Surat Al Imran 3:140

If a wound should touch you, there has already touched the [other] people a wound similar to it. And these days We alternate among the people so that God may make evident those who believe and take from among you martyrs. And God does not like the wrongdoers.

It was said that both of the two attacks were on the day of Uhud, because the Muslims had taken revenge on them before they disobeyed the command of the Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace.

And these days We alternate among the people We distribute them among them as an indication for these sometimes and for those at other times, like His saying:

One day against us, one day for us, one day for women, one day for eagles

And deliberation is like repetition. It is said, I deliberated something among them, so they traded it. Days can be described as descriptions or report, and we alternated it can be report or condition. What is meant by it is times of victory and triumph. And that God may know those who believe is in apposition to an omitted reason, meaning, We alternated it so that it would be such and such, and And that God may know as an indication that the reason for it is not one, and that what befalls the believer in it is what he does not know, or the verb that is explained by it is omitted, meaning, And that those who are steadfast in faith may be distinguished from those who are on the edge of our action. The purpose in its likes and opposites is not to prove or deny His knowledge, but rather to prove or deny what is known by way of proof. It was said that its meaning is to teach them knowledge to which the reward is related, which is knowledge of the existing thing. And He takes from among you witnesses, and He honors some of you with martyrdom, meaning the martyrs of Uhud, or He takes from among you witnesses who are just because of what they have encountered of steadfastness and righteousness in hardships. And God does not love the wrongdoers who conceal something other than what they show, or the disbelievers, which is an objection, and it contains a warning that God Almighty does not support the disbelievers in truth, but rather He sometimes defeats them to lure them in and test the believers.

Surat Al Imran 3:141

And that God may test those who believe and destroy the disbelievers.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And that God may purify those who believe purify them from sins by what befalls them and destroy destroy the disbelievers

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: God Almighty means by His saying: And that God may purify those who believe, and that God may test those who believed in God and His Messenger, so He tests them by giving victory to the polytheists among them, until the sincere and true believer among them is distinguished from the hypocrite, as:

Muhammad bin Amr told us, he said, Abu Asim told us, on the authority of Isa, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding his statement: And that God may test those who believe, he said: To test.

Al-Muthanna told us, he said, Abu Hudhayfah told us, he said, Shabl told us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, similarly.

Muhammad bin Sinan told me, he said, Abu Bakr al-Hanafi told us, on the authority of Ibad, on the authority of al-Hasan, regarding his statement: And that God may purify those who believe, he said: God may purify the believer until he is truthful.

Muhammad bin Al-Hussein told us, Ahmad bin Al-Mufaddal told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi: And that God may test those who believe, meaning: He tests the believers.

Al-Qasim told us, he said, Al-Hussein told us, he said, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, he said, Ibn Abbas said: And that God may test those who believe, he said: He tests them.

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: And that God may purify those who believe and destroy the disbelievers, so it was a purification of the believers and a destruction of the disbelievers.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq, And that God may test those who believe, meaning: He tests those who believe, until He delivers them from the affliction that befell them, and how patient and certain they were.

Yunus told me, he said, Ibn Wahb told us, he said, Ibn Zayd said regarding His statement: And that God may purify those who believe and destroy the disbelievers, he said: He destroys those who are destroyed in this world, and the rest of those who are destroyed in the Hereafter will be in the Fire.

As for his saying: And He will destroy the disbelievers, he means by that: He will diminish them and annihilate them.

It is said: So-and-so destroyed this food, if he diminished it or destroyed it, he destroyed it, and from this it is said of the new moon: new moon, and that is its diminishment and destruction, like:

Al-Qasim told us, he said, Al-Hussein told us, he said, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, he said, Ibn Abbas said: And He will destroy the disbelievers, he said: He will diminish them.

Muhammad bin Sinan told me, he said, Abu Bakr al-Hanafi told us, on the authority of Ibad, on the authority of al-Hasan, regarding his statement: And He will destroy the disbelievers, he said: He will destroy the disbeliever until he belies him.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: And He will destroy the disbelievers, meaning: He will invalidate the hypocrites' saying with their tongues what is not in their hearts, until their disbelief that they conceal from you becomes apparent.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

God Almighty says: And that God may purify those who believe and destroy the disbelievers.

There are three sayings about it: yamhis means to test. The second is to purify, meaning from their sins, so it is with the deletion of an adjective. The meaning is: And that God may purify the sins of those who believe, as Al-Farra' said. The third is to purify, this is the strangest. Al-Khalil said: It is said that the rope is purified, meaning its fiber is cut off, and from this comes the word O God, purify our sins from us, meaning save us from their punishment. Abu Ishaq Al-Zajjaj said: I read to Muhammad bin Yazid from Al-Khalil: Purification means to save. It is said: Mahsahu yamhishu muhasan if he purifies him, so the meaning according to him is: To test the believers to reward them and save them from their sins. And destroy the disbelievers means to uproot them by destruction.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The Almighty says, addressing His believing servants who were afflicted on the day of Uhud and seventy of them were killed, There have already been precedents before you, meaning something similar to this happened to the nations who were followers of the prophets before you, then the end was theirs, and the rest is upon the disbelievers. For this reason, the Almighty said, So travel through the land and see what was the end of those who denied. Then the Almighty said, This is an exposition for the people, meaning the Qur'an explains matters clearly and how the nations of old dealt with their enemies. And guidance and instruction, meaning the Qur'an contains report of what came before you. Guidance is for your hearts, and admonition for the righteous, meaning a deterrent from forbidden things and sins. Then the Almighty said, comforting the believers: And do not weaken meaning do not become weak because of what happened, and do not grieve, and you will be superior if you are believers meaning the outcome and victory are for you, O believers. If a wound has touched you, a wound similar to it has touched the [opposing] people meaning if you have been wounded and a group of you have been killed, your enemies have been afflicted with similar killing and wounds. And those days We alternate among the people meaning We give the enemies victory over you sometimes, and if the outcome is yours, because of the wisdom in that, and for this reason the Almighty said: And that God may test those who have believed Ibn Abbas said: In such a case, so that we may see who will be patient in confronting the enemies. And that He may take from among you martyrs meaning they will be killed in His cause and sacrifice their lives in His pleasure. "And God does not love the wrongdoers. And that God may purify those who have believed" meaning He may forgive them their sins if they have sins. Otherwise, He may raise them in their degrees according to what has befallen them. And His statement, And He will destroy the disbelievers, meaning that if they are victorious, they will transgress and act insolently, and that will be the cause of their destruction, ruin, annihilation, and annihilation. Then the Almighty said, Or do you think that you will enter Paradise while God has not yet made evident those among you who strive and made evident the steadfast? That is, do you think that you will enter Paradise without being tested by fighting and hardships, as the Almighty said in Surat Al-Baqarah, Or do you think that you will enter Paradise while such [trials] have not yet come to you as came to those who passed on before you - they were afflicted with poverty and hardship and were shaken? The verse. And the Almighty said, "Alif, Lam, Meem. Do people think that they will be left to say, "We believe" and they will not be tested?" The verse, and for this reason He said here, Or do you think that you will enter Paradise while God has not yet made evident those among you who strive and made evident the steadfast? That is, you will not be granted entry into Paradise until you are tested and God sees among you those who strive in His cause and those who are steadfast in resisting the enemies. And His statement, And you were wishing for death before you met it, but you have seen it while you were looking on, meaning, you, O believers, before this day, were wishing to meet the enemy, burning with desire to confront them and desire to fight them and be patient with them. Now what you wished for and sought has come to you, so fight and be patient. It has been proven in the two Sahihs that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "Do not wish to meet the enemy, and ask God for well-being. And when you meet them, be patient and know that Paradise is under the shade of swords." For this reason, God the Almighty said, And you have seen it, meaning you witnessed death at the time of the flashing of swords, the sharpness of spears, the clashing of spears, and the rows of men fighting.

And that God may test those who believe and destroy the disbelievers.

Theologians express this by imagination, which is seeing something that is not tangible, like something tangible, just as a sheep imagines the friendship of a ram and the enmity of a wolf.

Fath al-Qadir

And His saying 141- And that God may purify those who believe is from the group of causes, connected to what preceded it. Purification is testing, and it was said: purification with the omission of an adjective: that is, to purify the sins of those who believe, said Al-Farra', and it was said: purifies, purifies, said Al-Khalil and Al-Zajaj: that is, to purify the believers from their sins. And His saying and destroy the disbelievers means to uproot them by destruction, and the origin of tamhiq is the erasure of traces, and muhqi is its essence.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

141- And that God may purify those who believe meaning: purify them from sins, and destroy the disbelievers meaning: annihilate and destroy them. Its meaning is: if they kill you, it is a purification for you, and if you kill them, it is their destruction and extermination.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

141 And that God may purify those who believe to cleanse them and purify them from sins if the state is against them. And destroy the disbelievers and destroy them if it is against them. And the destruction is the reduction of something little by little.

Surat Al Imran 3:142

Or do you think that you will enter Paradise while God has not yet made evident those among you who strive and made evident the steadfast?

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

Or rather did you think that you would enter Paradise while God has not yet knows those among you who strive knowledge of the appearance and knows the patient in hardships

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: By that, the Most High means: Or did you think, O group of companions of Muhammad, and you thought, that you would enter Paradise, and attain the honor of your Lord, and the honor of stations with Him, while God has not yet made evident those among you who strive, meaning: And it has not yet become clear to My believing servants who among you strives in the way of God in accordance with what He has commanded him to do.

I have explained the meaning of his saying: And God knows, "And God knows," and what is similar to that, with his evidence in what has passed, so that there is no need to repeat it.

And His saying: And He knows the patient ones, meaning: those who are patient when faced with hardship, despite the wound, pain, and misfortune that befalls them for the sake of God, such as:

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: Or do you think that you will enter Paradise, and attain from My reward the honor, and that I will not test you with hardship, and afflict you with hardships, until I know the truth of that from you through faith in Me, and patience with what befalls you in Me.

The accusative of and He knows the patient is in the morphological sense. In the morphological sense, two verbs come together with some of the letters of the conjunction, and at the beginning of it there is something that it is not appropriate to repeat with the letter of the conjunction, so the one after the letter of conjunction is in the accusative case because it is diverted from the meaning of the first, but it is with a denial or a question or a prohibition at the beginning of the speech. This is like their saying: Nothing can suffice me and it is difficult for you, because the la that is with suffices me is not appropriate to repeat it with his saying: and it is difficult for you, so that is why it is in the accusative case.

The reading of this letter is in the accusative case.

It was narrated on the authority of Al-Hasan that he used to recite: And He knows the patient, breaking the mim of knows, because he intended to make it jussive in conjunction with his saying: And when God knows.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

God Almighty says: Or do you think that you will enter Paradise while God has not yet made evident those among you who strive and made evident the steadfast?

Am means rather. It was said: The meem is redundant. The meaning is: Did you think, O you who were defeated on the day of Uhud, that you would enter Paradise as those who were killed and endured the pain of wounds and killing did without taking their path and being patient as they were? No, until God knows those among you who strive meaning knows the testimony so that the reward will be inflicted upon them. The meaning is: And you did not strive so that He would know that from you, so when means did not. Sibawayh differentiated between lam and lama, and claimed that lama fa'ala negates a verb, and that lama fa'ala negates a verb. And He knows the patient ones is in the accusative case with the implied an, according to Al-Khalil. Al-Hasan and Yahya bin Ya'mar read ya'lam al-saabireen in the jussive mood according to the sequence. It was read in the nominative case according to the cut-off, meaning and He knows. This reading was narrated by Abd al-Warith from Abu Amr. Al-Zajjaj said: The waw here means until, meaning and God does not know those among you who strive until He knows their patience as mentioned earlier.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The Almighty says, addressing His believing servants who were afflicted on the day of Uhud and seventy of them were killed, There have already been precedents before you, meaning something similar to this happened to the nations who were followers of the prophets before you, then the end was theirs, and the rest is upon the disbelievers. For this reason, the Almighty said, So travel through the land and see what was the end of those who denied. Then the Almighty said, This is an exposition for the people, meaning the Qur'an explains matters clearly and how the nations of old dealt with their enemies. And guidance and instruction, meaning the Qur'an contains report of what came before you. Guidance is for your hearts, and admonition for the righteous, meaning a deterrent from forbidden things and sins. Then the Almighty said, comforting the believers: And do not weaken meaning do not become weak because of what happened, and do not grieve, and you will be superior if you are believers meaning the outcome and victory are for you, O believers. If a wound has touched you, a wound similar to it has touched the [opposing] people meaning if you have been wounded and a group of you have been killed, your enemies have been afflicted with similar killing and wounds. And those days We alternate among the people meaning We give the enemies victory over you sometimes, and if the outcome is yours, because of the wisdom in that, and for this reason the Almighty said: And that God may test those who have believed Ibn Abbas said: In such a case, so that we may see who will be patient in confronting the enemies. And that He may take from among you martyrs meaning they will be killed in His cause and sacrifice their lives in His pleasure. "And God does not love the wrongdoers. And that God may purify those who have believed" meaning He may forgive them their sins if they have sins. Otherwise, He may raise them in their degrees according to what has befallen them. And His statement, And He will destroy the disbelievers, meaning that if they are victorious, they will transgress and act insolently, and that will be the cause of their destruction, ruin, annihilation, and annihilation. Then the Almighty said, Or do you think that you will enter Paradise while God has not yet made evident those among you who strive and made evident the steadfast? That is, do you think that you will enter Paradise without being tested by fighting and hardships, as the Almighty said in Surat Al-Baqarah, Or do you think that you will enter Paradise while such [trials] have not yet come to you as came to those who passed on before you - they were afflicted with poverty and hardship and were shaken? The verse. And the Almighty said, "Alif, Lam, Meem. Do people think that they will be left to say, "We believe" and they will not be tested?" The verse, and for this reason He said here, Or do you think that you will enter Paradise while God has not yet made evident those among you who strive and made evident the steadfast? That is, you will not be granted entry into Paradise until you are tested and God sees among you those who strive in His cause and those who are steadfast in resisting the enemies. And His statement, And you were wishing for death before you met it, but you have seen it while you were looking on, meaning, you, O believers, before this day, were wishing to meet the enemy, burning with desire to confront them and desire to fight them and be patient with them. Now what you wished for and sought has come to you, so fight and be patient. It has been proven in the two Sahihs that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "Do not wish to meet the enemy, and ask God for well-being. And when you meet them, be patient and know that Paradise is under the shade of swords." For this reason, God the Almighty said, And you have seen it, meaning you witnessed death at the time of the flashing of swords, the sharpness of spears, the clashing of spears, and the rows of men fighting. Theologians express this by imagination, which is seeing something that is not tangible, like something tangible, just as a sheep imagines the friendship of a ram and the enmity of a wolf.

Or do you think that you will enter Paradise while God has not yet made evident those among you who strive and made evident the steadfast?

Fath al-Qadir

His statement 142- Or do you think that you will enter Paradise? is a renewed statement to explain what was mentioned about the distinction, and am is the disconnected one, and the hamza is for denial: that is, rather, did you think? And the waw in his statement and God does not know is the waw of the state. And the current sentence, and in it is a representation like the first, or knowledge upon which the reward falls. And his statement and He knows the patient is in the accusative case with the implication of an as Al-Khalil and others said, on the basis that the waw is for the plural. Al-Zajaj said: The waw means until, and Al-Hasan and Yahya bin Ya'mar read and He knows the patient in the jussive mood in apposition to and He does not know and it was read in the nominative case for the cut, and it was said that his statement and He does not know is a metaphor for the negation of the known, which is jihad. The meaning is: Or do you think that you will enter Paradise, while the situation is that jihad and patience have not been achieved from you: that is, the combination of them, and the meaning of lama is the meaning of lam according to the majority, and Sibawayh differentiated between them and made lam for the negation of the past, and lam for the negation of the past and the expected.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

142- Or did you think that you would enter Paradise while God did not yet know those among you who struggled and He knows the steadfast.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

142 Or do you think that you will enter Paradise? Rather, you thought, and its meaning is denial. And God has not yet made known those among you who strive and when you strive, and in it is evidence that jihad is a communal obligation, and the difference between when and when is that it expects the action in the future. He knows was read with the opening of the mim on the basis that its original form is ya'alumun, so the nun was deleted. And He knows the patient was in the accusative case with the omission of an on the basis that the waw is for the plural. It was read with the nominative case on the basis that the waw is for the state, as if he said: And when you strive and you are patient.

Surat Al Imran 3:143

And you had wished for death before you met it. But now you have seen it while you are looking on.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And you were wishing in it, one of the two ta's was deleted in the original for death before you met it when you said: If only we had a day like the day of Badr so that we could attain what its martyrs attained But you have seen it that is, its cause is war and you are looking on that is, with insight, contemplating the situation, how it is, so why were you defeated? And it was revealed regarding their defeat when it was rumored that the Prophet was killed and the hypocrites said to them, If he was killed, then return to your religion:

Tafsir al-Suyuti

The Almighty said: And you were the verse. Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Al-Awfi on the authority of Ibn Abbas that men from the Companions used to say: I wish we were killed as the companions of Badr were killed, or I wish we had a day like the day of Badr in which we fight the polytheists and do good deeds, or seek martyrdom and Paradise, or life and provision. So God made them witness to one of them, and they did not remain except for whomever God willed of them. Then God revealed: And you were wishing for death, the verse.

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: What he meant by his saying, may his praise be glorified: And you were wishing for death, and you were, O group of companions of Muhammad,

You wish for death, meaning the causes of death, which are: fighting. You have seen it, meaning you have seen what you were wishing for - and the ha in his statement: You have seen it refers back to death, and the meaning is: [fighting], and you are watching, meaning: you have seen it in your sight and view, meaning close to you.

Some Arab scholars claim that it was said: And you are watching, to emphasize the statement, just as it is said: I saw it with my own eyes, I saw it with my own eyes, and I heard it with my own ears.

Abu Ja'far said: "It was said, 'And you used to wish for death before you met it,' because some of the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, who had not witnessed Badr, used to wish before Uhud for a day like the day of Badr, so that God might test them with goodness and attain the reward like that which the people of Badr attained. When the day of Uhud came, some of them fled, and some of them were patient until they fulfilled what they had pledged to God before that. So God rebuked those of them who fled, saying, 'And you used to wish for death before you met it,' and He praised those of them who were patient and fulfilled their pledge."

Mentioning the report of what we mentioned of that:

Muhammad ibn Amr told me, he said, Abu Asim told us, he said, Isa told us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding the statement of God: "And you were wishing for death before you met it. But now you have seen it while you are looking on," he said: Some men were absent from Badr, and they were wishing to meet it on the day of Badr, so that they might attain goodness and reward like what the people of Badr attained. Then, on the day of Uhud, those of them who had turned away turned away, so God rebuked them - or: He found fault with them, or: He found fault with them - for that. Abu Asim was not sure.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Abu Hudhayfah told us, he said, Shabl told us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, something similar to it - except that he said: So God rebuked them for that, and he did not doubt.

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: "And you were wishing for death before you met it. But you have seen it while you were looking on." They were people from the believers who did not witness the day of Badr. And what God gave the people of Badr of virtue, honor, and reward, they wished to be granted fighting so they could fight. So the fighting was led to them until it was in the outskirts of Medina on the day of Uhud. Then God Almighty said as you hear: And you were wishing for death, until He reached the grateful.

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said, Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said, Muammar told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: And you were wishing for death before you met it, he said: They were wishing to meet the polytheists and fight them, but when they met them on the day of Uhud, they turned back.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Ishaq told us, he said, Ibn Abi Ja'far told us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-Rabi', he said: Some of the believers did not witness the day of Badr, and what God had given them of grace, so they wished to see fighting so that they could fight. So the fighting was brought to them until it was in the vicinity of Medina on the day of Uhud, so God Almighty revealed: And you had been wishing for death before you met it, the verse.

Muhammad bin Bashir told me, he said, Hudha told us, he said, Aouf told us, on the authority of Al-Hasan, he said: It reached me that some men from the companions of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, used to say: If we meet with the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, we will do this and that, so they were tested with that, but by God, not all of them spoke the truth about God, so God Almighty revealed: "And you had certainly wished for death before you met it. But now you have seen it while you were looking on."

Muhammad ibn al-Husayn told us, Ahmad told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of al-Suddi: There were some companions of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who had not witnessed Badr. When they saw the virtue of the people of Badr, they said: O God, we ask You to show us a day like the day of Badr, in which We will test You with goodness! So they saw Uhud, and he said to them: You were wishing for death before you met it, but now you have seen it while you are looking on.

And you had wished for death before you met it. But now you have seen it while you are looking on.

Ibn Humayd narrated to us, he said: Salamah narrated to us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: "And you were wishing for death before you met it. But you have seen it while you were looking." That is, you were wishing to bear witness to the truth that you were upon before you met your enemy. He meant those who urged the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, to go out with them to their enemy, because they had missed being present on the day before at Badr, desiring the martyrdom that had passed them by. He said: But you have seen it while you were looking. That is, death by swords in the hands of men, had left you alone with them, and you were looking at them, so you turned away from them.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

The Almighty said: And you used to wish for death meaning martyrdom before you met it. Al-A'mash read before you meet it meaning before being killed. It was said: before you encounter the causes of death, because many of those who did not attend Badr used to wish for a day in which there would be fighting, so when the day of Uhud came, they were defeated, and some of them were so patient that they were killed, including Anas bin An-Nadr, the uncle of Anas bin Malik, for when the Muslims were defeated, he said: O God, I disavow before You what these people have brought, and he directly fought and said: Oh, it is the scent of Paradise! I find it, and he went on until he was martyred. Anas said: We did not recognize him except by his fingertips, and we found on him eighty-some wounds. And about him and similar verses, Men who have been true to what they pledged to God (al-Ahzab 33:23) was revealed. So the verse is a reproach to those who were defeated, especially since some of them forced the Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) to leave Madinah, and it will come. Wishing for death is attributed to Muslims wishing for martyrdom based on steadfastness and patience in jihad, not to be killed by the infidels, because that is a sin and disbelief and it is not permissible to desire sin. Based on this, Muslims ask God to grant them martyrdom, so they ask for patience in jihad even if it leads to killing.

The Almighty said: And you are watching. Al-Akhfash said: It is a repetition with the meaning of emphasis, as He said:

You have seen him is like nor a bird flying with its wings (al-An'am 6:38). It was said that its meaning is while you are seeing, there is no defect in your eyes, just as you say: I saw such and such, but there is no defect in your eyes, meaning you saw him with a true vision, and this goes back to the meaning of emphasis. Some of them said: and you are looking at Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace. There is an implied meaning in the verse, meaning you saw him while you were looking, so why did you flee?

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The Almighty says, addressing His believing servants who were afflicted on the day of Uhud and seventy of them were killed, There have already been precedents before you, meaning something similar to this happened to the nations who were followers of the prophets before you, then the end was theirs, and the rest is upon the disbelievers. For this reason, the Almighty said, So travel through the land and see what was the end of those who denied. Then the Almighty said, This is an exposition for the people, meaning the Qur'an explains matters clearly and how the nations of old dealt with their enemies. And guidance and instruction, meaning the Qur'an contains report of what came before you. Guidance is for your hearts, and admonition for the righteous, meaning a deterrent from forbidden things and sins. Then the Almighty said, comforting the believers: And do not weaken meaning do not become weak because of what happened, and do not grieve, and you will be superior if you are believers meaning the outcome and victory are for you, O believers. If a wound has touched you, a wound similar to it has touched the [opposing] people meaning if you have been wounded and a group of you have been killed, your enemies have been afflicted with similar killing and wounds. And those days We alternate among the people meaning We give the enemies victory over you sometimes, and if the outcome is yours, because of the wisdom in that, and for this reason the Almighty said: And that God may test those who have believed Ibn Abbas said: In such a case, so that we may see who will be patient in confronting the enemies. And that He may take from among you martyrs meaning they will be killed in His cause and sacrifice their lives in His pleasure. "And God does not love the wrongdoers. And that God may purify those who have believed" meaning He may forgive them their sins if they have sins. Otherwise, He may raise them in their degrees according to what has befallen them. And His statement, And He will destroy the disbelievers, meaning that if they are victorious, they will transgress and act insolently, and that will be the cause of their destruction, ruin, annihilation, and annihilation. Then the Almighty said, Or do you think that you will enter Paradise while God has not yet made evident those among you who strive and made evident the steadfast? That is, do you think that you will enter Paradise without being tested by fighting and hardships, as the Almighty said in Surat Al-Baqarah, Or do you think that you will enter Paradise while such [trials] have not yet come to you as came to those who passed on before you - they were afflicted with poverty and hardship and were shaken? The verse. And the Almighty said, "Alif, Lam, Meem. Do people think that they will be left to say, "We believe" and they will not be tested?" The verse, and for this reason He said here, Or do you think that you will enter Paradise while God has not yet made evident those among you who strive and made evident the steadfast? That is, you will not be granted entry into Paradise until you are tested and God sees among you those who strive in His cause and those who are steadfast in resisting the enemies. And His statement, And you were wishing for death before you met it, but you have seen it while you were looking on, meaning, you, O believers, before this day, were wishing to meet the enemy, burning with desire to confront them and desire to fight them and be patient with them. Now what you wished for and sought has come to you, so fight and be patient. It has been proven in the two Sahihs that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "Do not wish to meet the enemy, and ask God for well-being. And when you meet them, be patient and know that Paradise is under the shade of swords." For this reason, God the Almighty said, And you have seen it, meaning you witnessed death at the time of the flashing of swords, the sharpness of spears, the clashing of spears, and the rows of men fighting. Theologians express this by imagination, which is seeing something that is not tangible, like something tangible, just as a sheep imagines the friendship of a ram and the enmity of a wolf.

Fath al-Qadir

His statement 143- And you were wishing for death is addressed to those who wished to fight and be martyred in the cause of God and who did not attend the day of Badr, for they were wishing for a day in which there would be fighting. But when the day of Uhud came, they were defeated, even though they were the ones who urged the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, to go out, and only a few of them were patient, such as Anas bin An-Nadr, the uncle of Anas bin Malik. His statement before you meet him means: the fighting or martyrdom which is the cause of death. Al-A'mash read before you meet him and the prohibition of wishing for death has been mentioned, so it must be interpreted here as martyrdom. Al-Qurtubi said: The wishing for death among Muslims goes back to wishing for martyrdom based on steadfastness and patience in jihad, not to the killing of the infidels because it is a sin and disbelief, and it is not permissible to desire sin. Based on this, the Muslims' request to God to grant them martyrdom is interpreted as asking for patience in jihad even if it leads to killing. His saying, You have seen it, meaning: the fighting or what is the cause of death. The place of his saying, and you are looking, is the accusative case of state, and the restriction of seeing to looking, with the union of their meanings, is for emphasis: meaning you have seen it, witnessing it when he killed whoever was killed among you. Al-Akhfash said: Repetition is in the sense of emphasis, like his saying, nor a bird that flies with its wings. It was said: Its meaning is clearly, there are no defects in your eyes. It was said: Its meaning is while you are looking at Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

143- And you were wishing for death before you met it, that is, a group of Muslims wished for a day like the day of Badr so that they could fight and be martyred, but God showed them the day of Uhud. His saying, You were wishing for death, means: the cause of death, which is jihad, before you met it, and you have seen it, meaning: its causes.

If it is said: What is the meaning of his saying, And you are looking, after his saying, You have seen him? It is said: He mentioned it for emphasis. It is said: Seeing may mean knowing, so he said, And you are looking, to show that what is meant by seeing is looking. It is said: And you are looking at Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

143 And you were wishing for death meaning war, for it is one of the causes of death, or death by martyrdom. The address is to those who did not witness Badr and wished to witness with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, so that they might attain the honor that the martyrs of Badr attained, so they insisted on going out on the day of Uhud. Before you met him before you witnessed him and knew his severity. You saw him while you were looking meaning you saw him witnessing him when those of your brothers were killed before you, and it is a rebuke to them for wishing for war and causing it, then they were cowards and fled from it, or for wishing for martyrdom, for wishing for it is wishing for the victory of the infidels.

Surat Al Imran 3:144

And Muhammad is no more than a messenger; messengers have passed away before him. So if he dies or is killed, will you turn back on your heels? And whoever turns back on his heels - never will he harm God at all. And God will reward the grateful.

Surat Al Imran 3:144

And Muhammad is no more than a messenger; messengers have passed away before him. So if he dies or is killed, will you turn back on your heels? And whoever turns back on his heels - never will he harm God at all. And God will reward the grateful.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

(And Muhammad is no more than a messenger; many messengers have passed away before him. If he dies or is killed) like others will you turn back on your heels will you return to disbelief? The last sentence is the subject of a rhetorical question, meaning that what was worshipped, so you will turn back And whoever turns back on his heels will never harm God at all but he will only harm himself and God will reward the grateful for His blessings with steadfastness.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

God Almighty said: And Muhammad is only a messenger verse. Ibn al-Mundhir narrated on the authority of Umar, who said: We parted ways from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, on the day of Uhud, so I climbed the mountain and heard the Jews saying: Muhammad has been killed. So I said: "I will not hear anyone say: 'Muhammad has been killed' except that I will strike his neck." So I looked and saw the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and the people were retreating. So I revealed: And Muhammad is only a messenger verse.

Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Al-Rabi' who said: When they were afflicted with the wounds that afflicted them on the day of Uhud and they called each other about the Prophet of God, they said: He has been killed. Some people said: If he had been a prophet, he would not have been killed. Others said: Fight for what your Prophet fought for until God grants you victory or you join him. Then God revealed: Muhammad is only a messenger, the verse.

Al-Bayhaqi narrated in Al-Dala'il on the authority of Abu Nujayh that a man from the Muhajireen passed by a man from the Ansar who was wallowing in his blood and said: Do you know that Muhammad has been killed? He said: If Muhammad has been killed, then he has conveyed the message, so fight for your religion. Then this verse was revealed.

Ibn Rahawayh narrated in his Musnad on the authority of Al-Zuhri that the devil cried out on the day of Uhud that Muhammad had been killed. Ka'b bin Malik said: "I was the first to recognize the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. I saw his eyes from under the helmet, so I called out at the top of my voice: This is the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace." Then God revealed: Muhammad is no more than a Messenger.

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: God Almighty means by that: Muhammad is only a messenger like some of the messengers of God whom He sent to His creation, calling to God and to His obedience, who died when their appointed times came and God took them to Himself. God Almighty says: So Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, is only in what God will do with him when He takes him to Himself when his appointed time comes to an end, like all of His messengers to His creation who passed before him and died when their appointed times came to an end.

Then he said to the companions of Muhammad, rebuking them for the panic and fear they had felt when they were told at Uhud that Muhammad had been killed, and finding it ugly that those who had turned away from their enemy had fled from them: Has Muhammad died, O people, because his term had expired or an enemy had killed him, 'have you turned back on your heels?' That is, you have turned back from your religion to which God sent Muhammad and you have turned back from it as disbelievers in God after believing in it, and after the truth of what Muhammad had called you to had been made clear to you, and the reality of what he had brought to you from his Lord, And whoever turns back on his heels, meaning by that: whoever among you turns back from his religion and returns as a disbeliever after his belief, will never harm God at all, that is, that will not weaken God's glory or authority, nor will that cause any deficiency in His kingdom, rather his apostasy will harm himself, and his own fortune will be diminished by his disbelief, and God will reward the grateful, that is, God will reward whoever thanks Him for His success and guidance to His religion by making him steadfast on it. What Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, brought, if he died or was killed, and his steadfastness on his path, and his adherence to his religion and faith after him, such as:

Al-Muthanna told us, he said, Ishaq told us, he said, Abdullah bin Hashim told us, he said, Saif bin Omar told us, on the authority of Abu Rawq, on the authority of Abu Ayoub, on the authority of Ali, regarding his statement: And God will reward the grateful, those who are steadfast in their religion, Abu Bakr and his companions. So Ali, may God be pleased with him, used to say: Abu Bakr was the trustworthy of the grateful, and the trustworthy of the beloved of God, and he was the most grateful of them and the most beloved of them to God.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Jarir told us, on the authority of Mughira, on the authority of Al-Ala' bin Badr, he said: Abu Bakr is the trustworthy of the grateful. And he recited this verse: And God will reward the grateful.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: And God will reward the grateful, meaning: those who obey Him and act according to His command.

It was mentioned that this verse was revealed to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, regarding one of his companions who fled from him in one of the battles.

Mentioning the report reported about this:

Bishr told us, Yazid told us, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: Muhammad is no more than a messenger; other messengers have passed away before him, until His statement: And God will reward the grateful, that was on the day of Uhud, when they were afflicted with wounds and killing, then they disputed about the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, after that. Some people said: If he had been a prophet, he would not have been killed! Some of the elite companions of the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Fight for what your Prophet Muhammad fought for until God grants you victory or you join him! Then God, the Almighty, said: "Muhammad is no more than a messenger; other messengers have passed away before him. If he dies or is killed, will you turn back on your heels?" He said: If your Prophet dies or is killed, will you turn back as disbelievers after your belief.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Ishaq told us, he said, Ibn Abi Ja'far told us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of al-Rabi', similarly, and he added to it. Al-Rabi' said: And it was mentioned to us, and God knows best, that a man from the Muhajirun passed by a man from the Ansar who was wallowing in his blood, and he said: O so-and-so, do you know that Muhammad has been killed? The Ansari said: If Muhammad has been killed, then he has conveyed the message, so fight for your religion. Then God Almighty revealed: "And Muhammad is no more than a messenger; other messengers have passed away before him. So if he dies or is killed, will you turn back on your heels?" He said: Will you turn back as disbelievers after your belief.

Muhammad ibn al-Husayn told us, Ahmad ibn al-Mufaddal told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of al-Suddi, who said: When the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, went out to them on the day of Uhud - meaning: to the polytheists - he ordered the archers to stand at the foot of the mountain in front of the polytheists' cavalry and he said: Do not move from your place if you see that we have defeated them, for we will not cease to be victorious as long as you remain in your place. And he appointed Abdullah ibn Jubayr, the brother of Khawwat ibn Jubayr, over them.

Then Az-Zubayr ibn al-Awwam and Al-Miqdad ibn Al-Aswad attacked the polytheists and defeated them. The Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) and his companions attacked and defeated Abu Sufyan. When Khalid ibn Al-Walid, who was leading the polytheists' cavalry, saw this, he charged. The archers shot at him but he retreated. When the archers saw the Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) and his companions in the midst of the polytheists' camp, plundering it, they rushed to seize the spoils. Some of them said: We will not abandon the command of the Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him). Most of them set out and joined the camp. When Khalid saw the small number of archers, he shouted to his cavalry and charged, killed the archers and attacked the Prophet's companions. When the polytheists saw that their cavalry was fighting, they called out to each other, and they charged the Muslims, defeated them and killed them.

Then Ibn Qumay'ah al-Harithi - one of the sons of al-Harith ibn Abd Manat ibn Kinanah - came and threw a stone at the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him), breaking his nose and front teeth and wounding his face, making him heavy. His companions dispersed from him, some of them entered the city, and some of them went up the mountain to the rock and stood on it. The Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) began calling the al-Nas 114: Come to the servants of God! Come to the servants of God! Thirty men gathered around him and began walking in front of him, but no one stopped except Talhah and Sahl ibn Hunaif. Talhah protected him, and an arrow was shot at his hand, which dried up.

Abi bin Khalaf Al-Jumahi came - he had sworn to kill the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace - but the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Rather, I will kill him - so he said: O liar, where are you running to? So he charged at him, and the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, stabbed him in the pocket of his armor, and he was slightly wounded, and he fell down bellowing like a bull. They carried him and said: You have no wound! [What makes you so upset]? He said: Didn't he say: I will kill you? If it had been for all of Rabi'ah and Mudar, I would have killed them! He did not live more than a day and part of a day until he died from that wound.

It spread among the people that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, had been killed. Some of the companions of the rock said: If only we had a messenger to Abdullah bin Ubayy so he could take us safe from Abu Sufyan! O my people, Muhammad has been killed, so go back to your people before they come and kill you. Anas bin An-Nadr said: "O my people, if Muhammad has been killed, then the Lord of Muhammad has not been killed, so fight for the same reason that Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, fought for. O God, I apologize to You for what these people say, and I disavow before You what these people have brought!" Then he took up his sword and fought until he was killed.

The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, set out calling the people until he reached the Companions of the Rock. When they saw him, a man put an arrow in his bow and wanted to shoot him, but he said: I am the Messenger of God! They were happy when they found the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, alive, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was happy when he saw that among his Companions there were those who could protect him. When they gathered and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was among them, their sadness left them, and they began to remember the conquest and what they had missed of it, and to remember their Companions who had been killed.

Then God Almighty said to those who said:

Surat Al Imran 3:144

And Muhammad is no more than a messenger; messengers have passed away before him. So if he dies or is killed, will you turn back on your heels? And whoever turns back on his heels - never will he harm God at all. And God will reward the grateful.

Muhammad has been killed, so return to your al-Nas 114: "Muhammad is no more than a messenger; other messengers have passed away before him. If he dies or is killed, will you turn back on your heels? But whoever turns back on his heels will never harm God at all, and God will reward the grateful."

Muhammad bin Amr told me, he said, Abu Asim told us, on the authority of Isa, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid: And whoever turns back on his heels, he said: He apostatizes.

Muhammad bin Amr told me, he said, Abu Asim told us, on the authority of Isa, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of his father, and Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Abu Hudhayfah told us, he said, Shibl told us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of his father: A man from the Muhajireen passed by a man from the Ansar who was wallowing in his blood, and he said: O so-and-so, do you know that Muhammad has been killed! The Ansari said: If Muhammad has been killed, then he has conveyed the message! So fight for your religion.

Ibn Humayd told us, Salamah told us, Ibn Ishaq told me, Al-Qasim ibn Abd al-Rahman ibn Rafi', the brother of Banu Adi ibn al-Najjar, told me: Anas ibn al-Nasr - the uncle of Anas ibn Malik - went to Umar and Talhah ibn Ubaydullah, with some men from the Muhajireen and Ansar who had thrown down their hands, and he said: What makes you sit here? They said: Muhammad, the Messenger of God, was killed! He said: What will you do with life after him? Rise and die upon what the Messenger of God died upon! He confronted the people and fought until he was killed, and Anas ibn Malik was named after him.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Ishaq told us, he said, Abu Zuhair told us, on the authority of Juwaybir, on the authority of Al-Dahhak, he said: A crier called out on the day of Uhud when the companions of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, were defeated: Behold, Muhammad has been killed, so return to your former religion! So God Almighty revealed: And Muhammad is no more than a messenger; and there were messengers before him, the verse.

Al-Qasim told us, he said, Al-Hussein told us, he said, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, on the authority of Mujahid, he said: It was put in the mouths of the Muslims on the day of Uhud that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, had been killed, so this verse was revealed: And Muhammad is no more than a messenger; and there were messengers before him, the verse.

Muhammad bin Saad told me, he said, my father told me, he said, my uncle told me, he said, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn Abbas: That the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and a group with him withdrew to a hill that day, and the people were fleeing, and a man was standing on the road asking them:

What did the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, do? And whenever they passed by him, he would ask them, and they would say: By God, we do not know what he did! So he said: By the One in Whose Hand is my soul, if the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, has been killed, we will surely give them our own hands, for they are our tribesmen and brothers! And they said: If Muhammad were alive, he would not have been defeated, but he was killed! So they were permitted to flee at that time. Then God, the Almighty, revealed to His Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace: Muhammad is no more than a messenger; other messengers have passed away before him, the entire verse.

It was narrated on the authority of Al-Husayn ibn Al-Faraj who said, I heard Abu Muadh who said, Ubayd ibn Sulayman told us who said, I heard Ad-Dahhak say about His statement, Muhammad is no more than a messenger; many messengers have passed away before him, the verse, some people of doubt, sickness and hypocrisy said on the day the people fled from the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and he was wounded above his eyebrow and his front tooth was broken: Muhammad has been killed, so return to your first religion! That is what His statement means: If he dies or is killed, will you turn back on your heels?

Yunus told me, he said, Ibn Wahb told us, he said, Ibn Zayd said regarding His statement: Then if he dies or is killed, will you turn back on your heels? He said: What stands between you and abandoning Islam and turning back on your heels is that Muhammad dies or is killed! So one of these two things will happen: he will die, or he will be killed.

