interpretation on the authority of al-Hasan, who said: It reached me that a man said: O Messenger of God, we greet you as we greet one another. Should we not prostrate to you? He said: No, but honor your Prophet and recognize the right for its people, for it is not appropriate for anyone to prostrate to anyone other than God. So God revealed: It is not for a human being to prostrate until His saying: After you are Muslims.

Abu Jaafar said: By that, may His praise be glorified, He means: It is not appropriate for any human being.

And the word humans is the plural of children of Adam and has no singular form, such as people and creation. It may be a name for one person. That God should give him the Book means that God should send down His Book to him, and wisdom means that He should teach him the details of wisdom, and prophethood means that He should give him prophethood, then he should say to the people, 'Be servants to me instead of God' means that he should call the people to worship himself instead of God, and God has given him what He has given him of the Book, wisdom, and prophethood. But if God gives him that, then he is calling them to knowledge of God, and urging them to know the laws of His religion, and to be leaders in knowledge of God's commands and prohibitions, and leaders in obeying and worshipping Him, by being teachers of the Book to the people, and by being its students.

It was said that this verse was revealed about a group of people from the People of the Book who said to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace: Do you call us to worship you? As:

Ibn Hamid told us, Salamah told us, Ibn Ishaq told us, on the authority of Muhammad ibn Abi Muhammad, on the authority of Ikrimah or Saeed ibn Jubayr, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: Abu Rafi' al-Qurazi said - when the Jewish and Christian rabbis from Najran gathered at the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and he called them to Islam -: Do you want, O Muhammad, for us to worship you, as the Christians worship Jesus, son of Mary? A Christian man from Najran called al-Rabis said: Is that what you want from us, O Muhammad, and to which you are calling us! Or something like that. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: God forbid that we worship other than God, or command the worship of other than Him! He did not send me for that, nor did He command me for that! Or something like that. Then God Almighty revealed regarding that from their statement: It is not for a human being that God should give him the Scripture and wisdom and prophethood, the verse up to His saying: After you have become Muslims.

Abu Kuraib told us, he said, Yunus bin Bakir told us, he said, Muhammad bin Ishaq told us, he said, Muhammad bin Abi Muhammad, the client of Zaid bin Thabit, told me, he said, Saeed bin Jubair or Ikrimah told me, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, he said: Abu Rafi' al-Qurazi said, and he mentioned something similar.

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: It is not for a human being that God should give him the Scripture and wisdom and prophethood, then he should say to the people, 'Be my servants instead of God.' He said: It is not befitting for a human being that God should give him the Scripture and wisdom and prophethood, then he should command his servants to take him as a lord instead of God.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Ishaq told us, he said, Ibn Abi Ja'far told us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-Rabi', similarly.

Al-Qasim told us, Al-Hussein told us, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, who said: There were some Jews who worshipped people instead of their Lord, by distorting the Book of God from its place. So God Almighty said: It is not for a human being that God should give him the Scripture and wisdom and prophethood, then he should say to the people, 'Be servants to me instead of God,' then he should command the people to do other than what God revealed in His Book.

Abu Ja'far said: By that, may His praise be glorified, He means: But He says to them: Be rabbis, so He left out the statement, sufficing with the indication of the speech on it.

As for his saying: Be rabbis, the people of interpretation differed in their interpretation of it.

Some of them said: It means: Be wise and knowledgeable.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Bashar told us, he said, Abd al-Rahman told us, he said, Sufyan told us, on the authority of Mansur, on the authority of Abu Razin: Be rabbis, he said: wise scholars.

Abu Kuraib told us, he said, Ibn Yaman told us, on the authority of Sufyan, on the authority of Mansur, on the authority of Abu Razin: Be rabbis, he said: wise scholars.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Hakam told us, on the authority of Amr, on the authority of Mansour, on the authority of Abu Razin, similarly.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Jarir told us, on the authority of Mansur, on the authority of Abu Razin: But be rabbis, wise scholars.

Yaqub bin Ibrahim told me, he said, Hisham told us, on the authority of Aouf, on the authority of Al-Hasan, regarding his statement: Be rabbis, he said: Be jurists and scholars.

Muhammad bin Amr told me, he said, Abu Asim told us, he said, Isa told us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding his statement: Be rabbis, he said: Jurists.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Abu Hudhayfah told us, he said, Shabl told us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, similarly.

Al-Qasim told us, he said, Al-Hussein told us, he said, Hajaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, he said, Al-Qasim told me, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding his statement: But be rabbis, he said: jurists.

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: But be rabbis, he said: Be jurists and scholars.

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said, Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said, Muammar told us, on the authority of Mansur bin al-Mu'tamir, on the authority of Abu Razin, regarding his statement: Be scholars of God, he said: Scholars and wise men. Muammar said: Qatada said.

Muhammad bin Al-Hussein told us, Ahmad bin Al-Mufaddal told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi, regarding his statement: Be rabbis, as for the rabbis, they are the wise jurists.

Yunus told me, he said, Ibn Wahb told us, he said, Sufyan told us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, he said: The rabbis are the learned jurists, and they are above the scholars.

Muhammad bin Saad told me, he said, my father told me, he said, my uncle told me, he said, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding his statement: But be rabbis, meaning: Be wise and knowledgeable.

It was narrated on the authority of Al-Munjab, who said: Bishr bin Amara narrated to us, on the authority of Abu Hamza Al-Thamali, on the authority of Yahya bin Aqil, regarding his statement: The rabbis and the scholars (al-Ma'idah 5:63), he said: The jurists and scholars.

It was narrated on the authority of Al-Munjab, who said: Bishr narrated to us, on the authority of Abu Rawq, on the authority of Al-Dahhak, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, similarly.

Ibn Sinan Al-Qazzaz told me, he said, Al-Hussein bin Al-Hasan Al-Ashqar told us, he said, Abu Kudayna told us, on the authority of Ata bin Al-Saib, on the authority of Saeed bin Jubair, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding his statement: Be rabbis, he said: Be wise and knowledgeable scholars.

It was narrated on the authority of Al-Husayn bin Al-Faraj, who said: I heard Abu Muadh, who said: Ubayd bin Sulayman told us, who said: I heard Al-Dahhak say regarding His statement: Be rabbis, he said: Be jurists and scholars.

Others said: Rather, they are the pious wise men.

Who said that?

Yahya bin Talha Al-Yarboui told me, he said, Fadil bin Ayyad told us, on the authority of Ata bin Al-Saib, on the authority of Saeed bin Jubair, regarding his statement: Be pious people, he said: Wise and pious people.

Others said: Rather, they are the people's rulers and leaders.

Who said that?

Yunus bin Abdul-A'la told me, he said, Ibn Wahb told us, he said, I heard Ibn Zayd say regarding His statement: Be rabbis, he said: The rabbis are those who educate the people, the rulers of this matter, educate them: they are in charge of them, and he recited: Why do not the rabbis and the scholars forbid them? (al-Ma'idah 5:63), he said: The rabbis are the rulers, and the scholars are the scholars.

Abu Ja'far said: The most correct of the sayings in my opinion about the rabbis is that they are the plural of rabbi, and that the rabbi is related to the rabban, the one who raises people, and he is the one who corrects their affairs, raises them, and takes care of them. From this is the saying of Alqamah ibn 'Abdah:

I was a man to whom I entrusted my lute, and before you I was raised, and I was lost, lutes.

He means by his saying: You raised me: My guardian

Surat Al Imran 3:79

It is not for a human being that God should give him the Scripture and wisdom and prophethood and then he should say to the people, "Be my servants instead of God." But be devout scholars of the Scripture because you have been taught the Scripture and because you have been studying.

and caretaker before you was someone who would raise and reform him, but they did not reform him, but they lost me, so I was lost.

It is said: So-and-so is the Lord of my affair, so he is lord of it, and he is its rabb. If it is intended to exaggerate in praising him, it is said: he is a rabbān, just as it is said: he is na'sān, from their saying: na'sa yan'usu. Most of the nouns that come in the form fa'lān are the verbs whose past tense is fa'l, such as their saying: he is drunk, thirsty, and rayyān from sakāra yasakār, 'atash ya'tash, and rawā yarrowā. It may come from what has a past tense is fa'l, such as what we said about na'sa yan'usu and rabb yarwā.

If the matter is as we have described, and the rabbi is as we have mentioned, and the rabbi is the one attributed to the one who has the description described, and the one who is knowledgeable in jurisprudence and wisdom from the reformers raises the affairs of the people, by teaching them good, and calling them to what is in their best interest, and likewise the wise one who is pious to God, and the governor who oversees the affairs of the people according to the method that the just reformers of the affairs of creation have been entrusted with, by doing for them what is good for their immediate and future lives, and what benefits them in their religion and their worldly life, then they all deserve to be among those included in the words of God Almighty: But be rabbis.

So the Rabbaniyyun are the pillars of the people in jurisprudence, knowledge, and matters of religion and the world. That is why Mujahid said: They are above the scholars, because the scholars are the scholars, and the Rabbani is the one who combines knowledge and jurisprudence, insight into politics, management, and taking care of the affairs of the subjects, and what is good for them in their worldly and religious affairs.

Abu Jaafar said: The reading of this differed.

The majority of the reciters of the people of Hijaz and some of the people of Basra read: By what you know with the opening of the ta' and the lightening of the lam, meaning: by your knowledge of the Book, your study of it, and your reading.

They based their choice of reading it as such on the fact that the correct reading, as well, if the emphasis was on the lam and the ta' was a damma, then the correct reading would be: tadrusun with a damma on the ta' and a shaddah on the ra'.

The majority of the Kufian reciters read it as: By your teaching the Book with a damma on the ta' of you teach and a shaddah on the lam, meaning: by your teaching people the Book and studying it.

They based their choice on the fact that whoever described them as having taught, described them as having knowledge, since they do not know except after knowing what they know. They said: There is no one described as having knowledge, except that he is described as having knowledge. They said: As for the one described as having knowledge, he is not described as having taught others. They said: The first of the two readings is more correct and more eloquent in praising the people, and that is describing them as having taught people the Book, as:

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Ishaq told us, he said, Yahya bin Adam told us, on the authority of Ibn Uyaynah, on the authority of Hamid al-A'raj, on the authority of Mujahid that he read: Because you taught the Book and because you studied it, lightened by the accusative of the ta', and Ibn Uyaynah said: They did not teach it until they taught it!

Abu Jaafar said: The more correct of the two readings in this regard is the reading of the one who reads it with a damma on the ta' and a shaddah on the lam. Because God Almighty described the people as people who are a pillar for the people in their religion and their worldly affairs, and people who reform them and their affairs and educate them.

God Almighty says: But be rabbis, based on what we explained before about the meaning of rabbi. Then God Almighty informed us about them that they became people who reformed and educated people by teaching them the Book of their Lord.

And their study of it: its recitation.

It has been said: Their study is jurisprudence.

The most similar of the two interpretations to the study is what we said: from the recitation of the Book, because it is an appositive to his saying: You learn the Book, and the Book is the Qur'an, so the study should be intended to mean the study of the Qur'an, which is more appropriate than it being intended to mean the study of jurisprudence, which was not mentioned.

Who said that?

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Ishaq told us, he said, Yahya bin Adam said, Abu Zakariya said: Asim used to recite it: Because you taught the Book, he said: the Qur'an, And because you studied, he said: jurisprudence.

The meaning of the verse is: But he says to them: Be, O people, masters of the people, and their leaders in the affairs of their religion and their worldly affairs, and be pious by teaching them the Book of God and what is in it of what is permissible and forbidden, what is obligatory and recommended, and all the rest of what it contains of meanings of the affairs of their religion, and by your recitation of it and your study of it.

It was not means it is not appropriate, as he said: It is not for a believer to kill a believer except by mistake. It is not for God to take a son. It is not for us to speak of this. Meaning it is not appropriate. And the word human is used for both singular and plural because it is like a source, and what is meant by it here is Jesus according to Ad-Dahhak and As-Suddi. The book: the Quran. The rule: knowledge and understanding. It was also said: rulings. That is, God does not choose a liar for His prophethood, and if a human did that, God would deprive him of the signs and indications of prophethood. And the word then is in the accusative case, as a combination between that He gives him and says, meaning that the coming of prophethood and his saying: Be My servants instead of God do not come together. But be rabbis, meaning but it is permissible for the prophet to say to them: Be rabbis. It was said that this verse was revealed about the Christians of Najran. It was also narrated that the entire Surah up to the words: And when you left your family was revealed because of the Christians of Najran, but the Jews were mixed with them because they committed the act of denial and stubbornness that they did.

The rabbis, singular rabbani, is attributed to the Lord. The rabbi is the one who educates people with the small things of knowledge before the big things, as if he follows the example of the Lord Almighty in making things easy. Its meaning was narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas. Some of them said, it was originally rabbi, then the alif and the nun were added for emphasis, just as someone with a thick beard is called lahyani, someone with a thick forehead is called jammani, and someone with a thick neck is called raqbani. Al-Mubarrad said: The rabbis

The masters of knowledge, the singular of which is rabban, from their saying rabbah yarbahu, so he is rabban if he managed it and fixed it, so its meaning according to this is they manage the affairs of people and fix them. The alif and the nun are for emphasis as they said rayyan and atshan, then the nisba ya was added to it as it was said lahyani and raqbani and jamani. The poet said: If I were mortgaged in the atmosphere, He would bring me down from it. Hadith and rabbanani rabbanani, so the meaning of the rabbanani is the one who knows the religion of the Lord who acts according to his knowledge, because if he does not act according to his knowledge, then he is not a scholar. This meaning was mentioned previously in al-Baqarah 2: Abu Razin Al-Rabbani said: He is the knowledgeable and wise. Shu'bah narrated on the authority of Asim on the authority of Zar'an Abdullah bin Mas'ud: But be rabbanin. He said: Wise scholars. Ibn Jubayr: Wise and pious. Ad-Dahhak said: No one should abandon memorizing the Qur'an as much as he can, because God the Almighty says: But be rabbanin. Ibn Zayd said: The rabbanin are the governors, and the rabbanin are the scholars. Mujahed said: The rabbis are above the scholars. An-Nahhas said: It is a good statement, because the scholars are the scholars. The rabbi is the one who combines knowledge with insight into politics. It is taken from the Arab saying: The Lord of the people's affairs, he raises it if he fixes it and takes care of it, so he is rab and rabbi in the plural. Abu Ubaidah said: I heard a scholar say: The rabbi is the one who knows what is permissible and what is forbidden, the one who commands and forbids, the one who knows the report of the nation and what was and what will be. Muhammad ibn al-Hanafiyyah said on the day Ibn Abbas died: Today the rabbi of this nation died. It was narrated from the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, that he said:

There is no believing man or woman, free or slave, but that God Almighty has a right over him to learn from the Qur'an and understand His religion. Then he recited this verse: But be devout scholars of the Lord. The verse. Narrated by Ibn Abbas.

God the Almighty said: Because you taught the books and because you studied. Abu Amr and the people of Medina read it with a light pronunciation from knowledge. Abu Hatim preferred this reading. Abu Amr said: And its confirmation is you study. He did not say you study with a heavy pronunciation from teaching. Ibn Amir and the people of Kufa read it with a heavy pronunciation from teaching, and Abu Ubaid preferred it. He said: Because it combines two meanings: you know and you study. Makki said: The heavy pronunciation is more expressive, because every teacher is a scholar in the sense of teaches, and not everyone who teaches something is a teacher. The heavy pronunciation indicates knowledge and teaching, while the light pronunciation only indicates knowledge. Teaching is more expressive and praiseworthy, while other than it is more blameworthy. Those who preferred the light pronunciation cited as evidence the words of Ibn Masoud. He said: Be rabbis, wise scholars. So it is far-fetched to say: Be jurists, wise scholars, with your teaching. Al-Hasan said: Be wise scholars with your knowledge. Abu Haywah read: You study from I study means I study. Mujahid read you learn with a fatha on the ta and a shaddah on the lam, meaning you learn.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

Muhammad bin Ishaq said: Muhammad bin Abi Muhammad told us, on the authority of Ikrimah or Saeed bin Jubair, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: Abu Rafi' al-Qurazi said: When the Jewish and Christian rabbis from Najran gathered at the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and he called them to Islam: Do you want us, O Muhammad, to worship you as the Christians worship Jesus, son of Mary? A Christian man from Najran called al-Ra'is said: Is that what you want from us, O Muhammad, and to which you are calling us? Or as he said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: God forbid that we worship other than God, or that we command the worship of other than God, for this is not what He sent me for, nor did He command me for this. Or as he, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: So God revealed regarding that from their saying: "It is not for a human being that God should give him the Book and wisdom and prophethood, then he should say to the people, 'Be my servants instead of God.' " That is, it is not appropriate for a human being to whom God has given the Book, wisdom and prophethood, to say to the people, 'Worship me instead of God,' meaning with God. So if this is not appropriate for a prophet or a messenger, then it is not appropriate for any other people except them, by a fortiori and more appropriate. For this reason, Al-Hasan Al-Basri said: This is not appropriate for a believer to command the people to worship him. He said: That is because the people used to worship each other, meaning the People of the Book

It is not for a human being that God should give him the Scripture and wisdom and prophethood and then he should say to the people, "Be my servants instead of God." But be devout scholars of the Scripture because you have been taught the Scripture and because you have been studying.

used to worship their rabbis and monks, as God Almighty said: They took their rabbis and monks as lords instead of God. And in Al-Musnad and Al-Tirmidhi, as will come, it is narrated that Adi bin Hatim said: O Messenger of God, they did not worship them. He said: Yes, they did. They made lawful for them what is unlawful and made unlawful for them what is lawful, so follow them, and that is their worship of them." So the ignorant rabbis, monks, and sheikhs of misguidance are included in this blame and rebuke, unlike the Messengers and their followers from the working scholars, for they only command what God commands, and His noble Messengers conveyed it to them, and they only forbid them from what God forbade them from and His noble Messengers conveyed it to them. The Messengers, may God's prayers and peace be upon them all, are the ambassadors between God and His creation in carrying out what they were entrusted with of the message and conveying the trust, so they carried out that perfectly, and advised the creation, and conveyed the truth to them. And His statement: But be devout scholars because you have taught the Book and because you have studied it, meaning, but the Messenger says to the people, Be devout scholars. Ibn Abbas, Abu Razin, and more than one said: That is, wise scholars, forbearing. Al-Hasan and more than one said: Jurists. And this is also narrated from Ibn Abbas, Saeed bin Jubayr, Qatadah, Ata' al-Khurasani, Atiyah al-Awfi, and al-Rabi' bin Anas, and from al-Hasan also: That is, people of worship. And people of piety. Ad-Dahhak said in his statement: Because you have taught the Book and studied it: It is the right of the one who has learned the Qur'an to be a jurist. You learn means you understand its meaning. You learn was read with emphasis from teaching. And because you have studied means you memorize its words. Then God the Most High said: And He does not command you to take the angels and the prophets as lords meaning, and He does not command you to worship anyone other than God: neither a sent prophet nor a close angel. Would He command you to disbelieve after you have been Muslims? meaning, no one would do that except the one who called to worship other than God. And whoever called to worship other than God has called to disbelief. The prophets only command faith, which is the worship of God alone, with no partner for Him, as God the Most High said: And We did not send before you any messenger except that We revealed to him that there is no god except Me, so worship Me. And God the Most High said: And We have certainly sent among every nation a messenger, [saying], 'Worship God and avoid false deities' verse, and He said: And ask those We sent before you of Our messengers. Have We made gods to be worshipped besides the Most Merciful?" And He said, informing us about the angels, "And whoever among them says, 'I am a god besides Him,' We will recompense him with Hell. Thus do We recompense the wrongdoers."

That is, it was not appropriate and proper for a human being to say this statement while he has that characteristic. And in it is a statement from God, the Most High, to His servants that the Christians fabricated against Jesus, peace be upon him, what was not authentically attributed to him, and he should not have said it. The ruling is: understanding and knowledge. His saying 79- But be that is: But the Prophet says: Be Rabbaniyyin, and Rabbaniyyin is attributed to the Lord with the addition of the alif and the nun for emphasis, just as someone with a large beard is called Lahayaniyy, someone with a large forelock is called Jammaniyy, and someone with a thick neck is called Raqbaniyyin. It was said: The Rabbaniyyin is the one who educates people with the small things of knowledge before the big things, so it is as if he follows the example of the Lord, the Most High, in making things easy. Al-Mubarrad said: The Rabbaniyyin are the masters of knowledge, and the singular is Rabbaniyyin, from His saying Rabbi yarubihu, so he is Ban: if he manages it and corrects it, and the Ya is for the relation, so the meaning of Rabbani is: the one who knows the religion of the Lord, the strong one who adheres to the obedience of God, and it was said: the knowledgeable and wise one. His saying, Because you used to know means: because you are scholars: that is, be rabbis for this reason, because a person's attainment of knowledge and his study results in rabbiyyah, which is teaching knowledge and the strength of adherence to obedience to God. Ibn Abbas and the people of Kufa read Because you used to know with emphasis. Abu Amr and the people of Medina read it with emphasis. Abu Ubaid chose the first reading. He said: Because it combines both meanings. Makki said: The emphasis is more eloquent because a scholar may be a scholar who is not a teacher, so the emphasis indicates knowledge and teaching, while the emphasis only indicates knowledge. Abu Hatim chose the second reading. Abu Amr said: And its confirmation is that you study with emphasis without emphasis. The conclusion is that whoever reads with emphasis must interpret rabbiyy as something in addition to knowledge and teaching, which is that he is also sincere or wise or forbearing so that the causality becomes clear. Whoever reads with emphasis is permitted to interpret rabbiyy as a scholar who teaches people, so the meaning is: Be teachers because you are scholars and because you study knowledge. This verse is the greatest incentive for those who know to act, and one of the greatest acts of knowledge is teaching it and being sincere to God Almighty.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

79- The Almighty said: It is not for a human being that God should give him the Scripture the Gospel. Muqatil and Ad-Dahhak said: It is not for a human being, meaning Jesus, peace be upon him. This is because the Christians of Najran used to say that Jesus had ordered them to take him as a god, so the Almighty said: It is not for a human being, meaning Jesus, that God should give him the Scripture the Gospel.

Ibn Abbas and Ata' said: It is not for a human being meaning Muhammad that God should give him the Book meaning the Qur'an. This is because Abu Rafi' al-Qurazi from the Jews and the chief from the Christians of Najran said: O Muhammad, do you want us to worship you and take you as a Lord? He said: God forbid that we should command anyone other than God to worship Him. God did not command me to do that, nor did He command me to do that. So God the Most High revealed this verse: It is not for a human being meaning it is not appropriate for a human being, like His statement: It is not for us to speak of this Surat An-Nur, verse 16, meaning it is not appropriate for us. Human beings are all of the children of Adam, there is no singular form for them, like the people and the army, and it is used in place of the singular and plural, that God should give him the Book and wisdom meaning understanding and knowledge, and it was said: the implementation of the wisdom from God the Almighty, and prophethood meaning the high status of the prophets / "Then he will say to the people, 'Be servants to me instead of God. But be' meaning: but he says, 'Be,' 'of the Lord.'"

They differed about it. Ali, Ibn Abbas, and Al-Hassan said: Be jurists and scholars. Qatada said: Wise and scholars. Saeed bin Jubair said: The scholar is the one who acts according to his knowledge. And on the authority of Saeed bin Jubair on the authority of Ibn Abbas: Jurist teachers.

It was said: The Rabbani is the one who educates people with the small things of knowledge before the big things. Ata' said: Scholars are wise and sincere advisers to God in His creation. Abu Ubaidah said: I heard a knowledgeable man say: The Rabbani is the one who knows what is permissible and what is forbidden, what is good and what is forbidden, the one who knows the report of the nation, what was and what will be. It was said: The Rabbani are above the scholars, and the scholars are the scholars, and the Rabbani are those who combine knowledge with insight into the politics of people.

Al-Mu'arraj said: Be rabbis who worship your Lord, from lordship. Originally it was my Lord, then the alif was added for emphasis, then the nun was added for the sukoon of the alif, as it was said: Sana'ani and Bahrani.

Al-Mubarrad said: They are the masters of knowledge, and they were called this because they nurture knowledge, and they carry it out and nurture the learners in the small sciences before the big ones, and whoever undertakes to fix something and complete it has nurtured it, and one of them is: rabban (as they said: rabban), and thirsty, and satiated, and naked, then the relative ya was added to it, as they said: lahyani and raqbani.

It was narrated on the authority of Ali, may God be pleased with him, that he said: He is the one whose knowledge is increased by his actions. Muhammad bin al-Hanafiyyah said when Ibn Abbas died: Today the master of this nation died.

By what you were meaning: by what you are, like the Almighty's saying: Whoever was in the cradle a child Surat Maryam, verse 29, meaning: whoever is in the cradle You know the Book Ibn Amir, Asim, Hamza, and Al-Kisa'i read ya'lamun with emphasis from teaching, and the others read ya'lamun with emphasis from knowledge, like His saying: By what you were studying meaning: you read.

79 It is not for a human being that God should give him the Book and wisdom and prophethood and then he should say to the people, 'Be my servants instead of God.' This is a lie and a response to His servant Jesus, peace be upon him. It was said, "Abu Rafi' al-Qurazi and Sayyid al-Najrani said, 'O Muhammad, do you want us to worship you and take you as a Lord?' He said, 'God forbid that we should worship other than God and that we should command the worship of other than God. For that is not what He sent me to do, nor did He command me to do that.' So it was revealed." It was said, "A man said, 'O Messenger of God, we greet you as we greet one another. Should we not prostrate to you?' He said, 'It is not appropriate to prostrate to anyone other than God. Rather, honor your Prophet and acknowledge the truth to its people.'" But be rabbis. But he says, Be rabbis. The word rabb is attributed to the Lord by adding the letter alif and the letter nun, like al-Laythani and al-Raqbani, and it is the perfect one in knowledge and action. Because you have taught the Book and because you have studied it because you are teachers of the Book and because you are students of it, the benefit of teaching and learning is knowing the truth and goodness for belief and action. Ibn Kathir, Nafi', Abu Amr, and Ya'qub read you teach in the sense of knowing. You study was read from teaching and you study from adris meaning studied like akram and karam, and it is possible that the famous reading also has this meaning on the assumption that because you have taught it to the people.

Surat Al Imran 3:80

And He does not command you to take the angels and the prophets as lords. Would He command you to disbelieve after you were Muslims?

Surat Al Imran 3:80

And He does not command you to take the angels and the prophets as lords. Would He command you to disbelieve after you were Muslims?

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And He does not command you in the nominative case as a resumption, meaning God, and the accusative case as an apposition to He says, meaning mankind that you take the angels and the prophets as lords as the Sabians took the angels, the Jews took Ezra, and the Christians took Jesus Does He command you to disbelieve after you have been Muslims this is not appropriate for Him.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Jaafar said: There is a difference of opinion regarding the reading of His statement: nor does He command you.

The majority of the reciters of Hijaz and Madinah read it as: And He does not command you, as a beginning from God with the report from the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, that He does not command you, O people, to take the angels and the prophets as lords. The reciters of that also cited a reading that they mentioned from Ibn Masoud that he used to recite, which is: And He does not command you, so they used the introduction of lan as evidence of the interruption of the speech from what preceded it, and the beginning of a new piece of report. They said: So when la was replaced in our recitation, it became obligatory to recite it in the nominative case.

Some of the Kufians and Basrans read it as: nor does He command you, with the ra' in the accusative case, in apposition to His statement: Then He says to the people. Their interpretation was: It was not for a human being that God should give him the Book, then he should say to the people, nor that he should command you, meaning: Nor was it for him to command you to take the angels and the prophets as lords.

Abu Ja'far said: The more correct of the two readings in this regard is: nor does He command you, in the accusative case, in connection with what precedes it, with the interpretation: It is not for a human being that God should give him the Book, wisdom, and prophethood, then he should say to the people, Be my servants instead of God, nor that he should command you to take the angels and the prophets as lords. Because the verse was revealed regarding the people who said to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace: Do you want us to worship you? So God, may He be glorified and exalted, informed them that it is not for His Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, to call the people to worship himself, nor to take the angels and the prophets as lords. Rather, what is for him is to call them to be lords.

As for the one who claimed that he read it in the nominative case, that it is in the reading of Abdullah: And He will not command you as evidence for the correctness of his reading in the nominative case, then that is a report whose chain of transmission is not correct. Rather, it is a report narrated by Hajjaj, on the authority of Harun al-A'war: that it is in the reading of Abdullah likewise. If that was a report whose chain of transmission was correct, then there would be no argument in it for the one who argues. Because what was correct in the reading of the Book that the Muslims came with as an inheritance from their Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, it is not permissible to abandon it for the sake of interpretation according to a reading attributed to some of the Companions, transmitted by someone in whose transmission errors and forgetfulness are permissible.

Abu Ja'far said: The interpretation of the verse is: It is not for the Prophet to command you, O people, to take the angels and the prophets as lords - meaning by that gods to be worshipped instead of God - just as it is not for him to say to them: Be my servants instead of God.

Then He, the Most High, said - denying that His Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, would command His servants to do that - Would your Prophet command you to disbelieve, O people, by denying the Oneness of God, after you were Muslims, meaning: after you were submissive to Him in obedience, humbled before Him in worship: meaning that this would never happen from Him. And:

Al-Qasim told us, he said, Al-Hussein told us, he said, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, he said: "And the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, does not command you to take the angels and the prophets as lords."

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

Ibn Amir, Asim and Hamzah read it in the accusative case, in apposition to that he should give it to him. This is strengthened by the fact that the Jews said to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace: Do you want us to take you, O Muhammad, as a lord? God Almighty said: It is not for a human being that God should give him the Scripture, wisdom and prophethood - until His saying: nor does he command you. The pronoun in it refers to humans, meaning nor does the human being command you, meaning Jesus and Ezra. The rest read it in the nominative case, as a resumption and a break from the first statement, and the pronoun in it refers to the name of God Almighty, meaning nor does God command you to take. This reading is strengthened by the fact that in the Mushaf of Abdullah it says and he will not command you, which indicates a resumption, and the pronoun also refers to God Almighty, as mentioned by Makki, and Sibawayh and Az-Zajjaj said. Ibn Jurayj and a group said: "nor does Muhammad, peace be upon him, command you". This is the reading of Abu Amr, Al-Kisa'i and the people of the Two Sanctuaries. That you take them as lords for them. Does He command you to disbelieve after you are Muslims? By way of denial and astonishment, God Almighty forbade the prophets to take people as servants to deify them, but He obligated creation to respect them. It has been proven from the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, that he said:

Let none of you say, My slave or My female slave, but let him say, My boy or My girl. And let none of you say, My Lord, but let him say, My master. And in the revelation: Mention me to your Lord. And there comes an explanation of this meaning, God willing.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

Muhammad bin Ishaq said: Muhammad bin Abi Muhammad told us, on the authority of Ikrimah or Saeed bin Jubair, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: Abu Rafi' al-Qurazi said: When the Jewish and Christian rabbis from Najran gathered at the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and he called them to Islam: Do you want us, O Muhammad, to worship you as the Christians worship Jesus, son of Mary? A Christian man from Najran called al-Ra'is said: Is that what you want from us, O Muhammad, and to which you are calling us? Or as he said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: God forbid that we worship other than God, or that we command the worship of other than God, for this is not what He sent me for, nor did He command me for this. Or as he, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: So God revealed regarding that from their saying: "It is not for a human being that God should give him the Book and wisdom and prophethood, then he should say to the people, 'Be my servants instead of God.' " That is, it is not appropriate for a human being to whom God has given the Book, wisdom and prophethood, to say to the people, 'Worship me instead of God,' meaning with God. So if this is not appropriate for a prophet or a messenger, then it is not appropriate for any other people except them, by a fortiori and more appropriate. For this reason, Al-Hasan Al-Basri said: This is not appropriate for a believer to command the people to worship him. He said: That is because the people used to worship each other, meaning the People of the Book used to worship their rabbis and monks, as God Almighty said: They took their rabbis and monks as lords instead of God. And in Al-Musnad and Al-Tirmidhi, as will come, it is narrated that Adi bin Hatim said: O Messenger of God, they did not worship them. He said: Yes, they did. They made lawful for them what is unlawful and made unlawful for them what is lawful, so follow them, and that is their worship of them." So the ignorant rabbis, monks, and sheikhs of misguidance are included in this blame and rebuke, unlike the Messengers and their followers from the working scholars, for they only command what God commands, and His noble Messengers conveyed it to them, and they only forbid them from what God forbade them from and His noble Messengers conveyed it to them. The Messengers, may God's prayers and peace be upon them all, are the ambassadors between God and His creation in carrying out what they were entrusted with of the message and conveying the trust, so they carried out that perfectly, and advised the creation, and conveyed the truth to them. And His statement: But be devout scholars because you have taught the Book and because you have studied it, meaning, but the Messenger says to the people, Be devout scholars. Ibn Abbas, Abu Razin, and more than one said: That is, wise scholars, forbearing. Al-Hasan and more than one said: Jurists. And this is also narrated from Ibn Abbas, Saeed bin Jubayr, Qatadah, Ata' al-Khurasani, Atiyah al-Awfi, and al-Rabi' bin Anas, and from al-Hasan also: That is, people of worship. And people of piety. Ad-Dahhak said in his statement: Because you have taught the Book and studied it: It is the right of the one who has learned the Qur'an to be a jurist. You learn means you understand its meaning. You learn was read with emphasis from teaching. And because you have studied means you memorize its words. Then God the Most High said: And He does not command you to take the angels and the prophets as lords meaning, and He does not command you to worship anyone other than God: neither a sent prophet nor a close angel. Would He command you to disbelieve after you have been Muslims? meaning, no one would do that except the one who called to worship other than God. And whoever called to worship other than God has called to disbelief. The prophets only command faith, which is the worship of God alone, with no partner for Him, as God the Most High said: And We did not send before you any messenger except that We revealed to him that there is no god except Me, so worship Me. And God the Most High said: And We have certainly sent among every nation a messenger, [saying], 'Worship God and avoid false deities' verse, and He said: And ask those We sent before you of Our messengers. Have We made gods to be worshipped besides the Most Merciful?" And He said, informing us about the angels, "And whoever among them says, 'I am a god besides Him,' We will recompense him with Hell. Thus do We recompense the wrongdoers."

Fath al-Qadir

His saying 80- And He does not command you to take the angels and the prophets as lords in the accusative case in apposition to Then He says and nor is added to emphasize the negation: meaning, He does not have the right to command the worship of Himself, nor does He command the taking of the angels and the prophets as lords, but He forbids it, and it is permissible to conjoin it with that He gives it, meaning, it is not for a human being to command you to take the angels and the prophets as lords, and Ibn Amir, Asim, and Hamzah read in the accusative case, and the rest read in the nominative case as a resumption and a break from the first statement: meaning, and God does not command you to take the angels and the prophets as lords, and this is supported by the fact that in the Mushaf of Ibn Mas'ud it is And He will not command you. The hamzah in his saying Does He command you is to deny what was negated from the humans. And his saying after you are Muslims was used as evidence by those who said that the reason for the revelation of the verse was the permission of those Muslims who asked the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, to prostrate to him.

Surat Al Imran 3:80

Ibn Ishaq, Ibn Jarir, Ibn Al-Mundhir, Ibn Abi Hatim, and Al-Bayhaqi in Al-Dala'il narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas that he said: Abu Rafi' Al-Qurazi said when the Jewish and Christian rabbis from Najran gathered at the presence of the Messenger of God (may God bless him and grant him peace) and he called them to Islam: Do you want us, O Muhammad, to worship you as the Christians worship Jesus? The Messenger of God (may God bless him and grant him peace) said: "God forbid that we should worship other than God or command the worship of other than Him. This is not what He sent me for nor did He command me for that." So God revealed in this regard, It is not for a human being verse. Abd bin Hamid narrated on the authority of Al-Hasan that he said: "It reached me that a man said: O Messenger of God, we greet you as we greet one another. Should we not prostrate to you? He said: No, but honor your Prophet and recognize the right of its people, for it is not appropriate to prostrate to anyone other than God. So God revealed, "It is not for a human being" verse. Ibn Jarir, Ibn Al-Mundhir, and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas regarding his statement, Rabbaniyyin, that he said: Jurists and scholars. Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on his authority that he said: Wise, knowledgeable, and patient. Ibn Jarir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on his authority that he said: Scholars, jurists. Ibn Al-Mundhir narrated on the authority of Ibn Masoud that he said: Wise, knowledgeable. Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Abu Razin regarding his statement, And what you used to study, he said: Discussing jurisprudence. Ibn Jarir and Ibn Al-Mundhir narrated on the authority of Ibn Jurayj regarding his statement, And He does not command you to take, he said: And the Prophet does not command them.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

80 And He does not command you to take the angels and the prophets as lords. Ibn Amir, Hamza, Asim, and Yaqub put it in the accusative case in apposition to Then He says. The la is an additional particle to emphasize the meaning of negation in His statement it was not, meaning it was not for a human being to be called by God to be a prophet and then command people to worship Himself and command to take the angels and the prophets as lords, or it is not an additional particle to mean that he does not have the right to command to worship Him or to command to take his equals as lords, rather he forbids it and it is lower than worship. The rest put it in the accusative case as a resumption, and the situation is possible. Abu Amr read it according to its origin according to the narration of Al-Duri by stealing the damma. Does He command you to disbelieve? is a denial, and the pronoun in it refers to humans and it was said to God. After you are Muslims is evidence that the address is to the Muslims and they are those who have asked permission to prostrate to Him.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

80-His saying: And He does not command you, Ibn Amir, Asim, Hamza and Yaqub read with the accusative of the ra' in apposition to his saying: Then he says, so it is returned to the people, meaning: And He does not command that people, and it was said: Ali implied that, meaning: And that that people does not command you, and the rest read with the nominative as a resumption, meaning: And God does not command you, and Ibn Jurayj and a group said: And Muhammad does not command you, that you take the angels and the prophets as lords like the action of the Quraysh and the Sabians when they swore: The angels are the daughters of God, and the Jews and Christians when they said about the Messiah and Ezra what they said, Does He command you to disbelieve after you are Muslims? He said it in a way of astonishment and denial, meaning: He does not say

Surat Al Imran 3:81

And [mention] when God took a covenant from the prophets, "Whatever I have given you of the Book and wisdom and then there comes to you a messenger confirming that which is with you, you must believe in him and support him." He said, "Have you acknowledged and taken upon yourself My covenant?" They said, "We have acknowledged." He said, "Then bear witness, and I am with you among the witnesses."

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And mention when when God took the covenant of the prophets their pledge when with the opening of the lam for the beginning and to emphasize the meaning of the oath that is in taking the covenant and its breaking is related to taking and what is connected in both ways, meaning to what I gave you it, and in a reading {We gave you} of the Book and wisdom, then there came to you a Messenger confirming what is with you of the Book and wisdom, and he is Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace that you must believe in him and support him the answer to the oath if you reach him and their nations follow them in that He said the Most High to them Have you acknowledged that and taken accepted upon that My covenant My covenant they said we have acknowledged. He said then bear witness) against yourselves and your followers of that and I am with you among the witnesses against you and against them

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: By that, may His praise be glorified, He means: And remember, O People of the Book, And when God took a covenant from the prophets, meaning: when God took a covenant from the prophets, and their covenant, what they trusted upon themselves to obey God in what He commanded them and forbade them.

We have explained the origin of the covenant, with the differences of the people of interpretation, sufficiently.

When I have given you a Book and wisdom, and the reading of that differed.

The majority of the reciters of Hijaz and Iraq read it as lama aatiyyatukum with the opening of the lam of lama, except that they differed in the reading: atayyatukum.

Some of them read it as: I have come to you in the singular form.

Others read it as: We have brought you in the plural.

Then the Arabs differed about whether it was read in this way.

Some of the grammarians of Basra said: The lam that comes with ma at the beginning of a sentence is the lam of initiation, like when someone says: Zayd is better than you, because ma is a noun and what comes after it is a relative clause for it, and the lam in you will surely believe in him and you will surely support him is the lam of an oath, as if he said: By God, you will surely believe in him, it is emphasized at the beginning of the sentence and at the end of it, like one says: By God, if you had come to me, such and such would have happened, and one may dispense with it. So in you will surely believe in him, it is emphasized with the lam at the end of the sentence, and one may dispense with it, and the predicate of what I have given you of the Book and wisdom is made you will surely believe in it. Like: To Abdullah, by God, you will come to him. He said: If you wish, you can make the predicate of what "of the Book," meaning: when I have given you, the Book and wisdom, and of is redundant.

Some of the grammarians of Kufa made a mistake in all of this and said: The lam that enters at the beginning of the conditional clause is answered with the answers of oaths. It is said: To whoever stands, I will give him and To whoever stands, I will do well. So if ma and la are in their answer, it is known that the lam is not an emphasis of the first, because ma and la are put in its place, so it is like the first, and it is an answer to the first. He said: As for his saying: When I gave you from the Book and wisdom, meaning omitting min, this is a mistake. Because min that enters and exits does not take the place of nouns. He said: Nor does it occur in the report either, it only occurs in denial, interrogation, and conditional clause.

Abu Ja'far said: The most correct of the sayings in interpreting this verse - according to the reading of those who read it with the opening of the lam - is that his saying: lama means lamhama, and that ma is a particle of reward to which the lam was inserted, and the verb was made with it into fa'l, then it was answered with what oaths are answered with, so the first lam became an oath, since it was met with the answer to the oath.

Others read it as: When I brought you with a kasra on the lam of lama. This is the reading of a group of the people of Kufa.

Then the readers of that differed in their interpretation of it.

Some of them said: Its meaning, if read in this way, is: And when God took a covenant from the prophets for what I gave you, so what is in this reading means what they have. The interpretation of the statement is: And when God took a covenant from the prophets for what He gave them of the Book and wisdom, then a messenger came to you, meaning: Then if My messenger came to you, meaning: the mention of Muhammad in the Torah, you will believe in him, meaning: your belief in him will be for what you have in the Torah of his mention.

Others among them said: The interpretation of that, if it is read with a kasra on the lam of lama is: And when God took a covenant from the prophets, for that which He gave them of wisdom. Then He made His statement: You shall believe in it from taking, taking the covenant. Just as it is said in speech: I took your covenant that you shall do. Because taking the covenant is like taking an oath. So the interpretation of the speech according to the one who said this statement was: And when God took an oath from the prophets for that which He gave them of the Book and wisdom, whenever there came to them a messenger confirming what was with them, that they would believe in him and support him.

And [mention] when God took a covenant from the prophets, “Whatever I have given you of the Book and wisdom and then there comes to you a messenger confirming that which is with you, you must believe in him and support him.” He said, “Have you acknowledged and taken upon yourself My covenant?” They said, “We have acknowledged.” He said, “Then bear witness, and I am with you among the witnesses.”

Abu Ja’far said: The more correct of the two readings in this regard is the reading of the one who reads: And when God took a covenant from the prophets, ‘When I gave you’, with the lam open. This is because God, the Almighty, took a covenant from all the prophets to believe in every messenger He sent to His creation in what He sent him with, whether he was one of those to whom He gave a book or one to whom He did not give a book. This is because it is not permissible to describe any of the prophets and messengers of God, the Almighty, as being one of those who were permitted to disbelieve in any of His messengers. Since this is the case, and it is known that some of them were given the book and some of them were not given the book, it is clear that the reading of the one who reads it: When I gave you, with the lam closed, meaning: for the sake of what I gave you of the book, has no basis in understanding, except through a far-fetched interpretation and profound deduction.

Then the people of interpretation differed about the one who took his covenant to believe in the messengers of God who came to him, confirming what he had.

Some of them said: God only took a covenant from the People of the Book regarding this, not from their prophets. They cited as evidence for the validity of their statement the words: You shall believe in him and support him. They said: The nations to whom the messengers were sent were commanded to believe in the messengers of God and support them against those who opposed them. As for the messengers, there is no reason to command them to support anyone, because they are the ones who need help against those who oppose them from the disbelieving people of Adam. As for them, they do not help the disbelievers in their disbelief nor support them. They said: If there is no one other than them and the disbelieving nations, then who is the one who supports the prophet, so that a covenant is taken from him to support him?

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Amr told me, he said: Abu Asim told us, on the authority of Isa, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding his statement: And when God took a covenant from the prophets, ‘Whatever I give you of the Book and wisdom,’ he said: It is a mistake by the writer, and in the reading of Ibn Masoud it is: And when God took a covenant from those who were given the Scripture.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Abu Hudhayfah told us, he said, Shabl told us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, similarly.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Ishaq told us, he said, Abdullah bin Abi Jaafar told us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-Rabi’, regarding His statement: And when God took a covenant from the prophets, he said: And when God took a covenant from those who were given the Scripture, and that is how the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, used to recite it. Al-Rabi’ said: And when God took a covenant from those who were given the Scripture, they are only the People of the Scripture. He said: And that is how Ubayy bin Ka’b used to recite it. Al-Rabi’ said: Do you not see that He says: Then there came to you a Messenger confirming what is with you, that you must believe in him and support him? He says: You must believe in Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and support him. He said: They are the People of the Scripture.

Others said: Rather, the one who took their covenant with that was the prophets, not their nations.

Who said that?

Al-Muthanna and Ahmad bin Hazim told me, they said: Abu Naim told us, he said: Sufyan told us, on the authority of Habib, on the authority of Saeed bin Jubair, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, he said: God only took a covenant from the prophets from their people.

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said, Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said, Muammar told us, on the authority of Ibn Tawus, on the authority of his father, regarding his statement: And when God took a covenant from the prophets, that some of them would believe in others.

Al-Qasim told us, Al-Hussein told us, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, on the authority of Ibn Tawus, on the authority of his father, regarding his statement: And when God took a covenant from the prophets, ‘Whatever I give you of the Book and wisdom, then there comes to you a Messenger confirming what is with you’ verse, he said: God took a covenant from the first of the prophets, to believe and have faith in what the last of them brought.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Ishaq told us, he said, Abdullah bin Hashim told us, he said, Saif bin Omar told us, on the authority of Abu Rawq, on the authority of Abu Ayoub, on the authority of Ali bin Abi Talib, he said: God Almighty did not send a prophet - Adam and those after him - except that He took a covenant from him regarding Muhammad: If he is sent while he is alive, he will believe in him and support him, and he will command him to take a covenant from his people, so He said: And when God took a covenant from the prophets, ‘What I have given you of the Book and wisdom,’ the verse.

Bishr told us, Yazid told us, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, his saying: And when God took a covenant from the prophets, 'Whatever I give you of the Book,' the verse: This is a covenant that God took from the prophets that they would believe in each other and convey the Book of God and His messages. So the prophets conveyed the Book of God and His messages to their people, and He took a covenant from them - in what their messengers conveyed to them - that they would believe in Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and believe in him and support him.

Muhammad ibn al-Husayn told us, Ahmad ibn al-Mufaddal told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of al-Suddi: And when God took a covenant from the prophets, 'Whatever I give you of the Book and wisdom,' the verse. He said: God, the Almighty, did not send a prophet since Noah except that He took a covenant from him that he would believe in Muhammad and support him if he emerged while he was alive, and if not, He took a covenant from his people that they would believe in him and support him if he emerged while they were alive.

Muhammad bin Sinan told me, he said, Abdul Kabir bin Abdul Majeed Abu Bakr Al Hanafi told us, he said, Ibad bin Mansour told us, he said, I asked Al Hassan about his saying: And when God took a covenant from the prophets, 'What I have given you of the Book and wisdom,' the entire verse, he said: God took a covenant from the prophets: The last of you will surely convey to the first of you, and do not differ.

Others said: The meaning of this is that he took a covenant from the prophets and their nations, so he was satisfied with mentioning the prophets instead of mentioning their nations, because in mentioning taking a covenant from the one being followed, there is evidence of taking it from the one being followed, because nations follow the prophets.

Who said that?

Ibn Humayd told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Muhammad ibn Ishaq, on the authority of Muhammad ibn Abi Muhammad, on the authority of Ikrimah or on the authority of Sa'id ibn Jubayr, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, he said: Then he mentioned what he took from them - meaning from the People of the Book - and from their prophets of the covenant to believe in him - meaning to believe in Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace - when he came to them, and their acknowledgment of him for themselves. So he said: And when God took a covenant from the prophets, 'What I have given you of the Book and wisdom' to the end of the verse.

Abu Kuraib told us, he said, Yunus bin Bakir told us, he said, Muhammad bin Ishaq told us, he said, Muhammad bin Abi Muhammad, the client of Zaid bin Thabit, told us, he said, Saeed bin Jubair or Ikrimah told me, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, similarly.

Abu Ja'far said: The most correct of these statements is the statement of the one who said: The meaning of this is the report of God taking a covenant from His prophets to believe in one another, and the prophets taking a covenant from their nations and their followers in the same way that their Lord took from them to believe in God's prophets and messengers in what they brought to them. Because the prophets, peace be upon them, were sent to their nations with that. And none of those who believed in the messengers claimed that a prophet was sent to a nation to deny one of God's prophets and His proofs among His servants, rather all of them, even if some nations denied some of God's prophets, by denying his prophethood, acknowledging that whoever's prophethood is proven to be true, then they are to be judged for believing in him. So that is a covenant that all of them acknowledge.

There is no meaning in the claim of those who claim that the covenant was taken from the nations and not from the prophets. Because God Almighty has informed us that He took that from the prophets. So whether someone says: Her Lord did not take that from her or he says: He did not command her to convey what she was sent for, and God Almighty has stated that He commanded her to convey it, because they are both two pieces of report from God about her: one of them is that He took that from her, and the other of them is that He commanded her. If doubt is permissible about one of them, it is permissible about the other.

As for what Al-Rabi' bin Anas cited as evidence that what is meant by that is the People of the Book, from his saying: You will believe in him and support him, that is not evidence of the correctness of what he said. Because the prophets were commanded to believe in each other, and to believe in each other, as support from each other.

Then they differed about those meant by his saying: Then there came to you a Messenger confirming what is with you, so you must believe in him and support him.

Some of them said: Those meant by that are the prophets, whose covenants were taken that they would believe each other and support him. We have mentioned the narration of that from the one who said it.

Others said: They are the People of the Book, who were commanded to believe in Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, if God sent him to support him, and He took a covenant from them in their books to that effect. We have also mentioned the narration of that from those who said it.

Others said, among those who said: Those meant by God taking His covenant from them in this verse are the prophets. His statement: Then there came to you a Messenger confirming what is with you, means the People of the Book.

Who said that?

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said, Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said, Muammar told us, he said, Ibn Tawus told us, on the authority of his father, regarding his statement: And when God took a covenant from the prophets, 'What I have given you of the Book and wisdom,' he said, God took a covenant from the prophets that they would believe in one another, then He said: Then there came to you a Messenger confirming what is with you, you must believe in him and support him, he said: So this verse is for the

And [mention] when God took a covenant from the prophets, “Whatever I have given you of the Book and wisdom and then there comes to you a messenger confirming that which is with you, you must believe in him and support him.” He said, “Have you acknowledged and taken upon yourself My covenant?” They said, “We have acknowledged.” He said, “Then bear witness, and I am with you among the witnesses.”

People of the Book, God took a covenant from them that they would believe in Muhammad and believe in him.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Ishaq told us, he said, Ibn Abi Ja'far told me, on the authority of his father, he said, Qatada said: God took a covenant from the prophets: that they would believe in one another, and that they would convey God's Book and His message to His servants. So the prophets conveyed God's Book and His messages to their people, and they took covenants from the People of the Book - in their book, in what their messengers conveyed to them -: that they would believe in Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and believe in him and support him.

Abu Ja'far said: The most correct of the sayings in our view regarding the interpretation of this verse is that all of that is report from God Almighty about His prophets that He took their covenant with Him, and obligated them to call their nations to Him and acknowledge Him. Because the beginning of the verse is report from God Almighty about His prophets that He took their covenant, then He described that by which He took their covenant, saying: He is such and such and He is such and such.

We only said that what God informed us that He took covenants from His prophets regarding that, the prophets took covenants from their nations regarding it, because they were sent to call the servants of God to the judgment with what they were commanded to judge in themselves, of believing in the messengers of God, as we explained before.

Abu Ja'far said: The interpretation of the verse is: And remember, O people of the Book, when God took a covenant from the prophets, “Whatever I give you, O prophets, of the Book and wisdom, and then there comes to you a Messenger from Me confirming what is with you, you must believe in him - he says: you must believe him - and you must support him.”

Al-Saddi said about this:

Muhammad bin Al-Hussein told us, he said, Ahmad told us, he said, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi, his saying: When I came to you, he says to the Jews: I took the covenant of the prophets through Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and it is what is mentioned in the book that you have.

The interpretation of this is according to what Al-Suddi mentioned: And remember, O people of the Book, when God took a covenant from the prophets, saying, What I have given you, O Jews, of the Book and wisdom.

What Al-Suddi said was an interpretation that had a point, if the revelation had been: with what I have given you, but the revelation with the lam is when I have given you. It is not permissible in the language of any of the Arabs to say: God took a covenant from the prophets when I have given you, meaning: with what I have given you.

Abu Ja'far said: By that, may His praise be glorified, He means: And when God took the covenant of the prophets with what was mentioned, He, may His praise be glorified, said to them: Have you acknowledged the covenant that you pledged to Me upon: that whenever a messenger comes to you from Me confirming what is with you, you will believe in him and support him, “and have you taken upon that My covenant”? He says: And you have taken, upon what you pledged to Me upon of believing in the messengers who come to you confirming what is with you from Me and undertaking to support them, My covenant. Meaning My covenant and My testament, and you accepted that from Me and were pleased with it.

Taking: is acceptance - in this context - and satisfaction, from their saying: the governor took the pledge of allegiance from him, meaning: he pledged allegiance to him and accepted his rule and was satisfied with it.

We have explained the meaning of persistence according to the differences of those who differed about it, and the correct statement about it in what has passed before, which makes it unnecessary to repeat it in this place.

The letter fa was deleted from his statement: He said, ‘Did you acknowledge?’ because it is the beginning of a statement, as we have explained in similar examples previously.

As for his saying: They said, ‘We acknowledge,’ he means by it: The prophets from whom God took a covenant with what was mentioned in this verse said: We acknowledge what you have obligated us to believe in your messengers whom you send, confirming what is with us of your books, and their support.

Abu Ja'far said: By that, may His praise be glorified, He means: God said: So bear witness, O prophets, to what I took from you as a covenant of faith in believing in My messengers who come to you with confirmation of what is with you of the Book and wisdom, and their support over yourselves and over your followers from the nations if you take their covenant on that, and I am with you among the witnesses over you and over them in that, as:

Al-Muthanna told us, he said, Ishaq told us, he said, Abdullah bin Hashim told us, he said, Saif bin Omar told us, on the authority of Abu Rawq, on the authority of Abu Ayoub, on the authority of Ali bin Abi Talib, regarding his statement: He said, ‘Then bear witness,’ meaning: bear witness against your nations with that, and I am with you among the witnesses, against you and against them.

It was said: God took a covenant from the prophets that they would believe in each other and command some of them to believe in each other, so that is the meaning of support through belief. This is the saying of Saeed bin Jubair, Qatada, Tawus, As-Suddi and Al-Hasan, and it is the apparent meaning of the verse. Tawus said: God took a covenant from the first of the prophets to believe in what the last brought. Ibn Masoud read: And when God took a covenant from those who were given the Scripture. Al-Kisa'i said: It is possible that And when God took a covenant from the prophets means when God took a covenant from those with the prophets. The Basrans said: If God took a covenant from the prophets, then He took a covenant from those who were with them, because they followed them and believed them. And in His statement lama means who. Sibawayh said: I asked Al-Khalil bin Ahmad about His statement: And when God took a covenant from the prophets, What I have given you of the Book and wisdom," and he said: "lama means who." An-Nahhas said: The meaning is based on Al-Khalil's statement, to that which I have given you, then the ha' was deleted due to the length of the name. Which is raised by the beginning and its predicate is of the Book and wisdom. "Min" is for clarifying the genus. This is like the saying of the speaker: Zayd is better than you, and this is the saying of Al-Akhfash that it is the lam of beginning. Al-Mahdawi said: His statement, Then he came to you, and what follows it is a sentence connected to the relative clause, and the pronoun referring back to it is deleted, and the meaning is then a messenger came to you confirming it.

God the Almighty said: Then there came to you a Messenger confirming that which is with you, that you must believe in him and support him. The Messenger here is Muhammad, peace and blessings of God be upon him, in his statement Ali and Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them. Even though the word is indefinite, the reference is to a specific person, like God the Almighty's statement: "God presents an example: a city that was safe and secure" until His statement: And there had certainly come to them a Messenger from among themselves, but they denied him. So God took a covenant from all the prophets that they would believe in Muhammad, peace and blessings of God be upon him, and support him if they ever found him, and He commanded them to take that covenant, as it is like a succession. It is as you say in speech: I took your covenant that you will do such and such, as if you said I make you swear, and the separation between the oath and its answer is by the preposition lama in the recitation of Ibn Kathir as will come. And whoever opens it makes it the recipient of the oath, which is taking the covenant. And the lam in that you will believe in him is the answer to an omitted oath, meaning, by God, that you will believe in him. Al-Mubarrad, Al-Kisa'i and Al-Zajaj said: "It is not a condition that the lam of verification is entered upon it as it is entered upon in, and its meaning is for whatever I have given you, so the position of what is accusative, and the position of what I have given you is jussive, and "then he came to you" is conjoined to it, that you will believe in him. The lam in his statement that you will believe in him is the answer to the condition, like the statement of the Most High: And if We will, We will surely take away and the like. Al-Kisa'i said: that you will believe in him is the basis of the oath, so it is connected to the first statement, and the answer to the condition is his statement: But whoever turns away after that. In this way, it does not need anything except the estimation of a pronoun. The people of Kufa read when I have given you with a kasra on the lam, and it also means who and it is related to taking, meaning that God took His covenant for the sake of what He gave them of the Book and wisdom, then if there comes to you a messenger confirming what is with you, you will believe in him after the covenant: because taking the covenant is in the meaning of swearing as mentioned above. Al-Nahhas said: Abu Ubaidah has a good statement on this. He said: The meaning is, And when God took a covenant from those who were given the Scripture, 'You shall believe in what I have given you of the Torah.' It was said: There is an ellipsis in the speech, and the meaning is, And when God took a covenant from the prophets, 'You shall teach the people what has come to you of the Book and wisdom, and you shall take from the people that they shall believe.' This ellipsis is indicated by and you have taken upon you My covenant. It was said: The lam in His statement, when in the reading of those who break it means after, meaning after what I have given you of the Book and wisdom, as Al-Nabigha said:

I imagined her verses and I knew her for six years and this year is the seventh

That is, after six years. Saeed bin Jubair read lama with emphasis, and its meaning is when I came to you. It is possible that its origin is lightening, so min was added according to the doctrine of those who see its addition in the answer, so it became lam ma, and the nun was changed to mim for assimilation, so three mims came together, so the first one was deleted for lightening. The people of Madinah read atainakum for glorification. The rest read atayyakum in the singular form. Then, all the prophets were not given the Book, only some were given it, but the upper hand is for those who were given the Book. What is meant is taking the covenant of all the prophets, so whoever was not given the Book is in the same ruling as whoever was given the Book because he was given the judgment and prophethood. Also, whoever was not given the Book is commanded to take the Book of the one who came before him, so he falls under the description of whoever was given the Book.

God the Almighty said: Have you acknowledged and taken upon yourselves My covenant? They said, We have acknowledged. He said, Then bear witness, and am with you among the witnesses. "Acknowledged" is from acknowledgment. "Isr" and Isr are two languages, and it means a covenant. Isr in the language means heaviness, so the covenant was called Isr because it means prevention and severity. He said, "Then bear witness means know, on the authority of Ibn Abbas. Al-Zajaj: Explain because the witness is the one who confirms the claim of the plaintiff. It was said that the meaning is, Bear witness against yourselves and your followers. “And I am with you among the witnesses” over you and over them. Saeed bin Al-Musayyab said: God the Almighty said to the angels, Bear witness against them, so it is a metaphor for something not mentioned.

And [mention] when God took a covenant from the prophets, “Whatever I have given you of the Book and wisdom and then there comes to you a messenger confirming that which is with you, you must believe in him and support him.” He said, “Have you acknowledged and taken upon yourself My covenant?” They said, “We have acknowledged.” He said, “Then bear witness, and I am with you among the witnesses.”

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

God Almighty tells us that He took a covenant from every prophet He sent from Adam, peace be upon him, to Jesus, peace be upon him, that no matter what book and wisdom God gave to one of them, and he reached any level, then a messenger came to him after him, he would believe in him and support him, and what he had of knowledge and prophethood would not prevent him from following and supporting whoever was sent after him. For this reason, God Almighty said, “And when God took a covenant from the prophets, ‘Whatever I give you of the Book and wisdom, then there comes to you a messenger confirming what is with you, you must believe in him and support him. He said, ‘Have you acknowledged and taken upon yourself My burden?’” Ibn Abbas, Mujahid, Ar-Rabi’ ibn Anas, Qatadah, and As-Suddi said, it means My covenant. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said, My burden means the weight of what you have carried of My covenant, meaning My strong and confirmed covenant. They said, We have acknowledged it. He said, “Then bear witness, and I am with you among the witnesses. But whoever turns away after that,” meaning from this covenant and covenant, then those are the wicked. Ali ibn Abu Talib and his cousin Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, said: God did not send a prophet from the prophets except that He took a covenant from him, that if God sent Muhammad while he was alive, they would believe in him and support him, and He ordered him to take a covenant from his nation, that if Muhammad was sent while they were alive, they would believe in him and support him. Tawus, Al-Hasan Al-Basri and Qatadah said: God took a covenant from the prophets that they would believe in each other, and this does not contradict what Ali and Ibn Abbas said nor does it negate it, rather it requires it and requires it, and for this reason Abd Al-Razzaq narrated from Muammar, from Ibn Tawus, from his father, like the saying of Ali and Ibn Abbas. Imam Ahmad said: Abd Al-Razzaq told us, Sufyan told us, from Jabir, from Al-Sha’bi, from Abdullah bin Thabit, who said: “Umar came to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: O Messenger of God, I passed by a brother of mine who was a Jew from Qurayza, and he wrote for me comprehensive verses from the Torah. Should I not present them to you?” He said, so the face of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, changed. Abdullah bin Thabit said, I said to him: Do you not see what is on the face of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace? Umar said: We are pleased with God as our Lord, with Islam as our religion, and with Muhammad as our Messenger. He said: So the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, was relieved and he said: By the One in Whose Hand is my soul, if Moses, peace be upon him, were to appear among you and you were to follow him and abandon me, you would go astray. You are my portion among the nations, and I am your portion among the prophets.

Another Hadith Al-Hafiz Abu Bakr said: Ishaq told us, Hammad told us, on the authority of Mujalid, on the authority of Al-Sha’bi, on the authority of Jabir, who said: “The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: ‘Do not ask the People of the Book about anything, for they will not guide you and they have gone astray. You will either believe in falsehood or deny the truth. By God, if Moses were alive among you, he would have no choice but to follow me.’” In some Hadiths it says: If Moses and Jesus were alive, they would have no choice but to follow me. So the Messenger Muhammad, the Seal of the Prophets, may God’s prayers and peace be upon him, will always remain until the Day of Judgment. He is the greatest Imam, and if he had existed in any era, he would have been the one whose obedience is obligatory and who is preferred over all the Prophets. For this reason, he was their Imam on the Night of the Isra’ when they gathered in the Holy House. Likewise, he is the intercessor on the Day of Resurrection when the Lord, may He be glorified and exalted, comes to decide the judgment between His servants. He is the praised station that is only befitting of Him, and from which the resolute prophets and messengers deviate until the turn comes to Him, and he is the one singled out for it, may God’s prayers and peace be upon him.

There is a difference of opinion regarding the interpretation of the Almighty’s saying 81- And when God took the covenant of the prophets. Saeed bin Jubair, Qatadah, Tawus, Al-Hasan and Al-Suddi said that God took the covenant of the prophets that they would believe in each other and command each other to do so. This is the meaning of supporting Him and believing in Him, and this is the apparent meaning of the verse. The gist of it is that God took the covenant of the first of the prophets to believe in what the other brought and support him. Al-Kisa’i said: It is possible that the meaning of And when God took the covenant of the prophets is: And when God took the covenant of those with the prophets. This is supported by the reading of Ibn Mas’ud: And when God took the covenant of those who were given the Scripture. It was said: There is an omission in the speech. The meaning is: And when God took the covenant of the prophets, that you will teach people what came to you of the Book and wisdom, and that you will take from people that they will believe. This omission is indicated by His saying: And you took upon yourselves My covenant for that. What is in His saying: When I gave you means that which. Sibawayh said: I asked Al-Khalil about his statement, And when God took a covenant from the prophets, 'When I gave you,' and he said: What means which. An-Nahhas said: The meaning in Al-Khalil's statement is what I gave you, then the ha' was deleted due to the length of the noun, and the lam is the lam of initiation, and Al-Akhfash said this, and what is in the nominative case as initiation, and its predicate is from the Book and Wisdom. His statement, Then it came to you, and what follows it is a sentence conjoined to the relative clause, and the pronoun is deleted, meaning it is believed in. Al-Mubarrad, Al-Zajaj, and Al-Kisa'i said: What is a conditional clause that the lam of verification entered upon, just as it enters upon in, and you shall surely believe in it is the answer to the oath, which is taking the covenant, as it is like an oath, as you say, I took your covenant that you shall do such-and-such, and it is the equivalent of the recompense. Al-Kisa'i said: The recompense is his statement, So whoever turns away. He said in Al-Kashshaf: The lam in his statement when I gave you is the lam of introduction and the lam in his statement you will surely believe is the answer to the oath, and what is possible is that it includes the meaning of the condition, and you will surely believe is the answer to the oath and the condition together, and that it is connected with the meaning of for that which I gave you so that you will surely believe in it. Hamza read when I gave you with a kasra on the lam and what means who and it is related to took. The people of Madinah read ataynakum as a sign of glorification. The rest read ataytukum as a singular. It was said: that what in the reading of those who read with a kasra on the lam is a source. Its meaning is: for the sake of my giving you some of the Book and wisdom, then for the coming of a Messenger confirming what is with you, and the lam is the lam of al-Sharh 94: that is, for that reason God took a covenant from those who were given the Book to believe in it. His statement you acknowledged is from acknowledgment. And Isr in the language means: heaviness, the covenant is called Isr because of the severity in it. The meaning is: and you took my covenant on that. His statement, They said, 'We acknowledge it,' is an introductory sentence, as if it was said: What did they say at that time? It was said: They said, 'We acknowledge it,' and none of them mentioned the burden because that was sufficient. His statement, He said, 'Then bear witness,' means that God Almighty said, "Then bear witness," meaning that some of them should bear witness against others. "And I am with you among the witnesses," meaning: I am among the witnesses to your admission and the testimony of some of you against others.

81- The Almighty said: "And when God took a covenant from the prophets, 'What I have given you of the Book and wisdom.' Hamza read when" with the necessary kasra, and the others read it with the fatha. Whoever breaks the lam, it is the lam of addition that entered upon what, and its meaning is that which he wants for what I have given you, that is: He took the covenant from the prophets for what He gave them of the Book and wisdom, meaning that they are the people of the laws. Whoever opens the lam, its meaning is: for what I have given you, in the sense of report. It was said: in the sense of reward, that is: if I give you and whatever I give you. The answer to the reward is His statement: "You will believe."

His saying: When I gave you Nafi' and the people of Medina read we gave you as an expression of glorification, just as he said: And We gave David the Psalms (An-Nisa': 163) And We gave him judgment when he was a boy (Surat Maryam 19:12). The others read with a ta' to match the script, and because of his saying: And I am with you.

They differed about the meaning of this verse: Some people went to the fact that God Almighty took a covenant from the prophets in particular that they would convey the Book of God and His messages to His servants, and that they would believe in each other, and He took a covenant from every prophet to believe in the prophets who would come after him, and to support him if he reached him, and if he did not reach him, to command his people to support him if they reached him, so He took the covenant from Moses to believe in Jesus, and from Jesus to believe in Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace.

(And others said: Because God took the covenant from them in the matter of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace), and on this they differed: Some of them said: He only took the covenant from the People of the Book from whom the prophets were sent, and this is the saying of Mujahid and Al-Rabi'. Do you not see his saying: Then there came to you a Messenger confirming what is with you, you must believe in him and support him, and Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, was sent to the People of the Book and not to the prophets, as indicated by the reading of Abdullah bin Mas'ud and Ubayy bin Ka'b: And when God took the covenant of those who were given the Scripture, and as for the well-known reading: And when God took the covenant of the prophets, he meant: God took the covenant of the prophets that they take the covenant from their nations to believe in Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and to believe in him and support him, if they catch up with him.

Some of them said: He meant that God took a covenant from the prophets and all their nations in the matter of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, so he was satisfied with mentioning the prophets because the covenant with the one being followed is a covenant with the followers, and this is the meaning of what Ibn Abbas said. Ali ibn Abi Talib said: God did not send a prophet, Adam and those after him, except that He took a covenant from him in the matter of Muhammad, and He took a covenant from his people to believe in him, and if he was sent while they were alive, they would support him.

His saying: Then there came to you a Messenger confirming what is with you, meaning: Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, that you may believe in him and support him, God Almighty says to the prophets when He extracted the offspring from the loins of Adam, peace be upon him, and the prophets among them were like lamps and lamps, and He took a covenant from them regarding the matter of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, He said: Have you acknowledged and taken upon yourselves My covenant, meaning: have you accepted upon yourselves My covenant, and the covenant is the heavy covenant, "They said: We have acknowledged," God Almighty said: Then bear witness, meaning: bear witness you against yourselves and against your followers, and I am with you among the witnesses, over you and over them, and Ibn Abbas said: bear witness, meaning: know, and Saeed bin Al-Musayyab said: God Almighty said to the angels: bear witness against them, as a metaphor for something not mentioned.

And [mention] when God took a covenant from the prophets, "Whatever I have given you of the Book and wisdom and then there comes to you a messenger confirming that which is with you, you must believe in him and support him." He said, "Have you acknowledged and taken upon yourself My covenant?" They said, "We have acknowledged." He said, "Then bear witness, and I am with you among the witnesses."

is either a dialect in it like 'abara and 'abara about the plural of isaar which is what is tightened with. They said, We acknowledged. He said, Then bear witness." meaning, let some of you bear witness to one another with the acknowledgment. Al-Hattāb said in "li-l-mala'iq. And I am with you among the witnesses." I am also a witness to your acknowledgment and your bearing witness, and it is a great emphasis and warning.

81 "And when God took a covenant from the prophets, 'Whatever I have given you of the Book and wisdom and then there comes to you a Messenger confirming what is with you, you must believe in him and support him.' " It was said that it is on its face value, and if this is the ruling of the prophets, then the nations are more deserving of it. It was said that its meaning is that God the Most High took the covenant from the prophets and their nations and dispensed with mentioning them instead of mentioning the nations. It was said that adding the covenant to the prophets is adding it to the subject, and the meaning is, and when God took the covenant that the prophets confirmed with their nations. It was said that what is meant is the children of the prophets with the deletion of the added, and they are the children of Israel, or He called them prophets in mockery because they used to say, "We are more deserving of prophethood than Muhammad because we are the people of the Book and the prophets were from us. The lam in lama" is used for an oath because taking the covenant means swearing, and what is possible is the conditional and you must believe, it is the answer to the oath and the condition and it is possible for the report. Hamza read "lamma with a kasra on the basis that lamma is a source, meaning because of my giving you some of you the Book, then the coming of a messenger confirming him, God took the covenant that you should believe in him and support him", or it is a relative pronoun meaning God took it for what I gave you and a messenger came to you confirming him. "lamma was read with the meaning when I gave you, or for the sake of what I gave you, on the basis that its origin is lamma" with assimilation, so one of the three meems was deleted due to the difficulty. Nafi' read "ataynakum" with a nun and an alif together. "He said, Did you acknowledge and take upon yourself My covenant for that? meaning My pledge, it was named thus because it is called yasir, meaning it tightens. It was read with a damma, which

Surat Al Imran 3:82

But whoever turns away after that - then it is those who are the wicked.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

So whoever turns away rejects after that the covenant then those are the wicked

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: By that, may His praise be glorified, He means: So whoever turns away from belief in My messengers whom I sent to confirm what was with My prophets of books and wisdom, and from supporting them, and turns away and does not believe in that, and does not support, and breaks his covenant and pact, after that, meaning after the covenant and pact that God took from him, they are the wicked, meaning by that: Those who turn away from belief in the messengers whose matter was described, and supporting them after the covenant and pact that God took from them, they are the wicked, meaning by that: those who have departed from the religion of God and the obedience of their Lord, as:

Al-Muthanna told us, he said, Ishaq told us, he said, Abdullah bin Hashim told us, he said, Saif bin Omar told us, on the authority of Abu Rawq, on the authority of Abu Ayoub, on the authority of Ali bin Abi Talib: Whoever turns away from you, O Muhammad, after this covenant from all nations, they are the wicked, they are the disobedient in disbelief.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Ishaq told us, he said, Ibn Abi Ja'far told us, on the authority of his father - Abu Ja'far said: meaning Al-Razi - But whoever turns away after that meaning after the covenant and pledge that was taken from them, then those are the wicked.

It was narrated on the authority of Ammar, who said: Ibn Abi Ja'far narrated to us, [on the authority of his father], on the authority of al-Rabi', similarly.

Abu Ja'far said: And these two verses, even though the source of the report of them is from God Almighty, with what He informed that He bore witness and took a covenant from those who took a covenant with Him, from His prophets and messengers, then what is intended by it is to inform those who were around the migration of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, from the Jews of the Children of Israel during the days of his life, may God bless him and grant him peace, about what God had taken from them of the covenant and pacts in belief in the prophethood of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and the meaning [of it] is to remind them of what God had taken from their fathers and ancestors of covenants and pacts, and what the prophets of God had known and preceded them in believing in Him, following Him, and supporting Him against those who opposed Him and denied Him, and to inform them of what is in the books of God, which He sent down to His prophets whom He sent to them, of His description and His sign.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

(of) is a condition. So whoever among the nations of the prophets turned away from the faith after taking the covenant, they are the wicked, meaning those who have departed from the faith. And the wicked is the one who has departed. And it has been mentioned before.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

God Almighty tells us that He took a covenant from every prophet He sent from Adam, peace be upon him, to Jesus, peace be upon him, that no matter what book and wisdom God gave to one of them, and he reached any level, then a messenger came to him after him, he would believe in him and support him, and what he had of knowledge and prophethood would not prevent him from following and supporting whoever was sent after him. For this reason, God Almighty said, "And when God took a covenant from the prophets, 'Whatever I give you of the Book and wisdom, then there comes to you a messenger confirming what is with you, you must believe in him and support him. He said, 'Have you acknowledged and taken upon yourself My burden?'" Ibn Abbas, Mujahid, Ar-Rabi' ibn Anas, Qatadah, and As-Suddi said, it means My covenant. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said, My burden means the weight of what you have carried of My covenant, meaning My strong and confirmed covenant. They said, We have acknowledged it. He said, "Then bear witness, and I am with you among the witnesses. But whoever turns away after that," meaning from this covenant and covenant, then those are the wicked. Ali ibn Abi Talib and his cousin Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, said: God did not send a prophet from the prophets except that He took a covenant from him, that if God sent Muhammad while he was alive, they would believe in him and support him, and He ordered him to take a covenant from his nation, that if Muhammad was sent while they were alive, they would believe in him and support him. Tawus, Al-Hasan Al-Basri and Qatadah said: God took a covenant from the prophets that they would believe in each other, and this does not contradict what Ali and Ibn Abbas said nor does it negate it, rather it requires it and requires it, and for this reason Abd Al-Razzaq narrated from Muammar, from Ibn Tawus, from his father, like the saying of Ali and Ibn Abbas. Imam Ahmad said: Abd Al-Razzaq told us, Sufyan told us, from Jabir, from Al-Sha'bi, from Abdullah bin Thabit, who said: "Umar came to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: O Messenger of God, I passed by a brother of mine who was a Jew from Qurayza, and he wrote for me comprehensive verses from the Torah. Should I not present them to you?" He said, so the face of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, changed. Abdullah bin Thabit said, I said to him: Do you not see what is on the face of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace? Umar said: We are pleased with God as our Lord, with Islam as our religion, and with Muhammad as our Messenger. He said: So the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, was relieved and he said: By the One in Whose Hand is my soul, if Moses, peace be upon him, were to appear among you and you were to follow him and abandon me, you would go astray. You are my portion among the nations, and I am your portion among the prophets.

But whoever turns away after that - then it is those who are the wicked.

Another Hadith Al-Hafiz Abu Bakr said: Ishaq told us, Hammad told us, on the authority of Mujalid, on the authority of Al-Sha'bi, on the authority of Jabir, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Do not ask the People of the Book about anything, for they will not guide you and they have gone astray. You will either believe in falsehood or deny the truth. By God, if Moses were alive among you, he would have no choice but to follow me.'" In some Hadiths it says: If Moses and Jesus were alive, they would have no choice but to follow me. So the Messenger Muhammad, the Seal of the Prophets, may God's prayers and peace be upon him, will always remain until the Day of Judgment. He is the greatest Imam, and if he had existed in any era, he would have been the one whose obedience is obligatory and who is preferred over all the Prophets. For this reason, he was their Imam on the Night of the Isra' when they gathered in the Holy House. Likewise, he is the intercessor on the Day of Resurrection when the Lord, may He be glorified and exalted, comes to decide the judgment between His servants. He is the praised station that is only befitting of Him, and from which the resolute prophets and messengers deviate until the turn comes to Him, and he is the one singled out for it, may God's prayers and peace be upon him.

His saying 82- So whoever turns away meaning turns away from what was mentioned after that covenant they are the wicked meaning: those who are outside of obedience.

Ibn Jarir, Ibn Al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Saeed bin Jubair who said: I said to Ibn Abbas: The companions of Abdullah used to recite: "And when God took a covenant from those who were given the Scripture, 'When I have given you a Book and wisdom,' but we recite: "The covenant of the prophets." Ibn Abbas said: God only took a covenant from the prophets from their people. Abd Al-Razzaq, Ibn Jarir, Ibn Al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Tawus regarding the verse, he said: God took a covenant from the prophets that they would believe in each other. Abd bin Hamid, Ibn Jarir and Ibn Al-Mundhir narrated on the authority of Mujahid regarding his statement: And when God took a covenant from the prophets, he said: It is a mistake in the book, and in Ibn Masoud's reading it is the covenant of those who were given the Scripture. Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of Ali who said: God did not send a prophet, Adam or anyone after him, except that He took a covenant from him regarding Muhammad that if he was sent while he was alive, he would believe in him and support him and command him to take a covenant from his people, then he recited: And when God took a covenant from the prophets the verse. Ibn Jarir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Al-Suddi regarding the verse something similar. Ibn Jarir and Ibn Al-Mundhir narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas something similar. Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of Al-Awfi on his authority regarding his statement, My covenant, he said: My covenant. Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of Ali regarding his statement, He said, 'Then bear witness,' he said: So bear witness against your nations regarding that, and I am with you among the witnesses, against you and against them, But whoever turns away, from you, O Muhammad, after this covenant from all nations, they are the wicked, they are the disobedient in disbelief.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

82- But whoever turns away after that, the acknowledgment, then those are the wicked, that is, the disobedient ones who have left the faith.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

82 But whoever turns away after that after the covenant, confirmation, acknowledgment, and testimony. Then those are the wicked the rebellious unbelievers.

Surat Al Imran 3:83

Is it other than the religion of God that they seek, while to Him have submitted [all] those within the heavens and the earth, willingly or by compulsion, and to Him they will be returned?

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

Do they seek other than the religion of God with the letter ya and the letter ta, meaning the followers while to Him has submitted obeyed whoever is in the heavens and the earth, willingly without refusal and by compulsion with the sword and witnessing what he resorts to and to Him you will be returned with the letter ta and the letter ya and the hamza at the beginning of the verse for denial

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: The readings differed in the reading of that: the majority of the readers of the Hijaz from Mecca and Medina, and the readers of Kufa read: Do you seek other than the religion of God, and to Him you will be returned, in the form of address.

Some of the people of Hijaz read it as Do they seek other than the religion of God? and And to Him they will return with both ya's, as a report on the absent.

Some of the people of Basra read it as: Do they seek other than the religion of God? as a statement about the absent person, and to Him you will be returned, with the letter ta as a direct address.

Abu Ja'far said: The most correct of these is the reading of those who read: Do you then seek other than the religion of God? as a direct address, and to Him you will be returned, with the letter ta'. Because the verse before it is an address to them, so following the address with its counterpart is more appropriate than diverting the speech to something other than its counterpart. Even though the other interpretation is permissible, for what we have mentioned before: that the narration sometimes brings out the speech with it as a whole address, and sometimes as a report about the absent, and sometimes some of it as an address, and some of it as an absent, so his saying: You seek and to Him you will be returned in this verse is from that.

The interpretation of the statement: O people of the Book, do you seek other than the religion of God? He says: Do you seek and desire other than the obedience of God? And to Him submits whoever is in the heavens and the earth, He says: And to Him submits whoever is in the heavens and the earth, so they submit to Him in worship, and acknowledge His uniqueness of Lordship, and submit to Him in sincerity of monotheism and divinity, willingly or by compulsion, He says whoever among them submits to Him by obedience, submits to God willingly, and that is like the angels, prophets, and messengers, for they submitted to God willingly, or by compulsion, whoever among them was by compulsion.

The interpreters differed about the meaning and description of the Islam of one who hates Islam.

Some of them said: His Islam is his acknowledgment that God is his Creator and Lord, even if he associates others with Him in worship.

Who said that?

Abu Kuraib told us, he said, Waki' told us, on the authority of Sufyan, on the authority of Mansur, on the authority of Mujahid: And to Him submits whoever is in the heavens and the earth. He said: It is like His saying: And if you ask them, 'Who created the heavens and the earth?' they will surely say, 'God.' (al-Zumar 39:38)

Muhammad bin Bashar told us, he said, Abu Ahmad told us, he said, Sufyan told us, on the authority of Mansur, on the authority of Mujahid, similarly.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Ishaq told us, he said, Ibn Abi Ja'far told us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-Rabi', on the authority of Abu Al-'Aliyah, regarding His statement: And to Him submits whoever is in the heavens and the earth, willingly or by compulsion, and to Him they will be returned, he said: Every human being has acknowledged upon himself that God is my Lord and I am His servant. So whoever associates others with Him in worship, this is the one who has submitted unwillingly, and whoever sincerely worships Him, he is the one who has submitted willingly.

Others said: Rather, the conversion of the one who was reluctant among them to Islam was when the covenant was taken from him and he acknowledged it.

Who said that?

Abu Kuraib told us, he said, Wakee' told us, on the authority of Sufyan, on the authority of Al-A'mash, on the authority of Mujahid, on the authority of Ibn Abbas: And to Him submits whoever is in the heavens and the earth, willingly or by compulsion, he said: When the covenant was taken.

Others said: By the Islam of the one who hates them, he meant the prostration of his shadow.

Who said that?

Suwar bin Abdullah told us, he said, Al-Mu'tamir bin Sulayman told us, on the authority of Layth, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding the statement of God Almighty: And to Him submits whoever is in the heavens and the earth, willingly or by compulsion, he said: The obedient one is the believer, and by compulsion is the shadow of the disbeliever.

Muhammad bin Amr told me, he said: Abu Asim told us, he said: Isa told us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding his statement: willingly or unwillingly, he said: The prostration of the believer is voluntary, and the prostration of the disbeliever is unwilling.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Abu Hudhayfah told us, he said, Shibl told us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid: Unwillingly, he said: The prostration of the believer willingly, and the prostration of the shadow of the unbeliever while he is unwilling.

Is it other than the religion of God that they seek, while to Him have submitted [all] those within the heavens and the earth, willingly or by compulsion, and to Him they will be returned?

Al-Qasim told us, he said, Al-Hussein told us, he said, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, on the authority of Abdullah bin Katheer, on the authority of Mujahid, who said: His face prostrates willingly, and his shadow is unwillingly.

Others said: Rather, his Islam is in his heart in the will of God, and his submission to His command, even if he denies His divinity with his tongue.

Who said that?

Abu Kuraib told us, he said, Waki` told us, on the authority of Israel, on the authority of Jabir, on the authority of Amer: And to Him submits whoever is in the heavens and the earth, he said: They all seek retribution for Him.

Others said: He meant by that the conversion of those who converted unwillingly, fearing the sword for themselves.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Sinan told me, he said, Abu Bakr al-Hanafi told us, he said, Ibad bin Mansur told us, on the authority of al-Hasan, regarding his statement: And to Him submits whoever is in the heavens and the earth, willingly or by compulsion, the entire verse, he said: Some people were forced to Islam, and some people came willingly.

Al-Hasan bin Qaz'ah Al-Bahili told me, he said, Ruh bin Ata' told us, on the authority of Matar Al-Warraq, regarding the words of God Almighty: And to Him submits whoever is in the heavens and the earth, willingly or by compulsion, and to Him they will be returned, he said: The angels willingly, the Ansar willingly, Banu Salim and Abd Al-Qais willingly, and all people unwillingly.

Others said that this means that the people of faith converted voluntarily, and that the unbeliever converted in a state of witnessing, when his conversion would not benefit him, out of force.

Who said that?

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, his statement: Do you seek other than the religion of God? The verse: As for the believer, he converted willingly, so that benefited him and was accepted from him. As for the disbeliever, he converted reluctantly when that did not benefit him, nor was it accepted from him.

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said, Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said, Muammar told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: And to Him submits whoever is in the heavens and the earth, willingly or by compulsion, he said: As for the believer, he submitted willingly, and as for the disbeliever, he submitted when he saw the wrath of God, But their faith did not benefit them when they saw Our wrath (Ghafir 40:85).

Others said: The meaning of this is: the worship of creation to God Almighty.

Who said that?

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Abdullah bin Saleh told us, he said, Muawiyah told me, on the authority of Ali, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding his statement: Do they seek other than the religion of God, while to Him have submitted [all] those within the heavens and the earth, willingly or by compulsion? He said: Their worship of Me, all of them, willingly or by compulsion, and this is His statement: And to God prostrates whoever is within the heavens and the earth, willingly or by compulsion (Al-Ra'd: 15).

As for his statement: And to Him you will return, he means: And to Him, O group of those who seek a religion other than Islam, from the Jews, Christians, and all other people, you will return. He says: To Him you will go after your death, so He will reward you for your deeds, the good among you for his goodness, and the evildoer for his evil.

This is from God Almighty, warning His creation that none of them should return to Him and become a follower of a religion other than Islam after his death.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

The Almighty said: Do they seek other than the religion of God? Al-Kalbi said: Ka'b bin Al-Ashraf and his companions argued with the Christians before the Prophet, peace and blessings of God be upon him, and they said: Which of us has more right to the religion of Abraham? The Prophet, peace and blessings of God be upon him, said: Both groups are innocent of his religion. They said: We are not satisfied with your judgment and we do not accept your religion. Then, Do they seek other than the religion of God? was revealed, meaning they seek. And the subject of ghair was made yabughun, meaning they seek other than the religion of God. Abu Amr alone read yabughun with the ya' as a predicate and to him you return with the ta' as a second person addressee. He said: Because the first is specific and the second is general, so they were distinguished because of their difference in meaning. Hafs and others read yabughun and yaji'un with the ya' in both, because of His statement: Then those are the transgressors. The rest read with the ta' in both as an address, because of His statement: For what I have given you of the Book and wisdom. And God knows best.

The Almighty said: And to Him I submit meaning I surrender, submit, obey, and humble myself. Every creature is submissive and obedient, because it is created with something that it cannot escape. Qatada said: The believer submits willingly, and the disbeliever submits unwillingly when he dies, and that does not benefit him, because of His saying: So their faith did not benefit them when they saw Our punishment.

Mujahid said: The conversion of the infidel to Islam is unwilling because he prostrates to other than God and his shadow prostrates to God. Have they not seen what God has created of things, whose shadows extend to the right and the left, prostrating to God, while they are humbled? "And to God prostrates whoever is in the heavens and the earth, willingly or by compulsion, and so do their shadows in the mornings and the evenings." It was said: The meaning is that God created creation as He wanted from them, so among them are the handsome and the ugly, the tall and the short, the healthy and the sick, and all of them are obedient by necessity. The healthy is obedient and obedient, loving that, and the sick is obedient and submissive, even if he is unwilling. Obedience is submission and following with ease. Unwillingness is that which is with difficulty and refusal from the soul. Willingly and by compulsion are two sources in the place of the state, meaning obedient and compelled. Anas bin Malik narrated that he said:

The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said regarding the Almighty's words: And to Him submits whoever is in the heavens and the earth, willingly or by compulsion, he said, The angels obeyed him in the heavens, and the Ansar and Abd al-Qais on the earth. And he, peace be upon him, said:

Do not curse my companions, for my companions submitted out of fear of God, and the people submitted out of fear of the sword. Ikrimah said: Willingly is the one who submitted without argument, and unwillingly is the one who was forced by the argument to monotheism. This is indicated by the words of God the Almighty: And if you ask them who created them, they will surely say, 'God.' "And if you ask them, who created the heavens and the earth and subjected the sun and the moon, they will surely say, 'God.'" Al-Hasan said: It is a general meaning with a specific meaning. And from him: All those in the heavens submitted, and the speech was completed. Then he said: And the earth, willingly or unwillingly. He said: The hypocrite who is unwilling will not benefit from his deeds. Willingly or unwillingly are two sources in the place of the state. On the authority of Mujahid, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, he said: If one of your animals finds it difficult or it is a sun, then let him recite in its ear this verse: Is it other than the religion of God that they seek, while to Him submits all who are in the heavens and the earth, willingly or unwillingly? to the end of the verse.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The Almighty says, denying whoever wants a religion other than the religion of God, with which He sent His books and with which He sent His messengers, which is the worship of God alone, with no partner for Him, to whom everyone in the heavens and the earth submits, meaning everyone in them submits to Him willingly or unwillingly, as God the Almighty says: And to God prostrates whoever is in the heavens and the earth, willingly or unwillingly, the verse, and God the Almighty says: "Have they not seen what God has created of things? They turn their shadows to the right and the left, prostrating to God, and they are humbled.

And to God prostrates whatever is in the heavens and whatever is on the earth of creatures, and the angels, and they are not arrogant. They fear their Lord above them and do what they are commanded." So the believer submits with his heart and body to God, and the disbeliever submits to God unwillingly, for he is under subjugation, coercion, and the great authority that does not oppose or resist. A hadith was reported in the interpretation of this verse with another meaning that is strange, so Al-Hafiz Abu Al-Qasim Al-Tabarani said: Ahmad bin Al-Nadr Al-Askari told us, Saeed bin Hafs Al-Nufaili told us, Muhammad bin Muhsin Al-Akashi told us, Al-Awza'i told us, on the authority of Ata bin Abi Rabah, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, And to Him submits everyone in the heavens and the earth, willingly or unwillingly. "As for those in the heavens, they are the angels, and as for those on the earth, they are those who were born as Muslims, and as for those who were unwillingly, they are those who were brought from the captives of the nations in chains and shackles, they are led to Paradise unwillingly." It was mentioned in Sahih: Your Lord is amazed at a people who are led to Paradise in chains. And there will be evidence for it from another source, but the first meaning of the verse is stronger. Waki' said in his interpretation: Sufyan told us, on the authority of Mansur, on the authority of Mujahid, And to Him submits whoever is in the heavens and the earth, willingly or by compulsion. He said: It is like His saying: And if you ask them who created the heavens and the earth, they will surely say, 'God.' He also said: Sufyan told us, on the authority of Al-A'mash, on the authority of Mujahid, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, And to Him submits whoever is in the heavens and the earth, willingly or by compulsion. He said: When the covenant was taken, And to Him they will be returned, meaning on the Day of Resurrection, when He will reward each one according to his deeds. Then God the Almighty said: Say, 'We believe in God and what was revealed to us,' meaning the Qur'an, "and what was revealed to Abraham, Ishmael, Isaac, and Jacob," meaning of the scriptures and revelation, "and the tribes, meaning the clans of the Children of Israel branching off from the twelve sons of Israel, who is Jacob, and what was given to Moses and Jesus, meaning by that the Torah. The Gospel, And the prophets are from their Lord, and this includes all the prophets. The phrase We make no distinction between any of them means: Rather, we believe in all of them, and we are Muslims to Him. So the believers of this nation believe in every prophet who was sent, and in every book that was revealed. They do not disbelieve in any of that, rather they believe in what was revealed from God, and in every prophet that God sent.

Then God Almighty said: And whoever desires other than Islam as religion - never will it be accepted from him verse, meaning whoever follows a path other than what God has prescribed, it will not be accepted from him and he, in the Hereafter, will be among the losers as the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said in the authentic hadith: Whoever does an action that is not in accordance with our command, it will be rejected. Imam Ahmad said: Abu Saeed, the client of Banu Hashim, told us, Ibad bin Rashid told us, Al-Hasan told us, Abu Hurairah told us at that time while we were in Madinah, he said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "On the Day of Resurrection, deeds will come, and prayer will come and say: O Lord, I am prayer, and He will say: You are on good. Charity will come and say: O Lord, I am charity, and He will say: You are on good. Then fasting will come and say: O Lord, I am fasting, and He will say: You are on good. Then deeds will come, and God, the Most High, will say: You are on good. Then Islam will come and say: O Lord, You are peace and I am Islam, and God, the Most High, will say: You are on good. Today I take and through you I give. God said in His Book: 'And whoever desires a religion other than Islam - never will it be accepted of him, and he, in the Hereafter, will be among the losers.'" Ahmad alone transmitted it. Abu Abd al-Rahman Abdullah bin al-Imam Ahmad said: Ibad bin Rashid is trustworthy, but al-Hasan did not hear it from Abu Hurairah.

Is it other than the religion of God that they seek, while to Him have submitted [all] those within the heavens and the earth, willingly or by compulsion, and to Him they will be returned?

Fath al-Qadir

His statement 83- Afghair is in apposition to an implied word, meaning: Do you turn away and seek other than the religion of God? The object is brought forward because it is the intended meaning of the denial. Abu Amr alone read Yabghoon with a lower case and Tarajoon with a higher case. He said: Because the first is specific and the second is general, so a distinction was made between them due to their difference in meaning. Hafs read with a lower case in both instances. The rest read with a higher case in both instances, and Ta'wil wa-Khara was in the accusative case as a state, meaning willingly and under duress. Ta'wil means submission and following with ease, and Khara means that which involves hardship, and it is from someone who became Muslim for fear of being killed, and his Islam is his surrender from him.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

83- The Almighty said: Do they seek other than the religion of God? That is because "the People of the Book differed and each one claimed that he followed the religion of Abraham, peace be upon him, and they disputed before the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Both groups are innocent of the religion of Abraham, peace be upon him, so they became angry and said: We are not satisfied with your judgment and we do not accept your religion, so God, the Almighty, revealed: "Do they seek other than the religion of God? Abu Ja'far, the people of Basra, and Hafs from Asim read Yabghun with the letter ya" because of the Almighty's saying: "And those are the wicked. The others read with the letter ta" because of the Almighty's saying: "When I gave you, and to Him submitted, whoever is in the heavens and the earth, willingly or unwillingly," so obedience means submission and following with ease, and unwillingness means what is difficult and with refusal from the soul.

They differed regarding his statement, willingly or unwillingly. Al-Hasan said: The people of the heavens submitted willingly, and those on the earth submitted, some of them willingly and some of them unwillingly, for fear of the sword and captivity. Mujahid said: The believer willingly, and the disbeliever unwillingly, as evidenced by: And to God prostrates whoever is in the heavens and the earth, willingly or unwillingly, and so do their shadows in the mornings and the evenings. (al-Ra'd 13:15). It was said: This is the Day of the Covenant when He said to them: Am I not your Lord? They said: Yes. (al-A'raf 7:172). Some of them said: Willingly, and some of them: Unwillingly. Qatada said: The believer submitted willingly, so it benefited him, while the disbeliever submitted unwillingly at the time of battle, so it did not benefit him. God Almighty said: So their faith did not benefit them when they saw Our punishment. (Ghafir 40:85). Al-Sha'bi said: It is their seeking refuge in Him when they were forced, as God Almighty said: And when they embark on a ship, they supplicate God, devoting their religion to Him alone. (al-Ankabut 29:172) -65).

Al-Kalbi said: Willingly, he who was born into Islam, and unwillingly, he who was forced to convert to Islam, from among those who were taken captive and brought in chains, "and to Him they will return. Hafs read with a ya' from Asim and Ya'qub, just as he read yabghūn with a ya', and the rest read with a ta' in both of them, except for Abu Amr, who read yabghūn with a ya' and tarjūn with a ta', and he said: Because the first is specific and the second is general, because the return of all creation is to God Almighty.

83 "Do they seek other than the religion of God? is in apposition to the previous sentence, and the hamza is between them for denial, or something is omitted, meaning Do you turn to God and seek other than the religion of God?" The object is presented because it is the intended meaning of the denial, and the verb is in the third person according to Abu Amr and Asim in the narration of Hafs and Ya'qub, and with the ta' according to the rest, based on the estimation of "and say to him. And to Him submits whoever is in the heavens and the earth, willingly or by compulsion." That is, willingly by looking and following the argument, and reluctantly by the sword and witnessing what compels one to Islam, such as moving a mountain, realizing drowning, and looming over death. Or chosen like the angels and believers, and subjugated like the disbelievers, for they are not able to refrain from what He has decreed for them. "And to Him they will be returned." It was read with the ya', so that the pronoun refers to whoever.

Surat Al Imran 3:84

Say, "We believe in God and what was revealed to us and what was revealed to Abraham and Ishmael and Isaac and Jacob and the Tribes and what was given to Moses and Jesus and the prophets from their Lord. We make no distinction between any of them, and we are Muslims [in submission] to Him."

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

Say to them, O Muhammad, We believe in God and what was revealed to us and what was revealed to Abraham, Ishmael, Isaac, Jacob, and the Tribes his sons (and what was given to Moses and Jesus and the prophets from their Lord. We make no distinction between any of them) in belief or denial and we are Muslims [in submission] to Him sincere in worship. And it was revealed about those who apostatized and joined the infidels:

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: By that, may His praise be exalted, He means: Do you seek other than the religion of God, O group of Jews, while to Him has submitted whoever is in the heavens and the earth, willingly or by compulsion, and to Him you will be returned? So if they seek other than the religion of God, O Muhammad, then say to them: We believe in God. So He left out mentioning His statement: If they say: Yes, or He mentioned His statement: If they seek other than the religion of God, because of the evidence of what appeared in the speech on that.

And His saying: "Say: We believe in God," meaning: Say to them, O Muhammad: We believe in God that He is our Lord and our God, there is no god but Him, and we do not worship anyone other than Him, and what was revealed to us, meaning: And say: And we also believe in what was revealed to us of His revelation and sending down, so we acknowledged it, and what was revealed to Abraham, meaning: And we also believe in what was revealed to Abraham, the friend of God, and to his sons Ishmael and Isaac, and his grandson Jacob, and what was revealed to the tribes, who are the twelve children of Jacob, and we have explained their names in a way that makes it unnecessary to repeat it in this place, and what was given to Moses and Jesus, meaning: And we also believe with that in what God revealed to Moses and Jesus of the books and revelation, and in what was revealed to the prophets from Him.

And what God gave to Moses and Jesus, from what God Almighty commanded Muhammad to believe in and have faith in, is the Torah that He gave to Moses, and the Gospel that He gave to Jesus.

We make no distinction between any of them, meaning: We do not believe some of them and disbelieve others, nor do we have faith in some of them and disbelieve in others, just as the Jews and Christians disbelieved in some of God's prophets and believed in others. Rather, we believe in all of them and believe in them. And we are Muslims [in submission] to Him, meaning: We profess Islam to God and do not profess anything other than Him. Rather, we disavow to Him every religion other than Him, and every creed other than Him.

What he means by his saying: And we are Muslims to Him, is that we are submissive to Him in obedience, humbled in servitude, acknowledging His divinity and lordship, and that there is no god but Him. We have mentioned the narration with the meaning of what we said about that previously, and we dislike repeating it.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

"Say, 'We believe in God and what was revealed to us and what was revealed to Abraham, Ishmael, Isaac, Jacob, and the Tribes, and what was given to Moses, Jesus, and the prophets from their Lord. We make no distinction between any of them, and we are Muslims [in submission] to Him.'"

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The Almighty says, denying whoever wants a religion other than the religion of God, with which He sent His books and with which He sent His messengers, which is the worship of God alone, with no partner for Him, to whom everyone in the heavens and the earth submits, meaning everyone in them submits to Him willingly or unwillingly, as God the Almighty says: And to God prostrates whoever is in the heavens and the earth, willingly or unwillingly, the verse, and God the Almighty says: "Have they not seen what God has created of things? They turn their shadows to the right and the left, prostrating to God, and they are humbled. And to God prostrates whatever is in the heavens and whatever is on the earth of creatures, and the angels, and they are not arrogant. They fear their Lord above them and do what they are commanded." So the believer submits with his heart and body to God, and the disbeliever submits to God unwillingly, for he is under subjugation, coercion, and the great authority that does not oppose or resist. A hadith was reported in the interpretation of this verse with another meaning that is strange, so Al-Hafiz Abu Al-Qasim Al-Tabarani said: Ahmad bin Al-Nadr Al-Askari told us, Saeed bin Hafs Al-Nufaili told us, Muhammad bin Muhsin Al-Akashi told us, Al-Awza'i told us, on the authority of Ata bin Abi Rabah, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, And to Him submits everyone in the heavens and the earth, willingly or unwillingly. "As for those in the heavens, they are the angels, and as for those on the earth, they are those who were born as Muslims, and as for those who were unwillingly, they are those who were brought from the captives of the nations in chains and shackles, they are led to Paradise unwillingly." It was mentioned in Sahih: Your Lord is amazed at a people who are led to Paradise in chains. And there will be evidence for it from another source, but the first meaning of the verse is stronger. Waki' said in his interpretation: Sufyan told us, on the authority of Mansur, on the authority of Mujahid, And to Him submits whoever is in the heavens and the earth, willingly or by compulsion. He said: It is like His saying: And if you ask them who created the heavens and the earth, they will surely say, 'God.' He also said: Sufyan told us, on the authority of Al-A'mash, on the authority of Mujahid, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, And to Him submits whoever is in the heavens and the earth, willingly or by compulsion. He said: When the covenant was taken, And to Him they will be returned, meaning on the Day of Resurrection, when He will reward each one according to his deeds. Then God the Almighty said: Say, 'We believe in God and what was revealed to us,' meaning the Qur'an, "and what was revealed to Abraham, Ishmael, Isaac, and Jacob," meaning of the scriptures and revelation, "and the tribes, meaning the clans of the Children of Israel branching off from the twelve sons of Israel, who is Jacob, and what was given to Moses and Jesus, meaning by that the Torah. The Gospel, And the prophets are from their Lord, and this includes all the prophets. The phrase We make no distinction between any of them means: Rather, we believe in all of them, and we are Muslims to Him. So the believers of this nation believe in every prophet who was sent, and in every book that was revealed. They do not disbelieve in any of that, rather they believe in what was revealed from God, and in every prophet that God sent.

Say, "We believe in God and what was revealed to us and what was revealed to Abraham and Ishmael and Isaac and Jacob and the Tribes and what was given to Moses and Jesus and the prophets from their Lord. We make no distinction between any of them, and we are Muslims [in submission] to Him."

Then God Almighty said: And whoever desires other than Islam as religion - never will it be accepted from him verse, meaning whoever follows a path other than what God has prescribed, it will not be accepted from him and he, in the Hereafter, will be among the losers as the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said in the authentic hadith: Whoever does an action that is not in accordance with our command, it will be rejected. Imam Ahmad said: Abu Saeed, the client of Banu Hashim, told us, Ibad bin Rashid told us, Al-Hasan told us, Abu Hurairah told us at that time while we were in Madinah, he said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "On the Day of Resurrection, deeds will come, and prayer will come and say: O Lord, I am prayer, and He will say: You are on good. Charity will come and say: O Lord, I am charity, and He will say: You are on good. Then fasting will come and say: O Lord, I am fasting, and He will say: You are on good. Then deeds will come, and God, the Most High, will say: You are on good. Then Islam will come and say: O Lord, You are peace and I am Islam, and God, the Most High, will say: You are on good. Today I take and through you I give. God said in His Book: 'And whoever desires a religion other than Islam - never will it be accepted of him, and he, in the Hereafter, will be among the losers.'" Ahmad alone transmitted it. Abu Abd al-Rahman Abdullah bin al-Imam Ahmad said: Ibad bin Rashid is trustworthy, but al-Hasan did not hear it from Abu Hurairah.

Fath al-Qadir

His statement 84- We believe is a statement from him, may God bless him and grant him peace, about himself and his nation. We make no distinction between any of them, just as the Jews and Christians made distinctions, believing in some and disbelieving in others. The interpretation of this verse has already been presented. And we are Muslims to Him, meaning: obedient and sincere.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

84- The Almighty said: "Say, 'We believe in God and what was revealed to us and what was revealed to Abraham, Ishmael, Isaac, Jacob, and the Tribes, and what was given to Moses, Jesus, and the prophets from their Lord. We make no distinction between any of them, and we are Muslims [in submission] to Him.'" He mentioned the religions and sects and the confusion of people in them, then he ordered the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, to say, We believe in God, the verse.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

84 "Say: We believe in God and what was revealed to us and what was revealed to Abraham, Ishmael, Isaac, Jacob, and the Tribes, and what was given to Moses, Jesus, and the prophets from their Lord." An order to the Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, to inform about himself and his followers with faith, and the Qur'an as it was revealed to him through the mediation of its delivery to them, and also what is attributed to one of the group may be attributed to them, or to speak about itself in the manner of kings out of reverence for it, and the revelation as it is transitive with ila because it ends with the messengers is transitive with ala because it is from above, and the one who was sent down to him, peace be upon him, was presented before the one sent down to the rest of the messengers because he is the one who is known and the standard is upon him We make no distinction between any of them in belief and denial. And we are Muslims to Him obedient or sincere in his worship.

Surat Al Imran 3:85

And whoever desires other than Islam as religion - never will it be accepted from him, and he, in the Hereafter, will be among the losers.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And whoever desires other than Islam as religion - never will it be accepted from him, and he, in the Hereafter, will be among the losers because he will be destined for the Fire that is being supported against him.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: By that, may His praise be glorified, He means: And whoever seeks a religion other than the religion of Islam to follow it, God will not accept it from him, and in the Hereafter he will be among the losers, meaning: among those who deprive themselves of their share of God Almighty's mercy.

He mentioned that the people of every religion claimed that they were the Muslims, when this verse was revealed, so God commanded them to perform Hajj if they were truthful, because Hajj is part of the Sunnah of Islam, but they refused, so God thus refuted their argument.

The report mentioned that:

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Abu Hudhayfah told us, he said, Shibl told us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, he said, Ikrimah claimed: And whoever desires other than Islam as religion - never will it be accepted from him. The Jews said: So we are the Muslims! So God Almighty revealed: And Hajj to the House is a duty that mankind owes to God - those who can afford the expenses for one's expenses. And whoever disbelieves - then indeed, God is free from need of the worlds." (Al Imran 3:97), so the Muslims performed Hajj, and the disbelievers stayed away.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Al-Qa'nabi told me, he said, Sufyan told us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Ikrimah, he said: And whoever desires other than Islam as religion - never will it be accepted from him. The Jews said: So we are the Muslims! So God, the Almighty, revealed to His Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, urging them to perform Hajj: And Hajj to the House is a duty that mankind owes to God - those who can afford the expenses for one's journey. But whoever disbelieves - then indeed, God is free from need of the worlds." (Al Imran 3:97)

Yunus told me, he said, Sufyan told us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Ikrimah, he said: When the verse: And whoever desires other than Islam as religion to the end of the verse was revealed, the Jews said: So we are Muslims! God Almighty said to His Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace: Tell them that: And Hajj to the House is a duty that mankind owes to God, those who can afford the expenses for one's expenses. And whoever disbelieves, then indeed, God is free from need of the worlds. (Al Imran 3:97)

Others said about this verse:

Al-Muthanna narrated to us, he said: Abdullah bin Saleh narrated to us, he said: Muawiyah narrated to me, on the authority of Ali, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding his statement: Indeed, those who believed and those who were Jews or Christians or Sabeans - those who believed in God and the Last Day to His statement: nor will they grieve (al-Baqarah 2:62). Then God Almighty revealed after this: And whoever desires other than Islam as religion - never will it be accepted from him.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

(ghair) is the object of (yabtagh), (dinaa) is accusative as an explanation, and it is permissible for dinaa to be accusative with yabtagh, and ghair to be accusative as a state of religion. Mujahid and As-Suddi said: This verse was revealed about Al-Harith bin Suwaid, the brother of Al-Jalas bin Suwaid, and he was one of the Ansar. He and twelve others with him apostatized from Islam and went to Mecca as disbelievers, so this verse was revealed, then he sent to his brother asking for repentance. This was narrated from Ibn Abbas and others. Ibn Abbas said: He converted to Islam after the verses were revealed. And in the Hereafter he will be among the losers. Hisham said: That is, he will be a loser in the Hereafter among the losers. If it were not for this, I would have distinguished between the relative clause and the relative pronoun. Al-Mazini said: The alif and lam are the same in the man. This was mentioned previously in Al-Baqarah when He said: And indeed, in the Hereafter he will be among the righteous.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The Almighty says, denying whoever wants a religion other than the religion of God, with which He sent His books and with which He sent His messengers, which is the worship of God alone, with no partner for Him, to whom everyone in the heavens and the earth submits, meaning everyone in them submits to Him willingly or unwillingly, as God the Almighty says: And to God prostrates whoever is in the heavens and the earth, willingly or unwillingly, the verse, and God the Almighty says: "Have they not seen what God has created of things? They turn their shadows to the right and the left, prostrating to God, and they are humbled. And to God prostrates whatever is in the heavens and whatever is on the earth of creatures, and the angels, and they are not arrogant. They fear their Lord above them and do what they are commanded." Fath al-Qadir

His statement 85- A religion is the object of the verb: meaning he seeks a religion while it is other than Islam. It is permissible for other than Islam to be in the accusative case as the object of the verb, and religion is either a distinguishing feature or a state if it is interpreted by the derivative, or a substitute for other. His statement and in the Hereafter he will be among the losers is either in the accusative case as a state or a renewed sentence: meaning among those who will fall into loss on the Day of Resurrection.

Al-Tabarani narrated with a weak chain of transmission on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, regarding his statement, And to Him submits whoever is in the heavens and the earth, he said: As for those in the heavens, they are the angels, and as for those on the earth, they are those who were born as Muslims, and as for those who were forced, they are those who were brought from the captives of the nations in chains and shackles, they are led to Paradise unwillingly.

Al-Daylami narrated on the authority of Anas who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said regarding the verse, The angels obeyed him in the heaven, and the Ansar and Abd al-Qais obeyed him on the earth. Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas who said regarding the verse, Whoever is in the heavens and the earth submits, when He took the covenant from them. Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on his authority regarding his statement, And to Him submits, he said: Knowledge. Abd ibn Hamid, Ibn Jarir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Qatadah regarding the verse, he said: As for the believer, he submitted willingly, so that benefited him and was accepted from him. As for the disbeliever, he submitted when he saw the wrath of God, but that did not benefit him and was not accepted from him. So their faith did not benefit them when they saw Our wrath. Al-Tabarani narrated in Al-Awsat on the authority of Anas who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever has a bad character among slaves, animals, or children, then recite in his ear, 'Do they seek other than the religion of God?' Ibn Al-Sunni narrated in Amal Al-Yawm Wal-Laylah on the authority of Yunus bin Ubaid who said: There is no man who is on a difficult animal and recites in its ear, 'Do they seek other than the religion of God?' the verse except that it will be humbled by the permission of God Almighty. Ahmad and Al-Tabarani narrated in Al-Awsat on the authority of Abu Hurairah who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "The deeds will come on the Day of Resurrection, and the prayer will come and say: O Lord, I am the prayer. He will say: You are on the right path. The charity will come and say: O Lord, I am the charity. He will say: You are on the right path. The fasting will come and say: I am the fasting. He will say: You are on the right path. Then the deeds will come, and God will say: You are on the right path. Then Islam will come and say: O Lord, You are peace and I am Islam. He will say: You are on the right path. Through you today I take and through you I give. God the Most High said in His Book: 'And whoever desires other than Islam as religion - never will it be accepted of him, and in the Hereafter he will be among the losers.'"

Tafsir al-Baghawi

85- His saying: And whoever desires other than Islam as religion - never will it be accepted from him, was revealed about twelve men who apostatized from Islam and left Medina and came to Mecca as infidels, among them Al-Harith bin Suwaid Al-Nasari, so it was revealed about them: And whoever desires other than Islam as religion - never will it be accepted from him, and he, in the Hereafter, will be among the losers.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

85 And whoever desires other than Islam as religion meaning other than monotheism and submission to the rule of God. Never will it be accepted from him, and he, in the Hereafter, will be among the losers falling into loss. The meaning is that the one who turns away from Islam and seeks something other than it is missing out on benefit and falling into loss by invalidating the sound nature upon which people were created. It is used as evidence that faith is Islam, since if it were other than it, it would not be accepted. The answer is that it negates the acceptance of every religion that differs from it, not the acceptance of everything that differs from it. Perhaps religion is also for deeds.

Surat Al Imran 3:86

How can God guide a people who disbelieved after their belief and had testified that the Messenger was true and clear proofs had come to them? And God does not guide the wrongdoing people.

Surat Al Imran 3:86

How can God guide a people who disbelieved after their belief and had testified that the Messenger was true and clear proofs had come to them? And God does not guide the wrongdoing people.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

How that is, does not God guide a people who disbelieved after their belief and bore witness that is, their testimony that the Messenger is true and that clear proofs have come to them the apparent arguments for the truthfulness of the Prophet and God does not guide the wrongdoing people that is, the disbelievers.

The Almighty said: How can God guide a people who disbelieved? The verses were narrated by Al-Nasa'i, Ibn Hayyan, and Al-Hakim on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: There was a man from the Ansar who converted to Islam, then he regretted it, so he sent to his people, "Send to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, 'Is there any repentance for me?'" So the verse was revealed: How can God guide a people who disbelieved, until His saying: Indeed, God is Forgiving and Merciful. So his people sent to him, and he converted to Islam."

Musaddad narrated in his Musnad and Abd al-Razzaq on the authority of Mujahid who said: Al-Harith ibn Suwaid came and became Muslim with the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, then he disbelieved and returned to his people. Then God revealed the Qur'an concerning him: How does God guide a people who disbelieved until His saying: Forgiving, Merciful. Then a man from his people brought it to him and recited it to him. Al-Harith said: By God, you are, as I know, truthful, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, is more truthful than you, and God is the most truthful of the three. So he returned and became Muslim, and his Islam was good.

Tafsir al-Tabari

The interpreters differed about who this verse refers to, and about whom it was revealed.

Some of them said: It was revealed about Al-Harith bin Suwaid Al-Ansari, who was a Muslim and then apostatized after his conversion to Islam.

Who said that?

Muhammad ibn Abdullah ibn Buzay' al-Basri told me, he said, Yazid ibn Zari' told us, he said, Dawud ibn Abi Hind told us, on the authority of 'Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn 'Abbas, he said: There was a man from the Ansar who had converted to Islam, then he apostatized and returned to polytheism. Then he regretted it and sent to his al-Nas 114: Send to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. Is there any repentance for me? He said: Then the verse was revealed: How can God guide a people who disbelieved after their belief until His saying: And clear proofs have come to them? And God does not guide the wrongdoing people "Except those who repent after that and reform. Indeed, God is Forgiving and Merciful." So his people sent to him and he converted to Islam.

Ibn Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Abd Al-A'la told me, he said, Dawud told us, on the authority of 'Ikrimah, something similar, and he did not trace it back to Ibn Abbas, except that he said: So his people wrote to him, and he said: My people did not lie to me! So he returned.

Abu Kuraib told us, he said, Hakim bin Jami' told us, on the authority of Ali bin Masaher, on the authority of Dawud bin Abi Hind, on the authority of 'Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: A man from the Ansar apostatized, and he mentioned something similar.

Al-Hasan bin Yahya narrated to us, he said: Abd al-Razzaq narrated to us, he said: Ja'far bin Sulayman narrated to us, he said: Hamid al-A'raj narrated to us, on the authority of Mujahid, he said: Al-Harith bin Suwayd came and became Muslim with the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace. Then Al-Harith disbelieved and returned to his people, so God, the Almighty, revealed the Qur'an concerning him: How can God guide a people who disbelieved after their belief? to Except those who repent after that and reform, for indeed, God is Forgiving and Merciful. He said: So a man from his people brought it to him and recited it to him, so Al-Harith said: By God, I do not know that you are truthful, but the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, is more truthful than you, and God, the Almighty, is more truthful than the three. He said: So Al-Harith returned and became Muslim, and his Islam was good.

Musa bin Harun told me, he said, Amr told us, he said, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi: How can God guide a people who disbelieved after their belief and bore witness that the Messenger is true? He said: It was revealed about Al-Harith bin Suwaid Al-Ansari. He disbelieved after his belief, so God, the Almighty, revealed these verses about him, up to: Those are the companions of the Fire; they will abide therein eternally. Then he repented and became Muslim, so God abrogated it for him, and said: Except for those who repent after that and reform, for indeed, God is Forgiving and Merciful.

Muhammad bin Amr told me, he said, Abu Asim told us, on the authority of Isa, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding the statement of God Almighty: How can God guide a people who disbelieved after their belief and bore witness that the Messenger was true and clear proofs had come to them? He said: A man from Banu Amr bin Awf disbelieved after his belief.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Abu Hudhayfah told us, he said, Shabl told us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, similarly.

Al-Qasim narrated to us, he said, Al-Husayn narrated to us, he said, Hajjaj narrated to me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, on the authority of Mujahid, he said: He is a man from Banu Amr ibn Awf, who disbelieved after his belief. Ibn Jurayj said: Abdullah ibn Kathir informed me, on the authority of Mujahid, he said: He went to the land of the Romans and converted to Christianity, then he wrote to his al-Nas 114: Send, is there any repentance for me? He said: I thought that he had believed, then he returned. Ibn Jurayj said: Ikrimah said: It was revealed about Abu Amir the monk, Al-Harith ibn Suwayd ibn As-Samit, and Wahuh ibn Al-Aslat, and twelve men who turned away from Islam and went to Quraysh, then they wrote to their al-Nas 114: Is there any repentance for us? So this verse was revealed: Except for those who repent after that, and the verses.

Others said: This verse refers to the People of the Book, and it was revealed about them.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Saad told me, he said, my father told me, he said, my uncle told me, he said, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding his statement: How can God guide a people who disbelieved after their belief? They are the People of the Book, they knew Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, then they disbelieved in him.

Muhammad bin Sinan told us, he said, Abu Bakr al-Hanafi told us, he said, Ibad bin Mansur told us, on the authority of al-Hasan, regarding his statement: How can God guide a people who disbelieved after their belief, the entire verse, he said: The Jews and the Christians.

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, he said: Al-Hasan used to say regarding the verse: How can God guide a people who disbelieved after their belief? They are the People of the Book, the Jews and Christians. They saw the description of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, in their book and acknowledged it, and testified that it was true. But when he was sent from outside of them, they envied the Arabs for that and denied it, and disbelieved after their acknowledgment, out of envy for the Arabs when he was sent from outside of them.

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said, Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said, Muammar told us, on the authority of Al-Hasan regarding his statement: How can God guide a people who disbelieved after their belief? He said: They are the People of the Book. They used to find Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, in their book, and they used to seek his help, but they disbelieved after their belief.

Abu Ja'far said: The two opinions that are most similar to the apparent meaning of the revelation is what Al-Hasan said: that this verse is intended for the People of the Book according to what he said, except that the reports of the other opinion are more numerous, and those who say it are more knowledgeable in the interpretation of the Qur'an. It is possible that God, the Almighty, revealed these verses because of the people who He mentioned had apostatized from Islam, so He gathered their story and the story of those whose path was their path in apostasy from belief in Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, in these verses. Then He informed His servants of His way with them, so included in that is everyone who believed in Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, before he was sent, then disbelieved in him after he was sent, and everyone who was a disbeliever then became Muslim during his time, may God bless him and grant him peace, then apostatized from his Islam while he was alive, so the verse is intended for all of these two categories and others who are similar in meaning to them, and that is also the case, God willing.

The interpretation of the verse is: How can God guide a people who disbelieved after their belief? That is, how can God guide to the truth and guide to faith a people who denied the prophethood of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, after their belief, that is, after they believed in him and acknowledged what he brought them from his Lord, and bore witness that the Messenger is true, that is, after they acknowledged that Muhammad is the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, to His creation, and clear proofs have come to them, that is, and arguments from God and evidence of the truth of that have come to them? And God does not guide the wrongdoing people, that is, God does not guide to the truth and the right path the wrongdoing group, who are those who changed the truth to falsehood, so they chose disbelief over faith.

We have previously demonstrated the meaning of injustice, which is putting something in the wrong place, which makes it unnecessary to repeat it.

"Ibn Abbas said: A man from the Ansar converted to Islam, then apostatized and joined polytheism, then regretted it. So he sent to his al-Nas 114: Ask the Messenger of God for me, is there any chance for me to repent? So his people came to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: Is there any chance for him to repent? So the verse was revealed: "How can God guide a people who disbelieved after their belief?" until His saying: "Forgiving, Most Merciful. So he sent to him and he converted to Islam." Narrated by al-Nasa'i. And "In another narration: A man from the Ansar converted to Islam and joined the polytheists, so God revealed: "How can God guide a people who disbelieved?" until His saying: "Except those who repent?" So his people sent it to him, and when it was read to him, he said: By God, my people did not call me a liar on the authority of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, nor did I call the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, a liar on the authority of God, and God Almighty is the most truthful of the three. So he returned repentant, and the

Surat Al Imran 3:86

How can God guide a people who disbelieved after their belief and had testified that the Messenger was true and clear proofs had come to them? And God does not guide the wrongdoing people.

Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, accepted it from him and left him." Al-Hasan said: It was revealed about the Jews because they were giving good tidings of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and were asking for victory over those who disbelieved. When he was sent, they were stubborn and disbelieved, so God Almighty revealed: The reward of those is that upon them is the curse of God and of the angels and of mankind, all together. Then it was said: How is an interrogative word and its meaning is denial, meaning God does not guide. Similar to it is His statement: How can there be a covenant for the polytheists with God and with His Messenger? meaning they will not have a covenant. The poet said:

How can I sleep on the bed while the people are in a fierce raid?

That is, I have no sleep. And God does not guide the wrongdoing people. It is said: The apparent meaning of the verse is that whoever disbelieves after his conversion to Islam, God will not guide him, and whoever is a wrongdoer, God will not guide him. We have seen many apostates who have converted to Islam and God has guided them, and many wrongdoers have repented from wrongdoing. It is said to him: Its meaning is that God will not guide them as long as they persist in their disbelief and wrongdoing and do not accept Islam. But if they convert to Islam and repent, God has guided them to that. And God knows best.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

Ibn Jarir said: Muhammad ibn Abdullah ibn Buzay' al-Basri told us, Yazid ibn Zura' told us, Dawud ibn Abi Hind told us, on the authority of Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: There was a man from the Ansar who converted to Islam, then apostatized and joined polytheism, then he regretted it and sent to his people to ask the Messenger of God for me, is there any repentance for me? Then the verse was revealed: "How can God guide a people who disbelieved after their belief and had testified that the Messenger was true and clear proofs had come to them? And God does not guide the wrongdoing people. Those - their recompense is that upon them is the curse of God and of the angels and of the people, all together. They will abide therein. The punishment will not be lightened for them, nor will they be reprieved. Except for those who repent after that and reform. Indeed, God is Forgiving and Merciful." So his people sent to him and he became Muslim. This is how al-Nasa'i, al-Hakim and Ibn Hibban narrated it on the authority of Dawud ibn Abi Hind. Al-Hakim said: Its chain of transmission is sound, but they did not include it. Abd al-Razzaq said: Ja'far ibn Sulayman informed us, Hamid al-A'raj told us, on the authority of Mujahid, who said: Al-Harith ibn Suwayd came and became Muslim with the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace. Then al-Harith disbelieved and returned to his people, so God revealed about him: "How can God guide a people who disbelieved after their belief and had testified that the Messenger was true and the clear proofs had come to them? And God does not guide the wrongdoing people. Those - their recompense is that upon them is the curse of God." And the angels and the people, all together, will abide therein. The punishment will not be lightened for them, nor will they be reprieved. Except for those who repent after that and reform. Indeed, God is Forgiving and Merciful." He said: So a man from his people brought it to him and he recited it to him, and Al-Harith said: By God, I do not know that you are truthful, and the Messenger of God is more truthful than you, and God is the most truthful of the three. He said: So Al-Harith returned and converted to Islam, and his conversion to Islam was good. So the words of God the Most High: How can God guide a people who disbelieved after their belief and bore witness that the Messenger was true and clear proofs had come to them? means that the arguments and evidence were established against them regarding the truth of what the Messenger had brought them, and the matter was made clear to them, then they reverted to the darkness of polytheism. So how do these people deserve guidance after they have been blinded by it? For this reason God the Most High said: And God does not guide the wrongdoing people. Then the Almighty said: Their recompense is that upon them is the curse of God and of the angels and of mankind, all together. That is, God curses them and His creation curses them. They will abide therein. That is, in the curse. The punishment will not be lightened for them, nor will they be reprieved. That is, the punishment will not be abated for them, nor will it be lightened for them for a single hour. Then the Almighty said: "Except for those who repent after that and reform. Indeed, God is Forgiving and Merciful." This is from His kindness, goodness, compassion, mercy, and reward for His creation, that whoever repents to Him, He will accept his repentance.

Fath al-Qadir

His saying 86- How can God guide a people? This question means denial: that is, God does not guide. Similar to it is the Almighty's saying: How can the polytheists have a covenant with God? That is, they have no covenant. Similar to it is the saying of the poet:

How can I sleep on the bed while a fierce raid covers Damascus?

That is: I have no sleep. The meaning of the verse is: God does not guide a people to the truth who disbelieved after their belief, and after they witnessed that the Messenger was true, and after the clear proofs came to them from the Book of God, the Most High, and the miracles of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. His statement, And God does not guide the wrongdoing people is a circumstantial clause: that is, how can He guide the apostates, when the fact is that He does not guide those among them who merely wronged themselves, and among them are those who remain in disbelief? There is no doubt that the sin of the apostate is more severe than the sin of one who remains in disbelief, because the apostate has known the truth, then turned away out of stubbornness and rebellion.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

86-How can God guide a people who disbelieved after their belief? Its wording is a question and its meaning is denial, i.e. He does not guide everyone. The meaning before it is: How can God guide them in the Hereafter to Paradise and reward? "And they testified that the Messenger is true and clear proofs came to them. And God does not guide the wrongdoing people."

Tafsir al-Baidawi

86 How can God guide a people who disbelieved after their belief and testified that the Messenger was true and clear proofs had come to them? It is unlikely that God would guide them, for the one who deviates from the truth after it has been made clear to him is immersed in misguidance and far from guidance. It was said that it is a denial and rejection of it, and that requires that the repentance of the apostate not be accepted. And they testified is in apposition to what is in their belief of the meaning of the verb and its equivalent, so I believed and I was, or a state with the omission of qad from disbelieved, and in both cases it is evidence that the admission with the tongue is outside the reality of faith. And God does not guide the wrongdoing people who wronged themselves by neglecting to consider and placing disbelief in place of faith, so how about the one to whom the truth came and he recognized it and then turned away from it.

Surat Al Imran 3:87

Those - their recompense is that upon them is the curse of God and the angels and the people, all together.

Surat Al Imran 3:87

Those - their recompense is that upon them is the curse of God and the angels and the people, all together.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

Their recompense is that upon them is the curse of God and the angels and the people, all together.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Their recompense - meaning: those who disbelieved after their belief, and after they had witnessed that the Messenger was true - their recompense, their reward for the work they did, is that upon them is the curse of God, meaning: that they will be ostracized and distanced from God, and that the angels and people will pray for a punishment that will harm them, all together, meaning: from all of them, not from some of those whom God, the Most High, named from the angels and people, but from all of them. And God, the Most High, made that the reward for their work, because their work was disbelief in God.

We have explained the nature of the people's curse on the infidel in other places, so there is no need to repeat it.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

That is, if they persist in their disbelief. The meaning of the curse of God and the people has already been mentioned in Surat Al-Baqarah, so there is no point in repeating it.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

This is from His kindness, goodness, compassion, mercy, and reward for His creation, that whoever repents to Him, He will accept his repentance.

Fath al-Qadir

His statement 87- Those refers to the people who are described by the previous characteristics, and it is a subject whose predicate is the sentence that follows it. The explanation of the curse has been presented previously.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

87- Their recompense is that upon them is the curse of God and the angels and the people, all together.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

87 Their recompense is that upon them is the curse of God and the angels and of mankind, all together. Its explicit meaning indicates that it is permissible to curse them, and its implication indicates that it is not permissible to curse others. Perhaps the difference is that they are naturally infidels, forbidden from guidance, and denied mercy altogether, unlike others. What is meant by people are the believers or the general public, for the infidel is also cursed by the one who denies the truth and apostatizes from it, but he does not know the truth specifically.

Surat Al Imran 3:88

They will abide therein. The punishment will not be lightened for them, nor will they be reprieved.

Surat Al Imran 3:88

They will abide therein. The punishment will not be lightened for them, nor will they be reprieved.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

They will abide therein meaning the curse or fire indicated by it the punishment will not be lightened for them, nor will they be reprieved they will be given respite

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

They will abide therein eternally means: they will remain there, meaning in God's punishment. The punishment will not be lightened for them, they will not be diminished in the least from the punishment under any circumstances, nor will they be relieved from it. Nor will they be reprieved, meaning: nor will they be reprieved for an excuse to apologize. All of this is the very definition of eternal punishment in the Hereafter.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

Nor do they give respite meaning they do not delay or postpone.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

His saying 88- nor do they give respite means: they delay and give respite.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

88- "They will abide therein eternally. The punishment will not be lightened for them, nor will they be reprieved." This is because when Al-Harith bin Suwaid joined the infidels, he regretted it, so he sent to his al-Nas 114: Ask the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace: Is there any repentance for me? So they did that, and God Almighty revealed:

Tafsir al-Baidawi

88 They will abide therein eternally in the curse, or punishment, or Hellfire, even though it is not permissible to mention them because the speech indicates them. The punishment will not be lightened for them, nor will they be reprieved.

Surat Al Imran 3:89

Except for those who repent after that and reform, then indeed, God is Forgiving and Merciful.

Surat Al Imran 3:89

Except for those who repent after that and reform, then indeed, God is Forgiving and Merciful.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

Except for those who repent after that and amend their deeds then indeed, God is Forgiving to them and Merciful to them.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Then He, the Most High, excepted those who repented, from those who disbelieved after their belief, so He, the Most High, said: Except for those who repent after that and reform, meaning: except for those who repented after their apostasy, so they reviewed the belief in God and His Messenger, and believed in what their Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, brought to them from their Lord, and reformed, meaning: and did righteous deeds, then indeed, God is Forgiving and Merciful, meaning: for the one who does that after his disbelief, Forgiving, meaning: He conceals his sin that he committed of apostasy, so He leaves his punishment for it, and his disgrace for it on the Day of Resurrection, and does not hold him accountable for it if he dies repentant from it, Merciful, compassionate toward him with mercy.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

Then he excluded the repentant ones and said: Except those who repent, that is Al-Harith bin Suwaid as mentioned above. The meaning of the verse includes everyone who returns to Islam and is sincere.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

Ibn Jarir said: Muhammad ibn Abdullah ibn Buzay' al-Basri told us, Yazid ibn Zura' told us, Dawud ibn Abi Hind told us, on the authority of Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: There was a man from the Ansar who converted to Islam, then apostatized and joined polytheism, then he regretted it and sent to his people to ask the Messenger of God for me, is there any repentance for me? sent to him and he became Muslim. This is how al-Nasa'i, al-Hakim and Ibn Hibban narrated it on the authority of Dawud ibn Abi Hind. Then the Almighty said: "Except for those who repent after that and reform. Indeed, God is Forgiving and Merciful." This is from His kindness, goodness, compassion, mercy, and reward for His creation, that whoever repents to Him, He will accept his repentance.

Fath al-Qadir

Then he made an exception for the repentant. He said 89- Except for those who repent after that: meaning after apostasy and reform with Islam what they had corrupted of their religion through apostasy. This is evidence of the acceptance of the repentance of the apostate if he returns to Islam sincerely, and there is no disagreement about that as far as I remember.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

89- Except for those who repent after that and reform, for indeed, God is Forgiving and Merciful, for what he had done, so a man from his people brought it to him and read it to him, so Al-Harith said: By God, I know that you are truthful, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, is more truthful than you, and God Almighty is the most truthful of the three, so Al-Harith returned to Medina and converted to Islam, and his conversion was good.

89 Except for those who repent after that meaning after apostasy. And put right what they corrupted, and it is permissible that it does not have an object meaning and entered into righteousness. Then God is Forgiving accepting his repentance. Merciful showing favor to him. It was said that it was revealed about Al-Harith bin Suwaid when he regretted his apostasy and sent to his people to ask if there is repentance for me, so his brother Al-Jalas sent him the verse and he returned to Madinah and repented.

Surat Al Imran 3:90

Indeed, those who disbelieve after their belief and then increase in disbelief - never will their repentance be accepted, and it is those who are the ones astray.

Surat Al Imran 3:90

Indeed, those who disbelieve after their belief and then increase in disbelief - never will their repentance be accepted, and it is those who are the ones astray.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And it was revealed about the Jews Indeed, those who disbelieved in Jesus after their belief in Moses and then increased in disbelief in Muhammad their repentance will not be accepted if they gurgled or die as disbelievers and it is those who are astray

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Jaafar said: The people of interpretation differed in the interpretation of that.

Some of them said: God Almighty meant by His saying: Indeed, those who disbelieved in some of His prophets who were sent before Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, after their belief and then increased in disbelief by their disbelief in Muhammad, their repentance will not be accepted, when death approaches and he himself is dying.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Sinan told me, he said, Abu Bakr al-Hanafi told us, he said, Ibad bin Mansur told us, on the authority of al-Hasan, regarding his statement: Indeed, those who disbelieved after their belief and then increased in disbelief - never will their repentance be accepted, and those are the ones who are astray, he said: The Jews and Christians, their repentance will not be accepted at death.

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: Indeed, those who disbelieved after their belief and then increased in disbelief, those are the enemies of God, the Jews. They disbelieved in the Gospel and Jesus, then increased in disbelief in Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and the Criterion.

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said: Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said: Muammar told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: Then they increased in disbelief, he said: They increased in disbelief until death came to them, and their repentance was not accepted when death came to them. Muammar said: Ata al-Khurasani said something similar.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Ishaq told us, he said, Abdullah bin Abi Ja'far told us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: "Indeed, those who disbelieved after their belief and then increased in disbelief - never will their repentance be accepted. And it is those who are the ones who are astray." He said: They are the Jews, they disbelieved in the Gospel, then increased in disbelief when God sent Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, so they denied him and belied him.

Others said: The meaning of this is: Those of the People of the Book who disbelieved in Muhammad, after believing in their prophets, then increased in disbelief, meaning: sins, their repentance will not be accepted for their sins, and they will remain in disbelief.

Who said that?

Al-Muthanna told us, he said, Abdul-Wahhab told us, he said, Dawud told us, on the authority of Rafi': Indeed, those who disbelieved after their belief and then increased in disbelief, they increased in sins while they were disbelievers, their repentance will never be accepted from those sins, as long as they were in their disbelief and misguidance.

Ibn Al-Muthanna told us, he said, Ibn Abi Uday told us, on the authority of Dawud, he said: I asked Abu Al-Aaliyah, he said, I said: Indeed, those who disbelieved after their belief and then increased in disbelief - never will their repentance be accepted? He said: They are only those Christians and Jews who disbelieved, then increased in disbelief due to sins they committed, so they repent from them in their disbelief.

Abdul Hamid bin Bayan Al-Sakari told us, he said, Ibn Abi Uday told us, on the authority of Dawud, he said: I asked Abu Al-Aaliyah about: those who believed and then disbelieved, and he mentioned something similar to it.

Ibn Al-Muthanna told us, he said, Abdul-A'la told us, he said, Dawud told us, he said: I asked Abu Al-A'la about this verse: "Indeed, those who disbelieved after their belief and then increased in disbelief - never will their repentance be accepted. And it is those who are astray." He said: They are the Jews, Christians, and Magians. They committed sins in their disbelief, and they wanted to repent from them, but they will never repent from disbelief. Do you not see that He says: And it is those who are astray?

Muhammad bin Bashar told us, he said, Abu Asim told us, he said, Sufyan told us, on the authority of Dawud, on the authority of Abu Al-Aaliyah, regarding his statement: Their repentance will not be accepted, he said: They repented from some of it, but they did not repent from the origin.

Narrated on the authority of Ammar, he said: Ibn Abi Ja'far narrated to us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Dawud ibn Abi Hind, on the authority of Abu al-'Aliyah, regarding his statement: Indeed, those who disbelieved after their belief and then increased in disbelief, he said: They are the Jews and Christians, who commit sins and say: We repent, while they are polytheists. God Almighty said: Repentance will not be accepted in misguidance.

Others said: Rather, the meaning of this is: Those who disbelieved after their belief in their prophets, and then increased in disbelief, meaning: by their increasing disbelief: their completion of it, until they perished while they were still in it, their repentance will not be accepted, their first repentance and belief will not benefit them, because of their later disbelief and death.

Who said that?

Al-Qasim told us, he said, Al-Husayn told us, he said, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, on the authority of Ikrimah, regarding his statement: Then they increased in disbelief, he said: They remained in their disbelief. Ibn Jurayj said: Their repentance will not be accepted, he said: Their faith the first time will not benefit them.

Others said: The meaning of his statement, Then they increased in disbelief, is that they died as disbelievers, so that was their increase in their disbelief. They said: The meaning of Their repentance will not be accepted, is that their repentance will not be accepted upon their death.

Who said that?

Muhammad told us, Ahmad told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of al-Suddi: "Indeed, those who disbelieved after their belief and then increased in disbelief - never will their repentance be accepted. And it is those who are astray." As for increased in disbelief, it means that they died as disbelievers. As for never will their repentance be accepted, it means at his death, if he repented, his repentance would not be accepted.

Abu Ja'far said: The most correct of these sayings in interpreting this verse is the saying of the one who said: It means the Jews, and that its interpretation is: Those Jews who disbelieved in Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, when he was sent, after their belief in him before his mission, then increased in disbelief because of the sins they committed in their disbelief and their persistence in their misguidance, their repentance will not be accepted for the sins they committed in their disbelief, until they repent from their disbelief in Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and return to repentance from it by believing in what came from God.

We said: This is the most correct of the sayings about this verse, because the verses before and after it were revealed about them, so it is more likely that it is in the same meaning as what came before and after it, since they were in one context.

We said: The meaning of their increasing disbelief is the sins they committed in their disbelief, because God, the Most High, said: Their repentance will not be accepted. So it was known that the meaning of His statement: Their repentance will not be accepted is: Their repentance will not be accepted for what they increased in disbelief after their belief, not for their disbelief. Because God, the Most High, promised to accept repentance from His servants, saying: And it is He who accepts repentance from His servants

(al-Shura 42:25). So it is impossible for God, the Most High, to say: I accept and I do not accept in one thing. Since that is the case, and it is from God's ruling regarding His servants that He accepts the repentance of every repentant person from every sin, and disbelief after belief is one of those sins for which He promised to accept repentance by saying: Except for those who repent after that and reform, for indeed, God is Forgiving and Merciful, it is known that the meaning for which He does not accept repentance is not the meaning for which He accepts repentance. Since this is the case, then what is not accepted from him is the increase in disbelief after disbelief. God does not accept the repentance of his companion as long as he remains in his disbelief, because God does not accept any action from a polytheist as long as he remains in his polytheism and misguidance. But if he repents from his polytheism and disbelief and reforms, then God - as He described Himself - is Forgiving and Merciful.

If someone says: Why do you deny that the meaning of this is as the one who said: His repentance from his disbelief will not be accepted when his time comes and his first repentance?

It was said: We deny that, because repentance from a servant does not occur except during his life, as for after his death there is no repentance. And God the Almighty has promised His servants to accept their repentance as long as their souls are in their bodies. And there is no disagreement among all the arguments that if a disbeliever converts to Islam before his soul departs by the blink of an eye, his ruling is the ruling of Muslims in praying over him, inheritance, and all other rulings besides them. So it was known from this that if his repentance in that state was not accepted, his ruling would not move from the ruling of the disbelievers to the ruling of the people of Islam, and there is no status between death and life. It is permissible to say: God does not accept the repentance of the disbeliever in it. So if it is true that it is accepted during his life, and there is no way to it after death, then the statement of the one who claimed that it is not accepted when the appointed time comes is invalid.

As for the statement of the one who claimed that the meaning of this is: the repentance that was before disbelief, then this statement has no meaning. Because God, the Almighty, did not describe the people with faith that came from them after disbelief, then disbelief after faith, but rather He described them with disbelief after faith. So that faith was not preceded by disbelief from which faith was a repentance for them, so the interpretation of that is according to what the speaker interpreted it. And the interpretation of the Qur'an according to what was present in the outward recitation - if there is no evidence indicating a specific inner meaning - is more appropriate than otherwise, even if it is possible to direct it to something else.

As for his saying: And those are the ones who are astray, he means by that: And those who disbelieved after their belief, then increased in disbelief, they are the ones who went astray from the path of truth, so they erred in its path, and abandoned half the path and the guidance of the religion, out of confusion on their part, and blindness to it.

Indeed, those who disbelieve after their belief and then increase in disbelief - never will their repentance be accepted, and it is those who are the ones astray.

We have previously explained the meaning of misguidance sufficiently.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

Qatada, Ata' al-Khurasani and al-Hasan said: It was revealed about the Jews who disbelieved in Jesus and the Gospel, then they increased in disbelief in Muhammad, peace and blessings be upon him, and the Qur'an. Abu al-Aaliyah said: It was revealed about the Jews and Christians who disbelieved in Muhammad, peace and blessings be upon him, after believing in his description and attributes. Then they increased in disbelief by continuing in their disbelief. It was also said: They increased in disbelief by the sins they acquired. This is the choice of al-Tabari, and according to him it refers to the Jews. Their repentance will not be accepted is problematic because of his statement: And it is He who accepts repentance from His servants and pardons misdeeds. It was said that the meaning is that their repentance will not be accepted at death. An-Nahhas said: This is a good statement, as God the Almighty said: And repentance is not for those who do evil deeds until, when death approaches one of them, he says, Indeed, I have repented now." It was narrated from al-Hasan, Qatadah and Ata'. The Prophet, peace and blessings be upon him, said: "God accepts the repentance of the servant as long as he is not at the point of death." This meaning will be explained in Surat An-Nisa. It was said: Their repentance will not be accepted which they were upon before they disbelieved, because disbelief had nullified it. It was also said: Their repentance will not be accepted if they repent from their disbelief to another disbelief, and their repentance will only be accepted if they repent to Islam. Qatib said: This verse was revealed about a group of people from Mecca who said: We are waiting for Muhammad to be struck by a calamity of fate, and if we decide to return, we will return to our people. So God revealed: Indeed, those who disbelieved after their belief and then increased in disbelief, their repentance will never be accepted. That is, their repentance will not be accepted while they persist in disbelief. So He called it an unacceptable repentance because the people did not have a sound resolve, and God, the Almighty, accepts all repentance if the resolve is sound.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

God the Almighty says, threatening and threatening those who disbelieved after their belief, then increased in disbelief, meaning they continued in it until death, and informing that their repentance will not be accepted at death, as God the Almighty said: And repentance is not for those who do evil deeds until, when death approaches one of them (al-Baqarah 2:17). That is why He said here: "Never will their repentance be accepted. And it is those who are astray," meaning those who have deviated from the right path to the path of error. Al-Hafiz Abu Bakr al-Bazzar said: Muhammad ibn Abdullah ibn Buzay' told us, Yazid ibn Zura' told us, Dawud ibn Abi Hind told us, on the authority of Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, that some people converted to Islam, then apostatized, then converted to Islam, then apostatized, so they sent to their people asking for them, so they mentioned that to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, so this verse was revealed: Indeed, those who disbelieved after their belief and then increased in disbelief - never will their repentance be accepted. And thus it was narrated, and its chain of transmission is good. Then God the Almighty said: Indeed, those who disbelieved and died... And they are disbelievers, so the earth full of gold will not be accepted from any of them, even if he ransomed himself with it. That is, whoever dies as a disbeliever, no good will ever be accepted from him. Even if he spent the earth full of gold in what he considered to be an act of devotion, as the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, was asked about Abdullah bin Jud'an, who used to host guests, free the captive, and feed the poor: Will that benefit him? He said, "No, he never said a single day in his life: 'My Lord, forgive me my sin on the Day of Judgment.'" Likewise, if he ransomed himself with the earth full of gold, it would not be accepted from him, as God Almighty said, And no compensation will be accepted from them, nor will intercession benefit them. And He said, There is no trade in it nor friendship. And He said, "Indeed, those who disbelieve, if they had all that is in the earth and the like thereof with it to ransom themselves thereby from the punishment of the Day of Resurrection, it would not be accepted from them, and they will have a painful punishment." And for this reason the Almighty said here: Indeed, those who disbelieved and died while they were disbelievers - never will it be accepted from one of them an earth full of gold, even if he were to ransom himself with it. So He connected even if he were to ransom himself with the first, so it indicates that he is not the same. And what we mentioned is better than saying that the waw is redundant, and God knows best. And that requires that nothing will save him from the punishment of God, even if he had spent the equivalent of the earth in gold, even if he ransomed himself from God with an earth full of gold, the weight of its mountains and hills, its soil and sand, its plains and rugged areas, its land and sea. And Imam Ahmad said: Hajjaj told us, Shu'bah told me on the authority of Abu Imran al-Jawni, on the authority of Anas ibn Malik, that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "A man from the people of Hell will be told on the Day of al-Qiyamah 75: Tell me, if you had everything on the earth, would you ransom yourself with it? He said: He will say: Yes. Then God will say: I wanted something easier from you than that. I took a covenant from you in the loins of your father Adam that you would not associate anything with Me, but you refused except to associate." And so on. Narrated by Al-Bukhari and Muslim.

Another way Imam Ahmad said: Ruh told us, Hammad told us on the authority of Thabit, on the authority of Anas, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "A man from the people of Paradise will be brought and it will be said to him: O son of Adam, how did you find your home? He will say: O Lord, what is the best home? He will say: Ask and wish. He will say: I do not ask nor wish except that you return me to the world so that I may be killed in your path ten times, because of what he sees of the virtue of martyrdom. And a man from the people of Hell will be brought and it will be said to him: O son of Adam, how did you find your home? He will say: O Lord, what is the worst home. He will say: Will you ransom yourself from me with the weight of the earth in gold? He will say: O Lord, yes. He will say: You have lied. I asked you for less than that and easier and you did not do it, so he will be returned to Hell." That is why He said: For those is a painful punishment, and they will have no helpers. That is, they will have no one to save them from the punishment of God or protect them from His painful chastisement.

Fath al-Qadir

His saying 90- "Then they increased in disbelief." Qatada, Ata' al-Khurasani and al-Hasan said: It was revealed about the Jews and Christians who disbelieved in Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, after believing in his description and attributes. "Then they increased in disbelief" by continuing in their disbelief. It was said: They increased in disbelief because of the sins they acquired. Ibn Jarir al-Tabari preferred this and made it specific to the Jews. A group of commentators found difficulty in the words of God Almighty: "Their repentance will not be accepted" even though repentance is accepted as in the first verse, and as in His words: "And He is the One who accepts repentance from His servants" and other than that. It was said: The meaning is that their repentance will not be accepted at death. Al-Nahhas said: This is a good statement, as God Almighty said: And repentance is not for those who do evil deeds until, when death approaches one of them, he says, 'Indeed, I have repented now.' Al-Hasan, Qatadah, and Ata' said the same. From this is the hadith: God accepts the repentance of the servant as long as he is not at the point of death. It was said: The meaning is that their repentance that they were upon before they disbelieved will not be accepted, because disbelief is nullified. It was said: Their repentance will not be accepted if they repent from their disbelief to another disbelief. It is better to interpret the non-acceptance of their repentance in this verse as referring to someone who died as a disbeliever without repenting, as if he expressed death in disbelief as the non-acceptance of repentance, and the aforementioned verse comes after this verse.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

90- The Almighty said: Indeed, those who disbelieved after their belief and then increased in disbelief. Qatada and Al-Hasan said: It was revealed about the Jews who disbelieved in Jesus, peace be upon him, and the Gospel after their belief in their prophets, then they increased in disbelief by their disbelief in Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and the Qur'an.

Abu Al-Aaliyah said: It was revealed about the Jews and Christians who disbelieved in Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, when they saw him after they acknowledged that God was their Creator. Then they increased in disbelief, meaning: they persisted in their disbelief until they perished because of it.

Al-Hasan said: They increased in disbelief every time a verse was revealed, they disbelieved in it, so they increased in disbelief. It was also said: They increased in disbelief by saying: We are waiting for Muhammad to be struck by a calamity.

Al-Kalbi said: It was revealed about the eleven companions of Al-Harith bin Suwaid. When Al-Harith returned to Islam, they remained in disbelief in Mecca and said: We will remain in disbelief as long as we wish, and when we want to return, what was revealed about Al-Harith will be revealed about us. So when the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, conquered Mecca, whoever among them entered Islam, his repentance was accepted, and it was revealed about whoever among them died as disbelievers.

90 "Indeed, those who disbelieved after their belief and then increased in disbelief" such as the Jews who disbelieved in Jesus and the Gospel after believing in Moses and the Torah, then increased in disbelief in Muhammad and the Qur'an, or disbelieved in Muhammad after they believed in him before his mission then increased in disbelief by persisting and obstinacy and slandering him and turning away from faith and breaking the covenant, or like a people who apostatized and went to Mecca then increased in disbelief by saying we will await for Muhammad the vicissitudes of fate or we will return to him and we will be hypocritical with him by showing it. "Their repentance will not be accepted" because they do not repent, or they do not repent except when they are on the verge of destruction, so the non-acceptance of their repentance was referred to as non-acceptance as a harshness in their case and to highlight their condition in the image of those who have despaired of mercy, or because their repentance is nothing but hypocrisy due to their apostasy and increased disbelief, and for this reason the letter "fa" was not included in it. "And those are the ones who are astray" those who persist in misguidance.

Indeed, those who disbelieve and die while they are disbelievers - never will an earth full of gold be accepted from any of them, even if he were to ransom himself with it. Those will have a painful punishment, and they will have no helpers.

Surat Al Imran 3:91

Indeed, those who disbelieve and die while they are disbelievers - never will an earth full of gold be accepted from any of them, even if he were to ransom himself with it. Those will have a painful punishment, and they will have no helpers.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

Indeed, those who disbelieve and die while they are disbelievers - never will it be accepted from one of them an earth full of gold, even if he were to ransom himself with it. The letter fa was inserted in the predicate of inna to resemble those who are with the condition and to indicate that the cause of the non-acceptance of death in disbelief is (those will have a painful punishment. And they will have no helpers.) to prevent it.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: By that, God the Most High means: Those who disbelieved, that is, denied the prophethood of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and did not believe in him and what he brought from God, from the people of every religion, Jews, Christians, Zoroastrians, and others, died while they were disbelievers, that is, and died in that state of denying his prophethood and denying what he brought, the earth full of gold will not be accepted from any of them, even if he were to ransom himself with it, meaning: no reward or bribe will be accepted from someone who has this characteristic in the Hereafter for not punishing him for his disbelief, nor will he be given a reward for pardoning him, even if he had enough gold to fill the earth from east to west, as a reward and a reward for not punishing him and in pardoning him for his disbelief as compensation for what God has decreed for him of punishment. Because bribes are only accepted by someone who has a need for what he was bribed with. As for the one who has this world and the hereafter, how can he accept the ransom, while he is the Creator of every ransom with which a person redeems himself or someone else?

We have explained that the meaning of ransom is compensation and recompense from the one being ransomed, which makes it unnecessary to repeat it in this place.

Then the Almighty informed about what they will have with Him, saying: Those, meaning those who disbelieved and died while they were disbelievers, will have a painful punishment, meaning: they will have a painful punishment with God in the Hereafter, and they will have no helpers, meaning: they will have no relative, intimate friend, or friend to support him and rescue him from God and His punishment, as they used to support him in this world against those who tried to harm him and harm him. And:

Bishr told us, Yazid told us, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, who said, Anas bin Malik told us: "The Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, used to say: 'The disbeliever will be brought on the Day of Resurrection and it will be said to him: 'Tell me, if you had the earth full of gold, would you ransom yourself with it?' He will say: 'Yes!' It will be said: 'You were asked something easier than that!' That is what He said: 'Indeed, those who disbelieved and died while they were disbelievers - never will an earth full of gold be accepted from one of them, even if he ransomed himself with it.'"

Muhammad bin Sinan told me, he said, Abu Bakr al-Hanafi told us, he said, Ibad told us, on the authority of al-Hasan, his saying: Indeed, those who disbelieved and died while they were disbelievers - never will an earth full of gold be accepted from one of them, he said: It is every disbeliever.

The accusative case of his saying: gold is to deviate from the amount that preceded it and to explain it, which is his saying: filling the earth, like the saying of the one who says: I have a skin's worth of ghee and a pound's worth of honey. So the honey is what is mentioned of the amount, and it is an indefinite noun in the accusative case to explain the amount and to deviate from it.

As for the grammarians of Basra, they claimed that the word gold was placed in the accusative case because the word filling was occupied with the earth and that gold came after them, so its accusative case was similar to the accusative case of the state. This is because the state comes after a verb that is occupied with its subject, so it is placed in the accusative case like the object that comes after a verb that is occupied with its subject. They said: Similar to his saying, filling the earth with gold, in the accusative case of gold in speech: I have a man like you means: I have a man like you. They claimed that the accusative case of the man was due to the addition being occupied with the noun, so it was placed in the accusative case like the object is placed in the accusative case, because the verb is occupied with the subject.

The letter waw was inserted in His statement, And if he ransomed himself with it, because of something omitted from the statement after it, which was indicated by the insertion of the waw. It is like the waw in His statement, And that he may be among the certain (al-An'am 6:75). The interpretation of the statement is: And that he may be among the certain, We will show him the kingdom of the heavens and the earth. Likewise in His statement, And if he ransomed himself with it. If there were no waw in the statement, the statement would be correct, and there would be no omission, and it would be: Then the earth full of gold would not be accepted from any of them if he ransomed himself with it.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

Filling with kasra is the amount that fills something, and filling with fatha is the source of filling something, and it is said: Give me its fullness and its two fullness and three fullness. The waw in and if he ransomed himself with it is said to be an intrusive and redundant letter, meaning: no one will be accepted to fill the earth with gold if he ransomed himself with it. The grammarians who are experts in the field of reasoning said: The waw cannot be intrusive because it indicates a meaning. The meaning of the verse is: no one will be accepted to fill the earth with gold as a donation even if he ransomed himself with it. And gold is in the accusative case for interpretation according to Al-Farra'. Al-Mufaddal said: The condition of interpretation is that the speech be complete and vague, like your saying I have twenty, so the number is known and the counted is vague, so if you say a dirham, you explain. The accusative of the distinguishing is in fact intrusive because it has nothing to lower it or raise it, and the accusative is the lightest of the vowels, so it is made for everything that has no factor. Al-Kisa'i said: It is in the accusative case with the omission of min meaning of gold, like his saying: or equivalent to that in fasting. Meaning, of fasting. In Al-Bukhari and Muslim on the authority of Qatada, "On the authority of Anas bin Malik, that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The disbeliever will be brought on the Day of Resurrection and it will be said to him: Tell me, if you had the earth full of gold, would you ransom yourself with it? He will say: Yes. It will be said to him: You were asked for something easier than that." The wording of Al-Bukhari. Muslim said: Instead of 'I was,' 'I lied,' 'I was asked.'

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

God the Almighty says, threatening and threatening those who disbelieved after their belief, then increased in disbelief, meaning they continued in it until death, and informing that their repentance will not be accepted at death, as God the Almighty said: And repentance is not for those who do evil deeds until, when death approaches one of them (al-Baqarah 2:17). Surat Al Imran 3:91

Indeed, those who disbelieve and die while they are disbelievers - never will an earth full of gold be accepted from any of them, even if he were to ransom himself with it. Those will have a painful punishment, and they will have no helpers.

He said: For those is a painful punishment, and they will have no helpers. That is, they will have no one to save them from the punishment of God or protect them from His painful chastisement.

Fath al-Qadir

And it is His statement, Indeed, those who disbelieved and died while they were disbelievers in the ruling of explaining it. His statement, filling the earth with gold, filling with the kasra is the amount that fills something, and filling with the fatha is the source of filling something, and gold is a distinction, as stated by al-Farra' and others. Al-Kisa'i said: It is accusative because of the implication of from gold. Like his statement, or the equivalent of that in fasting, meaning from fasting. Al-A'mash read gold with the nominative as a substitute for filling, and the waw in his statement, even if he ransomed himself with it, it was said: It is an intrusive and redundant letter, and the meaning is if he ransomed himself with it, and it was said: It is based on the rich as if it was said: No ransom will be accepted from any of them even if he ransomed himself with the earth full of gold, and it was said: It is an appositive to something implied: that is, no one will be accepted from him filling the earth with gold even if he gave it in charity in this world, even if he ransomed himself with it from the punishment: meaning with its like.

Al-Nasa'i, Ibn Jarir, Ibn Abi Hatim, Ibn Hibban, Al-Hakim who authenticated it and Al-Bayhaqi in his Sunan narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas who said: "There was a man from the Ansar who converted to Islam, then he apostatized and joined the polytheists. Then he regretted it and sent to his al-Nas 114: Send to the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him), is there any repentance for me? So the verse was revealed: 'How can God guide a people who disbelieved after their belief?' until His saying: 'Forgiving, Most Merciful.' So his people sent to him and he converted to Islam." 'Abd Al-Razzaq, Ibn Jarir and Ibn Al-Mundhir narrated something similar on the authority of Mujahid, and he said: He is Al-Harith Ibn Suwaid. 'Abd Ibn Hamid and Ibn Jarir narrated something similar on the authority of Al-Suddi. Ibn Ishaq and Ibn Al-Mundhir narrated something similar on the authority of Ibn Abbas. It was also narrated on the authority of a group similarly. Ibn Jarir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Al-'Awfi on the authority of Ibn Abbas regarding his statement: 'How can God guide a people who disbelieved after their belief?' He said: They are the People of the Book from the Jews who knew Muhammad then disbelieved in him. Abd bin Hamid, Ibn Jarir and Ibn Al-Mundhir narrated on the authority of Al-Hasan who said: They are the People of the Book from the Jews and Christians, and he mentioned something similar to what was mentioned above. Al-Bazzar narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas that some people converted to Islam then apostatized, then converted to Islam then apostatized, so they sent to their people asking for them, so they mentioned that to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and this verse was revealed: Indeed, those who disbelieved after their belief and then increased in disbelief Al-Suyuti said: This is a mistake by Al-Bazzar. Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of Al-Hasan regarding the verse, he said: The repentance of the Jews and Christians will not be accepted at the time of death. Abd bin Hamid, Ibn Jarir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Qatadah regarding the verse, he said: They are the Jews who disbelieved in the Gospel and Jesus, then increased in disbelief in Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and the Qur'an. Ibn Jarir, Ibn Al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Abu Al-Aliyah regarding the verse, he said: It was revealed about the Jews and Christians who disbelieved after their belief, then increased in disbelief due to sins they committed, then went to repent from those sins in their disbelief. If they had been on the right path, their repentance would have been accepted, but they are still misguided. Abd Ibn Humayd and Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of Mujahid regarding the words Then they increased in disbelief, he said: They grew in their disbelief. Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of Al-Suddi regarding the words Then they increased in disbelief, he said: They died while they were disbelievers. Their repentance will not be accepted, he said: If he repents at the time of his death, his repentance will not be accepted. Abd Ibn Humayd, Ibn Jarir, Ibn Al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Abu Al-Aliyah regarding the words Their repentance will not be accepted, he said: They continued committing sins but did not repent from the beginning. Ibn Jarir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Al-Hasan regarding the words And they died while they were disbelievers, he said: It refers to every disbeliever. Al-Bukhari, Muslim and others narrated on the authority of Anas, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace: "The disbeliever will be brought on the Day of Resurrection and it will be said to him: 'Tell me, if you had the earth full of gold, would you ransom yourself with it?' He will say: 'Yes.' It will be said to him: 'You were asked for something easier than that,' and that is what God Almighty said: 'Indeed, those who disbelieved and died while they were disbelievers' 17:10."

91- Indeed, those who disbelieved and died while they were disbelievers the verse.

If it is said: God has promised to accept the repentance of whoever repents, then what is the meaning of His saying: Their repentance will never be accepted, and it is those who are astray? It is said: Their repentance will not be accepted if they return in the state of witnessing, as He said: And repentance is not for those who do evil deeds until, when death approaches one of them, he says, 'Indeed, I have repented now' Surah An-Nisa, verse 18.

It was said: This is about the companions of Al-Harith bin Suwaid, when they refrained from Islam and said: We will wait for Muhammad, and if time helps him, we will return to his religion. But that will not be accepted from them because they are waiting and not certain, so those are the ones who are astray.

The Almighty said: Indeed, those who disbelieved and died while they were disbelievers - never will it be accepted from one of them an amount filling the earth, meaning: an amount that would fill the earth from east to west. Gold is in the accusative case as an explanation, like their saying: twenty dirhams. And if he ransomed himself with it, it was said that its meaning is if he ransomed himself with it, and the waw is an additional insertion. Those will have a painful punishment, and they will have no helpers.

Abdul Wahid bin Al-Malhi told us, Ahmad bin Abdullah Al-Nuaimi told us, Muhammad bin Yusuf told us, Muhammad bin Ismail told us, Muhammad bin Bashir told us, Ghundar told us, Shu'bah told us, on the authority of Abu Imran, who said: I heard Anas bin Malik, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "God will say to the one who will be least punished in Hell on the Day of al-Qiyamah 75: If you had everything on earth, would you ransom yourself with it? He will say: Yes. He will say: I wanted something easier than that from you while you were in the loins of Adam, that you would not associate anything with Me, but you refused except to associate anything with Me."

91 Indeed, those who disbelieved and died while they were disbelievers - never will an earth full of gold be accepted from one of them. Since death in disbelief was a reason for not accepting the ransom, the letter fa was inserted here to indicate this, and filling something is what fills it.

And gold is in the accusative case as a distinction. It is read in the nominative case as a substitute for filling or as a predicate for something omitted. And if he ransomed himself with it is based on the meaning as if it was said: No ransom will be accepted from any of them even if he ransomed himself with the earth full of gold, or it is conjoined with an implied meaning: No ransom will be accepted from any of them even if he ransomed himself with the earth full of gold even if he offered it in this world even if he ransomed himself with it from the punishment in the hereafter, or what is meant is if he ransomed himself with something similar, as in the saying of the Most High: Indeed, those who disbelieve, if they had all that is in the earth and something like it and the like is omitted and is often intended because two like things are considered one thing, those will have a painful punishment as an exaggeration in warning and despair because the one from whom the ransom is not accepted may be pardoned as a kindness, and they will have no helpers in repelling the punishment, and of is an additional word for comprehensiveness.

You will never attain righteousness until you spend from that which you love. And whatever you spend - indeed, God is Knowing of it.

Surat Al Imran 3:92

You will never attain righteousness until you spend from that which you love. And whatever you spend - indeed, God is Knowing of it.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

You will not attain righteousness meaning its reward, which is Paradise until you spend give charity out of what you love of your money and whatever you spend, indeed, God is Knowing of it so He will reward for it.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: By that, may His praise be glorified, He means: You, O believers, will not attain righteousness, which is righteousness from God, which they seek from Him through their obedience to Him and their worship of Him, and which they hope for from Him. This is His favor upon them by admitting them into His Paradise and turning away His punishment from them.

Therefore, many of the people of interpretation said that righteousness means Paradise, because the Lord's righteousness towards His servant in the afterlife is His honoring him by admitting him into Paradise.

Who said that?

Abu Kuraib told us, he said, Waki' told us, on the authority of Sharik, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Amr bin Maymun, regarding his statement: You will not attain righteousness, he said: Paradise.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Al-Hammani told us, he said, Sharik told us, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Amr bin Maymun, regarding his statement: You will never attain righteousness, he said: Righteousness is Paradise.

Muhammad bin Al-Hussein told us, Ahmad bin Al-Mufaddal told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi: You will not attain righteousness. As for righteousness, it is Paradise.

Abu Ja'far said: The interpretation of the statement is: You, O believers, will not attain the Paradise of your Lord, until you spend from what you love, meaning: until you give in charity from what you love and desire to have, from your most precious wealth, as:

from that which pleases you and from that which you desire of your wealth.

Muhammad bin Sinan told me, he said, Abu Bakr told us, on the authority of Ibad, on the authority of Al-Hasan, regarding his statement: You will not attain righteousness until you spend from what you love, he said: from money.

As for his statement: And whatever you spend, indeed, God is Knowing of it, he means by it: And whatever you spend, and give in charity from your wealth, then God, the Most High, mentioned that which the charitable among you gives in charity, and spends from what he loves of his wealth in the way of God and other than that, is Knowing, meaning: He has knowledge of all of that, nothing of it is hidden from Him, until He rewards its owner for it with his reward in the Hereafter, as:

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada: And whatever you spend, God is Knowing of it, meaning: It is preserved for you, God is Knowing of it, and is grateful for it.

In the same interpretation that we mentioned, a group of the Companions and Followers interpreted this verse.

Who said that?

Muhammad ibn Amr told us, Abu Asim told us, Isa told me, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding the statement of God Almighty: You will never attain righteousness until you spend from that which you love, he said: Umar ibn al-Khattab wrote to Abu Musa al-Ash'ari to buy him a slave girl from Jalula on the day that Madain Kisra was conquered in the fight against Sa'd ibn Abi Waqqas. Umar ibn al-Khattab called for her and said: God says: You will never attain righteousness until you spend from that which you love, so Umar freed her, and she is like the statement of God Almighty: And they give food, in spite of their love for it, to the poor, the orphan, and the captive (al-Insan 76:8), and And they give preference over themselves, even though they are in privation (al-Hashr 59:9).

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Abu Hudhayfah told us, he said, Shabl told us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, the same.

Ibn Bashar told us, he said, Ibn Abi Uday told us, on the authority of Hamid, on the authority of Anas bin Malik, he said: "When this verse was revealed: 'You will never attain righteousness until you spend from that which you love,' or this verse: 'Who is it that would loan God a goodly loan?'" (al-Baqarah 2:245, al-Hadid 57:11), Abu Talha said: O Messenger of God, my garden of such-and-such is charity, and if I could make it secret, I would not make it public! So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Give it to the poor of your family."

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Al-Hajaj bin Al-Munhal told us, he said, Hammad told us, on the authority of Thabit, on the authority of Anas bin Malik, he said:

"When this verse was revealed: 'You will not attain righteousness until you spend from that which you love,' Abu Talha said: O Messenger of God, God will ask us about our wealth. I bear witness that I have given my land in Jericho to God. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Give it to your relatives. So he gave it to Hassan bin Thabit and Ubayy bin Ka'b."

Imran bin Musa narrated, Abdul Warith narrated, Laith narrated, on the authority of Maimun bin Mihran: A man asked Abu Dharr: Which deeds are best? He said: Prayer is the pillar of Islam, jihad is the pinnacle of deeds, and charity is something amazing! He said: O Abu Dharr, you have left out something that is the most trustworthy deed in my heart, I do not see you mention it! He said: What is it? He said: Fasting! He said: An act of worship, but it is not there! And he recited this verse: By no means will you attain righteousness until you spend from that which you love.

Yunus told me, he said, Ibn Wahb told us, he said, Dawud ibn Abd al-Rahman al-Makki told me, on the authority of Abdullah ibn Abd al-Rahman ibn Abi Husayn, on the authority of Amr ibn Dinar, who said: "When this verse was revealed: 'You will never attain righteousness until you spend out of that which you love,' Zayd brought his horse called Sabl to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: Give this in charity, O Messenger of God. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, gave it to his son Usamah ibn Zayd ibn Haritha, and he said: O Messenger of God, I only wanted to give it in charity! The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: I have accepted your charity."

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said, Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said, Muammar told us, on the authority of Ayoub and others: "When the verse, 'You will not attain righteousness until you spend from that which you love' was revealed, Zaid bin Haritha came with a horse of his that he loved, and he said: O Messenger of God, this is for the sake of God. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, mounted Usama bin Zaid on it, and it was as if Zaid felt something in his heart, and when the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, saw that from him, he said: Indeed, God has accepted it."

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

There are two issues:

First: The imams narrated, and the wording is from Al-Nasa'i, on the authority of Anas, who said:

When this verse was revealed, You will never attain righteousness until you spend from that which you love. Abu Talha said: Our Lord asks us about our wealth, so I bear witness, O Messenger of God, that I have dedicated my land to God. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Dedicate it to your relatives, Hassan bin Thabit and Ubayy bin Ka'b. In Al-Muwatta', the most beloved of his wealth to him was Bayruha', which faced the mosque. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, used to enter it and drink from its pure water. And he mentioned the hadith. In this verse, there is evidence of the use of the apparent and general address, for the Companions, may God be pleased with them all, did not understand anything other than that from the meaning of the address when the verse was revealed. Do you not see that when Abu Talha heard, You will never attain righteousness until you spend, he did not need to stop until he explained what God wants His servants to spend from with another verse or a clear Sunnah, for they love many things. And Zaid bin Haritha did the same.

He took a horse called Subul from what he loved and said: O God, You know that I have no wealth more beloved to me than this horse of mine. So he brought it to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: This is for the sake of God. So he said to Usama bin Zaid, Take it. Zaid seemed to feel bad about that. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: God has accepted it from you. Asad bin Musa mentioned it. Ibn Umar freed his freed slave Nafi', and Abdullah bin Ja'far had given him a thousand dinars for him. Safiyya bint Abi Ubaid said: I think he interpreted the words of God, the Almighty: You will never attain righteousness until you spend from that which you love. Shibl narrated on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh on the authority of Mujahid who said: Umar ibn al-Khattab wrote to Abu Musa al-Ash'ari to buy him a slave girl from the captives of Jalula on the day of the conquest of Mada'in Kisra, in the fight against Sa'd ibn Abi Waqqas. Umar called for her and she pleased him, so he said: God the Almighty says: You will never attain righteousness until you spend from that which you love. So Umar, may God be pleased with him, freed her. It was narrated on the authority of al-Thawri that he heard that the mother of the slave girl al-Rabi' ibn Khaitham said: When a beggar came to him, he would say to me: O so-and-so, give the beggar some sugar, for al-Rabi' loves sugar. Sufyan said: He interprets the words of God the Almighty: You will never attain righteousness until you spend from that which you love. It was narrated on the authority of Umar ibn Abdul Aziz that he used to buy quantities of sugar and give it in charity. It was said to him: Why don't you give its value in charity? He said: Because sugar is dearer to me, so I wanted to spend from that which I love. Al-Hassan said: You will not attain what you love except by abandoning what you desire, and you will not attain what you hope for except by being patient with what you hate.