Ibn Humayd narrated to us, he said: Salamah narrated to us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: And Muhammad is no more than a messenger; many messengers have passed away before him, until His saying: And God will reward the grateful, that is, because of the people's saying: Muhammad has been killed, and their defeat at that time and their turning away from their enemy, that is: If your Prophet dies or is killed, will you turn back from your religion as disbelievers as you were, and abandon jihad against your enemy and the Book of God and what His Prophet left behind of his religion with you and with you, and He has made clear to you in what has come to you from me that he is dead and will leave you? And whoever turns back on his heels, that is: turns back from his religion, will never harm God at all, that is: that will not diminish the glory of God, His kingdom, or His authority.

Al-Qasim told us, Al-Hussein told us, Hajjaj told me, Ibn Jurayj said: The people of sickness, doubt, and hypocrisy said, when the people fled from the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace: Muhammad has been killed, so return to your first religion! Then this verse was revealed.

Abu Ja'far said: The meaning of the statement is:

Muhammad is no more than a messenger, and messengers have passed away before him. Will you then turn back on your heels if Muhammad dies or is killed? And whoever turns back on his heels will never harm God at all. So the question was made in the letter of the recompense, and its meaning is that it is in its answer. Likewise, every question that enters into a recompense, its meaning is that it is in its answer. Because the answer is a piece of report that stands on its own, and the recompense is a condition for that piece of report, then its answer is made jussive, and it is like that, and its meaning is the nominative, because it comes after the recompense, as the poet said:

I swore to him: If night falls, one of my houses will still be in front of you.

The meaning of la yazl is to raise, but it is a crime because it comes after the recompense, so it becomes like an answer. Similar to it is: Then if I die, will they be immortals? (Al-Anbiya': 34), and How will you be saved if you disbelieve? (al-Muzzammil 73:17). If the place of they will be immortals (Al-Anbiya': 34) had been they will be immortals, and it was said: Then if I die, will they be immortals, it would have been permissible to raise and subdivide it. Likewise, if the place of you have turned back had been you have turned back, it would have been permissible to raise and subdivide it, because of what was described before. And the repetition of the question was left out a second time with His saying: You have turned back, being satisfied with the question at the beginning of the speech, and that the question at the beginning indicates its position and location.

Some of the reciters chose in His statement: When we have died and become dust and bones, shall we indeed be resurrected? [al-Isra' 17:82- al-Saffat 37:16- al-Waqi'ah 56:47], to leave out repeating the question with when, and to be content with the question in His statement: When we have become dust. The correctness of this is proven by the consensus of the reciters in leaving out repeating the question with His statement: You have turned back, and to be content with the question in His statement: If he dies, since it indicates the meaning of the speech and the place of the question in it. He did the same throughout the Qur'an.

We will come to the correct statement about that, God willing, when we reach it.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

It has five issues:

The first: It was narrated that it was revealed because of the defeat of the Muslims on the day of Uhud when Satan cried out: Muhammad has been killed. Atiyah Al-Awfi said: Some of the people said: Muhammad has been killed, so give them your hands, for they are your brothers. Some of them said: If Muhammad has been killed, will you not continue with what your Prophet has done until you join him? So God Almighty revealed regarding that: Muhammad is no more than a messenger; messengers have passed away before him until His saying: Then God gave them the reward of this world. And ma is a negative particle, and what follows it is a subject and a predicate, and the function of ma is invalidated. Ibn Abbas read: messengers have passed away before him without the definite article. So God Almighty informed in this verse that the messengers will not remain among their people forever, and that it is necessary to adhere to what the messengers brought even if the messenger is lost through death or murder. He honored His Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and described him with two names derived from his name: Muhammad and Ahmad. The Arabs say: A praiseworthy man and Muhammad if his praiseworthy qualities are many. The poet said:

To the noble, generous, and generous Muhammad

This was mentioned in Al-Fatihah, and Abbas bin Murdas said:

O Seal of the Prophets, you are sent with goodness. All guidance is your guidance.

God built you with love in his creation and named you Muhammad

This verse is a continuation of the reproach to the defeated, meaning that they were not to be defeated even if Muhammad was killed, and prophethood does not prevent death, and religions do not disappear with the death of prophets, and God knows best.

The second: This verse is the clearest evidence of the courage and boldness of Abu Bakr, for the limit of courage and boldness is the steadfastness of the heart when calamities befall, and there is no calamity greater than the death of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, as was explained previously in Surat Al-Baqarah. His courage and knowledge were evident to him. The people said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, has not died, including Umar, and Uthman was silent, and Ali hid, and the matter was disturbed, so Abu Bakr revealed it with this verse when he came from his residence in As-Sunh. The hadith is thus in Al-Bukhari, and in Sunan Ibn Majah on the authority of Aisha, she said: When the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, passed away, and Abu Bakr was with his wife, the daughter of Kharijah, in Al-Awali, they began to say: The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, has not died, it is only some of what he used to take when the revelation came, so Abu Bakr came and uncovered his face and kissed him between the eyes and said: You are more honorable to God than for Him to kill you! Twice, by God, the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, died while Umar was in a corner of the mosque saying: By God, the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, has not died, and he will not die until he cuts off the hands and feet of many hypocrites. Abu Bakr stood up and ascended the pulpit and said: Whoever worshipped God, God is alive and has not died, and whoever worshipped Muhammad, Muhammad has died. "And Muhammad is no more than a messenger; messengers have passed away before him. If he dies or is killed, will you turn back on your heels? And whoever turns back on his heels will never harm God at all, and God will reward the grateful." Umar said: It is as if I had not read it until that day and he retracted the statement he had made, as mentioned by Al-Wa'ili Abu Nasr Ubaidullah in his book Al-Ibanah: On the authority of Anas bin Malik that he heard Umar bin Al-Khattab when Abu Bakr was pledged allegiance to in the mosque of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and he stood on the pulpit of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, testifying before Abu Bakr, and he said: As for what follows, I said to you yesterday a statement, and it was not as I said, and by God, I did not find the statement I said to you in a book that God revealed or in a covenant that the Messenger entrusted to me. God's Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: But I hoped that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, would live until he managed us. He wanted to say: Until he is the last of us to die. So God, the Almighty, chose for His Messenger what is with Him over what is with you. This is the Book by which God guided His Messenger, so take it and you will be guided to what the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was guided to. Al-Wa'ili Abu Nasr said: The statement that he said and then retracted was: "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, did not die and will not die until he cuts off the hands and feet of men." He said that because of the greatness of what had been brought to him, and he feared the tribulation and the emergence of the hypocrites. So when he saw the strength of the certainty of the greatest friend, Abu Bakr, and his utterance of the statement of God, the Almighty: Every soul will taste death (Al Imran 3:185), and His statement: Indeed, you will die, and indeed, they will die (al-Zumar 39:30), and what he said that day, he became aware and became certain and said: It is as if I had not heard the verse except from Abu Bakr. The people went out reciting it in the streets of Medina, as if it had never been revealed except that day. And he died, may God bless him and grant him peace, on Monday without disagreement, at the time of his entry into Medina during his migration when the sun was at its highest. He was buried on Tuesday, and it was said on Wednesday night. Safiyya bint Abdul Muttalib said, mourning the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace:

Surat Al Imran 3:144

And Muhammad is no more than a messenger; messengers have passed away before him. So if he dies or is killed, will you turn back on your heels? And whoever turns back on his heels - never will he harm God at all. And God will reward the grateful.

Oh Messenger of God, you were our hope, you were kind to us and you were not harsh.

You were merciful, a guide and a teacher, so let those who were crying weep for you today.

By God, I do not cry for the Prophet because of his loss, but because I fear the coming chaos.

As if my heart was reminded of Muhammad, and I did not fear the hardships after the Prophet.

O Fatima, may God bless the Lord of Muhammad, my grandmother who spent the night in Yathrib

May my mother, my aunt, my uncle, my fathers, myself and my wealth be sacrificed for the Messenger of God

I believed and conveyed the message honestly and died with a clear and pure oud

If the Lord of mankind had kept our Prophet, we would have been happy, but his matter was already decided.

May God's peace and blessings be upon you, and may you be admitted to the Gardens of Eden, satisfied.

I see that Hassan orphaned him and left him crying and calling his grandfather today, mourning him.

If it is said that it is:

Third: Why did the burial of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, be delayed when he said to the people of a household who delayed the burial of their dead: Hurry up to bury your corpses and do not delay them? The answer is from three aspects: First: What we mentioned about their lack of agreement on his death. Second: Because they do not know where to bury him. Some people said in Al-Baqi', and others said in the mosque. Some people said: He should be detained until he is carried to his father Ibrahim, until the greatest scholar said: I heard him say: No prophet is buried except where he dies. This was mentioned by Ibn Majah, Al-Muwatta' and others. Third: They were occupied with the disagreement that occurred between the Muhajireen and the Ansar regarding the pledge of allegiance, so they looked into it until the matter was settled and the unity was organized and the situation was secure, and the caliphate was established in its place, so they pledged allegiance to Abu Bakr, then they pledged allegiance to him the next day with a group of them and with their approval, so God removed the distress from the people of apostasy through him, and the religion was established through him, and praise be to God, Lord of the Worlds. Then they returned after that to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and they looked into his burial and washed him and shrouded him, and God knows best .

Fourth: There is a difference of opinion as to whether he was prayed over or not. Some of them said: No one prayed over him, but rather each one stood and supplicated, because he was too noble to be prayed over. Ibn al-Arabi said: This is a weak statement, because the Sunnah is to pray over him in the funeral, just as it is to pray over him in supplication, so he says: O God, pray over Muhammad until the Day of Resurrection, and that is a benefit for us. It was said: He was not prayed over, because there was no imam there, and this is weak, because the one who performed the obligatory prayer with them was the one who led them in prayer. It was said: The people prayed over him individually, because he was the last one to see him, so they wanted each one to take his blessing specifically without being a follower of anyone else in it, and God knows best about the correctness of that.

I said: Ibn Majah narrated with a chain of transmission, rather a sahih one, from the hadith of Ibn Abbas, in which it says: When they finished preparing him on Tuesday, he was placed on his bed in his house, then the people entered upon the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, in groups to pray over him. When they finished, they brought the women in, and when they finished, they brought the children in. No one led the people in prayer for the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. It was narrated on the authority of Nasr ibn Ali al-Jahdhami, who told us that Wahb ibn Jarir told us, who told us, on the authority of Muhammad ibn Ishaq, who said: Husayn ibn Abdullah told me, on the authority of Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, the hadith in full.

Fifth: In the change of the situation after the death of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, on the authority of Anas, who said: When the day came that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, entered Medina, everything was illuminated, but the day he died, everything was darkened, and we did not shake our hands from the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, until our hearts were in denial. Narrated by Ibn Majah, and he said: Muhammad bin Bashir told us, Abd al-Rahman bin Mahdi told us, Sufyan told us, on the authority of Abdullah bin Dinar, on the authority of Ibn Umar, who said: We used to avoid speaking and being cheerful with our women during the time of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, for fear that the Qur'an would be revealed about us. When the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, died, we spoke. And it was narrated on the authority of Umm Salamah bint Abi Umayyah, the wife of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, that she said: When the people, during the time of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, stood up to pray, their sight would no longer be the place of their feet. When the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, died, and Abu Bakr was there, then when the people stood up to pray, their sight would no longer be the place of their forehead. Then Abu Bakr died, and Umar was there, then when the people stood up to pray, their sight would no longer be the place of the qiblah, and Uthman bin Affan, and there was a sedition, so people turned right and left during prayer.

God the Almighty said: Then if he dies or is killed, will you turn back on your heels? Then if he dies is a condition, or is killed is conjoined with it, and the answer is will you turn back. The interrogative particle entered into the particle of the condition because the condition was formed by it and became one sentence and one piece of report. The meaning is: Will you turn back on your heels if he dies or is killed? Likewise, every interrogative particle entered into a particle of the condition, because it is not in its proper place, and its place is to be before the answer to the condition. His statement will you turn back on your heels is a metaphor, meaning you have turned back as disbelievers after your belief, as stated by Qatada and others. It is said about someone who returns to what he was upon: he turned back on his heels, and from this is he turned back on his heels (al-Anfal 8:48). It was said: what is meant by turning back here is defeat, so it is a reality, not a metaphor. It was also said: the meaning is you did the action of the apostates even if it was not an apostasy.

God Almighty says: And whoever turns back on his heels will never harm God at all. Rather, he will harm himself and expose himself to punishment because of the disobedience. God Almighty is neither benefited by obedience nor harmed by disobedience because of His wealth. And God will reward the grateful, meaning those who were patient, struggled, and were martyred. And God will reward the grateful came after His statement: will never harm God at all, so it is a connection between a promise and a threat.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

When the Muslims were defeated on the day of Uhud and those who were killed were killed, Satan called out: Behold, Muhammad has been killed. Ibn Qami'ah returned to the polytheists and said to them: You have killed Muhammad, but he had struck the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and wounded him in the head. This fell into the hearts of many people and they believed that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, had been killed, and they permitted that to happen to him, as God has told about many of the prophets, peace be upon them. So weakness and frailty occurred and he was delayed from fighting. In that regard, God Almighty revealed to His Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace: And Muhammad is no more than a Messenger; before him have been Messengers. That is, he has an example in the message and in the permissibility of killing him. Ibn Abi Nujayh said on the authority of his father: A man from the Muhajireen passed by a man from the Ansar while he was wallowing in his blood and said to him: O so-and-so, do you know that Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, has been killed? The Ansari said: If Muhammad has been killed, then he has conveyed his message, so fight for your religion. Then the verse was revealed: And Muhammad is no more than a Messenger; before him have been Messengers. The Messengers" narrated by Al-Hafiz Abu Bakr Al-Bayhaqi in Dalil Al-Nubuwwah. Then God the Almighty said, denouncing those who have become weak, Then if he dies or is killed, will you turn back on your heels? That is, will you go back in reverse. And whoever turns back on his heels will never harm God at all, and God will reward the grateful. That is, those who obeyed Him and fought for His religion, and followed His Messenger, alive and dead. Likewise, it is proven in the Sahih, Musnads, Sunans, and other books of Islam through multiple chains of transmission that provide certainty. I mentioned that in the Musnads of the two Shaykhs Abu Bakr and Umar, may God be pleased with them, that As-Siddiq, may God be pleased with him, recited this verse when the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, died. Al-Bukhari said: Yahya bin Bakir told us, Al-Layth told us, on the authority of Aqeel, on the authority of Ibn Shihab, Abu Salamah told me that Aisha, may God be pleased with her, told him that Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him, came on a horse from his residence in As-Sunh until he dismounted and entered the mosque. He did not speak to the people until he entered upon Aisha. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, performed tayammum while he was covered with a garment of

And Muhammad is no more than a messenger; messengers have passed away before him. So if he dies or is killed, will you turn back on your heels? And whoever turns back on his heels - never will he harm God at all. And God will reward the grateful.

Habra. He uncovered his face, then leaned over him, kissed him and wept. Then he said: May my father and mother be sacrificed for you. By God, God will not cause you to die twice. As for the death that was decreed for you, you have brought it forward. Al-Zuhri said: Abu Salamah told me, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, that Abu Bakr went out and Umar was speaking to the people, so he said: Sit down, Umar. Umar refused to sit down, so the people turned to him and left Umar. Abu Bakr said: As for what comes after, whoever worshipped Muhammad, Muhammad has died, and whoever worshipped God, God is alive and will not die. God the Almighty said: "Muhammad is no more than a messenger; many messengers have passed away before him. If he dies or is killed, will you turn back on your heels? And whoever turns back on his heels will never harm God at all. And God will reward the grateful." He said: By God, it was as if the people did not know that God had revealed this verse until Abu Bakr recited it to them, and all the people received it from him, and no human being heard it except that he recited it. Saeed bin Al-Musayyab informed me that Umar said: By God, it was only when I heard Abu Bakr reciting it that I became paralyzed until my legs could not support me, and I fell to the ground. Abu al-Qasim al-Tabarani said: Ali ibn Abd al-Aziz told us, Amr ibn Hammad ibn Talhah al-Qannad told us, Asbat ibn Nasr told us, on the authority of Samak ibn Harb, on the authority of Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, that Ali used to say during the lifetime of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, if he dies or is killed, will you turn back on your heels? By God, we will not turn back on our heels after God has guided us. By God, if he dies or is killed, I will fight for what he fought for until I die. By God, I am his brother, his guardian, his cousin, and his heir. So who is more deserving of him than me? And the Almighty said: And no soul can die except by God's permission, at a predetermined time. That is, no one dies except by God's decree and until he completes the period that God has set for him. That is why He said at a predetermined time, like His saying: And no one lives long, nor does his lifespan decrease except in a predetermined time. And like His saying: It is He who created you from clay, then decreed a term, and a specified term is with Him. This verse contains encouragement for cowards and an exhortation for them to fight, because advancing or retreating does not decrease lifespan or increase it, as Ibn Abi Hatim said: Al-Abbas bin Yazid Al-Abdi told us: I heard Abu Mu'awiyah from Al-A'mash from Habib bin Sahban, who said: A man from the Muslims, and he was Hajar bin Adi, said: What prevents you from crossing to these enemy, this drop of semen - meaning the Tigris - And no soul can die except by God's permission, at a predetermined time. Then he charged his horse into the Tigris, and when he charged, he charged the people, and when the enemy saw them, they said: A register, so they fled. And His statement, And whoever desires the reward of this world, We give him thereof; and whoever desires the reward of the Hereafter, We give him thereof, meaning whoever does his work for this world only, will receive from it what God has decreed for him, and he will not have a share in the Hereafter. And whoever intends with his work the Hereafter, God will give him thereof along with what He has allotted for him in this world, as God Almighty said, "Whoever desires the harvest of the Hereafter, We increase for him his harvest. And whoever desires the harvest of this world, We give him thereof, and there is not for him in the Hereafter any share." And God Almighty said, "Whoever desires the immediate, We hasten for him therein what We will for whomever We intend. Then We have made for him Hell, which he will burn, blamed and banished. But whoever desires the Hereafter and strives for it with the necessary effort while he is a believer - it is those whose effort is ever appreciated." That is why He said here, And We will reward the grateful, meaning We will give them from Our grace and mercy in this world and the Hereafter according to their gratitude and work. Then God Almighty said, comforting the believers for what had happened to their souls on the Day of Uhud, And how many a prophet fought with whom many pious men fought. It was said that its meaning is how many a prophet was killed and many were killed with him. Many of his companions are Rabbi. This statement is the choice of Ibn Jarir, who said: As for those who read many rabbis fought with him, they said: What is meant by killing is the Prophet and some of the rabbis with him, not all of them, and he only denied weakness and frailty from those who remained from the rabbis who were not killed. He said: And whoever read fought chose that, because he said: If they had been killed, there would have been no known meaning for God's statement they did not weaken because it is impossible for them to be described as not weakening or becoming weak after they were killed. Then he chose the reading of whoever read many rabbis fought with him, because God rebuked in these verses and the ones before them those who fled on the day of Uhud and abandoned the fighting when they heard the caller shouting that Muhammad had been killed, so God rebuked them for fleeing and abandoning the fighting, and said to them, If he dies or is killed, O believers, will you turn back from your religion and turn back on your heels? It was said: How many prophets were killed before him from his companions, many rabbis? And the words of Ibn Ishaq in the biography require another statement, for he said: And how many prophets were killed while with him were Rabbiyun, meaning groups, so they did not weaken after their Prophet, nor did they weaken against their enemy, nor did they submit to what befell them in the struggle for the sake of God and their religion, and that is patience. And God loves the patient. So He made His statement, With him are many Rabbiyun a state. Al-Suhayli supported this statement and exaggerated it, and he has a direction for His statement, So they did not weaken when what befell them the verse, and this is what Al-Umawi narrated in his Maghazi from the book of Muhammad bin Ibrahim and no one else narrated it, and some of them read, Many Rabbiyun fought with him. Sufyan Al-Thawri said, on the authority of Asim, on the authority of Zur, on the authority of Ibn Masoud, Many Rabbiyun meaning thousands, and Ibn Abbas, Mujahid, Saeed bin Jubayr, Ikrimah, Al-Hasan, Qatadah, Al-Suddi, Al-Rabi', and Ata Al-Khurasani said: Rabbiyun are large groups, and Abd Al-Razzaq said on the authority of Muammar on the authority of Al-Hasan, Many Rabbiyun meaning many scholars, and from him also: Scholars of patience, righteous and pious. Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of some of the grammarians of Basra that the Rabbiyin are those who worship the Almighty Lord. He said: Some of them responded to him and said: If that were the case, it would have been said: Rabbiyin with the opening of the ra'. Ibn Zayd said: The Rabbiyin are the followers and the subjects, and the Rabbani are the governors. They did not lose heart for what befell them in the cause of God, nor did they weaken, nor did they humble themselves. Qatada and Ar-Rabi' ibn Anas said, They did not weaken by the killing of their Prophet, nor did they humble themselves meaning: they did not turn away from their insight or their religion and fight for what God's Prophet fought for until they joined God. Ibn Abbas said, nor did they humble themselves they were humble. As-Suddi and Ibn Zayd said: They were not humbled before their enemy. Muhammad ibn Ishaq, As-Suddi and Qatadah said: That is, that did not befall them when their Prophet was killed. "And God loves the patient. Their only saying was that they said, 'Our Lord, forgive us our sins and our transgression in our conduct and plant firmly our feet and give us victory over the disbelieving people.'" That is, they had no other choice but that. So God gave them the reward of this world, that is, victory, triumph and a good end, and the best reward of the Hereafter, that is, He combined that for them with this. And God loves the doers of good.

Fath al-Qadir

And his saying 144- And Muhammad is no more than a Messenger; before him there were Messengers. The reason for the revelation of this is what will come, that when the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, was wounded on the Day of Uhud, Satan cried out saying: Muhammad has been killed, so some of the Muslims were disheartened until one said: Muhammad has been wounded, so give them your hands, for they are your brothers, and another said: If he had been a Messenger, he would not have been killed, so God responded to them and informed them that he is a Messenger; before him there were Messengers; and he will pass away as they passed away, so the phrase before him there were Messengers is a description of a Messenger. The restriction is a restriction of separation as if they ruled out his death, so they established two attributes for him: the message, and the fact that he will not perish, so God responded to them by saying that he is a Messenger who does not go beyond that to the attribute of not perishing, and it was said: It is a restriction of the heart. Ibn Abbas read: Messengers have passed away before him, then God denounced him by saying: Then if he dies or is killed, will you turn back on your heels? That is: How can you turn back and abandon his worldly life if he dies or is killed, while you know that messengers pass away and their followers hold fast to their religion even if they are lost through death or killing? It was said: The denial was because they made the passing away of messengers before him a reason for their turning back because of his death or killing. Rather, he mentioned killing even though God, the Most High, knew that he would not be killed because it was permissible for those addressed. His saying: And whoever turns back on his heels That is: by turning away from fighting or by apostasizing from Islam, will never harm God at all of harm, but he only harms himself, and God will reward the grateful That is, those who were patient, fought, and were martyred, because by doing so they thanked God for His blessing upon them with Islam. And whoever complies with what he is commanded to do has thanked the blessing that God has bestowed upon him.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

144- The Almighty said: And Muhammad is no more than a Messenger; many Messengers have passed away before him. The companions of the battles said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, went out until he descended to the ravine of Uhud with seven hundred men, and he appointed Abdullah bin Jubair, the brother of Khawat bin Jubair, in charge of the infantry, and they were fifty men, and he said: Stay at the foot of the mountain and spray us with arrows so that they do not come to us from behind, and whether it is for us or against us, do not move from your place until I send to you, for we will not cease to be victorious as long as you remain in your place. Then the Quraysh came, and on their right flank was Khalid bin Al-Walid, and on their left was Ikrimah bin Abi Jahl, and with them were women beating drums and reciting poetry, and they fought until the war became fierce. Then the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, took a sword and said: Who will take this sword with its right and strike the enemy with it until it is in full force? Abu Dujana Samak bin Kharshah Al-Ansari took it, and when he took it, he put on a red turban and began to strut, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Peace be upon him: It is a gait that God Almighty hates except in this place. So he split the heads of the polytheists with it, and the Prophet, peace be upon him, and his companions charged at the polytheists and defeated them.

We narrated on the authority of Al-Bara' bin Azib who said: By God, I saw the women rushing forward, their anklets and legs showing, and their clothes raised. The companions of Abdullah bin Jubayr said: The spoils, by God, we will go to the people and take a share of the spoils. So when they came to them, their faces turned away.

Al-Zubayr ibn al-Awam said: I saw Hind and her companions fleeing, climbing the mountain, showing their servants without taking anything. When the archers saw that the people had been exposed and saw their companions plundering the spoils, they came forward wanting to plunder.

When Khalid bin Al-Walid saw the small number of

And Muhammad is no more than a messenger; messengers have passed away before him. So if he dies or is killed, will you turn back on your heels? And whoever turns back on his heels - never will he harm God at all. And God will reward the grateful.

archers and the Muslims' preoccupation with the spoils, and saw their backs empty, he shouted to his cavalry about the polytheists, then he charged at the companions of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, from behind them, so they defeated them and killed them. Abdullah bin Qum'ah threw a stone at the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, breaking his nose and front teeth and cutting his face, making him heavy and his companions disperse from him. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, rose to a rock on top of which he had been standing between two shields, but he could not, so Talhah sat under him and rose until he was on top of it. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Talhah has made it obligatory. Hind and the women with her mutilated the dead companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, cutting off their ears and noses until Hind made necklaces from that, and gave it to Wahshi and cut open the liver of Hamza and chewed it, but she could not swallow it, so she spat it out. Abdullah bin Qum'ah approached, intending to kill the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, but Mus'ab bin Umair, who was the bearer of the Messenger of God's banner, defended the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. Ibn Qum'ah killed him, and he thought that he had killed the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. He returned to the polytheists and said: I have killed Muhammad. A voice cried out: Muhammad has been killed. It is said that the voice was Satan. The people retreated, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, called the al-Nas 114: To the servants of God to the servants of God. Thirty men gathered around him and protected him until they drove the polytheists away from him. Sa'd ibn Abi Waqqas shot until his bow broke. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, gave him his quiver and said to him: Shoot, may my father and mother be sacrificed for you. Talhah was a very strong archer, and on that day he broke two or three bows. A man would pass by with a quiver of arrows and say: Scatter them for Abu Talhah. Whenever he shot, the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, would look at the place where his arrow had landed. Talhah ibn Ubaydullah's hand was hit and it dried up when he protected the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and Qatadah ibn al-Nu'man's eye was hit that day until it fell on his cheek. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, returned it to its place, and it returned to its best condition.

When the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) left, Ubayy ibn Khalaf al-Jumahi caught up with him, saying: I will not be saved if I am saved. The people said: O Messenger of God, will not one of us take pity on him? The Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) said: Leave him alone until he comes close to him. Before that, my father used to meet the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) and say: "I have a sheep which I feed every day with a grain of corn. I will kill you for it." The Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) said: Rather, I will kill you, God willing. When he came close to him, the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) took the spear from al-Harith ibn al-Samma, then faced him and stabbed him in the neck, scratching him once and he fell off his horse, bellowing like a bull, and saying: Muhammad killed me. His companions seized him and said: There is nothing wrong with you. He said: "Yes, if this stab had been in Rabi'ah and Mudar, I would have killed them. Didn't he say to me: 'I will kill you?'" If he had spat on me after that statement, he would have killed me. He did not live more than a day until he died in a place called Sarf.

Abdul Wahid Al-Malhi told us, I told Ahmad bin Abdullah Al-Naimi, I told Muhammad bin Yusuf, I told Muhammad bin Ismail, I told Amr bin Ali, I told Abu Asim, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, on the authority of Amr bin Dinar, on the authority of Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, who said: God's wrath is intense against whoever kills a prophet, and God's wrath is intense against whoever bleeds the face of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace.

They said: It spread among the people that Muhammad had been killed, so some of the Muslims said: If only we had a messenger to Abdullah bin Ubayy so he could take a guarantee of safety for us from Abu Sufyan. Some of the Companions sat down and threw their hands up, and some of the hypocrites said: If Muhammad has been killed, then return to your former religion. Anas bin An-Nadr, the uncle of Anas bin Malik, said: O people, if Muhammad has been killed, then the Lord of Muhammad has not been killed, so what will you do with life after the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace? Fight for what the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, fought for, and die for what he died for. Then he said: O God, I apologize to You for what these people say, meaning the Muslims, and I disavow before You what these people, meaning the hypocrites, have brought. Then he grabbed his sword and fought until he was killed.

Then the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, went to the rock while calling the people. The first to recognize the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was Ka'b ibn Malik. He said, "I recognized his eyes shining under the helmet, so I called out at the top of my voice: 'O Muslims, be glad! This is the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace.'" He motioned for me to be silent. A group of his companions fled to him, and the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, blamed them for fleeing. They said, 'O Prophet of God, we would sacrifice our fathers and mothers for you. The report came to us that you have been killed, and our hearts were terrified, so we turned back and fled. Then God Almighty revealed this verse:

'Muhammad is no more than a messenger; other messengers have passed away before him.'

And Muhammad is the one who is absorbed in all praise, because praise is only deserved by the perfect, and praise is above praise, so it is only deserved by the one who has complete control over the matter. And God honored His Prophet and Chosen One with two names derived from His name, may He be glorified and exalted Muhammad and Ahmad, and Hassan bin Thabit says about him:

Have you not seen that God sent His servant with His proof? And God is Most High and Most Glorious.

And he split his name from his own to glorify him, so he is the one with the honor, Mahmoud, and this is Muhammad.

God Almighty says: "If he dies or is killed, will you turn back on your heels?" And whoever turns back on his heels "will never harm God at all" but he only harms himself "and God will reward the grateful."

never harm God at all by his apostasy, but rather he will harm himself. And God will reward the grateful for the blessing of Islam by remaining steadfast in it, like Anas and his ilk.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

144 And Muhammad is no more than a messenger; messengers have passed away before him. So they will pass away just as they passed away by death or murder. Then if he dies or is killed, will you turn back on your heels? Denying their apostasy and turning back on their heels from the religion because of his passing away by death or murder after their knowledge of the passing away of the messengers before him and the continuation of their religion by adhering to it. It was said that the fa' is for causality and the hamza is to deny that they would make the passing away of the messengers before him a reason for their turning back on their heels after his death. It was narrated that when Abdullah bin Qami'ah Al-Harithi threw a stone at the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him), breaking his front tooth and splitting his face, Mus'ab bin Umair may God be pleased with him defended him, and he was the standard-bearer, until Ibn Qami'ah killed him, and he thought that he had killed the Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him), so he said: I have killed Muhammad, and a cryer cried out: Muhammad has been killed. So the people retreated and the Messenger (peace and blessings of God be upon him) began calling the servants of God to me, so thirty of his companions rallied to him and protected him until they drove the polytheists away from him, and the rest dispersed, and some of them said: I wish Ibn Abi would take a guarantee for us from Abu Sufyan. And some of the hypocrites said: If he had been a prophet, he would not have been killed. Return to your brothers and your religion. Anas bin An-Nadr, the uncle of Anas bin Malik may God be pleased with them both, said: O people, if Muhammad is killed, then the Lord of Muhammad is alive and will not die, and what will you do with life after him? So fight for what he fought for. Then he said: O God, I apologize to You for what they say and I disavow him before You, and he grabbed his sword and fought until he was killed. So it was revealed. And whoever turns back on his heels will

Surat Al Imran 3:145

And no soul can die except by permission of God at a predetermined time. And whoever desires the reward of this world, We will give him thereof; and whoever desires the reward of the Hereafter, We will give him thereof. And We will reward the grateful.

Surat Al Imran 3:145

And no soul can die except by permission of God at a predetermined time. And whoever desires the reward of this world, We will give him thereof; and whoever desires the reward of the Hereafter, We will give him thereof. And We will reward the grateful.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And no soul can die except by God's permission by His decree prescribed a source, meaning: God has decreed that deferred temporarily, neither advanced nor delayed. So why were you defeated? Defeat does not prevent death, and steadfastness does not cut short life. And whoever desires by his deeds the reward of this world meaning his recompense from it We will give him thereof what was allotted to him and noted for him in the Hereafter And whoever desires the reward of the Hereafter, We will give him thereof meaning from its reward And We will reward the grateful.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: By that, the Most High means: Muhammad and no other of God's creation will die except after reaching the term that God has made the end of his life and survival. So when he reaches that term that God has written for him, and He gives him permission to die, then he dies. But before that, he will not die by the plot of a plotter or the trick of a deceiver, as:

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: And no soul can die except by God's permission at a predetermined time, meaning: Muhammad has a term that he will reach, if God permits him to do so, it will happen.

It has been said that the meaning of this is: No soul can die except by God's permission.

The Arab scholars differed about the meaning of the accusative in his saying: a deferred book.

Some of the grammarians of Basra said: It is an emphasis, and its accusative is: God wrote a deferred book. He said: And likewise everything in the Qur'an from His saying: truly is: The most true of that is truly. And likewise: The promise of God [An-Nisa': 122- Yunus 10:4- Luqman 31:9] and A mercy from your Lord [al-Kahf 18:82- al-Qasas 28:46- al-Dukhan 44:6] and The work of God who perfected all things (al-Naml 27:88), and The Book of God upon you (An-Nisa': 24), is: God made thus a work. So this is the interpretation of everything in the Qur'an similar to this, for it is abundant.

Some of the grammarians of Kufa said about his statement: And it is not for a soul to die except by the permission of God, that it means: God has written the terms of the souls. Then it was said: A deferred book, so his statement: A deferred book was removed from the meaning in the speech, since his statement: And it is not for a soul to die except by the permission of God, had conveyed the meaning: written. He said: And so is the rest of what is in the Qur'an of similar examples, so it is of this type.

Others among them said: The saying of the speaker: Zaid is standing truly, means: I say Zaid is standing truly, because every speech is a statement, so the statement is conveyed by the statement, then what comes after it is excluded from it, just as you say: I say a true statement, and likewise in supposition and certainty, and likewise: God's promise, and what is similar to it.

Abu Ja'far said: The correct statement in this regard, in my opinion, is that all of that is accusative as a source of meaning from the speech that precedes it, because in everything that precedes the sources, whose wording is different from the words of the speech that precedes it, the meanings of the words of the sources are the same even if they differ from them in wording, so it is accusative from the meanings of what precedes it, not its words.

Abu Ja'far said: By that, the Most High means: And whoever among you, O believers, desires, through his work, some of the worldly goods as a reward, without what is with God of honor for whoever seeks through his work what is with Him, We will give him from it, meaning: We will give him from it, meaning from this world, meaning that He will give him from it what He has allotted him in it of provision during the days of his life, then he will have no share in the honor of God that He has prepared for whoever obeys Him and seeks what is with Him in the Hereafter. And whoever desires the reward of the Hereafter, meaning: And whoever among you desires through his work, a reward from it, meaning: what is with God of His honor that He has prepared for those who work for Him in the Hereafter, We will give him from it, meaning: We will give him from it, meaning from the Hereafter. The meaning is: from the honor of God with which He has distinguished the people of His obedience in the Hereafter. So the speech is applied to this world and the Hereafter, and the meaning is what is in them, as:

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: "And whoever desires the reward of this world, We will give him thereof. And whoever desires the reward of the Hereafter, We will give him thereof." That is, whoever among you desires this world, but has no desire for the Hereafter, We will give him what has been allotted to us of provision, and he will have no share in the Hereafter. And whoever desires the reward of the Hereafter, We will give him thereof what He promised him, along with what he receives of provision in this world.

As for his saying: And We will reward the grateful, he says: And I will reward the one who is grateful to Me for the good I have bestowed upon him, by obeying Me, adhering to My command, and avoiding My prohibitions, in the Hereafter, with the same honor that I promised My friends for their gratitude to Me.

Ibn Ishaq said about this:

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: And We will reward the grateful, meaning: That is the reward of the grateful, meaning by that: God will give him what He promised him in the Hereafter, along with the provision that will flow to him in this world.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

The Almighty's saying: And no soul can die except by God's permission at a predetermined time. This is an exhortation to jihad, and an announcement that death is inevitable and that every person, whether killed or not, dies when he reaches his appointed time, because the meaning of postponed is until a term, and the meaning of by God's permission is by God's decree and destiny, and a book is in the accusative case as a source, meaning God has written a predetermined book, and the term of death is the time in which it is known to Him, the Exalted, that the soul of a living person leaves his body, and when a servant is killed, we know that this is his term, and it is not correct to say that if he had not been killed, he would have lived. The evidence for His saying: a predetermined book is: So when their term comes, they will not remain behind an hour, nor will they precede it. (al-A'raf 7:34), Indeed, the term of God is coming. (al-Ankabut 29:5), For every term is a book. (al-Ra'd 13:38), and the Mu'tazilite says: The term advances and delays, and whoever is killed is only destroyed. Before its appointed time, and likewise every animal that was slaughtered was killed before its appointed time, because the killer must guarantee the blood money. God Almighty has made it clear in this verse that no soul shall perish before its appointed time, and more clarification of this will come in Al-A'raf, God willing. And in it is evidence of the books of knowledge and its recording, and its clarification will come in Taha, when He says, He said, 'The knowledge thereof is with my Lord, in a Record' (Ta-Ha 20:52), God willing.

God the Almighty said: And whoever desires the reward of this world, We will give him thereof meaning the spoils. It was revealed about those who left the position in search of the spoils. It was said: It is general for everyone who desires this world without the Hereafter, and the meaning is We will give him thereof what was allotted to him. In the revelation: Whoever desires the immediate, We hasten for him therein what We will for whomever We intend (al-Isra' 17:18). And whoever desires the reward of the Hereafter, We will give him thereof meaning We will give him the reward for his work, as God the Almighty described of doubling the good deeds for whomever He wills. It was said: What is meant by it is Abdullah bin Jubair and those who remained in the position with him until they were killed. And We will reward the grateful meaning We will give them the eternal reward as a reward for them for not retreating, so it is a confirmation of what came before about giving more of the Hereafter. It was said: And We will reward the grateful of the provision in this world so that it is not imagined that the grateful person is deprived of what was allotted to him from what the disbeliever attains.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

When the Muslims were defeated on the day of Uhud and those who were killed were killed, Satan called out: Behold, Muhammad has been killed. Ibn Qami'ah returned to the polytheists and said to them: You have killed Muhammad, but he had struck the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and wounded him in the head. This fell into the hearts of many people and they believed that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, had been killed, and they permitted that to happen to him, as God has told about many of the prophets, peace be upon them. So weakness and frailty occurred and he was delayed from fighting. In that regard, God Almighty revealed to His Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace: And Muhammad is no more than a Messenger; before him have been Messengers. That is, he has an example in the message and in the permissibility of killing him. Ibn Abi Nujayh said on the authority of his father: A man from the Muhajireen passed by a man from the Ansar while he was wallowing in his blood and said to him: O so-and-so, do you know that Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, has been killed? The Ansari said: If Muhammad has been killed, then he has conveyed his message, so fight for your religion. Then the verse was revealed: And Muhammad is no more than a Messenger; before him have been Messengers. The Messengers" narrated by Al-Hafiz Abu Bakr Al-Bayhaqi in Dalil Al-Nubuwwah. Then God the Almighty said, denouncing those who have become weak, Then if he dies or is killed, will you turn back on your heels? That is, will you go back in reverse. And whoever turns back on his heels will never harm God at all, and God will reward the grateful. That is, those who obeyed Him and fought for His religion, and followed His Messenger, alive and dead. Likewise, it is proven in the Sahih, Musnads, Sunans, and other books of Islam through multiple chains of transmission that provide certainty. I mentioned that in the Musnads of the two Shaykhs Abu Bakr and Umar, may God be pleased with them, that As-Siddiq, may God be pleased with him, recited this verse when the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, died. Al-Bukhari said: Yahya bin Bakir told us, Al-Layth told us, on the authority of Aqeel, on the authority of Ibn Shihab, Abu Salamah told me that Aisha, may God be pleased with her, told him that Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him, came on a horse from his residence in As-Sunh until he dismounted and entered the mosque. He did not speak to the people until he entered upon Aisha. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, performed tayammum while he was covered with a garment of Habra. He uncovered his face, then leaned over him, kissed him and wept. Then he said: May my father and mother be sacrificed for you. By God, God will not cause you to die twice. As for the death that was decreed for you, you have brought it forward. Al-Zuhri said: Abu Salamah told me, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, that Abu Bakr went out and Umar was speaking to the people, so he said: Sit down, Umar. Umar refused to sit down, so the people turned to him and left Umar. Abu Bakr said: As for what comes after, whoever worshipped Muhammad, Muhammad has died, and whoever worshipped God, God is alive and will not die. God the Almighty said: "Muhammad is no more than a messenger; many messengers have passed away before him. If he dies or is killed, will you turn back on your heels? And whoever turns back on his heels will never harm God at all. And God will reward the grateful." He said: By God, it was as if the people did not know that God had revealed this verse until Abu Bakr recited it to them, and all the people received it from him, and no human being heard it except that he recited it. Saeed bin Al-Musayyab informed me that Umar said: By God, it was only when I heard Abu Bakr reciting it that I became paralyzed until my legs could not support me, and I fell to the ground. Abu al-Qasim al-Tabarani said: Ali ibn Abd al-Aziz told us, Amr ibn Hammad ibn Talhah al-Qannad told us, Asbat ibn Nasr told us, on the authority of Samak ibn Harb, on the authority of Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, that Ali used to say during the lifetime of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, If he dies or is killed, will you turn back on your heels? By God, we will not turn back on our heels after God has guided us. By God, if he dies or is killed, I will fight for what he fought for until I die. By God, I am his brother, his guardian, his cousin, and his heir. So who is more deserving of him than me? And the Almighty said: And no soul can die except by God's permission, at a predetermined time. That is, no one dies except by God's decree and until he completes the period that God has set for him. That is why He said a predetermined time, like His saying: And no one lives long, nor does his lifespan decrease except in a predetermined time. And like His saying: It is He who created you from clay, then decreed a term, and a specified term is with Him. This verse contains encouragement for cowards and an exhortation for them to fight, because advancing or retreating does not decrease lifespan or increase it, as Ibn Abi Hatim said: Al-Abbas bin Yazid Al-Abdi told us: I heard Abu Mu'awiyah from Al-A'mash from Habib bin Sahban, who said: A man from the Muslims, and he was Hajar bin Adi, said: What prevents you from crossing to these enemy, this drop of semen - meaning the Tigris - And no soul can die except by God's permission, at a predetermined time. Then he charged his horse into the Tigris, and when he charged, he charged the people, and when the enemy saw them, they said: A register, so they fled. And His statement, And whoever desires the reward of this world, We give him thereof; and whoever desires the reward of the Hereafter, We give him thereof, meaning whoever does his work for this world only, will receive from it what God has decreed for him, and he will not have a share in the Hereafter. And whoever intends with his work the Hereafter, God will give him thereof along with what He has allotted for him in this world, as God Almighty said, "Whoever desires the harvest of the Hereafter, We increase for him his harvest. And whoever desires the harvest of this world, We give him thereof, and there is not for him in the Hereafter any share." And God Almighty said, "Whoever desires the immediate, We hasten for him therein what We will for whomever We intend. Then We have made for him Hell, which he will burn, blamed and banished. But whoever desires the Hereafter and strives for it with the necessary effort while he is a believer - it is those whose effort is ever appreciated." That is why He said here, And We will reward the grateful, meaning We will give them from Our grace and mercy in this world and the Hereafter according to their gratitude and work. Then God Almighty said, comforting the believers for what had happened to their souls on the Day of Uhud, And how many a prophet fought with whom many pious men fought. It was said that its meaning is how many a prophet was killed and many were killed with him. Many of his companions are Rabbi. This statement is the choice of Ibn Jarir, who said: As for those who read many rabbis fought with him, they said: What is meant by killing is the Prophet and some of the rabbis with him, not all of them, and he only denied weakness and frailty from those who remained from the rabbis who were not killed. He said: And whoever read fought chose that, because he said: If they had been killed, there would have been no known meaning for God's statement they did not weaken because it is impossible for them to be described as not weakening or becoming weak after they were killed. Then he chose the reading of whoever read many rabbis fought with him, because God rebuked in these verses and the ones before them those who fled on the day of Uhud and abandoned the fighting when they heard the caller shouting that Muhammad had been killed, so God rebuked them for fleeing and abandoning the fighting, and said to them, If he dies or is killed, O believers, will you turn back from your religion and turn back on your heels? It was said: How many prophets were killed before him from his companions, many rabbis? And the words of Ibn Ishaq in the biography require another statement, for he said: And how many prophets were killed while with him were Rabbiyun, meaning groups, so they did not weaken after their Prophet, nor did they weaken against their enemy, nor did they submit to what befell them in the struggle for the sake of God and their religion, and that is patience. And God loves the patient. So He made His statement, With him are many Rabbiyun a state. Al-Suhayli supported this statement and exaggerated it, and he has a direction for His statement, So they did not weaken when what befell them the verse, and this is what Al-Umawi narrated in his Maghazi from the book of Muhammad bin Ibrahim and no one else narrated it, and some of them read, Many Rabbiyun fought with him. Sufyan Al-Thawri said, on the authority of Asim, on the authority of Zur, on the authority of Ibn Masoud, Many Rabbiyun meaning thousands, and Ibn Abbas, Mujahid, Saeed bin Jubayr, Ikrimah, Al-Hasan, Qatadah, Al-Suddi, Al-Rabi', and Ata Al-Khurasani said: Rabbiyun are large groups, and Abd Al-Razzaq said on the authority of Muammar on the authority of Al-Hasan, Many Rabbiyun meaning many scholars, and from him also: Scholars of patience, righteous and pious. Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of some of the grammarians of Basra that the Rabbiyyin are those who worship the Almighty Lord. He said: Some of them responded to him and said: If that were the case, it would have been said: Rabbiyyin with the opening of the ra'. Ibn Zayd said: The Rabbiyyin are the followers and the subjects, and the Rabbanis are the governors. They did not lose heart for what befell them in the cause of God, nor did they weaken, nor did they humble themselves. Qatada and Ar-Rabi' ibn Anas said, They did not weaken by the killing of their Prophet, nor did they humble themselves meaning: they did not turn away from their insight or their religion and fight for what God's Prophet fought for until they joined God. Ibn Abbas said, nor did they humble themselves they were humble. As-Suddi and Ibn Zayd said: They were not humbled before their enemy. Muhammad ibn Ishaq, As-Suddi and Qatadah said: That is, that did not befall them when their Prophet was killed. "And God loves the patient. Their only saying was that they said, 'Our Lord, forgive us our sins and our transgression in our conduct and plant firmly our feet and give us victory over the disbelieving people.'" That is, they had no other choice but that. So God gave them the reward of this world, that is, victory, triumph and a good end, and the best reward of the Hereafter, that is, He combined that for them with this. And God loves the doers of good.

Surat Al Imran 3:145

And no soul can die except by permission of God at a predetermined time. And whoever desires the reward of this world, We will give him thereof; and whoever desires the reward of the Hereafter, We will give him thereof. And We will reward the grateful.

Fath al-Qadir

His statement 145- And no soul can die except by God's permission. This is a new statement that includes urging jihad and informing that death is inevitable. The meaning of by God's permission is by God's decree and destiny. It was said that this sentence includes a denial of those who failed because of that rumor of his killing, may God's prayers and peace be upon him. So he explained to them that death by killing or otherwise is dependent on God's permission, and attributing it to the soul despite it not choosing it is to indicate that no one should undertake it except by God's permission. His statement in writing is a source that confirms what came before it, because its meaning is that God wrote death in writing. And the deferred: the temporary that does not precede its appointed time nor is delayed. His saying, And whoever desires, that is, with his knowledge, the reward of this world, such as spoils and the like. The expression includes everything that is called the reward of this world, even if the reason is specific. And whoever desires, with his work, the reward of the Hereafter, which is Paradise. We will give him from its reward, and We will multiply his good deeds many times over. And We will reward the grateful, by complying with what We have commanded them to do, such as fighting, and what We have forbidden them from doing, such as fleeing and accepting rumours.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

145- And no soul can die, Al-Akhfash said: The lam in the soul is transferred, its meaning is: And no soul can die, except by the permission of God, by the decree and destiny of God, and it was said: by His knowledge, and it was said: by His command, a deferred book meaning: He wrote for every soul a term that no one can change or delay, and the book is in the accusative case as a source, meaning: He wrote a book, And whoever desires the reward of this world, We give him thereof meaning: whoever desires the world by his obedience and works for it, We give him thereof what is a reward for his work, he wants We give him from it what We will by what We have decreed for him, as He said: Whoever desires the immediate, We hasten for him therein what We will for whom We intend Surat Al-Isra - 18, it was revealed about those who left the center on the day of Uhud seeking the spoils, And whoever desires the reward of the Hereafter, We give him thereof, meaning he wanted the Hereafter by his work, it was said: He meant those who stood firm with their leader Abdullah bin Jubayr until They were killed.

And We will reward the grateful, meaning: the faithful and obedient.

Abu al-Hasan Abd al-Rahman ibn Muhammad al-Dawudi told us, Abu al-Hasan Ahmad ibn Musa ibn al-Salt told us, Abu Ishaq Ibrahim Abd al-Samad al-Hashemi told us, Abu Yahya Muhammad ibn Abd God ibn Yazid ibn Abd al-Rahman al-Muqri told us, my father told us, al-Rabi' ibn Subaih told us, on the authority of Yazid al-Ruqashi, on the authority of Anas ibn Malik, may God be pleased with him, that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "Whoever's intention is to seek the Hereafter, God will place his wealth in his heart, gather his affairs for him, and the world will come to him reluctantly. But whoever's intention is to seek the world, God will place poverty before his eyes, scatter his affairs, and nothing will come to him from it except what is written for him."

Abu Tahir Muhammad ibn Ali ibn Muhammad ibn Ali ibn Tawbah al-Zarrad told us, Abu Bakr Muhammad ibn Idris ibn Muhammad al-Jurjani and Abu Ahmad Muhammad ibn Ahmad al-Mu'allim al-Harawi told us, they said: Abu al-Hasan Ali ibn Isa al-Malini told us, Abu al-Abbas al-Hasan ibn Sufyan al-Nasawi told us, Hayyan ibn Musa and Abdullah ibn Asma', the nephew of Juwayriyah ibn Asma' told us, he said: Abdullah ibn al-Mubarak told us, on the authority of Yahya ibn Sa'id, on the authority of Muhammad ibn Ibrahim al-Taymi, on the authority of Alqamah ibn Waqqas al-Laythi, on the authority of Umar ibn al-Khattab, may God be pleased with him, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Actions are but by intentions, and each person will have but what he intended. So whoever migrates for the sake of God and His Messenger, then his migration is for the sake of God and His Messenger. Whoever migrates for the sake of worldly gain or a woman to marry, then his migration is for that for which he migrated.'"

Surat Al Imran 3:145

And no soul can die except by permission of God at a predetermined time. And whoever desires the reward of this world, We will give him thereof; and whoever desires the reward of the Hereafter, We will give him thereof. And We will reward the grateful.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

145 And no soul can die except by God's permission except by the will of God Almighty or by His permission to the Angel of Death, peace and blessings be upon him, to take his soul, and the meaning is that every soul has a specified term in His knowledge and judgment. They will not delay an hour nor will they advance it by refraining from fighting or rushing forward. In it is an incitement and encouragement to fight, and a promise to the Messenger, peace and blessings be upon him, of preservation and delaying the term. A book is a confirmed source, as the meaning is that death was written in a book. Deferred is an attribute of it, meaning temporary, not advanced or delayed. And whoever desires the reward of this world, We will give him thereof is an allusion to those who were preoccupied with the spoils on the day of Uhud, as the Muslims attacked the polytheists and defeated them and began to plunder, so when the archers saw that, they turned to plunder and left their place, so the polytheists took advantage and attacked them from behind them and defeated them. And whoever desires the reward of the Hereafter, We will give him thereof meaning from its reward. And We will reward the grateful those who were grateful for God's blessings and nothing distracted them from jihad.

Surat Al Imran 3:146

And how many a prophet fought with him many pious men, but they never lost heart because of what befell them in the cause of God, nor did they weaken, nor did they humble themselves. And God loves the patient.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And how many how many of the prophets fought and in the reading {killed} and the subject is his pronoun with him the predicate of his subject many pious large groups but they did not weaken were cowardly for what afflicted them in the way of God from the locusts and the killing of their prophets and companions nor did they weaken from jihad nor did they submit submitted to their enemy as you did when it was said that the prophet was killed and God loves the patient in the face of affliction, meaning He rewards them

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Jaafar said: The readings differed in the reading of that:

Some of them read it as: Wa-ka-ayn, with a hamza on the alif and a shaddah on the ya.

Others read it with an extended alif and a light ya.

They are two well-known readings in the reading of Muslims, and two well-known languages, with no difference in their meaning. So whichever reading a reader reads it with, he is correct. Because the meaning is the same, and they are well-known in the speech of the Arabs. Its meaning is: How many prophets.

Abu Jaafar said: There is a difference in the reading of his saying: Two thousand men were killed with him.

A group of the readers of Hijaz and Basra read it as: killed, with a damma on the qaf.

Another group read it with the qaf open and with the alif. This is the reading of a group of the readers of Hijaz and Kufa.

Abu Ja'far said: As for the one who read killed, he chose that, because he said: If they had been killed, there would not have been a known meaning for his saying: They did not weaken, because it is impossible for them to be described as not weakening or becoming weak after they were killed.

As for those who read it as: killed, they said: What he meant by killing was the Prophet and some of the rabbis who were with him, not all of them, and he only denied weakness and frailty from those who remained from the rabbis who were not killed.

Abu Ja'far said: The more correct of the two readings in this regard, in our view, is the reading of the one who reads with the qaf with a damma: Many ribān were killed with him, because God Almighty only rebuked in this verse and the verses before it, in His saying: Or do you think that you will enter Paradise while God has not yet made evident those among you who fought, those who fled on the day of Uhud and abandoned the fighting, or heard the voice calling out: Muhammad has been killed. So God Almighty rebuked them for fleeing and abandoning the fighting, saying: If Muhammad dies or is killed, O believers, will you turn back from your religion and turn back on your heels? Then he told them about what many of the followers of the prophets before them had done, and said to them: Why did you not do as the people of virtue and knowledge among the followers of the prophets before you did when their prophet was killed, by continuing on the path of their prophet and fighting for his religion against the enemies of the religion of God, in the same way that they fought with their prophet, and you did not weaken or become weak, just as those who were before you from the people of knowledge and insight among the followers of the prophets did not become weak when their prophet was killed, but they were patient with their enemies until God judged between them and them? And with this interpretation came the interpretation of the interpreters.

As for the ribāyīn, they are raised by His saying: with him, not by His saying: he was killed. Rather, the interpretation of the speech is: How many a prophet was killed, and with him were many ribāyīn, but they did not weaken for what befell them in the way of God. And in the speech there is an implied waw, because it is waw that indicates the meaning of the state of the killing of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace. However, what was mentioned in the speech was sufficient to indicate it by mentioning it, and that is like the saying of the speaker in the speech: the prince was killed with a great army, meaning: he was killed and with him a great army.

As for the riba, the Arabs differed about its meaning.

Some of the grammarians of Basra said: They are those who worship the Lord, and one of them is my Lord.

Some grammarians of Kufa said: If they were attributed to the worship of God, they would have been rabbiyyun with the opening of the ra', but it is: the scholars and the thousands.

And the rabbis among us are the many groups, one of them is rabbi, and they are the group.

The interpreters differed about its meaning.

Some of them said the same as we said.

Who said that?

Ibn Bashar told us, he said, Abd al-Rahman told us, he said, Sufyan told us, on the authority of Asim, on the authority of Zur, on the authority of Abdullah: The ribun are the thousands.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Abu Naim told us, he said, Sufyan al-Thawri told us, on the authority of Asim, on the authority of Zur, on the authority of Abdullah, similarly.

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said: Abd al-Razzaq

Surat Al Imran 3:146

And how many a prophet fought with him many pious men, but they never lost heart because of what befell them in the cause of God, nor did they weaken, nor did they humble themselves. And God loves the patient.

told us, he said: Al-Thawri and Ibn Uyaynah told us, on the authority of Asim bin Abi al-Najud, on the authority of Zur bin Habish, on the authority of Abdullah, similarly.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Hakam told us, he said, Amr told us, on the authority of Asim, on the authority of Zur, on the authority of Abdullah, the same.

Yaqub bin Ibrahim told me, he said, Hisham told us, he said, Aouf told us, on the authority of someone who told him, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding his statement: many thousands, he said: many multitudes.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Abdullah bin Saleh told us, he said, Muawiyah told me, on the authority of Ali, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding his statement: Many thousands fought with him, he said: crowds.

Humayd ibn Mas'adah told me, he said, Bishr ibn al-Mufaddal told us, he said, Shu'bah told us, on the authority of Asim, on the authority of Zur, on the authority of Abdullah: And how many a prophet was killed with many thousands, he said: Thousands.

Others said:

Sulayman ibn Abd al-Jabbar told me, he said: Muhammad ibn al-Salt told us, he said: Abu Kudayna told us, on the authority of Ata', on the authority of Sa'id ibn Jubayr, on the authority of Ibn Abbas: And how many a prophet was killed with many devout men, he said: Many scholars.

Yaqoub bin Ibrahim told me, he said, Hisham told us, he said, Aouf told us, on the authority of Al-Hasan, regarding his statement: And how many a prophet was killed with him many devout men, he said: Jurists and scholars.

Yaqub bin Ibrahim told me, he said, Ibn Ulayyah told us, on the authority of Abu Raja', on the authority of Al-Hasan, regarding his statement: And how many a prophet was killed with him many devout men? He said: The great multitudes. Yaqub said: And this is how Ishmael read it? Many devout men were killed with him.

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada: And how many a prophet was killed with many devout people, he said: large crowds.

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said, Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said, Muammar told us, on the authority of Al-Hasan regarding his statement: Many devout men were killed with him, he said: Many scholars, and Qatada said: Large crowds.

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said, Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said, Ibn Uyaynah told us, on the authority of Amr, on the authority of Ikrimah, regarding his statement: many thousands, he said: many multitudes.

Amr bin Abdul Hamid Al-Amili told me, he said, Sufyan told us, on the authority of Amr, on the authority of Ikrimah, similarly.

Muhammad bin Amr told me, he said, Abu Asim told us, on the authority of Isa, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding the statement of God Almighty: Many thousands were killed with him, he said: Many multitudes.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Abu Hudhayfah told us, he said, Shabl told us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, similarly.

It was narrated on the authority of Ammar, who said: Ibn Abi Ja'far narrated to us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of al-Rabi': Many rabbis were killed with him, meaning: large groups.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Ishaq told us, he said, Abu Zuhair told us, on the authority of Juwaybir, on the authority of Al-Dahhak, regarding his statement: How many a prophet was killed with him many devout men, he said: large crowds, their prophet was killed.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Suwaid bin Nasr told us, he said, Ibn Al-Mubarak told us, on the authority of Ja'far bin Habban and Al-Mubarak, on the authority of Al-Hasan, regarding his statement: And how many a prophet fought with whom were many pious men, Ja'far said: Scholars who were patient, and Ibn Al-Mubarak said: Pious and patient.

It was narrated on the authority of Al-Husayn bin Al-Faraj, who said: I heard Abu Muadh say: Ubayd bin Sulayman told us, who said: I heard Al-Dahhak say regarding his statement: Many rabbis were killed with him, meaning the great multitudes, their prophet was killed.

Muhammad bin Al-Hussein told us, Ahmad told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi: Many rabbis fought with him, meaning: large groups.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq, his saying: And how many a prophet was killed with many devout men, he said: And how many a prophet was killed, and with him were groups.

Muhammad bin Saad told me, he said, my father told me, he said, my uncle told me, he said, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn Abbas: And how many a prophet was killed with whom were many devout men. The devout are the large crowds.

Others said: The rabbis, the followers.

Who said that?

Yunus told me, he said, Ibn Wahb told us, he said, Ibn Zayd said regarding His statement: And how many a prophet was killed along with whom were many devout people, he said: The devout people are the followers, the devout people are the rulers, and the devout people are the subjects. And with this God rebuked them when they fled from him, when Satan cried out:

Muhammad has been killed. He said: The defeat was when he cried out in [Saha shouted]: O people, Muhammad, the Messenger of God, has been killed, so return to your tribes so that they may believe in you!

Abu Ja'far said: What is meant by the words of God Almighty: And they did not weaken because of what befell them in the cause of God, is that they were not helpless, because of the pain of the wounds that befell them in the cause of God, nor because of the killing of those who were killed from among them, from fighting the enemies of God, nor did they shrink from their struggle. And they did not weaken, meaning: their strength did not weaken because of the killing of their Prophet, nor did they submit, meaning: they were not humiliated so that they would humble themselves before their enemy by entering into their religion and flattering them in it out of fear of them, but they moved forward with their insights and the path of their Prophet, patiently following the command of God and the command of their Prophet, and obedience to God and following His revelation and inspiration. And God loves the patient, meaning: God loves these people and their likes from those who are patient with His command and obedience and obedience to His Messenger in the struggle against His enemy, not those who failed and fled from their enemy, nor those who turned on their heels and were humiliated before their enemy because their Prophet was killed or died, nor those who entered it and were weak before their enemy and weak because of the loss of their Prophet. Nabeel

And the people of interpretation said something similar to what we said about that.

Who said that?

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada: They did not lose heart for what befell them in the cause of God, nor did they weaken, nor did they submit, meaning: they did not become helpless, nor did they weaken because of the killing of their Prophet. And they did not submit, meaning: they did not turn away from their insight or their religion, but rather they fought for what the Prophet of God fought for until they joined God.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Ishaq told us, he said, Abdullah bin Abi Ja'far told us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-Rabi' regarding his statement: And they did not lose heart for what befell them in the cause of God, nor did they weaken, he says: they did not fail, nor did they weaken because of the killing of their Prophet, nor did they submit, he says: they did not turn away from their insight, they fought for what the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, fought for until they joined God.

Muhammad ibn al-Husayn told us, Ahmad ibn al-Mufaddal told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of al-Suddi: And they did not weaken, so the users did not weaken, for what befell them in the cause of God, of the killing of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace. And they did not weaken, he says: they did not weaken in the cause of God because of the killing of the Prophet. And they did not submit, he says: they did not humiliate themselves when the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: O God, they have no right to prevail over us - and And do not weaken and do not grieve, and you will be superior if you are [true] believers (Al Imran 3:139).

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: They did not weaken due to the loss of their prophet, nor did they weaken due to their enemy, nor did they submit due to what happened to them in the struggle for God and their religion, and that is patience, and God loves the patient.

Al-Qasim told us, he said, Al-Hussein told us, he said, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, he said, Ibn Abbas said: And they did not humble themselves, he said: They were humble.

Yunus told me, he said, Ibn Wahb told us, he said, Ibn Zayd said: And they did not submit, he said: They did not submit to their enemy, and God loves the patient.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

God Almighty said: And how many a prophet fought with whom were many pious men.

Al-Zuhri said: The devil shouted on the day of UHud 11: Muhammad has been killed, and a group of Muslims were defeated. Ka'b bin Malik said: I was the first to recognize the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. I saw his eyes shining from under his helmet, so I called out at the top of my voice: This is the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. He motioned for me to be silent, so God Almighty revealed: "And how many a prophet fought with whom were many pious men. They did not lose heart for what afflicted them in the cause of God, nor did they weaken" Al-Akhbar. Ka'in means how many. Al-Khalil and Sibawayh said: It is that the letter ka of comparison entered it and was built with it, so the meaning of how many came into the speech, and it was represented in the Qur'an as a nun, because it is a word that was transferred from its original form, so its wording changed its meaning. Then its use became widespread, so the Arabs played with it and manipulated it by changing it and deleting it, so languages were read in it. Ibn Kathir read wa-ka'in like wa-ka'in, on the weight of fa'il, and its original form was changed to an alif, just as it was changed in ya'as, so it was said ya'as. The poet said:

And there is a friend in the valleys who sees me if I am afflicted, he is the one afflicted

Another said:

And we have turned away from you a well-armed man who comes before the caravan, wearing a mask.

Another said:

There are people among the community whose brother is above them and they are honorable.

Ibn Muhaisin read wa-ka-in with a hamza and a shortened letter like wa-ka-an, which is from ka-in and its alif was deleted. He also said wa-ka-ayn like wa-ka-ayn, which is the reversed form of ka-ay with a lightened letter. The rest read wa-ka-ayn with a shaddah like ka-ayn, which is the original. The poet said:

Surat Al Imran 3:146

And how many a prophet fought with him many pious men, but they never lost heart because of what befell them in the cause of God, nor did they weaken, nor did they humble themselves. And God loves the patient.

How many people have their brother above them and they are honorable?

Another said:

How can we protect ourselves from an enemy with our glory and how can we protect ourselves from the weak and the fearful?

So he combined two languages: Ka'in and Ka'in, and a fifth language Ka'in like Ka'in, and it is as if it is a shortened version of Ka'in reversed Ka'in. Al-Jawhari did not mention other than two languages: Ka'in like Ka'in, and Ka'in like Ka'in. You say Ka'in rajul laqat with the accusative of what comes after Ka'in as a distinction, and you also say: Ka'in min rajul laqat, and inserting min after Ka'in is more than the accusative and better. And Bikayn tabi'i hath al-thawb? That is, how much do you sell it for? Dhu al-Rummah said:

And our fear of the enemy's wrath and spear is not his country

Al-Nahhas said: Abu Amr stopped and like without a nun, because it is a tanween, and this was narrated by Surah Ibn al-Mubarak from al-Kisa'i, and the rest stopped with a nun in accordance with the line of the Mushaf, and the meaning of the verse is to encourage the believers, and to command them to follow the example of those who came before from the best followers of the prophets, meaning many of the prophets were killed with him, many devout men, or many of the prophets were killed and their nations did not apostatize, two sayings: The first is from al-Hasan and Sa'id ibn Jubayr, al-Hasan said: No prophet was ever killed in war, and Ibn Jubayr said: We have not heard that a prophet was killed in combat, and the second is from Qatada and Ikrimah, and stopping on this saying, on killed is permissible, and it is the reading of Nafi', Ibn Jubayr, Abu Amr and Ya'qub, and it is the reading of Ibn Abbas and Abu Hatim chose it, and there are two views on it: One of them is that killed is applied to the prophet alone, and then the completion of the speech is at his saying killed and there is an implication in the speech, meaning and with him are many devout men, as it is said the prince was killed with a great army, meaning and with him is an army, And he went out with me on business, that is, with me, the second aspect is that the killing befell the Prophet and those with him from the riba'is, and the aspect of the speech is the killing of some of those who were with him, the Arabs say: We killed Banu Tamim and Banu Salim, but they killed some of them, and his saying and they did not weaken refers back to those who remained from them, I said: This statement is more similar to the revelation of the verse and more appropriate, because the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, was not killed, and a group of his companions were killed with him, and the Kufians and Ibn Amir read Qatil and it is the reading of Ibn Masoud, and Abu Ubaid chose it and said: If God praises the one who fights, then the one who was killed is included in it, and if He praises the one who was killed, no one else is included in it, so Qataal is more general and more praised, and the riba'is with a kasra on the ra' is the reading of the majority, and the reading of Ali, may God be pleased with him, with a damma on it, and Ibn Abbas with a fatha, three languages, and the riba'is the large groups, from Mujahid, Qatada, Ad-Dahhak, and Ikrimah, and one of them is rabbi with a damma on the ra' and a kasra, attributed to the rabbah also with a kasra on the ra' and a damma, and it is the group, and Abdullah Ibn Masoud said, the riba'is thousands Many, and Ibn Zayd said: The followers, and the first is better known in the language, and from it the rag in which the arrows are collected is called: Rabbah and Rabbah, and the Rabab are tribes that gathered, and Abaan bin Tha'lab said: The Rabbi is ten thousand, and Al-Hasan said: They are the patient scholars, Ibn Abbas and Mujahid and Qatada and Al-Rabi' and Al-Suddi: the large group, Hassan said:

And if a group turns away from the truth, We will impose upon them a burden.

Al-Zajaj said: There are two readings here: Rabiyun with a damma on the ra', and Rabiyun with a kasra on the ra'. As for the rabiyun with a damma: large groups, and it is said: ten thousand. I said: It has been narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas Rabiyun with a fatha on the ra', attributed to the Lord. Al-Khalil said: The Lord is one of the servants who were patient with the prophets, and they are the Rabbaniyun, attributed to deity, worship, and knowledge of the Lordship of God Almighty, and God knows best.

God the Almighty said: And they did not grow weak for what afflicted them in the cause of God. And they grew weak means they were weakened. It has been mentioned before that weakness is the breaking of seriousness due to fear. Al-Hasan and Abu Al-Samal read And they grew weak with a kasra on the ha' and a damma on it, two dialects from Abu Zaid. And the weakness of a thing is weakness, and I weakened it and weakened it, and the weak is: the lowest and shortest of the ribs, and weakness of camels: the dense, and weakness is: an hour that passes of the night and so is the weakening, and we became weak in that hour, meaning they did not grow weak for the killing of their prophet, or for the killing of those who were killed from them, meaning the rest of them did not grow weak, so the added word was deleted, And they did not grow weak meaning from their enemy, and they did not submit meaning for what afflicted them in jihad, and submission is humiliation and submission, and its origin is istakana on ifta'ala, so the fatha of the kaf was made full and an alif was generated from it, and whoever made it from the universe, it is istaf'ala, and the first is more similar in meaning to the verse, and it was read So what And they weakened, but they were not weakened (with a sukoon on the ha' and the 'ayn. Al-Kisa'i narrated they weakened with a fatha on the 'ayn. Then the Almighty informed about them after some of them were killed or their prophet was killed that they were patient and did not flee and prepared themselves for death, and sought forgiveness so that their death would be in repentance from sins if they were granted martyrdom, and they called for steadfastness so that they would not be defeated, and for victory over their enemies, and they singled out the feet for steadfastness over other limbs because they are relied upon. He says: Why did you not do and say the same, O companions of Muhammad? So He answered their call and gave them victory, triumph, and booty in this world and forgiveness in the Hereafter if they reach it. And thus does God with His sincere, repentant, truthful servants who support His religion, who are steadfast when meeting His enemy with His true promise and His truthful word, And God loves the patient, meaning those who are patient in jihad.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

When the Muslims were defeated on the day of Uhud and those who were killed were killed, Satan called out: Behold, Muhammad has been killed. Ibn Qami'ah returned to the polytheists and said to them: You have killed Muhammad, but he had struck the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and wounded him in the head. This fell into the hearts of many people and they believed that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, had been killed, and they permitted that to happen to him, as God has told about many of the prophets, peace be upon them. So weakness and frailty occurred and he was delayed from fighting. In that regard, God Almighty revealed to His Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace: And Muhammad is no more than a Messenger; before him have been Messengers. That is, he has an example in the message and in the permissibility of killing him. Ibn Abi Nujayh said on the authority of his father: A man from the Muhajireen passed by a man from the Ansar while he was wallowing in his blood and said to him: O so-and-so, do you know that Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, has been killed? The Ansari said: If Muhammad has been killed, then he has conveyed his message, so fight for your religion. Then the verse was revealed: And Muhammad is no more than a Messenger; before him have been Messengers. The Messengers" narrated by Al-Hafiz Abu Bakr Al-Bayhaqi in Dalil Al-Nubuwwah. Then God the Almighty said, denouncing those who have become weak, Then if he dies or is killed, will you turn back on your heels? That is, will you go back in reverse. And whoever turns back on his heels will never harm God at all, and God will reward the grateful. That is, those who obeyed Him and fought for His religion, and followed His Messenger, alive and dead. Likewise, it is proven in the Sahih, Musnads, Sunans, and other books of Islam through multiple chains of transmission that provide certainty. I mentioned that in the Musnads of the two Shaykhs Abu Bakr and Umar, may God be pleased with them, that As-Siddiq, may God be pleased with him, recited this verse when the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, died. Al-Bukhari said: Yahya bin Bakir told us, Al-Layth told us, on the authority of Aqeel, on the authority of Ibn Shihab, Abu Salamah told me that Aisha, may God be pleased with her, told him that Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him, came on a horse from his residence in As-Sunh until he dismounted and entered the mosque. He did not speak to the people until he entered upon Aisha. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, performed tayammum while he was covered with a garment of Habra. He uncovered his face, then leaned over him, kissed him and wept. Then he said: May my father and mother be sacrificed for you. By God, God will not cause you to die twice. As for the death that was decreed for you, you have brought it forward. Al-Zuhri said: Abu Salamah told me, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, that Abu Bakr went out and Umar was speaking to the people, so he said: Sit down, Umar. Umar refused to sit down, so the people turned to him and left Umar. Abu Bakr said: As for what comes after, whoever worshipped Muhammad, Muhammad has died, and whoever worshipped God, God is alive and will not die. God the Almighty said: "Muhammad is no more than a messenger; many messengers have passed away before him. If he dies or is killed, will you turn back on your heels? And whoever turns back on his heels will never harm God at all. And God will reward the grateful." He said: By God, it was as if the people did not know that God had revealed this verse until Abu Bakr recited it to them, and all the people received it from him, and no human being heard it except that he recited it. Saeed bin Al-Musayyab informed me that Umar said: By God, it was only when I heard Abu Bakr reciting it that I became paralyzed until my legs could not support me, and I fell to the ground. Abu al-Qasim al-Tabarani said: Ali ibn Abd al-Aziz told us, Amr ibn Hammad ibn Talhah al-Qannad told us, Asbat ibn Nasr told us, on the authority of Samak ibn Harb, on the authority of Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, that Ali used to say during the lifetime of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, If he dies or is killed, will you turn back on your heels? By God, we will not turn back on our heels after God has guided us. By God, if he dies or is killed, I will fight for what he fought for until I die. By God, I am his brother, his guardian, his cousin, and his heir. So who is more deserving of him than me? And the Almighty said: And no soul can die except by God's permission, at a predetermined time. That is, no one dies except by God's decree and until he completes the period that God has set for him. That is why He said at a predetermined time, like His saying: And no one lives long, nor does his lifespan decrease except in a predetermined time. And like His saying: It is He who created you from clay, then decreed a term, and a specified term is with Him. This verse contains encouragement for cowards and an exhortation for them to fight, because advancing or retreating does not decrease lifespan or increase it, as Ibn Abi Hatim said: Al-Abbas bin Yazid Al-Abdi told us: I heard Abu Mu'awiyah from Al-A'mash from Habib bin Sahban, who said: A man from the Muslims, and he was Hajar bin Adi, said: What prevents you from crossing to these enemy, this drop of semen - meaning the Tigris - And no soul can die except by God's permission, at a predetermined time. Then he charged his horse into the Tigris, and when he charged, he charged the people, and when the enemy saw them, they said: A register, so they fled. And His statement, And whoever desires the reward of this world, We give him thereof; and whoever desires the reward of the Hereafter, We give him thereof, meaning whoever does his work for this world only, will receive from it what God has decreed for him, and he will not have a share in the Hereafter. And whoever intends with his work the Hereafter, God will give him thereof along with what He has allotted for him in this world, as God Almighty said, "Whoever desires the harvest of the Hereafter, We increase for him his harvest. And whoever desires the harvest of this world, We give him thereof, and there is not for him in the Hereafter any share." And God Almighty said, "Whoever desires the immediate, We hasten for him therein what We will for whomever We intend. Then We have made for him Hell, which he will burn, blamed and banished. But whoever desires the Hereafter and strives for it with the necessary effort while he is a believer - it is those whose effort is ever appreciated." That is why, He said here, And We will reward the grateful, meaning We will give them from Our grace and mercy in this world and the Hereafter according to their gratitude and work. Then God Almighty said, comforting the believers for what had happened to their souls on the Day of Uhud, And how many a prophet fought with whom many pious men fought. It was said that its meaning is how many a prophet was killed and many were killed with him. Many of his companions are Rabbi. This statement is the choice of Ibn Jarir, who said: As for those who read many rabbis fought with him, they said: What is meant by killing is the Prophet and some of the rabbis with him, not all of them, and he only denied weakness and frailty from those who remained from the rabbis who were not killed. He said: And whoever read fought chose that, because he said: If they had been killed, there would have been no known meaning for God's statement they did not weaken because it is impossible for them to be described as not weakening or becoming weak after they were killed. Then he chose the reading of whoever read many rabbis fought with him, because God rebuked in these verses and the ones before them those who fled on the day of Uhud and abandoned the fighting when they heard the caller shouting that Muhammad had been killed, so God rebuked them for fleeing and abandoning the fighting, and said to them, If he dies or is killed, O believers, will you turn back from your religion and turn back on your heels? It was said: How many prophets were killed before him from his companions, many rabbis? And the words of Ibn Ishaq in the biography require another statement, for he said: And how many prophets were killed while with him were Rabbiyun, meaning groups, so they did not weaken after their Prophet, nor did they weaken against their enemy, nor did they submit to what befell them in the struggle for the sake of God and their religion, and that is patience. And God loves the patient. So He made His statement, With him are many Rabbiyun a state. Al-Suhayli supported this statement and exaggerated it, and he has a direction for His statement, So they did not weaken when what befell them the verse, and this is what Al-Umawi narrated in his Maghazi from the book of Muhammad bin Ibrahim and no one else narrated it, and some of them read, Many Rabbiyun fought with him. Sufyan Al-Thawri said, on the authority of Asim, on the authority of Zur, on the authority of Ibn Masoud, Many Rabbiyun meaning thousands, and Ibn Abbas, Mujahid, Saeed bin Jubayr, Ikrimah, Al-Hasan, Qatadah, Al-Suddi, Al-Rabi', and Ata Al-Khurasani said: Rabbiyun are large groups, and Abd Al-Razzaq said on the authority of Muammar on the authority of Al-Hasan, Many Rabbiyun meaning many scholars, and from him also: Scholars of patience, righteous and pious. Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of some of the grammarians of Basra that the Rabbiyyin are those who worship the Almighty Lord. He said: Some of them responded to him and said: If that were the case, it would have been said: Rabbiyyin with the opening of the ra'. Ibn Zayd said: The Rabbiyyin are the followers and the subjects, and the Rabbanis are the governors. They did not lose heart for what befell them in the cause of God, nor did they weaken, nor did they humble themselves. Qatada and Ar-Rabi' ibn Anas said, They did not weaken by the killing of their Prophet, nor did they humble themselves meaning: they did not turn away from their insight or their religion and fight for what God's Prophet fought for until they joined God. Ibn Abbas said, nor did they humble themselves they were humble. As-Suddi and Ibn Zayd said: They were not humbled before their enemy. Muhammad ibn Ishaq, As-Suddi and Qatadah said: That is, that did not befall them when their Prophet was killed. "And God loves the patient. Their only saying was that they said, 'Our Lord, forgive us our sins and our transgression in our conduct and plant firmly our feet and give us victory over the disbelieving people.'" That is, they had no other choice but that. So God gave them the reward of this world, that is, victory, triumph and a good end, and the best reward of the Hereafter, that is, He combined that for them with this. And God loves the doers of good.

And how many a prophet fought with him many pious men, but they never lost heart because of what befell them in the cause of God, nor did they weaken, nor did they humble themselves. And God loves the patient.