Second: They differed in the interpretation of righteousness. It was said that it means Paradise, according to Ibn Masoud, Ibn Abbas, Ata, Mujahid, Amr ibn Maymun, and As-Suddi. The meaning is that you will not attain the reward of righteousness until you spend from what you love. And giving is giving, from your saying I gave him a giving. And a favor reached me from so-and-so, meaning it reached me. So the meaning is that you will not reach Paradise and be given it until you spend from what you love. And it was said: Righteousness is righteous action. And in the authentic hadith:

You must be truthful, for it leads to righteousness, and

You will never attain righteousness until you spend from that which you love. And whatever you spend - indeed, God is Knowing of it.

righteousness leads to Paradise. This has already been mentioned in Surat Al-Baqarah. Atiyah Al-Awfi said: It means obedience. Ata' said: You will not attain the honor of religion and piety until you give in charity while you are healthy and miserly, hoping for a living and fearing poverty. And from Al-Hasan: Until you spend is the obligatory zakat. Mujahid and Al-Kalbi: It is abrogated, abrogated by the verse on zakat. And it was said: The meaning is until you spend from what you love in the way of goodness, whether in charity or other acts of obedience, and this is comprehensive. And An-Nasa'i narrated on the authority of Sa'sa'ah bin Mu'awiyah, who said:

A Muslim slave who spends from all his wealth in the way of God, two pairs will be received by the guardians of Paradise, all of them calling him to what they have. I said: How is that? He said: If it is camels, then two camels, and if it is cows, then two cows. Abu Bakr al-Warraq said: This verse showed them the virtue of chivalry. That is, you will not attain My kindness to you except by being kind to your brothers and spending on them from your wealth and status. So if you do that, My kindness and compassion will attain you. Mujahid said: It is like His statement: {And they give food, in spite of their love for it, to the poor. And whatever you spend - indeed, God is Knowing of it.} That is, if He knows, He will reward for it.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

Waki' narrated in his interpretation on the authority of Sharik, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Amr ibn Maymun, You will never attain righteousness, he said: Paradise. Imam Ahmad said: Ruh told us, Malik told us, on the authority of Ishaq ibn Abdullah ibn Abi Talhah, he heard Anas ibn Malik say: Abu Talhah was the wealthiest of the Ansar in Medina, and the most beloved of his wealth to him was Bayra'a, which was facing the mosque. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, used to enter it and drink from its pure water. Anas said: When the verse, You will never attain righteousness until you spend from that which you love, was revealed, Abu Talhah said: O Messenger of God, God says, You will never attain righteousness until you spend from that which you love, and the most beloved of my wealth to me is Bayra'a, and it is a charity for God, and I hope for its righteousness and its storage with God Almighty, so put it, O Messenger of God, where God wills you to put it. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said, "Good, good, that is profitable wealth, that is profitable wealth, and I heard and I think that you should put it in The closest relatives, Abu Talha said, I will, O Messenger of God. So Abu Talha divided it among his relatives and cousins. They both narrated it. In the two Sahih, it is narrated that Umar said, "O Messenger of God, I have never acquired wealth that is more precious to me than my share in Khaybar. What do you command me to do with it?" He said, Keep the principal and distribute the fruits. Al-Hafiz Abu Bakr al-Bazzar said: Abu al-Khattab Ziyad ibn Yahya al-Hassani narrated to us, Yazid ibn Harun narrated to us, Muhammad ibn Amr narrated to us, on the authority of Abu Amr ibn Hamas, on the authority of Hamza ibn Abdullah ibn Omar, who said: Abdullah said: This verse came to my mind: You will not attain righteousness until you spend from that which you love. So I remembered what God had given me, and I did not find anything more beloved to me than a Roman slave girl of mine. I said: She is free for the sake of God. If I were to return to something that I had given to God, I would marry her, meaning I married her.

This is a renewed speech addressing the believers after mentioning what does not benefit the disbelievers. His statement, "You will never attain righteousness." It is said: "A favor from so-and-so has reached me. And an-Nawal means giving, from your saying, I bestowed upon him a favor, meaning, I gave him. And an-Nawal" means righteous deeds. Ibn Mas'ud, Ibn Abbas, Ata', Mujahid, Amr ibn Maymun, and As-Suddi said: It is Paradise. So the meaning of the verse, "You will never attain righteous deeds or Paradise," means, you will not reach that and attain it until you spend from what you love, meaning until your spending is from your money that you love. 92- "Min is a particle, and this is supported by the reading of Ibn Mas'ud, until they spend some of what you love." It was said: It is explanatory. "And" is a relative or a description, and what is meant is spending in the way of goodness from charity or other acts of obedience. It was said: What is meant is the obligatory zakat. His saying, of anything, is an explanation of his saying, whatever you spend, meaning: whatever you spend of anything, whether good or bad, then indeed, God is Knowing of it. "What" is a conditional particle that makes it imperative. His saying, then indeed, God is Knowing of it, is an explanation of the answer to the condition, and it is in its place.

Al-Bukhari, Muslim and others narrated on the authority of Anas that "when this verse was revealed, Abu Talha came to the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) and said: O Messenger of God, the most beloved of my possessions to me is Bir Ha', and it is charity." The hadith has been narrated with different wordings. Abd ibn Humayd and Al-Bazzar narrated on the authority of Ibn Umar who said: This verse came to my mind: You will never attain righteousness until you spend from that which you love. So I remembered what God had given me and found nothing more beloved to me than Marjana, my Roman slave girl. I said: She is free for the sake of God, so if I were to seek refuge in something that I have made for God, I would marry her. So I married her to Nafi'." Abd ibn Humayd and Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of Umar ibn Al-Khattab that he wrote to Abu Musa Al-Ash'ari to buy him a slave girl from the captives of Jalula. Umar called for her and said: God says: You will never attain righteousness until you spend from that which you love. So Umar freed her. Sa'id ibn Mansur, 'Abd ibn Humayd, Ibn al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated: When the verse was revealed, Zayd ibn Haritha came with his horse called Subul, and he had no wealth that he loved more than it, so he said: It is charity. Ibn al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud regarding the words of God the Almighty: You will never attain righteousness, he said: Paradise. Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of 'Amr ibn Maymun and al-Suddi something similar. Ibn al-Mundhir narrated on the authority of Masruq something similar.

92- The Almighty's saying: You will never attain righteousness means: Paradise. This was said by Ibn Abbas, Ibn Masoud, and Mujahid. Muqatil bin Hayyan said: Piety. It was said: Obedience. It was said: Goodness. Al-Hasan said: That you be righteous.

Muhammad ibn Abdullah al-Salihi told us, I told Abu Bakr Ahmad ibn al-Hasan al-Hayri, I told Hajib ibn Ahmad al-Tusi, Muhammad ibn Hammad told us, he said: Abu Muawiyah told us, on the authority of al-A'mash, on the authority of Shaqiq, on the authority of Abdullah, may God be pleased with him, he said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "Be truthful, for truthfulness leads to righteousness, and righteousness leads to Paradise. A man continues to tell the truth and strives for truthfulness until he is recorded with God as truthful. Beware of lying, for lying leads to immorality, and immorality leads to Hellfire. A man continues to tell lies and strives for lies until he is recorded with God as a liar."

The Almighty says: Until you spend from what you love meaning: from the most beloved of your wealth to you. Ad-Dahhak narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas: What is meant by this is paying zakat.

Mujahid and Al-Kalbi said: This verse was abrogated by the verse on zakat. Al-Hasan said: Every expenditure by which a Muslim seeks the pleasure of God, even fruit, he attains this righteousness. Ata' said: You will not attain righteousness, meaning: the honor of religion and piety, until you give charity while you are healthy and miserly.

Abu al-Hasan al-Sarakhsi told us, I told Zahir ibn Ahmad, I told Abu Ishaq al-Hashemi, I told Abu Mus'ab, on the authority of Malik, on the authority of Ishaq ibn 'Abdullah ibn Abi Talhah, that he heard Anas ibn Malik say: Abu Talhah al-Ansari was the wealthiest of the Ansar in Madinah, and the most beloved of his wealth to him was Bayra', which was facing the mosque, and the Messenger of God (may God bless him and grant him peace) used to enter it and drink from its pure water. Anas said: When this verse was revealed: You will never attain righteousness until you spend from that which you love, Abu Talhah went to the Messenger of God (may God bless him and grant him peace) and said: "O Messenger of God, God the Most High says in His Book: 'You will never attain righteousness until you spend from that which you love,' and the most beloved of my wealth to me is Bayra', and it is a charity for God, and I hope for its reward and its storage with God. So spend it, O Messenger of God, wherever you wish." The Messenger of God (may God bless him and grant him peace) said: Good, good, that is profitable wealth. Or he said: That is profitable wealth, and I have heard what you said about it, and I think that you should give it to your relatives. Abu Talhah said: I will do it, O Messenger of God. So Abu Talhah divided it among... His relatives and cousins.

It was narrated on the authority of Mujahid that he said: Umar ibn al-Khattab, may God be pleased with him, wrote to Abu Musa al-Ash'ari to buy him a slave girl from the captives of Jalula on the day it was conquered. He called for her and she pleased him, so he said: God Almighty says: You will not attain righteousness until you spend from that which you love. So Umar freed her.

On the authority of Hamza bin Abdullah bin Omar, he said: This verse came to the mind of Abdullah bin Omar: You will never attain righteousness until you spend from that which you love. Ibn Omar said: So I remembered what God Almighty had given me, and nothing was more amazing to me than so-and-so, who is free for the sake of God Almighty. He said: If it were not for the fact that I would not go back on something that I had given to God, I would have married her.

And whatever you spend, God is Knowing of it, meaning: He knows it and will reward for it.

92 "You will never attain righteousness" meaning you will never attain the true righteousness which is the perfection of goodness, or you will never attain the righteousness of God the Most High which is mercy, pleasure and Paradise. "Until you spend from that which you love" meaning money, or what is general and other than that, such as spending one's status in helping people, one's body in obeying God and one's life in His path. It was narrated that "when this was revealed, Abu Talha came and said: O Messenger of God, the most beloved of my wealth to me is Bayruha, so put it where God shows you. He said: Good, good, that is profitable or profitable wealth, and I think that you should give it to your relatives. Zaid ibn Haritha came with a horse that he loved and said: This is for the sake of God. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, loaded Usama ibn Zaid on it. Zaid said: I only wanted to give it in charity. He, peace be upon him, said: God has accepted it from you." This indicates that spending the most beloved wealth on the closest of relatives is better, and that the verse includes obligatory and recommended spending. Some of what you love was read, and it indicates that min is for partiality and may be for clarification. And whatever you spend of anything meaning of anything beloved or otherwise, and min is for clarifying what. God is Knowing of it so He will reward you according to it.

Surat Al Imran 3:93

All food was lawful to the Children of Israel, except what Israel had forbidden to himself before the Torah was revealed. Say, "Then bring the Torah and recite it, if you should be truthful."

Surat Al Imran 3:93

All food was lawful to the Children of Israel, except what Israel had forbidden to himself before the Torah was revealed. Say, "Then bring the Torah and recite it, if you should be truthful."

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And it was revealed when the Jews said that you claim that you follow the religion of Abraham and he did not eat camel meat or milk: All food was lawful permissible for the Children of Israel except what Israel Jacob forbade himself which is camels when he had sciatica with the fat-ha and the qasr, so he vowed that if he recovered he would not eat them, so they were forbidden to him before the Torah was revealed and that was after Abraham and it was not forbidden during his time as they claimed Say to them Then bring the Torah and recite it so that the truth of your statement if you are truthful in it becomes clear, so they were dumbfounded and did not bring it. God Almighty said:

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: By that, may His praise be glorified, He means that nothing of the foods were forbidden to the Children of Israel - and they are the descendants of Jacob, son of Isaac, son of Abraham, the friend of the Most Merciful - before the Torah was revealed. Rather, all of that was permissible for them except what Jacob had forbidden for himself, for his descendants forbade it in imitation of their father Jacob, without God forbidding it to them in revelation or sending down, nor on the tongue of a messenger of His to them, before the Torah was revealed.

Then the people of interpretation differed about the prohibition of that for them. Was it revealed in the Torah or not?

Some of them said: When God Almighty revealed the Torah, He forbade them from that which they had forbidden before it was revealed.

Who said that?

Muhammad ibn al-Husayn told me, Ahmad ibn al-Mufaddal told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of al-Suddi, who said: "All food was lawful to the Children of Israel except what Israel had forbidden to himself before the Torah was revealed. Say, 'Bring the Torah and recite it, if you should be truthful.'" The Jews said: We only forbid what Israel had forbidden to himself. Israel only forbade the veins. He used to suffer from sciatica. He used to take it at night and leave it during the day. So he swore that if God spared him from it, he would never eat a vein again. So God forbade it to them. Then He said: Say, 'Bring the Torah and recite it, if you should be truthful.' None has forbidden this to you except Me because of your transgression. That is what God said: But because of wrongdoing on the part of the Jews, We prohibited for them [certain] good things which had been lawful to them (An-Nisa': 160).

Abu Ja'far said: The interpretation of the verse according to this statement is: All food was lawful to the Children of Israel except what Israel had forbidden to himself before the Torah was revealed. For God forbade them from that what Israel had forbidden to himself in the Torah, because of their transgression and injustice towards themselves. Say, O Muhammad: So bring, O Jews, if you deny that, the Torah and recite it, if you are truthful, that God did not forbid that to you in the Torah, and that you only forbid it because Israel forbade it to himself.

Others said: None of that was forbidden to them, nor did God forbid it to them in the Torah. Rather, it was something they forbade themselves in following their father, then they attributed its prohibition to God. So God Almighty belied them in attributing that to Him. So God Almighty said to our Prophet Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace: Say to them, O Muhammad: If you are truthful, then bring the Torah and recite it so that we may see whether that is in it or not. So their lie will be clear to those who are ignorant of their matter.

Who said that?

It was narrated on the authority of Al-Husayn ibn Al-Faraj who said, I heard Abu Muadh who said, Ubayd ibn Sulayman told us who said, I heard Ad-Dahhak say about His statement, Except what Israel had forbidden to himself, Israel is Jacob. He was afflicted with sciatica and would not sleep at night because of the pain, but it did not bother him during the day. So he swore that if God healed him he would never eat a plant again. This was before the Torah was revealed to Moses. So the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, asked the Jews: What is it that Israel had forbidden to himself? They said: The Torah was revealed with the prohibition of what Israel had forbidden. So God said to Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace: "Say, 'Bring the Torah and recite it, if you should be truthful.'" until His statement, For those are the wrongdoers. They lied and fabricated. The Torah was not revealed with that.

The interpretation of the verse according to this statement is: All food was lawful to the Children of Israel before the Torah was revealed and after it was revealed, except what Israel made unlawful to himself before the Torah was revealed. Meaning: But Israel made some of that unlawful to himself before the Torah was revealed. It is as if Ad-Dahhak directed his statement: except what Israel made unlawful to himself to the exception that grammarians call the discontinuous exception.

Others said: The interpretation of that is: All food was permissible for the Children of Israel except what Israel forbade himself before the Torah was revealed, for that was forbidden to his son because Israel forbade it to his son, without God forbidding it to Israel or his son.

Who said that?

Muhammad ibn Saad told me, he said, my father told me, he said, my uncle told me, he said, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, his saying: All food was lawful to the Children of Israel except what Israel made unlawful to himself, for he made the veins unlawful to himself, because he suffered from sciatica and would not sleep at night, so he said: By God, if God cures me of it, no child of mine will eat it. And it is not written in the Torah! Muhammad, peace and blessings be upon him, asked a group of the People of the Book, saying: Why is this unlawful? They said: It was unlawful to us from the Book. Then God Almighty said: All food was lawful to the Children of Israel to if you are truthful.

Al-Qasim told us, Al-Husayn told us, Hajjaj told me, Ibn Jurayj said, Ibn Abbas said: He - meaning Israel - suffered from sciatica, so he would not sleep at night because of the severity of the pain, and it did not bother him during the day, so he swore that if God healed him he would never eat sciatica again, and that was before the Torah was revealed. So the Jews said to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace: The Torah was revealed prohibiting what Israel prohibited for himself. God said to Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace: "Say: Bring the Torah and recite it, if you should be truthful," and they lied, it is not in the Torah.

Abu Ja'far said: The most correct of the sayings on this matter, in our view, is the saying of the one who said: The meaning of this is: All food was permissible for the Children of Israel before the Torah was revealed, except for what Israel forbade for himself without God forbidding it to him, for it was forbidden to them because their father Israel forbade it to them, without God forbidding it to them in any revelation or revelation before the Torah, until the Torah was revealed, and God forbade them in it whatever He willed, and permitted them in it whatever He liked.

This is a statement made by a group of interpreters, and it is the meaning of the statement of Ibn Abbas that we mentioned before.

Some of those who said that said:

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: All food was lawful to the Children of Israel except what Israel had forbidden to himself before the Torah was revealed, and Israel is Jacob. Say, 'Bring the Torah and recite it, if you should be truthful,' meaning: All food was lawful to the Children of Israel before the Torah was revealed, except what Israel had forbidden to himself. Then when God revealed the Torah, He forbade them whatever He wanted and permitted them whatever He wanted.

It was narrated on the authority of Ammar, who said: Ibn Abi Ja'far narrated to us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Qatada, something similar.

The people of interpretation differed about what Israel forbade himself.

Some of them said: What Israel forbade himself was the veins.

Who said that?

Yaqub ibn Ibrahim told me, Hisham told us, Abu Bishr told us, on the authority of Yusuf ibn Mahak, who said: A Bedouin came to Ibn Abbas and said that he had made his wife forbidden to him, so he said: She is not forbidden to you. The Bedouin said: Why, while God says in His Book: All food was lawful to the Children of Israel except what Israel made unlawful to himself? Ibn Abbas laughed and said: How do you know what Israel made unlawful to himself? He said: Then he turned to the people and told them, and said: Israel was exposed to women and they made him weak, so he made a vow to God that if God healed him from them he would not eat a vein. He said: That is why the Jews remove veins from meat.

Ibn Bashir told us, he said, Muhammad ibn Ja'far told us, he said, Shu'bah told us, on the authority of Abu Bishr, he said: I heard Yusuf ibn Mahak narrating: A Bedouin came to Ibn `Abbas and mentioned a man who had forbidden his wife, so he said: She is not forbidden. The Bedouin said: What do you think of the statement of God, the Almighty: All food was lawful to the Children of Israel except what Israel had forbidden to himself? He said: Israel had sciatica, so he swore that if God cured him he would not eat the veins of meat, and they are not forbidden to you.

Yaqub ibn Ibrahim told me, he said, Ibn Ulayyah told us, on the authority of Sulayman al-Taymi, on the authority of Abu Majlaz, regarding his statement: All food was lawful to the Children of Israel except what Israel had forbidden to himself, he said: Yaqub was afflicted with sciatica, so he made a vow to God - or he swore, or he made an oath - that he would not eat any animal. He said: And all the veins are subject to that vein.

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, he said: It was mentioned to us that what Israel forbade himself was that women took him one night and kept him awake, so he swore that God had healed him that he would never eat women again, so his sons followed the veins after that, extracting them from the flesh.

It was narrated on the authority of Ammar, who said: Ibn Abi Ja'far narrated to us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Qatada, in a similar manner, and he added to it: He said: He swore that if God healed him, he would never eat a vein again. So his sons began to trace the veins after that and extract them from the meat. And what he had forbidden himself before the Torah was revealed was the veins.

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said: Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said: Muammar told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: Except what Israel had forbidden to himself, he said: Israel complained of sciatica and said: God has healed me, so I will forbid the veins! So he forbade them.

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, Abd al-Razzaq told us,

All food was lawful to the Children of Israel, except what Israel had forbidden to himself before the Torah was revealed. Say, "Then bring the Torah and recite it, if you should be truthful."

Sufyan al-Thawri told us, on the authority of Habib bin Abi Thabit, on the authority of Saeed bin Jubair, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: Israel was afflicted with sciatica, so he used to have a waterskin for himself every night. He made a vow to God that if he cured him, he would not eat the waterskin. Then God Almighty revealed: All food was lawful to the Children of Israel, except what Israel had forbidden to himself. Sufyan said: It had a waterskin, meaning: a screaming sound.

Muhammad bin Amr told me, he said, Abu Asim told us, on the authority of Isa, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding his statement: Except what Israel had forbidden to himself, he said: He was suffering from sciatica, so he forbade the veins.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Abu Hudhayfah told us, he said, Shabi told us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, similarly.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Jarir told us, on the authority of Mansur, on the authority of Habib bin Abi Thabit, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding his statement: All food was lawful for the Children of Israel except what Israel had forbidden to himself before the Torah was revealed, he said: Israel was afflicted with sciatica, so he would sleep with a waterskin, so he forbade himself from eating sciatica.

Others said: Rather, the one who was Israel forbade himself the meat and milk of camels.

Who said that?

Al-Qasim told us, Al-Husayn told us, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, on the authority of Abdullah ibn Kathir, who said: We heard that he complained of a complaint, and they said: It is sciatica. So he said: O Lord, the food I love most is camel meat and milk, so if You cure me, then I forbid them to myself. Ibn Jurayj said: And Ata ibn Abi Rabah said: The meat and milk of camels were forbidden to Israel.

Muhammad ibn Sinan told us, he said, Abu Bakr al-Hanafi told us, he said, Ibad told us, on the authority of al-Hasan, regarding his statement: All food was lawful to the Children of Israel, he said: Israel had forbidden himself camel meat, and they claimed that they would find in the Torah a prohibition of Israel from camel meat. But Israel had forbidden himself camel meat before the Torah was revealed, so God said: Then bring the Torah and recite it, if you should be truthful, and He said: You will not find in the Torah a prohibition of Israel from himself, meaning camel meat.

Muhammad ibn Bashir told us, Yahya ibn Saeed told us, Sufyan told us, Habib ibn Abi Thabit told us, Saeed told us, on the authority of Ibn Abbas: That Israel was afflicted with sciatica, and he would spend the night crying out in the open - meaning: screaming - he said: So he vowed to himself that if God cured him of it, he would not eat it - meaning: camel meat - he said: So the Jews forbade it, and he recited this verse: "All food was lawful to the Children of Israel except what Israel had forbidden to himself before the Torah was revealed. Say: 'Bring the Torah and recite it, if you should be truthful'" meaning: This was before the Torah.

Abu Kuraib told us, he said, Yahya bin Isa told us, on the authority of Al-A'mash, on the authority of Habib, on the authority of Saeed bin Jubair, on the authority of Ibn Abbas regarding: Except what Israel made unlawful for himself, he said: He made unlawful the veins and the meat of camels. He said: He had sciatica, so he ate some of its meat and spent the night vomiting, so he swore that he would never eat it again.

Abu Kuraib told us, he said, Waki' told us, on the authority of Israel, on the authority of Jabir, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding his statement: Except what Israel made unlawful for himself. He said: He made unlawful the meat of livestock.

Abu Ja'far said: The most correct of these statements is the statement of Ibn 'Abbas, which was narrated by Al-A'mash, on the authority of Habib, on the authority of Sa'id, on his authority: That is, the veins and the meat of camels, because the Jews are unanimously agreed to this day on their prohibition, just as they were in their early days. And a report similar to this has been narrated from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, which is: What:

Abu Kuraib narrated to us, saying: Yunus bin Bakir narrated to us, on the authority of Abdul Hamid bin Bahram, on the authority of Shahr bin Hawshab, on the authority of Ibn Abbas: "A group of Jews attended the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: O Abu al-Qasim, tell us which food Israel forbade himself before the Torah was revealed? The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: I ask you by the One who revealed the Torah to Moses, do you know that Israel, Jacob, fell seriously ill and his illness lasted a long time, so he made a vow to God that if God cured him of his illness, he would forbid himself the most beloved food and drink to him, and the most beloved food to him was camel meat, and the most beloved drink to him was camel milk? They said: By God, yes."

As for his saying: "Say: 'Bring the Torah and recite it, if you should be truthful,'" its meaning is: Say, O Muhammad, to those Jews who claim that God has forbidden them in the Torah the veins, meat, and milk of camels: Bring the Torah and recite it. He says: Say to them: Bring the Torah and recite it, so that it becomes clear to whoever is unaware of their lie and their false claim about God regarding their affair: that this is not what I revealed in the Torah, if you should be truthful. He says: If you are right in your claim that God revealed the prohibition of that in the Torah, then bring it to us and recite the prohibition of that to us from it.

Rather, this is a report from God about their lie, because they never come with that in its correct form. So God informed His Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, of their lie against Him, and made His informing him of that a proof for Him against them. Because that was hidden from many of the people of their religion, and Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, who was illiterate and not from their religion, had God not informed him of that through revelation from Him, it would have been more appropriate for him not to know it. So that was for him, one of the greatest proofs against them that he was a Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, to them. Because that was from the reports of their predecessors, it was from the hidden knowledge of theirs that no one knew except a select few of them, except for the one whom He informed, from whom nothing is hidden, of a prophet or messenger, or whomever God informed of His knowledge from among His creation He willed.

It has four issues:

The first: The Almighty's saying: lawful meaning lawful, then He made an exception and said: Except what Israel made unlawful for himself. He is Jacob, peace be upon him. In Al-Tirmidhi, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, the Jews said to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace:

Tell us, what did Israel forbid himself? He said: He lived among the Bedouins and complained of sciatica, and he did not find anything that suited him except camel meat and milk, so he forbade them. They said: You are right. And he mentioned the hadith. And it is said: He vowed that if he recovered from it, he would give up the food and drink he loved most, and the food and drink he loved most were camel meat and milk. Ibn Abbas, Mujahid, Qatada and Al-Suddi said: Jacob, peace be upon him, came from Harran intending to go to Jerusalem when he fled from his brother Esau. He was a strong and powerful man. A king met him and Jacob thought he was a thief, so he tried to defeat him. The king nudged Jacob's thigh, peace be upon him. Then the king ascended to heaven while Jacob was looking at him. He suffered from sciatica, which caused him severe suffering. He could not sleep at night because of the pain and would spend the night screaming. Jacob, peace be upon him, swore that if God, the Almighty, healed him, he would not eat a vein or eat food that contained a vein, so he forbade it to himself. After that, his sons would follow the veins and extract them from the flesh. The reason for the king's nudging of Jacob was that he had vowed that if God gave him twelve sons and he came to Jerusalem healthy, he would slaughter the last one. This was done to fulfill his vow, according to Ad-Dahhak.

Second: There is a difference of opinion as to whether the prohibition was imposed by Jacob based on his own efforts or by permission from God Almighty?

The first correct opinion is that God the Almighty added the prohibition to it by His saying: Except what He has forbidden. And that if the Prophet's ijihad leads him to something, it is a religion that we must follow because God the Almighty has confirmed it for him. And just as it is revealed to him and it is necessary to follow it, likewise he is given permission to exert himself, and the result of his ijihad is determined if he is able to do so. And if permission had not been given to him to prohibit that, he would not have climbed over the ladder of making it permissible and forbidden. And our Prophet, may God's prayers and peace be upon him, prohibited honey according to the authentic narration, or his servant Maria, but God did not approve of his prohibition and revealed: You have not forbidden what God has made lawful for you, as will be explained in the prohibition. Al-Kaya al-Tabari said: It can be said: The general meaning of God the Almighty's saying: You have not forbidden what God has made lawful, requires that it is not specific to Maria. Al-Shafi'i saw that the obligation of expiation in that is not reasonable in meaning, so he made it specific to the place of the text. Abu Hanifa saw that as a principle in the prohibition of everything permissible and treated it as an oath.

Third: The Almighty's saying: Say: Then bring the Torah and recite it, if you should be truthful. Ibn Abbas said: When Jacob, peace be upon him, was afflicted with sciatica, the doctors prescribed that he avoid camel meat, but he forbade it to himself. The Jews said: We only forbid ourselves camel meat because Jacob forbade it and God revealed its prohibition in the Torah. So God revealed this verse. Ad-Dahhak said: God denied them and responded to them, saying: O Muhammad, "Say: Then bring the Torah and recite it, if you should be truthful." But they did not.

Imam Ahmad said: Hisham bin Al-Qasim told us, Abdul Hamid told us, Shahr told us, he said: Ibn Abbas said: "A group of Jews attended the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and they said: Tell us about characteristics that we ask you about, which only a prophet knows. He said: Ask me about whatever you wish, but give me the protection of God, and what Jacob took from his sons, if I tell you something and you understand it, you will follow me in Islam. They said: That is for you. He said: Ask me about whatever you wish. They said: Tell us about four characteristics: Tell us what food Israel forbade himself? And how is the woman's water and the man's water? And how is the male and female from it? And tell us how this illiterate prophet sleeps, and who is his guardian from the angels? So he took a covenant from them that if he told them, they would follow him. He said: I ask you by the One who sent down the Torah to Moses, do you know that Israel fell seriously ill and his illness lasted a long time, so he made a vow to God that if God cured him of his illness To forbid the most beloved food and drink to him, while the most beloved food to him was camel meat, and the most beloved drink to him was camel milk? They said: O God, yes. He said: O God, bear witness against them. He said: I ask you by God, there is no god but Him, Who sent down the Torah to Moses, do you know that the man's semen is white and thick, and the woman's semen is yellow and thin, so whichever of them is higher will have the child, and the resemblance is by God's permission. If the man's semen rises above the woman's semen, it will be a boy, by God's permission, and if the woman's semen rises above the man's semen, it will be a girl, by God's permission? They said: Yes. He said: O God, bear witness against them. He said: I ask you by Him Who sent down the Torah to Moses, do you know that the eyes of this unlettered prophet sleep but his heart does not? They said: O God, yes. He said: O God, bear witness. They said: And you now, tell us who is your guardian among the angels? Then we will have intercourse with you and leave you. He said: My guardian is Gabriel, and God never sent a prophet except that he was his guardian. They said: Then we will leave you. If your guardian were other than him, we would have followed you. Then God Almighty said: "Say: Who is an enemy to Gabriel?" The verse, and Ahmad also narrated it on the authority of Hussein bin Muhammad on the authority of Abdul Hamid on his authority.

All food was lawful to the Children of Israel, except what Israel had forbidden to himself before the Torah was revealed. Say, "Then bring the Torah and recite it, if you should be truthful."

Another way Ahmad said: Abu Ahmad al-Zubayri told us, Abdullah ibn al-Waleed al-Ajli told us, on the authority of Bakir ibn Shihab, on the authority of Saeed ibn Jubayr, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: "The Jews came to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: O Abu al-Qasim, we ask you about five things. If you inform us of them, we will know that you are a prophet and we will follow you. So he took from them what Israel took from his sons when he said: 'And God is witness over what we say.' He said: Bring them. They said: Tell us about the sign of the Prophet. He said: His eyes sleep but his heart does not sleep. They said: Tell us how a woman becomes feminine and how she becomes masculine? He said: The two waters meet, so if the man's water rises above the woman's water, she becomes masculine, and if the woman's water rises above the man's water, she becomes feminine. They said: Tell us what Israel forbade himself? He said: He used to suffer from sciatica, and he did not find anything that suited him except the milk of such-and-such - Ahmad said: Some of them said: He meant camels - so he forbade their meat. They said: You have spoken the truth. They said: Tell us, what is this thunder? He said: An angel. From the angels of God, the Almighty, he is entrusted with the clouds. In his hand - or in his hands - is a whip of fire with which he drives the clouds, driving them where God, the Almighty, commands them. They said: What is this voice that is heard? He said: His voice. They said: You have spoken the truth. There is only one thing left, and it is the one that we will follow if you inform us of it. There is no prophet but that he has an angel who brings him report. So inform us who is your companion? He said: Gabriel, peace be upon him. They said: Gabriel, that one, descends with war, fighting and torment, our enemy. If you had said: Michael, who descends with mercy, plants and rain, it would have been... Then God Almighty revealed: "Say: Whoever is an enemy to Gabriel - for indeed, he has brought it down upon your heart by permission of God, confirming what was before it and as guidance and good tidings for the believers." And the verse after it. Al-Tirmidhi and Al-Nasa'i narrated it from the hadith of Abdullah bin Al-Waleed Al-Ajli, with a similar meaning. Al-Tirmidhi said: It is strange. Ibn Jurayj and Al-Awfi said on the authority of Ibn Abbas: Israel, peace be upon him - he is Jacob - was afflicted with sciatica at night, and it would disturb him and prevent him from sleeping, and the pain would go away from him during the day, so he vowed to God that if God healed him, he would not eat a vein nor would a child eat one that had a vein. And this is what Al-Dahhak and Al-Suddi said. This is how Ibn Jarir narrated it and related it in his interpretation. He said: His sons followed him in forbidding that, following his example and imitating his method. He said: And his saying before he... "The Torah was revealed" means that he forbade himself from that before the Torah was revealed. I said: This context, after it was presented, has two reasons: One of them is that Israel, peace be upon him, forbade the things he loved most and left them for God, and this was permissible in their law, so it has a reason after his saying: You will not attain righteousness until you spend from that which you love. This is what is permissible according to us, which is spending in obedience to God from that which the servant loves and desires, as God Almighty said: And he gives wealth, in spite of his love for it. God Almighty also said: And they feed the poor, in spite of their love for it.

The second occasion When the statement of the response to the Christians, their false belief in the Messiah, and the clarification of the falsehood of what they went to and the emergence of the truth and certainty in the matter of Jesus and his mother, how God created him with His power and will and sent him to the Children of Israel calling to the worship of His Lord, the Blessed and Most High, began to respond to the Jews, may God curse them, and to clarify that the abrogation that they denied had occurred and was permissible, for God Almighty stated in their book, the Torah, that when Noah, peace be upon him, left the ship, God permitted him to eat from all the animals of the earth, then after this Israel forbade himself the meat and milk of camels, and his sons followed him in that, and the Torah came with the prohibition of that, and other things in addition to that, and God Almighty had permitted Adam to marry his daughters to his sons, and He prohibited that after that, and taking a wife as a concubine was permissible in the law of Abraham, peace be upon him, and Abraham did it with Hagar when he took her as a concubine to Sarah, and something like this was prohibited for them in the Torah, and likewise the union of two sisters It is permissible, and Jacob, peace be upon him, did it, he married two sisters, then he forbade them that in the Torah, and all of this is stipulated in the Torah for them, and this is abrogation itself, so let what God legislated for Christ, peace be upon him, be like that, in his making permissible some of what was forbidden in the Torah, so why did they not follow him? Rather, they denied him and opposed him? And likewise what God sent Muhammad, peace be upon him, with of the true religion, the straight path, and the religion of his father Abraham, so why do they not believe? That is why God Almighty said: All food was lawful to the Children of Israel except what Israel had forbidden to himself before the Torah was revealed. That is, all foods were lawful to them before the Torah was revealed except what Israel had forbidden. Then God Almighty said:

"Say: 'Bring the Torah and recite it, if you should be truthful.'" For it speaks of what we have said. But whoever invents a lie against God after that, it is those who are the wrongdoers. That is, whoever lies about God and claims that He has prescribed for them the Sabbath and that they should always adhere to the Torah, and that He did not send another prophet to call to God with proofs and arguments after what we have explained of the occurrence of abrogation and the emergence of what we have mentioned. It is those who are the wrongdoers. Then God Almighty said: "Say: God has spoken the truth." That is, say, O Muhammad, God has spoken the truth in what He has informed us of and in what He has prescribed in the Qur'an. So follow the religion of Abraham, inclining toward truth, and he was not of the polytheists. That is, follow the religion of Abraham that God prescribed in the Qur'an on the tongue of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, for it is the truth about which there is no doubt or uncertainty, and it is the way that no prophet has come with anything more perfect or clearer than it. There is nothing clearer or more complete than what God Almighty said: Say, 'Indeed, my Lord has guided me to a straight path, a right religion, the religion of Abraham, inclining toward truth, and he was not of those who associate others with God.' God Almighty also said: Then We revealed to you, [O Muhammad], to follow the religion of Abraham, inclining toward truth, and he was not of those who associate others with God.

His statement 93- All food means the food, and the solution is a source that is the same for the singular and plural and the masculine and feminine, and it is the lawful and Israel is Jacob as was previously explained. The meaning of the verse is that all foods were lawful for the children of Jacob, nothing was forbidden to them except what Israel forbade himself. An explanation of what he forbade himself will come, and this exception is connected to the name of was. His saying, before the Torah was revealed, is related to his saying, it was lawful, meaning that all foods were lawful, before the Torah was revealed, meaning that everything except what was excluded was lawful for them, before the Torah was revealed, including the prohibition of what He prohibited for them because of their injustice. It contains a response to the Jews when they denied what God Almighty told His Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, that the reason for what God prohibited for them was their injustice and transgression, as in His saying, Because of the wrongdoing of those who were Jews, We prohibited for them [certain] good things which had been lawful for them, the verse. And His statement, And We forbade the Jews every animal with claws, and of the cattle and the sheep We forbade them their fat, until His statement, That is how We recompensed them for their transgression, and they said: It is a mercy for the prophets before them, meaning by that to deny what God related to our Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, in His Noble Book. Then God, the Exalted, commanded him to argue with them with their Book and to make between him and them a judgement that God revealed to them, not what He revealed to him, so He said, Say, 'Bring the Torah and recite it, if you should be truthful,' so that you would know the truth of what God related in the Qur'an that nothing was forbidden to the Children of Israel before the revelation of the Torah except what Jacob forbade himself. And in this there is fairness to the opponents that cannot be measured or reached.

93- The Almighty said: All food was lawful to the Children of Israel except what Israel had forbidden to himself before the Torah was revealed. The reason for the revelation of this verse: "The Jews said to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace: Do you claim that you are following the religion of Abraham? Abraham did not eat camel meat or milk, but you eat it, so you are not following his religion. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: That was lawful to Abraham, peace be upon him. They said: Everything that we forbid today was forbidden to Noah and Abraham until it reached us. So God Almighty revealed this verse: 'All food was lawful to the Children of Israel.'" He meant: except for dead meat and blood, which were never lawful.

Except what Israel had forbidden to himself - that is, Jacob, peace be upon him - before the Torah was revealed - meaning: The matter is not as they said about the prohibition of camel meat and milk for Abraham, rather everything was permissible for him and for the children of Israel, and Israel only forbade it to himself before the Torah was revealed - meaning: Its prohibition is not in the Torah.

They differed about the food that Jacob forbade himself and its reason. Abu Al-Aaliyah, Ata', Muqatil and Al-Kalbi said: The food was camel meat and milk. It was narrated that Jacob fell seriously ill and his illness lasted a long time, so he vowed that if God cured him of his illness, he would forbid himself the food and drink he loved most. The food he loved most was camel meat and the drink he loved most was camel milk, so he forbade them.

Ibn Abbas, Mujahid, Qatadah, Al-Suddi and Al-Dahhak said: They are the veins.

The reason for this was that he complained of sciatica, which was the origin of his pain, as narrated by Juwaybir and Muqatil on the authority of Ad-Dahhak: Jacob had vowed that if God gave him twelve sons and he came to Jerusalem in good health, he would slaughter the last of them. An angel from the angels met him and said: O Jacob, you are a strong man, would you like to wrestle? So he wrestled with them, but neither of them defeated the other. The angel nudged him and caused him sciatica. Then he said to him: If I wanted to wrestle with you, I would have done so, but I nudged you this nudge because you had vowed that if you came to Jerusalem in good health, you would slaughter the last of your sons. So God made for you a way out of this by nudging him. When Jacob presented it, he wanted to slaughter his son and forgot what the angel had said. The angel came to him and said: I only nudged you to get out, and you have fulfilled your vow, so you have no way to your son.

All food was lawful to the Children of Israel, except what Israel had forbidden to himself before the Torah was revealed. Say, "Then bring the Torah and recite it, if you should be truthful."

Ibn Abbas, Mujahid, Qatadah and Al-Suddi said: Jacob came from Harran intending to go to Jerusalem when he fled from his brother Esau. He was a strong, impetuous man. A king met him and Jacob thought he was a thief. He tried to defeat him, but the king poked Jacob's thigh and then ascended to heaven while Jacob, peace be upon him, was looking at him. He suffered from sciatica and suffered from that and was severely afflicted. He could not sleep at night because of the pain and would spend the night with a sore throat. Jacob swore that if God healed him, he would not eat any sore throat or food containing sore throat, so he forbade himself from it. After that, his sons would follow the paths and extract them from the meat.

Juwaybir narrated on the authority of Ad-Dahhak on the authority of Ibn Abbas: When Jacob was afflicted with sciatica, the doctors prescribed for him to avoid camel meat, so Jacob forbade it for himself.

Al-Hasan achieved: Israel forbade himself from eating the meat of camels in worship of God Almighty. So he asked his Lord to permit him to do so, and God forbade it to his son.

Then they differed about the status of this food that was forbidden to the Children of Israel after the revelation of the Torah. Al-Suddi said: God forbade them in the Torah what they had forbidden before its revelation. Atiyah said: It was only forbidden to them because of the prohibition of Israel, for he had said: If God spares me, no child of mine will eat it. It was not forbidden to them in the Torah. Al-Kalbi said: God did not forbid it to them in the Torah, but it was only forbidden to them after the Torah because of their injustice, as God Almighty said: But because of the injustice of those who were Jews, We prohibited to them [certain] good things which had been lawful to them Surat An-Nisa, verse 160. God Almighty said: And We forbade to those who were Jews all things having claws, until He said: That is how We recompensed them for their transgression, and indeed, We are truthful Surat An-Na'am, verse (146. When the Children of Israel committed a great sin, God forbade them good food or poured upon them a punishment, which is death.

Ad-Dahhak said: None of that was forbidden to them, nor did God forbid it in the Torah. Rather, they forbade it to themselves in imitation of their father, then they attributed its prohibition to God, so God Almighty denied them, and said: Say, O Muhammad, Then bring the Torah and recite it, until it becomes clear that it is as you said, if you are truthful, but they did not bring it. So God Almighty said:

are not lawful for them. "Except what Israel made unlawful" Jacob. "For himself" such as camel meat and milk. It was said that he had sciatica and vowed that if he recovered he would not eat the food he loved most and that was what he loved most. It was said that he did that for treatment with the advice of doctors. It was used as evidence by those who permitted the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, to exert himself, and the one who prevented him from saying that with God's permission in it is like forbidding it from the beginning. "Before the Torah was revealed" meaning before it was revealed, including the prohibition of what was prohibited to them due to their injustice and transgression, as punishment and severity. This is a response to the Jews in their claim of innocence from what was criticized against them in the Almighty's saying: "Then because of the wrongdoing of those who are Jews, We prohibited for them [certain] good things" and His saying: "And for those who are Jews, We prohibited every animal with claws" the two verses, by saying that they were not the first to whom it was prohibited, but rather it was prohibited to Noah and Abraham and those after him until the matter reached us, so it was prohibited to us as it was prohibited to those before us. In it is the prevention of abrogation and the attack on the claim of the Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, to agree with Abraham, peace be upon him, in permitting camel meat and milk. "Say: Bring the Torah and recite it, if you should be truthful" He ordered to argue with them with their book and to rebuke them for what is in it that what was not prohibited was prohibited to them due to their injustice. It was narrated that when he, peace be upon him, said this to them, they were astonished and did not dare to bring out the Torah. This is evidence of his prophethood.

93 All food meaning the foodstuffs and what is meant is to eat them. It was lawful for the Children of Israel lawful for them, and it is a source of description and therefore the singular and plural and masculine and feminine are the same in it. God Almighty said: They

Surat Al Imran 3:94

So whoever invents a lie against God after that - it is those who are the wrongdoers.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

So whoever invents a lie against God after that meaning the emergence of the proof that the prohibition was only on the part of Jacob and not during the time of Abraham then those are the wrongdoers who transgress the truth towards falsehood.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: By that, the Most High means: Whoever among us and among you lies about God, after you have brought the Torah and recited it, and you have not claimed that God has forbidden the veins, meat, and milk of camels in it. Then those are the wrongdoers, meaning: whoever among them does that, they, meaning: those who do that, are the wrongdoers, meaning: they are the disbelievers, who say falsehood about God, like:

Al-Muthanna told us, he said, Amr bin Awn told us, he said, Hisham told us, on the authority of Zakariya, on the authority of Al-Sha'bi: Then it is those who are the wrongdoers, he said: It was revealed about the Jews.

Then the Almighty said: But whoever invents a lie against God after that - it is those who are the wrongdoers.

Al-Zajjaj said: In this verse is the greatest evidence of the prophethood of our Prophet Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace. He informed them that it was not in their book, and ordered them to bring the Torah, but they refused, meaning they knew that he said that through revelation. Atiyah Al-Awfi said: It was only forbidden to them because Jacob forbade it to them. That is because Israel said when he was afflicted with sciatica: By God, if God cures me of it, I will not eat it for you or me, and that was not forbidden to them. Al-Kalbi said: God Almighty did not forbid it to them in the Torah, but He forbade it after the Torah because of their injustice and disbelief. When the Children of Israel committed a great sin, God Almighty forbade them good food, or poured upon them a punishment, which is death. This is what God Almighty said: But because of the words of those who were Jews, We forbade them [some] good things that had been lawful to them Al-Anfal 13:10. And His statement: And We forbade those who were Jews every animal with claws. The verse - to His saying: That is how We rewarded them for their transgression, and indeed, We are truthful.

Fourth: Ibn Majah included in his Sunan the medicine for sciatica. Hisham bin Ammar and Rashid bin Saeed Al-Ramli told us: Al-Walid bin Muslim told us: Hisham bin Hassan told us: Anas bin Sirin told us that he heard Anas bin Malik say: I heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say:

Healing sciatica: Melt the buttocks of an Arabian sheep, then divide it into three parts, then drink one part on an empty stomach every day. Al-Tha'labi also included it in his interpretation from the hadith of Anas bin Malik, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said about sciatica: Take the buttocks of an Arabian ram, neither young nor old, and cut them into small pieces, then take out its dung and divide it into three parts, one third on an empty stomach every day. Anas said: So I prescribed it to more than a hundred people and they were cured, God willing. Shu'bah: An old man told me during the time of Al-Hajjaj bin Yusuf about sciatica: I swear to you by God the Most High, if you do not stink, I will burn you in fire or shave you with a razor. Shu'bah said: I have tried it, say it and wipe that place.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

Imam Ahmad said: Hisham bin Al-Qasim told us, Abdul Hamid told us, Shahr told us, he said: Ibn Abbas said: "A group of Jews attended the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and they said: Tell us about characteristics that we ask you about, which only a prophet knows. He said: Ask me about whatever you wish, but give me the protection of God, and what Jacob took from his sons, if I tell you something and you understand it, you will follow me in Islam. They said: That is for you. He said: Ask me about whatever you wish. They said: Tell us about four characteristics: Tell us what food Israel forbade himself? And how is the woman's water and the man's water? And how is the male and female from it? And tell us how this illiterate prophet sleeps, and who is his guardian from the angels? So he took a covenant from them that if he told them, they would follow him. He said: I ask you by the One who sent down the Torah to Moses, do you know that Israel fell seriously ill and his illness lasted a long time, so he made a vow to God that if God cured him of his illness To forbid the most beloved food and drink to him, while the most beloved food to him was camel meat, and the most beloved drink to him was camel milk? They said: O God, yes. He said: O God, bear witness against them. He said: I ask you by God, there is no god but Him, Who sent down the Torah to Moses, do you know that the man's semen is white and thick, and the woman's semen is yellow and thin, so whichever of them is higher will have the child, and the resemblance is by God's permission. If the man's semen rises above the woman's semen, it will be a boy, by God's permission, and if the woman's semen rises above the man's semen, it will be a girl, by God's permission? They said: Yes. He said: O God, bear witness against them. He said: I ask you by Him Who sent down the Torah to Moses, do you know that the eyes of this unlettered prophet sleep but his heart does not? They said: O God, yes. He said: O God, bear witness. They said:

So whoever invents a lie against God after that - it is those who are the wrongdoers.

And you now, tell us who is your guardian among the angels? Then we will have intercourse with you and leave you. He said: My guardian is Gabriel, and God never sent a prophet except that he was his guardian. They said: Then we will leave you. If your guardian were other than him, we would have followed you. Then God Almighty said: "Say: Who is an enemy to Gabriel?" The verse, and Ahmad also narrated it on the authority of Hussein bin Muhammad on the authority of Abdul Hamid on his authority.

Another way Ahmad said: Abu Ahmad al-Zubayri told us, Abdullah ibn al-Waleed al-Ajli told us, on the authority of Bakir ibn Shihab, on the authority of Saeed ibn Jubayr, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: "The Jews came to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: O Abu al-Qasim, we ask you about five things. If you inform us of them, we will know that you are a prophet and we will follow you. So he took from them what Israel took from his sons when he said: 'And God is witness over what we say.' He said: Bring them. They said: Tell us about the sign of the Prophet. He said: His eyes sleep but his heart does not sleep. They said: Tell us how a woman becomes feminine and how she becomes masculine? He said: The two waters meet, so if the man's water rises above the woman's water, she becomes masculine, and if the woman's water rises above the woman's water, she becomes feminine. They said: Tell us what Israel forbade himself? He said: He used to suffer from sciatica, and he did not find anything that suited him except the milk of such-and-such - Ahmad said: Some of them said: He meant camels - so he forbade their meat. They said: You have spoken the truth. They said: Tell us, what is this thunder? He said: An angel. From the angels of God, the Almighty, he is entrusted with the clouds. In his hand - or in his hands - is a whip of fire with which he drives the clouds, driving them where God, the Almighty, commands them. They said: What is this voice that is heard? He said: His voice. They said: You have spoken the truth. There is only one thing left, and it is the one that we will follow if you inform us of it. There is no prophet but that he has an angel who brings him report. So inform us who is your companion? He said: Gabriel, peace be upon him. They said: Gabriel, that one, descends with war, fighting and torment, our enemy. If you had said: Michael, who descends with mercy, plants and rain, it would have been... Then God Almighty revealed: "Say: Whoever is an enemy to Gabriel - for indeed, he has brought it down upon your heart by permission of God, confirming what was before it and as guidance and good tidings for the believers." And the verse after it. Al-Tirmidhi and Al-Nasa'i narrated it from the hadith of Abdullah bin Al-Waleed Al-Ajli, with a similar meaning. Al-Tirmidhi said: It is strange. Ibn Jurayj and Al-Awfi said on the authority of Ibn Abbas: Israel, peace be upon him - he is Jacob - was afflicted with sciatica at night, and it would disturb him and prevent him from sleeping, and the pain would go away from him during the day, so he vowed to God that if God healed him, he would not eat a vein nor would a child eat one that had a vein. And this is what Al-Dahhak and Al-Suddi said. This is how Ibn Jarir narrated it and related it in his interpretation. He said: His sons followed him in forbidding that, following his example and imitating his method. He said: And his saying before he... "The Torah was revealed" means that he forbade himself from that before the Torah was revealed. I said: This context, after it was presented, has two reasons: One of them is that Israel, peace be upon him, forbade the things he loved most and left them for God, and this was permissible in their law, so it has a reason after his saying: You will not attain righteousness until you spend from that which you love. This is what is permissible according to us, which is spending in obedience to God from that which the servant loves and desires, as God Almighty said: And he gives wealth, in spite of his love for it. God Almighty also said: And they feed the poor, in spite of their love for it.

The second occasion When the statement of the response to the Christians, their false belief in the Messiah, and the clarification of the falsehood of what they went to and the emergence of the truth and certainty in the matter of Jesus and his mother, how God created him with His power and will and sent him to the Children of Israel calling to the worship of His Lord, the Blessed and Most High, began to respond to the Jews, may God curse them, and to clarify that the abrogation that they denied had occurred and was permissible, for God Almighty stated in their book, the Torah, that when Noah, peace be upon him, left the ship, God permitted him to eat from all the animals of the earth, then after this Israel forbade himself the meat and milk of camels, and his sons followed him in that, and the Torah came with the prohibition of that, and other things in addition to that, and God Almighty had permitted Adam to marry his daughters to his sons, and He prohibited that after that, and taking a wife as a concubine was permissible in the law of Abraham, peace be upon him, and Abraham did it with Hagar when he took her as a concubine to Sarah, and something like this was prohibited for them in the Torah, and likewise the union of two sisters It is permissible, and Jacob, peace be upon him, did it, he married two sisters, then he forbade them that in the Torah, and all of this is stipulated in the Torah for them, and this is abrogation itself, so let what God legislated for Christ, peace be upon him, be like that, in his making permissible some of what was forbidden in the Torah, so why did they not follow him? Rather, they denied him and opposed him? And likewise what God sent Muhammad, peace be upon him, with of the true religion, the straight path, and the religion of his father Abraham, so why do they not believe? That is why God Almighty said: All food was lawful to the Children of Israel except what Israel had forbidden to himself before the Torah was revealed. That is, all foods were lawful to them before the Torah was revealed except what Israel had forbidden. Then God Almighty said: "Say: 'Bring the Torah and recite it, if you should be truthful.' " For it speaks of what we have said. But whoever invents a lie against God after that, it is those who are the wrongdoers. That is, whoever lies about God and claims that He has prescribed for them the Sabbath and that they should always adhere to the Torah, and that He did not send another prophet to call to God with proofs and arguments after what we have explained of the occurrence of abrogation and the emergence of what we have mentioned. It is those who are the wrongdoers. Then God Almighty said: "Say: God has spoken the truth." That is, say, O Muhammad, God has spoken the truth in what He has informed us of and in what He has prescribed in the Qur'an. So follow the religion of Abraham, inclining toward truth, and he was not of the polytheists. That is, follow the religion of Abraham that God prescribed in the Qur'an on the tongue of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, for it is the truth about which there is no doubt or uncertainty, and it is the way that no prophet has come with anything more perfect or clearer than it. There is nothing clearer or more complete than what God Almighty said: Say, 'Indeed, my Lord has guided me to a straight path, a right religion, the religion of Abraham, inclining toward truth, and he was not of those who associate others with God.' God Almighty also said: Then We revealed to you, [O Muhammad], to follow the religion of Abraham, inclining toward truth, and he was not of those who associate others with God.

Fath al-Qadir

Then he said 94- So whoever invents a lie against God after that meaning: after bringing the Torah and reciting it they are the wrongdoers meaning: those who are excessive in their wrongdoing and who go to extremes in it, for there is no one more unjust than one who is judged by his book and what he believes to be correct law.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

:94- But whoever invents a lie against God after that - it is those who are the wrongdoers.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

94 So whoever invents a lie against God innovates it against God Almighty by claiming that He prohibited that before the Torah was revealed to the Children of Israel and before them. After that after the proof was imposed on them. Then those are the wrongdoers who do not do justice to themselves and deny the truth after it has become clear to them.

Surat Al Imran 3:95

Say, “God has spoken the truth. So follow the religion of Abraham, the upright. He was not of the polytheists.”

Surat Al Imran 3:95

Say, “God has spoken the truth. So follow the religion of Abraham, the upright. He was not of the polytheists.”

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

(Say: God has spoken the truth) in this as in all that He has informed us of So follow the religion of Abraham which I am upon as a monotheist inclined away from every religion to Islam and he was not of the polytheists

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: By that, may His praise be glorified, He means: Say, O Muhammad, God has spoken the truth, in what He has informed us of in His saying: All food was lawful for the Children of Israel, and that God did not forbid Israel or his children the veins or the meat and milk of camels, and that this was only something that Israel forbade himself and his children without God forbidding it to them in the Torah—and in everything that He has informed His servants of, but not you. And you, O Jews, are the liars in your attribution of the prohibition of that to God upon you in the Torah, the slanderers against God falsely in your untrue claim against Him, So follow the religion of Abraham, inclining toward truth, and he was not of the polytheists, He says: If you, O Jews, are right in your claim that you are upon those whom God has chosen for His prophets and messengers, then follow the religion of Abraham, the friend of God, for you know that it is the truth which God has chosen for His creation as a religion, and with which He sent His prophets, that is the uprightness of Islam and its laws, not Judaism, Christianity, and polytheism.

And His statement: And he was not of the polytheists, meaning: He did not associate anyone of His creation with Him in His worship. So too you, O Jews, do not take one another as lords besides God, obeying them as Abraham obeyed his Lord. And you, O group of idol worshippers, do not take idols and statues as lords, and do not worship anything besides God, for Abraham, the friend of the Most Merciful, had the religion of sincere worship of his Lord alone, without associating anyone with Him in that. Likewise, you also, so devote your worship to Him and do not associate anyone with Him in worship, for all of you acknowledge that Abraham was on the right path and the straight path, so follow what you all agreed upon to be correct from his pure religion, and leave what you differed upon from all other religions, O parties, for they are innovations that you innovated for what you agreed upon to be the truth, for what you agreed upon to be correct and the truth from the religion of Abraham is the truth that I was pleased with and sent My prophets and messengers with, and the rest of that is falsehood that I will not accept from any of My creation who brings it to Me on the Day of Resurrection.

Rather, God the Most High said: And he was not of the polytheists, meaning: and he was not of their number and their allies. This is because the polytheists are from one another in their support of one another in their disbelief and their assistance to one another. So God cleared His friend Abraham from being one of them or [one of] their supporters and those who are their allies. Rather, God the Most High meant by the polytheists the Jews, Christians and all other religions other than the Hanifite religion. He said: Abraham was not one of the people of these polytheistic religions, but he was a Hanif Muslim.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

That is, say, O Muhammad, God has spoken the truth, that it was not forbidden in the Torah. So follow the religion of Abraham, the upright one. He was commanded to follow his religion. And he was not of the polytheists. He responded to them in their false claim, as mentioned above.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

Imam Ahmad said: Hisham bin Al-Qasim told us, Abdul Hamid told us, Shahr told us, he said: Ibn Abbas said: “A group of Jews attended the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and they said: Tell us about characteristics that we ask you about, which only a prophet knows. God and claims that He has prescribed for them the Sabbath and that they should always adhere to the Torah, and that He did not send another prophet to call to God with proofs and arguments after what we have explained of the occurrence of abrogation and the emergence of what we have mentioned. It is those who are the wrongdoers. Then God Almighty said: "Say: God has spoken the truth." Fath al-Qadir

Then he argued after that, fabricating lies against God. Then, since what they fabricated of lies after the proof was established against them in their book was false and rejected, and what God Almighty narrated in the Qur'an and the Torah confirmed was true and honest, and the proof of this honesty was with evidence that the opponent could not refute, God Almighty commanded His Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, to call out God's honesty after he recorded the lie against them, so He said 95- "Say: God has spoken the truth, so follow the religion of Abraham," meaning: the religion of Islam that I am upon. The meaning of Hanif has been explained previously, and it is as if He said to them: If my honesty and the honesty of what I have brought are clear to you, then enter my religion, for among the things that God revealed to me is And whoever desires other than Islam as religion - never will it be accepted from him.

Al-Tirmidhi narrated and authenticated it on the authority of Ibn Abbas, "The Jews said to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace: Tell us what Israel forbade himself? He said: He lived in the desert and suffered from the sweat of women and did not find anything suitable for him except the prohibition of camels and their milk, so he forbade them. They said: You have spoken the truth." He mentioned the hadith. Ahmad and al-Nasa'i also narrated it. Abd ibn Humayd, Ibn Jarir, Ibn al-Mundhir, Ibn Abi Hatim and al-Hakim narrated it and authenticated it on the authority of Ibn Abbas regarding the verse, he said: The sweat I find is the sweat of women, so he used to spend the night in a water skin, meaning a screaming camel, so he made a promise to God that if he cured him, he would not eat meat in which there was a sweat, so the Jews forbade it. Al-Bukhari narrated in his history, Ibn al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim on the authority of Ibn Abbas from his saying what al-Tirmidhi narrated previously on his authority with a chain of transmission traceable to the Prophet. Ibn Ishaq, Ibn al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Ikrimah on the authority of Ibn Abbas that he used to say: What Israel forbade himself was the two appendages of the liver and kidneys and the fat except what was on the back. Ibn Jarir, Ibn al-Mundhir, and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on his authority that he said: The Jews said to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, that the Torah was revealed prohibiting what Israel prohibited. So God said to Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, Say, 'Bring the Torah and recite it, if you should be truthful.' They lied. It is not in the Torah.

95- "Say, 'God has spoken the truth. So follow the religion of Abraham, the upright, and he was not of the polytheists.'" He only called them to follow the religion of Abraham because in following the religion of Abraham, following him, may God bless him and grant him peace.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

95 "Say: God has spoken the truth" is an allusion to their lie, meaning that it is proven that God is truthful in what He revealed and you are the liars. So follow the religion of Abraham, the upright meaning the religion of Islam which is originally the religion of Abraham, or similar to his religion until you are free from Judaism which forced you to distort and be stubborn in order to achieve worldly goals, and obligated you to forbid good things which God Almighty made lawful for Abraham and those who followed him. And he was not of the polytheists is an allusion to the fact that following him is obligatory in pure monotheism and uprightness in religion and avoiding excess and deficiency, and an allusion to the polytheism of the Jews.

Surat Al Imran 3:96

Indeed, the first House [of worship] established for mankind was that at Bakkah - blessed and a guidance for the worlds.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And when they said, Our qiblah is before your qiblah, it was revealed: Indeed, the first House established as a place of worship for mankind on earth was that at Bakkah with the letter ba in the language of Mecca. It was named thus because it crushes the necks of tyrants, i.e., it crushes them. The angels built it before the creation of Adam, and after it Al-Aqsa was established, and between them there were forty years, as in the hadith of the two Sahihs and in the hadith:

The first thing that appeared on the surface of the water when the heavens and the earth were created was a white foam, and the earth spread out from beneath it. Blessed is a state of who, i.e., possessing blessing and a guidance for the worlds because it is their qiblah.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Jaafar said: The people of interpretation differed in the interpretation of that. Some of them said: Its interpretation is: The first house established for people, in which God is worshipped, blessed and a guidance for the worlds, is the one in Bakkah. They said: It is not the first house established on earth, because there were many houses before it.

Who said that?

Hanad bin Al-Sarri told us, he said, Abu Al-Ahwas told us, on the authority of Samak, on the authority of Khalid bin Arara, he said: A man stood up to Ali and said: Will you not tell me about the House? Was it the first House placed on Earth? He said: No, but it was the first House placed in the pool, the Station of Abraham, and whoever enters it is safe.

Muhammad ibn al-Muthanna told us, Muhammad ibn Ja'far told us, Shu'bah told us, on the authority of Samak, who said: I heard Khalid ibn Ar'arah say: I heard Ali, and it was said to him: The first House established for mankind was the one in Bakkah. Was it the first House on earth? He said: No! He said: Then where were the people of Noah? And where were the people of Hud? He said: But it was the first House established for mankind, blessed and a guidance.

Yaqub told me, he said, Ibn Ulayyah told us, on the authority of Abu Raja', he said: Hafsa asked al-Hasan, and I was listening, about his saying: Indeed, the first House [of worship] established for mankind was that at Bakkah, full of blessing. He said: It is the first mosque in which God was worshipped on earth.

Abdul Jabbar bin Yahya Al-Ramli told us, he said, Damrah told us, on the authority of Ibn Shawdhab, on the authority of Matar, regarding his statement: Indeed, the first House established for mankind was that at Bakkah, he said: There were houses before it, but it was the first house established for worship.

Muhammad bin Sinan told me, he said, Abu Bakr al-Hanafi told us, he said, Ibad told us, on the authority of al-Hasan, his saying: The first House established for mankind, in which God was worshipped, was that at Bakkah.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Al-Hammani told us, he said, Sharik told us, on the authority of Salim, on the authority of Saeed: The first House established for mankind was the one in Mecca, blessed. He said: It was established for worship.

Others said: Rather, it is the first house established for people.

Then those who said that differed about the description of its first placement.

Some of them said: He was created before all the earths, then the earths were rolled out from beneath him.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Amara Al-Asadi told us, he said, Ubaid God bin Musa told us, he said, Shaiban told us, on the authority of Al-A'mash, on the authority of Bakir bin Al-Akhns, on the authority of Mujahid, on the authority of Abdullah bin Amr, who said: God created the House two thousand years before the Earth, and it was - when His Throne was on the water - a white foam, then the Earth was spread out from beneath it.

Muhammad bin Abdul Malik bin Abi Al-Shawarib told me, he said, Abdul Wahid bin Ziyad told us, he said, Khasif told us, he said: I heard Mujahid say: The first thing that God created was the Kaaba, then He spread out the earth from beneath it.

Muhammad bin Amr told me, he said, Abu Asim told us, on the authority of Isa, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding the statement of God Almighty: Indeed, the first House [of worship] established for mankind, like His statement: You are the best nation produced for mankind (Al Imran 3:110).

Muhammad told me, he said, Ahmad told us, he said, Asbat told us, on the authority of al-Suddi: The first House established for mankind was that at Bakkah, blessed and a guidance for the worlds. As for the first House, it was when the earth was water, it was butter on the earth, so when God created the earth, He created the House with it, so it is the first House established on the earth.

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said, Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said, Muammar told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: Indeed, the first House [of worship] established for mankind was that at Bakkah - blessed, he said: The first House that God Almighty established, so Adam and those after him circumambulated it.

Others said: The location of the Kaaba is the location of the first house that God placed on Earth.

Surat Al Imran 3:96

Indeed, the first House [of worship] established for mankind was that at Bakkah - blessed and a guidance for the worlds.

Who said that?

Bishr told us, Yazid told us, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada: It was mentioned to us that the House descended with Adam when he descended. He said: My House descends with you, and it is circumambulated around it as one circumambulates around My Throne. So Adam and those who came after him of the believers circumambulated around it, until the time of the Flood came, the time when God drowned the people of Noah. God raised it and purified it from being afflicted with the punishment of the people of the Earth, so it became inhabited in the heavens. Then Abraham followed a trace of it after that, so he built it on an ancient foundation that had been before it.

Abu Ja'far said: The correct statement about this is what God Almighty said about it: The first blessed House and guidance established for mankind was the one in Makkah. The meaning of this is: The first House established for mankind, that is, for the worship of God in it, blessed and guidance, meaning by that: and a place of refuge for the worshippers and the circumambulations of those who circumambulate, in glorification and reverence of God, was the one in Makkah, due to the authenticity of the report about this from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. This is what:

Muhammad ibn al-Muthanna told us, he said, Ibn Abi Uday told us, on the authority of Shu'bah, on the authority of Sulayman, on the authority of Ibrahim al-Taymi, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Abu Dharr, he said, I said: O Messenger of God, which mosque was established first? He said: The Sacred Mosque. He said: Then which? He said: Al-Aqsa Mosque. He said: How much time is between them? He said: Forty years.

This report from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, has shown that the Sacred Mosque is the first mosque that God established on earth, according to what we have said. As for its location as a house, other than the meaning of a house for worship, guidance and blessing, there is a difference of opinion about it, some of which I have mentioned in this place, and some of which in Surat Al-Baqarah and other surahs of the Qur'an, and I have explained the correct statement about that, in a way that makes it unnecessary to repeat it in this place.

As for his saying: For the one in Mecca, blessed, he means: for the House in which people crowd for their circumambulation during their Hajj and Umrah.

The root of baq is crowding. It is said: So-and-so crowded so-and-so if he jostled and bumped into him, so he wept over him, and they were crying in it, meaning: they were jostling and colliding in it. So Bakkah is an action of so-and-so crowded so-and-so; the spot was named after the action of those crowding in it.

If Mecca was as we have described, and it was a place of crowding of people around the House, and no circumambulation was permissible outside the mosque, then it was known from this that what was around the Kaaba was inside the mosque, and that what was outside the mosque was Mecca, not Mecca. Because there was no meaning outside it that would require people to weep in it. Since that was the case, then it was clear from this that the statement of those who said: Mecca is the name of the valley of Mecca and Mecca is the name of the sanctuary is false.

Mention of those who said what we said about that: that Mecca is a place crowded with people for circumambulation:

Yaqub bin Ibrahim told me, he said, Hisham told us, on the authority of Hisin, on the authority of Abu Malik Al-Ghifari, regarding his statement: Indeed, the first House [of worship] established for mankind was that at Bakkah, he said: Bakkah is the location of the House, and Mecca is everything else.

Yaqub told me, he said, Hisham told us, he said, Mughirah told us, on the authority of Ibrahim, the same.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Hakam told us, on the authority of Amr, on the authority of Ata', on the authority of Abu Ja'far, he said: A woman passed in front of a man while he was praying and she was circumambulating the House, so he pushed her. Abu Ja'far said: It is Mecca, some parts of it weeping over others.

Ibn Al-Muthanna told us, he said, Abd Al-Samad told us, he said, Shu'bah told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Mujahid, he said: It was called Bakkah because people wept in it, men and women.

Ibn Wakee' told us, he said, my father told us, on the authority of Sufyan, on the authority of Hammad, on the authority of Saeed, he said: I said: Why is it called Mecca? He said: Because they weep in it. He said: Meaning: They crowd together.

Ibn Wakee' told us, he said, my father told us, on the authority of Sufyan, on the authority of Al-Aswad bin Qais, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn Al-Zubayr, he said: It was called Bakkah because they came to it as pilgrims.

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, his saying: Indeed, the first House [of worship] established for mankind was that at Bakkah - blessed, for God has blessed all people in it, so women pray in front of men, and it is not appropriate in any other city.

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said: Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said: Muammar told us, on the authority of Qatada: Mecca, people are in Mecca, some of them are in Mecca, men and women, some of them pray in front of others, this is not appropriate except in Mecca.

Ibn Wakee' told us, he said, my father told us, on the authority of Fadil bin Marzouq, on the authority of Atiyah Al-Awfi, he said: Bakkah is the location of the House, and Mecca is what is around it.

Yunus told me, he said, Ibn Wahb told us, he said, Yahya bin Azhar told me, on the authority of Ghalib bin Ubaid God: that he asked Ibn Shihab about Bakkah, he said: Bakkah is the House and the Mosque. And he asked him about Mecca, Ibn Shihab said: Mecca is the entire Sanctuary.

Al-Husayn told us, Hisham told us, Hajjaj told us, on the authority of Ata' and Mujahid, who said: Mecca, in Mecca there are men and women.

Abdul Jabbar bin Yahya Al-Ramli told me: Damrah bin Rabi'ah said: Bakkah is the mosque, and Mecca is the houses.

Some of them said:

Yahya bin Abi Talib told me, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Juwaybir told us, on the authority of Ad-Dahhak, regarding his statement: Indeed, the first House [of worship] established for mankind was that at Bakkah, he said: It is Mecca.

It was said: Blessed, because circumambulating it is a forgiveness of sins.

As for the accusative of his saying: blessed, it is to depart from his saying: placed, because in placed there is a mention of the house with which he is occupied, and it is definite, and blessed is indefinite, and it is not appropriate for it to follow it in parsing.

As for the saying of those who said: It is the first House established for mankind, according to what we mentioned in that, the saying of those we mentioned, then it is in the accusative case as a state of his saying: for the one in Mecca. Because the meaning of the speech according to their saying: The first House established for mankind is the House in Mecca, blessed. So the House, according to them, is described as the one in Mecca, and the one connected to it is definite, and blessed is indefinite, so it is in the accusative case as a separation from it, according to the saying of some of them, and as a state according to the saying of some of them, and guidance is in the accusative case as a conjunction to his saying: blessed.

It has five issues:

First: It is proven in Sahih Muslim that Abu Dharr said: I asked the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, about the first mosque established on earth. He said: Al-Masjid Al-Haram. I said: Then which? He said: Al-Masjid Al-Aqsa. I said: How much time is between them? He said: Forty years, then the earth is a mosque for you, so wherever the prayer time comes, pray. Mujahid and Qatada said: No house was established in the direction of prayer. Ali, may God be pleased with him, said: There were many houses before the house, meaning that it was the first house established for worship. Mujahid said: The Muslims and the Jews boasted, so the Jews said: Jerusalem is better and greater than the Kaaba, because it is the place of migration of the prophets and it is in the Holy Land. The Muslims said: Rather, the Kaaba is better, so God revealed this verse. The construction of the House and the first to build it have already been mentioned in Surat Al-Baqarah. Mujahid said: God created the location of this House two thousand years before He created anything on earth, and its foundations are in the seventh lowest earth. As for the Al-Aqsa Mosque, it was built by Solomon, peace be upon him, as Al-Nasa'i narrated with a sound chain of transmission from "the hadith of Abdullah bin Amr on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace: When Solomon, son of David, built the Holy House, he asked God for three things: He asked God Almighty for a rule that would match His rule, and he was given it. He asked God Almighty for a kingdom that no one after him would deserve, and he was given it. And when he finished building the mosque, he asked God Almighty that no one would come to it with nothing but prayer in it, and that He would bring him out of his sin as on the day his mother bore him, and he was given it." So there is a problem between the two hadiths, because there were long periods between Abraham and Solomon. The historians said: More than a thousand years. It was said: Abraham and Solomon, peace be upon them, only renewed what others had founded. It has been narrated that the first to build the House was Adam, peace be upon him, as mentioned above. So it is possible that someone other than him from his descendants built the Holy House forty years after him, and it is also possible that the angels built it after building the House with God's permission, and each is possible. And God knows best. Ali bin Abi Talib, may God be pleased with him, said: God Almighty commanded the angels to build a house on Earth and to circumambulate it. This was before the creation of Adam. Then Adam built what he built and circumambulated it, then the prophets after him, then Abraham, peace be upon him, completed its construction.

Second: The Almighty's saying: For the one at Bakkah is the predicate of in and the lam is for emphasis. And Bakkah is the location of the House, and Mecca is the rest of the country, according to Malik bin Anas. Muhammad bin Shihab said: Bakkah is the mosque, and Mecca is the entire sanctuary, and houses are included in it. Mujahid said: Bakkah is Mecca. So the mim in this case is replaced by the bā', as they said: sticky and inseparable clay. Ad-Dahhak and the historian said the same. Then it was said: Bakkah is derived from bak, which means crowding. The people crowded together. It was called Bakkah because of the crowding of people in the place of their circumambulation. And bak means breaking the neck. It was said: It was called that because it used to break the necks of tyrants if they committed injustice there. Abdullah bin Az-Zubayr said: No tyrant ever intended to harm it except that God, the Almighty, punished him. As for Mecca, it was said that it was named thus because of its scarcity of water. It was also said that it was named thus because it sucks the marrow from the bone, which causes difficulty to the one who intends to go there, from their saying: Makakat al-Azm if you extract what is in it. And the young camel sucks its mother's udder and drinks it if it sucks all the milk in it and drinks it. The poet said:

She wrote, but there were no pearls left in her heart.

Indeed, the first House [of worship] established for mankind was that at Bakkah - blessed and a guidance for the worlds.

It was said: It was called this because it enables injustice in it, i.e. it destroys and diminishes it. It was also said: It was called this because people used to laugh and make noise in it, from His statement: And their prayer at the House was nothing but whistling and clapping of hands (al-Anfal 8:35), i.e. clapping and whistling. This is not required by the inflection, because <Makkah> is a doubled dual and <Makka> is a defective triliteral.

Third: The Almighty's saying: blessed. He made it blessed because of the multiplication of work in it, so blessing is the abundance of good. It is accusative as a state of the implied in <place> or as an adverb of <Bakkah>, meaning: the one who settled in Bakkah blessed. It is permissible in other than the Qur'an to use <blessed>, as a second predicate, or as a substitute for who, or as an implied subject. And guidance for the worlds is in apposition to it, and it has the meaning of and it is guidance for the worlds. It is permissible in other than the Qur'an to use <blessed> in the accusative as an adjective for the house.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The Almighty informs us that the first House established for mankind, that is, for all people, for their worship and rituals, to circumambulate it, pray to it, and seclude themselves at it, was the one at Bakkah meaning the Kaaba that was built by Abraham, peace be upon him, whom both the Christian and Jewish sects claim to follow his religion and method, and they do not perform Hajj to the House that he built by God's command to him in that and called people to perform Hajj, and for this reason the Almighty said: Blessed meaning it was established blessedly and a guidance for the worlds. Imam Ahmad said: Sufyan told us on the authority of Al-A'mash, on the authority of Ibrahim Al-Taymi, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Abu Dharr, may God be pleased with him, who said: "I said, O Messenger of God, which mosque was established on earth first? He said, Al-Masjid Al-Haram. I said: Then which? He said, Al-Masjid Al-Aqsa. I said: How much time is between them? He said: Forty years. I said: Then which? He said: Then wherever you find the prayer, pray, for all of it is a mosque." Al-Bukhari and Muslim narrated it from the hadith of Al-A'mash with it. Ibn Abi Hatim said: Al-Hasan bin Muhammad bin Al-Sabah told us, Saeed bin Sulaiman told us, on the authority of Sharik, on the authority of Mujalid, on the authority of Al-Sha'bi, on the authority of Ali, may God be pleased with him, regarding the words of God Almighty: Indeed, the first House [of worship] established for mankind was that at Bakkah - blessed. He said: There were houses before it, but it was the first house established for the worship of God. My father told us, Al-Hasan bin Al-Rabi' told us, Abu Al-Ahwas told us, on the authority of Samak, on the authority of Khalid bin Arara, who said: A man stood up to Ali, may God be pleased with him, and said: Will you not tell me about the House? Was it the first house established on earth? He said: No, but it was the first house in which blessing was established, the Station of Abraham, and whoever entered it was safe. He mentioned the full story of how Abraham built the House, and we have mentioned that in detail at the beginning of Surat Al-Baqarah, so there is no need to repeat it here. Al-Suddi claimed that it was the first house established on the face of the earth absolutely, and the correct statement is that of Ali, may God be pleased with him. As for the hadith that Al-Bayhaqi narrated in the construction of the Kaaba in his book, Evidences of Prophethood, on the authority of Ibn Lahi'ah, on the authority of Yazid ibn Abi Habib, on the authority of Abu Al-Khair, on the authority of Abdullah ibn Amr ibn Al-Aas, with a chain of transmission traceable to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, that God sent Gabriel to Adam and Eve and commanded them to build the Kaaba. So Adam built it, then he was commanded to circumambulate it, and it was said to him: You are the first of mankind, and this is the first House established for mankind, then as you see it is from the individual hadiths of Ibn Lahi'ah, and he is weak. What is more likely, and God knows best, is that this is attributed to Abdullah ibn Amr, and it is from the two Zamilah that were afflicted on the Day of Yarmouk from the words of the People of the Book.

God the Almighty said: For the one at Bakkah. Bakkah is one of the names of Mecca according to the well-known. It was said: It was named thus because it weeps the necks of the oppressors and tyrants, meaning that they are humiliated and submissive there. It was also said: Because people weep in it, meaning they crowd together. Qatada said: God has made all people in it, so women pray in front of men and He does not do that in any other city. This was also narrated on the authority of Mujahid, Ikrimah, Saeed bin Jubayr, Amr bin Shuaib, and Muqatil bin Hayyan. Hammad bin Salamah narrated on the authority of Ata bin Al-Saib, on the authority of Saeed bin Jubayr, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with him, who said: Mecca is from Al-Faj to At-Tan'im, and Bakkah is from the House to Al-Batha'. Shu'bah said, on the authority of Al-Mughirah, on the authority of Ibrahim: Bakkah is the House and the Mosque. Al-Zuhri said the same. Ikrimah said, in one narration, and Maymun bin Mihran: The House and what is around it is Bakkah, and what is beyond that is Mecca. Abu Saleh, Ibrahim Al-Nakha'i, Atiyah Al-Awfi and Muqatil bin Hayyan said: Bakkah is the location of the House, and everything else is Mecca. They mentioned many names for Mecca: Mecca, Bakkah, the Ancient House, the Sacred House, the Safe City, Al-Ma'mun, Umm Rahm, Umm Al-Qura, Salah, the Throne on the same weight as Badr, Al-Qadis because it purifies from sins, Al-Muqaddasah, Al-Naasah with a nun, and also with a ba', Al-Hatima, Al-Nasasa, Al-Ra's, Kutha', Al-Balda, Al-Bunya, and Al-Ka'bah.

And the Almighty's saying: In it are clear signs meaning clear evidence that it was built by Abraham, and that God made it great and honored. Then the Almighty said: The Station of Abraham meaning that when the building was raised, he used it to help raise its foundations and walls, where he used to stand and hand it to Ishmael. It was attached to the wall of the House until Omar bin Al-Khattab may God be pleased with him moved it during his rule to the eastern side so that it would be possible to circumambulate it, and not disturb those praying at it after circumambulating, because God Almighty has commanded us to pray at it when He said: And take, [O Muhammad], the Station of Abraham as a place of prayer. We have already presented the hadiths on that, so there is no need to repeat them here. Praise and thanks be to God.

Al-Awfi said on the authority of Ibn Abbas regarding his saying: In it are clear signs, the Station of Abraham meaning that among them is the Station of Abraham and the Monument. Mujahid said: The trace of his feet in the Station is a clear sign. This was also narrated on the authority of Omar bin Abdul Aziz, Al-Hasan, Qatadah, Al-Suddi, Muqatil bin Hayyan, and others. Abu Talib said in his famous poem, Al-Lamiyyah:

And Abraham's footsteps in the rock were wet on his bare feet, without sandals.

Ibn Abi Hatim said: Abu Saeed and Amr Al-Awdi told us: Waki' told us, Sufyan told us, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, on the authority of Ata', on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding the words of God the Almighty: The Station of Abraham, he said: The entire Sanctuary is the Station of Abraham. Amr's wording is: The entire Stone is the Station of Abraham. It was narrated on the authority of Saeed bin Jubair that he said: The Hajj is the Station of Abraham. This is how I saw it in the copy, and perhaps the entire Stone is the Station of Abraham. Mujahid stated this explicitly. And the words of God the Almighty: And whoever enters it shall be safe, meaning the Sanctuary of Mecca. If the fearful enters it, he is safe from all harm. This was the case in the time of ignorance, as Al-Hasan Al-Basri and others said: A man would be killed and a wool would be placed around his neck and he would enter the Sanctuary, and the son of the murdered man would meet him and not disturb him until he came out. Ibn Abi Hatim said: Abu Saeed Al-Ashja told us, Abu Yahya Al-Taymi told us, on the authority of Ata', on the authority of Saeed bin Jubair, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding the words of God Almighty: And whoever enters it shall be safe, he said: Whoever seeks refuge in the House, the House will protect him, but he shall not be sheltered, fed, or given water. So if he leaves, he will be seized for his sin. God Almighty said: Have they not seen that We have made a secure sanctuary, while people are being snatched away from all around them? The verse, and God Almighty said: So let them worship the Lord of this House, Who has fed them against hunger and made them safe from fear. And among its prohibitions is the prohibition of hunting its game and scaring it away from its nests, and the prohibition of cutting its trees and uprooting its grass, as the hadiths and reports on that have been proven from a group of the Companions, both with and without chains of transmission. In the two Sahihs, and the wording is from Muslim, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with him, he said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said on the day of the conquest of Mecca, 'There is no migration, but jihad and intention, and if you are called to arms, then go out.' And he said on the day of the conquest of Mecca, 'This country was made sacred by God on the day He created the heavens and the earth, so it is sacred by God's sanctity until the Day of Resurrection. Fighting in it was not permitted for anyone before me, and it was not permitted for me except during one hour of the day, so it is sacred by God's sanctity until the Day of Resurrection. Its thorns should not be cut, its game should not be frightened, its lost items should not be picked up except by one who recognizes them, and its solitude should not be taken away.' Al-Abbas said, 'O Messenger of God, except for idhkhir, for it is their herb and for their houses.' He said, 'Except idhkhir.' " And they have a similar or similar narration from Abu Hurairah, and they have a similar narration from Abu Shuraih al-Adawi as well, that he said to Amr ibn Saeed while he was sending out the expeditions to Mecca, 'Give me permission, O prince, to tell you a statement that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said the next day on the day of the conquest. My ears heard it and I remembered it.' My heart, and my eyes saw it when he spoke it, that he praised and extolled God, then he said: "God has made Mecca sacred, and people have not made it sacred. It is not permissible for a man who believes in God and the Last Day to shed blood there, or cut down a tree there. If someone seeks permission to fight the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, there, then say to him: God has given permission to His Messenger and has not given you permission. He has only given me permission there for an hour of a day, and its sanctity has returned today to what it was yesterday, so let the witness inform the absent." It was said to Abu Shuraih: What did Amr say to you? He said: I know that better than you, O Abu Shuraih. The sanctuary does not protect a sinner, nor one who flees with blood, nor one who flees with disgrace. Jabir, may God be pleased with him, said: I heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: It is not permissible for any of you to carry weapons in Mecca. Narrated by Muslim. On the authority of Abdullah bin Adi bin Al-Hamra Al-Zuhri that he heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, while he was standing in Al-Huzura in the market of Mecca, saying, "By God, you are the best land of God, and the most beloved land of God to God. Had I not been expelled from you, I would not have left." Narrated by Imam Ahmad, and this is his wording, and by Al-Tirmidhi, Al-Nasa'i, and Ibn Majah. Al-Tirmidhi said: It is hasan sahih. He also authenticated a hadith similar to it from Ibn Abbas. Ahmad narrated a similar hadith from Abu Hurayrah. Ibn Abi Hatim said: My father told us, Bishr bin Adam bin Bint Azhar Al-Samman told us, Abu Asim told us, on the authority of Zura'iq bin Muslim Al-Ama, a client of Banu Makhzum, on the authority of Ziyad bin Abi Ayyash, on the authority of Yahya bin Ja'dah bin Hubaira, regarding the words of God the Almighty: And whoever enters it shall be safe, he said: Safe from the Fire. And in the meaning of this statement is the hadith narrated by Al-Bayhaqi: Abu Al-Hasan Ali bin Ahmad bin Abdun told us, Ahmad bin Ubaid told us, Muhammad bin Sulayman Al-Wasiti told us, Saeed bin Sulayman told us, Ibn Al-Mu'ammil told us, on the authority of Ibn Muhaisin, on the authority of Ata', on the authority of Abdullah bin Abbas, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever enters the House, enters into a good deed, exits from a bad deed, and exits forgiven. Then he said: Abdullah bin Al-Mu'ammil is the only one who narrated it, and it is not strong. And his statement, And Hajj to the House is a duty that mankind owes to God, those who can afford the expenses for the journey to it, this is a verse of the obligation of Hajj according to the majority of scholars. It was said: Rather, it is his statement, And complete the Hajj and Umrah for God, and the first is more apparent. Multiple hadiths have been reported that it is one of the pillars, foundations, and foundations of Islam, and the Muslims have unanimously agreed upon this, and it is only obligatory for the accountable person once in a lifetime, according to the text and consensus. Imam Ahmad, may God have mercy on him, said: Yazid bin Harun told us, Al-Rabi' bin Muslim Al-Qurashi told us, on the authority of Muhammad bin Ziyad, on the authority of Abu Hurairah, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, delivered a sermon to us and said: O people, Hajj has been made obligatory upon you, so perform Hajj. A man said: Every year, O Messenger of God? He was silent until he said it three times. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: If I had said yes, it would have been obligatory and you would not have been able to do it. Then he said: "Leave me as I have left you, for those who came before you were destroyed because of their excessive questioning and disagreement with their prophets. If I command you to do something, do as much of it as you can, and if I forbid you from something, leave it." Muslim narrated it similarly on the authority of Zuhair bin Harb on the authority of Yazid bin Harun. Sufyan bin Husayn, Sulayman bin Katheer, Abdul Jalil bin Hamid and Muhammad bin Abi Hafsah narrated on the authority of Al-Zuhri, on the authority of Abu Sinan Al-Du'ali, whose name was Yazid bin Umayyah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with him, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, delivered a sermon to us and said: O people, God has prescribed Hajj for you. Then Al-Aqra' bin Habis stood up and said: O Messenger of God, is it every year? He said: "If I had said it, it would have been obligatory, and if it were obligatory, you would not have performed it and you would not have been able to perform it. Hajj is performed once, so whoever performs more than that, it is voluntary." Narrated by Ahmad, Abu Dawud, Al-Nasa'i, Ibn Majah and Al-Hakim from the hadith of Al-Zuhri with it. It was narrated by Sharik from Samak from Ikrimah from Ibn Abbas in a similar manner. It was narrated from the hadith of Usamah bin Yazid.

Imam Ahmad said: Mansur bin Wardan narrated to us on the authority of Ali bin Abdul-Ala, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Abu Al-Bukhtari, on the authority of Ali, may God be pleased with him, who said: When the verse, And Hajj to the House is a duty that mankind owes to God, those who can afford the expenses for one's expenses, was revealed, they said, O Messenger of God, every year? He was silent. They said, O Messenger of God, every year? He said, No, and if I had said yes, it would have been obligatory.

Then God Almighty revealed, O you who have believed, do not ask about things which, if they are made known to you, may distress you. This is how Al-Tirmidhi, Ibn Majah, and Al-Hakim narrated it on the authority of Mansur bin Wardan. Then Al-Tirmidhi said, Hasan Gharib, and what he said is questionable, because Al-Bukhari said, Abu Al-Bukhtari did not hear it from Ali. Ibn Majah said: Muhammad ibn Abdullah ibn Numayr told us, Muhammad ibn Abi Ubaydah told us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-A'mash, on the authority of Abu Sufyan, on the authority of Anas ibn Malik, who said: They said: O Messenger of God, is Hajj every year? He said: If you had said yes, it would be obligatory, and if it were obligatory, you would not have performed it, and if you did not perform it, you would have been punished. And in the two Sahihs, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, on the authority of Ata', on the authority of Jabir, on the authority of Suraqah ibn Malik, "He said: O Messenger of God, is this enjoyment of ours for this year, or forever?" He said: No, rather forever. And in another narration: Rather, forever and ever.

In Musnad of Imam Ahmad and Sunan Abi Dawud, from the hadith of Waqid bin Abi Waqid Al-Laihi, from his father, that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to his wives during his Hajj: This is the time when the confinement will appear - meaning, then the time when the confinement will appear - and do not leave the houses. As for the ability, it is divided into sections: Sometimes a person is able to do it by himself, and sometimes by someone else, as is established in the books of rulings. Abu Isa Al-Tirmidhi said: Abd bin Hamid told us, Abd Al-Razzaq told us, Ibrahim bin Yazid told us, he said: I heard Muhammad bin Ibad bin Ja'far narrating from Ibn Umar, may God be pleased with them both, "He said: A man stood up to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: Who is the pilgrim, O Messenger of God? He said: The disheveled one who has spitting. Another stood up and said: Which Hajj is best, O Messenger of God? He said: The one who is tired and has spitting. Another stood up and said: What is the way, O Messenger of God? He said: The provisions and the mount." And Ibn Majah narrated it in this way from the hadith of Ibrahim bin Yazid, who is Al-Khawzi. Al-Tirmidhi said: We do not know it except from his hadith, and some scholars have spoken about it. Before he memorized it, he said here and he said in the Book of Hajj: This is a good hadith. There is no doubt that the men of this chain of transmission are all trustworthy except for this Al-Khawzi, and they spoke about him because of this hadith, but others followed him, so Ibn Abi Hatim said: My father told us, Abdul Aziz bin Abdullah Al-Amiri told us, Muhammad bin Abdullah bin Ubaid bin Umair Al-Laihi told us, on the authority of Muhammad bin Ibad bin Jaafar, he said: I sat with Abdullah bin Umar, he said: "A man came to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said to him: What is the way? He said: Provisions and a mount." And Ibn Mardawayh narrated it in this way from the narration of Muhammad bin Abdullah bin Ubaid bin Umair with it. Then Ibn Abi Hatim said: It has been narrated from Ibn

Abbas, Anas, Al-Hasan, Mujahid, Ata', Saeed bin Jubayr, Al-Rabi' bin Anas and Qatadah something similar to that, and this hadith has been narrated from other paths from the hadith of Anas, Abdullah bin Abbas, Ibn Mas'ud and Aisha, all of them with chains of transmission traceable back to the Prophet, but there is a question about their chains of transmission as is established in the Book of Rulings, and God knows best. Al-Hafiz Abu Bakr bin Mardawayh took care to collect the chains of transmission of this hadith. Al-Hakim narrated it from the hadith of Qatada on the authority of Hammad bin Salamah, on the authority of Qatada, on the authority of Anas that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was asked about the statement of God, the Almighty, Whoever can afford the expenses of making the journey to it. It was said: What is the expenses? He said: Provisions and a mount. Then he said: It is authentic according to the conditions of Muslim, and they did not include it. Ibn Jarir said: Ya'qub told me, Ibn Ulayyah told us on the authority of Yunus, on the authority of Al-Hasan, "He said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, recited: 'And Hajj to the House is a duty owed to God by mankind, those who can afford the expenses of making the journey to it.'" They said: O Messenger of God, what is the expenses of making the journey? He said: Provisions and a mount. Waki' narrated it in his interpretation on the authority of Sufyan, on the authority of Yunus on his authority. Imam Ahmad said: Abd al-Razzaq told us, al-Thawri told us, on the authority of Ismail, who is Abu Isra'il al-Mala'i, on the authority of Fadi'l, meaning Ibn Amr, on the authority of Sa'id Ibn Jubayr, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Hasten to perform Hajj, for none of you knows what will happen to him.'" Ahmad also said: Abu Mu'awiyah told us, al-Hasan Ibn Amr al-Faqimi told us, on the authority of Mihran Ibn Abi Safwan, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Whoever intends to perform Hajj should hasten.'" Abu Dawud narrated it on the authority of Musaddad on the authority of Abu Mu'awiyah al-Dharee' with it. Ibn Jubayr narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas regarding his statement, Whoever can afford it, he said: Whoever possesses three hundred dirhams has afforded it. And on the authority of his freed slave, Ikrimah, he said: The way is health. And Wakee' ibn al-Jarrah narrated on the authority of Abu Janab, meaning al-Kalbi, on the authority of al-Dahhak ibn Muzahim, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, he said: Whoever can afford it, he said: provisions and a camel. And the statement of God Almighty, And whoever disbelieves, then indeed, God is independent of the worlds, Ibn Abbas, Mujahid, and more than one said: That is, whoever denies the obligation of Hajj has disbelieved, and God is independent of him. Saeed bin Mansour said on the authority of Sufyan, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Ikrimah, who said: When the verse, And whoever desires other than Islam as religion - never will it be accepted from him, was revealed, the Jews said: We are Muslims. God Almighty said: So argue with them and make them fight, meaning, "Then the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to them: God has enjoined upon the Muslims the pilgrimage to the House, whoever is able to do so. They said: It is not prescribed for us, and they refused to make the pilgrimage." God Almighty said: And whoever disbelieves - then indeed, God is free from need of the worlds. Ibn Abi Nujayh narrated something similar on the authority of Mujahid. Abu Bakr bin Mardawayh said: Abdullah bin Jaafar told us, Ismail bin Abdullah bin Masoud told us, Muslim bin Ibrahim and Shadh bin Fayyad told us, they said: Hilal Abu Hashim Al-Khurasani told us, Abu Ishaq Al-Hamadani told us on the authority of Al-Harith, on the authority of Ali, may God be pleased with him, he said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever owns provisions and a mount and does not perform Hajj to the House of God, it does not harm him if he dies a Jew or a Christian, because God said: 'And Hajj to the House is a duty that mankind owes to God, those who can afford the expenses for one's expenses. But whoever disbelieves - then indeed, God is independent of the worlds.'" Ibn Jarir narrated it on the authority of Muslim bin Ibrahim, and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated it in this way on the authority of Abu Zur'ah Al-Razi: Hilal bin Fayyad told us, Hilal Abu Hashim Al-Khurasani told us, and he mentioned it with his chain of transmission likewise, and Al-Tirmidhi narrated it on the authority of Muhammad bin Yahya Al-Qat'i on the authority of Muslim bin Ibrahim, on the authority of Hilal bin Abdullah, the client of Rabi'ah bin Amr bin Muslim Al-Bahili, on his authority. He said: This is a strange hadith that we do not know except from this source, and there is talk about its chain of transmission, and Hilal is unknown, and Al-Harith is weak in hadith. Al-Bukhari said: This Hilal is a fabricator of hadith. Ibn Adi said: This hadith is not authentic. Abu Bakr Al-Isma'ili Al-Hafiz narrated from the hadith of Abu Amr Al-Awza'i: Ismail bin Ubaidullah bin Abi Al-Muhajir told me, Abd Al-Rahman bin Ghanem told me that he heard Umar bin Al-Khattab may God be pleased with him say: Whoever is able to perform Hajj but does not perform it, it is the same to him whether he dies a Jew or a Christian. This is a sound chain of transmission back to Umar may God be pleased with him. Saeed bin Mansour narrated in his Sunan from Al-Hasan Al-Basri, who said: Umar bin Al-Khattab may God be pleased with him said: I was thinking of sending men to these regions to look for everyone who had a grandmother and did not perform Hajj, and impose the jizyah on them. They are not Muslims, they are not Muslims.

Fath al-Qadir

This is the beginning of explaining something else that the Jews argued about falsely, which is that they said: The Holy House is better and greater than the Kaaba because it is the place where the prophets migrated and it is in the Holy Land. God responded to them by saying 96- Indeed, the first House [of worship] established for mankind verse. His saying established is a description of the House and the report of His saying for that at Makkah so God Almighty pointed out that it was the first place of worship and that it is better than others. There is a difference of opinion about who built it in the beginning. It was said the angels, it was said Adam, and it was said Abraham. This is reconciled by the fact that the first one to build it was the angels, then Adam renovated it, then Abraham. Bakkah is a name for the Sacred Land, as is Mecca, and they are two languages. It was said that Bakkah is the name of the location of the House, and Mecca is the name of the Sacred Land. It was said that Bakkah is for the mosque, and Mecca is for the entire Sanctuary. It was said that it was named Bakkah because of the crowding of people during the circumambulation. It is said that the people crowded together, and it was said that Bakkah means to break the neck. It was named that because it used to break the necks of tyrants. As for naming it Mecca, it was said that it was named that because of its little water. It was also said that it is because it pulls the marrow from the bone due to the hardship that its inhabitant endures. From this comes the word makakat to extract what is in it, and maka to suck the udder of a young camel, and imtaka to suck it. It was also said that it was named that because it destroys someone who has been wronged there. His statement, blessed is a state of the pronoun in the context, or of the object of the circumstance, because the estimate is for the one who settled in Bakkah blessed, and blessing is the abundance of good that comes to those who settle in it or intend to go there, meaning the doubled reward. The clear and evident signs: Among them are Safa and Marwa, and the footprint on the solid rock, and that if the rain falls in the direction of the Yemeni corner, there will be fertility in Yemen, and if it falls in the direction of the Levant, there will be fertility in the Levant, and if it covers the House, there will be fertility in all countries, and the birds' deviation from flying in its air at all times, and the destruction of those who intend to go to it from the tyrants, and other things.

Indeed, the first House [of worship] established for mankind was that at Bakkah - blessed and a guidance for the worlds.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

God Almighty said: Indeed, the first House [of worship] established for mankind was that at Bakkah - blessed. The reason for the revelation of this verse is that the Jews said to the Muslims: Jerusalem is our qibla, and it is better than the Kaaba and older and it is the place of migration of the prophets. The Muslims said: Rather, the Kaaba is better, so God Almighty revealed: Indeed, the first House [of worship] established for mankind was that at Bakkah - blessed and a guidance for the worlds.

"In it are clear signs, the standing place of Abraham. And whoever enters it shall be safe." None of these virtues are for the Holy House.

Scholars differed regarding the Almighty's statement: Indeed, the first House [of worship] established for mankind was that at Bakkah. Some of them said: It is the first House to appear on the surface of the water after the creation of the heavens and the earth. God created it two thousand years before the earth, and it was a white foam on the water, then the earth spread out from beneath it. This is the statement of Abdullah bin Omar, Mujahid, Qatadah, and al-Suddi.

Some of them said: It is the first house built on earth. It was narrated on the authority of Ali bin Al-Hussein: God Almighty placed a house under the display, which is the Frequented House, and He ordered the angels to circumambulate it. Then He ordered the angels who are the inhabitants of the earth to build a house on the earth in its likeness and capacity, so they built it and its name is Ad-Dharah. He ordered those on earth to circumambulate it as the people of heaven circumambulate the Frequented House.

It was narrated that the angels built it two thousand years before the creation of the people, and they used to perform Hajj to it. When Adam performed Hajj, the angels said: "Your Hajj is good, O Adam. We performed Hajj to this House a thousand years before you." It was narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with him, that he said: He meant that it was the first. On the authority of Ali bin Abi Talib, Ad-Dahhak said: The first house in which blessings were placed. It was also said: The first house established for people to make Hajj to. It was also said: The first house made a Qiblah for people. Al-Hasan and Al-Kalbi said: Its meaning is: The first mosque and place of worship established for people to worship God in, as God Almighty said: In houses which God has permitted to be raised meaning the mosques.

Abdul Wahid Al-Malhi told us, I told Ahmad bin Abdullah Al-Nuaimi, I told Muhammad bin Yusuf, I told Muhammad bin Ismail, Musa bin Ismail told us, Abdul Wahid told us, Al-A'mash told us, Ibrahim bin Yazid Al-Taimi told us, on the authority of his father, he said, I heard Abu Dharr say: "I said, O Messenger of God, which mosque was established on earth first? He said: The Sacred Mosque. I said, Then which? He said: Al-Aqsa Mosque. I said: How much time was there between them? He said: Forty years, then wherever the prayer catches you after a separation, the virtue is in it."

The Almighty said: For the one at Bakkah. A group said: It is Mecca itself, and this is the saying of Ad-Dahhak. The Arabs alternate between the Ba and the Meem, so they say: Sabd Ra'shu and Samadhu, and Daraba Lazib and Lazim. The others said: Bakkah is the location of the House and Mecca is the name of the entire country.

It was said: Bakkah is the location of the House and the sanctuary. It was called Bakkah because people weep in it, that is, they crowd together, weeping over one another, praying in front of one another, and passing in front of one another.

Abdullah bin Al-Zubayr said that it was called Mecca because it breaks the necks of tyrants, meaning it crushes them. No tyrant will attempt to build a wall against it except that God will break it.

As for Mecca, it was named thus because of its scarcity of water, from the saying of the Arabs: The young camel sucks the udder of its mother and absorbs all the milk in it. It is called Umm Rahm because mercy descends upon it.

Blessed is in the accusative case, meaning: blessed.

And guidance for the worlds because it is the direction of prayer of the believers. In it are clear signs. Ibn Abbas read clear signs in the singular, and he meant the station of Abraham alone. The others read clear signs in the plural, and he mentioned among them the station of Abraham which is the stone on which Abraham stood, and the traces of his feet were in it but disappeared from the abundance of wiping with the hands. Among those signs are: the Black Stone, Al-Hateem, Zamzam and all the sacred sites. It was said: the station of Abraham is the entire sanctuary. Among the signs in the house is that birds fly but do not rise above it, and that if a bird of prey intends to hunt, when the hunted animal enters the sanctuary it refrains from it, and that it is a country to which the prophets, messengers, saints and righteous people came, and that obedience and charity in it are multiplied by a hundred thousand.

Abdul Wahid Al-Malhi told us, I told Abu Muhammad Al-Hasan bin Ahmad Al-Mukhaldi, I told Abu Al-Abbas Muhammad bin Ishaq Al-Sarraj, I told Abu Musab Ahmad bin Abi Bakr Al-Zuhri, I told Malik bin Anas, on the authority of Zaid bin Rabah and Ubaid God bin Abi Abdullah, on the authority of Abu Abdullah Al-Aghar, on the authority of Abu Hurairah, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: A prayer in this mosque of mine is better than a thousand prayers in any other mosque except the Sacred Mosque.

God the Almighty said: And whoever enters it shall be safe from being argued about in it, and that is by the supplication of Abraham, peace be upon him, when he said: My Lord, make this a secure beginning. The Arabs in the pre-Islamic period used to kill each other and raid each other. Whoever enters the sanctuary is safe from being killed or raided, and this is what is meant by the verse according to Al-Hasan, Qatadah, and most of the commentators. God the Almighty said: Have they not seen that We have made a secure sanctuary while people are snatched away all around them? Surat Al-Ankaboon, verse 67. It was said that what is meant by it is that whoever enters it in the year of the Umrah of Compensation with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, is safe, as God the Almighty said: You shall surely enter the Sacred Mosque, if God wills, in security. Surat Al-Fath, verse 27. It was said that it is a report with the meaning of a command, the meaning of which is: And whoever enters it, make him safe, as God the Almighty said: There shall be no obscenity, no wickedness, and no disputing during Hajj. Surat Al-Baqarah, 197, meaning: Do not engage in obscenity or commit wickedness, to the extent that some of the scholars have said that whoever is required to be killed as retaliation or a prescribed punishment and takes refuge in the sanctuary, then the punishment is not to be exacted from him there. But he does not feed nor does he buy and sell until he leaves it, so he is killed. Ibn Abbas said this, and Abu Hanifa said the same. Some people went to the view that the killing required by the Sharia is fulfilled in it, but if he commits the crime in the sanctuary, his punishment is fulfilled in it by spending.

It was said: Its meaning is that whoever enters it, honoring it and drawing closer to God Almighty, will be safe from punishment on the Day of Resurrection.

God Almighty said

96 The first House established for mankind means established for worship and made a place of worship for them, and the one who established it is God the Most High. This is indicated by the fact that it was read in the active form. For the one in Makkah for the house in Makkah, which is a language in Makkah like Nabit and Namit, and a regular and final matter and a constant and necessary and it was said that it is the location of the mosque. Makkah is the city from Bakkah if it is crowded, or from Bakkah if it is crushed, for it makes the necks of tyrants weep. It was narrated: "That peace be upon him was asked about the first house established for mankind, and he said: The Sacred Mosque, then the Holy House. And he was asked how much time was between them, and he said forty years." And it was said that the first to build it was Abraham, then it was demolished and a people from Jurhum built it, then the Amalekites, then the Quraysh. And it was said that it was the first house built by Adam, then it was obliterated in the flood, then Abraham built it. It was said: There was a house in its place before Adam called Ad-Dhirah, which the angels would circumambulate. When Adam descended, he was ordered to perform Hajj and circumambulate around it, and he was raised in the flood to the fourth heaven, and the angels of the heavens would circumambulate around it. This does not fit the meaning of the verse. It was said that what is meant is that it is the first house in honor, not in time. Blessed is full of goodness and benefit for whoever performs Hajj, Umrah, and I'tikaf there and circumambulates around it, a state of what is hidden in the circumstance. And a guidance for the worlds because it is their qiblah and their place of worship, and because it contains amazing signs, as He said:

Surat Al Imran 3:97

In it are clear signs [the station of Abraham]. And whoever enters it shall be safe. And Hajj to the House is a duty that mankind owes to God, those who can afford the expenses (for one's journey). And whoever disbelieves - then indeed, God is free from need of the worlds.

Surat Al Imran 3:97

In it are clear signs [the station of Abraham]. And whoever enters it shall be safe. And Hajj to the House is a duty that mankind owes to God, those who can afford the expenses for one's journey. And whoever disbelieves - then indeed, God is free from need of the worlds.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

In it are clear signs including the station of Abraham meaning the stone on which he stood when building the House, so the trace of his feet in it has remained until now despite the passage of time and the circulation of hands on it, and including the doubling of good deeds in it and that birds do not climb it and whoever enters it is safe not exposed to killing or injustice or anything else and Hajj to the House is a duty that mankind owes to God obligatory with the kasra and fatha of the ha', two languages in the source of Hajj intended and it is replaced by people whoever can find a way to it a path which the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, interpreted as provisions and a mount, narrated by Al-Hakim and others and whoever disbelieves in God or in what He has imposed of Hajj then indeed, God is independent of the worlds mankind, the jinn, and the angels and their worship

Tafsir al-Suyuti

The Almighty said: And whoever disbelieves - then indeed, God is Free of need of the worlds. Saeed bin Mansour narrated on the authority of Ikrimah who said: When the verse: And whoever desires other than Islam as religion was revealed, the Jews said: We are Muslims. So the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to them: God has imposed on the Muslims the pilgrimage to the House. They said: It has not been prescribed for us, and they refused to perform the pilgrimage. So God revealed: And whoever disbelieves - then indeed, God is Free of need of the worlds.

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Jaafar said: The readings differed in the reading of that.

So he read it as the people of the regions read: In it are clear signs, in the plural of ayat, meaning: in it are clear signs.

Ibn Abbas read it: There is a clear sign in it, meaning the Station of Abraham, meaning one sign.

Then the people of interpretation differed in the interpretation of his saying: In it are clear signs, and what are those signs? Some of them said: The Station of Abraham, the Sacred Monument, and the like.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Saad told me, he said, my father told me, he said, my uncle told me, he said, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding his statement: In it are clear signs, the Station of Abraham and the Mash'ar.

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said, Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said, Muammar told us, on the authority of Qatada and Mujahid: In it are clear signs, the Station of Abraham, he said: The Station of Abraham, is one of the clear signs.

Others said: The clear signs, the station of Abraham. And whoever enters it shall be safe.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Sinan told me, he said, Abu Bakr al-Hanafi told us, he said, Ibad told us, on the authority of al-Hasan, regarding his statement: In it are clear signs, he said: Abraham stood up, and whoever entered it was safe.

Others said: The clear signs are the Station of Abraham.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Al-Hussein told us, Ahmad bin Al-Mufaddal told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi, regarding his statement: In it are clear signs, the Station of Abraham. As for the clear signs, they are the Station of Abraham.

Abu Jaafar said: As for those who read that: There is a clear sign in it for monotheism, they meant by the clear sign the Station of Abraham.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Amr told us: Abu Asim told us, on the authority of Isa, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid: In it is a clear sign. He said: His feet in the station are a clear sign. He says: And whoever enters it shall be safe. He said: This is something else.

It was narrated on the authority of Ammar, who said: Ibn Abi Ja'far narrated to us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Layth, on the authority of Mujahid: In it is a clear sign, the Station of Abraham. He said: The trace of his feet in the Station is a clear sign.

Abu Ja'far said: The most correct interpretation of this is that of those who say: The clear signs, among them is the Station of Abraham. This is the opinion of Qatada and Mujahid, which was narrated by Mu'mar from them. So the speech would mean that it is among them, so he left out mentioning it because the speech indicates it.

If someone says: This position is one of the clear signs, so what are the other signs for which it was said: clear signs?

It was said: Some of them are the Maqam, some are the Stone, and some are the Hatim.

The most correct of the two readings in this regard is the reading of the one who reads it: In it are clear signs regarding sexual intercourse, because the readers of the Muslim countries agree that this is the correct reading and no other.

As for the difference of opinion among the people of interpretation regarding the interpretation of the station of Abraham, we have mentioned it in Surat Al-Baqarah, and we have explained the most correct of the sayings there, and that in our view it is the station known by it.

The interpretation of the verse is: The first House established for mankind, blessed and a guidance for the worlds, was that at Bakkah. In it were clear signs of God's power and traces of His friend Abraham, including the trace of the foot of His friend Abraham, peace be upon him, in the stone on which he stood.

The interpreters differed in their interpretation of this.

Some of them said: Its interpretation is: The report that whoever committed a crime in the pre-Islamic era and then sought refuge in the House, will not be held accountable for it.

Who said that?

Bishr told us, Yazid told us, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: And whoever enters it shall be safe. This was in the pre-Islamic era. If a man committed every crime against himself, then sought refuge in the sanctuary of God, he would not take it or seek it. But in Islam, he is not prevented from the limits of God. Whoever steals therein will have his hand cut off, whoever commits adultery therein will have the prescribed punishment carried out on him, and whoever kills therein will be killed. Qatada reported that Al-Hasan used to say: The sanctuary does not prevent from the limits of God. If he committed a crime outside the sanctuary, then sought refuge in the sanctuary, that would not prevent him from having the prescribed punishment carried out on him.

Qatada saw what Al-Hasan said.

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said, Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said, Muammar told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: And whoever enters it is safe, he said: That was during the pre-Islamic era.

As for today, if someone steals, his hand is cut off, if he kills, he is killed, and if he is able to defeat the polytheists, they are killed.

Saeed bin Yahya Al-Umawi told us, he said, Abdul Salam bin Harb told us, he said, Khasif told us, on the authority of Mujahid - regarding a man who kills and then enters the Sacred Sanctuary - he said: He is taken, taken out of the Sacred Sanctuary, then the prescribed punishment is carried out on him. He says: killing.

Muhammad bin Al-Muthanna told us, he said, Muhammad bin Ja'far told us, on the authority of Shu'bah, on the authority of Hammad, similar to what Mujahid said.

Abu Kuraib and Abu al-Sa'ib told us, they said, Ibn Idris told us, he said, Hisham told us, on the authority of al-Hasan and Ata' - regarding a man who commits the prescribed punishment and takes refuge in the sanctuary - he leaves the sanctuary, and the prescribed punishment is carried out on him.

Abu Jaafar said: The interpretation of the verse, according to what these people say, is: It contains clear signs, the Station of Abraham, and whoever entered it from the people was safe in it during the pre-Islamic era.

Others said: The meaning of this is: And whoever enters it will be safe therein, in the sense of reward, like the saying of someone: Whoever stands up for me, I will honor him, meaning: Whoever stands up for me, I will honor him. They said: This was a matter that existed in the pre-Islamic era, the sanctuary was a refuge for every frightened person, and a shelter for every jinn, because no one who committed a crime was attacked there, and no man would expose the killer of his father or son to harm therein. They said: And it is the same in Islam, because Islam increased its glorification and honor.

Who said that?

Muhammad ibn Abd al-Malik ibn Abi al-Shawarib told me, he said, Abd al-Wahid ibn Ziyad told us, he said, Khasif told us, he said, Mujahid told us, he said, Ibn Abbas said: If a man is subject to the prescribed punishment, whether he kills or steals, and enters the Sacred Sanctuary, he should not pledge allegiance or give shelter until he becomes fed up and leaves the Sacred Sanctuary, and the prescribed punishment should be carried out on him. I said to Ibn Abbas: But I do not see that! I see that he should be taken in his entirety, then taken out of the Sacred Sanctuary, and the prescribed punishment should be carried out on him, because the Sacred Sanctuary only increases his severity.

Abu Kuraib and Abu al-Sa'ib narrated, they said: Ibn Idris narrated, he said: Abdul Malik narrated, on the authority of Ata' who said: Ibn al-Zubayr took Sa'd, the freed slave of Mu'awiyah - who was in a castle in Taif - and sent someone to Ibn Abbas to consult him about them: They are our enemy. Ibn Abbas sent him: If I found the killer of my father, I would not attack him. Ibn al-Zubayr sent him: Shall we not expel them from the sanctuary? Ibn Abbas sent him: Why not before you bring them into the sanctuary? Abu al-Sa'ib added in his hadith: So he expelled them and crucified them, and did not pay attention to what Ibn Abbas said.

Yaqub bin Ibrahim told me, he said, Hisham told us, he said, Hajjaj told us, on the authority of Ata', on the authority of Ibn Abbas, he said: Whoever commits an act of ritual impurity outside the Haram, then takes refuge in the Haram, he should not be approached, pledged allegiance to, spoken to, or given shelter until he leaves the Haram. When he leaves the Haram, he should be seized and the prescribed punishment should be carried out on him. He said: Whoever commits an act of ritual impurity in the Haram, the punishment should be carried out on him.

Abu Kuraib told us, he said, Ibrahim bin Ismail bin Nasr

Surat Al Imran 3:97

In it are clear signs [the station of Abraham]. And whoever enters it shall be safe. And Hajj to the House is a duty that mankind owes to God, those who can afford the expenses (for one's journey). And whoever disbelieves - then indeed, God is free from need of the worlds.

Al-Salami told us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Habeeba, on the authority of Dawud bin Husayn, on the authority of Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, that he said: Whoever commits an act of evil and then seeks protection in the House, he is safe, and the Muslims have no right to punish him for anything until he leaves. Then if he leaves, they will carry out the prescribed punishment on him.

Yaqub told me, he said, Hisham told us, he said, Hajjaj told us, on the authority of Ata', on the authority of Ibn Umar, he said: If I found the killer of Umar in the sanctuary, I would not attack him.

Abu Kuraib and Abu al-Sa'ib told us, they said: Ibn Idris told us, he said: Laith told us, on the authority of Ata': Al-Walid ibn Utbah wanted to carry out the punishment in the sanctuary, so Ubayd ibn Umair said to him: Do not carry out the punishment on him in the sanctuary, unless he committed it in it.

Abu Kuraib and Abu al-Sa'ib told us, they said: Ibn Idris told us, he said: Mutraf told us, on the authority of Amer, he said: If he commits the prescribed punishment and then flees to the sanctuary, then he is safe. But if he commits it in the sanctuary, then the prescribed punishment is carried out on him in the sanctuary.

Ibn Bashar told us, Muammil told us, Sufyan told us, on the authority of Firas, on the authority of Al-Sha'bi, who said: Whoever commits a prescribed punishment in the Sacred Sanctuary, the punishment will be carried out against him in the Sacred Sanctuary. And whoever commits it outside the Sacred Sanctuary and then enters the Sacred Sanctuary, he will not be spoken to or pledge allegiance to until he leaves the Sacred Sanctuary, and the punishment will be carried out against him.

Saeed bin Yahya Al-Umawi told us, he said, Abdul Salam bin Harb told us, he said, Ata bin Al-Saib told us, on the authority of Saeed bin Jubair. And on the authority of Abdul Malik, on the authority of Ata bin Abi Rabah - regarding a man who kills and then enters the Sacred Sanctuary - he said: The people of Mecca do not sell him or buy from him, nor give him water or food or shelter - he listed many things - until he leaves the Sacred Sanctuary, then he is punished for his sin.

It was narrated on the authority of Ammar, who said: Ibn Abi Ja'far narrated to us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of 'Ata' ibn al-Sa'ib, on the authority of Sa'id ibn Jubayr, on the authority of Ibn Abbas: If a man commits a sin and then enters the Sacred Sanctuary, he is not to be given food, drink, shelter, spoken to, married, or sold. Then, when he leaves it, the prescribed punishment is carried out on him.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Hajjaj told me, he said, Hammad told us, on the authority of Amr bin Dinar, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, he said: If a man commits an act of ritual impurity and then enters the Sacred Sanctuary, he should not be given shelter, nor should he sit with others, nor should he pledge allegiance, nor should he be given food or drink, until he leaves the Sacred Sanctuary.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Hajjaj told us, he said, Hammad told us, on the authority of Ata' bin Al-Sa'ib, on the authority of Saeed bin Jubair, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, similarly.

Muhammad bin Al-Hussein told us, Ahmad bin Al-Mufaddal told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi: As for his saying: And whoever enters it is safe, if a man kills a man, then comes to the Kaaba and seeks refuge in it, then the brother of the murdered man meets him, it is never permissible for him to kill him.

Others said: The meaning of this is: Whoever enters it will be safe from the Fire.

Who said that?

Ali bin Muslim told us, Abu Asim told us, Zuraiq bin Muslim Al-Makhzumi told us, Ziyad bin Abi Ayyash told us, on the authority of Yahya bin Ja'dah, regarding his statement: And whoever enters it shall be safe, he said: Safe from the Fire.

Abu Ja'far said: The most correct of the sayings on this matter in our view is the saying of Ibn al-Zubayr, Mujahid, and al-Hasan, and those who said: The meaning of that is: And whoever enters it from someone other than him who has taken refuge in it, seeking protection from it, is safe as long as he is in it, but he leaves it and the punishment is carried out on him, if he committed what he deserves in another place and then took refuge in it. And if he committed it in it, it is carried out on him in it.

The interpretation of the verse is: In it are clear signs, the Station of Abraham, and whoever enters it among the people seeking refuge in it will be safe from that from which he sought refuge, until he leaves it.

If someone says: What prevented you from carrying out the punishment on him?

It was said: Because all the predecessors agreed that whoever committed a crime in another place and then sought refuge in it, he will not be held accountable for his crime in it. They only differed about the manner of removing him from it in order to hold him accountable for it.

Some of them said: Its description is: preventing meanings that, when prevented and lost, one is forced to leave.

Others said: There is no description for that other than removing it from what is possible to remove from the meanings that lead to the implementation of God's punishment on it with it.

Therefore, we said: It is not permissible to carry out the punishment on him in it except after he is expelled from it. As for the one who is subject to the punishment in it, there is no disagreement among all that the punishment is carried out on him in it. Both issues are a principle agreed upon in their ruling as we have described.

If someone were to say to us: What is your proof that expelling the one who seeks refuge in the House - if he comes to it seeking protection from a crime he committed or from a punishment he suffered - from the Sacred Sanctuary is permissible in order to carry out the punishment on him and take him for the crime, while you have acknowledged that God Almighty has made whoever enters it safe, and the meaning of safe is not the meaning of fearful? So how do they differ?

It was said: We said that, because of the consensus of all the scholars of the nation, both early and late, that expelling the one who seeks refuge in Him - from a crime he committed or an abomination he committed for which he was required to be punished - with some meanings of expulsion to take what is required of him, is obligatory upon the leader of the Muslims and the people of Islam with him.

They only differed on the reason for which he leaves it.

Some of them said: The reason for which it is permissible to expel him from it is that all Muslims did not pledge allegiance to him, feed him, give him water, shelter him, speak to him, and other similar meanings in which the one seeking refuge with him has no stability with some of them, so how about with all of them?

Others among them said: Rather, his removal to carry out the punishment that is required of him is obligatory in all meanings of removal.

Since there was consensus among all that the ruling of God - regarding someone who sought refuge in the House from a punishment that had befallen him or a crime that he committed - was to expel him from it, in order to carry out what God had obligated the believers to carry out upon it, then they differed about the reason by which it was permissible to expel him from it. It was necessary for them and their Imam to expel him from it in any sense in which they could expel him from it, so that they could carry out upon him the punishment that was incumbent upon him outside it if he had sought refuge in it from outside, as we have explained before.

Moreover, God Almighty did not set any of His limits for any of His creation because of a spot or location that someone who was obliged to do so went to. The report has been reported from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, that he said:

I have made Medina sacred just as Abraham made Mecca sacred.

There is no disagreement among the entire Ummah that if someone seeks refuge from a punishment imposed on him in the sanctuary of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, he will be held accountable for the punishment therein. Were it not for what I mentioned about the consensus of the predecessors that the sanctuary of Abraham is not to be carried out on someone who seeks refuge in it from a punishment imposed on him until he has done what he was obligated to do, then the most deserving of places in which the obligations of God that He has imposed on His servants, whether killing or otherwise, should be performed would be the greatest of places to God, like the sanctuary of God and the sanctuary of His Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace. But we were commanded to expel from the sanctuary of God whoever we were commanded to expel in order to carry out the prescribed punishment, because of what we mentioned about the Ummah doing that by inheritance.

The meaning of the statement - since the matter is as we have described - is: whoever enters it is safe as long as he is in it. So since that is the case, whoever seeks refuge in it from the punishment that is upon him, seeking protection in it, is safe as long as he is in it until he leaves it. And he only becomes fearful after leaving or being removed from it, so at that time he is neither entering it nor in it.

Abu Ja'far said: By that, may His praise be glorified, He means: It is an obligation that is incumbent upon God - upon those of those who are obligated to perform the Hajj - to perform the Hajj to His Sacred House.

We have previously explained the meaning of Hajj, and we have demonstrated the correctness of what we have said about its meaning, which makes it unnecessary to repeat it in this place.

The people of interpretation differed in their interpretation of the Almighty's saying: Whoever can afford a way to it, and what is the way that requires the obligation of Hajj if one is able to do so?

Some of them said: It is the provisions and the mount.

Who said that?

Muhammad ibn Bashar told us, he said, Muhammad ibn Bakr told us, he said, Ibn Jurayj told us, he said, Umar ibn al-Khattab, may God be pleased with him, said: Whoever can find a way to it, he said: provisions and a mount.

Ibn Bashar told us, he said, Muhammad ibn Bakr told us, he said, Ibn Jurayj told us, he said, Amr ibn Dinar said: The provisions and the mount.

Abu Kuraib told us, he said, Waki' told us, on the authority of Abu Janab, on the authority of Ad-Dahhak, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding his statement: Whoever can find a way to it, he said: provisions and a camel.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Abdullah bin Saleh told us, he said, Muawiyah told me, on the authority of Ali, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, his saying: And Hajj to the House is a duty that mankind owes to God, those who can afford the expenses, and the expenses are for the servant's body to be healthy, and for him to have the price of provisions and a mount without being overburdened by it.

Khallad bin Aslam told us, Al-Nadr bin Shumayl told us, Israel told us, on the authority of Abu Abdullah Al-Bajali, who said: I asked Saeed bin Jubair about his statement: Whoever can afford it, he said: Ibn Abbas said: Whoever has three hundred dirhams, then that is the way to it.

In it are clear signs [the station of Abraham]. And whoever enters it shall be safe. And Hajj to the House is a duty that mankind owes to God, those who can afford the expenses (for one's journey). And whoever disbelieves - then indeed, God is free from need of the worlds.

Muhammad bin Sinan told me, he said, Abu Asim told us, on the authority of Ishaq bin Othman, he said: I heard Ata' say: The path is the provisions and the mount.

Muhammad bin Al-Hussein told me, he said, Ahmad bin Al-Mufaddal told us, he said, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi: As for whoever can find a way to it, Ibn Abbas said: The way is a mount and provisions.

Al-Muthanna and Ahmad bin Hazim told me, they said: Abu Naim told us, he said: Sufyan told us, on the authority of Muhammad bin Suqah, on the authority of Saeed bin Jubair: Whoever can find a way to it, he said: provisions and a mount.

Ahmad bin Hazim told us, Abu Naim told us, Al-Rabi' bin Subaih told us, on the authority of Al-Hasan, who said: The provisions and the mount.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Jarir told us, on the authority of Mansur, on the authority of Al-Hasan, he said: "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, recited this verse: 'And Hajj to the House is a duty that mankind owes to God, those who can afford the expenses of making the journey to it.' A man said: O Messenger of God, what is the expenses of making the journey? He said: 'Provisions and a mount.'"

Those who said this article based their argument on reports narrated from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, in a manner similar to what they said about it.

Mentioning the narration on the authority of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace:

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said: Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said: Ibrahim bin Yazid al-Khawzi told us, he said: I heard Muhammad bin Abbad bin Ja'far narrating, on the authority of Ibn 'Umar, he said: "A man stood up to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: What is the way? He said: Provisions and a mount."

Muhammad bin Sinan told me, he said, Abu Hudhayfah told us, he said, Sufyan told us, on the authority of Ibrahim al-Khawzi, on the authority of Muhammad bin Ibad, on the authority of Ibn Umar: "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said regarding the words of God Almighty: 'Whoever can afford the expenses', he said: The expenses to Hajj are provisions and a mount."

Humayd ibn Mas'adah told us, Bishr ibn al-Mufaddal told us, Yunus told us, and Ya'qub ibn Ibrahim told me, Ibn 'Ulayyah told us, on the authority of Yunus, on the authority of al-Hasan, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, recited: 'And Hajj to the House is a duty that mankind owes to God, those who can afford the expenses of the journey to it.' They said: O Messenger of God, what is the expenses of the journey? He said: 'Provisions and a

Abu Uthman al-Muqaddami and al-Muthanna ibn Ibrahim told us, Muslim ibn Ibrahim told us, Hilal ibn Abdullah, the client of Rabia ibn Amr ibn Muslim al-Bahili told us, Abu Ishaq told us, on the authority of al-Harith, on the authority of Ali, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: Whoever has provisions and a mount to take him to the House of God and does not perform Hajj, then it does not matter if he dies a Jew or a Christian. This is because God Almighty says in His Book: And Hajj to the House is a duty that mankind owes to God, those who can afford the expenses for one's own expenses.

Bishr told us, Yazid told us, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, on the authority of Al-Hasan, who said: It has reached us that a speaker or a man said to the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace: O Messenger of God, what is the way to it? He, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever finds provisions and a mount.

Ahmad ibn al-Hasan al-Tirmidhi told us, Shadh ibn Fayyad al-Basri told us, Hilal Abu Hashim told us, on the authority of Abu Ishaq al-Hamadani, on the authority of al-Harith, on the authority of Ali ibn Abi Talib, may God be pleased with him, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever has provisions and a mount but does not perform Hajj dies a Jew or a Christian. This is because God says in His Book: 'And Hajj to the House is a duty that mankind owes to God, those who can afford the expenses for one's expenses'" the verse.

Ahmad bin Hazim told me, he said, Abu Naim told us, he said, Hammad bin Salamah told us, on the authority of Qatada and Hamid, on the authority of Al-Hasan: "A man said: O Messenger of God, what is the way to it? He said: The provisions and the mount."

Muhammad bin Bashar told us, Al-Hajjaj bin Al-Munhal told us, Hammad told us, on the authority of Qatada, on the authority of Al-Hasan, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, similarly.

Others said: The way that if a person is able to do Hajj, he must do it: the ability to reach it. They said: This may be by walking or riding, and it may be with both of them the inability to reach it: due to the road being blocked by an enemy, or the scarcity of water, and the like. They said: There is no clearer explanation of that than what God Almighty explained, that he is able to do it, and that is: reaching it without any obstacle or barrier between him and it, and this may be by walking alone even if he lacks a vehicle, and it may be by vehicle or otherwise.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Bashar told us, he said, Abd al-Rahman bin Mahdi told us, he said, Sufyan told us, on the authority of Khalid bin Abi Karima, on the authority of a man, on the authority of Ibn al-Zubayr, regarding his statement: And Hajj to the House is a duty that mankind owes to God, those who can afford the expenses, he said: According to one's ability.

Yahya ibn Abi Talib told us, Yazid told us, Juwaybir told us, on the authority of Ad-Dahhak, regarding his statement: Whoever can find a way to it, he said: Provisions and a mount. If he is a healthy young man who has no money, then he must hire himself out for his food and nap until he completes his Hajj with it. Someone said to him: Did God command people to walk to the House? He said: If some of them had an inheritance in Mecca, would they abandon it? By God, he would set out even if he had to crawl!! Hajj is also obligatory upon him.

Muhammad ibn Bashir told us, Muhammad ibn Bakr told us, Ibn Jurayj told us, Ata' said: Whoever finds something to attain, has found a way, as God Almighty said: Whoever can find a way to it.

Ahmad bin Hazim told us, Abu Naim told us, Abu Hani told us, Amer was asked about this verse: And Hajj to the House is a duty that mankind owes to God, those who can afford the expenses for one's expenses. He said: The expenses are what God makes easy.

Muhammad bin Sinan told me, he said, Abu Bakr al-Hanafi told us, he said, Ibad told us, on the authority of al-Hasan: Whoever finds something to convey, has found a way to it.

Others said: The way to do that is health.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Hamid, Muhammad bin Abdullah bin Abdul-Hakam and Al-Muthanna bin Ibrahim told us, they said: Abu Abdul-Rahman Al-Muqri told us, he said: Haywah bin Shureih and Ibn Lahi'ah told us, they said: Shurahbil bin Sharik Al-Ma'afari told us: that he heard Ikrimah, the freed slave of Ibn Abbas, say about this verse: And Hajj to the House is a duty that mankind owes to God, those who can afford the expenses for one's expenses. He said: The expenses are health.

Others said:

Yunus told me, he said, Ibn Wahb told us, he said, Ibn Zayd said regarding the statement of God Almighty: And Hajj to the House is a duty that mankind owes to God, those who can afford the expenses, he said: Whoever finds the strength to spend, the body, and the means to carry it. He said: And if he has enough in his body to make it impossible for him to make Hajj, then Hajj is not obligatory upon him, even if he has the strength in money, as if he is healthy in body but does not find money or strength, they say: He is not required to walk.

Abu Ja'far said: The most correct of the sayings in this regard, in our view, is the saying of those who said the words of Ibn al-Zubayr and Ata': That it is according to one's ability. Because the path in the speech of the Arabs means the road. So whoever has a path to Hajj that is not prevented from it by time, or inability, or an enemy, or lack of water on his way, or excess, or weakness from walking, then he must perform the obligatory Hajj, and nothing will suffice him except performing it. But if he does not have a path - I mean by that: if he is not able to perform Hajj, because some of the meanings that we have described are difficult for him - then he is one of those who does not find a path to it and is not able to do it. Because the ability to do that is the capacity to do it. And whoever is unable to do it for some of the reasons that we have mentioned or otherwise, then he is not able and has no path to it.

We said: This statement is more correct than what contradicts it, because God Almighty did not specify, when He made the obligation of Hajj obligatory for people, some of those who are able to do it by dropping the obligation from them, so it is for everyone who is able to do it by the generality of the verse.

As for the reports that were narrated from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, regarding this as: provisions and a mount, they are reports whose chains of transmission are questionable, and it is not permissible to use such reports as evidence in religion.

Abu Jaafar said: The recitation differed in the recitation of Hajj.

A group of the people of Medina and Iraq read it with a kasra: And Hajj to the House is a duty that mankind owes to God.

Another group of them read it with the fat-ha: And Hajj to the House is a duty that mankind owes to God.

They are two languages known to the Arabs. The kasr is the language of the people of Najd, and the fathah is the language of the people of Aliyah. We have not seen anyone from the Arabs claim a difference between them in meaning or anything else, other than what we mentioned about the difference between the two languages, except for what:

Abu Hisham Al-Rifai told us, he said, Hussein Al-Ja'fi said, Hajj is open, a noun, and Hajj is closed, a verb.

This is a statement that I have not seen people with knowledge of the languages of the Arabs and the meanings of their speech know. Rather, I have seen them agree on what I have described, that they are two languages with one meaning.

What we say about reading this is that the two readings - since they are widespread in the reading of the people of Islam, and there is no difference between them in meaning or anything else - then they are two readings that have come as proof. So whichever of the two readings - I mean: with the kasra or fatha of the ha' of al-Hajj - the reader reads, then he is correct in his reading.

As for min which is with his saying: whoever is able, it is in the accusative case as a replacement for al-nas, because the meaning of the statement is: And God has obligated whoever among the people is able to find a way to perform Hajj to the House, His Hajj. So when the mention of al-nas came before min, He explained with his saying: whoever is able to find a way to it, who among them is obligated to do that. Because that is obligatory on some of the people and not all of them.

Abu Ja'far said: By that, may His praise be glorified,

Surat Al Imran 3:97

In it are clear signs [the station of Abraham]. And whoever enters it shall be safe. And Hajj to the House is a duty that mankind owes to God, those who can afford the expenses (for one's journey). And whoever disbelieves - then indeed, God is free from need of the worlds.

He means: Whoever denies what God has obligated him to do of the obligation of Hajj to His House, and rejects it and disbelieves in it, then God is independent of him and of his Hajj and his deeds, and of all of His creation from the jinn and mankind, as:

Ibn Bashar told us, he said, Abd al-Rahman told us, he said, Abd al-Wahid ibn Ziyad told us, on the authority of al-Hajjaj ibn Artah, on the authority of Muhammad ibn Abi al-Mujalid, he said: I heard Muqsim, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding his statement: And whoever disbelieves, he said: Whoever claims that it is not obligatory upon him.

Yaqub bin Ibrahim told me, he said, Hisham told us, he said, Al-Hajjaj told us, on the authority of Ata' and Juwaybir, on the authority of Al-Dahhak, regarding his statement: And whoever disbelieves - then indeed, God is independent of the worlds, they said: Whoever denies the Hajj and disbelieves in it.

Ibn Bashar told us, he said, Abd al-Rahman told us, he said, Hisham told us, on the authority of al-Hajjaj ibn Artah, on the authority of Ata', he said: Whoever denies it.

Ibn Bashar told us, he said, Abd al-Rahman told us, he said, Imran al-Qattan told us, he said: Whoever claims that Hajj is not obligatory upon him.

Muhammad bin Sinan told us, he said, Abu Bakr told us, on the authority of Ibad, on the authority of Al-Hasan, regarding his statement: And whoever disbelieves - then indeed, God is independent of the worlds, he said: Whoever denies it and does not see that it is a right upon him, then that is disbelief.

Muhammad bin Amr told me, he said, Abu Asim told us, on the authority of Isa, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid: And whoever disbelieves, he said: whoever disbelieves in Hajj.

Abdul Hamid bin Bayan told us, he said, Ishaq bin Yusuf told us, on the authority of Abu Bishr, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding his statement: And whoever disbelieves - then indeed, God is independent of the worlds, he said: Whoever disbelieves in Hajj, disbelieves in God.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Ya'la bin Asad told us, he said, Khalid told us, on the authority of Hisham bin Hassan, on the authority of Al-Hasan, regarding the statement of God Almighty: And Hajj to the House is a duty that mankind owes to God, those who can afford the expenses for one's own expenses. He said: Whoever does not see it as obligatory upon him.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Abu Hudhayfah told us, he said, Shabl told us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid: And whoever disbelieves, he said: in the Hajj.

Others said: This means that he should not believe that he will be rewarded for his Hajj, nor that he will be sinful or punished for abandoning it.

Who said that?

Yaqub bin Ibrahim told me, he said, Ibn Ulayyah told us, he said, Ibn Jurayj told us, he said, Abdullah bin Muslim told me, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding his statement: And whoever disbelieves - then indeed, God is independent of the worlds, he said: It is what if he performs Hajj he does not see as righteousness, and if he sits he does not see as sin.

Abdul Hamid bin Bayan told us, he said, Ishaq bin Yusuf told us, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, on the authority of Mujahid, he said: It is what if he performs Hajj he does not see as righteousness, and if he sits he does not see as sinful.

Ahmad bin Hazim told me, he said, Abu Naim told us, he said, Fitr told us, on the authority of Abu Dawud Nafi', he said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Pilgrimage to the House is a duty owed to God by people, whoever is able to make the journey. And whoever disbelieves, then indeed, God is independent of the worlds.' A man from Hudhayl stood up and said: O Messenger of God, whoever abandons it has disbelieved? He said: Whoever abandons it and does not fear its punishment, and whoever performs the pilgrimage and does not hope for its reward, then that is he."

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Abdullah bin Saleh told us, he said, Muawiyah told me, on the authority of Ali, on the authority of Ibn Abbas: And whoever disbelieves - then indeed, God is independent of the worlds, meaning: whoever disbelieves in Hajj, and does not see his Hajj as righteousness, nor does his abandonment of it as sin.

Others said: The meaning of this is: And whoever disbelieves in God and the Last Day.

Who said that?

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Jarir told us, on the authority of Mansur, on the authority of Mujahid, he said: I asked him about his statement: And whoever disbelieves - then indeed, God is independent of the worlds. What is this disbelief? He said: Whoever disbelieves in God and the Last Day.

Ibn Bashar told us, he said, Abd al-Rahman ibn Mahdi told us, he said, Sufyan told us, on the authority of Mansur, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding his statement, And whoever disbelieves, he said: Whoever disbelieves in God and the Last Day.

Yahya ibn Abi Talib told us, Yazid told us, Juwaybir told us, on the authority of Ad-Dahhak, regarding His statement: And Hajj to the House is a duty that mankind owes to God, those who can afford the expenses, he said: "When the verse of Hajj was revealed, the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, gathered the people of all religions and said: O people, God, the Almighty, has prescribed Hajj for you, so perform Hajj. One religion believed in it, and it is those who believed in the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and believed in him. Five religions disbelieved in it, and they said: We do not believe in it, nor do we pray to it, nor do we face it. So God, the Almighty, revealed: 'And whoever disbelieves - then indeed, God is free from need of the worlds.'

Ahmad bin Hazim told me, he said, Abu Naim told us, he said, Abu Hani told us, he said, Amer was asked about his statement: And whoever disbelieves, he said: Whoever among creation disbelieves, then God is independent of him.

Muhammad bin Sinan told me, he said, Abu Hudhayfah told us, he said, Sufyan told us, on the authority of Ibrahim, on the authority of Muhammad bin Ibad, on the authority of Ibn Umar, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, regarding God's statement: And whoever disbelieves, he said: Whoever disbelieves in God and the Last Day.

Muhammad bin Amr told me, he said, Abu Asim told us, he said, Isa told us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Ikrimah, the freed slave of Ibn Abbas, regarding the statement of God Almighty: And whoever desires other than Islam as religion (Al Imran 3:85), the religions said: We are Muslims! So God Almighty revealed: "And Hajj to the House is a duty that mankind owes to God - those who can afford the expenses for one's expenses to it. And whoever disbelieves - then indeed, God is free from need of the worlds." So the believers performed Hajj, and the disbelievers stayed away.

Others said: The meaning of this is: And whoever disbelieves in these verses in the Station of Abraham.

Who said that?

Yunus told me, he said, Ibn Wahb told us, he said, Ibn Zayd said regarding His statement: And whoever disbelieves - then indeed, God is free from need of the worlds, so he recited: Indeed, the first House [of worship] established for mankind was that at Bakkah - blessed, so he recited until he reached: "And whoever can find a way to it. And whoever disbelieves," he said: Whoever disbelieves in these verses, then indeed, God is free from need of the worlds, it is not as they say: If he does not perform Hajj and he is rich and has the strength, then he has disbelieved in them. And some of the polytheists said: We disbelieve in them but we do not do them! So God, the Almighty, said: then indeed, God is free from need of the worlds.

Others said:

Ibrahim bin Abdullah bin Muslim told me, he said, Abu Omar Al-Dharee' told us, he said, Hammad told us, on the authority of Habib bin Abi Baqiyah, on the authority of Ata bin Abi Rabah, regarding his statement: And whoever disbelieves - then indeed, God is free from need of the worlds, he said: Whoever disbelieves in the House.

Others said: His disbelief in him means that he left him until he died.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Al-Hussein told us, Ahmad bin Al-Mufaddal told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi: As for whoever disbelieves, whoever finds what he can use to perform Hajj but does not perform Hajj, he is a disbeliever.

Abu Ja'far said: The most correct interpretation of this is the statement of the one who said: The meaning of and whoever disbelieves is that whoever denies the obligation of this and rejects its necessity, then God is independent of him, his argument, and all the worlds.

We said that this is more appropriate because his statement, And whoever disbelieves, following his statement, And Hajj to the House is a duty that mankind owes to God, those who can afford the expenses, is more appropriate for it to be report about the disbelievers in Hajj than it is for it to be report about someone else, even though the one who disbelieves in the obligation of Hajj on the one upon whom God imposed it, is a disbeliever in God, and disbelief is originally denial, and whoever denies Him and His obligation, then there is no doubt that if he performs Hajj, he does not hope to be righteous by his Hajj, because he who left it and did not perform Hajj did not see it as a sin. These interpretations, even if the wording differs, are similar in meaning.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

Fourth: The Almighty's saying: In it are clear signs is raised by the beginning or by the description. The people of Mecca, Ibn Abbas, Mujahid, and Saeed bin Jubair read  as a singular, meaning the Station of Abraham alone. They said: The trace of his feet in the Station is a clear sign. Mujahid interpreted the Station of Abraham as the entire Sanctuary, so he went to the fact that among its signs are Safa and Marwa, the Corner, and the Station. The rest used the plural. They meant the Station of Abraham, the Black Stone, Al-Hateem, Zamzam, and all the sacred sites. Abu Jaafar Al-Nahhas said: Whoever recites clear signs his recitation is clearer, because Safa and Marwa are signs. Among them is that the bird does not fly over the Kaaba while it is healthy. Among them is that the bird of prey seeks prey but when it enters the sanctuary it leaves it. Among them is that when the rain falls towards the Yemeni corner, there is fertility in Yemen, and when it falls towards the Levant, there is fertility in the Levant, and when it covers the Kaaba, there is fertility in all countries. Among them is that the pebbles, whatever is added to them, are seen in the same amount. The station is from their saying: I stood up a station, which is the place where one stands. The station is from your saying: I established a station. This has already been mentioned in Al-Baqarah, and the disagreement has also been mentioned in the station and the correct one from it. The station was raised on the subject and the predicate is omitted, and the estimate from it is the station of Abraham, as Al-Akhfash said. It was narrated from Muhammad bin Yazid that he said: Standing instead of Signs and there is a third saying meaning it is the station of Abraham. The saying of Al-Akhfash is well-known in the speech of the Arabs. As Zuhair said:

It has its own provisions and helpers who will bring it with them, and when it is emptied it will be crushed.

That is, it passed and after its flow. And Abu al-Abbas

Surat Al Imran 3:97

In it are clear signs [the station of Abraham]. And whoever enters it shall be safe. And Hajj to the House is a duty that mankind owes to God, those who can afford the expenses (for one's journey). And whoever disbelieves - then indeed, God is free from need of the worlds.

said: Maqam means Maqamat because it is a source. God Almighty said: God has set a seal upon their hearts and upon their hearing. And the poet said:

Eyes that have disease at their edges

Yes, at its edges. This is strengthened by the hadith narrated: The entire Hajj is the Station of Abraham.

Fifth: The Almighty's saying: And whoever enters it shall be safe. Qatada said: This is also one of the signs of the Sacred Sanctuary. An-Nahhas said: It is a good statement, because people were being snatched from around it, and no tyrant could reach it, and it reached the Holy House and was destroyed, but it did not reach the Sacred Sanctuary. God the Almighty said: Have you not seen how your Lord dealt with the companions of the elephant? (al-Fil 105:1). Some of the scholars of meaning said: The form of the verse is a statement and its meaning is a command, its meaning is: And whoever enters it, make him safe, like His saying: There shall be no obscenity nor wickedness nor disputing during Hajj. (al-Baqarah 2:197) meaning do not speak obscenities nor commit wickedness nor argue. For this meaning, the previous Imam An-Nu'man ibn Thabit said: Whoever commits a sin and deserves a punishment for it, then seeks refuge in the Sacred Sanctuary, He will protect him, because of His saying: And whoever enters it shall be safe. So God the Almighty made safety obligatory for whoever enters it. This was narrated from a group of the Salaf, including Ibn Abbas and others. Ibn al-Arabi said: "Whoever said this has made a mistake in two ways: First, he did not understand from the verse that it was report of what had happened in the past, and he did not intend by it to prove a future ruling. Second, he did not know that that security had gone and that killing and fighting had taken place after that in it, and what God says does not happen in a way that is different from what He tells us, so that indicates that this was in the past." Abu Hanifa contradicted him and said: If someone takes refuge in the Sacred Sanctuary, he is not given food, drink, treatment, or speech until he leaves, so his being forced to leave does not make security valid. It was narrated from him that he said: Retaliation takes place in the outskirts of the Sacred Sanctuary, and there is no security with this either. The majority of scholars agree that the prescribed punishments are carried out in the Sacred Sanctuary. "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, ordered the killing of Ibn Khatal while he was clinging to the curtains of the Kaaba."

I said: Al-Thawri narrated on the authority of Mansur on the authority of Mujahid on the authority of Ibn Abbas: Whoever commits a punishment in the Sacred Sanctuary, it will be carried out on him there. If he commits it outside the Sacred Sanctuary and takes refuge in the Sacred Sanctuary, he will not be spoken to or given allegiance until he leaves the Sacred Sanctuary and the punishment is carried out on him. This is the opinion of Al-Sha'bi. This is the argument of the Kufians, and Ibn Abbas understood that from the meaning of the verse, as he was the scholar and the scholar of the nation. The correct view is that he intended by that to enumerate the blessings upon everyone who was ignorant of it and denied it among the Arabs, as God the Almighty said: Have they not seen that We have made a secure Sanctuary while people are snatched away all around them? (al-Ankabut 29:67). So in the pre-Islamic era, whoever entered it and took refuge in it was safe from raids and killing, as will be explained in <Al-Ma'idah>, God willing. Qatadah said: Whoever entered it in the pre-Islamic era was safe. This is good. It was narrated that some of the atheists said to some scholars: Isn't it in the Qur'an: And whoever enters it is safe. We entered it and did such and such, and whoever was in it was not safe! He said to him: Are you not from the Arabs? What does the speaker mean when he says, Whoever enters my house is safe? Isn't he saying to the one who obeys him, He refrained from him, I made him feel safe and I refrained from him? He said, Yes. He said, So is his statement, 'And whoever enters it is safe.' Yahya ibn Ja'dah said, The meaning of 'And whoever enters it is safe' is from the Fire.

I said: This is not general, because in Sahih Muslim, "On the authority of Abu Saeed Al-Khudri, there is a long hadith about intercession: By Him in Whose Hand is my soul, there is none among you who will implore God more fervently to exact the truth than the believers on the Day of Resurrection for their brothers who are in the Fire, saying, 'Our Lord, they used to fast with us, pray, and perform Hajj.' It will be said to them, 'Bring out those whom you recognized.'" The hadith. Only he who enters it to perform the rituals, respecting it, recognizing its rights, and drawing closer to God the Most High, will be safe from its punishment. Ja'far Al-Sadiq said: Whoever enters it in purity as the prophets and saints entered it, will be safe from its punishment. This is the meaning of his saying, peace be upon him: "Whoever performs Hajj and does not utter obscenities or commit sins will emerge from his sins as on the day his mother bore him. And an accepted Hajj brings no less than Paradise as a reward." Al-Hasan said: An accepted Hajj is one who returns ascetic in this world and desirous of the Hereafter. He recited:

O Kaaba of God, the supplication of the refugee, the supplication of the one who feels the need

He said goodbye to his loved ones and his home, and came between fear and hope.

If God accepts his generosity in his endeavor, he will be saved, otherwise he will not be saved.

You are one of those whose intercession is hoped for, so be kind to Wafid bin Hajjaj.

It was said: The meaning is whoever entered it in the year of the Umrah of expiation with Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace. The evidence for this is the Almighty's statement: You will surely enter the Sacred Mosque, God willing, in safety (al-Fath 48:27). It was also said: Whoever here refers to someone who does not have reason, and the verse is about safety for hunting. This is anomalous. In the revelation: And among them are those who walk on their bellies (al-Nur 24:45) the verse.

God Almighty says: "And Hajj to the House is a duty that mankind owes to God - those who can afford the expenses for one's journey. And whoever disbelieves - then indeed, God is free from need of the worlds." There are nine issues in this:

The first: The Almighty's saying: By God. The Lām in His saying By God is the Lām of affirmation and obligation. Then He confirmed it with His saying: Upon, which is one of the most emphatic expressions of obligation among the Arabs. So when an Arab says: So-and-so owes me such-and-such, he has confirmed it and made it obligatory. So God Almighty mentioned Hajj with the most eloquent expressions of obligation, emphasizing its right and magnifying its sanctity. There is no disagreement about its obligation, and it is one of the foundations of Islam. It is only obligatory once in a lifetime. Some people said: It is obligatory once every five years, and they narrated a hadith about that which they attributed to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace. The hadith is invalid and not authentic, and the consensus is against them.

I said: "And Abd al-Razzaq said: Sufyan al-Thawri told us, on the authority of al-Ala' ibn al-Musayyab, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Abu Sa'id al-Khudri, that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'The Lord, glory be to Him, says: 'A servant whom I have given abundant provision to and who does not return to Me is deprived every four years.' It is well-known from the hadith of al-Ala' ibn al-Musayyab ibn Rafi' al-Kahili al-Kufi, from the sons of the hadith scholars. More than one person narrated from him, some of whom said: every five years, and some of whom said: on the authority of al-Ala', on the authority of Yunus ibn Khabab, on the authority of Abu Sa'id, in other differences. The atheist denied the Hajj, saying: It involves stripping off one's clothes, which contradicts modesty, and running, which contradicts dignity, and throwing pebbles at the wrong target, which contradicts reason. So they concluded that all of these actions are invalid, because they did not know their wisdom or reason, and they were ignorant that it is not a condition of the Master with the servant that he understands the intended meaning of everything he orders him to do, nor that he is aware of the benefit of his assignment. Rather, he must comply, and he must submit without seeking a benefit or asking about an intended meaning. For this reason, peace be upon him, he used to say in his Talbiyah: "Here I am, truly, truly, in worship and submission, here I am, O God of Truth." The Imams narrated on the authority of Abu Hurairah who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, addressed us and said: O people, God has made Hajj obligatory upon you, so perform Hajj. A man said: Every year, O Messenger of God? He was silent until he said it three times. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: If I had said yes, it would have been obligatory and you would not have been able to do it. Then he said: Leave me as I have left you, for those who came before you were destroyed because of their excessive questioning and their disagreement with their prophets. So if I command you to do something, do as much of it as you can, and if I forbid you from something, leave it. This hadith shows that when the address is directed to those charged with an obligation, it is sufficient to do it once and does not require repetition, contrary to what Professor Abu Ishaq al-Isfarayini and others said. It is proven that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, was asked by his companions: O Messenger of God, should we perform Hajj this year or forever? He said: No, forever. This is a text in response to those who said: It is obligatory once every five years. Pilgrimage was known and famous among the Arabs, and it was something they desired for its markets, justification, and piety. When Islam came, they were addressed with what they knew and were obligated to do what they knew. "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, performed the pilgrimage before the obligatory pilgrimage, and he stood at Arafat and did not change the law of Abraham as they changed it," when the Quraysh were standing at the sacred monument and saying, We are the people of the sanctuary, so we will not leave it, and we are the Hams, according to what was explained previously in <Al-Baqarah>.

I said: "One of the strangest things I have seen is that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, performed Hajj twice before the migration, and that the obligation was dropped from him because of that, because he had answered the call of Abraham when it was said to him: 'And proclaim to the people the Hajj' (al-Hajj 22:27)." Al-Kaya al-Tabari said: This is far-fetched, because if it is stated in his law: 'And Hajj to the House is a duty owed to God by mankind,' then it must be obligatory upon him by virtue of the address in his law. If it is said: He only addressed those who had not performed Hajj, then this would be arbitrary and specific, for which there is no evidence, and it would be necessary that this address not be obligatory upon those who performed Hajj according to the religion of Abraham, and this is extremely far-fetched.

Second: The Qur'an and Sunnah indicate that Hajj is to be performed without delay, not immediately. This is the conclusion of the Maliki school of thought, as stated by Ibn Khuwayz Mandad, and it is the opinion of al-Shafi'i, Muhammad ibn al-Hasan, and Abu Yusuf in a narration from him. Some of the later Malikis from Baghdad held that it is to be performed immediately, and it is not permissible to delay it if one is able to do so. This is the opinion of Dawud. The first is correct, because God the Almighty said in Surat al-Hajj 22: And proclaim to mankind the Hajj; they will come to you on foot and on foot. (al-Hajj 22:27), and Surat al-Hajj was revealed in Mecca. God the Almighty also said: And Hajj to the House is a duty owed to God by mankind. (al-Hajj 22:27) This Surah was revealed in the year of Uhud in Madinah, the third year of the Hijra. "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, did not perform Hajj until the year ten." As for the year: "The hadith of Dhimmah bin Tha'labah al-Sa'di from Banu Sa'd bin Bakr came to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and asked him about Islam. He mentioned the testimony, prayer, zakat, fasting, and Hajj." Narrated by Ibn Abbas, Abu Hurairah, and Anas. All of them mention Hajj, and that it was obligatory. The hadith of Anas is the best and most complete in its context. There is disagreement about the time of his arrival. It was said: the year five. It was said: the year seven. It was said: the year nine. Ibn Hisham mentioned it on the authority of Abu Ubaidah al-Waqidi in the year of the Trench after the withdrawal of the Confederates. Ibn Abd al-Barr said: The evidence that Hajj can be delayed is the consensus of scholars on not declaring a person who is able to perform Hajj a sinner if he delays it for a year or two or the like, and that if he performs Hajj after years of being able to do so, then he has performed the Hajj that was obligatory upon him on time. According to all of them, he is not like someone who missed a prayer until its time had passed and then made it up after its time had passed, nor like someone who was unable to fast Ramadan due to illness or travel and made it up, nor like someone who spoiled his Hajj and made it up. Since they agreed that it is not said to someone who performs Hajj after years of being able to do so: You have fulfilled what was obligatory upon you, we know that the time for Hajj is flexible and that it can be delayed, not immediate. Abu Umar said: Everyone who says that it can be delayed does not set a limit for that, except what was narrated from Sahnun, who was asked about a man who finds what he can do for Hajj and delays it for many years despite being able to do so. Is he a sinner by delaying Hajj and is his testimony rejected? He said: No, even if he is sixty years old. If he is over sixty, then he is a sinner and his testimony is rejected. This is a specific ruling, and the limits in Islamic law are only taken from those who have the right to legislate.

In it are clear signs [the station of Abraham]. And whoever enters it shall be safe. And Hajj to the House is a duty that mankind owes to God, those who can afford the expenses (for one's journey). And whoever disbelieves - then indeed, God is free from need of the worlds.

I said: Ibn Khuwaiz Mandad narrated it on the authority of Ibn al-Qasim. Ibn al-Qasim and others said: If he delays it for sixty years, there is no problem, but if he delays it after sixty, there is a problem, "because the Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) said: 'The lifespans of my ummah will be between sixty and seventy, and few will exceed that.' So it is as if the speech might be too tight for him in this decade. Abu 'Umar said: Some people, such as Sahnun, have used as evidence "the saying of the Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him): 'The battlefield of my ummah will be between sixty and seventy, and few will exceed that.'" There is no proof in it, because it is a statement that came out of the most likely age of his ummah if the hadeeth is authentic. It is evidence for extending it to seventy because it is also the most likely age, and one should not conclude that someone whose justice and trustworthiness are authentic is a sinner based on such a weak interpretation. And God is the Grantor of success.

Third: The scholars agreed that the address in the words of God the Almighty: And Hajj to the House is a duty owed to God by mankind is general for all of them and is extended to all of them. Ibn al-Arabi said: Even though people differed in the absolute generalities, they agreed to apply this verse to all people, male and female, except for the young, who is excluded by consensus from the principles of obligation. Likewise, the slave is not included in it, because he was excluded from the absolute generality by the words of God the Almighty in the end: Whoever can afford it and the slave is not able, because the master prevents him from his rights in this worship. God the Almighty has given precedence to the master's right over his right out of kindness to the slaves and in their interest. There is no disagreement about this among the nation or among the imams, so we should not speak ill of what we do not know, and there is no evidence for it except consensus. Ibn al-Mundhir said: The majority of the people of knowledge agreed, except for those who are not considered to be disagreeing, that if a boy performs Hajj while he is young, and if a slave performs Hajj while he is a slave, then the boy reaches puberty and the slave is freed, then they are obligated to perform Hajj al-Islam if they find a way to do so. Abu Omar said: Dawud disagreed with a group of jurists of the regions and the imams of the tradition regarding the slave, and that he is addressed with the Hajj, but according to the majority of scholars he is excluded from the general address in the Almighty's saying: And Hajj to the House is a duty owed to God by people who can afford the expenses based on the lack of disposal, and that he does not have the right to perform Hajj without his master's permission, just as he was excluded from the Friday address, which is the Almighty's saying: O you who believe, when the call is made for prayer on Friday (al-Jumu'ah 62:9) - according to the majority of scholars except for a few exceptions. And just as he was excluded in the address requiring testimony, God the Almighty said: And let not the witnesses refuse when they are called (al-Baqarah 2:282), so the slave was not included in that. And just as it is permissible to exclude the boy from His saying: And Hajj to the House is a duty owed to God by people (Al Imran 3:97), and he is one of the people based on the fact that the pen has been lifted from him. And the woman was excluded from His saying: O you who believe, when the call is made for prayer and she is one of those included in the name of faith, and likewise the slave was excluded from the aforementioned address. This is the opinion of the jurists of Hijaz, Iraq, Syria and Morocco, and the likes of them are not permitted to distort the interpretation of the Book. If it is said: If he is present in the Sacred Mosque and his master has given him permission, then why is he not obligated to perform Hajj? It is said to him: This is a question based on consensus, and perhaps it cannot be explained, but if this ruling is established based on consensus, we use it as evidence that his Hajj while in slavery is not counted as Hajj al-Islam. "It was narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, that he said: Any boy who performs Hajj and then reaches puberty must perform another Hajj. Any Bedouin who performs Hajj and then emigrates must perform another Hajj. Any slave who performs Hajj and then is freed must perform another Hajj." Ibn al-Arabi said: Some of our scholars were lenient and said: The reason for the slave not being obligated to perform Hajj, even if his master permitted him, is because he was originally a disbeliever and the Hajj of a disbeliever was not considered valid. When he was made a permanent slave, he was not required to perform Hajj. This is invalid for three reasons, so know this: First, that the disbelievers, according to us, are required to perform the branches of the Shari'ah, and there is no disagreement about this in the opinion of Malik. Second, that all acts of worship are obligatory on him, such as prayer and fasting, even though he is a slave. If he did them while he was a disbeliever, they would not be considered valid, so Hajj must be like them. Third, that disbelief was lifted by Islam, so its ruling must be lifted. It is clear that what we have mentioned about the rights of the master being given precedence is what is relied upon. And God is the Grantor of success.

Fourth - The Almighty's saying: Whoever can afford a way to it <of> is in the accusative case as a substitute for some of the whole. This is the opinion of most grammarians. Al-Kisa'i permitted <of> to be in the nominative case with <-Hajj>, the estimation being that whoever can afford to perform Hajj to the House. It was said that it is a condition. <and was able> is in the subjunctive mood, and the answer is omitted, meaning whoever can afford to perform Hajj must perform Hajj. Al-Darqutni narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas who said: It was said, O Messenger of God, is Hajj every year? He said: No, rather Hajj. It was said: What is the way? He said: Provisions and a mount. And it was narrated on the authority of Anas, Ibn Masoud, Ibn Omar, Jabir, Aisha, and Amr bin Shuaib on the authority of his father on the authority of his grandfather. And on the authority of Ali bin Abi Talib, may God be pleased with him, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace: Pilgrimage to the House is a duty owed to God by people, whoever is able to do so. He was asked about that, so the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: That you find the back of a camel. The hadith of Ibn Omar was also included by Ibn Majah in his Sunan, and Abu Isa al-Tirmidhi in his Jami', who said: It is a good hadith, and the scholars act upon it that if a man owns provisions and a mount, Hajj is obligatory upon him. Ibrahim bin Yazid is al-Khawzi al-Makki, and some of the scholars of hadith have spoken about him because of his memory. "And they narrated it on the authority of Wakee' and Ad-Daraqutni on the authority of Sufyan ibn Saeed. They said: Ibrahim bin Yazid narrated to us on the authority of Muhammad ibn Abbad on the authority of Ibn Umar who said: A man stood up to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: O Messenger of God, what makes Hajj obligatory? He said: Provisions and a mount. He said: O Messenger of God, what is Hajj? He said: Disheveled hair and spitting. Another stood up and said: O Messenger of God, what is Hajj? He said: The hustle and bustle." Wakee' said: By hustle he meant the hustle and bustle of the Talbiyah, and the slaughter of the sacrificial animal. This is the wording of Ibn Majah. Among those who said that provisions and a mount are conditions for the obligation of Hajj are: Umar ibn Al-Khattab and his son Abdullah, Abdullah ibn Abbas, Al-Hasan Al-Basri, Saeed ibn Jubayr, Ata' and Mujahid. This is the view of Al-Shafi'i, Al-Thawri, Abu Hanifah and his companions, Ahmad, Ishaq, Abdul Aziz ibn Abi Salamah and Ibn Habib. Abdus mentioned something similar on the authority of Sahnun. Al-Shafi'i said: "Ability has two aspects: One is that he is physically able and has enough money to perform Hajj. The second is that he is physically disabled and cannot stay on his mount, and he is able to command someone to perform Hajj on his behalf for a fee or without a fee, as will be explained later. As for the one who is physically able, then the obligation of Hajj is obligatory for him according to the Book, as God the Almighty says: "Whoever can afford the expenses of performing Hajj thereto." As for the one who is financially able, then the obligation of Hajj is obligatory for him according to the Sunnah, as stated in the hadith of al-Khath'amiyyah, as will be explained later. As for the one who is physically able, and he is strong and does not encounter unbearable hardship in riding a mount, if he has the provisions and a mount, then the obligation of Hajj is obligatory for him personally. If he does not have the provisions and a mount, or one of them, then the obligation of Hajj is dropped from him. If he is able to walk and is able to do so and finds the provisions or is able to earn provisions on his way by a craft such as beading, cupping, or the like, then it is recommended for him to perform Hajj on foot, whether he is a man or a woman." Ash-Shafi'i said: A man has less excuse than a woman because he is stronger. This is recommended, not obligatory, according to them. However, if he is able to obtain provisions by begging people on the road, it is disliked for him to perform Hajj because he becomes a burden on people. Malik ibn Anas may God have mercy on him said: "If he is able to walk and finds provisions, then Hajj is obligatory upon him. If he cannot find a mount and is able to walk, then the obligation of Hajj is obligatory upon him. If he does not own provisions but is able to earn his needs from them on the road, then the obligation of Hajj is also obligatory upon him. If he is one of the honorable people who does not earn his living by himself, then it is not obligatory upon him. If he is one of those who earn his living by trade or industry, then Hajj is obligatory upon him. And likewise, if his habit is to beg people, then Hajj is obligatory upon him. Malik also made Hajj obligatory upon the one who is able to walk, even if he does not have provisions or a mount with him. This is the opinion of Abdullah ibn Az-Zubayr, Ash-Sha'bi, and Ikrimah. Ad-Dahhak said: If he is a strong, healthy young man who has no money, then he must hire himself out for his food or his offspring until he completes his Hajj." Muqatil said to him: Did God command people to walk to the House? He said: If one of them had an inheritance in Mecca, would he abandon it?! Rather, he should go to it even if he had to crawl. Likewise, Hajj is obligatory for him. They used as evidence the words of God the Almighty: And proclaim to mankind the Hajj [pilgrimage]; they will come to you on foot (al-Hajj 22:27), meaning on foot. They said: Because Hajj is one of the acts of worship of the body and one of the individual obligations, it is necessary that provisions and a mount should not be among the conditions for its obligation, like prayer and fasting. They said: Even if the hadith of Al-Khawzi about provisions and a mount were authentic, we would have interpreted it to refer to all people and most of them in distant lands. The general application of speech to most situations is common in the Shariah and in the speech and poetry of the Arabs. Ibn Wahb, Ibn Al-Qasim, and Ashhab narrated from Malik that he was asked about this verse and he said: People in that matter according to their ability, ease, and patience. Ashhab said to Malik: Is it provisions and a mount? He said: No, by God, that is only according to the people's ability. He may find provisions and a mount but not be able to walk, and another may be able to walk on his feet.

In it are clear signs [the station of Abraham]. And whoever enters it shall be safe. And Hajj to the House is a duty that mankind owes to God, those who can afford the expenses (for one's journey). And whoever disbelieves - then indeed, God is free from need of the worlds.

Fifth: If he is able and the obligation of Hajj is fulfilled, something may arise that prevents him from doing so, such as a debtor preventing him from going out until he pays off his debt, and there is no disagreement on that. Or he has dependents for whom he is obligated to provide, so Hajj is not obligatory for him until he provides for them during his absence due to his going and returning, because this provision is obligatory immediately, and Hajj is obligatory to be delayed, so giving priority to the dependents is more appropriate. "The Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) said: 'It is enough of a sin for a man to neglect those he provides for.'" Similarly, parents fear being neglected and not being compensated for being kind to them, so he has no way to perform Hajj, because its meaning is because of longing and loneliness, so he should not pay attention to it. A woman is prevented by her husband, and it was said that he does not prevent her. The correct view is that it is forbidden, especially if we say that Hajj is not obligatory immediately. The sea does not prevent the obligation if it is mostly safe - as was explained previously in Surat Al-Baqarah - and he knows that he will not be weak. But if it is mostly damaged or weak to the point that he misses the prayer, then it is not. If he cannot find a place to prostrate due to the large number of riders and the narrowness of the place, Malik said: If he cannot bow and prostrate except on his brother's back, then he should not ride him. Then he said: Should he ride where he cannot pray? Woe to him who abandons prayer! Hajj is dropped if there is an enemy on the road who seeks lives or money unless there is a specific limit or an unjust amount. There is a difference of opinion about its being dropped without unjustification. Al-Shafi'i said: He should not be given a grain and the obligation of Hajj is dropped. It is obligatory for the beggar if that is his habit and he thinks it is most likely that he will find someone to give him. It was said that it is not obligatory, based on what was mentioned above regarding taking ability into consideration.

Sixth: If the obstacles are removed and he does not have enough money to perform Hajj with, but he has merchandise, then he must sell some of his merchandise for Hajj, which he can sell for the debt. Ibn al-Qasim was asked about a man who has a sacrifice and nothing else, can he sell it for the obligatory Hajj and leave his children with nothing to live on? He said: Yes, that is upon him, and he should leave his children in charity. The correct opinion is the first, "because the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: It is enough of a sin for a man to neglect those he needs." This is also the opinion of al-Shafi'i. What appears from his school of thought is that Hajj is not obligatory except for one who has enough money to spend on going and coming back - as he said in al-Imla' - even if he does not have family or children. Some of them said: Returning is not considered because it is not a great hardship for him to leave his country, because he has no family or children there, and all countries are his homeland. The first is more correct, because a person feels lonely when he is separated from his homeland, just as he feels lonely when he is separated from his home. Do you not see that if a virgin commits adultery, he is flogged and banished from his country, whether he has a family or not? Al-Shafi'i said in Al-Umm: If he has a home and a servant and his family's expenses are sufficient for his absence, then he is obligated to perform Hajj. The apparent meaning of this is that he considered the money for Hajj to be more than the servant and home, because he gave it precedence over his family's expenses, so it is as if he said: After all this. His companions said: He is obligated to sell the home and servant and rent a home and a servant for his family. If he has merchandise with which he trades and its profit is sufficient for him and his family on a permanent basis, and whenever he spends from the original merchandise, its profit is lost and is not sufficient for him, is he obligated to perform Hajj from the original merchandise or not? There are two opinions: The first is according to the majority and is the correct and well-known opinion, because there is no disagreement that if he has a property whose yield is sufficient for him, then he is obligated to sell the original property for Hajj, and the same applies to the merchandise. Ibn Shuraih said: He is not obligated to do that, and he should keep the merchandise and not perform Hajj from it, because Hajj is only obligatory upon him for the surplus of his sufficiency. So this discussion is about the ability with the body and money.

Seventh: The sick and the bitten, and the bitten is the cutting, and from it the sword was called bitten, and it is as if the one who has reached the point of not being able to hold on to the mount or remain on it is like the one whose limbs have been cut off, as he is not able to do anything. The scholars differed in their ruling after their consensus that they are not obligated to travel to Hajj, because Hajj was only imposed by God on the one who is able by consensus, and the sick and bitten are not able. So Malik said: If he was bitten, the obligation of Hajj is dropped from him originally, whether he was able to have someone perform Hajj on his behalf with money or otherwise, the obligation of Hajj is not obligatory on him even if Hajj was obligatory on him and then he was bitten and the obligation of Hajj was dropped from him, and it is not permissible for Hajj to be performed on his behalf during his lifetime under any circumstances, rather if he bequeathed that Hajj be performed on his behalf after his death, Hajj is performed on his behalf from a third, and it is voluntary, and he provided evidence with the words of God the Almighty: And that man can have nothing but what he strives for (al-Najm 53:39), so He informed that he has nothing but what he strives for. So whoever said that he has the striving of someone else has contradicted the apparent meaning of the verse. And the Almighty said: And Hajj to the House is a duty that mankind owes to God. This is not possible, because Hajj is the intention of the person responsible to go to the House himself, and because it is an act of worship that cannot be performed by a representative if he is unable to do it, like prayer. "And Muhammad ibn al-Munkadir narrated on the authority of Jabir that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: God, the Almighty, will admit three people into Paradise by means of a single Hajj: the deceased, the one who performs Hajj on his behalf, and the one who carries it out." Narrated by al-Tabarani Abu al-Qasim Sulayman ibn Ahmad, who said: Amr ibn Husayn al-Sadusi told us, who said: Abu Ma'shar told us on the authority of Muhammad ibn al-Munkadir, and he mentioned it:

I said: Abu Ma'shar's name is Najih and he is weak according to them. Al-Shafi'i said: In the case of a sick person who has a bone disease or an old man, he is able to have someone obey him if he orders him to perform Hajj on his behalf, so he is able to some extent. This is of two types: One of them is that he is able to have money with which to hire someone to perform Hajj on his behalf, so he is obligated to perform Hajj. This is the opinion of Ali ibn Abi Talib may God be pleased with him. It was narrated from him that he said to an old man who had not performed Hajj: Prepare a man to perform Hajj on your behalf. This is the opinion of Al-Thawri, Abu Hanifah and his companions, Ibn Al-Mubarak, Ahmad and Ishaq. The second is that he is able to have someone who will offer him obedience and representation so that he can perform Hajj on his behalf. In this case, Hajj is also obligatory according to Al-Shafi'i and Ahmad ibn Rahawayh. Abu Hanifah said that Hajj is not obligatory if he offers obedience under any circumstances. Al-Shafi'i provided evidence for this with what was narrated by Ibn Abbas: "A woman from Khatham asked the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: O Messenger of God, God's obligation upon His servants in Hajj has come upon my father, who is an old man and cannot stay on his mount. Should I perform Hajj on his behalf? He said: Yes." This was during the Farewell Pilgrimage. In another narration: He cannot sit upright on the back of his camel. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "Then perform Hajj on his behalf. Tell me, if your father had a debt, would you pay it off?" She said: Yes. He said: The debt of God is more deserving of being paid off. So the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, made Hajj obligatory upon his daughter's obedience to him and her offering of herself to him by performing Hajj on his behalf. If this is obligatory upon his daughter's obedience to him, then it is more appropriate for him to be obligated upon his ability to pay the money with which he is hired. However, if he offers him money without obedience, then the correct view is that he is not obligated to accept it and perform Hajj on his own behalf, and he does not become able to do so by offering him money. Our scholars said: The hadith of Al-Khathamiyyah is not intended to be an affirmation, but rather its purpose is to encourage people to be dutiful to their parents and to look into their interests in this world and in religion and to bring them benefit in nature and in the

Shari'ah. When he saw from the woman an apparent reaction and willingness and a sincere desire to be dutiful to her father and a keenness to convey goodness and reward to him, and she regretted that he would miss out on the blessing of Hajj, he agreed to that. He also said to the other who said: My mother vowed to perform Hajj but she did not perform Hajj until she died, so should I perform Hajj on her behalf? He said: "Perform Hajj on her behalf. Do you think that if your mother had a debt, would you have paid it off?" She said: Yes. This indicates that it is a voluntary act and conveying goodness and goodness to the dead. Do you not see that he likened the act of Hajj to a debt? And by consensus, if a person dies and he has a debt, his guardian is not obligated to pay it off from his money, but if he volunteers to do so, the debt is paid on his behalf. And among the evidence that Hajj is not obligatory on her father is what this woman stated explicitly when she said: He is not able to. And whoever is not able is not obligated. This is a statement denying the obligation and preventing the duty. What was denied at the beginning of the hadith is not permissible to be confirmed at the end of it by conjecture. This is confirmed by his statement: The debt of God is more deserving of being paid. There is no consensus on its apparent meaning. The debt of a slave is more deserving of being paid. It begins with it by consensus due to the poverty of man and the independence of God, as stated by Ibn al-Arabi. Abu Omar ibn Abd al-Barr mentioned that the hadith of al-Khath'amiyyah according to Malik and his companions is specific to her. Others said: There is confusion in it. Ibn Wahb and Abu Mus'ab said: It is specifically for the son. Ibn Habib said: The concession came in Hajj on behalf of an old man who has no means of transportation and did not perform Hajj, and on behalf of someone who died and did not perform Hajj, that his son may perform Hajj on his behalf even if he did not leave a will for him, and it is sufficient for him, God willing. This is speaking about the one who was bitten and the like. The hadith of al-Khath'amiyyah was narrated by the imams, and it refutes al-Hasan's statement that it is not permissible for a woman to perform Hajj on behalf of a man.

Eighth: The scholars agreed that if the person responsible does not have enough food to provide himself on the road, he is not obligated to perform Hajj. If a stranger gives him money to perform Hajj with, he is not obligated to accept it, according to consensus, and he is not deemed to be doing so as a favor. If a man gives his father money, Al-Shafi'i said: He is obligated to accept it, because the man's son is from his earnings and there is no blame on him for that. Malik and Abu Hanifa said: He is not obligated to accept it, because it would nullify the sanctity of fatherhood, since it would be said: He has compensated him and he has fulfilled it. And God knows best.

Ninth: The Almighty's saying: And whoever disbelieves - then indeed, God is free from need of the worlds. Ibn Abbas and others said: The meaning is whoever disbelieves in the obligation of Hajj and does not see it as obligatory. Al-Hasan al-Basri and others said: Whoever abandons Hajj while he is able to do it is a disbeliever. Al-Tirmidhi narrated on the authority of Al-Harith on the authority of Ali who said: The

In it are clear signs [the station of Abraham]. And whoever enters it shall be safe. And Hajj to the House is a duty that mankind owes to God, those who can afford the expenses (for one's journey). And whoever disbelieves - then indeed, God is free from need of the worlds.

Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever has provisions and a mount to reach the House of God and does not perform Hajj, then it is not upon him to die a Jew or a Christian, because God says in His Book: And Hajj to the House is a duty owed to God by people, whoever is able to do so. Abu Isa said: This is a strange hadith that we do not know except from this source, and there is talk about its chain of transmission, and Hilal bin Abdullah is unknown, and Al-Harith is considered weak. Similar to it was narrated on the authority of Abu Umamah and Umar bin Al-Khattab, may God be pleased with them both. And on the authority of Abd Khair bin Yazid on the authority of Ali bin Abi Talib, may God be pleased with him, that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said in his sermon: O people, God has made Hajj obligatory upon you for whoever is able to do so, and whoever does not do so, let him die in whatever state he wishes, whether he wishes as a Jew, a Christian, or a Zoroastrian, unless he has an excuse such as illness or an unjust ruler. He has no share in my intercession or coming to my Pool." Ibn Abbas said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever has what it takes to perform Hajj but does not perform Hajj, or has wealth on which zakat is due but does not perform Hajj, then he has no share in my intercession or coming to my Pool. He purified him and asked about the return when he was dying. It was said: O Ibn Abbas, we used to consider this for the disbelievers. He said: I will recite to you a Qur'an with it: "O you who have believed, let not your wealth or your children divert you from the remembrance of God. And whoever does that - then it is those who are the losers. And spend from what We have provided for you before death approaches one of you and he says, "My Lord, if only You would delay me for a short term so I could give charity and be among the righteous." (al-Munafiqun 63:9-10), Al-Hasan bin Salih said in his interpretation: So purify yourself and perform Hajj. "On the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, that a man asked him about the verse, and he said: Whoever performs Hajj without hoping for reward or sits without fearing punishment has disbelieved in it." Qatadah narrated on the authority of Al-Hasan that Umar, may God be pleased with him, said: I was thinking of sending men to the provinces to look at whoever had wealth and did not perform Hajj and impose the jizya on him. That is what God, the Most High, said: And whoever disbelieves - then indeed, God is free from need of the worlds.

I said: This was taken as a severe warning, and for this reason our scholars said: The verse implies that whoever dies without performing Hajj while he is able, then the threat is directed at him, and it is not sufficient for someone else to perform Hajj on his behalf, because if someone else's Hajj would relieve him of the obligation, then the threat would be relieved of him. And God knows best. Saeed bin Jubair said: If a wealthy neighbor of mine dies without performing Hajj, then I would not pray over him.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The Almighty informs us that the first House established for mankind, that is, for all people, for their worship and rituals, to circumambulate it, pray to it, and seclude themselves at it, was the one at Bakkah meaning the Kaaba that was built by Abraham, peace be upon him, whom both the Christian and Jewish sects claim to follow his religion and method, and they do not perform Hajj to the House that he built by God's command to him in that and called people to perform Hajj, and for this reason the Almighty said: Blessed meaning it was established blessedly and a guidance for the worlds. Imam Ahmad said: Sufyan told us on the authority of Al-A'mash, on the authority of Ibrahim Al-Taymi, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Abu Dharr, may God be pleased with him, who said: "I said, O Messenger of God, which mosque was established on earth first? He said, Al-Masjid Al-Haram. I said: Then which? He said, Al-Masjid Al-Aqsa. I said: How much time is between them? He said: Forty years. I said: Then which? He said: Then wherever you find the prayer, pray, for all of it is a mosque." Al-Bukhari and Muslim narrated it from the hadith of Al-A'mash with it. Ibn Abi Hatim said: Al-Hasan bin Muhammad bin Al-Sabah told us, Saeed bin Sulaiman told us, on the authority of Sharik, on the authority of Mujalid, on the authority of Al-Sha'bi, on the authority of Ali, may God be pleased with him, regarding the words of God Almighty: Indeed, the first House [of worship] established for mankind was that at Bakkah - blessed. He said: There were houses before it, but it was the first house established for the worship of God. My father told us, Al-Hasan bin Al-Rabi' told us, Abu Al-Ahwas told us, on the authority of Samak, on the authority of Khalid bin Arara, who said: A man stood up to Ali, may God be pleased with him, and said: Will you not tell me about the House? Was it the first house established on earth? He said: No, but it was the first house in which blessing was established, the Station of Abraham, and whoever entered it was safe. He mentioned the full story of how Abraham built the House, and we have mentioned that in detail at the beginning of Surat Al-Baqarah, so there is no need to repeat it here. Al-Suddi claimed that it was the first house established on the face of the earth absolutely, and the correct statement is that of Ali, may God be pleased with him. As for the hadith that Al-Bayhaqi narrated in the construction of the Kaaba in his book, Evidences of Prophethood, on the authority of Ibn Lah'ah, on the authority of Yazid ibn Abi Habib, on the authority of Abu Al-Khair, on the authority of Abdullah ibn Amr ibn Al-Aas, with a chain of transmission traceable to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, that God sent Gabriel to Adam and Eve and commanded them to build the Kaaba. So Adam built it, then he was commanded to circumambulate it, and it was said to him: You are the first of mankind, and this is the first House established for mankind, then as you see it is from the individual hadiths of Ibn

Lahi'ah, and he is weak. What is more likely, and God knows best, is that this is attributed to Abdullah ibn Amr, and it is from the two Zamilah that were afflicted on the Day of Yarmouk from the words of the People of the Book.

God the Almighty said: For the one at Bakkah. Bakkah is one of the names of Mecca according to the well-known. It was said: It was named thus because it weeps the necks of the oppressors and tyrants, meaning that they are humiliated and submissive there. It was also said: Because people weep in it, meaning they crowd together. Qatada said: God has made all people in it, so women pray in front of men and He does not do that in any other city. This was also narrated on the authority of Mujahid, Ikrimah, Saeed bin Jubayr, Amr bin Shuaib, and Muqatil bin Hayyan. Hammad bin Salamah narrated on the authority of Ata bin Al-Saib, on the authority of Saeed bin Jubayr, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with him, who said: Mecca is from Al-Faj to At-Tan'im, and Bakkah is from the House to Al-Batha'. Shu'bah said, on the authority of Al-Mughirah, on the authority of Ibrahim: Bakkah is the House and the Mosque. Al-Zuhri said the same. Ikrimah said, in one narration, and Maymun bin Mihran: The House and what is around it is Bakkah, and what is beyond that is Mecca. Abu Saleh, Ibrahim Al-Nakha'i, Atiyah Al-Awfi and Muqatil bin Hayyan said: Bakkah is the location of the House, and everything else is Mecca. They mentioned many names for Mecca: Mecca, Bakkah, the Ancient House, the Sacred House, the Safe City, Al-Ma'mun, Umm Rahm, Umm Al-Qura, Salah, the Throne on the same weight as Badr, Al-Qadis because it purifies from sins, Al-Muqaddasah, Al-Naasah with a nun, and also with a ba', Al-Hatima, Al-Nasasa, Al-Ra's, Kutha', Al-Balda, Al-Bunya, and Al-Ka'bah.

And the Almighty's saying: In it are clear signs meaning clear evidence that it was built by Abraham, and that God made it great and honored. Then the Almighty said: The Station of Abraham meaning that when the building was raised, he used it to help raise its foundations and walls, where he used to stand and hand it to Ishmael. It was attached to the wall of the House until Omar bin Al-Khattab may God be pleased with him moved it during his rule to the eastern side so that it would be possible to circumambulate it, and not disturb those praying at it after circumambulating, because God Almighty has commanded us to pray at it when He said: And take, [O Muhammad], the Station of Abraham as a place of prayer. We have already presented the hadiths on that, so there is no need to repeat them here. Praise and thanks be to God. Al-Awfi said on the authority of Ibn Abbas regarding his saying: In it are clear signs, the Station of Abraham meaning that among them is the Station of Abraham and the Monument. Mujahid said: The trace of his feet in the Station is a clear sign. This was also narrated on the authority of Omar bin Abdul Aziz, Al-Hasan, Qatadah, Al-Suddi, Muqatil bin Hayyan, and others. Abu Talib said in his famous poem, Al-Lamiyyah:

And Abraham's footsteps in the rock were wet on his bare feet, without sandals.

Ibn Abi Hatim said: Abu Saeed and Amr Al-Awdi told us: Waki' told us, Sufyan told us, on the authority of Ibn

Jurayj, on the authority of Ata', on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding the words of God the Almighty: The Station of Abraham, he said: The entire Sanctuary is the Station of Abraham. Amr's wording is: The entire Stone is the Station of Abraham. It was narrated on the authority of Saeed bin Jubair that he said: The Hajj is the Station of Abraham. This is how I saw it in the copy, and perhaps the entire Stone is the Station of Abraham. Mujahid stated this explicitly. And the words of God the Almighty: And whoever enters it shall be safe, meaning the Sanctuary of Mecca. If the fearful enters it, he is safe from all harm. This was the case in the time of ignorance, as Al-Hasan Al-Basri and others said: A man would be killed and a wool would be placed around his neck and he would enter the Sanctuary, and the son of the murdered man would meet him and not disturb him until he came out. Ibn Abi Hatim said: Abu Saeed Al-Ashja told us, Abu Yahya Al-Taymi told us, on the authority of Ata', on the authority of Saeed bin Jubair, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding the words of God Almighty: And whoever enters it shall be safe, he said: Whoever seeks refuge in the House, the House will protect him, but he shall not be sheltered, fed, or given water. So if he leaves, he will be seized for his sin. God Almighty said: Have they not seen that We have made a secure sanctuary, while people are being snatched away from all around them? The verse, and God Almighty said: So let them worship the Lord of this House, Who has fed them against hunger and made them safe from fear. And among its prohibitions is the prohibition of hunting its game and scaring it away from its nests, and the prohibition of cutting its trees and uprooting its grass, as the hadiths and reports on that have been proven from a group of the Companions, both with and without chains of transmission. In the two Sahihs, and the wording is from Muslim, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with him, he said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said on the day of the conquest of Mecca, 'There is no migration, but jihad and intention, and if you are called to arms, then go out.' And he said on the day of the conquest of Mecca, 'This country was made sacred by God on the day He created the heavens and the earth, so it is sacred by God's sanctity until the Day of Resurrection. Fighting in it was not permitted for anyone before me, and it was not permitted for me except during one hour of the day, so it is sacred by God's sanctity until the Day of Resurrection. Its thorns should not be cut, its game should not be frightened, its lost items should not be picked up except by one who recognizes them, and its solitude should not be taken away.' Al-Abbas said, 'O Messenger of God, except for idhkhair, for it is their herb and for their houses.' He said, 'Except idhkhair.' " And they have a similar or similar narration from Abu Hurairah, and they have a similar narration from Abu Shuraih al-Adawi as well, that he said to Amr ibn Saeed while he was sending out the expeditions to Mecca, 'Give me permission, O prince, to tell you a statement that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said the next day on the day of the conquest. My ears heard it and I remembered it.' My heart, and my eyes saw it when he spoke it, that he praised and extolled God, then he said: "God has made Mecca sacred, and people have not made it sacred. It is not permissible for a man who believes in

In it are clear signs [the station of Abraham]. And whoever enters it shall be safe. And Hajj to the House is a duty that mankind owes to God, those who can afford the expenses (for one's journey). And whoever disbelieves - then indeed, God is free from need of the worlds.

God and the Last Day to shed blood there, or cut down a tree there. If someone seeks permission to fight the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, there, then say to him: God has given permission to His Messenger and has not given you permission. He has only given me permission there for an hour of a day, and its sanctity has returned today to what it was yesterday, so let the witness inform the absent." It was said to Abu Shuraih: What did Amr say to you? He said: I know that better than you, O Abu Shuraih. The sanctuary does not protect a sinner, nor one who flees with blood, nor one who flees with disgrace. Jabir, may God be pleased with him, said: I heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: It is not permissible for any of you to carry weapons in Mecca. Narrated by Muslim. On the authority of Abdullah bin Adi bin Al-Hamra Al-Zuhri that he heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, while he was standing in Al-Huzura in the market of Mecca, saying, "By God, you are the best land of God, and the most beloved land of God to God. Had I not been expelled from you, I would not have left." Narrated by Imam Ahmad, and this is his wording, and by Al-Tirmidhi, Al-Nasa'i, and Ibn Majah. Al-Tirmidhi said: It is hasan sahih. He also authenticated a hadith similar to it from Ibn Abbas. Ahmad narrated a similar hadith from Abu Hurayrah. Ibn Abi Hatim said: My father told us, Bishr bin Adam bin Bint Azhar Al-Samman told us, Abu Asim told us, on the authority of Zuraiq bin Muslim Al-Ama, a client of Banu Makhzum, on the authority of Ziyad bin Abi Ayyash, on the authority of Yahya bin Ja'dah bin Hubaira, regarding the words of God the Almighty: And whoever enters it shall be safe, he said: Safe from the Fire. And in the meaning of this statement is the hadith narrated by Al-Bayhaqi: Abu Al-Hasan Ali bin Ahmad bin Abdun told us, Ahmad bin Ubaid told us, Muhammad bin Sulayman Al-Wasiti told us, Saeed bin Sulayman told us, Ibn Al-Mu'ammil told us, on the authority of Ibn Muhaisin, on the authority of Ata', on the authority of Abdullah bin Abbas, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever enters the House, enters into a good deed, exits from a bad deed, and exits forgiven. Then he said: Abdullah bin Al-Mu'ammil is the only one who narrated it, and it is not strong. And his statement, And Hajj to the House is a duty that mankind owes to God, those who can afford the expenses for the journey to it, this is a verse of the obligation of Hajj according to the majority of scholars. It was said: Rather, it is his statement, And complete the Hajj and Umrah for God, and the first is more apparent. Multiple hadiths have been reported that it is one of the pillars, foundations, and foundations of Islam, and the Muslims have unanimously agreed upon this, and it is only obligatory for the accountable person once in a lifetime, according to the text and consensus. Imam Ahmad, may God have mercy on him, said: Yazid bin Harun told us, Al-Rabi' bin Muslim Al-Qurashi told us, on the authority of Muhammad bin Ziyad, on the authority of Abu Hurairah, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, delivered a sermon to us and said: O people, Hajj has been made obligatory upon you, so perform Hajj. A man said: Every year, O Messenger of God? He was silent until he said it three times. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: If I had said yes, it would have been obligatory and you would not have been able to do it. Then he said: "Leave me as I have left you, for those who came before you were destroyed because of their excessive questioning and disagreement with their prophets. If I command you to do something, do as much of it as you can, and if I forbid you from something, leave it." Muslim narrated it similarly on the authority of Zuhair bin Harb on the authority of Yazid bin Harun. Sufyan bin Husayn, Sulayman bin Katheer, Abdul Jalil bin Hamid and Muhammad bin Abi Hafsah narrated on the authority of Al-Zuhri, on the authority of Abu Sinan Al-Du'ali, whose name was Yazid bin Umayyah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with him, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, delivered a sermon to us and said: O people, God has prescribed Hajj for you. Then Al-Aqra' bin Habis stood up and said: O Messenger of God, is it every year? He said: "If I had said it, it would have been obligatory, and if it were obligatory, you would not have performed it and you would not have been able to perform it. Hajj is performed once, so whoever performs more than that, it is voluntary." Narrated by Ahmad, Abu Dawud, Al-Nasa'i, Ibn Majah and Al-Hakim from the hadith of Al-Zuhri with it. It was narrated by Sharik from Samak from Ikrimah from Ibn Abbas in a similar manner. It was narrated from the hadith of Usamah bin Yazid.

Imam Ahmad said: Mansur bin Wardan narrated to us on the authority of Ali bin Abdul-Ala, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Abu Al-Bukhtari, on the authority of Ali, may God be pleased with him, who said: When the verse, And Hajj to the House is a duty that mankind owes to God, those who can afford the expenses for one's expenses, was revealed, they said, O Messenger of God, every year? He was silent. They said, O Messenger of God, every year? He said, No, and if I had said yes, it would have been obligatory. Then God Almighty revealed, O you who have believed, do not ask about things which, if they are made known to you, may distress you. This is how Al-Tirmidhi, Ibn Majah, and Al-Hakim narrated it on the authority of Mansur bin Wardan. Then Al-Tirmidhi said, Hasan Gharib, and what he said is questionable, because Al-Bukhari said, Abu Al-Bukhtari did not hear it from Ali. Ibn Majah said: Muhammad ibn Abdullah ibn Numayr told us, Muhammad ibn Abi Ubaydah told us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-A'mash, on the authority of Abu Sufyan, on the authority of Anas ibn Malik, who said: They said: O Messenger of God, is Hajj every year? He said: If you had said yes, it would be obligatory, and if it were obligatory, you would not have performed it, and if you did not perform it, you would have been punished. And in the two Sahih, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, on the authority of Ata', on the authority of Jabir, on the authority of Suraqah ibn Malik, "He said: O Messenger of God, is this enjoyment of ours for this year, or forever?" He said: No, rather forever. And in another narration: Rather, forever and ever.

In Musnad of Imam Ahmad and Sunan Abi Dawud, from the hadith of Waqid bin Abi Waqid Al-Laithi, from his father, that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to his wives during his Hajj: This is the time when the confinement will appear - meaning, then the time when the confinement will appear - and do not leave the houses. As for the ability, it is divided into sections: Sometimes a person is able to do it by himself, and sometimes by someone else, as is established in the books of rulings. Abu Isa Al-Tirmidhi said: Abd bin Hamid told us, Abd al-Razzaq told us, Ibrahim bin Yazid told us, he said: I heard Muhammad bin Ibad bin Ja'far narrating from Ibn Umar, may God be pleased with them both, "He said: A man stood up to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: Who is the pilgrim, O Messenger of God? He said: The disheveled one who has spitting. Another stood up and said: Which Hajj is best, O Messenger of God? He said: The one who is tired and has spitting. Another stood up and said: What is the way, O Messenger of God? He said: The provisions and the mount." And Ibn Majah narrated it in this way from the hadith of Ibrahim bin Yazid, who is Al-Khawzi. Al-Tirmidhi said: We do not know it except from his hadith, and some scholars have spoken about it. Before he memorized it, he said here and he said in the Book of Hajj: This is a good hadith. There is no doubt that the men of this chain of transmission are all trustworthy except for this Al-Khawzi, and they spoke about him because of this hadith, but others followed him, so Ibn Abi Hatim said: My father told us, Abdul Aziz bin Abdullah Al-Amiri told us, Muhammad bin Abdullah bin Ubaid bin Umair Al-Laithi told us, on the authority of Muhammad bin Ibad bin Jaafar, he said: I sat with Abdullah bin Umar, he said: "A man came to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said to him: What is the way? He said: Provisions and a mount." And Ibn Mardawayh narrated it in this way from the narration of Muhammad bin Abdullah bin Ubaid bin Umair with it. Then Ibn Abi Hatim said: It has been narrated from Ibn Abbas, Anas, Al-Hasan, Mujahid, Ata', Saeed bin Jubayr, Al-Rabi' bin Anas and Qatadah something similar to that, and this hadith has been narrated from other paths from the hadith of Anas, Abdullah bin Abbas, Ibn Mas'ud and Aisha, all of them with chains of transmission traceable back to the Prophet, but there is a question about their chains of transmission as is established in the Book of Rulings, and God knows best. Al-Hafiz Abu Bakr bin Mardawayh took care to collect the chains of transmission of this hadith. Al-Hakim narrated it from the hadith of Qatada on the authority of Hammad bin Salamah, on the authority of Qatada, on the authority of Anas that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was asked about the statement of God, the Almighty, Whoever can afford the expenses of making the journey to it. It was said: What is the expenses? He said: Provisions and a mount. Then he said: It is authentic according to the conditions of Muslim, and they did not include it. Ibn Jarir said: Ya'qub told me, Ibn Ulayyah told us on the authority of Yunus, on the authority of Al-Hasan, "He said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, recited: "And Hajj to the House is a duty owed to God by mankind, those who can afford the expenses of making the journey to it." They said: O Messenger of God, what is the expenses of making the journey? He said: Provisions and a mount. Waki' narrated it in his interpretation on the authority of Sufyan, on the authority of Yunus on his authority. Imam Ahmad said: Abd al-Razzaq told us, al-Thawri told us, on the authority of Ismail, who is Abu Isra'il al-Mala'i, on the authority of Fadil, meaning Ibn Amr, on the authority of Sa'id Ibn Jubayr, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Hasten to perform Hajj, for none of you knows what will happen to him.'" Ahmad also said: Abu Mu'awiyah told us, al-Hasan Ibn Amr al-Faqimi told us, on the authority of Mihran Ibn Abi Safwan, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Whoever intends to perform Hajj should hasten.'" Abu Dawud narrated it on the authority of Musaddad on the authority of Abu Mu'awiyah al-Dharee' with it. Ibn Jubayr narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas regarding his statement, Whoever can afford it, he said: Whoever possesses three hundred dirhams has afforded it. And on the authority of his freed slave, Ikrimah, he said: The way is health. And Wakee' ibn al-Jarrah narrated on the authority of Abu Janab, meaning al-Kalbi, on the authority of al-Dahhak ibn Muzahim, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, he said: Whoever can afford it, he said: provisions and a camel. And the statement of God Almighty, And whoever disbelieves, then indeed, God is independent of the worlds, Ibn Abbas, Mujahid, and more than one said: That is, whoever denies the obligation of Hajj has disbelieved, and God is independent of him. Saeed bin Mansour said on the authority of Sufyan, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Ikrimah, who said: When the verse, And whoever desires other than Islam as religion - never will it be accepted from him, was revealed, the Jews said: We are Muslims. God Almighty said: So argue with them and make them fight, meaning, "Then the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to them: God has enjoined upon the Muslims the pilgrimage to the House, whoever is able to do so. They said: It is not prescribed for us, and they refused to make the pilgrimage." God Almighty said: And whoever disbelieves - then indeed, God is free from need of the worlds. Ibn Abi Nujayh narrated something similar on the authority of Mujahid. Abu Bakr bin Mardawayh said: Abdullah bin Jaafar told us, Ismail bin Abdullah bin Masoud told us, Muslim bin Ibrahim and Shadh bin Fayyad told us, they said: Hilal Abu Hashim Al-Khurasani told us, Abu Ishaq Al-Hamadani told us on the authority of Al-Harith, on the authority of Ali, may God be pleased with him, he said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever owns provisions and a mount and does not perform Hajj to the House of God, it does not harm him if he dies a Jew or a Christian, because God said: 'And Hajj to the House is a duty that mankind owes to God, those who can afford the expenses for one's expenses. But whoever disbelieves - then indeed, God is independent of the worlds.'" And Ibn Jarir narrated it on the authority of Muslim bin Ibrahim, and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated it in this way on the authority of Abu Zur'ah Al-Razi: Hilal bin Fayyad told us, Hilal Abu Hashim Al-Khurasani told us, and he mentioned it with his chain of transmission likewise, and Al-Tirmidhi narrated it on the authority of Muhammad bin Yahya Al-Qat'i on the authority of Muslim bin Ibrahim, on the authority of Hilal bin Abdullah, the client of Rabi'ah bin Amr bin Muslim Al-Bahili, on his authority. He said: This is a strange hadith that we do not know except from this source, and there is talk about its chain of transmission, and Hilal is unknown, and Al-Harith is weak in hadith. Al-Bukhari said: This Hilal is a fabricator of hadith. Ibn Adi said: This hadith is not authentic. Abu Bakr Al-Isma'ili Al-Hafiz narrated from the hadith of Abu Amr Al-Awza'i: Ismail bin Ubaidullah bin Abi Al-Muhajir told me, Abd Al-Rahman bin Ghanem told me that he heard Umar bin Al-Khattab may God be pleased with him say: Whoever is able to perform Hajj but does not perform it, it is the same to him whether he dies a Jew or a Christian. This is a sound chain of transmission back to Umar may God be pleased with him. Saeed bin Mansour narrated in his Sunan from Al-Hasan Al-Basri, who said: Umar bin Al-Khattab may God be pleased with him said: I was thinking of sending men to these regions to look for everyone who had a grandmother and did not perform Hajj, and impose the jizyah on them. They are not Muslims, they are not Muslims.

In it are clear signs [the station of Abraham]. And whoever enters it shall be safe. And Hajj to the House is a duty that mankind owes to God, those who can afford the expenses (for one's journey). And whoever disbelieves - then indeed, God is free from need of the worlds.

Fath al-Qadir

And his saying the station of Abraham instead of signs, Muhammad bin Yazid Al-Mubarrad said. And he said in Al-Kashaf: It is an explanatory apposition. Al-Akhfash said: It is a subject, and its predicate is omitted, and the estimation from it is the station of Abraham, and it was said: It is the predicate of a deleted subject, meaning: It is the station of Abraham. The author of Al-Kashaf had difficulty explaining the signs, which are plural with the station, which is singular. And he answered that the station alone was made in the position of signs due to the strength of its status or because it includes signs. He said: It is permissible to mean in it clear signs, the station of Abraham, and whoever enters it is safe, because the two are a type of plural. His saying and whoever enters it is safe is a renewed sentence to explain a ruling of the rulings of the sanctuary, which is that whoever enters it is safe, and this is what was proven by those who said: Whoever seeks refuge in the sanctuary and a punishment of the punishments is due to him, then the punishment is not carried out on him until he leaves it, and this is the saying of Abu Hanifa and those who followed him, and the majority disagreed with him and said: The punishments are carried out on him in the sanctuary. A group of people said: The verse is a statement in the sense of a command: that is, whoever enters it, then make it safe, like His saying: There shall be no obscenity, nor wickedness, nor disputing, that is, do not be obscene, nor wicked, nor dispute. His saying: And Hajj to the House is a duty that mankind owes to God. The lam in His saying to God is what is called the lam of obligation and compulsion, then this meaning is emphasized by the letter upon, as it is one of the clearest indications of obligation among the Arabs, as if someone says to someone, I owe such and such, then God, the Exalted, mentioned Hajj in the most eloquent way that indicates obligation, emphasizing its right and magnifying its sanctity. This address includes all people, and only those who are specifically excluded from it are those for whom evidence has specified, such as a boy or a slave. His saying: Whoever is able to do so is in the accusative case as a substitute for some of the people. Most grammarians said the same. Al-Kisa'i permitted it to be in the nominative case with Hajj. The meaning is: that whoever is able to do so should perform Hajj to the House. It was said: Min is a conditional letter, and the consequence is omitted: that whoever is able to do so should perform Hajj. The scholars have differed about what is the ability? It was said: The provisions and the mount. A group of the Companions agreed with this view, and Al-Tirmidhi narrated it from most of the scholars, and it is the truth. Malik said: If a man is confident in his strength, then Hajj is obligatory for him even if he does not have provisions and a mount if he is able to earn a living. Abdullah ibn Al-Zubayr, Al-Sha'bi and Ikrimah said the same. Ad-Dahhak said: If he is a strong, healthy young man who does not have money, then he should hire himself out to complete his Hajj. Among the things that are primarily included in being able to do Hajj is that the road to Hajj is safe, such that the pilgrim feels safe for himself and his money, as he cannot find any other provisions. However, if it is not safe, then there is no ability, because God the Almighty says: Whoever can afford a way to it, and this person who fears for himself or his money cannot afford a way to it, without a doubt or suspicion. The scholars differed if there are oppressors on the road who take some money in a way that does not deprive him of the provisions for Hajj. Ash-Shafi'i said: He should not be given a single grain, and the obligation of Hajj is dropped from him. A group agreed with him, but others disagreed. It appears that whoever is able to obtain provisions and a mount and the road is safe such that he can pass through it even if he has to compromise with some oppressors to pay some money that will enable the pilgrim and will not reduce his provisions or cause him harm, then Hajj is not dropped from him, but rather it is obligatory upon him because he has been able to travel by paying some money. However, this money paid on the road is part of what ability depends on. So if a man finds provisions and a mount but does not find what to pay to the one who collects the tax on the road, Hajj is not obligatory upon him because he is unable to travel to it, and this is necessary. It does not contradict the interpretation of ability as provisions and a mount, because it is impossible to pass through the Hajj road for whoever finds provisions and a mount except with the amount that the tax collectors take. Perhaps the reason for Al-Shafi'i's statement that Hajj is dropped is that taking this tax is reprehensible, so the pilgrim is not obligated to enter into reprehensible, and that he is therefore not able. Among what is included in ability is that the pilgrim be physically healthy in a way that enables him to ride. If he is at a time such that he is not able to walk or ride, then even if he finds provisions and a mount, he is not able to travel. His statement, And whoever disbelieves, then indeed, God is independent of the worlds. It was said that he used the word disbelief to refer to abandoning Hajj, emphasizing its obligation and making it more severe for the one who abandons it. It was also said that the meaning is: And whoever disbelieves in the obligation of Hajj and does not see it as an obligation. It was also said that whoever abandons Hajj while being able to do so is a disbeliever. In His statement, then indeed, God is independent of the worlds, there is evidence of the hatred of the one who abandons Hajj despite being able to do so, and his abandonment and distance from God, the Exalted, which is overwhelming to the one who hears it and makes his heart tremble, for God, the Exalted, only legislated these laws for His servants to benefit and benefit them, and He, the Most High and Most Holy is His Power, is independent, and all of the obedience of His servants does not return to Him with any benefit.

Ibn al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Ali ibn Abi Talib regarding his statement, The first House al-Baqarah 2:13, that there were houses before it, but it was the first house established for the worship of God. Al-Bukhari, Muslim and others narrated on the authority of Abu Dharr, who said: "I said, 'O Messenger of God, which mosque was established first?' He said, 'The Sacred Mosque.' I said, 'Then which?' He said, 'The Al-Aqsa Mosque.' I said, 'How much time is between them?' He said, 'Forty years.'" Ibn Jarir, Ibn al-Mundhir, al-Tabarani and al-Bayhaqi in al-Shu'ab narrated on the authority of Ibn 'Umar, who said: "God created the House two thousand years before the Earth, and when His Throne was on the water it was a white foam, and the Earth beneath it was like a small crust, then the Earth was rolled out from beneath it." Ibn al-Mundhir narrated something similar on the authority of Abu Hurayrah. Ibn Al-Mundhir and Al-Azraqi narrated on the authority of Ibn Jurayj who said: It has reached us that the Jews said: Jerusalem is greater than the Kaaba because it is the place of migration of the prophets, and because it is in the Holy Land. The Muslims said: Rather, the Kaaba is greater. This reached the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and the following verse was revealed: Indeed, the first House until in it are clear signs is the station of Abraham and that is not in Jerusalem. And whoever enters it shall be safe and that is not in Jerusalem. And Hajj to the House is a duty that mankind owes to God and that is not in Jerusalem. Ibn Abi Shaybah, Ibn Jarir and Ibn Al-Mundhir narrated on the authority of Abdullah Ibn Al-Zubayr who said: It was called Bakkah because people come to it from every direction as pilgrims. Saeed Ibn Mansour, Ibn Jarir and Al-Bayhaqi narrated on the authority of Mujahid: It was called Bakkah because people weep in it, meaning they crowd together. Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Muqatil Ibn Hibban regarding his statement: Blessed he said: He made goodness and blessing in it. And a guidance for the worlds meaning: with guidance their qibla. Ibn Jarir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Al-Awfi on the authority of Ibn Abbas, In it are clear signs, among them is the Station of Abraham and Al-Mash'ar. Abd bin Hamid and Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of Al-Hasan regarding his statement, In it are clear signs, he said: The Station of Abraham. "And whoever enters it shall be safe. And Hajj to the House is a duty that mankind owes to God." Al-Azraqi narrated something similar on the authority of Zaid bin Aslam. Abd bin Hamid, Ibn Jarir, Ibn Al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Qatada regarding his statement, And whoever enters it shall be safe, he said: This was in the days of ignorance. If a man committed every sin against himself and then sought refuge in the Sacred Sanctuary, he would not be denied or sought. As for Islam, he is not prevented from the limits set by God. Whoever steals therein shall have his hand cut off, whoever commits adultery therein shall have his punishment carried out, and whoever kills therein shall be killed. Abd bin Hamid, Ibn Al-Mundhir and Al-Azraqi narrated on the authority of Umar bin Al-Khattab, he said: If I found the killer of Al-Khattab therein, I would not touch him until he came out of it. Ibn Jarir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas regarding his statement, And whoever enters it shall be safe, he said: Whoever seeks refuge in the House, the House will grant him refuge, but he shall not be given shelter, food or drink. So if he goes out, he will be punished for his sin. This meaning has been narrated on his authority through various chains of narration. Abd ibn Humayd and Ibn al-Mundhir narrated on his authority that he said: If I had found my father's killer in the Sacred Sanctuary, I would not attack him. Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of Ibn Umar that he said: If I had found my father's killer in the Sacred Sanctuary, I would not attack him. Al-Bukhari and Muslim and others narrated on the authority of Abu Shuraih al-Adawi that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, stood up the next day on the day of the conquest and said: "Indeed, God has made Mecca a sanctuary, but not the people. It is not permissible for a person who believes in God and the Last Day to shed blood there or cut down a tree there. If someone seeks permission to fight the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, then say: God has given permission to His Messenger but has not given you permission. He only gave me permission for an hour of the day, then its sanctity today has returned to being like its sanctity yesterday." Ad-Daraqutni and Al-Hakim narrated with a chain of transmission that was authenticated on the authority of Anas that the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) was asked about his statement, Whoever can find a way to it, and it was said, What is the way? He said, Provisions and a mount. Ash-Shafi'i, Abd al-Razzaq, Ibn Abi Shaybah, Abd ibn Humayd, At-Tirmidhi, Ibn Majah, Ibn Jarir, Ibn Al-Mundhir, Ibn Abi Hatim, Ibn Adi, Ibn Mardawayh, and Al-Bayhaqi narrated in his Sunan on the authority of Ibn Umar, with a chain of transmission traceable to the Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him), that a man stood up and said, What is the way? He said, Provisions and a mount. Ad-Daraqutni and Al-Bayhaqi narrated in their Sunan on the authority of Al-Hasan, on the authority of his mother, on the authority of Aisha, who said, "The Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) was asked, 'What is the way to Hajj?' He said, 'Provisions and a mount.'" Ad-Daraqutni narrated in his Sunan on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud, with a chain of transmission traceable to the Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him), similarly. Ad-Daraqutni narrated on the authority of Amr ibn Shu'ayb, on the authority of his father, on the authority of his grandfather, with a chain of transmission traceable to the Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him), similarly. Ad-Daraqutni narrated on the authority of Jabir, with a chain of transmission traceable to the Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him). This hadith has been narrated through chains of transmission, the least of which is that it is good for others, so it is not harmed by what was said through some of its chains of transmission, as is well known. Ad-Daraqutni narrated on the authority of Ali, with a chain of transmission traceable to the Prophet, peace and blessings of God be upon him, regarding the verse: "The Prophet, peace and blessings of God be upon him, was asked and he said: 'You can find the back of a camel.'" Ibn Abi Shaybah and Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of Umar ibn al-Khattab regarding his statement, Whoever can afford it, he said: Provisions and a mount. They narrated something similar from Ibn Abbas. Ibn Majah, At-Tabarani and Ibn Mardawayh narrated it with a chain of transmission traceable to the Prophet. Ibn Jarir, Ibn Al-Mundhir and Al-Bayhaqi narrated on his authority that he said: The way is for the body of the slave to be healthy and for him to have the price of provisions and a mount without being deprived of it. Ibn Abi Shaybah and Abd ibn Humayd narrated on his authority that he said: A way is for whoever has the means to it and nothing stands between him and it. Ibn Abi Shaybah, Abd ibn Humayd, Ibn Jarir and Ibn Al-Mundhir narrated on the authority of Abdullah ibn Az-Zubayr that he said: Ability is strength. Ibn Abi Shaybah and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of An-Nakha'i that he said: The mahram for a woman from the way that God said. It has been proven that he, may God bless him and grant him peace, forbade a woman from traveling without a mahram. The hadiths differed regarding the length of time. Some say three days, some say a day and a night, and some say a postal mail.

In it are clear signs [the station of Abraham]. And whoever enters it shall be safe. And Hajj to the House is a duty that mankind owes to God, those who can afford the expenses (for one's journey). And whoever disbelieves - then indeed, God is free from need of the worlds.

There are hadiths that severely threaten those who possess provisions and a mount but do not perform Hajj. At-Tirmidhi, Ibn Jarir, Ibn Abi Hatim, Ibn Mardawayh, and Al-Bayhaqi in Al-Shu'ab narrated on the authority of Ali ibn Abi Talib that the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) said: Whoever possesses provisions and a mount to take him to the House of God but does not perform Hajj to the House of God, then there is no harm in him dying as a Jew or a Christian. This is because God says: "And Hajj to the House is a duty that mankind owes to God, those who can afford the expenses for one's expenses. But whoever disbelieves - then indeed, God is independent of the worlds." In its chain of transmission is Hilal Al-Khurasani Abu Hashim. Al-Bukhari said: He is a fabricator of hadith. It was also said: He is unknown. Ibn 'Adi said: This hadith is not trustworthy. Its chain of transmission also includes Al-Harith Al-A'war, who is weak. Sa'id ibn Mansur, Ahmad in the Book of Faith, Abu Ya'la, and Al-Bayhaqi narrated on the authority of Abu Umamah that the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) said: "Whoever dies without performing Hajj al-Islam, and is not prevented by an incapacitating illness, a tyrannical ruler, or an obvious need, then let him die in whatever state he wishes, as a Jew or a Christian." Ibn Abi Shaybah narrated from Abd al-Rahman ibn Sabit, with a chain of transmission traceable back to the Prophet and without a chain of transmission traceable back to the Prophet, similar to this. Saeed ibn Mansur narrated, and al-Suyuti said with a sound chain of transmission on the authority of Umar ibn al-Khattab, who said: I was about to send men to these cities to look for everyone who had a grandmother and did not perform Hajj and impose the jizyah on them. They are not Muslims, they are not Muslims. Al-Isma'ili narrated from him, who said: Whoever is able to perform Hajj but does not perform Hajj, it is the same to him whether he dies as a Jew or a Christian. Ibn Kathir said after citing his chain of transmission: This is a sound chain of transmission. Saeed ibn Mansur and Ibn Abi Shaybah narrated something similar from him. Ibn Abi Shaybah, Abd ibn Humayd and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated from Ibn Umar, Whoever dies while he is well-off and did not perform Hajj will come on the Day of Resurrection with the words 'unbeliever' written between his eyes. Saeed ibn Mansur narrated from him, "Whoever finds a way to perform Hajj for a year, then a year, then a year, then dies without performing Hajj, no funeral prayer will be performed for him, and it is not known whether he died a Jew or a Christian." Saeed ibn Mansur narrated from Umar ibn al-Khattab, who said: If people abandoned Hajj, I would fight them for it as we fight them for prayer and zakat." Ibn Jarir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas regarding his statement, And whoever disbelieves, then indeed, God is Free of need, he said: Whoever claims that it is not obligatory upon him. Ibn Jarir, Ibn Al-Mundhir, Ibn Abi Hatim and Al-Bayhaqi narrated in his Sunan on the authority of Ibn Abbas regarding the verse, he said: Whoever disbelieves in Hajj, then he does not see his Hajj as righteousness nor does his abandonment of it as sin. Saeed bin Mansour, Abd bin Hamid, Ibn Jarir, Ibn Al-Mundhir and Al-Bayhaqi narrated in his Sunan on the authority of Ikrimah who said: "When the verse, 'And whoever desires other than Islam as religion,' was revealed, the Jews said: So we are Muslims. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to them: God has made Hajj obligatory upon the Muslims. They said: It was not prescribed for us and they refused to perform Hajj. God said: 'And whoever disbelieves, then indeed, God is Free from need of the worlds.'"

And Abd bin Hamid and Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of Ikrimah something similar. And Saeed bin Mansour, Abd bin Hamid, Ibn Jarir and Ibn Al-Mundhir narrated on the authority of Ad-Dahhak who said: "When the verse of Hajj was revealed: 'And Hajj to the House is a duty owed to God by mankind', the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) gathered the people of the religions, the polytheists of the Arabs, the Christians, the Jews, the Zoroastrians and the Sabians, and said: 'God has made Hajj obligatory upon you, so perform Hajj to the House.' But none accepted it except the Muslims. Five religions disbelieved in it, and said: 'We do not believe in it, nor do we pray towards it, nor do we face it.' So God revealed: 'And whoever disbelieves - then indeed, God is independent of the worlds.'" And Abd bin Hamid and Al-Bayhaqi narrated in his Sunan on the authority of Mujahid something similar. Abd bin Hamid and Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of Abu Dawud Nafi' who said: "The Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) recited: 'And Hajj to the House is a duty owed to God by mankind', and a man from Hudhayl stood up and said: 'O Messenger of God, whoever abandons it has disbelieved?' He said: 'Whoever abandons it does not fear its punishment, and whoever performs Hajj not hoping for its reward, that is it.'" Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of Ata bin Abi Rabah regarding the verse, he said: Whoever disbelieves in the House. Ibn Jarir, Ibn Abi Hatim, and Al-Bayhaqi in Al-Shu'ab narrated on the authority of Ibn Umar, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, regarding the statement of God, And whoever disbelieves, he said: Whoever disbelieves in God and the Last Day. Abd bin Hamid and Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of Mujahid something similar to his statement. Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of Ibn Zayd that he was asked about that, so he recited, Indeed, the first House [of worship] established for mankind to His statement, as a way, then he said, And whoever disbelieves, with these verses. Ibn Al-Mundhir narrated on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud regarding the verse, he said, And whoever disbelieves, and did not believe in it, then he is a disbeliever.

97- And Hajj to the House is a duty that mankind owes to God, for those who can afford the expenses. That is, Hajj to the House is an obligation that mankind owes to God. Abu Ja'far, Hamza, Al-Kisa'i, and Hafs read Hajj to the House with a kasra on the ha' in this letter in particular, while the others read it with a fatha on the ha'. This is the language of the people of the Hijaz, and they are two eloquent languages with the same meaning.

Hajj is one of the pillars of Islam. Abdul Wahid bin Ahmed Al-Malhi told us, Ahmed bin Abdullah Al-Naimi told us, Muhammad bin Yusuf told us, Muhammad bin Ismail told us, Abdullah bin Musa told us, Hanzala bin Abi Sufyan told us, on the authority of Ikrimah bin Khalid, on the authority of Ibn Omar, may God be pleased with them both, he said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "Islam is built on five: the testimony that there is no god but God and that Muhammad is the Messenger of God, establishing prayer, paying zakat, Hajj, and fasting Ramadan."

The scholars said: Hajj is obligatory according to five conditions: Islam, sanity, puberty, freedom, and ability. It is not obligatory for a non-believer or an insane person, and if they perform Hajj by themselves, it is not valid because the non-believer is not among the people of closeness and there is no ruling for the action of the insane person. It is not obligatory for a boy or a slave, and if a boy of sound mind or a slave whose circumcision is valid performs Hajj voluntarily, the obligation of Islam is not dropped from them. If a boy reaches puberty or a slave is freed after performing Hajj and the conditions of the obligation of Hajj are met for him, he must perform Hajj again, and it is not obligatory for someone who is not able, because of the Almighty's saying: Whoever can afford it 2:177. However, if he takes the trouble to perform Hajj, the obligation of Islam is dropped from him.

And the ability is of two types, one of them is that he is able by himself, and the other is that he is able with his own money. As for the ability by himself, it is that he is able by himself to go and finds provisions and a mount. Abdul Wahid bin Muhammad Al-Kisa'i Al-Khatib told us, Abdul Aziz bin Ahmad Al-Khalal told us, Abu Al-Abbas Al-Asamm told us, Al-Rabi' bin Sulayman told us, Al-Shafi'i told us, Saeed bin Salim told us, on the authority of Ibrahim bin Yazid, on the authority of Muhammad bin Ibad bin Ja'far, who said: So we returned to Abdullah bin Omar and I heard him say: "A man asked the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: What is the Hajj? He said: The disheveled one who has spitted. Then another man stood up and said: O Messenger of God, which Hajj is best? He said: The one who is tired and has a cold sweat. Then another man stood up and said: O Messenger of God, what is the way? He said: Provisions and a mount."

The details are: that he finds a suitable mount for his situation and finds provisions for going and returning, in addition to the expenses of his family and those whose expenses and clothing he is obligated to pay for his going and returning, and a debt that he owes, and finds company to go out at a time when it is customary for the people of a town to go out at that time. If they go out before that or see the exit at a time when they do not pray unless they travel more than one stage each day, they are not obligated to go out at that time. It is stipulated that the road be safe. If there is fear of a Muslim or infidel enemy or a watchman seeking something, it is not obligatory for him. It is stipulated that the inhabited houses be inhabited and he can find provisions and water in them. If it is a time of drought and its people have dispersed or its waters have dried up, then it is not obligatory for him even if he does not find a mount but he is able to walk, or he does not find provisions but he can earn money on the road, then Hajj is not obligatory for him, and it is recommended if he does so, and Malik promised that it is obligatory for him.

As for the ability to perform Hajj by someone else, it is: that the man is unable to do so himself, whether for a period of time or has an illness that is not expected to go away, but he has money that enables him to hire someone to perform Hajj on his behalf, he must hire someone, or he does not have money but his son or a stranger offers him obedience to perform Hajj on his behalf, he must order him if he trusts his truthfulness, because the obligation of Hajj is related to ability, and it is said in custom: So-and-so is able to build a house even if he does not do it himself, but rather he does it with his money or with his helpers.

In it are clear signs [the station of Abraham]. And whoever enters it shall be safe. And Hajj to the House is a duty that mankind owes to God, those who can afford the expenses (for one's journey). And whoever disbelieves - then indeed, God is free from need of the worlds.

According to Abu Hanifa, Hajj is not obligatory if one performs an act of obedience, and according to Malik, it is not obligatory for someone who has been bitten by a piece of money.

An argument for those who make it obligatory is what Abu al-Hasan al-Sarakhsi told us, Zahir ibn Ahmad told us, Abu Ishaq al-Hashemi told us, Abu Mus'ab told us, on the authority of Malik, on the authority of Ibn Shihab, on the authority of Sulayman ibn Yasar, on the authority of 'Abdullah ibn 'Abbas, that he said: Al-Fadl ibn 'Abbas was riding behind the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, when a woman from Khatham came to him to ask him for a fatwa. Al-Fadl kept looking at her and she kept looking at him, so the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, kept turning Al-Fadl's face the other way, and she said: O Messenger of God, God's obligation upon His servants in Hajj has come upon my father, an old man who cannot stay on his mount. Should I perform Hajj on his behalf? He said: Yes.

God Almighty says: And whoever disbelieves - then indeed, God is independent of the worlds. Ibn Abbas, Al-Hasan, and Ata' said: He denied the obligation of Hajj. Mujahid said: He who disbelieves in God and the Last Day.

Saeed bin Al-Musayyab said: It was revealed about the Jews when they said: Hajj to Mecca is not obligatory.

Al-Suddi said: He who finds what he can perform Hajj with but does not perform Hajj until he dies, he has disbelieved in it. Abu Saeed Ahmad bin Ibrahim Al-Shuraihi told us, Abu Ishaq Al-Tha'labi told us, Abu Al-Hasan Al-Kalamati told us, Abu Bakr Muhammad bin Omar told us, Sahl bin Ammar told us, Yazid bin Harun told us, Sharik told us, on the authority of Al-Layth, on the authority of Abd Al-Rahman bin Sabit, on the authority of Abu Umamah, that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever is not prevented by an apparent need, or a deterrent illness, or an unjust ruler, and does not perform Hajj, then let him die as a Jew if he wishes, or as a Christian if he wishes.

97 In it are clear signs such as the deviation of birds from parallel to the House throughout the ages, and that the predatory beasts mingle with the game in the sanctuary and do not interfere with it, and that every tyrant who intended evil against it, God Almighty subdued him like the owners of the elephant. The sentence explains the guidance, or another condition.

The Station of Abraham is a deleted subject, the predicate of which is either the Station of Abraham, or a substitute for the signs, a substitute for some of the whole. It was said that it is an explanatory apposition to A, what is meant by the signs is the trace of the foot in the solid rock and its sinking into it up to the ankles, and its being singled out for this softness among the rocks and its preservation without the rest of the traces of the prophets and its preservation despite the multitude of its enemies for thousands of years. This is supported by the fact that it was read as a clear sign of monotheism. The reason for this trace is that when the building of the Kaaba was raised, he stood on this stone to be able to lift the stones, so his feet sank into it. And whoever enters it shall be safe is an introductory clause, or a conditional clause in meaning connected to a station because it means that whoever enters it is safe, i.e. whoever enters it is safe, or it contains clear signs, the station of Abraham and whoever enters it is safe. He limited himself to mentioning them from the many signs and omitted mentioning others, such as his saying, peace be upon him, "Three things have been made beloved to me from your world: perfume, women, and the comfort of my eyes in prayer" because in them there is no need for anything else in both worlds, the effect remains for all time and security from punishment on the Day of Resurrection. He, peace be upon him, said, Whoever dies in one of the two sanctuaries, will be raised on the Day of Resurrection safe. According to Abu Hanifa, whoever is required to be killed for apostasy or retaliation or other and takes refuge in the sanctuary is not addressed, but he is forced to leave. And Hajj to the House is a duty owed to God by the people with a kasra, which is the language of Najd. Whoever can afford it instead of people instead of some instead of all is specified for it. The Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) explained the ability as the provisions and the mount and he supports the statement of Al-Shafi'i may God be pleased with him that it is money. Therefore, he made it obligatory to delegate time if he finds a wage for someone to delegate. Malik may God have mercy on him said that it is with the body, so it is obligatory for whoever is able to walk and earn money on the way. Abu Hanifa may God have mercy on him said that it is the sum of the two matters. The pronoun in to him is the House, or the Hajj, and everything that comes to something is its way. And whoever disbelieves, then indeed, God is independent of the worlds. He put disbelief in place of whoever does not perform Hajj to emphasize its obligation and to make it more severe for those who abandon it. Therefore, he, peace be upon him, said, Whoever dies without performing Hajj, let him die, if he wishes, as a Jew or a Christian. The matter of Hajj has been emphasized in this verse in many ways, in the form of a report, and its presentation in the nominal form and its presentation in a way that indicates that it is a right that is obligatory for God, the Most High, upon the necks of the people, and the generalization of the ruling first and then its specification second, as it is like a clarification after illusion and repetition and repetition of what is intended, and calling the abandonment of Hajj disbelief in that it is the action of the disbelievers, and the mention of independence, as in this place is one of those things that indicate hatred and abandonment, and his saying: from the worlds indicates it because of what it contains of exaggeration of generalization and indication of independence from it through proof and the feeling of the greatness of the wrath, because it is a difficult task that combines breaking the soul, tiring the body, spending money, detaching oneself from desires, and turning to God. It was narrated that when the beginning of the verse was revealed, the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, gathered the leaders of the religions and addressed them, saying, God Almighty has prescribed Hajj for you, so perform Hajj. One religion believed in it and five religions disbelieved in it. Then the verse was revealed: And whoever disbelieves.

Abu Ja'far said: By that he means: O group of Jews of the Children of Israel and others from all those who claim to follow the religion of what God the Almighty has revealed from His books, from those who disbelieved in Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and rejected his prophethood: Why do you disbelieve in the signs of God? He says: Why do you deny the proofs of God that He gave to Muhammad in your books and other than them, which have been established for you with his truthfulness, prophethood, and proof, and you know. He says: Why do you deny that from his command, and you know his truthfulness? So God, the Most High, informed about them that they deliberately disbelieved in God and His Messenger, knowingly and knowingly, and they disbelieved, and:

Muhammad bin Al-Hussein told us, he said, Ahmad bin Al-Mufaddal told us, he said, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi: O People of the Book, why do you disbelieve in the verses of God? As for the verses of God, it is Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace.

Muhammad bin Sinan told me, he said, Abu Bakr told us, he said, Ibad told us, on the authority of Al-Hasan, regarding his statement: O People of the Scripture, why do you disbelieve in the verses of God while God is Witness over what you do? He said: They are the Jews and Christians.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

God Almighty says: Say, 'O People of the Scripture, why do you disbelieve in the verses of God while God is Witness over what you do?'

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

This is a rebuke from God Almighty to the infidels, the People of the Book, for their stubbornness towards the truth, their disbelief in the verses of God, and their turning away from the path of God whoever among the people of faith wanted it with their effort and energy, despite their knowledge that what the Messenger brought was the truth from God, with what they have of knowledge from the earlier prophets and master messengers, may God's prayers and peace be upon them all, and what they gave glad tidings of and warned of from mentioning the unlettered Hashemite Arab Meccan Prophet, the master of the children of Adam, the Seal of the Prophets, and the Messenger of the Lord of the Earth and the Heavens. God has threatened them for that, and informed them that He is a witness to their actions because they have contradicted what they have in their hands from the prophets and their treatment of the Messenger who was given glad tidings with denial, ingratitude, and stubbornness. So God Almighty informed them that He is not unaware of what they do, meaning that He will reward them for that on the Day when neither wealth nor children will be of any benefit.

Fath al-Qadir

His statement 98- Say, O People of the Book is addressed to the Jews and Christians, and the question in his statement Why do you disbelieve? is for denial and rebuke. And his statement And God is Witness over what you do is a circumstantial clause emphasizing rebuke and denial, and thus the use of the exaggerated form in witness indicates further emphasis and intimidation.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

98- The Almighty said: Say, 'O People of the Scripture, why do you disbelieve in the verses of God while God is Witness over what you do?'

Tafsir al-Baidawi

98 Say, 'O People of the Scripture, why do you disbelieve in the verses of God?' That is, in His auditory and rational verses that indicate the truthfulness of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, in what he claims of the obligation of Hajj and other things. The specific address to the People of the Scripture is evidence that their disbelief is more hideous, because their knowledge of the verses is stronger and if they claim that they believe in the Torah and the Gospel, then they are disbelievers in them. And God is Witness over what you do. The fact is that He is a Witness who is aware of your deeds and will reward you for them. Distortion and secrecy will not benefit you.

Surat Al Imran 3:99

Say, O People of the Scripture, why do you avert from the way of God those who believe, seeking to make it crooked while you are witnesses? And God is not unaware of what you do.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

(Say, O People of the Scripture, why do you turn away from the way of God, that is, His religion, those who believe, by denying the Prophet and concealing His favor, seeking it crooked, while you are witnesses, knowing that the acceptable and upright religion is the religion of Islam as in your book? And God is not unaware of what you do, of disbelief and denial. Rather, He delays you until your time so that He may reward you.)

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: By that, may His praise be exalted, He means: O group of Jews of the Children of Israel and others who claim to believe in the Books of God: Why do you turn away from the path of God? He says: Why do you go astray from the path of God and His way that He has prescribed for His prophets, His saints, and the people of faith? He who believes, He says: He who believes in God and His Messenger and what he brought from God, seek to make it crooked, meaning: seek to make it crooked.

The ha and the alif in his saying: you seek it refer to the path, and he made it feminine because of the feminization of the path.

The meaning of his saying: You seek to make it crooked, is from the saying of the poet, who is Sahim Abd Bani Al-Hashas:

He wanted you, and you did not want him until you found him, as if you had made an appointment with him yesterday

Meaning: your request and what you are asking for. It is said: Abghni khudan meaning seek it for me. So if they want to help me seek it and seek it with me, they say: Abghni with the alif open. Likewise, it is said: Ahlbni meaning: Keep me from milking, and Ahlbni meaning help me with it. And so is everything that has been mentioned of this type, so on this basis.

As for crookedness, it is deviation and inclination. What is meant by that is: straying from guidance.

God Almighty says: Why do you turn away from the religion of God those who have believed in God and His Messenger, seeking to distort the religion of God from its laws and straightness?

The speech went astray, and the meaning is for its people. It is as if the meaning is: You seek for the people of God's religion, and for those who are on the path of truth, a deviation. He says: a deviation from the truth, and a deviation from the right path and guidance.

Al-Awj, with a kasra on the first letter, means a sway in religion and speech. Al-Awj, with a fatha on the first letter, means a tilt in a wall, canal, or anything that is upright and straight.

As for His statement: And you are witnesses, it means: witnesses that what you are turning away from of the path is the truth, that you know it and find it in your books. And God is not unaware of what you do, meaning: God is not unaware of the deeds that you do that He does not approve of for His servants and other deeds of yours, so that He hastens to punish you for them immediately, or delays that for you until you meet Him and He recompenses you for them.

It has been mentioned that these two verses, from His saying: O People of the Scripture, why do you disbelieve in the verses of God? and the verses after them until His saying: And for those is a great punishment, were revealed about a Jewish man who tried to incite discord between the two tribes of Aws and Khazraj after Islam, to return to what they had been upon in their ignorance of enmity and hatred. So God rebuked him for that action, and condemned what he did and rebuked him for it. He also preached to the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and forbade them from division and disagreement, and commanded them to unite and come together.

The novel mentioned that:

Ibn Humayd narrated, Salamah narrated, on the authority of Muhammad ibn Ishaq, who said, a trustworthy man narrated, on the authority of Zayd ibn Aslam, who said: Shas ibn Qays, who was an old man who had been oppressed in the pre-Islamic era, a great disbeliever, who bore a grudge against the Muslims and was extremely envious of them, passed by a group of the Companions of the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) from the Aws and Khazraj, in a gathering where he had gathered them to talk. He was angered by what he saw of their gathering, their harmony, and their reconciliation with Islam, after the enmity that had existed between them in the pre-Islamic era. He said: The leaders of Banu Qaylah have gathered in this country! By God, we have no place with them when their leaders gather in it! So he ordered a young Jewish man who was with him, saying: Go to them, sit with them, and remind them of the Day of Bu'ath and what had happened before it, and recite to them some of the poems they had exchanged on that day - and the Day of Bu'ath was a day when the Aws and Khazraj fought, and the Aws were victorious over the Khazraj - and he did so. Then the people spoke, argued and boasted, until two men from the two tribes jumped on the camel: Aws ibn Qayzi, one of Banu Haritha ibn al-Harith from the Aws, and Jabbar ibn Sakhr, one of Banu Salamah from the Khazraj. They argued, then one of them said to the other: If you wish, by God, we will return it now as a young camel! Both groups became angry and said: We have done so, weapons, weapons! Your meeting place is al-Zahira - and al-Zahira means al-Harra - so they went out to it. The people turned aside. The Aws joined together, and the Khazraj joined together, on their claim that they had in the pre-Islamic era. report of that reached the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, so he went out to them with those of his companions who were with him from the emigrants until he came to them and said: O group of Muslims, by God, is it the claim of the pre-Islamic era while I am among you, after God has guided you to Islam and honored you with it, and cut off from you the matter of the pre-Islamic era, and saved you from disbelief, and united you with it, that you will return to what you were upon as disbelievers? The people realized that it was a temptation from Satan and a plot from their enemy, so they threw down their weapons and wept, and the men of Aws and Khazraj embraced each other, then they left with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, listening and obeying. God had extinguished from them the plot of God's enemy, Sha's bin Qays, and what he had done. God revealed about Sha's bin Qays and what he had done: "Say, 'O People of the Scripture, why do you disbelieve in the verses of God while God is Witness to what you do? Say, 'O People of the Scripture, why do you avert from the way of God those who believe, seeking to make it crooked?'" 10:10. God the Almighty revealed about Aws bin Qayzi and Jabbar bin Sakhr and those who were with them from their people who had done what they had done, because of what Sha's bin Qays had brought upon them of the affairs of the Age of Ignorance: O you who have believed, if you obey a party of those who were given the Scripture, they will turn you back, after your belief, to disbelief, until His saying: For those is a great punishment.

It was said that what he meant by his saying: Say, 'O People of the Scripture, why do you avert [people] from the way of God?' was the group of Jews, the Children of Israel, who were in the city of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, when these verses were revealed, and the Christians. And that their averting people from the way of God was because they informed those who asked them about the Prophet of God, Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace: Do they find mention of him in their books? That they did not find his description in their books.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Al-Hussein told us, Ahmad bin Al-Mufaddal told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi: Say, 'O People of the Scripture, why do you avert from the way of God those who believe, seeking to make it crooked?' When someone asked them, Do you find Muhammad? they would say, No! So they averted people from him, and sought to make Muhammad crooked and destroyed.

Bishr bin Muadh told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: Say, 'O People of the Scripture, why do you avert from the way of God?' He says: Why do you avert from Islam and from the Prophet of God, those who believe in God, and you are witnesses to what you read from the Book of God: that Muhammad is the Messenger of God, and that Islam is the religion of God, which does not accept anything other than it and does not reward anything other than it, you find it written with you in the Torah and the Gospel.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Ishaq told us, he said, Abdullah bin Abi Jaafar told us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-Rabi', something similar.

Muhammad bin Sinan told us, he said, Abu Bakr told us, he said, Ibad told us, on the authority of Al-Hasan regarding his statement: Say, 'O People of the Scripture, why do you avert [people] from the way of God?' He said: They are the Jews and Christians. He forbade them from averting the Muslims from the way of God, and they wanted to lead people astray.

Abu Ja'far said: The interpretation of the verse, according to what al-Suddi said, is: O group of Jews, why do you turn away from Muhammad and prevent those who believe in him from following him, by concealing his description that you find in your books? And Muhammad, according to this statement, is the path, You seek to make it crooked, you seek Muhammad's destruction.

As for the rest of the narrations other than it and the sayings about it, it is similar to the interpretation that we explained before: that the meaning of the path that he mentioned in this place is: Islam, and what Muhammad brought of the truth from God.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

The Almighty said: Say, 'O People of the Scripture, why do you avert from the way of God those who believe?' That is, do you turn away from the religion of God those who believe? Al-Hasan read <tasdoon> with a damma on the taa and a kasra on the sad. They are two dialects: sad and asd, like sal al-lahm and asl if it stinks, and kham and akhm also if it changes. tabghinuha 'awjanah means you seek it, so the lam was deleted, like and when you measure them (al-Mutaffifin 83:3). It is said: baghitu lahu kada, meaning you sought it. And abghituhu kada, meaning I helped him. And 'awj' is the inclination and deviation <with a kasra on the 'ayn>in religion, speech, and action and what deviates from the path of straightness. And <with a fatha>in the wall and the wall and every standing person, according to Abu Ubaidah and others. The meaning of the Almighty's saying: They follow the caller, there is no crookedness in him (Ta-Ha 20:108) is they are not able to deviate from his call. And 'awj' in the place and 'awj means he stayed and stood. And the standing one, the poet said:

Are you bringing us back so that we may see the courtyards or the traces of the tents?

A crooked man: the one with bad manners, and he is between crookedness. The crookedness of horses is the one with a hump in its legs, and the crookedness of horses is attributed to a horse that existed in the pre-Islamic era. It is said: a horse with a hump if it has a wide space between the legs without a hump, and this is praise. It is also said: the hump is a crookedness in the legs. Al-Khalil said that hump is described as severity, and that is not crookedness.

The Almighty said: And you are witnesses, meaning rational. It was said: witnesses because it is written in the Torah that the religion of God that no other religion is acceptable is Islam, as it contains a description of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

This is a rebuke from God Almighty to the infidels, the People of the Book, for their stubbornness towards the truth, their disbelief in the verses of God, and their turning away from the path of God whoever among the people of faith wanted it with their effort and energy, despite their knowledge that what the Messenger brought was the truth from God, with what they have of knowledge from the earlier prophets and master messengers, may God's prayers and peace be upon them all, and what they gave glad tidings of and warned of from mentioning the unlettered Hashemite Arab Meccan Prophet, the master of the children of Adam, the Seal of the Prophets, and the Messenger of the Lord of the Earth and the Heavens. Fath al-Qadir

The question in his saying 99- Why do you turn away? indicates what the first question indicates. Al-Hasan read Tasdoon from Asda, and they are two languages: like Sada Al-Laham and Asda: if it changed and rotted, and the path of God is His religion which He has chosen for His servants, which is the religion of Islam, and Awj means inclination and deviation, it is said: Awj with a kasra if it is in religion, speech and action, and with a fatha in bodies like a wall and the like, this was narrated from Abu Ubaidah and others, and the place of his saying They seek it to be crooked is the accusative case as a state. The meaning is: You seek for it to be crooked and inclined away from the intended and straight path by making it vague to people that it is like that, as a means of educating people about your distortion and correcting your false claims. His statement, And you are witnesses, is a circumstantial clause: that is, how do you demand that by the religion of Islam while you bear witness that it is the religion of God, and that no other religion is acceptable to Him, Islam, and that it contains the description of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace? It was said that what is meant by And you are witnesses is rational. It was also said that the meaning is that you are witnesses among the people of your religion, accepted by them, so how do you bring falsehood that contradicts what you are upon among the people of your religion? Then the Almighty threatened them with His statement, And God is not unaware of what you do.

99- Say, 'O People of the Scripture, why do you avert from the way of God those who believe, seeking it crookedly?' That is, why do you turn away from the religion of God those who believe, seeking it crookedly. Abu Ubaidah said: Crookedness with a kasra is in religion, speech, and action, and crookedness with a fatha is in the wall, and every standing person, while you are witnesses, and God is not unaware of what you do. That it is written in the Torah is a description of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and that the religion of God that He does not accept other than it is Islam.

99 Say, 'O People of the Scripture, why do you avert from the way of God those who believe?' The address and question were repeated to exaggerate the rebuke and deny their excuse, and to indicate that each of the two matters is ugly in itself and independently brings about punishment, and the way of God in His true religion that we are commanded to follow is Islam. It was said that they were tempting the believers and causing them to be incited between them until they came to the Aws and Khazraj and reminded them of the enmity and warfare between them in the pre-Islamic period so that they would return to the same and devise a plan to avert them from it. Seeking to make it crooked is a state of the waw, meaning seeking to make it crooked by confusing people and making them think that there is a deviation from the truth in it, by preventing abrogation and changing the description of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and the like, or by causing incitement among the believers so that their word would differ and their religious matter would be disrupted. And you are witnesses It is the path of God the Most High, and turning away from it is misguidance and leading others astray, or you are just before the people of your religion, who trust your words and cite you as witnesses in cases. And God is not unaware of what you do is a warning to them, and since the evil in the first verse was their disbelief, which they openly declare, He concluded it by saying: And God is Witness over what you do. And since in this verse it was their turning the believers away from Islam, which they were hiding and scheming to do, He said: And God is not unaware of what you do.

Surat Al Imran 3:100

O you who have believed, if you obey a party of those who were given the Scripture, they would turn you back, after your belief, to disbelief.

Surat Al Imran 3:100

O you who have believed, if you obey a party of those who were given the Scripture, they would turn you back, after your belief, to disbelief.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And it was revealed when some Jews passed by the Aws and Khazraj and their friendship was angered by them, so they reminded them of the strife that had occurred between them in the pre-Islamic era, so they quarrelled and almost fought: O you who have believed, if you obey a party of those who were given the Scripture, they will turn you back, after your belief, to disbelief.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

The Almighty said, O you who have believed, if you obey the verse, Al-Faryabi and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: There was evil between the Aws and the Khazraj in the pre-Islamic period. While they were sitting, they mentioned what was between them until they became angry and some of them rose up against each other with weapons. Then the verse and the two verses after it were revealed: How do you disbelieve?

Ibn Ishaq and Abu Al-Sheikh narrated on the authority of Zaid bin Aslam, who said: Shas bin Qais, who was a Jew, passed by a group of Aws and Khazraj who were talking. He was angered by what he saw of their reconciliation after the enmity, so he ordered a young Jew who was with him to sit among them and remind them of the Day of Buath. He did so, and they argued and boasted until two men, Aws bin Qayzi, jumped up.

From Aws and Jabbar bin Sakhr from Khazraj, and they quarreled and the two groups became angry and jumped to fight. This reached the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, so he came and preached to them and reconciled between them, so they listened and obeyed. So God revealed about Aws and Jabbar and those who were with them: O you who have believed, if you obey a party of those who were given the Scripture, the verse, and about Shas bin Qais: O People of the Scripture, why do you turn away?

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Jaafar said: The people of interpretation differed about who was meant by that.

Some of them said: What he meant by his saying: O you who believe, is the Aws and the Khazraj, and by those who were given the Scripture, is Shas bin Qais the Jew, based on what we mentioned before about his story on the authority of Zaid bin Aslam.

Others said about those who believed, like the statement of Zaid bin Aslam, except that they said: The one who spoke between him and others from the Ansar until they wanted to fight, and the Jew found fault with him in them: Tha'laba bin Anma Al-Ansari.

Who said that?

Muhammad ibn al-Husayn told me, Ahmad ibn al-Mufaddal told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of al-Suddi: O you who have believed, if you obey a party of those who were given the Scripture, they will turn you back, after your belief, to disbelief. He said: It was revealed about Tha'laba ibn 'Anmah al-Ansari. There was a discussion between him and some of the Ansar, and a Jew from Qaynuqa' walked between them, and some of them attacked each other, until the two groups of the Aws and the Khazraj wanted to take up arms and fight, so God Almighty revealed: If you obey a party of those who were given the Scripture, they will turn you back, after your belief, to disbelievers. He said: If you take up arms and fight, you have disbelieved.

Al-Hasan bin Yahya narrated, he said: Abdul-Razzaq narrated, he said: Jaafar bin Sulaiman narrated, on the authority of Hamid Al-Araj, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding His statement: O you who have believed, if you obey a party of those who were given the Scripture, he said: The tribes of the Ansar were grouped into two clans: Aws and Khazraj, and there was war, bloodshed and hatred between them in the pre-Islamic period, until God bestowed upon them Islam and the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace. God extinguished the war that had been between them and united them through Islam. He said: While a man from Aws and a man from Khazraj were sitting and talking, and with them was a Jew sitting, he kept reminding them of their days and the enmity that had been between them, until they quarreled and then fought. He said: So this one called out to his people and this one to his people, so they went out with weapons and lined up in rows with one another. He said: And the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was present that day in Medina, so the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, came and continued to walk among them to these and to those to calm them down, until they returned and laid down their weapons, so God Almighty revealed the Qur'an regarding that: O you who have believed, if you obey a party of those who were given the Scripture until His saying: a great punishment.

Abu Ja'far said: The interpretation of the verse is: O you who have believed in God and His Messenger, and have acknowledged what their Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, brought to them from God, if you obey a group of those who claim to be from the Book, from the People of the Torah and the Gospel, and accept from them what they command you, they will mislead you and turn you back, after your belief in the Messenger of your Lord, and after your acknowledgment of what he brought from your Lord, into disbelievers. He says: denying what you have believed in and confirmed of the truth that came to you from your Lord. So God, the Most High, forbade them from seeking their advice or accepting their opinion or counsel, and He, the Most High, informs them that they are full of rancor, deceit, envy and hatred, as:

Bishr bin Muadh narrated to us, he said: Yazid narrated to us, he said: Saeed narrated to us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: O you who have believed, if you obey a party of those who were given the Scripture, they would turn you back after your belief to disbelief, God has already spoken to you about them as you hear, and has warned you and informed you of their misguidance, so do not trust them with your religion, and do not seek their advice regarding yourselves, for they are the enemies, envious and misguided. How can you trust a people who disbelieved in their Book, killed their messengers, were confused about their religion, and were helpless against themselves? By God, they are the people of suspicion and enmity!

Al-Muthanna told us, he said, Ishaq told us, he said, Ibn Abi Ja'far told us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-Rabi', similarly.

God Almighty says: O you who have believed, if you obey a party of those who were given the Scripture, they will turn you back, after your belief, to disbelief.

It was revealed about a Jew who wanted to renew the strife between the Aws and the Khazraj after it had been interrupted by the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace. He sat among them and recited to them a poem that one of the two tribes had said during their war. The other tribe said: Our poet said it on such and such a day. It seemed that something had occurred to them, so they said: Come, let us return the war to its former glory. So these called out: O family of the Aws. And those called out: O family of the Khazraj. So they gathered, took up their weapons, and lined up to fight. Then this verse was revealed. Then the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, came and stood between the two rows, recited it and raised his voice. When they heard his voice, they listened attentively to him and began to listen. When he finished, they threw down their weapons, embraced one another, and began to weep. Narrated by Ikrimah, Ibn Zayd, and Ibn Abbas. The one who did that was Shas bin Qais the Jew. He sent someone to the Aws and Khazraj to remind them of the wars that had taken place between them, and that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, had mentioned them. The people realized that it was a temptation from Satan and a plot from their enemy, so they threw down their weapons, wept, and embraced each other. Then they left with the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, listening and obeying. Then God Almighty revealed: O you who have believed, meaning the Aws and Khazraj. If you obey a party of those who were given the Scripture, meaning Shas and his companions. They will turn you back to disbelief after your belief. Jabir bin Abdullah said: "There was no one more hateful to us than the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. He gestured to us with his hand, so we stopped, and God Almighty put things right between us. There was no person more beloved to us than the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. I have never seen a day uglier or more desolate at the beginning and a better end than that day."

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

God the Almighty warns His believing servants against obeying a group of the People of the Book who envy the believers for what God has given them of His grace and what He has granted them by sending His Messenger, as God the Almighty said: Many of the People of the Scripture wish they could turn you back to disbelief after you have believed, out of envy from themselves verse, and likewise He said here: If you obey a party of those who were given the Scripture, they will turn you back to disbelief after your belief verse. Then God the Almighty said: And how can you disbelieve while the verses of God are recited to you and among you is His Messenger verse. Meaning that disbelief is far from you, and God is far from it, for the verses of God are revealed to His Messenger night and day, and he recites them to you and conveys them to you. This is like His saying the Almighty: And what is the matter with you that you do not believe in God while the Messenger invites you to believe in your Lord and He has taken your covenant, if you are believers verse after verse. As it was mentioned in the hadith, "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to his companions one day, 'Which of the believers is most amazing to you in faith?' They said, 'The angels.' He said, 'How can they not believe when they are with their Lord?' They mentioned the prophets. He said, 'How can they not believe when the revelation is sent down to them?' They said, 'So we.' He said, 'How can you not believe when I am among you?' They said, 'Which of the people is most amazing in faith?' He said, 'A people who will come after you and will find scriptures in which they will believe.'" I mentioned the chain of transmission of this hadith and the discussion of it at the beginning of my commentary on Al-Bukhari, praise be to God. Then God Almighty said, And whoever holds fast to God has been guided to a straight path. That is, despite this, holding fast to God and relying on Him is the mainstay of guidance, the means to avoiding misguidance, the means to right guidance, the path to success, and the attainment of one's goal.

Fath al-Qadir

Then the Almighty addressed the believers, warning them against obeying the Jews and Christians, explaining to them that this obedience leads to them turning them back into disbelievers after their belief. The reason for the revelation of the verse will come later. 100- O you who have believed, if you obey a party of those who were given the Scripture, they will turn you back into disbelievers after your belief.

Surat Al Imran 3:100

O you who have believed, if you obey a party of those who were given the Scripture, they would turn you back, after your belief, to disbelief.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

100- O you who have believed, if you obey a party of those who were given the Scripture, Zaid bin Aslam said: "Shas bin Qais the Jew - who was an old man of great disbelief and severe criticism of the Muslims - passed by a group of Aws and Khazraj in a gathering where they were talking, and he was angered by what he saw of their harmony and reconciliation between them in Islam after the enmity that had existed between them in the pre-Islamic era. He said: The leaders of Banu Qaylah have gathered in this country. By God, we have no place with them when they gather there. So he ordered a young man from the Jews who was with him and said: Go to them and sit with them. Then he reminded them of the day of Bu'ath and what had happened before it, and recited to them some of the poems they had recited about it. Bu'ath was a day when Aws fought with Khazraj, and the victory was for Aws over Khazraj. So he did so and spoke, and the people spoke at that time and disputed and boasted until two men from the two tribes jumped on the camel, Aws bin A Copt, one of Banu Haritha of the Aws, and Jabbar bin Sakhr, one of Banu Salamah of the Khazraj, argued with each other, then one of them said to the other: If you wish, by God, I will return her now as a young camel. Both groups became angry and said: We have already made the weapon, the weapon is your appointment is the apparent place, and she is free. So they went out to her, and the Aws and Khazraj joined together in their claim that they had in the pre-Islamic era. This reached the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, so he went out to them with the Muhajireen who were with him until he came to them. He, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: O group of Muslims, is it the claim of the pre-Islamic era while I am among you after God has honored you with Islam, and cut off the matter of the pre-Islamic era from you and united you? Will you return to what you were upon as disbelievers? God, God. The people realized that it was an instigation from Satan and a plot from their enemy, so they threw down their weapons from their hands and cried and embraced each other, then they left with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, listening and obeying. Then God Almighty revealed this verse about them.

They will turn you back into disbelievers after your belief. Jabir said: I have never seen a day uglier at the beginning and better at the end than that day. Then God Almighty said in amazement.

100 "O you who have believed, if you obey a party of those who were given the Scripture, they will turn you back, after your belief, to disbelief. This was revealed about a group of Aws and Khazraj who were sitting and talking. Shas bin Qais the Jew passed by them and their friendship and gathering angered him, so he ordered a young Jew to sit with them and remind them of the Day of Bu'ath and recite to them some of what was said about it. The Aws were victorious that day, so he did so. The people argued and boasted and got angry and said, Weapons, weapons. A great number of people gathered with the two tribes. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his companions turned to them and said, Do you abandon ignorance while I am among you after God has honored you with Islam and cut off from you the matter of ignorance and united your hearts? They realized that it was a temptation from Satan and a plot from their enemy, so they laid down their weapons and sought forgiveness and embraced each other and left with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace." God addressed them Himself after He commanded the Messenger to address the People of the Book, to demonstrate the greatness of their status and to make them feel that they are the most deserving of God addressing them and speaking to them.

Surat Al Imran 3:101

And how can you disbelieve while the verses of God are recited to you and among you is His Messenger? And whoever holds fast to God has certainly been guided to a straight path.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And how can you disbelieve An interrogative of astonishment and rebuke (while the verses of God are recited to you and among you is His Messenger. And whoever holds fast) clings to God has certainly been guided to a straight path

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: By that, the Most High means: And how can you disbelieve, O believers, after your belief in God and His Messenger, then turn back on your heels, while the verses of God are recited to you, meaning the proofs of God upon you that He sent down in His Book to His Prophet Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and among you is His Messenger, another proof against you from God, along with the verses of His Book, calling you to the truth, showing you guidance and righteousness, and forbidding you from error and misguidance? The Most High says to them: What is your excuse before your Lord for your denial of the prophethood of your Prophet, your turning back on your heels, and your return to the matter of your ignorance, if you return to that and disbelieve, and in it are these clear proofs and clear signs on the error of your action if you do it? Like:

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid bin Zari' told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: And how can you disbelieve while the verses of God are recited to you, the verse, two clear signs: the conscience of the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and the Book of God. As for the Prophet of God, he has passed away, may God bless him and grant him peace. As for the Book of God, God has kept it among you as a mercy from God and a blessing, in it is what He has made lawful and unlawful, obedience to Him and disobedience to Him.

As for his saying: And whoever holds fast to God has certainly been guided to a straight path, he means: And whoever clings to the causes of God and adheres to His religion and obedience, has certainly been guided, meaning: He has been guided to a clear path and a straight, uncrooked path, through which he will be guided to the pleasure of God, and to salvation from the punishment of God and to winning His Paradise, as:

Al-Qasim told us, he said, Al-Hussein told us, he said, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, regarding his statement: And whoever holds fast to God has been guided, he said: He believes in God.

The root of the word 'asm' is prevention. So, anyone who prevents something is its protector, and the one who is protected by it is protected by it. From this is the saying of Al-Farazdaq:

I am the son of the two capitals, Banu Tamim. When the two events are great, we will be afflicted.

That is why the rope is called Issam, and the reason that causes a man to achieve his need is called Issam. From this is the saying of Al-A'sha:

To the man Qais, I extend my journey and take protection from every living being

By protection, he means the reasons, the reasons of covenant and security. It is said: I held fast to a rope from so-and-so. I held fast to a rope from him, I held fast to him, and I held fast to him. The most eloquent of the two languages is to insert the letter ba, as God Almighty said: And hold fast, all of you together, to the rope of God (Al Imran 3:103). It has also been said: I held fast to him, as the poet said:

If you reward brotherhood with the same and console me, then you hold fast to your ropes

He said: I held fast to the ropes, and he did not add the letter ba. This is similar to their saying: I took hold of the reins, and I took hold of the reins, and I clung to them, and I clung to them, as the poet said:

India was adorned with a young apron, and you, having committed a sin, did not know what a dream was.

I have explained the meaning of guidance and the path, and that it refers to Islam, in what has passed before with its evidence, so we disliked repeating it in this place.

It was mentioned that what was revealed regarding the reason for the two tribes' transgression: Aws and Khazraj, was His saying: And how can you disbelieve while the verses of God are recited to you?

Who said that?

Abu Kuraib told us, he said, Hasan bin Atiyah told us, he said, Qais bin Al-Rabi' told us, on the authority of Al-Aghar bin Al-Sabah, on the authority of Khalifa bin Husain, on the authority of Abu Nasr, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, he said: There was a war between the Aws and the Khazraj during the pre-Islamic era every month. While they were sitting, they mentioned what had happened between them until they became angry, so some of them rose up against each other with weapons, and this verse was revealed: And how can you disbelieve while the verses of God are recited to you and among you is His Messenger to the end of the two verses, And remember the favor of God upon you when you were enemies to the end of the verse.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

God the Almighty said: In the form of astonishment, that is, And how can you disbelieve while the verses of God are recited to you meaning the Qur'an. And among you is His Messenger Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace. Ibn Abbas said: There was fighting and evil between the Aws and the Khazraj in the pre-Islamic era, so they mentioned what had happened between them and some of them attacked each other with swords. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, came and mentioned that to him, so he went to them, and this verse was revealed:

Surat Al Imran 3:101

And how can you disbelieve while the verses of God are recited to you and among you is His Messenger? And whoever holds fast to God has certainly been guided to a straight path.

And how can you disbelieve while the verses of God are recited to you and among you is His Messenger - until His saying: And He saved you from it. This verse includes those who did not see the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, because what is in them of his Sunnah takes the place of seeing him.

Al-Zajaj said: It is permissible for this address to be specifically to the companions of Muhammad, because the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was among them and they saw him. It is permissible for this address to be to the entire nation, because his traces and signs and the Qur'an that was given to us are in the place of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, among us, even if we did not see him. Qatada said: In this verse there are two clear signs: the Book of God and the Prophet of God. As for the Prophet of God, he has passed away, and as for the Book of God, God has kept him among them as a mercy and a blessing from Him. In it is what He has made lawful and unlawful, and what He has obeyed and disobeyed. How is in the accusative case, and the fa was opened according to Al-Khalil and Sibawayh due to the meeting of two quiescent letters. The opening was chosen for it because what preceded the fa was a ya and it was difficult for them to combine a ya and a kasra. The Almighty said: And whoever holds fast to God means refrains and clings to His religion and obedience to Him. He has been guided means guided and directed to a straight path. Ibn Jurayj said: He holds fast to God believes in Him. It was said: The meaning is whoever holds fast to God means he clings to the rope of God, which is the Qur'an. It is said: he protected himself with it and held fast, and he held fast and held fast if he refrained from it from anything else. I held fast to someone means I prepared for him what he clings to. Everyone who clings to something is protected and holding fast. Everyone who prevents something is a protector. Al-Farazdaq said:

I am the son of the two capitals, Banu Tamim. When the two events are great, we will be afflicted.

Al-Nabigha said:

The sailor remains, fearing his fate, clinging to the bamboo after the distance and the Najd.

Another said:

So he made a condition for himself while he was in a coma, and he threw his reasons for it and relied on it.

And food protected him: it prevented him from hunger. The Arabs say: food protected so-and-so, meaning it prevented him from hunger. So they called the gruel Abu Asim for that reason. Ahmad bin Yahya said: The Arabs called bread Asim and Jaber, and he recited:

Do not blame me, blame Jaber, for Jaber has burdened me with the burdens.

They call it Amer. And he recited:

Abu Malik used to visit me at noon, he would come and leave his luggage at Amer's.

Abu Malik is the nickname of hunger.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

God the Almighty warns His believing servants against obeying a group of the People of the Book who envy the believers for what God has given them of His grace and what He has granted them by sending His Messenger, as God the Almighty said: Many of the People of the Scripture wish they could turn you back to disbelief after you have believed, out of envy from themselves verse, and likewise He said here: If you obey a party of those who were given the Scripture, they will turn you back to disbelief after your belief verse. Then God the Almighty said: And how can you disbelieve while the verses of God are recited to you and among you is His Messenger verse. Meaning that disbelief is far from you, and God is far from it, for the verses of God are revealed to His Messenger night and day, and he recites them to you and conveys them to you. This is like His saying the Almighty: And what is the matter with you that you do not believe in God while the Messenger invites you to believe in your Lord and He has taken your covenant, if you are believers verse after verse. As it was mentioned in the hadith, "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to his companions one day, 'Which of the believers is most amazing to you in faith?' They said, 'The angels.' He said, 'How can they not believe when they are with their Lord?' They mentioned the prophets. He said, 'How can they not believe when the revelation is sent down to them?' They said, 'So we.' He said, 'How can you not believe when I am among you?' They said, 'Which of the people is most amazing in faith?' He said, 'A people who will come after you and will find scriptures in which they will believe.'" I mentioned the chain of transmission of this hadith and the discussion of it at the beginning of my commentary on Al-Bukhari, praise be to God. Then God Almighty said, And whoever holds fast to God has been guided to a straight path. That is, despite this, holding fast to God and relying on Him is the mainstay of guidance, the means to avoiding misguidance, the means to right guidance, the path to success, and the attainment of one's goal.

Fath al-Qadir

The question in His statement 101- And how do you disbelieve is for denial: that is, where does that come to you from when you have what prevents it and cuts off its effect, which is the recitation of God's verses to you and the presence of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, among you? The place of His statement and you and what He worshipped is the accusative case as a state. Then He guided them to hold fast to God so that they would thereby attain guidance to the straight path, which is Islam. In describing the path as straight, He responded to what they claimed of its crookedness. Al-Zajjaj said: It is permissible for this address to be to the companions of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, specifically, because the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was among them and they witnessed him. It is permissible for this address to be to the entire nation, because his effects and his sign and the Qur'an that he was given are among us, so it is as if the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, is among us even if we did not witness him. The meaning of holding fast to God is to adhere to His religion and obey Him. It has also been said: to the Qur'an. It is said: he held fast to it, he held fast to it, he held fast to it, he held fast to it, he held fast to it: if he refrained from anything else with it, and food protected him: he prevented hunger from him.

God are recited to you and among you is His Messenger? Denial and astonishment at their disbelief when they have all the reasons that call them to faith and turn them away from disbelief. And whoever holds fast to God and whoever clings to his religion or seeks refuge in Him in all his affairs. has certainly been guided to a straight path he has inevitably been guided.

101- And how can you disbelieve? meaning: Why do you disbelieve? And the verses of God are recited to you, the Qur'an, and among you is His Messenger, Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace.

Qatada said: In this verse there are two clear signs: the Book of God and the Prophet of God. As for the Prophet of God, he has passed away, but as for the Book of God, He has kept it among you as a mercy and blessing from God.

Abu Saeed Ahmad bin Muhammad bin Al-Abbas Al-Hamidi told us. Abu Abdullah Muhammad bin Abdullah Al-Hafiz told us. Abu Al-Fadl Al-Hasan bin Ya'qub bin Yusuf Al-Adl told us. Ahmad Muhammad bin Abdul Wahhab Al-Abdi told us. Abu Ja'far bin Auf told us. Abu Hayyan Yahya bin Saeed bin Hayyan [on the authority of Yazid bin Hayyan] said: I heard Zaid bin Arqam say: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, stood up among us as a preacher. He praised God and thanked Him, then he said: "As for what follows, O people, I am only a human being. The Messenger of my Lord will soon come to me and I will respond to him. I am leaving among you two weighty things. The first of them is the Book of God, in which is guidance and light. So hold fast to the Book of God and adhere to it." He urged it and encouraged it. Then he said: And my family, and my family, and I remind you of God in my family.

The Almighty says: And whoever holds fast to God meaning: he abstains from God and adheres to His religion and obedience, has certainly been guided to a straight path, a clear path. Ibn Jurayj said: And whoever holds fast to God meaning: he believes in God. The root of protection is prevention, so everyone who prevents something is a protector of it.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

O you who have believed, fear God as He should be feared by obeying and not disobeying, thanking and not ungrateful, and remembering and not forgetting. They said, O Messenger of God, who has the strength to do this? So it was abrogated by the Almighty's saying {So fear God as much as you are able} and do not die except as Muslims monotheists.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: By that, may His praise be glorified, He means: O group of those who have believed in God and His Messenger, fear God, fear God and observe Him by obeying Him and avoiding His disobedience, the right fear of Him, the right fear of Him, which is to obey Him and not disobey Him, to thank Him and not be ungrateful, to remember Him and not forget, and do not die, O believers in God and His Messenger, except as Muslims to your Lord, submitting to Him in obedience, sincerely devoting divinity and worship to Him.

And the people of interpretation said something similar to what we said about that.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Bashir told us, he said, Abd al-Rahman told us, he said, Sufyan told us, and al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said, Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said, al-Thawri told us, on the authority of Zubayd, on the authority of Marra, on the authority of Abdullah: Fear God as He should be feared, he said: That He be obeyed and not disobeyed, remembered and not forgotten, and thanked and not ungrateful.

Ibn Bashir told us, he said, Abd al-Rahman told us, he said, Shu'bah told us, on the authority of Zubayd, on the authority of Murrah al-Hamadani, on the authority of Abdullah, similarly.

Abu Kuraib and Abu Al-Sa'ib told us, they said, Ibn Idris told us, he said, I heard Laith, on the authority of Zubayd, on the authority of Marra bin Shurahil Al-Bakili, on the authority of Abdullah bin Masoud, the same.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Al-Hajjaj bin Al-Munhal told us, he said, Jarir told us, on the authority of Zubayd, on the authority of Abdullah, similarly.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Abu Naim told us, he said, Misa'ar told us, on the authority of Zubayd, on the authority of Marra, on the authority of Abdullah, similarly.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Amr bin Awn told us, he said, Hisham told us, on the authority of Al-Masoudi, on the authority of Zubayd Al-Ayami, on the authority of Marra, on the authority of Abdullah, similarly.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Jarir told us, on the authority of Mansour, on the authority of Zubayd, on the authority of Marra, on the authority of Abdullah, similarly.

Muhammad bin Sinan told us, he said, Yahya told us, on the authority of Sufyan, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Amr bin Maymun: Fear God as He should be feared. He said: That He should be obeyed and not disobeyed, thanked and not ungrateful, and remembered and not forgotten.

Ibn Wakee' told us, he said, my father told us, on the authority of Israel, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Amr ibn Maymun, something similar.

Ibn Al-Muthanna told us, Yahya bin Saeed told us, Shu'bah told us, Amr bin Murrah told us, on the authority of Murrah, on the authority of Al-Rabi' bin Khathim, who said: To be obeyed and not disobeyed, to be thanked and not ungrateful, and to be remembered and not forgotten.

Al-Muthanna told us, he said, Abu Dawud told us, he said, Shu'bah told us, on the authority of Amr bin Murrah, he said, I heard Murrah Al-Hamdani narrating, on the authority of Al-Rabi' bin Khathim, regarding the statement of God Almighty: Fear God as He should be feared, and he mentioned something similar.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Abu Hudhayfah told us, he said, Shibl told us, on the authority of Qais bin Saad, on the authority of Tawus: O you who have believed, fear God as He should be feared, that is, to obey Him and not disobey Him.

Muhammad bin Sinan told us, he said, Abu Bakr al-Hanafi told us, he said, Ibad told us, on the authority of al-Hasan, regarding his statement: O you who have believed, fear God as He should be feared, he said, As He should be feared, that is, to be obeyed and not disobeyed.

Muhammad ibn al-Husayn told me, he said, Ahmad ibn al-Mufaddal told us, he said, Asbat told us, on the authority of al-Suddi: Then he went forward to them - meaning to the believers from the Ansar - and said: O you who have believed, fear God as He should be feared and do not die except as Muslims. As for As He should be feared, He is obeyed and not disobeyed, remembered and not forgotten, and thanked and not denied.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Hajjaj bin Al-Munhal told us, he said, Hammam told us, on the authority of Qatada: O you who have believed, fear God as He should be feared, that is, obey Him and not disobey Him. He said: And do not die except as Muslims.

Others said: Rather, the interpretation of that is as follows:

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Abdullah bin Saleh told us, he said, Muawiyah told me, on the authority of Ali, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding his statement: Fear God as He should be feared, he said: As He should be feared, that is, they strive in God's cause as He should be striven in, and they are not deterred by the blame of any blamer in God's cause, and they stand up for God with justice even if it is against themselves, their fathers, and their children.

Then the people of interpretation differed regarding this verse: Is it abrogated or not?

Some of them said: It is a binding and not abrogated ruling.

Who said that?

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Abdullah bin Saleh told us, he said, Muawiyah bin Saleh told me, on the authority of Ali, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding his saying: Fear God as He should be feared, that it was not abrogated, but as He should be feared, is that you strive in God's cause as He should be striven for. Then he mentioned the interpretation of it that we mentioned from him earlier.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Abu Hudhayfah told us, he said, Shabl told us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Qays ibn Sa'd, on the authority of Tawus: O you who have believed, fear God as He should be feared. If you do not do so and are not able to, then do not die except as Muslims.

Al-Qasim told us, he said, Al-Hussein told us, he said, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, he said, Tawus said, regarding his statement: And do not die except as Muslims, he says: If you do not fear Him, then do not die except as Muslims.

Others said: It is abrogated, abrogated by His statement: So fear God as much as you are able (al-Taghabun 64:16).

Who said that?

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, his saying: O you who have believed, fear God as He should be feared and do not die except as Muslims. Then He revealed relief and ease, and returned with His reward and mercy for what He knows of the weakness of His creation, saying: So fear God as much as you are able (al-Taghabun 64:16), so this verse came, in which there is relief, well-being, and ease.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Al-Hajjaj bin Al-Munhal Al-Anmati told us, he said, Hammam told us, on the authority of Qatada: O you who have believed, fear God as He should be feared and do not die except as Muslims. He said: This verse in At-Taghabun abrogated it: So fear God as much as you are able, and listen and obey (al-Taghabun 64:16), and upon it the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, pledged allegiance to hearing and obeying as much as they were able.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Ishaq told us, he said,

Abdullah bin Abi Ja'far told us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-Rabi' bin Anas, he said: When the verse, Fear God as He should be feared, was revealed, then after it was revealed, So fear God as much as you are able (al-Taghabun 64:16), this verse in Al-Imran was abrogated.

Muhammad told us, Ahmad told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of al-Suddi: O you who have believed, fear God as He should be feared and do not die except as Muslims. But the people could not bear this, so God abrogated it for them and said: So fear God as much as you are able (al-Taghabun: 16).

Yunus told me, he said, Ibn Wahb told us, he said, Ibn Zayd said regarding His statement: O you who have believed, fear God as He should be feared, he said: A severe matter has come! They said: Who knows the extent of this or can attain it? So when he knew that this had become difficult for them, he abrogated it for them and brought this other one and said: So fear God as much as you are able (al-Taghabun 64:16), so he abrogated it.

As for his saying: And do not die except as Muslims, its interpretation is as follows:

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Abu Hudhayfah told us, he said, Shabl told us, on the authority of Qais bin Saad, on the authority of Tawus: And do not die except as Muslims, he said: On Islam, and on the sanctity of Islam.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

There is one issue:

Al-Bukhari narrated on the authority of Mara on the authority of Abdullah who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The right to fear Him is that He be obeyed and not disobeyed, that He be remembered and not forgotten, and that He be thanked and not denied. Ibn Abbas said: It is that He not be disobeyed for the blink of an eye. The commentators mentioned that when this verse was revealed, they said: O Messenger of God, who is able to do this? It was difficult for them, so God, the Almighty, revealed: So fear God as much as you are able (al-Taghabun 64:16), and this verse was abrogated, according to Qatada, Ar-Rabi' and Ibn Zayd. Muqatil said: There is nothing in Al-Imran that was abrogated except this verse. It was said: His statement: So fear God as much as you are able is an explanation of this verse. The meaning is: So fear God as He should be feared as much as you are able, and this is more correct, because abrogation only occurs when there is no reunification, and reunification is possible, so it is more appropriate. Ali bin Abi Talha narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas that he said: The statement of God the Almighty, O you who have believed, fear God as He should be feared, has not been abrogated. Rather, the fear of Him as He should be feared means to strive in the cause of God as He should be striven for, and not be deterred by the blame of a blamer for the sake of God, and to stand up for justice even if it is against yourselves and your children. An-Nahas said: Everything mentioned in the verse is obligatory for Muslims to use and no

O you who have believed, fear God as He should be feared and do not die except as Muslims.

abrogation has occurred in it. The meaning of the statement of God the Almighty, And do not die except as Muslims, has already been mentioned in Surat Al-Baqarah.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

Ibn Abi Hatim said: Ahmad bin Sinan told us, Abd al-Rahman told us, on the authority of Sufyan and Shu'bah, on the authority of Zubayd al-Yami, on the authority of Marra, on the authority of Abdullah, who is Ibn Mas'ud, Fear God as He should be feared. He said: That He should be obeyed and not disobeyed, that He should be remembered and not forgotten, and that He should be thanked and not ungrateful. This is a sound, suspended chain of transmission. Marra was followed by 'Amr bin Maymun on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud. Ibn Mardawayh narrated it from the hadith of Yunus bin 'Abd al-'A'la, on the authority of Ibn Wahb, on the authority of Sufyan al-Thawri, on the authority of Zubayd, on the authority of Marra, on the authority of Abdullah, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Fear God as He should be feared: that He should be obeyed and not disobeyed, that He should be thanked and not ungrateful, and that He should be remembered and not forgotten.'" Al-Hakim also narrated it in his Mustadrak from the hadith of Mus'ar, on the authority of Zubayd, on the authority of Marra, on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud, with a chain of transmission traceable back to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace. He mentioned it, then said: It is sound according to the conditions of the two sheikhs, and it was not... They both narrated it, and this is what he said, and it is more apparent that it is suspended, and God knows best. Then Ibn Abi Hatim said: Something similar was narrated from Marra Al-Hamadani, Al-Rabi' bin Khatim, Amr bin Maymun, Ibrahim Al-Nakha'i, Tawus, Al-Hasan, Qatadah, Abu Sinan, and Al-Suddi, and something similar to that. It was narrated from Anas that he said: A servant does not fear God as He should be feared until he controls his tongue. Saeed bin Jubair, Abu Al-Aaliyah, Al-Rabi' bin Anas, Qatadah, Muqatil bin Hayyan, Zaid bin Aslam, Al-Suddi, and others said that this verse was abrogated by the words of God the Most High: So fear God as much as you are able. And Ali bin Abi Talhah said from Ibn Abbas regarding the words of God the Most High: Fear God as He should be feared, he said: It was not abrogated, but the right to fear Him is that they strive in His cause as He should be striven in, and the blame of a blamer should not deter them in God's cause, and they stand up for justice even if it is against themselves, their fathers, and their children. And the Almighty's saying: And do not die except as Muslims means, preserve Islam while you are healthy and safe so that you die upon it, for the Generous One has made it a habit in His generosity that whoever lives upon something dies upon it, and whoever dies upon something will be resurrected upon it, so we seek refuge in God from anything other than that.

Imam Ahmad said: Ruh told us, Shu'bah told us, he said: I heard Sulayman from Mujahid: The people were circumambulating the House and Ibn Abbas was sitting with Muhajjan, so he said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'O you who believe! Fear God as He should be feared and do not die except as Muslims.' If a drop of Zaqqum were to fall, it would make the lives of the people of the earth miserable, so how about someone who has no food except Zaqqum?" And thus it was narrated by Al-Tirmidhi, Al-Nasa'i, Ibn Majah, Ibn Hibban in his Sahih, and Al-Hakim in his Mustadrak through various chains of narration on the authority of Shu'bah. Al-Tirmidhi said: Hasan Sahih, and Al-Hakim said: It meets the conditions of the two sheikhs, but they did not include it.

Imam Ahmad said: Waki' told us, Al-A'mash told us, on the authority of Zaid bin Wahb, on the authority of Abd al-Rahman bin Abd Rabb al-Ka'bah, on the authority of Abdullah bin Amr, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Whoever would like to be saved from the Fire and enter Paradise, let death overtake him while he believes in God and the Last Day, and he treats people as he would like to be treated.'"

Imam Ahmad also said: Abu Muawiyah told us, Al-A'mash told us, on the authority of Abu Sufyan, on the authority of Jabir, who said: "I heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say three things before his death: 'None of you should die except while having good thoughts about God, the Almighty.'" Muslim narrated it on the authority of Al-A'mash on his authority. Imam Ahmad said: Hasan bin Musa told us, Ibn Lahi'ah told us, Abu Yunus told us, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, on the authority of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, that "God said: 'I am as My servant thinks I am. If he thinks good of Me, then he will have it, and if he thinks evil of Me, then he will have it.'" The origin of this hadith is proven in the two Sahih from another chain of narration on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'God says: I am as My servant thinks I am.'"

Al-Hafiz Abu Bakr al-Bazzar said: Muhammad ibn Abd al-Malik al-Qurashi told us, Ja'far ibn Sulayman told us, on the authority of Thabit, and I think it was on the authority of Anas, who said: "A man from the Ansar was sick, so the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, came to visit him. He met him in the market and greeted him. He said to him: How are you, so-and-so? He said: I am fine, O Messenger of God. I hope in God and I fear my sins. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: These two things do not come together in the heart of a servant in this situation except that God gives him what he hopes for and makes him safe from what he fears." Then he said: We do not know of anyone who narrated it on the authority of Thabit other than Ja'far ibn Sulayman, and this is how Al-Tirmidhi, al-Nasa'i and Ibn Majah narrated it from his hadith. Then al-Tirmidhi said: It is strange, and some of them narrated it on the authority of Thabit as a mursal. As for the hadith narrated by Imam Ahmad: Muhammad ibn Ja'far told us, Shu'bah told us on the authority of Abu Bishr, on the authority of Yusuf ibn Mahak, on the authority of Hakim ibn Hizam, who said: I pledged allegiance to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, that I would not delay except standing. And he narrated it. Al-Nasa'i in his Sunan on the authority of Ismail bin Masoud on the authority of Khalid bin Al-Harith on the authority of Shu'bah on his authority, and he translated it and said Chapter on how he prostrates, then he cited something similar to it and it was said: Its meaning is that I will not die except as a Muslim, and it was said: Its meaning is that I will not be killed except facing forward and not turning away, and it goes back to the first.

And the Almighty's saying: And hold fast, all together, to the rope of God and be not divided. It was said, by the rope of God, meaning by the covenant of God, as He said in the verse after it, Humiliation has been imposed upon them wherever they are found, except by a rope from God and a rope from the people, meaning by a covenant and protection. And it was said, by the rope of God, meaning the Qur'an, as in the hadith of Al-Harith Al-A'war on the authority of Ali, with a chain of transmission traceable to the Prophet, describing the Qur'an as the strong rope of God and His straight path.

A specific hadith was reported regarding this meaning. Imam Al-Hafiz Abu Jaafar Al-Tabari said: Saeed bin Yahya Al-Umawi told us, Asbat bin Muhammad told us, on the authority of Abdul Malik bin Abi Sulayman Al-Arzami, on the authority of Atiyah, on the authority of Abu Saeed, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The Book of God is the rope of God extended from the heavens to the earth."

Ibn Mardawayh narrated on the authority of Ibrahim bin Muslim Al-Hijri on the authority of Abu Al-Ahwas on the authority of Abdullah, may God be pleased with him, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: This Qur'an is the strong rope of God, and it is the clear light, and it is the beneficial healing, a protection for whoever holds fast to it, and salvation for whoever follows it." He narrated something similar on the authority of Hudhayfah and Zayd bin Arqam. Waki' said: Al-A'mash told us on the authority of Abu Wa'il who said: Abdullah said: This path is at risk and the devils visit it. O Abdullah, this is the path, come to the path and hold fast to the rope of God, for the rope of God is the Qur'an.

And His saying: And do not be divided He ordered them to be united and forbade them from division. There are many hadiths that forbid division and command them to come together and unite, as in Sahih Muslim from the hadith of Suhayl ibn Abi Salih, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Abu Hurairah, that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "God is pleased with you with three things and is displeased with you with three things. He is pleased with you that you worship Him and do not associate anything with Him, that you hold fast to the rope of God all together and do not become divided, and that you advise whomever God has appointed over you. And He is displeased with you with three things: gossip, asking too many questions, and wasting money." And He guaranteed them infallibility when they agree from error, as also mentioned in many hadiths. And it was feared that they would separate and differ, and that happened in this nation, so they split into seventy-three sects, one of which is a sect that will be saved to Paradise and safe from the punishment of Hell, and they are those who follow what the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his companions were upon.

And the Almighty said: And remember the favor of God upon you - when you were enemies and He brought your hearts together, and you became, by His favor, brothers to the end of the verse. This context is about the Aws and Khazraj, for there had been many wars between them in the pre-Islamic era, and intense enmity, grudges, hatred, and discord, because of which their fighting and incidents between them had been prolonged. Then when God brought Islam, and those of them who entered it entered it, they became brothers who loved one another for the glory of God, connected for the sake of God, cooperating in righteousness and piety. God the Almighty said: "It is He who supported you with His victory and with the believers * And brought their hearts together. Had you spent all that is in the earth, you could not have brought their hearts together, but God brought their hearts together" to the end of the verse. They were on the brink of a pit of fire because of their disbelief, so God saved them from it by guiding them to faith. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, bestowed this favor upon them on the day when he divided the spoils of Hunayn, so he rebuked those of them who rebuked him, because of what he had given them in the division, because of what God had shown him, so he addressed them. He said: "O group of Ansar, did I not find you astray and God guided you through me? And you were divided and God united you through me, and poor and God enriched you through me? So whenever he said something, they said: God and His Messenger believe." Muhammad bin Ishaq bin Yasar and others mentioned that this verse was revealed regarding the Aws and Khazraj. A Jewish man passed by a group of Aws and Khazraj, and he was displeased with their agreement and harmony, so he sent a man with him and ordered him to sit among them and remind them of their wars on the day of Bu'ath and those wars. He did so, and that remained his habit until the people's souls became heated, and some of them became angry with each other, and they rebelled and called out their slogans and demanded their weapons and threatened to go to Al-Harrah. This reached the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, so he came to them and began to calm them down, saying: Is it the call of ignorance while I am among you? And he recited this verse to them, so they regretted what they had done and reconciled and embraced and laid down their weapons, may God be pleased with them. Ikrimah mentioned that this was revealed about them when they argued about the slander case, and God knows best.

His saying 102- Fear God as He should be feared meaning: the fear that is due to Him, which is that the servant does not leave anything that he is obligated to do nor does he do anything that he is obligated to leave, and he exerts his utmost effort and ability in that. Al-Qurtubi said: The commentators mentioned that when this verse was revealed, they said: O Messenger of God, who is able to do this? That was difficult for them, so God revealed: "So fear God as much as you are able" and this verse was abrogated. This was narrated from Qatadah, Al-Rabi' and Ibn Zayd. Muqatil said: There is nothing in Al Imran that was abrogated except this. It was said that His saying "Fear God as He should be feared is explained by His saying So fear God as much as you are able" and the meaning is: Fear God as He should be feared as much as you are able. He said: This is more correct, because abrogation only occurs when there is no combining, and combining is possible, so it is more appropriate. His saying, And do not die except as Muslims, meaning: Do not be in a state other than the state of Islam. So the exception is empty, and the location of the sentence: I mean his saying, and you are Muslims, is the accusative case of state. An explanation of a verse like this has already been presented in Surat Al-Baqarah.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

102- The Almighty said: "O you who have believed, fear God as He should be feared." Muqatil bin Hayyan said: There was enmity and fighting between the Aws and the Khazraj in the pre-Islamic period until the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, migrated to Medina. He reconciled between them, and after that two men from among them boasted: Tha'laba bin Ghanam from the Aws and As'ad bin Zarah from the Khazraj. The Aws said: Among us is Khuzaymah bin Thabit, the possessor of the two testimonies, and among us is Hanzala, who was washed by the angels, and among us is Asim bin Thabit bin Aflah, the one who was protected from the anus, and among us is Sa'd bin Mu'adh, whose death shook the throne of the Most Merciful and whose judgment on Banu Qurayza was pleased with God.

Al-Khazraji said: Four of us mastered the Qur'an: Ubayy ibn Ka'b, Mu'adh ibn Jabal, Zayd ibn Thabit, and Abu Zayd. Among us was Sa'd ibn Ubadah, the orator and leader of the Ansar. A conversation took place between them, and they became angry and recited poetry and boasted. Then the Aws and the Khazraj came with weapons, and the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, came to them, and God Almighty revealed this verse: O you who have believed, fear God as He should be feared.

Abdullah bin Masoud and Ibn Abbas said: It is to be obeyed and not disobeyed. Mujahid said: That you strive in the way of God as He should be striven for and do not let the blame of a blamer deter you in God's cause, and that you stand up for God with justice even if it is against yourselves, your fathers, and your children. Anas said: A servant does not fear God as He should be feared until he restrains his tongue.

The commentators said: When this verse was revealed, it was difficult for them, so they said: O Messenger of God, who can do this? Then God Almighty revealed: So fear God as much as you are able At-Taghabun 16, and this verse was abrogated. Muqatil said: There is nothing in Al Imran that was abrogated except this.

And do not die except as Muslims, meaning: believers. It was said: sincere, entrusting your affairs to God Almighty. Al-Fudayl said: having good thoughts about God.

Abdul Wahid bin Ahmad Al-Malhi told us, Abu Bakr Al-Abdusi told us, Abu Bakr Muhammad bin Hamdun bin Khalid bin Yazid told us, Sulayman bin Saif told us, Wahb bin Jarir told us, Shu'bah told us, on the authority of Al-A'mash, on the authority of Mujahid, on the authority of Abdullah bin Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "O people, fear God as He should be feared. If a drop of Zaqqum were to fall on the earth, it would make the livelihood of the people of this world miserable. So how about one whose food is that and who has no other food?"

102 "O you who have believed, fear God as He should be feared." The fear of Him that He should be feared and what is required of it, which is to exhaust one's ability in performing one's duty and avoiding forbidden things, as He said: "So fear God as much as you are able." And on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud, may God be pleased with him: It is to obey and not disobey, to thank and not be ungrateful, and to remember and not forget. And it was said: It is to keep obedience away from attention and from expecting reward for it. And in this matter there is an emphasis on the prohibition of obeying the People of the Book, and the origin of piety is waqiyyah, so its waw with a dammah was changed to a ta' as in taw'adah and takhamah and the ya' to an alif. "And do not die except as Muslims" meaning, do not be in a state other than the state of Islam if death overtakes you, for the prohibition of what is restricted by a state or other may be directed towards the action itself sometimes and the restriction at other times and it may be directed towards the group without them, and likewise the negation.

Surat Al Imran 3:103

And hold fast to the rope of God all together and do not be divided. And remember the favor of God upon you - when you were enemies and He united your hearts and you became, by His favor, brothers. And you were on the brink of a pit of Fire and He saved you from it. Thus does God make clear to you His verses that you may be guided.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And hold fast cling to the rope of God that is, His religion all together and do not become divided after Islam and remember the favor of God His favor upon you O people of Aws and Khazraj when you were before Islam enemies and He brought your hearts together through Islam and you became so you became by His favor brothers in religion and allegiance and you were on the brink edge of a pit of fire there was nothing between you and falling into it except that you die as disbelievers and He saved you from it through faith thus as He explained to you what He mentioned God makes clear to you His verses that you may be guided

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: By that, may His praise be glorified, He means: And cling to all of God's causes. By that, may His praise be glorified, He means: And hold fast to the religion of God which He has commanded you with, and His covenant which He has entrusted to you in His Book to you, of harmony and unity upon the word of truth, and submission to God's command.

We have previously demonstrated the meaning of adherence.

As for the rope, it is the means by which one reaches the goal and need. That is why safety is called a rope, because it is a means by which one reaches the elimination of fear and salvation from panic and terror. From this is the saying of A'sha of Banu Tha'labah:

If the ropes of a tribe cross it, it will take its ropes from the other tribe to you.

And from it is the saying of God Almighty: Except by a rope from God and a rope from the people (Al Imran 3:112).

And the people of interpretation said something similar to what we said about that.

Who said that?

Yaqub bin Ibrahim told me, he said, Hisham told us, he said, Al-Awam told us, on the authority of Al-Sha'bi, on the authority of Abdullah bin Mas'ud, that he said regarding His statement: And hold fast, all together, to the rope of God, he said: the group.

Al-Muthanna told us, he said, Amr bin Awn told us, he said, Hisham told us, on the authority of Al-Awam, on the authority of Al-Sha'bi, on the authority of Abdullah, regarding his statement: And hold fast, all together, to the rope of God, he said: The rope of God is the group.

Others said: He meant by that the Qur'an and the covenant in which he made the covenant.

Who said that?

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: And hold fast, all together, to the rope of God, the strong rope of God that he commanded us to hold fast to: this is the Qur'an.

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said: Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said: Muammar told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: And hold fast, all together, to the rope of God, he said: to the covenant of God and His command.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Jarir told us, on the authority of Mansur, on the authority of Shaqiq, on the authority of Abdullah, he said: The path is full of devils, they call out: O servant of God, come this way! To turn people away from the path of God, so hold fast to the rope of God, for the rope of God is the Book of God.

Muhammad told us, Ahmad bin al-Mufaddal told us, on the authority of Asbat, on the authority of al-Suddi: And hold fast, all together, to the rope of God. As for the rope of God, it is the Book of God.

Muhammad bin Amr told me, he said, Abu Asim told us, on the authority of Isa, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid: By the rope of God, by the covenant of God.

Al-Qasim told us, he said, Al-Hussein told us, he said, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, on the authority of Ata': By the rope of God, he said: the covenant.

Abu Kuraib told us, he said, Waki' told us, on the authority of Al-A'mash, on the authority of Abu Wa'il, on the authority of Abdullah: And hold fast to the rope of God, he said: The rope of God, the Qur'an.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Ishaq told us, he said, Abu Zuhair told us, on the authority of Juwaybir, on the authority of Al-Dahhak, regarding his statement: And hold fast, all together, to the rope of God, he said: The Qur'an.

Saeed bin Yahya told us: Asbat bin Muhammad told us, on the authority of Abdul Malik bin Abi Sulayman Al-Arzami, on the authority of Atiyah, on the authority of Abu Saeed Al-Khudri, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The Book of God is the rope of God extended from heaven to earth."

Others said: Rather, it is the sincerity of monotheism to God.

Who said that?

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Ishaq told us, he said, Abdullah bin Abi Jaafar told us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-Rabi', on the authority of Abu Al-Aaliyah, regarding his statement: And hold fast,

Surat Al Imran 3:103

And hold fast to the rope of God all together and do not be divided. And remember the favor of God upon you - when you were enemies and He united your hearts and you became, by His favor, brothers. And you were on the brink of a pit of Fire and He saved you from it. Thus does God make clear to you His verses that you may be guided.

all together, to the rope of God, he said: Hold fast to sincerity to God alone.

Yunus told me, he said, Ibn Wahb told us, he said, Ibn Zayd said regarding His statement: And hold fast, all together, to the rope of God, he said: The rope is Islam. And he recited: And do not be divided.

Abu Ja'far said: He, may His praise be exalted, meant by His saying: And do not be divided, and do not be divided from the religion of God and His covenant that He entrusted to you in His Book, of unity and gathering in obedience to Him and to obedience to His Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, and adhering to his command, as:

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada: And do not be divided, and remember the favor of God upon you, for God, the Almighty, has hated division for you, and has presented it to you, and warned you against it, and has forbidden you from it, and has approved for you obedience, harmony, and community, so be satisfied for yourselves with what God has approved for you if you are able, and there is no power except with God.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Ishaq told us, he said, Abdullah bin Abi Jaafar told us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-Rabi', on the authority of Abi Al-Aaliyah: And do not be divided, do not be hostile to him, he says: on sincerity to God, and be brothers in him.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Abdullah bin Saleh told us, he said, Muawiyah bin Saleh told me: Al-Awza'i told him, Yazid Al-Raqashi told him that he heard Anas bin Malik say: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The Children of Israel split into seventy-one sects, and my nation will split into seventy-two sects, all of them in Hell except one. It was said: O Messenger of God, what is this one? He said: He closed his hand and said: The group, "And hold fast to the rope of God all together and do not become divided."

Abdul Karim bin Abi Umair told me, he said, Al-Walid bin Muslim told us, he said, I heard Al-Awza'i narrating, on the authority of Yazid Al-Raqashi, on the authority of Anas bin Malik, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, something similar.

Abu Kuraib told us, he said, Al-Maharibi told us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Khalid, on the authority of Al-Sha'bi, on the authority of Thabit bin Qutbah Al-Madani, on the authority of Abdullah, that he said: O people, adhere to obedience and congregation, for it is the rope of God that He has commanded, and what you dislike in congregation and obedience is better than what you like in division.

Abdul Hamid bin Bayan Al-Sakari told us, he said, Muhammad bin Yazid told us, on the authority of Ismail bin Abi Khalid, on the authority of Al-Sha'bi, on the authority of Thabit bin Qataba, he said: I heard Ibn Masoud while he was giving a sermon and he was saying: O people, then he mentioned something similar.

Ismail bin Hafs Al-Abli told us, he said, Abdullah bin Numayr Abu Hisham told us, he said, Mujalid bin Saeed told us, on the authority of Amer, on the authority of Thabit bin Qataba Al-Madani, he said: Abdullah said: You must obey and adhere to the group, for it is the rope of God that He commanded, then he mentioned something similar.

Abu Jaafar said: What he meant by the words of God Almighty: And remember the favor of God upon you, is remember what God has bestowed upon you of harmony and unity in Islam.

The Arab scholars differed regarding his saying: When you were enemies, He brought your hearts together.

Some of the grammarians of Basra said about this: The speech stopped at his saying: And remember the favor of God upon you, then he explained it by saying: And He brought your hearts together, and he informed of what they were in before the bringing together, just as you say: He held the wall from leaning.

Some grammarians of Kufa said that his statement, When you were enemies, He brought your hearts together, followed his statement, And remember the favor of God upon you, without being interrupted by it.

Abu Ja'far said: The correct statement in this regard, in my opinion, is that his statement, When you were enemies, He brought your hearts together, is connected to his statement, And remember the favor of God upon you, and is not disconnected from it.

The interpretation of this is: And remember, O believers, the blessing of God upon you which He bestowed upon you, when you were enemies in your polytheism, killing one another out of tribalism, not in obedience to God or to His Messenger. Then God united your hearts through Islam, making some of you brothers to others after you had been enemies, communicating with one another through the love of Islam and the unification of your word upon it, as:

Bishr told us, Yazid told us, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: And remember the favor of God upon you - when you were enemies and He brought your hearts together, you were slaughtering one another therein, the strong among you eating the weak, until God brought Islam and made brotherhood between you through it, and brought you together through it. By God, there is no god but Him, love is indeed mercy, and separation is indeed torment.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Ishaq told us, he said, Ibn Abi Ja'far told us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-Rabi', regarding his statement: And remember the favor of God upon you when you were enemies, some of you killed others, and your strong consumed your weak, until God brought Islam and united you through it, and united your people upon it, and made you brothers upon it.

Abu Ja'far said: The blessing that God bestowed upon the Ansar, which He, the Most High, commanded them to mention in this verse, is the unity of Islam, and their unification upon it, and the enmity that was between them, of which God, the Most High, the Most Great, said: When you were enemies, for it is the enmity of the wars that were between the two tribes of Aws and Khazraj in the pre-Islamic era. The scholars of the days of the Arabs claim that it lasted between them for twenty and one hundred years, as:

Ibn Hamid told us, Salamah told us, Ibn Ishaq said: The war between the Aws and the Khazraj lasted one hundred and twenty years, until Islam came while they were still like that. Their war was between them, and they were brothers from the same father and mother. It has never been heard of a people who had such enmity and war between them as they had. Then God Almighty extinguished that with Islam, and united them through His Messenger Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace.

So He, the Most High, mentioned to them when He admonished them, the greatness of what they had been through in their ignorance of affliction and misery due to their hostility towards one another, their killing of one another, and their fear of one another, and what they had come to through Islam and following the Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, and believing in him and in what he brought, of unity and gathering, and their security from one another, and their becoming brothers to one another. The reason for that was what:

Ibn Humayd narrated to us, he said: Salamah narrated to us, he said: Ibn Ishaq narrated to me, he said: Asim bin Umar bin Qatada Al-Madani narrated to us, on the authority of elders from his people, they said: Suwaid bin Samit, the brother of Banu Amr bin Auf, came to Mecca for Hajj or Umrah. He said: Suwaid was called by his people among themselves: Al-Kamil, for his skin, his hair, his lineage and his honor. He said: When the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, heard about him, he approached him and called him to God Almighty and to Islam. Suwaid said to him: Perhaps what you have is like what I have! He said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to him: What do you have with you? He said: The Journal of Luqman - meaning: The Wisdom of Luqman - so the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Show it to me. So he showed it to him, and he said: This is good speech, but I have something better than this, a Qur'an that God revealed to me, guidance and light. He said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, recited the Qur'an to him and called him to Islam. He did not turn away from him and said: This is indeed a good statement! Then he turned away from him and went to Medina. It was not long before the Khazraj killed him. His people would say: He was killed while he was a Muslim. He was killed before the day of Bu'ath.

Ibn Humayd narrated, Salamah narrated, on the authority of Muhammad ibn Ishaq, who said, Al-Husayn ibn Abd al-Rahman ibn Amr ibn Sa'd ibn Mu'adh, one of Banu Abd al-Ashhal, narrated to me: Mahmud ibn Labid, one of Banu Abd al-Ashhal, said: When Abu al-Haysir Anas ibn Rafi' came to Mecca, accompanied by young men from Banu Abd al-Ashhal, among whom was Iyas ibn Mu'adh, seeking an alliance from Quraysh against their people from the Khazraj, the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, heard of them. He came to them and sat with them and said: Do you have something better than what you have come for? They said: What is that? He said: I am the Messenger of God. He sent me to the servants to call them to God, to worship God and not to associate anything with Him, and the Book was revealed to me. Then he mentioned Islam to them and recited the Qur'an to them. Iyas ibn Mu'adh, who was a young boy, said: O people, this, by God, is better than what you have come for! He said: Abu Al-Haysir Anas bin Rafi took a handful of sand from the plain and hit Iyas bin Muadh with it and said: Leave me alone, by God we came for something other than this! Iyas bin Muadh remained silent, and the Messenger of God (peace be upon him) stood up and left them, and they returned to Madinah. Then the Battle of Buath took place between the Aws and the Khazraj. He said: Then Iyas bin Muadh died shortly after. He said: When God willed to make His religion prevail, to honor His Prophet (peace be upon him), and to fulfill His promise to him, the Messenger of God (peace be upon him) went out during the season in which he met the group of the Ansar, introducing himself to the tribes of the Arabs, as he did every season. While he was at Al-Aqabah, he met a group of the Khazraj for whom God wanted good.

Ibn Humayd said, Salamah said, Muhammad ibn Ishaq said, Asim ibn Umar ibn Qatada told me on the authority of elders from his people who said: When the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, met them, he said to them: Who are you? They said: A group of Khazraj. He said: Are you from the clients of the Jews? They said: Yes. He said: Will you not sit down so that I may speak to you? They said: Yes! He said: So they sat down with him, and he called them to God, and presented Islam to them, and recited the Qur'an to them. He said: Among the things that God did for them in Islam was that the Jews were with them in their land, and they were people of the Book and knowledge, and they were polytheists who worshipped idols, and they had invaded their land. So whenever something happened between them, they would say to them: A prophet has just been sent, and his time has come, so we will follow him and kill you with him as the people of 'Aad and Iram were killed! So when the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, spoke to those men and called them to God, the Almighty, some of them said to one another: O my people, by God, you know that he is the prophet that the Jews promised you, so do not let him get to him before you! They responded to what he called them to, by believing him and accepting what he offered them of Islam, and they said to him: We have left our people and there is no people among them as much enmity and evil as among them, and perhaps God will unite them with you, and we will go to them and call them to your command, and we will offer them what we responded to you to of this religion, and if God unites them upon it, then no man is more honorable than you. Then they turned away from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, returning to their country, having believed and believed, and they were, as I was told, six men. He said: When they came to Medina to their people, they mentioned the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, to them, and called them to Islam until it spread among them, and there was not a house of the Ansar except that there was mention of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, in it. Then, when the next year came, twelve men from the Ansar arrived at the season, and they met him at Al-Aqabah, which is the first Aqabah. They pledged allegiance to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, on the pledge of allegiance of women, and that was before war was made obligatory upon them.

And hold fast to the rope of God all together and do not be divided. And remember the favor of God upon you - when you were enemies and He united your hearts and you became, by His favor, brothers. And you were on the brink of a pit of Fire and He saved you from it. Thus does God make clear to you His verses that you may be guided.

Al-Hasan bin Yahya narrated that Abd al-Razzaq narrated that Muammar narrated from Ayoub from Ikrimah that six men from the Ansar met the Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) and they believed in him and confirmed his truthfulness. He wanted to go with them, but they said: O Messenger of God, there is war between our people, and we fear that if you come in this state, what you want will not be achieved. So they promised him the following year and said: O Messenger of God, let us go, perhaps God will put this war right! He said: So they went and did so, and God the Almighty put this war right, and they thought that it would not be put right, and that was the day of Buath. So they met him the following year with seventy men who had believed, so he took twelve leaders over them, and that is when He says: And remember the favor of God upon you - when you were enemies and He brought your hearts together.

Muhammad bin Al-Hussein told me, he said, Ahmad bin Al-Mufaddal told us, he said, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi: As for when you were enemies, it was in the war of Ibn Sameer, He brought your hearts together, with Islam.

Al-Qasim narrated, Al-Husayn narrated, Abu Sufyan narrated, on the authority of Muammar, on the authority of Ayoub, on the authority of Ikrimah, in a similar manner, and he added to it: When what happened to Aisha happened, the two tribes clashed, and some of them said to others: Your meeting place is Al-Harrah! So they went out to her, and this verse was revealed: And remember the favor of God upon you - when you were enemies and He brought your hearts together so that by His favor you became brethren, the verse. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, came to them and continued reciting it to them until some of them embraced one another, and they even started to cry.

Samir, about whom al-Suddi claimed that his saying: When you were enemies meant his war, is Samir bin

Zaid bin Malik, one of the sons of Amr bin Awf, whom Malik bin al-Ajlan mentioned in his saying:

Sameer, I see that his clan has turned away from him and has become arrogant.

If my suspicions are true about the Banu Najjar, they did not covet what they had been fed.

The scholars of the Ansar mentioned: The beginning of the enmity that sparked the wars that took place between the two tribes, Aws and Khazraj, was due to the killing of a client of Malik bin Al-Ajlan Al-Khazraji called Al-Har bin Sameer from Muzaynah, who was an ally of Malik bin Al-Ajlan. Then that enmity continued between them until God extinguished it through His Prophet Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace. This is the meaning of Al-Suddi's statement: The war of Ibn Sameer.

As for his saying: And by His grace you have become brothers, he means: "And by God Almighty's bringing you together through Islam and the word of truth, and cooperation in supporting the people of faith, and supporting one another against those who oppose you from among the people of disbelief, you have become sincere brothers, with no grudges between you and no envy, as:

Bishr told me, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: "And you became, by His grace, brothers." And he mentioned to us that a man said to Ibn Masoud: How did you become? He said: We became, by the grace of God, brothers.

Abu Ja'far said: What He, the Most High, means by His statement, And you were on the brink of a pit of Fire, is that you, O group of believers, from the Aws and Khazraj, were on the edge of a pit of Fire. This is an example of their disbelief that they were upon before God guided them to Islam. God, the Most High, says: And you were on the edge of Hell because of your disbelief that you were upon before God bestowed His favor upon you with Islam, and you became brothers through your unity upon it, and there was nothing between you and falling into it except that you died upon that of your disbelief, and you would be among those who would abide therein eternally. But God saved you from it through the faith to which He guided you.

The edge of a hole is its edge and its edge, like the edge of a pond or a well. From this comes the saying of the rajaz poet:

We dug for the pilgrims a record of it growing above her lips with a herb Meaning: above its edge. It is said: this is the lip of this well, shortened, and they are its lips.

He said: Then He saved you from it, meaning He saved you from the pit. He returned the report to the pit, and he began the report about the cure, because the cure comes from the pit. So that was permissible, since the report about the cure, in the way that he mentioned it in this verse, was report about the pit, as Jarir ibn Atiyah said:

She saw the years passing by, they took from me as secrets are taken from the crescent moon.

He mentioned: The years passed, then he returned to the report about the years, as Al-Ajjaj said:

All the nights I hastened to spend my whole life

The reason for which this was said was also explained previously.

And the people of interpretation said something similar to what we said about this interpretation.

Who said that?

Bishr told us, Yazid told us, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: "And you were on the brink of a pit of Fire, and He saved you from it. Thus does God make clear to you His signs." This tribe of Arabs was the most humiliated of people, the most miserable in life, the most clearly astray, the most naked in skin, and the hungriest in stomachs, they were on a rocky peak between the two lions, Persia and Rome. By God, there was nothing in their land that day for which they could be envied. Whoever of them lived lived miserably, and whoever died was thrown into the Fire. They were eaten but did not eat. By God, we do not know of any tribe on that day from the inhabitants of the earth who had lesser fortune and lesser status than them, until God, the Almighty, brought Islam, and made the Book your inheritor, and made the abode of jihad lawful for you, and provided for you provisions, and made you kings over the necks of people. And through Islam God gave what you have seen, so be grateful for His blessings, for your Lord is a benefactor who loves the grateful, and the grateful are in God's abundance, so exalted is our Lord and blessed.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Ishaq told us, he said, Abdullah bin Abi Ja'far told us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-Rabi' bin Anas, regarding his statement: And you were on the brink of a pit of fire, meaning: you were disbelieving in God, and He saved you from it, from that, and guided you to Islam.

Muhammad ibn al-Husayn told us, Ahmad ibn al-Mufaddal told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of al-Suddi: And you were on the brink of a pit of fire, and He saved you from it, through Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace. He says: You were on the edge of the fire, whoever among you died would be cast into the fire, so God sent Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and He saved you through him from that pit.

Muhammad bin Al-Hussein told us, Ahmad bin Al-Mufaddal told us, Hassan bin Hayy told us: And you were on the brink of a pit of fire, and He saved you from it. He said: Partisanship.

Abu Ja'far said: By His saying, Likewise, He, the Most High, means that just as your Lord has made clear to you in these verses, O believers from the Aws and Khazraj, the rancor of the Jews that they hold for you, and their deception of you, and His command to you with what He commanded you to do therein, and His prohibition of you from what He prohibited you from, and the state that you were in during your ignorance, and the state that you have reached in your Islam, He made you aware in all of that of the places of His blessings before you and His favors upon you, so likewise He makes clear the rest of His proofs to you in His revelation and on the tongue of His Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, that you may be guided, meaning: that you may be guided to the path of righteousness and follow it, and not go astray from it.

There are two issues:

The first: The Almighty's saying: And hold fast. Protection is fortification, and from this the word badhraqa is called asma. And badhraqa means guarding the caravan, by sending with it someone to protect it from anyone who might harm it. Ibn Khalawayh said: Badhraqa is not an Arabic word, but rather it is a Persian word that the Arabs Arabized. It is said: The sultan sent badhraqa with the caravan.

The word rope is a common word, and its origin in the language is the cause by which one reaches a goal or need. The rope is the neck rope. The rope is a rectangle of sand, and from it the hadith: "By God, I did not leave a rope without stopping on it. Is there any Hajj for me?" The rope is the halter. The rope is the covenant. Al-A'sha said:

If the ropes of a tribe cross it, it will take its ropes from the other tribe to you.

He wants safety. And the rope is tricky. Katheer said:

So, do not rush, Ezz, to understand, whether the advice comes from informers or from ropes.

And the rope: the hunter's snare. None of them are intended in the verse except the one with the meaning of the covenant, on the authority of Ibn Abbas. Ibn Masoud said: The rope of God is the Qur'an. "And Ali and Abu Saeed Al-Khudri narrated it on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and on the authority of Mujahid and Qatadah, similarly. Abu Muawiyah narrated on the authority of Al-Hijri on the authority of Abu Al-Ahwas on the authority of Abdullah, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: This Qur'an is a rope." And Baqi bin Mukhallad narrated, Yahya bin Abdul Hamid narrated to us, Hisham narrated to us on the authority of Al-Awam bin Hawshab on the authority of Al-Sha'bi on the authority of Abdullah bin Masoud, And hold fast, all together, to the rope of God, and do not be divided, he said: the group. It was narrated on his authority and others from various sources, and the meaning is all close and intertwined, for God the Most High commands harmony and forbids division, for division is destruction, while the group is salvation. May God have mercy on Ibn Al-Mubarak when he said:

The community is the rope of God, so hold fast to His

Surat Al Imran 3:103

And hold fast to the rope of God all together and do not be divided. And remember the favor of God upon you - when you were enemies and He united your hearts and you became, by His favor, brothers. And you were on the brink of a pit of Fire and He saved you from it. Thus does God make clear to you His verses that you may be guided.

firmest handhold for those who are close to Him.

Second: The Almighty's statement: And do not be divided means in your religion as the Jews and Christians were divided in their religions, according to Ibn Mas'ud and others. It is possible that its meaning is do not be divided, following whims and different purposes, and be brothers in the religion of God, so that this would prevent them from estrangement and discord, and what follows it indicates this, which is the Almighty's statement: And remember God's favor upon you - when you were enemies and He brought your hearts together and you became, by His favor, brethren. There is no evidence in it for the prohibition of differing in branches of knowledge, for that is not a difference, since the difference is that which makes it impossible to unite and bring together. As for the ruling on matters of ijihad, the difference in them is due to the extraction of obligations and the subtleties of the meanings of the Shari'ah, and the Companions continued to differ in the rulings on incidents, and despite that they were united. "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The difference of my nation is a mercy," and God only forbade a difference that is the cause of corruption. Al-Tirmidhi narrated on the authority of Abu Hurayrah may God be pleased with him that the Messenger of God (blessings and peace of God be upon him) said: The Jews split into seventy-one or seventy-two sects, and the Christians are the same, and my nation will split into seventy-three sects. Al-Tirmidhi said: This is a saheeh hadith. He also narrated it on the authority of Ibn Amr, who said: The Messenger of God (blessings and peace of God be upon him) said: What happened to the Children of Israel will happen to my nation, step by step, to the point that if there was one among them who had sexual intercourse with his mother openly, there would be one among my nation who would do that. The Children of Israel will split into seventy-two sects, and my nation will split into seventy-three sects, all of them in the Fire except one sect. They said: Who is it, O Messenger of God? He said: What I and my companions follow. He narrated it on the authority of Abdullah bin Ziyad Al-Ifriqi, on the authority of Abdullah bin Yazid on the authority of Ibn Amr, and he said: This is a hasan gharib hadith, we do not know it except from this source. Abu Omar said: Abdullah Al-Ifriqi is trustworthy, his people trust him and praised him, but others weakened him. "Abu Dawud included it in his Sunan on the authority of Muawiyah ibn Abi Sufyan on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace: He said: Verily, those who came before you from the People of the Book split into seventy-two sects, and this sect will split into seventy-three, seventy-two in Hell and one in Paradise, which is the group. And there will emerge from my nation people who will be traded by those desires as a dog trades with its owner, and there will not remain a vein or joint of him except that it enters it." And in Sunan Ibn Majah: On the authority of Anas ibn Malik, he said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever departs this world with sincerity to God alone and worshipping Him with no partner, and establishes prayer and gives zakat, he dies with God pleased with him." Anas said: It is the religion of God that the Messengers brought and conveyed from their Lord before the chaos of hadiths and the difference of desires, and the confirmation of that is in the Book of God in the last of what was revealed. God says: But if they repent meaning: they give up idols and their worship, and establish prayer and give zakah (al-Tawbah 9:5). And He said in another verse: But if they repent and establish prayer and give zakah, then they are your brothers in religion (al-Tawbah 9:11). Narrated by Nasr bin Ali Al-Jahdhami from Abu Ahmad from Abu Jaafar Al-Razi from Al-Rabi bin Anas from Anas. Abu Al-Faraj Al-Jawzi said: If it is said that these sects are known, then the answer is that we know the division and the origins of the sects and that each group of the sects was divided into sects, even if we do not know the names of those sects and their doctrines, the origins of the sects have become clear to us: the Haruriyyah, the Qadariyyah, the Jahmiyyah, the Murji'ah, the Rafidah, and the Jabriyah. Some scholars said: The origin of the deviant sects is these six sects, and each sect divided into twelve sects, so they became seventy-two sects. The Haruriyyah divided into twelve sects, the first of which was the Azraqiyyah - they said: We do not know anyone who is a believer, and they disbelieved the people of the Qiblah except for those who follow their saying. The Ibadis - they said: Whoever follows our saying is a believer, and whoever turns away from it is a hypocrite. The Tha'labiyyah - they said: God Almighty did not decree or predestine. The Khazimiyyah - they said: We do not know what faith is, and all creation is excused. The Khalifiyyah - they claimed that whoever abandons jihad, whether male or female, is a disbeliever. The Kuziyyah - they said: No one has the right to touch anyone because he does not know what is pure from what is impure, nor to eat with him until he repents and washes himself. The Kanziyyah - they said: No one has the right to give his money to anyone, because he may not deserve it, but he should hoard it in the earth until the people of truth appear. Al-Shamrakhiyyah said: There is nothing wrong with touching foreign women because they are fragrant flowers. Al-Akhnasiyyah said: Neither good nor evil can reach the dead after his death. Al-Hakimiyyah said: Whoever rules over a creature is an infidel. Al-Mu'tazilah said: The matter of Ali and Mu'awiyah was confused for us, so we disavow both groups. Al-Maymuniyyah said: There is no Imam except with the approval of those who love us.

The Qadarites were divided into twelve sects: The Ahmarites - who claimed that one of the conditions of justice from God is that He controls His servants' affairs and prevents them from committing sins. The Dualists - who claimed that good is from God and evil is from Satan. The Mu'tazilites - who said that the Qur'an was created and denied the attributes of Lordship. The Kaysaniites - who said: We do not know whether these actions are from God or from His servants, and we do not know whether people will be rewarded or punished. The Shaytanites - who said: God Almighty did not create Satan. The Shuraikiites - who said: All evil deeds are predestined except for disbelief. The Wahmiyya - who said: The actions and speech of creation have no essence, nor do good and evil have an essence. The Zubarites - who said: Every book that was sent down from God is true to act upon, whether it was abrogating or abrogated. The Mas'udiyya - who claimed that whoever disobeys and then repents, his repentance is not accepted. The Nakithiyah claimed that whoever breaks the pledge of allegiance to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, is not sinful. The Qastiyah followed Ibrahim ibn al-Nazzam in his statement: Whoever claims that God is a thing is an infidel. The Jahmites were divided into twelve sects: The Mu'attilah claimed that everything that human imagination falls upon is created, and that whoever claims that God is seen is an infidel. The Marisiyah said: Most of the attributes of God are created. The Multazaqah made the Creator, glory be to Him, in every place. The Waridiyyah said: Whoever knows his Lord will not enter Hell, and whoever enters it will never leave it. The Zanadiqa said: No one has the right to prove a Lord for himself, because proof can only be after perception by the senses, and what cannot be perceived cannot be proven. The Hariqiyah claimed that the infidel is burned by the Fire once and then remains burned forever, never feeling the heat of the Fire. The Makhluqiyah claimed that the Qur'an is created. The Faniyyah claimed that Paradise and Hell will perish, and some of them said that they were not created. The Abdiyyah - they denied the messengers and said: They are only wise men. The Waqifiyyah - they said: We do not say that the Qur'an is created or uncreated. The Qabriyyah - they deny the torment of the grave and intercession. The Lafdiyyah - they said: Our utterance of the Qur'an is created.

The Murji'ah were divided into twelve sects: The Tarkiyah - they said that God Almighty has no obligation upon His creation except belief in Him, so whoever believes in Him can do whatever he wants. The Sa'ibiyyah - they said that God Almighty has left His creation to do whatever they want. The Rajayyah - they said that the obedient is not called obedient nor the disobedient disobedient, because we do not know what he has with God Almighty. The Salibiyyah - they said that obedience is not part of faith. The Bahishiyyah - they said that faith is knowledge, and whoever does not know the truth from falsehood and the lawful from the unlawful is a disbeliever. The 'Amalah - they said that faith is an action. The Manqusiyyah - they said that faith neither increases nor decreases. The Musta'niyyah - they said that exception is from faith. The Mushabbihah - they said that sight is like sight and hand is like hand. The Hashawiyyah - they said that the ruling of all the hadiths is the same, so according to them, the one who abandons the voluntary act is like the one who abandons the obligatory act. The Dhahiriyyah - who denied analogy. The Bid'iyyah - they were the first to innovate these hadiths in this nation.

The Rafidah were divided into twelve sects: The Alawites - they said: The message was to Ali and Gabriel made a mistake. The Amariyyah - they said: Ali is Muhammad's partner in his command. The Shiites - they said: Ali, may God be pleased with him, is the successor of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his guardian after him, and the nation has disbelieved by pledging allegiance to anyone other than him. The Ishaqiyyah - they said: The prophethood is continuous until the Day of Resurrection, and everyone who knows the knowledge of the Ahl al-Bayt is a prophet. The Nawusiyyah - they said: Ali is the best of the nation, so whoever prefers anyone other than him has disbelieved. The Imamiyyah - they said: The world cannot exist without an Imam from the descendants of al-Husayn, and the Imam is taught by Gabriel, peace be upon him, and when he dies, someone else is replaced in his place. The Zaidiyyah - they said: The descendants of al-Husayn are all Imams in prayers, so if one of them is found, it is not permissible to pray behind anyone other than them, whether they are righteous or wicked. The Abbasids - they claimed that al-Abbas was more deserving of the caliphate than anyone else. Reincarnationists - they said: Souls reincarnate, so whoever was a good person, his soul leaves and enters another creation that will live happily. Regressive - they claimed that Ali and his companions will return to the world and take revenge on their enemies. Cursing - they curse Uthman, Talha, Al-Zubayr, Muawiyah, Abu Musa, Aisha and others. The lying in wait - they imitate the dress of ascetics and in every era they appoint a man to whom they attribute the matter, they claim that he is the Mahdi of this nation, and when he dies they appoint another.

Then the Jabriyyah were divided into twelve sects: The Mudariyyah - they said: There is no action for man, rather God does everything. The Af'aliyyah - they said: We have actions but we have no power over them, rather we are like animals led by a rope. The Mufraghiyyah - they said: All things were created, and now nothing is created. The Najjariyyah - they claimed that God punishes people for His actions, not their actions. The Mananiyyah - they said: Do what comes to your heart, so do what you think is good. The Kasbiyyah - they said: The servant does not earn reward or punishment. The Sabqiyyah - they said: Whoever wants to do, let him work, and whoever wants to do not, let him not work, for the happy person is not harmed by his sins, and the wretched person is not benefited by his righteousness. The Habibiyyah - they said: Whoever drinks the cup of God's love, the worship of the pillars is dropped from him. The Khawfiyyah - they said: Whoever loves God, the Most High, cannot fear Him, because the beloved does not fear his beloved. Intellectuals - they said: Whoever increases in knowledge, he will be exempted from the amount of worship that he deserves.

Al-Khashabiyyah - They said: The world is equal among the servants, there is no differentiation between them in what their father Adam inherited from them. Al-Manyah - They said: The action is from us and the ability is for us. The statement of the division that increased in this nation will come at the end of Surah Al-An'am, God willing. Ibn Abbas said to Samak Al-Hanafi: O Hanafi, the group, the group!! The nations of the past were destroyed because of their division.

And hold fast to the rope of God all together and do not be divided. And remember the favor of God upon you - when you were enemies and He united your hearts and you became, by His favor, brothers. And you were on the brink of a pit of Fire and He saved you from it. Thus does God make clear to you His verses that you may be guided.

Have you not heard God the Almighty say: And hold fast, all together, to the rope of God, and be not divided? And in Sahih Muslim: "On the authority of Abu Hurairah, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Verily, God is pleased with three things for you and dislikes three things for you. He is pleased with you that you worship Him and do not associate anything with Him, and that you hold fast, all together, to the rope of God, and do not be divided. And He dislikes three things for you: It was said: He said: And excessive questioning and wasting money." So God the Almighty has made it obligatory upon us to adhere to His Book and the Sunnah of His Prophet and to refer to them when there is a difference of opinion. He has commanded us to unite in holding fast to the Book and the Sunnah in belief and action. This is the reason for the agreement of the word and the organization of the dispersion by which the interests of this world and the religion are completed, and safety from difference. He has commanded unity and forbade the division that occurred to the People of the Two Books. This is the meaning of the verse in full, and it contains evidence of the validity of consensus as mentioned in its place in the principles of jurisprudence, and God knows best.

God the Almighty said: "And remember the favor of God upon you - when you were enemies and He brought your hearts together so that by His favor you became brethren. And you were on the brink of a pit of Fire and He saved you from it." God the Almighty commanded us to remember His favors, the greatest of which is Islam and following His Prophet Muhammad, peace be upon him, for through it enmity and division were removed and love and harmony were established. What is meant are the Aws and the Khazraj, and the verse is general. The meaning of so that by His favor you became brethren is that by the favor of Islam you became brothers in religion. Everything in the Qur'an that is became means you became, like the Almighty's saying: If your water were to become sunken (al-Mulk 67:30) meaning it became sunken. Ikhwan is the plural of brother, and he was called brother because he seeks the path of his brother, i.e. he intends him. Shafa is everything that is its deviation, and so is its edge, and from this is the saying of God the Almighty: On the brink of a crumbling precipice (al-Tawbah 9:109). The rajaz poet said:

We dug a record for the pilgrims, a plant growing above her lips

And to be on the lookout for something means to be on the lookout for it, and from this comes the word ashfa which means to make a patient on the verge of death. And there is nothing left of it except a little means a little. Ibn al-Sikkit said: It is said of a man when he dies, or of the moon when it is extinguished, or of the sun when it sets: there is nothing left of it except a little means a little. Al-Ajjaj said:

And a high rank for those who have been honored by it, whether with or without healing.

His saying, Without healing, means the sun has set. Or with healing, and some of it remains. It is one of the words with a ya', and in language it is from the waw. An-Nahhas said: The root of shafa is shafu, and for this reason it is written with an alif and is not inclined. Al-Akhfash said: Since inclination is not permissible in it, it is known that it is from the waw, and because inclination is between the ya' and its dual shafwan. Al-Mahdawi said: This is a metaphor that means their exit from disbelief to faith.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

Ibn Abi Hatim said: Ahmad bin Sinan told us, Abd al-Rahman told us, on the authority of Sufyan and Shu'bah, on the authority of Zubayd al-Yami, on the authority of Marra, on the authority of Abdullah, who is Ibn Mas'ud, Fear God as He should be feared. He said: That He should be obeyed and not disobeyed, that He should be remembered and not forgotten, and that He should be thanked and not ungrateful. This is a sound, suspended chain of transmission. Marra was followed by 'Amr bin Maymun on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud. Ibn Mardawayh narrated it from the hadith of Yunus bin 'Abd al-'A'la, on the authority of Ibn Wahb, on the authority of Sufyan al-Thawri, on the authority of Zubayd, on the authority of Marra, on the authority of Abdullah, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Fear God as He should be feared: that He should be obeyed and not disobeyed, that He should be thanked and not ungrateful, and that He should be remembered and not forgotten.'" Al-Hakim also narrated it in his Mustadrak from the hadith of Mus'ar, on the authority of Zubayd, on the authority of Marra, on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud, with a chain of transmission traceable back to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace. He mentioned it, then said: It is sound according to the conditions of the two sheikhs, and it was not... They both narrated it, and this is what he said, and it is more apparent that it is suspended, and God knows best. Then Ibn Abi Hatim said: Something similar was narrated from Marra Al-Hamadani, Al-Rabi' bin Khathim, Amr bin Maymun, Ibrahim Al-Nakha'i, Tawus, Al-Hasan, Qatadah, Abu Sinan, and Al-Suddi, and something similar to that. It was narrated from Anas that he said: A servant does not fear God as He should be feared until he controls his tongue. Saeed bin Jubair, Abu Al-Aaliyah, Al-Rabi' bin Anas, Qatadah, Muqatil bin Hayyan, Zaid bin Aslam, Al-Suddi, and others said that this verse was abrogated by the words of God the Most High: So fear God as much as you are able. And Ali bin Abi Talhah said from Ibn Abbas regarding the words of God the Most High: Fear God as He should be feared, he said: It was not abrogated, but the right to fear Him is that they strive in His cause as He should be striven in, and the blame of a blamer should not deter them in God's cause, and they stand up for justice even if it is against themselves, their fathers, and their children. And the Almighty's saying: And do not die except as Muslims means, preserve Islam while you are healthy and safe so that you die upon it, for the Generous One has made it a habit in His generosity that whoever lives upon something dies upon it, and whoever dies upon something will be resurrected upon it, so we seek refuge in God from anything other than that.

Imam Ahmad said: Ruh told us, Shu'bah told us, he said: I heard Sulayman from Mujahid: The people were circumambulating the House and Ibn Abbas was sitting with Muhajjan, so he said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'O you who believe! Fear God as He should be feared and do not die except as Muslims.' If a drop of Zaqqum were to fall, it would make the lives of the people of the earth miserable, so how about someone who has no food except Zaqqum?" And thus it was narrated by Al-Tirmidhi, Al-Nasa'i, Ibn Majah, Ibn Hibban in his Sahih, and Al-Hakim in his Mustadrak through various chains of narration on the authority of Shu'bah. Al-Tirmidhi said: Hasan Sahih, and Al-Hakim said: It meets the conditions of the two sheikhs, but they did not include it.

Imam Ahmad said: Waki' told us, Al-A'mash told us, on the authority of Zaid bin Wahb, on the authority of Abd al-Rahman bin Abd Rabb al-Ka'bah, on the authority of Abdullah bin Amr, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Whoever would like to be saved from the Fire and enter Paradise, let death overtake him while he believes in God and the Last Day, and he treats people as he would like to be treated.'"

Imam Ahmad also said: Abu Muawiyah told us, Al-A'mash told us, on the authority of Abu Sufyan, on the authority of Jabir, who said: "I heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say three things before his death: 'None of you should die except while having good thoughts about God, the Almighty.'" Muslim narrated it on the authority of Al-A'mash on his authority. Imam Ahmad said: Hasan bin Musa told us, Ibn Lahi'ah told us, Abu Yunus told us, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, on the authority of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, that "God said: 'I am as My servant thinks I am. If he thinks good of Me, then he will have it, and if he thinks evil of Me, then he will have it.'" The origin of this hadith is proven in the two Sahih from another chain of narration on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'God says: I am as My servant thinks I am.'"

Al-Hafiz Abu Bakr al-Bazzar said: Muhammad ibn Abd al-Malik al-Qurashi told us, Ja'far ibn Sulayman told us, on the authority of Thabit, and I think it was on the authority of Anas, who said: "A man from the Ansar was sick, so the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, came to visit him. He met him in the market and greeted him. He said to him: How are you, so-and-so? He said: I am fine, O Messenger of God. I hope in God and I fear my sins. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: These two things do not come together in the heart of a servant in this situation except that God gives him what he hopes for and makes him safe from what he fears." Then he said: We do not know of anyone who narrated it on the authority of Thabit other than Ja'far ibn Sulayman, and this is how al-Tirmidhi, al-Nasa'i and Ibn Majah narrated it from his hadith. Then al-Tirmidhi said: It is strange, and some of them narrated it on the authority of Thabit as a mural. As for the hadith narrated by Imam Ahmad: Muhammad ibn Ja'far told us, Shu'bah told us on the authority of Abu Bishr, on the authority of Yusuf ibn Mahak, on the authority of Hakim ibn Hizam, who said: I pledged allegiance to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, that I would not delay except standing. And he narrated it. Al-Nasa'i in his Sunan on the authority of Ismail bin Masoud on the authority of Khalid bin Al-Harith on the authority of Shu'bah on his authority, and he translated it and said Chapter on how he prostrates, then he cited something similar to it and it was said: Its meaning is that I will not die except as a Muslim, and it was said: Its meaning is that I will not be killed except facing forward and not turning away, and it goes back to the first.

And the Almighty's saying: And hold fast, all together, to the rope of God and be not divided. It was said, by the rope of God, meaning by the covenant of God, as He said in the verse after it, Humiliation has been imposed upon them wherever they are found, except by a rope from God and a rope from the people, meaning by a covenant and protection. And it was said, by the rope of God, meaning the Qur'an, as in the hadith of Al-Harith Al-A'war on the authority of Ali, with a chain of transmission traceable to the Prophet, describing the Qur'an as the strong rope of God and His straight path.

A specific hadith was reported regarding this meaning. Imam Al-Hafiz Abu Jaafar Al-Tabari said: Saeed bin Yahya Al-Umawi told us, Asbat bin Muhammad told us, on the authority of Abdul Malik bin Abi Sulayman Al-Arzami, on the authority of Atiyah, on the authority of Abu Saeed, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The Book of God is the rope of God extended from the heavens to the earth."

Ibn Mardawayh narrated on the authority of Ibrahim bin Muslim Al-Hijri on the authority of Abu Al-Ahwas on the authority of Abdullah, may God be pleased with him, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: This Qur'an is the strong rope of God, and it is the clear light, and it is the beneficial healing, a protection for whoever holds fast to it, and salvation for whoever follows it." He narrated something similar on the authority of Hudhayfah and Zayd bin Arqam. Waki' said: Al-A'mash told us on the authority of Abu Wa'il who said: Abdullah said: This path is at risk and the devils visit it. O Abdullah, this is the path, come to the path and hold fast to the rope of God, for the rope of God is the Qur'an.

And His saying: And do not be divided He ordered them to be united and forbade them from division. There are many hadiths that forbid division and

And hold fast to the rope of God all together and do not be divided. And remember the favor of God upon you - when you were enemies and He united your hearts and you became, by His favor, brothers. And you were on the brink of a pit of Fire and He saved you from it. Thus does God make clear to you His verses that you may be guided.

command them to come together and unite, as in Sahih Muslim from the hadith of Suhayl ibn Abi Salih, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Abu Hurairah, that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "God is pleased with you with three things and is displeased with you with three things. He is pleased with you that you worship Him and do not associate anything with Him, that you hold fast to the rope of God all together and do not become divided, and that you advise whomever God has appointed over you. And He is displeased with you with three things: gossip, asking too many questions, and wasting money." And He guaranteed them infallibility when they agree from error, as also mentioned in many hadiths. And it was feared that they would separate and differ, and that happened in this nation, so they split into seventy-three sects, one of which is a sect that will be saved to Paradise and safe from the punishment of Hell, and they are those who follow what the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his companions were upon.

And the Almighty said: And remember the favor of God upon you - when you were enemies and He brought your hearts together, and you became, by His favor, brothers to the end of the verse. This context is about the Aws and Khazraj, for there had been many wars between them in the pre-Islamic era, and intense enmity, grudges, hatred, and discord, because of which their fighting and incidents between them had been prolonged. Then when God brought Islam, and those of them who entered it entered it, they became brothers who loved one another for the glory of God, connected for the sake of God, cooperating in righteousness and piety. God the Almighty said: "It is He who supported you with His victory and with the believers * And brought their hearts together. Had you spent all that is in the earth, you could not have brought their hearts together, but God brought their hearts together" to the end of the verse. They were on the brink of a pit of fire because of their disbelief, so God saved them from it by guiding them to faith. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, bestowed this favor upon them on the day when he divided the spoils of Hunayn, so he rebuked those of them who rebuked him, because of what he had given them in the division, because of what God had shown him, so he addressed them. He said: "O group of Ansar, did I not find you astray and God guided you through me? And you were divided and God united you through me, and poor and God enriched you through me? So whenever he said something, they said: God and His Messenger believe." Muhammad bin Ishaq bin Yasar and others mentioned that this verse was revealed regarding the Aws and Khazraj. A Jewish man passed by a group of Aws and Khazraj, and he was displeased with their agreement and harmony, so he sent a man with him and ordered him to sit among them and remind them of their wars on the day of Bu'ath and those wars. He did so, and that remained his habit until the people's souls became heated, and some of them became angry with each other, and they rebelled and called out their slogans and demanded their weapons and threatened to go to Al-Harrah. This reached the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, so he came to them and began to calm them down, saying: Is it the call of ignorance while I am among you? And he recited this verse to them, so they regretted what they had done and reconciled and embraced and laid down their weapons, may God be pleased with them. Ikrimah mentioned that this was revealed about them when they argued about the slander case, and God knows best.

His saying 103- And hold fast, all together, to the rope of God." The rope is a common word, and its origin in the language is the reason by which one reaches the goal, and it is either a metaphor or a representation. God, the Almighty, commanded them to unite in adhering to the religion of Islam or the Qur'an, and forbade them from division resulting from differences in religion, then He commanded them to remember God's blessing upon them and explained to them from this blessing what was appropriate for the situation, which is that they were enemies who differed in killing each other and plundering each other, so because of this blessing they became brothers and they were on the brink of a pit of fire because of their disbelief, so God saved them from this pit with Islam. The meaning of His saying "you have become" is you have become, and it is not intended to mean its original meaning: which is entering the time of morning, and the shafa of everything is its edge and so is its edge, and asfa on something: it overlooks it, and it is a representation of the state they were in during the time of ignorance. His saying, Likewise, is an indication of the source of the verb that follows it: that is, like that eloquent statement, God makes clear to you. His saying, So that you may be guided, is guidance for them to remain steadfast in guidance and increase in it.

Ibn Ishaq, Ibn Jarir, Ibn Al-Mundhir, Ibn Abi Hatim, and Abu Al-Sheikh narrated on the authority of Zaid bin Aslam, who said: Shas bin Qais passed by. He was an old man who had been a great disbeliever in the pre-Islamic era, and he was very harsh towards the Muslims and very envious of them. He had gathered a group of the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, from the Aws and Khazraj in a gathering where they were talking. He was angered by what he saw of their harmony, their unity, and their reconciliation with Islam, after the enmity that had existed between them in the pre-Islamic era. He said: The leaders of Banu Qaylah have gathered in this country, and by God, we will not have any stability with them when their leaders gather here. So he ordered a young Jewish man who was with him and said: Go to them and sit with them. Then he mentioned to them the day of Bu'ath and what had come before it, and recited to them some of the poems they used to recite on that day. It was the day of Bu'ath and what had come before it, and he recited to them some of the poems they used to recite on that day. The day of Bu'ath was a day when the Aws and Khazraj fought, and the Aws were victorious over the Khazraj, so he did so. The people spoke at that time. They argued and boasted until two men from the two tribes jumped on the camel, Aws bin Qayzi, one of the Banu Haritha of the Aws, and Jabbar bin Sakhr, one of the Banu Salamah of the Khazraj. They argued, then one of them said to his companion: If you wish, by God, we will return it now as a young camel. Both groups became angry and said: We have done so. The weapon, the weapon, your meeting place is the Dhahirah, and the Dhahirah is the Harrah. So they went out to it and the Aws joined together and the Khazraj joined together in their claim that they had in the pre-Islamic period. This reached the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, so he went out to them with those of his companions who were with him from the Muhajireen until he came to them and said: O group of Muslims, by God, by God, is the claim of the pre-Islamic period while I am among you after God has guided you to Islam and honored you with it and cut off from you the matter of the pre-Islamic period and saved you from disbelief and united you with it? Will you return to what you were upon as disbelievers? The people realized that it was a temptation from Satan and a plot from their enemy against them, so they threw down their weapons from their hands and wept, and the men embraced each other. Then they departed with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, listening and obeying. God having extinguished from them the plot of God's enemy, Shas. God revealed concerning Shas bin Qais and what he did, Say, 'O People of the Scripture, why do you disbelieve in the verses of God while God is Witness to what you do?' to His saying, And God is not unaware of what you do. And He revealed concerning Aws bin Qayzi and Jabbar bin Sakhr and those who were with them from their people who did what they did, O you who believe, if you obey a party of those who were given the Scripture, to His saying, And those will have a great punishment. This story has been narrated in short and long versions through various chains of narration. Ibn Jarir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of al-Suddi concerning His statement, Why do you avert [people] from the way of God? He said: If someone asked them, Do you find Muhammad? They said, No. He said, So they averted people from it and sought to destroy Muhammad crookedly. Abd bin Hamid and Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of Qatada: Why do you turn away from Islam and from the Prophet of God those who believe in God, and you are witnesses to what you read in the Book of God that Muhammad is the Messenger of God, and that Islam is the religion of God, which does not accept anything other than it and does not reward except with it? They find it written with them in the Torah and the Gospel. Ibn Jarir, Ibn Al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Ibn Jurayj regarding his statement, And whoever holds fast to God, he said: He believes in Him. They narrated on the authority of Abu Al-Aaliyah, he said: Holding fast is trust in God. Abd Al-Razzaq, Ibn Abi Shaybah, Abd bin Hamid, Ibn Jarir, Ibn Al-Mundhir, Ibn Abi Hatim, Al-Tabarani, Al-Hakim who authenticated it and Ibn Mardawayh narrated on the authority of Ibn Masoud regarding his statement, Fear God as He should be feared, he said: That He should be obeyed and not disobeyed, remembered and not forgotten, and thanked and not ungrateful. Al-Hakim who authenticated it narrated it on the authority of Ibn Mardawayh from another chain of transmission on his authority, without the statement, and thanked and not ungrateful. Ibn Mardawayh narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: The right to fear Him is that He is obeyed and not disobeyed, for you will not be able to. Then God revealed after that: So fear God as much as you are able. Abd bin Hamid narrated something similar on his authority. Ibn Abi Hatim narrated something similar on the authority of Saeed bin Jubair. Ibn Mardawayh narrated something similar on the authority of Ibn Masoud. Ibn Jarir, Ibn Al-Mundhir, and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding His statement: The right to fear Him, he said: It was not abrogated, but the right to fear Him is that they strive in God's cause as it should be striven for, and they do not let the blame of a blamer deter them in God's cause, and they stand up for God with justice even if it is against themselves, their fathers, and their children. Saeed bin Mansour, Ibn Abi Shaybah, Ibn Jarir, Ibn Al-Mundhir, and Al-Tabarani narrated. Al-Suyuti said with a sound chain of transmission on the authority of Ibn Masoud, regarding His statement: And hold fast to the rope of God, he said: The rope of God is the Qur'an. There are hadiths that say that the Book of God is the extended rope of God. Ibn Jarir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Abu Al-Aaliyah, who said: And hold fast to the rope of God by being sincere to God alone. Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Al-Hasan, who said: By obeying Him. He also narrated on the authority of Qatada, who said: By his covenant and command. Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of Ibn Zayd, who said: By Islam. Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, regarding his statement, When you were enemies, he said: What happened between the Aws and the Khazraj regarding Aisha. Ibn Ishaq narrated, he said: The war between the Aws and the Khazraj lasted one hundred and twenty years, until Islam came, then God extinguished that and united them. Ibn Jarir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Al-Suddi, regarding his statement, And you were on the brink of a pit of Fire, he said: You were on the edge of the Fire, whoever died among you fell into the Fire, then God sent Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and rescued you from that pit through him.

103- The Almighty says: And hold fast, all together, to the rope of God. The rope is the cause by which one reaches the goal, and faith is called a rope because it is a cause by which one reaches the elimination of fear.

They differed about its meaning here. Ibn Abbas said: Its meaning is to hold fast to the religion of God. Ibn Masoud said: It is the group. He said: Stick to the group, for it is the rope of God that God has commanded. What you dislike in the group and

And hold fast to the rope of God all together and do not be divided. And remember the favor of God upon you - when you were enemies and He united your hearts and you became, by His favor, brothers. And you were on the brink of a pit of Fire and He saved you from it. Thus does God make clear to you His verses that you may be guided.

obedience is better than what you like in division. Mujahid and Ata' said: By the covenant of God. Qatada and As-Suddi said: It is the Qur'an. It was narrated on the authority of Ibn Masoud on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: Indeed, this Qur'an is the rope of God, and it is the clear light, and the beneficial healing, and protection for whoever holds fast to it, and salvation for whoever follows it. Muqatil ibn Hayyan said: By the rope of God means by the command of God and His obedience, and do not be divided as the Jews and Christians were divided. Abu al-Hasan al-Sarakhsi told us, on the authority of Zahir ibn Ahmad Abu Ishaq al-Hashemi, on the authority of Abu Mus'ab, on the authority of Malik ibn Suhayl ibn Abi Salih, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, may God be pleased with him, that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "Indeed, God the Most High is pleased with three things for you, and is displeased with three things for you. He is pleased with you that you worship Him and do not associate anything with Him, that you hold fast to the rope of God all together, and that you advise those who God has appointed over you. He is displeased with you: gossip, wasting money, and asking too many questions."

God the Almighty said: And remember the favor of God upon you, when you were enemies and He brought your hearts together. Muhammad ibn Ishaq, Ibn Yasar, and other historians said: The Aws and Khazraj were brothers from the same father and mother, and enmity arose between them because of a murder. That enmity and war between them lasted for one hundred and twenty years until God the Almighty extinguished that with Islam and brought them together through His Messenger Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace. The reason for their coming together was that Suwaid ibn al-Samit, a brother of Banu Amr ibn Awf, was a nobleman whom his people called al-Kamil because of his bravery and lineage. He came to Mecca as a pilgrim or a performer of Umrah. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, had been sent and ordered to call people to Islam. Suwaid responded to him when he heard about him and called him to God the Almighty and to Islam. So Suwaid said to him: Perhaps what you have is like what I have. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to him: [And what do you have with you? He said: The magazine of Luqman, meaning: his wisdom. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to him: Show it to me. So he showed it to him, and he said: This is good speech. I have better than this. The Qur'an was sent down to him as light and guidance. He recited the Qur'an to him and called him to Islam, but he did not [distance] from him and said: This is indeed a good statement. Then he returned to Medina, and it was not long before the Khazraj killed him before the day of Bu'ath, for his people would say: He was killed while he was a Muslim.

Then Abu Al-Haysir Anas bin Rafi came, and with him a group of Banu Al-Ashhal, among them Iyas bin Muadh, seeking an alliance from Quraysh against a group of Khazraj. When the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, heard of them, he came to them and sat with them, and said: Do you want something better than what you came for? They said: What is that? He said: I am the Messenger of God, and he sent me to the servants to call them not to associate anything with God, and the Book was revealed to me. Then he mentioned Islam to them and recited the Quran to them. Iyas bin Muadh, who was a young boy, said: What people are these? By God, they are better than what you came for. Abu Al-Haysir took a handful of sand from the plain and struck Iyas with it in the face and said: Leave me alone, for by God we came for something other than this. Iyas was silent and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, stood up from them, and they returned to Medina. The Battle of Buath took place between the Aws and the Khazraj, and Iyas bin Muadh did not stay long before he died.