Fath al-Qadir

And his saying 146- And how many Al-Khalil and Sibawayh said: It is that which the kaf of comparison entered upon it and was fixed with it, so after the composition it became with the meaning of how much, and it was represented in the Qur'an as a nun, because it is a word that was transferred from its origin, so its pronunciation was changed to change its meaning, then its use became widespread, so the Arabs manipulated it by changing and deleting, so it became four languages in which it was read: One of them is Ka'in like Ka'in, and Ibn Kathir read it with it, and similar to it is the saying of the poet:

And there is a friend in the valleys whom you will see if you are afflicted, he is the one afflicted

Another said:

And we have turned away from you, a man armed with a live bullet in front of the caravan, wearing a mask

Zuhair said:

And if you see someone who admires you, whether he speaks too much or too little Ka'ayn with emphasis like Ka'ayn, and the rest read it this way and it is the original. The third: Ka'ayn like Ka'ayn without emphasis. The fourth: Ka'ayn with a ya' followed by a kasra hamza, and Abu Amr stopped without a noon and said: Ka'ay because it is a tanween, and the rest stopped with a noon, and the meaning is many of the prophets were killed with him, Nafi', Ibn Kathir, Abu Amr and Ya'qub read it as qatal in the passive form, and it is the reading of Ibn Abbas, and Abu Hatim chose it, and there are two views: The first is that in qatal there is a pronoun referring to the prophet, and in that case his saying with him are rabeeyan is a circumstantial clause as it is said: the prince was killed with an army, meaning with him is an army. The second view is that the killing was directed at rabeeyan, so there is no pronoun in qatal, and the meaning is: some of his companions were killed and they are the rabeeyan. The Kufians and Ibn Amir read Qatil, which is the reading of Ibn Masoud and Abu Ubaid chose it. He said: If God praises the one who fights, then the one who is killed is included in it. If He praises the one who is killed and does not include the one who fights and is not killed, then Qatil is more general and praiseworthy. This other reading is preferred. The second aspect of the first reading is the statement of Al-Hasan: No prophet was ever killed in war. Saeed bin Jubair said the same. The rabbiyyun with a kasra on the ra is the reading of the majority. Ali read it with a damma and Ibn Abbas read it with a fatha. Its singular is rabbiyyun with a fatha and is attributed to the Lord. The rabbiyyun with a damma and kasra on the ra is accusative to the rabbah with a kasra and damma on the ra, which is the group. For this reason, a group of the Salaf interpreted them as large groups. It was said: They are the followers. It was said: They are the scholars. Al-Khalil said: The rabbiyyun is one of the servants who were patient with the prophets and they are the rabbiyyun. They are attributed to deity, worship, and knowledge of divinity. Al-Zajaj said: The rabbiyyun with a damma are the groups. His statement They did not weaken is in apposition to Qatil or Qatal. Weakness: the breaking of seriousness due to fear. Al-Hasan read Wahanu with a kasra or a damma on the ha'. Abu Zaid said: There are two dialects for Wahan of a thing, Yahin and Wahan meaning weakness: they did not weaken because of the killing of their prophet or because of the killing of those who were killed from them. And they did not weaken meaning: from their enemy. And they did not submit for what happened to them in jihad. Submission means humiliation and submission. It was read Wa Wahanu and Wa Da'afu with a sukoon on the ha' and the 'ayn. Al-Kisa'i narrated Da'afu with a fatha on the 'ayn. In this is a rebuke to those who were defeated on the day of Uhud and were humiliated, submitted and weakened because of that rumour that came from Satan and did not do as the companions of the messengers who came before them did.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

146- The Almighty said: And how many a prophet fought with him, many devout men. Ibn Kathir read and how many, with a long vowel and a hamza on the weight of fa'il, and Abu Ja'far softened the hamza, and the others read and how many with a hamza and a shaddah on the weight of ka'in, and its meaning is: and how much, and it is the kaf of comparison attached to the interrogative ay, and the tanween did not occur in the script except in this letter specifically, and some readers stop at and how many without a nun, and most stop at a nun, his saying killed Ibn Kathir, Nafi' and the people of Basra read with a damma on the qaf, and the others read killed, so whoever reads killed is because of his saying: they did not weaken and it is impossible to describe them as not weakening after they were killed, because Saeed bin Jubair said: We have not heard that a prophet was killed in battle, and because killed is more general.

Abu Ubaid said: If God Almighty praises someone who fights, then the one who was killed is included in that, and if He praises someone who was killed, then no one else is included in that, so killer is more general.

Whoever reads killed has three aspects: One of them:

That the killing was attributed to the Prophet alone, then the statement would be complete when he said killed, and the verse would imply the meaning: and with him were many rabbis, just as it is said: So-and-so was killed and with him was a large army, meaning: and with him.

The second aspect: That the killing affected the Prophet and the usurers who were with him, and what is meant is: some of those with him. The Arabs say we killed the sons of so-and-so, but they only killed some of them, and his saying they did not weaken refers back to the rest.

The third aspect: that the killing should be for the usurers only.

And his saying, Many rabbis, Ibn Abbas, Mujahid and Qatadah said: large groups. Ibn Masoud said: The rabbis are thousands. Al-Kalbi said: One rabbiyyah is ten thousand. Ad-Dahhak said: One rabbiyyah is a thousand. Al-Hasan said: Jurists are scholars. It was also said: They are the followers. The rabbiyyun are the governors, and the rabbiyyun are the subjects. It was also said: It is attributed to the Lord and they are those who worship the Lord. They did not weaken, meaning they did not become cowardly, for what afflicted them in the cause of God, nor did they weaken, from jihad because of the pain of the wounds they suffered and the killing of their companions. They did not humble themselves, Muqatil said: They did not surrender or submit to their enemy. As-Suddi said: They were not humiliated. / Ata' said: They did not humble themselves. Abu Al-Aaliyah said: They did not become cowardly, but they were patient in the command of their Lord and in obeying their Prophet and in jihad against their enemy. And God loves the patient.

Surat Al Imran 3:146

And how many a prophet fought with him many pious men, but they never lost heart because of what befell them in the cause of God, nor did they weaken, nor did they humble themselves. And God loves the patient.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

146 And how many originally, the letter kaf was added to it and it became the meaning of how much and the nun is a tanween that is fixed in writing in a way that is not analogous. Ibn Kathir read and how many as ka'an and the reason for that is changing the change of the single word like their saying wa'amli in la'amri, so it became ka'in then the second ya' was deleted for the sake of alleviation then the other ya' was replaced with an alif as was replaced from ta'i from a prophet to clarify it. Many rabbiyoon fought with him rabbiyoon are knowledgeable, pious, or worshippers of their Lord. It was said groups and the rabbiyoon is attributed to the rabbah which is the group for emphasis. Ibn Kathir, Nafi', Abu Amr and Ya'qub read killed and its attribution to rabbiyoon or the pronoun of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and with him rabbiyoon is a state of it and the first is supported by the fact that it was read with emphasis and rabbiyoon was read with fatha as is the original and with damma which is one of the changes in attribution like kasra.

They did not lose heart for what befell them in the cause of God. They did not slacken nor did their resolve break when the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, or some of them were killed.

They did not weaken against the enemy or in religion.

They did not submit nor did they yield to the enemy. Its root is istakana from sukoon because the submissive person is still with his companion so that he can do with him what he wants. The alif is from the full fatha or istakana from kawn because he asks himself to be for the one who submits to him. This is a definition of what befell them when the rumors spread of his killing, may God bless him and grant him peace. And God loves the patient so He grants them victory and magnifies their status.

Surat Al Imran 3:147

And their only statement was that they said, Our Lord, forgive us our sins and our transgression in our conduct and plant firmly our feet and give us victory over the disbelieving people.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And their only statement when their prophet was killed, despite their steadfastness and patience was that they said, Our Lord, forgive us our sins and our transgression we exceeded the limit in our affair indicating that what happened to them was due to their evil actions and their humiliation and plant firmly our feet with the strength to fight and give us victory over the disbelieving people

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: God Almighty means by His statement: And their saying was not, and the saying of the two rabbis - and the ha and mim are from the mention of the names of the two rabbis - except that they said, meaning: They had no saying other than this saying, when their prophet was killed, and His statement: Our Lord, forgive us our sins, meaning: They did not hold fast, when their prophet was killed, except to be patient with what befell them, and to struggle against their enemy, and to ask their Lord for forgiveness and victory over their enemy. The meaning of the statement is: Their saying was not except that they said, Our Lord, forgive us our sins.

As for extravagance, it is excess in something. It is said: So-and-so was excessive in this matter, if he exceeded its amount and went to extremes.

Its meaning here is: Forgive us our sins: the minor ones, and those in which we have been excessive and have gone beyond the major ones. The meaning of the words was: Forgive us our sins, the minor ones and the major ones, as in:

Muhammad bin Amr told me, he said, Abu Asim told us, on the authority of Isa, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding the statement of God: And our extravagance in our affair, he said: Our sins.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Abu Hudhayfah told us, he said, Shabl told us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid: And our extravagance in our affair, our sins and our injustice to ourselves.

It was narrated on the authority of Al-Husayn, who said: I heard Abu Muadh, who said: Ubayd ibn Sulayman told us, who said: I heard Al-Dahhak, regarding his statement: And our extravagance in our affair, meaning major sins.

Al-Qasim told us, he said, Al-Hussein told us, he said,

Abu Tamila told us, on the authority of Ubaid bin Sulayman, on the authority of Al-Dahhak bin Muzahim, he said: The major sins.

Al-Qasim told us, he said, Al-Hussein told us, he said, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, he said, Ibn Abbas said: And our extravagance in our affair, he said: Our sins.

Muhammad bin Saad told me, he said, my father told me, he said, my uncle told me, he said, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding his statement: And our extravagance in our affair, he said: our sins.

As for his saying: And make our feet firm, he is saying: Make us among those who are steadfast in the war against Your enemy and in fighting them, and do not make us among those who are defeated and flee from them and do not establish their feet in one place to fight them. And give us victory over the disbelieving people, he is saying: And give us victory over those who denied Your Oneness and the prophethood of Your Prophet.

Abu Ja'far said: This is a reprimand from God the Almighty to His servants who fled from the enemy on the day of Uhud and abandoned fighting them, and a discipline for them. God the Almighty says: Why did you not do, when it was said to you: Your Prophet has been killed, as these rabbis who were followers of the prophets did when their prophets were killed? Why did you not be patient with your enemy as they were patient, and not weaken and submit to your enemy and try to turn back on your heels, as these rabbis did not weaken and submit to their enemy, and you asked your Lord for victory and triumph as they asked, so that God would grant you victory over them as they were victorious, for God loves those who are patient in their matter and in the struggle against their enemy, so He gives them victory and triumph over their enemy? Like:

Ibn Humayd narrated to us, he said: Salamah narrated to us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: "And their only statement was that they said: 'Our Lord, forgive us our sins and our transgression in our conduct and plant firmly our feet and give us victory over the disbelieving people.'" That is: So say as they said, and know that this is only because of sins on your part, and seek forgiveness as they sought forgiveness, and continue in your religion as they continued in their religion, and do not turn back on your heels, and ask Him as they asked Him to plant firmly your feet, and seek His aid as they sought His aid against the disbelieving people. All of this is from their statement, and it happened when their prophet was killed, so they did not do as you did.

Abu Ja'far said: The reading that is the reading in His statement: And their saying was not is the accusative, due to the consensus of the readers of the regions on that, transmitted widely and inherited from the proof. The accusative was chosen for the saying, because an can only be definite, so it was more appropriate for it to be the noun, rather than the nouns that may be definite sometimes and indefinite sometimes. Therefore, the accusative was chosen for every noun that followed kan if it was followed by the light an: like His statement: So the answer of his people was only that they said, 'Kill him or burn him' (Al-Ankabut: 24), and His statement: Then their trial was only that they said (Al-An'am: 23). But if what follows kan is a definite noun, and what follows it is like it, then the nominative and accusative are the same in what follows kan. If you make what follows kan the noun, you raise it and put what follows it in the accusative. If you make the one who follows it the predicate, you put it in the accusative case and raise what comes after it, as in the statement of God Almighty: Then the worst was the end of those who did evil (ar-Rum 30:10). If you make the consequence the noun, you put it in the nominative case, and make the worst the predicate in the accusative case. If you make the consequence the predicate, you put it in the accusative case and say: Then the worst was the end of those who did evil (ar-Rum 30:10), and make the worst the noun, so it is in the nominative case, as the poet said:

Surat Al Imran 3:147

And their only statement was that they said, "Our Lord, forgive us our sins and our transgression in our conduct and plant firmly our feet and give us victory over the disbelieving people."

The people knew that the only disease of Thahlan was the disgrace of those who led it.

It was also narrated: Her illness in Thalan was nothing but disgrace, in the accusative and nominative cases, as I have explained. If he had done something like that, even though it was permissible, the most eloquent speech among the Arabs would be what I have described.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

God Almighty says: And their only statement was that they said, 'Our Lord, forgive us our sins and our transgression in our conduct and plant firmly our feet and give us victory over the disbelieving people.'

Some of them read wa ma kan qawlum in the nominative case, making it the subject of kan, so its meaning is, wa ma kan qawlum is nothing but their saying: Our Lord, forgive us our sins. And whoever reads in the accusative case, makes the saying the predicate of kan and its subject is illa anna qawl, "Our Lord, forgive us our sins," meaning the minor sins, and our extravagance, meaning the major sins. Extravagance means going to extremes in something and exceeding the limit. In Sahih Muslim, on the authority of Abu Musa al-Ash'ari, "On the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, that he used to supplicate with this supplication: O God, forgive me my sin, my ignorance, and my extravagance in my affairs and what You know better than me," and he mentioned the hadith. So a person should use what is in the Book of God and the authentic Sunnah of supplication and leave what is other than it, and not say I chose this, for God Almighty has chosen for His Prophet and His saints and taught them how to supplicate.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

When the Muslims were defeated on the day of Uhud and those who were killed were killed, Satan called out:

Behold, Muhammad has been killed. Ibn Qami'ah returned to the polytheists and said to them: You have killed Muhammad, but he had struck the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and wounded him in the head. This fell into the hearts of many people and they believed that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, had been killed, and they permitted that to happen to him, as God has told about many of the prophets, peace be upon them. So weakness and frailty occurred and he was delayed from fighting. In that regard, God Almighty revealed to His Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace: And Muhammad is no more than a Messenger; before him have been Messengers. That is, he has an example in the message and in the permissibility of killing him. Ibn Abi Nujayh said on the authority of his father: A man from the Muhajireen passed by a man from the Ansar while he was wallowing in his blood and said to him: O so-and-so, do you know that Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, has been killed? The Ansari said: If Muhammad has been killed, then he has conveyed his message, so fight for your religion. Then the verse was revealed: And Muhammad is no more than a Messenger; before him have been Messengers. The Messengers" narrated by Al-Hafiz Abu Bakr Al-Bayhaqi in Dalil Al-Nubuwwah. Then God the Almighty said, denouncing those who have become weak, Then if he dies or is killed, will you turn back on your heels? That is, will you go back in reverse. And whoever turns back on his heels will never harm God at all, and God will reward the grateful. That is, those who obeyed Him and fought for His religion, and followed His Messenger, alive and dead. Likewise, it is proven in the Sahih, Musnads, Sunans, and other books of Islam through multiple chains of transmission that provide certainty. I mentioned that in the Musnads of the two Shaykhs Abu Bakr and Umar, may God be pleased with them, that As-Siddiq, may God be pleased with him, recited this verse when the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, died. Al-Bukhari said: Yahya bin Bakir told us, Al-Layth told us, on the authority of Aqeel, on the authority of Ibn Shihab, Abu Salamah told me that Aisha, may God be pleased with her, told him that Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him, came on a horse from his residence in As-Sunh until he dismounted and entered the mosque. He did not speak to the people until he entered upon Aisha. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, performed tayammum while he was covered with a garment of Habra. He uncovered his face, then leaned over him, kissed him and wept. Then he said: May my father and mother be sacrificed for you. By God, God will not cause you to die twice. As for the death that was decreed for you, you have brought it forward. Al-Zuhri said: Abu Salamah told me, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, that Abu Bakr went out and Umar was speaking to the people, so he said: Sit down, Umar. Umar refused to sit down, so the people turned to him and left Umar. Abu Bakr said: As for what comes after, whoever worshipped Muhammad, Muhammad has died, and whoever worshipped God, God is alive and will not die. God the Almighty said: "Muhammad is no more than a messenger; many messengers have passed away before him. If he dies or is killed, will you turn back on your heels? And whoever turns back on his heels will never harm God at all. And God will reward the grateful." He said: By God, it was as if the people did not know that God had revealed this verse until Abu Bakr recited it to them, and all the people received it from him, and no human being heard it except that he recited it. Saeed bin Al-Musayyab informed me that Umar said: By God, it was only when I heard Abu Bakr reciting it that I became paralyzed until my legs could not support me, and I fell to the ground. Abu al-Qasim al-Tabarani said: Ali ibn Abd al-Aziz told us, Amr ibn Hamad ibn Talhah al-Qannad told us, Asbat ibn Nasr told us, on the authority of Samak ibn Harb, on the authority of Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, that Ali used to say during the lifetime of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, If he dies or is killed, will you turn back on your heels? By God, we will not turn back on our heels after God has guided us. By God, if he dies or is killed, I will fight for what he fought for until I die. By God, I am his brother, his guardian, his cousin, and his heir. So who is more deserving of him than me? And the Almighty said: And no soul can die except by God's permission, at a predetermined time. That is, no one dies except by God's decree and until he completes the period that God has set for him. That is why He said at a predetermined time, like His saying: And no one lives long, nor does his lifespan decrease except in a predetermined time. And like His saying: It is He who created you from clay, then decreed a term, and a specified term is with Him. This verse contains encouragement for cowards and an exhortation for them to fight, because advancing or retreating does not decrease lifespan or increase it, as Ibn Abi Hatim said: Al-Abbas bin Yazid Al-Abdi told us: I heard Abu Mu'awiyah from Al-A'mash from Habib bin Sahban, who said: A man from the Muslims, and he was Hajar bin Adi, said: What prevents you from crossing to these enemy, this drop of semen - meaning the Tigris - And no soul can die except by God's permission, at a predetermined time. Then he charged his horse into the Tigris, and when he charged, he charged the people, and when the enemy saw them, they said: A register, so they fled. And His statement, And whoever desires the reward of this world, We give him thereof; and whoever desires the reward of the Hereafter, We give him thereof, meaning whoever does his work for this world only, will receive from it what God has decreed for him, and he will not have a share in the Hereafter. And whoever intends with his work the Hereafter, God will give him thereof along with what He has allotted for him in this world, as God Almighty said, "Whoever desires the harvest of the Hereafter, We increase for him his harvest. And whoever desires the harvest of this world, We give him thereof, and there is not for him in the Hereafter any share." And God Almighty said, "Whoever desires the immediate, We hasten for him therein what We will for whomever We intend. Then We have made for him Hell, which he will burn, blamed and banished. But whoever desires the Hereafter and strives for it with the necessary effort while he is a believer - it is those whose effort is ever appreciated." That is why He said here, And We will reward the grateful, meaning We will give them from

Our grace and mercy in this world and the Hereafter according to their gratitude and work. Then God Almighty said, comforting the believers for what had happened to their souls on the Day of Uhud, And how many a prophet fought with whom many pious men fought. It was said that its meaning is how many a prophet was killed and many were killed with him. Many of his companions are Rabbi. This statement is the choice of Ibn Jarir, who said: As for those who read many rabbis fought with him, they said: What is meant by killing is the Prophet and some of the rabbis with him, not all of them, and he only denied weakness and frailty from those who remained from the rabbis who were not killed. He said: And whoever read fought chose that, because he said: If they had been killed, there would have been no known meaning for God's statement they did not weaken because it is impossible for them to be described as not weakening or becoming weak after they were killed. Then he chose the reading of whoever read many rabbis fought with him, because God rebuked in these verses and the ones before them those who fled on the day of Uhud and abandoned the fighting when they heard the caller shouting that Muhammad had been killed, so God rebuked them for fleeing and abandoning the fighting, and said to them, If he dies or is killed, O believers, will you turn back from your religion and turn back on your heels? It was said: How many prophets were killed before him from his companions, many rabbis? And the words of Ibn Ishaq in the biography require another statement, for he said: And how many prophets were killed while with him were Rabbiyun, meaning groups, so they did not weaken after their Prophet, nor did they weaken against their enemy, nor did they submit to what befell them in the struggle for the sake of God and their religion, and that is patience. And God loves the patient. So He made His statement, With him are many Rabbiyun a state. Al-Suhayli supported this statement and exaggerated it, and he has a direction for His statement, So they did not weaken when what befell them the verse, and this is what Al-Umawi narrated in his Maghazi from the book of Muhammad bin Ibrahim and no one else narrated it, and some of them read, Many Rabbiyun fought with him. Sufyan Al-Thawri said, on the authority of Asim, on the authority of Zur, on the authority of Ibn Masoud, Many Rabbiyun meaning thousands, and Ibn Abbas, Mujahid, Saeed bin Jubayr, Ikrimah, Al-Hasan, Qatadah, Al-Suddi, Al-Rabi', and Ata Al-Khurasani said: Rabbiyun are large groups, and Abd Al-Razzaq said on the authority of Muammar on the authority of Al-Hasan, Many Rabbiyun meaning many scholars, and from him also: Scholars of patience, righteous and pious. Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of some of the grammarians of Basra that the Rabbiyyin are those who worship the Almighty Lord. He said: Some of them responded to him and said: If that were the case, it would have been said: Rabbiyyin with the opening of the ra'. Ibn Zayd said: The Rabbiyyin are the followers and the subjects, and the Rabbanis are the governors. They did not lose heart for what befell them in the cause of God, nor did they weaken, nor did they humble themselves. Qatada and Ar-Rabi' ibn Anas said, They did not weaken by the killing of their Prophet, nor did they humble themselves meaning: they did not turn away from their insight or their religion and fight for what God's Prophet fought for until they joined God. Ibn Abbas said, nor did they humble themselves they were humble. As-Suddi and Ibn Zayd said: They were not humbled before their enemy. Muhammad ibn Ishaq, As-Suddi and Qatadah said: That is, that did not befall them when their Prophet was killed. "And God loves the patient. Their only saying was that they said, 'Our Lord, forgive us our sins and our transgression in our conduct and plant firmly our feet and give us victory over the disbelieving people.'" That is, they had no other choice but that. So God gave them the reward of this world, that is, victory, triumph and a good end, and the best reward of the Hereafter, that is, He combined that for them with this. And God loves the doers of good.

Surat Al Imran 3:147

And their only statement was that they said, "Our Lord, forgive us our sins and our transgression in our conduct and plant firmly our feet and give us victory over the disbelieving people."

them, then seeking steadfastness in the places of war and victory over the enemy in order to be out of submission and purity, so that it would be closer to being answered. And their statement was made good because what they said is more well-known, indicating the aspect of the relation and the time of the event.

Fath al-Qadir

His statement 147- And their saying was not meaning: the saying of those who were with the prophets was nothing but this saying, and their saying is in the accusative case as the predicate of was. Ibn Kathir and Asim read in a narration from them with the raising of their saying. And his statement except that they said is an empty exception: meaning what was their saying when some of their rabbis were killed or their prophet was killed except that they said, 'Our Lord, forgive us our sins' It was said: These are minor sins. And his statement: And our extravagance in our affair It was said: These are major sins, and it appears that sins include everything that is called a sin, whether minor or major. Extravagance is that in which there is exceeding the limit, so it is from the conjunction of the specific with the general, they said that despite being rabbis, to demean themselves and plant firmly our feet in the places of battle.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

147- The Almighty's saying: And their saying was not, is in the accusative case as the predicate of was, the noun in that they said, meaning: And their saying when their Prophet was killed was not, except that they said, 'Our Lord, forgive us our sins' meaning: the minor ones, and our transgression in our affair meaning: the major ones, and plant firmly our feet, so that they do not slip, and give us victory over the disbelieving people, meaning: Why did you not do and say the same about the companions of Muhammad?

Tafsir al-Baidawi

147 And their only statement was that they said, 'Our Lord, forgive us our sins and our transgression in our affair and plant firmly our feet and give us victory over the disbelieving people.' That is, their only statement, despite their steadfastness and strength in religion and their being rabbis, was this statement, which was attributing the sins and transgression to themselves in order to belittle them and attributing what had befallen them to their evil deeds and seeking forgiveness for

Surat Al Imran 3:148

So God gave them the reward of this world and the best reward of the Hereafter. And God loves the doers of good.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

So God gave them the reward of this world victory and spoils and the best reward of the Hereafter meaning Paradise, and its goodness is preference over what is deserved and God loves the doers of good

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: By that, the Most High means: So God gave those whom He described with what He described them, of patience in obeying God after the killing of their prophets, and in fighting their enemy, and seeking help from God in their affairs, and following the paths of their leader for what they did in God - the reward of this world, meaning: a reward in this world, and that is: victory over their enemy and the enemy of God, and triumph, and conquest over them, and empowerment for them in the lands, and the good reward of the Hereafter, meaning: and the best reward of the Hereafter for what they did in the world of their righteous deeds, and that is: Paradise and its delights, as:

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, his saying: And their only saying was that they said, 'Our Lord, forgive us our sins,' and he recited until he reached And God loves the doers of good, yes, by God, God would have given them victory, supremacy, empowerment, and triumph over their enemy in this world, and the best reward of the Hereafter, he says: the best reward in the Hereafter, which is Paradise.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Ishaq told us, he said, Abdullah bin Abi Jaafar told us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-Rabi', his saying: And what was their saying, then he mentioned something similar.

Al-Qasim told us, he said, Al-Hussein told us, he said, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, regarding his statement: So God gave them the reward of this world, he said: victory and spoils, and the good reward of the Hereafter, he said: God's pleasure and mercy.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: So God gave them the reward of this world, victory over their enemy, and the good reward of the Hereafter, Paradise and what is prepared in it. And His statement, And God loves the doers of good, God Almighty says: God did that to them because of their goodness, for He loves the doers of good, and they are the ones who do what God Almighty described about them that they did when their prophet was killed.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

The Almighty said: So God gave them meaning He gave them the reward of this world meaning victory and triumph over their enemy and the good reward of the Hereafter meaning Paradise. Al-Jahdary read So God rewarded them from the reward, and God loves the doers of good mentioned above.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

When the Muslims were defeated on the day of Uhud and those who were killed were killed, Satan called out: Behold, Muhammad has been killed. Ibn Qami'ah returned to the polytheists and said to them: You have killed Muhammad, but he had struck the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and wounded him in the head. This fell into the hearts of many people and they believed that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, had been killed, and they permitted that to happen to him, as God has told about many of the prophets, peace be upon them. So weakness and frailty occurred and he was delayed from fighting. In that regard, God Almighty revealed to His Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace: And Muhammad is no more than a Messenger; before him have been Messengers. That is, he has an example in the message and in the permissibility of killing him. Ibn Abi Nujayh said on the authority of his father: A man from the Muhajireen passed by a man from the Ansar while he was wallowing in his blood and said to him: O so-and-so, do you know that Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, has been killed? The Ansari said: If Muhammad has been killed, then he has conveyed his message, so fight for your religion. Then the verse was revealed: And Muhammad is no more than a Messenger; before him have been Messengers. The Messengers" narrated by Al-Hafiz Abu Bakr Al-Bayhaqi in Dalil Al-Nubuwwah. Then God the Almighty said, denouncing those who have become weak, Then if he dies or is killed, will you turn back on your heels? That is, will you go back in reverse. And whoever turns back on his heels will never harm God at all, and God will reward the grateful. That is, those who obeyed Him and fought for His religion, and followed His Messenger, alive and dead. Likewise, it is proven in the Sahih, Musnads, Sunans, and other books of Islam through multiple chains of transmission that provide certainty. I mentioned that in the Musnads of the two Shaykhs Abu Bakr and Umar, may God be pleased with them, that As-Siddiq, may God be pleased with him, recited this verse when the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, died. Al-Bukhari said: Yahya bin Bakir told us, Al-Layth told us, on the authority of Aqeel, on the authority of Ibn Shihab, Abu Salamah told me that Aisha, may God be pleased with her, told him that Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him, came on a horse from his residence in As-Sunh until he dismounted and entered the mosque. He did not speak to the people until he entered upon Aisha. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, performed

Surat Al Imran 3:148

So God gave them the reward of this world and the best reward of the Hereafter. And God loves the doers of good.

tayammum while he was covered with a garment of Habra. He uncovered his face, then leaned over him, kissed him and wept. Then he said: May my father and mother be sacrificed for you. By God, God will not cause you to die twice. As for the death that was decreed for you, you have brought it forward. Al-Zuhri said: Abu Salamah told me, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, that Abu Bakr went out and Umar was speaking to the people, so he said: Sit down, Umar. Umar refused to sit down, so the people turned to him and left Umar. Abu Bakr said: As for what comes after, whoever worshipped Muhammad, Muhammad has died, and whoever worshipped God, God is alive and will not die. God the Almighty said: "Muhammad is no more than a messenger; many messengers have passed away before him. If he dies or is killed, will you turn back on your heels? And whoever turns back on his heels will never harm God at all. And God will reward the grateful." He said: By God, it was as if the people did not know that God had revealed this verse until Abu Bakr recited it to them, and all the people received it from him, and no human being heard it except that he recited it. Saeed bin Al-Musayyab informed me that Umar said: By God, it was only when I heard Abu Bakr reciting it that I became paralyzed until my legs could not support me, and I fell to the ground. Abu al-Qasim al-Tabarani said: Ali ibn Abd al-Aziz told us, Amr ibn Hammad ibn Talhah al-Qannad told us, Asbat ibn Nasr told us, on the authority of Samak ibn Harb, on the authority of Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, that Ali used to say during the lifetime of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, If he dies or is killed, will you turn back on your heels? By God, we will not turn back on our heels after God has guided us. By God, if he dies or is killed, I will fight for what he fought for until I die. By God, I am his brother, his guardian, his cousin, and his heir. So who is more deserving of him than me? And the Almighty said: And no soul can die except by God's permission, at a predetermined time. That is, no one dies except by God's decree and until he completes the period that God has set for him. That is why He said at a predetermined time, like His saying: And no one lives long, nor does his lifespan decrease except in a predetermined time. And like His saying: It is He who created you from clay, then decreed a term, and a specified term is with Him. This verse contains encouragement for cowards and an exhortation for them to fight, because advancing or retreating does not decrease lifespan or increase it, as Ibn Abi Hatim said: Al-Abbas bin Yazid Al-Abdi told us: I heard Abu Mu'awiyah from Al-A'mash from Habib bin Sahban, who said: A man from the Muslims, and he was Hajar bin Adi, said: What prevents you from crossing to these enemy, this drop of semen - meaning the Tigris - And no soul can die except by God's permission, at a predetermined time. Then he charged his horse into the Tigris, and when he charged, he charged the people, and when the enemy saw them, they said: A register, so they fled. And His statement, And whoever desires the reward of this world, We give him thereof; and whoever desires the reward of the Hereafter, We give him thereof, meaning whoever does his work for this world only, will receive from it what God has decreed for him, and he will not have a share in the Hereafter. And whoever intends with his work the Hereafter, God will give him thereof along with what He has allotted for him in this world, as God Almighty said, "Whoever desires the harvest of the Hereafter, We increase for him his harvest. And whoever desires the harvest of this world, We give him thereof, and there is not for him in the Hereafter any share." And God Almighty said, "Whoever desires the immediate, We hasten for him therein what We will for whomever We intend. Then We have made for him Hell, which he will burn, blamed and banished. But whoever desires the Hereafter and strives for it with the necessary effort while he is a believer - it is those whose effort is ever appreciated." That is why He said here, And We will reward the grateful, meaning We will give them from Our grace and mercy in this world and the Hereafter according to their gratitude and work. Then God Almighty said, comforting the believers for what had happened to their souls on the Day of Uhud, And how many a prophet fought with whom many pious men fought. It was said that its meaning is how many a prophet was killed and many were killed with him. Many of his companions are Rabbi. This statement is the choice of Ibn Jarir, who said: As for those who read many rabbis fought with him, they said: What is meant by killing is the Prophet and some of the rabbis with him, not all of them, and he only denied weakness and frailty from those who remained from the rabbis who were not killed. He said: And whoever read fought chose that, because he said: If they had been killed, there would have been no known meaning for God's statement they did not weaken because it is impossible for them to be described as not weakening or becoming weak after they were killed. Then he chose the reading of whoever read many rabbis fought with him, because God rebuked in these verses and the ones before them those who fled on the day of Uhud and abandoned the fighting when they heard the caller shouting that Muhammad had been killed, so God rebuked them for fleeing and abandoning the fighting, and said to them, If he dies or is killed, O believers, will you turn back from your religion and turn back on your heels? It was said: How many prophets were killed before him from his companions, many rabbis? And the words of Ibn Ishaq in the biography require another statement, for he said: And how many prophets were killed while with him were Rabbiyun, meaning groups, so they did not weaken after their Prophet, nor did they weaken against their enemy, nor did they submit to what befell them in the struggle for the sake of God and their religion, and that is patience. And God loves the patient. So He made His statement, With him are many Rabbiyun a state. Al-Suhayli supported this statement and exaggerated it, and he has a direction for His statement, So they did not weaken when what befell them the verse, and this is what Al-Umawi narrated in his Maghazi from the book of Muhammad bin Ibrahim and no one else narrated it, and some of them read, Many Rabbiyun fought with him. Sufyan Al-Thawri said, on the authority of Asim, on the authority of Zur, on the authority of Ibn Masoud, Many Rabbiyun meaning thousands, and Ibn Abbas, Mujahid, Saeed bin Jubayr, Ikrimah, Al-Hasan, Qatadah, Al-Suddi, Al-Rabi', and Ata Al-Khurasani said: Rabbiyun are large groups, and Abd Al-Razzaq said on the authority of Muammar on the authority of Al-Hasan, Many Rabbiyin meaning many scholars, and from him also: Scholars of patience, righteous and pious. Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of some of the grammarians of Basra that the Rabbiyin are those who worship the Almighty Lord. He said: Some of them responded to him and said: If that were the case, it would have been said: Rabbiyin with the opening of the ra'. Ibn Zayd said: The Rabbiyin are the followers and the subjects, and the Rabbanis are the governors. They did not lose heart for what befell them in the cause of God, nor did they weaken, nor did they humble themselves. Qatada and Ar-Rabi' ibn Anas said, They did not weaken by the killing of their Prophet, nor did they humble themselves meaning: they did not turn away from their insight or their religion and fight for what God's Prophet fought for until they joined God. Ibn Abbas said, nor did they humble themselves they were humble. As-Suddi and Ibn Zayd said: They were not humbled before their enemy. Muhammad ibn Ishaq, As-Suddi and Qatadah said: That is, that did not befall them when their Prophet was killed. "And God loves the patient. Their only saying was that they said, 'Our Lord, forgive us our sins and our transgression in our conduct and plant firmly our feet and give us victory over the disbelieving people.'" That is, they had no other choice but that. So God gave them the reward of this world, that is, victory, triumph and a good end, and the best reward of the Hereafter, that is, He combined that for them with this. And God loves the doers of good.

Fath al-Qadir

148- So God gave them because of that the reward of this world of victory, spoils, honor, and the like and the good reward of the Hereafter from adding the attribute to the described: meaning the good reward of the Hereafter, which is the bliss of Paradise. May God make us among its people.

Abd bin Hamid, Ibn Jarir, Ibn Al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Mujahid regarding his statement, There have already been precedents before you, he said: There was a trade-off between good and evil among the disbelievers and the believers. Ibn Abi Shaybah narrated in his book, Al-Masahif, on the authority of Saeed bin Jubair, who said: The first thing to be revealed from Al Imran was, This is an explanation for the people, then the rest of it was revealed on the Day of Uhud. Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of Al-Hasan regarding his statement, This is an explanation, meaning the Qur'an. Abd bin Hamid and Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of Qatadah something similar. Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of Al-Awfi on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: Khalid bin Al-Walid approached intending to climb the mountain over them, so the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said, O God, do not let them climb over us, so God revealed, And do not weaken and do not grieve, the verse. Ibn Jarir, Ibn Al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Ibn Jurayj who said: The companions of the Messenger of God (may God bless him and grant him peace) were defeated in the ravine on the day of Uhud. They asked what had happened to the Prophet (may God bless him and grant him peace) and what had happened to so-and-so. Some of them announced the report to one another and said that the Prophet (may God bless him and grant him peace) had been killed. They were in a state of worry and grief. While they were like that, Khalid ibn Al-Walid climbed the mountain with the cavalry of the polytheists above them. They were on one of the flanks of the polytheists, and they were lower than the ravine. When they saw the Prophet (may God bless him and grant him peace), they rejoiced. The Prophet (may God bless him and grant him peace) said: O God!

We have no power except through You, and no one worships You in this city except these people, so do not destroy them. A group of Muslim archers rose up and shot at the horses of the polytheists until God defeated them, and the Muslims climbed the mountain. This is what God said: And you will be the highest if you are believers. Ibn Abi Hatim narrated from Ad-Dahhak: And you will be the highest, he said: And you will be the victors. Abd ibn Hamid, Ibn Jarir, Ibn Al-Mundhir, and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated from Mujahid: If a wound should touch you, he said: Wounds and killing. Ibn Jarir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated from Al-Hasan regarding His statement: If a wound should touch you, a wound similar to it has touched the people, he said: If one of you is killed on the Day of Uhud, one of them was killed on the Day of Badr. Ibn Jarir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated from Al-Awfi from Ibn Abbas regarding His statement: And those days We alternate among the people, he said: The Day of Uhud was like the Day of Badr. Ibn Jarir and Ibn Al-Mundhir narrated from Ibn Abbas regarding His statement: And those days, the verse. He said: The polytheists defeated the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, on the day of Uhud. It has reached me that the polytheists killed seventy-some thousand Muslims on the day of Uhud, the number of prisoners taken from the polytheists on the day of Badr. The number of prisoners on the day of Badr was seventy-three men. Ibn Jarir and Ibn al-Mundhir narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas regarding his statement, And He takes from among you martyrs, he said:

The Muslims used to ask their Lord: O God, our Lord, show us a day like the day of Badr, in which we fight the polytheists and test you with good, and seek martyrdom. So they met the polytheists on the day of Uhud, and He took martyrs from among them. And they narrated from him regarding His statement, And that God may test those who believe, he said: He tests them, and destroy the disbelievers, he said: He reduces them. And Ibn Abi Hatim narrated from Al-Awfi that some of the companions of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, used to say: If only we could be killed as the companions of Badr were killed and be martyred, or If only we had a day like the day of Badr, in which we could fight the polytheists and test you with good, and seek martyrdom, Paradise, life, and provision. So God made them witnesses to Uhud, and they did not remain steadfast except for whomever God willed among them. Then God said, And you used to wish for death, the verse. Ibn al-Mundhir narrated on the authority of Kulayb who said: Umar ibn al-Khattab delivered a sermon to us, and he was reciting Surat Al Imran from the pulpit and saying: It is a one-sided verse. Then he said: We dispersed from the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) on the day of Uhud, so I climbed the mountain and heard a Jew saying: Muhammad has been killed. I said: I will not hear anyone say: Muhammad has been killed except that I will strike his neck. I looked and saw the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) and the people were returning to him. Then this verse was revealed: Muhammad is no more than a messenger; other messengers have passed away before him. Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of al-Dahhak who said: A crier cried out on the day of Uhud 11: Indeed, Muhammad has been killed, so return to your original religion. Then God revealed: Muhammad is no more than a messenger. He also narrated on the authority of Mujahid something similar. He also narrated on the authority of Ali regarding his statement: And God will reward the grateful, he said: Those who were steadfast in their religion were Abu Bakr and his companions. Ali used to say: Abu Bakr was the leader of the grateful. Ibn al-Mundhir, Ibn Abi Hatim, al-Tabarani and al-Hakim narrated on his authority that he used to say during the lifetime of the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him): God says: If he dies or is killed, will you turn back on your heels? By God, we will not turn back on our heels after God has guided us. By God, if he dies or is killed, I will be killed for what he was killed for until I die. Abd ibn Humayd ibn Jarir, Ibn al-Mundhir, Ibn Abi Hatim and al-Tabarani narrated on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud regarding his statement: Rabbiyoon he said: Thousands. Sa'id ibn Mansur narrated on the authority of al-Dahhak he said: One rabbiyoon is a thousand. Ibn Jarir, Ibn al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas: Rabbiyoon he said: Crowds. Ibn Jarir narrated on his authority he said: Many scholars. Ibn Jarir, Ibn al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on his authority regarding his statement: And they did not humble themselves he said: They feared. Ibn Jarir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on his statement: And our extravagance in our affair he said: Our sins.

Surat Al Imran 3:148

So God gave them the reward of this world and the best reward of the Hereafter. And God loves the doers of good.

with good, indicating its grace and that it is the one that is taken into account by God.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

148-So God gave them the reward of this world, victory and spoils, and the good reward of the Hereafter, wages and Paradise, and God loves the doers of good.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

148 "So God gave them the reward of this world and the best reward of the Hereafter. And God loves the doers of good." So God gave them, because of their seeking forgiveness and turning to God, victory, spoils, honor, and good reputation in this world, and Paradise and bliss in the Hereafter. He made its reward special

Surat Al Imran 3:149

O you who have believed, if you obey those who disbelieve, they will turn you back on your heels, and you will become losers.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

O you who have believed, if you obey those who disbelieve in what they command you they will turn you back to disbelief on your heels, and you will become losers

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: By that, the Most High means: O you who have believed in God and His Messenger in God's promise and threat, His command and His prohibition, if you obey those who disbelieve, meaning: those who denied the prophethood of your Prophet Muhammad, peace and blessings of God be upon him, from the Jews and Christians - in what they command you to do and what they prohibit you from doing - and you accept their opinion in that and advise them in what they claim that they are advising you in, they will turn you back on your heels, meaning: they will make you apostatize after believing, and disbelieve in God and His verses and His Messenger after Islam, and you will turn back as losers, meaning: you will turn back from your faith and religion to which God has guided you, losers, meaning: doomed, you have lost yourselves, and you have gone astray from your religion, and your worldly life and your afterlife are gone.