When God the Almighty wanted to manifest His religion and glorify His Prophet, the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, went out during the season in which he met the group of Ansar to introduce himself to the tribes of the Arabs, as he did every season. At Al-Aqaba, he met a group of Khazraj whom God wanted good for. They were six men: As'ad ibn Zararah, 'Awf ibn Al-Harith, who is the son of 'Afra, Rafi' ibn Malik Al-'Ajlan, Qutbah ibn 'Amir ibn Hadidah, 'Uqbah ibn 'Amir ibn Nabi, and Jabir ibn 'Abdullah. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to them: Who are you? They said: A group of Khazraj. He said: Are you from the clients of the Jews? They said: Yes. He said: Will you not sit down so that I may speak to you? They said: Yes. So they sat with him, and he called them to God the Almighty and presented Islam to them and recited the Qur'an to them.

They said: And among what God did for them in Islam was that the Jews were with them in their country, and they were people of the Book and knowledge, and they were people of idols and polytheism, and if something happened to them they would say: A prophet is now being sent and his time has come, we will follow him and kill you with him as the people of Aad and Iram were killed. So when the Messenger of God spoke to those people and called them to God Almighty, some of them said to each other: O people, you know by God that he is the prophet that the Jews promised you, so do not let him get ahead of you to him. So they answered him and believed him and submitted and said: We have left our people and there is no people between them as much enmity and evil as between them, and God may unite them with you and we will go to them and call them to your cause, and if God unites them against you, then there is no man more honorable than you.

Then they turned away from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, returning to their country, having believed in him, may God bless him and grant him peace. When they arrived in Medina, they mentioned the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, to them and called them to Islam, until it spread among them and there was no house of the Ansar except that there was mention of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, until the next year, twelve men from the Ansar arrived at the season, and they were: As'ad ibn Zararah, Awf and Mu'adh, the sons of 'Afra, Rafi' ibn Malik ibn al-'Ajlān, Dhakwan ibn 'Abd al-Qays, 'Ubadah ibn al-Samit, Yazid ibn Tha'labah, Abbas ibn 'Ubadah, 'Uqbah ibn 'Amir, Qutbah ibn 'Amir, and these were Khazrajites, and Abu al-Haytham ibn al-Tayhan and 'Uwaimir ibn Sa'idah were from the Aws. They met him at al-'Aqabah, which is the first al-'Aqabah, and they pledged allegiance to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, on the basis of the pledge of women, on the condition that they would not associate anything with God, nor steal, nor commit adultery, to the end of the verse. If you fulfilled it, then Paradise is for you, but if you committed any of that and were punished for it in this world, then it is As an expiation for him, and if he concealed it from you, then your matter is up to God. If He wills, He will punish you, and if He wills, He will forgive you. He said: And that was before war was imposed on them.

He said: When the people left, the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent with them Mus'ab bin 'Umayr bin Hashim bin 'Abd Manaf, and ordered him to recite the Qur'an to them, teach them Islam, and instruct them in the religion. Mus'ab was called the reciter in Medina, and his residence was with As'ad bin Zurarah. Then As'ad bin Zurarah went out with Mus'ab and entered with him into one of the walls of Banu Thafar. They sat in the wall and some men who had converted to Islam gathered around them. Sa'd bin Mu'adh said to Asid bin Hudhair: Go to these two men who have come to our house to fool our weak ones and rebuke them, for As'ad bin Zurarah is my maternal cousin, and were it not for that, I would have sufficed you. Sa'd bin Mu'adh and Asid bin Hudhair were the masters of their people from Banu 'Abd al-Ashhal, and they were polytheists. So Asid bin Hudhair took his spear and went to Mus'ab and As'ad while they were sitting in the wall. When As'ad bin Zurarah saw him, he said to Mus'ab: This is the master of his people who has come to you, so give him charity while they were sitting in the wall. When As'ad bin Zurarah saw him, he said to Mus'ab: This is the master of his people who has come to you, so be truthful with God in dealing with him. Mus'ab said: If he sits down, I will talk to him. He said: So he stood over them, cursing each other, and said: What brought you to us to belittle our weak ones? Stay away if you have a need for yourselves. Mus'ab said to him: Or will you sit down and listen? If you are satisfied with a matter, I will accept it, and if you dislike it, I will refrain from what you dislike. He said: You have been fair. Then he planted his spear and sat down with them. He spoke to Mus'ab about Islam and recited the Qur'an to him. They said: By God, we knew the face of Islam before he spoke about it, in its radiance and ease. Then he said: How beautiful and wonderful are these words. What will you do if you want to enter this religion? They said to him: Wash yourself and purify your garments, then bear witness to the truth. Then pray two rak'ahs. So he stood up, washed himself, purified his garments, and bore witness to the truth. Then he stood up and bowed two rak'ahs. Then he said to them: There is a man behind me who, if he follows you, no one from his people will stay behind. I will send him to you now. He is Sa'd ibn Mu'adh. Then he took his spear and went to Sa'd and his people, who were sitting in their gathering. When Sa'd ibn Mu'adh saw him coming, he said: I swear by God that Asid has come to you with a face different from the one he used when he left you. When he stood at the gathering, Sa'd said to him: What did you do? He said: I spoke to the two men, and by God, I saw no harm in them, and I forbade them. They said: Do as you like. I was told that Banu Haritha went out to As'ad ibn Zararah to kill him, and that is because they knew that he was your maternal cousin, so that they could despise you. Sa'd stood up angrily and rushed to what Banu Haritha had mentioned to him. He took the spear, then said: By God, I do not see that you have done anything. When he saw them at ease, he knew that Asid only wanted to hear from them, so he stood over them, cursing them. Then he said to As'ad ibn Zararah: Were it not for the kinship between me and you, I would not have thrown this from me, attacking us in our house with what we dislike. As'ad said to Mus'ab: By God, the master of his people has come to you. If he follows you, none of them will oppose you. Mus'ab said to him: Or you will sit and listen. If you are satisfied with a matter and desire it, accept it, and if you dislike it, we will remove from you what you dislike. Sa'd said: You are fair. Then he planted the spear and sat down. He presented Islam to him and recited the Qur'an to him: They said: "By God, we knew the face of Islam before he spoke about it in its radiance and ease, then bear witness to the testimony of truth and then pray two rak'ahs. So he stood up, washed himself, purified his clothes, bore witness to the testimony of truth and bowed two rak'ahs, then took his spear and headed towards the club of his people with Asid bin Khudair. When his people saw him coming, they said: We swear by God that Sa'd has returned to you with a face other than the one with which he left you. So when he stood before them, he said: O sons of Abd al-Ashhal, how do you know my affair among you?" They said: Our master, the best of us in opinion, and the most righteous of us in leadership. He said: The speech of your men and women is forbidden to me until you believe in God and His Messenger. He said: There was not a man or woman in the house of Banu Abd al-Ashhal who did not become a Muslim, man or woman. As'ad ibn Zararah and Mus'ab returned to the house of As'ad ibn Zararah and stayed with him calling the people to Islam until there was not a house of the Ansar that did not have Muslim men and women in it, except for the house of Banu Umayyah ibn Zayd, Khatmah and Wa'il. This was because Abu Qais ibn al-Aslat, the poet, was among them, and they listened to him and obeyed him, so he stopped them from Islam until the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, migrated to Medina, and Badr, Uhud and the Trench took place.

And hold fast to the rope of God all together and do not be divided. And remember the favor of God upon you - when you were enemies and He united your hearts and you became, by His favor, brothers. And you were on the brink of a pit of Fire and He saved you from it. Thus does God make clear to you His verses that you may be guided.

They said: Then Mus'ab bin 'Umair returned to Mecca and with him went out from the Ansar from the Muslims seventy men with the pilgrims of their people from the polytheists until they arrived in Mecca and made an appointment with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, at Al-'Aqabah in the middle of the days of Tashreeq, which is the second pledge of Al-'Aqabah.

Ka'b ibn Malik - who had witnessed that - said: When we finished the Hajj, and it was the night on which we had made an appointment with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and with us was Abdullah ibn Amr ibn Haram or Jabir, we informed him, and we used to conceal our affair from those of the polytheists who were with us from our people, so we spoke to him and said to him: O Abu Jabir, you are a master among our masters and a noble among our nobles, and we prefer you over what you are in, lest you be firewood for the fire tomorrow. And we invited him to Islam, so he became a Muslim, and we informed him of the appointment with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, so he witnessed with us the Aqaba, and he was a leader. So we spent that night with our people in our tents, until when a third of the night had passed, we went out to meet the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, sneaking away like a quail, until we gathered in the valley at the Aqaba, and we were seventy men and with us were two of our women, Nusaybah bint Ka'b, Umm 'Amara, one of the women of Banu Najjar, and Asma bint 'Amr ibn 'Adi, Umm Mani', one of the women of Banu Salamah. So we gathered in the valley awaiting the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. God's peace and blessings be upon him, until he came to us with his uncle Al-Abbas bin Abdul Muttalib, who was at that time following the religion of his people, except that he wanted to attend to the matter of his nephew, and to provide him with security. As soon as we sat down, the first to speak was Al-Abbas bin Abdul Muttalib, and he said: O people of Khazraj - and the Arabs used to call this tribe of the Ansar Al-Khazraj, their Khazraj and their Aws - Muhammad, may God's peace and blessings be upon him, is from us as you know, and we have protected him from our people from those who are of the same opinion as us, and he is in glory from his people and protected in his country, and he has refused except to be cut off from you and join you. So if you see that you will fulfill what you called him to and protect him from those who opposed him, then you are with what you have borne of that, and if you see that you will surrender him and abandon him after he came out to you, then from now on leave him, for he is in glory and protection.

He said: We said, "We have heard what you said. Speak, O Messenger of God, and take for yourself and for your Lord whatever you wish."

He said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, spoke and recited the Qur'an and called to God Almighty and encouraged Islam, then he said: I pledge allegiance to you on the condition that you protect me from what you protect yourselves, your women, and your children. He said: Al-Bara' bin Ma'rur took his hand and said: By Him who sent you as a prophet with the truth, we will protect you from what we protect our sons from, so pledge allegiance to us, O Messenger of God, for we are people of war and people of the circle, we inherited it from our forefathers.

Abu Al-Haitham bin Al-Tayhan objected to the statement - while Al-Bara was speaking to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace - and said: O Messenger of God, between us and the people are bonds, meaning covenants, and I will sever them. Is it possible that if we do that and then God gives you victory, will you return to your people and leave us? The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, smiled and then said: Blood for blood, destruction for destruction. You are from me and I am from you. I fight those with whom I fight and I am safe for those with whom I am safe.

The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Bring out to me from among you twelve leaders who will be responsible for their people, including them, as the disciples were responsible for Jesus, son of Mary. So bring out twelve leaders, nine from the Khazraj and three from the Aws.

Asim bin Amr bin Qatada said: When the people gathered to pledge allegiance to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, Al-Abbas bin Ubadah bin Nadlah the Christian said: O people of Khazraj, do you know why you are pledging allegiance to this man? You are pledging allegiance to him to fight the reds and the blacks. If you think that if your wealth is decimated by a calamity and your nobles are killed, then surrender him, then from now on, for by God, if you do so, it will be a disgrace in this world and the next. And if you think that you will fulfill what you called him to despite the loss of wealth and the killing of nobles, then take him, for by God, he is the best in this world and the next.

They said: We will take it even though we have lost our wealth and killed our nobles. What will we get from that, O Messenger of God, if we are faithful to it? He said: Paradise. He said: Extend your hand. So he extended his hand and they pledged allegiance to him. The first to strike his hand was Al-Bara' bin Ma'rur. Then the people followed one another. When we pledged allegiance to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, the devil cried out from the top of the pass in the loudest voice I have ever heard: O people of Al-Jabajib, do you want to fight Mudhimmah and As-Sabaa? They have gathered to fight you. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: This is the enemy of God, this is the one who has crossed the pass. Listen, O enemy of God. By God, I will surely finish you off. Then the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Return to your homes.

Al-Abbas bin Ubadah bin Nadlah said: By Him who sent you with the truth, if you wish, we will attack the people of Mina tomorrow with our swords. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: We were not commanded to do that, but return to your homes.

He said: So we returned to our beds and slept on them until morning. When morning came, the great men of Quraysh came to us and came to our homes and said: O people of Khazraj, we have been informed that you have come to our companion to extract him from among us and pledge allegiance to him to fight us. By God, no one among the Arabs is more hateful to us than you. He said: Then some of the polytheists of our people rose up from there and swore to them by God: Nothing of this happened and we knew it. And they were telling the truth. They did not know, and some of us were looking at each other, and the people stood up and among them was Al-Harith bin Hisham bin Al-Mughirah Al-Makhzumi and he was wearing two new sandals. He said, so I said to him a word as if I wanted to / make the people share in what they said, O Jabir, can you not take, while you are one of our masters, like the sandals of this young man from Quraysh? He said, Al-Harith heard it and took them off his feet and threw them to me and said: By God, you must wear them. Abu Jabir, may God be pleased with him, said: Stop, by God, you have protected the young man, so return his sandals to him. He said: I will not return them, by God, it is a good omen, by God, if the omen is true, I will take it away.

He said: Then the Ansar returned to Medina, having strengthened their bonds. When they arrived there, they declared Islam there. This reached the Quraysh, so they harmed the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to his companions: God Almighty has made for you brothers and a home in which you are safe. So he ordered them to migrate to Medina and join their brothers from the Ansar.

The first to migrate to Medina was Abu Salamah ibn Abd al-Asad al-Makhzumi, then Amer ibn Rabi'ah, then Abdullah ibn Jahsh. Then the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, followed one after the other in sending them to Medina. God united the people of Medina, its Aws and Khazraj, in Islam, and His Prophet Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, reconciled between them.

God the Almighty said: "And remember the favor of God upon you, O company of Christians, when you were enemies before Islam, then He united your hearts through Islam, and you became, by His favor, by His mercy and by His religion, Islam, brothers in religion and allegiance among you. And you were, O company of Aws and Khazraj, on the brink of a pit of fire, meaning on the edge of a pit like the edge of a well. Its meaning is: You were on the edge of a pit of fire, with nothing standing between you and falling into it except that you die in your disbelief, then God saved you from it through faith. Thus does God make clear to you His verses that you may be guided."

103 "And hold fast to the rope of God all together" in the religion of Islam, or in His Book, as the Prophet, peace be upon him, said: "The Qur'an is the strong rope of God." He used the rope as a metaphor for it, as holding fast to it is a reason for salvation from ruin, just as holding fast to the rope is a reason for safety from ruin, trusting in it and relying on it is holding fast as a nomination for metaphor. "All together united upon it and do not be divided" meaning do not be divided from the truth by differences occurring among you like the People of the Book, or do not be divided as you were in the Age of Ignorance, fighting one another, or do not mention what necessitates division and removes familiarity. "And remember the favor of God upon you" which includes guidance and success to Islam, which leads to harmony and the removal of rancor. "When you were enemies" in the Age of Ignorance, fighting. "He brought your hearts together" through Islam. "And by His grace you became brothers" loving one another and united in brotherhood in God. It was said that the Aws and Khazraj were brothers, and enmity arose between their children and wars continued for one hundred and twenty years until God extinguished it with Islam and united them with His Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace. "And you were on the brink of a pit of fire" on the verge of falling into the fire of Hell because of your disbelief, for if death had overtaken you in that state, you would have fallen into the fire. "So He saved you from it" with Islam. The pronoun refers to the pit, or the fire, or the lip. Its feminine form is due to the feminine of what it is added to, or because it means the lip, for the lip of a well and its lip are its edge, like the side and the side, and its root is shafu, so the waw was changed to an alif in the masculine and deleted in the feminine. "Thus" is the clarification. "God makes clear to you His signs" His evidence. "That you may be guided" meaning your steadfastness in guidance and your increase in it.

Surat Al Imran 3:104

And let there be among you a group inviting to good, enjoining what is right and forbidding what is wrong, and those will be the successful.

Surat Al Imran 3:104

And let there be among you a group inviting to good, enjoining what is right and forbidding what is wrong, and those will be the successful.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And let there arise from you a community inviting to good Islam (and enjoining what is right and forbidding what is wrong. And those) the callers, the commanders, the forbidders are the successful ones the victorious ones. Min is for partialization because what was mentioned is a communal obligation that is not incumbent upon the entire community and is not appropriate for everyone, such as the ignorant. It was said that it is redundant, meaning that you will be a community.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: By that, the Most High means: And let there be from you, O believers, a nation, meaning a group, calling people to goodness, meaning to Islam and its laws that God has legislated for His servants, and enjoining what is right, meaning: they command people to follow Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his religion that he brought from God, and forbidding what is wrong, meaning: and forbidding disbelief in God and denial of Muhammad and what he brought from God, by striving with their hands and limbs until they submit to you in obedience.

His saying: And those are the successful ones, means those who are successful with God and remain in His gardens and bliss.

We have demonstrated the meaning of success in other places, so there is no need to repeat it here.

Ahmad bin Hazim told us, Abu Naim told us, Issa bin Omar Al-Qari told us, on the authority of Abu Awn Al-Thaqafi: that he heard Subaih say: I heard Uthman recite: And let there arise out of you a group inviting to good, enjoining what is right, forbidding what is wrong, and seeking help from God against what has befallen them.

Ahmad bin Hazim told me, he said, Abu Naim told us, he said, Ibn Uyaynah told us, on the authority of Amr bin Dinar, he said: I heard Ibn al-Zubayr reciting, and he mentioned the same recitation as Uthman that we mentioned before, exactly the same.

Yahya bin Abi Talib told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Juwaybir told us, on the authority of Ad-Dahhak: And let there arise from you a group inviting to good, enjoining what is right and forbidding what is wrong, he said: They are the special companions of the Messenger of God, and they are the special narrators.

We have already discussed enjoining good and forbidding evil in this surah. The word min in the phrase minikum is for partiality, meaning that those enjoining must be scholars, but not all people are scholars. It has also been said that it is to clarify the type, meaning that you should all be like that.

I said: The first statement is more correct, as it indicates that enjoining what is right and forbidding what is wrong is a communal obligation, and God Almighty has specified them in His statement: Those who, if We establish them in the land, will establish prayer (al-Hajj 22:41) and the verse. Not all people are empowered. Ibn al-Zubayr recited: And let there be among you a group inviting to good, enjoining what is right, forbidding what is wrong, and seeking help from God over what befalls them. Abu Bakr al-Anbari said: This addition is an interpretation by Ibn al-Zubayr, and some of his words were erroneously included by some of the narrators, who added it to the words of the Qur'an. This indicates the correctness of what I am describing in the hadith that my father told me. Hasan ibn Arfa told us, Waki' told us, on the authority of Abu Asim, on the authority of Abu Awn, on the authority of Subaih, who said: I heard Uthman ibn Affan reciting: And enjoining what is right, forbidding what is wrong, and seeking help from God over what befalls them. No sane person would doubt that Uthman did not believe in this addition in the Qur'an, since he did not write it in his copy of the Qur'an, which is the Imam of the Muslims. Rather, he mentioned it as a sermon and confirmation of what preceded it from the words of the Lord of the Worlds, may He be glorified and exalted.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

God the Almighty says: And let there be from you a group standing up to carry out God's command in calling to goodness, enjoining what is right and forbidding what is wrong, and those are the successful ones, Ad-Dahhak said: They are the special Companions and the special narrators, meaning the mujahideen and scholars. Abu Ja'far Al-Baqir said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, recited: And let there be from you a group inviting to goodness then he said: Goodness is following the Quran and my Sunnah narrated by Ibn Mardawayh. What is meant by this verse is that there should be a group from this nation that stands up to this matter, even though this is obligatory upon each individual of the nation according to his ability, as proven in Sahih Muslim, on the authority of Abu Hurairah who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever among you sees an evil, let him change it with his hand; if he is unable to do so, then with his tongue; if he is unable to do so, then with his heart - and that is the weakest of faith", and in another narration: And beyond that there is not even a mustard seed of faith.

Imam Ahmad said: Sulayman al-Hashimi told us, Ismail bin Ja'far told us, Amr bin Abi Amr told me, on the authority of Abdullah bin Abdul Rahman al-Ashhali, on the authority of Hudhayfah bin al-Yaman, that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "By the One in Whose Hand is my soul, you must enjoin what is right and forbid what is wrong, or God will soon send upon you a punishment from Him, and then you will call upon Him and He will not respond to you." Al-Tirmidhi and Ibn Majah narrated it on the authority of Amr bin Abi Amr, and al-Tirmidhi said: It is good. There are many hadiths on this subject, along with the noble verses, as their interpretation will come in their places. Then God Almighty said: And do not be like those who became divided and differed after clear proofs had come to them al-Baqarah 2:177. God Almighty forbids this nation from being like the past nations in their division and differences and their abandonment of enjoining what is right and forbidding what is wrong, despite the proof being established against them.

Imam Ahmad said: Abu Al-Mughira told us, Safwan told us, Azhar bin Abdullah Al-Hawzani told me, on the authority of Abu Amir Abdullah bin Luhay, who said: We performed Hajj with Muawiyah bin Abi Sufyan, and when we arrived in Mecca, he stood up after praying the noon prayer and said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "The People of the Book split into seventy-two sects in their religion, and this nation will split into seventy-three sects - meaning the desires - all of them will be in Hell except one - which is the group - and there will emerge in my nation people who will trade with those desires as a dog trades with its owner, and there will not remain a vein or joint of it except that it enters it. By God, O people of the Arabs, if you do not do what your Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, came with, then it is more likely that others will not do it." And this is how Abu Dawud narrated it on the authority of Ahmad bin Hanbal and Muhammad bin Yahya, both of them on the authority of Abu Al-Mughira, whose name is Abdul Quddus bin Al-Hajjaj Al-Shami, on his authority. This hadith has been transmitted through various chains of transmission.

And the Almighty's saying: On the Day when some faces will turn white and some faces will turn black means the Day of Resurrection, when the faces of the people of Sunnah and Jama'ah will turn white, and the faces of the people of innovation and division will turn black. This was said by Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both. As for those whose faces will turn black, did you disbelieve after your belief? Al-Hasan Al-Basri said: They are the hypocrites. Then taste the punishment for what you used to disbelieve. This description includes every disbeliever. As for those whose faces will turn white, they will be in the mercy of God, abiding therein forever. Meaning, Paradise, they will remain therein forever, not seeking to move away from it. Abu Isa Al-Tirmidhi said when interpreting this verse: Abu Kurayb told us, Waki' told us, on the authority of Rabi' bin Subaih and Hammad bin Salamah, on the authority of Abu Ghalib, who said: Abu Umamah saw heads erected on the steps of the mosque of Damascus, so Abu Umamah said: The dogs of Hell are the worst of those killed under the sky, and the best of those killed are those who killed him. Then he recited: On the Day when some faces will turn white and some faces will turn black to the end of the verse. I said to Abu Umamah: Did you hear it from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace? He said: If I only heard it once, twice, three times, or four times - until he counted seven - and I did not tell you about it. Then he said: This is a good hadith. Ibn Majah narrated it from the hadith of Sufyan ibn Uyaynah on the authority of Abu Ghalib, and Ahmad included it in his Musnad on the authority of Abd al-Razzaq, on the authority of Muammar, on the authority of Abu Ghalib, in a similar manner.

Ibn Mardawayh narrated a long, strange, and very amazing hadith when interpreting this verse from Abu Dharr. Then God Almighty said: These are the verses of God which We recite to you, meaning these are the verses of God, His proofs and His evidences, which We recite to you, O Muhammad. In truth, meaning We reveal what the matter is in this world and the next. And God does not desire injustice for the worlds, meaning He is not unjust to them, but He is the Judge, the Just One who does not transgress, because He is capable of everything and knows everything. He does not need, however, to wrong any of His creation. For this reason God Almighty said: And to God belongs whatever is in the heavens and whatever is on the earth, meaning that all belong to Him and are His servants. And to God all matters return, meaning He is the Judge who controls this world and the next.

Fath al-Qadir

His saying 104- And let there be The majority read it with a sukoon on the lam, and it was read with a kasra on the lam according to the original, and min in his saying from you is for partiality and it was said: to clarify the type. The first is preferred because enjoining what is right and forbidding what is wrong are communal obligations that are specific to the people of knowledge who know that what they enjoin is right and what they forbid is wrong. Al-Qurtubi said: The first is more correct because it indicates that enjoining what is right and forbidding what is wrong is a communal obligation, and God the Almighty has designated them with His saying those who, if We establish them in the land [al-Muslim] and the verse. Ibn al-Zubayr read: And let there be from you a community inviting to good, enjoining what is right and forbidding what is wrong, and seeking help from God for what has befallen them. Abu Bakr ibn al-Anbari said: This addition is an interpretation from Ibn al-Zubayr and some of his words were erroneously stated by some of the narrators, so they included it with the words of the Qur'an. It was narrated that Uthman read it like this but did not write it in his Mus-haf, which indicates that it is not the Qur'an. This verse is evidence of the obligation of enjoining what is right and forbidding what is wrong. Its obligation is proven by the Book and the Sunnah, and it is one of the greatest obligations of the pure Shari'ah, a great principle of its principles, and a fortified pillar of its pillars. By it, its system is completed and its summit is elevated. His statement, They enjoin what is right and forbid what is wrong is a case of linking the specific to the general, to demonstrate their honor, and that they are the two perfect individuals of the good that God has commanded His servants to call to, as was said in linking Gabriel and Michael to the angels. The object of the three verbs was omitted: that is, they call, enjoin, and forbid, with the intention of generalization: that is, everyone who has a reason that requires that. The reference in His statement, And those refers back to the nation in consideration of its being described by what was mentioned after it, They are the successful ones, that is, those who are special in success. The definition of the successful ones is for the covenant or for the truth that everyone knows.

104- And let there be from you a nation meaning: be a nation, from is a conjunction that is not for partiality, like the Almighty's saying: So avoid the uncleanness of idols (al-Hajj 22:30). He did not mean avoiding some idols, but rather he meant avoid the idols, and the lam in His saying and let there be is the lam of command, calling to good to Islam, and enjoining what is right and forbidding what is wrong, and it is those who are the successful.

Ismail Abdul Qahir told us, he said: Abdul Ghaffar bin Muhammad told us, he said: Muhammad bin Isa Al-Jaludi told us, Ibrahim bin Muhammad bin Sufyan told us, Muslim bin Al-Hajjaj told us, Abu Bakr Muhammad bin Abi Shaybah told us, Waki' told us, on the authority of Sufyan, on the authority of Qais bin Muslim, on the authority of Tariq bin Shihab, he said: Abu Saeed, may God be pleased with them both, said: I heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: "Whoever among you sees an evil, let him change it with his hand. If he is unable to do so, then with his tongue. If he is unable to do so, then with his heart, and that is the weakest of faith."

Abu Abdullah bin Al-Fadl Al-Kharqi told us, he said: Abu Al-Hasan Al-Taysifuni told us, Abdullah bin Omar Al-Jawhari told us, Ahmad bin Ali Al-Kashmihani told us, Ali bin Hajar told us, Ismail bin Jaafar told us, I heard Amr bin Abi Amr, on the authority of Abdullah bin Abdul Rahman Al-Ashhali, on the authority of Hudhayfah, that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "By the One in Whose Hand is my soul, you must enjoin what is right and forbid what is wrong, or God will soon send upon you a punishment from Him, and then you will call upon Him and He will not answer you." Imam Abu Ali Al-Hussein bin Muhammad Al-Qadi told us, Abu Tahir Muhammad bin Muhammad bin Mahmash Al-Ziyadi told us, Abu Bakr Muhammad bin Al-Hussein Al-Qattan told us, Ali bin Al-Hussein Al-Darawardi told us, Abu Al-Nu'man told us, Abdul Aziz bin Muslim Al-Qasmali told us, Ismail bin Abi Khalid, on the authority of Qais bin Abi Hazim, he said: I heard Abu Bakr Al-Siddiq, may God be pleased with him, say: O people, you recite this verse: "O you who have believed, upon you is yourselves. He who strays will not harm you if you are guided." I heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: If people see something wrong and do not change it, God Almighty will soon punish them all.

Abdul Wahid bin Ahmad Al-Malhi told us, Ahmad bin Abdullah Al-Nuaimi told us, Muhammad Muhammad bin Yusuf told us, Muhammad bin Ismail told us, Amr bin Hafs bin Ghayath told us, my father told us, Al-A'mash told me, Al-Sha'bi told me that he heard Al-Nu'man bin Bashir, may God be pleased with him, say: The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "The example of one who flatters God's limits and transgresses them is like a group of people who drew lots to board a ship. Some of them were in the lower part of it and some were in the upper part. Those in the lower part were passing the water over those in the upper part and were hurt by it. So he took an axe and began to poke at the bottom of the ship. They came to him and said: What is the matter with you? He said: You are hurt by me, and I need water. If they seize his hand, they will save him and save themselves, but if they leave him alone, they will destroy him and destroy themselves."

104 And let there be among you a group of people inviting to good, enjoining what is right and forbidding what is wrong. "Min" is for partiality, because enjoining what is right and forbidding what is wrong are communal obligations, and because not everyone is qualified for it, as the one who undertakes it has conditions that are not shared by the entire nation, such as knowledge of the rulings, the levels of accountability, how to implement them, and the ability to carry them out. He addressed everyone and asked some of them to do something to indicate that it is obligatory on everyone, even if they left it outright, they would all be sinful, but it is dropped by the action of some of them, and so on with everything that is a communal obligation. Or for clarification, meaning, and be a group of people inviting, as God Almighty said: "You are the best nation produced for mankind. You enjoin what is right." And calling to good includes calling to what is good for religion or the world, and linking enjoining what is right and forbidding what is wrong to it is linking the specific to the general to indicate its virtue. "Those are the successful ones" who are distinguished by complete success. It was narrated that he, peace be upon him, "was asked who is the best of people, so he said: He who enjoins what is right and forbids what is wrong, and who fears God the most and maintains ties of kinship." Enjoining what is right is obligatory or recommended according to what is enjoined. Forbidding what is wrong is all obligatory because everything that is forbidden by the Shari'ah is forbidden. It is more apparent that the sinner must forbid what he is committing because he must abandon it and forbid it, so abandoning one does not cancel the obligation of the other.

Surat Al Imran 3:105

Surat Al Imran 3:105

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And do not be like those who became divided from their religion and differed about it after the clear proofs had come to them and they are the Jews and Christians and those will have a great punishment

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: By that, the Most High means: And do not be, O group of believers, like those who were divided, from the People of the Book, and differed in the religion of God and His commands and prohibitions, after the clear proofs had come to them, from the proofs of God in what they differed about, and they knew the truth about it, but they deliberately opposed it, and disobeyed the command of God, and broke His covenant and pact out of boldness towards God, and for those, meaning: and for those who were divided and differed from the People of the Book after what had come to them, is a punishment from God, great. The Most High says: So do not be divided, O group of believers, in your religion as these were divided in their religion, and do not do what they did, and follow their example in your religion, so that you will have from the great punishment of God like what they had, as:

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Ishaq told us, he said, Ibn Abi Ja'far told us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-Rabi', regarding His statement: And be not like those who became divided and differed after clear proofs had come to them, he said: They are the People of the Book. God forbade the people of Islam from becoming divided and differing as the People of the Book became divided and differed. God Almighty said: And for those is a great punishment.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Abdullah bin Saleh told us, he said, Muawiyah bin Saleh told me, on the authority of Ali bin Abi Talha, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding his statement: And do not be like those who became divided and differed, and something similar to this in the Qur'an. God, may He be glorified and praised, commanded the believers to remain united, so He forbade them from differing and being divided, and He informed them that those who came before them were destroyed only by arguments and disputes in the religion of God.

Muhammad bin Sinan told me, he said, Abu Bakr al-Hanafi told us, on the authority of Ibad, on the authority of al-Hasan, regarding his statement: "And do not be like those who became divided and differed after clear proofs had come to them. And those will have a great punishment," he said: They are the Jews and Christians.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

It means the Jews and Christians according to the majority of commentators. Some of them said: They are the innovators of this nation. Abu Umamah said: They are the Kharijites, and he recited the verse. Jabir ibn Abdullah said: Those who divided and differed after clear proofs had come to them means the Jews and Christians. <came to them> is a masculine plural, and came to them is a group.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

God the Almighty says: And let there be from you a group standing up to carry out God's command in calling to goodness, enjoining what is right and forbidding what is wrong, and those are the successful ones, Ad-Dahhak said: They are the special Companions and the special narrators, meaning the mujahideen and scholars. His saying 105- And do not be like those who were divided They are the Jews and Christians according to the majority of commentators, and it was said: They are the innovators of this nation, and it was said: The Kharijites, and the first is apparent. And the clear proofs are the clear verses that explain the truth and necessitate the absence of difference. It was said: This prohibition of division and difference is specific to the fundamental issues, and as for the subsidiary issues of ijtihad, difference in them is permissible, and the companions and those who came after them from the followers and their followers continued to differ in the rulings of incidents, and there is a view in it because in those eras the denial of difference continued to exist and specifying some issues of religion as permissible to differ in them and not others is not correct, so the legal issues are equal in their affiliation to the law.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

105- The Almighty said: And do not be like those who became divided and differed after the clear proofs had come to them. Most of the commentators said: They are the Jews and Christians, and some of them said: The innovators of this nation, and Abu Umamah, may God be pleased with him, said: They are the Kharijites in the Levant.

Abdullah bin Shaddad said: Abu Umamah stood with me at the head of the Kharijites in Ash-Sham and said: They are the dogs of Hellfire. They were believers, then they disbelieved after their belief. Then he recited: And do not be like those who became divided and differed after clear proofs had come to them until the Almighty's saying: Did you disbelieve after your belief?

Ahmad bin Abdullah Al-Salihi told us, Abu Al-Hussein bin Bishran told us, Ismail bin Muhammad Al-Saffar told us, Ahmad bin Mansour Al-Ramadi told us, Abdul Razzaq told us, Muammar told us, on the authority of Abdul Malik bin Umair, on the authority of Abdullah bin Al-Zubayr, that Omar bin Al-Khattab, may God be pleased with him, said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever is pleased with the spaciousness of Paradise, let him adhere to the group, for the devil is with the individual, and he is further away from two.

God Almighty says: And those will have a great punishment.

Surat Al Imran 3:105

And do not be like those who became divided and differed after clear proofs had come to them.
And those will have a great punishment.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

105 And do not be like those who divided and differed like the Jews and Christians who differed about monotheism, transcendence, and the conditions of the Hereafter, as you know. After the clear proofs had come to them the verses and arguments that clarify the truth and require agreement upon it. It is more apparent that the prohibition therein is specific to division in the fundamentals and not the branches, based on his saying, peace and blessings be upon him, The difference of opinion among my nation is a mercy and his saying, peace and blessings be upon him, Whoever strives and is correct will have two rewards, and whoever errs will have one reward. "And for those is a great punishment" a warning to those who divided and a threat against imitating them.

Surat Al Imran 3:106

On the Day when some faces will turn white and some faces will turn black. As for those whose faces will turn black, [it will be said], Did you disbelieve after your belief? Then taste the punishment for what you used to disbelieve.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

On the Day when some faces will turn white and some faces will turn black meaning the Day of Resurrection As for those whose faces will turn black meaning the disbelievers, they will be thrown into the Fire and it will be said to them as a rebuke Did you disbelieve after your belief on the Day the covenant was taken Then taste the punishment for what you used to disbelieve

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Abu Jaafar said: By that, may His praise be glorified, He means: Those will have a great punishment on a day when some faces will turn white and some faces will turn black.

As for his statement: As for those whose faces will be black, did you disbelieve after your belief?, its meaning is: As for those whose faces will be black, it will be said to them: Did you disbelieve after your belief? Then taste the punishment for what you used to disbelieve. As for as, it must have an answer with fa, so when the answer was dropped, the fa was dropped with it. It is permissible to omit mentioning it, so it is said, because what was mentioned in the speech indicates it.

As for the meaning of His Most High's saying: Did you disbelieve after your belief?, the people of interpretation differed as to who was meant by it.

Some of them said: He meant the Muslims who face our Qiblah.

Who said that?

Bishr told us, Yazid told us, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: On the Day when some faces will turn white and some faces will turn black, the verse, some people disbelieved after their belief, as you hear. And it was mentioned to us that the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, used to say: "By the One in Whose Hand is the soul of Muhammad, some people from among my companions will come to me at the Cistern, and when they are brought up to me and I see them, they will be kept away from me, so I will say: 'O Lord! My companions! My companions!' And it will be said: 'You do not know what they innovated after you!'" And his statement: As for those whose faces will turn white, they will be in the mercy of God, these are the people of obedience to God and loyalty to the covenant of God. God, the Almighty, said: So in the mercy of God, they will abide therein eternally.

Muhammad bin Al-Hussein told us, Ahmad bin Al-Mufaddal told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi: "On the Day when some faces will turn white and some faces will turn black. As for those whose faces will turn black, it will be said: Did you disbelieve after your belief? Then taste the punishment for what you used to disbelieve." This is from those who disbelieved from the people of the Qiblah when they fought.

Ibn Wakee' told us, he said, my father told us, on the authority of Hammad bin Salamah and Al-Rabi' bin Subaih, on the authority of Abu Mujalid, on the authority of Abu Umamah: As for those whose faces will be blackened, did you disbelieve after your belief? He said: They are the Khawarij.

Others said: What is meant by that is: everyone who disbelieved in God after the faith he had, when God took from the loins of Adam his offspring and made them testify against themselves what was stated in His Book.

Who said that?

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Ali bin Al-Haitham told us, he said, Ibn Abi Ja'far told us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-Rabi', on the authority of Abi Al-'Aliyah, on the authority of Abi bin Ka'b, regarding His statement: On the Day when some faces will turn white and some faces will turn black, he said: On the Day of Resurrection, they will be divided into two groups. Then He will say to those whose faces will turn black, and He will reproach them: Did you disbelieve after your belief? Then taste the punishment for what you used to disbelieve. He said: It is the faith that existed before the differences in the time of Adam, when He took their covenant and pledge from them, and they all acknowledged servitude, and He created them upon Islam, so they were one Muslim nation. He says: Did you disbelieve after your belief? He means: after that which existed in the time of Adam. And He said about the others: those who remained steadfast in their belief, so they devoted religion and deeds to Him, so God made their faces white, and admitted them into His pleasure and Paradise.

Others said: Rather, those meant by his saying, Did you disbelieve after your belief, are the hypocrites.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Sinan told me, he said, Abu Bakr al-Hanafi told us, on the authority of Ibad, on the authority of al-Hasan: On the Day when some faces will turn white and some faces will turn black, the verse, he said: They are the hypocrites, they gave the word of faith with their tongues, but denied it with their hearts and actions.

Abu Ja'far said: The most correct of the statements we mentioned is the statement we mentioned on the authority of Ubayy ibn Ka'b, that he meant all the infidels, and that the faith from which they are rebuked for their apostasy is the faith that they acknowledged on the day it was said to them: Am I not your Lord? They said: Yes, we bear witness. (Al-A'raf: 172)

This is because God, the Most High, has made all the people of the Hereafter into two groups: one with black faces, and the other with white faces. It is known - since there are only these two groups - that all the disbelievers are included in the group of those with black faces, and that all the believers are included in the group of those with white faces. So there is no reason for the speaker to say: Did you disbelieve after your belief? He meant some of the disbelievers and not others, while God, the Most High, has made the report general about all of them. And if all of them are included in that, and then all of them did not have a state in which they believed and then apostatized as disbelievers after that except one state, it is known that this is what is meant by that.

The interpretation of the verse is: Those will have a great punishment on a day when the faces of some people will turn white and the faces of others will turn black. As for those whose faces will turn black, it will be said: Did you deny the Oneness of God, His covenant and His pledge which you made with Him, that you would not associate anything with Him, and that you would devote worship to Him alone - after your belief, meaning: after your belief in Him? - Then taste the punishment for what you used to disbelieve, meaning: for what you used to deny in this world, what God had taken from you to acknowledge and believe in.

There are three issues:

First: The Almighty's saying: On the Day when some faces will turn white and some faces will turn black. This means on the Day of Resurrection when they are raised from their graves, the faces of the believers will be white and the faces of the disbelievers will be black. It is said that this is when the Book is read. If the believer reads his book and sees his good deeds in it, he will be happy and his face will turn white. If the disbeliever and hypocrite reads his book and sees his bad deeds in it, his face will turn black. It is also said that this is when the scales are weighed. If his good deeds outweigh his bad deeds, his face will turn white. It is also said that this is when the Almighty says: And separate yourselves today, you criminals. (Ya-Sin 36:59) It is also said that when the Day of Resurrection comes, each group will be commanded to gather before their deity. When they reach Him, they will be sad and their faces will turn black. The believers, the People of the Book, and the hypocrites will remain. Then God the Almighty will say to the believers: Who is your Lord? They will say: Our Lord is God the Almighty. Then He will say to them: Do you recognize Him when you see Him? They will say: Glory be to Him! If we see it, we will recognize it. They will see it as God wills. The believers will fall down in prostration to God, and their faces will become white like snow, while the hypocrites and the People of the Book will remain unable to prostrate, so they will be sad and their faces will blacken. This is the saying of God, the Most High:

On the Day when some faces will turn white and some faces will turn black. It is permissible to say <tabyad wa tasawwad>with a kasra on the two ta's, because you say: abyadt, so you break the ta' as you break the alif. This is the language of Tamim and Yahya ibn Waththab recited it in this way. Al-Zuhri recited <yawm tabyad wa tasawwad>with a kasra on the ta' as well. It is permissible to say <yawm yubiyadh wa hujhu>with a ya' as a masculine plural, and it is permissible to say <ajwah>like <aqtat>. The whitening of faces is their radiance with bliss. And their blackening is what burdens them with painful torment.

Second: They differed in the designation. Ibn Abbas said: The faces of the people of the Sunnah will be white and the faces of the people of innovation will be black.

I said: "This statement of Ibn Abbas was narrated by Malik bin Sulayman al-Harawi, the brother of Ghassan, on the authority of Malik bin Anas, on the authority of Nafi', on the authority of Ibn Umar, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said regarding the statement of God the Most High: "On the Day when some faces will turn white and some faces will turn black," he said: He means the faces of the people of the Sunnah will turn white and the faces of the people of innovation will turn black." Abu Bakr Ahmad bin Ali bin Thabit al-Khatib mentioned it. He said: It is an objectionable hadith of Malik. Ata' said: The faces of the Muhajireen and the Ansar will turn white and the faces of Banu Qurayzah and Banu Nadir will turn black. Abi bin Ka'b said: Those whose faces turned black are the disbelievers, and it was said to them: Did you disbelieve after your belief in your confession when you were brought forth from the loins of Adam like ants? This is the choice of al-Tabari. Al-Hasan: The verse is about the hypocrites. Qatadah: It is about the apostates. Ikrimah: They are a people from the People of the Book who believed in their prophets and believed in Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, before he was sent, but when he was sent, they disbelieved in him. This is what His statement: Did you disbelieve after your belief? This is the choice of al-Zajjaj. Malik ibn Anas: It is about the people of desires. "Abu Umamah al-Bahili on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, it is about the Kharijites." And in another report that "peace be upon him said: It is about the Qadarites." Al-Tirmidhi narrated on the authority of Abu Ghalib that Umamah said: The dogs of Hell are the worst of those killed under the sky, the best of those killed are those who killed him - then he recited - On the Day when some faces will turn white and some faces will turn black to the end of the verse. I said to Abu Umamah: Did you hear it from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace? He said: If I had not heard it from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, except once, twice, or three times - until he counted seven - I would not have narrated it to you. He said: This is a good hadith. "And in Sahih al-Bukhari on the authority of Sahl ibn Sa'd, he said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: I will precede you to the Cistern. Whoever passes by me will drink, and whoever drinks will never thirst again. People will come to me whom I know and who will know me, then I will be prevented from them." Abu Hazim said: Then Nu'man ibn Abi Ayyash heard me and said: Is this how you heard it from Sahl ibn Sa'd? I said: Yes. He said: I bear witness that Abu Saeed Al-Khudri heard him add to it: "Then I will say that they are from me. Then it will be said: You do not know what they innovated after you. Then I will say: Away with those who innovated after me." And on the authority of Abu Hurairah that he used to narrate that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: A group of my companions will come to me at the Cistern on the Day of Resurrection and they will be brought to the Cistern. Then I will say: O Lord, my companions. Then He will say: You have no knowledge of what they innovated after you. They turned back in retreat." And there are many hadiths with this meaning. Whoever changes, alters, or innovates in the religion of God what God does not approve of and does not permit, he is among those who are expelled from the Cistern, far away from it, with black faces. The most severely expelled and distant of them are those who oppose the community of Muslims and depart from their path, such as the Khawarij with their different sects, the Rawafidh with their different shades, and the Mu'tazilah with their various whims. All of these are changers and innovators, as are the oppressors who are excessive in injustice and oppression, obliterating the truth, killing its people, and humiliating them, and those who openly commit major sins but take their transgressions lightly, and the group of people of deviation, whims, and innovations. Everyone fears that they are meant by the verse and the hadith, as we have explained. No one will remain in the Fire forever except a disbelieving denier who does not have a mustard seed's weight of faith in his heart. Ibn al-Qasim said: There may be someone from those other than the people of whims who is worse than the people of whims. He used to say: The perfection of sincerity is avoiding sins.

Third: The Almighty's statement: As for those whose faces will be blackened, there is an omission in the speech, meaning it will be said to them, Did you disbelieve after your belief? meaning on the day of the covenant when they said, Yes. And it is said: This is for the Jews, and they were believers in Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, before he was sent, but when he was sent, they disbelieved in him. Abu Al-Aaliyah said: This is for the hypocrites, it is said: Did you disbelieve in secret after your admission in public? And the Arab scholars agreed that the letter fa must be used next to amma because the meaning in your statement, As for Zayd, he is leaving, is that whatever happens, Zayd is leaving.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

God the Almighty says: And let there be from you a group standing up to carry out God's command in calling to goodness, enjoining what is right and forbidding what is wrong, and those are the successful ones, Ad-Dahhak said: They are the special Companions and the special narrators, meaning the mujahideen and scholars. Abu Ja'far Al-Baqir said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, recited: And let there be from you a group inviting to goodness then he said: Goodness is following the Quran and my Sunnah narrated by Ibn Mardawayh. What is meant by this verse is that there should be a group from this nation that stands up to this matter, even though this is obligatory upon each individual of the nation according to his ability, as proven in Sahih Muslim, on the authority of Abu Hurairah who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever among you sees an evil, let him change it with his hand; if he is unable to do so, then with his tongue; if he is unable to do so, then with his heart - and that is the weakest of faith", and in another narration: And beyond that there is not even a mustard seed of faith.

Imam Ahmad said: Sulayman al-Hashimi told us, Ismail bin Ja'far told us, Amr bin Abi Amr told me, on the authority of Abdullah bin Abdul Rahman al-Ashhali, on the authority of Hudhayfah bin al-Yaman, that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "By the One in Whose Hand is my soul, you must enjoin what is right and forbid what is wrong, or God will soon send upon you a punishment from Him, and then you will call upon Him and He will not respond to you." Al-Tirmidhi and Ibn Majah narrated it on the authority of Amr bin Abi Amr, and al-Tirmidhi said: It is good. There are many hadiths on this subject, along with the noble verses, as their interpretation will come in their places. Then God Almighty said: And do not be like those who became divided and differed after clear proofs had come to them al-Baqarah 2:177. God Almighty forbids this nation from being like the past nations in their division and differences and their abandonment of enjoining what is right and forbidding what is wrong, despite the proof being established against them.

Imam Ahmad said: Abu Al-Mughira told us, Safwan told us, Azhar bin Abdullah al-Hawzani told me, on the authority of Abu Amir Abdullah bin Luhay, who said: We performed Hajj with Muawiyah bin Abi Sufyan, and when we arrived in Mecca, he stood up after praying the noon prayer and said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "The People of the Book split into seventy-two sects in their religion, and this nation will split into seventy-three sects - meaning the desires - all of them will be in Hell except one - which is the group - and there will emerge in my nation people who will trade with those desires as a dog trades with its owner, and there will not remain a vein or joint of it except that it enters it. By God, O people of the Arabs, if you do not do what your Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, came with, then it is more likely that others will not do it." And this is how Abu Dawud narrated it on the authority of Ahmad bin Hanbal and Muhammad bin Yahya, both of them on the authority of Abu Al-Mughira, whose name is Abdul Quddus bin Al-Hajaj Al-Shami, on his authority. This hadith has been transmitted through various chains of transmission.

Surat Al Imran 3:106

On the Day when some faces will turn white and some faces will turn black. As for those whose faces will turn black, [it will be said], "Did you disbelieve after your belief? Then taste the punishment for what you used to disbelieve."

And the Almighty's saying: On the Day when some faces will turn white and some faces will turn black means the Day of Resurrection, when the faces of the people of Sunnah and Jama'ah will turn white, and the faces of the people of innovation and division will turn black. This was said by Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both. As for those whose faces will turn black, did you disbelieve after your belief?

Al-Hasan Al-Basri said: They are the hypocrites. Then taste the punishment for what you used to disbelieve.

This description includes every disbeliever. As for those whose faces will turn white, they will be in the mercy of God, abiding therein forever. Meaning, Paradise, they will remain therein forever, not seeking to move away from it. Abu Isa Al-Tirmidhi said when interpreting this verse: Abu Kurayb told us, Waki' told us, on the authority of Rabi' bin Subaih and Hammad bin Salamah, on the authority of Abu Ghalib, who said: Abu Umamah saw heads erected on the steps of the mosque of Damascus, so Abu Umamah said: The dogs of Hell are the worst of those killed under the sky, and the best of those killed are those who killed him.

Then he recited: On the Day when some faces will turn white and some faces will turn black to the end of the verse. I said to Abu Umamah: Did you hear it from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace? He said: If I only heard it once, twice, three times, or four times - until he counted seven - and I did not tell you about it. Then he said: This is a good hadith. Ibn Majah narrated it from the hadith of Sufyan ibn Uyaynah on the authority of Abu Ghalib, and Ahmad included it in his Musnad on the authority of Abd al-Razzaq, on the authority of Muammar, on the authority of Abu Ghalib, in a similar manner.

Ibn Mardawayh narrated a long, strange, and very amazing hadith when interpreting this verse from Abu Dharr. Then God Almighty said: These are the verses of God which We recite to you, meaning these are the verses of God, His proofs and His evidences, which We recite to you, O Muhammad. In truth, meaning We reveal what the matter is in this world and the next.

And God does not desire injustice for the worlds, meaning He is not unjust to them, but He is the Judge, the Just One who does not transgress, because He is capable of everything and knows everything. He does not need, however, to wrong any of His creation. For this reason God Almighty said: And to God belongs whatever is in the heavens and whatever is on the earth, meaning that all belong to Him and are His servants. And to God all matters return, meaning He is the Judge who controls this world and the next.

And his saying 106- On the Day when faces will be white is in the accusative case with an implied verb: i.e. remember, and it was said: with what is indicated by his saying for them is a great punishment, its meaning is that a great punishment is established for them on the Day when faces will be white, i.e. on the Day of Resurrection when they are raised from their graves, the faces of the believers will be white and the faces of the disbelievers will be black. And it is said: that is when the book is read, when the believer reads his book he sees his good deeds and is happy and his face whitens, and when the disbeliever reads his book he sees his bad deeds and is sad and his face blackens. And the indefiniteness in faces is for many: i.e. many faces. Yahya bin Watthab read tabbayd and tasawud with a kasra on the two ta's. And al-Zuhri read tabiyad and tasawwad. His saying: Did you disbelieve? That is, it will be said to them: Did you disbelieve? The hamza is for rebuke and astonishment at their state. This is a detailed account of the states of the two groups after the summary. The statement of the state of the disbelievers was presented because the situation is one of warning and intimidation. It was said: They are the People of the Book, and it was said: The apostates, and it was said: The hypocrites, and it was said: The innovators.

106- The day when some faces will turn white and some faces will turn black, Day is an accusative of circumstance, meaning: on a day, and the accusative of circumstance is a comparison to the object, meaning: the faces of the believers will turn white and the faces of the disbelievers will turn black. It was also said: the faces of the sincere will turn white and the faces of the hypocrites will turn black.

On the authority of Saeed bin Jubair, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, that he recited this verse and said: The faces of the people of the Sunnah will be white and the faces of the people of innovation will be black.

Al-Kalbi said on the authority of Abu Salih on the authority of Ibn Abbas: When the Day of Resurrection comes, what they used to worship will be lifted up for every people, and every people will strive to what they used to worship, and this is the saying of God Almighty: We will give him what he took (An-Nisaa': 115). So when they reach it, they will be sad and their faces will turn black from sadness, and the people of the Qiblah, the Jews and the Christians will remain, not recognizing anything that was lifted up for them. Then God will come to them and those who used to prostrate to Him in this world will prostrate to Him, obedient and believing, and the People of the Book and the hypocrites will remain, unable to prostrate. Then permission will be given to them, and they will raise their heads, and the faces of the believers will be as white as snow. When the hypocrites and the People of the Book look at the faces of the believers, they will be extremely sad and their faces will turn black. They will say: Our Lord, why are our faces black? By God, we were not polytheists. Then God will say to the angels: Look how they lied to themselves.

The people of meaning said: The whitening of faces:

their radiance, good tidings, and happiness with their deeds and with the reward of God, and their blackening: their sadness, gloom, and eclipse with their deeds and with the punishment of God, indicated by the words of God the Most High: For those who do good is the best [reward] and even more, and neither darkness nor disgrace will cover their faces (Yunus 10:26). And God the Most High said: And those who have earned evil deeds - the recompense of evil will be like it, and disgrace will cover them (Yunus 10:27). And He said: Some faces, that Day, will be radiant, looking at their Lord, and some faces, that Day, will be dismal (al-Qiyamah 75:22-24). And He said: Some faces, that Day, will be radiant, laughing and cheerful, and some faces, that Day, will be covered with dust (Abasa 80:37-40).

As for those whose faces will be blackened, 'Did you disbelieve after your belief?' It means: It will be said to them: Did you disbelieve after your belief? Then taste the punishment for what you used to disbelieve.

If it is said: How did he say: Did you disbelieve after your belief, while they were not believers? It was narrated on the authority of Abi bin Kaab that he meant by it: the faith on the day of the covenant, when he said to them: Am I not your Lord? They said: He says: Did you disbelieve after your belief on the day of the covenant? Al-Hasan said: They are the hypocrites who spoke the faith with their tongues, but denied it in their hearts.

On the authority of Ikrimah: They are the People of the Book. They believed in their prophets and in Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, before he was sent, but when he was sent, they disbelieved in him.

Some people said: They are from the people of our Qiblah. Abu Umamah said: They are the Khawarij. Qatada said: They are the people of innovation.

Abdul Wahid bin Ahmad Al-Malhi told us, Ahmad bin Abdullah Al-Nuaimi told us, Muhammad bin Yusuf told us, Muhammad bin Ismail told us, Saeed bin Abi Maryam told us, Nafi bin Umar told us, Ibn Abi Malekah told us, Asma bint Abi Bakr told us, she said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "I will precede you to the Cistern until I see who among you comes to me. Some people will be taken before me, and I will say: 'O God, from me and from my nation.' It will be said to me: 'Did you notice what they did after you left?' By God, they have not ceased to turn back on their heels."

Al-Harith Al-A'war said: I heard Ali, may God be pleased with him, on the pulpit saying: A man may leave his family and not return to them until he does an action that merits Paradise, and a man may leave his family and not return to them until he does an action that merits Hell. Then he recited, On the Day when some faces will turn white and some faces will turn black, the verse, then he called out: They are the ones who disbelieved after believing - by the Lord of the Kaaba.

Abu Abdullah Muhammad bin Al-Fadl Al-Kharqi told us, Abu Al-Hasan Al-Taysifuni told us, Abdullah bin Omar Al-Jawhari told us, Ahmad bin Ali Al-Kashmihani told us, Ali bin Hajar told us, Ismail bin Jaafar told us, Al-Ala bin Abdul-Rahman told us, his father told us, Abu Hurairah told us that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "Hasten to do good deeds before there are trials like pieces of a dark night. A man will go to bed a believer and wake up an unbeliever, and he will go to bed a believer and wake up an unbeliever, selling his religion for worldly gain."

Tafsir al-Baidawi

106 On the Day when some faces will turn white and some faces will turn black is in the accusative case with the meaning of the verb for them, or with the implied mention. The whiteness of faces and its blackness are two metaphors for the appearance of the joy of happiness and the gloom of fear in it. It was said that the people of truth will be marked by the whiteness of faces and the record and the radiance of skin and the light running between His hands and His right hand, and the people of falsehood by the opposites of that. As for those whose faces will turn black, did you disbelieve after your belief? meaning that it will be said to them, Did you disbelieve? The hamza is for rebuke and astonishment at their state, and they are the apostates or the People of the Book who disbelieved in the Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, after their belief in him before his mission, or all the disbelievers disbelieved after they acknowledged him when he made them witness against themselves or they were able to believe by looking at the evidence and verses. Then taste the punishment is an order of humiliation. For what you used to disbelieve because of your disbelief or as a punishment for your disbelief.

Surat Al Imran 3:107

And as for those whose faces will be whitened, they will be in the mercy of God, abiding therein eternally.

Surat Al Imran 3:107

And as for those whose faces will be whitened, they will be in the mercy of God, abiding therein eternally.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And as for those whose faces will be white and they are the believers they will be in the mercy of God that is, His Paradise therein they will abide eternally

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

And as for those whose faces have turned white, those who have remained steadfast in God's covenant and pledge, and have not changed their religion, nor turned back after acknowledging monotheism, and bearing witness to the divinity of their Lord, and that there is no god but Him, they are in the mercy of God, meaning: in His Paradise and its bliss and what God has prepared for its people in it, they will abide therein eternally, meaning: they will remain therein forever without end or limit.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

And the Almighty said: And as for those whose faces will be white, these are the people of obedience to God the Almighty and the faithful to His covenant. In the mercy of God they will abide therein, meaning in His Paradise and the abode of His honor, they will abide therein forever. May God make us among them and keep us away from the paths of innovations and misguidance and guide us to the path of those who believe and do righteous deeds. Amen.

He said: If I only heard it once, twice, three times, or four times - until he counted seven - and I did not tell you about it. Then he said: This is a good hadith. Ibn Majah narrated it from the hadith of Sufyan ibn Uyaynah on the authority of Abu Ghalib, and Ahmad included it in his Musnad on the authority of Abd al-Razzaq, on the authority of Muammar, on the authority of Abu Ghalib, in a similar manner.

Ibn Mardawayh narrated a long, strange, and very amazing hadith when interpreting this verse from Abu Dharr. Then God Almighty said: These are the verses of God which We recite to you, meaning these are the verses of God, His proofs and His evidences, which We recite to you, O Muhammad. In truth, meaning We reveal what the matter is in this world and the next. And God does not desire injustice for the worlds, meaning He is not unjust to them, but He is the Judge, the Just One who does not transgress, because He is capable of everything and knows everything. He does not need, however, to wrong any of His creation. For this reason God Almighty said: And to God belongs whatever is in the heavens and whatever is on the earth, meaning that all belong to Him and are His servants. And to God all matters return, meaning He is the Judge who controls this world and the next.

Fath al-Qadir

And his saying 107- Then in the mercy of God meaning: in His Paradise and the abode of His honor. He expressed that with mercy as an indication that the work does not alone enter its doer into Paradise, rather mercy is necessary, and from it is the hadith No one will enter Paradise by his work which is in the Sahih. And his saying: They will abide therein eternally is an introductory sentence in response to an implied question. And that is an indication of what came before about the punishment of the disbelievers and the comfort of the believers.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

107- The Almighty said: And as for those whose faces will be white, these are the people of obedience, they will be in the mercy of God, the Paradise of God, therein they will abide eternally.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

107 And as for those whose faces will be white, they will be in the mercy of God meaning Paradise and eternal reward. He expressed this with mercy as a warning that even if the believer spends his life in obeying God the Most High, he will not enter Paradise except by His mercy and grace. The proper arrangement would have been to mention them first, but the intention was for the beginning and end of the speech to be about the adornment of the believers and their reward. They will abide therein eternally It was narrated as a resumption for emphasis, as if it was said: How will they be there? So he said: They will abide therein eternally.

Abu Jaafar said: What He, the Most High, means by His saying, These are the signs of God, is that these are the signs of God.

We have already explained how the Arabs put that and that in place of this and that, in other places in the past, so there is no need to repeat it.

His saying: The verses of God, meaning God's sermons, lessons, and arguments, We recite them to you, we read them to you and we narrate them, in truth, meaning with honesty and certainty.

What he means by his saying: These are the signs of God are these verses in which he mentioned the affairs of the believers from the supporters of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and the affairs of the Jews of the Children of Israel and the People of the Book, and what he will do with the people who are faithful to his covenant, and with those who change his religion, and those who break his covenant after acknowledging it. Then the Almighty informed His Prophet Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, that He would recite that to him in truth, and informed him that whoever punishes among His creation with what He informed him He would punish him with: by blackening his face, and immortalizing him in His painful torment and great punishment, and whoever rewards him from among them with what He rewards him with: by whitening his face, honoring him, and ennobling his status with Him, by immortalizing him in His eternal bliss, then it is not through injustice from Him to a group of them, but rather because of the right they deserved, and deeds of theirs that He rewarded them for, so the Almighty said: And God does not desire injustice for the worlds, meaning by that: And God, O Muhammad, is not by blackening the faces of these and making them taste the great torment, and whitening the faces of those and making them enjoy His Paradise, seeking to place something of what He did of that in a place other than its place, informing His servants with that that He will not amend in His wisdom for His creation other than what He promised the people of His obedience and faith in Him, and other than what He threatened the people of His disobedience and disbelief in Him, and as a warning from Him to these, and as a good tiding from Him to those.

The Almighty's saying: These are the verses of God is a subject and predicate, meaning the Qur'an. We recite them to you meaning We send Gabriel down to you so he recites them to you. In truth meaning with honesty. Al-Zajjaj said: These are the verses of God mentioned are God's proofs and evidence. It was said: Those means these, but when it ended it became as if it had become distant, so it was said those. It is possible for the verses of God to be a substitute for those and not an adjective, because the vague cannot be described by the adjective. And God does not intend injustice to the worlds meaning that He does not punish them without sin.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

God the Almighty says: And let there be from you a group standing up to carry out God's command in calling to goodness, enjoining what is right and forbidding what is wrong, and those are the successful ones, Ad-Dahhak said: They are the special Companions and the special narrators, meaning the mujahideen and scholars. Abu Ja'far al-Baqir said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, recited: And let there be from you a group inviting to goodness then he said: Goodness is following the Quran and my Sunnah narrated by Ibn Mardawayh. What is meant by this verse is that there should be a group from this nation that stands up to this matter, even though this is obligatory upon each individual of the nation according to his ability, as proven in Sahih Muslim, on the authority of Abu Hurairah who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever among you sees an evil, let him change it with his hand; if he is unable to do so, then with his tongue; if he is unable to do so, then with his heart - and that is the weakest of faith", and in another narration: And beyond that there is not even a mustard seed of faith.

Imam Ahmad said: Sulayman al-Hashimi told us, Ismail bin Ja'far told us, Amr bin Abi Amr told me, on the authority of Abdullah bin Abdul Rahman al-Ashhali, on the authority of Hudhayfah bin al-Yaman, that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "By the One in Whose Hand is my soul, you must enjoin what is right and forbid what is wrong, or God will soon send upon you a punishment from Him, and then you will call upon Him and He will not respond to you." Al-Tirmidhi and Ibn Majah narrated it on the authority of Amr bin Abi Amr, and al-Tirmidhi said: It is good. There are many hadiths on this subject, along with the noble verses, as their interpretation will come in their places. Then God Almighty said: And do not be like those who became divided and differed after clear proofs had come to them al-Baqarah 2:177. God Almighty forbids this nation from being like the past nations in their division and differences and their abandonment of enjoining what is right and forbidding what is wrong, despite the proof being established against them.

Imam Ahmad said: Abu Al-Mughira told us, Safwan told us, Azhar bin Abdullah Al-Hawzani told me, on the authority of Abu Amir Abdullah bin Luhay, who said: We performed Hajj with Muawiyah bin Abi Sufyan, and when we arrived in Mecca, he stood up after praying the noon prayer and said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "The People of the Book split into seventy-two sects in their religion, and this nation will split into seventy-three sects - meaning the desires - all of them will be in Hell except one - which is the group - and there will emerge in my nation people who will trade with those desires as a dog trades with its owner, and there will not remain a vein or joint of it except that it enters it. By God, O people of the Arabs, if you do not do what your Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, came with, then it is more likely that others will not do it." And this is how Abu Dawud narrated it on the authority of Ahmad bin Hanbal and Muhammad bin Yahya, both of them on the authority of Abu Al-Mughira, whose name is Abdul Quddus bin Al-Hajjaj Al-Shami, on his authority. This hadith has been transmitted through various chains of transmission.

And the Almighty's saying: On the Day when some faces will turn white and some faces will turn black means the Day of Resurrection, when the faces of the people of Sunnah and Jama'ah will turn white, and the faces of the people of innovation and division will turn black. This was said by Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both. As for those whose faces will turn black, did you disbelieve after your belief? Al-Hasan Al-Basri said: They are the hypocrites. Then taste the punishment for what you used to disbelieve. This description includes every disbeliever. As for those whose faces will turn white, they will be in the mercy of God, abiding therein forever. Meaning, Paradise, they will remain therein forever, not seeking to move away from it. Abu Isa Al-Tirmidhi said when interpreting this verse: Abu Kurayb told us, Waki' told us, on the authority of Rabi' bin Subaih and Hammad bin Salamah, on the authority of Abu Ghalib, who said: Abu Umamah saw heads erected on the steps of the mosque of Damascus, so Abu Umamah said: The dogs of Hell are the worst of those killed under the sky, and the best of those killed are those who killed him. Then he recited: On the Day when some faces will turn white and some faces will turn black to the end of the verse. I said to Abu Umamah: Did you hear it from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace? He said: If I only heard it once, twice, three times, or four times - until he counted seven - and I did not tell you about it. Then he said: This is a good hadith. Fath al-Qadir

And His saying 108- We recite it to you in truth is a circumstantial clause, and in truth is related to something omitted: i.e. clothed in truth, which is justice. And His saying And God does not desire injustice for the worlds is a tail clause confirming the content of what preceded it, and in the negation being directed to the will of the indefinite noun, there is evidence that He, glory be to Him, does not desire an individual from the individuals of injustice that befall an individual from the individuals of the world. What is meant by what is in the heavens and what is on the earth are His creations, glory be to Him: i.e. He has that, and He disposes of it as He wills and as He wills, and He expressed it with what to give precedence to the irrational over the rational because of their large number, or to place the rational in the same position as others. Al-Mahdawi said: The connection between this and what came before it is that when he mentioned the conditions of the believers and the unbelievers and that he does not want injustice for the worlds, he connected it to mentioning the breadth of his power and his independence from injustice because what is in the heavens and what is on the earth is in his grasp. It was said: It is the beginning of a statement that includes the statement to his servants that everything in the heavens and what is on the earth belongs to him so that they ask him and worship him and do not worship anyone other than him.

Abu Ja'far said: By that, may His praise be glorified, He means that He punishes those who disbelieved after their belief with what He mentioned that He will punish them with of great torment and blackening of faces, and He rewards the people of faith in Him who were steadfast in belief and fulfillment of their covenants that they made with what He described as His reward for them of eternity in His Paradise, without wronging either party in what he did, because He has no need for wrongdoing. This is because the wrongdoer only wrongs another in order to increase his own glory by wronging him, or to increase his authority, or to decrease some of his causes by which he completes the wrongdoing of another in what was lacking in its causes from completion. As for He who has everything between the regions of the East and the West, and what is in this world and the Hereafter, there is no point in him wronging anyone, so it is permissible for him to wrong something, because none of His causes is lacking and needs completion, so that is completed by wronging another, God is exalted, greatly exalted. Therefore, God Almighty said after His statement: And God does not intend injustice for the worlds, "And to God belongs whatever is in the heavens and whatever is on the earth, and to God all matters are returned."

The Arabists differed about the reason for God Almighty repeating His name with His statement: And to God all matters return, apparently, and His name was mentioned before with His statement: And to God belongs whatever is in the heavens and whatever is on the earth. Some Arabists from Basra said: This is similar to the Arabs' saying: As for Zaid, Zaid has gone, and as the poet said:

I do not see death preceded by anything that made death bitter to the rich and the poor

So it appears in the place of concealment.

Some grammarians of Kufa said: This is not similar to this verse, because the second place of death in the verse is a place of metaphor, because it is a single word, and this is not the case in the verse, because his saying: And to God belongs whatever is in the heavens and whatever is on the earth is a predicate, not from his saying: And to God all matters return in any way. This is because each of the two stories is separate in meaning from the other, each of them is sufficient on its own, not in need of the other. And what the poet said: I do not see death, is in need of a complete predicate about it.

Abu Ja'far said: This second statement is more correct in our view, because the meanings of the Book of God Almighty and what is in it of explanation are not directed to the oddities of speech and meanings, and it has a correct and existing aspect in eloquent logic and apparent understood meanings. As for His statement: And to God all matters return, He, the Most High, means: To God is the final destination of the matter of all His creation, the righteous among them and the wicked, the doer of good and the wrongdoer, so He rewards each according to the degree to which they deserve reward from Him, without wronging any of them.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

And to God belongs whatever is in the heavens and whatever is on the earth. Fath al-Qadir

And his saying 109- And to God all matters return meaning: not to anyone else, neither in partnership nor independently.

Ibn Mardawayh narrated on the authority of Abu Ja'far al-Baqir who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, recited: 'And let there be among you a community inviting to good.' He said: 'Good is following the Qur'an and my Sunnah.' Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Abu al-'Aliyah who said: 'Every verse that God mentioned in the Qur'an regarding enjoining good is Islam and forbidding evil is worshipping idols and Satan.' This is a specification without specifying it, as there is nothing in the language of the Arabs or in the terminology of the Shari'ah that indicates this. Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Muqatil ibn Hibban who said: 'Inviting to good' means Islam, 'enjoining what is right' means obeying their Lord, 'and forbidding what is wrong' means disobeying their Lord. Ibn Jarir and Ibn al-Mundhir narrated on the authority of al-Dahhak regarding the verse, saying: 'They are the companions of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, specifically, and he is the narrators.' I do not know what justified this specification, as the address in this verse is like the address in all the matters that God has prescribed for His servants and charged them with. Abu Dawud, Al-Tirmidhi, Ibn Majah and Al-Hakim narrated - and authenticated it - on the authority of Abu Hurayrah who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "The Jews split into seventy-one sects, and the Christians split into seventy-two sects, and my nation will split into seventy-three sects." Ahmad, Abu Dawud and Al-Hakim narrated a similar hadith on the authority of Mu'awiyah, with the addition: All of them are in Hell except one, which is the group. Al-Hakim narrated a similar hadith on the authority of Abdullah ibn Amr, with the addition: "All of them are in Hell except one religion. It was said to him: What is the one? He said: What I and my companions are upon today." Ibn Majah narrated a similar hadith on the authority of Awf ibn Malik, with the addition: One is in Paradise and seventy-two are in Hell. It was said: O Messenger of God, who are they? He said: The group." Ahmad narrated it on the authority of Anas, with the addition: "It was said: O Messenger of God, who is that group? He said: The group." Many verses and hadiths have been narrated about enjoining good and forbidding evil, enjoining being in the group and forbidding division. Ibn Abi Hatim and Al-Khatib narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas regarding his statement, On the Day when faces will be white, he said: The faces of the people of the Sunnah and the Community will be white, and the faces of the people of innovation and misguidance will be black. Al-Khatib and Al-Daylami narrated it on the authority of Ibn Umar, with a chain of transmission traceable to the Prophet, and Abu Nasr Al-Sajzi also narrated it in Al-Ibanah, with a chain of transmission traceable to the Prophet, on the authority of Abu Saeed. Ibn Jarir, Ibn Al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Ubayy ibn Ka'b regarding the verse, he said: They will become two groups on the Day of Resurrection. It will be said to the one whose face was blackened, Did you disbelieve after your belief? This is the belief that was in the lineage of Adam, when they were one nation. As for those whose faces were white, they are those who were steadfast in their belief and sincere in religion, so God whitened their faces and admitted them into His pleasure and Paradise. Other than that has been narrated.

And if the People of the Scripture had believed, it would have been better for them. Abu Jaafar said: The people of interpretation differed in the interpretation of his saying: You are the best nation produced for mankind.

Some of them said: They are those who migrated with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, from Mecca to Medina in particular, from the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace.

Who said that?

Abu Kuraib told us, he said, Amr bin Hammad told us, he said, Asbat told us, on the authority of Samak, on the authority of Saeed bin Jubair, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, he said regarding You are the best nation produced for mankind, he said: They are those who left with him from Mecca.

Abu Kuraib told us, he said, Ibn Atiyah told us, on the authority of Qais, on the authority of Samak, on the authority of Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas: You are the best nation produced for mankind, he said: They are those who migrated from Mecca to Medina.

Muhammad ibn al-Husayn told us, Ahmad told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of al-Suddi: "You are the best nation produced for mankind. You enjoin what is right and forbid what is wrong." Umar ibn al-Khattab said: If God had willed, He would have said: You, so we were all. But He said: You were in particular from among the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and those who did as they did. They were the best nation produced for mankind. They enjoin what is right and forbid what is wrong.

Al-Qasim told us, Al-Hussein told us, Hajjaj told me, Ibn Jurayj said, Ikrimah said: It was revealed about Ibn Masoud, Salim, the freed slave of Abu Hudhayfah, Ubayy ibn Ka'b, and Muadh ibn Jabal.

Abu Kuraib told us, he said, Mus'ab bin Al-Muqaddam told us, on the authority of Israel, on the authority of Al-Suddi, on the authority of someone who told him: Umar said: You are the best nation produced for mankind. He said: It will be for the first of us and not for the last of us.

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said, Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said, Israel told us, on the authority of Samak bin Harb, on the authority of Saeed bin Jubair, on the authority of Ibn Abbas: You are the best nation produced for mankind, he said: They are those who migrated with the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, to Medina.

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, he said: It was mentioned to us that Omar bin Al-Khattab said during a Hajj he performed and he saw bad behavior from the people, so he recited this: You are the best nation produced for mankind, the verse. Then he said: O people, whoever is pleased to be from that nation, let him fulfill the condition of God regarding it.

Yahya bin Abi Talib told me, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Juwaybir told us, on the authority of Ad-Dahhak, regarding his statement: You are the best nation produced for mankind, he said: They are the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, in particular, meaning: And they were the narrators and preachers whom God commanded the Muslims to obey.

Others said: The meaning of this is: You are the best nation brought forth for mankind, if you have these conditions that God Almighty described you with. So the interpretation of this according to them was: You are the best nation, enjoining what is right and forbidding what is wrong and believing in God, brought forth for mankind in your time.

Who said that?

Muhammad ibn Amr told me, he said, Abu Asim told us, on the authority of Isa, on the authority of Ibn Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding the statement of God Almighty: You are the best nation produced for mankind, he says: on this condition: that you enjoin what is right, forbid what is wrong, and believe in God, he says: for those among whom you are, like His statement: And We chose them with knowledge over the worlds (al-Dukhan 44:32).

Al-Qasim told us, he said, Al-Husayn told us, he said, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding his statement: You are the best nation produced for mankind, he said, he says: You are the best people for mankind on this condition:

that you enjoin what is right, forbid what is wrong, and believe in God, he says: for those who are behind him, like his statement: And We chose them with knowledge over the worlds (al-Dukhan 44:32).

Ibn Wakee' told us, he said, my father told us, on the authority of Sufyan, on the authority of Maysarah, on the authority of Abu Hazim, on the authority of Abu Hurairah: You are the best nation produced for mankind. He said: You were the best people for mankind, you brought them in chains, you brought them into Islam.

Ubaid bin Asbat told us, he said, my father told us, on the authority of Fadil bin Marzouq, on the authority of Atiyah, regarding his statement: You are the best nation produced for mankind, he said: The best people for mankind.

Others said: It was said, You are the best nation produced for mankind, because they were the nations most responsive to Islam.

Who said that?

It was narrated on the authority of Ammar ibn al-Hasan, who said: Ibn Abi Ja'far narrated to us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of al-Rabi', regarding his saying: "You are the best nation produced for mankind. You enjoin what is right and forbid what is wrong." He said: There was no nation more responsive to Islam than this nation, so he said: You are the best nation produced for mankind.

Some of them said: He meant by that that they were the best nation brought forth for mankind.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Sinan told me, he said, Abu Bakr al-Hanafi told us, on the authority of Ibad, on the authority of al-Hasan, regarding his statement: "You are the best nation produced for mankind. You enjoin what is right and forbid what is wrong," he said: What you hear of goodness has been in this nation.

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, he said: Al-Hasan used to say: We are the last of them and the most honorable of them to God.

Abu Jaafar said: The most appropriate of these sayings to interpret the verse is what Al-Hasan said, which is that:

Yaqub bin Ibrahim told me, he said, Ibn Ulayyah told us, on the authority of Bahz bin Hakim, on the authority of his father, on the authority of his grandfather, he said: I heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: Behold, you have succeeded seventy nations, and you are the last of them and the most honored of them in the sight of God.

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said, Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said, Muammar told us, "On the authority of Bahz bin Hakim, on the authority of his father, on the authority of his grandfather: that he heard the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, say regarding his statement: 'You are the best nation produced for mankind,' he said: You complete seventy nations, you are the best of them and the most honored of them in the sight of God."

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, he said: It was mentioned to us that "the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said one day while he was leaning his back against the Kaaba: We will complete seventy nations on the Day of Resurrection, we are the last of them and the best of them."

As for his saying: You enjoin what is right, it means: You enjoin belief in God and His Messenger, and working according to His laws, and you forbid what is wrong, meaning: You forbid associating partners with God, denying His Messenger, and working according to what He forbade, as:

Ali bin Dawud told us, Abdullah bin Saleh told us, Muawiyah told me, on the authority of Ali, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding his statement: You are the best nation produced for mankind, meaning: You command them to do what is right: to testify that there is no god but God, and to acknowledge what God has revealed, and you fight them for it, and there is no god but God, is the greatest good, and you forbid them from evil, and evil is denial, and it is the worst evil.

The origin of the known is everything that is known to be done, beautiful and approved, and not considered ugly by people of faith in God. Rather, obedience to God is called known because it is something that people of faith know and do not find objectionable.

The root of munkar is what God disapproved of and considered ugly to do. That is why disobeying God is called munkar, because those who believe in God disapprove of doing it and consider it too great to do it.

His saying: And you believe in God, means: You believe in God, so you devote monotheism and worship to Him.

Abu Ja'far said: If someone asks, "How is it said, 'You were the best nation,' when you have claimed that the interpretation of the verse is that this nation is the best of the nations that have passed, and it is only said, 'You were the best nation,' about a people who were good and then changed from what they were?"

It was said: The meaning of this is contrary to what you have gone to, and rather its meaning is: You are the best nation, as it was said: And remember when you were few (al-Anfal 8:26), and He said in another place: And remember when you were few and He made you many (al-A'raf 7:86), so the inclusion of kan in such a case and its omission have the same meaning, because the meaning of the speech is known.

If someone also said about this: You were, meaning completeness, its interpretation would be: You were created the best nation, or: You found the best nation, which would be a correct meaning.

Some Arabists have claimed that the meaning of this is: You were the best nation in the sight of God in the Preserved Tablet, brought forth for mankind.

The first two statements that we mentioned are more similar in meaning to the report that we narrated

Surat Al Imran 3:110

You are the best nation produced for mankind. You enjoy what is right and forbid what is wrong and believe in God. And if the People of the Scripture had believed, it would have been better for them. Among them are believers, but most of them are defiantly disobedient.

Others said: The meaning of this is: You were the best people of the path. He said: The nation, the path.

Abu Ja'far said: By this, the Most High means: If the people of the Torah and the Gospel, the Jews and Christians, had believed in Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and what he brought to them from God, it would have been better for them with God in this world and the hereafter. Among them are the believers, meaning: among the People of the Book, the Jews and Christians, the believers who believed in the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, in what he brought to them from God, and they are: 'Abdullah bin Salam and his brother, and Tha'laba bin Sa'iyah and his brother, and those like them who believed in God and believed in His Messenger Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and followed what he brought to them from God, but most of them are wicked, meaning: those who have deviated from their religion. That is because the religion of the Jews is to follow what is in the Torah and believe in Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and the religion of the Christians is to follow what is in the Gospel and believe in him and what is in the Torah, and in both books there is a description of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, his attributes, his mission, and that he is a prophet of God. Both groups - I mean the Jews and Christians - are liars. This is their immorality and their departure from the religion that they claim to follow, which God Almighty said: Most of them are immoral.

Qatada said:

Bishr bin Muadh told us, Yazid told us, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada: Among them are believers, but most of them are wicked. God condemned most people.

Abu Ja'far said: By that, may His praise be glorified, He means: O people of faith in God and His Messenger, these wicked people of the Book will not harm you in any way, with their disbelief and denial of your Prophet Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, except harm. He means by that: But they harm you with their polytheism, and making you hear their disbelief, and what they say about Jesus, his mother, and Ezra, and their calling you to misguidance, and they will not harm you with that.

This is an isolated exception that contradicts the meaning of what precedes it, as it is said: He did not complain about anything except good, and this is a word that is transmitted from the Arabs by hearing.

And the people of interpretation said something similar to what we said about that.

Who said that?

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: They will not harm you except with harm, he said: They will not harm you, except with harm that you hear from them.

It was narrated on the authority of Ammar, who said: Ibn Abi Ja'far narrated to us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-Rabi', regarding his statement: They will not harm you except with harm, he said: Harm that you hear from them.

Al-Qasim told us, he said, Al-Hussein told us, he said, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, regarding his statement: They will not harm you except with an annoyance, he said: Their associating partners with Ezra, Jesus, and the cross.

Muhammad bin Sinan told me, he said, Abu Bakr al-Hanafi told us, on the authority of Ibad, on the authority of al-Hasan, regarding his statement: They will not harm you except with annoyance the verse, he said: You hear from them lies about God, calling you to misguidance.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

The Almighty's saying: You are the best nation produced for mankind. There are three issues in it:

First: "Al-Tirmidhi narrated on the authority of Bahz bin Hakim on the authority of his father on the authority of his grandfather that he heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: Concerning the words of God the Almighty: "You are the best nation produced for mankind," he said: You complete seventy nations, you are the best of them and the most honored in the sight of God." He said: This is a good hadith. Abu Hurairah said: We are the best people for mankind, we drive them in chains to Islam. Ibn Abbas said: They are those who migrated from Mecca to Medina and witnessed Badr and Al-Hudaybiyyah. Umar bin Al-Khattab said: Whoever does what they did will be like them. It was said: They are the nation of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, meaning the righteous and virtuous among them. They are the witnesses over the people on the Day of Resurrection, as mentioned in Surat Al-Baqarah. Mujahid said: You are the best nation produced for mankind according to the conditions mentioned in the verse. It was said: Its meaning is: You were in the Preserved Tablet. It was said: You were the best nation since you believed. It was said: It came to present the good report to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his nation. The meaning is that when you came from the People of the Book, you were the best nation. Al-Akbfash said: He means the people of a nation, meaning the best people of religion, and he recited:

I swore and left no doubt for you. Can a man trust a slave while he is obedient?

It was said: It is the perfect kana, and the meaning is:

You were created and found to be the best nation. <The best nation> is a state. It was said: Kan is redundant, and the meaning is: You are the best nation. Sibawayh recited:

Our neighbors were generous.

And similar to it is the saying of God the Almighty: How can We speak to one who is in the cradle, a child?

(Maryam 19:29) and His saying: And remember when you were few and He multiplied you (al-A'raf 7:86).

And He said in another place: And remember when you were few (al-Anfal 8:26). Sufyan narrated on the authority of Maysarah Al-Ashja'i on the authority of Abu Hazim on the authority of Abu Hurairah: You were the best nation produced for mankind he said: You dragged people in chains to Islam. Al-Nahhas said: The meaning of this is: You were the best nation for mankind. And according to the saying of Mujahid: You were the best nation when you enjoined what is right and forbade what is wrong. And it was said: The nation of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, became the best nation because the Muslims were more numerous among them, and enjoining what is right and forbidding what is wrong was more widespread among them. So it was said: This is the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, "as he, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The best people are my generation" meaning those among whom I was sent.

Second: If it is proven by the text of the revelation that this nation is the best of nations, "The imams narrated from the hadith of Imran bin Husayn from the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, that he said: The best of people are my generation, then those who come after them, then those who come after them" the hadith. This indicates that the first of this nation are better than those who come after them, and this is what most scholars have adopted, and that whoever accompanied the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and saw him even once in his life is better than those who come after him, and that the virtue of companionship is not equaled by any action. Abu Omar bin Abdul Barr has adopted the view that there may be among those who come after the Companions someone better than those who were among the group of Companions, "and that his saying, may God bless him and grant him peace: The best of people are my generation" is not general, based on the evidence that the generation includes the virtuous and the inferior. His generation included a group of hypocrites who outwardly showed faith and people who committed major sins, upon whom or some of whom the prescribed punishments were imposed, and he said to them: What do you say about the thief, the drinker, and the adulterer? And he said, facing those who were in my generation: Do not curse my companions. And he said to Khalid bin Al-Walid about Ammar: Do not curse those who are better than you. Abu Umamah narrated that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Blessed is he who has seen me and believed in me, and blessed - seven times - is he who has not seen me and believed in me. In Musnad Abi Dawud al-Tayalisi, on the authority of Muhammad ibn Abi Hamid, on the authority of Zayd ibn Aslam, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Umar, who said: "I was sitting with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and he said: 'Do you know which of creation has the best faith?' We said: 'The angels.' He said: 'And they have the right, but others than them.' We said: 'The prophets.' He said: 'And they have the right, but others than them.' Then the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'The best of creation in faith are people in the loins of men who believe in me even though they have not seen me. They find paper and know what is in it, so they are the best of creation in faith.'" Salih ibn Jubayr narrated on the authority of Abu Jumah, who said: "We said: 'O Messenger of God, is there anyone better than us?' He said: 'Yes, a people who will come after you and find a book between two covers and believe in what is in it and believe in me even though they have not seen me.'" Abu Omar said: Abu Jumah: He was a companion and his name was Habib bin Saba' and Salih bin Jubair were trustworthy followers. Abu Tha'labah Al-Khushani narrated on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, that he said: There are days ahead of you in which the one who is patient in his religion will be like the one holding onto hot coals. The one who works in them will have the reward of fifty men who do the same as him. It was said: O Messenger of God, who are they? He said: Rather, from you. Abu Omar said: This phrase <rather, from you> was not mentioned by some of the hadith scholars and did not mention it. Omar bin Al-Khattab said in his interpretation of the statement: You are the best nation produced for mankind, he said: Whoever does as you do will be like you. There is no contradiction between the hadiths, because the first is specific, and God is the Grantor of success.

It has been said in explaining the hadiths of this chapter: His generation was preferred because they were strangers in their faith due to the large number of disbelievers and their patience in the face of their harm and their adherence to their religion. And the last of this nation, when they established the religion and adhered to it and were patient in obeying their Lord at a time when evil, immorality, chaos, sins and major sins appeared, they were also strangers at that time, and their deeds were pure at that time as the deeds of their predecessors were pure. "And what bears witness to this is his saying, peace be upon him: Islam began as something strange and will return as it began, so blessed are the strangers." And the hadith of Abu Tha'labah also bears witness to it, "And what bears witness to it is his saying, may God's prayers and peace be upon him: My nation is like rain, it is not known whether its beginning or its end is better." It was mentioned by Abu Dawud al-Tayalisi and Abu 'Isa al-Tirmidhi, "And Hisham ibn 'Ubaydullah al-Razi narrated it on the authority of Malik on the authority of al-Zuhri on the authority of Anas, who said: The Messenger of God, may God's prayers and peace be upon him, said: The example of my nation is like rain, it is not known whether its beginning or its end is better." It was mentioned by al-Darqutni in Musnad Hadith Malik. Abu Omar said: Hisham bin Ubaidullah is trustworthy and there is no disagreement about that. It was narrated that when Omar bin Abdul Aziz assumed the caliphate, he wrote to Salim bin Abdullah to write for me the biography of Omar bin Al-Khattab so that I may act upon it. Salim wrote to him: If you act upon the biography of Omar, then you are better than Omar because your time is not like the time of Omar, and your men are not like the men of Omar. He wrote to the jurists of his time, and all of them wrote to him similar to what Salim said. Some of the great scholars opposed the statement of the Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him): The best of people are my generation, with his statement: The best of people are those who live long and do good deeds, and the worst of people are those who live long and do bad deeds. Abu Omar said: These hadiths, with their numerous chains of transmission and their goodness, require equality between the first of this nation and its last. The meaning of this is what was mentioned above about faith and righteous deeds in a corrupt time in which people of knowledge and religion are removed, and immorality and chaos increase, and the believer remains and the immoral is honored, and religion returns to being strange as it began as strange, and the one who stands in it will be like the one holding hot coals. Then the first of this nation will be equal to the last of it in the virtue of deeds, except for the people of Badr and Al-Hudaybiyyah. And whoever ponders the effects of this chapter will see the truth for him, and God gives His grace to whomever He wills.

You are the best nation produced for mankind. You enjoin what is right and forbid what is wrong and believe in God. And if the People of the Scripture had believed, it would have been better for them. Among them are believers, but most of them are defiantly disobedient.

Third: The Almighty's saying: You enjoin what is right and forbid what is wrong is praise for this nation as long as they establish that and are characterized by it. But if they abandon change and conspire to commit evil, the name of praise will be removed from them and the name of blame will be attached to them, and that will be the reason for their destruction. We have already discussed enjoining what is right and forbidding what is wrong at the beginning of the surah.

The Almighty said: And if the People of the Scripture had believed, it would have been better for them. He informed us that the People of the Scripture's belief in the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, is better for them, and He informed us that among them are believers and sinners, and that the sinners are more numerous.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The Almighty tells us about this Muhammadan nation that they are the best of nations, so He the Almighty said: You are the best nation produced for mankind. Al-Bukhari said: Muhammad bin Yusuf told us, on the authority of Sufyan, on the authority of Maysarah, on the authority of Abu Hazim, on the authority of Abu Hurairah, may God be pleased with him, You are the best nation produced for mankind. He said: The best of people for mankind, you bring them in chains around their necks until they enter Islam. And this is what Ibn Abbas, Mujahid, Atiyah Al-Awfi, Ikrimah, Ata, and Al-Rabi bin Anas said: You are the best nation produced for mankind, meaning the best of people for mankind, and the meaning is that they are the best of nations and the most beneficial people to people, and for this reason He said: You enjoin what is right and forbid what is wrong and believe in God. Imam Ahmad said: Ahmad bin Abdul Malik told us, Sharik told us, on the authority of Samak, on the authority of Abdullah bin Umairah, on the authority of the husband of Durrah bint Abi Lahab, on the authority of Durrah bint Abi Lahab, who said: "A man stood up to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, while he was on the pulpit, and said: O Messenger of God, which of the people is the best? He said: The best of people are those who recite the Qur'an the most, are those who fear God the most, enjoin what is right, forbid what is wrong, and maintain ties of kinship. Ahmad narrated it in his Musnad, and al-Nasa'i in his Sunan, and al-Hakim in his Mustadrak, on the authority of Samak, on the authority of Sa'id ibn Jubayr, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding the words of God the Almighty: You are the best nation produced for mankind. He said: They are those who migrated with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, from Mecca to Medina. The correct view is that this verse is general for the entire nation, each generation according to its own circumstances, and the best of their generations are those among whom the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was sent, then those who came after them, then those who came after them, as He said in the other verse: And thus We have made you a just community, meaning the best, that you will be witnesses over the people.

In Musnad of Imam Ahmad, Jami' al-Tirmidhi, Sunan Ibn Majah and Mustadrak al-Hakim, on the authority of Hakim ibn Mu'awiyah ibn Haidah, on the authority of his father, he said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'You are the best of seventy nations, and you are the most honorable to God, the Almighty.' " This is a well-known hadith, and al-Tirmidhi classified it as hasan. It is also narrated on the authority of Mu'adh ibn Jabal and Abu Sa'id, similar to it. This nation has achieved the lead in good deeds through its Prophet Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, for he is the most honorable of God's creation and the most honorable of the Messengers to God. God sent him with a complete and great law that no Prophet or Messenger before him was given. So, working according to his method and path is enough to replace a little of what a lot of work from others cannot replace, as Imam Ahmad said: 'Abd al-Rahman told us, Ibn Zuhair told us, on the authority of Abdullah, meaning Ibn Muhammad ibn 'Aqil, on the authority of Muhammad ibn 'Ali, who is Ibn al-Hanafiyyah, that he heard 'Ali ibn Abi Talib, may God be pleased with him, say: "The Messenger of God said: I have been given what none of the Prophets have been given." We said, O Messenger of God, what is it? He said, I have been aided by terror, I have been given the keys to the earth, I have been named Ahmad, the earth has been made a means of purification for me, and my nation has been made the best of nations. Ahmad is the only one to narrate it from this source, and its chain of transmission is good.

Imam Ahmad also said: Abu Al-Ala Al-Hasan bin Suwar told us, Laith told us, on the authority of Muawiyah, on the authority of Abu Halbas Yazid bin Maysarah, who said: I heard Umm Al-Darda', may God be pleased with her, say: I heard Abu Al-Darda', may God be pleased with him, say: "I heard Abu Al-Qasim, may God's prayers and peace be upon him, and I had never heard him use his kunya before or after that, saying: God Almighty says: O Jesus, I will send after you a nation who, if what they like befalls them, will praise and thank them, and if what they dislike befalls them, they will seek reward and be patient, but they have no patience or knowledge." He said: O Lord, how can this be for them, and they have no patience or knowledge? He said: I will give them from My patience and knowledge.

There are hadiths that are appropriate to mention here. Imam Ahmad said: Hashim bin Al-Qasim told us, Al-Masoudi told us, Bakir bin Al-Akhns told us, on the authority of a man, on the authority of Abu Bakr Al-Siddiq, may God be pleased with him, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: I have been given seventy thousand who will enter Paradise without being brought to account, their faces like the moon on the night of the full moon, their hearts like the heart of one man, so I asked my Lord, the Almighty and Majestic, for more, and He increased me with each one by seventy thousand." Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him, said: I saw that this would come upon the people of the villages and would befall those on the edges of the deserts.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Abdullah bin Bakr Al-Sahmi told us, Hisham bin Hassan told us, on the authority of Al-Qasim bin Mihran, on the authority of Musa bin Ubaid, on the authority of Maimun bin Mihran, on the authority of Abd Al-Rahman bin Abi Bakr: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: My Lord has given me seventy thousand who will enter Paradise without being brought to account. Umar said: O Messenger of God, why didn't you ask Him for more? He said: I asked Him for more, and He gave me seventy thousand with each man. Umar said: Why didn't you ask Him for more? He said: I asked Him for more, and He gave me this much." And Abdullah bin Bakr spread his hands apart, and Abdullah said: And he stretched out his arms, and Abdullah urged, and Hisham said: This is from God, and he does not know how many.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Abu Al-Yaman told us, Ismail bin Ayyash told us, on the authority of Damdam bin Zur'ah, who said: Shureih bin Ubaid said: Thawban fell ill in Homs, and Abdullah bin Qurt Al-Azdi was in charge of it, so he did not visit him. Then a man from the Kalaa'in came to visit Thawban, and Thawban said to him: Will you write? He said: Yes. He said: Write. So he wrote to the emir Abdullah bin Qurt from Thawban, the freed slave of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace: As for what follows, if Moses and Jesus, peace be upon them, had a servant in your presence, you would have visited him. Then he folded the letter and said to him: Will you deliver it to him? He said: Yes. So the man went with his letter and gave it to Ibn Qurt, and when he saw him, he stood up in a panic, and the people said: What is the matter with him? Has something happened? Then Thawban came until he entered upon him, visited him and sat with him for a while, then he stood up and Thawban took his cloak and said: Sit down until I tell you a hadith that I heard from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, in which he said: Seventy thousand of my nation will enter Paradise without being brought to account or punished, and with every thousand there will be seventy thousand. Ahmad is the only one to narrate it from this source and its chain of transmission is all trustworthy men from Syria and Homs, so it is a sound hadith, praise and thanks be to God.

Another path: Al-Tabarani said: Amr bin Ishaq bin Zubayriq Al-Himsi told us, Muhammad bin Ismail, meaning Ibn Ayyash, told us, my father told me, on the authority of Damdam bin Zar'ah, on the authority of Shureih bin Ubaid, on the authority of Abu Asma Al-Rahbi, on the authority of Thawban, may God be pleased with him, who said: "I heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: 'My Lord, the Mighty and Sublime, promised me seventy thousand of my nation who will not be held accountable, with every thousand seventy thousand.'" Perhaps this is what is preserved with the addition of Abu Asma Al-Rahbi between Shureih and Thawban, and God knows best.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Abd al-Razzaq told us, Muammar told us, on the authority of Qatada, on the authority of al-Hasan, on the authority of Imran bin Husayn, on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud, may God be pleased with him, who said: We talked most of the time with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, one night, then we went to him and he said: "The prophets were shown to me tonight with their nations. A prophet would pass by with three people, a prophet with a group, a prophet with a few people, and a prophet with no one with him, until Moses, peace be upon him, passed by with a large group of the Children of Israel. I was amazed and said: Who are these? It was said: This is your brother Moses with the Children of Israel. He said: I said: Where are my nation? It was said: Look to your right. I looked and saw that the curtains had been closed with the faces of men. Then it was said to me: Look to your left. I looked and saw that the horizon had been closed with the faces of men. It was said to me: Are you satisfied? I said: I am satisfied, O Lord. He said: It was said to me: There are seventy thousand with these who will enter Paradise without being brought to account. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: And he said: May my father and mother be sacrificed for you, if you are able to be among the seventy thousand, then do so. If you fall short, then be among the people of the valley. If you fall short, then be among the people of the horizon, for I have seen people quarreling with one another. So Ukasha bin Muhsin stood up and said: O Messenger of God, pray to God to make me one of them, meaning one of the seventy. So he prayed for him, and another man stood up and said: Pray to God, O Messenger of God, to make me one of them. So he said: Ukasha has preceded you in that. He said: Then we talked and said: Who do you think these seventy thousand are? They are people who were born in Islam and did not associate anything with God until they died. So that reached the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and he said: "They are those who do not seek ruqyah, nor cauterize, nor take omens, and they put their trust in their Lord." This is how Ahmad narrated it with this chain of transmission and this context. He also narrated it on the authority of Abd al-Samad on the authority of Hisham on the authority of Qatadah with his chain of transmission similarly, and he added after his saying: I am satisfied, O Lord, I am satisfied, O Lord. He said: I am satisfied. I said: Yes. He said: Look to your left. He said: So I looked and saw that the horizon was blocked by the faces of men. He said: Are you satisfied? I said: I am satisfied. This is a sound chain of transmission from this source, transmitted only by Ahmad, and they did not include it.

You are the best nation produced for mankind. You enjoy what is right and forbid what is wrong and believe in God. And if the People of the Scripture had believed, it would have been better for them. Among them are believers, but most of them are defiantly disobedient.

Another hadith Ahmad ibn Mani' said: Abd al-Malik ibn Abd al-Aziz told us, Hammad told us, on the authority of Asim, on the authority of Zur, on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud, may God be pleased with him, who said: The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "The nations were presented to me with seasons, and my nation was pleased with me. Then I saw them and I was amazed by their large numbers and their appearance. They filled the plains and the mountains. He said: Are you satisfied, O Muhammad? I said: Yes. He said: With these are seventy thousand who will enter Paradise without being brought to account. They are those who do not seek incantations or cauterize, and they put their trust in their Lord. Then 'Ukasha ibn Muhsin stood up and said: O Messenger of God, ask God to make me one of them. He said: You are one of them. Then another man stood up and said: Ask God to make me one of them. He said: 'Ukasha beat you to it.'" Narrated by al-Hafiz al-Dhiya' al-Maqdisi, who said: This, in my opinion, meets the conditions of Muslim.

Another hadith Al-Tabarani said: Muhammad ibn Al-Judhu'i Al-Qadi told us, Uqbah ibn Mukram told us, Muhammad ibn Abi Uday told us, on the authority of Hisham ibn Hassan, on the authority of Muhammad ibn Sirin, on the authority of Imran ibn Husayn, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Seventy thousand of my nation will enter Paradise without being brought to account or punished. It was said: Who are they? He said: They are those who do not cauterize, nor seek omens, nor believe in omens, and they put their trust in their Lord. Muslim narrated it on the authority of Hisham ibn Hassan, and he mentioned Ukasha.

Another hadith It was established in the two Sahihs on the authority of Az-Zuhri on the authority of Sa'id ibn Al-Musayyab that Abu Hurairah told him: "I heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: 'A group of my nation will enter Paradise, and they will be seventy thousand, and their faces will shine like the moon on a full moon night.'" Abu Hurairah said: 'Ukasha ibn Muhsin Al-Asadi stood up, raising his blanket and said: 'O Messenger of God, pray to God to make me one of them.' The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'O God, make him one of them.' Then a man from the Ansar stood up and said the same thing, and he said: 'Ukasha beat you to it.'"

Another hadith Abu al-Qasim al-Tabarani said: Yahya ibn Uthman told us, Saeed ibn Abi Maryam told us, Abu Ghassan told us, on the authority of Abu Hazim, on the authority of Sahl ibn Sa'd, that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "Seventy thousand - or seven hundred thousand - of my nation will enter Paradise, some of them taking others, until the first of them and the last of them enter Paradise, and their faces will be like the moon on the night of the full moon." Al-Bukhari and Muslim both narrated it on the authority of Qutaybah on the authority of 'Abd al-'Aziz ibn Abi Hazim on the authority of his father on the authority of Sahl on his authority.

Another Hadith Muslim bin Al-Hajjaj said in his Sahih: Saeed bin Mansour told us, Hisham told us, Hiseen bin Abdul Rahman told us, he said: I was with Saeed bin Jubair and he said, Which of you saw the star that fell last night? I said: I did. Then I said: I was not praying, but I was stung. He said: So what did you do? I said: I sought ruqyah. He said: What made you do that? I said: A Hadith narrated to us by Al-Sha'bi. He said: And what did Al-Sha'bi tell you? I said: He told us on the authority of Buraydah ibn al-Husaib al-Aslami that he said: There is no ruqyah except for the evil eye or a fever. He said: He who has concluded what he heard has done well. However, Ibn Abbas told us on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, that he said: "The nations were presented to me and I saw the Prophet with a group of people, the Prophet with one or two men, and the Prophet with no one with him. Then a great multitude was raised to me and I thought that they were my nation. Then it was said to me: This is Moses and his people, but look to the horizon. So I looked and saw a great multitude. Then it was said to me: Look to the other horizon and see a great multitude. Then it was said to me: This is your nation and with them are seventy thousand who will enter Paradise without being held accountable or punished. Then he got up and entered his house." So the people began to argue about those who will enter Paradise without being held accountable or punished. Some of them said: Perhaps they are those who accompanied the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. Some of them said: Perhaps they are those who were born in Islam and did not associate anything with God. They mentioned things, so the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, came out to them and said: What are you arguing about? So they told him. He said: They are those who do not perform ruqyah, nor seek ruqyah from others, nor take omens, and they put their trust in their Lord. Then Ukasha bin Muhsin stood up and said: Ask God to make me one of them. He said: You are one of them. Then another man stood up and said: Ask God to make me one of them. He said: Ukasha beat you to it. Al-Bukhari narrated it on the authority of Asid bin Zaid on the authority of Hisham, but he does not have: they do not perform ruqyah.

Another hadith Ahmad said: Ruh ibn Ubadah told us, Ibn Jurayj told us, Abu al-Zubayr told me that he heard Jabir ibn Abdullah say: "I heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, mention a hadith, in which it says: The first group will be saved, their faces like the moon on the night of the full moon, seventy thousand who will not be held accountable, then those who follow them will be like the brightest star in the sky." Then likewise, and he mentioned the rest of it. Muslim narrated it from the hadith of Ruh, except that he did not mention the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace.

Another hadith Al-Hafiz Abu Bakr bin Abi Asim said in his book Al-Sunan: Abu Bakr bin Abi Shaybah told us, Ismail bin Ayyash told us on the authority of Muhammad bin Ziyad, I heard Abu Umamah Al-Bahili say: I heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: "My Lord promised me that seventy thousand of my nation will enter Paradise, with each thousand seventy thousand who will not be held accountable or punished, and three handfuls from the handfuls of my Lord, the Almighty and Majestic." And this is how Al-Tabarani narrated it on the authority of Hisham bin Ammar on the authority of Ismail bin Ayyash, and this is a good chain of transmission.

Another way On the authority of Abu Umamah. Ibn Abi Asim said, Dahim told us, Al-Walid bin Muslim told us on the authority of Safwan bin Amr, on the authority of Salim bin Amir, on the authority of Abu Al-Yaman Al-Hawzani, whose name is Amir bin Abdullah bin Luhay, on the authority of Abu Umamah, on the authority of the Messenger of God, who said: "God promised me that seventy thousand of my nation will enter Paradise without being brought to account. Yazid bin Al-Akhns said: By God, those among your nation, O Messenger of God, are like a reddish fly among flies. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: God promised me seventy thousand, with each thousand seventy thousand and He gave me three handfuls more." This is also a good chain of transmission.

Another hadith Abu al-Qasim al-Tabarani said: Ahmad ibn Khalid told us, Abu Tobah told us, Muawiyah ibn Salam told us on the authority of Zayd ibn Salam that he heard Abu Salam say: Aamer ibn Zayd al-Bakali told me that he heard Utbah ibn Abd al-Salami, may God be pleased with him, say: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "My Lord, the Almighty, promised me that seventy thousand of my nation will enter Paradise without being brought to account, then every thousand will intercede for seventy thousand, then my Lord, the Almighty, will scoop up three handfuls of dust in His hands." So Umar said: God will intercede for the first seventy for their fathers, sons, and clans, and I hope that God will make me one of the last handfuls of dust. Al-Hafiz al-Dhiya Abu Abdullah al-Maqdisi said in his book Sifat al-Jannah: I do not know of any defect in this chain of transmission, and God knows best.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Yahya bin Saeed told me, Hisham, meaning Al-Dastawai, told us, Yahya bin Abi Katheer told us, on the authority of Hilal bin Abi Maimouna, Ata bin Yasar told us that Rafa'ah Al-Juhani told him, he said: We set out with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, until we were at Al-Kadeed, or he said: at Qudayd, and he mentioned a hadith in which he said: "My Lord, the Almighty and Majestic, promised me that seventy thousand of my nation will enter Paradise without being brought to account, and I hope that they will not enter it until you and your righteous spouses and offspring have settled in dwellings in Paradise." Al-Dhiya' said: This, in my opinion, is in accordance with the conditions of Muslim.

Another hadith Abd al-Razzaq said: Ma'mar informed us on the authority of Qatada, on the authority of al-Nadr ibn Anas, on the authority of Anas, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: God promised me that He would admit four hundred thousand of my nation into Paradise. Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him, said: Give us more, O Messenger of God. He said: By God, this is it. Umar said: That is enough, O Abu Bakr. Abu Bakr said: Leave me alone, and what does it matter to you if God admits us all into Paradise? Umar said: God willing, He will admit His creation into Paradise with one hand. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Umar has spoken the truth. This hadith with this chain of transmission is unique to Abd al-Razzaq. Al-Dhiya' said it and Al-Hafiz Abu Na'im Al-Isfahani narrated it. He said: Muhammad bin Ahmad bin Mukhallad told us, Ibrahim bin Al-Haitham Al-Baldi told us, Sulayman bin Harb told us, Abu Hilal told us on the authority of Qatada, on the authority of Anas, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: My Lord promised me that He would admit one hundred thousand of my nation into Paradise. Abu Bakr said: O Messenger of God, give us more. He said: And so it was, and Sulayman bin Harb pointed with his hand in the same manner. I said: O Messenger of God, give us more. Umar said: God is able to admit people into Paradise with a single handful. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Umar has spoken the truth. This is a strange hadith from this source. Abu Hilal's name is Muhammad bin Salim Al-Rasibi, from Basra.

Another chain of transmission on the authority of Anas. Al-Hafiz Abu Ya'la said: Muhammad ibn Abi Bakr told us, 'Abd al-Qahir ibn al-Sarri al-Sulami told us, Hamid told us on the authority of Anas, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "Seventy thousand of my nation will enter Paradise. They said: 'Give us more, O Messenger of God.' He said: 'For every man there are seventy thousand.' They said: 'Give us more,' and he was on a sand dune. He said like this and threw some with his hand. They said: 'O Messenger of God, may God distance those who enter Hell after this.'" This is a good chain of transmission, and all of its men are trustworthy, except for 'Abd al-Qahir ibn al-Sarri. Ibn Ma'in was asked about him and said: He is trustworthy.

Another hadith Al-Tabarani narrated from the hadith of Qatada on the authority of Abu Bakr bin Anas, on the authority of Abu Bakr bin Umair, on the authority of his father that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "God promised me that three hundred thousand of my nation would enter Paradise. Umair said: O Messenger of God, give us more. He said: This way, with his hand. Umair said: O Messenger of God, give us more. Umar said: It is enough for you. If God wills, He will admit people to Paradise with a handful or a single handful. The Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Umar spoke the truth."

Another hadith Al-Tabarani said: Ahmad bin Khalid told us, Abu Tobah told us, Muawiyah bin Salam told us on the authority of Zaid bin Salam that he heard Abu Salam say: Abdullah bin Aamer told me that Qais Al-Kindi told him that Abu Saeed Al-Anmari told him that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "My Lord promised me that He will admit seventy thousand of my nation to Paradise without account, and every thousand will intercede for seventy thousand, then my Lord will take three handfuls with His two hands." That is what Qais said, so I said to Abu Saeed: Did you hear this from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace? He said: Yes, with my ears, and my heart has retained it. Abu Saeed said: He said, meaning the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace: And that, God Almighty willing, will include the emigrants of my nation and God will fulfill the remainder of our Arabs. Muhammad bin Sahl bin Askar narrated this hadith on the authority of Abu Tawbah al-Rabi' bin Nafi' with his chain of transmission similarly, and he added: Abu Saeed said: So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, calculated that, and it amounted to four hundred thousand thousand and ninety thousand thousand.

Another hadith Abu al-Qasim al-Tabarani said: Hashim ibn Murthad al-Tabarani told us, Muhammad ibn Ismail ibn Ayyash told us, my father told me, Damdam ibn Zur'ah told me, on the authority of Shuraih ibn Ubayd, on the authority of Abu Malik, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "By the One in Whose Hand is the soul of Muhammad, a group of you will be sent to Paradise on the Day of Resurrection, all of them striking the earth. The angels will say: Why did more people come with Muhammad than came with the prophets?" This is a good chain of transmission.

Another type - From the hadiths that indicate the virtue, honor, and dignity of this nation before God the Almighty, and that it is the best nation in this world and the hereafter. Imam Ahmad said: Yahya bin Saeed told us, Ibn Jurayj told us, Abu al-Zubayr told me on the authority of Jabir that he heard the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: I hope that those of my nation who follow me on the Day of Resurrection will be a quarter of Paradise. He said: "So we said 'Allahu Akbar,' then he said: "I hope that they will be a third of the people." He said: "So we said 'Allahu Akbar,' then he said: "I hope that you will be half of the people of Paradise." And this is how he narrated it on the authority of Ruh on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, and it meets the conditions of Muslim. It is proven in the two Sahihs from the hadith of Abu Ishaq al-Subai'i on the authority of Amr bin Maymun, on the authority of Abdullah bin Mas'ud, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to us: Are you not pleased to be a quarter of the people of Paradise? So we said 'Allahu Akbar,' then he said: Are you not pleased to be a third of the people of Paradise? So we said 'Allahu Akbar,' then he said: I hope that you will be half of the people of Paradise.

Another chain of transmission on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud. Al-Tabarani said: Ahmad ibn al-Qasim ibn Musawar told us, 'Affan ibn Muslim told us, 'Abd al-Wahid ibn Ziyad told us, al-Harith ibn Hasira told me, al-Qasim ibn 'Abd al-Rahman told me on the authority of his father, on the authority of 'Abdullah ibn Mas'ud, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: How will you be when a quarter of Paradise is for you and three quarters of it are for the rest of the people? They said: God and His Messenger know best. He said: How will you be when a third of it is for you? They said: That is more. He said: How will you be when half of it is for you? They said: That is more. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The people of Paradise are one hundred and twenty rows, eighty of which are for you. Al-Tabarani said: Al-Harith ibn Hasira is the only one to narrate it.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Abd al-Samad told us, Abd al-Aziz ibn Muslim told us, Dharrar ibn Murrah Abu Sinan al-Shaibani told us, on the authority of Muharib ibn Dithar, on the authority of Ibn Buraidah, on the authority of his father, that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The people of Paradise are one hundred and twenty rows, and this nation is eighty rows from that. And he narrated it likewise on the authority of Affan on the authority of Abd al-Aziz on his authority, and al-Tirmidhi included it on the authority of Abu Sinan on his authority, and he said: This is a good hadith, and Ibn Majah narrated it on the authority of Sufyan al-Thawri on the authority of Alqamah ibn Marthad, on the authority of Sulayman ibn Buraidah, on the authority of his father on his authority.

Another hadith - Al-Tabarani narrated from the hadith of Sulayman bin Abd al-Rahman al-Dimashqi: Khalid bin Yazid al-Bajali told us, Sulayman bin Ali bin Abdullah bin Abbas told us on the authority of his father, on the authority of his grandfather, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: The people of Paradise are one hundred and twenty rows, eighty of which are from my nation. Khalid bin Yazid al-Bajali was the only one to narrate it, and Ibn Adi spoke about it.

Another hadith Al-Tabarani said: Abdullah bin Ahmad bin Hanbal told us, Musa bin Ghailan told us, Hashim bin Mukhallad told us, Abdullah bin Al-Mubarak told us on the authority of Sufyan, on the authority of Abu Amr, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Abu Hurairah, who said: When A group of the first and a group of the last was revealed, the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: You are a quarter of the people of Paradise, you are a third of the people of Paradise, you are half of the people of Paradise, you are two-thirds of the people of Paradise.

Abdul Razzaq said: Ma'mar informed us on the authority of Ibn Tawus, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Abu Hurairah, may God be pleased with him, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "We are the last but the first on the Day of Resurrection. We are the first people to enter Paradise, but they were given the Book before us and we were given it after them. So God guided us to the truth in what they differed about. So this is the day in which they differed, people will follow us. Tomorrow will be for the Jews and the day after tomorrow will be for the Christians." Narrated by Al-Bukhari and Muslim on the authority of Abdullah bin Tawus on the authority of his father, on the authority of Abu Hurairah, may God be pleased with him, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, with a chain of transmission traceable back to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, in a similar manner. Muslim also narrated it on the authority of Al-A'mash on the authority of Abu Salih on the authority of Abu Hurairah, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: We are the last but the first on the Day of Resurrection, and we are the first to enter Paradise. And he mentioned the rest of the hadith.

Another hadith - Al-Daraqutni narrated in Al-Afrad from the hadith of Abdullah bin Muhammad bin Aqil on the authority of Al-Zuhri, on the authority of Saeed bin Al-Musayyab, on the authority of Omar bin Al-Khattab, may God be pleased with him, that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Paradise was forbidden to all the prophets until I enter it, and it was forbidden to the nations until my nation enters it. Then he said: Ibn Aqil was the only one to narrate it on the authority of Al-Zuhri, and no one else narrated it on his authority. Zuhair bin Muhammad was the only one to narrate it on the authority of Ibn Aqil, and Amr bin Abi Salamah was the only one to narrate it on the authority of Zuhair. Abu Ahmad bin Adi Al-Hafiz narrated it, and he said: Ahmad bin Al-Hussein bin Ishaq told us, Abu Bakr Al-A'in Muhammad bin Abi Atab told us, Abu Hafis Al-Tanisi told us - meaning Amr bin Abi Salamah - Sadaqa Al-Dimashqi told us on the authority of Zuhair bin Muhammad, on the authority of Abdullah bin Muhammad bin Aqil on the authority of Al-Zuhri. Al-Tha'labi narrated it: Abu al-Abbas al-Mukhalladi told us, Abu Na'im Abd al-Malik ibn Muhammad told us, Ahmad ibn Isa al-Tanisi told us, Amr ibn Abi Salamah told us, Sadaqah ibn Abdullah told us, on the authority of Zuhair ibn Muhammad, on the authority of Ibn Aqil, on his authority.

These hadiths are in the meaning of the Almighty's saying: "You are the best nation produced for mankind. You enjoy what is right and forbid what is wrong and believe in God." So whoever from this nation is characterized by these qualities is included with them in this praise and commendation of them, as Qatada said: It has reached us that Omar bin Al-Khattab, may God be pleased with him, during his Hajj, saw the people rushing, so he recited this verse: You are the best nation produced for mankind. Then he said:

Whoever is pleased to be from that nation, let him fulfill God's condition regarding it. Narrated by Ibn Jarir. And whoever is not characterized by this is more like the People of the Book whom God condemned in His saying: They used not to forbid one another from the wrong they did Al-Baqarah 2:17. For this reason, when God praised this nation for these qualities, He began to condemn and rebuke the People of the Book, so God said: And if the People of the Scripture had believed, meaning in what was revealed to Muhammad, may God's prayers and peace be upon him, "it would have been better for them. Among them are believers, but most of them are wicked," meaning few of them believe in God and what was revealed to you and what was revealed to them, and most of them are misguided, disbelieving, and wicked. And disobedience.

Then the Almighty said, informing His believing servants and giving them good report that victory and triumph will be theirs over the disbelieving atheist People of the Book. The Almighty said: "They will not harm you except with an injury. And if they fight you, they will turn their backs to you; then they will not be helped." And so it happened. On the day of Khaybar, God humiliated them and made their noses ache. Likewise, those before them from the Jews of Medina, Banu Qaynuqa, Banu Nadir, and Banu Qurayzah, all of them were humiliated by God. Likewise, the Christians in the Levant, the Companions defeated them in more than one place, and they were deprived of the kingdom of the Levant forever and ever. The band of Islam will continue to exist in the Levant until Jesus, son of Mary, descends while they are still like that. He will rule by the religion of Islam and the law of Muhammad, may the best prayers and peace be upon him. He will break the cross, kill the pigs, and abolish the jizya, and will accept nothing but Islam. Then God the Almighty said: And humiliation has been imposed upon them wherever they are found, except by a covenant from God and a covenant from the people. That is, God has imposed humiliation and degradation upon them wherever they are, so they are not safe. Except by a covenant from God, that is, by a protection from God, which is the covenant of protection for them, imposing the jizyah on them, and imposing the rulings of the religion on them. And a covenant from the people, that is, security from them for them, as in the case of a truce, a covenanted one, and a prisoner if one of the Muslims grants him security, even if it is a woman, and likewise a slave according to one of the two opinions of the scholars. Ibn Abbas said: Except by a covenant from God and a covenant from the people, that is, by a covenant from God and a covenant from the people. This is what Mujahid, Ikrimah, Ata, Ad-Dahhak, Al-Hasan, Qatadah, As-Suddi, and Ar-Rabi' ibn Anas said. And His statement: And they incurred the wrath of God, that is, they were obligated, so they committed themselves to the wrath of God, and they deserved it. And poverty has been imposed upon them, that is, they were obligated to it by fate and by law. That is why He said, That is because they disbelieved in the signs of God and killed the prophets unjustly. That is, what drove them to do that was arrogance, oppression, and envy, and that was followed by humiliation, lowliness, and poverty forever, connected to the humiliation of the

You are the best nation produced for mankind. You enjoin what is right and forbid what is wrong and believe in God. And if the People of the Scripture had believed, it would have been better for them. Among them are believers, but most of them are defiantly disobedient.

Hereafter. Then God the Almighty said, That is because they disobeyed and were transgressing. That is, what drove them to disbelieve in the signs of God and kill the messengers of God, and they were destined for that - that they were frequently disobeying the commands of God the Almighty and committing sins against God, and transgressing against the law of God. So we seek refuge in God from that, and God the Almighty is the One sought for help. Ibn Abi Hatim said: Yunus ibn Habib told us, Abu Dawud al-Tayalisi told us, Shu'bah told us, on the authority of Sulayman al-A'mash, on the authority of Ibrahim, on the authority of Abu Mu'ammara al-Azdi, on the authority of Abdullah ibn Mas'ud, may God be pleased with him, who said: The Children of Israel used to kill three hundred prophets a day, and then a market would be held to kill them at the end of the day.

Fath al-Qadir

His saying 110- You were the best nation. This is a new statement that includes a statement of the state of this nation in terms of superiority over other nations. And before it was the perfect one: meaning you were found and created the best nation. And similar to it is what Sibawayh recited:

Our neighbors were generous.

And from it is the saying of God Almighty: How can We speak to one who is in the cradle, a child? And His saying: And remember when you were few and He made you many. Al-Akhfash said: He means the people of a nation: that is, the best people of religion, and he recited:

I swore and left no doubt for you. Can a slave be held accountable while he is obedient?

It was said that its meaning is: You were in the Preserved Tablet, and it was said: You were since you believed. And in it is evidence that this Islamic nation is the best nation in general, and that this freedom is shared between the first of this nation and its last in relation to other nations, even if they differ in themselves. As was mentioned in the superiority of the Companions over others. His statement, Brought forth for mankind, means: It was made apparent to them. And his statement, You enjoin what is right, etc. is a new statement that includes a statement that they are the best nation with what it includes of them being the best nation as long as they persist in that and are characterized by it. So if they abandon enjoining what is right and forbidding what is wrong, that will be removed from them. For this reason, Mujahid said: They are the best nation according to the conditions mentioned in the verse. This requires that enjoining what is right and what follows it be in the accusative case as a state, meaning: You were the best nation while you were enjoining and forbidding, believing in God and in what you must believe in from His Book and His Messenger and what He has legislated for His servants, because belief in God, the Exalted, is not complete except by believing in these matters. His saying, And if the People of the Book had believed, meaning the Jews, with a belief like the Muslims believe in God, His Messengers, and His Books, it would have been better for them, but they did not do that. Rather, they said, We believe in some of the Book and disbelieve in some. Then He explained the state of the People of the Book by saying, Among them are believers, meaning those who believed in the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, among them. They believed in what was revealed to him and what was revealed before him. But most of them are wicked, meaning those who have deviated from the path of truth, rebelled in their falsehood, and denied the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and what he brought. So this detail, in this case, is a new statement, an answer to an implied question, as if it were said, Is there among them one who believed and thus deserved what God promised him?

110- "You are the best nation produced for mankind." Ikrimah and Muqatil said: It was revealed about Ibn Masoud, Ubayy ibn Ka'b, Muadh ibn Jabal, and Salim, the freed slave of Abu Hudhayfah, may God be pleased with them. This was because Malik ibn al-Sayf and Wahb ibn Yahudah, the two Jews, said to them: We are better than you and our religion is better than what you are calling us to. So God Almighty revealed this verse.

Saeed bin Jubair narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with him, You are the best nation produced for mankind. They are those who migrated with the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, to Medina. Juwaybir said on the authority of Ad-Dahhak: They are the companions of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, especially the narrators and preachers whom God commanded the Muslims to obey.

It was narrated on the authority of Omar bin Al-Khattab that he said: You are the best nation brought forth for mankind. It will be for the first of us and not for the last of us.

Abdul Wahid bin Ahmad Al-Malhi told us, Abu Muhammad Badr Al-Rahman bin Abi Shureih told us, Abu Al-Qasim Al-Baghawi told us, Ali bin Al-Jaad told us, Shu'bah Anabi Hamza told us: I heard Zahdam bin Mudrib from Imran bin Husain, may God be pleased with them both, from the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: The best of you are my generation, then those who come after them, then those who come after them. Imran said: I do not know whether the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, mentioned his generation two or three times and said: After you there will be people who betray and are not trusted, who bear witness but are not asked to bear witness, who make vows but do not fulfill them, and obesity will appear among them.

And with this chain of transmission on the authority of Ali bin Al-Ja'd, Shu'bah and Abu Mu'awiyah informed us on the authority of Al-A'mash on the authority of Dhakwan on the authority of Abu Sa'id on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "Do not curse my companions, for by the One in Whose Hand is my soul, if one of you were to spend the equivalent of Mount Uhud in gold, it would not reach the level of one of them, nor even half of it."

Others said: They are all the believers of this nation.

His saying, You were, meaning: you, is like the Most High's saying: And remember when you were few (al-A'raf 7:86), and He said in another place: And remember when you were few (al-Anfal 8:26), and it was said: Its meaning is: you were the best nation with God in the Preserved Tablet. And some people said: His saying for the people is connected to His saying the best nation, meaning: you are the best people for the people.

Abu Hurairah said: Its meaning is: You were the best of people. You brought them in chains and brought them into Islam.

He said to the people, I brought out means: God did not bring out for the people a nation better than the nation of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace.

Abu Saeed Al-Sharahi told us, Abu Ishaq Al-Tha'labi told us, Abu Abdullah Al-Hussein bin Muhammad Al-Hafiz told us, Abu Ali Al-Hussein bin Muhammad bin Habish Al-Muqri told us, Ali bin Zanjawiya told us, Salamah bin Shabib told us, Abdul Razzaq told us, Muammar told us, on the authority of Bahz bin Hakim, on the authority of his father, on the authority of his grandfather, that he heard the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, say regarding the words of God Almighty: You are the best nation produced for mankind, he said: You complete seventy nations, and you are the best of them and the most honored of them in the sight of God Almighty.

Abdul Wahid bin Ahmad Al-Malhi told us, Abu Ma'shar Ibrahim bin Muhammad Al-Firki told us, Abu Abdullah Muhammad bin Zakariya bin Yahya told us, Abu Al-Salt told us, Hammad bin Zaid told us, Ibn Zaid told us, Ali bin Zaid told us, on the authority of Abu Nadrah, on the authority of Abu Saeed Al-Khudri, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: Beware, this nation will die seventy nations, the best of them and the most honorable of them to God Almighty.

Abu Saeed Al-Sharahi told us, I am Abu Ishaq Al-Tha'labi, Abu Abdullah Al-Hussein bin Muhammad told us, I am Al-Fadl bin Al-Fadl, Abu Khalifa Al-Fadl bin Al-Habbab told us, Abdul Rahman, meaning Ibn Al-Mubarak, told us, Hammad bin Yahya Al-Abbah told us, I am Thabit Al-Banani, on the authority of Anas, may God be pleased with him.

On his authority, he said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "The example of my nation is like that of rain. It is not known whether its beginning or its end is better."

Abu Saeed Al-Sharahi told us, I told Abu Ishaq Al-Tha'labi, I told Abu Muhammad Al-Mukhalladi, Abu Na'im told us, Abdul Malik bin Muhammad bin Adi, Ahmad bin Isa Al-Tanisi told us, Amr bin Abi Salamah told us, Sadaqah bin Abdullah told us, on the authority of Zuhair bin Muhammad bin Abdullah bin Muhammad bin Aqil, on the authority of Al-Zuhri, on the authority of Saeed bin Al-Musayyab, on the authority of Umar bin Al-Khattab, may God be pleased with him, on the authority of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: Paradise was forbidden to all the prophets until I entered it, and it was forbidden to all the nations until my nation entered it.

Abu Saeed Al-Sharahi told us: Abu Ishaq Al-Tha'labi told us: Abu Abdullah Al-Hussein bin Muhammad told us: Abu Al-Qasim Umar bin Muhammad bin Abdullah bin Hatim Al-Tirmidhi told us: My maternal grandfather Muhammad bin Abdullah bin Marzouq told us: Affan bin Muslim told us: Abdul Aziz bin Muslim told us: Abu Sinan, meaning Dhirar bin Murrah, told us on the authority of Muharib bin Dithar, on the authority of Abdullah bin Buraidah, on the authority of his father, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The people of Paradise are one hundred and twenty rows, eighty of them from this nation.

God Almighty says: "You enjoin what is right and forbid what is wrong and believe in God. And if the People of the Scripture had believed, it would have been better for them. Among them are believers, but most of them are defiantly disobedient." That is, the disbelievers.

110 "You were the best nation" indicates their goodness in the past and does not indicate a break that occurred, as in the Almighty's saying: "Indeed, God is Forgiving and Merciful." It was said that you were in the knowledge of God or in the Preserved Tablet, or among the previous nations. "Brought out to mankind" means made manifest to them. "You enjoin what is right and forbid what is wrong is a resumption that explains their being the best nation", or a second piece of report for you were. "And you believe in God" includes belief in everything that must be believed in, because belief in Him is only right and taken into account if belief in everything that one is commanded to believe in is obtained. He only delayed it and it is right to be presented because he intended by mentioning it to indicate that they enjoined what is right and forbade what is wrong out of faith in God and belief in Him and manifesting His religion. This verse was used as evidence that consensus is a proof because it requires that they enjoined what is right and forbade what is wrong, since the lam in both of them is for comprehensiveness, so if they agreed on falsehood, their matter would be contrary to that. And if the People of the Scripture had believed as they should have believed, it would have been better for them faith would have been better for them than what they are in. Among them are believers like Abdullah ibn Salam and his companions. But most of them are wicked rebellious in disbelief. This sentence and the one after it are mentioned by way of digression.

Surat Al Imran 3:110

You are the best nation produced for mankind. You enjoin what is right and forbid what is wrong and believe in God. And if the People of the Scripture had believed, it would have been better for them. Among them are believers, but most of them are defiantly disobedient.

Surat Al Imran 3:111

They will not harm you except with a slight annoyance, and if they fight you, they will turn their backs to you; then they will not be aided.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

They will not harm you meaning the Jews, O Muslims, with anything except for some harm with the tongue, such as insults and threats and if they fight you, they will turn their backs in defeat and then they will not be victorious over you, but rather you will be victorious over them.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: By that, may His praise be glorified, He means: And if the People of the Book, the Jews and the Christians, fight you, they will be defeated and turn their backs to you in defeat.

His saying: They turn their backs to you, is a metaphor for their defeat, because the defeated person turns his back to the pursuer, fleeing to a refuge and shelter to which he can resort, fearing for himself, while the pursuer is following him. So the back of the pursued person then is parallel to the face of the defeated pursuer.

Then they will not be helped, meaning: Then God will not help them, O believers, against you, because of their disbelief in God and His Messenger, and your belief in what your Prophet Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, gave you. Because God Almighty has cast terror into their hearts, so He has supported you, O believers, with your victory.

This is a promise from God Almighty mentioned by His Prophet Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and the people of faith, that He will grant them victory over the disbelievers among the People of the Book.

Rather, He raised His statement, Then they will not be helped, and made His statement, They will turn their backs to you, in the affirmative, as a response to the condition, to resume the speech, because the beginnings of the verses before it were with the letter nun, so He attached this to it, just as He said, And they will not be given permission to make excuses (al-Mursalat 77:36), raising it, and He said in another place, They will not be given a decree to die (Fatir 35:36), since it was not the beginning of a verse.

The Almighty's saying: They will not harm you except a slight harm means their lies, distortions and slander, not that they will prevail, according to Al-Hasan and Qatada, so the exception is connected, and the meaning is they will not harm you except a slight harm, so the harm is used as a source. So the verse is a promise from God to His Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, and to the believers, that the People of the Book will not defeat them and that they will be victorious over him, and that they will not be harmed by them except by harm through slander and distortion, and as for the outcome, it will be for the believers. It was said: It is disconnected and the meaning is they will not harm you at all, but they will harm you with what they hear. Muqatil said: The leaders of the Jews, Ka'b, Adi, An-Nu'man, Abu Rafi', Abu Yasir, Kinanah and Ibn Suriya, went to their believers: Abdullah bin Salam and his companions, and harmed them because of their Islam, so God Almighty revealed: They will not harm you except a slight harm meaning with the tongue, and the speech is complete. Then he said: And if they fight you, they will turn their backs to you, meaning defeated, and the speech is complete. Then they will not be aided is a new sentence, and that is why the letter nun was added to it. In this verse is a miracle for the Prophet, peace be upon him, because the Jews who fought him turned their backs to him.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The Almighty tells us about this Muhammadan nation that they are the best of nations, so He the Almighty said: You are the best nation produced for mankind. Al-Bukhari said: Muhammad bin Yusuf told us, on the authority of Sufyan, on the authority of Maysarah, on the authority of Abu Hazim, on the authority of Abu Hurairah, may God be pleased with him, You are the best nation produced for mankind. He said: The best of people for mankind, you bring them in chains around their necks until they enter Islam. And this is what Ibn Abbas, Mujahid, Atiyah Al-Awfi, Ikrimah, Ata, and Al-Rabi bin Anas said: You are the best nation produced for mankind, meaning the best of people for mankind, and the meaning is that they are the best of nations and the most beneficial people to people, and for this reason He said: You enjoin what is right and forbid what is wrong and believe in God. Imam Ahmad said: Ahmad bin Abdul Malik told us, Sharik told us, on the authority of Samak, on the authority of Abdullah bin Umaira, on the authority of the husband of Durrah bint Abi Lahab, on the authority of Durrah bint Abi Lahab, who said: "A man stood up to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, while he was on the pulpit, and said: O Messenger of God, which of the people is the best? He said: The best of people are those who recite the Qur'an the most, are those who fear God the most, enjoin what is right, forbid what is wrong, and maintain ties of kinship. Ahmad narrated it in his Musnad, and al-Nasa'i in his Sunan, and al-Hakim in his Mustadrak, on the authority of Samak, on the authority of Sa'id ibn Jubayr, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding the words of God the Almighty: You are the best nation produced for mankind. He said: They are those who migrated with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, from Mecca to Medina. The correct view is that this verse is general for the entire nation, each generation according to its own circumstances, and the best of their generations are those among whom the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was sent, then those who came after them, then those who came after them, as He said in the other verse: And thus We have made you a just community, meaning the best, that you will be witnesses over the people.

Surat Al Imran 3:111

They will not harm you except with a slight annoyance, and if they fight you, they will turn their backs to you; then they will not be aided.

In Musnad of Imam Ahmad, Jami' al-Tirmidhi, Sunan Ibn Majah and Mustadrak al-Hakim, on the authority of Hakim ibn Mu'awiyah ibn Haidah, on the authority of his father, he said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'You are the best of seventy nations, and you are the most honorable to God, the Almighty.' " This is a well-known hadith, and al-Tirmidhi classified it as hasan. It is also narrated on the authority of Mu'adh ibn Jabal and Abu Sa'id, similar to it. This nation has achieved the lead in good deeds through its Prophet Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, for he is the most honorable of God's creation and the most honorable of the Messengers to God. God sent him with a complete and great law that no Prophet or Messenger before him was given. So, working according to his method and path is enough to replace a little of what a lot of work from others cannot replace, as Imam Ahmad said: 'Abd al-Rahman told us, Ibn Zuhair told us, on the authority of Abdullah, meaning Ibn Muhammad ibn 'Aqil, on the authority of Muhammad ibn 'Ali, who is Ibn al-Hanafiyyah, that he heard 'Ali ibn Abi Talib, may God be pleased with him, say: "The Messenger of God said: I have been given what none of the Prophets have been given." We said, O Messenger of God, what is it? He said, I have been aided by terror, I have been given the keys to the earth, I have been named Ahmad, the earth has been made a means of purification for me, and my nation has been made the best of nations. Ahmad is the only one to narrate it from this source, and its chain of transmission is good.

Imam Ahmad also said: Abu Al-Ala Al-Hasan bin Suwar told us, Laith told us, on the authority of Muawiyah, on the authority of Abu Halbas Yazid bin Maysarah, who said: I heard Umm Al-Darda', may God be pleased with her, say: I heard Abu Al-Darda', may God be pleased with him, say: "I heard Abu Al-Qasim, may God's prayers and peace be upon him, and I had never heard him use his kunya before or after that, saying: God Almighty says: O Jesus, I will send after you a nation who, if what they like befalls them, will praise and thank them, and if what they dislike befalls them, they will seek reward and be patient, but they have no patience or knowledge." He said: O Lord, how can this be for them, and they have no patience or knowledge? He said: I will give them from My patience and knowledge.

There are hadiths that are appropriate to mention here. Imam Ahmad said: Hashim bin Al-Qasim told us, Al-Masoudi told us, Bakir bin Al-Akhns told us, on the authority of a man, on the authority of Abu Bakr Al-Siddiq, may God be pleased with him, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: I have been given seventy thousand who will enter Paradise without being brought to account, their faces like the moon on the night of the full moon, their hearts like the heart of one man, so I asked my Lord, the Almighty and Majestic, for more, and He increased me with each one by seventy thousand." Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him, said: I saw that this would come upon the people of the villages and would befall those on the edges of the deserts.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Abdullah bin Bakr Al-Sahmi told us, Hisham bin Hassan told us, on the authority of Al-Qasim bin Mihran, on the authority of Musa bin Ubaid, on the authority of Maimun bin Mihran, on the authority of Abd Al-Rahman bin Abi Bakr: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: My Lord has given me seventy thousand who will enter Paradise without being brought to account. Umar said: O Messenger of God, why didn't you ask Him for more? He said: I asked Him for more, and He gave me seventy thousand with each man. Umar said: Why didn't you ask Him for more? He said: I asked Him for more, and He gave me this much." And Abdullah bin Bakr spread his hands apart, and Abdullah said: And he stretched out his arms, and Abdullah urged, and Hisham said: This is from God, and he does not know how many.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Abu Al-Yaman told us, Ismail bin Ayyash told us, on the authority of Damdam bin Zur'ah, who said: Shureih bin Ubaid said: Thawban fell ill in Homs, and Abdullah bin Qurt Al-Azdi was in charge of it, so he did not visit him. Then a man from the Kalaa'in came to visit Thawban, and Thawban said to him: Will you write? He said: Yes. He said: Write. So he wrote to the emir Abdullah bin Qurt from Thawban, the freed slave of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace: As for what follows, if Moses and Jesus, peace be upon them, had a servant in your presence, you would have visited him. Then he folded the letter and said to him: Will you deliver it to him? He said: Yes. So the man went with his letter and gave it to Ibn Qurt, and when he saw him, he stood up in a panic, and the people said: What is the matter with him? Has something happened? Then Thawban came until he entered upon him, visited him and sat with him for a while, then he stood up and Thawban took his cloak and said: Sit down until I tell you a hadith that I heard from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, in which he said: Seventy thousand of my nation will enter Paradise without being brought to account or punished, and with every thousand there will be seventy thousand. Ahmad is the only one to narrate it from this source and its chain of transmission is all trustworthy men from Syria and Homs, so it is a sound hadith, praise and thanks be to God.

Another path: Al-Tabarani said: Amr bin Ishaq bin Zubayriq Al-Himsi told us, Muhammad bin Ismail, meaning Ibn Ayyash, told us, my father told me, on the authority of Damdam bin Zar'ah, on the authority of Shureih bin Ubaid, on the authority of Abu Asma Al-Rahbi, on the authority of Thawban, may God be pleased with him, who said: "I heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say:

'My Lord, the Mighty and Sublime, promised me seventy thousand of my nation who will not be held accountable, with every thousand seventy thousand.'" Perhaps this is what is preserved with the addition of Abu Asma Al-Rahbi between Shureih and Thawban, and God knows best.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Abd al-Razzaq told us, Muammar told us, on the authority of Qatada, on the authority of al-Hasan, on the authority of Imran bin Husayn, on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud, may God be pleased with him, who said: We talked most of the time with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, one night, then we went to him and he said: "The prophets were shown to me tonight with their nations. A prophet would pass by with three people, a prophet with a group, a prophet with a few people, and a prophet with no one with him, until Moses, peace be upon him, passed by with a large group of the Children of Israel. I was amazed and said: Who are these? It was said: This is your brother Moses with the Children of Israel. He said: I said: Where are my nation? It was said: Look to your right. I looked and saw that the curtains had been closed with the faces of men. Then it was said to me: Look to your left. I looked and saw that the horizon had been closed with the faces of men. It was said to me: Are you satisfied? I said: I am satisfied, O Lord. He said: It was said to me: There are seventy thousand with these who will enter Paradise without being brought to account. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: And he said: May my father and mother be sacrificed for you, if you are able to be among the seventy thousand, then do so. If you fall short, then be among the people of the valley. If you fall short, then be among the people of the horizon, for I have seen people quarreling with one another. So Ukasha bin Muhsin stood up and said: O Messenger of God, pray to God to make me one of them, meaning one of the seventy. So he prayed for him, and another man stood up and said: Pray to God, O Messenger of God, to make me one of them. So he said: Ukasha has preceded you in that. He said: Then we talked and said: Who do you think these seventy thousand are? They are people who were born in Islam and did not associate anything with God until they died. So that reached the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and he said: "They are those who do not seek ruqyah, nor cauterize, nor take omens, and they put their trust in their Lord." This is how Ahmad narrated it with this chain of transmission and this context. He also narrated it on the authority of Abd al-Samad on the authority of Hisham on the authority of Qatadah with his chain of transmission similarly, and he added after his saying: I am satisfied, O Lord, I am satisfied, O Lord. He said: I am satisfied. I said: Yes. He said: Look to your left. He said: So I looked and saw that the horizon was blocked by the faces of men. He said: Are you satisfied? I said: I am satisfied. This is a sound chain of transmission from this source, transmitted only by Ahmad, and they did not include it.

Another hadith Ahmad ibn Mani' said: Abd al-Malik ibn Abd al-Aziz told us, Hammad told us, on the authority of Asim, on the authority of Zur, on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud, may God be pleased with him, who said: The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "The nations were presented to me with seasons, and my nation was pleased with me. Then I saw them and I was amazed by their large numbers and their appearance. They filled the plains and the mountains. He said: Are you satisfied, O Muhammad? I said: Yes. He said: With these are seventy thousand who will enter Paradise without being brought to account. They are those who do not seek incantations or cauterize, and they put their trust in their Lord. Then 'Ukasha ibn Muhsin stood up and said: O Messenger of God, ask God to make me one of them. He said: You are one of them. Then another man stood up and said: Ask God to make me one of them. He said: 'Ukasha beat you to it.'" Narrated by al-Hafiz al-Dhiyali al-Maqdisi, who said: This, in my opinion, meets the conditions of Muslim.

Another hadith Al-Tabarani said: Muhammad ibn Al-Judhu'i Al-Qadi told us, Uqbah ibn Mukram told us, Muhammad ibn Abi Uday told us, on the authority of Hisham ibn Hassan, on the authority of Muhammad ibn Sirin, on the authority of Imran bin Husayn, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Seventy thousand of my nation will enter Paradise without being brought to account or punished. It was said: Who are they? He said: They are those who do not cauterize, nor seek omens, nor believe in omens, and they put their trust in their Lord. Muslim narrated it on the authority of Hisham ibn Hassan, and he mentioned Ukasha.

Another hadith It was established in the two Sahihs on the authority of Az-Zuhri on the authority of Sa'id ibn Al-Musayyab that Abu Hurairah told him: "I heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: 'A group of my nation will enter Paradise, and they will be seventy thousand, and their faces will shine like the moon on a full moon night.' Abu Hurairah said: 'Ukasha ibn Muhsin Al-Asadi stood up, raising his blanket and said: 'O Messenger of God, pray to God to make me one of them.' The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'O God, make him one of them.' Then a man from the Ansar stood up and said the same thing, and he said: 'Ukasha beat you to it.'"

Another hadith Abu al-Qasim al-Tabarani said: Yahya ibn Uthman told us, Saeed ibn Abi Maryam told us, Abu Ghassan told us, on the authority of Abu Hazim, on the authority of Sahl ibn Sa'd, that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "Seventy thousand - or seven hundred thousand - of my nation will enter Paradise, some of them taking others, until the first of them and the last of them enter Paradise, and their faces will be like the moon on the night of the full moon." Al-Bukhari and Muslim both narrated it on the authority of Qutaybah on the authority of 'Abd al-'Aziz ibn Abi Hazim on the authority of his father on the authority of Sahl on his authority.

Another Hadith Muslim bin Al-Hajjaj said in his Sahih: Saeed bin Mansour told us, Hisham told us, Hiseen bin Abdul Rahman told us, he said: I was with Saeed bin Jubair and he said, Which of you saw the star that fell last night? I said: I did. Then I said: I was not praying, but I was stung. He said: So what did you do? I said: I sought ruqyah. He said: What made you do that? I said: A Hadith narrated to us by Al-Sha'bi. He said: And what did Al-Sha'bi tell you? I said: He told us on the authority of Buraydah ibn al-Husaib al-Aslami that he said: There is no ruqyah except for the evil eye or a fever. He said: He who has concluded what he heard has done well. However, Ibn Abbas told us on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, that he said: "The nations were presented to me and I saw the Prophet with a group of people, the Prophet with one or two men, and the Prophet with no one with him. Then a great multitude was raised to me and I thought that they were my nation. Then it was said to me: This is Moses and his people, but look to the horizon. So I looked and saw a great multitude. Then it was said to me: Look to the other horizon and see a great multitude. Then it was said to me: This is your nation and with them are seventy thousand who will enter Paradise without being held accountable or punished. Then he got up and entered his house." So the people began to argue about those who will enter Paradise without being held accountable or punished. Some of them said: Perhaps they are those who accompanied the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. Some of them said: Perhaps they are those who were born in Islam and did not associate anything with God. They mentioned things, so the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, came out to them and said: What are you arguing about? So they told him. He said: They are those who do not perform ruqyah, nor seek ruqyah from others, nor take omens, and they put their trust in their Lord. Then Ukasha bin Muhsin stood up and said: Ask God to make me one of them. He said: You are one of them. Then another man stood up and said: Ask God to make me one of them. He said: Ukasha beat you to it. Al-Bukhari narrated it on the authority of Asid bin Zaid on the authority of Hisham, but he does not have: they do not perform ruqyah.

They will not harm you except with a slight annoyance, and if they fight you, they will turn their backs to you; then they will not be aided.

Another hadith Ahmad said: Ruh ibn Ubadah told us, Ibn Jurayj told us, Abu al-Zubayr told me that he heard Jabir ibn Abdullah say: "I heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, mention a hadith, in which it says: The first group will be saved, their faces like the moon on the night of the full moon, seventy thousand who will not be held accountable, then those who follow them will be like the brightest star in the sky." Then likewise, and he mentioned the rest of it. Muslim narrated it from the hadith of Ruh, except that he did not mention the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace.

Another hadith Al-Hafiz Abu Bakr bin Abi Asim said in his book Al-Sunan: Abu Bakr bin Abi Shaybah told us, Ismail bin Ayyash told us on the authority of Muhammad bin Ziyad, I heard Abu Umamah Al-Bahili say: I heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: "My Lord promised me that seventy thousand of my nation will enter Paradise, with each thousand seventy thousand who will not be held accountable or punished, and three handfuls from the handfuls of my Lord, the Almighty and Majestic." And this is how Al-Tabarani narrated it on the authority of Hisham bin Ammar on the authority of Ismail bin Ayyash, and this is a good chain of transmission.

Another way On the authority of Abu Umamah. Ibn Abi

Asim said, Dahim told us, Al-Walid bin Muslim told us on the authority of Safwan bin Amr, on the authority of Salim bin Amir, on the authority of Abu Al-Yaman Al-Hawzani, whose name is Amir bin Abdullah bin Luhay, on the authority of Abu Umamah, on the authority of the Messenger of God, who said: "God promised me that seventy thousand of my nation will enter Paradise without being brought to account. Yazid bin Al-Akhns said: By God, those among your nation, O Messenger of God, are like a reddish fly among flies. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: God promised me seventy thousand, with each thousand seventy thousand and He gave me three handfuls more." This is also a good chain of transmission.

Another hadith Abu al-Qasim al-Tabarani said: Ahmad ibn Khalid told us, Abu Tobah told us, Muawiyah ibn Salam told us on the authority of Zayd ibn Salam that he heard Abu Salam say: Aamer ibn Zayd al-Bakali told me that he heard Utbah ibn Abd al-Salami, may God be pleased with him, say: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "My Lord, the Almighty, promised me that seventy thousand of my nation will enter Paradise without being brought to account, then every thousand will intercede for seventy thousand, then my Lord, the Almighty, will scoop up three handfuls of dust in His hands." So Umar said: God will intercede for the first seventy for their fathers, sons, and clans, and I hope that God will make me one of the last handfuls of dust. Al-Hafiz al-Dhiya Abu Abdullah al-Maqdisi said in his book Sifat al-Jannah: I do not know of any defect in this chain of transmission, and God knows best.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Yahya bin Saeed told me, Hisham, meaning Al-Dastawai, told us, Yahya bin Abi Katheer told us, on the authority of Hial bin Abi Maimouna, Ata bin Yasar told us that Rafa'ah Al-Juhani told him, he said: We set out with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, until we were at Al-Kadeed, or he said: at Qudayd, and he mentioned a hadith in which he said: "My Lord, the Almighty and Majestic, promised me that seventy thousand of my nation will enter Paradise without being brought to account, and I hope that they will not enter it until you and your righteous spouses and offspring have settled in dwellings in Paradise." Al-Dhiya' said: This, in my opinion, is in accordance with the conditions of Muslim.

Another hadith Abd al-Razzaq said: Ma'mar informed us on the authority of Qatada, on the authority of al-Nadr ibn Anas, on the authority of Anas, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: God promised me that He would admit four hundred thousand of my nation into Paradise. Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him, said: Give us more, O Messenger of God. He said: By God, this is it. Umar said: That is enough, O Abu Bakr. Abu Bakr said: Leave me alone, and what does it matter to you if God admits us all into Paradise? Umar said: God willing, He will admit His creation into Paradise with one hand. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Umar has spoken the truth. This hadith with this chain of transmission is unique to Abd al-Razzaq. Al-Dhiya' said it and Al-Hafiz Abu Na'im Al-Isfahani narrated it. He said: Muhammad bin Ahmad bin Mukhallad told us, Ibrahim bin Al-Haitham Al-Baldi told us, Sulayman bin Harb told us, Abu Hilal told us on the authority of Qatada, on the authority of Anas, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: My Lord promised me that He would admit one hundred thousand of my nation into Paradise. Abu Bakr said: O Messenger of God, give us more. He said: And so it was, and Sulayman bin Harb pointed with his hand in the same manner. I said: O Messenger of God, give us more. Umar said: God is able to admit people into Paradise with a single handful. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Umar has spoken the truth. This is a strange hadith from this source. Abu Hilal's name is Muhammad bin Salim Al-Rasibi, from Basra.

Another chain of transmission on the authority of Anas. Al-Hafiz Abu Ya'la said: Muhammad ibn Abi Bakr told us, 'Abd al-Qahir ibn al-Sarri al-Sulami told us, Hamid told us on the authority of Anas, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "Seventy thousand of my nation will enter Paradise. They said: 'Give us more, O Messenger of God.' He said: 'For every man there are seventy thousand.' They said: 'Give us more,' and he was on a sand dune. He said like this and threw some with his hand. They said: 'O Messenger of God, may God distance those who enter Hell after this.'" This is a good chain of transmission, and all of its men are trustworthy, except for 'Abd al-Qahir ibn al-Sarri. Ibn Ma'in was asked about him and said: He is trustworthy.

Another hadith Al-Tabarani narrated from the hadith of Qatada on the authority of Abu Bakr bin Anas, on the authority of Abu Bakr bin Umair, on the authority of his father that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "God promised me that three hundred thousand of my nation would enter Paradise. Umair said: O Messenger of God, give us more. He said: This way, with his hand. Umair said: O Messenger of God, give us more. Umar said: It is enough for you. If God wills, He will admit people to Paradise with a handful or a single handful. The Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Umar spoke the truth."

Another hadith Al-Tabarani said: Ahmad bin Khalid told us, Abu Tobah told us, Muawiyah bin Salam told us on the authority of Zaid bin Salam that he heard Abu Salam say: Abdullah bin Aamer told me that Qais Al-Kindi told him that Abu Saeed Al-Anmari told him that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "My Lord promised me that He will admit seventy thousand of my nation to Paradise without account, and every thousand will intercede for seventy thousand, then my Lord will take three handfuls with His two hands." That is what Qais said, so I said to Abu Saeed: Did you hear this from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace? He said: Yes, with my ears, and my heart has retained it. Abu Saeed said: He said, meaning the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace: And that, God Almighty willing, will include the emigrants of my nation and God will fulfill the remainder of our Arabs. Muhammad bin Sahl bin Askar narrated this hadith on the authority of Abu Tawbah al-Rabi' bin Nafi' with his chain of transmission similarly, and he added: Abu Saeed said: So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, calculated that, and it amounted to four hundred thousand thousand and ninety thousand thousand.

Another hadith Abu al-Qasim al-Tabarani said: Hashim ibn Murthad al-Tabarani told us, Muhammad ibn Ismail ibn Ayyash told us, my father told me, Damdam ibn Zur'ah told me, on the authority of Shuraih ibn Ubayd, on the authority of Abu Malik, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "By the One in Whose Hand is the soul of Muhammad, a group of you will be sent to Paradise on the Day of Resurrection, all of them striking the earth. The angels will say: Why did more people come with Muhammad than came with the prophets?" This is a good chain of transmission.

Another type - From the hadiths that indicate the virtue, honor, and dignity of this nation before God the Almighty, and that it is the best nation in this world and the hereafter. Imam Ahmad said: Yahya bin Saeed told us, Ibn Jurayj told us, Abu al-Zubayr told me on the authority of Jabir that he heard the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: I hope that those of my nation who follow me on the Day of Resurrection will be a quarter of Paradise. He said: "So we said 'Allahu Akbar,' then he said: "I hope that they will be a third of the people." He said: "So we said 'Allahu Akbar,' then he said: "I hope that you will be half of the people of Paradise." And this is how he narrated it on the authority of Ruh on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, and it meets the conditions of Muslim. It is proven in the two Sahihs from the hadith of Abu Ishaq al-Subai'i on the authority of Amr bin Maymun, on the authority of Abdullah bin Mas'ud, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to us: Are you not pleased to be a quarter of the people of Paradise? So we said 'Allahu Akbar,' then he said: Are you not pleased to be a third of the people of Paradise? So we said 'Allahu Akbar,' then he said: I hope that you will be half of the people of Paradise.

Another chain of transmission on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud. Al-Tabarani said: Ahmad ibn al-Qasim ibn Musawar told us, 'Affan ibn Muslim told us, 'Abd al-Wahid ibn Ziyad told us, al-Harith ibn Hasira told me, al-Qasim ibn 'Abd al-Rahman told me on the authority of his father, on the authority of 'Abdullah ibn Mas'ud, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: How will you be when a quarter of Paradise is for you and three quarters of it are for the rest of the people? They said: God and His Messenger know best. He said: How will you be when a third of it is for you? They said: That is more. He said: How will you be when half of it is for you? They said: That is more. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The people of Paradise are one hundred and twenty rows, eighty of which are for you. Al-Tabarani said: Al-Harith ibn Hasira is the only one to narrate it.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Abd al-Samad told

They will not harm you except with a slight annoyance, and if they fight you, they will turn their backs to you; then they will not be aided.

us, Abd al-Aziz ibn Muslim told us, Dhīrār ibn Murrah Abu Sīnān al-Shaibānī told us, on the authority of Muḥarib ibn Dithār, on the authority of Ibn Buraidah, on the authority of his father, that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The people of Paradise are one hundred and twenty rows, and this nation is eighty rows from that. And he narrated it likewise on the authority of Affan on the authority of Abd al-Aziz on his authority, and al-Tirmidhī included it on the authority of Abu Sīnān on his authority, and he said: This is a good ḥadīth, and Ibn Majāh narrated it on the authority of Sufyān al-Thawrī on the authority of Alqamah ibn Marthad, on the authority of Sulaymān ibn Buraidah, on the authority of his father on his authority.

Another ḥadīth - Al-Tabarānī narrated from the ḥadīth of Sulaymān bin Abd al-Raḥmān al-Dīmashqī: Khalid bin Yazid al-Bajālī told us, Sulaymān bin Ali bin Abdullah bin Abbas told us on the authority of his father, on the authority of his grandfather, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: The people of Paradise are one hundred and twenty rows, eighty of which are from my nation. Khalid bin Yazid al-Bajālī was the only one to narrate it, and Ibn Adi spoke about it.

Another ḥadīth Al-Tabarānī said: Abdullah bin Ahmad bin Hanbal told us, Mūsā bin Ghailān told us, Hashim bin Mukhallad told us, Abdullah bin Al-Mubarak told us on the authority of Sufyān, on the authority of Abu Amr, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Abu Hurairah, who said: When A group of the first and a group of the last was revealed, the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: You are a quarter of the people of Paradise, you are a third of the people of Paradise, you are half of the people of Paradise, you are two-thirds of the people of Paradise.

Abdul Razzaq said: Ma'mar informed us on the authority of Ibn Tawus, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Abu Hurairah, may God be pleased with him, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "We are the last but the first on the Day of Resurrection. We are the first people to enter Paradise, but they were given the Book before us and we were given it after them. So God guided us to the truth in what they differed about. So this is the day in which they differed, people will follow us. Tomorrow will be for the Jews and the day after tomorrow will be for the Christians." Narrated by Al-Bukhari and Muslim on the authority of Abdullah bin Tawus on the authority of his father, on the authority of Abu Hurairah, may God be pleased with him, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, with a chain of transmission traceable back to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, in a similar manner. Muslim also narrated it on the authority of Al-A'mash on the authority of Abu Salih on the authority of Abu Hurairah, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: We are the last but the first on the Day of Resurrection, and we are the first to enter Paradise. And he mentioned the rest of the ḥadīth.

Another ḥadīth - Al-Daraqutnī narrated in Al-Afrad from the ḥadīth of Abdullah bin Muhammad bin Aqil on the authority of Al-Zuhri, on the authority of Saeed bin Al-Musayyab, on the authority of Omar bin Al-Khattab, may God be pleased with him, that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Paradise was forbidden to all the prophets until I enter it, and it was forbidden to the nations until my nation enters it. Then he said: Ibn Aqil was the only one to narrate it on the authority of Al-Zuhri, and no one else narrated it on his authority. Zuhair bin Muhammad was the only one to narrate it on the authority of Ibn Aqil, and Amr bin Abi Salamah was the only one to narrate it on the authority of Zuhair. Abu Ahmad bin Adi Al-Hafiz narrated it, and he said: Ahmad bin Al-Hussein bin Ishaq told us, Abu Bakr Al-A'in Muhammad bin Abi Atab told us, Abu Hafs Al-Tanisi told us - meaning Amr bin Abi Salamah - Sadaqa Al-Dīmashqī told us on the authority of Zuhair bin Muhammad, on the authority of Abdullah bin Muhammad bin Aqil on the authority of Al-Zuhri. Al-Tha'labī narrated it: Abu al-Abbas al-Mukhalladī told us, Abu Na'im Abd al-Malik ibn Muhammad told us, Ahmad ibn Isa al-Tanisi told us, Amr ibn Abi Salamah told us, Sadaqa ibn Abdullah told us, on the authority of Zuhair ibn Muhammad, on the authority of Ibn Aqil, on his authority.

These ḥadīths are in the meaning of the Almighty's saying: "You are the best nation produced for mankind. You enjoin what is right and forbid what is wrong and believe in God." So whoever from this nation is characterized by these qualities is included with them in this praise and commendation of them, as Qatada said: It has reached us that Omar bin Al-Khattab, may God be pleased with him, during his Hajj, saw the people rushing, so he recited this verse: You are the best nation produced for mankind. Then he said: Whoever is pleased to be from that nation, let him fulfill God's condition regarding it. Narrated by Ibn Jarir. And whoever is not characterized by this is more like the People of the Book whom God condemned in His saying: They used not to forbid one another from the wrong they did Al-Baqarah 2:17. For this reason, when God praised this nation for these qualities, He began to condemn and rebuke the People of the Book, so God said: And if the People of the Scripture had believed, meaning in what was revealed to Muhammad, may God's prayers and peace be upon him, "it would have been better for them. Among them are believers, but most of them are wicked," meaning few of them believe in God and what was revealed to you and what was revealed to them, and most of them are misguided, disbelieving, and wicked. And disobedience.

Then the Almighty said, informing His believing servants and giving them good report that victory and triumph will be theirs over the disbelieving atheist People of the Book. The Almighty said: "They will not harm you except with an injury. And if they fight you, they will turn their backs to you; then they will not be helped." And so it happened. On the day of Khaybar, God humiliated them and made their noses ache. Likewise, those before them from the Jews of Medina, Banu Qaynuqa, Banu Nadir, and Banu Qurayzah, all of them were humiliated by God. Likewise, the Christians in the Levant, the Companions defeated them in more than one place, and they were deprived of the kingdom of the Levant forever and ever. The band of Islam will continue to exist in the Levant until Jesus, son of Mary, descends while they are still like that. He will rule by the religion of Islam and the law of Muhammad, may the best prayers and peace be upon him. He will break the cross, kill the pigs, and abolish the jizya, and will accept nothing but Islam. Then God the Almighty said: And humiliation has been imposed upon them wherever they are found, except by a covenant from God and a covenant from the people. That is, God has imposed humiliation and degradation upon them wherever they are, so they are not safe.

Except by a covenant from God, that is, by a protection from God, which is the covenant of protection for them, imposing the jizyah on them, and imposing the rulings of the religion on them. And a covenant from the people, that is, security from them for them, as in the case of a truce, a covenanted one, and a prisoner if one of the Muslims grants him security, even if it is a woman, and likewise a slave according to one of the two opinions of the scholars. Ibn Abbas said: Except by a covenant from God and a covenant from the people, that is, by a covenant from God and a covenant from the people. This is what Mujahid, Ikrimah, Ata, Ad-Dahhak, Al-Hasan, Qatadah, As-Suddi, and Ar-Rabi' ibn Anas said. And His statement: And they incurred the wrath of God, that is, they were obligated, so they committed themselves to the wrath of God, and they deserved it. And poverty has been imposed upon them, that is, they were obligated to it by fate and by law. That is why He said, That is because they disbelieved in the signs of God and killed the prophets unjustly. That is, what drove them to do that was arrogance, oppression, and envy, and that was followed by humiliation, lowliness, and poverty forever, connected to the humiliation of the Hereafter. Then God the Almighty said, That is because they disobeyed and were transgressing. That is, what drove them to disbelieve in the signs of God and kill the messengers of God, and they were destined for that - that they were frequently disobeying the commands of God the Almighty and committing sins against God, and transgressing against the law of God. So we seek refuge in God from that, and God the Almighty is the One sought for help. Ibn Abi Hatim said: Yunus ibn Habib told us, Abu Dawud al-Tayalisi told us, Shu'bah told us, on the authority of Sulayman al-A'mash, on the authority of Ibrahim, on the authority of Abu Mu'ammir al-Azdi, on the authority of Abdullah ibn Mas'ud, may God be pleased with him, who said: The Children of Israel used to kill three hundred prophets a day, and then a market would be held to kill them at the end of the day.

His statement 111- "They will not harm you except with a slight harm" meaning: They will not harm you with any type of harm except with a type of harm, which is lying, distortion, and slander. They are not able to cause harm that is harm in reality through war, looting, and the like. So the exception is empty, and this is a promise from God to His Messenger and to the believers that the People of the Book will not defeat them and that they will be victorious over them. It was said: The exception is disconnected. The meaning is: They will not harm you at all, but they will harm you. Then the Almighty clarified what He denied of harm by saying: "And if they fight you, they will turn their backs to you" meaning: They will be defeated and will not be able to resist you, let alone harm you. And His statement: "Then they will not be victorious" is in apposition to the conditional clause: meaning: Then there will be no victory for them and they will not be victorious under any circumstances. Rather, their condition is to be let down as long as they are. We have found what God Almighty promised us to be true, for the Jews did not see their banner of victory wave, nor did they gather an army that defeated them after the revelation of this verse. It is one of the miracles of prophecy.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

111- The Almighty said: "They will not harm you except with a slight harm." Muqatil said: The leaders of the Jews went to those among them who believed, such as Abdullah ibn Salam and his companions, and harmed them. So God Almighty revealed: "They will not harm you except with a slight harm." That is, these Jews will not harm you, O believers, except with a slight harm by the tongue: a threat and a stab. It was said: a word of disbelief by which you will be harmed. "And if they fight you, they will turn their backs to you, in defeat, and then they will not be aided, but you will have victory over them."

Tafsir al-Baidawi

111 They will not harm you except a slight harm" a slight harm such as stabbing and threatening. "And if they fight you, they will turn their backs" they will be defeated and will not harm you by killing or taking you captive. "Then they will not be aided" then there will be no one to aid them against you or repel your violence from them, negating their harm except what is by saying and he decided that if they rose to fight, their defeat would be upon them, then he informed that their end would be weakness and betrayal. And it was read "do not be aided in apposition to they turn on the basis that then" is for the slackness in the rank, so the lack of victory is restricted to fighting them, and this verse is one of the unseen things that agree with reality since that was the case of Qurayza, Nadir, Banu Qaynuqa' and the Jews of Khaybar.

Surat Al Imran 3:112

Humiliation has been imposed upon them wherever they are found, except by a rope from God and a rope from the people. And they incurred wrath from God, and poverty has been imposed upon them. That is because they disbelieved in the signs of God and killed the prophets without right. That is because they disobeyed and were transgressors.

Surat Al Imran 3:112

Humiliation has been imposed upon them wherever they are found, except by a rope from God and a rope from the people. And they incurred wrath from God, and poverty has been imposed upon them. That is because they disbelieved in the signs of God and killed the prophets without right. That is because they disobeyed and were transgressors.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

They are inflicted with humiliation wherever they are found wherever they are found, so they have no honor or protection except being with a rope from God and a rope from the people the believers, which is their covenant with them of safety on the basis of paying the jizyah, meaning they have no protection other than that and they incurred they returned (with wrath from God, and poverty has been inflicted upon them. That is because) that is because (they disbelieved in the signs of God and killed the prophets without right. That) is an emphasis because they disobeyed the command of God and they were transgressing they went beyond what was permissible to what was forbidden.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja`far said: By His Most High's words, humiliation was imposed upon them, He meant that they were forced into humiliation. Humiliation is the verb from humiliation, and we have explained that with its evidence in other places.

Wherever they are found means: wherever they are found.

God Almighty says: The Jews who denied Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, were forced to be humiliated wherever they were on earth, and wherever they were in its regions, in the lands of Muslims and polytheists, except by a rope from God and a rope from the people, as:

Muhammad bin Bashar told us, he said, Hudha told us, he said, Aouf told us, on the authority of Al-Hasan, regarding his statement: "Humiliation was imposed upon them wherever they were found, except by a rope from God and a rope from the people. They incurred the wrath of God, and poverty was imposed upon them," he said: This nation overtook them, and the Magians were collecting the jizya from them.

Muhammad bin Sinan told me, he said, Abu Bakr al-Hanafi told us, he said, Ibad told us, on the authority of al-Hasan, regarding his statement: Humiliation has been imposed upon them wherever they are found, except by a rope from God and a rope from the people, he said: God humiliated them so that they have no protection, and God placed them under the feet of the Muslims.

As for the rope that God mentioned in this place, it is the reason by which they are safe from the believers, and their money and children, from a covenant and security that was made for them before they settled in the lands of Islam, as:

Muhammad bin Amr told me, he said, Abu Asim told us, on the authority of Isa, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding his statement: except by a rope from God, he said: by a covenant, and a rope from the people, he said: by their covenant.

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada: Humiliation was imposed upon them wherever they were found, except by a covenant from God and a covenant from the people, meaning: except by a covenant from God and a covenant from the people.

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said, Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said, Muammar told us, on the authority of Qatada, similarly.

Humayd bin Mas`adah told us, he said, Yazid told us, on the authority of Uthman bin Ghayath, he said, Ikrimah says: Except with a rope from God and a rope from the people, he said: with a covenant from God and a covenant from the people.

Muhammad told us, Ahmad told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi: Except with a rope from God and a rope from the people, meaning: Except with a covenant from God and a covenant from the people.

It was narrated on the authority of Ammar, who said: Ibn Abi Ja`far narrated to us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of al-Rabi`, regarding his statement: Except by a rope from God and a rope from the people, meaning: Except by a covenant from God and a covenant from the people.

Muhammad bin Saad told me, he said, my father told me, he said, my uncle told me, he said, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding his statement: Wherever they are found, except by a covenant from God and a covenant from the people, so it is a covenant from God and a covenant from the people, just as a man says: the covenant of God and the covenant of His Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, so it is the covenant.

Al-Qasim told us, he said, Al-Hussein told us, he said, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, he said, Mujahid said:

Wherever they are found, they are bound by a covenant from God and a covenant from the people.

He said: By a covenant from God and a covenant from the people to them. Ibn Jurayj said: And Ata' said: The covenant is the covenant from God.

Yunus told me, he said, Ibn Wahb told us, he said, Ibn Zayd said about His statement: Wherever they are found, except by a rope from God and a rope from the people, he said: Except by a covenant, and they are the Jews. He said: A rope is a covenant. He said: And that is the statement of Abu Al-Haitham Ibn Al-Taihan to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, when the Ansar came to him at Al-Aqabah: O man, we will cut a rope between us and the people about you, he said: Covenants, he said: And the Jews will not feel safe in any land of God's land except by this rope that God the Almighty said: And he recited: And He will make those who follow you superior to those who disbelieve until the Day of Resurrection (Al Imran 3:55), he said: There is no country in which there are any Christians except that they are superior to the Jews in the East or the West, they are humiliated in all countries, God said: And We dispersed them throughout the earth into nations (al-A'raf 7:68), Jews.

It was narrated on the authority of Al-Husayn, who said: I heard Abu Muadh say: Ubayd ibn Sulayman told us, who said: I heard Ad-Dahhak, regarding his statement: Except by a rope from God and a rope from the people, saying: By a covenant from God and a covenant from the people.

Yahya bin Abi Talib told me, he said: Yazid told us, he said: Juwaybir told us, on the authority of Al-Dahhak, similarly.

Abu Ja'far said: The Arabists differed about the meaning of the preposition ba in his statement: except by a rope from God and a rope from the people. Some of the grammarians of Kufa said: The preposition ba in his statement: by a rope is an implied verb that was not mentioned. He said: The meaning of the statement is: Humiliation has been imposed upon them wherever they are found, except that they hold fast to a rope from God. So he implied that, and he cited as evidence for his statement the words of the poet:

She saw me with my ropes on, so she turned away in fear, and in the rope there are differences in the heart's fear

He said: He meant: She came with her two ropes, and in the words of the other:

The benevolence of time has bent me so much that I feel as if I am a hunter approaching to hunt.

I walk quickly, and whoever sees me thinks that I am not in chains.

He wants: bound by a shackle.

So he made it obligatory to use a deleted verb and to show its connection, which is abandoned. This is weak in the schools of Arabic, and far from the speech of the Arabs. As for the verses he cited as evidence for his statement, they do not indicate the validity of his claim, because in the poet's statement: She saw me with her ropes, there is clear evidence that she saw him holding the rope. So in his informing her that she saw him with her ropes, there is informing him that she saw him holding the ropes. So, in what appeared from the speech, there was no need to mention holding, and the ba' was a connection to his statement: She saw me, like the statement of the speaker: I am with God, sufficient for myself, and the listener's knowledge of its meaning, that the ba' is in need of speech that would bring it something other than what appeared, and that the meaning is: I am with God for help.