This prohibits those who believe in God from obeying the disbelievers in their opinions and seeking their advice in their religions, as:

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: O you who have believed, if you obey those who disbelieve, they will turn you back on your heels, and you will become losers, meaning: from your religion, so your worldly life and your afterlife will be lost.

Al-Qasim told us, he said, Al-Hussein told us, he said, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, regarding his statement: O you who have believed, if you obey those who disbelieve, Ibn Jurayj said: He says: Do not seek advice from the Jews and Christians regarding your religion, and do not believe them in anything regarding your religion.

Muhammad told us, Ahmad told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi: O you who have believed, if you obey those who disbelieve, they will turn you back on your heels, and you will become losers. He says: If you obey Abu Sufyan, he will turn you back as disbelievers.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

God Almighty says: O you who have believed, if you obey those who disbelieve, they will turn you back on your heels, and you will become losers.

When God Almighty commanded us to follow the example of those who came before us from the supporters of the prophets, He warned against obeying the disbelievers, meaning the polytheists of the Arabs: Abu Sufyan and his companions, and it was said: the Jews and Christians. And Ali, may God be pleased with him, said: He means the hypocrites in their saying to the believers when they are defeated: Return to the religion of your fathers. They turn you back on your heels, meaning to disbelief, and you will return as losers, meaning you will hope to be deceived.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The Almighty warns His believing servants against obeying the disbelievers and hypocrites, for obeying them brings ruin in this world and the Hereafter. That is why the Almighty said: If you obey those who disbelieve, they will turn you back on your heels, and you will become losers. Then He commanded them to obey Him, befriend Him, seek His help, and put their trust in Him. The Almighty said: Rather, God is your Protector, and He is the best of helpers. Then He gave them good report that He will cast fear of them and humiliation into the hearts of their enemies because of their disbelief and polytheism, along with what He has stored up for them in the Hereafter of torment and punishment. He said: "We will cast terror into the hearts of those who disbelieve because they have associated with God that for which He has not sent down any authority. Their refuge is the Fire, and wretched is the residence of the wrongdoers." It has been proven in the two Sahihs on the authority of Jabir ibn Abdullah that the Messenger of God said: "I have been given five things that were not given to any of the prophets before me: I have been aided by terror for a distance of a month's journey, the earth has been made a place of prostration and purification for me, and spoils of war have been made lawful for me." And I was given intercession, and the Prophet was sent to his people in particular, and I was sent to all people." Imam Ahmad said: Muhammad bin Abi Uday told us, on the authority of Sulayman al-Taymi, on the authority of Sayyar, on the authority of Abu Umamah, that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "My Lord has favored me over the prophets - or he said over the nations - in four things: He said: I was sent to all people, and the entire earth was made for me and for my nation a place of prostration and purification, so wherever a man of my nation finds prayer, his place of prostration and purification is with him, and I was aided by terror for a month's journey, which he casts into the hearts of my enemies, and spoils of war were made lawful for me." Al-Tirmidhi narrated it from the hadith of Sulayman al-Taymi, on the authority of Sayyar al-Qurashi al-Umawi, their client from Damascus, who lived in Basra, on the authority of Abu Umamah Sadi bin Ajlan, may God be pleased with him, with it, and he said: It is good and authentic. Saeed bin Mansour said: Ibn Wahb informed us, Amr bin al-Harith informed me that Abu Yunus told him, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: I was aided by terror against the enemy. Muslim narrated it from the hadith of Ibn Wahb. Imam Ahmad said: Husayn ibn Muhammad told us, Isra'il told us, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Abu Burdah, on the authority of his father Abu Musa, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "I was given five things: I was sent to the red and the black, the earth was made pure and a place of prostration for me, spoils were made lawful for me and were not made lawful for those before me, I was aided by terror for a month, and I was given intercession, and there is no prophet who did not ask for his intercession. I hid my intercession and then made it for whoever died not associating anything with God." Ahmad alone narrated it. Al-Awfi narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas regarding the words of God the Almighty: We will cast terror into the hearts of those who disbelieve, he said: God cast terror into the heart of Abu Sufyan, so he returned to Mecca. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Abu Sufyan has indeed taken a part of you, and he has returned and God cast terror into his heart. Narrated by Ibn Abi Hatim. And the words of God the Almighty: And God had fulfilled His promise to you when you were killing them by His permission, Ibn Abbas said: God promised them victory. This verse may be used as evidence for one of the two previous sayings in the Almighty's statement: "When you said to the believers, 'Is it not sufficient for you that your Lord should reinforce you with three thousand angels sent down?' Yes, if you are patient and fear God and they come upon you at once, your Lord will reinforce you with five thousand angels with marks." That was on the day of Uhud, because their enemy was three thousand fighters, so when they confronted them, victory and triumph were achieved early in the day for Islam. When what happened of the disobedience of the archers and the failure of some of the fighters, the promise that was conditional on steadfastness and obedience was delayed. For this reason, He said, And God has fulfilled His promise to you, meaning early in the day, when you were killing them, meaning killing them, by His permission, meaning by His giving you power over them, until you failed. Ibn Jurayj said: Ibn Abbas said: Failure is cowardice. And you disputed about the matter and disobeyed, as happened to the archers, after He had shown you that which you love, which was victory over them. Among you are those who desire this world, and they are those who desired the spoils when they saw Defeat And among you is he who desires the Hereafter, then He turned you away from them to test you then He made them prevail over you to test you and examine you And He has certainly pardoned you that is, He forgave you for that action, and that, and God knows best, is due to the large number of the enemy and their numbers and the small number of the Muslims and their numbers. Ibn Jurayj said: His statement And He has certainly pardoned you he said:

O you who have believed, if you obey those who disbelieve, they will turn you back on your heels, and you will become losers.

He did not eradicate you, and Muhammad ibn Ishaq said the same: Ibn Jarir narrated them both And God is full of bounty to the believers and Imam Ahmad said: Sulayman ibn Dawud told us, Abd al-Rahman ibn Abi al-Zinad told us on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ubaydullah on the authority of Ibn Abbas that he said: God has not given victory in a place like He gave victory on the day of Uhud, he said: So we denied that, and Ibn Abbas said: Between me and those who denied that is the Book of God, that God says on the day of Uhud And God had fulfilled His promise to you when you were killing them by His permission Ibn Abbas and al-Hasan say: killing "until you were weak and disputed about the matter and disobeyed after He had shown you what you love. Among you are those who desire this world and among you are those who desire the Hereafter" the verse, and what he meant was And with these archers, the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, stationed them in a place and then said: Protect our backs, for if you see us being killed, do not help us, and if you see us having taken spoils, do not share with us. So when the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, took spoils and allowed the camp of the polytheists to be conquered, the archers all rushed into the camp to plunder, and the ranks of the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, met like this - and he interlocked his hands - and they took refuge, and when the archers left that position they were in, the horses entered from that place upon the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and they struck each other, and they became confused and many Muslims were killed, and victory was for the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his companions at the beginning of the day until seven or nine of the standard-bearers of the polytheists were killed, and the Muslims moved around towards the mountain, and they did not reach where the people say the cave is, but they were under the mortar, and the devil cried out: Muhammad has been killed, and they did not doubt that it was true, and we did not stop like that, we did not doubt that it was true until the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, appeared between the two Sa'dains, and we knew him. He said: We were so happy that it was as if we had not been afflicted with what afflicted us. He said: He climbed towards us and he was saying: The wrath of God has intensified against a people who bloodied the face of the Messenger of God. He said again: O God, they cannot prevail over us. Until he reached us, he remained for an hour, and then Abu Sufyan shouted at the bottom of the mountain: Let Hubal be exalted - twice, meaning his god - Where is the son of Abu Kabsha? Where is the son of Abu Quhafa? Where is the son of Ibn al-Khattab? Umar, may God be pleased with him, said: O Messenger of God, should I not answer him? He said: Yes. When he said: Let Hubal be exalted, Umar said: God is Most High and Most Majestic. Abu Sufyan said: Her eye has been comforted. So he turned away from her or did something. He said: Where is the son of Abu Kabsha? Where is the son of Abu Quhafa? Where is the son of

Ibn al-Khattab? Umar said: "This is the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and this is Abu Bakr, and here I am, Umar." Abu Sufyan said: "A day is like the day of Badr. The days are in cycles, and war is a contest." He said: Umar said: Our dead are not equal in Paradise. And your dead are in the Fire. He said: You claim that, so we have failed and lost. Abu Sufyan said: You will find mutilation among your dead, and that was not according to the opinion of our leaders. He said: Then the fanaticism of the Age of Ignorance overtook him, so he said: If that is the case, we would not hate it. This is a strange hadith and a strange context. It is from the mursals of Ibn Abbas, for no one witnessed it, nor his father. Al-Hakim included it in his Mustadrak on the authority of Abu al-Nadr al-Faqih, on the authority of Uthman ibn Saeed, on the authority of Salman ibn Dawud ibn Ali ibn Abdullah ibn Abbas, and this is how Ibn Abi Hatim and al-Bayhaqi narrated it in Dalil al-Nubuwwah from the hadith of Sulayman ibn Dawud al-Hashemi on his authority. And some of it has supporting evidence in the Sahih and elsewhere. Imam Ahmad said: Affan told us, Hammad told us, on the authority of Ata ibn al-Sa'ib, on the authority of al-Sha'bi, on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud, who said: The women were behind the Muslims on the day of Uhud, finishing off the wounded polytheists. If I had sworn that day, I would have hoped to be fulfilled that none of us wanted the world, until God revealed: "Some of you desire this world and some of you desire the Hereafter. Then He turned you away from them to test you." When the companions of the Messenger of God (may God bless him and grant him peace) disobeyed what they were commanded to do, the Prophet (may God bless him and grant him peace) singled out nine men: seven from the Ansar and two men from Quraysh, and he was the tenth of them (may God bless him and grant him peace). When they overwhelmed him, he said: May God have mercy on the man who turned them away from us. Then a man from the Ansar stood up and fought for an hour until he was killed. When they overwhelmed him again, he said: May God have mercy on the man who turned them away from us. He continued saying that until the seven were killed. Then the Messenger of God (may God bless him and grant him peace) said to his two companions: We have not been fair to our companions. Abu Sufyan came and said: Hubal is superior. The Messenger of God (may God bless him and grant him peace) said: "Say: God is higher and more majestic." They said: God is higher and more majestic. Abu Sufyan said: We have Al-Uzza and you have no Uzza. The Messenger of God (may God bless him and grant him peace) said: "Say: God is our protector and the disbelievers have no protector." Abu Sufyan said: "A day for the day of Badr. A day against us and a day for us, a day for women and a day for men." The eagle, Hanzala for Hanzala, so-and-so for so-and-so, and so-and-so for so-and-so. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: They are not equal: As for our dead, they are alive and provided for, but as for your dead, they are being tortured in the Fire. Abu Sufyan said: There was indeed an example among the people, and if he was cursed, it was not from among us. I did not command or forbid, nor did I like or dislike, nor did it upset me or please me. He said: So they looked and saw that Hamza's belly had been ripped open, and Hind took his liver and chewed it but was unable to eat it. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Did you eat something? They said: No. He said: God would not put anything of Hamza in the Fire. He said: So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, placed Hamza and prayed over him, and a man from the Ansar was brought and placed beside him and prayed over him. The Ansar lifted him up and left Hamza until another was brought and placed beside Hamza and prayed over him, then lifted him up and left Hamza, until he prayed over him seventy times that day. Ahmad alone transmitted it. Also. Al-Bukhari said: Ubaydullah bin Musa narrated to us on the authority of Israel, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Al-Baraa, who said: We encountered the polytheists that day and the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, seated an army of archers and put Abdullah bin Jubair in charge of them, and said: "Do not move. If you see us prevailing over them, do not move, and if you see them prevailing over us, do not help us." So when we met them, they fled until I saw the women running hard on the mountain, raising their legs and showing their anklets, and they began to say: The spoils, the spoils. So Abdullah bin Jubair said: "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, ordered me not to move, but they refused. When they refused, they turned their faces away and seventy were killed. Abu Sufyan looked out and said: "Is Muhammad among the people?" He said: Do not answer him. He said: Is Ibn Abi Quhafah among the people? He said: Do not answer him. He said: Is Ibn Al-Khattab among the people? He said: These people have been killed, and if they were alive, they would have answered. So Umar could not control himself. He said to him: You have lied, O enemy of God, God has left for you that which grieves you. Abu Sufyan said: Hubal is exalted. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Answer him. They said: What should we say? He said: Say: God is higher and more exalted. Abu Sufyan said: We have Al-Uzza, and you have no Uzza. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Answer him. They said: What should we say? He said: Say: God is our Master, and you have no Master. Abu Sufyan said: A day for the day of Badr, and war is a contest, and you will find a mutilation that I did not command and it did not upset me. Al-Bukhari was the only one to narrate it from this source, then he narrated it from Amr bin Khalid from Zuhair bin Muawiyah, from Abu Ishaq, from Al-Bara' in a similar manner, and he will come with something simpler than this. Al-Bukhari also said: Ubaidullah bin Saeed told us, Abu Usamah told us from Hisham bin Urwah, from his father, from Aisha, may God be pleased with her, who said: When the day of Uhud came, the polytheists were defeated, and Satan cried out: O servants of God, I am the last of you, so the first of them returned. So she and the last of them fought, and Hudhayfah saw his father Al-Yaman and said: O servants of God, my father is my father. He said: She said: By God, they did not hold back until they killed him, so Hudhayfah said: May God forgive you. Urwah said: By God, there was still good in Hudhayfah until he met God Almighty. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said: Yahya ibn Ibad ibn Abdullah ibn al-Zubayr told me on the authority of his father on the authority of his grandfather that al-Zubayr ibn al-Awwam said: By God, I saw myself looking at Hind's servants and companions, their faces rolled up and they were running away, neither much nor little was enough to take them. The archers turned towards the army when the people fled from it, wanting to loot, and our backs were left for the horses, so they came to us from behind us, and a voice cried out: Muhammad has been killed. So we retreated and the people retreated upon us after we had captured the standard-bearers, until no one from the people came near it. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said: The standard of the polytheists remained fallen until Umrah bint Alqamah al-Harithiya took it and gave it to the Quraysh, so they fought with it. Al-Suddi said, on the authority of Abd Khair, who said: Abdullah ibn Masoud said: I did not think that any of the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, wanted the worldly life until what was revealed about us on the day of Uhud was revealed: Some of you want the world, and some of you want the Hereafter. It has been narrated from other sources on the authority of Ibn Masoud. And it was also narrated on the authority of Abd al-Rahman ibn A'w'f and Abu Talha, narrated by Ibn Mardawayh in his interpretation, and the Almighty's saying: Then He turned you away from them to test you. Ibn Ishaq said: Al-Qasim ibn Abd al-Rahman ibn Rafi', one of the sons of Adi ibn al-Najjar, told me: Anas ibn al-Nadr, the uncle of Anas ibn Malik, went to Umar ibn al-Khattab and Talha ibn Ubaydullah with some men from the Muhajireen and Ansar who had thrown down what was in their hands, so he said: What is leaving you? They said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, has been killed. He said: What will you do with life after him? Rise and die as he died. Then he faced the people and fought until he was killed, may God be pleased with him. Al-Bukhari said: Hassan ibn Hassan told us, Muhammad ibn Talha told us, Hamid told us on the authority of Anas ibn Malik that his uncle, meaning Anas ibn al-Nadr, was absent from Badr and said: I was absent from the first battle of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace. If God makes me witness with the Messenger of God, God will see what I find. So he met the day of Uhud and defeated the people, so he said: O God, I apologize to you for what... These people - meaning the Muslims - made it and I declare to you that I am innocent of what the polytheists brought. So he advanced with his sword and met Sa'd ibn Mu'adh and said: Where, Sa'd? I smell the fragrance of Paradise without anyone. So he went and was killed, and he was not recognized until his sister recognized him by his fingertip with a mole. He had eighty-odd stab wounds, blows and arrow wounds. This is the wording of al-Bukhari. Muslim included it in a hadith narrated by Thabit from Anas in a similar manner. Al-Bukhari also said: Abdun narrated to us, Abu Hamza narrated to us from Uthman ibn Muhab, who said: A man came to the House of Hajj and saw some people sitting. He said: Who are these people sitting? They said: These are Quraysh. He said: Who is the old man? They said: Ibn 'Umar. So he came to him and said: I am going to ask you about something, so tell me. He said: Ask. He said: I ask you by the sanctity of this House, do you know that Uthman ibn 'Affan fled on the day of Uhud? He said: Yes. He said: Do you know that he was absent from Badr and did not witness it? He said: Yes. He said: Do you know that he did not attend the Pledge of Ridwan and did not... He said: Yes. So he said: Allahu Akbar. Ibn Umar said: Come, so I may tell you and explain to you what you asked me about. As for his escape on the day of Uhud, I bear witness that God has pardoned him. As for his absence from Badr, he was married to the daughter of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and she was sick. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to him: You will have the reward and share of a man who witnessed Badr. As for his absence from the Pledge of Ridwan, if there had been anyone more honorable in the valley of Mecca than Uthman, he would have sent him in his place. So he sent Uthman, and the Pledge of Ridwan took place after Uthman had gone to Mecca. So the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said with his right hand: This is the hand of Uthman, and he struck his hand with it and said: "This is the hand of Uthman. Go with it now." Then Al-Bukhari narrated it from another chain of transmission on the authority of Abu Awanah, on the authority of Uthman ibn Abdullah ibn Muhabb.

Surat Al Imran 3:149

O you who have believed, if you obey those who disbelieve, they will turn you back on your heels, and you will become losers.

God the Almighty said: When you were ascending and not looking back at anyone meaning He turned you away from them while you were ascending, that is, in the mountain, fleeing from your enemies. Al-Hasan and Qatadah read When you were ascending meaning in the mountain, and not looking back at anyone meaning you were not looking back at anyone out of astonishment, fear and terror, and the Messenger is calling you from behind you meaning you had left him behind you calling you to stop fleeing from the enemies, and to return, come back and attack. Al-Suddi said: When the polytheists attacked the Muslims at Uhud and defeated them, some of them entered the city, and some of them went to the mountain on the rock and stood on it. So the Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, began calling the people to the servants of God, to the servants of God. God mentioned their ascension to the mountain, then He mentioned the Prophet's, may God bless him and grant him peace, calling them, saying: When you were ascending and not looking back at anyone, and the Messenger is calling you from behind you. Ibn Abbas, Qatadah, Al-Rabi' and Ibn Zayd said the same. Abdullah bin Al-Zubayr said: He mentions the defeat of the Muslims on the day of Uhud in his poem while he was a polytheist and had not yet converted to Islam, in which he says at the beginning:

O crow of separation, have you heard? Say, for you are only speaking of something that has already been done.

Good and evil have a limit, and both have a face and a face.

Until he said:

I wish my elders at Badr had witnessed the Khazraj's fear of the sound of the weapons.

When Quba narrated its ponds and the killing spread to Abd al-Ashel

Then they started dancing, like a camel dancing high up in the mountain.

So we killed twice as many of their nobles and we adjusted the slope of Badr, so it was balanced.

Al-Haffan: Small camels. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, had singled out twelve men from among his companions, as Imam Ahmad said: Hasan bin Musa told us, Zuhair told us, Abu Ishaq told us, on the authority of Al-Bara bin Azib, may God be pleased with him, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, appointed Abdullah bin Jubair over the archers on the day of Uhud - and they were fifty men. He said: And he put them in a position, and said: "If you see us being snatched by birds, do not move until I send for you. And if you see us prevail over the enemy and trample them, do not move until I send for you." He said: So they defeated them. He said: By God, I saw the women rushing up the mountain, their anklets and their clothes lifted. He said: The companions of Abdullah, the spoils, O people of the spoils, your companions have appeared, so what are you waiting for? Abdullah bin Jubair said: Have you forgotten what the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to you? They said: By God, we will go to the people and take a share of the spoils. So when they came to them, their faces were turned away and they came forward. Defeated, that is what the Messenger calls them in their last days, so there remained with the Messenger of God only twelve men, so they killed seventy of us, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his companions killed one hundred and forty of the polytheists on the day of Badr, seventy prisoners and seventy dead. Abu Sufyan said: Is Muhammad among the people, is Muhammad among the people? - three times - he said. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, forbade them from answering him, then he said: Is Ibn Abi Quhafah among the people? Is Ibn Abi Quhafah among the people? Is Ibn Al-Khattab among the people? Is Ibn Al-Khattab among the people? Then he turned to his companions and said: As for these, they have been killed and you have been spared from them, so Umar could not control himself but said: You have lied, by God, O enemy of God, those whom you have counted are all alive, and there remains for you what will upset you, so he said: A day for a day Badr, and war is a contest. And you will find among the people a mutilation that I did not order, and it did not upset me. Then he began to recite a rajaz saying: Hubal, Hubal, exalt. Hubal, so the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Will you not answer him? They said: O Messenger of God, what should we say? He said: Say God is higher and more majestic. He said: We have Al-Uzza, and you have no Uzza. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Will you not answer him? They said: O Messenger of God, what should we say? He said: Say God is our Master, and you have no Master. Al-Bukhari narrated it from the hadith of Zuhair bin Muawiyah in an abbreviated form, and he narrated it from the hadith of Israel from Abu Ishaq in a more detailed form than this as mentioned above, and God knows best. Al-Bayhaqi narrated in Dalil Al-Nubuwwah from the hadith of Ammarah bin Ghaziyah, from Abu Al-Zubayr, from Jabir, who said: "The people fled from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, on the day of Uhud, and eleven men from the Ansar remained with him, and Talhah bin Ubaidullah, while he was climbing the mountain. The polytheists met them, so he said: Is there no one for these? Talhah said: I will, O Messenger of God. He said: As you are, O Talhah. A man from the Ansar said: I will, O Messenger of God. So he fought on his behalf, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and those who remained with him climbed, then the Ansari was killed." So they caught up with him, and he said: Is there no man for these people? Talhah said the same as he had said, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said the same as he had said, and a man from the Ansar said: So I am, O Messenger of God, so he fought on his behalf and his companions ascended, then he was killed and they caught up with him, and he kept saying the same as he had said before, and Talhah said: So I am, O Messenger of God, so he detained him and a man from the Ansar asked him for permission to fight, so he gave him permission, and he fought like those who had been before him, until no one remained with him except Talhah, so they attacked them, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Who is for these people? Talhah said: I am, so he fought like all those who had been before him, and his fingers were injured, so he said: Enough, and the Messenger of God said: If you had said the name of God and mentioned the name of God, the angels would have lifted you up with the people looking at you until you entered the atmosphere of the sky, then the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, ascended to his companions while they were gathered. Al-Bukhari narrated on the authority of Abu Bakr bin Abi Shaybah, on the authority of Wakee', on the authority of Ismail, on the authority of Qais bin Abi Hazim, who said: I saw Talhah's hand paralyzed, with which he protected the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace. And he (peace be upon him) said: "And he (peace be upon him) said: 'On the Day of Uhud,' meaning the Day of Uhud, in the two Sahihs, from the hadith of Mu'tamir ibn Sulayman, from his father, from Abu Uthman al-Nahdi, who said: 'On some of the days in which the Messenger of God (peace be upon him) fought, there remained none with the Messenger of God (peace be upon him) except Talhah ibn Ubayd God and Sa'd, from their hadith.' And al-Hasan ibn Arfa said: 'Marwan ibn Mu'awiyah told us, from Hashim ibn Hashim al-Zuhri, who said: 'I heard Sa'd ibn al-Musayyab say: 'I heard Sa'd ibn Abi Waqqas say: 'The Messenger of God (peace be upon him) handed me his quiver on the Day of Uhud and said: 'Shoot, may my father and mother be sacrificed for you.' And al-Bukhari narrated it on the authority of Abdullah ibn Muhammad, from Marwan ibn Mu'awiyah, and Muhammad ibn Ishaq said: 'Saleh ibn Kaysan told me on the authority of some of the family of Sa'd, from Sa'd ibn Abi Waqqas, that he shot on the Day of Uhud without the Messenger of God (peace be upon him).' Sa'd said: 'I saw the Messenger of God (peace be upon him) handing me arrows and saying: 'Shoot, may my father and mother be sacrificed for you.' He even handed me an arrow that had no tip, so I shot with it.” "It was established in the two Sahihs from the hadith of Ibrahim bin Sa'd, on the authority of his father, on the authority of his grandfather, on the authority of Sa'd bin Abi Waqqas, who said: "On the day of Uhud, I saw on the right of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and on his left, two men wearing white clothes fighting on his behalf with the fiercest fighting I had ever seen before or after that day, meaning Gabriel and Michael, peace be upon them." Hammad bin Salamah said on the authority of Ali bin Zaid and Thabit on the authority of Anas bin Malik: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was singled out on the day of Uhud with seven of the Ansar and two of the Quraysh. When they overwhelmed him, he said: 'Whoever repels them from us will have Paradise,' or 'and he is my companion in Paradise.' So a man from the Ansar stepped forward and fought until he was killed. Then they overwhelmed him again, and he said: 'Whoever repels them from us will have Paradise,' so a man from the Ansar stepped forward and fought until he was killed. He continued like that until the seven were killed, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to his two companions: 'We have not been fair to our companions.'" Narrated by Muslim on the authority of Hudbah bin Khalid, on the authority of Hammad bin Salamah, with something similar. Abu al-Aswad said on the authority of Urwah bin Al-Zubayr said: Abi bin Khalaf, the brother of Banu Jumah, had sworn while he was in Mecca to kill the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. When his oath reached the Messenger of God, he said, Rather, I will kill him, God willing. Then, on the day of Uhud, Abi came wearing iron, masked, saying, I will not escape if Muhammad escapes. So he charged at the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, intending to kill him. But Mus'ab bin 'Umair, the brother of Banu 'Abd al-Dar, met him, protecting the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, with his own life. So he killed Mus'ab bin 'Umair. "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, saw the collarbone of Abi bin Khalaf through a gap between the hem of his armor and the blade, and stabbed him in it with his spear. He fell to the ground from his horse, and no blood came out of his stab wound. His companions came to him and carried him while he was mooring like a bull. They said to him, 'What makes you so upset? It is only a scratch.' So he mentioned to them the words of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. Rather, I will kill Abi." Then he said, By the One in Whose Hand is my soul, if this had happened to me, the people of Dhu al-Majaz would have died. All together, he died in the Fire, So may the companions of the Blaze be destroyed. It was narrated by Musa bin Uqbah in his Maghazi, on the authority of Al-Zuhri, on the authority of Saeed bin Al-Musayyab, in a similar manner. Muhammad bin Ishaq mentioned that he said: "When the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, leaned on the ravine, Ubayy bin Khalaf caught up with him and he was saying: 'I will not be saved if I am saved.' The people said: 'O Messenger of God, let one of us help him.' The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Leave him.' When he approached, the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, took the spear from Al-Harith bin Al-Samma. Some of the people said, 'What was mentioned to me?' When the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, took it from him, he shook it so hard that we scattered from him as hair flies from the back of a camel when it shakes. Then the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, faced him and stabbed him in the neck with a stab that caused him to fall off his horse repeatedly." Al-Waqidi mentioned on the authority of Yunus bin Bakir, on the authority of Muhammad bin Ishaq, on the authority of Asim bin Amr bin Qatada, on the authority of Abdullah bin Ka'b bin Malik. On the authority of his father, something like that. Al-Waqidi said: Ibn Umar used to say: Abi bin Khalaf died in Batn Rabigh. I was walking in Batn Rabigh after a nightfall when I saw a blazing fire. I woke up and saw a man coming out of it, pulling on a chain, provoking thirst in him. A man said: Do not give him a drink, for this is the one killed by the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. This is Abi bin Khalaf. It was confirmed in the two Sahihs on the authority of Abd al-Razzaq on the authority of Muammar, on the authority of Hammam bin Munabbih, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'God's wrath was intense against a people who did this to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace - and he was pointing to his front teeth - and God's wrath was intense against a man killed by the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, in the way of God.'" Al-Bukhari also included it on the authority of Ibn Jurayj on the authority of Amr bin Dinar, on the authority of Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: "God's wrath was intense against the one killed by the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, with his own hand in the way of God, and God's wrath was intense against a people who bloodied the face of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace." "And upon him be peace" - Ibn Ishaq said: "The front tooth of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was broken, his cheek was wounded, and his lip was injured." The one who injured him was Utbah ibn Abi Waqqas. Salih ibn Kaysan told me, on the authority of someone who told him, on the authority of Sa'd ibn Abi Waqqas, who said: "I have never been so keen on killing anyone as I was on killing Utbah ibn Abi Waqqas, if what I know is that he was of bad character and hated by his people. And the statement of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, "God's wrath is intense against whoever bleeds the face of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace" was sufficient for me. And 'Abd al-Razzaq said: Mu'mar informed us, on the authority of al-Zuhri, on the authority of 'Uthman al-Jazari, on the authority of Muqsim, that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, "supplanted against Utbah ibn Abi Waqqas on the day of Uhud when his front tooth was broken and his face was bleeding, and he said: O God, do not let a year pass over him until he dies as a disbeliever." So a year had not passed over him until he died as a disbeliever in the Fire. And al-Waqidi mentioned on the authority of Ibn Abi Sabra, on the authority of Ishaq ibn 'Abdullah ibn Abi Farwah, on the authority of Abu al-Huwayrith, on the authority of Nafi' ibn Jubayr said: I heard a man from the Muhajireen say: I witnessed Uhud and I saw arrows coming from every direction and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was in the middle of them, all of that being diverted from him. I saw Abdullah ibn Shihab al-Zuhri saying on that day: Show me Muhammad, I will not be saved if he is saved, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was beside him with no one with him. Then he passed him and Sufyan rebuked him for that, and he said: By God, I did not see him. I swear by God that he is protected from us! We went out four of us and we pledged and agreed to kill him, but we did not succeed in that. Al-Waqidi said: What is established with us is that the one who shot the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, in the cheeks was Ibn Qami'ah, and the one who caused his lip to bleed and his front tooth to be damaged was Utbah ibn Abi Waqqas. Abu Dawud al-Tayalisi said: Ibn al-Mubarak told us on the authority of Ishaq ibn Yahya ibn Talhah ibn Ubayd God, Isa ibn Talhah told me on the authority of the Mother of the Believers Aisha, may God be pleased with her, she said: Whenever Abu Bakr mentioned the Battle of Uhud, he would say: That day was all for Talhah. Then he began to narrate, he said: I was the first to return on the Battle of Uhud, and I saw a man fighting with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, behind him, and I think he said it was out of zeal. He said: I said: Talhah was where I missed what I missed, so I said: There is a man from my people who is dearer to me, and between me and the polytheists is a man I do not know, and I am closer to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, than he, and he walks quickly, and I do not remember it, and it was Abu Ubaydah ibn al-Jarrah. We went to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and he said: His front tooth was broken and his face was wounded, and two rings from the helmet's ring entered his cheek. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said, Your companion wants Talhah, and he was bleeding, but we did not pay attention to what he said. He said: I went to remove that from his face, but Abu Ubaidah said, I swear to you by my right that you left me, so I left him. He did not want to take it with his hand and hurt the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, so he leaned on him with his mouth and pulled out one of the rings, and his front tooth fell with the ring. I went to do what he did, but he said, I swear to you by my right that you left me. He said, "So he did the same as he did the first time, and his other front tooth fell with the ring. Abu Ubaidah was the best of people in his wounds. We fixed the matter of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, then we came to Talhah in one of those graves, and there were seventy-odd, or less, or more, from stab wounds, arrows, and blows, and his finger was cut off, so we fixed the matter of him. Al-Haytham bin Kulayb and Al-Tabarani narrated it from the hadith of Ishaq bin Yahya. And with Al-Haitham, Abu Ubaidah said: I ask you by God, O Abu Bakr, to leave me alone?

O you who have believed, if you obey those who disbelieve, they will turn you back on your heels, and you will become losers.

So Abu Ubaidah took the arrow in his mouth, and began to shake it out of dislike of harming the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, then he pulled out the arrow in his mouth, and Abu Ubaidah's front tooth fell out. He mentioned its full form, and Al-Hafiz Al-Dhiya Al-Maqdisi chose it in his book. Ali bin Al-Madini weakened this hadith from the side of this Ishaq bin Yahya, because Yahya bin Saeed Al-Qattan, Ahmad, Yahya bin Ma'in, Al-Bukhari, Abu Zur'ah, Abu Hatim, Muhammad bin Saad, Al-Nasa'i and others spoke about it. Ibn Wahb said: Amr bin Al-Harith informed me that Umar bin Al-Sa'ib told him that he had heard that when Malik, Abu Abi Saeed Al-Khudri, was wounded by the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, on the day of Uhud, he sucked the wound until it became clean and white, so it was said to him: Suck it in. He said: No, by God, I will never suck it in. Then he turned back to fight. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "Whoever wants to look at a man from the people of Paradise, let him look at this man, and he was martyred." It has been proven in The two Sahihs, on the authority of Abdul Aziz bin Abi Hazim, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Sahl bin Saad, that he was asked about the wound of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and he said: The face of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was wounded, his front tooth was broken, and the egg was smashed on his head, may God bless him and grant him peace. Fatima, the daughter of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was washing the blood, and Ali was pouring water on him with a shield. When Fatima saw that the water only increased the blood, she took a piece of matting and burned it until it became ashes. She stuck it to the wound and the blood stopped. The Almighty's statement: So He rewarded you with grief for grief means He rewarded you with grief upon grief, as the Arabs say: It descended upon the Banu so-and-so, and it descended upon the Banu so-and-so. Ibn Jarir said: And similarly His statement: And I will crucify you on the trunks of palm trees means on the trunks of palm trees. Ibn Abbas said: The first grief was due to the defeat, and when it was said that Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, was killed, and the second was when the polytheists overtook them on the mountain, and the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: O God, they will not have the right to... And on the authority of Abd al-Rahman ibn Awf: The first grief was due to the defeat, and the second was when it was said that Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, was killed, which was more severe and greater for them than the defeat. Both were narrated by Ibn Mardawayh, and something similar was narrated on the authority of Umar ibn al-Khattab, and Ibn Abi Hatim mentioned something similar on the authority of Qatada as well. Al-Suddi said: The first grief was due to what they missed of the spoils and conquest, and the second was the enemy's oversight of them. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said: So He rewarded you with grief after grief, meaning distress after distress of the killing of those who were killed from your brothers, and the superiority of your enemy over you, and what occurred in your souls from the saying of those who said: Your Prophet was killed, so that was one after another upon you, grief after grief.

Surat Al Imran 3:149

O you who have believed, if you obey those who disbelieve, they will turn you back on your heels, and you will become losers.

Mujahid and Qatada said: The first grief was hearing of the killing of Muhammad, and the second was what happened to them of killing and wounds. The opposite was narrated on the authority of Qatada and al-Rabi' ibn Anas. And on the authority of al-Suddi: The first was what they missed of victory and spoils, and the second was the enemy's oversight of them. This statement was previously mentioned on the authority of al-Suddi. Ibn Jarir said: The most correct of these statements is the statement of the one who said: So He rewarded you with grief for grief. So He rewarded you with your grief, O believers, by God's deprivation of you of the spoils of the polytheists and victory over them and the triumph over them, and what befell you of killing and wounds, on that day after He had shown you in all of that what you loved by your disobedience to the command of your Lord, and your opposition to the command of your Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace. The grief of your thinking that your Prophet had been killed and the enemy had turned against you after your remnants from them. And the Almighty's saying: So that you may not grieve over what has escaped you, meaning over what has escaped you of the spoils and victory over your enemy, nor over what has befallen you, of wounds and killing, said Ibn Abbas, Abd al-Rahman ibn Awf, al-Hasan, Qatadah, and al-Suddi. And God is Aware of what you do. Glory be to Him and praise be to Him. There is no god but Him, the Most High, the Most Great.

Fath al-Qadir

When God the Almighty commanded us to follow the example of those who came before us from the supporters of the prophets, He warned us against obeying the infidels, who are the polytheists of the Arabs, and it was said: the Jews and Christians, and it was said: the hypocrites in their saying to the believers when they were defeated: Return to the religion of your fathers. And His saying, They will turn you back on your heels means: They will take you out of the religion of Islam and into disbelief 149- Then you will return as losers meaning: You will return deceived.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

149- The Almighty's saying: O you who have believed, if you obey those who disbelieve, meaning: the Jews and Christians, Ali, may God be pleased with him, said, meaning: the hypocrites in their saying to the believers when they were defeated: Return to your brothers and enter their religion.

They will turn you back on your heels, they will return you to your original practice of associating partners with God, and you will become losers, deceived.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

149 "O you who have believed, if you obey those who disbelieve, they will turn you back" that is, to disbelief. "on your heels, and you will turn back as losers." It was revealed regarding the words of the hypocrites to the believers when they were defeated: Return to your religion and your brothers. If Muhammad had been a prophet, he would not have been killed. It was also said that you should submit to Abu Sufyan and his followers and seek their protection, so that they will return you to their religion. It was also said that it is general regarding obeying the disbelievers and submitting to their rule, as it leads to agreeing with them.

Surat Al Imran 3:150

Rather, God is your protector, and He is the best of helpers.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

Rather, God is your protector He is your helper and He is the best of helpers so obey Him rather than them.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: By this, the Most High means: God is your guide, O believers, and He will save you from obeying those who disbelieve.

It was said: Rather, God is your Master, because in His statement: If you obey those who disbelieve, they will turn you back on your heels, there is a prohibition against obeying them. It is as if He said: O you who have believed, do not obey those who disbelieve, lest they turn you back on your heels. Then He began the statement and said: Rather, God is your Master, so obey Him, not those who disbelieve, for that is better than victory. Therefore, He raised the name God, and if it had been in the accusative case meaning: Rather, obey God, your Master, not those who disbelieve, it would have been a correct interpretation.

What he means by his saying: Rather, God is your protector, is your guardian and supporter against your enemies who disbelieve, and He is the best of helpers, not from those to whom you fled from the Jews and the disbelievers in God. So hold fast to God, who is your protector and protector, and seek His help, not from anyone else who seeks to harm you and lies in wait for you with misfortunes, as:

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: Rather, God is your protector, if what you say with your tongues is true in your hearts, and He is the best of helpers, meaning: So hold fast to Him and do not seek help from anyone other than Him, and do not turn back on your heels, apostatizing from your religion.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

God Almighty says: Rather, God is your protector, and He is the best of helpers.

Then he said: Rather, God is your Master, meaning He is the One who will support and protect you if you obey Him. Rather, God was read in the accusative case, on the basis of rather, obey God, your Master.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The Almighty warns His believing servants against obeying the disbelievers and hypocrites, for obeying them brings ruin in this world and the Hereafter. That is why the Almighty said: If you obey those who disbelieve, they will turn you back on your heels, and you will become losers. Then He commanded them to obey Him, befriend Him, seek His help, and put their trust in Him. The Almighty said: Rather, God is your Protector, and He is the best of helpers. Then He gave them good report that He will cast fear of them and humiliation into the hearts of their enemies because of their disbelief and polytheism, along with what He has stored up for them in the Hereafter of torment and punishment. He said: "We will cast terror into the hearts of those who disbelieve because they have associated with God that for which He has not sent down any authority. Their refuge is the Fire, and wretched is the residence of the wrongdoers." It has been proven in the two Sahihs on the authority of Jabir ibn Abdullah that the Messenger of God said: "I have been given five things that were not given to any of the prophets before me: I have been aided by terror for a distance of a month's journey, the earth has been made a place of prostration and purification for me, and spoils of war have been made lawful for me." And I was given intercession, and the Prophet was sent to his people in particular, and I was sent to all people." Imam Ahmad said: Muhammad bin Abi Uday told us, on the authority of Sulayman al-Taymi, on the authority of Sayyar, on the authority of Abu Umamah, that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "My Lord has favored me over the prophets - or he said over the nations - in four things: He said: I was sent to all people, and the entire earth was made for me and for my nation a place of prostration and purification, so wherever a man of my nation finds prayer, his place of prostration and purification is with him, and I was aided by terror for a month's journey, which he casts into the hearts of my enemies, and spoils of war were made lawful for me." Al-Tirmidhi narrated it from the hadith of Sulayman al-Taymi, on the authority of Sayyar al-Qurashi al-Umawi, their client from Damascus, who lived in Basra, on the authority of Abu Umamah Sadi bin Ajlan, may God be pleased with him, with it, and he said: It is good and authentic. Saeed bin Mansour said: Ibn Wahb informed us, Amr bin al-Harith informed me that Abu Yunus told him, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: I was aided by terror against the enemy. Muslim narrated it from the hadith of Ibn Wahb. Imam Ahmad said: Husayn ibn Muhammad told us, Isra'il told us, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Abu Burdah, on the authority of his father Abu Musa, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "I was given five things: I was sent to the red and the black, the earth was made pure and a place of prostration for me, spoils were made lawful for me and were not made lawful for those before me, I was aided by terror for a month, and I was given intercession, and there is no prophet who did not ask for his intercession. I hid my intercession and then made it for whoever died not associating anything with God." Ahmad alone narrated it. Al-Awfi narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas regarding the words of God the Almighty: We will cast terror into the hearts of those who disbelieve, he said: God cast terror into the heart of Abu Sufyan, so he returned to Mecca. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Abu Sufyan has indeed taken a part of you, and he has returned and God cast terror into his heart. Narrated by Ibn Abi Hatim. And the words of God the Almighty: And God had fulfilled His promise to you when you were killing them by His permission, Ibn Abbas said: God promised them victory. This verse may be used as evidence for one of the two previous sayings in the Almighty's statement: "When you said to the believers, 'Is it not sufficient for you that your Lord should reinforce you with three thousand angels sent down?' Yes, if you are patient and fear God and they come upon you at once, your Lord will reinforce you with five thousand angels with marks." That was on the day of Uhud, because their enemy was three thousand fighters, so when they confronted them, victory and triumph were achieved early in the day for Islam. When what happened of the disobedience of the archers and the failure of some of the fighters, the promise that was conditional on steadfastness and obedience was delayed. For this reason, He said, And God has fulfilled His promise to you, meaning early in the day, when you were killing them, meaning killing them, by His permission, meaning by His giving you power over them, until you failed. Ibn Jurayj said: Ibn Abbas said: Failure is cowardice. And you disputed about the matter and disobeyed, as happened to the archers, after He had shown you that which you love, which was victory over them. Among you are those who desire this world, and they are those who desired the spoils when they saw Defeat And among you is he who desires the Hereafter, then He turned you away from them to test you then He made them prevail over you to test you and examine you And He has certainly pardoned you that is, He forgave you for that action, and that, and God knows best, is due to the large number of the enemy and their numbers and the small number of the Muslims and their numbers. Ibn Jurayj said: His statement And He has certainly pardoned you he said: He did not eradicate you, and Muhammad ibn Ishaq said the same: Ibn Jarir narrated them both And God is full of bounty to the believers and Imam Ahmad said: Sulayman ibn Dawud told us, Abd al-Rahman ibn Abi al-Zinad told us on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ubaydullah on the authority of Ibn Abbas that he said: God has not given victory in a place like He gave victory on the day of Uhud, he said: So we denied that, and Ibn Abbas said: Between me and those who denied that is the Book of God, that God says on the day of Uhud And God had fulfilled His promise to you when you were killing them with His permission Ibn Abbas and al-Hasan say: killing "until you were weak and disputed about the matter and disobeyed after He had shown you what you love. Among you are those who desire this world and among you are those who desire the Hereafter" the verse, and what he meant was And with these archers, the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, stationed them in a place and then said: Protect our backs, for if you see us being killed, do not help us, and if you see us having taken spoils, do not share with us. So when the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, took spoils and allowed the camp of the polytheists to be conquered, the archers all rushed into the camp to plunder, and the ranks of the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, met like this - and he interlocked his hands - and they took refuge, and when the archers left that position they were in, the horses entered from that place upon the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and they struck each other, and they became confused and many Muslims were killed, and victory was for the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his companions at the beginning of the day until seven or nine of the standard-bearers of the polytheists were killed, and the Muslims moved around towards the mountain, and they did not reach where the people say the cave is, but they were under the mortar, and the devil cried out: Muhammad has been killed, and they did not doubt that it was true, and we did not stop like that, we did not doubt that it was true until the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, appeared between the two Sa'dains, and we knew him. He said: We were so happy that it was as if we had not been afflicted with what afflicted us. He said: He climbed towards us and he was saying: The wrath of God has intensified against a people who bloodied the face of the Messenger of God. He said again: O God, they cannot prevail over us. Until he reached us, he remained for an hour, and then Abu Sufyan shouted at the bottom of the mountain: Let Hubal be exalted - twice, meaning his god - Where is the son of Abu Kabsha? Where is the son of Abu Quhafa? Where is the son of Ibn al-Khattab? Umar, may God be pleased with him, said: O Messenger of God, should I not answer him? He said: Yes. When he said: Let Hubal be exalted, Umar said: God is Most High and Most Majestic. Abu Sufyan said: Her eye has been comforted. So he turned away from her or did something. He said: Where is the son of Abu Kabsha? Where is the son of Abu Quhafa? Where is the son of Ibn al-Khattab? Umar said: "This is the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and this is Abu Bakr, and here I am, Umar." Abu Sufyan said: "A day is like the day of Badr. The days are in cycles, and war is a contest." He said: Umar said: Our dead are not equal in Paradise. And your dead are in the Fire. He said: You claim that, so we have failed and lost. Abu Sufyan said: You will find mutilation among your dead, and that was not according to the opinion of our leaders. He said: Then the fanaticism of the Age of Ignorance overtook him, so he said: If that is the case, we would not hate it. This is a strange hadith and a strange context. It is from the mursals of Ibn Abbas, for no one witnessed it, nor his father. Al-Hakim included it in his Mustadrak on the authority of Abu al-Nadr al-Faqih, on the authority of Uthman ibn Saeed, on the authority of Salman ibn Dawud ibn Ali ibn Abdullah ibn Abbas, and this is how Ibn Abi Hatim and al-Bayhaqi narrated it in Dalil al-Nubuwwah from the hadith of Sulayman ibn Dawud al-Hashemi on his authority. And some of it has supporting evidence in the Sahihis and elsewhere. Imam Ahmad said: Affan told us, Hammad told us, on the authority of Ata ibn al-Sa'ib, on the authority of al-Sha'bi, on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud, who said: The women were behind the Muslims on the day of Uhud, finishing off the wounded polytheists. If I had sworn that day, I would have hoped to be fulfilled that none of us wanted the world, until God revealed: "Some of you desire this world and some of you desire the Hereafter. Then He turned you away from them to test you." When the companions of the Messenger of God (may God bless him and grant him peace) disobeyed what they were commanded to do, the Prophet (may God bless him and grant him peace) singled out nine men: seven from the Ansar and two men from Quraysh, and he was the tenth of them (may God bless him and grant him peace). When they overwhelmed him, he said: May God have mercy on the man who turned them away from us. Then a man from the Ansar stood up and fought for an hour until he was killed. When they overwhelmed him again, he said: May God have mercy on the man who turned them away from us. He continued saying that until the seven were killed. Then the Messenger of God (may God bless him and grant him peace) said to his two companions: We have not been fair to our companions. Abu Sufyan came and said: Hubal is superior. The Messenger of God (may God bless him and grant him peace) said: "Say: God is higher and more majestic." They said: God is higher and more majestic. Abu Sufyan said: We have Al-Uzza and you have no Uzza. The Messenger of God (may God bless him and grant him peace) said: "Say: God is our protector and the disbelievers have no protector." Abu Sufyan said: "A day for the day of Badr. A day against us and a day for us, a day for women and a day for men." The eagle, Hanzala for Hanzala, so-and-so for so-and-so, and so-and-so for so-and-so. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: They are not equal: As for our dead, they are alive and provided for, but as for your dead, they are being tortured in the Fire. Abu Sufyan said: There was indeed an example among the people, and if he was cursed, it was not from among us. I did not command or forbid, nor did I like or dislike, nor did it upset me or please me. He said: So they looked and saw that Hamza's belly had been ripped open, and Hind took his liver and chewed it but was unable to eat it. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Did you eat something? They said: No. He said: God would not put anything of Hamza in the Fire. He said: So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, placed Hamza and prayed over him, and a man from the Ansar was brought and placed beside him and prayed over him. The Ansar lifted him up and left Hamza until another was brought and placed beside Hamza and prayed over him, then lifted him up and left Hamza, until he prayed over him seventy times that day. Ahmad alone transmitted it. Also. Al-Bukhari said: Ubaydullah bin Musa narrated to us on the authority of Israel, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Al-Baraa, who said: We encountered the polytheists that day and the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, seated an army of archers and put Abdullah bin Jubair in charge of them, and said: "Do not move. If you see us prevailing over them, do not move, and if you see them prevailing over us, do not help us." So when we met them, they fled until I saw the women running hard on the mountain, raising their legs and showing their anklets, and they began to say: The spoils, the spoils. So Abdullah bin Jubair said: "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, ordered me not to move, but they refused. When they refused, they turned their faces away and seventy were killed. Abu Sufyan looked out and said: "Is Muhammad among the people?" He said: Do not answer him. He said: Is Ibn Abi Quhafah among the people? He said: Do not answer him. He said: Is Ibn Al-Khattab among the people? He said: These people have been killed, and if they were alive, they would have answered. So Umar could not control himself. He said to him: You have lied, O enemy of God, God has left for you that which grieves you. Abu Sufyan said: Hubal is exalted. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Answer him. They said: What should we say? He said: Say: God is higher and more exalted. Abu Sufyan said: We have Al-Uzza, and you have no Uzza. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Answer him. They said: What should we say? He said: Say: God is our Master, and you have no Master. Abu Sufyan said: A day for the day of Badr, and war is a contest, and you will find a mutilation that I did not command and it did not upset me. Al-Bukhari was the only one to narrate it from this source, then he narrated it from Amr bin Khalid from Zuhair bin Muawiyah, from Abu Ishaq, from Al-Bara' in a similar manner, and he will come with something simpler than this. Al-Bukhari also said: Ubaidullah bin Saeed told us, Abu Usamah told us from Hisham bin Urwah, from his father, from Aisha, may God be pleased with her, who said: When the day of Uhud came, the polytheists were defeated, and Satan cried out: O servants of God, I am the last of you, so the first of them returned. So she and the last of them fought, and Hudhayfah saw his father Al-Yaman and said: O servants of God, my father is my father. He said: She said: By God, they did not hold back until they killed him, so Hudhayfah said: May God forgive you. Urwah said: By God, there was still good in Hudhayfah until he met God Almighty. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said: Yahya ibn Ibad ibn Abdullah ibn al-Zubayr told me on the authority of his father on the authority of his grandfather that al-Zubayr ibn al-Awwam said: By God, I saw myself looking at Hind's servants and companions, their faces rolled up and they were running away, neither much nor little was enough to take them. The archers turned towards the army when the people fled from it, wanting to loot, and our backs were left for the horses, so they came to us from behind us, and a voice cried out: Muhammad has been killed. So we retreated and the people retreated upon us after we had captured the standard-bearers, until no one from the people came near it. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said: The standard of the polytheists remained fallen until Umrah bint Alqamah al-Harithiya took it and gave it to the Quraysh, so they fought with it. Al-Suddi said, on the authority of Abd Khair, who said: Abdullah ibn Masoud said: I did not think that any of the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, wanted the worldly life until what was revealed about us on the day of Uhud was revealed: Some of you want the world, and some of you want the Hereafter. It has been narrated from other sources on the authority of Ibn Masoud. And it was also narrated on the authority of Abd al-Rahman ibn Awf and Abu Talha, narrated by Ibn Mardawayh in his interpretation, and the Almighty's saying: Then He turned you away from them to test you. Ibn Ishaq said: Al-Qasim ibn Abd al-Rahman ibn Rafi', one of the sons of Adi ibn al-Najjar, told me: Anas ibn al-Nadr, the uncle of Anas ibn Malik, went to Umar ibn al-Khattab and Talha ibn Ubaydullah with some men from the Muhajireen and Ansar who had thrown down what was in their hands, so he said: What is leaving you? They said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, has been killed. He said: What will you do with life after him? Rise and die as he died. Then he faced the people and fought until he was killed, may God be pleased with him. Al-Bukhari said: Hassan ibn Hassan told us, Muhammad ibn Talha told us, Hamid told us on the authority of Anas ibn Malik that his uncle, meaning Anas ibn al-Nadr, was absent from Badr and said: I was absent from the first battle of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace. If God makes me witness with the Messenger of God, God will see what I find. So he met the day of Uhud and defeated the people, so he said: O God, I apologize to you for what... These people - meaning the Muslims - made it and I declare to you that I am innocent of what the polytheists brought. So he advanced with his sword and met Sa'd ibn Mu'adh and said: Where, Sa'd? I smell the fragrance of Paradise without anyone. So he went and was killed, and he was not recognized until his sister recognized him by his fingertip with a mole. He had eighty-odd stab wounds, blows and arrow wounds. This is the wording of al-Bukhari. Muslim included it in a hadith narrated by Thabit from Anas in a similar manner. Al-Bukhari also said: Abdun narrated to us, Abu Hamza narrated to us from Uthman ibn Muhab, who said: A man came to the House of Hajj and saw some people sitting. He said: Who are these people sitting? They said: These are Quraysh. He said: Who is the old man? They said: Ibn 'Umar. So he came to him and said: I am going to ask you about something, so tell me. He said: Ask. He said: I ask you by the sanctity of this House, do you know that Uthman ibn 'Affan fled on the day of Uhud? He said: Yes. He said: Do you know that he was absent from Badr and did not witness it? He said: Yes. He said: Do you know that he did not attend the Pledge of Ridwan and did not... He said: Yes. So he said: Allahu Akbar. Ibn Umar said: Come, so I may tell you and explain to you what you asked me about. As for his escape on the day of Uhud, I bear witness that God has pardoned him. As for his absence from Badr, he was married to the daughter of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and she was sick. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to him: You will have the reward and share of a man who witnessed Badr. As for his absence from the Pledge of Ridwan, if there had been anyone more honorable in the valley of Mecca than Uthman, he would have sent him in his place. So he sent Uthman, and the Pledge of Ridwan took place after Uthman had gone to Mecca. So the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said with his right hand: This is the hand of Uthman, and he struck his hand with it and said: "This is the hand of Uthman. Go with it now." Then Al-Bukhari narrated it from another chain of transmission on the authority of Abu Awanah, on the authority of Uthman ibn Abdullah ibn Muhabb.

Rather, God is your protector, and He is the best of helpers.

Rather, God is your protector, and He is the best of helpers.

God the Almighty said: When you were ascending and not looking back at anyone meaning He turned you away from them while you were ascending, that is, in the mountain, fleeing from your enemies. Al-Hasan and Qatadah read When you were ascending meaning in the mountain, and not looking back at anyone meaning you were not looking back at anyone out of astonishment, fear and terror, and the Messenger is calling you from behind you meaning you had left him behind you calling you to stop fleeing from the enemies, and to return, come back and attack. Al-Suddi said: When the polytheists attacked the Muslims at Uhud and defeated them, some of them entered the city, and some of them went to the mountain on the rock and stood on it. So the Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, began calling the people to the servants of God, to the servants of God. God mentioned their ascension to the mountain, then He mentioned the Prophet's, may God bless him and grant him peace, calling them, saying: When you were ascending and not looking back at anyone, and the Messenger is calling you from behind you. Ibn Abbas, Qatadah, Al-Rabi' and Ibn Zayd said the same. Abdullah bin Al-Zubayri said: He mentions the defeat of the Muslims on the day of Uhud in his poem while he was a polytheist and had not yet converted to Islam, in which he says at the beginning:

O crow of separation, have you heard? Say, for you are only speaking of something that has already been done.

Good and evil have a limit, and both have a face and a face.

Until he said:

I wish my elders at Badr had witnessed the Khazraj's fear of the sound of the weapons.

When Quba narrated its ponds and the killing spread to Abd al-Ashel

Then they started dancing, like a camel dancing high up in the mountain.

So we killed twice as many of their nobles and we adjusted the slope of Badr, so it was balanced.

Al-Haffan: Small camels. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, had singled out twelve men from among his companions, as Imam Ahmad said: Hasan bin Musa told us, Zuhair told us, Abu Ishaq told us, on the authority of Al-Bara bin Azib, may God be pleased with him, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, appointed Abdullah bin Jubair over the archers on the day of Uhud - and they were fifty men. He said: And he put them in a position, and said: "If you see us being snatched by birds, do not move until I send for you. And if you see us prevail over the enemy and trample them, do not move until I send for you." He said: So they defeated them. He said: By God, I saw the women rushing up the mountain, their anklets and their clothes lifted. He said: The companions of Abdullah, the spoils, O people of the spoils, your companions have appeared, so what are you waiting for? Abdullah bin Jubair said: Have you forgotten what the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to you? They said: By God, we will go to the people and take a share of the spoils. So when they came to them, their faces were turned away and they came forward. Defeated, that is what the Messenger calls them in their last days, so there remained with the Messenger of God only twelve men, so they killed seventy of us, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his companions killed one hundred and forty of the polytheists on the day of Badr, seventy prisoners and seventy dead. Abu Sufyan said: Is Muhammad among the people, is Muhammad among the people? - three times - he said. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, forbade them from answering him, then he said: Is Ibn Abi Quhafah among the people? Is Ibn Abi Quhafah among the people? Is Ibn Al-Khattab among the people? Is Ibn Al-Khattab among the people? Then he turned to his companions and said: As for these, they have been killed and you have been spared from them, so Umar could not control himself but said: You have lied, by God, O enemy of God, those whom you have counted are all alive, and there remains for you what will upset you, so he said: A day for a day Badr, and war is a contest. And you will find among the people a mutilation that I did not order, and it did not upset me. Then he began to recite a rajaz saying: Hubal, Hubal, exalt. Hubal, so the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Will you not answer him? They said: O Messenger of God, what should we say? He said: Say God is higher and more majestic. He said: We have Al-Uzza, and you have no Uzza. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Will you not answer him? They said: O Messenger of God, what should we say? He said: Say God is our Master, and you have no Master. Al-Bukhari narrated it from the hadith of Zuhair bin Muawiyah in an abbreviated form, and he narrated it from the hadith of Israel from Abu Ishaq in a more detailed form than this as mentioned above, and God knows best. Al-Bayhaqi narrated in Dalil Al-Nubuwwah from the hadith of Ammarah bin Ghaziyah, from Abu Al-Zubayr, from Jabir, who said: "The people fled from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, on the day of Uhud, and eleven men from the Ansar remained with him, and Talhah bin Ubaidullah, while he was climbing the mountain. The polytheists met them, so he said: Is there no one for these? Talhah said: I will, O Messenger of God. He said: As you are, O Talhah. A man from the Ansar said: I will, O Messenger of God. So he fought on his behalf, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and those who remained with him climbed, then the Ansari was killed." So they caught up with him, and he said: Is there no man for these people? Talhah said the same as he had said, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said the same as he had said, and a man from the Ansar said: So I am, O Messenger of God, so he fought on his behalf and his companions ascended, then he was killed and they caught up with him, and he kept saying the same as he had said before, and Talhah said: So I am, O Messenger of God, so he detained him and a man from the Ansar asked him for permission to fight, so he gave him permission, and he fought like those who had been before him, until no one remained with him except Talhah, so they attacked them, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Who is for these people? Talhah said: I am, so he fought like all those who had been before him, and his fingers were injured, so he said: Enough, and the Messenger of God said: If you had said the name of God and mentioned the name of God, the angels would have lifted you up with the people looking at you until you entered the atmosphere of the sky, then the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, ascended to his companions while they were gathered. Al-Bukhari narrated on the authority of Abu Bakr bin Abi Shaybah, on the authority of Wakee', on the authority of Ismail, on the authority of Qais bin Abi Hazim, who said: I saw Talhah's hand paralyzed, with which he protected the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace. And he (peace be upon him) said: "And he (peace be upon him) said: 'On the Day of Uhud,' meaning the Day of Uhud, in the two Sahihs, from the hadith of Mu'tamir ibn Sulayman, from his father, from Abu Uthman al-Nahdi, who said: 'On some of the days in which the Messenger of God (peace be upon him) fought, there remained none with the Messenger of God (peace be upon him) except Talhah ibn Ubayd God and Sa'd, from their hadith.' And al-Hasan ibn Arfa said: 'Marwan ibn Mu'awiyah told us, from Hashim ibn Hashim al-Zuhri, who said: 'I heard Sa'd ibn al-Musayyab say: 'I heard Sa'd ibn Abi Waqqas say: "The Messenger of God (peace be upon him) handed me his quiver on the Day of Uhud and said: 'Shoot, may my father and mother be sacrificed for you.'" And al-Bukhari narrated it on the authority of Abdullah ibn Muhammad, from Marwan ibn Mu'awiyah, and Muhammad ibn Ishaq said: 'Saleh ibn Kaysan told me on the authority of some of the family of Sa'd, from Sa'd ibn Abi Waqqas, that he shot on the Day of Uhud without the Messenger of God (peace be upon him).' Sa'd said: 'I saw the Messenger of God (peace be upon him) handing me arrows and saying: 'Shoot, may my father and mother be sacrificed for you.' He even handed me an arrow that had no tip, so I shot with it.'" "It was established in the two Sahihs from the hadith of Ibrahim bin Sa'd, on the authority of his father, on the authority of his grandfather, on the authority of Sa'd bin Abi Waqqas, who said: "On the day of Uhud, I saw on the right of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and on his left, two men wearing white clothes fighting on his behalf with the fiercest fighting I had ever seen before or after that day, meaning Gabriel and Michael, peace be upon them." Hammad bin Salamah said on the authority of Ali bin Zaid and Thabit on the authority of Anas bin Malik: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was singled out on the day of Uhud with seven of the Ansar and two of the Quraysh. When they overwhelmed him, he said: 'Whoever repels them from us will have Paradise,' or 'and he is my companion in Paradise.' So a man from the Ansar stepped forward and fought until he was killed. Then they overwhelmed him again, and he said: 'Whoever repels them from us will have Paradise,' so a man from the Ansar stepped forward and fought until he was killed. He continued like that until the seven were killed, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to his two companions: 'We have not been fair to our companions.'" Narrated by Muslim on the authority of Hudbah bin Khalid, on the authority of Hammad bin Salamah, with something similar. Abu al-Aswad said on the authority of Urwah bin Al-Zubayr said: Abi bin Khalaf, the brother of Banu Jumah, had sworn while he was in Mecca to kill the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. When his oath reached the Messenger of God, he said, Rather, I will kill him, God willing. Then, on the day of Uhud, Abi came wearing iron, masked, saying, I will not escape if Muhammad escapes. So he charged at the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, intending to kill him. But Mus'ab bin 'Umair, the brother of Banu 'Abd al-Dar, met him, protecting the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, with his own life. So he killed Mus'ab bin 'Umair. "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, saw the collarbone of Abi bin Khalaf through a gap between the heme of his armor and the blade, and stabbed him in it with his spear. He fell to the ground from his horse, and no blood came out of his stab wound. His companions came to him and carried him while he was mooring like a bull. They said to him, 'What makes you so upset? It is only a scratch.' So he mentioned to them the words of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. Rather, I will kill Abi." Then he said, By the One in Whose Hand is my soul, if this had happened to me, the people of Dhu al-Majaz would have died. All together, he died in the Fire, So may the companions of the Blaze be destroyed. It was narrated by Musa bin Uqbah in his Maghazi, on the authority of Al-Zuhri, on the authority of Saeed bin Al-Musayyab, in a similar manner. Muhammad bin Ishaq mentioned that he said: "When the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, leaned on the ravine, Ubayy bin Khalaf caught up with him and he was saying: 'I will not be saved if I am saved.' The people said: 'O Messenger of God, let one of us help him.' The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Leave him.' When he approached, the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, took the spear from Al-Harith bin Al-Samma. Some of the people said, 'What was mentioned to me?' When the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, took it from him, he shook it so hard that we scattered from him as hair flies from the back of a camel when it shakes. Then the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, faced him and stabbed him in the neck with a stab that caused him to fall off his horse repeatedly." Al-Waqidi mentioned on the authority of Yunus bin Bakir, on the authority of Muhammad bin Ishaq, on the authority of Asim bin Amr bin Qatada, on the authority of Abdullah bin Ka'b bin Malik. On the authority of his father, something like that. Al-Waqidi said: Ibn Umar used to say: Abi bin Khalaf died in Batn Rabigh. I was walking in Batn Rabigh after a nightfall when I saw a blazing fire. I woke up and saw a man coming out of it, pulling on a chain, provoking thirst in him. A man said: Do not give him a drink, for this is the one killed by the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. This is Abi bin Khalaf. It was confirmed in the two Sahih's on the authority of Abd al-Razzaq on the authority of Muammar, on the authority of Hammam bin Munabbih, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'God's wrath was intense against a people who did this to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace - and he was pointing to his front teeth - and God's wrath was intense against a man killed by the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, in the way of God." Al-Bukhari also included it on the authority of Ibn Jurayj on the authority of Amr bin Dinar, on the authority of Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: "God's wrath was intense against the one killed by the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, with his own hand in the way of God, and God's wrath was intense against a people who bloodied the face of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace." "And upon him be peace" - Ibn Ishaq said: "The front tooth of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was broken, his cheek was wounded, and his lip was injured." The one who injured him was Utbah ibn Abi Waqqas. Salih ibn Kaysan told me, on the authority of someone who told him, on the authority of Sa'd ibn Abi Waqqas, who said: "I have never been so keen on killing anyone as I was on killing Utbah ibn Abi Waqqas, if what I know is that he was of bad character and hated by his people. And the statement of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, "God's wrath is intense against whoever bleeds the face of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace" was sufficient for me. And 'Abd al-Razzaq said: Mu'mar informed us, on the authority of al-Zuhri, on the authority of 'Uthman al-Jazari, on the authority of Muqsim, that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, "supplanted against Utbah ibn Abi Waqqas on the day of Uhud when his front tooth was broken and his face was bleeding, and he said: O God, do not let a year pass over him until he dies as a disbeliever." So a year had not passed over him until he died as a disbeliever in the Fire. And al-Waqidi mentioned on the authority of Ibn Abi Sabra, on the authority of Ishaq ibn 'Abdullah ibn Abi Farwah, on the authority of Abu al-Huwayrith, on the authority of Nafi' ibn Jubayr said: I heard a man from the Muhajireen say: I witnessed Uhud and I saw arrows coming from every direction and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was in the middle of them, all of that being diverted from him. I saw Abdullah ibn Shihab al-Zuhri saying on that day: Show me Muhammad, I will not be saved if he is saved, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was beside him with no one with him. Then he passed him and Sufyan rebuked him for that, and he said: By God, I did not see him. I swear by God that he is protected from us! We went out four of us and we pledged and agreed to kill him, but we did not succeed in that. Al-Waqidi said: What is established with us is that the one who shot the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, in the cheeks was Ibn Qami'ah, and the one who caused his lip to bleed and his front tooth to be damaged was Utbah ibn Abi Waqqas. Abu Dawud al-Tayalisi said: Ibn al-Mubarak told us on the authority of Ishaq ibn Yahya ibn Talhah ibn Ubayd God, Isa ibn Talhah told me on the authority of the Mother of the Believers Aisha, may God be pleased with her, she said: Whenever Abu Bakr mentioned the Battle of Uhud, he would say: That day was all for Talhah. Then he began to narrate, he said: I was the first to return on the Battle of Uhud, and I saw a man fighting with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, behind him, and I think he said it was out of zeal. He said: I said: Talhah was where I missed what I missed, so I said: There is a man from my people who is dearer to me, and between me and the polytheists is a man I do not know, and I am closer to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, than he, and he walks quickly, and I do not remember it, and it was Abu Ubaydah ibn al-Jarrah. We went to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and he said: His front tooth was broken and his face was wounded, and two rings from the helmet's ring entered his cheek. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said, Your companion wants Talhah, and he was bleeding, but we did not pay attention to what he said. He said: I went to remove that from his face, but Abu Ubaidah said, I swear to you by my right that you left me, so I left him. He did not want to take it with his hand and hurt the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, so he leaned on him with his mouth and pulled out one of the rings, and his front tooth fell with the ring. I went to do what he did, but he said, I swear to you by my right that you left me. He said, "So he did the same as he did the first time, and his other front tooth fell with the ring. Abu Ubaidah was the best of people in his wounds. We fixed the matter of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, then we came to Talhah in one of those graves, and there were seventy-odd, or less, or more, from stab wounds, arrows, and blows, and his finger was cut off, so we fixed the matter of him. Al-Haytham bin Kulayb and Al-Tabarani narrated it from the hadith of Ishaq bin Yahya. And with Al-Haitham, Abu Ubaidah said: I ask you by God, O Abu Bakr, to leave me alone? So Abu Ubaidah took the arrow in his mouth, and began to shake it out of dislike of harming the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, then he pulled out the arrow in his mouth, and Abu Ubaidah's front tooth fell out. He mentioned its full form, and Al-Hafiz Al-Dhiya Al-Maqdisi chose it in his book. Ali bin Al-Madini weakened this hadith from the side of this Ishaq bin Yahya, because Yahya bin Saeed Al-Qattan, Ahmad, Yahya bin Ma'in, Al-Bukhari, Abu Zur'ah, Abu Hatim, Muhammad bin Saad, Al-Nasa'i and others spoke about it. Ibn Wahb said: Amr bin Al-Harith informed me that Umar bin Al-Sa'ib told him that he had heard that when Malik, Abu Abi Saeed Al-Khudri, was wounded by the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, on the day of Uhud, he sucked the wound until it became clean and white, so it was said to him: Suck it in. He said: No, by God, I will never suck it in. Then he turned back to fight. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "Whoever wants to look at a man from the people of Paradise, let him look at this man, and he was martyred." It has been proven in The two Sahihs, on the authority of Abdul Aziz bin Abi Hazim, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Sahl bin Saad, that he was asked about the wound of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and he said: The face of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was wounded, his front tooth was broken, and the egg was smashed on his head, may God bless him and grant him peace. Fatima, the daughter of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was washing the blood, and Ali was pouring water on him with a shield. When Fatima saw that the water only increased the blood, she took a piece of matting and burned it until it became ashes. She stuck it to the wound and the blood stopped. The Almighty's statement: So He rewarded you with grief for grief means He rewarded you with grief upon grief, as the Arabs say: It descended upon the Banu so-and-so, and it descended upon the Banu so-and-so. Ibn Jarir said: And similarly His statement: And I will crucify you on the trunks of palm trees means on the trunks of palm trees. Ibn Abbas said: The first grief was due to the defeat, and when it was said that Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, was killed, and the second was when the polytheists overtook them on the mountain, and the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: O God, they will not have the right to... And on the authority of Abd al-Rahman ibn Awf: The first grief was due to the defeat, and the second was when it was said that Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, was killed, which was more severe and greater for them than the defeat. Both were narrated by Ibn Mardawayh, and something similar was narrated on the authority of Umar ibn al-Khattab, and Ibn Abi Hatim mentioned something similar on the authority of Qatada as well. Al-Suddi said: The first grief was due to what they missed of the spoils and conquest, and the second was the enemy's oversight of them. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said: So He rewarded you with grief after grief, meaning distress after distress of the killing of those who were killed from your brothers, and the superiority of your enemy over you, and what occurred in your souls from the saying of those who said: Your Prophet was killed, so that was one after another upon you, grief after grief. Mujahid and Qatada said: The first grief was hearing of the killing of Muhammad, and the second was what happened to them of killing and wounds. The opposite was narrated on the authority of Qatada and al-Rabi' ibn Anas. And on the authority of al-Suddi: The first was what they missed of victory and spoils, and the second was the enemy's oversight of them. This statement was previously mentioned on the authority of al-Suddi. Ibn Jarir said: The most correct of these statements is the statement of the one who said: So He rewarded you with grief for grief. So He rewarded you with your grief, O believers, by God's deprivation of you of the spoils of the polytheists and victory over them and the triumph over them, and what befell you of killing and wounds, on that day after He had shown you in all of that what you loved by your disobedience to the command of your Lord, and your opposition to the command of your Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace. The grief of your thinking that your Prophet had been killed and the enemy had turned against you after your remnants from them. And the Almighty's saying: So that you may not grieve over what has escaped you, meaning over what has escaped you of the spoils and victory over your enemy, nor over what has befallen you, of wounds and killing, said Ibn Abbas, Abd al-Rahman ibn Awf, al-Hasan, Qatadah, and al-Suddi. And God is Aware of what you do. Glory be to Him and praise be to Him. There is no god but Him, the Most High, the Most Great.

Rather, God is your protector, and He is the best of helpers.

Surat Al Imran 3:150

Rather, God is your protector, and He is the best of helpers.

Fath al-Qadir

And his saying 150- Rather, God is your protector is a departure from the meaning of the first sentence: that is, if you obey the disbelievers, they will abandon you and not support you. Rather, God is your protector, and no one else. And Rather, God was read in the accusative case, assuming Rather, obey God.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

150-Then he said: Rather, God is your protector, your helper and protector of your religion, and He is the best of helpers.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

150"Rather, God is your protector" Your helper. It was read in the accusative case, meaning, "Rather, obey God, your protector. And He is the best of helpers. So, they were satisfied with Him, without the guardianship and support of anyone else.

Surat Al Imran 3:151

We will cast terror into the hearts of those who disbelieve because they have associated with God that for which He had not sent down any authority. And their refuge is the Fire, and wretched is the residence of the wrongdoers.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

We will cast terror into the hearts of those who disbelieve with the sukoon of the 'ayn and the damma of it, fear, and they resolved after their departure from Uhud to return and exterminate the Muslims, but they were terrified and did not return because they associated because of their association with God that for which He had not sent down any authority an argument for its worship, which is idols and their refuge is the Fire, and wretched is the residence of the wrongdoers the disbelievers are

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: By that, may His praise be glorified, He means: God will cast, O believers, into the hearts of those who disbelieved, in their Lord, and denied the prophethood of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, from those who fought you at Uhud, terror, which is panic and fear, because they associated partners with God, meaning: because of their association with God, their worship of idols, and their obedience to Satan, for which I have not given them any proof, and it is the authority, which the Almighty informed that He did not send down because of their disbelief and association.

This is a promise from God, the Most High, to the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, of victory over their enemies and their success, as long as they adhere to His covenant and adhere to His obedience. Then He informed them of what He will do to their enemies after their fate is Him, so He, the Most High, said: And their refuge is the Fire, meaning: And their return to which they will return on the Day of Resurrection is the Fire, And evil is the residence of the wrongdoers, meaning: And evil is the residence of the wrongdoers - those who wronged themselves by acquiring what necessitated God's punishment - the Fire, as:

Ibn Humayd told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: "We will cast terror into the hearts of those who disbelieve, because they have associated with God that for which He has not sent down any authority. And their refuge is the Fire, and wretched is the residence of the wrongdoers." Indeed, I will cast terror into the hearts of those who disbelieve, by which I used to support you against them, because they associated with Me that for which I have not given them any proof. That is, do not think that they will have a final victory or supremacy over you, as long as you hold fast and follow My command, because of the calamity that has befallen you from them due to sins that you have committed against yourselves, in which you disobeyed My command and disobeyed the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace.

Muhammad bin Al-Husayn told me, Ahmad told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi, who said: When Abu Sufyan and the polytheists set out on the day of Uhud, heading towards Mecca, Abu Sufyan set out until he reached part of the road. Then they regretted it and said: What a bad thing you have done! You killed them, and when none remained but the fugitives, you left them! Go back and exterminate them! So God, the Almighty, cast terror into their hearts and they fled. Then they met a Bedouin, and they promised him a reward and said to him: If you meet Muhammad, tell him what we have gathered for them. So God, the Almighty, informed His Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, and he pursued them until he reached Hamra' Al-Asad, and God, the Almighty, revealed about that, and mentioned Abu Sufyan when he wanted to go back to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and what terror He had cast into his heart, so He said: We will cast terror into the hearts of those who disbelieve for what they have associated with God.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

God Almighty says: "We will cast terror into the hearts of those who disbelieve because they have associated with God that for which He had not sent down any authority. And their refuge is the Fire, and wretched is the residence of the wrongdoers."

Its counterpart: And He cast terror into their hearts. Ibn Amir and Al-Kisa'i read terror with a damma on the 'ayn, and they are two dialects. Terror is fear. It is said: I terrified him with terror and terror, so he is terrified. It is possible that terror is a source, and terror is a noun, and its origin is from filling. It is said: A terrifying flood fills the valley, and I terrified the pool, I filled it. The meaning is: We will fill the hearts of the polytheists with fear and terror. Al-Sakhtiyani read will cast with a ya', and the rest with a nun of majesty. Al-Suddi and others said: When Abu Sufyan and the polytheists set out on the day of Uhud, heading to Mecca, they set out until they were part of the way, regretting and saying: What a bad thing we have done! We killed them until there remained of them only the fugitives. We left them. Go back and eradicate them. When they decided to do that, God cast terror into their hearts until they turned back from what they intended to do. Throwing is used literally for bodies. God Almighty said: And he threw down the tablets (al-A'raf 7:150), So they threw down their ropes and their staffs (Ash-Shu'ara': 44), So Moses threw down his staff (Ash-Shu'ara': 45). The poet said:

She threw down her stick and settled down

Then it may be used metaphorically as in this verse and His saying: And I have bestowed upon you love from Me (Ta-Ha 20:39), and He has cast upon you a question.

Surat Al Imran 3:151

We will cast terror into the hearts of those who disbelieve because they have associated with God that for which He had not sent down any authority. And their refuge is the Fire, and wretched is the residence of the wrongdoers.

The Almighty's saying: Because they associated others with God is an explanation, meaning that the reason for casting terror into their hearts was their associating others with God. So because is the source, and it is said: He associated others with Him meaning he made someone else equal to Him in order to make him a partner.