Some Basra grammarians said that his statement: except by a rope from God is an exception that comes out from the beginning of the statement. He said: This is not more severe than his statement: "They will not hear therein any ill speech, but [only], 'Peace'" (Maryam 19:62).

Other grammarians of Kufa said: It is a connected exception, and the meaning is: Humiliation was imposed upon them wherever they were found, meaning: in every place, except in a place of a rope from God, just as you say: Humiliation was imposed upon them in all places except in this place.

This is also a request for the truth, but he made a mistake in the explanation. That is because he claimed that it is a connected exception. If it were connected as he claimed, then it would be necessary that if the people are found with a rope from God and a rope from the people, then poverty would not be imposed upon them. And that is not the description of the Jews, because whenever they are found with a rope from God and a rope from the people, or without a rope from God the Almighty and without a rope from the people, then humiliation is imposed upon them, according to what we mentioned about the people of interpretation before. So if his statement, except with a rope from God and a rope from the people, was a connected exception, then it would be necessary that if the people are found with a covenant and protection, then humiliation would not be imposed upon them. This is contrary to what God described them with in their description, and contrary to what they have in their description. Thus, the corruption of the statement of this speaker has also become clear.

Abu Ja'far said: But our opinion is that the preposition ba in His statement: except by a rope from God was inserted because the statement before the exception requires the preposition ba in meaning. That is because the meaning of His statement: humiliation has been imposed upon them wherever they are found is humiliation has been imposed upon them wherever they are found. Then He said: except by a rope from God and a rope from the people is not connected to the first, but rather it is disconnected from it. Its meaning is: but they are found by a rope from God and a rope from the people, as it was said: And it is not for a believer to kill a believer except by mistake (An-Nisa': 92). So, even though mistake is the object of what it did in what preceded the exception, His statement with the exception is not connected to the first in the sense of: except by mistake, for he has the right to kill him in the same way, but its meaning is: but he may kill him by mistake. Likewise, his statement: Wherever they are found, except by a rope from God, even though what brought the ba after except was the verb that required it before except, so the exception is not the exception connected to the one before it, meaning: that if the people meet, humiliation will be removed from them, rather humiliation is fixed in every case. But its meaning is what we explained earlier.

Humiliation has been imposed upon them wherever they are found, except by a rope from God and a rope from the people. And they incurred wrath from God, and poverty has been imposed upon them. That is because they disbelieved in the signs of God and killed the prophets without right. That is because they disobeyed and were transgressors.

Abu Ja'far said: God Almighty means: And they incurred the wrath of God, and they bore the wrath of God and turned away with it those who deserved it. We have explained the origin of that with its evidence, and the meaning of poverty is that it is the humiliation of want and poverty and their submission, and the meaning of: the wrath of God in the past, which makes it unnecessary to repeat it in this place.

And His saying: That is because they disbelieved in the signs of God, He, the Most High, means by His saying: That, that is: the affliction that they incurred from the wrath of God and the humiliation that was imposed upon them, instead of what they disbelieved in the signs of God. He says: because they denied the signs of God and His evidence of the truthfulness of His prophets, and what He imposed upon them of His obligations, and killed the prophets without right, He says: and because they killed their prophets and God's messengers to them, as an aggression against God and audacity towards Him with falsehood, and without right, they deserved to be killed by them.

Abu Ja'far said: The interpretation of the statement is: They were forced to be humiliated wherever they found themselves, except with a covenant from God and a covenant from the people, and they turned away with the wrath of God, bearing it, and they were forced to be humiliated by want and humbled by poverty, instead of what they were denying of God's signs, evidence, and proofs, and killing His prophets unjustly, unjustly, and aggressively.

Abu Ja'far said: God Almighty says: We did that to them because of their disbelief, their killing of the prophets, their disobedience to their Lord, and their transgression against the command of their Lord.

We have explained the meaning of aggression in more than one place in our book, sufficiently enough to need to repeat it.

So our Lord, may His praise be glorified, informed His servants of what He did to these people of the People of the Book, of bringing humiliation and disgrace upon them in this worldly life, along with what He has stored up for them in the Hereafter of punishment, chastisement, and painful torment, since they transgressed the limits of God and made permissible what He has forbidden. This is a reminder from Him, may He be glorified, to them, and an alert to the place of the affliction from which they came so that they might repent and remember, and a lesson from Him to our nation that they should not follow their example and adopt their methods, lest they follow their paths and be afflicted with the punishments and examples of God that He has afflicted them, such as:

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, That is because they disobeyed and were transgressors. Avoid disobedience and transgression, for because of them, those who came before you were destroyed among the people.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

The Almighty said: Abasement has been imposed upon them meaning the Jews. Wherever they are found meaning they find and encounter, and the discussion is complete. The meaning of abasement has been imposed upon them has already been mentioned in Al-Baqarah. Except by a rope from God is an interrupted exception that is not from the first. That is, but they hold fast to a rope from God. And a rope from the people meaning the covenant that they have. And the people are Muhammad and the believers pay them the tax so they give them security. There is an abbreviation in the speech and the meaning is: Except that they hold fast to a rope from God, so it was deleted. Al-Farra' said: And they incurred the wrath of God meaning they returned. It was said: They endured. Its origin in the language is that it is not binding upon them, and it has already been mentioned in Al-Baqarah. Then he informed why He did that to them, saying: "That is because they disbelieved in the signs of God and killed the prophets without right. That is because they disobeyed and were transgressors." It has already been mentioned in Al-Baqarah in full.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The Almighty tells us about this Muhammadan nation that they are the best of nations, so He the Almighty said: You are the best nation produced for mankind. Al-Bukhari said: Muhammad bin Yusuf told us, on the authority of Sufyan, on the authority of Maysarah, on the authority of Abu Hazim, on the authority of Abu Hurairah, may God be pleased with him, You are the best nation produced for mankind. He said: The best of people for mankind, you bring them in chains around their necks until they enter Islam. And this is what Ibn Abbas, Mujahid, Atiyah Al-Awfi, Ikrimah, Ata, and Al-Rabi bin Anas said: You are the best nation produced for mankind, meaning the best of people for mankind, and the meaning is that they are the best of nations and the most beneficial people to people, and for this reason He said: You enjoin what is right and forbid what is wrong and believe in God. Imam Ahmad said: Ahmad bin Abdul Malik told us, Sharik told us, on the authority of Samak, on the authority of Abdullah bin Umairah, on the authority of the husband of Durrah bint Abi Lahab, on the authority of Durrah bint Abi Lahab, who said: "A man stood up to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, while he was on the pulpit, and said: O Messenger of God, which of the people is the best? He said: The best of people are those who recite the Qur'an the most, are those who fear God the most, enjoin what is right, forbid what is wrong, and maintain ties of kinship. Ahmad narrated it in his Musnad, and al-Nasa'i in his Sunan, and al-Hakim in his Mustadrak, on the authority of Samak, on the authority of Sa'id ibn Jubayr, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding the words of God the Almighty: You are the best nation produced for mankind. He said: They are those who migrated with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, from Mecca to Medina. The correct view is that this verse is general for the entire nation, each generation according to its own circumstances, and the best of their generations are those among whom the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was sent, then those who came after them, then those who came after them, as He said in the other verse: And thus We have made you a just community, meaning the best, that you will be witnesses over the people.

In Musnad of Imam Ahmad, Jami' al-Tirmidhi, Sunan Ibn Majah and Mustadrak al-Hakim, on the authority of Hakim ibn Mu'awiyah ibn Haidah, on the authority of his father, he said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'You are the best of seventy nations, and you are the most honorable to God, the Almighty.'" This is a well-known hadith, and al-Tirmidhi classified it as hasan. It is also narrated on the authority of Mu'adh ibn Jabal and Abu Sa'id, similar to it. This nation has achieved the lead in good deeds through its Prophet Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, for he is the most honorable of God's creation and the most honorable of the Messengers to God. God sent him with a complete and great law that no Prophet or Messenger before him was given. So, working according to his method and path is enough to replace a little of what a lot of work from others cannot replace, as Imam Ahmad said: 'Abd al-Rahman told us, Ibn Zuhair told us, on the authority of Abdullah, meaning Ibn Muhammad ibn 'Aqil, on the authority of Muhammad ibn 'Ali, who is Ibn al-Hanafiyyah, that he heard 'Ali ibn Abi Talib, may God be pleased with him, say: "The Messenger of God said: I have been given what none of the Prophets have been given." We said, O Messenger of God, what is it? He said, I have been aided by terror, I have been given the keys to the earth, I have been named Ahmad, the earth has been made a means of purification for me, and my nation has been made the best of nations. Ahmad is the only one to narrate it from this source, and its chain of transmission is good.

Imam Ahmad also said: Abu Al-Ala Al-Hasan bin Suwar told us, Laith told us, on the authority of Muawiyah, on the authority of Abu Halbas Yazid bin Maysarah, who said: I heard Umm Al-Darda', may God be pleased with her, say: I heard Abu Al-Darda', may God be pleased with him, say: "I heard Abu Al-Qasim, may God's prayers and peace be upon him, and I had never heard him use his kunya before or after that, saying: God Almighty says: O Jesus, I will send after you a nation who, if what they like befalls them, will praise and thank them, and if what they dislike befalls them, they will seek reward and be patient, but they have no patience or knowledge." He said: O Lord, how can this be for them, and they have no patience or knowledge? He said: I will give them from My patience and knowledge.

There are hadiths that are appropriate to mention here. Imam Ahmad said: Hashim bin Al-Qasim told us, Al-Masoudi told us, Bakir bin Al-Akhns told us, on the authority of a man, on the authority of Abu Bakr Al-Siddiq, may God be pleased with him, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: I have been given seventy thousand who will enter Paradise without being brought to account, their faces like the moon on the night of the full moon, their hearts like the heart of one man, so I asked my Lord, the Almighty and Majestic, for more, and He increased me with each one by seventy thousand." Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him, said: I saw that this would come upon the people of the villages and would befall those on the edges of the deserts.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Abdullah bin Bakr Al-Sahmi told us, Hisham bin Hassan told us, on the authority of Al-Qasim bin Mihran, on the authority of Musa bin Ubaid, on the authority of Maimun bin Mihran, on the authority of Abd Al-Rahman bin Abi Bakr: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: My Lord has given me seventy thousand who will enter Paradise without being brought to account. Umar said: O Messenger of God, why didn't you ask Him for more? He said: I asked Him for more, and He gave me seventy thousand with each man. Umar said: Why didn't you ask Him for more? He said: I asked Him for more, and He gave me this much." And Abdullah bin Bakr spread his hands apart, and Abdullah said: And he stretched out his arms, and Abdullah urged, and Hisham said: This is from God, and he does not know how many.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Abu Al-Yaman told us, Ismail bin Ayyash told us, on the authority of Damdam bin Zur'ah, who said: Shureih bin Ubaid said: Thawban fell ill in Homs, and Abdullah bin Qurt Al-Azdi was in charge of it, so he did not visit him. Then a man from the Kalaa'in came to visit Thawban, and Thawban said to him: Will you write? He said: Yes. He said: Write. So he wrote to the emir Abdullah bin Qurt from Thawban, the freed slave of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace: As for what follows, if Moses and Jesus, peace be upon them, had a servant in your presence, you would have visited him. Then he folded the letter and said to him: Will you deliver it to him? He said: Yes. So the man went with his letter and gave it to Ibn Qurt, and when he saw him, he stood up in a panic, and the people said: What is the matter with him? Has something happened? Then Thawban came until he entered upon him, visited him and sat with him for a while, then he stood up and Thawban took his cloak and said: Sit down until I tell you a hadith that I heard from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, in which he said: Seventy thousand of my nation will enter Paradise without being brought to account or punished, and with every thousand there will be seventy thousand. Ahmad is the only one to narrate it from this source and its chain of transmission is all trustworthy men from Syria and Homs, so it is a sound hadith, praise and thanks be to God.

Humiliation has been imposed upon them wherever they are found, except by a rope from God and a rope from the people. And they incurred wrath from God, and poverty has been imposed upon them. That is because they disbelieved in the signs of God and killed the prophets without right. That is because they disobeyed and were transgressors.

Another path: Al-Tabarani said: Amr bin Ishaq bin Zubayriq Al-Himsi told us, Muhammad bin Ismail, meaning Ibn Ayyash, told us, my father told me, on the authority of Damdam bin Zar'ah, on the authority of Shureih bin Ubaid, on the authority of Abu Asma Al-Rahbi, on the authority of Thawban, may God be pleased with him, who said: "I heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: 'My Lord, the Mighty and Sublime, promised me seventy thousand of my nation who will not be held accountable, with every thousand seventy thousand.'" Perhaps this is what is preserved with the addition of Abu Asma Al-Rahbi between Shureih and Thawban, and God knows best.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Abd al-Razzaq told us, Muammar told us, on the authority of Qatada, on the authority of al-Hasan, on the authority of Imran bin Husayn, on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud, may God be pleased with him, who said: We talked most of the time with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, one night, then we went to him and he said: "The prophets were shown to me tonight with their nations. A prophet would pass by with three people, a prophet with a group, a prophet with a few people, and a prophet with no one with him, until Moses, peace be upon him, passed by with a large group of the Children of Israel. I was amazed and said: Who are these? It was said: This is your brother Moses with the Children of Israel. He said: I said: Where are my nation? It was said: Look to your right. I looked and saw that the curtains had been closed with the faces of men. Then it was said to me: Look to your left. I looked and saw that the horizon had been closed with the faces of men. It was said to me: Are you satisfied? I said: I am satisfied, O Lord. He said: It was said to me: There are seventy thousand with these who will enter Paradise without being brought to account. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: And he said: May my father and mother be sacrificed for you, if you are able to be among the seventy thousand, then do so. If you fall short, then be among the people of the valley. If you fall short, then be among the people of the horizon, for I have seen people quarreling with one another. So Ukasha bin Muhsin stood up and said: O Messenger of God, pray to God to make me one of them, meaning one of the seventy. So he prayed for him, and another man stood up and said: Pray to God, O Messenger of God, to make me one of them. So he said: Ukasha has preceded you in that. He said: Then we talked and said: Who do you think these seventy thousand are? They are people who were born in Islam and did not associate anything with God until they died. So that reached the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and he said: "They are those who do not seek ruqyah, nor cauterize, nor take omens, and they put their trust in their Lord." This is how Ahmad narrated it with this chain of transmission and this context. He also narrated it on the authority of Abd al-Samad on the authority of Hisham on the authority of Qatadah with his chain of transmission similarly, and he added after his saying: I am satisfied, O Lord, I am satisfied, O Lord. He said: I am satisfied. I said: Yes. He said: Look to your left. He said: So I looked and saw that the horizon was blocked by the faces of men. He said: Are you satisfied? I said: I am satisfied. This is a sound chain of transmission from this source, transmitted only by Ahmad, and they did not include it.

Another hadith Ahmad ibn Mani' said: Abd al-Malik ibn Abd al-Aziz told us, Hammad told us, on the authority of Asim, on the authority of Zur, on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud, may God be pleased with him, who said: The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "The nations were presented to me with seasons, and my nation was pleased with me. Then I saw them and I was amazed by their large numbers and their appearance. They filled the plains and the mountains. He said: Are you satisfied, O Muhammad? I said: Yes. He said: With these are seventy thousand who will enter Paradise without being brought to account. They are those who do not seek incantations or cauterize, and they put their trust in their Lord. Then 'Ukasha ibn Muhsin stood up and said: O Messenger of God, ask God to make me one of them. He said: You are one of them. Then another man stood up and said: Ask God to make me one of them. He said: 'Ukasha beat you to it.'" Narrated by al-Hafiz al-Dhiya' al-Maqdisi, who said: This, in my opinion, meets the conditions of Muslim.

Another hadith Al-Tabarani said: Muhammad ibn Al-Judhu'i Al-Qadi told us, Uqbah ibn Mukram told us, Muhammad ibn Abi Uday told us, on the authority of Hisham ibn Hassan, on the authority of Muhammad ibn Sirin, on the authority of Imran ibn Husayn, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Seventy thousand of my nation will enter Paradise without being brought to account or punished. It was said: Who are they? He said: They are those who do not cauterize, nor seek omens, nor believe in omens, and they put their trust in their Lord. Muslim narrated it on the authority of Hisham ibn Hassan, and he mentioned Ukasha.

Another hadith It was established in the two Sahihs on the authority of Az-Zuhri on the authority of Sa'id ibn Al-Musayyab that Abu Hurairah told him: "I heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: 'A group of my nation will enter Paradise, and they will be seventy thousand, and their faces will shine like the moon on a full moon night.' Abu Hurairah said: 'Ukasha ibn Muhsin Al-Asadi stood up, raising his blanket and said: 'O Messenger of God, pray to God to make me one of them.' The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'O God, make him one of them.' Then a man from the Ansar stood up and said the same thing, and he said: 'Ukasha beat you to it.'" on the authority of Sahl ibn Sa'd, that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "Seventy thousand - or seven hundred thousand - of my nation will enter Paradise, some of them taking others, until the first of them and the last of them enter Paradise, and their faces will be like the moon on the night of the full moon." Al-Bukhari and Muslim both narrated it on the authority of Qutaybah on the authority of 'Abd al-'Aziz ibn Abi Hazim on the authority of his father on the authority of Sahl on his authority.

Another Hadith Muslim bin Al-Hajjaj said in his Sahih: Saeed bin Mansour told us, Hisham told us, Hiseen bin Abdul Rahman told us, he said: I was with Saeed bin Jubair and he said, Which of you saw the star that fell last night? I said: I did. Then I said: I was not praying, but I was stung. He said: So what did you do? I said: I sought ruqyah. He said: What made you do that? I said: A Hadith narrated to us by Al-Sha'bi. He said: And what did Al-Sha'bi tell you? I said: He told us on the authority of Buraydah ibn al-Husaib al-Aslami that he said: There is no ruqyah except for the evil eye or a fever. He said: He who has concluded what he heard has done well. However, Ibn Abbas told us on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, that he said: "The nations were presented to me and I saw the Prophet with a group of people, the Prophet with one or two men, and the Prophet with no one with him. Then a great multitude was raised to me and I thought that they were my nation. Then it was said to me: This is Moses and his people, but look to the horizon. So I looked and saw a great multitude. Then it was said to me: Look to the other horizon and see a great multitude. Then it was said to me: This is your nation and with them are seventy thousand who will enter Paradise without being held accountable or punished. Then he got up and entered his house." So the people began to argue about those who will enter Paradise without being held accountable or punished. Some of them said: Perhaps they are those who accompanied the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. Some of them said: Perhaps they are those who were born in Islam and did not associate anything with God. They mentioned things, so the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, came out to them and said: What are you arguing about? So they told him. He said: They are those who do not perform ruqyah, nor seek ruqyah from others, nor take omens, and they put their trust in their Lord. Then Ukasha bin Muhsin stood up and said: Ask God to make me one of them. He said: You are one of them. Then another man stood up and said: Ask God to make me one of them. He said: Ukasha beat you to it. Al-Bukhari narrated it on the authority of Asid bin Zaid on the authority of Hisham, but he does not have: they do not perform ruqyah.

Another hadith Ahmad said: Ruh ibn Ubadah told us, Ibn Jurayj told us, Abu al-Zubayr told me that he heard Jabir ibn Abdullah say: "I heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, mention a hadith, in which it says: The first group will be saved, their faces like the moon on the night of the full moon, seventy thousand who will not be held accountable, then those who follow them will be like the brightest star in the sky." Then likewise, and he mentioned the rest of it. Muslim narrated it from the hadith of Ruh, except that he did not mention the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace.

Another hadith Al-Hafiz Abu Bakr bin Abi Asim said in his book Al-Sunan: Abu Bakr bin Abi Shaybah told us, Ismail bin Ayyash told us on the authority of Muhammad bin Ziyad, I heard Abu Umamah Al-Bahili say: I heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: "My Lord promised me that seventy thousand of my nation will enter Paradise, with each thousand seventy thousand who will not be held accountable or punished, and three handfuls from the handfuls of my Lord, the Almighty and Majestic." And this is how Al-Tabarani narrated it on the authority of Hisham bin Ammar on the authority of Ismail bin Ayyash, and this is a good chain of transmission.

Another way On the authority of Abu Umamah. Ibn Abi Asim said, Dahim told us, Al-Walid bin Muslim told us on the authority of Safwan bin Amr, on the authority of Salim bin Amir, on the authority of Abu Al-Yaman Al-Hawzani, whose name is Amir bin Abdullah bin Luhay, on the authority of Abu Umamah, on the authority of the Messenger of God, who said: "God promised me that seventy thousand of my nation will enter Paradise without being brought to account. Yazid bin Al-Akhns said: By God, those among your nation, O Messenger of God, are like a reddish fly among flies. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: God promised me seventy thousand, with each thousand seventy thousand and He gave me three handfuls more." This is also a good chain of transmission.

Another hadith Abu al-Qasim al-Tabarani said: Ahmad ibn Khalid told us, Abu Tobah told us, Muawiyah ibn Salam told us on the authority of Zayd ibn Salam that he heard Abu Salam say: Aamer ibn Zayd al-Bakali told me that he heard Utbah ibn Abd al-Salami, may God be pleased with him, say: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "My Lord, the Almighty, promised me that seventy thousand of my nation will enter Paradise without being brought to account, then every thousand will intercede for seventy thousand, then my Lord, the Almighty, will scoop up three handfuls of dust in His hands." So Umar said: God will intercede for the first seventy for their fathers, sons, and clans, and I hope that God will make me one of the last handfuls of dust. Al-Hafiz al-Dhiya Abu Abdullah al-Maqdisi said in his book Sifat al-Jannah: I do not know of any defect in this chain of transmission, and God knows best.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Yahya bin Saeed told me, Hisham, meaning Al-Dastawai, told us, Yahya bin Abi Katheer told us, on the authority of Hilal bin Abi Maimouna, Ata bin Yasar told us that Rafa'ah Al-Juhani told him, he said: We set out with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, until we were at Al-Kadeed, or he said: at Qudayd, and he mentioned a hadith in which he said: "My Lord, the Almighty and Majestic, promised me that seventy thousand of my nation will enter Paradise without being brought to account, and I hope that they will not enter it until you and your righteous spouses and offspring have settled in dwellings in Paradise." Al-Dhiya' said: This, in my opinion, is in accordance with the conditions of Muslim.

Humiliation has been imposed upon them wherever they are found, except by a rope from God and a rope from the people. And they incurred wrath from God, and poverty has been imposed upon them. That is because they disbelieved in the signs of God and killed the prophets without right. That is because they disobeyed and were transgressors.

Another hadith Abd al-Razzaq said: Ma'mar informed us on the authority of Qatada, on the authority of al-Nadr ibn Anas, on the authority of Anas, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: God promised me that He would admit four hundred thousand of my nation into Paradise. Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him, said: Give us more, O Messenger of God. He said: By God, this is it. Umar said: That is enough, O Abu Bakr. Abu Bakr said: Leave me alone, and what does it matter to you if God admits us all into Paradise? Umar said: God willing, He will admit His creation into Paradise with one hand. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Umar has spoken the truth. This hadith with this chain of transmission is unique to Abd al-Razzaq. Al-Dhiya' said it and Al-Hafiz Abu Na'im Al-Isfahani narrated it. He said: Muhammad bin Ahmad bin Mukhallad told us, Ibrahim bin Al-Haitham Al-Baldi told us, Sulayman bin Harb told us, Abu Hilal told us on the authority of Qatada, on the authority of Anas, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: My Lord promised me that He would admit one hundred thousand of my nation into Paradise. Abu Bakr said: O Messenger of God, give us more. He said: And so it was, and Sulayman bin Harb pointed with his hand in the same manner. I said: O Messenger of God, give us more. Umar said: God is able to admit people into Paradise with a single handful. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Umar has spoken the truth. This is a strange hadith from this source. Abu Hilal's name is Muhammad bin Salim Al-Rasibi, from Basra.

Another chain of transmission on the authority of Anas. Al-Hafiz Abu Ya'la said: Muhammad ibn Abi Bakr told us, 'Abd al-Qahir ibn al-Sarri al-Sulami told us, Hamid told us on the authority of Anas, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "Seventy thousand of my nation will enter Paradise. They said: 'Give us more, O Messenger of God.' He said: 'For every man there are seventy thousand.' They said: 'Give us more,' and he was on a sand dune. He said like this and threw some with his hand. They said: 'O Messenger of God, may God distance those who enter Hell after this.'" This is a good chain of transmission, and all of its men are trustworthy, except for 'Abd al-Qahir ibn al-Sarri. Ibn Ma'in was asked about him and said: He is trustworthy.

Another hadith Al-Tabarani narrated from the hadith of Qatada on the authority of Abu Bakr bin Anas, on the authority of Abu Bakr bin Umair, on the authority of his father that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "God promised me that three hundred thousand of my nation would enter Paradise. Umair said: O Messenger of God, give us more. He said: This way, with his hand. Umair said: O Messenger of God, give us more. Umar said: It is enough for you. If God wills, He will admit people to Paradise with a handful or a single handful. The Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Umar spoke the truth."

Another hadith Al-Tabarani said: Ahmad bin Khalid told us, Abu Tobah told us, Muawiyah bin Salam told us on the authority of Zaid bin Salam that he heard Abu Salam say: Abdullah bin Aamer told me that Qais Al-Kindi told him that Abu Saeed Al-Anmari told him that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "My Lord promised me that He will admit seventy thousand of my nation to Paradise without account, and every thousand will intercede for seventy thousand, then my Lord will take three handfuls with His two hands." That is what Qais said, so I said to Abu Saeed: Did you hear this from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace? He said: Yes, with my ears, and my heart has retained it. Abu Saeed said: He said, meaning the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace: And that, God Almighty willing, will include the emigrants of my nation and God will fulfill the remainder of our Arabs. Muhammad bin Sahl bin Askar narrated this hadith on the authority of Abu Tawbah al-Rabi' bin Nafi' with his chain of transmission similarly, and he added: Abu Saeed said: So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, calculated that, and it amounted to four hundred thousand and ninety thousand and thousand.

Another hadith Abu al-Qasim al-Tabarani said: Hashim ibn Murthad al-Tabarani told us, Muhammad ibn Ismail ibn Ayyash told us, my father told me, Damdam ibn Zur'ah told me, on the authority of Shuraih ibn Ubayd, on the authority of Abu Malik, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "By the One in Whose Hand is the soul of Muhammad, a group of you will be sent to Paradise on the Day of Resurrection, all of them striking the earth. The angels will say: Why did more people come with Muhammad than came with the prophets?" This is a good chain of transmission.

Another type - From the hadiths that indicate the virtue, honor, and dignity of this nation before God the Almighty, and that it is the best nation in this world and the hereafter. Imam Ahmad said: Yahya bin Saeed told us, Ibn Jurayj told us, Abu al-Zubayr told me on the authority of Jabir that he heard the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: I hope that those of my nation who follow me on the Day of Resurrection will be a quarter of Paradise. He said: "So we said 'Allahu Akbar,' then he said: "I hope that they will be a third of the people." He said: "So we said 'Allahu Akbar,' then he said: "I hope that you will be half of the people of Paradise." And this is how he narrated it on the authority of Ruh on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, and it meets the conditions of Muslim. It is proven in the two Sahihs from the hadith of Abu Ishaq al-Subai'i on the authority of Amr bin Maymun, on the authority of Abdullah bin Mas'ud, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to us: Are you not pleased to be a quarter of the people of Paradise? So we said 'Allahu Akbar,' then he said: Are you not pleased to be a third of the people of Paradise? So we said 'Allahu Akbar,' then he said: I hope that you will be half of the people of Paradise.

Another chain of transmission on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud. Al-Tabarani said: Ahmad ibn al-Qasim ibn Musawar told us, 'Affan ibn Muslim told us, 'Abd al-Wahid ibn Ziyad told us, al-Harith ibn Hasira told me, al-Qasim ibn 'Abd al-Rahman told me on the authority of his father, on the authority of 'Abdullah ibn Mas'ud, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: How will you be when a quarter of Paradise is for you and three quarters of it are for the rest of the people? They said: God and His Messenger know best. He said: How will you be when a third of it is for you? They said: That is more. He said: How will you be when half of it is for you? They said: That is more. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The people of Paradise are one hundred and twenty rows, eighty of which are for you. Al-Tabarani said: Al-Harith ibn Hasira is the only one to narrate it.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Abd al-Samad told us, Abd al-Aziz ibn Muslim told us, Dharrar ibn Murrah Abu Sinan al-Shaibani told us, on the authority of Muharib ibn Dithar, on the authority of Ibn Buraidah, on the authority of his father, that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The people of Paradise are one hundred and twenty rows, and this nation is eighty rows from that. And he narrated it likewise on the authority of Affan on the authority of Abd al-Aziz on his authority, and al-Tirmidhi included it on the authority of Abu Sinan on his authority, and he said: This is a good hadith, and Ibn Majah narrated it on the authority of Sufyan al-Thawri on the authority of Alqamah ibn Marthad, on the authority of Sulayman ibn Buraidah, on the authority of his father on his authority.

Another hadith - Al-Tabarani narrated from the hadith of Sulayman bin Abd al-Rahman al-Dimashqi: Khalid bin Yazid al-Bajali told us, Sulayman bin Ali bin Abdullah bin Abbas told us on the authority of his father, on the authority of his grandfather, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: The people of Paradise are one hundred and twenty rows, eighty of which are from my nation. Khalid bin Yazid al-Bajali was the only one to narrate it, and Ibn Adi spoke about it.

Another hadith Al-Tabarani said: Abdullah bin Ahmad bin Hanbal told us, Musa bin Ghailan told us, Hashim bin Mukhallad told us, Abdullah bin Al-Mubarak told us on the authority of Sufyan, on the authority of Abu Amr, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Abu Hurairah, who said: When A group of the first and a group of the last was revealed, the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: You are a quarter of the people of Paradise, you are a third of the people of Paradise, you are half of the people of Paradise, you are two-thirds of the people of Paradise.

Abdul Razzaq said: Ma'mar informed us on the authority of Ibn Tawus, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Abu Hurairah, may God be pleased with him, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "We are the last but the first on the Day of Resurrection. We are the first people to enter Paradise, but they were given the Book before us and we were given it after them. So God guided us to the truth in what they differed about. So this is the day in which they differed, people will follow us. Tomorrow will be for the Jews and the day after tomorrow will be for the Christians." Narrated by Al-Bukhari and Muslim on the authority of Abdullah bin Tawus on the authority of his father, on the authority of Abu Hurairah, may God be pleased with him, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, with a chain of transmission traceable back to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, in a similar manner. Muslim also narrated it on the authority of Al-A'mash on the authority of Abu Salih on the authority of Abu Hurairah, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: We are the last but the first on the Day of Resurrection, and we are the first to enter Paradise. And he mentioned the rest of the hadith.

Another hadith - Al-Daraqutni narrated in Al-Afrad from the hadith of Abdullah bin Muhammad bin Aqil on the authority of Al-Zuhri, on the authority of Saeed bin Al-Musayyab, on the authority of Omar bin Al-Khattab, may God be pleased with him, that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Paradise was forbidden to all the prophets until I enter it, and it was forbidden to the nations until my nation enters it. Then he said: Ibn Aqil was the only one to narrate it on the authority of Al-Zuhri, and no one else narrated it on his authority. Zuhair bin Muhammad was the only one to narrate it on the authority of Ibn Aqil, and Amr bin Abi Salamah was the only one to narrate it on the authority of Zuhair. Abu Ahmad bin Adi Al-Hafiz narrated it, and he said: Ahmad bin Al-Hussein bin Ishaq told us, Abu Bakr Al-A'in Muhammad bin Abi Atab told us, Abu Hafs Al-Tanisi told us - meaning Amr bin Abi Salamah - Sadaqa Al-Dimashqi told us on the authority of Zuhair bin Muhammad, on the authority of Abdullah bin Muhammad bin Aqil on the authority of Al-Zuhri. Al-Tha'labi narrated it: Abu al-Abbas al-Mukhalladi told us, Abu Na'im Abd al-Malik ibn Muhammad told us, Ahmad ibn Isa al-Tanisi told us, Amr ibn Abi Salamah told us, Sadaqah ibn Abdullah told us, on the authority of Zuhair ibn Muhammad, on the authority of Ibn Aqil, on his authority.

These hadiths are in the meaning of the Almighty's saying: "You are the best nation produced for mankind. You enjoin what is right and forbid what is wrong and believe in God." So whoever from this nation is characterized by these qualities is included with them in this praise and commendation of them, as Qatada said: It has reached us that Omar bin Al-Khattab, may God be pleased with him, during his Hajj, saw the people rushing, so he recited this verse: You are the best nation produced for mankind. Then he said: Whoever is pleased to be from that nation, let him fulfill God's condition regarding it. Narrated by Ibn Jarir. And whoever is not characterized by this is more like the People of the Book whom God condemned in His saying: They used not to forbid one another from the wrong they did Al-Baqarah 2:17. For this reason, when God praised this nation for these qualities, He began to condemn and rebuke the People of the Book, so God said: And if the People of the Scripture had believed, meaning in what was revealed to Muhammad, may God's prayers and peace be upon him, "it would have been better for them. Among them are believers, but most of them are wicked," meaning few of them believe in God and what was revealed to you and what was revealed to them, and most of them are misguided, disbelieving, and wicked. And disobedience.

Humiliation has been imposed upon them wherever they are found, except by a rope from God and a rope from the people. And they incurred wrath from God, and poverty has been imposed upon them. That is because they disbelieved in the signs of God and killed the prophets without right. That is because they disobeyed and were transgressors.

Then the Almighty said, informing His believing servants and giving them good report that victory and triumph will be theirs over the disbelieving atheist People of the Book. The Almighty said: "They will not harm you except with an injury. And if they fight you, they will turn their backs to you; then they will not be helped." And so it happened. On the day of Khaybar, God humiliated them and made their noses ache. Likewise, those before them from the Jews of Medina, Banu Qaynuqa, Banu Nadir, and Banu Qurayzah, all of them were humiliated by God. Likewise, the Christians in the Levant, the Companions defeated them in more than one place, and they were deprived of the kingdom of the Levant forever and ever. The band of Islam will continue to exist in the Levant until Jesus, son of Mary, descends while they are still like that. He will rule by the religion of Islam and the law of Muhammad, may the best prayers and peace be upon him. He will break the cross, kill the pigs, and abolish the jizya, and will accept nothing but Islam. Then God the Almighty said: And humiliation has been imposed upon them wherever they are found, except by a covenant from God and a covenant from the people. That is, God has imposed humiliation and degradation upon them wherever they are, so they are not safe. Except by a covenant from God, that is, by a protection from God, which is the covenant of protection for them, imposing the jizyah on them, and imposing the rulings of the religion on them. And a covenant from the people, that is, security from them for them, as in the case of a truce, a covenanted one, and a prisoner if one of the Muslims grants him security, even if it is a woman, and likewise a slave according to one of the two opinions of the scholars. Ibn Abbas said: Except by a covenant from God and a covenant from the people, that is, by a covenant from God and a covenant from the people. This is what Mujahid, Ikrimah, Ata, Ad-Dahhak, Al-Hasan, Qatadah, As-Suddi, and Ar-Rabi' ibn Anas said. And His statement: And they incurred the wrath of God, that is, they were obligated, so they committed themselves to the wrath of God, and they deserved it. And poverty has been imposed upon them, that is, they were obligated to it by fate and by law. That is why He said, That is because they disbelieved in the signs of God and killed the prophets unjustly. That is, what drove them to do that was arrogance, oppression, and envy, and that was followed by humiliation, lowliness, and poverty forever, connected to the humiliation of the Hereafter. Then God the Almighty said, That is because they disobeyed and were transgressing. That is, what drove them to disbelieve in the signs of God and kill the messengers of God, and they were destined for that - that they were frequently disobeying the commands of God the Almighty and committing sins against God, and transgressing against the law of God. So we seek refuge in God from that, and God the Almighty is the One sought for help. Ibn Abi Hatim said: Yunus ibn Habib told us, Abu Dawud al-Tayalisi told us, Shu'bah told us, on the authority of Sulayman al-A'mash, on the authority of Ibrahim, on the authority of Abu Mu'ammara al-Azdi, on the authority of Abdullah ibn Mas'ud, may God be pleased with him, who said: The Children of Israel used to kill three hundred prophets a day, and then a market would be held to kill them at the end of the day.

His statement 112- "Humiliation has been imposed upon them." The meaning of this construction has already been mentioned in Al-Baqarah. The meaning is: Humiliation has surrounded them in every situation and in every situation, wherever they are found. "Except by a rope from God." That is, unless they hold fast to a rope from God. Al-Farra' said: That is, by the covenant of God or by His Book. "And a rope from the people." That is, by a covenant from the people, who are the Muslims. It was said: What is meant by the people is the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace. "And they returned, that is, they returned with wrath from God." It was said: they endured it. Its original meaning in the language is necessity and deservingness: that is, wrath from God has been imposed upon them, and they deserve it. The meaning of being struck with poverty is that it surrounds them from all sides. This is the case of the Jews, who are under extreme poverty and severe destitution, except for the rare and exceptional among them. The reference in His saying that is to what preceded of the humiliation, poverty and wrath, meaning: that befell them because they disbelieved in the signs of God and killed the prophets unjustly, and the reference in His saying that is to the disbelief and killing of the prophets because of their disobedience to God and their transgression of His limits. The meaning of the verse is: that God struck them with humiliation, poverty and calamity through His wrath because they disbelieved in His signs and killed His prophets because of their disobedience and transgression.

Abdur-Razzaq, Ibn Abi Shaybah, Abd bin Hamid, Ahmad, Al-Nasa'i, Ibn Jarir, Ibn Al-Mundhir, Ibn Abi Hatim, Al-Tabarani and Al-Hakim narrated and authenticated it on the authority of Ibn Abbas regarding the statement of God, You are the best nation, that he said: They are those who migrated with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. Ibn Jarir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Al-Suddi regarding the verse that he said: Umar bin Al-Khattab said: If God had willed, He would have said: You, so we would have been all of us, but He said: You were among the special companions of Muhammad, and whoever did what they did, they were the best nation brought forth for mankind. And in another version on his authority he said: It will be for the first of us and not for the last of us. Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of Qatadah that he said: It was mentioned to us that Umar bin Al-Khattab recited this verse, then he said: O people, whoever is pleased to be from that nation, let him fulfill God's condition for it. Ibn Jarir and Ibn Al-Mundhir narrated on the authority of Ikrimah regarding the verse that he said: It was revealed regarding Ibn Mas'ud, Ammar bin Yasir, Salim the freed slave of Abu Hudhayfah, Ubayy bin Ka'b and Mu'adh bin Jabal. Al-Bukhari and others narrated on the authority of Abu Hurairah regarding the verse, he said: The best people for people are those who will be brought in chains around their necks until they enter Islam. Abd al-Razzaq, Abd ibn Humayd, Ahmad, al-Tirmidhi who authenticated it, Ibn Majah, Ibn Jarir, Ibn al-Mundhir, Ibn Abi Hatim, al-Tabarani and al-Hakim who authenticated it narrated on the authority of Muawiyah ibn Haidah that he heard the Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) say regarding the verse: You will complete seventy nations, and you are the best and most honorable of them. A similar hadith was narrated on the authority of Muadh and Abu Saeed. Many hadiths were narrated in the two Sahihs and others that seventy thousand of this nation will enter Paradise without being brought to account or punished. This is one of the benefits of it being the best of nations. Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of al-Hasan, They will not harm you except with annoyance, meaning: You will hear from them lies about God, calling you to misguidance. He also narrated on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, who said: Their associating partners with God in Uzair, Jesus and the cross. Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of al-Hasan and Qatadah, Humiliation has been imposed upon them, meaning: They will pay the jizyah willingly and they will be humiliated. Ibn al-Mundhir narrated something similar on the authority of al-Dahhak. Ibn Jarir, Ibn al-Mundhir, and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas, Except by a rope from God and a rope from the people. He said: By a covenant from God and a covenant from the people.

112- "Humiliation has been imposed upon them wherever they are found wherever they are found except by a rope from God" meaning: wherever they are found they are weakened, killed and taken captive, so they are not safe except by a rope from God: a covenant from God the Most High that they will submit, "and a rope from the people" from the believers by paying a tax or security, meaning: unless they hold fast to a rope and are safe.

God Almighty says: And they incurred the wrath of God, they returned with it, "and poverty was imposed upon them. That was because they disbelieved in the signs of God and killed the prophets without right. That was because they disobeyed and were transgressors."

112 "Humiliation has been imposed upon them" the squandering of life, wealth and family, or the humiliation of clinging to falsehood and the jizya. "Wherever they are found they are found except by a rope from God and a rope from the people" an exception from the most general of the general conditions, meaning humiliation has been imposed upon them in most conditions except for those who hold fast, or are clothed in the protection of God or the writing that He gave them and the protection of the Muslims, or the religion of Islam and following the path of the believers. "And they incurred the wrath of God" they returned with it deserving it. "And poverty has been imposed upon them" so it surrounds them like a house that is stricken upon its people, and the Jews are mostly poor and needy. "That" is an indication of what was mentioned about the humiliation and poverty and the incurring of wrath. "Because they disbelieved in the signs of God and killed the prophets without right" because of their disbelief in the signs and their killing of the prophets. And the restriction without right, although it is so in reality, to indicate that it was not right according to their belief either. That meaning disbelief and killing. Because they disobeyed and were transgressing because of their disobedience and transgression of the limits of God, as insisting on minor sins leads to major sins and continuing in them leads to disbelief. It was said that its meaning is that the humiliation in this world and the response to wrath in the hereafter, as is explained by their disbelief and killing, is caused by their disobedience and transgression, since they are also addressed by the branches.

Surat Al Imran 3:113

They are not all alike. Among the People of the Scripture is a community standing [in prayer], reciting the verses of God during periods of the night, and they prostrate.

Surat Al Imran 3:113

They are not all alike. Among the People of the Scripture is a community standing [in prayer], reciting the verses of God during periods of the night, and they prostrate.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

They meaning the People of the Book are not equal equal among the People of the Book is a community standing upright and steadfast on the truth like Abdullah bin Salam, may God be pleased with him and his companions reciting the verses of God during the hours of the night meaning during its hours and they prostrate praying, a state.

The Almighty said: They are not equal, the verse. Ibn Abi Hatim, Al-Tabarani, and Ibn Mandah narrated in the Companions on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: When Abdullah bin Salam, Tha'laba bin Sa'iah, Asid bin Sa'iah, Asad bin Abd, and those Jews who converted with them converted to Islam, and they believed and were truthful and desired Islam, the rabbis of the Jews and the unbelievers among them said: None believed in Muhammad and followed him except the worst of us. If they had been the best of us, they would not have abandoned the religion of their fathers and gone to another one. So God revealed about that: They are not equal among the People of the Book, the verse.

Ahmad and others narrated on the authority of Ibn Masoud that he said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, delayed the Isha prayer, then he went out to the mosque and saw the people waiting for the prayer. He said: As for the fact that there is no one among the people of these religions who remembers God at this hour except you, and this verse was revealed: They are not all alike. Among the People of the Scripture is a community standing until it reached the point of God being Knowing of the righteous.

Abu Ja'far said: What He, the Most High, means by His saying, They are not equal, is that there is no group of the People of the Book, the believers and the disbelievers among them: equal. What He means by that is: that they are not equal. He says: they are not equal, but they differ in righteousness and corruption, goodness and evil.

It was said: They are not equal, because it mentions the two groups of the People of the Book that God mentioned in His statement: "And if the People of the Scripture had believed, it would have been better for them. Among them are believers, but most of them are wicked." (Al Imran 3:110), then God, the Most High, informed about the state of the two groups before Him, the believers and the disbelievers, and said: They are not equal, meaning: these are not equal, the believers and the disbelievers. Then God, the Most High, began the report about the description of the believing group among the People of the Book, and praised them and spoke highly of them, after describing the wicked group among them with what He described them with of panic, the elite of Paradise, the alliance of humiliation and lowliness, the constant poverty and destitution, and bearing the shame of this world and the disgrace of the Hereafter, so He said: Among the People of the Scripture is a community standing, reciting the verses of God during the hours of the night and prostrating, the three verses up to His statement: And God is Knowing of the righteous.

His saying: A nation that stands is raised by his saying: Of the People of the Book.

A group of grammarians from Kufa and Basra, and the most prominent among them in their profession, imagined that what comes after sawaa in this place in His statement: an established nation, is a translation of sawaa and an explanation of it, meaning: There is no equal among the People of the Book a nation that is established and recites the verses of God during the hours of the night and another that is disbelieving. They claimed that mentioning the other group was omitted, sufficing with mentioning one of the two groups, which is the established nation, and they gave an example of this with the statement of Abu Dhu'ayb:

I disobeyed her heart: I hear her command, so I do not know how to guide her seekers?

He did not say: Or is it not right? He was satisfied with saying: More right than the one mentioned, or is it not right? and with the saying of the other:

I see you, but I do not know what his ambition is? And the one with ambition is humble and diminished.

Abu Ja'far said: It is, however, in their view a mistake to say that the speaker who wants to say: Whether you stay or sit: Whether you stay, so that he says: Or sit. They only permit the deletion of the second letter in the speech that is sufficient with one, not in what is lacking from that, such as: I do not care or I do not know, so they permit in that: I do not care I stayed, and they mean: I do not care whether I stayed or sat, because I do not care is sufficient with one, and likewise in I do not know. And they refused to permit in whether, because of its deficiency, and that it is not sufficient with one, so they overlooked - in their interpretation of his statement: They are not all alike among the People of the Scripture, a community standing, according to what we have related from them, to what they have directed it to - their schools of thought in Arabic, since they permitted in it the deletion that is not permissible according to them in speech with whether, and they made a mistake in interpreting the verse. So whether in this place means completion and sufficiency, not in the meaning interpreted by the one whose statement we have related.

It was mentioned that his saying: Among the People of the Scripture is a community standing - the three verses - was revealed about a group of Jews who converted to Islam and their conversion was good.

Who said that?

Ibn Humayd told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Muhammad ibn Ishaq, he said, Muhammad ibn Abi Muhammad told me, on the authority of Ikrimah or on the authority of Saeed ibn Jubayr, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, he said: When Abdullah ibn Salam, Tha'laba ibn Sa'iyah, Asid ibn Sa'iyah, Asad ibn Ubayd, and those Jews who had converted with them, and believed and were truthful and desired Islam and were firmly established in it, the rabbis of the Jews and the unbelievers among them said: None believed in Muhammad and followed him except the worst of us! If they had been among the best of us, they would not have abandoned the religion of their fathers and gone to another one. So God, the Almighty, revealed regarding that from their statement: "They are not all alike. Among the People of the Scripture is a community standing [in prayer], reciting the verses of God" until His saying: And those are among the righteous.

Abu Kuraib told us, he said, Yunus bin Bakir told us, on the authority of Muhammad bin Ishaq, he said, Ibn Abi Muhammad, the client of Zaid bin Thabit, told me, he said, Saeed bin Jubair or Ikrimah told me, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, something similar.

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, "They are not all the same. Among the People of the Scripture is a community standing" the verse, he says: Not all of the people perished, God had a remnant among them.

Al-Qasim told us, Al-Hussein told us, Hajjaj told me, Ibn Jurayj said: A standing nation, Abdullah bin Salam, and Tha'laba bin Salam his brother, and Sa'iyya, and Mubashar, and Asid and Asad, the sons of Ka'b.

Others said: The meaning of this is: The People of the Book and the nation of Muhammad who uphold the right of God are not equal before God.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Amr told me, he said, Abu Asim told us, he said, Isa told us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Al-Hasan bin Yazid Al-Ajli, on the authority of Abdullah bin Masoud that he used to say regarding his statement: They are not equal among the People of the Scripture - a community standing, he said: The People of the Scripture and the nation of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, are not equal.

Muhammad bin Al-Hussein told us, Ahmad bin Al-Mufaddal told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi: "They are not all alike. Among the People of the Scripture is a community standing," the verse, meaning: These Jews are not like this nation that is standing.

Abu Ja'far said: We have shown that the more correct of the two opinions on this matter is the opinion of the one who said: The story was completed when he said:

They are not equal, about God informing us about the matter of the believers among the People of the Book and the disbelievers among them, and that his saying: Among the People of the Book is a community standing, is a new statement about praising their believers and describing them according to their characteristics, according to what Ibn 'Abbas, Qatadah, and Ibn Jurayj said.

By His saying, a standing nation, He, the Most High, means a group steadfast on the truth.

We have already demonstrated the meaning of the nation in a way that makes it unnecessary to repeat it.

As for the list, the people of interpretation differed in its interpretation.

Some of them said: It means: fair.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Amr told me, he said, Abu Asim told us, he said, Isa told us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid: A nation that stands up, he said: Just.

Others said: Rather, the meaning of this is that it is based on the Book of God and what He commanded in it.

Who said that?

Bishr bin Muadh told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: A nation that stands firm, he said: Standing firm on the Book of God, His obligations, and His limits.

It was narrated on the authority of Ammar, who said: Ibn Abi Ja'far narrated to us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of al-Rabi', regarding his statement: A nation that stands, meaning: standing on the Book of God, His limits, and His obligations.

Muhammad bin Saad told me, he said, my father told me, he said, my uncle told me, he said, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn Abbas: Among the People of the Book is a nation that stands, he says: a nation that is guided, standing by the command of God, not turning away from it and abandoning it as others abandoned it and wasted it.

Others said: Rather, the meaning of standing is obedient.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Al-Hussein told us, Ahmad bin Al-Mufaddal told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi: A nation standing, the verse, he says: These Jews are not like this nation that is obedient to God. And obedient, obedient.

Abu Ja'far said: The most correct of these sayings in interpreting this is what was said by Ibn 'Abbas, Qatadah, and those who said the same as them, according to what we have narrated from them, even though all the other sayings are close in meaning to what Ibn 'Abbas and Qatadah said about this. This is because the meaning of his saying, standing, is upright on guidance, the Book of God, His obligations, the laws of His religion, justice, obedience, and other causes of goodness, from the description of the people of uprightness on the Book of God and the Sunnah of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. Similar to this is the report narrated by An-Nu'man ibn Bashir, "on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, that he said:

They are not all alike. Among the People of the Scripture is a community standing [in prayer], reciting the verses of God during periods of the night, and they prostrate.

The example of the one who upholds the limits of God and the one who transgresses them is like the example of a people who boarded a ship. Then he gave them an example.

The one who adheres to the limits of God is the one who is steadfast in adhering to what God has commanded him to do and avoiding what God has forbidden him to do.

Abu Jaafar said: The interpretation of the statement is: Among the People of the Book is a group that adheres to the Book of God, clings to it, and is steadfast in acting in accordance with what is in it and what His Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, has prescribed for them.

Abu Ja'far said: What he means by his saying, "They recite the verses of God," is that they read the Book of God during the hours of the night. What he means by his saying, The verses of God, is what God has revealed in His Book of lessons and admonitions. He says, They recite that during the hours of the night, meaning: during the hours of the night, they contemplate it and reflect upon it.

As for the hours of the night, they are the hours of the night, the singular of which is ani, as the poet said:

Sweet and bitter, like the affection of the cup, its bitterness is in every place where I walk, the night is next to it

It has been said that one vessel is a small vessel, just as one intestine is a small intestine.

The interpreters differed in their interpretation of this.

Some of them said: Its interpretation is: the hours of the night, as we said.

Who said that?

Bishr told us, Yazid told us, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada: They recite the verses of God during the hours of the night, meaning: the hours of the night.

It was narrated on the authority of Ammar, who said: Ibn Abi Ja'far narrated to us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of al-Rabi', who said: The hours of the night means the hours of the night.

Al-Qasim told us, Al-Hussein told us, Hajjaj told me, Ibn Jurayj said, Abdullah bin Katheer said: We heard the Arabs say: the hours of the night, the hours of the night.

Others said: Ana' al-Layl means the middle of the night.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Al-Hussein told us, Ahmad bin Al-Mufaddal told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi: They recite the verses of God during the hours of the night. As for the hours of the night, it means the middle of the night.

Others said: Rather, he meant by that people who used to pray the last evening prayer.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Amr told me, he said, Abu Asim told us, he said, Isa told us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Al-Hasan bin Yazid Al-Ajli, on the authority of Abdullah bin Masoud, regarding his statement: They recite the verses of God during the hours of the night, the Isha prayer, they pray it, and those other than them from the People of the Book do not pray it.

Yunus told me, he said: Ibn Wahb told us, he said: Yahya ibn Ayoub told me, on the authority of Ubayd God ibn Zahr, on the authority of Sulayman, on the authority of Zur ibn Hubaish, on the authority of Abdullah ibn Mas'ud, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was detained from us one night. He was with some of his family and wives, and he did not come to us for the 'Isha prayer until night had passed. Then he came, and some of us were praying and some of us were lying down. He gave us good report and said: No one from the People of the Book prays this prayer! Then God revealed: 'They are not all alike. Among the People of the Scripture is a community standing, reciting the verses of God during periods of the night and prostrating.'"

Yunus told me, he said, Ali bin Ma'bad told us, on the authority of Abu Yahya al-Khurasani, on the authority of Nasr bin Tarif, on the authority of Asim, on the authority of Zur bin Hubaish, on the authority of Abdullah bin Mas'ud, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, came out to us while we were waiting for the evening prayer - meaning: the night prayer - and he said to us: There is no one on earth from the people of religions waiting for this prayer at this time except you! He said: Then this verse was revealed: 'They are not all alike. Among the People of the Scripture is a community standing, reciting the verses of God during periods of the night, and they prostrate themselves.'"

Others said: Rather, he meant by that people who used to pray between sunset and evening prayers.

Who said that?

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said, Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said, al-Thawri told us, on the authority of Mansur, he said: It reached me that the verse was revealed: "They are not all the same. Among the People of the Scripture is a community standing, reciting the verses of God during periods of the night and prostrating themselves," between sunset and night prayers.

Abu Ja'far said: These statements that I have mentioned, despite their differences, are close in meaning. That is because God, the Most High, described these people as reciting the verses of God during the hours of the night, which are its hours. The one who recites them in the 'Isha prayer may be reciting them during the hours of the night, and likewise the one who recites them between Maghrib and 'Isha, and the one who recites them in the middle of the night, so everyone who recites them has hours of the night. However, the first statement in the interpretation of the verse is the statement of the one who said: He meant by that the recitation of the Qur'an in the 'Isha prayer, because it is a prayer that none of the People of the Book pray, so God described the nation of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, as praying it, unlike the People of the Book who disbelieved in God and His Messenger.

As for his saying: and they prostrate, some Arabists claimed that the meaning of prostration in this context is the name for prayer, not prostration, because recitation does not occur in prostration or bowing. So the meaning of the statement, according to him, was: they recite the verses of God during the hours of the night while they pray.

The meaning is not as he went to, but rather the meaning of the speech is: Among the People of the Book is a nation who stands and recites the verses of God during the hours of the night in their prayers, and they also prostrate in them. So prostration is the well-known prostration in prayer.

Then he informed and said: They are not equal and the speech was completed. The meaning is: The People of the Book and the nation of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, are not equal, on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud. It was said: The meaning is: The believers and the disbelievers from the People of the Book are not equal. "Abu Khaithama Zuhair bin Harb mentioned: Hashim bin Al-Qasim narrated to us: Shaiban narrated to us on the authority of Asim on the authority of Zur on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, delayed the 'Isha' prayer one night, then he went out to the mosque and saw the people waiting for the prayer, so he said: There is no one from the people of religions who remembers God Almighty at this hour except you." He said: And this verse was revealed: "They are not equal. Among the People of the Book is a community standing" - to His saying: And God is Knowing of the righteous. Ibn Wahb narrated something similar. Ibn Abbas said: The statement of God Almighty: Among the People of the Book is a community standing, reciting the verses of God during the hours of the night and prostrating refers to those who believed with the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace. Ibn Ishaq said on the authority of Ibn Abbas: When Abdullah bin Salam, Tha'laba bin Sa'ya, Asid bin Sa'ya, Asid bin Ubayd, and those Jews who converted to Islam, believed and were truthful and desired Islam and were steadfast in it, the rabbis of the Jews and the unbelievers among them said: None believed in Muhammad or followed him except the worst of us, and if they were among our best they would not have abandoned the religion of their fathers and gone to another one. So God, the Almighty, revealed concerning that, His statement: "They are not all alike. Among the People of the Scripture is a community standing, reciting the verses of God during periods of the night and prostrating themselves." to His statement: And those are among the righteous. Al-Akhfash said: The meaning of among the People of the Scripture is one with a nation, meaning one with a good way. And he recited:

Can a man trust a nation while it is obedient?

It was said: There is an omission in the speech, and the meaning is that among the People of the Book there is a nation that is established and another that is not established, so he left out the other and was satisfied with the first, like the saying of Abu Dhu'ayb:

My heart disobeyed me, but I am obedient to its command. I do not know how to guide its seekers.

He wanted: did he guide or was he wrong, so he deleted it. Al-Farra' said: <nation> is raised by <-sawa'a> and the meaning is: A nation of the People of the Book who recite the verses of God and a nation of disbelievers are not equal. Al-Nahhas said: This is a wrong statement for several reasons: One of them is that it raises <nation> by <-sawa'a> so it does not refer to a noun that is nothing, and it raises by what is not running on the verb and it implicitly implies what it does not need, because the mention of the disbeliever has already been made, so there is no basis for implicitly implying this. Abu Ubaidah said: This is like their saying the fleas ate me and your companions left. Al-Nahhas said: This is wrong, because their mention has already been made, and the fleas ate me was not mentioned before. The hours of the night is its hours. Its singular is inna and ana and inna, and it is accusative as an adverb. Yasjudu means they pray, according to Al-Farra' and Al-Zajaj, because recitation does not occur in bowing and prostration. Similar to his saying: And to Him they prostrate (al-A'raf 7:206) is that they pray. In al-Furqan 25: And when it is said to them, 'Prostrate to the Most Gracious,' (al-Furqan 25:60) and in al-Najm 53: Then prostrate to God and worship (al-Najm 53:62). It was said that it refers specifically to the well-known prostration. The reason for revelation rejects this, and that what is meant is the Isha prayer as we mentioned from Ibn Masoud. The idol worshippers slept when night fell upon them, and the monotheists stood before God in the Isha prayer reciting the verses of God. Do you not see that when he mentioned their standing, he said: And they prostrate. That is, with standing also. Ath-Thawri: It is the prayer between the two Isha prayers. It was said that it is during the night prayer. A man from Banu Shaibah who used to study books said: We find words from the words of the Almighty Lord: Does a camel herder or a sheep herder think that when night falls upon him he will be forsaken like one who stands and prostrates during the hours of the night?

Surat Al Imran 3:113

They are not all alike. Among the People of the Scripture is a community standing [in prayer], reciting the verses of God during periods of the night, and they prostrate.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

Ibn Abi Nujayh said: Al-Hasan bin Yazid Al-Ajli claimed, on the authority of Ibn Masoud, regarding the Almighty's statement: They are not equal among the People of the Scripture - there is a community standing. He said: The People of the Scripture and the nation of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, are not equal. And this is what Al-Suddi said. This statement is supported by the hadith narrated by Imam Ahmad ibn Hanbal in his Musnad: Abu al-Nadr and Hasan ibn Musa told us: Shaiban told us on the authority of Asim, on the authority of Zur, on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, delayed the Isha prayer, then went out to the mosque, and found the people waiting for the prayer. He said: 'As for the people of these religions, there is no one who remembers God at this hour except you.'" He said: "These verses were revealed: 'They are not all alike. Among the People of the Scripture is a community standing, reciting the verses of God during the hours of the night and prostrating. They believe in God and the Last Day, and enjoin what is right and forbid what is wrong, and hasten to good deeds. Those are among the righteous. And whatever good they do - never will it be denied them. And God is Knowing of the righteous.'" What is well-known among many commentators, as mentioned by Muhammad ibn Ishaq and others, and narrated by al-'Awfi on the authority of Ibn 'Abbas, is that these verses were revealed about those who believed from the rabbis of the People of the Scripture, such as 'Abdullah ibn Salam, Asad ibn 'Ubayd, Tha'labah ibn Sa'yah, Asid ibn Sa'yah, and others, meaning that those mentioned above are not all alike. By blaming the People of the Book, and those who converted to Islam, and for this reason the Almighty said: They are not equal, meaning not all of them are equal, rather some of them are believers and some of them are criminals, and for this reason the Almighty said: Among the People of the Book is a community standing, meaning standing by the command of God, obeying His law, following the Prophet of God, so they are standing, meaning upright, reciting the verses of God during the hours of the night and prostrating, meaning they stand at night and increase their night prayers, and recite the Qur'an in their prayers, "They believe in God and the Last Day, and enjoin what is right and forbid what is wrong, and hasten to good deeds. And those are among the righteous," and these are the ones mentioned at the end of the Surah, And indeed, among the People of the Book are those who believe in God and what was revealed to you and what was revealed to them, humbly submissive to God, the verse, and for this reason the Almighty said here, And whatever good they do - never will it be denied, meaning it will not be lost with God, rather He will reward them for it with the greatest reward, and God is Knowing of the righteous, meaning no work of a worker is hidden from Him, and the reward of one who does good work is not lost with Him. Then the Almighty said, informing about the disbelieving polytheists, Neither their wealth nor their children will avail them at all against God, meaning that they will not be repelled from God's wrath or punishment if He intends it for them. And those are the companions of the Fire; they will abide therein eternally. Then He gave an example of what the disbelievers spend in this worldly life, as stated by Mujahid, Al-Hasan, and Al-Suddi. The Almighty said, The likeness of what they spend in this worldly life is like a wind within which is a cold chill, meaning intense cold, as stated by Ibn Abbas, Ikrimah, Saeed bin Jubayr, Al-Hasan, Qatadah, Ad-Dahhak, Ar-Rabi' bin Anas, and others. Ata' said: Cold and ice. Also on the authority of Ibn Abbas and Mujahid, In it is a cold meaning fire. This goes back to the first, because severe cold, especially ice, burns crops and fruits, just as something is burned by fire. It struck the crops of a people who wronged themselves and destroyed them meaning it burned them. By that, he means the scorching wind when it descends on a crop that is about to be mowed or harvested, so it destroys it and takes away the fruit or crops in it, so it takes them away and spoils them, so its owner loses them when he is most in need of them. Likewise, the disbelievers, God wipes out the reward of their deeds in this world and its fruits, just as He takes away the fruits of this crop because of the sins of its owner. Likewise, these people built their work on something other than a foundation and without a basis. And God did not wrong them, but they wrong themselves.

Fath al-Qadir

His statement 113- They are not equal meaning: The People of the Book are not equal, but rather different, and the sentence is a resumption that came before to explain the difference between the People of the Book. His statement an established nation is also a resumption that includes explaining the aspect in which they differed from some of them being an established nation to his statement of the righteous Al-Akhfash said: The estimate from the People of the Book is one with a nation, meaning: one with a good way, and he recited:

Is it worth a nation if it is obedient?

It was said: There is an omission in the speech, and the meaning is: Among the People of the Book there is a nation that is established and another that is not established, so he left out the other and was satisfied with the first, like the saying of Abu Dhu'ayb.

My heart disobeyed her, I am obedient to her command, so I do not know how to guide her seekers?

He wanted Arshad or Ghay. Al-Farra' said: A nation is raised equally, and the meaning is: A nation of the People of the Book who are standing and reciting the verses of God and a nation of disbelievers are not equal. Al-Nahhas said: This statement is wrong for several reasons: One of them is that it raises a nation equally so that it does not refer to the name of there is nothing, and it raises with what is not running on the verb, and it implicitly implies what is not needed because the mention of the disbeliever has already been presented, so there is no basis for implicitly implicating this. Abu Ubaidah said: This is like their saying: The fleas ate me and your companions left. Al-Nahhas said: This is wrong, because they have already been mentioned, and the fleas ate me, and no mention of the prohibition has been presented for them.

I believe that what Al-Farraa said is strong and sound. The gist of it is that the meaning of the verse is: A nation from the People of the Book whose status is such and such is not equal to another nation whose status is such and such. Estimating this omission is not a matter of estimating what is not needed as Al-Nahhas said, because the previous mention of the unbeliever does not provide the meaning of estimating her mention here. As for his saying that it does not refer to a noun that is not something, this is refuted by the fact that estimating the referent is common and well-known among the people of the art. As for his saying: And it is raised by what does not run on the verb, this is not accepted. And the standing: is the straight and just, from their saying: I set up the stick and it stood up, meaning it became straight. And his saying it changes color is in the place of raising as a second description of the nation, and it is permissible for it to be in the place of accusative as a state the hours of the night its hours, and it is accusative as a circumstance. His statement, and they prostrate, appears to indicate that the recitation is from them in a state of prostration. This is not correct if what is meant by this nation described in the verse are those who have converted from the People of the Book, because it has been authentically reported from the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, that he forbade reciting the Qur'an in prostration. Therefore, this apparent meaning must be interpreted to mean that what is meant by his statement, and they prostrate is while they are praying, as al-Farra' and al-Zajaj said. Rather, prostration is used to refer to the entirety of the prayer, because it involves submission and humility. The apparent meaning of this is that they recite the verses of God in their prayer without specifying that prayer with a specific prayer. It has been said that what is meant by it is the prayer between the two 'Isha's, and it has been said that it refers to the night prayer in general.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

113- The Almighty said: "They are not all alike. Among the People of the Scripture is a community standing." Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, and Muqatil said: When Abdullah bin Salam and his companions converted to Islam, the Jewish rabbis said: None believed in Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, except the worst of us, and had it not been for that, they would not have abandoned the religion of their fathers. Then God Almighty revealed this verse.

They differed about its meaning. Some people said: It is an abbreviation, the meaning of which is: They are not equal among the People of the Book, one nation is established and the other is not established. So he left out the other, being satisfied with mentioning one of the two groups. The others said: The end of the speech is at His saying: They are not equal. This is a pause because the two groups of the People of the Book have already been mentioned in His Almighty saying: Among them are believers, but most of them are wicked. Then He said: They are not equal, meaning: the believers and the wicked. Then He described the wicked, saying: They will not harm you except with an injury. And He described the believers by saying: A standing nation.

It was said: His saying from the People of the Book is the beginning of another statement, because the mention of the two groups had already occurred, then he said: These two groups are not the same, then he began and said: from the People of the Book.

Ibn Masoud, may God be pleased with him, said: Its meaning is: The Jews and the nation of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, who uphold God's command, are not equal, steadfast in the truth, and upright. And God Almighty's statement, A nation that upholds, Ibn Abbas said: meaning, guided and upholding God's command, they did not waste it or abandon it.

Mujahed said: Just. Al-Suddi said: Obedient, adhering to the Book of God and His limits. It was also said: Standing in prayer. It was also said: The nation is the path.

The meaning of the verse: that is, one who has a nation, that is, one who has a straight path.

They recite the verses of God, they read the Book of God. Mujahid said: They follow the hours of the night, its hours. The singular is: ani, like nahi and anha, and ani and ana are like: ma'i and mi'a, and ani is like mana and amna.

And they prostrate means: they pray, because recitation does not take place during prostration.

They differed about its meaning. Some of them said: It is during the night prayer. Ibn Masoud said: It is the Isha prayer that they pray, but none of the People of the Book pray it.

Ata' said: "They are not all alike. Among the People of the Scripture is a community standing together." The verse means: Forty men from the people of Najran from the Arabs, thirty-two from Abyssinia, and eight from the Romans were on the religion of Jesus and believed in Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace. There were several Ansar among them before the coming of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, including As'ad ibn Zararah, Al-Bara' ibn Ma'rur, Muhammad ibn Maslamah, Mahmoud ibn Maslamah, and Abu Qais Sarmah ibn Anas. They were monotheists who would wash themselves after sexual impurity and perform the laws of the Hanafi school that they knew until God Almighty brought them the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and they believed in him and supported him.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

113 They are not equal in equality and the pronoun refers to the People of the Book. Among the People of the Book is a community standing is a resumption to explain the negation of equality, and the upright and just community is from I established the stick and it stood and they are those who submitted from them.

Surat Al Imran 3:113

They are not all alike. Among the People of the Scripture is a community standing [in prayer], reciting the verses of God during periods of the night, and they prostrate.

They recite the verses of God during the hours of the night and they prostrate they recite the Qur'an in their night prayers. It was expressed by recitation during the hours of the night with prostration to be clearer and more eloquent in praise. It was said that what is meant is the Isha prayer because the People of the Book pray it, as it was narrated that "he, peace and blessings be upon him, delayed it and then went out and saw the people waiting for the prayer, so he said: As for there is no one among the people of religions who remembers God at this hour except you."

They believe in God and the Last Day, enjoin what is right and forbid what is wrong, and hasten to good deeds. And those are among the righteous.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

(They believe in God and the Last Day, enjoin what is right and forbid what is wrong, and hasten to good deeds. And those) described by what God has mentioned are among the righteous, and among them are those who are not like that and are not among the righteous.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: What is meant by His Most High's saying: They believe in God and the Last Day, is that they believe in God and in the resurrection after death, and they know that God will reward them for their deeds. They are not like the polytheists who deny the oneness of God, worship others besides Him, deny the resurrection after death, and deny the reward and punishment for deeds.

And His statement: And they enjoin what is right, meaning: they enjoin people to believe in God and His Messengers, and to believe in Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and what he brought to them. And they forbid what is wrong, meaning: they forbid people from disbelieving in God, and denying Muhammad and what he brought to them from God. By that, He means: that they are not like the Jews and Christians who enjoin people to disbelieve and deny Muhammad in what he brought to them, and they forbid them from doing good deeds, which is believing in Muhammad in what he brought to them from God. And they hasten to do good deeds, meaning: and they hasten to do good deeds for fear that they will miss out on that before they deal with their deaths.

Then He, the Most High, informed us that those of the People of the Book who have this description are among the righteous, because whoever among them is a sinner has incurred the wrath of God for his disbelief in God and His signs, and his killing of the prophets without right, and his disobedience to his Lord and his transgression of His limits.

They believe in God means they acknowledge God and believe in Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace. And they enjoin what is right It was said: This is general. It was also said that it means the command to follow the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace. And they forbid what is wrong Forbidding what is wrong means forbidding disobeying it. And they hasten to do good deeds which they do, rushing and not hesitating, because they know the extent of their reward. It was also said: They hasten to do good deeds before they miss out. And those are among the righteous meaning with the righteous, and they are the companions of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, in Paradise.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

Ibn Abi Nujayh said: Al-Hasan bin Yazid Al-Ajli claimed, on the authority of Ibn Masoud, regarding the Almighty's statement: They are not equal among the People of the Scripture - there is a community standing. He said: The People of the Scripture and the nation of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, are not equal. And this is what Al-Suddi said. Surat Al Imran 3:114

They believe in God and the Last Day, enjoin what is right and forbid what is wrong, and hasten to good deeds. And those are among the righteous.

Knowing of the righteous, meaning no work of a worker is hidden from Him, and the reward of one who does good work is not lost with Him. Then the Almighty said, informing about the disbelieving polytheists, Neither their wealth nor their children will avail them at all against God, meaning that they will not be repelled from God's wrath or punishment if He intends it for them. And those are the companions of the Fire; they will abide therein eternally. Fath al-Qadir

And His saying 114- They believe in God is another description of a nation: that is, they believe in God, His books, and His messengers, and the head of that is belief in what Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, brought. And His saying, And they enjoin what is right and forbid what is wrong are also two descriptions of a nation: that is, this is their nature and description. Its apparent meaning indicates that they enjoin what is right and forbid what is wrong in general. And it was said: What is meant by enjoining what is right here is their command to follow the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and by forbidding what is wrong is their prohibition from disobeying him. And His saying, And they hasten to do good deeds is also among the descriptions: that is, they hasten to do them, not being hesitant to perform them because they know the extent of their reward. And His saying, And those are among the righteous means among them. And it was said that from means with: that is, with the righteous, and they are the Companions, may God be pleased with them. And it appears that what is meant is every righteous person, and the reference in His saying, those is to the nation described by those descriptions.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

114-The Almighty said: "They believe in God and the Last Day, enjoin what is right and forbid what is wrong, and hasten to good deeds. And those are among the righteous."

Tafsir al-Baidawi

114 They believe in God and the Last Day, enjoin what is right and forbid what is wrong, and hasten to good deeds. Other characteristics of a nation described with characteristics that were not found in the Jews, for they deviated from the truth, did not worship at night, were polytheists with God, were atheists in His attributes, described the Last Day in a manner other than its attribute, were lenient in seeking reward, and were slow to do good deeds.

And those are among the righteous, meaning those described with these qualities, whose conditions are good with God and who deserve His pleasure and praise.

Surat Al Imran 3:115

And whatever good they do - never will it be denied them. And God is Knowing of the righteous.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And whatever you do with the taa, O nation, and the yaa, meaning the existing nation of good, you will never be denied it with both faces, meaning you will not be deprived of its reward, but rather you will be rewarded for it and God is Knowing of the righteous

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Jaafar said: The readings differed in the reading of that.

The majority of the Kufan readers read it as: And whatever good they do, they will not be denied it, with the letter ya in both letters, in response to the description of the people whom God Almighty described as enjoining what is right and forbidding what is wrong.

The majority of the readers of Medina and Hijaz and some of the readers of Kufa read it with the letter ta' in both letters: And whatever good you do, you will not be denied it, meaning: And whatever good you do, you believers, your Lord will not deny it to you.

Some of the Basra reciters considered both readings permissible with the letter ya and the letter ta in both letters.

Abu Ja'far said: The correct reading of this in our view is: And whatever good they do, they will not be denied it, with the letter ya in both letters, meaning by that the report about the established nation following the verses of God.

We chose this because the verses before this verse are report about them. So attaching this verse, since there is no indication in it that indicates a departure from their description, to the meanings of the verses before it is more appropriate than diverting it from the meanings of what came before it.

And what we chose from the reading was what Ibn Abbas used to read.

Ahmad bin Yusuf al-Taghlabi told me, he said, al-Qasim bin Salam told us, he said, Hajjaj told us, on the authority of Harun, on the authority of Abu Amr bin al-Ala', he said: It was reported to me on the authority of Ibn Abbas that he used to read them both with the letter ya'.

Abu Ja'far said: The interpretation of the verse, according to what we have chosen from the reading, is: Whatever good this nation does, and whatever work it does for the sake of God, God will not deny them that. What he means by that is: God will not invalidate the reward for their work, nor will He leave them without a reward from Him for it, but He will reward them abundantly for it, and will grant them honor and recompense.

We have demonstrated the meaning of disbelief previously with its evidence, and that its origin is covering something.

Likewise, in His statement: They will not deny Him, He will not cover up the good they did and leave them without reward, but they will be thanked for what they did, and He will give them a great reward for it.

In the same way as we said about that interpretation, those who interpreted that interpreted it.

Who said that?

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada: And whatever good you do, you will never be denied it, meaning: it will never go astray from you.

It was narrated on the authority of Ammar, who said: Ibn Abi Ja'far narrated to us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of al-Rabi', similarly.

As for His statement: And God is All-Knowing of the righteous, God Almighty says: God is All-Knowing of those who fear Him, by obeying Him and avoiding His disobedience, and He preserves their righteous deeds until He rewards them for them and recompenses them for them, as good report from Him, may He be glorified, for them in this worldly life, and as an urging for them to adhere to the good morals that He has chosen for them.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

And whatever good they do, they will never be denied it. Al-A'mash, Ibn Waththab, Hamzah, Al-Kisa'i, Hafs and Khalaf read both with a ya', describing the existing nation. This is the reading of Ibn Abbas and the choice of Abu Ubaid. The rest read both with a ta' as a direct address, based on the statement of God the Almighty: You are the best nation produced for mankind. This is the choice of Abu Hatim. Abu Amr saw both readings as ya' and ta'. The meaning of the verse is: And whatever good you do, you will never be denied its reward, rather you will be thanked and rewarded for it.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

Ibn Abi Nujayh said: Al-Hasan bin Yazid Al-Ajli claimed, on the authority of Ibn Masoud, regarding the Almighty's statement: They are not equal among the People of the Scripture - there is a community standing. He said: The People of the Scripture and the nation of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, are not equal. And this is what Al-Suddi said. This statement is supported by the hadith narrated by Imam Ahmad ibn Hanbal in his Musnad: Abu al-Nadr and Hasan ibn Musa told us: Shaiban told us on the authority of Asim, on the authority of Zur, on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace,

And whatever good they do - never will it be denied them. And God is Knowing of the righteous.

delayed the Isha prayer, then went out to the mosque, and found the people waiting for the prayer. He said: 'As for the people of these religions, there is no one who remembers God at this hour except you.'" He said: "These verses were revealed: 'They are not all alike. Among the People of the Scripture is a community standing, reciting the verses of God during the hours of the night and prostrating. They believe in God and the Last Day, and enjoin what is right and forbid what is wrong, and hasten to good deeds. Those are among the righteous. And whatever good they do - never will it be denied them. And God is Knowing of the righteous.'" What is well-known among many commentators, as mentioned by Muhammad ibn Ishaq and others, and narrated by al-'Awfi on the authority of Ibn 'Abbas, is that these verses were revealed about those who believed from the rabbis of the People of the Scripture, such as 'Abdullah ibn Salam, Asad ibn 'Ubayd, Tha'labah ibn Sa'yah, Asid ibn Sa'yah, and others, meaning that those mentioned above are not all alike. By blaming the People of the Book, and those who converted to Islam, and for this reason the Almighty said: They are not equal, meaning not all of them are equal, rather some of them are believers and some of them are criminals, and for this reason the Almighty said: Among the People of the Book is a community standing, meaning standing by the command of God, obeying His law, following the Prophet of God, so they are standing, meaning upright, reciting the verses of God during the hours of the night and prostrating, meaning they stand at night and increase their night prayers, and recite the Qur'an in their prayers, "They believe in God and the Last Day, and enjoin what is right and forbid what is wrong, and hasten to good deeds. And those are among the righteous," and these are the ones mentioned at the end of the Surah, And indeed, among the People of the Book are those who believe in God and what was revealed to you and what was revealed to them, humbly submissive to God, the verse, and for this reason the Almighty said here, And whatever good they do - never will it be denied, meaning it will not be lost with God, rather He will reward them for it with the greatest reward, and God is Knowing of the righteous, meaning no work of a worker is hidden from Him, and the reward of one who does good work is not lost with Him. Then the Almighty said, informing about the disbelieving polytheists, Neither their wealth nor their children will avail them at all against God, meaning that they will not be repelled from God's wrath or punishment if He intends it for them. And those are the companions of the Fire; they will abide therein eternally. Then He gave an example of what the disbelievers spend in this worldly life, as stated by Mujahid, Al-Hasan, and Al-Suddi. The Almighty said, The likeness of what they spend in this worldly life is like a wind within which is a cold chill, meaning intense cold, as stated by Ibn Abbas, Ikrimah, Saeed bin Jubayr, Al-Hasan, Qatadah, Ad-Dahhak, Ar-Rabi' bin Anas, and others. Ata' said: Cold and ice. Also on the authority of Ibn Abbas and Mujahid, In it is a cold meaning fire. This goes back to the first, because severe cold, especially ice, burns crops and fruits, just as something is burned by fire. It struck the crops of a people who wronged themselves and destroyed them meaning it burned them. By that, he means the scorching wind when it descends on a crop that is about to be mowed or harvested, so it destroys it and takes away the fruit or crops in it, so it takes them away and spoils them, so its owner loses them when he is most in need of them. Likewise, the disbelievers, God wipes out the reward of their deeds in this world and its fruits, just as He takes away the fruits of this crop because of the sins of its owner. Likewise, these people built their work on something other than a foundation and without a basis. And God did not wrong them, but they wrong themselves.

Fath al-Qadir

His saying 115- And whatever good you do meaning good they will never deny it meaning: you will never be deprived of its reward, and it is transitive to two objects, and it is only transitive to one because it includes the meaning of deprivation, as if it was said: you will never be deprived of it as the author of Al-Kashshaf said. Al-A'mash, Ibn Watthab, Hafs, Hamzah, Al-Kisa'i, and Khalaf read with the lower ya' in both verbs, and it is the reading of Ibn Abbas and Abu Ubaid chose it. The rest read with the doubled ya' from above in both of them, and it seems that Abu Amr sees both readings together. What is meant by the pious is everyone who has the attribute of piety, and it was said: What is meant is those mentioned above, and they are the nation described with that attribute, and the apparent was placed in place of the implicit in praise of them and raising their status.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

115- And whatever good they do, they will never be denied it. Hamza, Al-Kisa'i, and Hafs read with a ya' in both of them, describing the existing nation. The others read with a ta' in both of them, because of His statement, You were the best nation. Abu Amr sees both readings together, and the meaning of the verse is: And whatever good you do, you will never be deprived of its reward, rather you will be thanked and rewarded for it. And God is Knowing of the righteous, of the believers.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

115 And whatever good they do, they will never be denied it so it will not be lost nor will its reward be diminished at all. This is called ungratefulness just as the fulfillment of the reward is called gratitude. It is transitive with two objects because it includes the meaning of deprivation. Hafs, Hamza, and Al-Kisa'i read And whatever good they do, they will never be denied it with a ya' and the rest read it with a ta'. And God is Knowing of the righteous as good report for them and a notification that piety is the beginning of goodness and good deeds, and that the winner with God is the one who has piety.

Surat Al Imran 3:116

Indeed, those who disbelieve - neither their wealth nor their children will avail them at all against God. And those are the companions of the Fire; they will abide therein eternally.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

Indeed, those who disbelieve - neither their wealth nor their children will avail them at all against God that is, against His punishment at all. He mentioned them specifically because a person sometimes defends himself by ransoming his wealth and sometimes by seeking help from his children and those are the companions of the Fire; they will abide therein eternally.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Abu Ja`far said: This is a threat from God Almighty to the other wicked nation of the People of the Book, about whom He has informed us that they are wicked and that they have incurred His wrath, and to those who are like them among the people of disbelief in God and His Messenger and what Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, brought from God.

God Almighty says: Indeed, those who disbelieve, meaning: those who denied the prophethood of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and denied him and what he brought to them from God, neither their wealth nor their children will avail them at all against God, meaning: his wealth that he accumulated in this world, and his children whom he raised in it, will not ward off anything from God's punishment on the Day of Resurrection if He delays it for them until the Day of Resurrection, nor in this world if He hastens it for them in it.

He specifically mentioned his children and his wealth because a man's children are his closest relatives, and he has more power over his wealth than he does over the wealth of others, and his command over it is more permissible than his command over the wealth of others. So if his children, his own bloodline, and his wealth, over which he has authority, are of no use to him, then his relatives and all his relatives and their wealth are even less likely to be of any use to him before God.

Then He, the Most High, informed us that they are the people of the Fire, who are its people, by His saying: And those are the companions of the Fire. He made them its companions because they are its people who will not leave it or depart from it, like a man's companion who does not leave him, and his companion who does not leave him. Then He confirmed that by informing us about them that they will abide therein eternally, that their companionship with it is a companionship that has no end, since there are things that leave their companion in some cases, and leave him in some times. This is not the case with the companionship of those who disbelieved in the Fire that they entered, but it is a permanent companionship that has no end or end. We seek refuge in God from it and from what brings one closer to it in word and deed.

The Almighty said: Indeed, those who disbelieve is the subject of in, and the predicate is neither their wealth nor their children will avail them at all against God.

Muqatil said: When God mentioned the believers among the People of the Book, He mentioned their disbelievers, which is His statement: Indeed, those who disbelieve. Al-Kalbi said: He made this a beginning, so He said: Indeed, those who disbelieve, neither their many wealth nor their many children will avail them at all against the punishment of God. He specified the children because they are the closest of their lineage to them. And those are the companions of the Fire is a beginning and a predicate, and so is They will abide therein eternally. All of this has been mentioned before.

And His saying 116- Indeed, those who disbelieved it was said: They are Banu Qurayzah and Banu Nadir. Muqatil said: When God the Almighty mentioned the believers of the People of the Book, He mentioned their disbelievers in this verse. And it appears that what is meant by that is everyone who disbelieved in what must be believed in. And the meaning of will not avail is will not repel, and He specified children because they are the most beloved of kinship and He hopes them to repel what befalls him.

116- Indeed, those who disbelieve - neither their wealth nor their children will avail them against God at all, meaning: their wealth will not be able to be ransomed, nor their children supported, at all, from God's punishment. Tafsir al-Baidawi

Surat Al Imran 3:117

The example of what they spend in this worldly life is like that of a wind in which is a cold wind which strikes the crops of a people who have wronged themselves, so it destroys them. It is not God who wrongs them, but it is themselves that they wrong.

Surat Al Imran 3:117

The example of what they spend in this worldly life is like that of a wind in which is a cold wind which strikes the crops of a people who have wronged themselves, so it destroys them. It is not God who wrongs them, but it is themselves that they wrong.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

Like an attribute of what they spend i.e. the disbelievers in this worldly life in enmity against the Prophet in charity and the like is like a wind in which there is a cold wind intense heat or cold that strikes the crops of a people who wronged themselves) through disbelief and disobedience and destroyed them so they did not benefit from it, so their expenditures are wasted and they do not benefit from them and God did not wrong them through the loss of their expenditures but they wrong themselves through disbelief that causes them to be lost

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: By that, may His praise be exalted, He means: a likeness of what those who disbelieve spend, i.e. a likeness of what the disbeliever gives in charity from his money, to give it to someone who gives it as a way of drawing closer to his Lord, while he denies the Oneness of God and denies Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, in that it is of no benefit to him despite his disbelief, and that it is wasted when he needs it, and gone after what he had hoped for from the return of its benefit to him, like a wind with intense cold, this wind with intense cold struck, the tillage of a people, meaning: the crops of a people who had hoped for its harvest, and hoped for its yield and the return of its benefit, they wronged themselves, meaning: the owners of the crops, they disobeyed God and transgressed His limits, so it destroyed it, meaning: the wind with the cold destroyed their crops, after what they had hoped for from hope and the return of its benefit to them.

God Almighty says: Likewise, what God does with the spending and charity of the unbeliever during his life, when he meets Him, its reward is nullified and his hope in it is disappointed. The parable was used for spending, and what is meant by parable is God's action with spending. This is explained by His statement: Like a wind in which there is a chill, so it is as we have explained in its parable His statement: Their example is like the example of one who kindled a fire (al-Baqarah 2:17), and what is similar to that.

Abu Ja'far said: The interpretation of the statement is: The example of God nullifying the reward for what they spend in this worldly life is like a wind in which there is a cold snap. It is permissible to omit mentioning God nullifying the reward for that because the last part of the statement indicates it, which is His statement: like a wind in which there is a cold snap, and because the listener knows its meaning.

The interpreters differed about the meaning of the expenditure mentioned in this verse.

Some of them said: It is the known expenditure among people.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Amr told me, he said, Abu Asim told us, on the authority of Isa, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding the statement of God Almighty: Like what they spend in this worldly life, he said: The spending of the unbeliever in this world.

Others said: Rather, it is what he says with his tongue, which he does not believe in his heart.

Who said that?

Muhammad ibn al-Husayn told me, Ahmad ibn al-Mufaddal told me, Asbat told us, on the authority of al-Suddi: The example of what they spend in this worldly life is like that of a cold wind which strikes the crops of a people who have wronged themselves and destroys them. He said: The example of what he says but is not accepted from him is like this crop, when the wrongdoing people have planted it and a cold wind strikes it and destroys it. So they spent, and their polytheism destroyed them.

We have explained the first of these correctly before.

We have already explained the interpretation of the life of this world, and it is sufficient to repeat it in this place.

As for the cold, it is severe cold, and that is due to a storm from the north in a hurricane of dew and rain, on a dark morning following a clear night, as:

Humayd ibn Mas'adah told us, Yazid ibn Zurai' told us, on the authority of Uthman ibn Ghiyath, who said, I heard 'Ikrimah say: A wind in which there is cold, he said: severe cold.

Al-Qasim told us, Al-Hussein told us, Hajjaj told me, Ibn Jurayj said, Ibn Abbas said: A wind in which there is cold, he said: severe cold and freezing cold.

Ali bin Dawud told us, Abdullah bin Saleh told us, Muawiyah told me, on the authority of Ali, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding his statement: A wind in which there is cold, meaning: cold.

Ibn Wakee' told us, he said, my father told us, on the authority of Sufyan, on the authority of Harun ibn Antara, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn Abbas: Al-Sarr means cold.

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: Like a wind in which there is a chill, meaning: intense cold.

It was narrated on the authority of Ammar, on the authority of Ibn Abi Jaafar, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-Rabi', similarly.

Muhammad told us, Ahmad told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi, regarding the cold, meaning severe cold.

Muhammad bin Saad told us, he said, my father told me, he said, my uncle told me, he said, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn Abbas: Like a wind in which there is cold, he said: a wind in which there is cold.

Yunus told me, he said, Ibn Wahb told us, he said, Ibn Zayd said: A wind in which there is a cold wind, he said: Cold wind, a cold wind that destroyed their crops. He said: The Arabs call it the dharīb. The wind comes cold and becomes a dharīb that has burned the crops. They say: He blew last night, he was struck by the dharīb of that dharīb that struck him.

Yahya bin Abi Talib told me, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Juwaybir told us, on the authority of Ad-Dahhak: A wind in which there is cold, he said: A wind in which there is cold.

Abu Ja'far said: By that, may His praise be exalted, He means: And what God did to these infidels what He did to them, of nullifying the reward of their deeds and invalidating their wages, out of injustice from Him to them, meaning: He placed what He did to them in the wrong place and with those who were not worthy of it. Rather, He placed His action in its right place and did to them what they were worthy of. Because the work that they did was not for God, and they were loyal to Him in His Oneness, and followed His command, and believed in His messengers. Rather, that was from them, and they were polytheists in it, and opposed His command, and denied His messengers, after He had previously told them that He does not accept any work from a worker except with sincerity in monotheism for Him, and acknowledgment of the prophethood of His prophets, and belief in what they brought them, and His confirmation of the arguments against them with that. So, by doing what he did to those who disbelieved in him and disobeyed his command in that - after he had been excused, by nullifying and wasting his work, he was not unjust to him. Rather, the disbeliever is the unjust himself, by causing him to commit disobedience to God and disobey His command, which led him to the fire of Hell and burned him in the blazing fire of Saqar.

The Almighty said: The likeness of what they spend in this worldly life is like a wind in which there is a chill. <ma>can be a source, and it can mean which and the pronoun is omitted, meaning like what they spend. The meaning of like a wind is like a blowing wind. Ibn Abbas said: And the chill is the intense cold. It was said: Its origin is from the creaking which is the sound, so it is the sound of the intense wind. Al-Zajaj: It is the sound of the flames of the fire that was in that wind. This meaning was mentioned previously in Al-Baqarah and in the hadith: He forbade the locusts that were killed by the chill. The meaning of the verse: The likeness of the spending of the disbelievers in its invalidity, loss and lack of benefit is like the likeness of a crop that was struck by a cold wind or fire that burned it and destroyed it, so its owners did not benefit from anything after they had hoped for its benefit and benefit. God the Almighty said: And God did not wrong them in that but they wrong themselves by disbelief, disobedience and withholding the right of God the Almighty. It was said: They wronged themselves by planting at the wrong time or in the wrong place, so God Almighty disciplined them for putting something in the wrong place, as Al-Mahdawi narrated.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

Ibn Abi Nujayh said: Al-Hasan bin Yazid Al-Ajli claimed, on the authority of Ibn Masoud, regarding the Almighty's statement: They are not equal among the People of the Scripture - there is a community standing. He said: The People of the Scripture and the nation of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, are not equal. And this is what Al-Suddi said. This goes back to the first, because severe cold, especially ice, burns crops and fruits, just as something is burned by fire. It struck the crops of a people who wronged themselves and destroyed them meaning it burned them. By that, he means the scorching wind when it descends on a crop that is about to be mowed or harvested, so it destroys it and takes away the fruit or crops in it, so it takes them away and spoils them, so its owner loses them when he is most in need of them. Likewise, the disbelievers, God wipes out the reward of their deeds in this world and its fruits, just as He takes away the fruits of this crop because of the sins of its owner. Likewise, these people built their work on something other than a foundation and without a basis. And God did not wrong them, but they wrong themselves.

Fath al-Qadir

And His saying 117- Like what they spend is a statement of the lack of enrichment of their money that they depended on. And patience: intense cold, its origin is from the creaking which is the sound/ so it is the sound of a strong wind. And Al-Zajaj said: the sound of the flames of the fire that is in that wind. And the meaning of the verse: Like the spending of the disbelievers in its invalidity and disappearance and lack of benefit is like the example of a crop that was struck by a cold wind or fire that burned it or destroyed it, so its owners did not benefit from anything from it after they had been hoping for its benefit and advantage. Therefore, it is necessary to estimate the aspect of the simile, so it is said: like a crop that has been struck by a wind in which there is a chill, or like the destruction of what they spend is like the destruction of a wind in which there is a chill that struck the crops of a people who wronged themselves. And God did not wrong them, meaning the disbelievers who spend, but they wrong themselves, by the disbelief that prevents the acceptance of the expenditure that they spent. The object is presented to take care of the pauses, not to specify, because the speech is about the verb in consideration of its connection to the agent, not to the object.

Ibn Ishaq, Ibn Jarir, Ibn Al-Mundhir, Ibn Abi Hatim, Al-Tabarani, Ibn Mandah, Abu Nu’aym in Al-Ma’rifah, Al-Bayhaqi in Al-Dala’il, and Ibn Asakir narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas that he said: When Abdullah bin Salam, Tha’laba bin Sa’id, and Asid bin Sa’id, and those Jews who converted with them, believed, were truthful, and desired Islam, the Jewish rabbis and the unbelievers among them said: None believed in Muhammad and followed him except the worst of us, and if they were the best of us they would not have abandoned the religion of their fathers and gone to another one. So God revealed: They are not equal Al-Baqarah 2:17. Ibn Jarir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on his authority: A nation that stands firm meaning: guided and upholding the command of God, not turning away from it, nor did others abandon it and waste it. Abd bin Hamid, Ibn Jarir, and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated that he said: A nation that stands firm is just. Ibn Abi Shaybah, Ahmad, Ibn Al-Mundhir, and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas regarding his statement: the hours of the night he said: the middle of the night. Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of Al-Rabi’ who said: the hours of the night. And Abd bin Hamid, Al-Bukhari in his history, Ibn Jarir, Ibn Al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Ibn Masoud regarding his statement, They are not equal, he said: The People of the Book and the nation of Muhammad are not equal. They recite the verses of God during the hours of the night, he said: The Isha prayer is performed by them, and those other than them from the People of the Book do not pray it. Ahmad, Al-Nasa’i, Al-Bazzar, Abu Ya’la, Ibn Jarir, Ibn Al-Mundhir, Ibn Abi Hatim and Al-Tabarani narrated. Al-Suyuti said with a good chain of transmission on the authority of Ibn Masoud that he said: “The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, delayed the Isha prayer one night, then he went out to the mosque and saw the people waiting for the prayer, so he said: There is no one from the people of these religions who remembers God at this hour except you.” And the wording of Ibn Jarir and Al-Tabarani is: He said: No one from the People of the Book prays this prayer. He said: And this verse was revealed, They are not equal. And Abd bin Hamid, Ibn Jarir, Ibn Al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Ibn Mansur that he said: I was informed that this verse was revealed, They recite the verses of God during the hours of the night and they prostrate, between the sunset and the night. Abd bin Hamid and Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of Qatada, They will not deny it, meaning: it will not lead you astray. Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Al-Hasan, They will not deny it, meaning: you will not wrong it. Ibn Jarir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Al-Suddi regarding the verse, Like what they spend, meaning the polytheists, and it will not be accepted from them, like this crop when the wrongdoing people planted it and a wind in it struck it and destroyed it, so they spent and their polytheism destroyed them. Saeed bin Mansour, Abd bin Hamid, Ibn Jarir, Ibn Al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas, In it is cold, meaning: severe cold.

themselves by committing what deserved punishment. And it was read but meaning, but they wrong themselves. And it is not permissible to estimate the pronoun of the matter because it is not deleted except in poetic necessity, as in His saying:

You are not one of those whose hearts are filled with love, but whoever sees your eyelids falls in love.

117- Like what they spend in this worldly life, it was said: He meant the expenses of Abu Sufyan and his companions in Badr alone in enmity with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. Muqatil said: The spending of the Jews on their scholars. Mujahid said: He means all the expenses of the infidels in this world and their charity. It was said: He meant the spending of the hypocrite who does not seek the face of God Almighty, Like a wind in which there is a shriek (It was narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both: that it is the hot poisons that kill. It was said: In it is a shriek, meaning: a sound. Most of the commentators said: In it is intense cold It struck the crops of a people the crops of a people who wronged themselves, by disbelief and disobedience and withholding the right of God Almighty, and destroyed it.

The meaning of the verse is: The example of the expenses of the infidels in their going away at a time when they are needed is like the example of a crop that is struck by a cold wind and destroyed or a fire and burnt, so its owners do not benefit from it at all. And God has not wronged them in that, but they wrong themselves by disbelief and disobedience.

117 Like what they spend what the infidels spend as an act of worship, or to boast and gain fame, or the hypocrites out of hypocrisy or fear. In this worldly life like a wind in which there is a chill severe cold and it is common to use it for a cold wind like the chill, so it is originally a source of description or a description of the cold for exaggeration like saying a cold chill. It struck the crops of a people who wronged themselves by disbelief and sins and destroyed them as a punishment for them because destruction from anger is more severe, and what is meant is to liken what they spent in its loss to the crops of the infidels which the chill struck and uprooted it and left them no benefit in it in this world or the hereafter, and it is from the compound simile and Shalk did not care about giving the word of simile to the wind without the crops, and it is permissible to estimate it like a destroying wind which is the crops. And God did not wrong them, but they wrong themselves. That is, He did not wrong the spenders by wasting their expenses, but they wronged themselves by not spending them in a way that would be taken into account. Or He did not wrong the owners of the crops by destroying it, but they wronged

Surat Al Imran 3:118

O you who have believed, do not take as intimates those other than yourselves. They will not spare you any ruin. They desire what you suffer. Hatred has already appeared from their mouths, and what their hearts conceal is greater. We have made clear to you the verses, if you would only use reason.

Surat Al Imran 3:118

O you who have believed, do not take as intimates those other than yourselves. They will not spare you any ruin. They desire what you suffer. Hatred has already appeared from their mouths, and what their hearts conceal is greater. We have made clear to you the verses, if you would only use reason.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

O you who have believed, do not take as intimates close friends to whom you reveal your secrets other than yourselves meaning other than you from among the Jews, Christians and hypocrites they will not spare you any corruption accusative by removing the preposition, meaning they will not fall short in corrupting you they wish they wished for what you have suffered meaning your suffering, which is severe harm the hatred the enmity towards you has already appeared) has become apparent from their mouths by slandering you and revealing your secret to the polytheists and what their breasts conceal of enmity (is greater. We have made clear to you the verses) about their enmity if you were to use reason so do not befriend them.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

God Almighty said: O you who have believed, do not take as intimates those other than yourselves. Ibn Jarir and Ibn Ishaq narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas that he said: There were men from the Muslims who used to keep close relations with men from the Jews because of the neighborliness and alliance between them in the pre-Islamic era. So God revealed concerning them, forbidding them from keeping close relations with them, fearing sedition for them: O you who have believed, do not take as intimates those other than yourselves. The verse

Abu Ja'far said: By this, the Most High means: O you who have believed in God and His Messenger, and have acknowledged what their Prophet brought to them from their Lord, Do not take as intimates those other than yourselves, meaning: Do not take as allies and friends for yourselves, other than yourselves, meaning: other than the people of your religion and your nation, meaning from among the non-believers.

He made the inner circle an example of a man's intimate friend, so he likened it to what is around his stomach, which is his clothes, because it takes the place of what is around his body, which is his clothes, in his knowledge of his secrets and what he conceals from his relatives and many of his relatives.

God forbade the believers in Him from taking the disbelievers as friends and companions. Then He made them aware of what they are like to them, in terms of deceit and treachery, and their desire to cause them calamities. So He warned them about them and their friendship with them. God Almighty said: They will not spare you any harm, meaning: they will not be able to harm you. From alut to spare, it is said: Ma ala so-and-so is such-and-such, meaning: he was not able, as the poet said:

She is loud and clear, if she shows her sight, or the means to suffice me.

Meaning: You cannot see at noon.

Rather, what He, the Most High, means by His saying: They will spare no effort in ruining you, is the inner circle that He forbade the believers from taking with them. He said: This inner circle will not let you go as far as it can, meaning it will not spare any effort in what will cause you to go astray.

The root of the word khabal and khabal is corruption, and it is then used in many meanings, as indicated by the hadith from the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace:

Someone who is afflicted with madness - or: injury.

As for his saying: They wish you would suffer, he means: They wish you to suffer. He says: They wish you to suffer and evil in your religion and that which will upset you and not please you.

He mentioned that this verse was revealed about a group of Muslims who used to mix with their Jewish allies and hypocrites among them, and they showed them affection for the reasons that existed between them in their ignorance before Islam. So God forbade them from doing that and from seeking their advice in any of their affairs.

Who said that?

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Muhammad ibn Ishaq, he said, Muhammad ibn Abi Muhammad said, on the authority of Ikrimah or on the authority of Saeed ibn Jubayr, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, he said: Some of the Muslims used to maintain close relations with some of the Jews, because of the neighbourliness and alliance between them in the pre-Islamic era. So God Almighty revealed about them, forbidding them from keeping close relations with them, fearing that they would cause them discord: O you who have believed, do not take as intimates those other than yourselves, until His saying: and believe in the entire Book.

Muhammad bin Amr told me, he said, Abu Asim told us, he said, Isa told us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding the statement of God Almighty: O you who have believed, do not take as intimates those other than yourselves, for they will not spare you any ruin, regarding the hypocrites from the people of Medina. God Almighty forbade the believers from taking them as allies.

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: "O you who have believed, do not take as intimates those other than yourselves, for they will not spare you any ruin. They wish you would suffer." God Almighty forbade the believers from bringing in the hypocrites, or befriending them, or taking them as allies instead of the believers.

Muhammad bin Saad told me, he said, my father told me, he said, my uncle told me, he said, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding his statement: Do not take as intimates those other than yourselves, they are the hypocrites.

It was narrated on the authority of Ammar, who said: Ibn Abi Ja'far narrated to us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of al-Rabi', regarding his statement: O you who have believed, do not take as intimates those other than yourselves, for they will not spare you any ruin, meaning do not bring in the hypocrites, befriending them instead of the believers.

Abu Kuraib and Yaqub bin Ibrahim narrated to us, they said: Hisham narrated to us, he said: Al-Awam bin Hawshab informed us, on the authority of Al-Azhar bin Rashid, on the authority of Anas bin Malik, he said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Do not seek light from the fire of the polytheists, and do not engrave Arabic on your rings." He said: We did not know what that meant, until they came to Al-Hasan and asked him. He said: Yes, as for his saying: Do not engrave Arabic on your rings, he means: Do not engrave Muhammad on your rings. As for his saying: And do not seek light from the fire of the polytheists, he means the polytheists, he says: Do not consult them in any of your affairs. Al-Hasan said: And the confirmation of that is in the Book of God. Then he recited this verse: O you who have believed, do not take as intimates those other than yourselves.

Muhammad bin Al-Hussein told us, Ahmad bin Al-Mufaddal told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi: O you who have believed, do not take as intimates those other than yourselves. As for the intimates, they are the hypocrites.

Al-Qasim told us, Al-Hussein told us, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, regarding his statement: O you who have believed, do not take as intimates those other than yourselves, the verse, he said: The believer does not take the hypocrite as intimates to the exclusion of his brother.

Yunus told me, he said, Ibn Wahb told us, he said, Ibn Zayd said regarding His statement: O you who have believed, do not take as intimates those other than yourselves, the verse, he said: These are the hypocrites. And he recited His statement: Hatred has already appeared from their mouths, the verse.

Abu Jaafar said: They differed in the interpretation of his saying: They wish you had suffered.

Some of them said: It means: They wish you had not strayed from your religion.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Al-Hussein told us, Ahmad told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi: They wish you had suffered, meaning: you had not gone astray.

Others said:

Al-Qasim told us, Al-Hussein told us, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj: They wish you would be stubborn, meaning: in your religion, meaning: they wish you would be stubborn in your religion.

Abu Ja'far said: If someone were to say to us: How was it said: They wished you had suffered, and the report came from the inner circle, in the past tense in the place of the state, and the cut-off after the completion of the report, and the states are only in the form of future nouns and verbs and not past ones?

It was said: The matter is not as you thought, that his saying: And they wish that you would suffer, is a state of the inner circle, but rather it is a second piece of report about them, separate from the first and not connected to it. Rather, the interpretation of the statement is: O you who believe, do not take as inner circles their description is such and such, their description is such and such. So the report about the second quality is not connected to the first quality, even if they are both from the description of one person.

Some Arabists have claimed that his saying, They wish you had suffered, is a connection to the inner circle, and it was connected to his saying, They spare no effort to ruin you, so there is no reason for another connection after the inner circle is complete with his connection.

But the statement on that is as we explained before, that his saying: And they wished that you had suffered, is a predicate of the subject of the entourage, not the first predicate, and not a state of the entourage nor a separation from it.

Abu Ja'far said: By that, the Most High means: The hatred of those whom I have forbidden you, O believers, from taking as intimates for you from among yourselves has become apparent from their mouths, meaning: with their tongues. And what became apparent to them from them with their tongues was their persistence in their disbelief, and their enmity towards whoever differs from what they are persisting upon of misguidance. So that is one of the most important reasons for their enmity towards the people of faith, because that is enmity against religion, and enmity against religion is enmity that cannot be removed except by one of the two enemies moving to the religion of the other of them, and that is moving from guidance to misguidance that was previously misguidance for the one to whom it was moved. So in their showing that to the believers, and their persistence upon it, was the clearest evidence for the people of faith of what they are upon of hatred and enmity towards them.

Some of them said: The meaning of his statement: Hatred has already appeared from their mouths is that their hatred for the people of faith has already appeared to their allies from among the hypocrites and

O you who have believed, do not take as intimates those other than yourselves. They will not spare you any ruin. They desire what you suffer. Hatred has already appeared from their mouths, and what their hearts conceal is greater. We have made clear to you the verses, if you would only use reason.

the unbelievers, by informing one another of that. The proponents of this statement claimed that those meant by this verse are the hypocrites, not those who openly declare their unbelief from among the Jews and the polytheists.

Who said that?

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: Hatred has already appeared from their mouths, meaning: Hatred has already appeared from the mouths of the hypocrites towards their brothers among the infidels, due to their deceit of Islam and its people, and their hatred of them.

It was narrated on the authority of Ammar, who said: Ibn Abi Ja'far narrated to us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-Rabi': Hatred has appeared from their mouths, meaning: from the mouths of the hypocrites.

This statement that we have mentioned from Qatada is a statement that has no meaning. That is because God, the Most High, mentioned it, only forbade the believers from taking as intimates those whom they knew to be deceitful towards Islam and its people and to be hostile, either through clear evidence indicating that this is part of their description, or through the enmity, hatred and rivalry shown by those described in this manner. As for those whom they did not establish with knowledge that they were the one whom God, the Most High, forbade them from being intimate with or intimate with, it is not permissible that they forbade them from being intimate with or befriending them, except after they had made them known, either by their persons and names, or by the descriptions by which they knew them.

Since this is the case, and the hypocrites express with their tongues what is in their hearts of the hatred of the believers towards their disbelieving brothers, without the believers realizing what they are towards them, while they show faith to them with their tongues and are friendly to them, it is clear that the ones whom God forbade the believers from taking as intimates to themselves, are those whose hatred has become apparent to them with their tongues, as God the Almighty described them with, so the believers recognized them by the description with which God described them, and that they are the ones whom God the Almighty described as the companions of the Fire, abiding therein, from those who had a covenant and a pact with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his companions from the People of the Book. Because if they were the hypocrites, the matter concerning them would be as we have explained. Even if the infidels were among those who had waged war against the believers, the believers would not have taken them as confidants for themselves, rather than the believers, despite the differences in their countries and the separation of their cities. Rather, they were those who were among the believers from the People of the Book during the days of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, from among those who had a covenant and agreement with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, from among the Jews of the Children of Israel.

And hatred is a verbal noun. It has been mentioned that in the reading of Abdullah bin Masoud: Hatred has appeared from their mouths in the masculine form. This is permissible in the masculine form and in the feminine form because the feminine of verbal nouns is not necessarily feminine, so it is permissible to make what comes out of them masculine in the feminine form and make it feminine, as the Almighty said: And the shriek seized those who did wrong (Hud 11:67), and as He said: There has come to you a clear proof from your Lord (Al-An'am: 157), and in another place: And the shriek seized those who did wrong (Hud 11:94) There has come to you a clear proof from your Lord (Al-A'raf: 73, 85).

He said: From their mouths, and the hatred that appeared appeared from their tongues, because what is meant by it is the speech that appeared to the believers from their mouths, so he said: The hatred has appeared from their mouths, from their tongues.

Abu Ja'far said: God Almighty means by that: And what their hearts conceal, meaning: the hearts of those whom He forbade them from taking as intimates, so they conceal it from you, O believers, is greater, meaning: greater than what has appeared to you with their tongues from their mouths of hatred and greater, as:

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, his saying: And what their hearts conceal is greater, he said: And what their hearts conceal is greater than what they have revealed with their tongues.

It was narrated on the authority of Ammar, on the authority of Ibn Abi Ja'far, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-Rabi', regarding his statement: And what their hearts conceal is greater, meaning: What their hearts conceal is greater than what they have revealed with their tongues.

Abu Ja'far said: By that, the Most High means: We have made clear to you, O believers, the signs, meaning by signs the lessons. We have made clear to you the affair of these Jews whom We forbade you from taking as intimates instead of the believers, what you may consider and learn from their affair, if you were to reason, meaning: if you were to understand from God His admonitions, His commands, and His prohibitions, and you know the places where that benefits you, and the extent of its return to you.

It has six issues:

First: God Almighty emphasized the warning against relying on the infidels. It is connected to what came before in His statement: If you obey a party of those who were given the Scripture. The batana is a source, which is used to name both the singular and the plural. The batana of a man are his intimates who conceal his affair, and its origin is from the batin which is the opposite of the back, and the batin of so-and-so with so-and-so, he conceals batin and batana if it is specific to him. The poet said:

They are my loyal ones, yes, and my confidants, and they are my defect, without any relative

Second: God Almighty forbade the believers in this verse from taking the infidels, Jews, and people of whims as intruders and refuges, negotiating with them about opinions, entrusting their affairs to them, and saying: Whoever is against your doctrine and religion, you should not talk to him. The poet said:

Do not ask about a person, but ask about his companion, for every companion follows the example of his companion.

In Sunan Abi Dawood, "On the authority of Abu Hurairah, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: A person is upon the religion of his close friend, so let each of you consider whom he takes as a close friend." It was narrated on the authority of Ibn Masoud that he said: Consider people by their brothers. Then God Almighty explained the meaning for which He forbade maintaining relations, saying: They will not spare any corruption for you. He said: Corruption, meaning that they will not spare any effort in corrupting you. That is, even if they do not fight you outwardly, they will not spare any effort in deceiving and tricking you, as will be explained. "It was narrated on the authority of Abu Umamah, on the authority of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, regarding the statement of God Almighty: "O you who have believed, do not take as intimates those other than yourselves, for they will not spare any corruption for you." He said: They are the Khawarij. It was narrated that Abu Musa al-Ash'ari asked a dhimmi to write a report, so Umar wrote to him, rebuking him and reciting this verse to him. Abu Musa al-Ash'ari presented an account to Umar, may God be pleased with them both, and he sent it to Umar, who was pleased with him. A letter came to Umar and he said to Abu Musa: Where is your scribe to read this letter to the people? He said: He does not enter the mosque. He said: Why! Is he sexually impure? He said: He is a Christian. He rebuked him and said: Do not approach them when God has cast them out, do not honor them when God has humiliated them, and do not trust them when God has betrayed them. On the authority of Omar may God be pleased with him, he said: Do not employ the People of the Book, for they consider bribery permissible. Seek help in your affairs and over your subjects from those who fear God Almighty. It was said to Omar may God be pleased with him: There is a man from the Christians of Al-Hirah here, and no one is more literate than him or writes with a pen. Should he not write for you? He said: I will not take an entourage other than the believers. It is not permissible to appoint the People of the Book as scribes or any other of their dealings in buying and selling or appointing them as representatives. I said: The situation has been reversed in these times with the People of the Book being appointed as scribes and trustees, and thus they prevail among the ignorant and foolish governors and princes. Al-Bukhari narrated on the authority of Abu Saeed Al-Khudri on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "God did not send a prophet or appoint a successor except that he had two entourages: an entourage that commanded him to do good and urged him to do it, and an entourage that commanded him to do evil and urged him to do it. The one who is protected is he who God Almighty has protected." Anas bin Malik narrated that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Do not seek light from the fire of the polytheists, and do not engrave 'Arabs' on your rings. Al-Hasan bin Abi Al-Hasan explained it and said: He, peace be upon him, meant: Do not consult the polytheists in any of your affairs, and do not engrave 'Muhammad' on your rings. Al-Hasan said: The confirmation of that is in the Book of God Almighty: O you who have believed, do not take as intimates those other than yourselves (al-Baqarah 2:170).

Third: The Almighty's saying: From without you meaning from other than you. Al-Farra' said: And they do work less than that (Al-Anbiya': 82) meaning other than that. It was said: From without you means in conduct and good manners. The meaning of They spare no effort in ruining you is they do not fall short in what causes corruption for you. The position of the attribute for <the retinue from without you> is said: they spare no effort meaning they do not fall short. And I spared no effort means I fell short. Imru' al-Qais said:

As long as the heart of a person is in control of the dangers, he will not be able to

Al-Khabal: insanity. Al-Khabal: corruption, and it may be in actions, bodies, and minds. In the hadith: Whoever is afflicted with blood or Khabal meaning a wound that corrupts a limb. Al-Khabal: corruption of the limbs, and a man is Khabal and Mukhtal, and love corrupted him, meaning it spoiled him. Aws said:

My sons, you are not a hand but a hand with a weak arm

Any corrupted arm. Al-Farra recited:

Ibn Saad looked and said, It was a disaster for your companions and the mounts.

Any corruption. And <Khabalan> is in the accusative case with the second object, because al-alo takes two objects, and if you wish it is in the infinitive, meaning they drive you crazy, or if you wish by removing the preposition, meaning by the insanity, as they said I beat him painfully. <And> in His statement, And they wished that you had suffered is a source, meaning they wished that you had suffered. That is, what is difficult for you. And hardship is difficulty, and its meaning has already been mentioned in <Al-Baqarah>.

Surat Al Imran 3:118

O you who have believed, do not take as intimates those other than yourselves. They will not spare you any ruin. They desire what you suffer. Hatred has already appeared from their mouths, and what their hearts conceal is greater. We have made clear to you the verses, if you would only use reason.

Fourth: The Almighty's saying: Hatred has already appeared from their mouths. This means that the enmity and denial of you has appeared from their mouths. Hatred is loathing, and it is the opposite of love and hatred. It is a feminine noun. The Almighty mentioned mouths specifically and not tongues, indicating their boasting and chattering in these statements of theirs. They are above the one who conceals himself in whose eyes hatred appears. From this meaning is his (peace be upon him) prohibition of a man from opening his mouth from his brother's honor. It means that he should open it. It is said: The donkey brayed its mouth with braying, and the mouth itself brayed. The bridle opened the horse's mouth with braying, and the horses came with their mouths open. This hadith does not indicate that it is permissible for someone to whisper something about his brother's honor, as this is forbidden by consensus of scholars. In the revelation: Do not backbite one another. (al-Hujurat 49:12) The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Your blood, your wealth, and your honor are sacred to you. So the mention of greed is an indication of boasting and exaggeration, so know this.

Fifth: This verse is evidence that the testimony of an enemy against his enemy is not permissible. The people of Medina and the people of Hijaz said the same. It was narrated on the authority of Abu Hanifa that it is permissible. Ibn Battel narrated on the authority of Ibn Shaban that he said: The scholars agreed that the testimony of an enemy against his enemy is not permissible in anything, even if he is just. Enmity removes justice, so how about the enmity of an unbeliever?

Sixth: The Almighty's saying: And what their hearts conceal is greater. This is report and information that they harbor more hatred than they show with their mouths. Abdullah bin Masoud read: Hatred has begun with the verb masculine, since hatred means loathing.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The Blessed and Most High says, forbidding His believing servants from taking the hypocrites as intimates, meaning that they reveal to them their secrets and what they conceal for their enemies. The hypocrites, with all their effort and energy, spare no effort in ruining the believers, meaning that they strive to oppose them and harm them with everything possible, and with whatever deceit and trickery they can, and they desire what will distress the believers and embarrass them and make it difficult for them. The Almighty says: Do not take intimates from other than yourselves meaning from other than you from the people of religions, and the intimates of a man are his family who are aware of his inner affairs. Al-Bukhari, Al-Nasa'i and others narrated from a group of people, including Yunus, Yahya bin Sa'id, Musa bin Uqbah and Ibn Abi Atiq, on the authority of Al-Zuhri, on the authority of Abu Salamah, on the authority of Abu Sa'id, that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "God did not send a prophet or appoint a successor except that he had two entourages: an entourage that commanded him to do good and urged him to do it, and an entourage that commanded him to do evil and urged him to do it. The one who is protected is the one whom God protects." Al-Awza'i and Mu'awiyah bin Salam narrated it on the authority of Al-Zuhri, on the authority of Abu Salamah, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, with a similar chain of transmission to the Prophet. It is possible that it is with Al-Zuhri on the authority of Abu Salamah on their authority. Al-Nasa'i also included it on the authority of Al-Zuhri. Al-Bukhari included it in his Sahih and said: Ubaydullah bin Abi Ja'far said on the authority of Safwan bin Salim on the authority of Abu Salamah on the authority of Abu Ayyub Al-Ansari, and he mentioned it. It is possible that it is with Abu Salamah on the authority of three of the Companions, and God knows best. Ibn Abi Hatim said: My father told us, Abu Ayoub Muhammad ibn al-Wazzan told us, Isa ibn Yunus told us, on the authority of Abu Hayyan al-Taimi, on the authority of Abu al-Zinba', on the authority of Ibn Abi al-Dahqana, who said: It was said to Umar ibn al-Khattab, may God be pleased with him: There is a young man from the people of al-Hirah who is a memorizer and a scribe, so why don't you make him a scribe? He said: Then you have made an entourage from among the non-believers. In this trace and this verse there is evidence that the People of the Covenant are not permitted to be employed in writing that involves oppression against the Muslims and knowledge of the inner workings of their affairs that it is feared they will divulge to the enemies of the people of war. For this reason, the Almighty said: They spare no effort to cause you harm and wish you would suffer. Al-Hafiz Abu Ya'la said: Ishaq bin Israel told us, Hisham told us, Al-A'wam told us on the authority of Al-Azhar bin Rashid, who said: They used to come to Anas, and if he told them a hadith and they did not know what it was, they would come to Al-Hasan, meaning Al-Basri, and he would explain it to them. He said: One day, it was narrated on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, that he said: Do not seek light from the fire of the polytheists, and do not engrave Arabic on your rings. They did not know what it was, so they came to Al-Hasan and said to him: Anas told us that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Do not seek light from the fire of the polytheists, and do not engrave Arabic on your rings. Al-Hasan said: As for his saying: Do not engrave Arabic on your rings: Muhammad The Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) said: Do not seek light from the fire of the polytheists. He said: Do not consult the polytheists in your affairs. Then Al-Hasan said: "The confirmation of that is in the Book of God: 'O you who have believed, do not take as intimates those other than yourselves.' " This is how Al-Hafiz Abu Ya'la may God have mercy on him narrated it. Al-Nasa'i narrated it on the authority of Mujahid bin Musa, on the authority of Hisham, and Imam Ahmad narrated it on the authority of Hisham with a similar chain of transmission without mentioning the interpretation of Al-Hasan Al-Basri. This interpretation is questionable, but its meaning is clear: Do not engrave on your rings anything in Arabic, meaning in Arabic script, lest it resemble the engraving of the Prophet's (peace and blessings of God be upon him) ring, for its engraving was Muhammad, the Messenger of God. This is why it came in the authentic hadith that he forbade anyone from engraving on his engraving. As for seeking light from the fire of the polytheists, its meaning is that you do not approach them in dwellings such that you are with them in their country, but rather keep your distance from them and emigrate from their country. For this reason, Abu Dawud narrated: Their two fires will not be seen. And in the other hadith: Whoever gathers with a polytheist or lives with him is like him. So the hadith was interpreted according to what Al-Hasan, may God have mercy on him, said, and citing the verse as evidence for it is questionable, and God knows best.

Then the Almighty said: Hatred has already appeared from their mouths, and what their hearts conceal is greater. That is, the enmity has appeared on the pages of their faces and the slips of their tongues, along with what they contain in their hearts of hatred for Islam and its people, something that is not hidden from a wise and intelligent person. For this reason, the Almighty said: We have made clear to you the signs, if you would understand. And the Almighty said: Here you are, loving them, but they do not love you. That is, you, O believers, love the hypocrites because of the faith they show you, so you love them for that, and they do not love you, neither inwardly nor outwardly. And you believe in the entire Book. That is, you do not have any doubt or suspicion about any of it, while they have doubt, suspicion, and confusion. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said: Muhammad ibn Abi Muhammad told me, on the authority of Ikrimah or Saeed ibn Jubayr, on the authority of Ibn Abbas: And you believe in the entire Book, meaning in your Book and their Book and in the books that came before that, and they disbelieve in your Book, so you are more deserving of hatred for them than they are for you. Narrated by Ibn Jarir. And when they meet you, they say, 'We believe,' but when they are alone, they bite their fingertips at you in rage, and the fingertips are the tips of the fingers, as Qatada said. And the poet said:

I wish my saliva wetted my throat and my fingers could hold ten

Ibn Masoud, As-Suddi and Ar-Rabi' bin Anas said: "The fingers are the toes. This is the way of the hypocrites. They show faith and love to the believers, but inwardly they are the opposite of that in every way, as God the Almighty said: "And when they are alone, they bite their fingertips at you out of rage." This is the most intense rage and resentment. God the Almighty said: "Say, 'Die in your rage. Indeed, God is Knowing of that within the breasts.'" That is, no matter how much you envy the believers and that angers you from them, know that God will perfect His favor upon His believing servants and perfect His religion, uphold His word and manifest His religion. So die in your rage. Indeed, God is Knowing of that within the breasts. That is, He is Knowing of what your consciences conceal and what your innermost thoughts hold of hatred, envy and rancor towards the believers. He will reward you for it in this world by showing you the opposite of what you hope for, and in the Hereafter with severe torment in the Fire in which you will abide eternally, with no escape from it and no exit from which you will have. Then God the Almighty said: If good befalls you, it distresses them, but if evil befalls you, they rejoice at it. This state indicates the intensity of their enmity towards the believers, which is that if the believers are granted fertility, victory, support, and they increase in number and their supporters are strengthened, this distresses the hypocrites. And if a drought befalls the Muslims or the enemies defeat them, because of God's wisdom in that - as happened on the Day of Uhud - the hypocrites rejoice at that. God the Almighty said, addressing the believers: But if you are patient and fear God, not at all will their plot harm you Al-An'am 2:17. God the Almighty guides them to safety from the evil of the wicked and the plot of the immoral by using patience, fear of God, and putting their trust in God, who encompasses their enemies, for they have no power or strength except through Him. He is the One Whose wills is, and what He does not will is not, and nothing occurs in existence except by His decree and will, and whoever puts his trust in Him, He will suffice him.

Then the Almighty proceeded to mention the story of Uhud and the test it contained for His believing servants, and the distinction between the believers and the hypocrites and the explanation of the patience of the patient. The Almighty said:

Fath al-Qadir

Al-Batana: a noun used to name the singular and plural, and the man's batana: his confidants who conceal his affair, and its origin is the belly which is the opposite of the back, and the belly of so-and-so with so-and-so, he conceals bellies and batana: if he is pure with him, and from it the poet's saying:

They are all my loyalists, my confidants, and my family, more than any other relative.

His saying 118 - From other than you means: from other than you. Al-Farra' said: that is, from other than the Muslims, and they are the infidels: that is, an entourage that is other than you. It is permissible for it to be related to his saying Do not take. And his saying They will not spare you any trouble is in the accusative case as an attribute of the entourage. It is said: I will not spare any effort: that is, I will not fall short. Imru' al-Qais said:

As long as the heart of a person is in control of the dangers, he will not be able to

What is meant is that they do not fall short in what causes corruption for you. It is transitive with two objects because it includes the meaning of prevention: that is, they do not prevent you from corruption. Corruption and madness are corruption in actions, bodies, and minds. Aws said:

Surat Al Imran 3:118

O you who have believed, do not take as intimates those other than yourselves. They will not spare you any ruin. They desire what you suffer. Hatred has already appeared from their mouths, and what their hearts conceal is greater. We have made clear to you the verses, if you would only use reason.

My sons, my sons, you are not one hand but a hand with a mad arm

That is, corrupted arm. His statement, And they wished for your suffering is ma, meaning they wished for your suffering. Suffering is hardship and severe harm. The sentence is a resumption of the prohibition. His statement, The hatred has already appeared is the intensity of hatred, like distress is due to severe harm. The mouths are the plural of mouth. The meaning is that the hatred has appeared in their speech because when the intensity of hatred and envy overcame them, their tongues revealed what was in their hearts, so they abandoned taqiyya and declared their denial. As for the Jews, the matter in that is clear. As for the hypocrites, the slips of their tongues would appear that revealed the evil of their inner selves. This sentence is a resumption of the statement of their condition, And what their hearts conceal is greater because the slips of the tongue are less than what the hearts harbor, rather those slips in comparison to what is in the hearts are very few. Then, the Almighty bestowed upon them the clarification of the verses indicating the necessity of sincerity if they were among the people of minds that comprehend that statement.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

118- The Almighty said: O you who have believed, do not take as intimates those other than yourselves The verse: Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with him, said: There were men among the Muslims who maintained close relations with the Jews because of the kinship, friendship, alliance, neighbourhood and breastfeeding between them, so God Almighty revealed this verse forbidding them from keeping close relations with them for fear of temptation for them.

Mujahid said: It was revealed about a group of believers who were befriending the hypocrites, but God Almighty forbade them from doing so, saying: O you who have believed, do not take as intimates those other than yourselves, meaning: allies and close friends from outside your religion. A man's intimates are his confidants, likening them to the lining of a garment that is next to his stomach, because they conceal his secrets and learn about him what others do not learn about.

Then He explained the reason for the prohibition of harboring them, saying, They spare no effort in ruining you, meaning: they do not fall short or leave their efforts in what brings you evil and corruption. Khabal is evil and corruption. Khabalan is the second object because ya'lu is transitive with two objects. It was also said: by removing the preposition, meaning by khabal, as one says, I struck him painfully. "They wished for what you suffered," meaning: they wished for what would be difficult for you, of harm, evil, and destruction. Hatred means hardship. Hatred has appeared, meaning: hatred, meaning that the sign of enmity has appeared, from their mouths, by cursing and slandering the Muslims. It was also said: by the polytheists knowing the secrets of the believers. And what their breasts conceal, of enmity and anger, is greater, "We have made clear to you the verses, if you would but use reason."

118 O you who have believed, do not take as intimates a friend A confidant, which is someone whom a man knows his secrets with confidence, it is likened to the lining of a garment as it is likened to a slogan. The Prophet, peace and blessings be upon him, said: The Ansar are a slogan and the people are a covering. "From without you from without the Muslims, and it is related to don't take", or to an omitted word which is a description of the confidant, meaning a confidant who is from without you. "They will spare no effort in corrupting you meaning they will not fall short in corrupting you, and alo" means falling short and its origin is to be transitive with a preposition and to two objects like their saying: I will not spare you advice to include the meaning of prevention or deficiency. "And they wish for what you have suffered they wish for your suffering, which is severe harm and hardship, and ma" is a source. "Hatred has already appeared from their mouths" meaning in their speech because they cannot control themselves due to their excessive hatred. "And what their hearts conceal is greater" than what appeared because in turn it is not from deliberation and choice. We have made clear to you the signs indicating the obligation of sincerity and loyalty to believers and hostility to disbelievers. If you understand what has been made clear to you. The four sentences came as resumptions of the explanation, and it is possible that the first three are attributes of the inner circle.

Surat Al Imran 3:119

Here you are, you love them but they do not love you, and you believe in the Book, all of it, and when they meet you they say, We believe, but when they are alone they bite their fingertips at you out of rage. Say, "Die in your rage. Indeed, God is Knowing of that within the breasts."

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

Ha to alert you O those believers love them for their kinship to you and their friendship but they do not love you for their opposition to you in religion and you believe in the entire Book that is, in all the books, but they do not believe in your Book and when they meet you, they say, We believe; but when they are alone, they bite their fingertips at you the tips of their fingers out of rage the intensity of anger at what they see of your unity, and some of the fingertips express the intensity of anger metaphorically, even if there is no biting say, Die in your rage that is, remain in it until death, for you will not see what pleases you indeed, God is Knowing of that within the breasts what is in the hearts, including what these people conceal.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: By that, may His praise be glorified, He means: Here you are, O believers, whom you love, He says: You love these infidels whom I forbade you from taking as intimates instead of the believers, so you love them and maintain relations with them while they do not love you, rather they conceal enmity and deceit towards you, and you believe in the entire Book.

The meaning of book in this context is the meaning of the collective, as it is said: The dirhams increased in people's hands, meaning dirhams.

Likewise, his statement: And you believe in the entire Book, means: in all the books, your book that God revealed to you, their book that He revealed to them, and other books that God revealed to His servants.

God Almighty says: So you, O believers, believe in all the books, and you know that those whom I forbade you from taking as intimates from among yourselves are disbelievers in all of that, because of their denial of all of God's covenants to them, and their changing what is in it of God's command and prohibition, and they are more deserving of your enmity towards them, their hatred and their deception, than your enmity and hatred, along with their denial of some of the books and their rejection of some of them, as:

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq, he said, Muhammad ibn Abi Muhammad told me, on the authority of Ikrimah or on the authority of Saeed ibn Jubayr, on the authority of Ibn Abbas: You believe in the entire Book, meaning: in your Book and their Book and in the books that came before that, and they disbelieve in your Book, so you are more deserving of hatred for them than they are for you.

Abu Ja'far said: He said: Here you are, these you, and he did not say these are you, so he differentiated between ha and thala by the pronoun of the name of the addressees, because the Arabs do this in this way if they want to approximate it and the method of deficiency that needs the completion of the report, and this is like when it is said to some of them: Where are you, and the one to whom it is said responds: Here I am, so they differentiate between the warning and this by the pronoun of his own name, and they hardly say: This is me, then it is dualized and pluralized on that. And they may repeat the letter of warning with: dha and say: Here I am this. And they do not do that except in what is approximate, but if it is not approximate and deficiency, they say: This is him and this is you. And they do the same with the apparent names, they say: This is Amr standing, if this is an approximation. And they only do that in the pronoun with approximation, to differentiate between this if it means the deficient that needs completion, and it if it means the correct name.

His saying: You love them, is a predicate of approximation.

Abu Ja'far said: In this verse there is a clarification from God Almighty about the state of the two groups - I mean the believers and the disbelievers - and the mercy and compassion of the people of faith towards those who disagree with them, and the hardness of the hearts of the people of disbelief and their harshness towards the people of faith, as:

Bishr told us, Yazid told us, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, his saying: Here you are, loving them but they do not love you, and you believe in the entire Book. By God, the believer loves the hypocrite and shelters him and has mercy on him. If the hypocrite had the power to do what the believer has the power to do to him, he would destroy its greenery.

Al-Qasim told us, Al-Hussein told us, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, who said: The believer is better for the hypocrite than the hypocrite is for the believer, may God have mercy on him. If the hypocrite were able to do to the believer what the believer is able to do to him, he would destroy his greenery.

Mujahid used to say: This verse was revealed about the hypocrites.

Muhammad bin Amr told me that. He said: Abu Asim told us, on the authority of Isa, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid.

Abu Ja'far said: By this, the Most High means: That those whom God forbade the believers to take as intimates from those other than themselves, and described them by their description, if they meet the believers from the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, they will give them with their tongues a precaution, out of fear for themselves from them, and they will say to them: We have believed and confirmed what Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, brought. But if they are alone and are in a secluded place where the believers cannot see them, they will bite their fingers - despite what they see of the believers' unity, their word being united, and their relationship being in good terms - their fingertips, out of anger at the resentment they have towards them, and grief over the backs they lean on to confront their enmity and fight them.

Here you are, you love them but they do not love you, and you believe in the Book, all of it, and when they meet you they say, "We believe," but when they are alone they bite their fingertips at you out of rage. Say, "Die in your rage. Indeed, God is Knowing of that within the breasts."

And the people of interpretation said something similar to what we said about that.

Who said that?

Bishr told us, Yazid told us, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: And when they meet you, they say, 'We believe,' but when they are alone, they bite their fingertips at you out of rage. When they meet the believers, they say, We believe. They only fear for their blood and wealth, so treat them that way. And when they are alone, they bite their fingertips at you out of rage. He says: Because of the rage and hatred they find in their hearts for what they are doing. If they could smell it, they would be against the believers, so they are as God, the Almighty, has described them.

It was narrated on the authority of Ammar, who said: Ibn Abi Ja'far narrated to us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of al-Rabi', similarly, except that he said: Out of anger for their hatred of what they are doing, and he did not say: If they find a smell, and what follows it.

Abbas bin Muhammad told us, Muslim told us, Yahya bin Amr bin Malik Al-Nakri told me, my father told us: When Abu Al-Juza' recited this verse: And when they meet you, they say, 'We believe,' but when they are alone, they bite their fingertips at you out of rage, he said: They are the Ibadis.

Fingers is the plural of anmlah, and it is also said anmlah, and it may be the plural of anmlan. The poet said:

I would like you both, as long as my saliva moistens my throat and my fingers can hold ten fingers

They are the fingertips, such as:

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada: The fingers, the tips of the fingers.

It was narrated on the authority of Ammar, on the authority of Ibn Abi Jaafar, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-Rabi', similarly.

Muhammad bin Al-Hussein told us, Ahmad bin Al-Mufaddal told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi: And when they are alone, they bite their fingertips at you, the fingers.

Abu Kuraib told us, he said, Waki' told us, on the authority of Israel, on the authority of Abu Al-Ahwas, on the authority of Abdullah, regarding his statement: They bit their fingertips out of rage, he said: They bit their fingers.

Abu Ja'far said: By that, may His praise be glorified,

He means: Say, O Muhammad, to these Jews whose characteristics I have described to you, and I have informed you that when they meet your companions they say: We believe, and when they are alone they bite their fingertips at you in rage: Die in your rage that you have against the believers because of their unified word and the unity of their group.

This statement came out as a command, and it is a supplication from God to His Prophet Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, that he should supplicate against them that God destroy them, out of grief for the anger they have toward the believers, before they see in them what they wish for them of hardship in their religion, and misguidance after their guidance. So He said to His Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace: Say, O Muhammad: Destroy yourselves with your anger, Indeed, God is Knowing of that within the breasts, meaning by that: God is All-Knowing of what is in the breasts of those who, when they meet the believers, say: We believe, and what they conceal of rancor and sorrow for them, and what they believe of enmity and hatred for them, and what is in the breasts of all His creation, He preserves for all of them what is concealed of good and evil, until He rewards all of them for what they have presented of good and evil, and what they believed of faith and disbelief, and what they concealed for His Messenger and the believers of advice, or rancor and anger.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

The Almighty said: Here you are, loving them meaning the hypocrites. The evidence for this is the Almighty's saying: And when they meet you, they say, 'We believe', as stated by Abu Al-Aaliyah and Muqatil. Love here means friendship, meaning that you, O Muslims, are friends with them and they do not be friends with you because of their hypocrisy. It was said: The meaning is that you want Islam for them and they want disbelief for you. It was said: What is meant is the Jews, as stated by most. The Book is a generic noun, Ibn Abbas said: It means in the books. The Jews believe in some, as God the Almighty said: And when it is said to them, 'Believe in what God has revealed,' they say, 'We believe in what was revealed to us,' and they disbelieve in what came after it (al-Baqarah 2:91). And when they meet you, they say, 'We believe' meaning in Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and that he is the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. And when they are alone among themselves they bite their fingertips meaning the tips of their fingers out of rage and anger at you, and some of them say to one another: Do you not see that these have appeared and multiplied? Biting is an expression of intense anger with the inability to vent it, and from this is the saying of Abu Talib:

They bite the back of our necks with their fingers

Another said:

When they saw me - may God prolong their anger - they became so angry that they became like the tips of their thumbs.

It is said: to bite, bite, bite, bite, bite. And bite <with a damma on the 'ayn>: is the fodder of the animals of the people of the cities, such as the harvest and the crushed pits. It is said from it: the people bite, if their camels eat bite. And a fat camel, as if it is attributed to it. And bite <with a kasra>: is the cunning man and the eloquent cunning. And biting the fingers is done by the angry person who missed something he could not do, or something befell them that he could not change. And this biting is with the teeth, like biting the hand over something that is about to be missed, or like knocking the regretful tooth, and other things like counting pebbles and lines on the ground for the worried. And this bite is written with the dropped Dād, and the admonition of time with the emphatic Dād, as he said:

A sermon of the time, O son of Marwan, left no money except what was wiped out or wasted

One of the fingers is called an anmal with a damma on the mim, and it is also said with a fatha, but the damma is more common. When Abu al-Juza' recited this verse, he would say: They are the Ibadis. Ibn Atiyyah said: This characteristic may be found in many of the people of innovation until the Day of Resurrection.

God Almighty said: "Die in your rage. Indeed, God is Knowing of that within the breasts." If it is said: How did they not die when God Almighty says to something: Be, and it is? Two answers have been given: The first - about which Al-Tabari and many of the commentators said - is a supplication against them. That is, say, O Muhammad, may God continue your rage until you die. So based on this, it is appropriate to supplicate against them with this directly or indirectly, unlike the curse.

Second: The meaning is that he informed them that they will not attain what they hope for, for death is before that. According to this meaning, the meaning of supplication is removed and the meaning of rebuke and vexation remains. This meaning is consistent with the statement of Musafir ibn Abi Amr:

He wishes to make us sick and to poke out the eyes of those who envy him.

This meaning is seen in the Almighty's saying: Whoever thinks that God will not support him in this world and the Hereafter, let him stretch out a rope to the heaven and then cut it off. (al-Hajj 22:15)

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The Blessed and Most High says, forbidding His believing servants from taking the hypocrites as intimates, meaning that they reveal to them their secrets and what they conceal for their enemies. The hypocrites, with all their effort and energy, spare no effort in ruining the believers, meaning that they strive to oppose them and harm them with everything possible, and with whatever deceit and trickery they can, and they desire what will distress the believers and embarrass them and make it difficult for them. The Almighty says: Do not take intimates from other than yourselves meaning from other than you from the people of religions, and the intimates of a man are his family who are aware of his inner affairs. Al-Bukhari, Al-Nasa'i and others narrated from a group of people, including Yunus, Yahya bin Sa'id, Musa bin Uqbah and Ibn Abi Atiq, on the authority of Al-Zuhri, on the authority of Abu Salamah, on the authority of Abu Sa'id, that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "God did not send a prophet or appoint a successor except that he had two entourages: an entourage that commanded him to do good and urged him to do it, and an entourage that commanded him to do evil and urged him to do it. The one who is protected is the one whom God protects." Al-Awza'i and Mu'awiyah bin Salam narrated it on the authority of Al-Zuhri, on the authority of Abu Salamah, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, with a similar chain of transmission to the Prophet. It is possible that it is with Al-Zuhri on the authority of Abu Salamah on their authority. Al-Nasa'i also included it on the authority of Al-Zuhri. Al-Bukhari included it in his Sahih and said: Ubaydullah bin Abi Ja'far said on the authority of Safwan bin Salim on the authority of Abu Salamah on the authority of Abu Ayyub Al-Ansari, and he mentioned it. It is possible that it is with Abu Salamah on the authority of three of the Companions, and God knows best. Ibn Abi Hatim said: My father told us, Abu Ayoub Muhammad ibn al-Wazzan told us, Isa ibn Yunus told us, on the authority of Abu Hayyan al-Taimi, on the authority of Abu al-Zinba', on the authority of Ibn Abi al-Dahqana, who said: It was said to Umar ibn al-Khattab, may God be pleased with him: There is a young man from the people of al-Hirah who is a memorizer and a scribe, so why don't you make him a scribe? He said: They have made an entourage from among the non-believers. In this trace and this verse there is evidence that the People of the Covenant are not permitted to be employed in writing that involves oppression against the Muslims and knowledge of the inner workings of their affairs that it is feared they will divulge to the enemies of the people of war. For this reason, the Almighty said: They spare no effort to cause you harm and wish you would suffer. Al-Hafiz Abu Ya'la said: Ishaq bin Israel told us, Hisham told us, Al-A'wam told us on the authority of Al-Azhar bin Rashid, who said: They used to come to Anas, and if he told them a hadith and they did not know what it was, they would come to Al-Hasan, meaning Al-Basri, and he would explain it to them. He said: One day, it was narrated on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, that he said: Do not seek light from the fire of the polytheists, and do not engrave Arabic on your rings. They did not know what it was, so they came to Al-Hasan and said to him: Anas told us that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Do not seek light from the fire of the polytheists, and do not engrave Arabic on your rings. Al-Hasan said: As for his saying: Do not engrave Arabic on your rings: Muhammad The Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) said: Do not seek light from the fire of the polytheists. He said: Do not consult the polytheists in your affairs. Then Al-Hasan said: "The confirmation of that is in the Book of God: 'O

Here you are, you love them but they do not love you, and you believe in the Book, all of it, and when they meet you they say, "We believe," but when they are alone they bite their fingertips at you out of rage. Say, "Die in your rage. Indeed, God is Knowing of that within the breasts."

you who have believed, do not take as intimates those other than yourselves." This is how Al-Hafiz Abu Ya'la may God have mercy on him narrated it. Al-Nasa'i narrated it on the authority of Mujahid bin Musa, on the authority of Hisham, and Imam Ahmad narrated it on the authority of Hisham with a similar chain of transmission without mentioning the interpretation of Al-Hasan Al-Basri. This interpretation is questionable, but its meaning is clear: Do not engrave on your rings anything in Arabic, meaning in Arabic script, lest it resemble the engraving of the Prophet's (peace and blessings of God be upon him) ring, for its engraving was Muhammad, the Messenger of God. This is why it came in the authentic hadith that he forbade anyone from engraving on his engraving. As for seeking light from the fire of the polytheists, its meaning is that you do not approach them in dwellings such that you are with them in their country, but rather keep your distance from them and emigrate from their country. For this reason, Abu Dawud narrated: Their two fires will not be seen. And in the other hadith: Whoever gathers with a polytheist or lives with him is like him. So the hadith was interpreted according to what Al-Hasan, may God have mercy on him, said, and citing the verse as evidence for it is questionable, and God knows best.

Then the Almighty said: Hatred has already appeared from their mouths, and what their hearts conceal is greater. That is, the enmity has appeared on the pages of their faces and the slips of their tongues, along with what they contain in their hearts of hatred for Islam and its people, something that is not hidden from a wise and intelligent person. For this reason, the Almighty said: We have made clear to you the signs, if you would understand. And the Almighty said: Here you are, loving them, but they do not love you. That is, you, O believers, love the hypocrites because of the faith they show you, so you love them for that, and they do not love you, neither inwardly nor outwardly. And you believe in the entire Book. That is, you do not have any doubt or suspicion about any of it, while they have doubt, suspicion, and confusion. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said: Muhammad ibn Abi Muhammad told me, on the authority of Ikrimah or Saeed ibn Jubayr, on the authority of Ibn Abbas: And you believe in the entire Book, meaning in your Book and their Book and in the books that came before that, and they disbelieve in your Book, so you are more deserving of hatred for them than they are for you. Narrated by Ibn Jarir. And when they meet you, they say, 'We believe,' but when they are alone, they bite their fingertips at you in rage, and the fingertips are the tips of the fingers, as Qatada said. And the poet said:

I wish my saliva wetted my throat and my fingers could hold ten

Ibn Masoud, As-Suddi and Ar-Rabi' bin Anas said: "The fingers are the toes. This is the way of the hypocrites. They show faith and love to the believers, but inwardly they are the opposite of that in every way, as God the Almighty said: "And when they are alone, they bite their fingertips at you out of rage." This is the most intense rage and resentment. God the Almighty said: "Say, 'Die in your rage. Indeed, God is Knowing of that within the breasts.'" That is, no matter how much you envy the believers and that angers you from them, know that God will perfect His favor upon His believing servants and perfect His religion, uphold His word and manifest His religion. So die in your rage. Indeed, God is Knowing of that within the breasts. That is, He is Knowing of what your consciences conceal and what your innermost thoughts hold of hatred, envy and rancor towards the believers. He will reward you for it in this world by showing you the opposite of what you hope for, and in the Hereafter with severe torment in the Fire in which you will abide eternally, with no escape from it and no exit from which you will have. Then God the Almighty said: If good befalls you, it distresses them, but if evil befalls you, they rejoice at it. This state indicates the intensity of their enmity towards the believers, which is that if the believers are granted fertility, victory, support, and they increase in number and their supporters are strengthened, this distresses the hypocrites. And if a drought befalls the Muslims or the enemies defeat them, because of God's wisdom in that - as happened on the Day of Uhud - the hypocrites rejoice at that. God the Almighty said, addressing the believers: But if you are patient and fear God, not at all will their plot harm you Al-An'am 2:17. God the Almighty guides them to safety from the evil of the wicked and the plot of the immoral by using patience, fear of God, and putting their trust in God, who encompasses their enemies, for they have no power or strength except through Him. He is the One Whose wills is, and what He does not will is not, and nothing occurs in existence except by His decree and will, and whoever puts his trust in Him, He will suffice him.

Then the Almighty proceeded to mention the story of Uhud and the test it contained for His believing servants, and the distinction between the believers and the hypocrites and the explanation of the patience of the patient. The Almighty said:

Fath al-Qadir

His statement 119- Here you are is a sentence beginning with the letter of warning: meaning you are the ones who are wrong in their loyalty, then he explained their mistake in that loyalty with this humiliating sentence. So he said You love them and they do not love you, and it was said that his statement You love them is a second predicate for his statement you, and it was said that those are a relative pronoun and you love them is its clause, meaning: you love them because they showed you faith or because of the kinship between you and them and they do not love you because of the anger and envy that has taken hold in their hearts. His statement and you believe in the entire Book meaning in all of the Book. The location of the sentence is the accusative case as a state: meaning they do not love you and the fact is that you believe in the books of God, the Most High, which include their book, so why do you love them while they do not believe in your book. And in it is a severe rebuke to them, because the one who holds the truth is more deserving of firmness and severity than the one who is on falsehood. And when they meet you, they say, 'We believe,' out of hypocrisy and dissimulation. But when they are alone, they bite their fingertips at you in rage, regretting and regretting that they were unable to take revenge on you. The Arabs describe the angry and regretful person biting his fingers and toes. Then God, the Most High, commanded him to invoke curses upon them, saying, Say, 'Die in your rage,' which implies that their rage will continue as long as they are alive until death comes to them while they are still in that state. Then He said, Indeed, God is Knowing of that within the breasts, so He knows what is in your breasts and their breasts. What is meant by that within the breasts are the thoughts that are present in them, and it is a statement included in His saying, Say, so it is part of what is said.

it is a state of those who do not love you and the meaning is: they do not love you and the fact is that you believe in their book also so what is wrong with you that you love them and they do not believe in your book, and in it is a rebuke that they are more steadfast in their falsehood than you are in your right. "And when they meet you they say, We believe" hypocritically and deceitfully and when they are alone they bite their fingertips at you out of rage because of him, regretting and remorse since they did not find a way to take revenge. Say, 'Die in your rage.' This is a supplication against them for their rage to continue and increase by multiplying the power of Islam and its people until they are destroyed by it. Indeed, God is Knowing of that within the breasts. He knows what is in their breasts of hatred and resentment. This could be part of what is said, i.e., say to them that God is Knowing of what is more hidden than what you hide of biting your fingers in rage, or it could be outside of it, meaning, say that to them and do not be surprised that I have informed you of their secrets, for I am Knowing of what is more hidden than their inner selves.

119- Here you are This is a warning, and you are a metaphor for the males being addressed. Those is the name of those referred to, meaning you, O believers. You love them meaning: you love these Jews whom I have forbidden you from keeping company with, due to the reasons between you of kinship, breastfeeding, and marriage. And they do not love you they, because of the opposition between you of religion. Muqatil said: They are the hypocrites whom the believers love because of the faith they have shown, and they do not know what is in their hearts. And you believe in the entire Book meaning: in all the books, and they do not believe in your Book. And when they meet you, they say, 'We believe,' and when they are alone, and some of them are with each other, they bite their fingertips at you out of rage meaning: the tips of the fingers, one of which is fingertip, with a damma or fatha on the meem, out of rage at what they see of the believers uniting and their word coming together. Biting the fingertips is an expression of intense rage, and this is from the metaphor of the example, even if there is no biting. "Say: Die in your rage i.e., remain in your rage until death, for God is Knowing of that within the breasts i.e., of what is in the hearts of good and evil.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

"And you believe in the entire Book" in the genus of the entire Book, and

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

If good befalls you a blessing such as victory or spoils it distresses them it grieves them but if evil befalls you such as defeat or drought they rejoice at it and the conditional clause is connected to the condition before it and what is between them is an interjection and the meaning is that they are extreme in their enmity towards you so why did you not befriend them so avoid them and if you are patient in their harm and fear God in befriending them and other things their plot will not harm you with a kasra on the dad and a sukoon on the ra and a damma and a shaddah (their plot will not harm you at all. Indeed, God is encompassing of what they do) with a ya and a ta and is aware of what they do so He will reward them for it.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Abu Ja'far said: What is meant by the words of God Almighty: If good befalls you, it distresses them, is that if you, O believers, attain joy through your victory over your enemy, and people follow one another in entering your religion, believing in your prophet, and assisting you against your enemies, it distresses them. And if harm befalls you through the failure of a military expedition, or the injury of an enemy among you, or a disagreement that occurs among your group, they rejoice over it, as:

Bishr told us, Yazid told us, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: If good befalls you, it grieves them, but if evil befalls you, they rejoice at it. So when they see unity, unity, and victory over their enemy among the people of Islam, that angers and upsets them. And when they see division and disagreement among the people of Islam, or a party of the Muslims is afflicted, that pleases them, amazes them, and rejoices at it. So whenever a generation emerges from among them, God belies their story, tramples their position, invalidates their argument, and exposes their shame. So that is the judgment of God regarding those of them who have passed away and those who remain until the Day of Resurrection.

a unity and victory over their enemy, that angered them greatly and made them sad. And when they saw among the people of Islam division and disagreement, or a party of the Muslims was afflicted, that pleased them and they were amazed by it. God the Almighty said: "But if you are patient and fear God, not will their plot harm you at all. Indeed, God encompasses what they do."

Al-Qasim told us, Al-Hussein told us, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, regarding his statement: If good befalls you, it distresses them, he said: If they see a group and harmony among the believers, that distresses them, and if they see division and disagreement among them, they rejoice.

As for His statement: And if you are patient and fear God, their plot will not harm you at all, He, the Most High, means by that: And if you are patient, O believers, in obeying God and following His command in what He has commanded you to do, and avoiding what He has forbidden you from: taking as intimates for yourselves those Jews whose description God has described, apart from the believers, and other than that from all the rest of what He has forbidden you, and fear God, your Lord, so that you fear going before Him in what He has obligated you and made obligatory upon you of His right and the right of His Messenger, their plot will not harm you at all, meaning: the plot of those whose description He has described.

By their plot, he means the evils they seek for the Muslims, and their deceit against them, to turn them away from guidance and the path of truth.

Abu Jaafar said: There are different readings of the verse: It will not harm you.

A group of the people of Hijaz and some of the people of Basra read it as la yadhurkum with a kasra on the letter Ḍād, from the saying of the one who says: So-and-so harmed me, so he is harming me with harm. It has been reported that it was heard from the Arabs: it does not benefit me nor does it harm me. If it had been read in this language, it would have been said: their plot will not harm you at all, but I do not know of anyone who read it like that.

A group of the people of Medina read it, and most of the people of Kufa read it: Their plot will not harm you at all, with a damma on the letter Ḍād and a shaddah on the letter rā', from the saying of the speaker: So-and-so harmed me, so he will harm me greatly.

As for the nominative case in his saying: It will not harm you, it is from two aspects:

One of them: to follow the letter ra in its movement - since its origin is the jussive, and it could not be jussive because of its emphasis - the closest movement of the letters before it, and that is the movement of the letter dad which is the damma, so the movement of the letter ra was added to it because of its proximity to it, as they said: Madd ya hada.

The other aspect of the two aspects of raising in this: that it is raised on the correctness, and la means not, and the fa which is the answer to the conditional clause is left to the listener's knowledge of its position.

If that is what it means, then the interpretation of the statement is: And if you are patient and fear God, then their plot will not harm you at all. Then the fa was left out of his statement: Their plot will not harm you at all, and la was directed to the meaning of not, as the poet said:

If it does not satisfy you until you return me to my country, I do not think you will be satisfied.

If the letter ra was moved to the accusative and genitive cases, it would be permissible, as it was said: Madd ya hada and Madd.

And His statement: Indeed, God encompasses what they do, the Most High says: Indeed, God encompasses what these infidels do to His servants and His lands of corruption, turning people away from His path, enmity towards the people of His religion, and other acts of disobedience to God. He encompasses all of it, preserving it, and nothing of it escapes Him until He pays them their recompense for all of it and makes them taste His punishment for it.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

The Almighty said: If good befalls you, it distresses them. As-Salami read it with a ya' and the rest read it with a ta'. The wording is general and includes everything that is good and bad. What the commentators mentioned about fertility and drought, the gathering of the believers and the emergence of division among them, and other sayings are examples and there is no difference. The meaning of the verse is that whoever has this characteristic of intense enmity, hatred, and joy at the befalling of hardships on the believers, is not worthy of being taken as a confidant, especially in this serious matter of jihad, which is the essence of this world and the hereafter. The poet said well when he said:

All enmity can be healed, except the enmity of someone who is your enemy out of envy.

And if you are patient meaning in the face of their harm and in obedience and loyalty to the believers, and fear God, their plot will not harm you at all. It is said: He harmed him means he harmed him and "he ... so the Almighty made the negation of their harm conditional upon patience and fear of God, so that was a consolation for the believers and a strengthening of their souls.

I said: The two Haramiyyin and Abu Amr read la yadhirkum from darār yadhīr as we mentioned, and from this is his saying la dhir and the ya' was deleted due to the meeting of two quiescent letters, because when you delete the damma from the ra', the ra' remains quiescent and the ya' remains quiescent, so the ya' was deleted, and it was more appropriate to delete it, because before it is what indicates it. Al-Kisa'i narrated that he heard dharahu yadhuru and he permitted la yadhirkum and claimed that in the reading of Ubayy ibn Ka'b there is la yadhirkum. The Kufians read la yadhirkum with a damma and a shaddah on the ra' from darār yadhīr. It is permissible for them to be raised on the assumption of the omission of the fa', and the meaning is: so do not harm you, and from this is the saying of the poet:

Whoever does good deeds, God will reward them.

This is what Al-Kisa'i and Al-Farra' said, or it could be raised with the intention of presentation. Sibawayh recited:

If your brother is defeated, you will be defeated.

That is, it will not harm you if you are patient and fear God. It is permissible for it to be in the jussive mood, and the ra' was given a damma because of the meeting of two sukoon letters, following the damma. This is also the reading of those who open the ra', so that the verb is in the jussive mood, and the fatha on <yadhirkum> is due to the meeting of two sukoon letters due to the lightness of the fatha. It was narrated by Abu Zaid on the authority of al-Mufaddal on the authority of Asim, as narrated by al-Mahdawi. Al-Nahas narrated: Al-Mufaddal al-Dabbi claimed on the authority of Asim <la yadhirkum> with a kasra on the ra' because of the meeting of two sukoon letters.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The Blessed and Most High says, forbidding His believing servants from taking the hypocrites as intimates, meaning that they reveal to them their secrets and what they conceal for their enemies. The hypocrites, with all their effort and energy, spare no effort in ruining the believers, meaning that they strive to oppose them and harm them with everything possible, and with whatever deceit and trickery they can, and they desire what will distress the believers and embarrass them and make it difficult for them. The Almighty says: "Do not take intimates from other than yourselves" meaning from other than you from the people of religions, and the intimates of a man are his family who are aware of his inner affairs. Al-Bukhari, Al-Nasa'i and others narrated from a group of people, including Yunus, Yahya bin Sa'id, Musa bin Uqbah and Ibn Abi Atiq, on the authority of Al-Zuhri, on the authority of Abu Salamah, on the authority of Abu Sa'id, that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "God did not send a prophet or appoint a successor except that he had two entourages: an entourage that commanded him to do good and urged him to do it, and an entourage that commanded him to do evil and urged him to do it. The one who is protected is the one whom God protects." Al-Awza'i and Mu'awiyah bin Salam narrated it on the authority of Al-Zuhri, on the authority of Abu Salamah, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, with a similar chain of transmission to the Prophet. It is possible that it is with Al-Zuhri on the authority of Abu Salamah on their authority. Al-Nasa'i also included it on the authority of Al-Zuhri. Al-Bukhari included it in his Sahih and said: Ubaydullah bin Abi Ja'far said on the authority of Safwan bin Salim on the authority of Abu Salamah on the authority of Abu Ayyub Al-Ansari, and he mentioned it. It is possible that it is with Abu Salamah on the authority of three of the Companions, and God knows best. Ibn Abi Hatim said: My father told us, Abu

If good befalls you, it distresses them, but if evil befalls you, they rejoice at it. But if you are patient and fear God, their plot will not harm you at all. Indeed, God is encompassing of what they do.

Ayoub Muhammad ibn al-Wazzan told us, Isa ibn Yunus told us, on the authority of Abu Hayyan al-Taimi, on the authority of Abu al-Zinba', on the authority of Ibn Abi al-Dahqana, who said: It was said to Umar ibn al-Khattab, may God be pleased with him: There is a young man from the people of al-Hirah who is a memorizer and a scribe, so why don't you make him a scribe? He said: Then you have made an entourage from among the non-believers. In this trace and this verse there is evidence that the People of the Covenant are not permitted to be employed in writing that involves oppression against the Muslims and knowledge of the inner workings of their affairs that it is feared they will divulge to the enemies of the people of war. For this reason, the Almighty said: They spare no effort to cause you harm and wish you would suffer. Al-Hafiz Abu Ya'la said: Ishaq bin Israel told us, Hisham told us, Al-A'wam told us on the authority of Al-Azhar bin Rashid, who said: They used to come to Anas, and if he told them a hadith and they did not know what it was, they would come to Al-Hasan, meaning Al-Basri, and he would explain it to them. He said: One day, it was narrated on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, that he said: Do not seek light from the fire of the polytheists, and do not engrave Arabic on your rings. They did not know what it was, so they came to Al-Hasan and said to him: Anas told us that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Do not seek light from the fire of the polytheists, and do not engrave Arabic on your rings. Al-Hasan said: As for his saying: Do not engrave Arabic on your rings: Muhammad The Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) said: Do not seek light from the fire of the polytheists. He said: Do not consult the polytheists in your affairs. Then Al-Hasan said: "The confirmation of that is in the Book of God: 'O you who have believed, do not take as intimates those other than yourselves.' " This is how Al-Hafiz Abu Ya'la may God have mercy on him narrated it. Al-Nasa'i narrated it on the authority of Mujahid bin Musa, on the authority of Hisham, and Imam Ahmad narrated it on the authority of Hisham with a similar chain of transmission without mentioning the interpretation of Al-Hasan Al-Basri. This interpretation is questionable, but its meaning is clear: Do not engrave on your rings anything in Arabic, meaning in Arabic script, lest it resemble the engraving of the Prophet's (peace and blessings of God be upon him) ring, for its engraving was Muhammad, the Messenger of God. This is why it came in the authentic hadith that he forbade anyone from engraving on his engraving. As for seeking light from the fire of the polytheists, its meaning is that you do not approach them in dwellings such that you are with them in their country, but rather keep your distance from them and emigrate from their country. For this reason, Abu Dawud narrated: Their two fires will not be seen. And in the other hadith: Whoever gathers with a polytheist or lives with him is like him. So the hadith was interpreted according to what Al-Hasan, may God have mercy on him, said, and citing the verse as evidence for it is questionable, and God knows best.

Then the Almighty said: Hatred has already appeared from their mouths, and what their hearts conceal is greater. That is, the enmity has appeared on the pages of their faces and the slips of their tongues, along with what they contain in their hearts of hatred for Islam and its people, something that is not hidden from a wise and intelligent person. Ibn Masoud, As-Suddi and Ar-Rabi' bin Anas said: "The fingers are the toes. This is the way of the hypocrites. They show faith and love to the believers, but inwardly they are the opposite of that in every way, as God the Almighty said: "And when they are alone, they bite their fingertips at you out of rage." This is the most intense rage and resentment. God the Almighty said: "Say, 'Die in your rage. Indeed, God is Knowing of that within the breasts.' God the Almighty said, addressing the believers: But if you are patient and fear God, not at all will their plot harm you

Al-An'am 2:17. God the Almighty guides them to safety from the evil of the wicked and the plot of the immoral by using patience, fear of God, and putting their trust in God, who encompasses their enemies, for they have no power or strength except through Him. He is the One Whose wills is, and what He does not will is not, and nothing occurs in existence except by His decree and will, and whoever puts his trust in Him, He will suffice him.

Then the Almighty proceeded to mention the story of Uhud and the test it contained for His believing servants, and the distinction between the believers and the hypocrites and the explanation of the patience of the patient. The Almighty said:

Fath al-Qadir

His statement 120- If good befalls you, it distresses them. This sentence is a resumption to explain the extent of their enmity, and good and bad encompass everything that is good and bad. He used the expression touch in the good and hit in the bad, to indicate that merely touching good brings distress, and they do not rejoice except when they are afflicted with evil. It was said that touch is borrowed to mean hitting. The meaning of the verse is that whoever is in this state is not worthy of being taken as a confidant. And if you are patient in their enmity or in the difficult tasks and fear their friendship, or what God has forbidden you, their plot will not harm you at all. It is said: Dharahu yudhuru and Yadhuru dharan and Dhiyuran meaning Dharahu yadhuru, and Nafi', Ibn Kathir and Abu Amr read it this way. The Kufians and Ibn Amir read la yadhurkum with a damma on the ra' and a shaddah on it from darra yadhur. According to the first reading, it is in the jussive mood as the answer to the condition. According to the second reading, it is in the nominative case, assuming that the fa' is omitted, as in the poet's saying:

Whoever does good deeds, God will reward them.

Al-Kisa'i and Al-Farra' said this. Sibawayh said: It is raised with the intention of advancement: meaning it will not harm you if you are patient. Abu Zaid narrated on the authority of Al-Mufaddal on the authority of Asim it will not harm you with the opening of the ra', and something is an attribute of a deleted source.

Ibn Ishaq, Ibn Jarir, Ibn Al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas who said: Some Muslims used to maintain close relations with some Jews because of their neighborliness and alliance during the pre-Islamic era. So God revealed concerning them, forbidding them from keeping close relations with them for fear of temptation from them: O you who have believed, do not take as intimates (al-Baqarah 2:17). Ibn Jarir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on his authority that he said: They are the hypocrites. Abd bin Hamid narrated something similar on the authority of Mujahid. Ibn Abi Hatim and Al-Tabarani narrated on the authority of Abu Umamah on the authority of the Messenger of God (blessings and peace of God be upon him) who said: They are the Khawarij. Al-Suyuti said: Its chain of transmission is good. Ibn Ishaq, Ibn Jarir and Ibn Al-Mundhir narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas regarding his statement:

And you believe in the entire Book meaning: in your Book and their Book and in the previous Books, and they disbelieve in your Book, so you are more deserving of hatred for them than they are for you. Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Muqatil, If good befalls you, meaning victory over the enemy, provision, and good, it distresses them, but if evil befalls you, meaning killing, defeat, and hardship.

120-And the Almighty's saying: If good befalls you meaning: it befalls you, O believers, by your victory over your enemy and the spoils you obtain from them, and people continue to enter your religion, and your livelihoods are abundant, it distresses them, makes them sad, but if evil befalls you, harm by the failure of your expedition or the injury of an enemy from among you, or a disagreement that occurs between you or a drought or a calamity that befalls you, "they rejoice at it. But if you are patient" in their harm and fear God and fear your Lord, their plot will not harm you meaning: it will not decrease you in the least, Ibn Kathir, Nafi' and the people of Basra read "will not harm you with a light kasra on the dād. It is said: ḍarā yadhīr ḍīrān, and it is a jazm in response to the reward. The rest read it with a dād and a shaddah on the ra' from ḍarra yadhīr ḍarrān, like radd yard raddan, and there are two views regarding its being raised: one of them. He wanted to make it definitive, and its original form is it harms you, so the ra was assimilated into the ra, and the damma of the first ra was transferred to the dad, and the damma of the second was added in imitation. The second: that la means not, and the fa is implied in it, and its meaning is: And if you are patient and fear God, then their plot will not harm you at all. "Indeed, God is encompassing of what they do." He is All-Knowing.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

120 If good befalls you, it distresses them, but if evil befalls you, they rejoice at it. A statement of the extent of their enmity to the point that they envy the good and benefit that befell them, and rejoice at the harm and hardship that befell them. And if you are patient in their enmity, or in the hardships of the obligations. And fear their friendship, or what God, the Almighty, has forbidden you. Their plot will not harm you at all by the grace of God, the Almighty, and His promised protection for the patient and the God-fearing. And because the glory in the matter, trained in fear and patience, is less agitated in order to run after the opponent, and the dammah of the ra' is for following like the dammah of the maddah. Ibn Kathir, Nafi', Abu Amr, and Ya'qub read will not harm you from dararahu yadhuru. Indeed, God is encompassing of what they do of patience, fear of God, and other things. Encompassing meaning His knowledge encompasses, so He will reward you for what you are worthy of. It was read with the letter ya meaning of what they do in your enmity, He is All-Knowing and will punish them for it.

Surat Al Imran 3:120

If good befalls you, it distresses them, but if evil befalls you, they rejoice at it. But if you are patient and fear God, their plot will not harm you at all. Indeed, God is encompassing of what they do.

Surat Al Imran 3:121

And when you went out in the morning from your family to station the believers in stations for battle. And God is Hearing and Knowing.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And remember, O Muhammad, when you went forth from your family from Medina to set up to alight for the believers in stations positions in which they would stand (for the battle. And God is Hearing) of your words and Knowing of your conditions. And it was the day of Uhud. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, went out with a thousand or less than fifty men and the polytheists were three thousand and he camped in the valley on Saturday, the seventh of Shawwal, in the year three of the Hijra. He turned his back and his army to Uhud and straightened their ranks and seated an army of archers and put Abdullah ibn Jubayr in charge of them at the foot of the mountain and said: Sprinkle arrows on us so that they do not come from behind us and do not move, whether we are defeated or victorious.

The Almighty said: And when you go forth in the morning, Ibn Abi Hatim and Abu Ya'la narrated on the authority of Al-Miswar Ibn Makhramah who said: I said to Abd al-Rahman Ibn Awf, tell me about your story on the Day of Uhud. He said: Read after the one hundred and twenty of Al Imran and you will find our story. And when you go forth in the morning from your family, assigning the believers positions for battle, until His saying: When two parties among you were about to lose heart.

He said: They are the ones who sought safety from the polytheists until His saying: And you were wishing for death before you met it, but now you have seen it. He said: It is the wish of the believers to meet the enemy until His saying: So if he died or was killed, would you turn back? He said: It is the shouting of Satan on the day of Uhud, the battle of Muhammad until His saying: Safety from drowsiness. He said: He cast sleep upon them.

Al-Bukhari and Muslim narrated on the authority of Jabir bin Abdullah, who said: It was revealed about us, Banu Salamah and Banu Haritha, when two groups were about to lose heart.

Ibn Abi Shabia narrated in Al-Musannaf and Ibn Abi Hatim on the authority of Al-Sha'bi that the Muslims were informed on the day of Badr that Karz bin Jaber Al-Muharibi was supplying the polytheists, so it was difficult for them, so God revealed: Is it not sufficient for you that your Lord should supply you with reinforcements? until His saying: marked. So Karz was defeated, so he did not supply the polytheists, and God did not supply the Muslims with the five.

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: What God, the Most High, meant by His statement: And when you went forth from your family to place the believers in their homes is that if you are patient and fear God, the plot of these infidel Jews will not harm you at all, O believers, but God will grant you victory over them if you are patient in obeying Me and following the command of My Messenger, just as I granted you victory at Badr when you were weak. But if you, O believers, disobey My command and are not patient in what I have charged you with of My obligations, and do not fear what I have forbidden you and disobey My command and the command of My Messenger, then what happened to you will happen to you as happened to anyone else. Remember that day, when your Prophet went forth to place the believers in their homes.

He left out mentioning the report about the matter of the people if they were not patient in the matter of their Lord and did not fear Him, being content with the indication of what appeared from the speech on its meaning, since he mentioned what He would do to them of turning away the plot of their enemies from them if they were patient in the matter of His and feared His prohibitions, and he followed that by reminding them of the calamity that befell them at Uhud, since some of them disobeyed the command of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and they disputed over opinion among themselves.

He brought out the address in his saying: And when you left your family, as an address to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and what is meant by its meaning: those whom he forbade from taking the infidel Jews as confidants instead of the believers. So he made clear that his saying: And when, only included it in the meaning of the speech as I have explained and clarified.

The people of interpretation differed about the day that God Almighty meant by His saying: And when you left your family in the morning, you assigned the believers positions for battle.

Some of them said: He meant the day of Uhud.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Amr told me, he said, Abu Asim told us, on the authority of Isa, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding the words of God: And when you went forth from your family, to appoint the believers to their stations for battle, he said: The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, walked on his feet that day, appointing the believers to their stations.

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: And when you went forth from your family to assign the believers to positions for battle, that was on the day of Uhud. The Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, went forth from his family to Uhud to assign the believers to positions for battle.

It was narrated on the authority of Ammar, on the authority of Ibn Abi Ja'far, on the authority of his father, on the authority of al-Rabi', who said: And when you went forth from your family to assign the believers to positions for battle. So the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, went forth from his family to Uhud to assign the believers to positions for battle.

Muhammad bin Saad told me, he said, my father told me, he said, my uncle told me, he said, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding his statement: And when you went forth from your family, to appoint the believers to their stations for battle, it was the Day of Uhud.

Muhammad bin Al-Hussein told us, Ahmad bin Al-Mufaddal told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi: And when you went out in the morning from your family to meet the believers, he said: This was the day of Uhud.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: Among what was revealed on the Day of Uhud 11: And when you went forth from your family to rest with the believers.

Others said:

He meant the Day of the Confederates.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Sinan al-Qazzaz told me, he said, Abu Bakr al-Hanafi told us, he said, Ibad told us, on the authority of al-Hasan, regarding his statement: And when you went forth from your family to assign the believers to their positions for battle, he said: He meant Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, who went forth to assign the believers to their positions for battle on the Day of the Confederates.

Abu Ja'far said: The more correct of these two statements is the statement of the one who said: He meant the Day of Uhud. Because God Almighty says in the verse that follows it: When two parties among you were about to lose heart, and there is no disagreement among the people of interpretation that He meant by the two parties: Banu Salamah and Banu Haritha, and there is no disagreement among the people of biography and knowledge of the campaigns of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, that what God mentioned about their affair was only the Day of Uhud, not the Day of the Confederates.

If someone were to say to us: How could that be on the day of Uhud, when the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, only went to one of his family to fight on Friday after he had prayed the Friday prayer with his family in Medina with the people, like the one who told you:

Ibn Hamid said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Muhammad ibn Ishaq, who said, Muhammad ibn Muslim ibn Ubayd God ibn Abdullah ibn Shihab al-Zuhri, Muhammad ibn Yahya ibn Habban, Asim ibn Umar ibn Qatada, al-Husayn ibn Abd al-Rahman ibn Amr ibn Sa'd ibn Mu'adh, and other scholars of ours told me: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, went to Uhud after the Friday prayer. He entered and put on his garments for his nation. That was on Friday when he had finished the prayer, and a man from the Ansar had died on that day. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, prayed over him, then he went out to them and said: It is not appropriate for a prophet, when he has put on his garments for his nation, to take them off until he fights?"

It was said: Even though the Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) went out to the people in the evening, he did not assign the believers their places to fight when he went out, but rather that was before he went out to fight his enemy. That is because the polytheists came to their place in Uhud - as far as we have been informed - on Wednesday, and they stayed there that day, Thursday, and Friday, until the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) went to them on Friday, after he had prayed the Friday prayer with his companions, and he was in the valley of Uhud on Saturday, the middle of Shawwal.

Ibn Hamid told us that, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq, he said, Muhammad ibn Muslim al-Zuhri, Muhammad ibn Yahya ibn Habban, Asim ibn Amr ibn Qatada, al-Husayn ibn Abd al-Rahman, and others told me.

If he said: How did he assign the believers positions to fight in the morning before he went out, and you know that assigning positions means taking a place?

It was said: He appointed them to that position before confronting his enemy, when he consulted his companions about the opinion he saw for them, a day or two ago. That is because when the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, heard about the descent of the polytheists from Quraysh and their followers at Uhud, he said - among other things:

Muhammad bin Al-Hussein narrated to us, Ahmad bin Al-Mufaddal narrated to us, Asbat narrated to us, on the authority of Al-Suddi - on his companions: Advise me what I should do? They said: O Messenger of God, go out to these dogs! The Ansar said: O Messenger of God, no enemy has ever defeated us when he came to our land, so how about when you are among us!! So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, called Abdullah bin Ubayy bin Salul, and he had never called him before, and consulted him, and he said: O Messenger of God, go out with us to these dogs! The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, liked it when they entered the city and fought in the alleys, so An-Nu'man bin Malik Al-Ansari came to him and said: O Messenger of God, do not deprive me of Paradise, for by He who sent you with the truth, I will enter Paradise! He said to him: Why? He said: Because I bear witness that there is no god but God, and that you are the Messenger of God, and that I do not flee from battle! He said: You have spoken the truth. So he was killed that day. Then the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, called for his armor and put it on. When they saw him wearing his armor, they regretted it and said: What a bad thing we have done! We are advising the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, while the revelation is coming to him!! So they stood up and apologized to him and said: Do what you have seen. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: It is not appropriate for a prophet to wear armor for his nation and then put it down until he fights.

Ibn Humayd narrated to us, he said: Salamah narrated to us, on the authority of Muhammad ibn Ishaq, he said: Ibn Shihab al-Zuhri narrated to me, and Muhammad ibn Yahya ibn Habban, and Asim ibn Amr ibn Qatadah, and al-Husayn ibn Abd al-Rahman ibn Amr ibn Sa'd ibn Mu'adh, and other scholars of ours, they said: When the Messenger of God (may God bless him and grant him peace) and the Muslims heard that the polytheists had descended to their camp at Uhud, the Messenger of God (may God bless him and grant him peace) said: I saw cows, so I interpreted it as good. I saw a dent in the fly of my sword, and I saw that I put my hand into a strong shield, so I interpreted it as Medina. If you see fit to stay in Medina and leave them where they have descended, then if they stay, then they will stay in a bad place, and if they enter upon us, then we will fight them there. The opinion of `Abdullah ibn Ubayy ibn Salul was with the opinion of the Messenger of God (may God bless him and grant him peace), he shared the opinion of the Messenger of God (may God bless him and grant him peace) in that: that he should not go out to them. The Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) hated to leave the city. Some of the Muslims whom God had honored with martyrdom on the day of Uhud, and others who had missed Badr and its presence, said: O Messenger of God, let us go out to our enemies, so that they will not see that we are cowards and weak before them! Abdullah bin Ubayy bin Salul said: O Messenger of God, stay in the city and do not go out to them, for by God, we have never gone out to an enemy of ours without him killing us, and no one has ever entered upon us without us killing him. So leave them, O Messenger of God, for if they stay, they will stay in a prison cell, and if they enter, the men will fight them in their faces, and the women and children will throw stones at them from above, and if they return, they will return disappointed as they came. The people, who were in a state of love to meet the people, kept on following the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) until the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) entered and put on his clothes for his nation.

The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, assigned the believers positions for fighting, as we mentioned of his consultation with his companions with the opinion we mentioned, according to what those whose words we have narrated described.

It is said: I provided a home for the people, and I provided it for them. So I provide them with a home, and I provide them with a home.

It was mentioned that in the reading of Abdullah bin Masoud: And when you went forth from your family to prepare for the believers stations for battle, and that is permissible, just as it is said: He rode behind you and He rode behind you, and I paid her dowry and I paid her, as the poet said:

I ask forgiveness from God for a sin that I cannot count.
To Him belongs the face and the work.

The words: I ask God for forgiveness for my sin.

It was narrated from the Arabs by hearing: I have returned the people to a place of rest, so I will return them to a place of rest. It is also said: I have returned the camels to their resting place. The resting place is the place where they spend the night.

Seats is the plural of seat, which is the council.

Abu Jaafar said: The interpretation of the statement is: And remember when you, O Muhammad, went out from your family to take for the believers a camp and a place to fight their enemy.

And His saying: And God is All-Hearing, All-Knowing, means by that, the Most High, And God is All-Hearing, of what the believers say to you regarding what you consulted them about, regarding the place of your meeting and their meeting with your enemy and their enemy, from the saying of the one who said: Go out with us to them until we meet them outside the city, and the saying of the one who said to you: Do not go out to them and stay in the city until they enter it upon us, as we have explained before - and what you advise them with, O Muhammad, All-Knowing, of the best of those opinions for you and for them, and what the hearts of those who advise you to go out to your enemy conceal, and the hearts of those who advise you to stay in the city, and other than that of your affair and their affair, as:

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq, regarding his statement: And God is All-Hearing, All-Knowing, meaning: He hears what they say, and He knows what they conceal.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

The Almighty said: And when you went forth from your family in the morning. The agent in when is an implied verb, the meaning of which is: remember when you went forth, meaning you went out in the morning. From your family from your home from Aisha. The believers shall take up their positions for battle, and God is Hearing and Knowing. This is Gaza Uhud, and this entire verse was revealed in it. Mujahid, Al-Hasan, Muqatil, and Al-Kalbi said: It is the Battle of the Trench. And from Al-Hasan also: The Day of Badr. The majority of scholars agree that it was the Battle of Uhud, as indicated by the words of God the Almighty: When two parties from among you were about to lose heart. This was on the day of Uhud, and the polytheists had headed to Medina with three thousand men to avenge their defeat on the day of Badr. They camped at Uhud on the edge of the valley in a canal opposite Medina on Wednesday, the twelfth of Shawwal in the year three of the Hijra, at the beginning of thirty-one months of the Hijra. They stayed there on Thursday while the Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) was in Medina. The Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) saw in his dream that there was a notch in his sword, that his cows were being slaughtered, and that he put his hand into the armor of the fortified city. Narrated by Muslim. All of that was according to what is well-known and famous from those battles. The origin of tabawa is to take a home. You have made him live in it, and from this is his saying (peace and blessings of God be upon him):

Surat Al Imran 3:121

Whoever lies about me intentionally, let him take his seat in Hellfire meaning, let him take a home in it. The meaning of the believers will take their place is that ranks will be taken for them. Al-Bayhaqi mentioned from the hadith of Anas that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said:

(I saw in a dream that I was riding a ram, and the point of my sword was broken. I interpreted it as meaning that I was following the ram of the people, and I interpreted the breaking of the point of my sword as meaning the killing of a man from my family.) So Hamza was killed, and the Messenger of God (peace be upon him) killed Talha, and Salih was the standard-bearer. Musa bin Uqbah narrated on the authority of Ibn Shihab. The standard-bearer of the emigrants was a man from the companions of the Messenger of God (peace be upon him), and he said: I am, God willing, Asim for what I have. So Salihah bin Uthman, the brother of Saeed bin Uthman Al-Lakhmi, said to him: O Asim, would you like to fight? He said: Yes. So that man rushed to him and struck Talha on the head with his sword until the sword hit his beard and killed him. So the killing of the standard-bearer was a confirmation of the vision of the Messenger of God (peace be upon him): As if I were riding a ram.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

According to the majority of scholars, this incident refers to the Day of Uhud. This was stated by Ibn Abbas, Al-Hasan, Qatadah, Al-Suddi, and others. Al-Hasan Al-Basri said: It refers to the Day of the Confederates. Narrated by Ibn Jarir, but it is strange and cannot be relied upon. The Battle of Uhud took place on Saturday, Shawwal, in the year 3 AH. Qatadah said: It was eleven nights before the end of Shawwal. And Ikrimah said: On Saturday, the middle of Shawwal, and God knows best, and the reason for it was that when the polytheists killed those of their nobles on the day of Badr and the caravan was safe with what was in it of the trade that was with Abu Sufyan, and when they returned to Mecca, the sons of those who were killed, and the leaders of those who remained said to Abu Sufyan: I am setting aside this money to fight Muhammad, so spend it on that, so they gathered the crowds and the Abyssinians, and they came with about three thousand until they camped near Uhud facing Madinah, so the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, prayed on Friday, and when he finished, he prayed over a man from Banu al-Najjar called Malik ibn Amr, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, consulted the people, Should he go out to them or stay in Madinah? Abdullah ibn Ubayy suggested staying in Madinah, and if they stayed, they would stay in Bishr, and if they entered it, the men would fight them in their faces, and the women and children would throw stones at them from above them, and if they returned, they would return disappointed. Others from the Companions who had not witnessed Badr suggested going out to them, so the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, entered and put on his clothes. To his nation and went out against them, and some of them regretted and said: Perhaps we forced the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, so they said: O Messenger of God, if you want us to stay, then the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: It is not appropriate for a prophet, when he wears a dress for his nation, to return until God rules in his favor. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, set out with a thousand of his companions, and when they were at the junction, Abdullah bin Ubayy returned with a third of the army, angry because he did not return to his statement, and he and his companions said: If we knew of fighting today, we would have followed you, but we do not see you fighting today. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, continued walking until he reached the ravine of Uhud in the valley's side. He turned his back and his army to Uhud, and said: No one should fight until we order him to fight. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, prepared for the fight with seven hundred of his companions. He appointed Abdullah bin Jubair, the brother of Banu Amr bin Awf, as commander of the archers. The archers that day were fifty men, so he said to them, "Shoot the horses away from us, and do not let us attack from your side. Stay where you are, whether it is our turn or our turn. If you see the birds snatching us away, do not move from your place." The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, appeared between two shields, and gave the banner to Mus'ab ibn 'Umayr, the brother of Banu 'Abd al-Dar. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, allowed some of the young men to go on that day and postponed others until he had them go on the day of the Trench about two years after that day. The Quraysh mobilized, and they were three thousand, with two hundred horses that they had set aside. They put Khalid ibn al-Walid on the right flank of the cavalry, and Ikrimah ibn Abi Jahl on the left flank, and they gave the banner to Banu Abd al-Dar. Then there was between the two groups what will be detailed in its place in these verses, God willing. For this reason, God Almighty said: And when you went forth from your family, you assigned the believers to their stations for battle, meaning you assigned them to the right and left flanks and wherever you commanded them. And God is All-Hearing, All-Knowing, meaning He hears what you say, and He knows your innermost thoughts.

Ibn Jarir mentioned here a question, the gist of which is: How do you say that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, marched to Uhud on Friday after the prayer, while God Almighty said: And when you went forth from your family to appoint the believers to their stations for battle (al-Baqarah 2:170)? Then his answer to it was: His going forth to appoint them to their stations was on Saturday, at the beginning of the day. And God Almighty said: When two parties among you were about to lose heart (al-Baqarah 2:170), al-Bukhari said: Ali ibn Abdullah told us, Sufyan told us, he said: Amr said: I heard Jabir ibn Abdullah say: When two parties among you were about to lose heart (al-Baqarah 2:170) was revealed about us. He said: We are the two parties, Banu Haritha and Banu Salamah. And we do not like - and Sufyan said once - and it does not please me that it was not revealed because God Almighty said: And God is their protector (al-Baqarah 2:170). Muslim also narrated it in the same way from the hadith of Sufyan ibn Uyaynah. And more than one of the Salaf said the same: They are Banu Haritha and Banu Salamah. And the Almighty's saying: And God certainly gave you victory at Badr meaning the day of Badr, which was on Friday, corresponding to the seventeenth of the month of Ramadan in the year two of the Hijra, and it is the day of the Criterion on which God honored Islam and its people, and stamped out polytheism, and destroyed its place and its party. This is despite the small number of Muslims on that day, for they were three hundred and thirteen men, among them horsemen and seventy camels, and the rest were infantry who did not have all the numbers they needed. The enemy on that day was between nine hundred and a thousand in iron and white armor, complete equipment, branded horses, and extra jewelry. So God honored His Messenger and revealed His revelation and sending down, and made the face of the Prophet and his tribe white, and disgraced Satan and his generation. For this reason, the Almighty said, thanking His believing servants and his pious party, And God had already given you victory at Badr when you were weak, meaning, your number was few, so that they would know that victory is from God, not from great numbers and numbers. For this reason, the Almighty said in another verse, "And on the day of Hunayn, when your great number pleased you, but it did not avail you at all, and the earth, vast as it is, became strait for you; then you turned back, fleeing. Then God sent down His tranquility upon His Messenger and upon the believers, and sent down soldiers you did not see, and punished those who disbelieved. That is the recompense of the disbelievers. Then God will turn in mercy after that to whom He wills. And God is Forgiving and Merciful." Imam Ahmad said: Muhammad ibn Ja'far told us, Shu'bah told us on the authority of Samak, who said: I heard 'Ayyadh al-Ash'ari say: I witnessed Yarmouk and we had five commanders: Abu 'Ubaydah, Yazid ibn Abi Sufyan, Ibn Hasana, Khalid ibn al-Walid, and 'Ayyadh, not the 'Ayyadh who told Samak, who said: And 'Umar said: If there is fighting, Abu 'Ubaydah is your commander. So we wrote to him saying: Death has come to us, and we have sought his help. So he wrote to us saying: Your letter has come to me asking for my help, and I will guide you to the One who is more powerful in victory and more fortified in army: God the Almighty, so seek His help. For Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, was victorious on the day of Badr with fewer men than you. So when this letter of mine comes to you, fight them and do not turn back to me. So we fought them and defeated them by four farsakhs. He said: We seized wealth, so we consulted each other, and 'Ayyadh advised us to give ten for every head. Abu 'Ubaydah said: Who will bet on me? A young man said: I will, if you do not get angry. He said: So he outran him, and I saw the two heels of Abu Ubaidah jumping while he was behind him on a bare horse. This is a sound chain of transmission. Ibn Hibban included it in his Sahih from the hadith of Bandar on the authority of Ghundar in a similar manner. Al-Hafiz Al-Dhiya Al-Maqdisi chose it in his book. Badr is a neighborhood between Mecca and Medina known for its well, attributed to a man who dug it, called Badr ibn Al-Narain. Al-Sha'bi said: Badr is a well belonging to a man called Badr. His statement, So fear God that you may be grateful, means that you will perform His obedience.

Fath al-Qadir

The agent in idh is an omitted verb: i.e., remember when you went out from your family's home: i.e., from the home in which your family was. The majority of scholars have said that this verse was revealed in the Battle of Uhud. Al-Hasan said: On the day of Badr. Mujahid, Muqatil, and Al-Kalbi said: In the Battle of the Trench. His statement 121- Tabwa means: you take for them positions for fighting. The origin of tabwa is to take a home. It is said, Bawatuhu Manzilan if you make him live in it. The verb is in the accusative case as a state. The meaning of the verse is: And remember when you went out from your family's home, you take for the believers positions for fighting: i.e., places where they sit. He expressed the exit as Ghadh which is the exit in the morning, even though he, may God bless him and grant him peace, went out after the Friday prayer, as will come, because the exit and entry may be expressed as Ghadh without considering their original meaning, as is said, Adha even if it was not at the time of the forenoon.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

121- The Almighty said: And when you left your family in the morning, to place the believers at their stations for battle. Al-Hasan said: It is the day of Badr. Muqatil said: The day of the Confederates. The rest of the commentators said: It is the day of Uhud, because what follows it until close to the end of the surah is about the Battle of Uhud.

Mujahid al-Kalbi and al-Waqidi said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, left the house of Aisha, may God be pleased with her, and walked on foot to Uhud. He began to line up his companions for battle as if he were raising an arrow.

Muhammad ibn Ishaq and al-Suddi said on the authority of their men: The polytheists camped at Uhud on Wednesday. When the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, heard of their camp, he consulted his companions and called Abdullah ibn Ubayy ibn Salul, whom he had never called before. So he consulted him, and Abdullah ibn Ubayy and most of the Ansar said: O Messenger of God, stay in Medina and do not go out to them. By God, we have never gone out to an enemy without him killing us, nor has he entered upon us without us killing him. So how about when you are among us? So leave them, O Messenger of God. If they stay, they will stay in the worst place, and if they enter, the men will fight them in their faces and the women and children will throw stones at them from above them, and if they return, they will return disappointed. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was pleased with this opinion.

And when you went out in the morning from your family to station the believers in stations for battle. And God is Hearing and Knowing.

Some of his companions said: O Messenger of God, let us go out to these dogs, so that they will not see that we are cowards and weak towards them. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "I saw in my dream cows being slaughtered, so I interpreted it as good. I saw a notch in the fly of my sword, so I interpreted it as defeat. I saw that I put my hand into a strong shield, so I interpreted it as the city. So if you see fit to stay in the city." He liked it when they entered the city and fought in the alleys. Some of the Muslims who had missed the day of Badr and whom God had honored with martyrdom on the day of Uhud said: Let us go out to our enemies. They kept on attacking the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, out of their love for meeting the people, until the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, entered and put on his weapons for his nation. When they saw that he had put on his weapons, they regretted it and said: What we have done is bad. We advise the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, while the revelation is coming to him. So they stood up and apologized to him and said: Do what you have seen. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: It is not appropriate for a prophet to put on his weapons for his nation and then put them down until he fights.

The polytheists had stayed in Uhud on Wednesday and Thursday, so the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, left on Friday after leading his companions in the Friday prayer. On that day, a man from the Ansar died, so the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, prayed over him, then he went out to them, and he became in the valley of Uhud on Saturday, the middle of Shawwal, in the year three of the Hijra. So what happened in the Uhud War was that, and that is what God Almighty said: And when you went forth from your family meaning: And remember when you went forth from your family placed the believers meaning: the believers descended at positions for the battle meaning: places and locations for the battle. It is said: You placed the people in positions if you settled them, and they settled if they settled together. God Almighty said: And We had already settled the Children of Israel in a position of truth (Yunus 10:93) and He said: That you two establish houses for your people in Egypt (Yunus 10:87). It was said that you establish a camp, And God is All-Hearing, All-Knowing.

121 And when you went forth in the morning meaning, remember when you went forth. From your family meaning from the room of Aisha, may God be pleased with her. A place for the believers means to settle them. Or to level and prepare for them. This is supported by the reading with the letter lam. Seats for fighting means stations and places for it. Seat and station may be used to mean place in the broad sense, as in the Almighty's saying: In a seat of truth and His saying: Before you rise from your place. "And God is Hearing" of your words. "Aleem" your intentions It was narrated that the polytheists descended on Uhud on Wednesday - the twelfth of Shawwal in the third year of the Hijra - so the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, consulted his companions, and he had called Abdullah bin Ubay bin Salul and had not called him before, so he and most of the Ansar said: Stay, O Messenger of God, in Medina and do not go out to them, for by God, we have not gone out from it to an enemy except that he has killed some of us, and he has not entered it upon us except that we have killed some of them, so how is it while you are among us? So leave them, for if they stay, they will stay in a prison, and if they enter, the men will fight them and the women and children will throw stones at them, and if they return, they will return disappointed. Some of them indicated to go out, so he, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: I saw in my dream a slaughtered cow around me, so I interpreted it as good, and I saw a dent in the fly of my sword, so I interpreted it as defeat, and I saw as if I put my hand in a strong shield, so I interpreted it as Medina, so if you see that you should stay in Medina and leave them, then the men said

They missed Badr and God honored them with martyrdom on the day of Uhud. Let us go out to our enemies. They exaggerated until he entered and put on his cloak. When they saw that, they regretted their exaggeration and said, Do, O Messenger of God, what you saw. He said, It is not appropriate for a prophet to put on his cloak and then put it down until he fights. So he went out after the Friday prayer and became at the valley of Uhud on Saturday. He camped in the valley and turned his back and his army to Uhud and straightened their ranks. He put Abdullah ibn Jubayr in charge of the archers and said, Sprinkle arrows away from us so that they do not come to us from behind.

Surat Al Imran 3:122

When two parties among you were about to lose heart, but God was their protector. And upon God let the believers rely.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

When instead of the before it when Banu Salimah and Banu Haritha, the two wings of the army were about to lose heart were afraid to fight and turn back when Abdullah bin Abi the hypocrite and his companions turned back and said: Why should we kill ourselves and our children? And he said to Abu Jaber Al-Salami, who said to him: I ask you by God regarding your Prophet and yourselves: If we knew there would be fighting, we would have followed you. So God made them steadfast and they did not turn back. And God is their Guardian their Supporter. And in God let the believers put their trust to trust in Him and no one else.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Jaafar said: By that, may His praise be glorified, He means: And God is All-Hearing, All-Knowing, when two groups of you were about to lose heart.

The two groups that were about to fail, he told us, were Banu Salamah and Banu Haritha.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Amr told me, he said, Abu Asim told us, on the authority of Isa, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding the statement of God: When two parties among you were about to lose heart, he said: Banu Haritha were towards Uhud, and Banu Salamah were towards Sal', and that was on the day of the Trench.

Abu Jaafar said: We have proven that this happened on the day of Uhud in the past, sufficiently enough to not repeat it.

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: When two parties among you were about to lose heart, the verse, and that was on the day of Uhud, and the two parties were Banu Salamah and Banu Haritha, two tribes of the Ansar, they were about to do something but God protected them from that. Qatada said: It was mentioned to us that when this verse was revealed they said: It would not please us that we did not intend to do what we intended to do, and God has informed us that He is our protector.

It was narrated on the authority of Ammar, who said: Ibn Abi Ja'far narrated to us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of al-Rabi', regarding his statement: When two parties among you were about to attack, the verse, and that was on the day of Uhud. The two parties were Banu Salamah and Banu Haritha, two tribes of the Ansar. Then he mentioned something similar to what Qatada said.

Muhammad ibn al-Husayn narrated, Ahmad ibn al-Mufaddal narrated, Asbat narrated, on the authority of al-Suddi, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, went out to Uhud with a thousand men, and he promised them victory if they were patient. When Abdullah ibn Ubayy ibn Salul returned with three hundred, Abu Jabir al-Sulami followed them, calling them. When they defeated him and said to him: We do not know how to fight, and if you obey us, you will return with us. And God Almighty said: When two parties among you were about to lose heart, and they were Banu Salamah and Banu Haritha. They were about to return when Abdullah ibn Ubayy returned, but God protected them, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, remained with seven hundred.

Al-Qasim told us, he said, Al-Hussein told us, he said, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, he said, Ikrimah said: It was revealed about Banu Salamah from the Khazraj, and Banu Haritha from the Aws, and their leader was Abdullah bin Ubayy bin Salul.

Muhammad bin Saad told me, he said, my father told me, he said, my uncle told me, he said, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding his statement: When two parties among you were about to lose heart, they were Banu Haritha and Banu Salamah.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: When two parties among you were about to lose heart, and the two parties were: Banu Salamah from Jushm ibn al-Khazraj, and Banu Haritha from al-Nabi't from al-Aws, and they are the two wings.

Muhammad bin Sinan told me, he said, Abu Bakr al-Hanafi told us, on the authority of Ibad, on the authority of al-Hasan, regarding his statement: When two parties among you were about to lose heart, the verse, he said: They were two parties from the Ansar who were about to lose heart, but God protected them and defeated their enemy.

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said, Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said, Ibn Uwaynah told us, on the authority of Amr bin Dinar, he said, I heard Jabir bin Abdullah say: When two parties among you were about to lose heart, he said: They were Banu Salamah and Banu Haritha, and we would not have liked it if we had not been about to lose heart, because God Almighty said: And God is their protector.

Ahmad bin Hazim told me, he said, Abu Naim told us, he said, Ibn Uwaynah told us, on the authority of Amr, he said: I heard Jabir bin Abdullah say, and he mentioned something similar.

Yunus told me, he said, Ibn Wahb told us, he said, Ibn Zayd said: When two groups of you were about to lose heart, he said: This was the day of Uhud.

As for his saying: that they fail, he means that they become weak and turn away from meeting their enemy.

It is said: So-and-so failed to meet his enemy, he failed

Surat Al Imran 3:122

When two parties among you were about to lose heart, but God was their protector. And upon God let the believers rely.

miserably, like:

Al-Qasim told us, Al-Hussein told us, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, who said, Ibn Abbas said: Failure is cowardice.

Abu Ja'far said: Their concern, which they were about to do in terms of failure, was to turn away from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and the believers when `Abdullah bin Ubayy bin Salul and those with him turned away from them, out of cowardice on their part, without any doubt in Islam or hypocrisy. So God protected them from what they were about to do, and they went with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, for the purpose for which he had gone, and they left `Abdullah bin Ubayy bin Salul and the hypocrites with him. So God, the Almighty, praised them for their steadfastness in the truth, and informed us that He was their guardian and supporter against their enemies among the infidels, as:

Ibn Humayd narrated that Salamah narrated on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: And God is their Guardian, meaning He is the Defender of them in whatever they intended to do of their failure. This was because of their weakness and frailty that had afflicted them, without a doubt afflicting them in their religion. So He took care of that for them through His mercy and favor until they were saved from their frailty and frailty, and joined their Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace. He says: And in God let the believers put their trust, meaning: Whoever among the believers has weakness or frailty, let him put his trust in Me and seek My help, so that I may help him in his matter and defend him until I reach him and strengthen him in his intention.

Abu Ja'far said: It was mentioned that Ibn Mas'ud, may God be pleased with him, used to recite: And God is their protector. It was only permissible to recite it in this way because the two groups, even though they are in the wording of two, are in the meaning of a group, like the two opponents and the two parties.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

The Almighty said: When two parties among you were about to lose heart, but God was their protector. He said: We are the two parties: Banu Haritha and Banu Salamah, and we do not like it not to be revealed, because God the Almighty said: And God is their protector. It was said: They are Banu Harith, Banu Khazraj, and Banu Nabit, and Nabit is Amr ibn Malik from Banu Aws. Failure is an expression for cowardice, and that is how it is in the language. The concern of the two parties was after the departure when Abdullah ibn Ubayy returned with the hypocrites who were with him, so God preserved their hearts and they did not return, so that is what God the Almighty said: And God is their protector, meaning He preserved their hearts from realizing this concern. It was said: They wanted to retire from the departure, and that was a small thing on their part. It was said: That was a talk of theirs that crossed their minds, so God informed His Prophet, peace be upon him, about it, and they gained insight. That weakness was not theirs, so God protected them, and they blamed each other, and they rose up with the Prophet, peace be upon him, so the Messenger of God, peace be upon him, went until he saw the polytheists, and he left Medina with a thousand, so Abdullah bin Ubay bin Salul returned from him with three hundred men in anger, because his opinion was contradicted when he suggested sitting and fighting in Medina if the enemy rose up against them, and his opinion was in agreement with the opinion of the Messenger of God, peace be upon him, but most of the Ansar refused that, and it will come. The Messenger of God, peace be upon him, rose up with the Muslims, and those of them whom God honored with martyrdom were martyred. Malik, may God have mercy on him, said: Four of the Muhajireen were killed on the day of Uhud, and seventy of the Ansar, may God be pleased with them. Seats: the plural of seat, which is a place for sitting, and this is like the word stands, but the word sitting indicates steadfastness, especially since the archers were sitting. This is the meaning of the hadith of the Battle of Uhud in brief, and there will come from its details what is healing. On that day, the polytheists had a horse ridden by Khalid bin Al-Walid, and the Muslims did not have a horse on that day. On that day, the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) was wounded in the face, and his lower right incisor was broken by a stone, and the egg was smashed from his head (peace and blessings of God be upon him). He rewarded him for his nation and religion with the best reward with which he rewarded any of his prophets for his patience. The one who took charge of that from the Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) was Amr bin Qami'ah Al-Laihi and Utbah bin Abi Waqqas. It has been said that Abdullah bin Shihab, the grandfather of the jurist Muhammad bin Muslim bin Shihab, was the one who wounded the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) on the forehead. Al-Waqidi said: What is established among us is that the one who threw a stone at the face of the Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him), and the one who caused his lip to bleed and his incisor to be injured was Utbah bin Abi Waqqas. Al-Waqidi said on the authority of Nafi' ibn Jubayr who said: I heard a man from the Muhajireen say: I witnessed the Battle of Uhud and I saw arrows coming from every direction and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was in the middle of them, deflecting all of that from him. I saw Abdullah ibn Shihab al-Zuhri saying on that day: Show me Muhammad, show me Muhammad, for I will not be saved if he is saved. And the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was beside him with Uhud, then he passed him, and Safwan rebuked him for that, so he said: By God, I did not see him. I swear by God that he is protected from us! We went out, four of us, and we pledged and agreed to kill him, but we did not succeed in that. The stones were heaped on the Messenger of God (peace be upon him) until he fell into a hole that Abu Amir the monk had dug as a plot against the Muslims. He (peace be upon him) fell on his side and Talhah embraced him until he stood up. Malik ibn Sinan, the father of Abu Saeed Al-Khudri, sucked the blood from the wound of the Messenger of God (peace be upon him). Two rings on the helmet of the Prophet's shield stuck to his face, so Abu Ubaidah ibn Al-Jarrah pulled them out and bit them with his front teeth until they fell. He was worried and his determination adorned him (peace be upon him). In this raid, Hamza (peace be upon him) was killed. He was killed by Wahshi, and Wahshi was a slave of Jubair ibn Mut'im. Jubair had said to him: If you kill Muhammad, we will give you the reins of the horses, and if you kill Ali ibn Abi Talib, we will give you a hundred camels, all of them with black eyes, and if you kill Hamza, you are free. Wahshi said: As for Muhammad, he has a guardian from God who cannot get to him, but as for Ali, no one went out to him except that he killed him. As for Hamza, he is a brave man, and I hope I will meet him and kill him. Whenever Hind would prepare for Wahshi or pass by him, she would say: O Abu Dasma, heal and seek healing. So he lay in ambush for him behind Sakhr. Hamza had attacked the polytheists. When he returned from his attack and passed by Wahshi, he struck him with a lancet and he fell dead. May God have mercy on him and be pleased with him. Ibn Ishaq said: Hind ripped open Hamza's liver and chewed it, but she could not swallow it, so she spat it out. Then she climbed onto a high rock and screamed at the top of her voice, saying:

We rewarded you with the Day of Badr, and war after war has a price.

I had no patience with Utbah, nor did my brother, uncle, or Bakri.

I healed my soul and fulfilled my vow. I healed my wild beast and the resentment in my chest.

Thank you, Wahshi, for my life until my bones are thrown into my grave

Hind bint Athatah bin Abbad bin Abdul Muttalib answered her and said:

I was disgraced in Badr and after Badr, O daughter of the great valley of disbelief

Good morning to you, my beautiful Hashemites, at dawn

In every sector, Hossam Yafri Hamza Laithi and Ali Saqri

When gray hair appeared and your father betrayed me, the edges of the throat were dyed with it

And your vow is an evil vow

Abdullah bin Rawahah said, weeping for Hamza, may God be pleased with him:

My eyes cried and they had every right to cry, but crying and wailing are of no use.

On the lion of God, the next day they said, Ahmaza, that man is dead.

All Muslims were affected by it there, and the Messenger was affected by it.

O Abu Ya'la, the pillars have guided you, and you are the noble one who attains righteousness.

May the peace of your Lord be upon you, in the gardens of eternal bliss.

Oh, good Hashemites, be patient, for all your actions are good and beautiful.

The Messenger of God is patient and generous, and he speaks by the command of God when he says:

Oh Hashem, be patient, for all your deeds are good and beautiful.

The Messenger of God is patient and generous, and he speaks by the command of God when he says:

Is there anyone who can tell Lu'ay about me? From today onwards, my situation will continue to circulate.

Before today, they did not know or taste our events that satisfy their thirst.

You forgot to strike us with Qalib Badr the day after the sudden death came to you

The day after Abu Jahl was killed, birds were circling around him.

Utbah and his son are all destroyed, and the old man is bitten by the polished sword.

We left Umayyah Majlab and in Haizoma with Nabil

The Banu Rabi'ah tribe asked about it, but there are remnants of it on our swords.

Oh Hind, do not gloat over Hamza, for your glory is humiliated.

Oh Hind, cry and do not get tired, for you are the foolish Hebrew madman.

His sister Safiyya also inherited him, and this is mentioned in the biography, may God be pleased with them all.

The Almighty's saying: And upon God let the believers put their trust. There is one issue in it, which is explaining trust. Trust in the language means showing helplessness and relying on others. Someone was dependent if he wasted his matter relying on others.

Scholars differed about the reality of trust. Sahl ibn Abdullah was asked about it and he said: A group said that it is contentment with the guarantee and cutting off greed from the creatures. A group said: Trust is abandoning the causes and relying on the Causer of causes. If the cause distracts him from the Causer, the name of trust is removed from him. Sahl said: Whoever says that trust is achieved by abandoning the cause has attacked the Sunnah of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, because God the Almighty says: So eat of what you have taken as spoils, lawful and good (al-Anfal 8:69). So spoils are acquired. God the Almighty also said: Then strike upon the necks and strike from them every fingertip (al-Anfal 8:12). So this is an action. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said:

God loves the professional servant. The companions

When two parties among you were about to lose heart, but God was their protector. And upon God let the believers rely.

of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, used to lend money secretly. Another said: This is the opinion of most jurists, and that trust in God is confidence in God and certainty that His judgment will be carried out, and following the Sunnah of His Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, in striving for the necessary means of food and drink, guarding against the enemy, preparing weapons, and using what is required by the usual Sunnah of God Almighty. This is what the Sufi scholars have adopted, but it does not deserve the name of trust in their view with reassurance regarding those means and turning to them in the heart, for they do not bring benefit nor do they repel reassurance regarding those means and turning to them in the heart, for they do not bring benefit nor repel harm, rather the cause and the effect are the action of God Almighty, and everything is from Him and by His will, and whenever the one who trusts relies on those means, he has been stripped of that name. Then the trustful are in two states: The first is the state of the one who is able to trust, so he does not turn to any of those means in his heart, and does not engage in them except by the command of the matter. The second: The state of the one who is not capable, who sometimes turns to the causes, but he repels them from himself by scientific methods, definitive proofs, and current tastes. He remains in this state until God, through His generosity, raises him to the station of the capable, trusting ones, and joins him to the degrees of the knowers.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

According to the majority of scholars, this incident refers to the Day of Uhud. This was stated by Ibn Abbas, Al-Hasan, Qatadah, Al-Suddi, and others. Al-Hasan Al-Basri said: It refers to the Day of the Confederates. Narrated by Ibn Jarir, but it is strange and cannot be relied upon. The Battle of Uhud took place on Saturday, Shawwal, in the year 3 AH. Qatadah said: It was eleven nights before the end of Shawwal. And Ikrimah said: On Saturday, the middle of Shawwal, and God knows best, and the reason for it was that when the polytheists killed those of their nobles on the day of Badr and the caravan was safe with what was in it of the trade that was with Abu Sufyan, and when they returned to Mecca, the sons of those who were killed, and the leaders of those who remained said to Abu Sufyan: I am setting aside this money to fight Muhammad, so spend it on that, so they gathered the crowds and the Abyssinians, and they came with about three thousand until they camped near Uhud facing Madinah, so the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, prayed on Friday, and when he finished, he prayed over a man from Banu al-Najjar called Malik ibn Amr, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, consulted the people, Should he go out to them or stay in Madinah? Abdullah ibn Ubayy suggested staying in Madinah, and if they stayed, they would stay in Bishr, and if they entered it, the men would fight them in their faces, and the women and children would throw stones at them from above them, and if they returned, they would return disappointed. Others from the Companions who had not witnessed Badr suggested going out to them, so the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, entered and put on his clothes. To his nation and went out against them, and some of them regretted and said: Perhaps we forced the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, so they said: O Messenger of God, if you want us to stay, then the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: It is not appropriate for a prophet, when he wears a dress for his nation, to return until God rules in his favor. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, set out with a thousand of his companions, and when they were at the junction, Abdullah bin Ubayy returned with a third of the army, angry because he did not return to his statement, and he and his companions said: If we knew of fighting today, we would have followed you, but we do not see you fighting today. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, continued walking until he reached the ravine of Uhud in the valley's side. He turned his back and his army to Uhud, and said: No one should fight until we order him to fight. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, prepared for the fight with seven hundred of his companions. He appointed Abdullah bin Jubair, the brother of Banu Amr bin Awf, as commander of the archers. The archers that day were fifty men, so he said to them, "Shoot the horses away from us, and do not let us attack from your side. Stay where you are, whether it is our turn or our turn. If you see the birds snatching us away, do not move from your place." The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, appeared between two shields, and gave the banner to Mus'ab ibn 'Umayr, the brother of Banu 'Abd al-Dar. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, allowed some of the young men to go on that day and postponed others until he had them go on the day of the Trench about two years after that day. The Quraysh mobilized, and they were three thousand, with two hundred horses that they had set aside. They put Khalid ibn al-Walid on the right flank of the cavalry, and Ikrimah ibn Abi Jahl on the left flank, and they gave the banner to Banu Abd al-Dar. Then there was between the two groups what will be detailed in its place in these verses, God willing. For this reason, God Almighty said: And when you went forth from your family, you assigned the believers to their stations for battle, meaning you assigned them to the right and left flanks and wherever you commanded them. And God is All-Hearing, All-Knowing, meaning He hears what you say, and He knows your innermost thoughts.

Ibn Jarir mentioned here a question, the gist of which is: How do you say that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, marched to Uhud on Friday after the prayer, while God Almighty said: And when you went forth from your family to appoint the believers to their stations for battle (al-Baqarah 2:170)? Then his answer to it was: His going forth to appoint them to their stations was on Saturday, at the beginning of the day. And God Almighty said: When two parties among you were about to lose heart (al-Baqarah 2:170), al-Bukhari said: Ali ibn Abdullah told us, Sufyan told us, he said: Amr said: I heard Jabir ibn Abdullah say: When two parties among you were about to lose heart (al-Baqarah 2:170) was revealed about us. He said: We are the two parties, Banu Haritha and Banu Salamah. And we do not like - and Sufyan said once - and it does not please me that it was not revealed because God Almighty said: And God is their protector (al-Baqarah 2:170). Muslim also narrated it in the same way from the hadith of Sufyan ibn Uyaynah. And more than one of the Salaf said the same: They are Banu Haritha and Banu Salamah. And the Almighty's saying: And God certainly gave you victory at Badr meaning the day of Badr, which was on Friday, corresponding to the seventeenth of the month of Ramadan in the year two of the Hijra, and it is the day of the Criterion on which God honored Islam and its people, and stamped out polytheism, and destroyed its place and its party. This is despite the small number of Muslims on that day, for they were three hundred and thirteen men, among them horsemen and seventy camels, and the rest were infantry who did not have all the numbers they needed. The enemy on that day was between nine hundred and a thousand in iron and white armor, complete equipment, branded horses, and extra jewelry. So God honored His Messenger and revealed His revelation and sending down, and made the face of the Prophet and his tribe white, and disgraced Satan and his generation. For this reason, the Almighty said, thanking His believing servants and his pious party, And God had already given you victory at Badr when you were weak, meaning, your number was few, so that they would know that victory is from God, not from great numbers and numbers. For this reason, the Almighty said in another verse, "And on the day of Hunayn, when your great number pleased you, but it did not avail you at all, and the earth, vast as it is, became strait for you; then you turned back, fleeing. Then God sent down His tranquility upon His Messenger and upon the believers, and sent down soldiers you did not see, and punished those who disbelieved. That is the recompense of the disbelievers. Then God will turn in mercy after that to whom He wills. And God is Forgiving and Merciful." Imam Ahmad said: Muhammad ibn Ja'far told us, Shu'bah told us on the authority of Samak, who said: I heard 'Ayyadh al-Ash'ari say: I witnessed Yarmouk and we had five commanders: Abu 'Ubaydah, Yazid ibn Abi Sufyan, Ibn Hasana, Khalid ibn al-Walid, and 'Ayyadh, not the 'Ayyadh who told Samak, who said: And 'Umar said: If there is fighting, Abu 'Ubaydah is your commander. So we wrote to him saying: Death has come to us, and we have sought his help. So he wrote to us saying: Your letter has come to me asking for my help, and I will guide you to the One who is more powerful in victory and more fortified in army: God the Almighty, so seek His help. For Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, was victorious on the day of Badr with fewer men than you. So when this letter of mine comes to you, fight them and do not turn back to me. So we fought them and defeated them by four farsakhs. He said: We seized wealth, so we consulted each other, and 'Ayyadh advised us to give ten for every head. Abu 'Ubaydah said: Who will bet on me? A young man said: I will, if you do not get angry. He said: So he outran him, and I saw the two heels of Abu Ubaidah jumping while he was behind him on a bare horse. This is a sound chain of transmission. Ibn Hibban included it in his Sahih from the hadith of Bandar on the authority of Ghundar in a similar manner. Al-Hafiz Al-Dhiya Al-Maqdisi chose it in his book. Badr is a neighborhood between Mecca and Medina known for its well, attributed to a man who dug it, called Badr ibn Al-Narain. Al-Sha'bi said: Badr is a well belonging to a man called Badr. His statement, So fear God that you may be grateful, means that you will perform His obedience.

Fath al-Qadir

His statement 122- When two parties from among you were about to lose heart is a substitute for when you went forth, or it is related to his statement: settle down, or to his statement: All-Hearing, All-Knowing, and the two parties were Banu Salamah from the Khazraj, and Banu Haritha from the Aws, and they were the two wings of the army on the day of Uhud, and failure is cowardice, and the concern of the two parties was after the departure, when Abdullah bin Ubayy returned with those hypocrites who were with him, so God preserved the hearts of the believers so they did not return, and that is his statement: And God is their protector.

122- When two parties from among you were about to lose heart meaning: to become cowardly, weak and fall behind. The two parties were Banu Salamah from the Khazraj and Banu Haritha from the Aws, and they were the two wings of the army. That is because the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, went out to Uhud with a thousand men, and it was said: with nine hundred and fifty men. When they reached the shore, Abdullah bin Ubayy fled with a third of the people and returned with three hundred, and said: Why should we kill ourselves and our children? Abu Jaber Al-Sulami followed them and said: I ask you by God regarding your Prophet and yourselves. Abdullah bin Ubayy said: If we knew there would be fighting, we would have followed you. Banu Salamah and Banu Haritha were about to turn back with Abdullah bin Ubayy, but God protected them and they did not turn back. Then God reminded them of His great blessings, and He, the Almighty, said: When two parties from among you were about to lose heart, and God is their Protector He is their Supporter and Preserver.

And in God let the believers put their trust. Abdul Wahid Al-Malhi told us, Ahmad bin Abdullah Al-Naeem told us, Muhammad bin Yusuf told us, Muhammad bin Ismail told us, Muhammad bin Yusuf told us, on the authority of Ibn Uyaynah, on the authority of Amr, on the authority of Jabir, who said: This verse was revealed about us, When two parties among you were about to lose heart, but God was their protector, Banu Salamah and Banu Haritha. I would not have liked it not to have been revealed, and God says: And God is their protector.

When two parties among you were about to lose heart, but God was their protector. And upon God let the believers rely.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

122 When you intended is related to his saying: All-Hearing, All-Knowing or in place of When you went forth. "Two parties from among you" Banu Salamah from the Khazraj, and Banu Haritha from the Aws, were the two wings of the army. "That you should fail" means that you should become cowardly and weak. It was narrated that "he, peace and blessings be upon him, went out with about a thousand men and promised them victory if they were patient. When they reached the shore, Ibn Abi was defeated with three hundred men and said: Why should we kill ourselves and our children? Amr Ibn Hazm Al-Ansari followed them and said: I call upon you by God and Islam in your Prophet and yourselves. Ibn Abi said: If we knew of fighting, we would have followed you. The two tribes intended to follow him, but God protected them and they went with the Messenger of God, peace and blessings be upon him." It appears that it was not a determination, as God Almighty said: And God is their Guardian, meaning He protected them from following that step. It is also possible that it means God is their Supporter, so why should they fail and not put their trust in God? And in God let the believers put their trust, meaning let them put their trust in Him and not put their trust in anyone else so that He may support them as He supported them at Badr.

Surat Al Imran 3:123

And God had already given you victory at Badr when you were weak. So fear God that you may be grateful.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And when they were defeated, it was revealed to remind them of God's blessing: And God had already given you victory at Badr a place between Mecca and Medina and you were weak with few numbers and weapons so fear God that you may be grateful for His blessings.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: By that, the Most High means: If you are patient and fear God, their plot will not harm you at all, and your Lord will support you. And God had already supported you at Badr, over your enemies, and you were on that day were weak, meaning: few, without protection from the people, until God made you victorious over your enemy, despite their great number and your small number, and you are more numerous today than you were then. So if you are patient for the sake of God's command, He will support you as He supported you that day. So fear God, the Most High says: So fear your Lord by obeying Him and avoiding His prohibitions, that you may be grateful, meaning: to thank Him for what He has bestowed upon you of victory over your enemies and the manifestation of your religion, and for what He has guided you to of the truth from which your opponents have strayed, as:

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: And God gave you victory at Badr when you were weak, meaning: and you were fewer in number and weaker in strength, so fear God that you may be grateful, meaning: so fear God, for it is gratitude for My blessings.

There is a difference of opinion about the meaning for which Badr was called Badr.

Some of them said: It was named thus because it was the water of a man called Badr, so it was named after its owner.

Who said that?

Ibn Wakee' told us, he said, my father told us, on the authority of Zakariya, on the authority of Al-Sha'bi, he said: Badr belonged to a man called Badr, and it was named after him.

Yaqub told me, he said, Hisham told us, he said, Zakariya told us, on the authority of Al-Sha'bi, that he said: And God gave you victory at Badr, he said: Badr was a well belonging to a man called Badr, so it was named after him.

Others denied this and said: This is the name given to the spot, just as all other countries are named after it.

Who said that?

Al-Harith bin Muhammad narrated, Ibn Saad narrated, Muhammad bin Umar al-Waqidi narrated, Mansur narrated, on the authority of Abu al-Aswad, on the authority of Zakariya, on the authority of al-Sha'bi, who said: It was called Badr because it was a water source for a man from Juhayna called Badr. Al-Harith said, Ibn Saad said, al-Waqidi said: So I mentioned that to Abdullah bin Ja'far and Muhammad bin Salih, and they denied it and said: Why was it called al-Safra'? Why was it called al-Hamra'? Why was it called Rabigh? This is nothing, it is just the name of a place. He said: I mentioned that to Yahya bin al-Nu'man al-Ghifari, and he said: I heard our elders from Banu Ghaffar say: It is our water source and our home, and no one has ever owned it and it is called Badr, and it is not from the lands of Juhayna, rather it is the lands of Ghaffar. Al-Waqidi said: This is what is well-known among us.

It was narrated on the authority of Al-Husayn bin Al-Faraj, who said: I heard Abu Muadh, who said: Ubayd bin Sulayman told us, who said: I heard Al-Dahhak say: Badr is a body of water to the right of the road to Mecca, between Mecca and Medina.

As for his saying: humiliated, it is the plural of humiliated, just as a'zza is the plural of aziz and al-albah is the plural of labib.

Abu Ja'far said: God Almighty called them humiliated because of their small number, as they were three hundred souls and a dozen, and their number was between nine hundred and a thousand - as we have explained previously - so He made them humiliated because of their small number.

And the people of interpretation said something similar to what we said about that.

Who said that?

Bishr told us, Yazid told us, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, his saying: "And God had already given you victory at Badr when you were weak. So fear God that you may be grateful." Badr is a body of water between Mecca and Medina, where the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and the polytheists met. It was the first battle that the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, fought. It was mentioned to us that he said to his companions on that day: You are today like the companions of Saul on the day he met Goliath. They were three hundred and some men, and the polytheists on that day were a thousand, or nearly that.

Muhammad bin Sinan told me, he said, Abu Bakr told us, on the authority of Ibad, on the authority of Al-Hasan, regarding his statement: "And God certainly gave you victory at Badr when you were weak. So fear God that you may be grateful," he said, he says: and you were weak, few, and they were on that day a dozen or three hundred.

It was narrated on the authority of Ammar, who said: Ibn Abi Ja'far narrated to us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of al-Rabi', similar to the statement of Qatada.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: And God gave you victory at Badr when you were weak, fewer in number and weaker in strength.

Surat Al Imran 3:123

And God had already given you victory at Badr when you were weak. So fear God that you may be grateful.

Abu Ja'far said: As for his saying: So fear God that you may be grateful, its interpretation is like that which I have explained, such as:

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: So fear God that you may be grateful, meaning: So fear Me, for it is gratitude for My blessings.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

God Almighty says: "And God had already given you victory at Badr when you were weak. So fear God that you may be grateful."

It has six issues:

First: The Almighty's saying: And indeed God helped you at Badr. Badr was on the seventeenth of Ramadan, a Friday, eighteen months after the Hijra. Badr is a body of water there, and the place was named after it. Al-Sha'bi said: That water belonged to a man from Juhayna, and he was called Badr, and the place was named after it. The first is more common. Al-Waqidi and others said: Badr is the name of a place that was not transferred. It will come in the story of Badr in Al-Anfal, God willing.

Adh-lah means few, and that is because they were three hundred and thirteen or fourteen men. And their enemy was between nine hundred and a thousand. And Adh-lah is the plural of humiliated. And the word humiliation in this place is borrowed, and they were nothing but honorable in themselves, but their relation to their enemy and to all the infidels in the regions of the earth necessitates upon reflection their humiliation and that they will be defeated. And victory is support, so God granted them victory on the day of Badr, and killed the leaders of the polytheists on it, and on that day Islam was built, and it was the first battle that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, fought. And in Sahih Muslim, on the authority of Buraydah, he said:

The Messenger of God (peace be upon him) participated in seventeen battles, and fought in eight of them. It was narrated on the authority of Abu Ishaq that he said: I met Zaid bin Arqam and asked him: How many battles did the Messenger of God (peace be upon him) participate in? He said: Nineteen battles. I asked: How many battles did you participate in with him? He said: Seventeen battles. I asked: What was the first battle he participated in? He said: Dhat al-Usayr or al-Ushair. All of this is contrary to what the historians and biographers say. Muhammad bin Saad said in his book Al-Tabaqat: The battles of the Messenger of God (peace be upon him) were twenty-seven, and his raids were fifty-six, and in another narration forty-six, and the battles in which the Messenger of God (peace be upon him) fought were Badr, Uhud, Al-Muraisi', Al-Khandaq, Khaybar, Qurayzah, Al-Fath, Hunayn, and At-Ta'if. Ibn Saad said: This is what we have agreed upon. In some narrations, he fought against Banu Nadir, in Wadi Al-Qura on his way back from Khaybar, and in Al-Ghabah. If this is established, then we say: Zaid and Buraydah only reported what he knew or witnessed. Zaid's statement: The first raid he raided was Dhat al-Usayrah also contradicts what the historians and biographers have said. Muhammad ibn Sa'd said: There were three raids before the raid of al-Usayrah, meaning he raided it himself. Ibn Abd al-Barr said in the book al-Durar fi al-Maghazi wa al-Siyar: The first raid that the Messenger of God (blessings and peace of God be upon him) raided was the raid of Waddan, which he raided himself in Safar. That is because he arrived in Madinah twelve nights before the end of Rabi' al-Awwal, and stayed there for the rest of Rabi' al-Awwal, and the rest of the year until Safar of the year two of the Hijrah. Then he went out in the aforementioned Safar and appointed Sa'd ibn Ubadah over Madinah until he reached Waddan and bid farewell to Banu Damrah. Then he returned to Madinah without encountering any war, and it is called the raid of al-Abwa'. Then he stayed in the city until the month of Rabi' al-Akhir of the aforementioned year, then he left it and appointed Sa'ib ibn Uthman ibn Naz'un over the city until he reached Buwat in the direction of Radwa, then he returned to the city and did not encounter any war, then he stayed there for the rest of Rabi' al-Akhir and some of Jumada al-Ula, then he left as a raider and appointed Abu Salamah ibn Abd al-Asad over the city, and he took the road to Malik to al-'Usayrah.

I said: Ibn Ishaq mentioned on the authority of Ammar bin Yasser who said:

Ali ibn Abi Talib and I were companions in the expedition of Al-Ushayriyah from Batn Yanbu. When the Messenger of God (may God's peace and blessings be upon him) descended upon it, he stayed there for a month, and made peace there with Banu Mudlij and their allies from Banu Damrah. Then Ali ibn Abi Talib said to me: "O Abu Al-Yaqzan, would you like to go to these people? A group of Banu Mudlij are working at a spring of theirs. We are looking at how they work." So we went to them and looked at them for a while, then we fell asleep. We went to a tree of palm trees in a shallow area of land and slept in it. By God, nothing scared us except the Messenger of God (may God's peace and blessings be upon him) by his foot. We sat down and were covered in dust from that shallow area. On that day, the Messenger of God (may God's peace and blessings be upon him) said to Ali: What is the matter with you, O Abu Turab? So he told him what had happened to us. He said: The red one of Thamud who hamstringed the she-camel and the one who will strike you, O Ali, on this - and the Messenger of God (may God's peace and blessings be upon him) put his hand on his head - until this is wet from it - and he put his hand on his beard. Abu Omar said: He stayed there for the rest of Jumada al-Ula and some nights of Jumada al-Akhira, and he bid farewell to Banu Mudlij there, then he returned without encountering any war. Then after that came the first Battle of Badr a few days later. This is what the historians and biographers do not doubt, for Zayd ibn Arqam only reported what he had. And God knows best. It is said: Dhat al-Ushr with sin and shin, and a ha is added to it and it is said: al-Ushirah. Then came the Battle of Badr al-Kubra, which is the greatest of the battles in virtue of those who witnessed it, and in it God supported His Prophet and the believers with His angels according to the majority of scholars, and the apparent meaning of the verse indicates this, not on the Day of Uhud. And whoever said that it was on the Day of Uhud made the words of God the Almighty: And God had certainly helped you at Badr to His words: give thanks an interjection between the two statements. This is the saying of Amir al-Sha'bi, and the people disagreed with him. Narrations claim that the angels were present on the day of Badr and fought. Among them is the saying of Abu Usaid Malik bin Rabi'ah, who was present at Badr: If I were with you now at Badr and had my sight, I would show you the valley from which the angels came out. I have no doubt or hesitation. Narrated by Aqeel on the authority of Al-Zuhri on the authority of Abu Hazim Salamah bin Dinar. Ibn Abi Hatim said: Al-Zuhri is not known to have narrated anything from Abu Hazim other than this one hadith. It is said that Abu Usaid was the last of the people of Badr to die. He was mentioned by Abu Omar in Al-Isti'ab and others. In Sahih Muslim, on the authority of Omar bin Al-Khattab, he said:

On the day of Badr, the Messenger of God (may God's peace and blessings be upon him) looked at the polytheists, who were a thousand, and his companions were three hundred and nineteen men. The Prophet of God (may God's peace and blessings be upon him) faced the qiblah, then stretched out his hands and began to call upon his Lord: (O God, fulfill for me what You promised me. O God, fulfill what You promised me. O God, if You destroy this group of Muslims, You will not be worshipped on earth). He continued to call upon his Lord, stretching out his hands and facing the qiblah, until his cloak fell from his shoulders. Abu Bakr came to him, took his cloak, threw it over his shoulders, then embraced him from behind and said: O Prophet of God, it is enough for you to implore your Lord, for He will fulfill for you what He promised you. Then God the Almighty revealed: When you called upon your Lord, and He answered you, 'I will reinforce you with a thousand angels, following one another.' (al-Anfal 8:9) So God the Almighty reinforced him with the angels. Abu Zamil said: Ibn Abbas told me: While a Muslim man was pursuing a polytheist man in front of him that day, he heard a whip strike above him and the voice of a horseman saying: Go forward, Haizum. He looked at the polytheist in front of him and fell down. He looked at him and saw that his nose had been cut off and his face split as if he had been struck by a whip, turning it all green. Then the Ansari came and told the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) about that, and he said: You have spoken the truth, from the reinforcements of the third heaven. So they killed seventy that day and took seventy captive. He mentioned the hadith, and its full completion will come at the end of Al-Anfal, God willing. So the Sunnah and the Qur'an agree on what the majority said, and praise be to God. On the authority of Kharijah bin Ibrahim, on the authority of his father, he said: The Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) said to Gabriel: "Who among the angels said on the day of Badr: Go forward, Haizum?" Gabriel said: O Muhammad, not all the people of heaven know better. On the authority of Ali may God be pleased with him that he addressed the people and said: While I was drawing water from the well of Badr, a violent wind came, the likes of which I had never seen before, then it went away, then a violent wind came, the likes of which I had never seen before except the one before it. He said: And I think he mentioned: Then a violent wind came, and the first wind was Gabriel, who descended with a thousand angels with the Messenger of God (may God bless him and grant him peace). The second wind was Michael, who descended with a thousand angels on the right of the Messenger of God (may God bless him and grant him peace), and Abu Bakr was on his right. The third wind was Israfil, who descended with a thousand angels on the left side of the Messenger of God (may God bless him and grant him peace), and I was on the left side. On the authority of Sahl ibn Hunaif may God be pleased with him, he said: I saw us at Badr and one of us would point his sword at the head of a polytheist, but his head would fall off his body before it reached him. On the authority of Ar-Rabi' ibn Anas, he said: On the day of Badr, people would recognize those killed by the angels from those they had killed by striking them above the necks and on the fingers like the mark of fire that had been burned. Al-Bayhaqi may God have mercy on him mentioned all of this. Some of them said: The angels were fighting and the mark of their striking the infidels was clear, because wherever their strike struck, fire ignited in that place, to the extent that Abu Jahl said to Ibn Mas'ud: Did you kill me?! The one who killed me was the one whose spear did not reach the hump of his horse, even if I tried hard. The benefit of the large number of angels was to calm the hearts of the believers, and because God the Almighty made those angels fighters until the Day of Resurrection. So every army that is patient and seeks reward, the angels come to them and fight with them. Ibn Abbas and Mujahid said: The angels did not fight except on the day of Badr, and in other than that, they witness and do not fight, they are only a number or reinforcements. Some of them said: The benefit of the large number of angels was that they were calling and glorifying God, and increasing the number of those who fought that day. So based on this, the angels did not fight on the day of Badr, but rather they were present to call for steadfastness, and the first is more. Qatada said: This was on the day of Badr, God reinforced them with a thousand, then they became three thousand, then they became five thousand, so that is what God Almighty said: When you called upon your Lord, and He answered you, 'I will reinforce you with a thousand angels, following one another.' (al-Anfal 8:9)

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

According to the majority of scholars, this incident refers to the Day of Uhud. This was stated by Ibn

Surat Al Imran 3:123

And God had already given you victory at Badr when you were weak. So fear God that you may be grateful.

Abbas, Al-Hasan, Qatadah, Al-Suddi, and others. Al-Hasan Al-Basri said: It refers to the Day of the Confederates. Narrated by Ibn Jarir, but it is strange and cannot be relied upon. The Battle of Uhud took place on Saturday, Shawwal, in the year 3 AH. Qatadah said: It was eleven nights before the end of Shawwal. And Ikrimah said: On Saturday, the middle of Shawwal, and God knows best, and the reason for it was that when the polytheists killed those of their nobles on the day of Badr and the caravan was safe with what was in it of the trade that was with Abu Sufyan, and when they returned to Mecca, the sons of those who were killed, and the leaders of those who remained said to Abu Sufyan: I am setting aside this money to fight Muhammad, so spend it on that, so they gathered the crowds and the Abyssinians, and they came with about three thousand until they camped near Uhud facing Madinah, so the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, prayed on Friday, and when he finished, he prayed over a man from Banu al-Najjar called Malik ibn Amr, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, consulted the people, Should he go out to them or stay in Madinah? Abdullah ibn Ubayy suggested staying in Madinah, and if they stayed, they would stay in Bishr, and if they entered it, the men would fight them in their faces, and the women and children would throw stones at them from above them, and if they returned, they would return disappointed. Others from the Companions who had not witnessed Badr suggested going out to them, so the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, entered and put on his clothes. To his nation and went out against them, and some of them regretted and said: Perhaps we forced the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, so they said: O Messenger of God, if you want us to stay, then the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: It is not appropriate for a prophet, when he wears a dress for his nation, to return until God rules in his favor. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, set out with a thousand of his companions, and when they were at the junction, Abdullah bin Ubayy returned with a third of the army, angry because he did not return to his statement, and he and his companions said: If we knew of fighting today, we would have followed you, but we do not see you fighting today. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, continued walking until he reached the ravine of Uhud in the valley's side. He turned his back and his army to Uhud, and said: No one should fight until we order him to fight. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, prepared for the fight with seven hundred of his companions. He appointed Abdullah bin Jubair, the brother of Banu Amr bin Awf, as commander of the archers. The archers that day were fifty men, so he said to them, "Shoot the horses away from us, and do not let us attack from your side. Stay where you are, whether it is our turn or our turn. If you see the birds snatching us away, do not move from your place." The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, appeared between two shields, and gave the banner to Mus'ab ibn 'Umar, the brother of Banu 'Abd al-Dar. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, allowed some of the young men to go on that day and postponed others until he had them go on the day of the Trench about two years after that day. The Quraysh mobilized, and they were three thousand, with two hundred horses that they had set aside. They put Khalid ibn al-Walid on the right flank of the cavalry, and Ikrimah ibn Abi Jahl on the left flank, and they gave the banner to Banu Abd al-Dar. Then there was between the two groups what will be detailed in its place in these verses, God willing. For this reason, God Almighty said: And when you went forth from your family, you assigned the believers to their stations for battle, meaning you assigned them to the right and left flanks and wherever you commanded them. And God is All-Hearing, All-Knowing, meaning He hears what you say, and He knows your innermost thoughts.

Ibn Jarir mentioned here a question, the gist of which is: How do you say that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, marched to Uhud on Friday after the prayer, while God Almighty said: And when you went forth from your family to appoint the believers to their stations for battle (al-Baqarah 2:170)? Then his answer to it was: His going forth to appoint them to their stations was on Saturday, at the beginning of the day. And God Almighty said: When two parties among you were about to lose heart (al-Baqarah 2:170), al-Bukhari said: Ali ibn Abdullah told us, Sufyan told us, he said: Amr said: I heard Jabir ibn Abdullah say: When two parties among you were about to lose heart (al-Baqarah 2:170) was revealed about us. He said: We are the two parties, Banu Haritha and Banu Salamah. And we do not like - and Sufyan said once - and it does not please me that it was not revealed because God Almighty said: And God is their protector (al-Baqarah 2:170). Muslim also narrated it in the same way from the hadith of Sufyan ibn Uyaynah. And more than one of the Salaf said the same: They are Banu Haritha and Banu Salamah. And the Almighty's saying: And God certainly gave you victory at Badr meaning the day of Badr, which was on Friday, corresponding to the seventeenth of the month of Ramadan in the year two of the Hijra, and it is the day of the Criterion on which God honored Islam and its people, and stamped out polytheism, and destroyed its place and its party. This is despite the small number of Muslims on that day, for they were three hundred and thirteen men, among them horsemen and seventy camels, and the rest were infantry who did not have all the numbers they needed. The enemy on that day was between nine hundred and a thousand in iron and white armor, complete equipment, branded horses, and extra jewelry. So God honored His Messenger and revealed His revelation and sending down, and made the face of the Prophet and his tribe white, and disgraced Satan and his generation. For this reason, the Almighty said, thanking His believing servants and his pious party, And God had already given you victory at Badr when you were weak, meaning, your number was few, so that they would know that victory is from God, not from great numbers and numbers. For this reason, the Almighty said in another verse, "And on the day of Hunayn, when your great number pleased you, but it did not avail you at all, and the earth, vast as it is, became strait for you; then you turned back, fleeing. Then God sent down His tranquility upon His Messenger and upon the believers, and sent down soldiers you did not see, and punished those who disbelieved. That is the recompense of the disbelievers. Then God will turn in mercy after that to whom He wills. And God is Forgiving and Merciful." Imam Ahmad said: Muhammad ibn Ja'far told us, Shu'bah told us on the authority of Samak, who said: I heard 'Ayyadh al-Ash'ari say: I witnessed Yarmouk and we had five commanders: Abu 'Ubaydah, Yazid ibn Abi Sufyan, Ibn Hasana, Khalid ibn al-Walid, and 'Ayyadh, not the 'Ayyadh who told Samak, who said: And 'Umar said: If there is fighting, Abu 'Ubaydah is your commander. So we wrote to him saying: Death has come to us, and we have sought his help. So he wrote to us saying: Your letter has come to me asking for my help, and I will guide you to the One who is more powerful in victory and more fortified in army: God the Almighty, so seek His help. For Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, was victorious on the day of Badr with fewer men than you. So when this letter of mine comes to you, fight them and do not turn back to me. So we fought them and defeated them by four farsakhs. He said: We seized wealth, so we consulted each other, and 'Ayyadh advised us to give ten for every head. Abu 'Ubaydah said: Who will bet on me? A young man said: I will, if you do not get angry. He said: So he outran him, and I saw the two heels of Abu Ubaidah jumping while he was behind him on a bare horse. This is a sound chain of transmission. Ibn Hibban included it in his Sahih from the hadith of Bandar on the authority of Ghundar in a similar manner. Al-Hafiz Al-Dhiya Al-Maqdisi chose it in his book. Badr is a neighborhood between Mecca and Medina known for its well, attributed to a man who dug it, called Badr ibn Al-Narain. Al-Sha'bi said: Badr is a well belonging to a man called Badr. His statement, So fear God that you may be grateful, means that you will perform His obedience.

Fath al-Qadir

His statement 123- And God had already given you victory at Badr is a new sentence that was brought to make them patient by reminding them of the victory that results from patience. Badr is the name of a body of water that was at the site of the battle, and it was said that it is the name of the site itself. The context of the story of Badr will come in Al-Anfal, God willing. And humiliation is the plural of paucity, and its meaning is that they were humiliated because of their small number, and it is the plural of humiliated that was borrowed for paucity, since they were not humiliated in themselves, but rather they were honorable. And victory means support. The historians and biographers have explained the Battle of Badr and Uhud in a complete manner, so we do not need to give a context for that here.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

123- The Almighty said: And God certainly gave you victory at Badr, and Badr is a place between Mecca and Medina and it is the name of a place, and most of them agree with that. It was also said: It is the name of a well there, and it was also said: Badr was a well for a man called Badr, as Al-Sha'bi said, and others denied it.

God Almighty mentions in this verse His blessing of victory upon them on the day of Badr, and you were weak, plural: weak, and what He meant by this was that they were few in number, for they were three hundred and thirteen men, and God granted them victory despite their small number, So fear God that you may be grateful.

123 And God had already helped you at Badr is a reminder of some of the benefits of trust. Badr is a body of water between Mecca and Medina that belonged to a man called Badr, so it was named after him. And you were weak is a state of the pronoun. He said weak and did not say weak to draw attention to their small number despite their weakness due to the weakness of their situation and the scarcity of mounts and weapons. So fear God in steadfastness. That you may be grateful by your fear of what He has bestowed upon you of His victory, or perhaps you may be grateful for God's blessings upon you. So He put gratitude in place of blessing because it is its cause.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Jaafar said: God Almighty means: And God gave you victory at Badr when you were weak, when you said to the believers among your companions: Is it not enough for you that your Lord should support you with three thousand angels sent down? That was on the day of Badr.

Then the people of interpretation differed about the presence of the angels on the day of Badr, their war. On which day did they promise that?

Some of them said: God Almighty had promised the believers on the day of Badr that He would support them with His angels if the enemy came to them suddenly, but they did not come to them and did not support them.

Who said that?

Humayd ibn Mas`adah told me, saying, Bishr ibn al-Mufaddal told us, saying, Dawud told us, on the authority of `Amir, saying: The Muslims were told that Karz ibn Jabir al-Muharibi was supplying the polytheists. He said: This was difficult for the Muslims, so they were told: “Is it not enough for you that your Lord should supply you with three thousand angels sent down? Yes, if you are patient and fear God and they come upon you at once, your Lord will supply you with five thousand angels marked.” Karz was defeated, so he returned, and did not supply them with the five.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

The Almighty said: Will it not suffice you that your Lord should reinforce you with three thousand angels sent down? And His saying: Yes, if you are patient and fear God and they come upon you at once, your Lord will reinforce you with five thousand angels with marks. So the believers persisted on the day of Badr and feared God, so God reinforced them with five thousand angels as He promised them. This is all on the day of Badr. Al-Hasan said: These five thousand are a reserve for the believers until the Day of Resurrection. Al-Sha'bi said: The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his companions were informed on the day of Badr that Kurz bin Jabir Al-Muharibi wanted to reinforce the polytheists, so this upset the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and the Muslims, so God revealed: Will it not suffice you until His saying: marked. So Kurz was informed of the defeat, but he did not reinforce them and returned, so God did not reinforce them with the five thousand, and they had been reinforced with a thousand. It was said: God promised the believers on the day of Badr that if they were patient in obeying Him and feared His prohibitions, He would also support them in all their wars. They were not patient and did not fear His prohibitions except on the day of the Confederates, so He supported them when they besieged Qurayzah. It was said: This was on the day of Uhud, God promised them support if they were patient, but they were not patient, so He did not support them with a single king, and if they had been supported they would not have been defeated. This was said by Ikrimah and Ad-Dahhak. If it is said: It has been proven from Sa`d ibn Abi Waqqas that he said: I saw on the right and left of the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) on the day of Badr two men wearing white clothes fighting on his behalf with the fiercest fighting, I have never seen them before or after. It was said to him: Perhaps this is specific to the Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him), he was specific to two kings fighting on his behalf, and this is not support for the Companions. And God knows best.

Second: The descent of the angels is a reason for victory that the Almighty Lord does not need, but rather the creation needs it, so let the heart attach itself to God and trust in Him, for He is the Victorious with and without a reason, His command, when He intends a thing, is only to say to it, 'Be,' and it is (Ya Sin: 82). But He informed of this so that the creation would comply with the reasons He commanded them to do, which had already passed, And you will not find any change in the way of God (al-Ahzab 33:62). This does not undermine trust. It is a response to those who said that reasons were only prescribed for the weak, not the strong, for the Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) and his companions were the strong ones and others were the weak ones, and this is clear. Madd is in evil, and Amd is in good. This was mentioned previously in Al-Baqarah. Abu Haywah read Mizlin with a kasra over the zay and a light sukoon, meaning sending down victory. Ibn `Amir read it with a shaddah over the zay and a fathah for emphasis.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The commentators differed about this promise, was it on the day of Badr or the day of Uhud? There are two opinions one of them that his saying: When you said to the believers is related to his saying: And God had already helped you at Badr and this was narrated on the authority of Al-Hasan Al-Basri, Aamer Al-Shaabi, Al-Rabi' bin Anas and others, and Ibn Jarir chose it. Abbad bin Mansour said on the authority of Al-Hasan regarding his saying: When you said to the believers, 'Is it not sufficient for you that your Lord should reinforce you with three thousand angels?' He said: This is on the day of Badr, narrated by Ibn Abi Hatim. Then he said: My father told us, Musa bin Ismail told us, Wahib told us, Dawud told us on the authority of Amer, meaning Al-Shaabi: The Muslims heard on the day of Badr that Kurz bin Jabir was supporting the polytheists, and that was difficult for them, so God Almighty revealed: "Will it not suffice for you that your Lord should reinforce you with three thousand angels sent down? Yes, if you are patient and fear God and they come upon you at once, your Lord will reinforce you with five thousand angels marked." He said: So Kurz was defeated, but he did not reinforce the polytheists, and God did not reinforce the Muslims with the five. Al-Rabi' bin Anas said: God reinforced the Muslims with a thousand, then they became three thousand, then they became five thousand. If it is said: What is the connection between this verse according to this statement, and God Almighty's statement in the story of Badr: "When you called upon your Lord, and He answered you, 'I will reinforce you with a thousand angels, following one another.'" And God did not make it except as good tidings and that your hearts might be reassured thereby. And victory is not but from God. Indeed, God is Exalted in Might and Wise." The answer is that the mention of the thousand here does not contradict the three thousand and above, because He said: in succession meaning that others will follow them and thousands like them will follow them. This context is similar to the context in Surat Al Imran. It appears that this was on the day of Badr, as is well known that the fighting of the angels was on the day of Badr, and God knows best. Saeed bin Abi Arubah said, on the authority of Qatada: God supported the Muslims on the day of Badr with five thousand. The second statement - This promise is related to His statement: And when you left your family, you assigned the believers positions for battle, and that was on the day of Uhud, and this is the statement of Mujahid, Ikrimah, Ad-Dahhak, Az-Zuhri, Musa bin Uqbah and others. But they said: The five thousand reinforcements were not provided because the Muslims fled that day. Ikrimah added: Nor the three thousand, because God Almighty said: Yes, if you are patient and fear God. So they were not patient, but fled, so they were not reinforced by a single king. And His statement: Yes, if you are patient and fear God means: Be patient with your enemy, fear Me, and obey My command. And God Almighty said: And they will come upon you in this haste of theirs. Al-Hasan, Qatadah, Al-Rabi', and Al-Suddi said: That is, from this direction of theirs. Mujahid, Ikrimah, and Abu Salih said: That is, from this anger of theirs. Ad-Dahhak said: From their anger and their face. Al-Awfi said on the authority of Ibn Abbas: From this journey of theirs, and it is said: From this anger of theirs. God the Almighty says: Your Lord will reinforce you with five thousand angels with marks, meaning marked with a mark. Abu Ishaq al-Sabi'i said on the authority of Haritha ibn Mudrib, on the authority of Ali ibn Abi Talib, may God be pleased with him, who said: The mark of the angels on the day of Badr was white wool, and their mark was also on the forelocks of their horses. Narrated by Ibn Abi Hatim. Then he said: Abu Zur'ah told us, Hudbah ibn Khalid told us, Hammad ibn Salamah told us, on the authority of Muhammad ibn Amr ibn Alqamah, on the authority of Abu Salamah, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, may God be pleased with him, regarding this verse marked, he said: with red wool. Mujahid said: marked means their manes are omitted, their forelocks are marked with white wool on the tails of the horses. Al-Awfi said, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with him, who said: The angels came to Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, marked with wool, so Muhammad and his companions marked themselves and their horses with their mark with wool. Qatada and Ikrimah said: Marked means with the mark of battle. Makhul said: Marked with turbans. Ibn Mardawayh narrated from the hadith of Abdul Quddus bin Habib from Ata bin Abi Rabah from Ibn Abbas, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said in his statement: Marked. Marked. The mark of the angels on the day of Badr was black turbans, and on the day of Hunayn they were red turbans. It was narrated from the hadith of Husain bin Mukhariq from Saeed from Al-Hakam from Muqsim from Ibn Abbas, who said: The angels did not fight except on the day of Badr. Ibn Ishaq said: I was told by someone I do not accuse, from Muqsim from Ibn Abbas, who said: The mark of the angels on the day of Badr was white turbans that they let down on their backs, and on the day of Hunayn they were red turbans. The angels did not strike on any day except the day of Badr, and on other days they were in number and support and did not strike. Then he narrated it on the authority of Al-Hasan bin Ammarah, on the authority of Al-Hakam, on the authority of Muqsim, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, and he mentioned something similar. Ibn Abi Hatim said: Al-Ahmasi told us, Waki' told us, Hisham bin Urwah told us, on the authority of Yahya bin Abbad, that Al-Zubayr, may God be pleased with him, was wearing a yellow turban on the day of Badr, wrapping himself in it, so the angels descended upon them wearing yellow turbans. Ibn Mardawayh narrated it on the authority of Hisham bin Urwah, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Abdullah bin Al-Zubayr, and he mentioned it. And the Almighty said: And God did not make it except as good tidings for you and that your hearts might be reassured thereby meaning that God did not send down the angels and inform you of their sending down except as good tidings for you and to comfort your hearts and reassure them. Otherwise, victory is from God, who, if He willed, would have taken revenge on His enemies without you, and without need for you to fight them, as God the Almighty said after commanding the believers to fight: "That is so. And if God had willed, He could have taken revenge on them, but that He may test some of you by means of others. And those who are killed in the way of God - never will He let their deeds perish. He will guide them and amend their condition. And He will admit them to Paradise, which He has made known to them." That is why He said here: "And God did not make it except as good tidings for you and that your hearts might be reassured thereby. And victory is only from God, the Almighty, the Wise." That is, He is the Possessor of the might that cannot be reached, and wisdom in His decree and rulings. Then God the

When you said to the believers, “Is it not sufficient for you that your Lord should reinforce you with three thousand angels sent down?”

Almighty said: That He may cut off a portion of those who disbelieve. That is, He commanded you to fight and struggle because of the wisdom He has in that in every decree. That is why He mentioned all possible categories of the disbelieving fighters, and He said: That He may cut off a portion meaning to destroy a nation of those who disbelieve. Those who disbelieved, or He will subdue them, meaning He will humiliate them and turn them back in anger because they did not get what they wanted from you. That is why He said: or He will subdue them so they turn back disappointed, meaning they did not get what they hoped for. Then he objected with a sentence that indicated that the judgment in this world and the hereafter is His alone, with no partner for Him. So the Most High said: You have no part in the matter, meaning, rather, the matter is entirely up to Me, as the Most High said: You are only responsible for conveying [the message], and upon Us is the reckoning, and He said: You are not responsible for their guidance, but God guides whom He wills, and He said: Indeed, you do not guide whom you like, but God guides whom He wills. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said regarding His statement: You have no part in the matter, meaning, you have no part in the judgment over My servants except what I have commanded you to do regarding them. Then the Most High mentioned the rest of the categories, saying: Or He turns to them, meaning, from what they are in of disbelief, so He guides them after misguidance, or He punishes them, meaning, in this world and the hereafter, for their disbelief and sins. For this reason, He said: For indeed, they are wrongdoers, meaning, they deserve that. Al-Bukhari said: Habban bin Musa told us, Abdullah told us, Muammar told us on the authority of Al-Zuhri, Salim told me on the authority of his father, “That he heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say when he raised his head from bowing in the second rak’ah of Fajr: ‘O God, curse so-and-so and so-and-so,’ after he had said: ‘God hears whoever praises Him. Our Lord, to You is praise.’ Then God Almighty revealed: ‘You have no part in the matter,’” the verse. And thus it was narrated by Al-Nasa’i on the authority of Abdullah bin Al-Mubarak and Abd Al-Razzaq, both of them on the authority of Muammar. Imam Ahmad said: Abu Al-Nadr told us, Abu Aqil told us - Ahmad said: He is Abdullah bin Aqil, a trustworthy hadith master - Omar bin Hamza told us, on the authority of Salim, on the authority of his father, who said: I heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: O God, curse so-and-so, O God, curse Al-Harith bin Hisham, O God, curse Suhayl bin Amr, O God, curse Safwan bin Umayya. Then this verse was revealed: You have no part in the matter, whether He forgives them or punishes them, for they are wrongdoers. So He forgave them all. Ahmad said: Abu Mu’awiyah Al-Ghalabi told us, Khalid bin Al-Harith told us, Muhammad bin Ajlan told us, on the authority of Nafi’, on the authority of Abdullah, that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, used to supplicate against four people. He said: Then God revealed: You have no part in the matter, to the end of the verse. He said: And God guided them to Islam.

Muhammad bin Ajlan said on the authority of Nafi’, on the authority of Ibn Umar, may God be pleased with them both, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, used to supplicate against some of the polytheists, naming them by name, until God revealed: You have no part in the matter al-Baqarah 2:17. Al-Bukhari also said: Musa bin Ismail told us, Ibrahim bin Sa’d told us, on the authority of Ibn Shihab, on the authority of Sa’id bin al-Musayyab, and Abu Salamah bin Abd al-Rahman, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, may God be pleased with him, that whenever the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, wanted to supplicate against someone, or for someone, he would recite the Qunut after bowing, and he would sometimes say: When he said: “God hears those who praise Him, our Lord, to You is praise: O God, save al-Walid bin al-Walid, Salamah bin Hisham, Ayyash bin Abi Rabi’ah, and the oppressed among the believers, O God, intensify Your punishment on Mudar, and make them years like the years of Joseph,” he would say that out loud. And he used to say in some of his prayers in the Fajr prayer: O God, curse so-and-so and so-and-so, for some of the tribes of the Arabs, until God revealed: You have no part in the matter al-Baqarah 2:17.

Al-Bukhari said: Humayd and Thabit said, on the authority of Anas bin Malik: “The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, was wounded on the Day of Uhud, so he said: How can a people succeed who have wounded their Prophet?” Then, You have no part in the matter was revealed. This hadith, which Al-Bukhari included in his Sahih, was attributed to him. Al-Bukhari said in the Battle of Uhud 11: Yahya bin Abdullah Al-Sulami told us, Abdullah told us, Muammar told us, on the authority of Al-Zuhri, Salim bin Abdullah bin Abihi told me that he heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say, “When he raised his head from bowing in the last rak’ah of Fajr, ‘O God, curse so-and-so and so-and-so and so-and-so,’ after he had said, ‘God hears those who praise Him. Our Lord, to You is praise.’ Then, God revealed, “You have no part in the matter” and the verse. On the authority of Hanzala bin Abi Sufyan, he said: I heard Salim bin Abdullah say: “The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, used to supplicate against Safwan bin Umayya, Suhayl bin Amr, and Al-Harith bin Hisham, so the verse was revealed: ‘You have no part in the matter, whether He forgives them or punishes them, for they are wrongdoers.’” This is how Al-Bukhari mentioned this addition, suspended and disconnected, and it was mentioned previously as a connected chain of transmission in Musnad Ahmad.

Imam Ahmad said: Hisham told us, Hamid told us, on the authority of Anas, may God be pleased with him, “The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, had his front tooth broken on the day of Uhud, and he was wounded in the forehead until blood ran down his face. He said: How can a people succeed who did this to their Prophet, while he was calling them to their Lord, the Almighty and Majestic?” So God revealed: You have no part in the matter, whether He forgives them or punishes them, for they are wrongdoers. Muslim is the only one to transmit it, and he narrated it on the authority of Al-Qa'nabi, on the authority of Hammad bin Salamah, on the authority of Thabit, on the authority of Anas, and he mentioned it.

Ibn Jarir said: Ibn Hamid told us, Yahya bin Wadh told us, Al-Husayn bin Waqid told us, on the authority of Matar, on the authority of Qatada, who said: "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, was injured on the day of Uhud, and his front tooth was broken and his eyebrow was parted. He fell down wearing two coats of mail and blood was flowing. Salim, the freed slave of Abu Hudhayfah, passed by him, sat him up, and wiped his face. He regained consciousness and said: 'How can a people do this to their Prophet, while he was calling them to God Almighty?' Then God revealed: 'You have no part in the matter' verse. Abd al-Razzaq narrated it similarly on the authority of Muammar on the authority of Qatada, but he did not say: 'Then he regained consciousness.'"

Then the Almighty said: To God belongs whatever is in the heavens and whatever is on the earth, meaning that everything belongs to Him, and its people are slaves before Him. He forgives whom He wills and punishes whom He wills, meaning that He is the One who controls, so there is no questioning of His judgment, and He is not questioned about what He does, while they are questioned. And God is Forgiving and Merciful.

Fath al-Qadir

His statement 124 - When you say is related to his statement your victory. The hamza in his statement will it not suffice you? is for his denial, may God bless him and grant him peace, of their not being satisfied with that support from the angels. The meaning of sufficiency is filling the gap and carrying out the matter. Support in the original sense is giving something one moment after another, and the use of lan is to emphasize the negation.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

124- When you said to the believers, 'Is it not sufficient for you that your Lord should reinforce you?' They differed regarding this verse. Qatada said: This was on the day of Badr, God Almighty reinforced them with a thousand angels as He said: So He responded to you, 'I will reinforce you with a thousand angels' (al-Anfal 8:9). Then they became three thousand, then they became five thousand as mentioned here, with three thousand angels sent down.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

124When you said to the believers is an adverb for your victory. It was said that it is a second substitute for when you went forth on the basis that their saying to them on the day of Uhud was with the condition of patience and piety from disobedience, so when they were not patient about the spoils and disobeyed the command of the Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, the angels did not descend. Will it not suffice you that your Lord should reinforce you with three thousand angels sent down denying that it was not enough for them, but rather lan was brought to indicate that they were like those who had despaired of victory due to their weakness and fewness and the strength and large numbers of the enemy. It was said that God reinforced them on the day of Badr first with a thousand angels, then they became three thousand, then they became five thousand. Ibn Amir read sent down with emphasis for multiplication or gradualness.

Yes, if you are patient and fear God and they come upon you in haste, your Lord will reinforce you with five thousand angels with marks.

Surat Al Imran 3:125

Yes, if you are patient and fear God and they come upon you in haste, your Lord will reinforce you with five thousand angels with marks.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

Yes that is enough for you, and in Al-Anfal with a thousand because He first provided them with it, then it became three, then it became five, as God Almighty said If you are patient in meeting the enemy and fear God in disobedience and they come to you meaning the polytheists all at once their time this, your Lord will reinforce you with five thousand angels marked with a kasra on the waw and a fatha on it, meaning marked, and they were patient and God fulfilled His promise by having the angels fight with them on piebald horses wearing yellow or white turbans that they let down between their shoulders.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Ibn Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Abd Al-A'la told us, he said, Dawud told us, on the authority of Aamer, he said: When the day of Badr came, the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was informed, then he mentioned something similar, except that he said: And they will come to you in a fit of this - meaning Kurz and his companions - Your Lord will reinforce you with five thousand marked angels. He said: Then Kurz and his companions were informed of the defeat, but he did not reinforce them, and the five did not come down, and they were reinforced after that with a thousand, so they were four thousand angels with the Muslims.

Muhammad bin Sinan told me, he said, Abu Bakr al-Hanafi told us, on the authority of Ibad, on the authority of al-Hasan, regarding his statement: When you said to the believers, 'Is it not sufficient for you that your Lord should reinforce you with three thousand angels?' the entire verse, he said: This was on the day of Badr.

Yaqub told me, he said, Ibn Ulayyah told us, on the authority of Dawud, on the authority of Al-Sha'bi, he said: The Muslims were told that Kurz bin Jabir Al-Muharibi wanted to reinforce the polytheists at Badr. He said: This was difficult for the Muslims, so God Almighty revealed: Is it not sufficient for you that your Lord should reinforce you? until His saying: From the angels marked. He said: Then the defeat of the polytheists reached him, so he did not reinforce his companions, and they did not reinforce the five.

Others said: This was a promise from God to them on the day of Badr, so the believers were patient and feared God, so He supported them with His angels as

He promised them.

Who said that?

Abu Kuraib told us, he said, Yunus bin Bakir told us, on the authority of Muhammad bin Ishaq, he said, Abdullah bin Abi Bakr told me, on the authority of some of Banu Sa'idah, he said: I heard Abu Asid Malik bin Rabi'ah, after his eyesight was damaged, say: If I were with you at Badr now and I had my eyesight, I would tell you about the valley from which the angels came out, I would not doubt or dispute.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, he said, Ibn Ishaq said, and Abdullah bin Abi Bakr told me, on the authority of some of Banu Sa'idah, on the authority of Abu Asid Malik bin Rabi'ah, who had witnessed Badr, that he said after he lost his sight: If I were with you today at Badr and had my sight, I would show you the valley from which the angels came out, I would not doubt or dispute.

Ibn Humayd narrated, Salamah narrated, on the authority of Muhammad ibn Ishaq, who narrated, Abdullah ibn Abi Bakr narrated, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who narrated, Ibn Abbas said, a man from Banu Ghafar narrated to me, saying: My cousin and I set out until we climbed a mountain overlooking Badr, and we were polytheists, waiting for the battle to be fought, to see who would be defeated so that we could plunder with whoever plundered. He said: While we were on the mountain, a cloud approached us, and we heard the neighing of horses in it, and I heard a voice saying: Advance, Haizum. He said: As for my cousin, the veil of his heart was lifted and he died on the spot, but as for me, I almost perished, then I pulled myself together.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Muhammad ibn Ishaq, he said, and Al-Hasan ibn Ammarah told me, on the authority of Al-Hakam ibn Utaybah, on the authority of Muqsim, the freed slave of Abdullah ibn Al-Harith, on the authority of Abdullah ibn Abbas, he said: The angels did not fight on any day except the day of Badr, and on other days they were in number and reinforcements and did not strike.

Ibn Humayd narrated, Salamah narrated, Muhammad ibn Ishaq narrated, my father Ishaq ibn Yasar narrated, on the authority of men from Banu Mazin ibn al-Najjar, on the authority of Abu Dawud al-Mazini, who had witnessed Badr, who said: I was following a polytheist on the day of Badr to strike him, when his head fell before my sword could reach it. I knew that someone else had killed him. Ibn Humayd narrated, Salamah narrated, Muhammad narrated, Husayn ibn Abdullah ibn Ubaydullah ibn Abbas narrated, on the authority of Ikrimah, the freed slave of Ibn Abbas, who said: Abu Rafi, the freed slave of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: I was a slave of al-Abbas ibn Abdul Muttalib, and Islam had entered us, the people of the household. Al-Abbas converted to Islam, and Umm al-Fadl converted to Islam, and I converted to Islam. Al-Abbas feared his people and hated to oppose them, and he concealed his conversion to Islam. He had much wealth that was distributed among his people. Abu Lahab, the enemy of God, had stayed behind from Badr and sent in his place al-Asi ibn Hisham ibn al-Mughira. And so they did, no man stayed behind except that he sent another man in his place. So when the report came of the disaster of the companions of Badr from Quraysh, God subdued and humiliated him, and we found strength and honor in ourselves. He said: I was a weak man, and I was making arrows, carving them in the room of Zamzam. By God, I was sitting there carving arrows, and Umm al-Fadl was sitting with me, and we were pleased with what had come to us of the report, when the wicked Abu Lahab came, dragging his feet in evil, until he sat on the rope of the room, and his back was to my back. While he was sitting, the people said: This is Abu Sufyan ibn al-Harith ibn Abdul Muttalib who has arrived! He said: Abu Lahab said: Come to me, O son of my brother, for you have the report! He said: So he sat down with him while the people were standing around him, and he said: O son of my brother, tell me, how was the situation of the people? He said: Nothing, by God, it was only that we met them and turned our shoulders to them, and they killed us and took us prisoner as they wished! By God, I did not blame the people for that. We met white men on piebald horses between the sky and the earth. They were not worthy of anything, and nothing could stand up to them. Abu Rafi said: So I lifted the rope of the room with my hand and said: Those are the angels!

Ibn Humayd narrated, he said: Salamah narrated, on the authority of Muhammad, he said: Al-Hasan ibn Ammarah narrated, on the authority of Al-Hakam ibn Utaybah, on the authority of Muqsim, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, he said: The one who took Al-Abbas prisoner was Abu Al-Yusr Kaab ibn Amr, the brother of Banu Salamah. Abu Al-Yusr was a strong man, and Al-Abbas was a large man. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to Abu Al-Yusr: How did you take Al-Abbas, Abu Al-Yusr, prisoner? He said: O Messenger of God, a man helped me against him whom I had never seen before or after, his appearance was such and such! The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: A noble angel helped you against him.

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: Will it not suffice for you that your Lord should reinforce you with three thousand angels sent down? They were reinforced with a thousand, then they became three thousand, then they became five thousand, Yes, if you are patient and fear God and they come upon you suddenly, your Lord will reinforce you with five thousand angels with marks. That was on the day of Badr, God reinforced them with five thousand angels. I was told by Ammar, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ar-Rabi', something similar. Muhammad ibn Sa'd told me, he said, my father told me, he said, my uncle told us, he said, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding his statement: Your Lord will reinforce you with five thousand angels with marks, that they came to Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, with marks.

Muhammad bin Bashir told me, he said, Sufyan told us, on the authority of Ibn Hisham, on the authority of Mujahid, he said: The angels did not fight except on the day of Badr.

Others said: God Almighty promised them on the day of Badr that He would support them if they were patient in obeying Him and fighting His enemies, and feared Him by avoiding His prohibitions, that He would support them in all their wars. But they were not patient and did not fear Him except on the day of the Confederates, so He supported them when they besieged Qurayza.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Ammarah Al-Asadi narrated to me, he said: Ubaidullah bin Musa narrated to us, he said: Sulayman bin Zaid Abu Idam Al-Muharibi narrated to us, on the authority of Abdullah bin Abi Awfa, he said: We were besieging Qurayzah and An-Nadir for as long as God willed that we besiege them, but He did not grant us victory. So we returned, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, called for water and washed his head, when Gabriel, may God bless him and grant him peace, came to him and said: O Muhammad, you have laid down your weapons but the angels have not laid down their burdens! So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, called for a rag and wrapped it around his head but did not wash it. Then he called to us, and we stood up, exhausted and not caring about the journey at all, until we reached Qurayzah and An-Nadir. On that day, God, the Almighty, supported us with three thousand angels, and God granted us an easy victory, so we returned with a blessing from God, the Bounty.

Others said something similar to this meaning, but they said: The people were not patient, did not fear God, and did not provide anything for anyone.

Who said that?

Al-Qasim told us, Al-Hussein told us, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, who said, Amr ibn Dinar told me, on the authority of Ikrimah, who heard him say: Yes, if you are patient and fear God and they come to you at once, he said: On the day of Badr. He said: So they were not patient and did not fear God, so they did not advance on the day of Uhud, and if they had advanced, they would not have been defeated that day.

Ibn Bashir told us, he said, Abd al-Rahman told us, he said, Sufyan ibn Uyaynah told us, on the authority of Amr ibn Dinar, he said: I heard Ikrimah say: They were not supported on the day of Uhud, not even by a single king, or he said: except by a single king, Abu Ja'far is doubtful.

It was narrated on the authority of Al-Husayn ibn Al-Faraj, who said: I heard Abu Muadh, who said: I heard Ubayd ibn Sulayman, on the authority of Ad-Dahhak, regarding his statement: Will it not suffice you that your Lord should reinforce you with three thousand to five thousand angels with marks. This was a promise from God on the Day of Uhud that He presented to His Prophet Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace: that if the believers feared

Yes, if you are patient and fear God and they come upon you in haste, your Lord will reinforce you with five thousand angels with marks.

God and were patient, He would reinforce them with five thousand angels with marks. So the Muslims fled on the Day of Uhud and turned their backs, but God did not reinforce them.

Yunus told us, he said, Ibn Wahb told us, he said, Ibn Zayd said about His statement: {Yes, if you are patient and fear God and they come upon you at once} the entire verse. They said to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, while they were looking at the polytheists: O Messenger of God, will God not support us as He supported us on the day of Badr? The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Will it not suffice for you that your Lord supports you with three thousand angels sent down? And He only supported you on the day of Badr with a thousand? He said: So the increase came from God on the condition that they be patient and fear God. He said: On the condition that they come upon you at once, your Lord will support you, the entire verse.

Abu Ja'far said: The most correct of the statements on this matter is to say: God informed us about His Prophet Muhammad (peace and blessings of God be upon him) that he said to the believers: Will it not suffice you that your Lord should reinforce you with three thousand angels sent down? So God promised them three thousand angels as reinforcements for them, then He promised them five thousand after the three thousand if they were patient with their enemies and feared God. There is no indication in the verse that they were reinforced with the three thousand or the five thousand, nor that they were not reinforced with them. It may be possible that God, the Almighty, reinforced them, in the manner narrated by those who confirmed that He reinforced them, and it may be possible that He did not reinforce them in the manner mentioned by those who denied that. We do not have any authentic report from the source that proves that they were reinforced with the three thousand or the five thousand. It is not permissible to say anything about that except with a report that establishes evidence. And there is no report of that kind, so we accept the statement of one of the two groups. However, there is evidence in the Qur'an that they were reinforced on the day of Badr with a thousand angels, as He says: When you called upon your Lord, He answered you, 'I will reinforce you with a thousand angels, following one another' (al-Anfal 8:9). As for the day of Uhud, the evidence that they were not reinforced is clearer than that they were reinforced. This is because if they had been reinforced, they would not have been defeated, nor would they have suffered what they suffered. So the correct thing to say about it is as God Almighty said.

We have previously explained the meaning of supply, and the support, and the meaning of patience and piety. As for his saying: They will come to you all at once, the people of interpretation differed about it.

Some of them said: The meaning of his saying: from their place is from their place.

Who said that?

Humaid bin Mas'adah told us, he said, Yazid bin Zari' told us, on the authority of Uthman bin Ghiyath, on the authority of Ikrimah, he said, And they will come to you from this place of theirs, he said: from this place of theirs.

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada: From their face, he said: From their face.

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said, Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said, Muammar told us, on the authority of Qatada, similarly.

Muhammad bin Sinan told us, he said, Abu Bakr al-Hanafi told us, he said, Ibad told us, on the authority of al-Hasan, regarding his statement: And they will come to you all at once, from this direction of theirs.

It was narrated on the authority of Ammar ibn al-Hasan, on the authority of Ibn Abi Ja'far, on the authority of his father, on the authority of al-Rabi', regarding his statement: And they will come to you all at once, meaning: from this direction. Muhammad ibn al-Husayn narrated to us, saying: Ahmad ibn al-Mufaddal narrated to us, saying: Asbat narrated to us, on the authority of al-Suddi, regarding his statement: And they will come to you all at once, meaning: from this direction.

Muhammad bin Saad told me, he said, my father told me, he said, my uncle told me, he said, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding his statement: And they will come to you in this state of theirs, he said: from this state of theirs, and it is said - meaning on the authority of someone other than Ibn Abbas - rather it is: from this state of theirs.

Yunus told me, he said, Ibn Wahb told us, he said, Ibn Zayd said: From this place of theirs, from this place of theirs.

Others said: The meaning of this is: because of their anger.

Who said that?

Muhammad ibn al-Muthanna told me, he said, Abd al-A'la told us, he said, Dawud told us, on the authority of Ikrimah, regarding his statement: And they will come to you all at once, your Lord will reinforce you with five thousand angels, he said: That was their all at once, it was on the day of Uhud, they were angry on the day of Badr because of what they encountered.

Muhammad bin Amara told me, he said, Sahl bin Amer told us, he said, Malik bin Mughol told us, he said: I heard Abu Salih, the freed slave of Umm Hani', say: From their anger, he said: From their anger.

Muhammad bin Amr told me, he said, Abu Asim told us, on the authority of Isa, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding his statement: And they will come upon you at this moment, he said: He became angry for them, meaning the infidels, so he did not fight them at that moment, and that was on the day of Uhud.

Al-Qasim told me, he said, Al-Hussein told us, he said, Hajjaj told us, he said, Ibn Jurayj said, Mujahid said: From their anger, he said: From their anger.

It was narrated on the authority of Al-Husayn bin Al-Faraj, who said: I heard Abu Muadh, who said: Ubayd bin Sulayman told us, who said: I heard Al-Dahhak, regarding his statement: And they will come to you in their immediate presence, meaning: in their faces and anger.

Abu Jaafar said: The root of the word for is to begin something and then connect it to something else. It is said: The pot boiled and furān if what was in it began to boil and then continued. I went to so-and-so immediately, meaning: from the direction I began.

The one who said about this verse: The meaning of his saying: from this place of theirs, from this place of theirs, intended that its interpretation is: And Karz bin Jaber and his companions will come to you on the day of Badr from the beginning of their exit from which they came out to support their companions from the polytheists.

As for those who said: The meaning of that is: from their anger - they meant that the interpretation of that is: And the infidels of Quraysh will come to you and follow you on the day of Uhud from the beginning of their anger that they were angry for their dead who were killed on the day of Badr, your Lord will reinforce you with five thousand.

Therefore, due to the difference in their interpretation of the meaning of His statement: And they will come to you all at once, the people of interpretation differed regarding God's provision of the believers with one of His angels.

Some of them said: They did not provide them with reinforcements because the believers did not have patience with their enemies and did not fear God, the Almighty, by abandoning the archers who abandoned the obedience of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, in remaining in the place where the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, ordered them to remain. Rather, they permitted it to be done in order to seek spoils, so those Muslims who were killed were killed and the polytheists took from them what they took. God, the Almighty, had promised His Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, that He would provide them with reinforcements if they were patient and feared God.

As for those who said: That was on the day of Badr because of Karz bin Jabir, some of them said: Karz and his companions did not come to their brothers from the polytheists to reinforce them at Badr, and God did not reinforce the believers with His angels. Because God Almighty only promised them that He would reinforce them with His angels if Karz came to them and reinforced the polytheists immediately, and the reinforcements did not come to them.

As for those who said: God Almighty supported the Muslims with angels on the day of Badr, they based their argument on the words of God Almighty: When you called upon your Lord, and He answered you, 'I will reinforce you with a thousand angels, following one another' (al-Anfal 8:9). He said: So the thousand of them came to them as reinforcement. The promise was in which there were conditions, so what was more than a thousand, as for the thousand, they were supported by it, because God Almighty had promised them that, and God will not break His promise.

Abu Jaafar said: There is a difference in the reading of his saying: marked.

The majority of the people of Medina and Kufa read it as: Masumin, with the opening of the waw, meaning that God has poisoned it.

Some of the people of Kufa and Basra read it as masmoomin with a kasra on the waw, meaning that the angels samt for themselves.

Abu Ja'far said: The more correct of the two readings in this regard is the reading of the one who reads with a kasra on the waw, because the reports from the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and the people of interpretation among them and the followers after them are clear: that the angels are the ones who branded themselves, without attributing their branding to God Almighty, or to anyone else among His creation.

There is no meaning in the statement of those who said: He would have chosen the kasra in his saying marked, if it were for humans, but as for the angels, he described them differently, thinking that it is not possible for angels to mark themselves as humans can. This is because it is not impossible that God, the Almighty, enabled them to mark themselves in the same way that He enabled humans to mark themselves, so they marked themselves in the same way that humans were marked, seeking from them thereby the obedience of their Lord, so their marking themselves was attributed to them, even if that was due to God causing them to have causes. And if it was described as marking itself out of its approach to its Lord, it would have been more eloquent in praising it, for choosing to obey God, than for it to be described as being done to. Mentioning the report with what we mentioned: from the addition of those who added marking to the angels, without adding that to others, in the manner we said about it.

Yaqub told me, he said, Ibn Ulayyah told us, he said, Ibn Awn told us, on the authority of Umair ibn Ishaq, he said: The first time wool was on that day - meaning the day of Badr - the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Bid on it, for the angels have bid on it. Abu Kurayb told us, he said, Mukhtar ibn Ghassan told us, he said, Abd al-Rahman ibn al-Ghasil told us, on the authority of al-Zubayr ibn al-Mundhir, on the authority of his grandfather Abu Asid - and he was a Badri - he used to say: If my eyesight were to improve, and you went with me to Uhud, I would tell you about the valley from which the angels emerged in yellow turbans which they had thrown between their shoulders.

Muhammad ibn Amr told me, he said, Abu Asim told us, on the authority of Isa, on the authority of Ibn Abi

Yes, if you are patient and fear God and they come upon you in haste, your Lord will reinforce you with five thousand angels with marks.

Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding his statement: With five thousand marked angels, he said: Marked, with the tails and forelocks of their horses cut off - in which there is wool or wool. And that is the marking.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Hakam told us, on the authority of Anbasa, on the authority of Muhammad ibn Abd al-Rahman, on the authority of al-Qasim ibn Abi Bazza, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding his statement: With five thousand marked angels, he said, their tails are cut off, and their manes contain wool or wool, so that is the marking.

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada: Marked, he told us that their mark on that day would be wool on the forelocks and tails of their horses, and that they would be on piebald horses.

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said, Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said, Muammar told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: marked, he said: Its mark was wool on its forelocks.

It was narrated on the authority of Ammar, on the authority of Ibn Abi Ja'far, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Layth, on the authority of Mujahid, that he used to say: Marked. He said: Their horses had their manes trimmed, and their forelocks and tails were marked with wool and wool.

It was narrated on the authority of Ammar, on the authority of Ibn Abi Jaafar, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-Rabi': They were on piebald horses that day.

Al-Qasim told us, he said, Al-Hussein told us, he said, Hisham told us, he said, Juwaybir told us, on the authority of Al-Dahhak and some of our sheikhs, on the authority of Al-Hasan, similar to the hadith of Muammar, on the authority of Qatada.

Muhammad told us, Ahmad told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi: Marked, meaning taught.

Muhammad bin Saad told me, he said, my father told me, he said, my uncle told me, he said, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding his statement: With five thousand angels marked, for they came to Muhammad, the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, marked with wool, so Muhammad and his companions marked themselves and their horses with wool according to their mark.

Abu Kuraib told us, he said, Ibn Yaman told us, he said, Hisham bin Urwa told us, on the authority of Ibad bin Hamza, he said: The angels descended in the guise of Al-Zubayr, wearing yellow turbans. And Al-Zubayr's turban was yellow.

Yaqub bin Ibrahim told us, Hisham told us, Juwaybir told us, on the authority of Ad-Dahhak, regarding his statement: marked, he said: with wool on their forelocks and tails.

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said: Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said: Muammar told us, on the authority of Hisham bin Urwa, he said: The angels descended on the day of Badr on piebald horses, wearing yellow turbans. Al-Zubayr was wearing a yellow turban that day.

Ahmad bin Yahya al-Sufi told me, he said, Abd al-Rahman bin Sharik told us, he said, my father told us, he said, Hisham bin Urwa told us, on the authority of Urwa, on the authority of Abdullah bin al-Zubayr: Al-Zubayr was wearing a yellow sheet on the day of Badr, so he wrapped himself in it, so the angels descended on the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, on the day of Badr, wrapping himself in yellow turbans.

Abu Ja'far said: These narrations, some of which we have mentioned, "On the authority of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, that he said to his companions: 'Mark, for the angels have marked,'" and the statement of Abu Usaid: The angels came out in yellow turbans that they had thrown between their shoulders, and the statement of those among them who said: Marked, marking, all of that indicates the correctness of what we have chosen from the reading in that, and that the marking was from the angels themselves, in the manner that we said about that previously.

As for those who read it: poisoned, I think they interpreted it as:

Humayd bin Mas'adah told us, he said, Yazid bin Zari' told us, on the authority of Uthman bin Ghiyath, on the authority of Ikrimah: With five thousand marked angels, he said: They have the mark of battle on them.

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada: With five thousand marked angels, he says: They have the mark of battle, and that was on the day of Badr, God supported them with five thousand marked angels. He says: They have the mark of battle.

They said: The mark of the battle was upon them, not that they were branded with a mark, so branding is attributed to them. For that reason, they read them as branded, meaning that God Almighty attributed branding to those who branded them with that mark.

The mark is the sign. It is said: It is a beautiful mark, or a beautiful appearance, as the poet said:

A young man whom God has blessed with beauty, with a features that are not difficult for the eye to see.

He means by this: a sign of goodness. So if a man is informed of a sign by which he is known in war or otherwise, it is said: He has marked himself, so he marks himself with a mark.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

The Almighty said: Yes and the speech is complete. If you are patient is a condition, meaning in meeting the enemy. And fear is a conjunction to it, as for disobeying Him. The answer is He will support you and the meaning of from their face is from their face. This is from Ikrimah, Qatadah, Al-Hasan, Al-Rabi', Al-Suddi and Ibn Zayd. It was said: from their anger, from Mujahid and Al-Dahhak. They had become angry on the day of Uhud because of what they had encountered. The origin of for is to intend something and to take it seriously, and it is from their saying: the pot boiled, boiling, and seething. And fore is boiling. And his anger boiled if it seethed. And its action from fore means before it calms down. And the boiling is what boils from the pot. And in the revelation And the oven boiled (Hud:40) the poet said:

Their fate boils over on us, so we drink it

Third: The Almighty's saying: marked with a fat-ha on the waw, a passive participle, and this is the reading of Ibn 'Amir, Hamza, Al-Kisa'i, and Nafi'. That is, marked with signs. Marked with a kasra on the waw is an active participle, and this is the reading of Abu 'Amr, Ibn Kathir, and 'Asim, so the meaning is possible as mentioned above, that is, they informed themselves with a sign, and informed their horses. Al-Tabari and others preferred this reading. Many commentators said: Marked means sending their horses in the raid. Al-Mahdawi mentioned this meaning in masawmeen with a fat-ha on the waw, that is, God sent them against the infidels. Ibn Furak also said the same. According to the first reading, they differed regarding the mark of the angels. It was narrated from Ibn Abi Talib, Ibn 'Abbas, and others that the angels wore white turbans that they let down between their shoulders. Al-Bayhaqi mentioned it from Ibn 'Abbas, and Al-Mahdawi narrated it from Al-Zajaj. Except for Gabriel, who wore a yellow turban like Al-Zubayr ibn Al-'Awwam, and Ibn Ishaq said the same. Al-Rabi' said: Their sign was that they were on white horses, on piebald horses between the sky and the earth, marked, killing and capturing. So his saying marked indicates that the piebald horses were not the sign. And God knows best. Mujahid said: Their horses had trimmed tails and manes, and their forelocks and tails were marked with wool and wool. It was narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas: The angels marked the horses on the day of Badr with white wool on their forelocks and tails. Abbad bin Abdullah bin Az-Zubayr, Hisham bin Urwah and Al-Kalbi said: The angels descended in the sign of Az-Zubayr, wearing yellow turbans hanging loosely over their shoulders. Abdullah and Urwah, the sons of Az-Zubayr, said that. Abdullah said: It was a yellow sheet that Az-Zubayr, may God be pleased with him, wore as a turban.

I said: The verse indicates:

The fourth: on adopting a badge and mark for the tribes and battalions, which the Sultan makes for them, so that each tribe and battalion can be distinguished from the others during war, and on the superiority of the piebald horse because the angels descend upon it.

I said: Perhaps it was revealed to her in agreement with Al-Miqdad's horse, for it was piebald and they had no other horse, so the angels descended on the piebald horses out of respect for Al-Miqdad, just as Gabriel descended wearing a yellow turban like Al-Zubayr. And God knows best. And the verse also indicates...

The fifth: On woolen clothing, which was worn by the prophets and righteous people. Abu Dawood and Ibn Majah narrated, and the wording is his, on the authority of Abu Burdah, on the authority of his father, who said: My father said to me:

If you had witnessed us while we were with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, when the rain struck us, you would have thought that our smell was the smell of sheep.

And he, may God bless him and grant him peace, wore a Roman robe made of wool with narrow sleeves, as narrated by the imams.

And Yunus, peace be upon him, wore it. Narrated by Muslim. This meaning will be further explained in An-Nahl, God willing.

Sixth: I said: As for what Mujahid mentioned that their horses had their tails and manes cut off, it is far-fetched, for in the Musannaf of Abu Dawud, on the authority of Utbah ibn Abd al-Salami, he heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say:

Do not cut the forelocks, manes, or tails of horses, for their tails are their place of slaughter, their manes are their warmth, and their forelocks contain goodness. So Mujahid's statement is based on the fact that the horses of the angels were of that nature. And God knows best.

The verse indicates the beauty of white and yellow colors because the angels descend with them. Ibn Abbas said: Whoever wears yellow shoes, his need will be fulfilled. And he, peace be upon him, said:

Wear white clothes, for it is the best of your clothes, and shroud your dead in it. As for turbans, they are the crowns and clothing of the Arabs. Rukana narrated:

He wrestled with the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, defeated him - Rukanah said - and I heard the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: The difference between us and the polytheists is the turbans over the skullcaps. Narrated by Abu Dawud. Al-Bukhari said: Its chain of transmission is unknown and it is not known that it heard some of it from others.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The commentators differed about this promise, was it on the day of Badr or the day of Uhud? There are two opinions one of them that his saying: When you said to the believers is related to his saying: And God had already helped you at Badr and this was narrated on the authority of Al-Hasan Al-Basri, Aamer Al-Shaabi, Al-Rabi' bin Anas and others, and Ibn Jarir chose it. Abbad bin Mansour said on the authority of Al-Hasan regarding his saying: When you said to the believers, 'Is it not sufficient for you that your Lord should reinforce you with three thousand angels?' He said:

Surat Al Imran 3:125

Yes, if you are patient and fear God and they come upon you in haste, your Lord will reinforce you with five thousand angels with marks.

This is on the day of Badr, narrated by Ibn Abi Hatim. Then he said: My father told us, Musa bin Ismail told us, Wahib told us, Dawud told us on the authority of Amer, meaning Al-Shaabi: The Muslims heard on the day of Badr that Kurz bin Jabir was supporting the polytheists, and that was difficult for them, so God Almighty revealed: "Will it not suffice for you that your Lord should reinforce you with three thousand angels sent down? Yes, if you are patient and fear God and they come upon you at once, your Lord will reinforce you with five thousand angels marked." He said: So Kurz was defeated, but he did not reinforce the polytheists, and God did not reinforce the Muslims with the five. Al-Rabi' bin Anas said: God reinforced the Muslims with a thousand, then they became three thousand, then they became five thousand. If it is said: What is the connection between this verse according to this statement, and God Almighty's statement in the story of Badr: "When you called upon your Lord, and He answered you, 'I will reinforce you with a thousand angels, following one another.' And God did not make it except as good tidings and that your hearts might be reassured thereby. And victory is not but from God. Indeed, God is Exalted in Might and Wise." The answer is that the mention of the thousand here does not contradict the three thousand and above, because He said: in succession meaning that others will follow them and thousands like them will follow them. This context is similar to the context in Surat Al Imran. It appears that this was on the day of Badr, as is well known that the fighting of the angels was on the day of Badr, and God knows best. Saeed bin Abi Arubah said, on the authority of Qatada: God supported the Muslims on the day of Badr with five thousand. The second statement - This promise is related to His statement: And when you left your family, you assigned the believers positions for battle, and that was on the day of Uhud, and this is the statement of Mujahid, Ikrimah, Ad-Dahhak, Az-Zuhri, Musa bin Ubah and others. But they said: The five thousand reinforcements were not provided because the Muslims fled that day. Ikrimah added: Nor the three thousand, because God Almighty said: Yes, if you are patient and fear God. So they were not patient, but fled, so they were not reinforced by a single king. And His statement: Yes, if you are patient and fear God means: Be patient with your enemy, fear Me, and obey My command. And God Almighty said: And they will come upon you in this haste of theirs. Al-Hasan, Qatadah, Al-Rabi', and Al-Suddi said: That is, from this direction of theirs. Mujahid, Ikrimah, and Abu Salih said: That is, from this anger of theirs. Ad-Dahhak said: From their anger and their face. Al-Awfi said on the authority of Ibn Abbas: From this journey of theirs, and it is said: From this anger of theirs. God the Almighty says: Your Lord will reinforce you with five thousand angels with marks, meaning marked with a mark. Abu Ishaq al-Sabi'i said on the authority of Haritha ibn Mudrib, on the authority of Ali ibn Abi Talib, may God be pleased with him, who said: The mark of the angels on the day of Badr was white wool, and their mark was also on the forelocks of their horses. Narrated by Ibn Abi Hatim. Then he said: Abu Zur'ah told us, Hudbah ibn Khalid told us, Hammad ibn Salamah told us, on the authority of Muhammad ibn Amr ibn Alqamah, on the authority of Abu Salamah, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, may God be pleased with him, regarding this verse marked, he said: with red wool. Mujahid said: marked means their manes are omitted, their forelocks are marked with white wool on the tails of the horses. Al-Awfi said, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with him, who said: The angels came to Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, marked with wool, so Muhammad and his companions marked themselves and their horses with their mark with wool. Qatada and Ikrimah said: Marked means with the mark of battle. Makhul said: Marked with turbans. Ibn Mardawayh narrated from the hadith of Abdul Quddus bin Habib from Ata bin Abi Rabah from Ibn Abbas, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said in his statement: Marked. Marked. The mark of the angels on the day of Badr was black turbans, and on the day of Hunayn they were red turbans. It was narrated from the hadith of Husain bin Mukhariq from Saeed from Al-Hakam from Muqsim from Ibn Abbas, who said: The angels did not fight except on the day of Badr. Ibn Ishaq said: I was told by someone I do not accuse, from Muqsim from Ibn Abbas, who said: The mark of the angels on the day of Badr was white turbans that they let down on their backs, and on the day of Hunayn they were red turbans. The angels did not strike on any day except the day of Badr, and on other days they were in number and support and did not strike. Then he narrated it on the authority of Al-Hasan bin Ammarah, on the authority of Al-Hakam, on the authority of Muqsim, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, and he mentioned something similar. Ibn Abi Hatim said: Al-Ahmasi told us, Waki' told us, Hisham bin Urwah told us, on the authority of Yahya bin Abbad, that Al-Zubayr, may God be pleased with him, was wearing a yellow turban on the day of Badr, wrapping himself in it, so the angels descended upon them wearing yellow turbans. Ibn Mardawayh narrated it on the authority of Hisham bin Urwah, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Abdullah bin Al-Zubayr, and he mentioned it. And the Almighty said: And God did not make it except as good tidings for you and that your hearts might be reassured thereby meaning that God did not send down the angels and inform you of their sending down except as good tidings for you and to comfort your hearts and reassure them. Otherwise, victory is from God, who, if He willed, would have taken revenge on His enemies without you, and without need for you to fight them, as God the Almighty said after commanding the believers to fight: "That is so. And if God had willed, He could have taken revenge on them, but that He may test some of you by means of others. And those who are killed in the way of God - never will He let their deeds perish. He will guide them and amend their condition. And He will admit them to Paradise, which He has made known to them." That is why He said here: "And God did not make it except as good tidings for you and that your hearts might be reassured thereby. And victory is only from God, the Almighty, the Wise." That is, He is the Possessor of the might that cannot be reached, and wisdom in His decree and rulings. Then God the Almighty said: That He may cut off a portion of those who disbelieve. That is, He commanded you to fight and struggle because of the wisdom He has in that in every decree. That is why He mentioned all possible categories of the disbelieving fighters, and He said: That He may cut off a portion meaning to destroy a nation of those who disbelieve. Those who disbelieved, or He will subdue them, meaning He will humiliate them and turn them back in anger because they did not get what they wanted from you. That is why He said: or He will subdue them so they turn back disappointed, meaning they did not get what they hoped for. Then he objected with a sentence that indicated that the judgment in this world and the hereafter is His alone, with no partner for Him. So the Most High said: You have no part in the matter, meaning, rather, the matter is entirely up to Me, as the Most High said: You are only responsible for conveying [the message], and upon Us is the reckoning, and He said: You are not responsible for their guidance, but God guides whom He wills, and He said: Indeed, you do not guide whom you like, but God guides whom He wills. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said regarding His statement: You have no part in the matter, meaning, you have no part in the judgment over My servants except what I have commanded you to do regarding them. Then the Most High mentioned the rest of the categories, saying: Or He turns to them, meaning, from what they are in of disbelief, so He guides them after misguidance, or He punishes them, meaning, in this world and the hereafter, for their disbelief and sins. For this reason, He said: For indeed, they are wrongdoers, meaning, they deserve that. Al-Bukhari said: Habbab bin Musa told us, Abdullah told us, Muammar told us on the authority of Al-Zuhri, Salim told me on the authority of his father, "That he heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say when he raised his head from bowing in the second rak'ah of Fajr: 'O God, curse so-and-so and so-and-so,' after he had said: 'God hears whoever praises Him. Our Lord, to You is praise.'" Then God Almighty revealed: 'You have no part in the matter,'" the verse. And thus it was narrated by Al-Nasa'i on the authority of Abdullah bin Al-Mubarak and Abd Al-Razzaq, both of them on the authority of Muammar. Imam Ahmad said: Abu Al-Nadr told us, Abu Aqil told us - Ahmad said: He is Abdullah bin Aqil, a trustworthy hadith master - Omar bin Hamza told us, on the authority of Salim, on the authority of his father, who said: I heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: O God, curse so-and-so, O God, curse Al-Harith bin Hisham, O God, curse Suhayl bin Amr, O God, curse Safwan bin Umayya. Then this verse was revealed: You have no part in the matter, whether He forgives them or punishes them, for they are wrongdoers. So He forgave them all. Ahmad said: Abu Mu'awiyah Al-Ghalabi told us, Khalid bin Al-Harith told us, Muhammad bin Ajlan told us, on the authority of Nafi', on the authority of Abdullah, that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, used to supplicate against four people. He said: Then God revealed: You have no part in the matter, to the end of the verse. He said: And God guided them to Islam. Muhammad bin Ajlan said on the authority of Nafi', on the authority of Ibn Umar, may God be pleased with them both, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, used to supplicate against some of the polytheists, naming them by name, until God revealed: You have no part in the matter al-Baqarah 2:17. Al-Bukhari also said: Musa bin Ismail told us, Ibrahim bin Sa'd told us, on the authority of Ibn Shihab, on the authority of Sa'id bin al-Musayyab, and Abu Salamah bin Abd al-Rahman, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, may God be pleased with him, that whenever the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, wanted to supplicate against someone, or for someone, he would recite the Qunut after bowing, and he would sometimes say: When he said: "God hears those who praise Him, our Lord, to You is praise: O God, save al-Walid bin al-Walid, Salamah bin Hisham, Ayyash bin Abi Rabi'ah, and the oppressed among the believers, O God, intensify Your punishment on Mudar, and make them years like the years of Joseph," he would say that out loud. And he used to say in some of his prayers in the Fajr prayer: O God, curse so-and-so and so-and-so, for some of the tribes of the Arabs, until God revealed: You have no part in the matter al-Baqarah 2:17.

Al-Bukhari said: Humayd and Thabit said, on the authority of Anas bin Malik: "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, was wounded on the Day of Uhud, so he said: How can a people succeed who have wounded their Prophet?" Then, You have no part in the matter was revealed. This hadith, which Al-Bukhari included in his Sahih, was attributed to him. Al-Bukhari said in the Battle of Uhud 11: Yahya bin Abdullah Al-Sulami told us, Abdullah told us, Muammar told us, on the authority of Al-Zuhri, Salim bin Abdullah bin Abihi told me that he heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say, "When he raised his head from bowing in the last rak'ah of Fajr, 'O God, curse so-and-so and so-and-so and so-and-so,' after he had said, 'God hears those who praise Him. Our Lord, to You is praise.'" Then, God revealed, "You have no part in the matter" and the verse. On the authority of Hanzala bin Abi Sufyan, he said: I heard Salim bin Abdullah say: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, used to supplicate against Safwan bin Umayya, Suhayl bin Amr, and Al-Harith bin Hisham, so the verse was revealed: 'You have no part in the matter, whether He forgives them or punishes them, for they are wrongdoers.'" This is how Al-Bukhari mentioned this addition, suspended and disconnected, and it was mentioned previously as a connected chain of transmission in Musnad Ahmad.

Imam Ahmad said: Hisham told us, Hamid told us, on the authority of Anas, may God be pleased with him, "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, had his front tooth broken on the day of Uhud, and he was wounded in the forehead until blood ran down his face. He said: How can a people succeed who did this to their Prophet, while he was calling them to their Lord, the Almighty and Majestic?" So God revealed: You have no part in the matter, whether He forgives them or punishes them, for they are wrongdoers. Muslim is the only one to transmit it, and he narrated it on the authority of Al-Qa'nabi, on the authority of Hammad bin Salamah, on the authority of Thabit, on the authority of Anas, and he mentioned it.

Ibn Jarir said: Ibn Hamid told us, Yahya bin Wadh told us, Al-Husayn bin Waqid told us, on the authority of Matar, on the authority of Qatada, who said: "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, was injured on the day of Uhud, and his front tooth was broken and his eyebrow was parted. He fell down wearing two coats of mail and blood was flowing. Salim, the freed slave of Abu Hudhayfah, passed by him, sat him up, and wiped his face. He regained consciousness and said: 'How can a people do this to their Prophet, while he was calling them to God Almighty?' Then God revealed: 'You have no part in the matter' verse. Abd al-Razzaq narrated it similarly on the authority of Muammar on the authority of Qatada, but he did not say: 'Then he regained consciousness.'"

Yes, if you are patient and fear God and they come upon you in haste, your Lord will reinforce you with five thousand angels with marks.

Then the Almighty said: To God belongs whatever is in the heavens and whatever is on the earth, meaning that everything belongs to Him, and its people are slaves before Him. He forgives whom He wills and punishes whom He wills, meaning that He is the One who controls, so there is no questioning of His judgment, and He is not questioned about what He does, while they are questioned. And God is Forgiving and Merciful.

Fath al-Qadir

The root of al-Fawr is to intend something and to take it seriously. It is from their saying, the pot boiled, meaning it boiled, and al-Fawr means boiling. Far means boiling, and Far means boiling. His anger boiled means it raged. He did it immediately, meaning before it boiled over. Al-Fawwarah is what boils from the pot. It is used as a metaphor for speed. That is, if they come to you at this hour, your Lord will reinforce you with angels when they come, and He will not delay that. His statement: 125- Masmoomin with a fat-ha on the waw is a passive participle. This is the reading of Ibn Amir, Hamza, Al-Kisa'i, and Nafi': meaning marked with signs. Ibn Amr, Ibn Kathir, and Asim read Masmoomin with a kasra on the waw as an active participle: meaning marking themselves with a sign. Ibn Jarir preferred this reading. Tasweem is to show the mark of something. Many commentators said, marked, meaning: sending their horses on the raid. It was said that the angels wore white turbans, and it was said: red, and it was said: green, and it was said: yellow. This is the sign by which they knew themselves. This was narrated from Al-Zajjaj. It was said: they were on piebald horses, and other things were said.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

125- Yes, if you are patient and fear God and they come upon you suddenly, your Lord will reinforce you with five thousand angels with marked marks. So they were patient on the day of Badr and feared God, so God reinforced them with five thousand as He promised. Al-Hasan said: And these five thousand will be the backbone of the believers until the Day of Resurrection.

Ibn Abbas and Mujahid said: The angels did not fight in battle except on the day of Badr, and in other than that they witnessed the battle but did not fight, but rather they were a number and reinforcements.

Muhammad bin Ishaq said: When the battle of Uhud came, the people fled from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and Sa'd bin Malik remained shooting, and a young man was collecting arrows for him. When the arrows ran out, he brought them to him and scattered them. He said, Shoot, Abu Ishaq, twice. When the battle ended, he was asked about that man, but he did not know.

Abdul Wahid bin Ahmad Al-Malhi told us, I told Ahmad bin Abdullah Al-Nuaimi, I told Muhammad bin Yusuf, I told Muhammad bin Ismail, I told Abdul Aziz bin Abdullah, I told Abdul Aziz bin Abdullah, I told Ibrahim bin Saad, on the authority of his father, on the authority of his grandfather, on the authority of Saad bin Abi Waqqas, who said: I saw the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, on the day of Uhud, and with him were two men fighting on his behalf, wearing white clothes, in the most intense fighting. I did not see them before or after.

Muslim narrated it on the authority of Abu Bakr bin Abi Shaybah, who said: Muhammad bin Bishr and Abu Usamah told us on the authority of Misa'ar on the authority of Sa'd bin Ibrahim on the authority of his father on the authority of Sa'd, meaning Ibn Abi Waqqas, who said: "I saw on the right and left of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, on the day of Uhud two men wearing white clothes. I had never seen them before or after," meaning: Gabriel and Michael.

Al-Sha'bi said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and the Muslims were informed on the day of Badr that Kurz bin Jaber al-Muharibi wanted to reinforce the polytheists, and this was difficult for them. So God Almighty revealed: Will it not suffice for you that he reinforces you? until His saying marked. So Kurz was informed of the defeat, so he returned and did not come to them or reinforce them. So God did not reinforce them with the five thousand either, and they had been reinforced with a thousand.

Others said: God Almighty promised the Muslims on the day of Badr, if they were patient in obeying Him and feared His prohibitions, that He would also support them in all their wars. They were not patient except on the day of the Confederates, so God supported them until they besieged Qurayzah and Nadir. Abdullah bin Abi Awfa said: We were besieging Qurayzah and Nadir as long as God willed, but He did not grant us victory. So we returned and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, called for a bath and he was washing his head when Gabriel, peace be upon him, came to him and said: You have laid down your weapons but the angels have not laid down their burdens? So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, called for a rag and wrapped it around his head but did not wash it.

Then he called to us and we stood up until we came to Qurayzah and Nadir. On that day, God Almighty supported us with three thousand angels, and granted us an easy victory.

Ad-Dahhak and Ikrimah said: This was the day of Uhud, and God promised them reinforcements if they were patient, but they were not patient, so they were not reinforced.

The Almighty said: That your Lord should reinforce you. And reinforcement means supporting an army with an army. It was said: That which is in the form of strength and support, it is said in it: reinforcement, and that which is in the form of increase, it is said: reinforcement, and from this is the Almighty's saying: And the sea reinforces it (Luqman 31:27). It was said: reinforcement is in evil, and reinforcement is in good, as indicated by the Almighty's saying: And He extends them in their transgression, wandering blindly (al-Baqarah 2:15) And We extend for him from the punishment an extension (Maryam 19:79). And He said in good: Indeed, I will reinforce you with a thousand angels, following one another (al-Isra' 17:26).

The Almighty said: With three thousand angels sent down. Ibn Amir read it with emphasis on the letter zay for emphasis, based on the Almighty's saying: And if We had sent down to them the angels (Surat al-An'am 6:111). The others read it with emphasis, based on the Almighty's saying: Why were angels not sent down to us? (al-Furqan 25:21) and His saying: And He sent down soldiers you did not see (al-Tawbah 9:26).

Then he said: Yes, We will reinforce you if you are patient for your enemy and fear God that is, disobey your Prophet "and they come to you meaning the polytheists all at once. Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, Qatadah, Al-Hasan and most of the commentators said: From this aspect of theirs. Mujahid and Ad-Dahhak said: From this anger of theirs, because they only returned to war on the day of Uhud because of their anger on the day of Badr. Your Lord will reinforce you with five thousand angels. He did not mean five thousand other than what was mentioned of three thousand, rather he meant with them. His saying marked means: marked. Ibn Kathir, Abu Amr and Asim read it with a kasra on the waw, and the others read it with a fatha. Whoever broke the waw meant that they marked their horses, and whoever opened it meant themselves. Marking is the notification from the mark, which is the sign.

They differed about that sign. Urwah ibn al-Zubayr said: The angels were on piebald horses wearing yellow turbans. Ali and Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them, said: They were wearing white turbans that they had let down between their shoulders. (Hisham ibn Urwah and al-Kalbi said: Yellow turbans hanging down over their shoulders.) Ad-Dahhak and Qatadah said: They had been marked with wool on the forelocks and tails of the horses. It was narrated that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to his companions on the day of Badr: Sell yourselves, for the angels have been marked with white wool on their skullcaps and helmets.

125 Yes is an affirmation for what comes after no, meaning yes is enough for you. Then He promised them more patience and piety, urging them on and strengthening their hearts, saying: If you are patient and fear God and they come to you meaning the polytheists. All at once from this hour, and it is originally a source from the word farat al-qadr meaning it boiled, so it was used metaphorically for speed and then used for a state in which there is no hesitation or delay, and the meaning is that they will come to you immediately. Your Lord will reinforce you with five thousand angels in the case of their coming without delay or delay. Marked is marked from tasweem which is showing the mark of something, based on the Prophet's saying, peace and blessings be upon him, to his companions: Mark, for the angels have marked. Or sent from tasweem meaning the name. Ibn Kathir, Abu Amr, Asim, and Ya'qub read it with a kasra on the waw.

Surat Al Imran 3:126

And God has not made it except as good tidings for you and that your hearts may be reassured thereby. And victory is not except from God, the Almighty, the Wise.

Surat Al Imran 3:126

And God has not made it except as good tidings for you and that your hearts may be reassured thereby. And victory is not except from God, the Almighty, the Wise.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And God has not made it that is, the support except as good tidings for you of victory and that your hearts may be reassured so that they may be calmed by it so that they do not panic because of the large number of the enemy and your small number and victory is only from God, the Exalted in Might, the Wise He gives it to whomever He wills, and it is not by the large number of soldiers.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: He, the Most High, means: And God did not make His promise to you what He promised you of His support for you with the angels whose number He mentioned, except as good tidings for you, meaning good tidings, with which He gives you good tidings, and that your hearts may be reassured thereby, meaning: And so that your hearts may be reassured by His promise that He promised you, so that they may be at peace with Him, and not be alarmed by the great number of your enemy or the small number of you, and victory is only from God, meaning: And your victory, if you are victorious over your enemy, is only by the help of God, not by the support that comes to you from the angels. He says: So put your trust in God, and seek help from Him, not by the multitudes and the great number, for if your victory is only by God and His help, and with you from His angels five thousand, then it is more likely that it will be by the help of God and His strengthening you against your enemy, because there are large multitudes of people with you. So fear God and be patient in the struggle against your enemy, for God will support you against them, as:

Muhammad ibn Amr told us, he said, Abu Asim told us, he said, Isa told us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, And God did not make them except as good tidings for you, meaning that He only made them so that you would be glad of them and feel reassured by them, and they did not fight with them on that day - meaning the day of Uhud - Mujahid said: And they did not fight with them on that day, nor before it, nor after it, except on the day of Badr.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: And God did not make it except as good tidings for you and that your hearts might be reassured thereby, because I know of your weakness, and victory is only from Me by My authority and power, and that is because glory and judgment belong to Me, not to any of My creation.

Yunus told us, he said, Ibn Wahb told us, he said, Ibn Zayd said: And victory comes only from God, if He had wanted to help you with other than the angels, He would have done so, the Almighty, the Wise.

As for the meaning of His statement: The Mighty, the Wise, He, may His praise be glorified, is: The Mighty in His vengeance against the disbelievers through the hands of His allies from among the people of His obedience, the Wise in His management of you, O believers, against your enemies from among the people of disbelief, and other than that of His affairs. He says: So be glad, O believers, with My management of you against your enemies and My victory for you over them, if you obey Me in what I have commanded you, and are patient in the struggle against My enemy and your enemy.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

The Almighty says: And God has not made it except as good tidings for you. The ha' is for support, which is the angels, or the promise, or the support, and it is indicated by He supports you or for the timing or for the sending down or the number according to the meaning, because five thousand is a number. And that your hearts may be reassured by it. The lam is the lam of ki, meaning that your hearts may be reassured by it, He made it. And victory is only from God meaning the victory of the believers, and that does not include the victory of the disbelievers, because what happened to them of victory is only a respite surrounded by failure, bad consequences, and loss.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The commentators differed about this promise, was it on the day of Badr or the day of Uhud? There are two opinions one of them that his saying: When you said to the believers is related to his saying: And God had already helped you at Badr and this was narrated on the authority of Al-Hasan Al-Basri, Aamer Al-Shaabi, Al-Rabi' bin Anas and others, and Ibn Jarir chose it. Abbad bin Mansour said on the authority of Al-Hasan regarding his saying: When you said to the believers, 'Is it not sufficient for you that your Lord should reinforce you with three thousand angels?' He said: This is on the day of Badr, narrated by Ibn Abi Hatim. Then he said: My father told us, Musa bin Ismail told us, Wahib told us, Dawud told us on the authority of Amer, meaning Al-Shaabi: The Muslims heard on the day of Badr that Kurz bin Jabir was supporting the polytheists, and that was difficult for them, so God Almighty revealed: "Will it not suffice for you that your Lord should reinforce you with three thousand angels sent down? Yes, if you are patient and fear God and they come upon you at once, your Lord will reinforce you with five thousand angels marked." He said: So Kurz was defeated, but he did not reinforce the polytheists, and God did not reinforce the Muslims with the five. Al-Rabi' bin Anas said: God reinforced the Muslims with a thousand, then they became three thousand, then they became five thousand. If it is said: What is the connection between this verse according to this statement, and God Almighty's statement in the story of Badr: "When you called upon your Lord, and He answered you, 'I will reinforce you with a thousand angels, following one another.' And God did not make it except as good tidings and that your hearts might be reassured thereby. And victory is not but from God. Indeed, God is Exalted in Might and Wise." The answer is that the mention of the thousand here does not contradict the three thousand and above, because He said: in succession meaning that others will follow them and thousands like them will follow them. This context is similar to the context in Surat Al Imran. It appears that this was on the day of Badr, as is well known that the fighting of the angels was on the day of Badr, and God knows best. Saeed bin Abi Arubah said, on the authority of Qatada: God supported the Muslims on the day of Badr with five thousand. The second statement - This promise is related to His statement: And when you left your family, you assigned the believers positions for battle, and that was on the day of Uhud, and this is the statement of Mujahid, Ikrimah, Ad-Dahhak, Az-Zuhri, Musa bin Uqbah and others. But they said: The five thousand reinforcements were not provided because the Muslims fled that day. Ikrimah added: Nor the three thousand, because God Almighty said: Yes, if you are patient and fear God. So they were not patient, but fled, so they were not reinforced by a single king. And His statement: Yes, if you are patient and fear God means: Be patient with your enemy, fear Me, and obey My command. And God Almighty said: And they will come upon you in this haste of theirs. Al-Hasan, Qatadah, Al-Rabi', and Al-Suddi said: That is, from this direction of theirs. Mujahid, Ikrimah, and Abu Salih said: That is, from this anger of theirs. Ad-Dahhak said: From their anger and their face. Al-Awfi said on the authority of Ibn Abbas: From this journey of theirs, and it is said: From this anger of theirs. God the Almighty says: Your Lord will reinforce you with five thousand angels with marks, meaning marked with a mark. Abu Ishaq al-Sabi'i said on the authority of Haritha ibn Mudrib, on the authority of Ali ibn Abi Talib, may God be pleased with him, who said: The mark of the angels on the day of Badr was white wool, and their mark was also on the forelocks of their horses. Narrated by Ibn Abi Hatim. Then he said: Abu Zur'ah told us, Hudbah ibn Khalid told us, Hammad ibn Salamah told us, on the authority of Muhammad ibn Amr ibn Alqamah, on the authority of Abu Salamah, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, may God be pleased with him, regarding this verse marked, he said: with red wool. Mujahid said: marked means their manes are omitted, their forelocks are marked with white wool on the tails of the horses. Al-Awfi said, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with him, who said: The angels came to Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, marked with wool, so Muhammad and his companions marked themselves and their horses with their mark with wool. Qatada and Ikrimah said: Marked means with the mark of battle. Makhul said: Marked with turbans. Ibn Mardawayh narrated from the hadith of Abdul Quddus bin Habib from Ata bin Abi Rabah from

Ibn Abbas, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said in his statement: Marked. Marked. The mark of the angels on the day of Badr was black turbans, and on the day of Hunayn they were red turbans. It was narrated from the hadith of Husain bin Mukhariq from Saeed from Al-Hakam from Muqsim from Ibn Abbas, who said: The angels did not fight except on the day of Badr. Ibn Ishaq said: I was told by someone I do not accuse, from Muqsim from Ibn Abbas, who said: The mark of the angels on the day of Badr was white turbans that they let down on their backs, and on the day of Hunayn they were red turbans. The angels did not strike on any day except the day of Badr, and on other days they were in number and support and did not strike. Then he narrated it on the authority of Al-Hasan bin Ammarah, on the authority of Al-Hakam, on the authority of Muqsim, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, and he mentioned something similar. Ibn Abi Hatim said: Al-Ahmasi told us, Waki' told us, Hisham bin Urwah told us, on the authority of Yahya bin Abbad, that Al-Zubayr, may God be pleased with him, was wearing a yellow turban on the day of Badr, wrapping himself in it, so the angels descended upon them wearing yellow turbans. Ibn Mardawayh narrated it on the authority of Hisham bin Urwah, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Abdullah bin Al-Zubayr, and he mentioned it. And the Almighty said: And God did not make it except as good tidings for you and that your hearts might be reassured thereby meaning that God did not send down the angels and inform you of their sending down except as good tidings for you and to comfort your hearts and reassure them. Otherwise, victory is from God, who, if He willed, would have taken revenge on His enemies without you, and without need for you to fight them, as God the Almighty said after commanding the believers to fight: "That is so. And if God had willed, He could have taken revenge on them, but that He may test some of you by means of others. And those who are killed in the way of God - never will He let their deeds perish. He will guide them and amend their condition. And He will admit them to Paradise, which He has made known to them." That is why He said here: "And God did not make it except as good tidings for you and that your hearts might be reassured thereby. And victory is only from God, the Almighty, the Wise." That is, He is the Possessor of the might that cannot be reached, and wisdom in His decree and rulings. Then God the Almighty said: That He may cut off a portion of those who disbelieve. That is, He commanded you to fight and struggle because of the wisdom He has in that in every decree. That is why He mentioned all possible categories of the disbelieving fighters, and He said: That He may cut off a portion meaning to destroy a nation of those who disbelieve. Those who disbelieved, or He will subdue them, meaning He will humiliate them and turn them back in anger because they did not get what they wanted from you. That is why He said: or He will subdue them so they turn back disappointed, meaning they did not get what they hoped for. Then he objected with a sentence that indicated that the judgment in this world and the hereafter is His alone, with no partner for Him. So the Most High said: You have no part in the matter, meaning, rather, the matter is entirely up to Me, as the Most High said: You are only responsible for conveying [the message], and upon Us is the reckoning, and He said: You are not responsible for their guidance, but God guides whom He wills, and He said: Indeed, you do not guide whom you like, but God guides whom He wills. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said regarding His statement: You have no part in the matter, meaning, you have no part in the judgment over My servants except what I have commanded you to do regarding them. Then the Most High mentioned the rest of the categories, saying: Or He turns to them, meaning, from what they are in of disbelief, so He guides them after misguidance, or He punishes them, meaning, in this world and the hereafter, for their disbelief and sins. For this reason, He said: For indeed, they are wrongdoers, meaning, they deserve that. Al-Bukhari said: Habbab bin Musa told us, Abdullah told us, Muammar told us on the authority of Al-Zuhri, Salim told me on the authority of his father, "That he heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say when he raised his head from bowing in the second rak'ah of Fajr: 'O God, curse so-and-so and so-and-so,' after he had said: 'God hears whoever praises Him. Our Lord, to You is praise.'" Then God Almighty revealed: 'You have no part in the matter,'" the verse. And thus it was narrated by Al-Nasa'i on the authority of Abdullah bin Al-Mubarak and Abd Al-Razzaq, both of them on the authority of Muammar. Imam Ahmad said: Abu Al-Nadr told us, Abu Aqil told us - Ahmad said: He is Abdullah bin Aqil, a trustworthy hadith master - Omar bin Hamza told us, on the authority of Salim, on the authority of his father, who said: I heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: O God, curse so-and-so, O God, curse Al-Harith bin Hisham, O God, curse Suhayl bin Amr, O God, curse Safwan bin Umayya. Then this verse was revealed: You have no part in the matter, whether He forgives them or punishes them, for they are wrongdoers. So He forgave them all. Ahmad said: Abu Mu'awiyah Al-Ghalabi told us, Khalid bin Al-Harith told us, Muhammad bin Ajlan told us, on the authority of Nafi', on the authority of Abdullah, that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, used to supplicate against four people. He said: Then God revealed: You have no part in the matter, to the end of the verse. He said: And God guided them to Islam. Muhammad bin Ajlan said on the authority of Nafi', on the authority of Ibn Umar, may God be pleased with them both, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, used to supplicate against some of the polytheists, naming them by name, until God revealed: You have no part in the matter al-Baqarah 2:17. Al-Bukhari also said: Musa bin Ismail told us, Ibrahim bin Sa'd told us, on the authority of Ibn Shihab, on the authority of Sa'id bin al-Musayyab, and Abu Salamah bin Abd al-Rahman, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, may God be pleased with him, that whenever the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, wanted to supplicate against someone, or for someone, he would recite the Qunut after bowing, and he would sometimes say: When he said: "God hears those who praise Him, our Lord, to You is praise: O God, save al-Walid bin al-Walid, Salamah bin Hisham, Ayyash bin Abi Rabi'ah, and the oppressed among the believers, O God, intensify Your punishment on Mudar, and make them years like the years of Joseph," he would say that out loud. And he used to say in some of his prayers in the Fajr prayer: O God, curse so-and-so and so-and-so, for some of the tribes of the Arabs, until God revealed: You have no part in the matter al-Baqarah 2:17.

Al-Bukhari said: Humayd and Thabit said, on the authority of Anas bin Malik: "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, was wounded on the Day of Uhud, so he said: How can a people succeed who have wounded their Prophet?" Then, You have no part in the matter was revealed. This hadith, which Al-Bukhari included in his Sahih, was attributed to him. Al-Bukhari said in the Battle of Uhud 11: Yahya bin Abdullah Al-Sulami told us, Abdullah told us, Muammar told us, on the authority of Al-Zuhri, Salim bin Abdullah bin Abihi told me that he heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say, "When he raised his head from bowing in the last rak'ah of Fajr, 'O God, curse so-and-so and so-and-so and so-and-so,' after he had said, 'God hears those who praise Him. Our Lord, to You is praise.'" Then, God revealed, "You have no part in the matter" and the verse. On the authority of Hanzala bin Abi Sufyan, he said: I heard Salim bin Abdullah say: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, used to supplicate against Safwan bin Umayya, Suhayl bin Amr, and Al-Harith bin Hisham, so the verse was revealed: 'You have no part in the matter, whether He forgives them or punishes them, for they are wrongdoers.'" This is how Al-Bukhari mentioned this addition, suspended and disconnected, and it was mentioned previously as a connected chain of transmission in Musnad Ahmad.

Imam Ahmad said: Hisham told us, Hamid told us, on the authority of Anas, may God be pleased with him, "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, had his front tooth broken on the day of Uhud, and he was wounded in the forehead until blood ran down his face. He said: How can a people succeed who did this to their Prophet, while he was calling them to their Lord, the Almighty and Majestic?" So God revealed: You have no part in the matter, whether He forgives them or punishes them, for they are wrongdoers. Muslim is the only one to transmit it, and he narrated it on the authority of Al-Qa'nabi, on the authority of Hammad bin Salamah, on the authority of Thabit, on the authority of Anas, and he mentioned it.

Ibn Jarir said: Ibn Hamid told us, Yahya bin Wadh told us, Al-Husayn bin Waqid told us, on the authority of Matar, on the authority of Qatada, who said: "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, was injured on the day of Uhud, and his front tooth was broken and his eyebrow was parted. He fell down wearing two coats of mail and blood was flowing. Salim, the freed slave of Abu Hudhayfah, passed by him, sat him up, and wiped his face. He regained consciousness and said: 'How can a people do this to their Prophet, while he was calling them to God Almighty?' Then God revealed: 'You have no part in the matter' verse. Abd al-Razzaq narrated it similarly on the authority of Muammar on the authority of Qatada, but he did not say: 'Then he regained consciousness.'"

Then the Almighty said: To God belongs whatever is in the heavens and whatever is on the earth, meaning that everything belongs to Him, and its people are slaves before Him. He forgives whom He wills and punishes whom He wills, meaning that He is the One who controls, so there is no questioning of His judgment, and He is not questioned about what He does, while they are questioned. And God is Forgiving and Merciful.

Fath al-Qadir

His statement 126- And God made it only as good tidings for you is a subject statement not included in the statement of the statement, and the pronoun in his statement made it refers to the support indicated by the verb, or to the setting, or to the sending down, and Al-Zajaj and the author of Al-Kashshaf preferred the first. And his statement except as good tidings is an exception emptied from the most general of the general, and good tidings is a noun from the good report: that is, except that you may receive good tidings that you will be victorious and that your hearts may be reassured by it: that is, by the support, and the lam is the lam of ki, God made that support good tidings of victory and reassurance for the hearts, and in restricting the support to them there is an indication that the angels will not directly fight on that day And victory is only from God not from anyone else, so the multitude of fighters and the presence of equipment are of no benefit.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

126- The Almighty said: And God has not made it meaning this promise and support, except as good tidings for you meaning: good tidings for you to be happy with it and to reassure and to calm your hearts with it so do not be alarmed by the great number of your enemy and the small number of you, and victory is only from God, the Almighty, the Wise meaning: do not rely on the angels and soldiers for victory, for victory is from God Almighty, so seek His help and put your trust in Him, because glory and judgment belong to Him.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

126 And God has not made it and He has not made your support with angels. except as good tidings for you except as good tidings for you of victory. And that your hearts may be reassured thereby and that they may find peace in it from fear. And victory is only from God not from equipment and numbers, and it is a warning that there is no need for support in their victory, but rather He has provided them with support and promised it to them as a sign to them and a binding on their hearts, since the general public looks more to the causes and urges them not to care about what is delayed from them. The Mighty who cannot be overcome in His decrees. The Wise who supports and lets down with or without a middle ground according to wisdom and interest.

That He may cut off a portion of those who disbelieve or subdue them so they may return in disappointment.

Surat Al Imran 3:127

That He may cut off a portion of those who disbelieve or subdue them so they may return in disappointment.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

to cut off is related to your victory, meaning to destroy a portion of those who disbelieved by killing or capturing or to subdue them humiliate them by defeat so that they turn back return disappointed not having achieved what they sought.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: By that, may His praise be glorified, He meant: And God gave you victory at Badr to cut off a portion of those who disbelieved, and by a portion He meant the group or the individuals.

God Almighty says: And God had already given you victory at Badr, in order to destroy a group of those who disbelieved in God and His Messenger, and denied the Oneness of their Lord, and the prophethood of their Prophet Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, as Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: To cut off a portion of those who disbelieved, so God cut off a portion of the disbelievers on the day of Badr, and killed their leaders, chiefs, and leaders in evil.

It was narrated on the authority of Ammar, on the authority of Ibn Abi Jaafar, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-Rabi', something similar.

Muhammad bin Sinan told me, he said, Abu Bakr al-Hanafi told us, on the authority of Ibad, on the authority of al-Hasan, regarding his statement: To cut off a portion of those who disbelieved, the entire verse, he said: This was the day of Badr, God cut off a group of them and a group remained.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: To cut off a portion of those who disbelieved, meaning: To cut off a portion of the polytheists by killing them in order to take revenge on them.

Others said: Rather, the meaning of this is: Victory comes only from God, to cut off a portion of those who disbelieved. He said: He only meant by that those who were killed at Uhud.

Who said that?

Muhammad ibn al-Husayn told us, Ahmad ibn al-Mufaddal told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of al-Suddi, who said: God mentioned the dead polytheists - meaning at Uhud - and they were eighteen men, and He said: To cut off a portion of those who disbelieved. Then He mentioned the martyrs and said: And never think of those who are killed in the way of God as dead (Al Imran 3:169). As for His statement: or He subdues them, He means by that: or He disgraces them with disappointment in what they had hoped for of victory over you.

It has been said that the meaning of his saying: or He suppresses them is or He knocks them down on their faces. Some of them mentioned that he heard the Arabs say: God suppressed him on his face, meaning God knocked him down.

Abu Ja'far said: The interpretation of the statement: "And indeed God gave you victory at Badr to destroy a group of the infidels with the sword, and to disgrace them with their disappointment in what they had hoped for of victory, 'so they would return disappointed,'" means: so they would return from you disappointed, having not attained from you anything that they had hoped to attain from you, as:

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: Or He suppresses them and they return disappointed, or He returns them disappointed, meaning: whoever remains of them returns disappointed, they did not attain anything of what they had hoped for.

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: Or He will subdue them, meaning: He will disgrace them, so they will return disappointed.

It was narrated on the authority of Ammar, on the authority of Ibn Abi Jaafar, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-Rabi', similarly.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

The Almighty said: To cut off a portion of those who disbelieved meaning by killing. The verse was structured as: And God had already given you victory at Badr to cut off. It was said: The meaning is: And victory is only from God to cut off. It is possible that it is related to -provides you, meaning He provides you to cut off. The meaning: Who among the polytheists was killed on the day of Badr, according to Al-Hasan and others. Al-Suddi: He means by it those among the polytheists who were killed on the day of Uhud, and they were eighteen men. The meaning of suppresses them is to grieve them, and the suppressed is the one who is grieved. It was narrated:

"The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, came to Abu Talha and saw his son depressed. He said: 'What is the matter with him?' It was said: 'His camel died.'" Its origin, as some linguists have mentioned, is to afflict them with grief and anger in their livers. The dal was replaced with a ta, just as it was changed in sabt ra'shu and sabdhahu, meaning to shave his head. God kabt the enemy, meaning to turn him away and humiliate him, and kabdahu afflicted him in his liver. It is said: Grief has burned his liver, and enmity has burned his liver. The Arabs say about the enemy: black-livered. Al-A'sha said:

I did not dare to go to a people who are enemies and have black livers.

As if the livers, when burned by the intensity of the enmity, turned black. Abu Majlaz read or yakbadhum with a dal. The loser: the one who has lost hope. Khaab yakhib if he does not get what he asked for. Al-Khayab: the cup that does not light.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The commentators differed about this promise, was it on the day of Badr or the day of Uhud? There are two opinions one of them that his saying: When you said to the believers is related to his saying: And God had already helped you at Badr and this was narrated on the authority of Al-Hasan Al-Basri, Aamer Al-Shaabi, Al-Rabi' bin Anas and others, and Ibn Jarir chose it. Abbad bin Mansour said on the authority of Al-Hasan regarding his saying: When you said to the believers, 'Is it not sufficient for you that your Lord should reinforce you with three thousand angels?' He said: This is on the day of Badr, narrated by Ibn Abi Hatim. Then he said: My father told us, Musa bin Ismail told us, Wahib told us, Dawud told us on the authority of Amer, meaning Al-Shaabi: The Muslims heard on the day of Badr that Kurz bin Jabir was supporting the polytheists, and that was difficult for them, so God Almighty revealed: "Will it not suffice for you that your Lord should reinforce you with three thousand angels sent down? Yes, if you are patient and fear God and they come upon you at once, your Lord will reinforce you with five thousand angels marked." He said: So Kurz was defeated, but he did not reinforce the polytheists, and God did not reinforce the Muslims with the five. Al-Rabi' bin Anas said: God reinforced the Muslims with a thousand, then they became three thousand, then they became five thousand. If it is said: What is the connection between this verse according to this statement, and God Almighty's statement in the story of Badr: "When you called upon your Lord, and He answered you, 'I will reinforce you with a thousand angels, following one another.'" And God did not make it except as good tidings and that your hearts might be reassured thereby. And victory is not but from God. Indeed, God is Exalted in Might and Wise." The answer is that the mention of the thousand here does not contradict the three thousand and above, because He said: in succession meaning that others will follow them and thousands like them will follow them. This context is similar to the context in Surat Al Imran. It appears that this was on the day of Badr, as is well known that the fighting of the angels was on the day of Badr, and God knows best. Saeed bin Abi Arubah said, on the authority of Qatada: God supported the Muslims on the day of Badr with five thousand. The second statement - This promise is related to His statement: And when you left your family, you assigned the believers positions for battle, and that was on the day of Uhud, and this is the statement of Mujahid, Ikrimah, Ad-Dahhak, Az-Zuhri, Musa bin Uqbah and others. But they said: The five thousand reinforcements were not provided because the Muslims fled that day. Ikrimah added: Nor the three thousand, because God Almighty said: Yes, if you are patient and fear God. So they were not patient, but fled, so they were not reinforced by a single king. And His statement: Yes, if you are patient and fear God means: Be patient with your enemy, fear Me, and obey My command. And God Almighty said: And they will come upon you in this haste of theirs. Al-Hasan, Qatadah, Al-Rabi', and Al-Suddi said: That is, from this direction of theirs. Mujahid, Ikrimah, and Abu Salih said: That is, from this anger of theirs. Ad-Dahhak said: From their anger and their face. Al-Awfi said on the authority of Ibn Abbas: From this journey of theirs, and it is said: From this anger of theirs. God the Almighty says: Your Lord will reinforce you with five thousand angels with marks, meaning marked with a mark. Abu Ishaq al-Sabi'i said on the authority of Haritha ibn Mudrib, on the authority of Ali ibn Abi Talib, may God be pleased with him, who said: The mark of the angels on the day of Badr was white wool, and their mark was also on the forelocks of their horses. Narrated by Ibn Abi Hatim. Then he said: Abu Zur'ah told us, Hudbah ibn Khalid told us, Hammad ibn Salamah told us, on the authority of Muhammad ibn Amr ibn Alqamah, on the authority of Abu Salamah, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, may God be pleased with him, regarding this verse marked, he said: with red wool. Mujahid said: marked means their manes are omitted, their forelocks are marked with white wool on the tails of the horses. Al-Awfi said, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with him, who said: The angels came to Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, marked with wool, so Muhammad and his companions marked themselves and their horses with their mark with wool. Qatada and Ikrimah said: Marked means with the mark of battle. Makhul said: Marked with turbans. Ibn Mardawayh narrated from the hadith of Abdul Quddus bin Habib from Ata bin Abi Rabah from Ibn Abbas, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said in his statement: Marked. Marked. The mark of the angels on the day of Badr was black turbans, and on the day of Hunayn they were red turbans. It was narrated from the hadith of Husain bin Mukhariq from Saeed from Al-Hakam from Muqsim from Ibn Abbas, who said: The angels did not fight except on the day of Badr. Ibn Ishaq said: I was told by someone I do not accuse, from Muqsim from Ibn Abbas, who said: The mark of the angels on the day of Badr was white turbans that they let down on their backs, and on the day of Hunayn they were red turbans. The angels did not strike on any day except the day of Badr, and on other days they were in number and support and did not strike. Then he narrated it on the authority of Al-Hasan bin Ammarah, on the authority of Al-Hakam, on the authority of Muqsim, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, and he mentioned something similar. On the authority of Hanzala bin Abi Sufyan, he said: I heard Salim bin Abdullah say: “The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, used to supplicate against Safwan bin Umayya, Suhayl bin Amr, and Al-Harith bin Hisham, so the verse was revealed: ‘You have no part in the matter, whether He forgives them or punishes them, for they are wrongdoers.’” This is how Al-Bukhari mentioned this addition, suspended and disconnected, and it was mentioned previously as a connected chain of transmission in Musnad Ahmad.

Imam Ahmad said: Hisham told us, Hamid told us, on the authority of Anas, may God be pleased with him, “The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, had his front tooth broken on the day of Uhud, and he was wounded in the forehead until blood ran down his face. He said: How can a people succeed who did this to their Prophet, while he was calling them to their Lord, the Almighty and Majestic?” So God revealed: You have no part in the matter, whether He forgives them or punishes them, for they are wrongdoers. Muslim is the only one to transmit it, and he narrated it on the authority of Al-Qa’ nabi, on the authority of Hammad bin Salamah, on the authority of Thabit, on the authority of Anas, and he mentioned it.

Ibn Jarir said: Ibn Hamid told us, Yahya bin Wadh told us, Al-Husayn bin Waqid told us, on the authority of Matar, on the authority of Qatada, who said: “The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, was injured on the day of Uhud, and his front tooth was broken and his eyebrow was parted. He fell down wearing two coats of mail and blood was flowing. Salim, the freed slave of Abu Hudhayfah, passed by him, sat him up, and wiped his face. He regained consciousness and said: ‘How can a people do this to their Prophet, while he was calling them to God Almighty?’ Then God revealed: ‘You have no part in the matter’ verse. Abd al-Razzaq narrated it similarly on the authority of Muammar on the authority of Qatada, but he did not say: ‘Then he regained consciousness.’”

Then the Almighty said: To God belongs whatever is in the heavens and whatever is on the earth, meaning that everything belongs to Him, and its people are slaves before Him. He forgives whom He wills and punishes whom He wills, meaning that He is the One who controls, so there is no questioning of His judgment, and He is not questioned about what He does, while they are questioned. And God is Forgiving and Merciful.

Fath al-Qadir

His statement: 127- To cut off a party of those who disbelieved is related to his statement And God had already given you victory at Badr. It was also said: It is related to his statement And victory is only from God. It was also said: It is related to his statement He reinforces you. The party is the group, and the meaning is: God gave you victory at Badr to cut off a party of the disbelievers, and they are those who were killed on the day of Badr, or the victory is only from God to cut off that group or He reinforces you to cut off. The meaning of suppresses them is to grieve them, and the subdued is the grieved. Some linguists said:

Its meaning is to plot against them: that is, to afflict them with sadness and anger in their livers, and this is incorrect, because the meaning of suppress is to grieve, anger, and humiliate, and the meaning of strikes the liver is so they return disappointed meaning: not victorious in their goal.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

127- The Almighty said: To cut off a part of those who disbelieved, meaning: God helped you at Badr to cut off a part, meaning: to destroy a group of those who disbelieved. Al-Suddi said: Its meaning is to destroy a pillar of polytheism by killing and taking captive, so seventy of their leaders and masters were killed on the day of Badr and seventy were taken captive. Whoever interprets the verse to mean the Battle of Uhud, sixteen of them were killed that day and the victory was for the Muslims until they disobeyed the command of the Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, so it turned against them. Or subdue them, Al-Kalbi said: He defeats them. Yaman said: He wrestles them down on their faces. Al-Suddi said: He curses them. Abu Ubaidah said: He destroys them. It was said: He grieves them. Al-Makboot is the sad one. It was said that its origin is: He inflicts grief and anger / on their livers. The ta and the dal alternate as it is said: He shaved his head and shaved it. It was said: He subdues them. With disappointment, they will return disappointed, they did not achieve anything of what they had hoped for from victory over you.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

127 To cut off a portion of those who disbelieved is related to your victory, or And what is victory if the lam in it is for the covenant, and the meaning is to reduce them by killing some and taking others captive, which is what happened on the day of Badr when seventy of their leaders were killed and seventy were taken captive. Or to suppress them or to disgrace them, and suppression is intense anger, or a weakness that occurs in the heart, and the or is for variation without hesitation so they turn back disappointed so they are defeated with no hope.

Surat Al Imran 3:128

You have no control over the matter. Either He forgives them or punishes them, for indeed, they are wrongdoers.

Surat Al Imran 3:128

You have no control over the matter. Either He forgives them or punishes them, for indeed, they are wrongdoers.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And when his front tooth was broken, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his face was wounded on the Day of Uhud, and he said: How can a people succeed who have stained the face of their Prophet with blood? Then was revealed: You have no part in the matter, rather the matter belongs to God, so be patient or meaning until He turns to them in forgiveness with Islam or punishes them, for they are wrongdoers with disbelief.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

The Almighty said: You have no part in the matter, the verse. Ahmad and Muslim narrated on the authority of Anas that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, had his front tooth broken on the day of Uhud and his face was wounded until blood flowed down his face. He said: How can a people succeed who did this to their Prophet while he was calling them to their Lord? So God revealed: You have no part in the matter, the verse. Ahmad and Al-Bukhari narrated on the authority of Ibn Umar that I heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: O God, curse so-and-so, O God, curse Al-Harith ibn Hisham, O God, curse Suhayl ibn Amr, O God, curse Safwan ibn Umayya. So this verse was revealed: You have no part in the matter, to the end of it, so forgive them all.

Al-Bukhari narrated on the authority of Abu Hurairah something similar. Al-Hafiz Ibn Hajar said: The way to reconcile the two hadiths is that he, may God bless him and grant him peace, prayed against those mentioned in his prayer after what happened to him of the aforementioned matter on the day of Uhud, so the verse was revealed regarding both matters together, regarding what happened to him and regarding what resulted from it of praying against them. He said: But what is found in Muslim from the hadith of Abu Hurairah is problematic regarding that, that he, may God bless him and grant him peace, used to say in the dawn prayer:

O God, curse Ra'l, Dhakwan, and Asiyah until God revealed to him, You have no part in the matter. The point of difficulty is that the verse was revealed in the story of Uhud, and the story of Ra'l and Dhakwan after it. Then the reason for the report became clear to me, and that there is an insertion in it, for his saying, Until God revealed, is disconnected from the narration of Al-Zuhri from the one who conveyed it to him. Muslim explained that this narration is not correct in what I mentioned. He said, It is possible to say that their story was after that, and the revelation of the verse was delayed a little from its cause, then it was revealed in all of that. I said, "And what was also mentioned in the cause of its revelation is what Al-Bukhari included in his history and Ibn Ishaq on the authority of Salim bin Abdullah bin Omar, who said, "A man from Quraysh came to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said, 'You forbid cursing.' Then he turned and turned his back to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and exposed his anus, so he cursed him and invoked against him. Then God revealed, "You have no part in the matter." The verse. Then the man converted to Islam, and his conversion to Islam was good."

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: By that, the Most High means: To cut off a portion of those who disbelieved, or to suppress them, or to accept their repentance, or to punish them, for they are wrongdoers. You have no say in the matter. So His statement, And accept your repentance, is in the accusative case, in apposition to His statement, or to suppress them.

It may be possible that its interpretation is: You have no say in the matter until He forgives them, so the accusative of repents is in the sense of or which is in the sense of until.

Abu Jaafar said: The first statement is more correct, because nothing of the creation's affairs is up to anyone except their Creator, before the repentance of the infidels and their punishment and after that.

The interpretation of his saying: You have no part in the matter, is that you, O Muhammad, have no part in the matter of My creation except that you carry out My command in them, and that you obey Me in them. Their matter is only in My hands, and the judgment in them is in My hand, and no one else's. I judge and rule in them as I will, from repentance for whoever disbelieved in Me, disobeyed Me, and opposed My command, or punishment, either in this worldly life with killing and devastating punishments, or in the Hereafter with what I have prepared for the people of disbelief in Me, as:

Ibn Hamid told me, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq, he said: Then he said to Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace: "You have no control over My servants, except what I have commanded you to do with them, or I will turn to them with My mercy, so if you wish I will do so, or I will punish them for their sins, "for they are wrongdoers," meaning they deserved that by disobeying Me.

He mentioned that God Almighty revealed this verse to His Prophet Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, because when he was afflicted with what the polytheists afflicted him with, he said, as if they had lost hope of guidance or of turning to the truth: How can a people succeed who did this to their Prophet!!

Who said that?

Humayd ibn Mas'adah told us, Bishr ibn al-Mufaddal told us, Humayd told us, Anas said: The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said on the day of Uhud, and his front tooth was broken and he was wounded, so he began wiping the blood from his face and saying: How can a people succeed when they have stained their Prophet with blood while he is calling them to their Lord! Then the verse was revealed: You have no part in the matter, whether He forgives them or punishes them, for they are wrongdoers.

Ibn Basharr told us, he said, Ibn Abi Uday told us, on the authority of Hamid, on the authority of Anas, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, something similar.

Yaqub told me, he said, Hisham told us, on the authority of Hamid al-Tawil, on the authority of Anas, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, something similar.

Yahya bin Talha Al-Yarboui told me, he said, Abu Bakr bin Ayyash told us, on the authority of Hamid Al-Tawil, on the authority of Anas bin Malik, he said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said when he was wounded in the forehead and his front tooth was broken: A people who did this to their Prophet will not succeed!! So God revealed to him: You have no part in the matter, whether He forgives them or punishes them, for they are wrongdoers.

Yaqub told me, on the authority of Ibn Ulayyah, who said: Ibn Awn told us, on the authority of Al-Hasan: The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said on the day of Uhud 11: How can a people succeed when they have caused blood to flow from the face of their Prophet while he was calling them to God Almighty! Then this verse was revealed: You have no part in the matter, whether He forgives them or punishes them, for they are wrongdoers.

Yaqub told us, he said, Ibn Ulayyah told us, on the authority of Hamid, on the authority of Anas, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, something similar to that.

Bishr told us, Yazid told us, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: You have no part in the matter, whether He forgives them or punishes them, for they are wrongdoers. He mentioned to us that this verse was revealed to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, on the day of Uhud, when the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was wounded in the face and some of his front teeth were injured. Salim, the freed slave of Abu Hudhayfah, was washing the blood from his face and said: How can a people succeed when they have stained the face of their Prophet with blood while he is calling them to their Lord! So God Almighty revealed: You have no part in the matter, whether He forgives them or punishes them, for they are wrongdoers.

Ibn Hamid told us, Yahya bin Wadh told us, Al-Husayn bin Waqid told us, on the authority of Matar, on the authority of Qatada, who said: The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, was injured on the day of Uhud, and his front tooth was broken and his eyebrow was parted. He fell down wearing two coats of mail, and blood was flowing. Salim, the freed slave of Abu Hudhayfah, passed by him, sat him down, and wiped his face. He regained consciousness and said: What about people who did this to their Prophet while he was calling them to God? Then God, the Blessed and Exalted, revealed: You have no part in the matter, whether He forgives them or punishes them, for they are wrongdoers.

It was narrated on the authority of Ammar, who said: Ibn Abi Ja'far narrated to us, on the authority of his father, regarding his statement: You have no part in the matter the verse. Al-Rabi' bin Anas said: This verse was revealed to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, on the day of Uhud, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, had been wounded in the face and his front tooth had been injured. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, wanted to supplicate against them, but he said: "How can a people succeed when they have blackened the face of their best friend while he calls them to God and they call him to Satan, and he calls them to guidance and they call him to misguidance, and he calls them to Paradise and they call him to Hellfire." He wanted to supplicate against them, but God Almighty revealed: "You have no part in the matter. Either He turns to them in forgiveness or He punishes them, for they are wrongdoers." So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, refrained from supplicating against them.

Muhammad ibn Sinan told me, he said, Abu Bakr al-Hanafi told us, he said, Ibad told us, on the authority of al-Hasan, regarding his statement: You have no part in the matter, or He may forgive them, the entire verse, he said: Abu Sufyan came from the year angry at what he had done to his companions on the day of Badr, so he fought the companions of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, on the day of Uhud fiercely, until he killed as many of them as were captured on the day of Badr, "Then the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said a word that God knew was mixed with anger: How can a people succeed who have stained the face of their Prophet with blood while he was calling them to Islam?" Then God Almighty said: You have no part in the matter, or He may forgive them or punish them, for they are wrongdoers.

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said: Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said: Muammar told us, on the authority of Qatada: The Prophet's front tooth was injured on the day of Uhud. It was injured by Utbah bin Abi Waqqas, and he cut it in the face. Salim, the freed slave of Abu Hudhayfah, was washing the blood from the Prophet, peace and blessings be upon him, and the Prophet, peace and blessings be upon him, was saying: How can a people succeed who did this to their Prophet? Then God, the Almighty, revealed: "You have no part in the matter. Whether He forgives them or punishes them, for they are wrongdoers."

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said: Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said: Muammar told us, on the authority of al-Zuhri and on the authority of Uthman al-Jazari, on the authority of Muqsim: That the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, supplicated against Utbah bin Abi Waqqas on the day of Uhud, when his front tooth was broken and his face was wounded, and he said: O God, do not let a year pass over him until he dies as an unbeliever! He said: So a year did not pass over him until he died as an unbeliever.

Surat Al Imran 3:128

You have no control over the matter. Either He forgives them or punishes them, for indeed, they are wrongdoers.