The Almighty's saying: For which He has not sent down any authority is an argument and clarification, an excuse and proof. From this the governor is called a sultan, because he is the argument of God Almighty on earth. It is said that it is taken from the word salit, which is what the lamp is lit with, and it is sesame oil. Imru' al-Qais said:

Amal Al-Sulait with twisted wick

The authority is used to illuminate the manifestation of truth and suppress falsehood. It was said that the iron sword is sharpness, and the sword is from the word taslith which means subjugation, and the authority is from that, so the letter nun is redundant, so the origin of the authority is strength, for it is subjugated by it as it is subjugated by the authority, and the sword is the woman who is loud, and the sword is the man who is eloquent in tongue, and the meaning of this is that the worship of idols has not been proven in any of the religions, and no mind has indicated that it is permissible, then the Almighty informed about their fate and their return, saying: And their refuge is the Fire, then He declared His covenant, saying: And evil is the residence of the wrongdoers. The abode is the place where one resides, it is said: thawa yathawi thawaan, and the shelter is every place to which something returns, night or day.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The Almighty warns His believing servants against obeying the disbelievers and hypocrites, for obeying them brings ruin in this world and the Hereafter. That is why the Almighty said: If you obey those who disbelieve, they will turn you back on your heels, and you will become losers. Then He commanded them to obey Him, befriend Him, seek His help, and put their trust in Him. The Almighty said: Rather, God is your Protector, and He is the best of helpers. Then He gave them good report that He will cast fear of them and humiliation into the hearts of their enemies because of their disbelief and polytheism, along with what He has stored up for them in the Hereafter of torment and punishment. He said: "We will cast terror into the hearts of those who disbelieve because they have associated with God that for which He has not sent down any authority. Their refuge is the Fire, and wretched is the residence of the wrongdoers." It has been proven in the two Sahihs on the authority of Jabir ibn Abdullah that the Messenger of God said: "I have been given five things that were not given to any of the prophets before me: I have been aided by terror for a distance of a month's journey, the earth has been made a place of prostration and purification for me, and spoils of war have been made lawful for me." And I was given intercession, and the Prophet was sent to his people in particular, and I was sent to all people." Imam Ahmad said: Muhammad bin Abi Uday told us, on the authority of Sulayman al-Taymi, on the authority of Sayyar, on the authority of Abu Umamah, that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "My Lord has favored me over the prophets - or he said over the nations - in four things: He said: I was sent to all people, and the entire earth was made for me and for my nation a place of prostration and purification, so wherever a man of my nation finds prayer, his place of prostration and purification is with him, and I was aided by terror for a month's journey, which he casts into the hearts of my enemies, and spoils of war were made lawful for me." Al-Tirmidhi narrated it from the hadith of Sulayman al-Taymi, on the authority of Sayyar al-Qurashi al-Umawi, their client from Damascus, who lived in Basra, on the authority of Abu Umamah Sadi bin Ajan, may God be pleased with him, with it, and he said: It is good and authentic. Saeed bin Mansour said: Ibn Wahb informed us, Amr bin al-Harith informed me that Abu Yunus told him, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: I was aided by terror against the enemy. Muslim narrated it from the hadith of Ibn Wahb. Imam Ahmad said: Husayn ibn Muhammad told us, Isra'il told us, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Abu Burdah, on the authority of his father Abu Musa, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "I was given five things: I was sent to the red and the black, the earth was made pure for me and a place of prostration, spoils of war were made lawful for me but were not made lawful for those before me, I was aided by terror for a month, and I was given intercession, and there is no prophet who did not ask for his intercession. I kept my intercession hidden and then made it for whoever died not associating anything with God." Ahmad alone narrated it. Al-Awfi narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas regarding the words of God, the Most High: We will cast terror into the hearts of those who disbelieve, that God cast terror into the heart of Abu Sufyan, so he returned to Mecca. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Abu Sufyan has indeed taken a part of you, and he has returned and God has cast terror into his heart. Narrated by Ibn Abi Hatim. And the Almighty said: And God has fulfilled His promise to you when you were killing them by His permission. Ibn Abbas said: God promised them victory. This verse may be used as evidence for one of the two previous sayings in the Almighty's saying: "When you said to the believers, 'Is it not sufficient for you that your Lord should reinforce you with three thousand angels sent down?' Yes, if you are patient and fear God and they come to you at once, your Lord will reinforce you with five thousand angels with marks." That was on the day of Uhud, because their enemy was three thousand fighters. When they confronted them, victory and triumph were at the beginning of the day for Islam. When what happened of the disobedience of the archers and the failure of some of the fighters, the promise that was conditional on steadfastness and obedience was delayed. For this reason, He said: And God has fulfilled His promise to you, meaning at the beginning of the day, when you were killing them, meaning killing them, by His permission, meaning by His giving you power over them, until you failed. Ibn Jurayj said: Ibn Abbas said: Failure is cowardice. And you disputed about the matter and disobeyed, as happened to the archers, after what happened. "I saw you as you love" which is the victory over them among you are those who desire this world and they are those who desired the spoils when they saw the defeat "and among you are those who desire the Hereafter. Then He turned you away from them to test you" then He made them prevail over you to test you and examine you and He has certainly pardoned you meaning He forgave you for that action, and that, and God knows best, is due to the large number of the enemy and their numbers and the small number of the Muslims and their numbers. Ibn Jurayj said: His statement and He has certainly pardoned you he said: He did not eradicate you, and Muhammad ibn Ishaq said the same: Ibn Jarir narrated them both and God is full of bounty to the believers and Imam Ahmad said: Sulayman ibn Dawud told us, Abd al-Rahman ibn Abi al-Zinad told us on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ubaydullah on the authority of Ibn Abbas that he said: God has not given victory in a place like He gave victory on the day of Uhud, he said: So we denied that, and Ibn Abbas said: Between me and those who denied that is the Book of God, that God says on the day of Uhud and God had fulfilled His promise to you when you were killing them with His permission Ibn Abbas and al-Hasan say: killing until you failed and disputed In the matter and you disobeyed after He showed you what you love. Among you are those who desire this world and among you are those who desire the Hereafter. The verse, and what he meant by this were the archers, and that is because the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, stationed them in a place and then said: "Protect our backs. If you see us being killed, do not help us, and if you see us having taken spoils, do not share with us." So when the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, took spoils and allowed the camp of the polytheists to be invaded, the archers all rushed into the camp to plunder. The ranks of the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, met like this - and he interlaced his hands - and they took refuge. When the archers left that position they were in, the horses entered from that place upon the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and they struck each other, and they became confused and many Muslims were killed. Victory was for the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his companions at the beginning of the day until seven or nine of the standard-bearers of the polytheists were killed. The Muslims moved around towards the mountain, and they did not reach where people say the cave is, but they were under the hammer, and Satan cried out: Muhammad has been killed. They did not doubt that it was true, and we continued to do so, not doubting that it was true, until the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, appeared between the two Sa'dains. We recognized him by his glance when he walked. He said: We were so happy that it was as if what had happened to us had not happened to us. He said: He climbed towards us and he was saying: The wrath of God has intensified against a people who bloodied the face of the Messenger of God, and he said again: O God, they cannot surpass us, until he reached us. He remained for an hour, and then Abu Sufyan shouted at the bottom of the mountain: High is Hubal - twice, meaning his god - Where is the son of Abu Kabsha? Where is the son of Abu Quhafah? Where is the son of Ibn al-Khattab? Umar, may God be pleased with him, said: O Messenger of God, should I not answer him? He said: Yes. When he said: High is Hubal, Umar said: God is Most High and Most Majestic. Abu Sufyan said: Her eye has been comforted, so he turned away from it or something else. He said: Where is the son of Abu Kabsha? Where is the son of Abu Quhafah? Where is the son of Ibn al-Khattab? Umar said: "This is the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and this is Abu Bakr, and here I am Umar." He said: Abu Sufyan said, A day for the day of Badr, the days are cycles, and war is a game of chance. He said: Umar said: They are not the same, our dead are in Paradise, and your dead are in Hell. He said: You claim that, so we have failed and lost. Abu Sufyan said: You will find mutilation among your dead. And that was not according to the opinion of our leaders. He said: Then the zeal of the Age of Ignorance overtook him, so he said: If that was the case, we would not hate him. This is a strange hadith with a strange context, and it is from the mursals of Ibn Abbas, for no one witnessed it, nor his father. Al-Hakim included it in his Mustadrak on the authority of Abu al-Nadr al-Faqih, on the authority of Uthman ibn Sa'id, on the authority of Salman ibn Dawud ibn Ali ibn Abdullah ibn Abbas, and Ibn Abi Hatim and al-Bayhaqi narrated it in the same way in Dalā'il al-Nubuwwah from the hadith of Sulayman ibn Dawud al-Hashimi. And some of it has corroborating evidence in the Sahih and elsewhere. Imam Ahmad said: Affan told us, Hammad told us, on the authority of Ata' ibn al-Sa'ib, on the authority of al-Sha'bi, on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud, who said: On the day of Uhud, the women were behind the Muslims, finishing off the wounded polytheists. If I had sworn on that day, I would have hoped to be righteous, for none of us wanted the world, until God revealed: "Among you are those who desire the world, and among you are those who desire the Hereafter. Then He turned you away from them that He might test you." So when the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, disobeyed and disobeyed what they were commanded to do, the Prophet singled them out. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was with nine men: seven from the Ansar, and two men from Quraysh, and he was the tenth of them, may God bless him and grant him peace. When they overwhelmed him, he said: May God have mercy on the man who repelled them from us. Then a man from the Ansar stood up and fought for an hour until he was killed. When they overwhelmed him again, he said: May God have mercy on the man who repelled them from us. He continued saying that until the seven were killed. Then the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to his two companions: We have not been fair to our companions. Then Abu Sufyan came and said: Hubal is superior. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "Say: God is higher and more majestic." They said: God is higher and more majestic. Abu Sufyan said: We have Al-Uzza, and you have no Uzza. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "Say: God is our Master, and the disbelievers have no master." Abu Sufyan said: "A day for the day of Badr. A day against us and a day for us, a day for women and a day for an eagle, Hanzala for Hanzala, so-and-so for so-and-so, and so-and-so for so-and-so." The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: They are not equal. As for our dead, they are alive and provided for, but as for your dead, they are being tortured in Hell. Abu Sufyan said: There was indeed an example among the people, and if he cursed, it was not from among us. I did not command or forbid, I did not like or dislike, it did not upset me or please me. He said: So they looked and saw that Hamza's stomach had been ripped open, and Hind had taken his liver and chewed it but was unable to eat it. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Did you eat something? They said: No. He said: God would not let anything of Hamzah enter the Fire. He said: So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, placed Hamzah and prayed over him, and a man from the Ansar was brought and placed beside him and prayed over him. The Ansar lifted him up and left Hamzah until another was brought and placed beside Hamzah and prayed over him. Then he lifted him up and left Hamzah, until he prayed over him seventy prayers that day. Ahmad also transmitted it alone. Al-Bukhari said: Ubaydullah bin Musa told us on the authority of Israel, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Al-Baraa, who said: We encountered the polytheists on that day and the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, seated an army of archers and put Abdullah bin Jubair in charge of them and said: Do not move. If you see us prevailing over them, do not move. If you see them prevailing over us, do not help us. So when we met them, they fled until I saw the women running hard on the mountain, raising their legs and their anklets showing, and they began to say: The spoils, the spoils. Abdullah bin Jubair said: The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, entrusted me with He (peace be upon him) ordered them not to leave, but they refused. When they refused, they turned their faces away and seventy people were killed. Abu Sufyan looked out and said, Is Muhammad among the people? He said, Do not answer him. He said, Is Ibn Abi Quhafah among the people? He said, Do not answer him. He said, Is Ibn al-Khattab among the people? He said, "These people have been killed. If they were alive, they would have answered." Umar could not control himself and said to him, "You lie, enemy of God. God has left for you that which grieves you." Abu Sufyan said, Have Hubal prevailed. The Prophet (peace be upon him) said, Answer him. They said, What should we say? He said, "Say: God is Most High and Most Majestic." Abu Sufyan said, We have al-Uzza, and you have no Uzza. The Prophet (peace be upon him) said, Answer him. They said, What should we say? He said, "Say: God is our Master, and you have no Master." Abu Sufyan said: A day for the day of Badr, and war is a contest, and you will find a mutilation that I did not command and it did not upset me. Al-Bukhari is the only one to narrate it from this source, then he narrated it from Amr bin Khalid from Zuhair bin Muawiyah, from Abu Ishaq, from Al-Baraa in a similar manner, and he will come with something simpler than this. Al-Bukhari also said: Ubaidullah bin Saeed told us, Abu Usamah told us from Hisham bin Urwah, from his father, from Aisha, may God be pleased with her, who said: When the day of Uhud came, the polytheists were defeated, and Satan cried out: O servants of God, the last of you, so the first of them returned and fought with the last of them, and Hudhayfah saw his father Al-Yaman and said: O servants of God, my father, my father. He said: She said: By God, they did not hold back until they killed him, so Hudhayfah said: May God forgive you. Urwah said: By God, there was still good in Hudhayfah until he joined God Almighty. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said: Yahya ibn Abbad ibn Abdullah ibn al-Zubayr told me on the authority of his father on the authority of his grandfather that al-Zubayr ibn al-Awwam said: By God, I saw myself looking at Hind's servants and companions with their sleeves rolled up and running away, neither much nor little was enough to take them. The archers turned towards the army when the people fled from it, wanting to plunder, and our backs were left to the horses, so they came at us from behind, and a crier cried out: Behold, Muhammad has been killed. So we retreated and the people retreated upon us after we had taken the standard-bearers, until no one from the people could come near it. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said: The standard of the polytheists remained fallen until Umrah bint Alqamah al-Harithiya took it and gave it to the Quraysh, so they fought with it. Al-Suddi said, on the authority of Abd al-Khair, who said: Abdullah ibn Mas'ud said: I did not think that any of the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, wanted this world until what was revealed about us on the Day of Uhud was revealed: Among you are those who desire this world and among you are those who desire the Hereafter. It has been narrated from other sources on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud, and it was also narrated on the authority of Abd al-Rahman ibn Awf and Abu Talhah, and Ibn Mardawayh narrated them in his interpretation. And the Almighty's statement: Then He turned you away from them to test you. Ibn Ishaq said: Al-Qasim ibn Abd al-Rahman ibn Rafi', one of the sons of 'Adi ibn al-Najjar, told me: Anas ibn al-Nadr, the uncle of Anas ibn Malik, went to 'Umar ibn al-Khattab and Talhah ibn 'Ubaydullah with some men from the Muhajireen and Ansar who had thrown down what was in their hands, and he said: What will leave you? They said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, has been killed. He said: What will you do with life after him? Then he faced the people and fought until he was killed, may God be pleased with him. Al-Bukhari said: Hassan bin Hassan told us, Muhammad bin Talha told us, Hamid told us on the authority of Anas bin Malik that his uncle, meaning Anas bin Al-Nadr, was absent from Badr and said: I was absent from the first battle of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace. If God makes me witness with the Messenger of God, God will see what I find. So he met the day of Uhud and defeated the people, so he said: O God, I apologize to You for what these people have done - meaning the Muslims - and I disavow before You what the polytheists have brought. So he advanced with his sword and met Saad bin Muadh, so he said: Where, Saad? I find the scent of Paradise before Uhud. So he went and was killed, and he was not recognized until his sister recognized him by a mole on his finger, and he had eighty-odd stab wounds, blows, and arrow wounds. This is the wording of Al-Bukhari. Muslim included it in a similar hadith from Thabit on the authority of Anas. Al-Bukhari also said: Abdun told us, Abu Hamza told us on the authority of Uthman bin Muhab, who said: A man came to perform Hajj to the House of God and saw some people sitting. He said: Who are these sitting? They said: These are Quraysh. He said: Who is the sheikh? They said: Ibn Umar. So he came to him and said: I am going to ask you about something, so tell me. He said: Ask. He said: I ask you by the sanctity of this House, do you know that Uthman ibn Affan fled on the day of Uhud? He said: Yes. He said: Do you know that he was absent from Badr and did not witness it? He said: Yes. He said: Do you know that he stayed away from the Pledge of Ridwan and did not witness it? He said: Yes. So he said: Allahu Akbar. Then Ibn Umar said: Come, so I may tell you and explain to you what you asked me about. As for his escape on the day of Uhud, I bear witness that God has forgiven him. As for his absence from Badr, he was married to the daughter of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and she was sick. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to him: You will have the reward and share of a man who witnessed Badr. As for his absence from the Pledge of Ridwan, if there had been anyone more honorable in the valley of Mecca than Uthman, he would have sent him in his place. So he sent Uthman, and the Pledge of Ridwan took place after Uthman had gone to Mecca. So the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said with his right hand: This is the hand of Uthman, and he struck his hand with it and said: "This is the hand of Uthman. Go with it now." Then Al-Bukhari narrated it from another chain of transmission on the authority of Abu Awanah, on the authority of Uthman ibn Abdullah ibn Muhabb.

We will cast terror into the hearts of those who disbelieve because they have associated with God that for which He had not sent down any authority. And their refuge is the Fire, and wretched is the residence of the wrongdoers.

God the Almighty said: When you were ascending and not looking back at anyone meaning He turned you away from them while you were ascending, that is, in the mountain, fleeing from your enemies. Al-Hasan and Qatadah read When you were ascending meaning in the mountain, and not looking back at anyone meaning you were not looking back at anyone out of astonishment, fear and terror, and the Messenger is calling you from behind you meaning you had left him behind you calling you to stop fleeing from the enemies, and to return, come back and attack. Al-Suddi said: When the polytheists attacked the Muslims at Uhud and defeated them, some of them entered the city, and some of them went to the mountain on the rock and stood on it. So the Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, began calling the people to the servants of God, to the servants of God. God mentioned their ascension to the mountain, then He mentioned the Prophet's, may God bless him and grant him peace, calling them, saying: When you were ascending and not looking back at anyone, and the Messenger is calling you from behind you. Ibn Abbas, Qatadah, Al-Rabi' and Ibn Zayd said the same. Abdullah bin Al-Zubayri said: He mentions the defeat of the Muslims on the day of Uhud in his poem while he was a polytheist and had not yet converted to Islam, in which he says at the beginning:

O crow of separation, have you heard? Say, for you are only speaking of something that has already been done.

Good and evil have a limit, and both have a face and a face.

Until he said:

I wish my elders at Badr had witnessed the Khazraj's fear of the sound of the weapons.

When Quba narrated its ponds and the killing spread to Abd al-Ashel

Then they started dancing, like a camel dancing high up in the mountain.

So we killed twice as many of their nobles and we adjusted the slope of Badr, so it was balanced.

Al-Haffan: small camels. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, had singled out twelve of his companions, as Imam Ahmad said: Hasan ibn Musa told us, Zuhair told us, Abu Ishaq told us, on the authority of Al-Bara' ibn Azib, may God be pleased with him, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, appointed Abdullah ibn Jubayr over the archers on the day of Uhud - and they were fifty men - and he put them in a position, and said: If you see us being snatched by birds, do not move until I send for you, and if you see us prevail over the enemy and trample them, do not move until I send for you. He said: So they defeated them. He said: By God, I saw the women rushing up the mountain, their anklets and their clothes lifted, and he said: The companions of Abdullah, the spoils, O people of the spoils, your companions have appeared, so what are you waiting for? Abdullah ibn Jubayr said: Have you forgotten what the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to you? They said: By God, we will go to the people, so we will take some of the spoils. So when they came to them, their faces were turned away and they came back defeated, and that is what the Messenger was calling them to in He left them, and there remained with the Messenger of God only twelve men, and they killed seventy of us. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his companions killed one hundred and forty of the polytheists on the day of Badr, seventy prisoners and seventy dead. Abu Sufyan said: Is Muhammad among the people? Is Muhammad among the people? - three times - he said. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, forbade

Surat Al Imran 3:151

We will cast terror into the hearts of those who disbelieve because they have associated with God that for which He had not sent down any authority. And their refuge is the Fire, and wretched is the residence of the wrongdoers.

them from answering him, then he said: Is Ibn Abi Quhafah among the people? Is Ibn Abi Quhafah among the people? Is Ibn Al-Khattab among the people? Is Ibn Al-Khattab among the people? Then he turned to his companions and said: As for these, they have been killed and you have been spared from them. Umar could not control himself but said: You have lied, O enemy of God, those whom you have counted are all alive, and there remains for you that which will upset you. He said: A day for the day of Badr, and war is a contest. And you will find among the people mutilation which I did not order, and which did not upset me. Then he began to recite: Hubal is exalted, Hubal is exalted. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Will you not answer him? They said: O Messenger of God, what should we say? He said: Say: God is higher and more exalted. He said: We have Al-Uzza, and you have no Uzza. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Will you not answer him? They said: O Messenger of God, what should we say? He said: Say: God is our Master, and you have no Master. Al-Bukhari narrated it from the hadith of Zuhair bin Muawiyah in an abbreviated form, and he narrated it from the hadith of Israel from Abu Ishaq in a more detailed form than this as mentioned above, and God knows best. Al-Bayhaqi narrated in Dalil al-Nubuwwah from the hadith of Ammarah bin Ghaziyah, from Abu al-Zubayr, from Jabir, who said: "The people fled from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, on the day of Uhud, and eleven men from the Ansar remained with him, and Talhah bin Ubaydullah was climbing the mountain, and the polytheists met them, so he said: Is there no one for these? Talhah said: I am, O Messenger of God. He said: As you are, O Talhah. A man from the Ansar said: I am, O Messenger of God. So he fought on his behalf, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and those who remained with him climbed, then the Ansar was killed and they caught up with him, so he said: Is there no man for these? Talhah said the same as he said, so the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said the same as he said, so a man from the Ansar said: I am, O Messenger of God. So he fought on his behalf and his companions were climbing, then he was killed and they caught up with him, and he kept saying the same as he said before. Talha said: So I will, O Messenger of God. So he detained him and a man from the Ansar asked his permission to fight, so he gave him permission, so he fought like those who had been before him, until no one remained with him except Talha, so they attacked them, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Who is with these? Talha said: I will. So he fought like all those who had been before him fought, and his fingers were injured, so he said: Hush, so the Messenger of God said: If you had said the name of God and mentioned the name of God, the angels would have raised you up with the people looking at you until you entered the atmosphere of heaven. Then the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, ascended to his companions while they were gathered. Al-Bukhari narrated on the authority of Abu Bakr bin Abi Shaybah, on the authority of Wakee', on the authority of Ismail, on the authority of Qais bin Abi Hazim, who said: I saw Talhah's hand paralyzed, with which he protected the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, meaning the day of Uhud. And in the two Sahihs, on the authority of Mu'tamir bin Sulayman, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Abu Uthman al-Nahdi, who said: None remained with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, on some of the days in which the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, fought, except Talhah bin Ubayd God and Sa'd, according to their hadith. Al-Hasan bin Arafah said: Marwan bin Muawiyah told us, on the authority of Hashim bin Hashim Al-Zuhri, who said: I heard Saeed bin Al-Musayyab say: I heard Saad bin Abi Waqqas say: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, handed me his quiver on the day of Uhud and said: 'Shoot, may my father and mother be sacrificed for you.'" Al-Bukhari narrated it on the authority of Abdullah bin Muhammad, on the authority of Marwan bin Muawiyah. Muhammad bin Ishaq said: Salih bin Kaysan told me on the authority of some of the family of Saad, on the authority of Saad bin Abi Waqqas, that he shot on the day of Uhud without the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. Saad said: "I saw the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, handing me arrows and saying: 'Shoot, may my father and mother be sacrificed for you.' He even handed me an arrow that had no point, so I shot with it." It was confirmed in the two Sahihs from the hadith of Ibrahim bin Saad, on the authority of his father, on the authority of his grandfather, on the authority of Saad bin Abi Waqqas, who said: "On the day of Uhud, I saw on the right of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and on his left two men wearing white clothes fighting on his behalf with the most intense fighting I had ever seen them before that day." And after him, meaning Gabriel and Michael, peace be upon them." And Hammad bin Salamah said on the authority of Ali bin Zaid and Thabit on the authority of Anas bin Malik: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was singled out on the day of Uhud with seven of the Ansar and two of the Quraysh. When they overwhelmed him, he said, 'Who will repel them from us and he will have Paradise?' or 'He is my companion in Paradise.' So a man from the Ansar came forward and fought until he was killed. Then they overwhelmed him again, and he said, 'Who will repel them from us and he will have Paradise?' So a man from the Ansar came forward and fought until he was killed. He continued like that until he killed the seven. Then the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to his two companions, 'We have not been fair to our companions.'" Narrated by Muslim on the authority of Hudbah bin Khalid, on the authority of Hammad bin Salamah, with something similar. Abu al-Aswad said on the authority of Urwah bin al-Zubayr, who said: Ubayy bin Khalaf, the brother of Banu Jumah, had sworn while he was in Mecca to kill the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. When his oath reached the Messenger of God, he said, 'Rather, I will kill him, God willing.' So when the day of Uhud came, Ubayy came in iron, masked, and he was saying, 'No.'" I was saved if Muhammad was saved. He attacked the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, intending to kill him. Mus'ab ibn 'Umayr, the brother of Banu 'Abd al-Dar, met him, protecting the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, with himself. Mus'ab ibn 'Umayr was killed. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, saw the collarbone of Abi ibn Khalaf through a gap between the hem of his armor and the blade, and stabbed him in it with his spear. He fell to the ground from his horse, and no blood came out of his stab wound. His companions came to him and carried him while he was mooing like a bull. They said to him: What has made you so upset? It is only a scratch. He mentioned to them the saying of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, Rather, I will kill Ubayy. Then he said: By the One in Whose Hand is my soul, if this had happened to me, to the people of Dhu'l-Majaz, they would all have died. So he died in the Fire, So, damnation to the companions of the Blaze. Musa ibn Uqbah narrated it in his Maghāzī, on the authority of al-Zuhri, on the authority of Sa'id ibn al-Musayyab, in a similar manner. Muhammad ibn Ishaq mentioned that when the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, leaned against the ravine, Ubayy ibn Khalaf caught up with him and said: I will not be saved if I am saved. The people said: O Messenger of God, let one of us help him. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Leave him. When he approached, the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, took the spear from al-Harith ibn al-Samma. Some of the people said: What was mentioned to me? When the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, took it from him, he shook it so hard that we all flew away from him as hair flies from the back of a camel when it shakes. Then the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, faced him and stabbed him in the neck with a stab that caused him to fall off his horse. Repeatedly - Al-Waqidi mentioned on the authority of Yunus bin Bakir on the authority of Muhammad bin Ishaq, on the authority of Asim bin Amr bin Qatada, on the authority of Abdullah bin Kaab bin Malik, on the authority of his father, something similar to that. Al-Waqidi said: Ibn Omar used to say, "My father bin Khalaf died in Batn Rabigh. I was walking in Batn Rabigh after a part of the night, when I saw a blazing fire. I woke up and saw a man coming out of it with a chain, pulling it, arousing his thirst. A man said, "Do not give him a drink, for this is the one who was killed by the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace." This is Abi bin Khalaf - and it was proven in the two Sahihs from the narration of Abd al-Razzaq from Muammar, from Hammam bin Munabbih from Abu Hurayrah, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'God's wrath was intense against a people who did something to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace' - and he was pointing to his front teeth - and God's wrath was intense against a man whom the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, killed in the way of God." Al-Bukhari also included it from the hadith of Ibn Jurayj from Amr bin Dinar, from Ikrimah, from Ibn Abbas, who said: "God's wrath was intense against a person whom the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, killed with his own hand in the way of God, and God's wrath was intense against a people who caused blood to flow from the face of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace." Ibn Ishaq said: "The front teeth of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, were injured, his cheek was wounded, and his lip was wounded." The one who injured him was Utbah bin Abi Waqqas, and Salih bin Kaysan told me, from someone who told him, from Saad bin Abi Waqqas, who said: I have never been so keen on killing anyone as I was keen on killing Utbah. Ibn Abi Waqqas, if what I know is of a man of bad character who is hated by his people, and the saying of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, "God's wrath is severe on whoever bleeds the face of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace," is sufficient for me. Abd al-Razzaq said: Muammar informed us on the authority of al-Zuhri, on the authority of Uthman al-Jazari, on the authority of Muqsim, that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, "supplicated against Utbah ibn Abi Waqqas on the day of Uhud when his front tooth was broken and his face was bleed, and he said: O God, do not let a year pass over him until he dies as a disbeliever." So a year had not passed over him until he died as a disbeliever in the Fire. Al-Waqidi mentioned on the authority of Ibn Abi Sabra, on the authority of Ishaq ibn Abdullah ibn Abi Farwah, on the authority of Abu al-Huwayrith, on the authority of Nafi' ibn Jubayr, who said: I heard a man from the Muhajireen say: I witnessed Uhud and I saw arrows coming from every direction and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was in the middle of them, all of that was being diverted from him. I saw Abdullah ibn Shihab al-Zuhri saying on that day: Show me Muhammad, I will not be saved if he is saved, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was beside him with no one with him, then... He passed by him, and Safwan rebuked him for that. He said, "By God, I have never seen him. I swear to God that he is forbidden from us!" We went out four of us and we pledged and agreed to kill him, but we did not succeed in that. Al-Waqidi said: What is established with us is that the one who shot the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, in the cheeks was Ibn Qami'ah, and the one who caused his lip to bleed and his front tooth to be damaged was Utbah ibn Abi Waqqas. Abu Dawud al-Tayalisi said: Ibn al-Mubarak told us on the authority of Ishaq ibn Yahya ibn Talhah ibn Ubayd God, Isa ibn Talhah told me on the authority of the Mother of the Believers Aisha, may God be pleased with her, she said: Whenever Abu Bakr mentioned the Battle of Uhud, he would say: That day was all for Talhah. Then he began to narrate, he said: I was the first to return on the Battle of Uhud, and I saw a man fighting with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, behind him, and I think he said it was out of zeal. He said: I said: Talhah was where I missed what I missed, so I said: There is a man from my people who is dearer to me, and between me and the polytheists is a man I do not know, and I am closer to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, than he, and he walks quickly, and I do not remember it, and it was Abu Ubaydah ibn al-Jarrah. We went to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and he said: His front tooth was broken and his face was wounded, and two rings from the helmet's ring entered his cheek. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said, Your companion wants Talhah, and he was bleeding, but we did not pay attention to what he said. He said, "I went to remove that from his face, but Abu Ubaidah said, 'I swear to you by my right that you left me,' so I left him. He did not want to take it with his hand and hurt the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, so he leaned on him with his mouth and pulled out one of the rings, and his front tooth fell out with the ring. I went to do what he did, but he said, 'I swear to you by my right that you left me.' He said, 'So he did the same as he did the first time, and his other front tooth fell out with the ring. Abu Ubaidah was the best of people in his wounds. We fixed the matter of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, then we came to Talhah in one of those graves, and there were seventy-odd, or less, or more, from stab wounds, arrows, and blows, and his finger had been cut off, so we fixed the matter of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace.'" And when Al-Haitham came, Abu Ubaidah said: I ask you by God, O Abu Bakr, to leave me alone? So Abu Ubaidah took the arrow in his mouth and began to shake it out of dislike of hurting the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, then he pulled out the arrow in his mouth and Abu Ubaidah's front tooth fell out. He mentioned the rest of it, and Al-Hafiz Al-Dhiya Al-Maqdisi chose it in his book. Ali bin Al-Madini declared this hadith weak on the authority of Ishaq bin Yahya, because Yahya bin Saeed Al-Qattan, Ahmad, Yahya bin Ma'een, Al-Bukhari, Abu Zur'ah, Abu Hatim, Muhammad bin Sa'd, Al-Nasa'i and others spoke about him. Ibn Wahb said: Amr bin Al-Harith informed me that Umar bin Al-Sa'ib told him that he had heard that when Malik, Abu Abi Saeed Al-Khudri, was wounded by the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, on the day of Uhud, he sucked the wound until it became clean and white, so it was said to him: Suck it in. He said: No, by God, I will never suck it in. Then he turned back to fight. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever wants to look at a man from the people of Paradise, let him look at this man, and he was martyred. It has been proven in the two Sahihs on the authority of Abdul Aziz bin Abi Hazim, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Sahl bin Sa'd, that he was asked about the wound of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and he said: The face of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was wounded, his front tooth was broken, and the egg was smashed on his head, may God bless him and grant him peace. Fatima, the daughter of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was washing the blood, and Ali was pouring water on him with a shield. When Fatima saw that the water only increased the blood, she took a piece of matting and burned it until it became ashes, then she stuck it to the wound and the blood stopped. God Almighty said: So He rewarded you with grief for grief meaning He repaid you with grief for grief, as the Arabs say: It descended upon the Banu so-and-so, and it descended upon the Banu so-and-so. Ibn Jarir said: And likewise his saying, And I will crucify you on the trunks of palm trees, meaning on the trunks of palm trees. Ibn Abbas said: The first grief was due to the defeat, and when it was said that Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, was killed, and the second was when the polytheists overtook them on the mountain, and the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: O God, they have no right to overtake us. And from Abd al-Rahman ibn Awf: The first grief was due to the defeat, and the second was when it was said that Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, was killed. That was more severe and greater for them than the defeat. Both were narrated by Ibn Mardawayh, and something similar was narrated from Umar ibn al-Khattab, and Ibn Abi Hatim mentioned something similar from Qatadah as well. Al-Suddi said: The first grief was due to what they missed of the spoils and conquest, and the second was due to the enemy's presence over them. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said: So He rewarded you with grief after grief, meaning distress after distress from the killing of those of your brothers, and the superiority of your enemy over you, and what occurred in your souls from the saying of those who said: Your Prophet was killed, so that was one grief after another for you. Mujahid and Qatadah said: The grief The first is their hearing of the killing of Muhammad, and the second is what happened to them in terms of killing and wounds. Qatada and Al-Rabi' bin Anas said the opposite. Al-Suddi said: The first is what they missed out on in terms of victory and spoils, and the second is the enemy's presence upon them. This statement from Al-Suddi has already been mentioned. Ibn Jarir said: The most correct of these sayings is the saying of the one who said, So He rewarded you with grief for grief. So He rewarded you with your grief, O believers, by God's deprivation of you of the spoils of the polytheists and victory over them and the victory over them, and what befell you of killing and wounds, on that day after He had shown you in all of that what you love by your disobedience to the command of your Lord, and your opposition to the command of your Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, the grief of your thinking that your Prophet had been killed and the enemy had turned against you after your remnants from them. And the Almighty's saying, So that you may not grieve over what has escaped you, meaning over what has escaped you of the spoils and victory over your enemy, nor over what has befallen you, of wounds and killing, said Ibn Abbas, Abd al-Rahman ibn Awf, al-Hasan, Qatadah, and al-Suddi, And God is Aware of what you do. Glory be to Him and praise be to Him, there is no god but Him, the Most High.

We will cast terror into the hearts of those who disbelieve because they have associated with God that for which He had not sent down any authority. And their refuge is the Fire, and wretched is the residence of the wrongdoers.

Fath al-Qadir

His saying 151- We will cast Al-Sakhtiyani read it with a lower ya', and the rest read it with a noon. Ibn Amir and Al-Kisa'i read terror with a damma on the 'ayn. The rest read it with sukoon, and they are two dialects. It is said: I terrified him, terrifying him, and he is terrified. It is possible that it is a source, and terror with dammah is a noun, and its origin is filling. It is said: a terrifying flood: meaning it fills the valley, and I terrified the pool: I filled it. So the meaning is: We will fill the hearts of the disbelievers with terror: meaning fear and panic. And throwing is used literally for bodies, and metaphorically for other things like this verse, and that is because the polytheists, after the Battle of Uhud, regretted that they had not exterminated the Muslims, and they said: How evil is what we have done. We killed them until, when none of them remained except the fugitives, we left them. Go back and exterminate them. So when they decided to do that, God cast terror into their hearts until they returned from what they intended to do. Because they associated partners with God is related to His saying: We will cast and what is a source: meaning because of their association. That for which He has not sent down authority meaning: that which God has not sent down to make him a partner with Him, an argument, clarification, and proof. The negation is directed to the restriction and the restricted: meaning no. Argument and no revelation, meaning: that associating partners with God has not been proven in any of the religions. And the abode is the place where one resides, it is said: he resides, he resides, he dwells.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

151- We will cast terror into the hearts of those who disbelieve. That is because when Abu Sufyan and the polytheists set out on the day of Uhud, heading towards Mecca, they set out until they reached part of the road, then they regretted it and said: What a bad thing we have done! We killed them until none of them remained except the fugitives. We left them. Go back and eradicate them. So when they decided to do that, God cast terror into their hearts, until they turned back from what they had intended to do.

We will cast, i.e., We will cast terror and fear into the hearts of those who disbelieve. Abu Ja'far, Ibn 'Amir, Al-Kisa'i, and Ya'qub read terror with a damma on the 'ayn, while the others read it with a sukoon. Because they associated with God that for which He had not sent down any authority, an argument and proof, and their refuge is the Fire, and wretched is the residence of the wrongdoers, the abode of the disbelievers.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

151 We will cast terror into the hearts of those who disbelieve meaning what was cast into their hearts of fear on the day of Uhud until they stopped fighting and returned without a reason, and Abu Sufyan called out,

O Muhammad, our meeting is the next Badr season if you wish, so he, peace and blessings be upon him, said: God willing. And it was said that when they returned and were on some of the way, they regretted it and resolved to return to them to eradicate them, so God cast terror into their hearts. Ibn Amir, Al-Kisa'i, and Ya'qub read with the dammah according to the original in the entire Qur'an, because they associated partners with God because of their associating partners with Him. For which He has not sent down any authority meaning gods for whom there is no proof for their associating partners with Him and for which He has not sent down any authority, and it is like His saying:

You don't see the lizard flourishing in it

The root of sultanate is power, from which comes the word sultanate, meaning the force of its ignition, and salaah, meaning the sharpness of the tongue. And their abode is the Fire, and wretched is the abode of the wrongdoers. That is, their abode, so the apparent was placed in place of the implicit for emphasis and explanation.

Surat Al Imran 3:152

And God has already fulfilled His promise to you when you were oppressing them by His permission until you lost heart and disputed in the matter and disobeyed after He had shown you what you love - among you are those who desire this world and among you are those who desire the Hereafter. Then He turned you away from them to test you; and He has certainly pardoned you, and God is full of bounty to the believers.

Surat Al Imran 3:152

And God has already fulfilled His promise to you when you were oppressing them by His permission until you lost heart and disputed in the matter and disobeyed after He had shown you what you love - among you are those who desire this world and among you are those who desire the Hereafter. Then He turned you away from them to test you; and He has certainly pardoned you, and God is full of bounty to the believers.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And God has fulfilled His promise to you to you with victory when you were killing them by His permission) by His will until you lost heart you were afraid to fight and disputed you differed about the matter that is, the Prophet's (may God bless him and grant him peace) command to stand at the foot of the mountain to shoot, so some of you said: We will go, for our companions have been victorious, and some of you: We will not disobey the Prophet's (may God bless him and grant him peace) command and you disobeyed his command and left the position to seek spoils after God had shown you that which you love of victory and the answer to if what preceded it indicated it, that is, He prevented you from His victory among you is he who desires this world so he left the position for the spoils and among you is he who desires the Hereafter so he remained steadfast in it until he was killed like Abdullah ibn Jubayr and his companions then He turned you away in apposition to the answer to if that is understood, He returned you with defeat from them that is, the disbelievers to test you to test you and show the sincere from the infidels and He has pardoned you what You committed it and God is full of grace to the believers with forgiveness

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: By the words of God Almighty: And God has fulfilled for you, O believers among the companions of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, He means His promise that He promised them through the tongue of His Messenger Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace.

The promise that he made to them on his tongue at Uhud was his saying to the archers: Stay where you are and do not move, and if you see that we have defeated them, then we will not cease to be victorious as long as you remain where you are. And the promise of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, to them was victory on that day if they obeyed his command, like the one who:

Muhammad told us, Ahmad told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi, who said: When the Messenger of God (may God bless him and grant him peace) went out to fight the polytheists at Uhud, he ordered the archers to stand at the foot of the mountain in front of the polytheists' horses and said: Do not move from your place if you see that we have defeated them, for we will continue to be victorious as long as you remain in your place. He appointed Abdullah ibn Jubayr, the brother of Khawat ibn Jubayr, over them. Then Talhah ibn Uthman, the standard-bearer of the polytheists, stood up and said: O company of the companions of Muhammad, you claim that God will hasten us to the Fire with your swords, and hasten you to Paradise with our swords! Is there anyone among you whom God will hasten to Paradise with my sword, or hasten me to the Fire with his sword? Ali ibn Abi Talib stood up and said: By the One in Whose Hand is my soul, I will not leave you until God hastens you to the Fire with my sword, or hastens me to Paradise with your sword! Ali struck him and cut off his leg, so he fell and his private parts were exposed. He said: I ask you by God and by kinship, cousin! So he left him. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: God is great, and Ali said to his companions: What prevented you from finishing him off? He said: My cousin asked me to do so when his private parts were exposed, and I was shy of him.

Then Az-Zubayr ibn al-Awwam and Al-Miqdad ibn Al-Aswad attacked the polytheists and defeated them. The Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) and his companions attacked and defeated Abu Sufyan. When Khalid ibn Al-Walid saw that while he was riding the polytheists' cavalry, he attacked and the archers shot him, so he retreated. When the archers saw the Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) and his companions in the middle of the polytheists' camp, plundering it, they rushed to the spoils. Some of them said: We will not abandon the command of the Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him). So most of them set out and joined the camp. When Khalid saw the small number of archers, he shouted to his cavalry, then charged and killed the archers, then charged the Prophet's companions. When the polytheists saw that their cavalry was fighting, they called out to each other and attacked the Muslims, defeated them and killed them.

Harun ibn Ishaq narrated, Mus'ab ibn al-Miqdam narrated, Isra'il narrated, Abu Ishaq narrated, on the authority of al-Bara' who said: When the day of Uhud came and we met the polytheists, the Messenger of God (may God bless him and grant him peace) seated some men opposite the archers and put Abdullah ibn Jubayr, the brother of Khawat ibn Jubayr, in command of them. He said to them: Do not move from your place. If you see us prevailing over them, do not move, and if you see them prevailing over us, do not help us. When the people met, the polytheists were defeated until I saw the women lifted from their shins and their anklets exposed. They began to say: The spoils, the spoils! Abdullah said: Wait! Do you not know what the Messenger of God (may God bless him and grant him peace) has entrusted you with! But they refused and set out. When they reached them, God turned their faces away, and seventy Muslims were killed.

Sufyan bin Wakee' told us, he said, my father told us, on the authority of Israel, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Al-Baraa, something similar.

Muhammad ibn Sa'd told me, he said, my father told me, he said, my uncle told me, he said, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding his statement: And God had fulfilled His promise to you when you were killing them with His permission, that Abu Sufyan came three nights before the end of Shawwal until he reached Uhud, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, went out and announced to the people, so they gathered, and he put Az-Zubayr ibn Al-Awwam in charge of the cavalry, and with him that day was Al-Miqdad ibn Al-Aswad Al-Kindi. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, gave the banner to a man from Quraysh called Mus'ab ibn Umair. Hamza ibn Abdul Muttalib went out with Al-Hasr, and Hamza was sent ahead of him. Khalid ibn Al-Walid approached the cavalry of the polytheists, with Ikrimah ibn Abi Jahl with him. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent Az-Zubayr and said: Face Khalid ibn Al-Walid and stand opposite him until I give you notice. He put other cavalry in charge, so they were on the other side, and he said: Do not move until I give you notice. Abu Sufyan came carrying Al-Lat and Al-Uzza, so the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent to Al-Zubayr to charge, so he charged Khalid bin Al-Walid and defeated him and those with him, as he said: And God has fulfilled His promise to you when you were killing them with His permission until you lost heart and disputed about the matter and disobeyed after He had shown you what you love, and God promised the believers that He would support them and that He is with them.