Al-Qasim told us, Al-Husayn told us, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, who said, Ibn Abbas said: The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, was wounded in the parting of his eyebrow and his front tooth was broken. Ibn Jurayj said: It was mentioned to us that when he was wounded, Salim, the freed slave of Abu Hudhaifa, began to wash the blood from his face, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, "was saying: How can a people succeed when they have stained the face of their Prophet with blood while he is calling them to God!" Then God Almighty revealed: You have no part in the matter.

Others said: Rather, this verse was revealed to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, because he called down curses on a people, so God Almighty revealed: The matter is not up to you regarding them.

The novel mentioned that:

Yahya bin Habib bin Arabi told me, he said, Khalid bin Al-Harith told us, he said, Muhammad bin Ajan told us, on the authority of Nafi', on the authority of Ibn Umar: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was praying against four men, so God, the Almighty, revealed: You have no part in the matter, whether He turns to them in mercy or punishes them, for they are wrongdoers. He said: And God guided them to Islam. Abu Al-Sa'ib Salim bin Junadah told me, he said, Ahmad bin Bashir told us, on the authority of Umar bin Hamza, on the authority of Salim, on the authority of Ibn Umar, he said, "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: O God, curse Abu Sufyan! O God, curse Al-Harith bin Hisham! O God, curse Safwan bin Umayya." So the following was revealed: You have no part in the matter, whether He turns to them in mercy or punishes them, for they are wrongdoers.

Mujahid bin Musa narrated to us, he said: Yazid narrated to us, he said: Muhammad bin Ishaq informed us, on the authority of Abd al-Rahman bin al-Harith bin Abd God bin Ayyash bin Abi Rabia, on the authority of Abd God bin Kaab, on the authority of Abu Bakr bin Abd al-Rahman bin al-Harith bin Hisham, he said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, prayed the dawn prayer, and when he raised his head from the second rak'ah, he said: O God, save Ayyash bin Abi Rabia, Salamah bin Hisham, and al-Walid bin al-Walid! O God, save the weak among the Muslims! O God, intensify your oppression on Mudar! O God, years like the years of the family of Joseph! Then God revealed: You have no part in the matter, or He will forgive them al-Baqarah 2:17. Yunus told me, he said, Ibn Wahb told us, he said, Yunus ibn

Yazid told me, on the authority of Ibn Shihab, he told him, on the authority of Sa'id ibn al-Musayyab and Abu Salamah ibn Abd al-Rahman: that they heard Abu Hurayrah say: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, used to say when he finished reciting the Fajr prayer, and he would say, 'God hears those who praise Him, our Lord, to You is praise.' Then he would say while standing: 'O God, save al-Walid ibn al-Walid, Salamah ibn Hisham, Ayyash ibn Abi Rabi' ah, and the oppressed among the believers! O God, intensify Your punishment upon Mudar, and make it like the years of Joseph upon them! O God, curse Lihyan, Ra'i, Dhakwan, and 'Asiyah who disobeyed God and His Messenger.' Then we were informed that he stopped doing that when the verse was revealed: 'You have no part in the matter, whether He forgives them or punishes them, for they are wrongdoers.'"

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

God Almighty says: "You have no part in the matter, whether He forgives them or punishes them, for they are wrongdoers. To God belongs whatever is in the heavens and whatever is on the earth. He forgives whom He wills and punishes whom He wills, and God is Forgiving and Merciful."

There are three issues:

First: It is proven in Sahih Muslim:

The Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) had his front tooth broken on the day of Uhud, and his head was wounded. He kept draining the blood and saying: How can a people succeed when they have wounded the head of their Prophet and broken his front tooth while he is calling them to God? Then God revealed: You have no part in the matter. Ad-Dahhak: The Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) wanted to supplicate against the polytheists, so God revealed: You have no part in the matter. It was said that he asked permission to supplicate for their extermination. When this verse was revealed, he knew that some of them would convert to Islam, and many of them did, including Khalid ibn al-Walid, Amr ibn al-Aas, Ikrimah ibn Abi Jahl, and others. At-Tirmidhi narrated on the authority of Ibn Umar, who said:

The Prophet (peace be upon him) was praying against four men, so God Almighty revealed, You have no part in the matter, so God guided them to Islam. He said: This is a good, strange, and authentic hadith. And God Almighty's statement, or He will forgive them, it was said: It is connected to to cut off a part, and the meaning is: to kill a group of them, or sadden them with defeat, or to forgive them, or to punish them. And or here may mean until and except that, Imru' al-Qais said:

...or we die and we are excused

Our scholars said: His, peace be upon him, saying: How can a people succeed who split the head of their prophet? is a rejection of the success of the one who did that to him. And the Almighty's saying: You have no part in the matter is an approximation of what he rejected and a hope for their conversion to Islam. And when he hoped for that, the Prophet, peace be upon him, said:

O God, forgive my people, for they do not know. As in Sahih Muslim on the authority of Ibn Masoud, who said:

It is as if I see the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, narrating the story of a prophet who was beaten by his people, and he is wiping the blood from his face and saying: O Lord, forgive my people, for they do not know. Our blind people said: The narrator in the hadith of Ibn Masoud is the Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, and he is the one being narrated from, as evidenced by what has come clearly and explicitly:

(When his front tooth was broken and his face was wounded on the day of Uhud, his companions were greatly distressed by that and they said: Why don't you invoke curses upon them? He said: (I was not sent to curse, but I was sent as a caller and a mercy. O God, forgive my people, for they do not know.) It was as if that was revealed to him before the Uhud incident occurred, and the Prophet did not specify that for him. When that happened to him, it was determined that he was the one meant by that, as evidenced by what we mentioned. It is also explained by what Omar said to him in some of his speech: May my father and mother be sacrificed for you, O Messenger of God! Noah invoked curses upon his people and said: My Lord, do not leave on the earth a single inhabitant of the disbelievers (Nuh 71:26). If you had invoked the like of it upon us, we would have perished from the last one. Your back and your mother trampled on your face and your front tooth was broken, but you refused to say anything but good, so you said: My Lord, forgive my people, for they do not know. And his saying:

God's wrath was intense against a people who broke the front teeth of their Prophet meaning the one who did that directly. We mentioned his name with some differences in that, but we said that it was specific to the one who did it directly, because a group of those who witnessed Uhud converted to Islam and their Islam was good.

Second: Some Kufians claimed that this verse abrogates the supplication that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, used to do after bowing in the last rak'ah of the dawn prayer. He provided evidence:

On the authority of Ibn Omar, he heard the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, say in the dawn prayer after raising his head from bowing, and he said:

(O God, our Lord, to You be praise in the Hereafter - then he said - O God, curse so-and-so, so God the Almighty revealed: You have no part in the matter, whether He forgives them or punishes them the verse. Al-Bukhari narrated it, and Muslim also narrated it from the hadith of Abu Hurayrah, more complete than it. This is not a place for abrogation, but God the Almighty alerted His Prophet that the matter is not up to him, and that he does not know anything of the unseen except what he knows, and that the matter is entirely up to God, He forgives whomever He wills and hastens punishment for whomever He wills. The meaning is: You have no part in the matter, and God has whatever is in the heavens and whatever is on the earth, apart from you and apart from them. He forgives whomever He wills and forgives whomever He wills. So there is no abrogation, and God knows best. And He explained by His saying: You have no part in the matter that matters are by the decree and predestination of God, in response to the Qadarites and others.

Third: The scholars differed regarding the Qunut in the Fajr prayer and other prayers. The Kufians forbade it in the Fajr prayer and other prayers. This is the view of Al-Layth and Yahya bin Yahya Al-Laythi Al-Andalusi, the companion of Malik, and Al-Sha'bi rejected it. In Al-Muwatta', on the authority of Ibn Umar: He did not perform the Qunut in any of the prayers. Al-Nasa'i narrated that Qutaybah informed us on the authority of Khalaf on the authority of Abu Malik Al-Ashja'i on the authority of his father, who said:

I prayed behind the Prophet (peace be upon him) and he did not pray Qunut, I prayed behind Abu Bakr and he did not pray Qunut, I prayed behind Umar and he did not pray Qunut, I prayed behind Uthman and he did not pray Qunut, I prayed behind Ali and he did not pray Qunut, then he said: O my son, this is an innovation. It was said: Qunut is always said in Fajr and in all prayers if a calamity befalls the Muslims, as stated by Ash-Shafi'i and At-Tabari. It was also said: It is recommended in Fajr prayer, and it was narrated from Ash-Shafi'i. Al-Hasan and Sahnun said: It is a Sunnah. This is implied by the narration of Ali ibn Ziyad from Malik that the one who deliberately neglected the prayer should repeat it. At-Tabari narrated the consensus that neglecting it does not invalidate the prayer. Al-Hasan said: There is prostration of forgetfulness in neglecting it, and this is one of the two opinions of Ash-Shafi'i. Ad-Daraqutni mentioned from Saeed ibn Abdul Aziz regarding the one who attributed Qunut in Fajr prayer, he said: He should perform the two prostrations of forgetfulness. Malik chose before bowing, and this is the opinion of Ishaq. It was also narrated on the authority of Malik after bowing, and it was narrated on the authority of the four caliphs, and it is the opinion of al-Shafi'i, Ahmad, and Ishaq as well. It was narrated on the authority of a group of the Companions that there is a choice in that. Al-Daraqutni narrated with a sound chain of transmission on the authority of Anas that he said:

The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, continued to recite the supplication in the morning prayer until he departed this world. Abu Dawud mentioned in Al-Marasil on the authority of Khalid bin Abi Imran, who said:

While the Messenger of God (may God's peace and blessings be upon him) was praying against Mudar, Gabriel came to him and motioned to him to be silent, so he remained silent. Then he said: (O Muhammad, God did not send you to insult or curse. Rather, He sent you as a mercy and not as a punishment. You have no part in the matter. Either He will forgive them or punish them, for they are wrongdoers.) He said: Then he taught him this supplication, so he said: (O God, we seek Your help and ask Your forgiveness, and we believe in You and submit to You and abandon and forsake those who disbelieve in You. O God, You alone do we worship, and to You we pray and prostrate, and to You we hasten and we hope for Your mercy and fear Your punishment, for Your punishment will surely overtake the disbelievers.)

You have no control over the matter. Either He forgives them or punishes them, for indeed, they are wrongdoers.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The commentators differed about this promise, was it on the day of Badr or the day of Uhud? There are two opinions one of them that his saying: When you said to the believers is related to his saying: And God had already helped you at Badr and this was narrated on the authority of Al-Hasan Al-Basri, Aamer Al-Shaabi, Al-Rabi' bin Anas and others, and Ibn Jarir chose it. Abbad bin Mansour said on the authority of Al-Hasan regarding his saying: When you said to the believers, 'Is it not sufficient for you that your Lord should reinforce you with three thousand angels?' He said: This is on the day of Badr, narrated by Ibn Abi Hatim. Then he said: My father told us, Musa bin Ismail told us, Wahib told us, Dawud told us on the authority of Amer, meaning Al-Shaabi: The Muslims heard on the day of Badr that Kurz bin Jabir was supporting the polytheists, and that was difficult for them, so God Almighty revealed: "Will it not suffice for you that your Lord should reinforce you with three thousand angels sent down? Yes, if you are patient and fear God and they come upon you at once, your Lord will reinforce you with five thousand angels marked." He said: So Kurz was defeated, but he did not reinforce the polytheists, and God did not reinforce the Muslims with the five. Al-Rabi' bin Anas said: God reinforced the Muslims with a thousand, then they became three thousand, then they became five thousand. If it is said: What is the connection between this verse according to this statement, and God Almighty's statement in the story of Badr: "When you called upon your Lord, and He answered you, 'I will reinforce you with a thousand angels, following one another.'" And God did not make it except as good tidings and that your hearts might be reassured thereby. And victory is not but from God. Indeed, God is Exalted in Might and Wise." The answer is that the mention of the thousand here does not contradict the three thousand and above, because He said: in succession meaning that others will follow them and thousands like them will follow them. This context is similar to the context in Surat Al Imran. It appears that this was on the day of Badr, as is well known that the fighting of the angels was on the day of Badr, and God knows best. Saeed bin Abi Arubah said, on the authority of Qatada: God supported the Muslims on the day of Badr with five thousand. The second statement - This promise is related to His statement: And when you left your family, you assigned the believers positions for battle, and that was on the day of Uhud, and this is the statement of Mujahid, Ikrimah, Ad-Dahhak, Az-Zuhri, Musa bin Uqbah and others. But they said: The five thousand reinforcements were not provided because the Muslims fled that day. Ikrimah added: Nor the three thousand, because God Almighty said: Yes, if you are patient and fear God. So they were not patient, but fled, so they were not reinforced by a single king. And His statement: Yes, if you are patient and fear God means: Be patient with your enemy, fear Me, and obey My command. And God Almighty said: And they will come upon you in this haste of theirs. Al-Hasan, Qatadah, Al-Rabi', and Al-Suddi said: That is, from this direction of theirs. Mujahid, Ikrimah, and Abu Salih said: That is, from this anger of theirs. Ad-Dahhak said: From their anger and their face. Al-Awfi said on the authority of Ibn Abbas: From this journey of theirs, and it is said: From this anger of theirs. God the Almighty says: Your Lord will reinforce you with five thousand angels with marks, meaning marked with a mark. Abu Ishaq al-Sabi'i said on the authority of Haritha ibn Mudrib, on the authority of Ali ibn Abi Talib, may God be pleased with him, who said: The mark of the angels on the day of Badr was white wool, and their mark was also on the forelocks of their horses. Narrated by Ibn Abi Hatim. Then he said: Abu Zur'ah told us, Hudbah ibn Khalid told us, Hammad ibn Salamah told us, on the authority of Muhammad ibn Amr ibn Alqamah, on the authority of Abu Salamah, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, may God be pleased with him, regarding this verse marked, he said: with red wool. Mujahid said: marked means their manes are omitted, their forelocks are marked with white wool on the tails of the horses. Al-Awfi said, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with him, who said: The angels came to Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, marked with wool, so Muhammad and his companions marked themselves and their horses with their mark with wool. Qatada and Ikrimah said: Marked means with the mark of battle. Makhlul said: Marked with turbans. Ibn Mardawayh narrated from the hadith of Abdul Quddus bin Habib from Ata bin Abi Rabah from Ibn Abbas, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said in his statement: Marked. Marked. The mark of the angels on the day of Badr was black turbans, and on the day of Hunayn they were red turbans. It was narrated from the hadith of Husain bin Mukhariq from Saeed from Al-Hakam from Muqsim from Ibn Abbas, who said: The angels did not fight except on the day of Badr. Ibn Ishaq said: I was told by someone I do not accuse, from Muqsim from Ibn Abbas, who said: The mark of the angels on the day of Badr was white turbans that they let down on their backs, and on the day of Hunayn they were red turbans. The angels did not strike on any day except the day of Badr, and on other days they were in number and support and did not strike. Then he narrated it on the authority of Al-Hasan bin Ammarah, on the authority of Al-Hakam, on the authority of Muqsim, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, and he mentioned something similar. Ibn Abi Hatim said: Al-Ahmasi told us, Waki' told us, Hisham bin Urwah told us, on the authority of Yahya bin Abbad, that Al-Zubayr, may God be pleased with him, was wearing a yellow turban on the day of Badr, wrapping himself in it, so the angels descended upon them wearing yellow turbans. Ibn Mardawayh narrated it on the authority of Hisham bin Urwah, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Abdullah bin Al-Zubayr, and he mentioned it. And the Almighty said: And God did not make it except as good tidings for you and that your hearts might be reassured thereby meaning that God did not send down the angels and inform you of their sending down except as good tidings for you and to comfort your hearts and reassure them. Otherwise, victory is from God, who, if He willed, would have taken revenge on His enemies without you, and without need for you to fight them, as God the Almighty said after commanding the believers to fight: "That is so. And if God had willed, He could have taken revenge on them, but that He may test some of you by means of others. And those who are killed in the way of God - never will He let their deeds perish. He will guide them and amend their condition. And He will admit them to Paradise, which He has made known to them." That is why He said here: "And God did not make it except as good tidings for you and that your hearts might be reassured thereby. And victory is only from God, the Almighty, the Wise." That is, He is the Possessor of the might that cannot be reached, and wisdom in His decree and rulings. Then God the Almighty said: That He may cut off a portion of those who disbelieve. That is, He commanded you to fight and struggle because of the wisdom He has in that in every decree. That is why He mentioned all possible categories of the disbelieving fighters, and He said: That He may cut off a portion meaning to destroy a nation of those who disbelieve. Those who disbelieved, or He will subdue them, meaning He will humiliate them and turn them back in anger because they did not get what they wanted from you. That is why He said: or He will subdue them so they turn back disappointed, meaning they did not get what they hoped for. Then he objected with a sentence that indicated that the judgment in this world and the hereafter is His alone, with no partner for Him. So the Most High said: You have no part in the matter, meaning, rather, the matter is entirely up to Me, as the Most High said: You are only responsible for conveying [the message], and upon Us is the reckoning, and He said: You are not responsible for their guidance, but God guides whom He wills, and He said: Indeed, you do not guide whom you like, but God guides whom He wills. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said regarding His statement: You have no part in the matter, meaning, you have no part in the judgment over My servants except what I have commanded you to do regarding them. Then the Most High mentioned the rest of the categories, saying: Or He turns to them, meaning, from what they are in of disbelief, so He guides them after misguidance, or He punishes them, meaning, in this world and the hereafter, for their disbelief and sins. For this reason, He said: For indeed, they are wrongdoers, meaning, they deserve that. Al-Bukhari said: Habban bin Musa told us, Abdullah told us, Muammar told us on the authority of Al-Zuhri, Salim told me on the authority of his father, "That he heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say when he raised his head from bowing in the second rak'ah of Fajr: 'O God, curse so-and-so and so-and-so,' after he had said: 'God hears whoever praises Him. Our Lord, to You is praise.' Then God Almighty revealed: 'You have no part in the matter,'" the verse. And thus it was narrated by Al-Nasa'i on the authority of Abdullah bin Al-Mubarak and Abd Al-Razzaq, both of them on the authority of Muammar. Imam Ahmad said: Abu Al-Nadr told us, Abu Aqil told us - Ahmad said: He is Abdullah bin Aqil, a trustworthy hadith master - Omar bin Hamza told us, on the authority of Salim, on the authority of his father, who said: I heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: O God, curse so-and-so, O God, curse Al-Harith bin Hisham, O God, curse Suhayl bin Amr, O God, curse Safwan bin Umayya. Then this verse was revealed: You have no part in the matter, whether He forgives them or punishes them, for they are wrongdoers. So He forgave them all. Ahmad said: Abu Mu'awiyah Al-Ghalabi told us, Khalid bin Al-Harith told us, Muhammad bin Ajlan told us, on the authority of Nafi', on the authority of Abdullah, that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, used to supplicate against four people. He said: Then God revealed: You have no part in the matter, to the end of the verse. He said: And God guided them to Islam. Muhammad bin Ajlan said on the authority of Nafi', on the authority of Ibn Umar, may God be pleased with them both, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, used to supplicate against some of the polytheists, naming them by name, until God revealed: You have no part in the matter al-Baqarah 2:17. Al-Bukhari also said: Musa bin Ismail told us, Ibrahim bin Sa'd told us, on the authority of Ibn Shihab, on the authority of Sa'id bin al-Musayyab, and Abu Salamah bin Abd al-Rahman, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, may God be pleased with him, that whenever the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, wanted to supplicate against someone, or for someone, he would recite the Qunut after bowing, and he would sometimes say: When he said: "God hears those who praise Him, our Lord, to You is praise: O God, save al-Walid bin al-Walid, Salamah bin Hisham, Ayyash bin Abi Rabi'ah, and the oppressed among the believers, O God, intensify Your punishment on Mudar, and make them years like the years of Joseph," he would say that out loud. And he used to say in some of his prayers in the Fajr prayer: O God, curse so-and-so and so-and-so, for some of the tribes of the Arabs, until God revealed: You have no part in the matter al-Baqarah 2:17.

Al-Bukhari said: Humayd and Thabit said, on the authority of Anas bin Malik: "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, was wounded on the Day of Uhud, so he said: How can a people succeed who have wounded their Prophet?" Then, You have no part in the matter was revealed. This hadith, which Al-Bukhari included in his Sahih, was attributed to him. Al-Bukhari said in the Battle of Uhud 11: Yahya bin Abdullah Al-Sulami told us, Abdullah told us, Muammar told us, on the authority of Al-Zuhri, Salim bin Abdullah bin Abihi told me that he heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say, "When he raised his head from bowing in the last rak'ah of Fajr, 'O God, curse so-and-so and so-and-so and so-and-so,' after he had said, 'God hears those who praise Him. Our Lord, to You is praise.' Then, God revealed, 'You have no part in the matter” and the verse. On the authority of Hanzala bin Abi Sufyan, he said: I heard Salim bin Abdullah say: “The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, used to supplicate against Safwan bin Umayya, Suhayl bin Amr, and Al-Harith bin Hisham, so the verse was revealed: ‘You have no part in the matter, whether He forgives them or punishes them, for they are wrongdoers.’” This is how Al-Bukhari mentioned this addition, suspended and disconnected, and it was mentioned previously as a connected chain of transmission in Musnad Ahmad.

Imam Ahmad said: Hisham told us, Hamid told us, on the authority of Anas, may God be pleased with him, “The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, had his front tooth broken on the day of Uhud, and he was wounded in the forehead until blood ran down his face. He said: How can a people succeed who did this to their Prophet, while he was calling them to their Lord, the Almighty and Majestic?” So God revealed: You have no part in the matter, whether He forgives them or punishes them, for they are wrongdoers. Muslim is the only one to transmit it, and he narrated it on the authority of Al-Qa’nabi, on the authority of Hammad bin Salamah, on the authority of Thabit, on the authority of Anas, and he mentioned it.

Ibn Jarir said: Ibn Hamid told us, Yahya bin Wadh told us, Al-Husayn bin Waqid told us, on the authority of Matar, on the authority of Qatada, who said: “The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, was injured on the day of Uhud, and his front tooth was broken and his eyebrow was parted. He fell down wearing two coats of mail and blood was flowing. Salim, the freed slave of Abu Hudhayfah, passed by him, sat him up, and wiped his face. He regained consciousness and said: ‘How can a people do this to their Prophet, while he was calling them to God Almighty?’ Then God revealed: ‘You have no part in the matter’ verse. Abd al-Razzaq narrated it similarly on the authority of Muammar on the authority of Qatada, but he did not say: ‘Then he regained consciousness.’”

Then the Almighty said: To God belongs whatever is in the heavens and whatever is on the earth, meaning that everything belongs to Him, and its people are slaves before Him. He forgives whom He wills and punishes whom He wills, meaning that He is the One who controls, so there is no questioning of His judgment, and He is not questioned about what He does, while they are questioned. And God is Forgiving and Merciful.

Fath al-Qadir

His statement 128- You have no part in the matter is an interjectional clause between the conjoined and the conjoined to: meaning that God is the master of their matter, He does with them what He wills of destruction, defeat, repentance if they submit, or punishment. So His statement, or He turns to them in mercy or punishes them is conjoined with His statement, or He suppresses them. Al-Farra’ said: //or means except that, meaning that you have no part in the matter except that He turns to them in mercy and you rejoice in that or punishes them and you are pleased with them.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

128- The Almighty said: You have no part in the matter the verse, they differed about the reason for the revelation of this verse, some people said: It was revealed about the people of Bir Ma’unah, and they were seventy men of the Qur’an reciters, the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent them to Bir Ma’unah in Safar of the year four of the Hijrah, four months after Uhud, to teach the people the Qur’an and knowledge, their leader was Al-Mundhir bin Amr, so Amer bin At-Tufayl killed them, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was deeply distressed by that, and he prayed for a month in all the prayers, calling for a curse and years against a group of those tribes, so the verse was revealed: You have no part in the matter.

Abdul Wahid bin Ahmad Al-Malhi told us, Ahmad bin Abdullah Al-Nuaimi told us, Muhammad bin Yusuf told us, Muhammad bin Ismail told us, Habban bin Musa told us, Abdullah, meaning Ibn Al-Mubarak told us, Omar told us, on the authority of Al-Zuhri, Salim told me, on the authority of his father, that he heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, when he raised his head from bowing in the last rak’ah of Fajr: O God, curse so-and-so, so-and-so, and so-and-so, after he had said: God hears whoever praises Him, our Lord, to You is praise. Then God Almighty revealed: You have no part in the matter, whether He forgives them or punishes them, for they are wrongdoers.

Some people said: It was revealed on the day of Uhud. Ismail bin Abdul Qahir told us, Abdul Ghafir bin Muhammad told us, Muhammad bin Isa Al-Jaludi told us, Ibrahim bin Muhammad bin Sufyan told us, Muslim bin Al-Hajjaj told us, Abdullah bin Muslimah bin Qanab told us, Hammad bin Salamah told us, on the authority of Thabit, on the authority of Anas, may God be pleased with them both, “that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, had his front tooth broken on the day of Uhud and his head was wounded. He kept wiping the blood off him and saying: How can a people succeed when they have wounded the head of their Prophet and broken his front tooth while he was calling them to God Almighty? Then God Almighty revealed: ‘You have no part in the matter.’”

On the authority of Abdullah bin Omar, may God be pleased with them both, he said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said on the day of Uhud 11: O God, curse Abu Sufyan, O God, curse Al-Harith bin Hisham, O God, curse Safwan bin Umayya. Then the verse was revealed: You have no part in the matter, unless God forgives them. So they became Muslim, and their Islam was good.

Saeed bin Al-Musayyab and Muhammad bin Ishaq said: When the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and the Muslims saw on the day of Uhud what happened to their companions, such as the cutting off of their ears and noses and the cutting off of their genitals, they said: If God Almighty gives us victory over them, we will do to them what they did, and we will mutilate them in a way that no Arab has mutilated anyone before. So God Almighty revealed this verse.

It was said: The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, wanted to call for their extermination, so this verse was revealed because he knew that many of them would convert to Islam. So the Almighty's saying: You have no part in the matter means: it is not up to you, so the lam means to like His saying: Our Lord, indeed we have heard a caller calling to faith (Surat Al Imran 3:193), meaning: to faith. The Almighty's saying: Or He turns to them in mercy (some of them said: it means until He turns to them in mercy), or: until He turns to them in mercy, and it was said: it is a sequence of His saying: To cut off a part, and His saying: You have no part in the matter is an interruption between the order of the speech and the order of the verse: "To cut off a part of those who disbelieve or suppress them so they return disappointed. You have no part in the matter" rather the matter is a command in all of that.

128 You have no part in the matter is an objection. Or He turns to them in mercy or punishes them is in apposition to His statement or suppresses them, and the meaning is that God is the Master of their matter, so He will either destroy them or suppress them or turn to them in mercy if they submit or punish them if they persist, and you have no part in their matter, but you are a slave commanded to warn them and fight them. It is possible that it is in apposition to the command or something with the implied that, meaning you have no part in their matter or turn to them in mercy or punish them. Or you have no part in their matter, or turn to them in mercy or punish them. And that or means except that. Meaning you have no part in their matter unless God turns to them in mercy and you are happy with it or punishes them and you are healed from them. It was narrated that Utbah ibn Abi Waqqas wounded him on the day of Uhud and broke his front tooth, so he began wiping the blood from his face and saying, How can a people succeed who have stained the face of their Prophet with blood?" So it was revealed. It was said that they were to invoke curses upon them, but God forbade them because He knew that among them were those who would believe. For they are wrongdoers, and they deserved to be punished for their wrongdoing.

Surat Al Imran 3:129

And to God belongs whatever is in the heavens and whatever is on the earth. He forgives whom He wills and punishes whom He wills. And God is Forgiving and Merciful.

Surat Al Imran 3:129

And to God belongs whatever is in the heavens and whatever is on the earth. He forgives whom He wills and punishes whom He wills. And God is Forgiving and Merciful.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And to God belongs whatever is in the heavens and whatever is on the earth as kings, creation, and servants. He forgives whom He wills forgiveness for him and punishes whom He wills punishment. And God is Forgiving to His friends and Merciful to those who obey Him.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: By that, the Most High means: You, O Muhammad, have no control over the matter, and God owns everything between the regions of the heavens and the earth, from the rising of the sun to its setting, apart from you and them. He rules over them as He wills, and decrees over them as He loves. He accepts the repentance of whomever He loves from among His creation who disobeys His command and prohibition, then forgives him, and punishes whomever He wills from among them for his crime and takes revenge on him. He is the Forgiving One who conceals the sins of whomever He loves to conceal from among His creation his sins by His grace upon them through pardon and forgiveness, and the Merciful One with them in leaving their punishment immediately despite the greatness of what they will do from the Qa'im, as Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: And God is Forgiving and Merciful, meaning He forgives sins and has mercy on the servants, regardless of what is in them.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

God Almighty says: "To God belongs whatever is in the heavens and whatever is on the earth. He forgives whom He wills and punishes whom He wills. And God is Forgiving and Merciful."

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The commentators differed about this promise, was it on the day of Badr or the day of Uhud? There are two opinions one of them that his saying: When you said to the believers is related to his saying: And God had already helped you at Badr and this was narrated on the authority of Al-Hasan Al-Basri, Aamer Al-Shaabi, Al-Rabi' bin Anas and others, and Ibn Jarir chose it. Abbad bin Mansour said on the authority of Al-Hasan regarding his saying: When you said to the believers, 'Is it not sufficient for you that your Lord should reinforce you with three thousand angels?' He said: This is on the day of Badr, narrated by Ibn Abi Hatim. Then he said: My father told us, Musa bin Ismail told us, Wahib told us, Dawud told us on the authority of Amer, meaning Al-Shaabi: The Muslims heard on the day of Badr that Kurz bin Jabir was supporting the polytheists, and that was difficult for them, so God Almighty revealed: "Will it not suffice for you that your Lord should reinforce you with three thousand angels sent down? Yes, if you are patient and fear God and they come upon you at once, your Lord will reinforce you with five thousand angels marked." He said: So Kurz was defeated, but he did not reinforce the polytheists, and God did not reinforce the Muslims with the five. Al-Rabi' bin Anas said: God reinforced the Muslims with a thousand, then they became three thousand, then they became five thousand. If it is said: What is the connection between this verse according to this statement, and God Almighty's statement in the story of Badr: "When you called upon your Lord, and He answered you, 'I will reinforce you with a thousand angels, following one another.'" And God did not make it except as good tidings and that your hearts might be reassured thereby. And victory is not but from God. Indeed, God is Exalted in Might and Wise." The answer is that the mention of the thousand here does not contradict the three thousand and above, because He said: in succession meaning that others will follow them and thousands like them will follow them. Then this verse was revealed: You have no part in the matter, whether He forgives them or punishes them, for they are wrongdoers. So He forgave them all. Ahmad said: Abu Mu'awiyah Al-Ghalabi told us, Khalid bin Al-Harith told us, Muhammad bin Ajlan told us, on the authority of Nafi', on the authority of Abdullah, that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, used to supplicate against four people. He said: Then God revealed: You have no part in the matter, to the end of the verse. He said: And God guided them to Islam. Muhammad bin Ajlan said on the authority of Nafi', on the authority of Ibn Umar, may God be pleased with them both, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, used to supplicate against some of the polytheists, naming them by name, until God revealed: You have no part in the matter al-Baqarah 2:17. Al-Bukhari also said: Musa bin Ismail told us, Ibrahim bin Sa'd told us, on the authority of Ibn Shihab, on the authority of Sa'id bin al-Musayyab, and Abu Salamah bin Abd al-Rahman, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, may God be pleased with him, that whenever the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, wanted to supplicate against someone, or for someone, he would recite the Qunut after bowing, and he would sometimes say: 'When he said: "God hears those who praise Him, our Lord, to You is praise: O God, save al-Walid bin al-Walid, Salamah bin Hisham, Ayyash bin Abi Rabi'ah, and the oppressed among the believers, O God, intensify Your punishment on Mudar, and make them years like the years of Joseph," he would say that out loud. And he used to say in some of his prayers in the Fajr prayer: O God, curse so-and-so and so-and-so, for some of the tribes of the Arabs, until God revealed: You have no part in the matter al-Baqarah 2:17.

Al-Bukhari said: Humayd and Thabit said, on the authority of Anas bin Malik: "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, was wounded on the Day of Uhud, so he said: How can a people succeed who have wounded their Prophet?" Then, You have no part in the matter was revealed. This hadith, which Al-Bukhari included in his Sahih, was attributed to him. Al-Bukhari said in the Battle of Uhud 11: Yahya bin Abdullah Al-Sulami told us, Abdullah told us, Muammar told us, on the authority of Al-Zuhri, Salim bin Abdullah bin Abihi told me that he heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say, "When he raised his head from bowing in the last rak'ah of Fajr, 'O God, curse so-and-so and so-and-so and so-and-so,' after he had said, 'God hears those who praise Him. Our Lord, to You is praise.' Then, God revealed, "You have no part in the matter" and the verse. On the authority of Hanzala bin Abi Sufyan, he said: I heard Salim bin Abdullah say: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, used to supplicate against Safwan bin Umayya, Suhayl bin Amr, and Al-Harith bin Hisham, so the verse was revealed: 'You have no part in the matter, whether He forgives them or punishes them, for they are wrongdoers.'" This is how Al-Bukhari mentioned this addition, suspended and disconnected, and it was mentioned previously as a connected chain of transmission in Musnad Ahmad.

Imam Ahmad said: Hisham told us, Hamid told us, on the authority of Anas, may God be pleased with him, "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, had his front tooth broken on the day of Uhud, and he was wounded in the forehead until blood ran down his face. He said: How can a people succeed who did this to their Prophet, while he was calling them to their Lord, the Almighty and Majestic?" So God revealed: You have no part in the matter, whether He forgives them or punishes them, for they are wrongdoers. Muslim is the only one to transmit it, and he narrated it on the authority of Al-Qa'nabi, on the authority of Hammad bin Salamah, on the authority of Thabit, on the authority of Anas, and he mentioned it.

Ibn Jarir said: Ibn Hamid told us, Yahya bin Wadh told us, Al-Husayn bin Waqid told us, on the authority of Matar, on the authority of Qatada, who said: "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, was injured on the day of Uhud, and his front tooth was broken and his eyebrow was parted. He fell down wearing two coats of mail and blood was flowing. Salim, the freed slave of Abu Hudhayfah, passed by him, sat him up, and wiped his face. He regained consciousness and said: 'How can a people do this to their Prophet, while he was calling them to God Almighty?' Then God revealed: 'You have no part in the matter' verse. Abd al-Razzaq narrated it similarly on the authority of Muammar on the authority of Qatada, but he did not say: 'Then he regained consciousness.'"

Then the Almighty said: To God belongs whatever is in the heavens and whatever is on the earth, meaning that everything belongs to Him, and its people are slaves before Him. He forgives whom He wills and punishes whom He wills, meaning that He is the One who controls, so there is no questioning of His judgment, and He is not questioned about what He does, while they are questioned. And God is Forgiving and Merciful.

Fath al-Qadir

His statement 129- And to God belongs whatever is in the heavens and whatever is on the earth is a new statement to explain the vastness of His kingdom. He forgives whomever He wills to forgive him. And He punishes whomever He wills to punish him. He does in His kingdom what He wills and decrees what He wants. He is not questioned about what He does, but they will be questioned. And in His statement, And God is Forgiving and Merciful is an indication that His mercy precedes His wrath, and good tidings to His servants that He is characterized by forgiveness and mercy in an exaggerated manner. How great this sublime humiliation is and how beloved it is to the hearts of those who know the secrets of the revelation.

Ibn Ishaq and Al-Bayhaqi in Al-Dala'il narrated on the authority of Ibn Shihab, Asim bin Omar bin Qatada, Muhammad bin Yahya bin Habbab and Al-Hussain bin Abdul Rahman bin Asaad bin Muadh that they said: The day of Uhud was a day of trial and testing, in which God tested the believers and destroyed the hypocrites who used to show Islam with their tongues while belittling their disbelief, and it was a day in which God honored those whom He wanted to honor with martyrdom from among the people of His authority. Among what was revealed of the Qur'an on the day of Uhud were sixty verses from Al-Imran describing what happened on that day and reprimanding those of them who reprimanded. God said to His Prophet, And when you went forth from your family Al-Madinah. Ibn Jarir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Al-Awfi on the authority of Ibn Abbas, And when you went forth from your family Al-Madinah. Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Saeed bin Jubair regarding His statement, The believers settled down *Al-Madinah. Ibn Jarir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Al-Hasan that the verse was about the day of the confederates. It has been mentioned in the books of biography and history how there was disagreement in the advice to the Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) on the day of Uhud. Some said we should go out to them, and some said we should stay in Medina. So he went out and among those who advised him was Abdullah bin Abi Salul, the leader of the hypocrites. His opinion was to stay in Medina and fight there, but when his opinion was contradicted, he withdrew with the hypocrites who were with him, and they were about a third of the people who the Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) went out with. Al-Bukhari and Muslim and others narrated on the authority of Jabir who said: When two parties among you were about to lose heart was revealed about us, and I would not be pleased that and God is their protector was not revealed. Abd bin Hamid and Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of Qatada regarding his statement: When two parties were about to lose heart that he said: That was on the day of Uhud. Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas who said: They were the Banu Haritha and the Banu Salamah. Abd bin Hamid narrated on the authority of Mujahid And God had certainly helped you at Badr to three thousand angels sent down in the story of Badr. Ibn Jarir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Al-Hasan regarding his statement, and you are weak, he said: and you are few, and on that day they were a few dozen or three hundred. Ibn Abi Shaybah, Ibn Jarir, Ibn Al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Al-Sha'bi: that the Muslims were informed on the day of Badr that Kurz bin Jaber Al-Muharibi was supplying the polytheists, and that was difficult for them, so God revealed, Is it not sufficient for you that your Lord should reinforce you with three thousand? to His statement, marked. He said: So it reached Kurz, but he did not reinforce the polytheists, nor did he reinforce the Muslims with the five. Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of Al-Sha'bi that on the day of Badr, the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was informed, then he mentioned something similar, except that he said, And they will come to you in haste, meaning Kurz and his companions, Your Lord will reinforce you with five thousand angels marked. So the report of the defeat reached Kurz and his companions, but he did not reinforce them, and the five were not revealed, and they were reinforced after that with a thousand, so they were four thousand. And Abd bin Hamid, Ibn Jarir and Ibn Al-Mundhir narrated on the authority of Qatada regarding the verse, he said: They were reinforced with a thousand, then they became three thousand, then they became five thousand, and that was on the day of Badr. And Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of Ikrimah regarding His statement, Yes, if you are patient and fear God 3:10, he said: This was on the day of Uhud, but they were not patient and did not fear God, so they were not reinforced on the day of Uhud, and if they had been reinforced, they would not have been defeated that day. And Ibn Jarir, Ibn Al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated something similar on the authority of Ad-Dahhak. And Ibn Jarir and Ibn Abi

Hatim narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas regarding His statement, And they will come to you in full force, he said: From their journey. And Abd bin Hamid and Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of Ikrimah, from their force, he said: From their face. And Ibn Jarir narrated something similar on the authority of Al-Hasan, Ar-Rabi' and Qatadah As-Suddi. And Abd bin Hamid and Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of Mujahid, from their force, he said: From their anger. And they narrated something similar on the authority of Abu Salih, the freed slave of Umm Hani. And At-Tabarani and Ibn Mardawayh narrated with a weak chain of transmission on the authority of Ibn Abbas. He said: The Messenger of God (peace be upon him) said in his saying marked he said: marked, and the mark of the angels on the day of Badr was black turbans, and on the day of Uhud they were red turbans. Ibn Abi Shaybah, Ibn Jarir, Ibn Al-Mundhir, Ibn Abi Hatim and Ibn Mardawayh narrated on the authority of Abdullah bin Al-Zubayr: that Al-Zubayr was wearing a yellow turban on the day of Badr, and the angels descended upon them with yellow turbans. Ibn Ishaq and Al-Tabarani narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: The mark of the angels on the day of Badr was white turbans that they had let down on their backs, and on the day of Hunayn they were red turbans, and the angels did not strike on any day except the day of Badr, and they were in numbers and reinforcements and did not strike. There is much disagreement about the explanation of the marking from the predecessors, which is not of much benefit. Abd bin Hamid, Ibn Jarir, Ibn Al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Qatada regarding his saying that He may cut off a portion of those who disbelieved he said: God cut off a portion of the disbelievers on the day of Badr, and killed their leaders, chiefs and leaders in evil. Ibn Jarir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated regarding his statement, To cut off a part, that he said: This was on the day of Badr, when God cut off a group of them and left a group. Ibn Jarir narrated from Al-Suddi, that he said: God mentioned the slain polytheists at Uhud, and they were eighteen men, so He said, To cut off a part of those who disbelieved, then God mentioned the martyrs, saying, And never think that those who are killed in the way of God are dead. Ibn Al-Mundhir narrated from Mujahid regarding his statement, Or He suppresses them, that he said: He grieves them. Ibn Jarir narrated from Qatadah and Al-Rabi' similarly. Al-Bukhari, Muslim and others narrated from Anas that the Prophet's front tooth was broken on the day of Uhud and his face was cut until blood flowed. He said, How can a people succeed who did this to their Prophet while he was calling them to their Lord? So God revealed, You have no part in the matter, the verse. This meaning has been narrated in many narrations. Al-Bukhari, Muslim and others narrated on the authority of Ibn Umar that he said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said on the day of Uhud 11: O God, curse Abu Sufyan, O God, curse Al-Harith bin Hisham, O God, curse Suhayl bin Amr, O God, curse Safwan bin Umayya. Then this verse was revealed: You have no part in the matter. Al-Bukhari, Muslim and others also narrated from the hadith of Abu Hurairah: "Whenever the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, wanted to supplicate against someone, or to supplicate for someone, he would say after bowing:

And to God belongs whatever is in the heavens and whatever is on the earth. He forgives whom He wills and punishes whom He wills. And God is Forgiving and Merciful.

'O God, save Al-Walid bin Al-Walid, Salamah bin Hisham, Ayyash bin Abi Rabi'ah and the weak believers. O God, make Your punishment severe upon Mudar and make it years for them like the years of Joseph.' He would say this out loud. And he would say in some of his prayers in the Fajr prayer: 'O God, curse so-and-so and so-and-so for some tribes of the Arabs until God revealed, 'You have no part in the matter.'" And in another version: "O God, curse Lihyan, Ra'la, Dhakwan and 'Asiyah who disobeyed God and His Messenger. Then we were informed that he stopped doing this when the verse was revealed, 'You have no part in the matter.'"

Tafsir al-Baghawi

129-Then he said: "To God belongs whatever is in the heavens and whatever is on the earth. He forgives whom He wills and punishes whom He wills. And God is Forgiving and Merciful."

Tafsir al-Baidawi

129 And to God belongs whatever is in the heavens and whatever is on the earth in creation and dominion, so His is the command, not yours. He forgives whom He wills and punishes whom He wills is explicit in denying the necessity of punishment, and the restriction to repentance or not is like the opposite of it. And God is Forgiving and Merciful to His servants, so do not rush to pray against them.

Surat Al Imran 3:130

O you who have believed, do not consume usury, doubled and multiplied, but fear God that you may be successful.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

O you who have believed, do not consume usury, doubled and multiplied by a thousand or less, by increasing the money when the due date comes and delaying the request and fear God by abandoning it that you may succeed win.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

The Almighty said: O you who have believed, Al-Faryabi narrated on the authority of Mujahid, who said: They used to trade on credit, but when the term came, they would increase it and increase the term, so the verse was revealed: O you who have believed, do not consume usury, doubled and multiplied. He also narrated on the authority of Ata', who said: Thaqif used to lend to Banu Nadir in the pre-Islamic period, but when the term came, they would say: We give you interest and you delay from us. So the verse was revealed: Do not consume usury, doubled and multiplied.

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: By that, may His praise be glorified, He means: O you who believe in God and His Messenger, do not consume usury in your Islam after He has guided you to it, as you used to consume it in your ignorance.

And their eating of that in their ignorance was: a man among them would have money owed to another man until a term came, and when the term came he would ask his friend for it, and the one who owed the money would say to him: Delay your debt from me and I will give you more of your money, and they would do that: and that is usury, multiplied and multiplied, so God Almighty forbade them from it in their Islam, as:

Muhammad ibn Sinan told us, he said, Muammil told us, he said, Sufyan told us, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, on the authority of Ata', he said: Thaqif used to borrow from Banu al-Mughira in the pre-Islamic era, and when the due date came, they would say: Shall we give you more and you delay? So the verse was revealed: And do not consume usury, doubled and multiplied.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq, he said: O you who have believed, do not consume usury, doubled and multiplied, meaning: Do not eat in Islam, since God has guided you to it, what you used to eat when you were not upon it, which is not permissible for you in your religion.

Muhammad bin Amr told us, he said, Abu Asim told us, on the authority of Isa, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding the statement of God Almighty: O you who have believed, do not consume usury, doubled and multiplied, he said: The usury of the Age of Ignorance.

Yunus told me, he said, Ibn Wahb told us, he said, I heard Ibn Zayd say about His statement, Do not consume usury, doubled and multiplied, he said: My father used to say, "Usury in the pre-Islamic era was only in doubling and in age. A man would have an extra debt, so when the due date came, he would come to him and say, 'Will you pay me or give me more?' If he had something to pay it, he would pay it, otherwise he would transfer it to the next year. If it was a young female camel, he would make it a two-year-old female camel, then a one-year-old female camel, then a three-year-old female camel, then a four-year-old female camel, then so on up. And in the 'ayn, he would come to him. If he did not have anything, he would double it the following year. If he did not have anything, he would add it still, so it would be one hundred, and he would make it two hundred the following year. If he did not have anything, he would make it four hundred, doubling it for him every year or paying it off. He said: So this is His statement, "Do not consume usury, doubled and multiplied."

As for His statement: And fear God that you may be successful, it means: And fear God, O believers, in the matter of usury, so do not eat it, and in other matters that He has commanded you to do or forbidden you from, and obey Him in them, that you may be successful, meaning: so that you may succeed and be saved from His punishment, and attain what He has desired of you of His reward and eternity in His Paradise, as:

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: And fear God that you may succeed, meaning: Obey God that you may be saved from what He has warned you of of His punishment, and attain what He has desired of you of His reward.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

God the Almighty said: O you who have believed, do not consume usury, doubled and multiplied. This prohibition of consuming usury is an interjection during the story of Uhud. Ibn Atiyyah said: I have memorized something narrated about that. I said: Mujahid said: They used to sell on credit, and when the time came, they would increase the price in return for delaying it, so God the Almighty revealed: O you who have believed, do not consume usury, doubled and multiplied. I said: He only singled out usury from among all other sins because it is the one for which God has permitted war in His statement: But if you do not, then be informed of a war from God and His Messenger. (al-Baqarah 2:279), and war is permitted by killing, so it is as if He is saying: If you do not avoid usury, you will be defeated and killed. So He ordered them to abandon usury because it was practiced among them. And God knows best. Doubled is an accusative in the state of state, and doubled is its description. It was read muda'fa and its meaning is the usury in which the Arabs used to weaken the debt, so the claimant would say: Do you demand or increase? As mentioned in Al-Baqarah. And muda'fa is an indication of the repetition of the doubling year after year as they used to do, so this emphatic phrase indicates the hideousness and ugliness of their action, and therefore the case of doubling was mentioned in particular.

Surat Al Imran 3:130

God Almighty says: And fear God meaning regarding usurious money, so do not consume it.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The Almighty says, forbidding His believing servants from engaging in usury and consuming it in multiples, as they used to say in the days of ignorance: When the due date of a debt comes, either pay it or increase it. If he pays it, otherwise, he increases it in the period, and the other increases it in the amount, and so on every year, perhaps the little will be doubled until it becomes a lot multiplied. The Almighty commanded His servants to be pious, so that they may succeed in the first and the last, then He threatened them with the Fire and warned them against it, so the Almighty said: "And fear the Fire which has been prepared for the disbelievers. And obey God and the Messenger, that you may receive mercy." Then He urged them to hasten to do good deeds and hasten to attain the acts of worship, so the Almighty said: And hasten to forgiveness from your Lord and a Garden as wide as the heavens and the earth, prepared for the righteous. That is, just as the Fire was prepared for the disbelievers. It has been said that the meaning of His saying its width is the heavens and the earth is an indication of the vastness of its length, as He said in describing the furnishings of Paradise: its linings are of brocade. That is, what do you think? By the backs? It was said: Rather, its width is like its length because it is a dome under the throne, and the domed and round thing is as wide as its length. This is indicated by what was established in the Sahih: "If you ask God for Paradise, then ask Him for Al-Firdaws, for it is the highest part of Paradise and the middle of Paradise, and from it the rivers of Paradise flow, and its roof is the Throne of the Most Merciful." This verse is like the Almighty's saying in Surat al-Hadid 57: Race one another to forgiveness from your Lord and a Paradise whose width is like the width of the heavens and the earth, the verse. We narrated in Musnad Al-Imam Ahmad that Heraclius wrote to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace: You have invited me to a Paradise whose width is the heavens and the earth, so where is Hell? The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Glory be to God, so where is the night when the day comes? Ibn Jarir narrated it and said: Yunus told me, Ibn Wahb told us, Muslim bin Khalid told me on the authority of Abu Khathim, on the authority of Saeed bin Abi Rashid, on the authority of Ya'la bin Murrah, who said: "I met Al-Tanukhi, the messenger of Heraclius to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, in Homs, an old man who had become corrupt. He said: I came to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, with the letter of Heraclius, so he handed the paper to a man on his left. He said: I said: Who is your companion who reads? They said: Mu'awiyah. Then it was the letter of my companion: You have written inviting me to a Paradise whose width is the heavens and the earth, prepared for the righteous. So where is the Fire?" He said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Glory be to God! Where is the night when the day comes? Al-A'mash, Sufyan al-Thawri and Shu'bah said on the authority of Qays ibn Muslim on the authority of Tariq ibn Shihab: Some Jews asked Umar ibn al-Khattab about a Paradise whose width is the heavens and the earth, so where is Hell? Umar said to them: Have you seen when the day comes, where is the night? And when the night comes, where is the day? They said: Something similar has been taken from the Torah. Ibn Jarir narrated it through three chains of transmission. Then he said: Ahmad ibn Hazim told us, Abu Nu'aym told us, Ja'far ibn Burqan told us, Yazid ibn al-A'sam told us: A man from the People of the Book said: They say, A Paradise whose width is the heavens and the earth, so where is Hell? Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with him, said: Where is the night when the day comes, and where is the day when the night comes? This has been narrated with a chain of transmission traceable back to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace. Al-Bazzar said: Muhammad ibn Mu'ammarr told us, Al-Mughirah ibn Salamah Abu Hisham told us, Abd al-Wahid ibn Ziyad told us on the authority of Ubaydullah ibn Abdullah ibn al-A'sam, on the authority of His uncle Yazid ibn al-Asamm, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, said: "A man came to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: 'Have you seen the words of God the Almighty: "A Paradise as wide as the heavens and the earth," then where is the Fire? He said: 'Have you seen that when the night comes it covers everything, so where is the day?' He said: 'Wherever God wills.' He said: 'And so the Fire will be wherever God the Almighty wills.'" This has two possible meanings one of them that the meaning in that is that it does not necessarily follow from our not seeing the night when the day comes that it is not in a place, even if we do not know it, and so the Fire will be wherever God the Almighty wills, and this is more apparent as mentioned previously in the hadith of Abu Hurayrah on the authority of al-Bazzar.

Second That the meaning is that if the day covers the face of the world from this side, then the night is from the other side, so likewise Paradise is in the highest of the high above the heavens under the Throne and its width, as God Almighty said like the width of the heaven and the earth and Hell is in the lowest of the low, so there is no contradiction between it being like the width of the heavens and the earth and the existence of Hell, and God knows best.

Then God the Almighty mentioned the description of the people of Paradise, saying, Those who spend in ease and hardship, meaning in hardship and ease, in comfort and distress, in health and sickness, and in all circumstances, just as He said, Those who spend their wealth by night and by day, secretly and publicly, meaning that nothing distracts them from obeying God the Almighty and spending in what pleases Him, and doing good to His creation from their relatives and others with various types of righteousness. And God the Almighty said, And those who restrain anger and pardon the people, meaning that if anger arises in them, they restrain it, meaning they conceal it and do not act on it, and they pardon those who wrong them. It was mentioned in some of the narrations: "God the Most High says: O son of Adam, remember Me when you become angry, and I will remember you when you become angry, so that I will not destroy you among those whom I destroy." Narrated by Ibn Abi Hatim. Abu Ya'la said in his Musnad: Abu Musa al-Zaman told us, Isa bin Shu'aib al-Dareer Abu al-Fadl told us, al-Rabi' bin Sulayman al-Jizi told me on the authority of Abu Amr bin Anas bin Malik, on the authority of his father, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever restrains his anger, God will restrain his punishment from him. Whoever guards his tongue, God will cover his faults. Whoever apologizes to God, God will accept his apology." This is a strange hadith, and its chain of transmission is questionable. Imam Ahmad said: Abd al-Rahman told us, Malik told us on the authority of al-Zuhri, on the authority of Sa'id bin al-Musayyab, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, may God be pleased with him, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: The strong man is not the one who wrestles, but the strong man is the one who controls himself when he is angry. The two sheikhs narrated it on the authority of Malik. Imam Ahmad also said: Abu Muawiyah told us, Al-A'mash told us, on the authority of Ibrahim Al-Taymi, on the authority of Al-Harith bin Suwaid, on the authority of Abdullah, who is Ibn Mas'ud, may God be pleased with him, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Which of you would rather have the wealth of his heir than his own wealth? They said: O Messenger of God, there is none among us who does not love his wealth more than the wealth of his heir. He said: "Know that there is none among you who does not love the wealth of his heir more than his own wealth. Your wealth from your wealth is only what you have sent forward, and the wealth of your heir is what you have delayed." The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: What do you consider to be a wrestler among you? We said: The one who is not wrestled by men. He said: No, but the one who controls himself when he is angry. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: What do you consider to be a slave among you? We said: The one who has no children. He said: No, but the slave is the one who has not sent forward any of his children. Al-Bukhari included the first chapter of it, and Muslim included the original of this hadith, on the authority of Al-A'mash.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Muhammad ibn Ja'far told us, Shu'bah told us, I heard Urwah ibn 'Abdullah al-Ju'fi narrating on the authority of Hasbah or Ibn Abi Hasin, on the authority of a man who witnessed the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, giving a sermon, and he said, Do you know what ruqūb is? We said, The one who has no children. He said, Ruqūb is all the ones who have children and then died without having given anything from them. He said, Do you know what sāluq is? They said, The one who has no wealth. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said, The sāluq is all the one who has wealth and then died without giving anything from it. Then the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said, What is sarā'? They said, The one who is struck down. He, may God bless him and grant him peace, said, Sarā' is all the sarā', the one who becomes angry and his anger becomes intense, his face turns red, and his hair stands up, so he is struck down by his anger.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Ibn Numayr told us, Hisham ibn Urwah told us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-Ahnaf ibn Qays, on the authority of his uncle called Jariyah ibn Qudamah Al-Sa'di, "that he asked the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: O Messenger of God, say to me something that will benefit me and make it short for me so that I may understand it. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Do not get angry. So he repeated it to him until he repeated it to him many times, each time saying: Do not get angry." And this is how he narrated it on the authority of Abu Mu'awiyah on the authority of Hisham on his authority, and he also narrated it on the authority of Yahya ibn Sa'id Al-Qattan on the authority of Hisham on his authority, "that a man said: O Messenger of God, say to me something and make it short for me so that I may understand it. He said: Do not get angry." The hadith is narrated only by Ahmad.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Abd al-Razzaq told us, Muammar told us, on the authority of al-Zuhri, on the authority of Hamid ibn Abd al-Rahman, "On the authority of a man from the companions of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: A man said: O Messenger of God, advise me. He said: Do not get angry. The man said: So I thought about it when the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said what he said, and I saw that anger brings together all evil." Ahmad alone transmitted it.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Abu Muawiyah told us, Dawud ibn Abi Hind told us, on the authority of Abu Ibn Harb ibn Abi Al-Aswad, on the authority of Abu Al-Aswad, on the authority of Abu Dharr, may God be pleased with him, who said: He was watering from his cistern when some people came and said: Who among you will bring water to Abu Dharr and count the hairs from his head? A man said: I will. So the man came and brought water to him from the cistern and pounded it. Abu Dharr was standing, so he sat down and then lay down. It was said to him: O Abu Dharr, why did you sit down and then lie down? He said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to us: If one of you becomes angry while standing, let him sit down. If the anger goes away from him, then all well and good, otherwise let him lie down." Abu Dawood narrated it from Ahmad ibn Hanbal with his chain of transmission, except that it was included in his narration on the authority of Abu Harb on the authority of Abu Dharr. The correct version is Ibn Abi Harb on the authority of his father on the authority of Abu Dharr, as Abdullah ibn Ahmad narrated it on the authority of his father.

Surat Al Imran 3:130

O you who have believed, do not consume usury, doubled and multiplied, but fear God that you may be successful.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Ibrahim bin Khalid told us, Abu Wa'il al-San'ani told us: We were sitting with Urwah bin Muhammad when a man entered and said to him words that angered him. When he angered him, he stood up and came back to us after having performed ablution. He said: My father told me on the authority of my grandfather Atiyah - he is Ibn Sa'd al-Sa'di - and he was a companion - he said: "The Messenger of God said: Anger is from the devil, and the devil was created from fire, and fire is extinguished only with water. So when one of you becomes angry, let him perform ablution." And this is how Abu Dawud narrated it from the hadith of Ibrahim bin Khalid al-San'ani on the authority of Abu Wa'il al-Qass al-Muradi al-San'ani. Abu Dawud said: I think he was Abdullah bin Buhair.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Abdullah bin Yazid told us, Noah bin Ja'una al-Salami told us, on the authority of Muqatil bin Hayyan, on the authority of Ata', on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Whoever gives respite to someone in difficulty or forgives him, God will protect him from the heat of Hell. Indeed, the work of Paradise is made difficult by a hill - three times - Indeed, the work of Hell is made easy by a slip. And the happy one is the one who is protected from trials, and there is no sip more beloved to God than a sip of anger that a servant swallows. No servant of God swallows it except that it fills his stomach with faith.'" Ahmad is the only one to narrate it, and its chain of transmission is good, with no one who is wounded in it, and its text is good.

Another hadith with the same meaning - Abu Dawud said: Uqbah bin Makram told us, Abd al-Rahman, meaning Ibn Mahdi, told us, on the authority of Bishr, meaning Ibn Mansur, on the authority of Muhammad bin Ajan, on the authority of Suwaid bin Wahb, on the authority of a man from the sons of the companions of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, on the authority of his father, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever suppresses anger when he is able to vent it, God will fill him with security and faith. Whoever refrains from wearing a beautiful garment when he is able to do so - Bishr said: I think he said: out of humility - God will clothe him with the garment of honor. Whoever marries for God, God will clothe him with the crown of kingship."

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Abdullah bin Yazid told us: Saeed told us, Abu Marhum told me on the authority of Sahl bin Muadh bin Anas, on the authority of his father, "The Messenger of God said: Whoever suppresses his anger when he is able to vent it, God will call him in front of all creation and let him choose from any of the houris he wants." Abu Dawud, Al-Tirmidhi and Ibn Majah narrated it on the authority of Saeed bin Abi Ayoub, and Al-Tirmidhi said: Hasan Gharib.

Another hadith - Abd al-Razzaq said: Dawud ibn Qays informed us, on the authority of Zayd ibn Aslam, on the authority of a man from the people of Ash-Sham called Abd al-Jalil, on the authority of his uncle, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, may God be pleased with him, regarding the words of God Almighty: And those who restrain anger, that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever restrains anger when he is able to give vent to it, God will fill him with security and faith. Narrated by Ibn Jarir.

Another hadith - Ibn Mardawayh said: Ahmad ibn Muhammad ibn Ziyad told us, Yahya ibn Abi Talib told us, Ali ibn Asim told us, Yunus ibn Ubayd told me on the authority of Al-Hasan, on the authority of Ibn Umar, may God be pleased with them both, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'A servant has not taken a sip of food that is better in reward than a sip of anger that he swallows seeking the face of God.'" And Ibn Majah narrated it likewise on the authority of Bishr ibn Umar, on the authority of Hammad ibn Salamah, on the authority of Yunus ibn Ubayd, with the same chain of transmission. So God Almighty's statement: And those who restrain anger means that they do not act out their anger on people, but rather they restrain their evil from them, and they seek reward for that from God Almighty. Then God the Almighty said: And those who pardon people meaning, while refraining from evil, they pardon those who wronged them in their souls, so that no grudge remains in their souls against anyone, and this is the most perfect state, and for this reason He said: And God loves the doers of good so this is from the stations of goodness, and in the hadith: "There are three things that I swear by: no wealth is diminished by charity, and God does not increase a servant through forgiveness except in honor, and whoever humbles himself before God, God will raise him up." Al-Hakim narrated in his Mustadrak from the hadith of Musa bin Uqbah from Ishaq bin Yahya bin Talhah Al-Qurashi, from Ubadah bin As-Samit, from Ubayy bin Ka'b that the Messenger of God, "said: Whoever is pleased to have a lofty building and be raised in status, let him pardon those who wronged him, give to those who deprived him, and connect with those who severed ties with him." Then he said: It is authentic according to the conditions of the two sheikhs, and they did not include it. Ibn Mardawayh included it from the hadith of Ali, Ka'b bin Ujrah, Abu Hurayrah, and Umm Salamah, may God be pleased with them, in a similar manner. It was narrated on the authority of Ad-Dahhak on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: When the Day of Resurrection comes, a crier will call out, saying: Where are those who pardoned people? Come to your Lord and take your rewards. It is the right of every Muslim man, if he pardons, to enter Paradise." And God Almighty said: And those who, when they have committed an immorality or wronged themselves, remember God and seek forgiveness for their sins. That is, if they commit a sin, they follow it up with repentance and seeking forgiveness. Imam Ahmad said: Yazid told us, Hammam bin Yahya told us, on the authority of Ishaq bin Abdullah bin Abi Talhah, on the authority of Abd al-Rahman bin Abi Umrah, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, may God be pleased with him, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, "He said: A man committed a sin and said: O Lord, I have committed a sin, so forgive it. God, the Almighty, said: My servant committed a sin and knew that he has a Lord who forgives sins and takes them to task. I have forgiven My servant. Then he committed another sin and said: O Lord, I have committed a sin, so forgive it. God, the Almighty, said: My servant knew that he has a Lord who forgives sins and takes them to task. I have forgiven My servant. Then he committed another sin and said: O Lord, I have committed a sin, so forgive it. God, the Almighty, said: My servant knew that he has a Lord who forgives sins and takes them to task. I have forgiven My servant." With it, I bear witness that I have forgiven my servant, so let him do whatever he wants." It was included in Sahih from the hadith of Ishaq bin Abi Talha, in a similar manner.

Another Hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Abu al-Nadr and Abu Amir told us: Zuhair told us: Saad al-Ta'i told us: Abu al-Mudallah, the freed slave of the Mother of the Believers, heard Abu Hurairah, we said: O Messenger of God, when we see you, our hearts soften, and we are from the people of the Hereafter, and when we leave you, the world pleases us, and we smell women and children. He said: "If you were to be in every state in the state you are in with me, the angels would shake your hands with their palms, and visit you in your homes. And if you did not sin, God would bring people who would sin so that He would forgive them." We said: O Messenger of God, tell us about Paradise, what is its structure? He said: A brick of gold and a brick of silver, its mortar is the most fragrant musk, its pebbles are pearls and rubies, and its soil is saffron. Whoever enters it will be blessed and will not be miserable, and will live forever and will not die. His clothes will not wear out, and his youth will not fade. There are three whose supplications will not be rejected: the just ruler, the fasting person until he breaks his fast, and the supplication of the one who is not fasting until he breaks his fast." The oppressed person is carried on the clouds and the gates of heaven are opened for him, and the Lord says: By My glory, I will surely aid you, even if after a while. It was narrated by Al-Tirmidhi and Ibn Majah from another chain of transmission on the authority of Sa'd. Ablution and two rak'ahs of prayer are confirmed upon repentance, as narrated by Imam Ahmad ibn Hanbal: Waki' told us, Mis'ar and Sufyan Al-Thawri told us on the authority of Uthman ibn Al-Maghbarah Al-Thaqafi, on the authority of Ali ibn Rabi'ah, on the authority of Asma' ibn Al-Hakam Al-Fazari, on the authority of Ali, may God be pleased with him, who said: Whenever I heard a hadith from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, God would benefit me with whatever He willed from it. And if someone else tells me about it, I make him swear, and if he swears to me, I believe him. Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him, told me - and Abu Bakr spoke the truth - that he heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: "There is no man who commits a sin, then performs ablution and does it well - Misa'ar said - then prays - Sufyan said - then prays two rak'ahs, and seeks forgiveness from God Almighty, except that He forgives him." And thus it was narrated by Ali ibn al-Madini, al-Humaidi, Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shaybah, the people of the Sunan, Ibn Hibban in his Sahih, al-Bazzar, and al-Daraqutni through various chains of transmission on the authority of Uthman ibn al-Mughira with it. Al-Tirmidhi said: It is a good hadith, and we have mentioned its chains of transmission, and the discussion of it is complete in Musnad Abu Bakr al-Siddiq, may God be pleased with him. In short, it is a good hadith, and it is narrated by the Commander of the Faithful, Ali ibn Abi Talib, on the authority of the Prophet's successor, Abu Bakr al-Siddiq, may God be pleased with them both. What bears witness to the authenticity of this hadith is what Muslim narrated in his Sahih on the authority of the Commander of the Faithful, Umar ibn al-Khattab, may God be pleased with him, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "There is none among you who performs ablution and completes it, then says: I bear witness that there is no god but God alone, without partner, and I bear witness that Muhammad is His servant and Messenger, except that the eight gates of Paradise will be opened for him, and he may enter through whichever one he wishes." And in the two Sahih on the authority of the Commander of the Faithful, Uthman ibn Affan, may God be pleased with him, that he performed ablution for them as the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, performed ablution, then said: "I heard the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: Whoever performs ablution like this ablution of mine, then prays two rak'ahs in which he does not think, his previous sins will be forgiven." This hadith has been proven from the narration of the four Imams, the Rightly-Guided Caliphs, on the authority of the Master of the First and the Last, and the Messenger of the Lord of the Worlds, as indicated by the clear Book, that seeking forgiveness for sins benefits sinners. And Abd al-Razzaq said: Ja'far ibn Sulayman informed us on the authority of Thabit, on the authority of Anas ibn Malik, may God be pleased with him, who said: It has been reported to me that when this verse was revealed, And those who, when they have committed an immorality or wronged themselves, remember God and seek forgiveness for their sins, the verse, Satan wept. Al-Hafiz Abu Ya'la said: Mahraz bin Awn told us, Uthman bin Matar told us, Abdul Ghafoor told us, on the authority of Abu Nasirah, on the authority of Abu Raja', on the authority of Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, "He said, 'Upon you is saying 'There is no god but God' and seeking forgiveness, so do a lot of them, for Satan said, 'I have destroyed people with sins and they have destroyed me with 'There is no god but God' and seeking forgiveness. So when I saw that, I have destroyed them with desires, and they think that they are guided.'" Uthman bin Matar and his sheikh are weak. Imam Ahmad narrated in his Musnad on the authority of Amr ibn Abi Amr and Abu Al-Haitham Al-Atwari on the authority of Abu Saeed, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "Satan said: O Lord, by Your glory, I will continue to mislead Your servants as long as their souls are in their bodies. God Almighty said: By My glory and majesty, I will continue to forgive them as long as they seek My forgiveness." Al-Hafiz Abu Bakr Al-Bazzar said: Muhammad ibn Al-Muthanna told us, Umar ibn

O you who have believed, do not consume usury, doubled and multiplied, but fear God that you may be successful.

Abi Khalifa told us, I heard Abu Badr narrating on the authority of Thabit, on the authority of Anas, who said: "A man came and said: O Messenger of God, I have committed a sin. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: If you sin, seek forgiveness from your Lord. He said: I seek forgiveness, then I sin again. He said: If you sin again, seek forgiveness from your Lord. He said it the fourth time, seek forgiveness from your Lord, until Satan is the one who regrets." This is a strange hadith from this source. And the Almighty's saying: And who forgives sins except God? means that no one forgives them except Him, as Imam Ahmad said: Muhammad ibn Mus'ab told us, Salam ibn Maskeen and al-Mubarak told us on the authority of al-Hasan on the authority of al-Aswad ibn Sari' that a prisoner was brought to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and he said: O God, I repent to You and I do not repent to Muhammad. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The truth has been made known to its people. And His saying: And they did not persist in what they did while they knew means that they repented from their sins and returned to God soon, and they did not continue in the sin and persist in it without giving it up. And if the sin was repeated from them, they would repent from it, as al-Hafiz Abu Ya'la al-Mawsili said in his Musnad: Ishaq ibn Abi Isra'il and others told us, they said: Abu Yahya Abd al-Hamid al-Hammani told us on the authority of Uthman ibn Waqid, on the authority of Abu Nasirah, on the authority of a freed slave of Abu Bakr, on the authority of Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: He who seeks forgiveness will not persist, even if he returns seventy times a day." And Abu Dawud narrated it. Al-Tirmidhi and Al-Bazzar in his Musnad from the hadith of Uthman bin Waqid - and Yahya bin Ma'een authenticated him with it - and his Sheikh Abu Nasirah Al-Wasiti, whose name is Muslim bin Ubaid, who was authenticated by Imam Ahmad and Ibn Hibban. Ali bin Al-Madini and Al-Tirmidhi said: The chain of transmission of this hadith is not that good. It appears that it is due to the ignorance of the client of Abu Bakr, but the ignorance of someone like him does not harm because he is a great follower, and it is sufficient for him to attribute it to Abu Bakr, so it is a good hadith, and God knows best. And his statement, and they know, Mujahid and Abdullah bin Ubaid bin Umair said, and they know, that whoever repents, God will accept his repentance. This is like the statement of God, the Most High, Do they not know that God accepts repentance from His servants? and His statement, And whoever does evil or wrongs himself but then seeks forgiveness from God will find God Forgiving and Merciful. And there are many similar examples to this. Imam Ahmad said: Yazid told us, Jarir told us, Habbab - he is Ibn Zaid Al-Sharabi - told us, on the authority of Abdullah Ibn Amr, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, "that he said while he was on the pulpit: 'Be merciful and you will be shown mercy, and forgive and you will be forgiven. Woe to those who defy speech, woe to those who persist in what they have done while they know.'" Ahmad is the only one to narrate it. Then God the Almighty said after describing them with what He described them with: Their reward is forgiveness from their Lord meaning their reward for these attributes is forgiveness from their Lord and gardens beneath which rivers flow meaning of various types of drinks abiding therein meaning abiding therein and excellent is the reward of the workers God the Almighty praises Paradise.

Fath al-Qadir

His saying 130- O you who believe It was said: This is an introductory statement to intimidate and encourage what was mentioned, and it was said: It is an interjection during the story of Uhud. And his saying multiplied multiples is not to restrict the prohibition to what is known of the prohibition of usury in all cases, but it was brought in consideration of what they were upon of the habit that they were accustomed to in usury, for they used to increase it for a term, and when the term came they would increase the money by an amount that they agreed upon, then they would increase the term of the debt, so they would do that time after time until the one who increased it would take multiples of the debt that he had at the beginning, and multiples is a condition, and doubling is a description of it, and in it is an indication of the repetition of the doubling year after year, and the exaggeration in this phrase indicates an emphasis on the rebuke.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

130- O you who have believed, do not consume usury, doubled and multiplied, meaning what they used to do when the due date of the debt came, by increasing the money and delaying the request, and fear God in the matter of usury, so do not consume it, that you may be successful.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

130 O you who have believed, do not consume usury, doubled and multiplied. Do not increase it repeatedly, and perhaps the specification is according to reality. A man among them used to increase it for a term, then he would add another increase to it until the small amount consumed the debtor's money. Ibn Kathir, Ibn Amir, and Yaqub read doubled. "And fear God" in what I have forbidden you from. "That you may succeed" hoping for success.

Surat Al Imran 3:131

And fear the Fire, which has been prepared for the disbelievers.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And fear the Fire prepared for the disbelievers lest you be tormented by it.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: God Almighty says to the believers: And fear, O believers, the Fire that you may enter by consuming usury after I have forbidden you from it, which I have prepared for those who disbelieve in Me, so that you enter their place after your belief in Me, by disobeying My command and abandoning My obedience, as:

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: And fear the Fire which has been prepared for the disbelievers, which has been made a home for those who disbelieve in Me.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

God the Almighty said: And fear the Fire which has been prepared for the disbelievers. Many commentators said: This is a warning to those who consider usury permissible, and whoever considers usury permissible disbelieves and disbelieves. It was said that its meaning is: Beware of the action that strips you of faith and you deserve the Fire, because there are sins that require the doer to have faith stripped and he fears for it, such as disobeying parents. There is a report about that: A man was disobedient to his parents, and he was told when he was dying: Say there is no god but God, but he was not able to do that until his mother came to him and was pleased with him. Among those are severing family ties, consuming usury, and betraying a trust. Abu Bakr al-Warraq reported on the authority of Abu Hanifa that he said: What strips a person's faith most often occurs at death. Then Abu Bakr said: We looked into the sins that strip faith and we did not find anything that strips faith faster than oppressing people. This verse is evidence that Hell was created, in response to the Jahmites, because what is non-existent cannot be prepared.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The Almighty says, forbidding His believing servants from engaging in usury and consuming it in multiples, as they used to say in the days of ignorance: When the due date of a debt comes, either pay it or increase it. If he pays it, otherwise, he increases it in the period, and the other increases it in the amount, and so on every year, perhaps the little will be doubled until it becomes a lot multiplied. The Almighty commanded His servants to be pious, so that they may succeed in the first and the last, then He threatened them with the Fire and warned them against it, so the Almighty said: "And fear the Fire which has been prepared for the disbelievers. And obey God and the Messenger, that you may receive mercy." Then He urged them to hasten to do good deeds and hasten to attain the acts of worship, so the Almighty said: And hasten to forgiveness from your Lord and a Garden as wide as the heavens and the earth, prepared for the righteous. That is, just as the Fire was prepared for the disbelievers. It has been said that the meaning of His saying its width is the heavens and the earth is an indication of the vastness of its length, as He said in describing the furnishings of Paradise: its linings are of brocade. That is, what do you think? By the backs? It was said: Rather, its width is like its length because it is a dome under the throne, and the domed and round thing is as wide as its length. This is indicated by what was established in the Sahih: "If you ask God for Paradise, then ask Him for Al-Firdaws, for it is the highest part of Paradise and the middle of Paradise, and from it the rivers of Paradise flow, and its roof is the Throne of the Most Merciful." This verse is like the Almighty's saying in Surat al-Hadid 57: Race one another to forgiveness from your Lord and a Paradise whose width is like the width of the heavens and the earth, the verse. We narrated in Musnad Al-Imam Ahmad that Heraclius wrote to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace: You have invited me to a Paradise whose width is the heavens and the earth, so where is Hell? The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Glory be to God, so where is the night when the day comes? Ibn Jarir narrated it and said: Yunus told me, Ibn Wahb told us, Muslim bin Khalid told me on the authority of Abu Khathim, on the authority of Saeed bin Abi Rashid, on the authority of Ya'la bin Murrah, who said: "I met Al-Tanukhi, the messenger of Heraclius to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, in Homs, an old man who had become corrupt. He said: I came to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, with the letter of Heraclius, so he handed the paper to a man on his left. He said: I said: Who is your companion who reads? They said: Mu'awiyah. Then it was the letter of my companion: You have written inviting me to a Paradise whose width is the heavens and the earth, prepared for the righteous. So where is the Fire?" He said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Glory be to God! Where is the night when the day comes? Al-A'mash, Sufyan al-Thawri and Shu'bah said on the authority of Qays ibn Muslim on the authority of Tariq ibn Shihab: Some Jews asked Umar ibn al-Khattab about a Paradise whose width is the heavens and the earth, so where is Hell? Umar said to them: Have you seen when the day comes, where is the night? And when the night comes, where is the day? They said: Something similar has been taken from the Torah. Ibn Jarir narrated it through three chains of transmission. Then he said: Ahmad ibn Hazim told us, Abu Nu'aym told us, Ja'far ibn Burqan told us, Yazid ibn al-A'sam told us: A man from the People of the Book said: They say, A Paradise whose width is the heavens and the earth, so where is Hell? Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with him, said: Where is the night when the day comes, and where is the day when the night comes? This has been narrated with a chain of transmission traceable back to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace. Al-Bazzar said: Muhammad ibn Mu'ammār told us, Al-Mughirah ibn Salamah Abu Hisham told us, Abd al-Wahid ibn Ziyad told us on the authority of Ubaydullah ibn Abdullah ibn al-A'sam, on the authority of His uncle Yazid ibn al-Asamm, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, said: "A man came to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: 'Have you seen the words of God the Almighty: "A Paradise as wide as the heavens and the earth," then where is the Fire? He said: 'Have you seen that when the night comes it covers everything, so where is the day?' He said: 'Wherever God wills.' He said: 'And so the Fire will be wherever God the Almighty wills.'" This has two possible meanings one of them that the meaning in that is that it does not necessarily follow from our not seeing the night when the day comes that it is not in a place, even if we do not know it, and so the Fire will be wherever God the Almighty wills, and this is more apparent as mentioned previously in the hadith of Abu Hurayrah on the authority of al-Bazzar.

Second That the meaning is that if the day covers the face of the world from this side, then the night is from the other side, so likewise Paradise is in the highest of the high above the heavens under the Throne and its width, as God Almighty said like the width of the heaven and the earth and Hell is in the lowest of the low, so there is no contradiction between it being like the width of the heavens and the earth and the existence of Hell, and God knows best.

Then God the Almighty mentioned the description of the people of Paradise, saying, Those who spend in ease and hardship, meaning in hardship and ease, in comfort and distress, in health and sickness, and in all circumstances, just as He said, Those who spend their wealth by night and by day, secretly and publicly, meaning that nothing distracts them from obeying God the Almighty and spending in what pleases Him, and doing good to His creation from their relatives and others with various types of righteousness. And God the Almighty said, And those who restrain anger and pardon the people, meaning that if anger arises in them, they restrain it, meaning they conceal it and do not act on it, and they pardon those who wrong them. It was mentioned in some of the narrations: "God the Most High says: O son of Adam, remember Me when you become angry, and I will remember you when you become angry, so that I will not destroy you among those whom I destroy." Narrated by Ibn Abi Hatim. Abu Ya'la said in his Musnad: Abu Musa al-Zaman told us, Isa bin Shu'aib al-Dareer Abu al-Fadl told us, al-Rabi' bin Sulayman al-Jizi told me on the authority of Abu Amr bin Anas bin Malik, on the authority of his father, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever restrains his anger, God will restrain his punishment from him. Whoever guards his tongue, God will cover his faults. Whoever apologizes to God, God will accept his apology." This is a strange hadith, and its chain of transmission is questionable. Imam Ahmad said: Abd al-Rahman told us, Malik told us on the authority of al-Zuhri, on the authority of Sa'id bin al-Musayyab, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, may God be pleased with him, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: The strong man is not the one who wrestles, but the strong man is the one who controls himself when he is angry. The two sheikhs narrated it on the authority of Malik. Imam Ahmad also said: Abu Muawiyah told us, Al-A'mash told us, on the authority of Ibrahim Al-Taymi, on the authority of Al-Harith bin Suwaid, on the authority of Abdullah, who is Ibn Mas'ud, may God be pleased with him, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Which of you would rather have the wealth of his heir than his own wealth? They said: O Messenger of God, there is none among us who does not love his wealth more than the wealth of his heir. He said: "Know that there is none among you who does not love the wealth of his heir more than his own wealth. Your wealth from your wealth is only what you have sent forward, and the wealth of your heir is what you have delayed." The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: What do you consider to be a wrestler among you? We said: The one who is not wrestled by men. He said: No, but the one who controls himself when he is angry. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: What do you consider to be a slave among you? We said: The one who has no children. He said: No, but the slave is the one who has not sent forward any of his children. Al-Bukhari included the first chapter of it, and Muslim included the original of this hadith, on the authority of Al-A'mash.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Muhammad ibn Ja'far told us, Shu'bah told us, I heard Urwah ibn 'Abdullah al-Ju'fi narrating on the authority of Hasbah or Ibn Abi Hasin, on the authority of a man who witnessed the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, giving a sermon, and he said, Do you know what ruqūb is? We said, The one who has no children. He said, Ruqūb is all the ones who have children and then died without having given anything from them. He said, Do you know what sāluq is? They said, The one who has no wealth. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said, The sāluq is all the one who has wealth and then died without giving anything from it. Then the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said, What is sarā'? They said, The one who is struck down. He, may God bless him and grant him peace, said, Sarā' is all the sarā', the one who becomes angry and his anger becomes intense, his face turns red, and his hair stands up, so he is struck down by his anger.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Ibn Numayr told us, Hisham ibn Urwah told us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-Ahnaf ibn Qays, on the authority of his uncle called Jariyah ibn Qudamah Al-Sa'di, "that he asked the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: O Messenger of God, say to me something that will benefit me and make it short for me so that I may understand it. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Do not get angry. So he repeated it to him until he repeated it to him many times, each time saying: Do not get angry." And this is how he narrated it on the authority of Abu Mu'awiyah on the authority of Hisham on his authority, and he also narrated it on the authority of Yahya ibn Sa'id Al-Qattan on the authority of Hisham on his authority, "that a man said: O Messenger of God, say to me something and make it short for me so that I may understand it. He said: Do not get angry." The hadith is narrated only by Ahmad.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Abd al-Razzaq told us, Muammar told us, on the authority of al-Zuhri, on the authority of Hamid ibn Abd al-Rahman, "On the authority of a man from the companions of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: A man said: O Messenger of God, advise me. He said: Do not get angry. The man said: So I thought about it when the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said what he said, and I saw that anger brings together all evil." Ahmad alone transmitted it.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Abu Muawiyah told us, Dawud ibn Abi Hind told us, on the authority of Abu Ibn Harb ibn Abi Al-Aswad, on the authority of Abu Al-Aswad, on the authority of Abu Dharr, may God be pleased with him, who said: He was watering from his cistern when some people came and said: Who among you will bring water to Abu Dharr and count the hairs from his head? A man said: I will. So the man came and brought water to him from the cistern and pounded it. Abu Dharr was standing, so he sat down and then lay down. It was said to him: O Abu Dharr, why did you sit down and then lie down? He said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to us: If one of you becomes angry while standing, let him sit down. If the anger goes away from him, then all well and good, otherwise let him lie down." Abu Dawood narrated it from Ahmad ibn Hanbal with his chain of transmission, except that it was included in his narration on the authority of Abu Harb on the authority of Abu Dharr. The correct version is Ibn Abi Harb on the authority of his father on the authority of Abu Dharr, as Abdullah ibn Ahmad narrated it on the authority of his father.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Ibrahim bin Khalid told us, Abu Wa'il al-San'ani told us: We were sitting with Urwah bin Muhammad when a man entered and said to him words that angered him. When he angered him, he stood up and came back to us after having performed ablution. He said: My father told me on the authority of my grandfather Atiyah - he is Ibn Sa'd al-Sa'di - and he was a companion - he said: "The Messenger of God said: Anger is from the devil, and the devil was created from fire, and fire is extinguished only with water. So when one of you becomes angry, let him perform ablution." And this is how Abu Dawud narrated it from the hadith of Ibrahim bin Khalid al-San'ani on the authority of Abu Wa'il al-Qass al-Muradi al-San'ani. Abu Dawud said: I think he was Abdullah bin Buhair.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Abdullah bin Yazid told us, Noah bin Ja'una al-Salami told us, on the authority of Muqatil bin Hayyan, on the authority of Ata', on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said:

'Whoever gives respite to someone in difficulty or forgives him, God will protect him from the heat of Hell. Indeed, the work of Paradise is made difficult by a hill - three times - Indeed, the work of Hell is made easy by a slip. And the happy one is the one who is protected from trials, and there is no sip more beloved to God than a sip of anger that a servant swallows. No servant of God swallows it except that it fills his stomach with faith.'" Ahmad is the only one to narrate it, and its chain of transmission is good, with no one who is wounded in it, and its text is good.

Another hadith with the same meaning - Abu Dawud said: Uqbah bin Makram told us, Abd al-Rahman, meaning Ibn Mahdi, told us, on the authority of Bishr, meaning Ibn Mansur, on the authority of Muhammad bin Ajlan, on the authority of Suwaid bin Wahb, on the authority of a man from the sons of the companions of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, on the authority of his father, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever suppresses anger when he is able to vent it, God will fill him with security and faith. Whoever refrains from wearing a beautiful garment when he is able to do so - Bishr said: I think he said: out of humility - God will clothe him with the garment of honor. Whoever marries for God, God will clothe him with the crown of kingship."

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Abdullah bin Yazid told us: Saeed told us, Abu Marhum told me on the authority of Sahl bin Muadh bin Anas, on the authority of his father, "The Messenger of God said: Whoever suppresses his anger when he is able to vent it, God will call him in front of all creation and let him choose from any of the hours he wants." Abu Dawud, Al-Tirmidhi and Ibn Majah narrated it on the authority of Saeed bin Abi Ayoub, and Al-Tirmidhi said: Hasan Gharib.

Another hadith - Abd al-Razzaq said: Dawud ibn Qays informed us, on the authority of Zayd ibn Aslam, on the authority of a man from the people of Ash-Sham called Abd al-Jalil, on the authority of his uncle, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, may God be pleased with him, regarding the words of God Almighty: And those who restrain anger, that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever restrains anger when he is able to give vent to it, God will fill him with security and faith. Narrated by Ibn Jarir.

Another hadith - Ibn Mardawayh said: Ahmad ibn Muhammad ibn Ziyad told us, Yahya ibn Abi Talib told us, Ali ibn Asim told us, Yunus ibn Ubayd told me on the authority of Al-Hasan, on the authority of Ibn Umar, may God be pleased with them both, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'A servant has not taken a sip of food that is better in reward than a sip of anger that he swallows seeking the face of God.'" And Ibn Majah narrated it likewise on the authority of Bishr ibn Umar, on the authority of Hammad ibn Salamah, on the authority of Yunus ibn Ubayd, with the same chain of transmission. So God Almighty's statement: And those who restrain anger means that they do not act out their anger on people, but rather they restrain their evil from them, and they seek reward for that from God Almighty. Then God the Almighty said: And those who pardon people meaning, while refraining from evil, they pardon those who wronged them in their souls, so that no grudge remains in their souls against anyone, and this is the most perfect state, and for this reason He said: And God loves the doers of good so this is from the stations of goodness, and in the hadith: "There are three things that I swear by: no wealth is diminished by charity, and God does not increase a servant through forgiveness except in honor, and whoever humbles himself before God, God will raise him up." Al-Hakim narrated in his Mustadrak from the hadith of Musa bin Uqbah from Ishaq bin Yahya bin Talhah Al-Qurashi, from Ubadah bin As-Samit, from Ubayy bin Ka'b that the Messenger of God, "said: Whoever is pleased to have a lofty building and be raised in status, let him pardon those who wronged him, give to those who deprived him, and connect with those who severed ties with him." Then he said: It is authentic according to the conditions of the two sheikhs, and they did not include it. Ibn Mardawayh included it from the hadith of Ali, Ka'b bin Ujrah, Abu Hurayrah, and Umm Salamah, may God be pleased with them, in a similar manner. It was narrated on the authority of Ad-Dahhak on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: When the Day of Resurrection comes, a crier will call out, saying: Where are those who pardoned people? Come to your Lord and take your rewards. It is the right of every Muslim man, if he pardons, to enter Paradise." And God Almighty said: And those who, when they have committed an immorality or wronged themselves, remember God and seek forgiveness for their sins. That is, if they commit a sin, they follow it up with repentance and seeking forgiveness. Imam Ahmad said: Yazid told us, Hammam bin Yahya told us, on the authority of Ishaq bin Abdullah bin Abi Talhah, on the authority of Abd al-Rahman bin Abi Umrah, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, may God be pleased with him, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, "He said: A man committed a sin and said: O Lord, I have committed a sin, so forgive it. God, the Almighty, said: My servant committed a sin and knew that he has a Lord who forgives sins and takes them to task. I have forgiven My servant. Then he committed another sin and said: O Lord, I have committed a sin, so forgive it. God, the Almighty, said: My servant knew that he has a Lord who forgives sins and takes them to task. I have forgiven My servant. Then he committed another sin and said: O Lord, I have committed a sin, so forgive it. God, the Almighty, said: My servant knew that he has a Lord who forgives sins and takes them to task. I have forgiven My servant." With it, I bear witness that I have forgiven my servant, so let him do whatever he wants." It was included in Sahih from the hadith of Ishaq bin Abi Talha, in a similar manner.

Another Hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Abu al-Nadr and Abu Amir told us: Zuhair told us: Saad al-Ta'i told us: Abu al-Mudallah, the freed slave of the Mother of the Believers, heard Abu Hurairah, we said: O Messenger of God, when we see you, our hearts soften, and we are from the people of the Hereafter, and when we leave you, the world pleases us, and we smell women and children. He said: "If you were to be in every state in the state you are in with me, the angels would shake your hands with their palms, and visit you in your homes. And if you did not sin, God would bring people who would sin so that He would forgive them." We said: O Messenger of God, tell us about Paradise, what is its structure? He said: A brick of gold and a brick of silver, its mortar is the most fragrant musk, its pebbles are pearls and rubies, and its soil is saffron. Whoever enters it will be blessed and will not be miserable, and will live forever and will not die. His clothes will not wear out, and his youth will not fade. There are three whose supplications will not be rejected: the just ruler, the fasting person until he breaks his fast, and the supplication of the one who is not fasting until he breaks his fast." The oppressed person is carried on the clouds and the gates of heaven are opened for him, and the Lord says: By My glory, I will surely aid you, even if after a while. It was narrated by Al-Tirmidhi and Ibn Majah from another chain of transmission on the authority of Sa'd. Ablution and two rak'ahs of prayer are confirmed upon repentance, as narrated by Imam Ahmad ibn Hanbal: Waki' told us, Mis'ar and Sufyan Al-Thawri told us on the authority of Uthman ibn Al-Maghbarah Al-Thaqafi, on the authority of Ali ibn Rabi'ah, on the authority of Asma' ibn Al-Hakam Al-Fazari, on the authority of Ali, may God be pleased with him, who said: Whenever I heard a hadith from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, God would benefit me with whatever He willed from it. And if someone else tells me about it, I make him swear, and if he swears to me, I believe him. Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him, told me - and Abu Bakr spoke the truth - that he heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: "There is no man who commits a sin, then performs ablution and does it well - Misa'ar said - then prays - Sufyan said - then prays two rak'ahs, and seeks forgiveness from God Almighty, except that He forgives him." And thus it was narrated by Ali ibn al-Madini, al-Humaidi, Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shaybah, the people of the Sunan, Ibn Hibban in his Sahih, al-Bazzar, and al-Daraqutni through various chains of transmission on the authority of Uthman ibn al-Mughira with it. Al-Tirmidhi said: It is a good hadith, and we have mentioned its chains of transmission, and the discussion of it is complete in Musnad Abu Bakr al-Siddiq, may God be pleased with him. In short, it is a good hadith, and it is narrated by the Commander of the Faithful, Ali ibn Abi Talib, on the authority of the Prophet's successor, Abu Bakr al-Siddiq, may God be pleased with them both. What bears witness to the authenticity of this hadith is what Muslim narrated in his Sahih on the authority of the Commander of the Faithful, Umar ibn al-Khattab, may God be pleased with him, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "There is none among you who performs ablution and completes it, then says: I bear witness that there is no god but God alone, without partner, and I bear witness that Muhammad is His servant and Messenger, except that the eight gates of Paradise will be opened for him, and he may enter through whichever one he wishes." And in the two Sahih on the authority of the Commander of the Faithful, Uthman ibn Affan, may

God be pleased with him, that he performed ablution for them as the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, performed ablution, then said: "I heard the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: Whoever performs ablution like this ablution of mine, then prays two rak'ahs in which he does not think, his previous sins will be forgiven." This hadith has been proven from the narration of the four Imams, the Rightly-Guided Caliphs, on the authority of the Master of the First and the Last, and the Messenger of the Lord of the Worlds, as indicated by the clear Book, that seeking forgiveness for sins benefits sinners. And Abd al-Razzaq said: Ja'far ibn Sulayman informed us on the authority of Thabit, on the authority of Anas ibn Malik, may God be pleased with him, who said: It has been reported to me that when this verse was revealed,

And those who, when they have committed an immorality or wronged themselves, remember God and seek forgiveness for their sins, the verse, Satan wept. Al-Hafiz Abu Ya'la said: Mahraz bin Awn told us, Uthman bin Matar told us, Abdul Ghafoor told us, on the authority of Abu Nasirah, on the authority of Abu Raja', on the authority of Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, "He said, 'Upon you is saying 'There is no god but God' and seeking forgiveness, so do a lot of them, for Satan said, 'I have destroyed people with sins and they have destroyed me with 'There is no god but God' and seeking forgiveness. So when I saw that, I have destroyed them with desires, and they think that they are guided.'" Uthman bin Matar and his sheikh are weak. Imam Ahmad narrated in his Musnad on the authority of Amr ibn Abi Amr and Abu Al-Haitham Al-Atwari on the authority of Abu Saeed, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "Satan said: O Lord, by Your glory, I will continue to mislead Your servants as long as their souls are in their bodies. God Almighty said: By My glory and majesty, I will continue to forgive them as long as they seek My forgiveness." Al-Hafiz Abu Bakr Al-Bazzar said: Muhammad ibn Al-Muthanna told us, Umar ibn Abi Khalifa told us, I heard Abu Badr narrating on the authority of Thabit, on the authority of Anas, who said: "A man came and said: O Messenger of God, I have committed a sin. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: If you sin, seek forgiveness from your Lord. He said: I seek forgiveness, then I sin again. He said: If you sin again, seek forgiveness from your Lord. He said it the fourth time, seek forgiveness from your Lord, until Satan is the one who regrets." This is a strange hadith from this source. And the Almighty's saying: And who forgives sins except God? means that no one forgives them except Him, as Imam Ahmad said: Muhammad ibn Mus'ab told us, Salam ibn Maskeen and al-Mubarak told us on the authority of al-Hasan on the authority of al-Aswad ibn Sari' that a prisoner was brought to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and he said: O God, I repent to You and I do not repent to Muhammad. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The truth has been made known to its people. And His saying: And they did not persist in what they did while they knew means that they repented from their sins and returned to God soon, and they did not continue in the sin and persist in it without giving it up. And if the sin was repeated from them, they would repent from it, as al-Hafiz Abu Ya'la al-Mawsili said in his Musnad: Ishaq ibn Abi Isra'il and others told us, they said: Abu Yahya Abd al-Hamid al-Hammani told us on the authority of Uthman ibn Waqid, on the authority of Abu Nasirah, on the authority of a freed slave of Abu Bakr, on the authority of Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: He who seeks forgiveness will not persist, even if he returns seventy times a day." And Abu Dawud narrated it. Al-Tirmidhi and Al-Bazzar in his Musnad from the hadith of Uthman bin Waqid - and Yahya bin Ma'een authenticated him with it - and his Sheikh Abu Nasirah Al-Wasiti, whose name is Muslim bin Ubaid, who was authenticated by Imam Ahmad and Ibn Hibban. Ali bin Al-Madini and Al-Tirmidhi said: The chain of transmission of this hadith is not that good. It appears that it is due to the ignorance of the client of Abu Bakr, but the ignorance of someone like him does not harm because he is a great follower, and it is sufficient for him to attribute it to Abu Bakr, so it is a good hadith, and God knows best. And his statement, and they know, Mujahid and Abdullah bin Ubaid bin Umair said, and they know, that whoever repents, God will accept his repentance. This is like the statement of God, the Most High, Do they not know that God accepts repentance from His servants? and His statement, And whoever does evil or wrongs himself but then seeks forgiveness from God will find God Forgiving and Merciful. And there are many similar examples to this. Imam Ahmad said: Yazid told us, Jarir told us, Habbab - he is Ibn Zaid Al-Sharabi - told us, on the authority of Abdullah Ibn Amr, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, "that he said while he was on the pulpit: 'Be merciful and you will be shown mercy, and forgive and you will be forgiven. Woe to those who defy speech, woe to those who persist in what they have done while they know.'" Ahmad is the only one to narrate it. Then God the Almighty said after describing them with what He described them with: Their reward is forgiveness from their Lord meaning their reward for these attributes is forgiveness from their Lord and gardens beneath which rivers flow meaning of various types of drinks abiding therein meaning abiding therein and excellent is the reward of the workers God the Almighty praises Paradise.

Fath al-Qadir

His saying 131- And fear the Fire which has been prepared for the disbelievers. This is guidance to avoid what the disbelievers do in their dealings. Many commentators said: It is that whoever permits usury is a disbeliever. It was said that its meaning is: Fear the usury which strips you of faith and you deserve the Fire. Usury was specifically mentioned in this verse because it is the one for which God threatened war against its doer.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

131- Then He frightened them and said: And fear the Fire which has been prepared for the disbelievers.

Surat Al Imran 3:131

And fear the Fire, which has been prepared for the disbelievers.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

131 And fear the Fire which has been prepared for the disbelievers by avoiding following them and engaging in their actions. It is a warning that the Fire is specifically prepared for the disbelievers and, incidentally, for the sinners.

Surat Al Imran 3:132

And obey God and the Messenger that you may receive mercy.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And obey God and the Messenger that you may receive mercy.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: By that, may His praise be glorified, He means: Obey God, O believers, in what He has forbidden you from, such as eating usury and other things, and in what the Messenger has commanded you to do. He says: And obey the Messenger also in this way, that you may receive mercy, meaning: so that you may receive mercy and not be punished.

It has been said that this was a rebuke from God Almighty to the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, who disobeyed his command on the day of Uhud, and thus neglected the positions they were ordered to remain in.

Who said that?

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: And obey God and the Messenger that you may receive mercy, as a rebuke to those who disobeyed His Messenger when he ordered them to do what he ordered them to do on that day and on other days - meaning: on the day of Uhud.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

The Almighty said: And obey God meaning obey God in the obligatory duties and the Messenger in the Sunnah. It was also said: And obey God in prohibiting usury and the Messenger in what has reached you of the prohibition. That you may receive mercy meaning so that God may have mercy on you. This has been mentioned previously.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The Almighty says, forbidding His believing servants from engaging in usury and consuming it in multiples, as they used to say in the days of ignorance: When the due date of a debt comes, either pay it or increase it. If he pays it, otherwise, he increases it in the period, and the other increases it in the amount, and so on every year, perhaps the little will be doubled until it becomes a lot multiplied. The Almighty commanded His servants to be pious, so that they may succeed in the first and the last, then He threatened them with the Fire and warned them against it, so the Almighty said:

"And fear the Fire which has been prepared for the disbelievers. And obey God and the Messenger, that you may receive mercy." Then He urged them to hasten to do good deeds and hasten to attain the acts of worship, so the Almighty said: And hasten to forgiveness from your Lord and a Garden as wide as the heavens and the earth, prepared for the righteous. That is, just as the Fire was prepared for the disbelievers. It has been said that the meaning of His saying its width is the heavens and the earth is an indication of the vastness of its length, as He said in describing the furnishings of Paradise: its linings are of brocade. That is, what do you think? By the backs? It was said: Rather, its width is like its length because it is a dome under the throne, and the domed and round thing is as wide as its length. This is indicated by what was established in the Sahih: "If you ask God for Paradise, then ask Him for Al-Firdaws, for it is the highest part of Paradise and the middle of Paradise, and from it the rivers of Paradise flow, and its roof is the Throne of the Most Merciful." This verse is like the Almighty's saying in Surat al-Hadid 57: Race one another to forgiveness from your Lord and a Paradise whose width is like the width of the heavens and the earth, the verse. We narrated in Musnad Al-Imam Ahmad that Heraclius wrote to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace: You have invited me to a Paradise whose width is the heavens and the earth, so where is Hell? The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Glory be to God, so where is the night when the day comes? Ibn Jarir narrated it and said: Yunus told me, Ibn Wahb told us, Muslim bin Khalid told me on the authority of Abu Khathim, on the authority of Saeed bin Abi Rashid, on the authority of Ya'la bin Murrah, who said: "I met Al-Tanukhi, the messenger of Heraclius to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, in Homs, an old man who had become corrupt. He said: I came to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, with the letter of Heraclius, so he handed the paper to a man on his left. He said: I said: Who is your companion who reads? They said: Mu'awiyah. Then it was the letter of my companion: You have written inviting me to a Paradise whose width is the heavens and the earth, prepared for the righteous. So where is the Fire?" He said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Glory be to God! Where is the night when the day comes? Al-A'mash, Sufyan al-Thawri and Shu'bah said on the authority of Qays ibn Muslim on the authority of Tariq ibn Shihab: Some Jews asked Umar ibn al-Khattab about a Paradise whose width is the heavens and the earth, so where is Hell? Umar said to them: Have you seen when the day comes, where is the night? And when the night comes, where is the day? They said: Something similar has been taken from the Torah. Ibn Jarir narrated it through three chains of transmission. Then he said: Ahmad ibn Hazim told us, Abu Nu'aym told us, Ja'far ibn Burqan told us, Yazid ibn al-A'sam told us: A man from the People of the Book said: They say, A Paradise whose width is the heavens and the earth, so where is Hell? Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with him, said: Where is the night when the day comes, and where is the day when the night comes? This has been narrated with a chain of transmission traceable back to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace. Al-Bazzar said:

Muhammad ibn Mu'ammār told us, Al-Mughirah ibn Salamah Abu Hisham told us, Abd al-Wahid ibn Ziyad told us on the authority of Ubaydullah ibn Abdullah ibn al-A'sam, on the authority of His uncle Yazid ibn al-Asamm, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, said: "A man came to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: 'Have you seen the words of God the Almighty: "A Paradise as wide as the heavens and the earth," then where is the Fire? He said: 'Have you seen that when the night comes it covers everything, so where is the day?' He said: 'Wherever God wills.' He said: 'And so the Fire will be wherever God the Almighty wills.'" This has two possible meanings one of them that the meaning in that is that it does not necessarily follow from our not seeing the night when the day comes that it is not in a place, even if we do not know it, and so the Fire will be wherever God the Almighty wills, and this is more apparent as mentioned previously in the hadith of Abu Hurayrah on the authority of al-Bazzar.

Second That the meaning is that if the day covers the face of the world from this side, then the night is from the other side, so likewise Paradise is in the highest of the high above the heavens under the Throne and its width, as God Almighty said like the width of the heaven and the earth and Hell is in the lowest of the low, so there is no contradiction between it being like the width of the heavens and the earth and the existence of Hell, and God knows best.

Then God the Almighty mentioned the description of the people of Paradise, saying, Those who spend in ease and hardship, meaning in hardship and ease, in comfort and distress, in health and sickness, and in all circumstances, just as He said, Those who spend their wealth by night and by day, secretly and publicly, meaning that nothing distracts them from obeying God the Almighty and spending in what pleases Him, and doing good to His creation from their relatives and others with various types of righteousness. And God the Almighty said, And those who restrain anger and pardon the people, meaning that if anger arises in them, they restrain it, meaning they conceal it and do not act on it, and they pardon those who wrong them. It was mentioned in some of the narrations: "God the Most High says: O son of Adam, remember Me when you become angry, and I will remember you when you become angry, so that I will not destroy you among those whom I destroy." Narrated by Ibn Abi Hatim. Abu Ya'la said in his Musnad: Abu Musa al-Zaman told us, Isa bin Shu'aib al-Dareer Abu al-Fadl told us, al-Rabi' bin Sulayman al-Jizi told me on the authority of Abu Amr bin Anas bin Malik, on the authority of his father, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever restrains his anger, God will restrain his punishment from him. Whoever guards his tongue, God will cover his faults. Whoever apologizes to God, God will accept his apology." This is a strange hadith, and its chain of transmission is questionable. Imam Ahmad said: Abd al-Rahman told us, Malik told us on the authority of al-Zuhri, on the authority of Sa'id bin al-Musayyab, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, may God be pleased with him, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: The strong man is not the one who wrestles, but the strong man is the one who controls himself when he is angry. The two sheikhs narrated it on the authority of Malik. Imam Ahmad also said: Abu Muawiyah told us, Al-A'mash told us, on the authority of Ibrahim Al-Taymi, on the authority of Al-Harith bin Suwaid, on the authority of Abdullah, who is Ibn Mas'ud, may God be pleased with him, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Which of you would rather have the wealth of his heir than his own wealth? They said: O Messenger of God, there is none among us who does not love his wealth more than the wealth of his heir. He said: "Know that there is none among you who does not love the wealth of his heir more than his own wealth. Your wealth from your wealth is only what you have sent forward, and the wealth of your heir is what you have delayed." The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: What do you consider to be a wrestler among you? We said: The one who is not wrestled by men. He said: No, but the one who controls himself when he is angry. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: What do you consider to be a slave among you? We said: The one who has no children. He said: No, but the slave is the one who has not sent forward any of his children. Al-Bukhari included the first chapter of it, and Muslim included the original of this hadith, on the authority of Al-A'mash.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Muhammad ibn Ja'far told us, Shu'bah told us, I heard Urwah ibn 'Abdullah al-Ju'fi narrating on the authority of Hasbah or Ibn Abi Hasin, on the authority of a man who witnessed the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, giving a sermon, and he said, Do you know what ruqūb is? We said, The one who has no children. He said, Ruqūb is all the ones who have children and then died without having given anything from them. He said, Do you know what sāluq is? They said, The one who has no wealth. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said, The sāluq is all the one who has wealth and then died without giving anything from it. Then the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said, What is sarā'? They said, The one who is struck down. He, may God bless him and grant him peace, said, Sarā' is all the sarā', the one who becomes angry and his anger becomes intense, his face turns red, and his hair stands up, so he is struck down by his anger.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Ibn Numayr told us, Hisham ibn Urwah told us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-Ahnaf ibn Qays, on the authority of his uncle called Jariyah ibn Qudamah Al-Sa'di, "that he asked the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: O Messenger of God, say to me something that will benefit me and make it short for me so that I may understand it. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Do not get angry. So he repeated it to him until he repeated it to him many times, each time saying: Do not get angry." And this is how he narrated it on the authority of Abu Mu'awiyah on the authority of Hisham on his authority, and he also narrated it on the authority of Yahya ibn Sa'id Al-Qattan on the authority of Hisham on his authority,

"that a man said: O Messenger of God, say to me something and make it short for me so that I may understand it. He said: Do not get angry." The hadith is narrated only by Ahmad.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Abd al-Razzaq told us, Muammar told us, on the authority of al-Zuhri, on the authority of Hamid ibn Abd al-Rahman, "On the authority of a man from the companions of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: A man said: O Messenger of God, advise me. He said: Do not get angry. The man said: So I thought about it when the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said what he said, and I saw that anger brings together all evil." Ahmad alone transmitted it.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Abu Muawiyah told us, Dawud ibn Abi Hind told us, on the authority of Abu Ibn Harb ibn Abi Al-Aswad, on the authority of Abu Al-Aswad, on the authority of Abu Dharr, may God be pleased with him, who said: He was watering from his cistern when some people came and said: Who among you will bring water to Abu Dharr and count the hairs from his head? A man said: I will. So the man came and brought water to him from the cistern and pounded it. Abu Dharr was standing, so he sat down and then lay down. It was said to him: O Abu Dharr, why did you sit down and then lie down? He said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to us: If one of you becomes angry while standing, let him sit down. If the anger goes away from him, then all well and good, otherwise let him lie down." Abu Dawood narrated it from Ahmad ibn Hanbal with his chain of transmission, except that it was included in his narration on the authority of Abu Harb on the authority of Abu Dharr. The correct version is Ibn Abi Harb on the authority of his father on the authority of Abu Dharr, as Abdullah ibn Ahmad narrated it on the authority of his father.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Ibrahim bin Khalid told us, Abu Wa'il al-San'ani told us: We were sitting with Urwah bin Muhammad when a man entered and said to him words that angered him. When he angered him, he stood up and came back to us after having performed ablution. He said: My father told me on the authority of my grandfather Atiyah - he is Ibn Sa'd al-Sa'di - and he was a companion - he said: "The Messenger of God said: Anger is from the devil, and the devil was created from fire, and fire is extinguished only with water. So when one of you becomes angry, let him perform ablution." And this is how Abu Dawud narrated it from the hadith of Ibrahim bin Khalid al-San'ani on the authority of Abu Wa'il al-Qass al-Muradi al-San'ani. Abu Dawud said: I think he was Abdullah bin Buhair.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Abdullah bin Yazid told us, Noah bin Ja'una al-Salami told us, on the authority of Muqatil bin Hayyan, on the authority of Ata', on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Whoever gives respite to someone in difficulty or forgives him, God will protect him from the heat of Hell. Indeed, the work of Paradise is made difficult by a hill - three times - Indeed, the work of Hell is made easy by a slip. And the happy one is the one who is protected from trials, and there is no sip more beloved to God than a sip of anger that a servant swallows. No servant of God swallows it except that it fills his stomach with faith.'" Ahmad is the only one to narrate it, and its chain of transmission is good, with no one who is wounded in it, and its text is good.

Another hadith with the same meaning - Abu Dawud said: Uqbah bin Makram told us, Abd al-Rahman, meaning Ibn Mahdi, told us, on the authority of Bishr, meaning Ibn Mansur, on the authority of Muhammad bin Ajlan, on the authority of Suwaid bin Wahb, on the authority of a man from the sons of the companions of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, on the authority of his father, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever suppresses anger when he is able to vent it, God will fill him with security and faith. Whoever refrains from wearing a beautiful garment when he is able to do so - Bishr said: I think he said: out of humility - God will clothe him with the garment of honor. Whoever marries for God, God will clothe him with the crown of kingship."

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Abdullah bin Yazid told us: Saeed told us, Abu Marhum told me on the authority of Sahl bin Muadh bin Anas, on the authority of his father, "The Messenger of God said: Whoever suppresses his anger when he is able to vent it, God will call him in front of all creation and let him choose from any of the hours he wants." Abu Dawud, Al-Tirmidhi and Ibn Majah narrated it on the authority of Saeed bin Abi Ayoub, and Al-Tirmidhi said: Hasan Gharib.

Another hadith - Abd al-Razzaq said: Dawud ibn Qays informed us, on the authority of Zayd ibn Aslam, on the authority of a man from the people of Ash-Sham called Abd al-Jalil, on the authority of his uncle, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, may God be pleased with him, regarding the words of God Almighty: And those who restrain anger, that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever restrains anger when he is able to give vent to it, God will fill him with security and faith. Narrated by Ibn Jarir.

Another hadith - Ibn Mardawayh said: Ahmad ibn Muhammad ibn Ziyad told us, Yahya ibn Abi Talib told us, Ali ibn Asim told us, Yunus ibn Ubayd told me on the authority of Al-Hasan, on the authority of Ibn Umar, may God be pleased with them both, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'A servant has not taken a sip of food that is better in reward than a sip of anger that he swallows seeking the face of God.'" And Ibn Majah narrated it likewise on the authority of Bishr ibn Umar, on the authority of Hammad ibn Salamah, on the authority of Yunus ibn Ubayd, with the same chain of transmission. So God Almighty's statement: And those who restrain anger means that they do not act out their anger on people, but rather they restrain their evil from them, and they seek reward for that from God Almighty. Then God the Almighty said: And those who pardon people meaning, while refraining from evil, they pardon those who wronged them in their souls, so that no grudge remains in their souls against anyone, and this is the most perfect state, and for this reason He said: And God loves the doers of good so this is from the stations of goodness, and in the hadith: "There are three things that I swear by: no wealth is diminished by charity, and God does not increase a servant through forgiveness except in honor, and whoever humbles himself before God, God will raise him up." Al-Hakim narrated in his Mustadrak from the hadith of Musa bin Uqbah from Ishaq bin Yahya bin Talhah Al-Qurashi, from Ubadah bin As-Samit, from Ubayy bin Ka'b that the Messenger of God, "said: Whoever is pleased to have a lofty building and be raised in status, let him pardon those who wronged him, give to those who deprived him, and connect with those who severed ties with him." Then he said: It is authentic according to the conditions of the two sheikhs, and they did not include it. Ibn Mardawayh included it from the hadith of Ali, Ka'b bin Ujrah, Abu Hurayrah, and Umm Salamah, may God be pleased with them, in a similar manner. It was narrated on the authority of Ad-Dahhak on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: When the Day of Resurrection comes, a crier will call out, saying: Where are those who pardoned people? Come to your Lord and take your rewards. It is the right of every Muslim man, if he pardons, to enter Paradise." And God Almighty said: And those who, when they have committed an immorality or wronged themselves, remember God and seek forgiveness for their sins. That is, if they commit a sin, they follow it up with repentance and seeking forgiveness. Imam Ahmad said: Yazid told us, Hammam bin Yahya told us, on the authority of Ishaq bin Abdullah bin Abi Talhah, on the authority of Abd al-Rahman bin Abi Umrah, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, may God be pleased with him, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, "He said: A man committed a sin and said: O Lord, I have committed a sin, so forgive it. God, the Almighty, said: My servant committed a sin and knew that he has a Lord who forgives sins and takes them to task. I have forgiven My servant. Then he committed another sin and said: O Lord, I have committed a sin, so forgive it. God, the Almighty, said: My servant knew that he has a Lord who forgives sins and takes them to task. I have forgiven My servant. Then he committed another sin and said: O Lord, I have committed a sin, so forgive it. God, the Almighty, said: My servant knew that he has a Lord who forgives sins and takes them to task. I have forgiven My servant." With it, I bear witness that I have forgiven my servant, so let him do whatever he wants." It was included in Sahih from the hadith of Ishaq bin Abi Talha, in a similar manner.

Another Hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Abu al-Nadr and Abu Amir told us: Zuhair told us: Saad al-Ta'i told us: Abu al-Mudallah, the freed slave of the Mother of the Believers, heard Abu Hurairah, we said: O Messenger of God, when we see you, our hearts soften, and we are from the people of the Hereafter, and when we leave you, the world pleases us, and we smell women and children. He said: "If you were to be in every state in the state you are in with me, the angels would shake your hands with their palms, and visit you in your homes. And if you did not sin, God would bring people who would sin so that He would forgive them." We said:

O Messenger of God, tell us about Paradise, what is its structure? He said: A brick of gold and a brick of silver, its mortar is the most fragrant musk, its pebbles are pearls and rubies, and its soil is saffron. Whoever enters it will be blessed and will not be miserable, and will live forever and will not die. His clothes will not wear out, and his youth will not fade. There are three whose supplications will not be rejected: the just ruler, the fasting person until he breaks his fast, and the supplication of the one who is not fasting until he breaks his fast." The oppressed person is carried on the clouds and the gates of heaven are opened for him, and the Lord says: By My glory, I will surely aid you, even if after a while. It was narrated by Al-Tirmidhi and Ibn Majah from another chain of transmission on the authority of Sa'd. Ablution and two rak'ahs of prayer are confirmed upon repentance, as narrated by Imam Ahmad ibn Hanbal: Waki' told us, Mis'ar and Sufyan Al-Thawri told us on the authority of Uthman ibn Al-Maghbarah Al-Thaqafi, on the authority of Ali ibn Rabi'ah, on the authority of Asma' ibn Al-Hakam Al-Fazari, on the authority of Ali, may God be pleased with him, who said: Whenever I heard a hadith from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, God would benefit me with whatever He willed from it. And if someone else tells me about it, I make him swear, and if he swears to me, I believe him. Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him, told me - and Abu Bakr spoke the truth - that he heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: "There is no man who commits a sin, then performs ablution and does it well - Misa'ar said - then prays - Sufyan said - then prays two rak'ahs, and seeks forgiveness from God Almighty, except that He forgives him." And thus it was narrated by Ali ibn al-Madini, al-Humaidi, Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shaybah, the people of the Sunan, Ibn Hibban in his Sahih, al-Bazzar, and al-Daraqutni through various chains of transmission on the authority of Uthman ibn al-Mughirah with it. Al-Tirmidhi said: It is a good hadith, and we have mentioned its chains of transmission, and the discussion of it is complete in Musnad Abu Bakr al-Siddiq, may God be pleased with him. In short, it is a good hadith, and it is narrated by the Commander of the Faithful, Ali ibn Abi Talib, on the authority of the Prophet's successor, Abu Bakr al-Siddiq, may God be pleased with them both. What bears witness to the authenticity of this hadith is what Muslim narrated in his Sahih on the authority of the Commander of the Faithful, Umar ibn al-Khattab, may God be pleased with him, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "There is none among you who performs ablution and completes it, then says: I bear witness that there is no god but God alone, without partner, and I bear witness that Muhammad is His servant and Messenger, except that the eight gates of Paradise will be opened for him, and he may enter through whichever one he wishes." And in the two Sahih on the authority of the Commander of the Faithful, Uthman ibn Affan, may God be pleased with him, that he performed ablution for them as the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, performed ablution, then said: "I heard the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: Whoever performs ablution like this ablution of mine, then prays two rak'ahs in which he does not think, his previous sins will be forgiven." This hadith has been proven from the narration of the four Imams, the Rightly-Guided Caliphs, on the authority of the Master of the First and the Last, and the Messenger of the Lord of the Worlds, as indicated by the clear Book, that seeking forgiveness for sins benefits sinners. And Abd al-Razzaq said: Ja'far ibn Sulayman informed us on the authority of Thabit, on the authority of Anas ibn Malik, may God be pleased with him, who said: It has been reported to me that when this verse was revealed, And those who, when they have committed an immorality or wronged themselves, remember God and seek forgiveness for their sins, the verse, Satan wept. Al-Hafiz Abu Ya'la said: Mahraz bin Awn told us, Uthman bin Matar told us, Abdul Ghafoor told us, on the authority of Abu Nasirah, on the authority of Abu Raja', on the authority of Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, "He said, 'Upon you is saying 'There is no god but God' and seeking forgiveness, so do a lot of them, for Satan said, 'I have destroyed people with sins and they have destroyed me with 'There is no god but God' and seeking forgiveness. So when I saw that, I have destroyed them with desires, and they think that they are guided.'" Uthman bin Matar and his sheikh are weak. Imam Ahmad narrated in his Musnad on the authority of Amr ibn Abi Amr and Abu Al-Haitham Al-Atwari on the authority of Abu Saeed, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "Satan said: O Lord, by Your glory, I will continue to mislead Your servants as long as their souls are in their bodies. God Almighty said: By My glory and majesty, I will continue to forgive them as long as they seek My forgiveness." Al-Hafiz Abu Bakr Al-Bazzar said: Muhammad ibn Al-Muthanna told us, Umar ibn Abi Khalifa told us, I heard Abu Badr narrating on the authority of Thabit, on the authority of Anas, who said: "A man came and said: O Messenger of God, I have committed a sin. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: If you sin, seek forgiveness from your Lord. He said: I seek forgiveness, then I sin again. He said: If you sin again, seek forgiveness from your Lord. He said it the fourth time, seek forgiveness from your Lord, until Satan is the one who regrets." This is a strange hadith from this source. And the Almighty's saying: And who forgives sins except God? means that no one forgives them except Him, as Imam Ahmad said: Muhammad ibn Mus'ab told us, Salam ibn Maskeen and al-Mubarak told us on the authority of al-Hasan on the authority of al-Aswad ibn Sari' that a prisoner was brought to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and he said: O God, I repent to You and I do not repent to Muhammad. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The truth has been made known to its people. And His saying: And they did not persist in what they did while they knew means that they repented from their sins and returned to God soon, and they did not continue in the sin and persist in it without giving it up. And if the sin was repeated from them, they would repent from it, as al-Hafiz Abu Ya'la al-Mawsili said in his Musnad: Ishaq ibn Abi Isra'il and others told us, they said: Abu Yahya Abd al-Hamid al-Hammani told us on the authority of Uthman ibn Waqid, on the authority of Abu Nasirah, on the authority of a freed slave of Abu Bakr, on the authority of Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: He who seeks forgiveness will not persist, even if he returns seventy times a day." And Abu Dawud narrated it. Al-Tirmidhi and Al-Bazzar in his Musnad from the hadith of Uthman bin Waqid - and Yahya bin Ma'een authenticated him with it - and his Sheikh Abu Nasirah Al-Wasiti, whose name is Muslim bin Ubaid, who was authenticated by Imam Ahmad and Ibn Hibban. Ali bin Al-Madini and Al-Tirmidhi said: The chain of transmission of this hadith is not that good. It appears that it is due to the ignorance of the client of Abu Bakr, but the ignorance of someone like him does not harm because he is a great follower, and it is sufficient for him to attribute it to Abu Bakr, so it is a good hadith, and God knows best. And his statement, and they know, Mujahid and Abdullah bin Ubaid bin Umair said, and they know, that whoever repents, God will accept his repentance. This is like the statement of God, the Most High, Do they not know that God accepts repentance from His servants? and His statement, And whoever does evil or wrongs himself but then seeks forgiveness from God will find God Forgiving and Merciful. And there are many similar examples to this. Imam Ahmad said: Yazid told us, Jarir told us, Habban - he is Ibn Zaid Al-Sharabi - told us, on the authority of Abdullah ibn Amr, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, "that he said while he was on the pulpit: 'Be merciful and you will be shown mercy, and forgive and you will be forgiven. Woe to those who defy speech, woe to those who persist in what they have done while they know.'" Ahmad is the only one to narrate it. Then God the Almighty said after describing them with what He described them with: Their reward is forgiveness from their Lord meaning their reward for these attributes is forgiveness from their Lord and gardens beneath which rivers flow meaning of various types of drinks abiding therein meaning abiding therein and excellent is the reward of the workers God the Almighty praises Paradise.

Fath al-Qadir

And His saying 132- And obey God and the Messenger The deletion of the subject indicates generalization: that is, in every command and prohibition that you may receive mercy that is, hoping for mercy from God Almighty.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

132- And obey God and the Messenger that you may receive mercy, so that you may receive mercy.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

132 And obey God and the Messenger that you may receive mercy. He followed the threat with the promise, intimidating against disobedience and encouraging obedience. Perhaps and perhaps in such cases there is evidence of the difficulty of attaining what was made report for.

Surat Al Imran 3:133

And hasten to forgiveness from your Lord and a Paradise as wide as the heavens and earth, prepared for the righteous.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And hasten with waw or without it to forgiveness from your Lord and a Paradise as wide as the heavens and the earth that is, as wide as they were if you connected one of them to the other, and width is spaciousness prepared for the righteous of God by doing acts of obedience and abandoning sins.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: God Almighty meant by His saying: And hasten, and hasten and race, to forgiveness from your Lord, meaning: to what conceals your sins from His mercy, and what covers them from His pardon for your punishment for them, and a Paradise as wide as the heavens and the earth, meaning: And hasten also to a Paradise as wide as the heavens and the earth.

It was mentioned that the meaning of this is: A paradise whose width is like the width of the seven heavens and the seven earths, if some of them are combined with others.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Al-Hussein told me, he said, Ahmad bin Al-Mufaddal told us, he said, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi: And a Paradise whose width is that of the heavens and the earth, he said: Ibn Abbas said: The seven heavens and the seven earths are joined together, just as clothes are joined together, so that is the width of Paradise.

Rather, it was said: And a garden as wide as the heavens and the earth, so its width was described as the heavens and the earths, and the meaning is what we described: describing its width as the width of the heavens and the earth, likening it to it in spaciousness and greatness, as it was said: He did not create you and resurrect you except as a single soul (Luqman 31:28), meaning: except as the resurrection of a single soul, and as the poet said:

As if their excuse is in the south of the ostrich's nest in a barren land

Meaning: an ostrich's excuse, and as the other said:

I thought my camel's embrace was an embrace! But it is not an embrace, except for you Wants: Hug sound.

Abu Ja'far said: It was mentioned that "the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was asked: 'This Paradise is as wide as the heavens and the earth, so where is Hell?' He said: 'This is the day when it comes, where is the night?'"

Mentioning the report of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and others:

Yunus told me, he said, Ibn Wahb told us, he said, Muslim bin Khalid told me, on the authority of Ibn Khathim, on the authority of Saeed bin Abi Rashid, on the authority of Ya'la bin Murrah, he said: I met Al-Tanukhi, the messenger of Heraclius to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, in Homs, an old man who had been refuted. He said: I came to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, with the letter of Heraclius, and he handed the paper to a man on his left. I said: Who is your companion who is reading? They said: Mu'awiyah. Then my companion's letter was: You have written inviting me to a Paradise whose width is the heavens and the earth, prepared for the righteous. So where is the Fire? The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Glory be to God! So where is the night when the day comes?

Muhammad bin Bashar told us, Abd al-Rahman bin Mahdi told us, Sufyan told us, on the authority of Qais bin Muslim, on the authority of Tariq bin Shihab: Some Jews asked Umar bin al-Khattab about Paradise, the width of which is the heavens and the earth. Where is Hell? He said: Have you seen when night comes, where is the day? They said: O God, you have taken something like it from the Torah!

Muhammad ibn Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Muhammad ibn Ja'far told us, he said, Shu'bah told us, on the authority of Qays ibn Muslim, on the authority of Tariq ibn Shihab: Three men from Najran came to 'Umar and asked him while his companions were with him. They said: What do you think of His statement: And a Paradise as wide as the heavens and the earth, so where is the fire? The people hesitated, so 'Umar said: What do you think, when night comes, where is the day? And when day comes, where is the night? They said: Something similar was taken from the Torah.

Ibn Al-Muthanna told us, he said, Muhammad Ibn Ja'far told us, he said, Shu'bah told us, on the authority of Ibrahim Ibn Muhajir, on the authority of Tariq Ibn Shihab, on the authority of Umar, something similar to it regarding the three men who came to Umar and asked him: About a Paradise whose width is like the width of the heavens and the earth, similar to the hadith of Qays Ibn Muslim.

Mujahid bin Musa narrated, Jaafar bin Awn narrated, Al-A'mash narrated, on the authority of Qais bin Muslim, on the authority of Tariq bin Shihab, who said: A Jewish man came to Umar and said: You say, Paradise is as wide as the heavens and the earth. Where is Hell? Umar said to him: Have you seen when the day comes, where is the night? Have you seen when the night comes, where is the day? He said: It is like it in the Torah. His companion said to him: Why did you tell him? His companion said to him: Leave him, for he is certain of everything.

Ahmad bin Hazim told me, he said, Abu Naim told us, he said, Jaafar bin Burqan told us, he said, Yazid bin Al-Asamm told us: A man from the People of the Book came to Ibn Abbas and said: You say, Paradise is as wide as the heavens and the earth, but where is Hell? Ibn Abbas said: Have you seen when the night comes, where is the day? And when the day comes, where is the night?

And hasten to forgiveness from your Lord and a Paradise as wide as the heavens and earth, prepared for the righteous.

Abu Ja'far said: As for his saying: Prepared for the righteous, it means: Paradise, whose width is like the width of the seven heavens and earths, God has prepared for the righteous, those who feared God and obeyed Him in what He commanded and forbade them, so they did not transgress His limits, and did not fall short in the duty of His right upon them, so as to waste it, as:

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq, he said: And hasten to forgiveness from your Lord and a Paradise as wide as the heavens and earth, prepared for the righteous, meaning: a home for whoever obeys me and obeys my Messenger.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

God Almighty says: And hasten to forgiveness from your Lord and a Paradise as wide as the heavens and earth, prepared for the righteous.

There are two issues:

The first: The Almighty's saying: And hasten. Nafi' and Ibn 'Amir read and hasten without the waw, and this is how it is in the copies of the Qur'an of the people of Medina and the people of Ash-Sham. The remaining seven read and hasten with the waw. Abu 'Ali said: Both matters are common and correct. Whoever reads with the waw, it is because he connected the sentence to the sentence, and whoever leaves the waw, it is because the second sentence is confused with the first, thus dispensing with the connection with the waw. And hastening means taking the initiative, and it is a reciprocal verb. And in the verse there is an omission, meaning hasten to what necessitates forgiveness, which is obedience. Anas bin Malik and Makhul said in their interpretation of And hasten to forgiveness from your Lord: its meaning is to the opening takbir. Ali bin Abi Talib said: to performing the obligatory duties. 'Uthman bin 'Affan: to sincerity. Al-Kalbi: to repentance from usury. And it was said: to steadfastness in battle. And other than this was said. The verse is general in all, and its meaning is the meaning of So hasten to do good deeds (al-Baqarah 2:148). And it was mentioned before.

The second: The Almighty's saying: And a Garden whose width is that of the heavens and the earth. Its meaning is like width, so the complement was deleted, like His saying: He did not create you and resurrect you except as a single soul (Luqman 31:28), meaning except as the creation of a single soul and its resurrection. The poet said:

I thought my caravan was an embrace, but it was no embrace other than you

He wants the sound of a hug. Its counterpart is in Surat al-Hadid 57: And a garden whose width is like the width of the heaven and the earth (al-Hadid 57:21).

Scholars differed in its interpretation. Ibn Abbas said: The heavens and the earth will be joined together as clothes are spread out and joined together. That is the width of Paradise, and no one knows its length except God. This is the opinion of the majority, and it is not denied, because "in the hadith of Abu Dharr on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace:

(The seven heavens and the seven earths in relation to the Kursi are nothing but a pearl thrown into a desert. The Kursi in relation to the Throne is nothing but a ring thrown into a desert.) These are creations that are much greater than the heavens and the earth, and the power of God is greater than all of that. Al-Kalbi said: There are four gardens: the Garden of Eden, the Garden of Refuge, the Garden of Paradise, and the Garden of Delight. Each garden is as wide as the heavens and the earth if they were connected to each other. Ismail Al-Suddi said: The heavens and the earth would collapse and become mustard seed, so for every mustard seed there is a garden whose width is like the width of the heavens and the earth.

In Sahih: (The lowest in status of the people of Paradise is he who wishes and wishes until his hopes run out, then God Almighty says: You have that and ten times more like it.) Narrated by Abu Saeed Al-Khudri, narrated by Muslim and others.

Ya'la bin Abi Marra said:

Al-Tanukhi, the messenger of Heraclius to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, met him in Homs. He was an old man who said: I came to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, with the letter of Heraclius, so he handed the document to a man on his left. He said: I said: Who is your companion who is reading? They said: Muawiyah. So here is my companion's letter: You wrote inviting me to a Paradise whose width is the heavens and the earth, so where is the Hellfire? The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Glory be to God! Where is the night when the day comes? And with a similar argument, Al-Faruq used it as evidence against the Jews when they said to him: What do you think of your saying and a Paradise whose width is the heavens and the earth, so where is the Hellfire? They said to him: You have taken what is in the Torah. God Almighty pointed out the width to the length because the length is usually greater than the width, and when length is mentioned it does not indicate the extent of the width. Al-Zuhri said: Rather, he described its width. As for its length, only God knows it. This is like the Almighty's saying: "Reclining on couches whose linings are of heavy brocade" (Al-Rahman: 54). He described the lining with the best known adornment, since it is known that the outer surfaces are more beautiful and perfect than the linings. The Arabs say: a wide land, and a wide desert, meaning wide. The poet said:

As if the lands of God are wide for the fearful and wanted, his hand is full

Some people said: The speech is based on the Arabs' metaphorical passage, so since Paradise is extremely vast and spacious, it is good to express it as the width of the heavens and the earth, as you would say to a man: This is a sea, or to a large animal: This is a mountain. The verse did not intend to specify the width, but rather it meant that it is the widest thing you have seen. The majority of scholars agree that Paradise was created and exists, based on His statement: Prepared for the righteous, which is the text of the hadith of Isra' and others in the two Sahihs and others. The Mu'tazila said: They were not created in our time, and that when God the Most High folded the heavens and the earth, He began the creation of Paradise and Hell wherever He willed, because they are a house of recompense with reward and punishment. So He created us after the obligation at the time of recompense, so that the house of obligation and the house of recompense would not come together in this world, as they did not come together in the Hereafter. Ibn Furak said: Paradise will be increased on the Day of Resurrection. Ibn Atiyo said: This is related to Mundhir ibn Sa'id and others who said that Paradise has not been created yet. Ibn Atiyah said: Ibn Furak's statement it is added to it is an indication of something that exists, but it needs a chain of transmission that eliminates the excuse for the addition.

I said: Ibn Atiyyah may God be pleased with him spoke the truth in what he said. If the seven heavens and the seven earths in relation to the Kursi are like dirhams thrown into a desert, and the Kursi in relation to the Throne is like a ring thrown into a desert, then Paradise now, as it will be in the Hereafter, is as wide as the heavens and the earth, since the Throne is its ceiling, according to what was mentioned in Sahih Muslim. It is known that the ceiling contains what is beneath it and more. If all of creation is like a ring in relation to it, then who can estimate it and know its length and width except God, its Creator, whose power has no end, and whose kingdom has no limit, glory be to Him.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The Almighty says, forbidding His believing servants from engaging in usury and consuming it in multiples, as they used to say in the days of ignorance: When the due date of a debt comes, either pay it or increase it. If he pays it, otherwise, he increases it in the period, and the other increases it in the amount, and so on every year, perhaps the little will be doubled until it becomes a lot multiplied. The Almighty commanded His servants to be pious, so that they may succeed in the first and the last, then He threatened them with the Fire and warned them against it, so the Almighty said: "And fear the Fire which has been prepared for the disbelievers. And obey God and the Messenger, that you may receive mercy." Then He urged them to hasten to do good deeds and hasten to attain the acts of worship, so the Almighty said: And hasten to forgiveness from your Lord and a Garden as wide as the heavens and the earth, prepared for the righteous.

That is, just as the Fire was prepared for the disbelievers. It has been said that the meaning of His saying its width is the heavens and the earth is an indication of the vastness of its length, as He said in describing the furnishings of Paradise: its linings are of brocade. That is, what do you think? By the backs? It was said: Rather, its width is like its length because it is a dome under the throne, and the domed and round thing is as wide as its length. This is indicated by what was established in the Sahih: "If you ask God for Paradise, then ask Him for Al-Firdaws, for it is the highest part of Paradise and the middle of Paradise, and from it the rivers of Paradise flow, and its roof is the Throne of the Most Merciful." This verse is like the Almighty's saying in Surat al-Hadid 57: Race one another to forgiveness from your Lord and a Paradise whose width is like the width of the heavens and the earth, the verse. We narrated in Musnad Al-Imam Ahmad that Heraclius wrote to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace: You have invited me to a Paradise whose width is the heavens and the earth, so where is Hell? The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Glory be to God, so where is the night when the day comes? Ibn Jarir narrated it and said: Yunus told me, Ibn Wahb told us, Muslim bin Khalid told me on the authority of Abu Khathim, on the authority of Saeed bin Abi Rashid, on the authority of Ya'la bin Murrah, who said: "I met Al-Tanukhi, the messenger of Heraclius to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, in Homs, an old man who had become corrupt. He said: I came to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, with the letter of Heraclius, so he handed the paper to a man on his left. He said: I said: Who is your companion who reads? They said: Mu'awiyah. Then it was the letter of my companion: You have written inviting me to a Paradise whose width is the heavens and the earth, prepared for the righteous. So where is the Fire?" He said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Glory be to God! Where is the night when the day comes? Al-A'mash, Sufyan al-Thawri and Shu'bah said on the authority of Qays ibn Muslim on the authority of Tariq ibn Shihab: Some Jews asked Umar ibn al-Khattab about a Paradise whose width is the heavens and the earth, so where is Hell? Umar said to them: Have you seen when the day comes, where is the night? And when the night comes, where is the day? They said: Something similar has been taken from the Torah. Ibn Jarir narrated it through three chains of transmission. Then he said: Ahmad ibn Hazim told us, Abu Nu'aym told us, Ja'far ibn Burqan told us, Yazid ibn al-A'sam told us: A man from the People of the Book said: They say, A Paradise whose width is the heavens and the earth, so where is Hell? Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with him, said: Where is the night when the day comes, and where is the day when the night comes? This has been narrated with a chain of transmission traceable back to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace. Al-Bazzar said: Muhammad ibn Mu'ammal told us, Al-Mughirah ibn Salamah Abu Hisham told us, Abd al-Wahid ibn Ziyad told us on the authority of Ubaydullah ibn Abdullah ibn al-A'sam, on the authority of His uncle Yazid ibn al-Asamm, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, said: "A man came to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: 'Have you seen the words of God the Almighty: "A Paradise as wide as the heavens and the earth," then where is the Fire?' He said: 'Have you seen that when the night comes it covers everything, so where is the day?' He said: 'Wherever God wills.' He said: 'And so the Fire will be wherever God the Almighty wills.'" This has two possible meanings one of them that the meaning in that is that it does not necessarily follow from our not seeing the night when the day comes that it is not in a place, even if we do not know it, and so the Fire will be wherever God the Almighty wills, and this is more apparent as mentioned previously in the hadith of Abu Hurayrah on the authority of al-Bazzar.

And hasten to forgiveness from your Lord and a Paradise as wide as the heavens and earth, prepared for the righteous.

Second That the meaning is that if the day covers the face of the world from this side, then the night is from the other side, so likewise Paradise is in the highest of the high above the heavens under the Throne and its width, as God Almighty said like the width of the heaven and the earth and Hell is in the lowest of the low, so there is no contradiction between it being like the width of the heavens and the earth and the existence of Hell, and God knows best.

Then God the Almighty mentioned the description of the people of Paradise, saying, Those who spend in ease and hardship, meaning in hardship and ease, in comfort and distress, in health and sickness, and in all circumstances, just as He said, Those who spend their wealth by night and by day, secretly and publicly, meaning that nothing distracts them from obeying God the Almighty and spending in what pleases Him, and doing good to His creation from their relatives and others with various types of righteousness. And God the Almighty said, And those who restrain anger and pardon the people, meaning that if anger arises in them, they restrain it, meaning they conceal it and do not act on it, and they pardon those who wrong them. It was mentioned in some of the narrations: "God the Most High says: O son of Adam, remember Me when you become angry, and I will remember you when you become angry, so that I will not destroy you among those whom I destroy." Narrated by Ibn Abi Hatim. Abu Ya'la said in his Musnad: Abu Musa al-Zaman told us, Isa bin Shu'aib al-Dareer Abu al-Fadl told us, al-Rabi' bin Sulayman al-Jizi told me on the authority of Abu Amr bin Anas bin Malik, on the authority of his father, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever restrains his anger, God will restrain his punishment from him. Whoever guards his tongue, God will cover his faults. Whoever apologizes to God, God will accept his apology." This is a strange hadith, and its chain of transmission is questionable. Imam Ahmad said: Abd al-Rahman told us, Malik told us on the authority of al-Zuhri, on the authority of Sa'id bin al-Musayyab, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, may God be pleased with him, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: The strong man is not the one who wrestles, but the strong man is the one who controls himself when he is angry. The two sheikhs narrated it on the authority of Malik. Imam

Ahmad also said: Abu Muawiyah told us, Al-A'mash told us, on the authority of Ibrahim Al-Taymi, on the authority of Al-Harith bin Suwaid, on the authority of Abdullah, who is Ibn Mas'ud, may God be pleased with him, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Which of you would rather have the wealth of his heir than his own wealth? They said: O Messenger of God, there is none among us who does not love his wealth more than the wealth of his heir. He said: "Know that there is none among you who does not love the wealth of his heir more than his own wealth. Your wealth from your wealth is only what you have sent forward, and the wealth of your heir is what you have delayed." The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: What do you consider to be a wrestler among you? We said: The one who is not wrestled by men. He said: No, but the one who controls himself when he is angry. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: What do you consider to be a slave among you? We said: The one who has no children. He said: No, but the slave is the one who has not sent forward any of his children. Al-Bukhari included the first chapter of it, and Muslim included the original of this hadith, on the authority of Al-A'mash.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Muhammad ibn Ja'far told us, Shu'bah told us, I heard Urwah ibn 'Abdullah al-Ju'fi narrating on the authority of Hasbah or Ibn Abi Hasin, on the authority of a man who witnessed the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, giving a sermon, and he said, Do you know what ruqūb is? We said, The one who has no children. He said, Ruqūb is all the ones who have children and then died without having given anything from them. He said, Do you know what sāluq is? They said, The one who has no wealth. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said, The sāluq is all the one who has wealth and then died without giving anything from it. Then the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said, What is sarā'? They said, The one who is struck down. He, may God bless him and grant him peace, said, Sarā' is all the sarā', the one who becomes angry and his anger becomes intense, his face turns red, and his hair stands up, so he is struck down by his anger.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Ibn Numayr told us, Hisham ibn Urwah told us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-Ahnaf ibn Qays, on the authority of his uncle called Jariyah ibn Qudamah Al-Sa'di, "that he asked the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: O Messenger of God, say to me something that will benefit me and make it short for me so that I may understand it. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Do not get angry. So he repeated it to him until he repeated it to him many times, each time saying: Do not get angry." And this is how he narrated it on the authority of Abu Mu'awiyah on the authority of Hisham on his authority, and he also narrated it on the authority of Yahya ibn Sa'id Al-Qattan on the authority of Hisham on his authority, "that a man said: O Messenger of God, say to me something and make it short for me so that I may understand it. He said: Do not get angry." The hadith is narrated only by Ahmad.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Abd al-Razzaq told us, Muammar told us, on the authority of al-Zuhri, on the authority of Hamid ibn Abd al-Rahman, "On the authority of a man from the companions of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: A man said: O Messenger of God, advise me. He said: Do not get angry. The man said: So I thought about it when the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said what he said, and I saw that anger brings together all evil." Ahmad alone transmitted it.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Abu Muawiyah told us, Dawud ibn Abi Hind told us, on the authority of Abu Ibn Harb ibn Abi Al-Aswad, on the authority of Abu Al-Aswad, on the authority of Abu Dharr, may God be pleased with him, who said: He was watering from his cistern when some people came and said: Who among you will bring water to Abu Dharr and count the hairs from his head? A man said: I will. So the man came and brought water to him from the cistern and pounded it. Abu Dharr was standing, so he sat down and then lay down. It was said to him: O Abu Dharr, why did you sit down and then lie down? He said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to us: If one of you becomes angry while standing, let him sit down. If the anger goes away from him, then all well and good, otherwise let him lie down." Abu Dawood narrated it from Ahmad ibn Hanbal with his chain of transmission, except that it was included in his narration on the authority of Abu Harb on the authority of Abu Dharr. The correct version is Ibn Abi Harb on the authority of his father on the authority of Abu Dharr, as Abdullah ibn Ahmad narrated it on the authority of his father.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Ibrahim bin Khalid told us, Abu Wa'il al-San'ani told us: We were sitting with Urwah bin Muhammad when a man entered and said to him words that angered him. When he angered him, he stood up and came back to us after having performed ablution. He said: My father told me on the authority of my grandfather Atiyah - he is Ibn Sa'd al-Sa'di - and he was a companion - he said: "The Messenger of God said: Anger is from the devil, and the devil was created from fire, and fire is extinguished only with water. So when one of you becomes angry, let him perform ablution." And this is how Abu Dawud narrated it from the hadith of Ibrahim bin Khalid al-San'ani on the authority of Abu Wa'il al-Qass al-Muradi al-San'ani. Abu Dawud said: I think he was Abdullah bin Buhair.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Abdullah bin Yazid told us, Noah bin Ja'una al-Salami told us, on the authority of Muqatil bin Hayyan, on the authority of Ata', on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Whoever gives respite to someone in difficulty or forgives him, God will protect him from the heat of Hell. Indeed, the work of Paradise is made difficult by a hill - three times - Indeed, the work of Hell is made easy by a slip. And the happy one is the one who is protected from trials, and there is no sip more beloved to God than a sip of anger that a servant swallows. No servant of God swallows it except that it fills his stomach with faith.'" Ahmad is the only one to narrate it, and its chain of transmission is good, with no one who is wounded in it, and its text is good.

Another hadith with the same meaning - Abu Dawud said: Uqbah bin Makram told us, Abd al-Rahman, meaning Ibn Mahdi, told us, on the authority of Bishr, meaning Ibn Mansur, on the authority of Muhammad bin Ajlan, on the authority of Suwaid bin Wahb, on the authority of a man from the sons of the companions of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, on the authority of his father, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever suppresses anger when he is able to vent it, God will fill him with security and faith. Whoever refrains from wearing a beautiful garment when he is able to do so - Bishr said: I think he said: out of humility - God will clothe him with the garment of honor. Whoever marries for God, God will clothe him with the crown of kingship."

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Abdullah bin Yazid told us: Saeed told us, Abu Marhum told me on the authority of Sahl bin Muadh bin Anas, on the authority of his father, "The Messenger of God said: Whoever suppresses his anger when he is able to vent it, God will call him in front of all creation and let him choose from any of the houris he wants." Abu Dawud, Al-Tirmidhi and Ibn Majah narrated it on the authority of Saeed bin Abi Ayoub, and Al-Tirmidhi said: Hasan Gharib.

Another hadith - Abd al-Razzaq said: Dawud ibn Qays informed us, on the authority of Zayd ibn Aslam, on the authority of a man from the people of Ash-Sham called Abd al-Jalil, on the authority of his uncle, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, may God be pleased with him, regarding the words of God Almighty: And those who restrain anger, that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever restrains anger when he is able to give vent to it, God will fill him with security and faith. Narrated by Ibn Jarir.

Another hadith - Ibn Mardawayh said: Ahmad ibn Muhammad ibn Ziyad told us, Yahya ibn Abi Talib told us, Ali ibn Asim told us, Yunus ibn Ubayd told me on the authority of Al-Hasan, on the authority of Ibn Umar, may God be pleased with them both, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'A servant has not taken a sip of food that is better in reward than a sip of anger that he swallows seeking the face of God.'" And Ibn Majah narrated it likewise on the authority of Bishr ibn Umar, on the authority of Hammad ibn Salamah, on the authority of Yunus ibn Ubayd, with the same chain of transmission. So God Almighty's statement: And those who restrain anger means that they do not act out their anger on people, but rather they restrain their evil from them, and they seek reward for that from God Almighty. Then God the Almighty said: And those who pardon people meaning, while refraining from evil, they pardon those who wronged them in their souls, so that no grudge remains in their souls against anyone, and this is the most perfect state, and for this reason He said: And God loves the doers of good so this is from the stations of goodness, and in the hadith: "There are three things that I swear by: no wealth is diminished by charity, and God does not increase a servant through forgiveness except in honor, and whoever humbles himself before God, God will raise him up.” Al-Hakim narrated in his Mustadrak from the hadith of Musa bin Uqbah from Ishaq bin Yahya bin Talhah Al-Qurashi, from Ubadah bin As-Samit, from Ubayy bin Ka'b that the Messenger of God, “said: Whoever is pleased to have a lofty building and be raised in status, let him pardon those who wronged him, give to those who deprived him, and connect with those who severed ties with him.” Then he said: It is authentic according to the conditions of the two sheikhs, and they did not include it. Ibn Mardawayh included it from the hadith of Ali, Ka'b bin Ujrah, Abu Hurayrah, and Umm Salamah, may God be pleased with them, in a similar manner. It was narrated on the authority of Ad-Dahhak on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, who said: “The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: When the Day of Resurrection comes, a crier will call out, saying: Where are those who pardoned people? Come to your Lord and take your rewards. It is the right of every Muslim man, if he pardons, to enter Paradise.” And God Almighty said: And those who, when they have committed an immorality or wronged themselves, remember God and seek forgiveness for their sins. That is, if they commit a sin, they follow it up with repentance and seeking forgiveness. Imam Ahmad said: Yazid told us, Hammam bin Yahya told us, on the authority of Ishaq bin Abdullah bin Abi Talhah, on the authority of Abd al-Rahman bin Abi Umrah, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, may God be pleased with him, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, “He said: A man committed a sin and said: O Lord, I have committed a sin, so forgive it. God, the Almighty, said: My servant committed a sin and knew that he has a Lord who forgives sins and takes them to task. I have forgiven My servant. Then he committed another sin and said: O Lord, I have committed a sin, so forgive it. God, the Almighty, said: My servant knew that he has a Lord who forgives sins and takes them to task. I have forgiven My servant. Then he committed another sin and said: O Lord, I have committed a sin, so forgive it. God, the Almighty, said: My servant knew that he has a Lord who forgives sins and takes them to task. I have forgiven My servant.” With it, I bear witness that I have forgiven my servant, so let him do whatever he wants.” It was included in Sahih from the hadith of Ishaq bin Abi Talha, in a similar manner.

And hasten to forgiveness from your Lord and a Paradise as wide as the heavens and earth, prepared for the righteous.

Another Hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Abu al-Nadr and Abu Amir told us: Zuhair told us: Saad al-Ta'i told us: Abu al-Mudallah, the freed slave of the Mother of the Believers, heard Abu Hurairah, we said: O Messenger of God, when we see you, our hearts soften, and we are from the people of the Hereafter, and when we leave you, the world pleases us, and we smell women and children. He said: “If you were to be in every state in the state you are in with me, the angels would shake your hands with their palms, and visit you in your homes. And if you did not sin, God would bring people who would sin so that He would forgive them.” We said:

O Messenger of God, tell us about Paradise, what is its structure? He said: A brick of gold and a brick of silver, its mortar is the most fragrant musk, its pebbles are pearls and rubies, and its soil is saffron. Whoever enters it will be blessed and will not be miserable, and will live forever and will not die. His clothes will not wear out, and his youth will not fade. There are three whose supplications will not be rejected: the just ruler, the fasting person until he breaks his fast, and the supplication of the one who is not fasting until he breaks his fast.” The oppressed person is carried on the clouds and the gates of heaven are opened for him, and the Lord says: By My glory, I will surely aid you, even if after a while. It was narrated by Al-Tirmidhi and Ibn Majah from another chain of transmission on the authority of Sa'd. Ablution and two rak'ahs of prayer are confirmed upon repentance, as narrated by Imam Ahmad ibn Hanbal: Waki' told us, Mis'ar and Sufyan Al-Thawri told us on the authority of Uthman ibn Al-Maghbarah Al-Thaqafi, on the authority of Ali ibn Rabi'ah, on the authority of Asma' ibn Al-Hakam Al-Fazari, on the authority of Ali, may God be pleased with him, who said: Whenever I heard a hadith from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, God would benefit me with whatever He willed from it. And if someone else tells me about it, I make him swear, and if he swears to me, I believe him. Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him, told me - and Abu Bakr spoke the truth - that he heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: “There is no man who commits a sin, then performs ablution and does it well - Misa'ar said - then prays - Sufyan said - then prays two rak'ahs, and seeks forgiveness from God Almighty, except that He forgives him.” And thus it was narrated by Ali ibn al-Madini, al-Humaidi, Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shaybah, the people of the Sunan, Ibn Hibban in his Sahih, al-Bazzar, and al-Daraqutni through various chains of transmission on the authority of Uthman ibn al-Mughirah with it. Al-Tirmidhi said: It is a good hadith, and we have mentioned its chains of transmission, and the discussion of it is complete in Musnad Abu Bakr al-Siddiq, may God be pleased with him. In short, it is a good hadith, and it is narrated by the Commander of the Faithful, Ali ibn Abi Talib, on the authority of the Prophet's successor, Abu Bakr al-Siddiq, may God be pleased with them both. What bears witness to the authenticity of this hadith is what Muslim narrated in his Sahih on the authority of the Commander of the Faithful, Umar ibn al-Khattab, may God be pleased with him, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: “There is none among you who performs ablution and completes it, then says: I bear witness that there is no god but God alone, without partner, and I bear witness that Muhammad is His servant and Messenger, except that the eight gates of Paradise will be opened for him, and he may enter through whichever one he wishes.” And in the two Sahih on the authority of the Commander of the Faithful, Uthman ibn Affan, may God be pleased with him, that he performed ablution for them as the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, performed ablution, then said: “I heard the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, say:

Whoever performs ablution like this ablution of mine, then prays two rak'ahs in which he does not think, his previous sins will be forgiven." This hadith has been proven from the narration of the four Imams, the Rightly-Guided Caliphs, on the authority of the Master of the First and the Last, and the Messenger of the Lord of the Worlds, as indicated by the clear Book, that seeking forgiveness for sins benefits sinners. And Abd al-Razzaq said: Ja'far ibn Sulayman informed us on the authority of Thabit, on the authority of Anas ibn Malik, may God be pleased with him, who said: It has been reported to me that when this verse was revealed,

And those who, when they have committed an immorality or wronged themselves, remember God and seek forgiveness for their sins, the verse, Satan wept. Al-Hafiz Abu Ya'la said: Mahraz bin Awn told us, Uthman bin Matar told us, Abdul Ghafoor told us, on the authority of Abu Nasirah, on the authority of Abu Raja', on the authority of Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, "He said, 'Upon you is saying 'There is no god but God' and seeking forgiveness, so do a lot of them, for Satan said, 'I have destroyed people with sins and they have destroyed me with 'There is no god but God' and seeking forgiveness. So when I saw that, I have destroyed them with desires, and they think that they are guided.'" Uthman bin Matar and his sheikh are weak. Imam Ahmad narrated in his Musnad on the authority of Amr ibn Abi Amr and Abu Al-Haitham Al-Atwari on the authority of Abu Saeed, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "Satan said: O Lord, by Your glory, I will continue to mislead Your servants as long as their souls are in their bodies. God Almighty said: By My glory and majesty, I will continue to forgive them as long as they seek My forgiveness." Al-Hafiz Abu Bakr Al-Bazzar said: Muhammad ibn Al-Muthanna told us, Umar ibn Abi Khalifa told us, I heard Abu Badr narrating on the authority of Thabit, on the authority of Anas, who said: "A man came and said: O Messenger of God, I have committed a sin. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: If you sin, seek forgiveness from your Lord. He said: I seek forgiveness, then I sin again. He said: If you sin again, seek forgiveness from your Lord. He said it the fourth time, seek forgiveness from your Lord, until Satan is the one who regrets." This is a strange hadith from this source. And the Almighty's saying: And who forgives sins except God? means that no one forgives them except Him, as Imam Ahmad said: Muhammad ibn Mus'ab told us, Salam ibn Maskeen and al-Mubarak told us on the authority of al-Hasan on the authority of al-Aswad ibn Sari' that a prisoner was brought to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and he said: O God, I repent to You and I do not repent to Muhammad. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The truth has been made known to its people. And His saying: And they did not persist in what they did while they knew means that they repented from their sins and returned to God soon, and they did not continue in the sin and persist in it without giving it up. And if the sin was repeated from them, they would repent from it, as al-Hafiz Abu Ya'la al-Mawsili said in his Musnad: Ishaq ibn Abi Isra'il and others told us, they said: Abu Yahya Abd al-Hamid al-Hammami told us on the authority of Uthman ibn

Waqid, on the authority of Abu Nasirah, on the authority of a freed slave of Abu Bakr, on the authority of Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: He who seeks forgiveness will not persist, even if he returns seventy times a day." And Abu Dawud narrated it. Al-Tirmidhi and Al-Bazzar in his Musnad from the hadith of Uthman bin Waqid - and Yahya bin Ma'een authenticated him with it - and his Sheikh Abu Nasirah Al-Wasiti, whose name is Muslim bin Ubaid, who was authenticated by Imam Ahmad and Ibn Hibban. Ali bin Al-Madini and Al-Tirmidhi said: The chain of transmission of this hadith is not that good. It appears that it is due to the ignorance of the client of Abu Bakr, but the ignorance of someone like him does not harm because he is a great follower, and it is sufficient for him to attribute it to Abu Bakr, so it is a good hadith, and God knows best. And his statement, and they know, Mujahid and Abdullah bin Ubaid bin Umair said, and they know, that whoever repents, God will accept his repentance. This is like the statement of God, the Most High, Do they not know that God accepts repentance from His servants? and His statement, And whoever does evil or wrongs himself but then seeks forgiveness from God will find God Forgiving and Merciful. And there are many similar examples to this. Imam Ahmad said: Yazid told us, Jarir told us, Habbab - he is Ibn Zaid Al-Sharabi - told us, on the authority of Abdullah Ibn Amr, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, "that he said while he was on the pulpit: 'Be merciful and you will be shown mercy, and forgive and you will be forgiven. Woe to those who defy speech, woe to those who persist in what they have done while they know.'" Ahmad is the only one to narrate it. Then God the Almighty said after describing them with what He described them with: Their reward is forgiveness from their Lord meaning their reward for these attributes is forgiveness from their Lord and gardens beneath which rivers flow meaning of various types of drinks abiding therein meaning abiding therein and excellent is the reward of the workers God the Almighty praises Paradise.

Fath al-Qadir

And his saying 133- And hasten is in apposition to obey, and Nafi' and Ibn 'Amir read hasten without the waw, and this is also in the copies of the Mushafs of the people of Medina and the people of Ash-Sham, and the rest read it with the waw. Abu Ali said: Both matters are permissible and correct, and hastening means taking the initiative, and in the verse there is an omission, meaning hasten to what necessitates forgiveness from acts of obedience. And His saying, Its width is like the width of the heavens and the earth, meaning: its width is like the width of the heavens and the earth. And similar to it is the other verse, Its width is like the width of the heaven and the earth. And there is a difference of opinion regarding the meaning of that. The majority of scholars have held that it links the heavens and the earth together, just as clothes are spread out and connected to each other, so that is the width of Paradise. And He pointed out the length by width because the length is usually greater than the width. And it has been said that this statement came in the manner of the speech of the Arabs, from metaphor

Surat Al Imran 3:133

And hasten to forgiveness from your Lord and a Paradise as wide as the heavens and earth, prepared for the righteous.

rather than reality, and that is because Paradise was not extremely vast and spacious, and it was good to express it by the width of the heavens and the earth as an exaggeration because they are the most spacious of the creations of God Almighty in what His servants know, and He did not intend to specify by that.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

133- And hasten, the people of Medina and Ash-Sham read hastened without the waw; to forgiveness from your Lord, meaning hasten and race to the deeds that necessitate forgiveness.

Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with him, said: To Islam. It was narrated from him: To repentance. Ikrimah said the same. Ali ibn Abi Talib, may God be pleased with him, said: To performing the obligatory duties. Abu al-Aaliyah said: To migration. Ad-Dahhak said: To jihad. Muqatil said: To righteous deeds. It was narrated from Anas ibn Malik that it is the first takbir.

And a garden meaning and to a garden as wide as the heavens and the earth meaning: its width is like the width of the heavens and the earth, as He said in Surat Al-Hadid And a garden as wide as the heaven and the earth Surat Al-Hadid - 21 meaning: its spaciousness, and the width was mentioned for emphasis because the length of everything is usually greater than its width. He says: This is a description of its width, so how is its length? Al-Zuhri said: Its width was only described, as for its length, only God knows it, and this is for example, not that it is like the heavens and the earth and nothing else, its meaning: like the width of the seven heavens and the seven earths according to your opinion, like the Almighty's saying: They will abide therein as long as the heavens and the earth endure Surat Hud - 107 meaning: according to your opinion, like His saying: Otherwise, they will perish. It was narrated on the authority of Tariq bin Shihab that some Jews asked Omar bin Al-Khattab while his companions were with him, may God be pleased with them, and they said: Have you seen His saying: And a garden as wide as the heavens and the earth so where is the fire? Omar said: Have you seen when night comes, where is the day, and when day comes, where is the night? They said: It is like it in the Torah, and its meaning is that it is wherever God wills.

If it is said: God the Almighty said: And in the heaven is your provision and that which you are promised (Surat al-Dhariyat 51:22), and what He meant by what He promised us is Paradise. So if Paradise is in the heaven, how wide is it as the heavens and the earth? It is said: The gate of Paradise is in the heaven and its width is as the heavens and the earth, as He has informed us. Anas bin Malik, may God be pleased with him, was asked about Paradise: Is it in the heaven or on the earth? He said: Which earth and heaven can contain Paradise? It was said: Where is it? He said: Above the seven heavens under the Throne. Qatada said: They used to think that Paradise is above the seven heavens, and that Hell is under the seven earths prepared for the righteous.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

133And hasten they hastened and came. To forgiveness from your Lord to that which deserves forgiveness, such as Islam, repentance, and sincerity. Nafi' and Ibn 'Amir read hasten without the waw. And a Paradise as wide as the heavens and the earth meaning its width is like their width, and the width is mentioned to exaggerate its description of spaciousness in the manner of metaphor, because it is less than length. And according to Ibn 'Abbas, like seven heavens and seven earths if some of them were connected to others, prepared for the righteous it was prepared for them, and in it is evidence that Paradise was created and that it is outside this world.

Surat Al Imran 3:134

Those who spend in prosperity and adversity, who restrain anger and pardon the people - and God loves the doers of good.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

Those who spend in obedience to God in prosperity and adversity ease and hardship and who restrain anger refrain from carrying it out even though they are able and who pardon the people of those whom they have wronged, meaning those who refrain from punishing them and God loves the doers of good through these actions, meaning He rewards them.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: What He, the Most High, meant by His saying: Those who spend in prosperity and adversity, is that Paradise, the width of which is the heavens and the earth, has been prepared for the righteous, and they are those who spend their wealth in the way of God, either by spending it on someone in need, or by strengthening someone who is weak to rise up for his jihad in the way of God.

As for his saying: in prosperity, he means: in a state of happiness, with abundant money and comfortable living.

Siraa is a noun derived from the word Siraa which means: This matter pleased me greatly.

"Ad-Daraa" is a noun derived from the saying: "So-and-so has been harmed, so he is harming", if harm befalls him, and that is if he is afflicted with distress and difficulty in his life.

Muhammad bin Saad told us, he said, my father told me, he said, my uncle told me, he said, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding his statement: Those who spend in prosperity and adversity, meaning: in hardship and ease.

So He, the Most High, informed us that the Paradise whose description He described is for those who fear Him and spend their money in His cause, in times of ease and abundance, and in times of hardship and difficulty.

His saying: And those who restrain anger, means: And those who suppress anger when their souls are filled with it.

It is said: So-and-so swallowed his anger, meaning he swallowed it, and preserved himself from doing what he was capable of doing, by empowering himself against the one who angered him, and by taking revenge against the one who wronged him.

The origin of this comes from the word kazum al-qurbah, which means to fill the water skin with water.

Someone is kazeem or makzoom, meaning he is filled with grief and sadness. From this comes the saying of God the Almighty: And his eyes became white from grief, so he was kazeem (Yusuf 12:84), meaning: filled with grief. From this comes the word kaza'im, meaning filled with grief, for the watercourses are called kaza'im, because they are filled with water. From this comes the word took hold of his hold, meaning: the watercourses of his soul.

Anger is a noun derived from the saying: So-and-so angered me, so he angers me with anger, meaning that he made him angry and upset him.

As for his saying: And those who pardon people, he means: And those who pardon people, the punishment of their sins is upon them, and they are able to take revenge on them, so they leave it to them.

As for his saying: And God loves the doers of good, it means: God loves the one who does these things for which He described that He has prepared for those who do them Paradise, the breadth of which is the heavens and the earth, and the ones who do them are the doers of good, and their goodness is their doing them, as:

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: Those who spend in prosperity and adversity the verse, and pardon the people - and God loves the doers of good, meaning: and that is goodness, and I love whoever does it.

Bishr told us, Yazid told us, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: Those who spend in ease and hardship, and who restrain anger and pardon the people - and God loves the doers of good. People who spent in hardship and ease, in difficulty and in prosperity. So whoever is able to overcome evil with good, let him do so, and there is no power except with God. So, by God, O son of Adam, you are drinking a sip of patience while you are angry and you are wronged.

Musa bin Abdul Rahman told me, he said, Muhammad bin Bishr told us, he said, Mahraz Abu Raja told us, on the authority of Al-Hasan, he said: It will be said on the Day of al-Qiyamah 75: Let whoever has a reward from God stand. No one will stand except a person who has pardoned. Then he recited this verse: And those who pardon the people - and God loves the doers of good.

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said, Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said, Dawud bin Qais told us, on the authority of Zaid bin Aslam, on the authority of a man from the people of Ash-Sham called Abd al-Jalil, on the authority of his uncle, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, regarding his statement: And those who restrain anger: "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever restrains anger when he is able to give vent to it, God will fill him with security and faith."

Muhammad ibn Sa'd told me, he said, my father told me, he said, my uncle told me, he said, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn 'Abbas, regarding his statement: And those who restrain anger to And God loves the doers of good. So those who restrain anger is like His statement: And when they become angry, they forgive (al-Shura

Those who spend in prosperity and adversity, who restrain anger and pardon the people - and God loves the doers of good.

42:37). They become angry about a matter that if they had committed it, it would have been forbidden, so they forgive and pardon, seeking thereby the face of God. And those who pardon the people is like His statement: And let not those among you who are endowed with bounty and wealth swear to Do you not love that God should forgive you? (al-Nur 24:22). He says: Do not swear that you will not give them anything from the expenses, but pardon and overlook.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

God Almighty says: Those who spend in prosperity and adversity and who restrain anger and pardon the people - and God loves the doers of good.

There are four issues:

First: The Almighty's saying: Those who spend This is from the description of the righteous for whom Paradise has been prepared. The apparent meaning of the verse is praise for the action of the one who is recommended. As-Sira means ease and As-Sira means hardship - said by Ibn Abbas, Al-Kalbi and Muqatil. Ubaid bin Umair and Ad-Dahhak said: As-Sira and Ad-Sira are ease and hardship. It is said in the state of health and sickness. It was said: In the state of ease in life, and in Ad-Sira means he makes a will after death. It was said: In the state of ease in weddings and banquets, and in Ad-Sira in calamities and funerals. It was said: In the state of ease is the spending that pleases you, such as spending on children and relatives, and Ad-Sira on enemies. It is said: In the state of ease is what a young man is entertained with and given as gifts. And Ad-Sira is what he spends on the needy and gives them in charity.

I said: The verse is general. Then God Almighty said: And those who restrain anger, which is the issue:

The second: To suppress anger is to return it to the stomach. It is said: He suppressed his anger, meaning he kept quiet about it and did not show it, although he was able to inflict it on his enemy. And he filled the water skin and blocked it. And the kadhamah is what blocks the path of water, and from this comes the word kadham for the strap that blocks the mouth of the water skin and the water skin. And the camel suppressed its jar if it returned it to its stomach. And it is sometimes said that it holds the jar back before sending it to its mouth: kadham, as narrated by al-Zajaj. It is said: The camel and the female camel suppressed if they did not chew the cud, and from this comes the saying of al-Ra'i:

Then they poured out, after their reluctance, a jug of Dhu al-Abraq, when they pastured a field.

Al-Haqil: a place. Al-Haqil is a plant. It has been said that it does this when it is frightened or in distress, so it does not chew the cud. A'sha Bahila said, describing a man who slaughters camels, so they are frightened by him:

You may choke on the pearls when you see them until the jars cut through your insides.

And from this is a man who is kazeem or makzoom if he is filled with grief and sadness. In the Qur'an: And his eyes turned white from grief, so he was "kazeem (Yusuf 12:84) And his face remained dark, and he was "kazeem (al-Nahl 16:58) When he cried out while he was "kazeem (al-Qalam 68:48). Rage is the root of anger, and they often go together, but the difference between them is that rage does not appear in the limbs, unlike anger, which appears in the limbs with an action, and it is inevitable. That is why rage was attributed to God, the Most High, as it refers to His actions towards those who incur wrath. Some people have interpreted rage as anger, but that is not good. And God knows best.

Third: The Almighty's saying: And those who pardon people. Pardoning people is the most noble type of good deed, as it is permissible for a person to pardon and where his right is directed. And whoever deserves punishment and it is left to him, he has been pardoned. And there is a difference of opinion regarding the meaning of from people. Abu Al-Aaliyah, Al-Kalbi, and Al-Zajaj said: And those who pardon people means from kingdoms. Ibn Atiyyah said: This is good as an example, as they are servants, so they sin a lot, and the power over them is easy, and enforcing the punishment is easy, so this is why it is interpreted like this. It was narrated on the authority of Maymun bin Mihran that his slave girl came one day with a plate of hot broth, and he had guests, so she stumbled and poured the broth on him, so Maymun wanted to hit her, but the slave girl said: My master, use the saying of God Almighty: And those who restrain anger. He said to her: I have done so, so she said: Do what comes after it, And those who pardon people. He said: I have pardoned you. The slave girl said: And God loves the doers of good. Maymun said: I have done good to you, so you are free for the sake of God Almighty. It was narrated from Al-Ahnaf bin Qais something similar. Zaid bin Salim said: And those who pardon people for their injustice and wrongdoing. This is general, and it is the apparent meaning of the verse. Muqatil bin Hayyan said about this verse: It has reached us that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said at that time: Indeed, these are few of my nation, except for those whom God has protected, and they were many among the nations that have passed. So God, the Most High, praised those who forgive when angry and commended them, saying: And when they are angry, they forgive (al-Shura 42:37). And He praised those who restrain their anger by saying: And pardon the people, and He informed us that He loves them for their goodness in that. There are hadiths that have been narrated about restraining anger, forgiving people, and controlling oneself when angry, and that is one of the greatest forms of worship and struggle against one's self. So He said:

The strong man is not the one who wrestles well, but the strong man is the one who controls himself when he is angry. And he, peace be upon him, said:

There is no sip that a servant takes that is better for him or greater in reward than a sip of anger for the sake of God. Anas narrated.

A man said: O Messenger of God, what is more severe than anything? He said: The wrath of God. He said: What saves from the wrath of God? He said: Do not get angry. Al-Arji said:

If you get angry, be dignified and control your anger. Be aware of what you say and hear.

It is enough of an honor for you to be patient for an hour in which God will be pleased with you and you will be elevated.

Urwa bin Al-Zubayr said about forgiveness:

No people will attain glory, even if they are honored, until they are humiliated, even if they are honored by others.

They curse and you see the colors shining. There is no forgiveness of humiliation, but forgiveness of honor.

Abu Dawood and Abu Isa Al-Tirmidhi narrated on the authority of Sahl bin Muadh bin Anas Al-Juhani on the authority of his father on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said:

Whoever suppresses his anger while he is able to vent it, God will call him on the Day of Resurrection in front of all creation and let him choose whichever of the hours he wants. He said: This is a good and strange hadith. Anas narrated on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, that he said:

:(When the Day of Resurrection comes, a crier will call out, Whoever has his reward from God, let him enter Paradise. It will be said, Who is his reward from God? Then those who pardoned people will stand up and enter Paradise without being brought to account.) Al-Mawardi mentioned it. Ibn al-Mubarak said: I was sitting with al-Mansur when he ordered a man to be killed, so I said, "O Commander of the Faithful, the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said:

(When the Day of Resurrection comes, a caller will call out before God, the Almighty, the Majestic, whoever has a hand with God, let him come forward. No one will come forward except he who has pardoned a sin.) So he ordered him to be released.

Fourth: The Almighty's saying: "And God loves the doers of good," meaning He rewards them for their good deeds. Sari al-Saqti said: Good deeds mean doing good when possible, for you cannot do good at all times. The poet said:

Do good if you are able to, and good deeds will be prepared.

If you can, then do it quickly, being careful not to make it impossible.

In Surat Al-Baqarah, we have already discussed the good-doer and doing good, so there is no point in repeating it.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The Almighty says, forbidding His believing servants from engaging in usury and consuming it in multiples, as they used to say in the days of ignorance: When the due date of a debt comes, either pay it or increase it. If he pays it, otherwise, he increases it in the period, and the other increases it in the amount, and so on every year, perhaps the little will be doubled until it becomes a lot multiplied. The Almighty commanded His servants to be pious, so that they may succeed in the first and the last, then He threatened them with the Fire and warned them against it, so the Almighty said: "And fear the Fire which has been prepared for the disbelievers. And obey God and the Messenger, that you may receive mercy." Then He urged them to hasten to do good deeds and hasten to attain the acts of worship, so the Almighty said: And hasten to forgiveness from your Lord and a Garden as wide as the heavens and the earth, prepared for the righteous.

That is, just as the Fire was prepared for the disbelievers. It has been said that the meaning of His saying its width is the heavens and the earth is an indication of the vastness of its length, as He said in describing the furnishings of Paradise: its linings are of brocade. That is, what do you think? By the backs? It was said: Rather, its width is like its length because it is a dome under the throne, and the domed and round thing is as wide as its length. This is indicated by what was established in the Sahih: "If you ask God for Paradise, then ask Him for Al-Firdaws, for it is the highest part of Paradise and the middle of Paradise, and from it the rivers of Paradise flow, and its roof is the Throne of the Most Merciful." This verse is like the Almighty's saying in Surat al-Hadid 57: Race one another to forgiveness from your Lord and a Paradise whose width is like the width of the heavens and the earth, the verse. We narrated in Musnad Al-Imam Ahmad that Heraclius wrote to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace: You have invited me to a Paradise whose width is the heavens and the earth, so where is Hell? The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Glory be to God, so where is the night when the day comes? Ibn Jarir narrated it and said: Yunus told me, Ibn Wahb told us, Muslim bin Khalid told me on the authority of Abu Khatham, on the authority of Saeed bin Abi Rashid, on the authority of Ya'la bin Murrah, who said: "I met Al-Tanukhi, the messenger of Heraclius to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, in Homs, an old man who had become corrupt. He said: I came to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, with the letter of Heraclius, so he handed the paper to a man on his left. He said: Who is your companion who reads? They said: Mu'awiyah. Then it was the letter of my companion: You have written inviting me to a Paradise whose width is the heavens and the earth, prepared for the righteous. So where is the Fire?" He said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Glory be to God! Where is the night when the day comes? Al-A'mash, Sufyan al-Thawri and Shu'bah said on the authority of Qays ibn Muslim on the authority of Tariq ibn Shihab: Some Jews asked Umar ibn al-Khattab about a Paradise whose width is the heavens and the earth, so where is Hell? Umar said to them: Have you seen when the day comes, where is the night? And when

Those who spend in prosperity and adversity, who restrain anger and pardon the people - and God loves the doers of good.

the night comes, where is the day? They said: Something similar has been taken from the Torah. Ibn Jarir narrated it through three chains of transmission. Then he said: Ahmad ibn Hazim told us, Abu Nu'aym told us, Ja'far ibn Burqan told us, Yazid ibn al-A'sam told us: A man from the People of the Book said: They say, A Paradise whose width is the heavens and the earth, so where is Hell? Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with him, said: Where is the night when the day comes, and where is the day when the night comes? This has been narrated with a chain of transmission traceable back to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace. Al-Bazzar said: Muhammad ibn Mu'ammār told us, Al-Mughirah ibn Salamah Abu Hisham told us, Abd al-Wahid ibn Ziyad told us on the authority of Ubaydullah ibn Abdullah ibn al-A'sam, on the authority of His uncle Yazid ibn al-Asamm, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, said: "A man came to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: 'Have you seen the words of God the Almighty: "A Paradise as wide as the heavens and the earth," then where is the Fire? He said: 'Have you seen that when the night comes it covers everything, so where is the day?' He said: 'Wherever God wills.' He said: 'And so the Fire will be wherever God the Almighty wills.'" This has two possible meanings one of them that the meaning in that is that it does not necessarily follow from our not seeing the night when the day comes that it is not in a place, even if we do not know it, and so the Fire will be wherever God the Almighty wills, and this is more apparent as mentioned previously in the hadith of Abu Hurayrah on the authority of al-Bazzar.

Second That the meaning is that if the day covers the face of the world from this side, then the night is from the other side, so likewise Paradise is in the highest of the high above the heavens under the Throne and its width, as God Almighty said like the width of the heaven and the earth and Hell is in the lowest of the low, so there is no contradiction between it being like the width of the heavens and the earth and the existence of Hell, and God knows best.

Then God the Almighty mentioned the description of the people of Paradise, saying, Those who spend in ease and hardship, meaning in hardship and ease, in comfort and distress, in health and sickness, and in all circumstances, just as He said, Those who spend their wealth by night and by day, secretly and publicly, meaning that nothing distracts them from obeying God the Almighty and spending in what pleases Him, and doing good to His creation from their relatives and others with various types of righteousness. And God the Almighty said, And those who restrain anger and pardon the people, meaning that if anger arises in them, they restrain it, meaning they conceal it and do not act on it, and they pardon those who wrong them. It was mentioned in some of the narrations: "God the Most High says: O son of Adam, remember Me when you become angry, and I will remember you when you become angry, so that I will not destroy you among those whom I destroy." Narrated by Ibn Abi Hatim. Abu Ya'la said in his Musnad: Abu Musa al-Zaman told us,

Isa bin Shu'aib al-Dareer Abu al-Fadl told us, al-Rabi' bin Sulayman al-Jizi told me on the authority of Abu Amr bin Anas bin Malik, on the authority of his father, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever restrains his anger, God will restrain his punishment from him. Whoever guards his tongue, God will cover his faults. Whoever apologizes to God, God will accept his apology." This is a strange hadith, and its chain of transmission is questionable. Imam Ahmad said: Abd al-Rahman told us, Malik told us on the authority of al-Zuhri, on the authority of Sa'id bin al-Musayyab, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, may God be pleased with him, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: The strong man is not the one who wrestles, but the strong man is the one who controls himself when he is angry. The two sheikhs narrated it on the authority of Malik. Imam Ahmad also said: Abu Muawiyah told us, Al-A'mash told us, on the authority of Ibrahim Al-Taymi, on the authority of Al-Harith bin Suwaid, on the authority of Abdullah, who is Ibn Mas'ud, may God be pleased with him, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Which of you would rather have the wealth of his heir than his own wealth? They said: O Messenger of God, there is none among us who does not love his wealth more than the wealth of his heir. He said: "Know that there is none among you who does not love the wealth of his heir more than his own wealth. Your wealth from your wealth is only what you have sent forward, and the wealth of your heir is what you have delayed." The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: What do you consider to be a wrestler among you? We said: The one who is not wrestled by men. He said: No, but the one who controls himself when he is angry. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: What do you consider to be a slave among you? We said: The one who has no children. He said: No, but the slave is the one who has not sent forward any of his children. Al-Bukhari included the first chapter of it, and Muslim included the original of this hadith, on the authority of Al-A'mash.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Muhammad ibn Ja'far told us, Shu'bah told us, I heard Urwah ibn 'Abdullah al-Ju'fi narrating on the authority of Hasbah or Ibn Abi Hasin, on the authority of a man who witnessed the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, giving a sermon, and he said, Do you know what ruqūb is? We said, The one who has no children. He said, Ruqūb is all the ones who have children and then died without having given anything from them. He said, Do you know what sāluq is? They said, The one who has no wealth. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said, The sāluq is all the one who has wealth and then died without giving anything from it. Then the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said, What is sarā'? They said, The one who is struck down. He, may God bless him and grant him peace, said, Sarā' is all the sarā', the one who becomes angry and his anger becomes intense, his face turns red, and his hair stands up, so he is struck down by his anger.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Ibn Numayr told us, Hisham ibn Urwah told us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-Ahnaf ibn Qays, on the authority of his uncle called Jariyah ibn Qudamah Al-Sa'di, "that he asked the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: O Messenger of God, say to me something that will benefit me and make it short for me so that I may understand it. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Do not get angry. So he repeated it to him until he repeated it to him many times, each time saying: Do not get angry." And this is how he narrated it on the authority of Abu Mu'awiyah on the authority of Hisham on his authority, and he also narrated it on the authority of Yahya ibn Sa'id Al-Qattan on the authority of Hisham on his authority, "that a man said: O Messenger of God, say to me something and make it short for me so that I may understand it. He said: Do not get angry." The hadith is narrated only by Ahmad.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Abd al-Razzaq told us, Muammar told us, on the authority of al-Zuhri, on the authority of Hamid ibn Abd al-Rahman, "On the authority of a man from the companions of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: A man said: O Messenger of God, advise me. He said: Do not get angry. The man said: So I thought about it when the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said what he said, and I saw that anger brings together all evil." Ahmad alone transmitted it.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Abu Muawiyah told us, Dawud ibn Abi Hind told us, on the authority of Abu Ibn Harb ibn Abi Al-Aswad, on the authority of Abu Al-Aswad, on the authority of Abu Dharr, may God be pleased with him, who said: He was watering from his cistern when some people came and said: Who among you will bring water to Abu Dharr and count the hairs from his head? A man said: I will. So the man came and brought water to him from the cistern and pounded it. Abu Dharr was standing, so he sat down and then lay down. It was said to him: O Abu Dharr, why did you sit down and then lie down? He said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to us: If one of you becomes angry while standing, let him sit down. If the anger goes away from him, then all well and good, otherwise let him lie down." Abu Dawood narrated it from Ahmad ibn Hanbal with his chain of transmission, except that it was included in his narration on the authority of Abu Harb on the authority of Abu Dharr. The correct version is Ibn Abi Harb on the authority of his father on the authority of Abu Dharr, as Abdullah ibn Ahmad narrated it on the authority of his father.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Ibrahim bin Khalid told us, Abu Wa'il al-San'ani told us: We were sitting with Urwah bin Muhammad when a man entered and said to him words that angered him. When he angered him, he stood up and came back to us after having performed ablution. He said: My father told me on the authority of my grandfather Atiyah - he is Ibn Sa'd al-Sa'di - and he was a companion - he said: "The Messenger of God said: Anger is from the devil, and the devil was created from fire, and fire is extinguished only with water. So when one of you becomes angry, let him perform ablution." And this is how Abu Dawud narrated it from the hadith of Ibrahim bin Khalid al-San'ani on the authority of Abu Wa'il al-Qass al-Muradi al-San'ani. Abu Dawud said: I think he was Abdullah bin Buhair.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Abdullah bin Yazid told us, Noah bin Ja'una al-Salami told us, on the authority of Muqatil bin Hayyan, on the authority of Ata', on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Whoever gives respite to someone in difficulty or forgives him, God will protect him from the heat of Hell. Indeed, the work of Paradise is made difficult by a hill - three times - Indeed, the work of Hell is made easy by a slip. And the happy one is the one who is protected from trials, and there is no sip more beloved to God than a sip of anger that a servant swallows. No servant of God swallows it except that it fills his stomach with faith.'" Ahmad is the only one to narrate it, and its chain of transmission is good, with no one who is wounded in it, and its text is good.

Another hadith with the same meaning - Abu Dawud said: Uqbah bin Makram told us, Abd al-Rahman, meaning Ibn Mahdi, told us, on the authority of Bishr, meaning Ibn Mansur, on the authority of Muhammad bin Ajlan, on the authority of Suwaid bin Wahb, on the authority of a man from the sons of the companions of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, on the authority of his father, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever suppresses anger when he is able to vent it, God will fill him with security and faith. Whoever refrains from wearing a beautiful garment when he is able to do so - Bishr said: I think he said: out of humility - God will clothe him with the garment of honor. Whoever marries for God, God will clothe him with the crown of kingship."

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Abdullah bin Yazid told us: Saeed told us, Abu Marhum told me on the authority of Sahl bin Muadh bin Anas, on the authority of his father, "The Messenger of God said: Whoever suppresses his anger when he is able to vent it, God will call him in front of all creation and let him choose from any of the hours he wants." Abu Dawud, Al-Tirmidhi and Ibn Majah narrated it on the authority of Saeed bin Abi Ayoub, and Al-Tirmidhi said: Hasan Gharib.

Another hadith - Abd al-Razzaq said: Dawud ibn Qays informed us, on the authority of Zayd ibn Aslam, on the authority of a man from the people of Ash-Sham called Abd al-Jalil, on the authority of his uncle, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, may God be pleased with him, regarding the words of God Almighty: And those who restrain anger, that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever restrains anger when he is able to give vent to it, God will fill him with security and faith. Narrated by Ibn Jarir.

Another hadith - Ibn Mardawayh said: Ahmad ibn Muhammad ibn Ziyad told us, Yahya ibn Abi Talib told us, Ali ibn Asim told us, Yunus ibn Ubayd told me on the authority of Al-Hasan, on the authority of Ibn Umar, may God be pleased with them both, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'A servant has not taken a sip of food that is better in reward than a sip of anger that he swallows seeking the face of God.” And Ibn Majah narrated it likewise on the authority of Bishr ibn Umar, on the authority of Hammad ibn Salamah, on the authority of Yunus ibn Ubayd, with the same chain of transmission. So God Almighty’s statement: And those who restrain anger means that they do not act out their anger on people, but rather they restrain their evil from them, and they seek reward for that from God Almighty. Then God the Almighty said: And those who pardon people meaning, while refraining from evil, they pardon those who wronged them in their souls, so that no grudge remains in their souls against anyone, and this is the most perfect state, and for this reason He said: And God loves the doers of good so this is from the stations of goodness, and in the hadith: “There are three things that I swear by: no wealth is diminished by charity, and God does not increase a servant through forgiveness except in honor, and whoever humbles himself before God, God will raise him up.” Al-Hakim narrated in his Mustadrak from the hadith of Musa bin Uqbah from Ishaq bin Yahya bin Talhah Al-Qurashi, from Ubadah bin As-Samit, from Ubayy bin Ka’b that the Messenger of God, “said: Whoever is pleased to have a lofty building and be raised in status, let him pardon those who wronged him, give to those who deprived him, and connect with those who severed ties with him.” Then he said: It is authentic according to the conditions of the two sheikhs, and they did not include it. Ibn Mardawayh included it from the hadith of Ali, Ka’b bin Ujrah, Abu Hurayrah, and Umm Salamah, may God be pleased with them, in a similar manner. It was narrated on the authority of Ad-Dahhak on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, who said: “The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: When the Day of Resurrection comes, a crier will call out, saying: Where are those who pardoned people? Come to your Lord and take your rewards. It is the right of every Muslim man, if he pardons, to enter Paradise.” And God Almighty said: And those who, when they have committed an immorality or wronged themselves, remember God and seek forgiveness for their sins. That is, if they commit a sin, they follow it up with repentance and seeking forgiveness. Imam Ahmad said: Yazid told us, Hammam bin Yahya told us, on the authority of Ishaq bin Abdullah bin Abi Talhah, on the authority of Abd al-Rahman bin Abi Umrah, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, may God be pleased with him, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, “He said: A man committed a sin and said: O Lord, I have committed a sin, so forgive it. God, the Almighty, said: My servant committed a sin and knew that he has a Lord who forgives sins and takes them to task. I have forgiven My servant. Then he committed another sin and said: O Lord, I have committed a sin, so forgive it. God, the Almighty, said: My servant knew that he has a Lord who forgives sins and takes them to task. I have forgiven My servant. Then he committed another sin and said: O Lord, I have committed a sin, so forgive it. God, the Almighty, said: My servant knew that he has a Lord who forgives sins and takes them to task. I have forgiven My servant.” With it, I bear witness that I have forgiven my servant, so let him do whatever he wants.” It was included in Sahih from the hadith of Ishaq bin Abi Talha, in a similar manner.

Another Hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Abu al-Nadr and Abu Amir told us: Zuhair told us: Saad al-Ta’i told us: Abu al-Mudallah, the freed slave of the Mother of the Believers, heard Abu Hurairah, we said: O Messenger of God, when we see you, our hearts soften, and we are from the people of the Hereafter, and when we leave you, the world pleases us, and we smell women and children. He said: “If you were to be in every state in the state you are in with me, the angels would shake your hands with their palms, and visit you in your homes. And if you did not sin, God would bring people who would sin so that He would forgive them.” We said: O Messenger of God, tell us about Paradise, what is its structure? He said: A brick of gold and a brick of silver, its mortar is the most fragrant musk, its pebbles are pearls and rubies, and its soil is saffron. Whoever enters it will be blessed and will not be miserable, and will live forever and will not die. His clothes will not wear out, and his youth will not fade. There are three whose supplications will not be rejected: the just ruler, the fasting person until he breaks his fast, and the supplication of the one who is not fasting until he breaks his fast.” The oppressed person is carried on the clouds and the gates of heaven are opened for him, and the Lord says: By My glory, I will surely aid you, even if after a while. It was narrated by Al-Tirmidhi and Ibn Majah from another chain of transmission on the authority of Sa’d. Ablution and two rak’ahs of prayer are confirmed upon repentance, as narrated by Imam Ahmad ibn Hanbal: Waki’ told us, Mis’ar and Sufyan Al-Thawri told us on the authority of Uthman ibn Al-Maghbarah Al-Thaqafi, on the authority of Ali ibn Rabi’ah, on the authority of Asma’ ibn Al-Hakam Al-Fazari, on the authority of Ali, may God be pleased with him, who said: Whenever I heard a hadith from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, God would benefit me with whatever He willed from it. And if someone else tells me about it, I make him swear, and if he swears to me, I believe him. Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him, told me - and Abu Bakr spoke the truth - that he heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: “There is no man who commits a sin, then performs ablution and does it well - Misa’ar said - then prays - Sufyan said - then prays two rak’ahs, and seeks forgiveness from God Almighty, except that He forgives him.” And thus it was narrated by Ali ibn al-Madini, al-Humaidi, Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shaybah, the people of the Sunan, Ibn Hibban in his Sahih, al-Bazzar, and al-Daraqutni through various chains of transmission on the authority of Uthman ibn al-Mughira with it. Al-Tirmidhi said: It is a good hadith, and we have mentioned its chains of transmission, and the discussion of it is complete in Musnad Abu Bakr al-Siddiq, may God be pleased with him. In short, it is a good hadith, and it is narrated by the Commander of the Faithful, Ali ibn Abi Talib, on the authority of the Prophet’s successor, Abu Bakr al-Siddiq, may God be pleased with them both. What bears witness to the authenticity of this hadith is what Muslim narrated in his Sahih on the authority of the Commander of the Faithful, Umar ibn al-Khattab, may God be pleased with him, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "There is none among you who performs ablution and completes it, then says: I bear witness that there is no god but God alone, without partner, and I bear witness that Muhammad is His servant and Messenger, except that the eight gates of Paradise will be opened for him, and he may enter through whichever one he wishes." And in the two Sahih on the authority of the Commander of the Faithful, Uthman ibn Affan, may God be pleased with him, that he performed ablution for them as the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, performed ablution, then said: "I heard the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: Whoever performs ablution like this ablution of mine, then prays two rak'ahs in which he does not think, his previous sins will be forgiven." This hadith has been proven from the narration of the four Imams, the Rightly-Guided Caliphs, on the authority of the Master of the First and the Last, and the Messenger of the Lord of the Worlds, as indicated by the clear Book, that seeking forgiveness for sins benefits sinners. And Abd al-Razzaq said: Ja'far ibn Sulayman informed us on the authority of Thabit, on the authority of Anas ibn Malik, may God be pleased with him, who said: It has been reported to me that when this verse was revealed, And those who, when they have committed an immorality or wronged themselves, remember God and seek forgiveness for their sins, the verse, Satan wept. Al-Hafiz Abu Ya'la said: Mahraz bin Awn told us, Uthman bin Matar told us, Abdul Ghafoor told us, on the authority of Abu Nasirah, on the authority of Abu Raja', on the authority of Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, "He said, 'Upon you is saying 'There is no god but God' and seeking forgiveness, so do a lot of them, for Satan said, 'I have destroyed people with sins and they have destroyed me with 'There is no god but God' and seeking forgiveness. So when I saw that, I have destroyed them with desires, and they think that they are guided.'" Uthman bin Matar and his sheikh are weak. Imam Ahmad narrated in his Musnad on the authority of Amr ibn Abi Amr and Abu Al-Haitham Al-Atwari on the authority of Abu Saeed, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "Satan said: O Lord, by Your glory, I will continue to mislead Your servants as long as their souls are in their bodies. God Almighty said: By My glory and majesty, I will continue to forgive them as long as they seek My forgiveness." Al-Hafiz Abu Bakr Al-Bazzar said: Muhammad ibn Al-Muthanna told us, Umar ibn Abi Khalifa told us, I heard Abu Badr narrating on the authority of Thabit, on the authority of Anas, who said: "A man came and said: O Messenger of God, I have committed a sin. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: If you sin, seek forgiveness from your Lord. He said: I seek forgiveness, then I sin again. He said: If you sin again, seek forgiveness from your Lord. He said it the fourth time, seek forgiveness from your Lord, until Satan is the one who regrets." This is a strange hadith from this source. And the Almighty's saying: And who forgives sins except God? means that no one forgives them except Him, as Imam Ahmad said: Muhammad ibn

Mus'ab told us, Salam ibn Maskeen and al-Mubarak told us on the authority of al-Hasan on the authority of al-Aswad ibn Sari' that a prisoner was brought to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and he said: O God, I repent to You and I do not repent to Muhammad. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The truth has been made known to its people. And His saying: And they did not persist in what they did while they knew means that they repented from their sins and returned to God soon, and they did not continue in the sin and persist in it without giving it up. And if the sin was repeated from them, they would repent from it, as al-Hafiz Abu Ya'la al-Mawsili said in his Musnad: Ishaq ibn Abi Isra'il and others told us, they said: Abu Yahya Abd al-Hamid al-Hammani told us on the authority of Uthman ibn Waqid, on the authority of Abu Nasirah, on the authority of a freed slave of Abu Bakr, on the authority of Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: He who seeks forgiveness will not persist, even if he returns seventy times a day." And Abu Dawud narrated it. Al-Tirmidhi and Al-Bazzar in his Musnad from the hadith of Uthman bin Waqid - and Yahya bin Ma'een authenticated him with it - and his Sheikh Abu Nasirah Al-Wasiti, whose name is Muslim bin Ubaid, who was authenticated by Imam Ahmad and Ibn Hibban. Ali bin Al-Madini and Al-Tirmidhi said: The chain of transmission of this hadith is not that good. It appears that it is due to the ignorance of the client of Abu Bakr, but the ignorance of someone like him does not harm because he is a great follower, and it is sufficient for him to attribute it to Abu Bakr, so it is a good hadith, and God knows best. And his statement, "and they know, Mujahid and Abdullah bin Ubaid bin Umair said, and they know," that whoever repents, God will accept his repentance. This is like the statement of God, the Most High, "Do they not know that God accepts repentance from His servants? and His statement, And whoever does evil or wrongs himself but then seeks forgiveness from God will find God Forgiving and Merciful." And there are many similar examples to this. Imam Ahmad said: Yazid told us, Jarir told us, Habbab - he is Ibn Zaid Al-Sharabi - told us, on the authority of Abdullah ibn Amr, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, "that he said while he was on the pulpit: 'Be merciful and you will be shown mercy, and forgive and you will be forgiven. Woe to those who defy speech, woe to those who persist in what they have done while they know.'" Ahmad is the only one to narrate it. Then God the Almighty said after describing them with what He described them with: Their reward is forgiveness from their Lord meaning their reward for these attributes is forgiveness from their Lord and gardens beneath which rivers flow meaning of various types of drinks abiding therein meaning abiding therein and excellent is the reward of the workers God the Almighty praises Paradise.

Fath al-Qadir

And prosperity: ease, and adh-Dara': hardship. Their interpretation has been presented - and it was said that prosperity: ease, and adh-Dara': severity, and it is like the first, and it was said: prosperity in life, and adh-Dara' after death. His saying 134 - "And those who restrain anger" It is said that he suppressed his anger: meaning he kept quiet about it and did not show it, and from this, "kazmat al-saqqa" means he filled it. And the repression: is what blocks the flow of water, and the camel represses its jar: if it returns it to its stomach, and it is in apposition to the relative pronoun before it. His saying "And those who pardon people" meaning: those who leave the punishment of those who sinned against them and deserved to be held accountable, and this is for the sake of types of good. Its apparent meaning is pardoning people whether they are slaves or not. Al-Zajjaj and others said: What is meant by them are slaves. The lam in "al-Muhsinin" may be for the genus, so it includes every doer of good from these and others, and it may be for the covenant, so it is specific to these. The first is more deserving of consideration in terms of the generality of the wording, not in terms of the specificity of the context. Thus, everyone who has ever performed the term benevolence is included under it: any benevolence.

Surat Al Imran 3:134

Those who spend in prosperity and adversity, who restrain anger and pardon the people - and God loves the doers of good.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

134- "Those who spend in prosperity and adversity", meaning: in ease and hardship, then what was mentioned of their morals that lead to Paradise is the mention of generosity, and it came in the hadith. Abu Saeed Al-Sharihi told us, Abu Ishaq Al-Tha'labi told us, Abu Amr Al-Furati told us, Abu Al-Abbas Ahmad bin Ismail Al-Anbari told us, Abu Abdullah bin Hazim Al-Baghawi told us in Mecca, Abu Saleh bin Ayoub Al-Hashemi told us, Ibrahim bin Saad told us, Saeed bin Muhammad told us, on the authority of Yahya bin Saeed, on the authority of Al-A'raj, on the authority of Abu Hurairah, may God be pleased with him, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "The generous person is close to God, close to Paradise, close to the people, and far from the Fire. The miserly person is far from God, far from Paradise, far from the people, and close to the Fire. The ignorant generous person is more beloved to God than a miserly worshipper.

And those who restrain anger" means: those who suppress anger when their souls are filled with it. Suppression is to hold something back when it is full. Suppressing anger means to fill one's heart with anger and to keep it inside one's chest and not express it. From this is the saying of God the Almighty: "When the hearts will be at the throats, suppressing" (Surat Ghafir 40:18). Abu Saeed Al-Shurahi informed us. Abu Ishaq Al-Tha'labi informed us. Abu Amr Al-Furati informed us. Abu Muhammad Al-Hasan bin Muhammad Al-Isfarayini informed us. Abu Abdullah bin Muhammad Zakariya Al-Alani informed us. Ruh bin Abdul-Mu'min informed us. Abu Abdul-Rahman Al-Muqri informed us. Saeed bin Abi Ayoub informed us. He said: Abu Marhum informed me on the authority of Sahl bin Muadh bin Anas Al-Juhani on the authority of his father who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "Whoever suppresses his anger when he is able to vent it, God will call him on the Day of Resurrection in front of all creation and let him choose from any of the hours he wishes."

And those who pardon people, Al-Kalbi said about the ill-mannered slaves, and Zaid bin Aslam and Muqatil said: about those who wronged them and treated them badly. And God loves the doers of good.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

134 "Those who spend" is a praiseworthy description of the righteous, or praise in the accusative or nominative. "In prosperity and adversity in both states of ease and hardship, or in all circumstances, since man is never without pleasure or harm, meaning they are never without spending what they are able to, whether little or much, and those who restrain anger" are those who hold it back and are sufficient to carry it out even though they are able, from the verb kazmat al-qarya, which means to fill it and strengthen its head. And from the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, "Whoever restrains anger when he is able to save it, God will fill his heart with security and faith. And those who pardon people" are those who leave the punishment of those who deserve to be held accountable. And from the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, "These are few in my nation except for those whom God protects" and they were many in the nations that came before. "And God loves the doers of good" is possible and includes these, and the covenant, so the reference is to them.

Surat Al Imran 3:135

And those who, when they have committed an immorality or wronged themselves, remember God and seek forgiveness for their sins - and who can forgive sins except God - and do not persist in what they have done while they know.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And those who, when they have committed an immorality a heinous sin such as adultery or wronged themselves with something less than that such as kissing they remember God that is, His threat and seek forgiveness for their sins - and none that is, none forgives sins except God - and they do not persist persist in what they did but rather desist while they know that what they have done is a sin

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: What He, the Most High, means by His saying: And those who, when they commit an immorality, is that the Paradise whose description He described is prepared for the righteous, those who spend in prosperity and adversity, and those who, when they commit an immorality. And all of these attributes are from the description of the righteous, about whom the Most High said: And a Paradise as wide as the heavens and the earth, prepared for the righteous, as:

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said, Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said, Ja'far bin Sulayman told us, on the authority of Thabit al-Bunani, he said: I heard al-Hasan recite this verse: Those who spend during ease and hardship, and who restrain anger and pardon the people - and God loves the doers of good. Then he recited: And those who, when they have committed an immorality or wronged themselves, remember God and seek forgiveness for their sins to the reward of the workers. He said: These two descriptions describe one man.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Jarir told us, on the authority of Mansur, on the authority of Mujahid: And those who, when they have committed an immorality or wronged themselves, he said: These are two sins, immorality is a sin, and wronging themselves is a sin.

As for indecency, it is a description of something abandoned, and the meaning of the words is: And those who, when they commit an indecency act.

The meaning of obscenity is an ugly act that goes beyond what God Almighty has permitted. The root of obscenity is ugliness and going beyond the limit and measure in everything. From this, it is said of a tall person who is excessively tall: he is obscenely tall, meaning: ugly in height, going beyond the acceptable measure. From this, it is said of ugly speech that is not intended: obscene speech, and it is said of the speaker: he is obscene in his speech, if he utters obscenities.

It was said: The obscenity in this context means adultery.

Who said that?

Al-Abbas bin Abdul-Azim told us, he said, Habban told us, he said, Hammad told us, on the authority of Thabit, on the authority of Jabir: And those who, when they commit an immorality, he said: The people commit adultery, by the Lord of the Kaaba.

Muhammad told us, Ahmad told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi: And those who, when they commit an immorality, as for immorality, it is adultery.

His statement: or wronged themselves, means: they did to themselves something other than what they should have done to them. What they did of that was committing a sin against God that made them incur His punishment, such as:

Ibn Wakee' told us, he said, my father told us, on the authority of Sufyan, on the authority of Mansur, on the authority of Ibrahim, regarding his statement: And those who, when they have committed an immorality or wronged themselves, he said: Injustice comes from immorality, and immorality comes from injustice.

And His saying: They remembered God, meaning by that: They remembered God's threat for what they had committed of disobeying Him, and sought forgiveness for their sins, meaning: They asked their Lord to cover their sins by pardoning them from punishment for them, and who forgives sins except God, meaning: Who forgives sins - that is, pardons the one who commits them and covers them for him - except God, and they did not persist in what they had done, meaning: They did not persist in their sins that they had committed, and their disobedience that they had committed, while they knew, meaning: They did not persist in their sins, intending to persist in them, while they knew that God had previously prohibited them and threatened punishment for those who committed them.

He mentioned that this verse was revealed specifically for our nation, in order to make it easy and light, because of the great affliction that the Children of Israel were being tested with due to their sins.

Al-Qasim narrated to us, he said, Al-Husayn narrated to us, he said, Hajjaj narrated to me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, "On the authority of Ata' ibn Abi Rabah: They said: O Prophet of God, the Children of Israel are more honorable to God than us! Whenever one of them sinned, the expiation for his sin would be written on the threshold of his door: Cut off your ear, cut off your nose, do it! The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was silent, then this verse was revealed: "And hasten to forgiveness from your Lord and a Paradise as wide as the heavens and earth, prepared for the righteous" until His saying: And those who, when they have committed an immorality or wronged themselves, remember God and seek forgiveness for their sins, so the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Shall I not tell you of something better than that? So he recited these verses."

Surat Al Imran 3:135

And those who, when they have committed an immorality or wronged themselves, remember God and seek forgiveness for their sins - and who can forgive sins except God - and do not persist in what they have done while they know.

Al-Qasim told us, Al-Hussein told us, Omar bin Abi Khalifa Al-Abdi told us, Ali bin Zaid bin Jadaan told us: Ibn Masoud said: When the Children of Israel sinned, the sin and its expiation were written on its door in the morning, so we were given something better than that, this verse.

Ibn Hamid told us, Yahya bin Wadh told us, Jaafar bin Sulayman told us, on the authority of Thabit al-Banani, who said: When the verse, And whoever does evil or wrongs himself, was revealed, Iblis wept in fear of this verse.

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said: Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said: Ja'far bin Sulayman told us, on the authority of Thabit al-Bunani, he said: It has reached me that when this verse was revealed: And those who, when they have committed an immorality or wronged themselves, Iblis wept.

Muhammad ibn al-Muthanna narrated to us, he said: Muhammad ibn Ja'far narrated to us, he said: Shu'bah narrated to us, he said: I heard 'Uthman, the client of the family of Abu 'Aqil al-Thaqafi, he said: I heard 'Ali ibn Rabi'ah narrating, on the authority of a man from Fazarah called Asma' - and: Ibn Asma' - on the authority of 'Ali, he said: Whenever I heard something from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, God would benefit me with whatever He willed to benefit me [from it]. Abu Bakr narrated to me - and Abu Bakr spoke the truth - "on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: There is no servant - Shu'bah said: and I think he said: a Muslim - who commits a sin, then performs ablution, then prays two rak'ahs, then seeks God's forgiveness for that sin [but that He will forgive him]." Shu'bah said: And he recited one of these two verses: Whoever does evil will be recompensed for it (An-Nisa': 123) And those who, when they have committed an immorality or wronged themselves.

Ibn Wakee' narrated, my father narrated, and Al-Fadl ibn Ishaq narrated, Wakee' narrated, on the authority of Misa'ar and Sufyan, on the authority of Uthman ibn Al-Mughirah Al-Thaqafi, on the authority of Ali ibn Rabi'ah Al-Walibi, on the authority of Asma' ibn Al-Hakam Al-Fazari, on the authority of Ali ibn Abi Talib, who said: Whenever I heard a hadith from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, God would benefit me from it as He willed. And if someone else narrated it to me, I would make him swear, and if he swore to me, I would believe him. Abu Bakr narrated to me, and Abu Bakr spoke the truth, that he said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: There is no man who commits a sin, then performs ablution, then prays - one of them said: two rak'ahs, and the other said: then prays - and seeks God's forgiveness, but that He will forgive him.

Al-Zubayr ibn Bakkar narrated, Sa'd ibn Sa'id ibn Abi Sa'id al-Maqburi narrated, on the authority of his brother, on the authority of his grandfather, on the authority of 'Ali ibn Abi Talib, who said: No one narrated to me from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, except that I asked him to swear to me by God that he had heard it from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, except Abu Bakr, for he never lied. 'Ali, may God be pleased with him, said: Abu Bakr narrated to me that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: There is no servant who commits a sin, then stands up when his sin is mentioned, performs ablution, then prays two rak'ahs, and seeks God's forgiveness for that sin, except that God forgives him.

As for his saying: They remembered God and sought forgiveness for their sins, its interpretation is as we have explained.

In a similar way, the interpreters used to say:

Ibn Hamid told us, Salamah told us, Ibn Ishaq told us: And those who, when they commit an immorality, or wrong themselves, by disobeying God, remember God's prohibition of it, and what God has forbidden them, so they seek forgiveness for it, and they know that no one forgives sins except Him.

As for his statement: And who forgives sins except God?, the name God is raised and there is no negation before it. Rather, what comes after except is raised by following what comes before it if it is indefinite and accompanied by a negation, like the saying of the one who says: There is no one in the house except your brother. But if it is said: The people stood up except your father, then the way of speaking about the father is the accusative. And from its connection in his statement: And who forgives sins except God, it is definite. For that came in the nominative case because the meaning of the statement is: Does anyone forgive sins? Or: No one forgives sins except God. So what comes after except of [the name] God is raised based on the interpretation of the statement, not based on its wording.

As for his saying: And they did not persist in what they did while they knew, the people of interpretation differed in the interpretation of persistence and the meaning of this word.

Some of them said: The meaning of this is: They did not persist in the sins they committed and did not persist in them, but they repented and sought forgiveness, as God described them.

Who said that?

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: And they did not persist in what they did while they knew, so beware of persistence, for only those who persist are destroyed, those who go forward, not being prevented by the fear of God from doing something forbidden by God, and not repenting from a sin they committed, until death comes to them while they are still doing that.

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said: Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said: Muammar told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: And they did not persist in what they did while they knew, he said: They went on and on in disobeying God!! The fear of God did not stop them, until God's command came to them.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: And they did not persist in what they did while they knew, meaning: they did not persist in disobeying Me, as one who associates partners with Me does, in what they did of disbelief in Me.

Others said: The meaning of this is: They did not commit the sin if they intended to do so.

Who said that?

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said, Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said, Muammar told us, on the authority of Al-Hasan regarding his statement: And they did not persist in what they did, he said: The servant committing a sin is persistence, until he repents.

Muhammad bin Amr told me, he said, Abu Asim told us, on the authority of Isa, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding the statement of God Almighty: And they did not persist in what they did, he said: They did not have intercourse.

Others said: The meaning of persistence is to remain silent about the sin and not seek forgiveness.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Al-Hussein told us, Ahmad bin Al-Mufaddal told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi: And they did not persist in what they did while they knew. As for persist, they are silent and do not seek forgiveness.

Abu Ja'far said: The most correct of the sayings in this regard, in our view, is the saying of those who say: Persistence is intentionally continuing in the sin and not repenting from it. There is no meaning to the saying of those who say: Persistence in the sin is committing it, because God the Almighty praised the perpetrators of the sin for not persisting in the sin, as He said: "And those who, when they have committed an immorality or wronged themselves, remember God and seek forgiveness for their sins - and who can forgive sins except God - and do not persist in what they have done while they know." If the perpetrator of the sin persisted in committing it, then there would be no clear reason for seeking forgiveness, because seeking forgiveness for a sin is only repentance from it and regret, and there is no known reason for seeking forgiveness for a sin that its perpetrator has not committed.

It was narrated that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: He who seeks forgiveness will not persist, even if he does it seventy times a day.

Al-Husayn bin Yazid Al-Sabi'i told me that, he said: Abdul Hamid Al-Hammani told us, on the authority of Uthman bin Waqid, on the authority of Abu Nasirah, on the authority of a freed slave of Abu Bakr, on the authority of Abu Bakr, on the authority of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace.

If the one who commits the sin was persistent, then his statement, He who seeks forgiveness is not persistent, even if he returns seventy times a day, would have no meaning. Because if committing the sin is persistence, then the name that is attached to it does not remove the meaning of another one, just as the name fornicator is not removed from the adulterer and the name killer from the murderer, his repentance from it, nor any other meaning. This report has shown that the one who seeks forgiveness for his sin is not persistent in it, so it is known from this that persistence is not committing, and that it is the persistence in it, as we said before.

The commentators differed in their interpretation of his statement: And they know. Some of them said: Its meaning is: And they know that they have sinned.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Al-Hussein told us, Ahmad bin Al-Mufaddal told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi: As for and they know, they know that they have sinned, then they stood up and did not seek forgiveness.

Others said: The meaning of this is: They know that what they did was a sin against God.

Who said that?

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: And they know, he said: They know what I have forbidden them of worshipping other than Me.

Abu Jaafar said: Our explanation has already been presented, which is more correct.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

The Almighty said: And those who, when they have committed an immorality or wronged themselves, God Almighty mentioned in this verse a category, they are below the first category, so He included them with it through His mercy and grace, so these are the ones who repent. Ibn Abbas said in the narration of Ata':

This verse was revealed about Nabhan At-Tammar - his nickname was Abu Muqbil - a beautiful woman came to him and he sold her some dates. He hugged her and kissed her and regretted it. He went to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and mentioned that to him, so this verse was revealed. Abu Dawud At-Tayalisi mentioned in his Musnad on the authority of Ali ibn Abi Talib, may God be pleased with him, who said: Abu Bakr told me - and Abu Bakr spoke the truth - that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said:

(There is no servant who commits a sin, then performs ablution, prays two rak'ahs, and then seeks forgiveness from God, but that He will forgive him - then he recited this verse - And those who, when they have committed an immorality or wronged themselves, remember God and seek forgiveness for their sins - the verse, and the other verse - And whoever does evil or wrongs himself.) At-Tirmidhi narrated it and said: A good hadith. This is general. A verse may have been revealed for a specific reason, then it includes all those who did that or did it more than that. It has been said that the reason for its revelation was:

And those who, when they have committed an immorality or wronged themselves, remember God and seek forgiveness for their sins - and who can forgive sins except God - and do not persist in what they have done while they know.

A Thaqaifi went out on a raid and left his Ansari companion in charge of his family. He betrayed him by attacking her. She defended herself, but he kissed her hand. He regretted that and went out wandering the earth, regretful and repentant. Then the Thaqaifi came and his wife told him about his companion's action. He went out in search of him and brought him to Abu Bakr and Umar, hoping to find relief with them. They rebuked him. Then he came to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and told him about his action. Then this verse was revealed. The general meaning is more appropriate for the hadith. It was narrated on the authority of Ibn Masoud that the companion said:

O Messenger of God, the Children of Israel were more honorable to God than us, because the punishment of the sinner among them was written on the door of his house, and in another narration: the expiation for his sin was written on the threshold of his house: cut off your nose, cut off your ear, do such and such. So God Almighty revealed this verse as an expression of expansion and mercy and as a compensation for that action for the Children of Israel.

It is narrated that Iblis cried when this verse was revealed. The word fahsha is used to refer to a sin, and it is often used specifically for adultery, so much so that Jabir ibn Abdullah and As-Suddi interpreted this verse as adultery. The word or in the phrase or wronged themselves is said to mean and, and what is meant is less than major sins. They remembered God means fearing His punishment and being ashamed of Him. Ad-Dahhak: They remembered the greatest presentation to God. It was also said that they thought that God would ask them about it, as stated by Al-Kalbi and Muqatil. Muqatil also said: They remembered God with their tongues when they sinned. Then seek forgiveness for their sins, meaning they asked for forgiveness for their sins. Every supplication that has this meaning or wording is a seeking of forgiveness. The master of seeking forgiveness was mentioned at the beginning of this Surah, and its time is the pre-dawn hours. Seeking forgiveness is great and its reward is immense, so much so that At-Tirmidhi narrated on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, that he said:

Whoever says, I seek forgiveness from God, there is no god but He, the Ever-Living, the Self-Sustaining, and I repent to Him, will be forgiven, even if he had fled from battle. Makhul narrated on the authority of Abu Hurairah, who said:

I have not seen anyone who sought forgiveness more than the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. Makhul said: I have not seen anyone who sought forgiveness more than Abu Hurairah. Makhul used to seek forgiveness a lot. Our scholars said: The required forgiveness is that which loosens the knot of persistence and establishes its meaning in the heart, not uttering it with the tongue. As for the one who says with his tongue: I seek forgiveness from God, but his heart persists in his disobedience, then his seeking forgiveness requires seeking forgiveness, and his minor sin is included among the major sins. It was narrated from Al-Hasan Al-Basri that he said: Our seeking forgiveness requires seeking forgiveness.

I said: He said this in his time, so how about in our time when we see a person bent over in injustice! Eager to do it and not giving it up, and the rosary in his hand, claiming that he is seeking forgiveness for his sin, but that is mockery and belittlement on his part. In the Qur'an: And do not take the verses of God in jest (al-Baqarah 2:231). And it has been mentioned before.

Second: The Almighty's saying: And who forgives sins except God? That is, no one forgives sin or removes its punishment except God. And they did not persist That is, they did not persist and resolve to do what they did. Mujahid said: That is, they did not continue. Ma'bad bin Subaih said: I prayed behind Uthman and Ali was next to me, then he turned to us and said: You prayed without ablution, then he went and performed ablution and prayed. And they did not persist in what they did while they knew Insistence is the determination in the heart to do something and not to give it up. From this comes the word to tie up dinars, meaning to tie them up. Al-Hutay'ah said, describing horses:

Frowning with disheveled truffles, if they seek their excuse with harvesters, they insist

That is, she persisted in her enemy. Qatada said: Persistence is persistence in sins. The poet said:

He insists at night, his troubles are not hidden. Woe to all of Egypt, the heart has chosen

Sahl ibn Abdullah said: The ignorant is dead, the forgetful is asleep, the sinner is drunk, the persistent is doomed, and persistence is procrastination, and procrastination is saying: I will repent tomorrow, and this is the claim of the soul. How can he repent tomorrow when tomorrow he does not own? Someone other than Sahl said: Persistence is to intend not to repent, but if he intends sincere repentance, he is no longer persisting. Sahl's statement is better. It was narrated that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: There is no repentance with persistence.

Third: Our scholars said: The motive for repentance and the solution to persistence is to continue thinking about the Book of God, the Almighty, the Forgiving, and what God, the Exalted, mentioned of the details of Paradise and promised to the obedient, and what He described of the torment of Hell and threatened the disobedient with, and he continued in that until his fear and hope became strong, so he called upon God, hoping for success in what is right. It has been said: The motive for that is a divine warning that alerts whoever seeks his happiness, to the ugliness of sins and their harm, as they are deadly poisons.

I said: This is a difference in wording, not in meaning, because a person does not reflect on the promise and threat of God except by being alerted. So if the servant looks, by the grace of God the Most High, at himself and finds that he is laden with sins he has acquired and evil deeds he has committed, and regret arises from him for what he has neglected, and he abandons what came before for fear of the punishment of God the Most High, then it is true that he has repented. But if he is not like that, then he is persisting in sin and adhering to the causes of destruction. Sahl ibn Abdullah said: The sign of the repentant is that sin preoccupies him with food and drink, like the three who stayed behind.

Fourth: The Almighty's statement: And they know has several opinions. It was said: That is, they remember their sins and repent from them. An-Nahhas said: This is a good opinion. It was said: And they know that I will punish for persistence. Abdullah bin Ubaid bin Umair said: And they know that if they repent, God will accept their repentance. It was said: They know that if they seek forgiveness, He will forgive them. It was said: They know what I have forbidden them, as Ibn Ishaq said. Ibn Abbas, Al-Hasan, Muqatil, and Al-Kalbi said: And they know that persistence is harmful, and that leaving it is better than continuing. Al-Hasan bin Abi Hurairah, may God be pleased with him, said on the authority of the Prophet, may God's prayers and peace be upon him, in what he narrated on the authority of his Lord, the Almighty, He said:

(A slave committed a sin and said, O God, forgive my sin. God, the Blessed and Exalted, said, "My slave committed a sin and knew that he has a Lord who forgives sins and punishes for sins. Then he sinned again and said, "O God, forgive my sin." He mentioned the same thing twice, and at the end of it: Do whatever you wish, for I have forgiven you.) Narrated by Muslim. This is evidence of the validity of repentance from its deficiency by repeating the sin, because the first repentance was an act of obedience that has expired and become valid. After committing the second sin, he needs another new repentance. Returning to sin is worse than starting it, because it adds to the sin the nullification of repentance. Returning to repentance is better than starting it, because it adds to it the persistence of insistence on the door of the Generous, and that there is no forgiver of sins except Him. His saying at the end of the hadith Do whatever you wish is a command that means honoring according to one of the sayings, so it is similar to his saying: "Enter in peace" (al-Hijr 15:46). The end of the speech is report about the state of the one being addressed, that his past sins have been forgiven, and he is preserved, God willing, in what he will do in the future. The verse and the hadith indicate the great benefit of acknowledging sin and seeking forgiveness for it. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said:

If a servant confesses his sin and then repents to God, God will accept his repentance. Narrated by both of them in the two Sahihs. He said:

The young man deserves forgiveness if he confesses to the sins he has committed.

Another said:

Admit your sin and then ask for it to be forgiven. Denial is denial of sin, two sins.

In Sahih Muslim, on the authority of Abu Hurairah, the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said:

By the One in Whose Hand is my soul, if you did not sin, God would replace you with a people who would sin and seek forgiveness, and He would forgive them. This is the benefit of the name of God the Most High, the Forgiving, the Acceptor of Repentance, as we explained in the Most Sublime Book explaining the beautiful names of God.

Fifth: The sins that one must repent for, whether they are disbelief or other than that. The repentance of the disbeliever is his belief along with his regret for his previous disbelief. Mere belief is not repentance in itself. Other than disbelief, it is either a right of God the Most High or a right of someone else. The right of God the Most High is sufficient for repentance from abandonment. However, there are some in which the Shariah did not suffice with mere abandonment, but rather added to that in some of them a compensation such as prayer and fasting. There are some in which it added expiation such as breaking oaths, li'an, and other than that. As for the rights of people, what is owed to them due to insolvency is hoped for, and His grace is bestowed. How many consequences has He guaranteed and how many bad deeds have He replaced with good ones? More clarification of this meaning will follow.

Sixth - If a person does not remember and knows of it, he is not required to repent from it specifically, but if he remembers a sin, he must repent from it. Many people have interpreted what our Sheikh Abu Muhammad Abdul-Muati Al-Iskandarani may God be pleased with him mentioned, that Imam Al-Muhasibi may God have mercy on him believes that repentance from all types of sins is not valid, and that regretting all of them is not enough. Rather, he must repent from every action with his limbs and every resolve in his heart to do so specifically. They assumed that from his statement, but this is not what he meant, nor does his statement require it. Rather, the ruling of the person who is accountable is that if he knows the ruling on his actions, and knows the sin from the other, then his repentance is valid from the whole of what he knows. For if he does not know that his past action is a sin, he cannot repent from it, neither in general nor in detail. An example of this is a man who deals with a type of usury and does not know that it is usury, so if he hears the words of God Almighty: "O you who have believed, fear God and give up what remains of usury, if you should be believers. But if you do not, then be informed of a war from God and His Messenger" (al-Baqarah 2:279-288). This threat was too great for him, and he thought that he was safe from usury. If he now knows the reality of usury, then thinks about his past days and realizes that he has done a lot of it in the past, it is correct for him to regret it now in general, and he is not required to specify its times. And so it is with all the sins and evil deeds that he has committed, such as backbiting, gossiping, and other forbidden things that he did not know were forbidden. If the servant understands and examines what he has said in the past, he will repent from that in general, and regret what he has neglected of the right of God the Most High. And if he seeks forgiveness from the one whom he has wronged, then he seeks forgiveness from him in general, and his soul is content with abandoning his right, it is permissible, because it is a form of giving an unknown gift. This is with the servant's stinginess and his eagerness to seek his right, so how about the Most Generous of the Generous, who bestows obedience and its causes and pardons sins, both small and great. Our Sheikh, may God have mercy on him, said: This is what the Imam meant, and what his words indicate to those who examine them. What the one who thinks about him thought that regret is not valid except for an action, a movement, and a stillness, specifically, is from the mind of the burden of what is unbearable, which did not occur according to the Sharia, even if it is permissible according to reason. It is necessary for him to know how many sips he took when drinking alcohol, how many movements he made when committing adultery, and how many steps he took to something forbidden. This is something that no one obeys, and repentance cannot be achieved from it in detail. There will come more clarification of the rulings on repentance and its conditions in An-Nisa' and other things, God willing.

And those who, when they have committed an immorality or wronged themselves, remember God and seek forgiveness for their sins - and who can forgive sins except God - and do not persist in what they have done while they know.

Seventh: In the Almighty's saying: And they did not persist, there is clear evidence and conclusive proof of what the sword of the Sunnah and the tongue of the nation, Judge Abu Bakr bin al-Tayyib, said: A person will be held accountable for what he has resolved in his conscience and resolved in his heart of disobedience.

I said: In the revelation: And whoever intends therein to commit an act of injustice - We will make him taste a painful punishment (al-Hajj 22:25) and He said: So it became like a barren field. So they were punished. It was said that their action was based on their intention, and its explanation will come. In Al-Bukhari:

If two Muslims meet with their swords, then the killer and the killed will be in Hell. They said: O Messenger of God, this is the killer, but what about the killed? He said: He was eager to kill his companion. So he linked the threat to eagerness, which is determination, and he abolished the display of weapons. The most explicit of this is what Al-Tirmidhi narrated from the hadith of Abu Kabsha Al-Anmari, and he authenticated it with a chain of transmission traceable to the Prophet:

(The world is for four types of al-Nas 114: A man whom God has given wealth and knowledge, so he fears his Lord thereby, maintains ties of kinship thereby, and does what God has rightly done. This is the one with the best status. A man whom God has given knowledge but not wealth, so he is sincere in his intention and says, If I had wealth, I would do what so-and-so does. This is his intention, so their reward is equal. A man whom God has given wealth but not knowledge, so he squanders his wealth without knowledge, neither fearing his Lord thereby, nor maintaining ties of kinship thereby, nor does he know what God has rightly done. This is the one with the worst status. A man whom God has given neither wealth nor knowledge, so he says, If I had wealth, I would do what so-and-so does. This is the view of the judge, and it is the view of most of the early Muslims and scholars of jurists, hadith scholars, and theologians. No attention should be paid to the disagreement of those who claim that what a person is concerned with, even if he has decided on it, he is not held accountable for it. He has no proof for his saying, peace be upon him:

(Whoever intends to do a bad deed but does not do it, it will not be recorded against him. But if he does it, one bad deed will be recorded against him.) Because the meaning of but does not do it is that he did not resolve to do it, as evidenced by what we have mentioned. The meaning of but if he does it is that he reveals it or resolves to do it, as evidenced by what we have described. And God is our guide.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The Almighty says, forbidding His believing servants from engaging in usury and consuming it in multiples, as they used to say in the days of ignorance: When the due date of a debt comes, either pay it or increase it. If he pays it, otherwise, he increases it in the period, and the other increases it in the amount, and so on every year, perhaps the little will be doubled until it becomes a lot multiplied. The Almighty commanded His servants to be pious, so that they may succeed in the first and the last, then He threatened them with the Fire and warned them against it, so the Almighty said: "And fear the Fire which has been prepared for the disbelievers. And obey God and the Messenger, that you may receive mercy." Then He urged them to hasten to do good deeds and hasten to attain the acts of worship, so the Almighty said: And hasten to forgiveness from your Lord and a Garden as wide as the heavens and the earth, prepared for the righteous. That is, just as the Fire was prepared for the disbelievers. It has been said that the meaning of His saying its width is the heavens and the earth is an indication of the vastness of its length, as He said in describing the furnishings of Paradise: its linings are of brocade. That is, what do you think? By the backs? It was said: Rather, its width is like its length because it is a dome under the throne, and the domed and round thing is as wide as its length. This is indicated by what was established in the Sahih: "If you ask God for Paradise, then ask Him for Al-Firdaws, for it is the highest part of Paradise and the middle of Paradise, and from it the rivers of Paradise flow, and its roof is the Throne of the Most Merciful." This verse is like the Almighty's saying in Surat al-Hadid 57: Race one another to forgiveness from your Lord and a Paradise whose width is like the width of the heavens and the earth, the verse. We narrated in Musnad Al-Imam Ahmad that Heraclius wrote to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace: You have invited me to a Paradise whose width is the heavens and the earth, so where is Hell? The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Glory be to God, so where is the night when the day comes? Ibn Jarir narrated it and said: Yunus told me, Ibn Wahb told us, Muslim bin Khalid told me on the authority of Abu Khathim, on the authority of Saeed bin Abi Rashid, on the authority of Ya'la bin Murrah, who said: "I met Al-Tanukhi, the messenger of Heraclius to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, in Homs, an old man who had become corrupt. He said: I came to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, with the letter of Heraclius, so he handed the paper to a man on his left. He said: I said: Who is your companion who reads? They said: Mu'awiyah. Then it was the letter of my companion: You have written inviting me to a Paradise whose width is the heavens and the earth, prepared for the righteous. So where is the Fire?" He said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Glory be to God! Where is the night when the day comes? Al-A'mash, Sufyan al-Thawri and Shu'bah said on the authority of Qays ibn Muslim on the authority of Tariq ibn Shihab: Some Jews asked Umar ibn al-Khattab about a Paradise whose width is the heavens and the earth, so where is Hell? Umar said to them: Have you seen when the day comes, where is the night? And when the night comes, where is the day? They said: Something similar has been taken from the Torah. Ibn Jarir narrated it through three chains of transmission. Then he said: Ahmad ibn Hazim told us, Abu Nu'aym told us, Ja'far ibn Burqan told us, Yazid ibn al-A'sam told us: A man from the People of the Book said: They say, A Paradise whose width is the heavens and the earth, so where is Hell? Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with him, said: Where is the night when the day comes, and where is the day when the night comes? This has been narrated with a chain of transmission traceable back to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace. Al-Bazzar said: Muhammad ibn Mu'ammarr told us, Al-Mughirah ibn Salamah Abu Hisham told us, Abd al-Wahid ibn Ziyad told us on the authority of Ubaydullah ibn Abdullah ibn al-A'sam, on the authority of His uncle Yazid ibn al-Asamm, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, said: "A man came to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: 'Have you seen the words of God the Almighty: "A Paradise as wide as the heavens and the earth," then where is the Fire? He said: 'Have you seen that when the night comes it covers everything, so where is the day?' He said: 'Wherever God wills.' He said: 'And so the Fire will be wherever God the Almighty wills.'" This has two possible meanings one of them that the meaning in that is that it does not necessarily follow from our not seeing the night when the day comes that it is not in a place, even if we do not know it, and so the Fire will be wherever God the Almighty wills, and this is more apparent as mentioned previously in the hadith of Abu Hurayrah on the authority of al-Bazzar.

Second That the meaning is that if the day covers the face of the world from this side, then the night is from the other side, so likewise Paradise is in the highest of the high above the heavens under the Throne and its width, as God Almighty said like the width of the heaven and the earth and Hell is in the lowest of the low, so there is no contradiction between it being like the width of the heavens and the earth and the existence of Hell, and God knows best.

Then God the Almighty mentioned the description of the people of Paradise, saying, Those who spend in ease and hardship, meaning in hardship and ease, in comfort and distress, in health and sickness, and in all circumstances, just as He said, Those who spend their wealth by night and by day, secretly and publicly, meaning that nothing distracts them from obeying God the Almighty and spending in what pleases Him, and doing good to His creation from their relatives and others with various types of righteousness. And God the Almighty said, And those who restrain anger and pardon the people, meaning that if anger arises in them, they restrain it, meaning they conceal it and do not act on it, and they pardon those who wrong them. It was mentioned in some of the narrations: "God the Most High says: O son of Adam, remember Me when you become angry, and I will remember you when you become angry, so that I will not destroy you among those whom I destroy." Narrated by Ibn Abi Hatim. Abu Ya'la said in his Musnad: Abu Musa al-Zaman told us, Isa bin Shu'aib al-Dareer Abu al-Fadl told us, al-Rabi' bin Sulayman al-Jizi told me on the authority of Abu Amr bin Anas bin Malik, on the authority of his father, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever restrains his anger, God will restrain his punishment from him. Whoever guards his tongue, God will cover his faults. Whoever apologizes to God, God will accept his apology." This is a strange hadith, and its chain of transmission is questionable. Imam Ahmad said: Abd al-Rahman told us, Malik told us on the authority of al-Zuhri, on the authority of Sa'id bin al-Musayyab, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, may God be pleased with him, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: The strong man is not the one who wrestles, but the strong man is the one who controls himself when he is angry. The two sheikhs narrated it on the authority of Malik. Imam Ahmad also said: Abu Muawiyah told us, Al-A'mash told us, on the authority of Ibrahim Al-Taymi, on the authority of Al-Harith bin Suwaid, on the authority of Abdullah, who is Ibn Mas'ud, may God be pleased with him, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Which of you would rather have the wealth of his heir than his own wealth? They said: O Messenger of God, there is none among us who does not love his wealth more than the wealth of his heir. He said: "Know that there is none among you who does not love the wealth of his heir more than his own wealth. Your wealth from your wealth is only what you have sent forward, and the wealth of your heir is what you have delayed." The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: What do you consider to be a wrestler among you? We said: The one who is not wrestled by men. He said: No, but the one who controls himself when he is angry. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: What do you consider to be a slave among you? We said: The one who has no children. He said: No, but the slave is the one who has not sent forward any of his children. Al-Bukhari included the first chapter of it, and Muslim included the original of this hadith, on the authority of Al-A'mash.

And those who, when they have committed an immorality or wronged themselves, remember God and seek forgiveness for their sins - and who can forgive sins except God - and do not persist in what they have done while they know.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Muhammad ibn Ja'far told us, Shu'bah told us, I heard Urwah ibn 'Abdullah al-Ju'fi narrating on the authority of Hasbah or Ibn Abi Hasin, on the authority of a man who witnessed the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, giving a sermon, and he said, Do you know what ruqūb is? We said, The one who has no children. He said, Ruqūb is all the ones who have children and then died without having given anything from them. He said, Do you know what sāluq is? They said, The one who has no wealth. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said, The sāluq is all the one who has wealth and then died without giving anything from it. Then the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said, What is sarā'? They said, The one who is struck down. He, may God bless him and grant him peace, said, Sarā' is all the sarā', the one who becomes angry and his anger becomes intense, his face turns red, and his hair stands up, so he is struck down by his anger.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Ibn Numayr told us, Hisham ibn Urwah told us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-Ahnaf ibn Qays, on the authority of his uncle called Jariyah ibn Qudamah Al-Sa'di, "that he asked the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: O Messenger of God, say to me something that will benefit me and make it short for me so that I may understand it. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Do not get angry. So he repeated it to him until he repeated it to him many times, each time saying: Do not get angry." And this is how he narrated it on the authority of Abu Mu'awiyah on the authority of Hisham on his authority, and he also narrated it on the authority of Yahya ibn Sa'id Al-Qattan on the authority of Hisham on his authority, "that a man said: O Messenger of God, say to me something and make it short for me so that I may understand it. He said: Do not get angry." The hadith is narrated only by Ahmad.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Abd al-Razzaq told us, Muammar told us, on the authority of al-Zuhri, on the authority of Hamid ibn Abd al-Rahman, "On the authority of a man from the companions of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: A man said: O Messenger of God, advise me. He said: Do not get angry. The man said: So I thought about it when the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said what he said, and I saw that anger brings together all evil." Ahmad alone transmitted it.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Abu Muawiyah told us, Dawud ibn Abi Hind told us, on the authority of Abu Ibn Harb ibn Abi Al-Aswad, on the authority of Abu Al-Aswad, on the authority of Abu Dharr, may God be pleased with him, who said: He was watering from his cistern when some people came and said: Who among you will bring water to Abu Dharr and count the hairs from his head? A man said: I will. So the man came and brought water to him from the cistern and pounded it. Abu Dharr was standing, so he sat down and then lay down. It was said to him: O Abu Dharr, why did you sit down and then lie down? He said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to us: If one of you becomes angry while standing, let him sit down. If the anger goes away from him, then all well and good, otherwise let him lie down." Abu Dawood narrated it from Ahmad ibn Hanbal with his chain of transmission, except that it was included in his narration on the authority of Abu Harb on the authority of Abu Dharr. The correct version is Ibn Abi Harb on the authority of his father on the authority of Abu Dharr, as Abdullah ibn Ahmad narrated it on the authority of his father.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Ibrahim bin Khalid told us, Abu Wa'il al-San'ani told us: We were sitting with Urwah bin Muhammad when a man entered and said to him words that angered him. When he angered him, he stood up and came back to us after having performed ablution. He said: My father told me on the authority of my grandfather Atiyah - he is Ibn Sa'd al-Sa'di - and he was a companion - he said: "The Messenger of God said: Anger is from the devil, and the devil was created from fire, and fire is extinguished only with water. So when one of you becomes angry, let him perform ablution." And this is how Abu Dawud narrated it from the hadith of Ibrahim bin Khalid al-San'ani on the authority of Abu Wa'il al-Qass al-Muradi al-San'ani. Abu Dawud said: I think he was Abdullah bin Buhair.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Abdullah bin Yazid told us, Noah bin Ja'una al-Salami told us, on the authority of Muqatil bin Hayyan, on the authority of Ata', on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Whoever gives respite to someone in difficulty or forgives him, God will protect him from the heat of Hell. Indeed, the work of Paradise is made difficult by a hill - three times - Indeed, the work of Hell is made easy by a slip. And the happy one is the one who is protected from trials, and there is no sip more beloved to God than a sip of anger that a servant swallows. No servant of God swallows it except that it fills his stomach with faith.'" Ahmad is the only one to narrate it, and its chain of transmission is good, with no one who is wounded in it, and its text is good.

Another hadith with the same meaning - Abu Dawud said: Uqbah bin Makram told us, Abd al-Rahman, meaning Ibn Mahdi, told us, on the authority of Bishr, meaning Ibn Mansur, on the authority of Muhammad bin Ajlan, on the authority of Suwaid bin Wahb, on the authority of a man from the sons of the companions of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, on the authority of his father, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever suppresses anger when he is able to vent it, God will fill him with security and faith.

Whoever refrains from wearing a beautiful garment when he is able to do so - Bishr said: I think he said: out of humility - God will clothe him with the garment of honor. Whoever marries for God, God will clothe him with the crown of kingship."

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Abdullah bin Yazid told us: Saeed told us, Abu Marhum told me on the authority of Sahl bin Muadh bin Anas, on the authority of his father, "The Messenger of God said: Whoever suppresses his anger when he is able to vent it, God will call him in front of all creation and let him choose from any of the hours he wants." Abu Dawud, Al-Tirmidhi and Ibn Majah narrated it on the authority of Saeed bin Abi Ayoub, and Al-Tirmidhi said: Hasan Gharib.

Another hadith - Abd al-Razzaq said: Dawud ibn Qays informed us, on the authority of Zayd ibn Aslam, on the authority of a man from the people of Ash-Sham called Abd al-Jalil, on the authority of his uncle, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, may God be pleased with him, regarding the words of God Almighty: And those who restrain anger, that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever restrains anger when he is able to give vent to it, God will fill him with security and faith. Narrated by Ibn Jarir.

Another hadith - Ibn Mardawayh said: Ahmad ibn Muhammad ibn Ziyad told us, Yahya ibn Abi Talib told us, Ali ibn Asim told us, Yunus ibn Ubayd told me on the authority of Al-Hasan, on the authority of Ibn Umar, may God be pleased with them both, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'A servant has not taken a sip of food that is better in reward than a sip of anger that he swallows seeking the face of God.'" And Ibn Majah narrated it likewise on the authority of Bishr ibn Umar, on the authority of Hammad ibn Salamah, on the authority of Yunus ibn Ubayd, with the same chain of transmission. So God Almighty's statement: And those who restrain anger means that they do not act out their anger on people, but rather they restrain their evil from them, and they seek reward for that from God Almighty. Then God the Almighty said: And those who pardon people meaning, while refraining from evil, they pardon those who wronged them in their souls, so that no grudge remains in their souls against anyone, and this is the most perfect state, and for this reason He said: And God loves the doers of good so this is from the stations of goodness, and in the hadith: "There are three things that I swear by: no wealth is diminished by charity, and God does not increase a servant through forgiveness except in honor, and whoever humbles himself before God, God will raise him up." Al-Hakim narrated in his Mustadrak from the hadith of Musa bin Uqbah from Ishaq bin Yahya bin Talhah Al-Qurashi, from Ubadah bin As-Samit, from Ubayy bin Ka'b that the Messenger of God, "said: Whoever is pleased to have a lofty building and be raised in status, let him pardon those who wronged him, give to those who deprived him, and connect with those who severed ties with him." Then he said: It is authentic according to the conditions of the two sheikhs, and they did not include it. Ibn Mardawayh included it from the hadith of Ali, Ka'b bin Ujrah, Abu Hurayrah, and Umm Salamah, may God be pleased with them, in a similar manner. It was narrated on the authority of Ad-Dahhak on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: When the Day of Resurrection comes, a crier will call out, saying: Where are those who pardoned people? Come to your Lord and take your rewards. It is the right of every Muslim man, if he pardons, to enter Paradise." And God Almighty said: And those who, when they have committed an immorality or wronged themselves, remember God and seek forgiveness for their sins.

That is, if they commit a sin, they follow it up with repentance and seeking forgiveness. Imam Ahmad said: Yazid told us, Hammam bin Yahya told us, on the authority of Ishaq bin Abdullah bin Abi Talhah, on the authority of Abd al-Rahman bin Abi Umrah, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, may God be pleased with him, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, "He said: A man committed a sin and said: O Lord, I have committed a sin, so forgive it. God, the Almighty, said: My servant committed a sin and knew that he has a Lord who forgives sins and takes them to task. I have forgiven My servant. Then he committed another sin and said: O Lord, I have committed a sin, so forgive it. God, the Almighty, said: My servant knew that he has a Lord who forgives sins and takes them to task. I have forgiven My servant. Then he committed another sin and said: O Lord, I have committed a sin, so forgive it. God, the Almighty, said: My servant knew that he has a Lord who forgives sins and takes them to task. I have forgiven My servant." With it, I bear witness that I have forgiven my servant, so let him do whatever he wants." It was included in Sahih from the hadith of Ishaq bin Abi Talha, in a similar manner.

Another Hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Abu al-Nadr and Abu Amir told us: Zuhair told us: Saad al-Ta'i told us: Abu al-Mudallah, the freed slave of the Mother of the Believers, heard Abu Hurairah, we said: O Messenger of God, when we see you, our hearts soften, and we are from the people of the Hereafter, and when we leave you, the world pleases us, and we smell women and children. He said: "If you were to be in every state in the state you are in with me, the angels would shake your hands with their palms, and visit you in your homes. And if you did not sin, God would bring people who would sin so that He would forgive them." We said: O Messenger of God, tell us about Paradise, what is its structure? He said: A brick of gold and a brick of silver, its mortar is the most fragrant musk, its pebbles are pearls and rubies, and its soil is saffron. Whoever enters it will be blessed and will not be miserable, and will live forever and will not die. His clothes will not wear out, and his youth will not fade. There are three whose supplications will not be rejected: the just ruler, the fasting person until he breaks his fast, and the supplication of the one who is not fasting until he breaks his fast." The oppressed person is carried on the clouds and the gates of heaven are opened for him, and the Lord says: By My glory, I will surely aid you, even if after a while. It was narrated by Al-Tirmidhi and Ibn Majah from another chain of transmission on the authority of Sa'd. Ablution and two rak'ahs of prayer are confirmed upon repentance, as narrated by Imam Ahmad ibn Hanbal: Waki' told us, Mis'ar and Sufyan Al-Thawri told us on the authority of Uthman ibn Al-Maghbarah Al-Thaqafi, on the authority of Ali ibn

And those who, when they have committed an immorality or wronged themselves, remember God and seek forgiveness for their sins - and who can forgive sins except God - and do not persist in what they have done while they know.

Rabi'ah, on the authority of Asma' ibn Al-Hakam Al-Fazari, on the authority of Ali, may God be pleased with him, who said: Whenever I heard a hadith from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, God would benefit me with whatever He willed from it. And if someone else tells me about it, I make him swear, and if he swears to me, I believe him. Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him, told me - and Abu Bakr spoke the truth - that he heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: "There is no man who commits a sin, then performs ablution and does it well - Misa'ar said - then prays - Sufyan said - then prays two rak'ahs, and seeks forgiveness from God Almighty, except that He forgives him." And thus it was narrated by Ali ibn al-Madini, al-Humaidi, Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shaybah, the people of the Sunan, Ibn Hibban in his Sahih, al-Bazzar, and al-Daraqutni through various chains of transmission on the authority of Uthman ibn al-Mughira with it. Al-Tirmidhi said: It is a good hadith, and we have mentioned its chains of transmission, and the discussion of it is complete in Musnad Abu Bakr al-Siddiq, may God be pleased with him. In short, it is a good hadith, and it is narrated by the Commander of the Faithful, Ali ibn Abi Talib, on the authority of the Prophet's successor, Abu Bakr al-Siddiq, may God be pleased with them both. What bears witness to the authenticity of this hadith is what Muslim narrated in his Sahih on the authority of the Commander of the Faithful, Umar ibn al-Khattab, may God be pleased with him, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "There is none among you who performs ablution and completes it, then says: I bear witness that there is no god but God alone, without partner, and I bear witness that Muhammad is His servant and Messenger, except that the eight gates of Paradise will be opened for him, and he may enter through whichever one he wishes." And in the two Sahih on the authority of the Commander of the Faithful, Uthman ibn Affan, may God be pleased with him, that he performed ablution for them as the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, performed ablution, then said: "I heard the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: Whoever performs ablution like this ablution of mine, then prays two rak'ahs in which he does not think, his previous sins will be forgiven." This hadith has been proven from the narration of the four Imams, the Rightly-Guided Caliphs, on the authority of the Master of the First and the Last, and the Messenger of the Lord of the Worlds, as indicated by the clear Book, that seeking forgiveness for sins benefits sinners. And Abd al-Razzaq said: Ja'far ibn Sulayman informed us on the authority of Thabit, on the authority of Anas ibn Malik, may God be pleased with him, who said: It has been reported to me that when this verse was revealed, And those who, when they have committed an immorality or wronged themselves, remember God and seek forgiveness for their sins, the verse, Satan wept. Al-Hafiz Abu Ya'la said: Mahraz bin Awn told us, Uthman bin Matar told us, Abdul Ghafoor told us, on the authority of Abu Nasirah, on the authority of Abu Raja', on the authority of Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, "He said, 'Upon you is saying 'There is no god but God' and seeking forgiveness, so do a lot of them, for Satan said, 'I have destroyed people with sins and they have destroyed me with 'There is no god but God' and seeking forgiveness. So when I saw that, I have destroyed them with desires, and they think that they are guided.'" Uthman bin Matar and his sheikh are weak. Imam Ahmad narrated in his Musnad on the authority of Amr ibn Abi Amr and Abu Al-Haitham Al-Atwari on the authority of Abu Saeed, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "Satan said: O Lord, by Your glory, I will continue to mislead Your servants as long as their souls are in their bodies. God Almighty said: By My glory and majesty, I will continue to forgive them as long as they seek My forgiveness." Al-Hafiz Abu Bakr Al-Bazzar said: Muhammad ibn Al-Haitham told us, Umar ibn Abi Khalifa told us, I heard Abu Badr narrating on the authority of Thabit, on the authority of Anas, who said: "A man came and said: O Messenger of God, I have committed a sin. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: If you sin, seek forgiveness from your Lord. He said: I seek forgiveness, then I sin again. He said: If you sin again, seek forgiveness from your Lord. He said it the fourth time, seek forgiveness from your Lord, until Satan is the one who regrets." This is a strange hadith from this source. And the Almighty's saying: And who forgives sins except God? means that no one forgives them except Him, as Imam Ahmad said: Muhammad ibn Mus'ab told us, Salam ibn Maskeen and al-Mubarak told us on the authority of al-Hasan on the authority of al-Aswad ibn Sari' that a prisoner was brought to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and he said: O God, I repent to You and I do not repent to Muhammad. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The truth has been made known to its people. And His saying: And they did not persist in what they did while they knew means that they repented from their sins and returned to God soon, and they did not continue in the sin and persist in it without giving it up. And if the sin was repeated from them, they would repent from it, as al-Hafiz Abu Ya'la al-Mawsili said in his Musnad: Ishaq ibn Abi Isra'il and others told us, they said: Abu Yahya Abd al-Hamid al-Hammani told us on the authority of Uthman ibn Waqid, on the authority of Abu Nasirah, on the authority of a freed slave of Abu Bakr, on the authority of Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: He who seeks forgiveness will not persist, even if he returns seventy times a day." And Abu Dawud narrated it. Al-Tirmidhi and Al-Bazzar in his Musnad from the hadith of Uthman bin Waqid - and Yahya bin Ma'een authenticated him with it - and his Sheikh Abu Nasirah Al-Wasiti, whose name is Muslim bin Ubaid, who was authenticated by Imam Ahmad and Ibn Hibban. Ali bin Al-Madini and Al-Tirmidhi said: The chain of transmission of this hadith is not that good. It appears that it is due to the ignorance of the client of Abu Bakr, but the ignorance of someone like him does not harm because he is a great follower, and it is sufficient for him to attribute it to Abu Bakr, so it is a good hadith, and God knows best. And his statement, and they know, Mujahid and Abdullah bin Ubaid bin Umair said, and they know, that whoever repents, God will accept his repentance. This is like the statement of God, the Most High, Do they not know that God accepts repentance from His servants? and His statement, And whoever does evil or wrongs himself but then seeks forgiveness from God will find God Forgiving and Merciful. And there are many similar examples to this. Imam Ahmad said: Yazid told us, Jarir told us, Habban - he is Ibn Zaid Al-Sharabi - told us, on the authority of Abdullah Ibn Amr, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, "that he said while he was on the pulpit: 'Be merciful and you will be shown mercy, and forgive and you will be forgiven. Woe to those who defy speech, woe to those who persist in what they have done while they know.'" Ahmad is the only one to narrate it. Then God the Almighty said after describing them with what He described them with: Their reward is forgiveness from their Lord meaning their reward for these attributes is forgiveness from their Lord and gardens beneath which rivers flow meaning of various types of drinks abiding therein meaning abiding therein and excellent is the reward of the workers God the Almighty praises Paradise.

Fath al-Qadir

His saying 135- And those who, when they commit an immorality This is a subject and its predicate is those. It was said: It is conjoined with the righteous. The first is more appropriate, and these are a category below the first category, attached to them, and they are the repentant ones. The reason for its revelation will be mentioned. The immorality is a description of an omitted description: i.e. an immoral act, and it is applied to every sin. It is often specified for adultery. His saying or wronged themselves i.e. by committing a sin. It was said: or in the meaning of and. What is meant is what was mentioned, and it was said: the major immorality, and the injustice of the small soul, and other things were said. His saying, They remembered God means: with their tongues or they thought of Him in their hearts or they remembered His promise and threat. Then they sought forgiveness for their sins means: they sought forgiveness for them from God, the Most High. Its interpretation as repentance is contrary to its meaning linguistically. In the question with His saying, And who forgives sins except God? there is denial along with what it includes of indicating that He is the only One who is unique in that, the Most High: meaning no one forgives the type of sins except God. It encourages seeking forgiveness from Him, the Most High, and motivates the sinners to stand in positions of submission and humility. This sentence is parenthetical between the conjoined and the conjoined to. His saying, And they did not persist in what they did is in apposition to they sought forgiveness meaning: they did not persist in their ugly action. The interpretation of persistence has already been presented. What is meant by it here is the determination to return to the sin and not stop it by repenting from it. His saying, and they knew is a circumstantial sentence: meaning: they did not persist in their action knowing its ugliness.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

135- The Almighty said: And those who, when they have committed an immorality or wronged themselves the verse. Ibn Masoud said: The believers said: O Messenger of God, the Children of Israel were more honored by God than us. When one of them sinned, the expiation for his sin would be written on the threshold of his door: Cut off your nose and ear, do such and such. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, remained silent, and God Almighty revealed this verse.

Ata' said: It was revealed about Nabhan al-Tammar, whose nickname was Abu Ma'bad. A beautiful woman came to him to buy dates from him, so he said to her: These dates are not good, and there are better ones in the house. So he took her to his house, hugged her, and kissed her. She said to him: Fear God. So he left her and regretted that, so he came to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and mentioned that to him, so this verse was revealed.

Muqatil al-Kalbi said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, established a brotherhood between two men, one of them from the Ansar and the other from Thaqif. The Thaqafi went out on a raid and left the Ansari in charge of his family. One day, he bought meat for them. When the woman wanted to take some from him, he entered after her and kissed her hand. Then he regretted it and left, putting dirt on his head and wandered about. When the Thaqafi returned, the Ansari did not meet him, so he asked his wife about his condition. She said: May God not increase the number of brothers like him. She described the condition to him, and the Ansari was wandering in the mountains, repenting and seeking forgiveness. The Thaqafi searched for him until he found him, so he brought him to Abu Bakr, hoping to find comfort and relief with him. The Ansari said: I am ruined. He told him the story, and Abu Bakr said: Woe to you! Didn't you know that God, the Most High, is more jealous for the raider than He is for the resident? Then they came to Umar, may God be pleased with him, and he said the same thing. Then they came to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and he said to him the same thing as Muqatil. Then God, the Most High, revealed this verse: And those who, when they commit an immorality, meaning: Ugly, outside of what God Almighty has permitted him to do. The root of obscenity is ugliness and going beyond the limit. Jabir said: Obscenity is adultery.

Or they wronged themselves is less than adultery, such as kissing, hugging, looking, and touching.

Muqatil Al-Kalbi said: The immorality is less than adultery, such as kissing, touching, or looking at something that is not permissible, or they wronged themselves by committing a sin.

It was said: They committed a major sin, or wronged themselves with minor sins.

Surat Al Imran 3:135

And those who, when they have committed an immorality or wronged themselves, remember God and seek forgiveness for their sins - and who can forgive sins except God - and do not persist in what they have done while they know.

It was said: They committed an indecent act or wronged themselves by word.

They remembered God means: they remembered God's threat, and that God will ask them. Muqatil ibn Hayyan said: They remembered God with their tongues when they committed sins.

"So seek forgiveness for their sins. And who can forgive sins except God?" That is: Who can forgive sins except God?

And they did not persist in what they did meaning: they did not persist or remain steadfast in it, but they repented, turned back, and sought forgiveness. The root of persistence is: persistence in something. Al-Hasan said: The servant commits a sin deliberately, persisting until he repents.

Al-Suddi said: Insistence means keeping silent and not seeking forgiveness. Abdul Wahid Al-Malhi told us, Abu Mansur Al-Sam'ani told us, Abu Jaafar Al-Rayyani told us, Hamid bin Zanjawayh told us, Yahya bin Yahya told us, Abdul Hamid bin Abdul Rahman told us, on the authority of Uthman bin Waqid Al-Amri, on the authority of Nasirah, who said: I met a freed slave of Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him, and I said to him: Did you hear anything from Abu Bakr? He said: Yes, I heard him say: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: He who seeks forgiveness is not persistent, even if he does so seventy times a day.

"And they know." Ibn Abbas, Al-Hasan, Muqatil, and Al-Kalbi said: They know that it is a sin. It was also said: They know that persistence is harmful. Ad-Dahhak said: They know that God has the power to forgive sins. Al-Husayn ibn Al-Fadl said: They know that they have a Lord who forgives sins. It was also said: They know that God is not too great to forgive sins, no matter how many they are. It was also said: They know that if they seek forgiveness, He will forgive them.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

135 And those who, when they commit an immorality an extremely ugly act such as adultery. or wrong themselves by committing any sin, and it has been said that the immorality is a major sin and the wrong of the self is a minor one, and perhaps the immorality is what is transitive and the wrong of the self is not like that. remember God remember His threat or His judgment or His great right. and seek forgiveness for their sins by regretting and repenting. And who forgives sins except God is an interrogative with the meaning of negation inserted between the two conjoined words, and what is meant by it is describing Him, the Most High, with the breadth of mercy and the generality of forgiveness and urging seeking forgiveness and promising to accept repentance. and did not persist in what they did and did not persist in their sins without seeking forgiveness, according to the saying of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, He who seeks forgiveness will not persist, even if he returns to it seventy times a day. "And they know" is the state of those who persist, meaning they did not persist in the ugliness of their action, knowing it.

Surat Al Imran 3:136

Those - their reward is forgiveness from their Lord and gardens beneath which rivers flow, wherein they abide eternally. And excellent is the reward of the workers.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

Their reward is forgiveness from their Lord and gardens beneath which rivers flow, wherein they abide eternally a predicate, meaning destined to abide eternally in it if they enter it and excellent is the reward of the workers in obedience, this is the reward.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: God Almighty means by His saying: Those, those for whom He mentioned that He has prepared Paradise, the width of which is the heavens and the earth, from among the righteous, and He described them with what He described them with. Then He said: Those who have this description, their reward, meaning: their reward for their deeds that God Almighty described them to have done, is forgiveness from their Lord, meaning: pardon for them from God for their punishment for their past sins, and for them for what they obeyed God in of their good deeds, gardens, meaning orchards, underneath which rivers flow, meaning: rivers flow through its trees and in its lower parts, as a reward for them for their good deeds, abiding therein meaning: permanent residence in these gardens that He described, and excellent is the reward of the workers, meaning: excellent is the reward of the workers for God, the gardens that He described, as:

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: "Their reward is forgiveness from their Lord and gardens beneath which rivers flow, wherein they abide eternally. And excellent is the reward of the workers," meaning the reward of the obedient.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

God Almighty says: "Their reward is forgiveness from their Lord and gardens beneath which rivers flow, wherein they abide eternally. And excellent is the reward of the workers."

God Almighty, by His grace and generosity, has arranged the forgiveness of sins for those who are sincere in their repentance and do not persist in their sin. This can be connected to the story of someone who fled and then repented and did not persist in his sin, for him is God's forgiveness.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The Almighty says, forbidding His believing servants from engaging in usury and consuming it in multiples, as they used to say in the days of ignorance: When the due date of a debt comes, either pay it or increase it. If he pays it, otherwise, he increases it in the period, and the other increases it in the amount, and so on every year, perhaps the little will be doubled until it becomes a lot multiplied. The Almighty commanded His servants to be pious, so that they may succeed in the first and the last, then He threatened them with the Fire and warned them against it, so the Almighty said: "And fear the Fire which has been prepared for the disbelievers. And obey God and the Messenger, that you may receive mercy." Then He urged them to hasten to do good deeds and hasten to attain the acts of worship, so the Almighty said: And hasten to forgiveness from your Lord and a Garden as wide as the heavens and the earth, prepared for the righteous. That is, just as the Fire was prepared for the disbelievers. It has been said that the meaning of His saying its width is the heavens and the earth is an indication of the vastness of its length, as He said in describing the furnishings of Paradise: its linings are of brocade. That is, what do you think? By the backs? It was said: Rather, its width is like its length because it is a dome under the throne, and the domed and round thing is as wide as its length. This is indicated by what was established in the Sahih: "If you ask God for Paradise, then ask Him for Al-Firdaws, for it is the highest part of Paradise and the middle of Paradise, and from it the rivers of Paradise flow, and its roof is the Throne of the Most Merciful." This verse is like the Almighty's saying in Surat al-Hadid 57: Race one another to forgiveness from your Lord and a Paradise whose width is like the width of the heavens and the earth, the verse. We narrated in Musnad Al-Imam Ahmad that Heraclius wrote to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace: You have invited me to a Paradise whose width is the heavens and the earth, so where is Hell? The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Glory be to God, so where is the night when the day comes? Ibn Jarir narrated it and said: Yunus told me, Ibn Wahb told us, Muslim bin Khalid told me on the authority of Abu Khatham, on the authority of Saeed bin Abi Rashid, on the authority of Ya'la bin Murrah, who said: "I met Al-Tanukhi, the messenger of Heraclius to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, in Homs, an old man who had become corrupt. He said: I came to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, with the letter of Heraclius, so he handed the paper to a man on his left. He said: Who is your companion who reads? They said: Mu'awiyah. Then it was the letter of my companion: You have written inviting me to a Paradise whose width is the heavens and the earth, prepared for the righteous. So where is the Fire?" He said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Glory be to God! Where is the night when the day comes? Al-A'mash, Sufyan al-Thawri and Shu'bah said on the authority of Qays ibn Muslim on the authority of Tariq ibn Shihab: Some Jews asked Umar ibn al-Khattab about a Paradise whose width is the heavens and the earth, so where is Hell? Umar said to them: Have you seen when the day comes, where is the night? And when

Surat Al Imran 3:136

Those - their reward is forgiveness from their Lord and gardens beneath which rivers flow, wherein they abide eternally. And excellent is the reward of the workers.

the night comes, where is the day? They said: Something similar has been taken from the Torah. Ibn Jarir narrated it through three chains of transmission. Then he said: Ahmad ibn Hazim told us, Abu Nu'aym told us, Ja'far ibn Burqan told us, Yazid ibn al-A'sam told us: A man from the People of the Book said: They say, A Paradise whose width is the heavens and the earth, so where is Hell? Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with him, said: Where is the night when the day comes, and where is the day when the night comes? This has been narrated with a chain of transmission traceable back to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace. Al-Bazzar said: Muhammad ibn Mu'ammār told us, Al-Mughirah ibn Salamah Abu Hisham told us, Abd al-Wahid ibn Ziyad told us on the authority of Ubaydullah ibn Abdullah ibn al-A'sam, on the authority of His uncle Yazid ibn al-Asamm, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, said: "A man came to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: 'Have you seen the words of God the Almighty: "A Paradise as wide as the heavens and the earth," then where is the Fire? He said: 'Have you seen that when the night comes it covers everything, so where is the day?' He said: 'Wherever God wills.' He said: 'And so the Fire will be wherever God the Almighty wills.'" This has two possible meanings one of them that the meaning in that is that it does not necessarily follow from our not seeing the night when the day comes that it is not in a place, even if we do not know it, and so the Fire will be wherever God the Almighty wills, and this is more apparent as mentioned previously in the hadith of Abu Hurayrah on the authority of al-Bazzar.

Second That the meaning is that if the day covers the face of the world from this side, then the night is from the other side, so likewise Paradise is in the highest of the high above the heavens under the Throne and its width, as God Almighty said like the width of the heaven and the earth and Hell is in the lowest of the low, so there is no contradiction between it being like the width of the heavens and the earth and the existence of Hell, and God knows best.

Then God the Almighty mentioned the description of the people of Paradise, saying, Those who spend in ease and hardship, meaning in hardship and ease, in comfort and distress, in health and sickness, and in all circumstances, just as He said, Those who spend their wealth by night and by day, secretly and publicly, meaning that nothing distracts them from obeying God the Almighty and spending in what pleases Him, and doing good to His creation from their relatives and others with various types of righteousness. And God the Almighty said, And those who restrain anger and pardon the people, meaning that if anger arises in them, they restrain it, meaning they conceal it and do not act on it, and they pardon those who wrong them. It was mentioned in some of the narrations: "God the Most High says: O son of Adam, remember Me when you become angry, and I will remember you when you become angry, so that I will not destroy you among those whom I destroy." Narrated by Ibn Abi Hatim. Abu Ya'la said in his Musnad: Abu Musa al-Zaman told us,

Isa bin Shu'aib al-Dareer Abu al-Fadl told us, al-Rabi' bin Sulayman al-Jizi told me on the authority of Abu Amr bin Anas bin Malik, on the authority of his father, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever restrains his anger, God will restrain his punishment from him. Whoever guards his tongue, God will cover his faults. Whoever apologizes to God, God will accept his apology." This is a strange hadith, and its chain of transmission is questionable. Imam Ahmad said: Abd al-Rahman told us, Malik told us on the authority of al-Zuhri, on the authority of Sa'id bin al-Musayyab, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, may God be pleased with him, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: The strong man is not the one who wrestles, but the strong man is the one who controls himself when he is angry. The two sheikhs narrated it on the authority of Malik. Imam Ahmad also said: Abu Muawiyah told us, Al-A'mash told us, on the authority of Ibrahim al-Taymi, on the authority of Al-Harith bin Suwaid, on the authority of Abdullah, who is Ibn Mas'ud, may God be pleased with him, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Which of you would rather have the wealth of his heir than his own wealth? They said: O Messenger of God, there is none among us who does not love his wealth more than the wealth of his heir. He said: "Know that there is none among you who does not love the wealth of his heir more than his own wealth. Your wealth from your wealth is only what you have sent forward, and the wealth of your heir is what you have delayed." The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: What do you consider to be a wrestler among you? We said: The one who is not wrestled by men. He said: No, but the one who controls himself when he is angry. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: What do you consider to be a slave among you? We said: The one who has no children. He said: No, but the slave is the one who has not sent forward any of his children. Al-Bukhari included the first chapter of it, and Muslim included the original of this hadith, on the authority of Al-A'mash.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Muhammad ibn Ja'far told us, Shu'bah told us, I heard Urwah ibn 'Abdullah al-Ju'fi narrating on the authority of Hasbah or Ibn Abi Hasin, on the authority of a man who witnessed the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, giving a sermon, and he said, Do you know what ruqūb is? We said, The one who has no children. He said, Ruqūb is all the ones who have children and then died without having given anything from them. He said, Do you know what sāluq is? They said, The one who has no wealth. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said, The sāluq is all the one who has wealth and then died without giving anything from it. Then the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said, What is sarā'? They said, The one who is struck down. He, may God bless him and grant him peace, said, Sarā' is all the sarā', the one who becomes angry and his anger becomes intense, his face turns red, and his hair stands up, so he is struck down by his anger.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Ibn Numayr told us, Hisham ibn Urwah told us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-Ahnaf ibn Qays, on the authority of his uncle called Jariyah ibn Qudamah Al-Sa'di, "that he asked the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: O Messenger of God, say to me something that will benefit me and make it short for me so that I may understand it. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Do not get angry. So he repeated it to him until he repeated it to him many times, each time saying: Do not get angry." And this is how he narrated it on the authority of Abu Mu'awiyah on the authority of Hisham on his authority, and he also narrated it on the authority of Yahya ibn Sa'id Al-Qattan on the authority of Hisham on his authority, "that a man said: O Messenger of God, say to me something and make it short for me so that I may understand it. He said: Do not get angry." The hadith is narrated only by Ahmad.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Abd al-Razzaq told us, Muammar told us, on the authority of al-Zuhri, on the authority of Hamid ibn Abd al-Rahman, "On the authority of a man from the companions of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: A man said: O Messenger of God, advise me. He said: Do not get angry. The man said: So I thought about it when the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said what he said, and I saw that anger brings together all evil." Ahmad alone transmitted it.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Abu Muawiyah told us, Dawud ibn Abi Hind told us, on the authority of Abu Ibn Harb ibn Abi Al-Aswad, on the authority of Abu Al-Aswad, on the authority of Abu Dharr, may God be pleased with him, who said: He was watering from his cistern when some people came and said: Who among you will bring water to Abu Dharr and count the hairs from his head? A man said: I will. So the man came and brought water to him from the cistern and pounded it. Abu Dharr was standing, so he sat down and then lay down. It was said to him: O Abu Dharr, why did you sit down and then lie down? He said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to us: If one of you becomes angry while standing, let him sit down. If the anger goes away from him, then all well and good, otherwise let him lie down." Abu Dawood narrated it from Ahmad ibn Hanbal with his chain of transmission, except that it was included in his narration on the authority of Abu Harb on the authority of Abu Dharr. The correct version is Ibn Abi Harb on the authority of his father on the authority of Abu Dharr, as Abdullah ibn Ahmad narrated it on the authority of his father.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Ibrahim bin Khalid told us, Abu Wa'il al-San'ani told us: We were sitting with Urwah bin Muhammad when a man entered and said to him words that angered him. When he angered him, he stood up and came back to us after having performed ablution. He said: My father told me on the authority of my grandfather Atiyah - he is Ibn Sa'd al-Sa'di - and he was a companion - he said: "The Messenger of God said: Anger is from the devil, and the devil was created from fire, and fire is extinguished only with water. So when one of you becomes angry, let him perform ablution." And this is how Abu Dawud narrated it from the hadith of Ibrahim bin Khalid al-San'ani on the authority of Abu Wa'il al-Qass al-Muradi al-San'ani. Abu Dawud said: I think he was Abdullah bin Buhair.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Abdullah bin Yazid told us, Noah bin Ja'una al-Salami told us, on the authority of Muqatil bin Hayyan, on the authority of Ata', on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Whoever gives respite to someone in difficulty or forgives him, God will protect him from the heat of Hell. Indeed, the work of Paradise is made difficult by a hill - three times - Indeed, the work of Hell is made easy by a slip. And the happy one is the one who is protected from trials, and there is no sip more beloved to God than a sip of anger that a servant swallows. No servant of God swallows it except that it fills his stomach with faith.'" Ahmad is the only one to narrate it, and its chain of transmission is good, with no one who is wounded in it, and its text is good.

Another hadith with the same meaning - Abu Dawud said: Uqbah bin Makram told us, Abd al-Rahman, meaning Ibn Mahdi, told us, on the authority of Bishr, meaning Ibn Mansur, on the authority of Muhammad bin Ajlan, on the authority of Suwaid bin Wahb, on the authority of a man from the sons of the companions of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, on the authority of his father, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever suppresses anger when he is able to vent it, God will fill him with security and faith. Whoever refrains from wearing a beautiful garment when he is able to do so - Bishr said: I think he said: out of humility - God will clothe him with the garment of honor. Whoever marries for God, God will clothe him with the crown of kingship."

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Abdullah bin Yazid told us: Saeed told us, Abu Marhum told me on the authority of Sahl bin Muadh bin Anas, on the authority of his father, "The Messenger of God said: Whoever suppresses his anger when he is able to vent it, God will call him in front of all creation and let him choose from any of the hours he wants." Abu Dawud, Al-Tirmidhi and Ibn Majah narrated it on the authority of Saeed bin Abi Ayoub, and Al-Tirmidhi said: Hasan Gharib.

Another hadith - Abd al-Razzaq said: Dawud ibn Qays informed us, on the authority of Zayd ibn Aslam, on the authority of a man from the people of Ash-Sham called Abd al-Jalil, on the authority of his uncle, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, may God be pleased with him, regarding the words of God Almighty: And those who restrain anger, that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever restrains anger when he is able to give vent to it, God will fill him with security and faith. Narrated by Ibn Jarir.

Another hadith - Ibn Mardawayh said: Ahmad ibn Muhammad ibn Ziyad told us, Yahya ibn Abi Talib told us, Ali ibn Asim told us, Yunus ibn Ubayd told me on the authority of Al-Hasan, on the authority of Ibn Umar, may God be pleased with them both, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'A servant has not taken a sip of food that is better in reward than a sip of anger that he swallows seeking the face of God.” And Ibn Majah narrated it likewise on the authority of Bishr ibn Umar, on the authority of Hammad ibn Salamah, on the authority of Yunus ibn Ubayd, with the same chain of transmission. So God Almighty’s statement: And those who restrain anger means that they do not act out their anger on people, but rather they restrain their evil from them, and they seek reward for that from God Almighty. Then God the Almighty said: And those who pardon people meaning, while refraining from evil, they pardon those who wronged them in their souls, so that no grudge remains in their souls against anyone, and this is the most perfect state, and for this reason He said: And God loves the doers of good so this is from the stations of goodness, and in the hadith: “There are three things that I swear by: no wealth is diminished by charity, and God does not increase a servant through forgiveness except in honor, and whoever humbles himself before God, God will raise him up.” Al-Hakim narrated in his Mustadrak from the hadith of Musa bin Uqbah from Ishaq bin Yahya bin Talhah Al-Qurashi, from Ubadah bin As-Samit, from Ubayy bin Ka’b that the Messenger of God, “said: Whoever is pleased to have a lofty building and be raised in status, let him pardon those who wronged him, give to those who deprived him, and connect with those who severed ties with him.” Then he said: It is authentic according to the conditions of the two sheikhs, and they did not include it. Ibn Mardawayh included it from the hadith of Ali, Ka’b bin Ujrah, Abu Hurayrah, and Umm Salamah, may God be pleased with them, in a similar manner. It was narrated on the authority of Ad-Dahhak on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, who said: “The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: When the Day of Resurrection comes, a crier will call out, saying: Where are those who pardoned people? Come to your Lord and take your rewards. It is the right of every Muslim man, if he pardons, to enter Paradise.” And God Almighty said: And those who, when they have committed an immorality or wronged themselves, remember God and seek forgiveness for their sins. That is, if they commit a sin, they follow it up with repentance and seeking forgiveness. Imam Ahmad said: Yazid told us, Hammam bin Yahya told us, on the authority of Ishaq bin Abdullah bin Abi Talhah, on the authority of Abd al-Rahman bin Abi Umrah, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, may God be pleased with him, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, “He said: A man committed a sin and said: O Lord, I have committed a sin, so forgive it. God, the Almighty, said: My servant committed a sin and knew that he has a Lord who forgives sins and takes them to task. I have forgiven My servant. Then he committed another sin and said: O Lord, I have committed a sin, so forgive it. God, the Almighty, said: My servant knew that he has a Lord who forgives sins and takes them to task. I have forgiven My servant. Then he committed another sin and said: O Lord, I have committed a sin, so forgive it. God, the Almighty, said: My servant knew that he has a Lord who forgives sins and takes them to task. I have forgiven My servant.” With it, I bear witness that I have forgiven my servant, so let him do whatever he wants.” It was included in Sahih from the hadith of Ishaq bin Abi Talha, in a similar manner.

Those - their reward is forgiveness from their Lord and gardens beneath which rivers flow, wherein they abide eternally. And excellent is the reward of the workers.

Another Hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Abu al-Nadr and Abu Amir told us: Zuhair told us: Saad al-Ta’i told us: Abu al-Mudallah, the freed slave of the Mother of the Believers, heard Abu Hurairah, we said: O Messenger of God, when we see you, our hearts soften, and we are from the people of the Hereafter, and when we leave you, the world pleases us, and we smell women and children. He said: “If you were to be in every state in the state you are in with me, the angels would shake your hands with their palms, and visit you in your homes. And if you did not sin, God would bring people who would sin so that He would forgive them.” We said: O Messenger of God, tell us about Paradise, what is its structure? He said: A brick of gold and a brick of silver, its mortar is the most fragrant musk, its pebbles are pearls and rubies, and its soil is saffron. Whoever enters it will be blessed and will not be miserable, and will live forever and will not die. His clothes will not wear out, and his youth will not fade. There are three whose supplications will not be rejected: the just ruler, the fasting person until he breaks his fast, and the supplication of the one who is not fasting until he breaks his fast.” The oppressed person is carried on the clouds and the gates of heaven are opened for him, and the Lord says: By My glory, I will surely aid you, even if after a while. It was narrated by Al-Tirmidhi and Ibn Majah from another chain of transmission on the authority of Sa’d. Ablution and two rak’ahs of prayer are confirmed upon repentance, as narrated by Imam Ahmad ibn Hanbal: Waki’ told us, Mis’ar and Sufyan Al-Thawri told us on the authority of Uthman ibn Al-Maghbarah Al-Thaqafi, on the authority of Ali ibn Rabi’ah, on the authority of Asma’ ibn Al-Hakam Al-Fazari, on the authority of Ali, may God be pleased with him, who said: Whenever I heard a hadith from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, God would benefit me with whatever He willed from it. And if someone else tells me about it, I make him swear, and if he swears to me, I believe him. Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him, told me - and Abu Bakr spoke the truth - that he heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: “There is no man who commits a sin, then performs ablution and does it well - Misa’ar said - then prays - Sufyan said - then prays two rak’ahs, and seeks forgiveness from God Almighty, except that He forgives him.” And thus it was narrated by Ali ibn al-Madini, al-Humaidi, Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shaybah, the people of the Sunan, Ibn Hibban in his Sahih, al-Bazzar, and al-Daraqutni through various chains of transmission on the authority of Uthman ibn al-Mughira with it. Al-Tirmidhi said: It is a good hadith, and we have mentioned its chains of transmission, and the discussion of it is complete in Musnad Abu Bakr al-Siddiq, may God be pleased with him. In short, it is a good hadith, and it is narrated by the Commander of the Faithful, Ali ibn Abi Talib, on the authority of the Prophet’s successor, Abu Bakr al-Siddiq, may God be pleased with them both. What bears witness to the authenticity of this hadith is what Muslim narrated in his Sahih on the authority of the Commander of the Faithful, Umar ibn al-Khattab, may God be pleased with him, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "There is none among you who performs ablution and completes it, then says: I bear witness that there is no god but God alone, without partner, and I bear witness that Muhammad is His servant and Messenger, except that the eight gates of Paradise will be opened for him, and he may enter through whichever one he wishes." And in the two Sahih on the authority of the Commander of the Faithful, Uthman ibn Affan, may God be pleased with him, that he performed ablution for them as the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, performed ablution, then said: "I heard the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: Whoever performs ablution like this ablution of mine, then prays two rak'ahs in which he does not think, his previous sins will be forgiven." This hadith has been proven from the narration of the four Imams, the Rightly-Guided Caliphs, on the authority of the Master of the First and the Last, and the Messenger of the Lord of the Worlds, as indicated by the clear Book, that seeking forgiveness for sins benefits sinners. And Abd al-Razzaq said: Ja'far ibn Sulayman informed us on the authority of Thabit, on the authority of Anas ibn Malik, may God be pleased with him, who said: It has been reported to me that when this verse was revealed, And those who, when they have committed an immorality or wronged themselves, remember God and seek forgiveness for their sins, the verse, Satan wept. Al-Hafiz Abu Ya'la said: Mahraz bin Awn told us, Uthman bin Matar told us, Abdul Ghafoor told us, on the authority of Abu Nasirah, on the authority of Abu Raja', on the authority of Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, "He said, 'Upon you is saying 'There is no god but God' and seeking forgiveness, so do a lot of them, for Satan said, 'I have destroyed people with sins and they have destroyed me with 'There is no god but God' and seeking forgiveness. So when I saw that, I have destroyed them with desires, and they think that they are guided.'" Uthman bin Matar and his sheikh are weak. Imam Ahmad narrated in his Musnad on the authority of Amr ibn Abi Amr and Abu Al-Haitham Al-Atwari on the authority of Abu Saeed, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "Satan said: O Lord, by Your glory, I will continue to mislead Your servants as long as their souls are in their bodies. God Almighty said: By My glory and majesty, I will continue to forgive them as long as they seek My forgiveness." Al-Hafiz Abu Bakr Al-Bazzar said: Muhammad ibn Al-Muthanna told us, Umar ibn Abi Khalifa told us, I heard Abu Badr narrating on the authority of Thabit, on the authority of Anas, who said: "A man came and said: O Messenger of God, I have committed a sin. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: If you sin, seek forgiveness from your Lord. He said: I seek forgiveness, then I sin again. He said: If you sin again, seek forgiveness from your Lord. He said it the fourth time, seek forgiveness from your Lord, until Satan is the one who regrets." This is a strange hadith from this source. And the Almighty's saying: And who forgives sins except God? means that no one forgives them except Him, as Imam Ahmad said: Muhammad ibn

Mus'ab told us, Salam ibn Maskeen and al-Mubarak told us on the authority of al-Hasan on the authority of al-Aswad ibn Sari' that a prisoner was brought to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and he said: O God, I repent to You and I do not repent to Muhammad. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The truth has been made known to its people. And His saying: And they did not persist in what they did while they knew means that they repented from their sins and returned to God soon, and they did not continue in the sin and persist in it without giving it up. And if the sin was repeated from them, they would repent from it, as al-Hafiz Abu Ya'la al-Mawsili said in his Musnad: Ishaq ibn Abi Isra'il and others told us, they said: Abu Yahya Abd al-Hamid al-Hammani told us on the authority of Uthman ibn Waqid, on the authority of Abu Nasirah, on the authority of a freed slave of Abu Bakr, on the authority of Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: He who seeks forgiveness will not persist, even if he returns seventy times a day." And Abu Dawud narrated it. Al-Tirmidhi and Al-Bazzar in his Musnad from the hadith of Uthman bin Waqid - and Yahya bin Ma'een authenticated him with it - and his Sheikh Abu Nasirah Al-Wasiti, whose name is Muslim bin Ubaid, who was authenticated by Imam Ahmad and Ibn Hibban. Ali bin Al-Madini and Al-Tirmidhi said: The chain of transmission of this hadith is not that good. It appears that it is due to the ignorance of the client of Abu Bakr, but the ignorance of someone like him does not harm because he is a great follower, and it is sufficient for him to attribute it to Abu Bakr, so it is a good hadith, and God knows best. And his statement, and they know, Mujahid and Abdullah bin Ubaid bin Umair said, and they know, that whoever repents, God will accept his repentance. This is like the statement of God, the Most High, Do they not know that God accepts repentance from His servants? and His statement, And whoever does evil or wrongs himself but then seeks forgiveness from God will find God Forgiving and Merciful. And there are many similar examples to this. Imam Ahmad said: Yazid told us, Jarir told us, Habbab - he is Ibn Zaid Al-Sharabi - told us, on the authority of Abdullah Ibn Amr, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, "that he said while he was on the pulpit: 'Be merciful and you will be shown mercy, and forgive and you will be forgiven. Woe to those who defy speech, woe to those who persist in what they have done while they know.'" Ahmad is the only one to narrate it. Then God the Almighty said after describing them with what He described them with: Their reward is forgiveness from their Lord meaning their reward for these attributes is forgiveness from their Lord and gardens beneath which rivers flow meaning of various types of drinks abiding therein meaning abiding therein and excellent is the reward of the workers God the Almighty praises Paradise.

Fath al-Qadir

His statement, Their recompense refers to those mentioned in his statement, And those who, when they commit an immorality. His statement, Their recompense is a substitute for the demonstrative pronoun. His statement, Forgiveness is the predicate of from their Lord related to something omitted that is an attribute of forgiveness: meaning, coming from their Lord. His statement, And excellent is the reward of the workers that is specifically praised is omitted: meaning, their reward, or that which is mentioned. The explanation of the gardens and how rivers flow beneath them has already been presented.

Surat Al Imran 3:136

Those - their reward is forgiveness from their Lord and gardens beneath which rivers flow, wherein they abide eternally. And excellent is the reward of the workers.

And Abd bin Hamid, Ibn Al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Mujahid who said: They used to trade on credit, and when the credit came, they would increase it and increase the credit, so the verse, O you who believe, do not consume usury, doubled and multiplied. Ibn Jarir and Ibn Al-Mundhir narrated on the authority of Ata' who said: Thaqif used to follow Banu Al-Mughira in the pre-Islamic period, and he mentioned something similar. Ibn Al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Muawiyah bin Qurra who said: People used to interpret this verse, And fear the Fire which has been prepared for the disbelievers, as fear, lest I punish you for your sins in the Fire which I have prepared for the disbelievers. And Abd bin Hamid, Ibn Jarir and Ibn Al-Mundhir narrated on the authority of Ata' bin Abi Rabah who said: The Muslims said: O Messenger of God, were the Children of Israel more honored by God than us? When one of them committed a sin, the expiation for his sin would be written on the threshold of his door: Cut off your nose, cut off your ear, do such and such. But the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, was silent, so the verse, And hasten was revealed. Ibn al-Mundhir narrated on the authority of Anas ibn Malik in the interpretation of and hasten he said: the first takbir. Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of al-Suddi on the authority of Ibn Abbas in his statement its width is as the heavens and the earth like what we mentioned previously on the authority of the majority. Saeed ibn Mansur, Ibn al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated something similar on his authority on the authority of Kurayb. Ibn Jarir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas in his statement those who spend in prosperity and adversity he said: in ease and hardship and those who restrain anger he said: those who restrain anger: and many hadiths have been narrated about the reward of those who restrain anger. Ibn Jarir, Ibn al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of al-Nakha'i in the verse he said: injustice is from immorality and immorality is from injustice. Saeed bin Mansour, Ibn Abi Shaybah, Abd bin Hamid, At-Tabarani, Ibn Abi Al-Dunya, Ibn Al-Mundhir, and Al-Bayhaqi narrated on the authority of Ibn Masoud who said: There are two verses in the Book of God: If a servant commits a sin and recites them and seeks forgiveness from God, God will forgive him. And those who, when they commit an immorality 2:100. And His statement, And whoever does evil or wrongs himself 2:100. Abd Al-Razzaq, Abd bin Hamid, and Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of Thabit Al-Banati who said: It has reached me that when this verse was revealed, Iblis wept. And those who, when they commit an immorality 2:100. Al-Hakim At-Tirmidhi narrated on the authority of Attaf bin Khalid who said: It has reached me that when the verse was revealed, And who can forgive sins except God? And they do not persist in what they have done 2:100 Iblis shouted at his soldiers and threw dirt on his head and called for woe and destruction until his soldiers came to him from every land and sea. They said: What is the matter with you, O our master? He said: A verse was revealed in the Book of God after which no sin will harm any of the children of Adam. They said: What is it? So he informed them, and they said: We open the door of whims for them, but they do not repent, nor seek forgiveness, nor do they see anything except that they are on the truth. So he was satisfied with that from them. Ibn Abi Shaybah, Ahmad, Al-Humaidi, Abd Ibn Hamid, and the people of the four Sunans narrated, and Al-Nasa'i, Ibn Hibban, Al-Daraqutni in Al-Ifrad, Al-Bazzar, Abu Ya'la, Ibn Jarir, Ibn Al-Mundhir, Ibn Abi Hatim, Ibn Al-Sunni, Al-Bayhaqi in Al-Shu'ab, and Al-Dhiya' in Al-Mukhtara, on the authority of Abu Bakr Al-Siddiq, I heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: "There is no man who commits a sin, then stands up when his sin is mentioned, purifies himself, then prays two rak'ahs, then seeks forgiveness from God for that sin, except that God will forgive him." Then he recited this verse: And those who, when they commit an immorality... Al-Bayhaqi narrated in Al-Shu'ab, on the authority of Al-Hasan, with a similar chain of transmission traceable to the Prophet, but he said: Then he went out to a clearing on the ground and prayed. Abd bin Hamid, Abu Dawud, Al-Tirmidhi, Abu Ya'la, Ibn Jarir, Ibn Abi Hatim, and Al-Bayhaqi in Al-Sha'b narrated on the authority of Abu Bakr Al-Siddiq who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: He who seeks forgiveness is not persistent, even if he returns seventy times a day. Abd bin Hamid, Ibn Jarir, and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Al-Suddi, regarding the statement and they do not persist, they remain silent and do not seek forgiveness. Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Muqatil, And excellent is the reward of the workers, he said: The reward of those who work in obedience to God is Paradise.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

136- "Their reward is forgiveness from their Lord and gardens beneath which rivers flow, wherein they abide eternally. And excellent is the reward of the workers." The reward of the obedient. Abdul Wahid bin Ahmad Al-Malhi told us, Abu Mansur Al-Sam'ani told us, Abu Ja'far Al-Rayyani told us, Hamid bin Zanjawayh told us, Affan bin Muslim told us, Abu Awana told us, Uthman bin Al-Mughira told us, on the authority of Ali bin Rabia Al-Asadi, on the authority of Asma bin Al-Hakam Al-Fazari, who said: I heard Ali, may God be pleased with him, say: I was a man who, if I heard a hadith from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, God would benefit me from it as He willed, and if one of his companions told me, I would make him swear, and if he swore to me, I would believe him. Abu Bakr told me, and Abu Bakr was truthful, that he heard the Messenger of God say: There is no believing servant who commits a sin, then purifies himself well, then stands up and prays, then seeks God's forgiveness, except that God will forgive him. Abu Isa narrated it on the authority of Qutaybah on the authority of Abu Awana, and he added, then he recited: And those who, when they have committed an immorality or wronged themselves Al-Ma'idah 1:17.

Abdul Wahid Al-Malhi told us, Abu Mansur Al-Sam'ani told us, Abu Ja'far Al-Rayyani told us, Hamid bin Zanjawayh told us, Hisham bin Abdul Malik told us, Hammam told us, on the authority of Ishaq, on the authority of Abdullah bin Abi Talha, who said: There was a judge in Madinah called Abdul Rahman bin Abi Umrah, and I heard him say: I heard Abu Hurairah say: I heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: "A slave committed a sin and said: O Lord, I have committed a sin, so forgive me. His Lord, the Almighty, said: My slave knew that he had a Lord who forgives sins and takes them into account, so He forgave him. He remained as long as God willed, then he committed another sin and said: O Lord, I have committed a sin, so forgive me. His Lord, the Almighty, said: My slave knew that he had a Lord who forgives sins and takes them into account. I have forgiven My slave, so let him do as he wishes."

Abdul Wahid Al-Malhi told us, Abu Mansur Al-Sam'ani told us, Abu Ja'far Al-Rayyani told us, Hamid bin Zanjawayh told us, Al-Nu'man Al-Sadosi told us, Al-Mahdi bin Maimun told us, Ghailan bin Jarir told us, on the authority of Shahr bin Hawshab, on the authority of Ma'di Karib, on the authority of Abu Dharr, may God be pleased with him, "On the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who narrated it on the authority of his Lord, the Blessed and Most High, who said: O son of Adam, if you call upon Me and put your hope in Me, I will forgive you for whatever is in you. Son of Adam, if you meet Me with sins nearly as great as the earth, I will meet you with forgiveness nearly as great as it, after you do not associate anything with Me. Son of Adam, if you sin until your sins reach the clouds of the sky, then you ask My forgiveness, I will forgive you."

Abdul Wahid Al-Malhi told us, Abu Al-Hassan Muhammad bin Al-Hussein Al-Hasani Al-Sharifi told us, Abu Al-Azhar Ahmad bin Al-Azhar told us, Ibrahim bin Al-Hakam bin Aban told us, my father told me, on the authority of Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, on the authority of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "God Almighty said: Whoever knows that I have the power to forgive sins, I will forgive him and I do not care, as long as he does not associate anything with Me." Thabit Al-Bunani said: It has reached me that Satan cried when this verse was revealed: And those who, when they commit an immorality, to the end of it.

who spend. It is not necessary that Paradise is prepared for the righteous and the repentant as a reward for them that those who persist will not enter it, just as it is not necessary that Hell is prepared for the disbelievers as a reward for them that no one else will enter it. The indefiniteness of the word gardens in the first place indicates that what they are is less than what the righteous are described with those qualities mentioned in the previous verse. It is sufficient for you to distinguish between the two groups that He separated their verse by stating that they are doers of good and deserving of God's love, because they preserved the limits of the Shari'ah and went beyond to specialize in His good deeds. He separated the verse for these people by saying: And excellent is the reward of the workers, because the one who makes up for his shortcomings is like the one who works to obtain some of what he missed. How great is the difference between the doer of good and the one who makes up for it, the beloved and the hired worker. Perhaps the replacement of the word reward with reward is for this reason, and what is specifically praised is omitted, its meaning is and excellent is the reward of the workers, meaning forgiveness and the gardens.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

136 Those - their reward is forgiveness from their Lord and gardens beneath which rivers flow, wherein they abide eternally. This is report for those if you begin with it, and a renewed sentence explaining what came before it if you connect it to the righteous, or to those

Surat Al Imran 3:137

There have already been precedents before you, so travel through the land and see what was the end of those who denied.

Surat Al Imran 3:137

There have already been precedents before you, so travel through the land and see what was the end of those who denied.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And it was revealed about the defeat of UHud 11: There have already passed gone before you ways of giving the disbelievers respite and then seizing them so travel O believers throughout the land and see how was the end of those who denied the messengers, meaning the end of their affair of destruction, so do not be sad about their defeat, for I will give them respite for their time.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: What is meant by the words of God Almighty: There have already been precedents before you, is that they have passed and preceded from Me with those who were before you, O group of companions of Muhammad and people of faith in him, such as the people of 'Ad and Thamud and the people of Hud and the people of Lot, and others from the ancestors of the nations before you. Reflectives means: examples that I followed with them and with those who denied Him from among their prophets who were sent to them, by giving respite to those who denied them, and by My leading them on, until the Book reached its term that I had set for the victory of their prophets and people of faith in them over them. Then I brought down My punishment upon them, and sent down My vengeance upon their courtyards, and left them as examples and lessons for those after them. So travel through the land and see how was the end of the deniers, meaning: So travel - O you who think - that My leading on those I led from among the polytheists on the day of Uhud over Muhammad and his companions was not due to My leading on those who associated partners with Me and disbelieved in My messengers. And My command was disobeyed - in the lands of the nations who were before you, from those who were like those who denied My Messenger and rejected My Oneness. So look at what was the end of their disbelief in My Prophets, and what happened to them after their disobedience to My command and their denial of My Oneness. Then learn from that that My victory over those I gave victory to from the polytheists over My Prophet Muhammad and his companions with Uhud, is only a luring and a respite so that the Book may reach its appointed time which I have set for them. Then either their condition will end up like that which happened to the nations who came before them: of the punishment being hastened upon them, or they will turn to My obedience and following My Messenger.

And the people of interpretation said something similar to what we said about that.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Sinan told us, he said, Abu Bakr told us, he said, Ibad told us, on the authority of Al-Hasan regarding his statement: There have already been precedents before you, so travel through the land and see what was the end of those who denied, he said: Did you not travel through the land and see how God punished the people of Noah, the people of Lot, the people of Salih, and the nations that God Almighty punished?

Muhammad bin Amr told me, he said, Abu Asim told us, on the authority of Isa, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding his statement: There have already been precedents before you, he said: regarding the infidels and the believers, and the good and the evil.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Abu Hudhayfah told us, he said, Shabl told us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid: There have been precedents before you, concerning the believers and the unbelievers.

Ibn Humayd told us, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq, who said: He addressed the mention of the calamity that befell them - meaning the Muslims on the day of Uhud - and the affliction that had befallen them, and the examination of what was in them, and His taking of martyrs from among them, and said, as a consolation to them and informing them of what they had done and what He would do to them: There have already been precedents before you, so travel through the land and see what was the end of those who denied. That is, events have already occurred from Me as punishment for the people who denied My messengers and associated partners with Me: Aad, Thamud, the people of Lot, and the people of Midian. So travel through the land and you will see examples that have occurred in them, and for whoever was like them in that from Me, and if I grant them respite, that is, so that you do not think that My punishment has ceased from your enemy and My enemy, for the state that I have shown you, I will test you with that, so that I may know what is in you.

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: There have already been precedents before you, so travel through the land and see what was the end of those who denied, meaning: He gave them enjoyment in this world for a little while, then sent them to the Fire.

Abu Ja'far said: As for the Sunnah, it is the plural of Sunnah, and Sunnah is the example that is followed and the imam that is followed. It is said: So-and-so established a good tradition among us, and established a bad tradition, if he did an action that was followed for, whether good or bad. From this is the saying of Labid bin Rabi'ah:

From a group whose fathers have set a precedent for them, and every people has a precedent and its leader

And the saying of Sulayman bin Qatta:

The Hashemites who were in Karbala felt sorry for each other, so it is a good example for the noble to feel sorry for each other.

Ibn Zayd said about this:

Yunus told me, he said, Ibn Wahb told us, he said, Ibn Zayd said regarding his statement: There have already been examples before you, he said: Examples.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

God Almighty says: There have already been precedents before you, so travel through the land and see what was the end of those who denied.

This is a consolation from God Almighty to the believers. Sunnah is the plural of Sunnah, which means the straight path. So-and-so is on the Sunnah, meaning he is on the straight path and does not incline toward any whims. Al-Hudhali said:

Do not be upset about a tradition that you have followed, for the first to be satisfied with a tradition is the one who follows it.

Sunnah: the imam who is followed. It is said: So-and-so set a good or bad sunnah if he did an action that was followed in it, whether good or bad. Labid said:

From a group whose fathers followed the Sunnah for them, but you are a people whose leader is Sunnah.

The Sunnah of the nation, and the Sunnahs of nations, on the authority of Al-Mufaddal. And he recited:

People have not witnessed any virtue like their virtue, nor have they seen anything like them in the past traditions.

Al-Zajaj said: The meaning is people of Sunnah, so the noun was omitted. Abu Zaid said: The proverbs of Ata': laws. Mujahid: The meaning is there have already been Sunnahs before you meaning the destruction of those who denied before you, such as Aad and Thamud. The consequence: the end of the matter, and this was on the Day of Uhud. He says: So I will give them respite and give them time and lead them on until the Book reaches its term, meaning by supporting the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and the believers and destroying their enemies, the disbelievers.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The Almighty says, addressing His believing servants who were afflicted on the day of Uhud and seventy of them were killed, There have already been precedents before you, meaning something similar to this happened to the nations who were followers of the prophets before you, then the end was theirs, and the rest is upon the disbelievers. For this reason, the Almighty said, So travel through the land and see what was the end of those who denied. Then the Almighty said, This is an exposition for the people, meaning the Qur'an explains matters clearly and how the nations of old dealt with their enemies. And guidance and instruction, meaning the Qur'an contains report of what came before you. Guidance is for your hearts, and admonition for the righteous, meaning a deterrent from forbidden things and sins. Then the Almighty said, comforting the believers: And do not weaken meaning do not become weak because of what happened, and do not grieve, and you will be superior if you are believers meaning the outcome and victory are for you, O believers. If a wound has touched you, a wound similar to it has touched the [opposing] people meaning if you have been wounded and a group of you have been killed, your enemies have been afflicted with similar killing and wounds. And those days We alternate among the people meaning We give the enemies victory over you sometimes, and if the outcome is yours, because of the wisdom in that, and for this reason the Almighty said: And that God may test those who have believed Ibn Abbas said: In such a case, so that we may see who will be patient in confronting the enemies. And that He may take from among you martyrs meaning they will be killed in His cause and sacrifice their lives in His pleasure. "And God does not love the wrongdoers. And that God may purify those who have believed" meaning He may forgive them their sins if they have sins. Otherwise, He may raise them in their degrees according to what has befallen them. And His statement, And He will destroy the disbelievers, meaning that if they are victorious, they will transgress and act insolently, and that will be the cause of their destruction, ruin, annihilation, and annihilation. Then the Almighty said, Or do you think that you will enter Paradise while God has not yet made evident those among you who strive and made evident the steadfast? That is, do you think that you will enter Paradise without being tested by fighting and hardships, as the Almighty said in Surat Al-Baqarah, Or do you think that you will enter Paradise while such [trials] have not yet come to you as came to those who passed on before you - they were afflicted with poverty and hardship and were shaken? The verse. And the Almighty said, "Alif, Lam, Meem. Do people think that they will be left to say, "We believe" and they will not be tested?" The verse, and for this reason He said here, Or do you think that you will enter Paradise while God has not yet made evident those among you who strive and made evident the steadfast? That is, you will not be granted entry into Paradise until you are tested and God sees among you those who strive in His cause and those who are steadfast in resisting the enemies. And His statement, And you were wishing for death before you met it, but you have seen it while you were looking on, meaning, you, O believers, before this day, were wishing to meet the enemy, burning with desire to confront them and desire to fight them and be patient with them. Now what you wished for and sought has come to you, so fight and be patient. It has been proven in the two Sahihs that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "Do not wish to meet the enemy, and ask God for well-being. And when you meet them, be patient and know that Paradise is under the shade of swords." For this reason, God the Almighty said, And you have seen it, meaning you witnessed death at the time of the flashing of swords, the sharpness of spears, the clashing of spears, and the rows of men fighting. Theologians express this by imagination, which is seeing something that is not tangible, like something tangible, just as a sheep imagines the friendship of a ram and the enmity of a wolf.

There have already been precedents before you, so travel through the land and see what was the end of those who denied.

Fath al-Qadir

His statement 137- There have already been precedents before you. This refers back to the description of the rest of the story. What is meant by precedents is what God has established for the nations of His events: that is, there have already been precedents before your time that God established for the nations of disbelievers. The root of precedents is the plural of sunnah, which is the straight path. From this, al-Hudhali said:

Do not be upset about a tradition that you have followed, for the first to be satisfied with a tradition is the one who follows it.

Sunnah: the imam who is followed and imitated. From this comes the saying of Labid:

From a group whose fathers have set a precedent for them, and every people has a tradition and an imam.

The Sunnah is the nation, and the Sunnahs are the nations, as stated by Al-Mufaddal Al-Dabbi. Al-Zajaj said: The meaning in the verse is the people of Sunnah, so the complement was omitted, and the Fa in His statement travel is causal, and it was said that it is conditional: meaning if you doubt then travel. And the consequence: the end of the matter. The meaning is: travel and see how was the end of the deniers, for they disobeyed their messengers by being greedy for the world, then they became extinct, and no trace remained of their world that they preferred. This is the opinion of most of the commentators. What is required from this commanded travel is to gain knowledge of that, for if it is achieved without it, then the goal has been achieved, even if witnessing the effects is an increase that is not achieved by those who do not witness them.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

137- The Almighty said: There have already been ways before you. Ata' said: Laws. Al-Kalbi said: Every nation has a way and a path. If they follow them, may God be pleased with them. Mujahid said: There have already been ways before you, with the destruction of those who denied before you. It was said: ways, meaning: nations, and the Sunnah is the nation. The poet said:

People have not witnessed any virtue like yours, nor have they seen anyone like you in the past traditions.

It was said that its meaning is: People of the Sunnah, and the Sunnah is: the method followed in good and evil. It is said: So-and-so followed a good Sunnah, and a bad Sunnah if he did an action that was followed, whether good or evil.

The meaning of the verse: I have sent forth and preceded from Me the ways of those who were before you from the past nations of disbelievers, by giving them respite and leading them on until the written term that I have set for their destruction and the dominance of My prophets over them is fulfilled. So travel through the land and see what was the end of those who denied, meaning: the end of the matter of those who denied, and this was in the Battle of Uhud. God Almighty says: So I will give them respite and lead them on until the term that I have set for the victory of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his allies and the destruction of his enemies is fulfilled.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

137There have already been precedents before you events that God Almighty established for the nations that denied, such as His Almighty saying, "And they were killed with a terrible killing. The precedent of God for those who passed on before." And it was said that nations said:

People have not witnessed a virtue like yours, nor have they seen anything like it in the past.

So travel through the land and see what was the end of those who denied so that you may take heed from what you see of the effects of their destruction.

Surat Al Imran 3:138

This is a clear statement for the people and a guidance and an admonition for the righteous.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

This Qur'an is a clarification for the people all of them and a guidance from misguidance and an admonition for the righteous among them.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Jaafar said: The people of interpretation differed regarding the meaning indicated by this.

Some of them said: What he meant by his saying, this, is the Qur'an.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Sinan told us, he said, Abu Bakr al-Hanafi told us, he said, Ibad told us, on the authority of al-Hasan, regarding his statement: This is an explanation for the people and guidance and instruction for the righteous, he said: This is the Qur'an.

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: This is an explanation for the people, which is this Qur'an. God made it an explanation for the people in general, and guidance and advice for the righteous in particular.

Al-Muthanna told us, he said, Ishaq told us, he said, Ibn Abi Ja'far told us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-Rabi', he said, in his statement: This is a statement for the people and guidance and instruction for the righteous, in particular.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Suwaid told us, he said, Ibn al-Mubarak told us, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, regarding his statement: This is a statement for the people and guidance and instruction for the righteous, in particular.

Others said: What he referred to by his saying: This is his saying: There have already been precedents before you, so travel through the land and see what was the end of those who denied. Then he said: This that I have made known to you, O group of companions of Muhammad, is a clarification for the people.

Who said that?

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq, that.

Abu Ja'far said: The more correct of the two opinions in this regard, in my opinion, is the opinion of those who say: His statement, this, is an allusion to what preceded this verse of God's reminder to the believers, His informing them of His limits, and His urging them to adhere to His obedience and to be patient in the struggle against His enemies and their enemies. Because His statement, this, is an allusion to something present: either seen or heard, and in this instance it is referring to something present and heard from the previous verses.

The meaning of the statement: This which I have explained to you and made known to you is an explanation for the people. By explanation, I mean explanation and interpretation, as:

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq, This is an explanation for the people, meaning: This is an interpretation for the people if they accept it.

Ahmad bin Hazim and Al-Muthanna told us, Abu Naim told us, Sufyan told us, on the authority of Bayan, on the authority of Al-Sha'bi: This is a statement for the people, he said: from blindness.

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said, Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said, al-Thawri told us, on the authority of al-Sha'bi, similarly.

As for his saying: and guidance and admonition, he means by guidance, the indication of the path of truth and the method of religion, and by admonition, the reminder of what is right and correct, as:

Ahmad bin Hazim and Al-Muthanna told us, Abu Naim told us, Sufyan told us, on the authority of Bayan, on the authority of Al-Sha'bi: And guidance, he said: from misguidance, and admonition, from ignorance.

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said, Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said, al-Thawri told us, on the authority of Bayan, on the authority of al-Sha'bi, similarly.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: For the righteous, meaning: for those who obey me and know my command.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

God Almighty says: This is a statement for the people and a guidance and an admonition for the righteous.

Meaning the Qur'an, according to Al-Hasan and others. It was said: This is a reference to His statement: There have already been precedents before you, and admonition is preaching. It has been mentioned previously.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The Almighty says, addressing His believing servants who were afflicted on the day of Uhud and seventy of them were killed, There have already been precedents before you, meaning something similar to this happened to the nations who were followers of the prophets before you, then the end was theirs, and the rest is upon the disbelievers. For this reason, the Almighty said, So travel through the land and see what was the end of those who denied. Then the Almighty said, This is an exposition for the people, meaning the Qur'an explains matters clearly and how the nations of old dealt with their enemies. And guidance and instruction, meaning the Qur'an contains report of what came before you. Guidance is for your hearts, and admonition for the righteous, meaning a deterrent from forbidden things and sins. Then the Almighty said, comforting the believers: And do not weaken meaning do not become weak because of what happened, and do not grieve, and you will be superior if you are believers meaning the outcome and victory are for you, O believers. If a wound has touched you, a wound similar to it has touched the [opposing] people meaning if you have been wounded and a group of you have been killed, your enemies have been afflicted with similar killing and wounds. And those days We alternate among the people meaning We give the enemies victory over you sometimes, and if the outcome is yours, because of the wisdom in that, and for this reason the Almighty said: And that God may test those who have believed Ibn Abbas said: In such a case, so that we may see who will be patient in confronting the enemies. And that He may take from among you martyrs meaning they will be killed in His cause and sacrifice their lives in His pleasure. "And God does not love the wrongdoers. And that God may purify those who have believed" meaning He may forgive them their sins if they have sins. Otherwise, He may raise them in their degrees according to what has befallen them. And His statement, And He will destroy the disbelievers, meaning that if they are victorious, they will transgress and act insolently, and that will be the cause of their destruction, ruin, annihilation, and annihilation. Then the Almighty said, Or do you think that you will enter Paradise while God has not yet made evident those among you who strive and made evident the steadfast? That is, do you think that you will enter Paradise without being tested by fighting and hardships, as the Almighty said in Surat Al-Baqarah, Or do you think that you will enter Paradise while such [trials] have not yet come to you as came to those who passed on before you - they were afflicted with poverty and hardship and were shaken? The verse. And the Almighty said, "Alif, Lam, Meem. Do people think that they will be left to say, "We believe" and they will not be tested?" The verse, and for this reason He said here, Or do you think that you will enter Paradise while God has not yet made evident those among you who strive and made evident the steadfast? That is, you will not be granted entry into Paradise until you are tested and God sees among you those who strive in His cause and those who are steadfast in resisting the enemies. And His statement, And you were wishing for death before you met it, but you have seen it while you were looking on, meaning, you, O believers, before this day, were wishing to meet the enemy, burning with desire to confront them and desire to fight them and be patient with them. Now what you wished for and sought has come to you, so fight and be patient. It has been proven in the two Sahihs that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "Do not wish to meet the enemy, and ask God for well-being. And when you meet them, be patient and know that Paradise is under the shade of swords." For this reason, God the Almighty said, And you have seen it, meaning you witnessed death at the time of the flashing of swords, the sharpness of spears, the clashing of spears, and the rows of men fighting. Theologians express this by imagination, which is seeing something that is not tangible, like something tangible, just as a sheep imagines the friendship of a ram and the enmity of a wolf.

This is a clear statement for the people and a guidance and an admonition for the righteous.

Fath al-Qadir

And the reference in his saying 138- This to his saying has passed away and Al-Hasan said to the Qur'an An explanation for the people meaning an explanation for them, and the people's definition of the covenant and they are the deniers, or of the species, meaning the deniers and others. And in it is an urging to consider the evil end of the deniers and what their affair has come to. His saying and guidance and admonition meaning: this consideration, with it being an explanation, contains guidance and admonition for the righteous believers, so linking the guidance and admonition to the explanation indicates the difference even if it is in consideration of the related, and its explanation is that if the lam in the people is for the covenant then the explanation is for the deniers and the guidance and admonition are for the believers, and if it is for the species then the explanation is for all people, their believers and their disbelievers and the guidance and admonition are for the righteous alone.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

138- This meaning: this Qur'an, is a statement for the people in general, and guidance from misguidance and an admonition for the righteous in particular.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

138 This is a statement for the people and a guidance and an admonition for the righteous. This is a reference to his saying, It has already passed away, or the meaning of his saying, So look, meaning that while it is a statement for the deniers, it is an increase in insight into the admonition for the righteous, or to what was summarized regarding the matter of the righteous and the repentant, and his saying, It has already passed away is an interjectional clause to urge faith and repentance, and it was said to refer to the Qur'an.

Surat Al Imran 3:139

And do not weaken and do not grieve, and you will be superior if you are [true] believers.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And do not weaken weaken from fighting the infidels and do not grieve over what happened to you at anyone and you will be superior by defeating them if you are truly believers and the answer to it is indicated by the sum of what preceded it.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Jaafar said: This is from God Almighty, as a consolation to the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, for the wounds and killing they suffered at Uhud.

He said: Do not weaken and do not grieve, O companions of Muhammad, meaning: do not be weakened by what your enemy has done to you, whether by killing or wounds, from jihad and war against your enemy.

From the saying: So-and-so is weak in this matter, so he will be weak and feeble.

And do not grieve, and do not feel sad or anxious about the calamity that befalls you on that day, for you will be the superior ones, meaning: the ones who are victorious over them, and you will have the final victory and triumph over them, if you are believers, meaning: if you believe in my Prophet Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, in what he promises you, and in what he informs you of the report about what will happen to you and their situation, as:

Al-Muthanna told us, Suwaid bin Nasr told us, Ibn al-Mubarak told us, on the authority of Yunus, on the authority of al-Zuhri, who said: Killing and wounding increased among the companions of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, until every man among them was affected by the pain. Then God Almighty revealed the Qur'an, in which He comforted the believers in the best way He comforted a group of Muslims who were before them from the past nations, saying: And do not weaken and do not grieve, and you will be superior if you are [true] believers, until His saying: Those upon whom death was decreed will come forth to their deathbeds.

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: And do not weaken and do not grieve, and you will be superior if you are [true] believers, he consoles the companions of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, as you hear, and urges them to fight their enemy, and forbids them from weakness and infirmity in pursuing their enemy in the way of God.

Muhammad bin Sinan told me, he said, Abu Bakr al-Hanafi told us, he said, Ibad told us, on the authority of al-Hasan, regarding his statement: And do not weaken and do not grieve, and you will be superior if you are [true] believers, he said: He commands Muhammad, saying: And do not weaken, to proceed in the way of God.

Muhammad bin Amr told us, he said, Abu Asim told us, on the authority of Isa, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding the words of God Almighty: And do not weaken, and do not become weak.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Abu Hudhayfah told us, he said, Shabl told us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, similarly.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Ishaq told us, he said, Abdullah bin Abi Jaafar told us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-Rabi', regarding his statement: And do not weaken and do not grieve, he said: And do not become weak.

Al-Qasim told me, Al-Husayn told us, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj: And do not weaken, Ibn Jurayj said: And do not be weak in the matter of your enemy, And do not grieve while you are superior, he said: The companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, were defeated in the ravine, and they said: What happened to so-and-so? What happened to so-and-so? So they mourned each other, and said that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, had been killed, and they were in a state of worry and grief. While they were like that, Khalid bin Al-Walid climbed the mountain with the cavalry of the polytheists above them, while they were lower in the ravine. When they saw the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, they rejoiced, and the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: O God, we have no strength except through You, and none worship You in this town except these people! He said: A group of Muslim archers jumped up, climbed up and shot at the cavalry of the polytheists until God defeated them, and the Muslims climbed the mountain. That is what He said: And you are superior if you are believers.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: And do not weaken, meaning: do not become weak, and do not grieve, and do not feel sorry for what has befallen you, and you will be the highest, meaning: you will have the final outcome and victory, if you are believers, if you have believed in my Prophet in what he brought you from me.

Muhammad bin Saad told me, he said, my father told me, he said, my uncle told me, he said, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, he said: Khalid bin Al-Walid came wanting to climb the mountain over them, so the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: O God, do not let them climb over us. So God Almighty revealed: And do not weaken and do not grieve, and you will be superior if you are [true] believers.

And do not weaken and do not grieve, and you will be superior if you are [true] believers.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

God Almighty says: And do not weaken and do not grieve, and you will be superior if you are [true] believers.

He consoled them and comforted them for what they had suffered on the day of Uhud of killing and wounds, and urged them to fight their enemy and forbade them from weakness and failure, saying: And do not weaken, meaning do not weaken and do not refrain, O companions of Muhammad, from fighting your enemies for what has befallen you. And do not grieve, over their backs, or over what has befallen you of defeat and calamity. And you will be the highest, meaning you will have the final victory and triumph, if you are believers, meaning in the truth of my promise. It was said that if means when. Ibn Abbas said: The companions of the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) were defeated on the day of Uhud, and while they were like that, Khalid bin Al-Walid approached with cavalry from the polytheists, wanting to climb the mountain over them. The Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) said: "O God, do not let him defeat us. O God, we have no strength except through You. O God, no one worships You in this town except these people." So God revealed these verses. A group of Muslim archers rose up and climbed the mountain. They threw the horses of the polytheists until they defeated them, so this is what God the Almighty said: And you will be the highest meaning the victors over the enemies after Uhud. So they did not send out an army after that except that they were victorious in every army that was in the time of the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him), and in every army that was after the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) and in which there was one of the Companions, they were victorious. All of these countries were conquered during the time of the Companions of the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him), then after their extinction, no country was conquered in the same way as they were conquered at that time. In this verse is a statement of the superiority of this nation, because He addressed them with what He addressed His prophets, because He said to Moses: Indeed, you are the highest (Ta-Ha 20:68) and He said to this nation: And you will be the highest. This word is derived from His Most High name, for He is the Most High, and He said to the believers: And you will be the highest.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The Almighty says, addressing His believing servants who were afflicted on the day of Uhud and seventy of them were killed, There have already been precedents before you, meaning something similar to this happened to the nations who were followers of the prophets before you, then the end was theirs, and the rest is upon the disbelievers. For this reason, the Almighty said, So travel through the land and see what was the end of those who denied. Then the Almighty said, This is an exposition for the people, meaning the Qur'an explains matters clearly and how the nations of old dealt with their enemies. And guidance and instruction, meaning the Qur'an contains report of what came before you. Guidance is for your hearts, and admonition for the righteous, meaning a deterrent from forbidden things and sins. Then the Almighty said, comforting the believers: And do not weaken meaning do not become weak because of what happened, and do not grieve, and you will be superior if you are believers meaning the outcome and victory are for you, O believers. If a wound has touched you, a wound similar to it has touched the [opposing] people meaning if you have been wounded and a group of you have been killed, your enemies have been afflicted with similar killing and wounds. And those days We alternate among the people meaning We give the enemies victory over you sometimes, and if the outcome is yours, because of the wisdom in that, and for this reason the Almighty said: And that God may test those who have believed Ibn Abbas said: In such a case, so that we may see who will be patient in confronting the enemies. And that He may take from among you martyrs meaning they will be killed in His cause and sacrifice their lives in His pleasure. "And God does not love the wrongdoers. And that God may purify those who have believed" meaning He may forgive them their sins if they have sins. Otherwise, He may raise them in their degrees according to what has befallen them. And His statement, And He will destroy the disbelievers, meaning that if they are victorious, they will transgress and act insolently, and that will be the cause of their destruction, ruin, annihilation, and annihilation. Then the Almighty said, Or do you think that you will enter Paradise while God has not yet made evident those among you who strive and made evident the steadfast? That is, do you think that you will enter Paradise without being tested by fighting and hardships, as the Almighty said in Surat Al-Baqarah, Or do you think that you will enter Paradise while such [trials] have not yet come to you as came to those who passed on before you - they were afflicted with poverty and hardship and were shaken? The verse. And the Almighty said, "Alif, Lam, Meem. Do people think that they will be left to say, "We believe" and they will not be tested?" The verse, and for this reason He said here, Or do you think that you will enter Paradise while God has not yet made evident those among you who strive and made evident the steadfast? That is, you will not be granted entry into Paradise until you are tested and God sees among you those who strive in His cause and those who are steadfast in resisting the enemies. And His statement, And you were wishing for death before you met it, but you have seen it while you were looking on, meaning, you, O believers, before this day, were wishing to meet the enemy, burning with desire to confront them and desire to fight them and be patient with them. Now what you wished for and sought has come to you, so fight and be patient. It has been proven in the two Sahih's that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "Do not wish to meet the enemy, and ask God for well-being. And when you meet them, be patient and know that Paradise is under the shade of swords." For this reason, God the Almighty said, And you have seen it, meaning you witnessed death at the time of the flashing of swords, the sharpness of spears, the clashing of spears, and the rows of men fighting. Theologians express this by imagination, which is seeing something that is not tangible, like something tangible, just as a sheep imagines the friendship of a ram and the enmity of a wolf.

Fath al-Qadir

His statement 139- And do not weaken and do not grieve He consoled them and comforted them for what they had suffered on the day of Uhud of killing and wounds, and urged them to fight their enemy and forbade them from weakness and failure, then he explained to them that they were superior to their enemy in victory and triumph, and it is a circumstantial clause: meaning, and the situation is that you are superior to them and to others after this battle. And God fulfilled His promise, for the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, after the battle of Uhud was victorious over his enemy in all his battles, and it was said that the meaning is: and you are superior to them because of what you inflicted on them on the day of Badr, for it is more than what they inflicted on you today. And His statement if you are believers is related to His statement and do not weaken and what follows it, or to His statement and you are superior meaning: if you are believers, then do not weaken and do not grieve, or if you are believers, then you are superior.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

139- The Almighty's saying: And do not weaken and do not grieve. This is an exhortation to the companions of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, to jihad, in addition to what they suffered of killing and wounding on the day of Uhud. God Almighty says: And do not weaken, meaning: do not become weak and do not be cowardly in jihad against your enemies because of what you have suffered of killing and wounding. Five of them were killed on that day: Hamza bin Abdul Muttalib and Mus'ab bin 'Umayr, and seventy men from the Ansar were killed.

And do not grieve, for you will be the superior, meaning that you will have the final victory and triumph, if you are believers, meaning: since you are believers, meaning: because you are believers. Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with him, said: When the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, were defeated in the ravine, Khalid ibn al-Walid approached with the polytheists' cavalry, wanting to climb the mountain over them. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "O God, do not let them prevail over us. O God, we have no power except through You." A group of Muslim archers rose up and climbed the mountain and shot the polytheists' cavalry until they defeated them. This is what God Almighty said: and you will be the superior. Al-Kalbi said: This verse was revealed after the Day of Uhud when the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, ordered his companions to seek out the people because of the wounds they had suffered. This became difficult for the Muslims, so God Almighty revealed this verse, the evidence for which is God Almighty's statement: And do not weaken in pursuit of the enemy (An-Nisa': 104).

Tafsir al-Baidawi

139 And do not weaken and do not grieve is a consolation for them for what happened to them on the day of Uhud, and the meaning is do not weaken in jihad because of what happened to you and do not grieve for those among you who were killed. And you are the superior and your situation is that you are higher than them in status, because you are on the truth and your fighting is for God and your dead are in Paradise, and they are on falsehood and their fighting is for Satan and their dead are in Hell, or because you killed more of them on the day of Badr than they killed of you today, or you are the superior in the end, so it is good report for them of victory and triumph. If you are believers is related to the prohibition, meaning do not weaken if your faith is sound, because it requires the strength of the heart by trusting in God or in those who are superior.

Surat Al Imran 3:140

If a wound should touch you, there has already touched the [other] people a wound similar to it. And these days We alternate among the people so that God may make evident those who believe and take from among you martyrs. And God does not like the wrongdoers.

Surat Al Imran 3:140

If a wound should touch you, there has already touched the [other] people a wound similar to it. And these days We alternate among the people so that God may make evident those who believe and take from among you martyrs. And God does not like the wrongdoers.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

If a wound should touch you if it touches you at Uhud with a wound with the qaf open or closed: an effort from a wound or the like there has already touched the people the infidels with a wound similar to it at Badr and those days We alternate We spend them among the people one day for one group and one day for another so that they may take heed and that God may know the knowledge of the appearance of those who believe were sincere in their faith from others and take from among you witnesses He honors them with martyrdom and God does not like the wrongdoers the infidels, meaning He punishes them, and what He bestows upon them is a lure.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

The Almighty said: And He will take from among you witnesses. Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Ikrimah who said: When the report was delayed for the women, they went out to inquire, and there were two men approaching on a camel. A woman said: What has the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, done? They said: He is alive. She said: I do not care. God will take from among His servants witnesses. The Qur'an was revealed in accordance with what she said: And He will take from among you witnesses.

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Jaafar said: The readings differed in the reading of that.

The people of Hijaz, Medina, and Basra generally read it as: If a wound should touch you, then a wound similar to it has touched the people. Both of them are with the opening of the qaf, meaning: If killing and wounding should touch you, O group of companions of Muhammad, then a wound - killing and wounding - similar to it has touched the people from your enemies among the polytheists.

The majority of Kufa reciters read this: If a wound should touch you, a wound similar to it has already touched the people [both with a damma on the qaf].

Abu Ja'far said: The more correct of the two readings is the reading of the one who reads: If a wound should touch you, there has already touched the people a wound similar to it, with the qaf open in both letters, because the people of interpretation agree that its meaning is killing and wounds, so that indicates that the reading is the fathah.

Some Arabists claimed that al-Qarh and al-Qarh are two words with the same meaning. What we have said is well-known among scholars of Arabic speech.

It was mentioned that ulcers are wounds and killing.

Muhammad bin Amr told me, he said, Abu Asim told us, on the authority of Isa, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding his statement: If a wound should touch you, there has already touched the [other] people a wound similar to it, he said: Wounds and killing.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Abu Hudhayfah told us, he said, Shabl told us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, similarly.

Muhammad bin Sinan told me, he said, Abu Bakr al-Hanafî told us, on the authority of Ibad, on the authority of al-Hasan, regarding his statement: If a wound should touch you, there has already touched the people a wound similar to it, he said: If some of you are killed on the day of Uhud, then you killed some of them on the day of Badr.

Bishr told us, Yazid told us, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, his saying: If a wound should touch you, a wound similar to it has already touched the people. Wounds are wounds, and that was on the day of Uhud. Killing and wounding spread among the companions of the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, on that day, so God Almighty informed them that the people had been afflicted with something similar to what had afflicted you, and that what had afflicted you was a punishment.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Ishaq told us, he said, Ibn Abi Ja'far told us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-Rabi', regarding his statement: If a wound should touch you, then a wound like it has touched the people, he said: That was on the day of Uhud, when wounds spread among the Muslims, and killing spread among them, so that is what his statement: If a wound should touch you, then a wound like it has touched the people, is saying: If a wound has touched you, then a wound like it has touched your enemy, offering condolences to the companions of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and urging them to fight.

Muhammad bin Al-Hussein told me, he said, Ahmad bin Al-Mufaddal told us, he said, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi: If a wound should touch you, a similar wound has already touched the people. Wounds are injuries.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: If a wound should touch you, meaning: a wound, a wound similar to it has already touched the people, meaning: a wound similar to it.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Ishaq told us, he said, Hafs bin Umar told us, he said, Al-Hakam bin Abaan told us, on the authority of Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, he said: The Muslims slept with wounds on them - meaning the day of Uhud - Ikrimah said: And regarding them was revealed: "If a wound should touch you, there has already touched the [other] people a wound similar to it. And such days We alternate among the people," and regarding them was revealed: "If you are suffering, then they are suffering as you are suffering. And you hope from God that which they do not hope for" (An-Nisa': 104).

As for the interpretation of his saying: If a wound should touch you, it is: If it should afflict you, as:

Muhammad bin Saad told me, he said, my father told me, he said, my uncle told me, he said, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn Abbas: If it touches you, if it befalls you.

Abu Ja'far said: God Almighty means by His saying: And those days We alternate among the people, the days of Badr and Uhud.

What he means by his saying: We circulate it among the people is that we make it circulate among the people and be spent.

By people he means Muslims and polytheists. God Almighty gave victory to the Muslims over the polytheists at Badr, killing seventy of them and capturing seventy. He gave victory to the polytheists over the Muslims at Uhud, killing seventy of them, in addition to those who were wounded.

It is said: God gave someone victory over someone else, meaning that He defeated him and took revenge on him for what the one who was defeated had suffered.

And the people of interpretation said something similar to what we said about that.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Sinan told me, he said, Abu Bakr al-Hanafi told us, on the authority of Ibad, on the authority of al-Hasan: And those days We alternate among the people, he said, God made the days alternate, and the infidels prevailed on the day of Uhud among the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace.

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: And those days We alternate among the people, that by God, if it were not for the alternations, the believers would not have been harmed. However, the disbeliever may be favored by the believer, and the believer may be tested by the disbeliever, so that God may know who obeys Him and who disobeys Him, and know the truthful from the liar.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Ishaq told us, he said, Abdullah bin Abi Jaafar told us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-Rabi', regarding his statement: And those days We alternate among the people, so God, the Almighty, made His Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his companions victorious over the polytheists on the day of Badr, and made their enemy victorious over them on the day of Uhud. And the disbeliever may prevail over the believer, and the believer may be tested by the disbeliever, so that God may know who obeys Him and who disobeys Him, and know the truthful from the liar. As for those of them who were tested - from the Muslims - on the day of Uhud, it was a punishment for their disobedience to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace.

Muhammad bin Al-Hussein told us, Ahmad told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi: And those days We alternate among the people, one day for you and one day against you.

Al-Qasim told us, Al-Hussein told us, Hajjaj told me, Ibn Jurayj said, Ibn Abbas said: We alternate it among the people. He said: He defeated the polytheists against the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, on the day of Uhud.

Muhammad bin Saad told me, he said, my father told me, he said, my uncle told me, he said, my father told us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding his statement: And those days We alternate among the people, for the day of Uhud was like the day of Badr. The believers were killed on the day of Uhud, and God took martyrs from among them. And the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, defeated the polytheists on the day of Badr, so He gave him the rule over them.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Ishaq told us, he said, Hafs bin Umar told us, he said, Al-Hakam bin Abaan told us, on the authority of Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, he said: "When the Battle of Uhud took place and the Muslims suffered what they suffered, the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, climbed the mountain, and Abu Sufyan came and said: O Muhammad! O Muhammad! Won't you go out? Won't you go out? War is a contest: one day for us and one day for you. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to his companions: Answer him. They said: They are not equal, they are not equal. Our dead are in Paradise and your dead are in Hell! So Abu Sufyan said: We have Uzza and you have no Uzza! So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Say: God is our protector and you have no protector. So Abu Sufyan said: Hubal is superior! So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Say: God is higher and more majestic! So Abu Sufyan said: Your meeting place and our meeting place is Badr Al-Sughra." Ikrimah said: And it was revealed about them: And those days We alternate among the people.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Suwaid bin Nasr told us, he said, Ibn Al-Mubarak told us, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding his statement: And those days We alternate among the people, that he gave the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, the day of Uhud.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: And those days We alternate among the people, meaning We assign them to the people, for trial and testing.

Ibrahim bin Abdullah told me, he said, Abdullah bin Abdul Wahhab Al-Hajabi told us, he said, Hammad bin Zaid told us, on the authority of Ibn Awn, on the authority of Muhammad, regarding the statement of God: And those days We alternate among the people, he said: He means the princes.

Surat Al Imran 3:140

If a wound should touch you, there has already touched the [other] people a wound similar to it. And these days We alternate among the people so that God may make evident those who believe and take from among you martyrs. And God does not like the wrongdoers.

Abu Jaafar said: By that, the Almighty means: And that God may know those who believe and take from among you witnesses, we will alternate it among the people.

If there were no waw in the sentence, his saying, So that he may know, would have been connected to what preceded it, and And those days We alternate among the people would have been So that God may know those who believe. But when the waw entered it, it indicated that the sentence was connected to what preceded it, and that after it was a required piece of report, and the lam in his saying, So that he may know, is related to it.

If someone says: How is it said: And that God may know those who believe, as a definite noun, and you do not permit the statement: I asked and I knew Abdullah, and you mean: I knew his person, unless you mean: I knew his description and what he is?

It was said: This is only permissible with alladhina because alladhina has an interpretation of min and ay, and the same is permissible with the definite article, as God Almighty said: Then God will surely make evident those who are truthful and He will surely make evident the liars (al-Ankabut 29:3), because in alladhina there is an interpretation of ay and ay, like alladhi. And if a definite noun is used with a noun that indicates ay, it is permissible, as one says: I asked to know Abdullah from Amr, and what is meant by that is: so that I may know this from this.

Abu Ja'far said: The interpretation of the statement is: And that God may know those among you who believe, O people, from those among you who are hypocrites. We alternate among the people. So, by saying: And that God may know those among you who believe, there is no need to mention His statement: from those who are hypocrites, because the statement indicates it. Since there was an interpretation in His statement: those who believe, that is, as we have described. So it is as if it was said: And that God may know which of you is the believer, as He, the Most High, said: That We may know which of the two parties has the best counting (al-Kahf 18:12). However, when the definite article, which, and from are placed with a proper noun in the place of any, they are in the accusative case because the proper noun falls upon it, as it is said: And that He may know the liars. As for any, it is in the nominative case.

Abu Ja'far said: As for his statement: And He takes from among you witnesses, it means: And that God may know those who believe, and And that He may take from among you witnesses, meaning: to honor from among you with martyrdom whoever He wants to honor with it.

Martyrs is the plural of martyr, as in:

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: And that God may know those who believe and take from among you witnesses, meaning: to distinguish between the believers and the hypocrites, and to honor those of the people of faith who are honored with martyrdom.

Al-Muthanna told me, Suwaid bin Nasr told us, Ibn al-Mubarak told us, reading on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, regarding his statement: And that God may know those who believe and take from among you martyrs, he said: The Muslims used to ask their Lord: Our Lord, show us a day like the day of Badr in which we will fight the polytheists, and test You with good in it, and seek martyrdom in it! So they met the polytheists on the day of Uhud, and He took martyrs from among them.

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: And that God may know those who believe and take from among you martyrs, so God honored His friends with martyrdom at the hands of their enemy, then the outcome and consequences of matters will be for the people of God's obedience.

Al-Qasim told us, he said, Al-Hussein told us, he said, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj: And that God may know those who believe and take from among you witnesses, he said: Ibn Abbas said: They were asking for martyrdom, so they met the polytheists on the day of Uhud, so He took from among them witnesses.

It was narrated on the authority of Al-Husayn ibn Al-Faraj, who said: I heard Abu Muadh, who said: Ubayd ibn Sulayman told us, who said: I heard Ad-Dahhak say about His statement: And that God may know those who believe and take from among you martyrs, that the Muslims used to ask their Lord to show them a day like the day of Badr, in which they would be tested with goodness, and be granted martyrdom, and be granted Paradise, life, and sustenance. Then they encountered the polytheists on the day of Uhud, and God took from among them martyrs, and they are the ones mentioned by God the Almighty, who said: And do not say of those who are killed in the way of God, 'They are dead,' (al-Baqarah 2:154).

Abu Ja'far said: As for his saying: And God does not love the wrongdoers, he means by it: those who wronged themselves by disobeying their Lord, as:

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: And God does not love the wrongdoers, meaning: the hypocrites who show obedience with their tongues, but their hearts are determined to disobey.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

God Almighty says: "If a wound should touch you, a wound similar to it has already touched the [other] people. And these days We alternate among the people so that God may make evident those who believe and take from among you martyrs. And God does not like the wrongdoers."

God the Almighty said: If a wound should touch you. Al-Qarh means a wound. The Dammah and Fatha are two dialects of it according to Al-Kisa'i and Al-Akhfash, like 'Aqar and 'Aqar. Al-Farra' said: With the Fatha it is the wound, and with the Dammah it is its pain. The meaning is: If a wound should touch you on the Day of Uhud, a similar wound touched the people on the Day of Badr. Muhammad bin Al-Sumaiqa' read Qarh with the Fatha of the Qaf and the Ra' as a source. And those days We alternate among the people. It was said: This is in war, sometimes for the believers so that God the Almighty may support His religion. And sometimes for the disbelievers if the believers disobey so that He may test them and purify their sins. But if they do not disobey, then the party of God is the victorious. It was said: We alternate among the people from joy and sorrow, health and sickness, wealth and poverty, and the cycle. The poet said:

One day for us and one day against us, one day for women and one day for eagles

The Almighty's saying: And that God may make evident those who believe means: This exchange was only to see the believer from the hypocrite and to distinguish some of them from others, as He said: And whatever befell you on the day the two armies met was by permission of God, that He might make evident the believers, and that He might make evident those who were hypocrites (Al Imran 3:166-167). It was said: To make evident the patience of the believers, the knowledge that will be rewarded, just as He knew it unseen before He charged them. This meaning was mentioned previously in Al Baqarah.

The Almighty's saying: And He takes from among you witnesses contains three issues:

The first: The Almighty's saying: And He takes from among you martyrs, meaning He honors you with martyrdom, meaning that a people will be killed and they will be witnesses over the people for their deeds. It was said: This is why he was called a martyr. It was said: He was called a martyr because he was witnessed to in Paradise. It was said: He was called a martyr because their souls were brought to the Abode of Peace, because they are alive with their Lord, and the souls of others do not reach Paradise. So the martyr means the witness, meaning the one present for Paradise. This is the correct view, as will come. The virtue of martyrdom is great, and it is sufficient for you to know its virtue in the Almighty's saying: Indeed, God has purchased from the believers their lives (al-Tawbah 9:111) and the verse. And His saying: "O you who have believed, shall I guide you to a transaction that will save you from a painful punishment? * You believe in God and His Messenger and strive in the cause of God with your wealth and your lives" (al-Saff 61:10-12). And in Sahih Al-Bustī on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, he said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said:

The martyr does not feel the pain of death except as one of you feels the pain of an ulcer. Al-Nasa'i narrated on the authority of Rashid bin Sa'd on the authority of a man from the companions of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, that a man said:

O Messenger of God, why are believers tested in their graves except for the martyr? He said: The flash of swords over his head is enough of a test. And in Bukhari: Those Muslims who were killed on the day of Uhud among them Hamza, Al-Yaman, Anas bin Al-Nadr, and Mus'ab bin Umair.

Amr bin Ali told me that Muadh bin Hisham said: My father told me on the authority of Qatada who said: We do not know of any tribe among the Arab tribes that has more martyrs and is more honorable on the Day of Resurrection than the Ansar. Qatada said:

Anas bin Malik told us that seventy of them were killed on the day of Uhud, seventy on the day of Bir Ma'unah, and seventy on the day of Yamamah. He said: Bir Ma'unah was during the time of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and the day of Yamamah was during the time of Abu Bakr, the day of Musaylimah the Liar.

Anas said: Ali bin Abi Talib was brought to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and he had more than sixty wounds from stab wounds, blows, and arrow wounds. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, began to wipe them and they healed, by God Almighty's permission, as if they had never existed.

Second: In the words of God Almighty: And He takes from among you martyrs is evidence that the will is not the command as the people of the Sunnah say, for God Almighty forbade the infidels from killing the believers: Hamza and his companions and wanted to kill them, and He forbade Adam from eating from the tree and wanted to do so, so Adam had intercourse with him, and the opposite is that He ordered Satan to prostrate and he did not want to do so, so he refused, and from him the indication occurred in His true words: But God disliked their being sent forth, so He held them back (al-Tawbah 9:46), even though He had ordered all of them to fight, but He created laziness and the causes that prevented them from moving, so they sat back.

Third: It was narrated on the authority of Ali bin Abi Talib, may God be pleased with him, who said:

Gabriel came to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, on the day of Badr and said to him: Give your companions the choice regarding the prisoners. If they wish to be killed, they will be ransomed, on the condition that the same number of them will be killed the following year. They said: Ransom, and one of us will be killed. Narrated by Al-Tirmidhi, who said: A good hadith. So God fulfilled His promise with the martyrdom of His friends after He gave them the choice, and they chose to be killed. And God does not love the wrongdoers, meaning the polytheists, meaning that even if the disbelievers afflict the believers, He does not love them, and even if He inflicts pain on the believers, He loves the believers.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The Almighty says, addressing His believing servants who were afflicted on the day of Uhud and seventy of them were killed, There have already been precedents before you, meaning something similar to this happened to the nations who were followers of the prophets before you, then the end was theirs, and the rest is upon the disbelievers. For this reason, the Almighty said, So travel through the land and see what was the end of those who denied. Then the Almighty said, This is an exposition for the people, meaning the Qur'an explains matters clearly and how the nations of old dealt with their enemies. And guidance and instruction, meaning the Qur'an contains report of what came before you. Guidance is for your hearts, and admonition for the righteous, meaning a deterrent from forbidden things and sins. Then the Almighty said, comforting the believers: And do not weaken meaning do not become weak because of what happened, and do not grieve, and you will be superior if you are believers meaning the outcome and victory are for you, O believers. If a wound has touched you, a wound similar to it has touched the [opposing] people meaning if you have been wounded and a group of you have been killed, your enemies have been afflicted with similar killing and wounds. And those days We alternate among the people meaning We give the enemies victory over you sometimes, and if the outcome is yours, because of the wisdom in that, and for this reason the Almighty said: And that God may test those who have believed Ibn Abbas said: In such a case, so that we may see who will be patient in confronting the enemies. And that He may take from among you martyrs meaning they will be killed in His cause and sacrifice their lives in His pleasure. "And God does not love the wrongdoers. And that God may purify those who have believed" meaning He may forgive them their sins if they have sins. Otherwise, He may raise them in their degrees according to what has befallen them. And His statement, And He will destroy the disbelievers, meaning that if they are victorious, they will transgress and act insolently, and that will be the cause of their destruction, ruin, annihilation, and annihilation. Then the Almighty said, Or do you think that you will enter Paradise while God has not yet made evident those among you who strive and made evident the steadfast? That is, do you think that you will enter Paradise without being tested by fighting and hardships, as the Almighty said in Surat Al-Baqarah, Or do you think that you will enter Paradise while such [trials] have not yet come to you as came to those who passed on before you - they were afflicted with poverty and hardship and were shaken? The verse. And the Almighty said, "Alif, Lam, Meem. Do people think that they will be left to say, "We believe" and they will not be tested?" The verse, and for this reason He said here, Or do you think that you will enter Paradise while

God has not yet made evident those among you who strive and made evident the steadfast? That is, you will not be granted entry into Paradise until you are tested and God sees among you those who strive in His cause and those who are steadfast in resisting the enemies. And His statement, And you were wishing for death before you met it, but you have seen it while you were looking on, meaning, you, O believers, before this day, were wishing to meet the enemy, burning with desire to confront them and desire to fight them and be patient with them. Now what you wished for and sought has come to you, so fight and be patient. It has been proven in the two Sahihis that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "Do not wish to meet the enemy, and ask God for well-being. And when you meet them, be patient and know that Paradise is under the shade of swords." For this reason, God the Almighty said, And you have seen it, meaning you witnessed death at the time of the flashing of swords, the sharpness of spears, the clashing of spears, and the rows of men fighting. Theologians express this by imagination, which is seeing something that is not tangible, like something tangible, just as a sheep imagines the friendship of a ram and the enmity of a wolf.

Qarh with dammah and fathah: wound and they are two dialects for it, said Al-Kisa'i and Al-Akhfash. Al-Farra' said: With fathah it is the wound, and with dammah it is its pain. Muhammad bin Al-Samee' read qarh with fathah on the qaf and the ra' as a source. The meaning of the verse: If they got from you on the day of Uhud, then you got from them on the day of Badr, so do not weaken for what happened to you on this day, for they did not weaken for what happened to them on that day, and you are more deserving of patience than they are. It was said: What is meant is what happened to the believers and the disbelievers on this day, for the Muslims were victorious over them in the beginning and killed a group of them, then the disbelievers were victorious over them and killed some of them. The first is more deserving, because what the Muslims got from the disbelievers on this day was not like what they got from them on it. His saying, And those days, meaning: those that exist between nations in their wars and those that will come after, such as the days that existed during the time of the Prophethood. Sometimes this group prevails, and sometimes the other prevails, as happened to you, O Muslims, on the day of Badr and Uhud. This is the meaning of his saying, We alternate it among the people. So his saying, Those is the subject, and the days are its description, and the predicate is we alternate it, and the origin of alternation is alternation: He alternated it among them and al-dawla means the ball, and it is permissible for the days to be the predicate and we alternate it to be a state, but the first is more appropriate. His saying, And that God may know is connected to an implied reason, as if he said: We alternate it among the people so that your affair may become apparent and so that it may be known, or the reason may be omitted: that is, so that God may know those who feared God, we did that, and it is a form of representation: that is, we did the action of one who wants to know because He, glory be to Him, has always been All-Knowing, or so that God may know those who believed through their patience a knowledge that will be rewarded as He knew them with eternal knowledge. And He will take from among you martyrs, that is, He will honor them with martyrdom. Martyrs is the plural of martyr, so called because he is witnessed to in Paradise, or the plural of witness because he is like one who witnesses Paradise, and min is for the partiality and they are the martyrs of Uhud. His saying, And God does not love the wrongdoers is an interjectional clause between the conjoined and the conjoined to it to confirm the meaning of what preceded it.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

140- If a wound should touch you Hamzah, Al-Kisa'i and Abu Bakr read Qarah with a damma on the qaf wherever it appears, and the others read it with a fatha, and they are two languages that mean the same as effort and exertion. Al-Farra' said that Qarah with a fatha means a wound, and with a damma means the pain of a wound. This is addressed to the Muslims when they left Uhud with depression and sadness. God Almighty says: If a wound should touch you on the day of Uhud, then a wound similar to it has touched the people on the day of Badr, And those days We alternate among the people, a day for them and a day against them. The Muslims were victorious over the polytheists on the day of Badr until they killed seventy of them and captured seventy, and the polytheists were victorious over the Muslims on the day of Uhud until they wounded seventy of them and killed seventy-five.

Abdul Wahid bin Ahmad Al-Malhi told us, Ahmad bin Abdullah Al-Nuaimi told us, Muhammad bin Yusuf told us, Muhammad bin Ismail told us, Amr bin Khalid told us, Zuhair told us, Abu Ishaq told us: I heard Al-Bara bin Azib say: "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, appointed Abdullah bin Jubair over the infantry on the day of Uhud, and they were fifty men. He said: If you see the birds snatching us, do not move from this place until I send for you. And if you see us defeating the people and trampling them, do not move until I send for you. So they defeated them. He said: By God, we saw the women rushing forward, their anklets and legs showing, raising their clothes. The companions of Abdullah bin Jubair said: The spoils, O people of the spoils, your companions have appeared, so what are you waiting for? Abdullah bin Jubair said: Have you forgotten what the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to you? They said: By God, we will go to the people and take a share of the spoils. So when they reached them, their faces were turned away and they came back defeated. That was when the Messenger called them from the rear, and no one remained with the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace. May God bless him and grant him peace, except for twelve men, and they killed seventy of us.

On the day of Badr, the Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) and his companions had captured one hundred and forty men from the polytheists, seventy of them prisoners and seventy dead. Abu Sufyan said: Is Muhammad among the people? Three times. The Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) forbade them from answering him. Then he said: Is Ibn Abi Quhafah among the people? Three times. Then he said: Is Ibn Al-Khattab among the people? Three times. Then he returned to his companions and said: As for these, they have been killed. Umar could not control himself and said: You have lied, O enemy of God. Those whom you have counted are all alive, and there remains for you that which will upset you. He said: A day for a day at Badr, and war is a contest. You will find among the people the like of him. I did not command it and it did not upset me. Then he began to recite: Hubal is exalted, Hubal is exalted. The Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) said: Will you not answer him? They said: O Messenger of God, what should we say? He said: Say: God is Most High and Most Majestic. He said: We have Al-Uzza and you have no Uzza. The Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) said: Will you not answer him? They said: O Messenger of God, what should we say? He said: Say, "God is our Master, and you have no Master."

This meaning was narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both. In his hadith, Abu Sufyan said: A day for a day, and the days are cycles and war is a contest. Umar, may God be pleased with him, said: "They are not the same. Our dead are in Paradise and your dead are in Hell."

Al-Zajaj said: The state is for the Muslims over the infidels, because God Almighty said: And Our soldiers will be the victors. And on the day of Uhud, the infidels were over the Muslims because they disobeyed the command of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace.

God Almighty says: And that God may know those who believe meaning: This discussion was only for God to know i.e., for God to see those who believe and distinguish the believer from the hypocrite, and to take from among you witnesses to honor people with martyrdom, and God does not love the wrongdoers.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

140 If a wound should touch you, a wound similar to it has already touched the people. Hamzah, Al-Kisa'i, and Ibn Ayyash read it on the authority of Asim with a damma on the qaf, and the rest with a fatha. They are two dialects like weakness and weakness. It was said that with a fatha it means wounds and with a damma it means their pain. The meaning is that if they afflicted you on the day of Uhud, you afflicted them on the day of Badr like it. Then they did not weaken or become cowardly, so you are more deserving of not being weakened, for you hope from God what they do not hope for.