Ibn Humayd told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq, he said, Muhammad ibn Muslim ibn Ubayd God al-Zuhri told me, and Muhammad ibn Yahya ibn Habban, and Asim ibn Umar ibn Qatada, and al-Husayn ibn Abd al-Rahman ibn Amr ibn Sa'd ibn Mu'adh, and others from our scholars - in a story he mentioned on the authority of Uhud - he mentioned that all of them had narrated some of it, and that their hadiths were combined in what he presented of the hadith, so what he mentioned in that was: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, descended from the ravine of Uhud, on the opposite side of the valley to the mountain, so he turned his back and his army towards Uhud and said: No one should fight until we order him to fight. And the Quraysh had let their backs and forelegs go out to graze crops that were in al-Samghah from Qanat, and a man from the Ansar said when the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, forbade fighting: Are you grazing the crops of Bani Qaylah while we have not yet fought?! The Messenger of God (peace be upon him) mobilized for battle with seven hundred men, and the Quraysh mobilized with three thousand men, and with them were two hundred horses which they had set aside. They put Khalid bin Al-Walid on the right flank of the cavalry, and Ikrimah bin Abi Jahl on the left flank. The Messenger of God (peace be upon him) appointed Abdullah bin Jubair, the brother of Banu Amr bin Awf, who was a scholar in white clothes at that time, as the archers, and the archers were fifty men. He said: Spray the cavalry with arrows, lest they come to us from behind! Whether they are for us or against us, then stand where you are, lest we be attacked from your side. When the people met, they drew near to each other and fought until the battle became fierce. Abu Dujana fought until he had engulfed the people, and Hamza bin Abdul Muttalib and Ali bin Abi Talib, with men from the Muslims. Then God, the Almighty, revealed His victory and fulfilled His promise, so they struck them with swords until they were routed, and there was no doubt about the defeat.

Ibn Humayd narrated, Salamah narrated, on the authority of Muhammad ibn Ishaq, on the authority of Yahya ibn Ibad ibn Abdullah ibn al-Zubayr, on the authority of his father, on the authority of his grandfather, who said: Al-Zubayr said: By God, I saw myself looking at the servants of Hind bint Utbah and her companions, with their sleeves rolled up and running away, with neither of them being few nor many, when the archers turned towards the camp when the people had fled from it, wanting to plunder, and they left our backs to the horses, so we were attacked from behind. A crier cried out: Muhammad has been killed! So we retreated, and the people retreated upon us after we had killed the standard-bearers, until no one of the people could come near it.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq, regarding his statement: And God has fulfilled His promise to you, meaning: I have fulfilled what I promised you of victory over your enemy.

It was narrated on the authority of Ammar, who said: Ibn Abi Ja'far narrated to us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of al-Rabi', regarding his saying: And God has fulfilled His promise to you, and that was on the day of Uhud. He said to them: You will prevail, so do not let me know what you have taken of their spoils until you are done! So they abandoned the command of the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and disobeyed, and fell into the spoils, and forgot the covenant he had made with them, and disobeyed and did something other than what he had ordered them to do.

Abu Ja'far said: God Almighty means by that: And God has fulfilled for you, O believers from the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, what He promised you of victory over your enemy at Uhud, when you kill them, meaning: when you kill them.

It is said: He killed him, if he killed him, like:

Muhammad ibn Abdullah ibn Saeed al-Wasiti told me,

Surat Al Imran 3:152

And God has already fulfilled His promise to you when you were oppressing them by His permission until you lost heart and disputed in the matter and disobeyed after He had shown you what you love - among you are those who desire this world and among you are those who desire the Hereafter. Then He turned you away from them to test you; and He has certainly pardoned you, and God is full of bounty to the believers.

he said, Yaqub ibn Isa told us, he said, Abdul Aziz ibn Imran ibn Abdul Aziz ibn Umar ibn Abdul Rahman ibn Awf told me, on the authority of Muhammad ibn Abdul Aziz, on the authority of al-Zuhri, on the authority of Abdul Rahman ibn al-Miswar ibn Makhramah, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Abdul Rahman ibn Awf regarding his statement: When you were killing them by His permission, he said: Killing means killing.

Yunus told me, he said, Ibn Wahb told us, he said, Ibn Abi Al-Zinad told us, on the authority of his father, he said: I heard Ubaidullah ibn Abdullah say regarding the statement of God Almighty: When you were killing them, he said: killing.

Muhammad bin Amr told me, he said, Abu Asim told us, he said, Isa told us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid: When you were killing them by His permission, he said: You were killing them.

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: And God fulfilled His promise to you when you were killing them, meaning: killing them with His permission.

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said, Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said, Muammar told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: When you kill them, he said: When you kill them.

It was narrated on the authority of Ammar, on the authority of Ibn Abi Jaafar, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-Rabi': When you were killing them by His permission, and killing means killing.

Muhammad bin Al-Hussein told us, Ahmad bin Al-Mufaddal told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi: And God fulfilled His promise to you when you were killing them with His permission, meaning: you were killing them.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: When you kill them, with swords, meaning: killing.

Al-Qasim told us, he said, Al-Hussein told us, he said, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Mubarak, on the authority of Al-Hasan: When you were killing them by His permission, meaning: killing.

Ali bin Dawud told me, he said, Abdullah bin Saleh told us, he said, Muawiyah told me, on the authority of Ali bin Abi Talha, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding his statement: When you were killing them by His permission, meaning: you were killing them.

As for his saying: With His permission, he means: With My judgment and decree for you regarding that, and My giving you authority over them, as:

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: When you are killing them with My permission, and I have given you control over them, and I have restrained their hands from you.

Abu Ja'far said: What He, may His praise be exalted, means by His saying: Until you failed, until you became cowardly and weak, and disputed over the matter, meaning: and you differed over the matter of God, meaning: and you disobeyed and opposed your Prophet, so you abandoned his command and what he entrusted to you. And what He means by that is the archers whom the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, had ordered to remain in their position and seat at the mouth of the ravine at Uhud, opposite Khalid ibn al-Walid and those of the polytheist horsemen who were with him, whose command we mentioned before.

As for his saying: After He showed you what you love, he means by that: after what God showed you, O believers in Muhammad, of victory and triumph over the polytheists, and that is the defeat in which they had defeated them from their women and their money before the archers left their positions in which the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, had seated them, and before the polytheists' cavalry came out against the believers from behind them.

In a similar manner to what we have said, the report of the people of interpretation has become clear.

Some of those who said this have already been mentioned, and we will mention the words of some of those whose words were not mentioned previously.

Who said that?

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada: Until you became weak and disputed about the matter, meaning you differed about the matter, and disobeyed after He had shown you what you love, and that was on the day of Uhud. The Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, made a covenant with them and ordered them to do something, but they forgot the covenant, transgressed, and disobeyed what the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, had ordered them to do, so their enemy threw them down, after He had shown them from their enemy what they love.

Muhammad bin Saad told me, he said, my father told me, he said, my uncle told me, he said, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn Abbas: That the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent some people - meaning on the day of Uhud - and they were behind them. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Stay here, and turn back the faces of those who fled from us, and be our guards from behind us. And when the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, defeated the people, he and his companions, those who had been behind them said to one another, when they saw the women ascending the mountain and the spoils, they said: Go to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and seize the spoils before you are beaten to them! And another group said: Rather, we will obey the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and remain where we are! So that is what His statement, Among you are those who desire this world, is for those who desired the spoils, And among you are those who desire the Hereafter, is for those who said: We will obey the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and remain where we are. So they came to Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and he failed when they disputed among themselves. He said: And you disobeyed after He showed you what you love. They had seen the victory and the spoils.

It was narrated on the authority of Ammar, on the authority of Ibn Abi Ja'far, on the authority of his father, on the authority of al-Rabi': Until you failed, meaning: you became cowardly before your enemy, and disputed about the matter, meaning: you differed, and disobeyed after He showed you what you love, and that was on the day of Uhud. He said to them: You will prevail, so do not let me know what you have taken from their spoils until you are done, so they abandoned the command of the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and disobeyed, and fell into the spoils, and forgot his covenant that he had made with them, and disobeyed to something other than what he had ordered them to do, so their enemy attacked them, after He showed them in them what they love.

Al-Qasim told us, he said, Al-Hussein told us, he said, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj: Until you become weak, Ibn Jurayj said, Ibn Abbas said: Failure is cowardice.

Muhammad told us, Ahmad told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi: Until you become weak and dispute over the matter and disobey after He has shown you what you love, from Al-Fath.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: Until you failed, meaning: you were weak, and disputed about the matter, meaning: you differed about my matter, and disobeyed, meaning: you abandoned the matter of your Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and what he entrusted to you, meaning the archers, after He showed you what you love, meaning: the victory, there is no doubt about it, and the defeat of the people from their women and their money.

Al-Qasim told us, Al-Hussein told us, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Al-Mubarak, on the authority of Al-Hasan: After I showed you what you love, meaning: the conquest.

Abu Ja'far said: It was said that the meaning of his statement: Until when you lost heart and disputed over the matter and disobeyed after He had shown you what you love is until when you disputed over the matter and lost heart and disobeyed after He had shown you what you love, and that it is from the introduction which means delay, and that the waw entered into that and its meaning is falling, as it is said, So when they both submitted and he prostrated himself upon his forehead, * And We called to him (37:103-104) meaning: We called to him. This is said in until when and in So when [it did not come in other than these two]. And from it is the statement of God the Almighty: Until when Gog and Magog are let loose (38:96-97). Then He said: And the true promise has drawn near (37:96-97).

It means: come close, as the poet said:

Even if your stomachs are lice-ridden and you see your children grow up

You turned your back on us, you are the mean, weak, and cunning one.

Abu Ja'far said: By His saying, Among you are those who desire this world, He, the Most High, means those who left their seat in which the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, had seated them in the valley of Uhud for the horses of the polytheists, and joined the Muslim army seeking plunder when they saw the defeat of the polytheists. And among you are those who desire the Hereafter, meaning by that: those archers who remained in their seats in which the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, had seated them, and followed his command, preserving the covenant of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and seeking what is with God of reward for their actions and the Hereafter, as:

Muhammad told us, Ahmad told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of al-Suddi: Some of you want this world and some of you want the Hereafter. So those who set out seeking the spoils were the people of this world, and those who remained and said: We will not disobey the words of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, wanted the Hereafter.

Muhammad bin Saad told me, he said, my father told me, he said, my uncle told me, he said, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, similarly.

Al-Husayn narrated, he said, I heard Abu Muadh say, Ubayd ibn Sulayman narrated to us, he said, I heard Ad-Dahhak say about His statement, Among you are those who desire this world and among you are those who desire the Hereafter, that the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, ordered a group of Muslims on the day of Uhud, saying: Be armed for the people, in the same way as he ordered them to remain in it, and he ordered them not to leave their place until he gave them permission. So when the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, met Abu Sufyan and the polytheists who were with him on the day of Uhud, the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, defeated them. So when the armed men saw that God, the Almighty, had defeated the polytheists, some of them set off calling out: The spoils! The spoils! Do not let them go! And some of them remained in their place, and said: We will not leave our place until the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, gives us permission! So it was revealed: Among you are those who desire this world and among you are those who desire the Hereafter. Ibn Mas'ud used to say: I did not feel that any of the companions of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, wanted this world and its glory, until the day of Uhud.

Surat Al Imran 3:152

And God has already fulfilled His promise to you when you were oppressing them by His permission until you lost heart and disputed in the matter and disobeyed after He had shown you what you love - among you are those who desire this world and among you are those who desire the Hereafter. Then He turned you away from them to test you; and He has certainly pardoned you, and God is full of bounty to the believers.

Al-Qasim narrated to us, he said, Al-Husayn narrated to us, he said, Hajjaj narrated to me, he said, Ibn Jurayj said, Ibn Abbas said: When God defeated the polytheists on the Day of Uhud, the archers said: Catch up with the people and the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, do not let them precede you to the spoils, so that they will be theirs and not you! And some of them said: We will not shoot until the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, gives us permission. So this verse was revealed: Among you are those who desire this world and among you are those who desire the Hereafter, Ibn Jurayj said. Ibn Mas'ud said: We did not know that any of the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, wanted this world and its glory, until that day.

Al-Qasim told us, he said, Al-Hussein told us, he said, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Al-Mubarak, on the authority of Al-Hasan: Among you are those who desire this world, those who seek spoils, and among you are those who desire the Hereafter, those who follow them and kill them.

Al-Husayn bin Amr bin Muhammad Al-Anqazi told us, Ahmad bin Al-Mufaddal told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi, on the authority of Abd Al-Khair, who said: Abdullah said: I did not see any of the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, wanting the world until the following verse was revealed about us on the day of Uhud 11: Among you are those who want the world and among you are those who want the Hereafter.

Muhammad told us, Ahmad told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi, on the authority of Abd Al-Khair, who said: Ibn Masoud said: I did not think that any of the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, on that day wanted the world, until God said what He said.

It was narrated on the authority of Ammar, on the authority of Ibn Abi Ja'far, on the authority of his father, on the authority of al-Rabi', who said: Abdullah ibn Mas'ud said when he saw them falling into the spoils: I did not think that any of the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, wanted the world until today.

Muhammad bin Saad told me, he said, my father told me, he said, my uncle told me, he said, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, he said: Ibn Masoud used to say: I did not feel that any of the companions of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, wanted the world and its glory, until that day.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: Among you are those who desire the world, meaning: those who wanted to plunder out of desire for the world and to abandon what they were commanded to do of obedience for which there is a reward in the Hereafter, And among you are those who desire the Hereafter, meaning: those who strove in the cause of God and did not disobey what they were forbidden to do for the sake of worldly gain out of desire for it, hoping for what is with God of good reward in the Hereafter.

Abu Ja'far said: By that, may His praise be glorified, He means: Then He turned you away, O believers, from the polytheists after He showed you what you love in them and in yourselves, of your defeating them and your victory over them. He turned your faces away from them because you disobeyed the command of My Messenger and opposed his obedience, because you preferred this world over the Hereafter, as a punishment for what you did, to test you, meaning: to test you, so that the hypocrite among you may be distinguished from the sincere and honest in his faith among you, as:

Muhammad told us, Ahmad told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi: Then he mentioned when Khalid bin Al-Walid turned against them: Then He turned you away from them to test you.

Al-Qasim narrated to us, Al-Husayn narrated to us, Hajjaj narrated to me, on the authority of Mubarak, on the authority of Al-Hasan, regarding His statement: Then He turned you away from them, he said: He turned the people away from them, and killed a number of the Muslims who were taken prisoner on the day of Badr, and the uncle of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was killed, and his front tooth was broken, and his face was wounded, and he was wiping the blood from his face and saying: How can a people succeed who did this to their Prophet while he was calling them to their Lord? Then the verse was revealed: You have no part in the matter (Al Imran 3:128). They said: Did not the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, promise us victory? Then God, the Almighty, revealed: And God has fulfilled His promise to you until His statement: Then He turned you away from them to test you, and He has forgiven you.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: Then He turned you away from them to test you, meaning: He turned you away from them to test you, and that was with some of your sins.

Abu Ja'far said: What He, may His praise be exalted, means by His saying: And He has pardoned you, is that God has pardoned you, O you who disobeyed the command of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and abandoned his obedience in what he brought to you regarding staying in the place he ordered you to stay in, from you. He has pardoned you from the punishment of your sin that you committed, for what is greater than what He punished you with, of defeating your enemies and turning your faces away from them, since He did not uproot your group, as:

Al-Qasim narrated to us, he said, Al-Hussein narrated to us, he said, Hajjaj narrated to me, on the authority of Mubarak, on the authority of Al-Hasan, regarding His statement: And He has pardoned you, he said: Al-Hasan said, and clapped his hands: How did He pardon them, when seventy of them were killed, and the uncle of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was killed, and his front tooth was broken, and his face was wounded? He said: Then he says: God, the Almighty, said: I have pardoned you when you disobeyed Me, lest I should have exterminated you. He said: Then Al-Hasan says: These are with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, in the way of God, wrathful for God, fighting the enemies of God, they were forbidden from something and they did it, and by God they did not leave until they were distressed by this distress, so the most wicked of the wicked today commits every major sin, commits every calamity, and drags his clothes over them, and claims that there is nothing wrong with him!! So he will know.

Al-Qasim told us, he said, Al-Hussein told us, he said, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, regarding his statement: And He has pardoned you, he said: He did not eradicate you.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: And He has pardoned you, and God has pardoned the enormity of that. He did not destroy you because of the disobedience you committed against your Prophet, but I returned with My favor upon you.

As for his saying: And God is full of bounty toward the believers, it means: God is full of bounty toward the people of faith in Him and in His Messenger, by forgiving them of many of the sins for which they deserve punishment from Him. If He punishes them for some of that, then He is being kind to them through His good deeds toward them, as:

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: And God has pardoned you, and God is full of bounty to the believers, meaning: And likewise God has been gracious to the believers, if He punishes them for some sins in this world as a lesson and admonition, then He does not eradicate all that is in them of the right that He has over them for what they committed of disobeying Him, as mercy for them and a reward for them, for what is in them of faith.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

God Almighty says: "And God has fulfilled His promise to you when you were killing them with His permission until, when you lost heart and disputed about the matter and disobeyed after He had shown you what you love - among you were those who desired this world and among you were those who desired the Hereafter. Then He turned you away from them that He might test you. But He has pardoned you, and God is full of bounty to the believers."

Muhammad bin Kaab Al-Qurazi said:

When the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, returned to Medina after Uhud and they were wounded, some of them said to one another: How did this happen to us when God promised us victory! This verse was revealed because they killed the standard-bearer of the polytheists and seven men after him on the standard. The Muslims were initially victorious, but they were busy with the spoils. Some of the archers also left their posts in search of the spoils, and that was the reason for the defeat. Al-Bukhari narrated on the authority of Al-Bara' bin Azib who said: "When the day of Uhud came and we encountered the polytheists, the Messenger of God (may God bless him and grant him peace) seated some of the archers and put Abdullah bin Jubair in charge of them and said to them: 'Do not move from your place. If you see us prevailing over them, do not move, and if you see them prevailing over us, do not help us against them.' He said: When the people met and the Muslims defeated them, we saw the women running hard on the mountain, and they had lifted their legs and their anklets were visible. They began to say: 'The spoils, the spoils.' Abdullah said to them: 'Wait! Did the Messenger of God (may God bless him and grant him peace) not command you not to move?' So they set out. When they reached them, God turned their faces away and killed seventy men from the Muslims. Then Abu Sufyan bin A war came to us while he was in a high place and said: Is Muhammad among the people? The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Do not answer him, until he said it three times. Then he said: Is Ibn Abi Quhafah among the people? Three times. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Do not answer him. Then he turned to his companions and said: As for these, they have been killed. Umar, may God be pleased with him, could not control himself without saying: You lie, O enemy of God! God has left for you someone who will disgrace you with him. He said: Subdue Hubal, twice. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Answer him. They said: What should we say, O Messenger of God? He said: Say: God is Most High and Most Majestic. Abu Sufyan said: We have Al-Uzza, and you have no Uzza. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Answer him. They said: What should we say, O Messenger of God? He said: Say: God is our Master, and you have no Master. Abu Sufyan said: A day for the day of Badr, and war is a contest. You will find mutilation among the people that I did not command and it did not grieve me.

In Bukhari and Muslim, on the authority of Sa'd ibn Abi Waqqas: He said: I saw on the right and left of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, on the day of Uhud two men wearing white clothes fighting for the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, the most intense fighting. In a narration on the authority of Sa'd: They were wearing white clothes, I have never seen them before or after, meaning Gabriel and Michael. In another narration: They were fighting for the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, the most intense fighting I have ever seen them before or after that day. And on the authority of Mujahid, he said: The angels did not fight with them on that day, nor before or after it, except on the day of Badr. Al-Bayhaqi said: Mujahid only meant that they were fighting on the day of Uhud for the people when they disobeyed the Messenger and did not have patience with what he commanded them to do. And on the authority of 'Urwah ibn al-Zubayr, he said: And God, the Almighty, had promised them, for their patience and piety, that He would support them with five thousand marked angels. And He did so. But when they disobeyed the command of the Messenger and abandoned their ranks and the archers abandoned the covenant of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, that they should not leave their homes, and they desired the world, the support was lifted from them. The angels, and God Almighty revealed: "And God had fulfilled His promise to you when you were killing them with His permission." So God fulfilled His promise and showed them the victory, but when they disobeyed, He followed them with calamity.

Surat Al Imran 3:152

And God has already fulfilled His promise to you when you were oppressing them by His permission until you lost heart and disputed in the matter and disobeyed after He had shown you what you love - among you are those who desire this world and among you are those who desire the Hereafter. Then He turned you away from them to test you; and He has certainly pardoned you, and God is full of bounty to the believers.

On the authority of Umair bin Ishaq, he said: When the day of Uhud came, they turned away from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and Sa'd was shooting in front of him, and a young man was shooting arrows for him. Whenever an arrow went missing, he would bring it to him. He said: Shoot, Abu Ishaq. When they finished, they looked for the young man. They did not see him and did not recognize him. Muhammad bin Ka'b said: When the standard-bearer of the polytheists was killed and their standard fell, Umrath bint al-Qamah al-Harithiya raised it. Hassan says about that:

If it weren't for the Harithiya Brigade, they would be sold in the markets like jalabiyas.

You kill them means you kill them and eradicate them. The poet said:

We killed them with the sword, and the rest of them were scattered and dispersed.

Jarir said:

Swords feel them as the fire rises in the harvested thickets

Abu Ubaid said: "Al-Has is the eradication by killing. It is said: 'A locust is felt' if it is killed by the cold. The cold is a 'hass' for plants, meaning it burns them and destroys them. A year of 'hass' means a drought that eats everything. Ru'bah said:

If we complain of a year of senses that eats away at the dry green

Its origin is from the sense, which is perception by the senses. So the meaning of his sense is that he took away his sense of killing. "With His permission" is with His knowledge, or with His judgment and command. Until when you failed means you became weak and shunned. It is said: Fasakal yafshu', so he is fasakal and fasakal. The answer to until is omitted, meaning until when you failed, you were tested. And something like this is permissible, like His statement: If you are able to seek a tunnel into the earth or a ladder into the heaven (al-An'am 6:35). Al-Farra' said: The answer to until is and you disputed and the waw is an intrusive and redundant letter, like His statement: So when they both submitted and he laid him down upon his forehead, * And We called to him meaning We called to him. And Imru' al-Qais said:

When we passed the neighborhood square and he went away

That is, he turned away. According to these people, it is permissible to insert the waw from and you disobeyed, meaning until if you failed and disputed, you disobeyed. Based on this, there is an advancement and delay, meaning until if you disputed and disobeyed, you failed. Abu Ali said: It is permissible for the answer to be He turned you away from them and then is redundant, and the meaning is until if you failed and disputed and disobeyed, He turned you away from them. Some grammarians have recited in its redundancy the words of the poet:

I see that I did not sleep on passion, then when I woke up I became normal

Al-Akhfash allowed it to be redundant, as in the Almighty's saying: "Until, when the earth, vast as it is, became strait for them, and their souls became strait for them, and they perceived that there is no refuge from God except in Him. Then He turned to them in forgiveness" (al-Tawbah 9:118). It was said: Until means to, and then there is no answer to it, meaning that God fulfilled His promise to you until you failed, meaning that promise was on the condition of steadfastness. The meaning of you disputed is that you differed, meaning the archers when some of them said to each other: We will catch up with the spoils, and some of them said: Rather, we will remain in our place where the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, ordered us to remain. And you disobeyed meaning you disobeyed the Messenger's command to remain, after He showed you what you love, meaning the victory that the Muslims had on the day of Uhud at the beginning of their affair, and that was when the standard-bearer of the polytheists was struck down, as mentioned above. That is, when he was struck down, the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his companions spread out and became scattered battalions, and they struck the enemy with blows until they were forced to abandon their burdens, and the horses carried The polytheists attacked the Muslims three times, each time advising them with arrows and returning defeated. The Muslims charged and killed them to the ground. When the fifty archers saw that God Almighty had granted victory to their brothers, they said: By God, we will not sit here for anything. God has destroyed the enemy and our brothers are in the camp of the polytheists. Groups of them said: Why should we stand when God has defeated the enemy? They left their homes that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, had enjoined upon them not to leave, and they disputed and failed and disobeyed the Messenger, so the horses rushed upon them to kill them. The words of the verse require rebuke to them, and the reason for the rebuke to them is that they saw the beginnings of victory, so it was necessary for them to know that the completion of victory is in steadfastness, not in defeat. Then, I am the reason for the dispute. He said: Among you is he who desires this world, meaning the spoils. Ibn Masoud said: We did not feel that any of the companions of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, wanted this world and its glory until the day of Uhud. And among you is he who desires the Hereafter, and they are the ones who remained in their position and did not disobey the command of their Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, with their leader, Abdullah bin Jubair. Khalid bin Al-Walid and Ikrimah bin Abi Jahl attacked him, and they were disbelievers at that time, so they killed him along with those who remained. May God have mercy on them. The rebuke is with those who fled, not with those who remained, for those who remained will win the reward. This is like when a general punishment befalls a people, then the righteous and the children perish, but what befall them is not a punishment, rather it is a cause. The reward, and God knows best.

God the Almighty said: Then He turned you away from them to test you. That is, after you had taken control of them, He turned you away from them by defeating them. This indicates that disobedience is created by God the Almighty. The Mu'tazila said: The meaning is then you turned away. So, attributing it to God the Almighty by removing fear from the hearts of the disbelieving Muslims is a test for them. Al-Qushayri said: This does not benefit them, because removing fear from the hearts of the disbelievers until they make light of the Muslims is ugly and it is not permissible for them to do something ugly from God. So there is no meaning left for His statement: Then He turned you away from them. It was said: The meaning of He turned you away from them is that He did not charge you with seeking them out.

The Almighty says: And He has pardoned you, and God is full of bounty to the believers. That is, He did not eradicate you after the disobedience and transgression. It was said that the address is to everyone, and it was said that it is to the archers who disobeyed what they were commanded to do, and Al-Nahhas chose this. Most of the commentators said: Similar to this verse is the Almighty's saying: Then We pardoned you, "And God is full of bounty to the believers" with pardon and forgiveness.

On the authority of Ibn Abbas, he said: The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, was never victorious in any situation as he was on the day of Uhud. He said: And we denied that, so Ibn Abbas said:

Between me and those who denied that is the Book of God Almighty, that God Almighty says on the day of Uhud 11: And God had fulfilled His promise to you when you were killing them by His permission. Ibn Abbas says: The killing is the killing, "Until when you were weak and disputed about the matter and disobeyed after He had shown you what you love, among you were those who desired this world and among you were those who desired the Hereafter. Then He turned you away from them that He might test you. And He has pardoned you, and God is full of bounty to the believers." What he meant by this were the archers, and that was because the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, stationed them in a place and then said: Protect our backs, for if you see us being killed, do not help us, and if you see us having captured spoils, do not share them with us. So when the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, captured spoils and they allowed the camp of the polytheists to enter, the archers all retreated and entered the camp to plunder, and the rows of the companions of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, met, so they were like this and he interlocked his fingers and they were confused, so when he left the archers, that situation in which they were, entered the horses from that place upon the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and they struck each other and became confused, and many of the Muslims were killed. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his companions were at the beginning of the day until seven or nine of the standard-bearers of the polytheists were killed, and the Muslims moved towards the mountain, and did not reach where the people say: the cave, but they were under the mortar, and the two devils shouted: Muhammad has been killed, and there was no doubt that it was true, and we remained like that, not doubting that he was killed until the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, appeared to us between the two Sa'dains, and we recognized him by his swaying when he walked, he said: So we were so happy that it was as if what had happened to us had not happened, he said: So he advanced towards us and he said: The wrath of God has become intense upon a people who bloodied the face of their Prophet, and Ka'b bin Malik said: I was the first of the Muslims to recognize the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, I recognized him by his eyes shining from under the helmet, so I called out at the top of my voice: O group of Muslims! Be glad, the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, has come, and he motioned to me to be silent.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The Almighty warns His believing servants against obeying the disbelievers and hypocrites, for obeying them brings ruin in this world and the Hereafter. That is why the Almighty said: If you obey those who disbelieve, they will turn you back on your heels, and you will become losers. Then He commanded them to obey Him, befriend Him, seek His help, and put their trust in Him. The Almighty said: Rather, God is your Protector, and He is the best of helpers. Then He gave them good report that He will cast fear of them and humiliation into the hearts of their enemies because of their disbelief and polytheism, along with what He has stored up for them in the Hereafter of torment and punishment. He said: "We will cast terror into the hearts of those who disbelieve because they have associated with God that for which He has not sent down any authority. Their refuge is the Fire, and wretched is the residence of the wrongdoers." It has been proven in the two Sahihs on the authority of Jabir ibn Abdullah that the Messenger of God said: "I have been given five things that were not given to any of the prophets before me: I have been aided by terror for a distance of a month's journey, the earth has been made a place of prostration and purification for me, and spoils of war have been made lawful for me." And I was given intercession, and the Prophet was sent to his people in particular, and I was sent to all people." Imam Ahmad said: Muhammad bin Abi Uday told us, on the authority of Sulayman al-Taymi, on the authority of Sayyar, on the authority of Abu Umamah, that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "My Lord has favored me over the prophets - or he said over the nations - in four things: He said: I was sent to all people, and the entire earth was made for me and for my nation a place of prostration and purification, so wherever a man of my nation finds prayer, his place of prostration and purification is with him, and I was aided by terror for a month's journey, which he casts into the hearts of my enemies, and spoils of war were made lawful for me." Al-Tirmidhi narrated it from the hadith of Sulayman al-Taymi, on the authority of Sayyar al-Qurashi al-Umawi, their client from Damascus, who lived in Basra, on the authority of Abu Umamah Sadi bin Ajlan, may God be pleased with him, with it, and he said: It is good and authentic. Saeed bin Mansour said: Ibn Wahb informed us, Amr bin al-Harith informed me that Abu Yunus told him, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: I was aided by terror against the enemy. Muslim narrated it from the hadith of Ibn Wahb. Imam Ahmad said: Husayn ibn Muhammad told us, Isra'il told us, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Abu Burdah, on the authority of his father Abu Musa, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "I was given five things: I was sent to the red and the black, the earth was made pure for me and a place of prostration, spoils of war were made lawful for me but were not made lawful for those before me, I was aided by terror for a month, and I was given intercession, and there is no prophet who did not ask for his intercession. I kept my intercession hidden and then made it for whoever died not associating anything with God." Ahmad alone narrated it. Al-Awfi narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas regarding the words of God, the Most High: We will cast terror into the hearts of those who disbelieve, that God cast terror into the heart of Abu Sufyan, so he returned to Mecca. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Abu Sufyan has indeed taken a part of you, and he has returned and God has cast terror into his heart. Narrated by Ibn Abi Hatim. And the Almighty said: And God has fulfilled His promise to you when you were killing them by His permission. Ibn Abbas said: God promised them victory. This verse may be used as evidence for one of the two previous sayings in the Almighty's saying: "When you said to the believers, 'Is it not sufficient for you that your Lord should reinforce you with three thousand angels sent down?' Yes, if you are patient and fear God and they come to you at once, your Lord will reinforce you with five thousand angels with marks." That was on the day of Uhud, because their enemy was three thousand fighters. When they confronted them, victory and triumph were at the beginning of the day for Islam. When what happened of the disobedience of the archers and the failure of some of the fighters, the promise that was conditional on steadfastness and obedience was delayed. For this reason, He said: And God has fulfilled His promise to you, meaning at the beginning of the day, when you were killing them, meaning killing them, by His permission, meaning by His giving you power over them, until you failed. Ibn Jurayj said: Ibn Abbas said: Failure is cowardice. And you disputed about the matter and disobeyed, as happened to the archers, after what happened. "I saw you as you love" which is the victory over them among you are those who desire this world and they are those who desired the spoils when they saw the defeat "and among you are those who desire the Hereafter. Then He turned you away from them to test you" then He made them prevail over you to test you and examine you and He has certainly pardoned you meaning He forgave you for that action, and that, and God knows best, is due to the large number of the enemy and their numbers and the small number of the Muslims and their numbers. Ibn Jurayj said: His statement and He has certainly pardoned you he said: He did not eradicate you, and Muhammad ibn Ishaq said the same: Ibn Jarir narrated them both and God is full of bounty to the believers and Imam Ahmad said: Sulayman ibn Dawud told us, Abd al-Rahman ibn Abi al-Zinad told us on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ubaydullah on the authority of Ibn Abbas that he said: God has not given victory in a place like He gave victory on the day of Uhud, he said: So we denied that, and Ibn Abbas said: Between me and those who denied that is the Book of God, that God says on the day of Uhud and God had fulfilled His promise to you when you were killing them with His permission Ibn Abbas and al-Hasan say: killing until you failed and disputed In the matter and you disobeyed after He showed you what you love. Among you are those who desire this world and among you are those who desire the Hereafter. The verse, and what he meant by this were the archers, and that is because the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, stationed them in a place and then said: "Protect our backs. If you see us being killed, do not help us, and if you see us having taken spoils, do not share with us.” So when the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, took spoils and allowed the camp of the polytheists to be invaded, the archers all rushed into the camp to plunder. The ranks of the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, met like this - and he interlaced his hands - and they took refuge. When the archers left that position they were in, the horses entered from that place upon the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and they struck each other, and they became confused and many Muslims were killed. Victory was for the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his companions at the beginning of the day until seven or nine of the standard-bearers of the polytheists were killed. The Muslims moved around towards the mountain, and they did not reach where people say the cave is, but they were under the hammer, and Satan cried out: Muhammad has been killed. They did not doubt that it was true, and we continued to do so, not doubting that it was true, until the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, appeared between the two Sa'dains. We recognized him by his glance when he walked. He said: We were so happy that it was as if what had happened to us had not happened to us. He said: He climbed towards us and he was saying: The wrath of God has intensified against a people who bloodied the face of the Messenger of God, and he said again: O God, they cannot surpass us, until he reached us. He remained for an hour, and then Abu Sufyan shouted at the bottom of the mountain: High is Hubal - twice, meaning his god - Where is the son of Abu Kabsha? Where is the son of Abu Quhafah? Where is the son of Ibn al-Khattab? Umar, may God be pleased with him, said: O Messenger of God, should I not answer him? He said: Yes. When he said: High is Hubal, Umar said: God is Most High and Most Majestic. Abu Sufyan said: Her eye has been comforted, so he turned away from it or something else. He said: Where is the son of Abu Kabsha? Where is the son of Abu Quhafah? Where is the son of Ibn al-Khattab? Umar said: “This is the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and this is Abu Bakr, and here I am Umar.” He said: Abu Sufyan said, A day for the day of Badr, the days are cycles, and war is a game of chance. He said: Umar said: They are not the same, our dead are in Paradise, and your dead are in Hell. He said: You claim that, so we have failed and lost. Abu Sufyan said: You will find mutilation among your dead. And that was not according to the opinion of our leaders. He said: Then the zeal of the Age of Ignorance overtook him, so he said: If that was the case, we would not hate him. This is a strange hadith with a strange context, and it is from the mursals of Ibn Abbas, for no one witnessed it, nor his father. Al-Hakim included it in his Mustadrak on the authority of Abu al-Nadr al-Faqih, on the authority of Uthman ibn Sa'id, on the authority of Salman ibn Dawud ibn Ali ibn Abdullah ibn Abbas, and Ibn Abi Hatim and al-Bayhaqi narrated it in the same way in Dalā'il al-Nubuwwah from the hadith of Sulayman ibn Dawud al-Hashimi. And some of it has corroborating evidence in the Sahihis and elsewhere. Imam Ahmad said: Affan told us, Hammad told us, on the authority of Ata' ibn al-Sa'ib, on the authority of al-Sha'bi, on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud, who said: On the day of Uhud, the women were behind the Muslims, finishing off the wounded polytheists. If I had sworn on that day, I would have hoped to be righteous, for none of us wanted the world, until God revealed: “Among you are those who desire the world, and among you are those who desire the Hereafter. Then He turned you away from them that He might test you.” So when the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, disobeyed and disobeyed what they were commanded to do, the Prophet singled them out. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was with nine men: seven from the Ansar, and two men from Quraysh, and he was the tenth of them, may God bless him and grant him peace. When they overwhelmed him, he said: May God have mercy on the man who repelled them from us. Then a man from the Ansar stood up and fought for an hour until he was killed. When they overwhelmed him again, he said: May God have mercy on the man who repelled them from us. He continued saying that until the seven were killed. Then the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to his two companions: We have not been fair to our companions. Then Abu Sufyan came and said: Hubal is superior. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: “Say: God is higher and more majestic.” They said: God is higher and more majestic. Abu Sufyan said: We have Al-Uzza, and you have no Uzza. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: “Say: God is our Master, and the disbelievers have no master.” Abu Sufyan said: “A day for the day of Badr. A day against us and a day for us, a day for women and a day for an eagle, Hanzala for Hanzala, so-and-so for so-and-so, and so-and-so for so-and-so.” The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: They are not equal. As for our dead, they are alive and provided for, but as for your dead, they are being tortured in Hell. Abu Sufyan said: There was indeed an example among the people, and if he cursed, it was not from among us. I did not command or forbid, I did not like or dislike, it did not upset me or please me. He said: So they looked and saw that Hamza's stomach had been ripped open, and Hind had taken his liver and chewed it but was unable to eat it. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Did you eat something? They said: No. He said: God would not let anything of Hamzah enter the Fire. He said: So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, placed Hamzah and prayed over him, and a man from the Ansar was brought and placed beside him and prayed over him. The Ansar lifted him up and left Hamzah until another was brought and placed beside Hamzah and prayed over him. Then he lifted him up and left Hamzah, until he prayed over him seventy prayers that day. Ahmad also transmitted it alone. Al-Bukhari said: Ubaydullah bin Musa told us on the authority of Israel, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Al-Baraa, who said: We encountered the polytheists on that day and the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, seated an army of archers and put Abdullah bin Jubair in charge of them and said: Do not move. If you see us prevailing over them, do not move. If you see them prevailing over us, do not help us. So when we met them, they fled until I saw the women running hard on the mountain, raising their legs and their anklets

And God has already fulfilled His promise to you when you were oppressing them by His permission until you lost heart and disputed in the matter and disobeyed after He had shown you what you love - among you are those who desire this world and among you are those who desire the Hereafter. Then He turned you away from them to test you; and He has certainly pardoned you, and God is full of bounty to the believers.

And God has already fulfilled His promise to you when you were oppressing them by His permission until you lost heart and disputed in the matter and disobeyed after He had shown you what you love - among you are those who desire this world and among you are those who desire the Hereafter. Then He turned you away from them to test you; and He has certainly pardoned you, and God is full of bounty to the believers.

showing, and they began to say: The spoils, the spoils. Abdullah bin Jubair said: The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, entrusted me with He (peace be upon him) ordered them not to leave, but they refused. When they refused, they turned their faces away and seventy people were killed. Abu Sufyan looked out and said, Is Muhammad among the people? He said, Do not answer him. He said, Is Ibn Abi Quhafah among the people? He said, Do not answer him. He said, Is Ibn al-Khattab among the people? He said, "These people have been killed. If they were alive, they would have answered." Umar could not control himself and said to him, "You lie, enemy of God. God has left for you that which grieves you." Abu Sufyan said, Have Hubal prevailed. The Prophet (peace be upon him) said, Answer him. They said, What should we say? He said, "Say: God is Most High and Most Majestic." Abu Sufyan said, We have al-Uzza, and you have no Uzza. The Prophet (peace be upon him) said, Answer him. They said, What should we say? He said, "Say: God is our Master, and you have no Master." Abu Sufyan said: A day for the day of Badr, and war is a contest, and you will find a mutilation that I did not command and it did not upset me. Al-Bukhari is the only one to narrate it from this source, then he narrated it from Amr bin Khalid from Zuhair bin Muawiyah, from Abu Ishaq, from Al-Baraa in a similar manner, and he will come with something simpler than this. Al-Bukhari also said: Ubaidullah bin Saeed told us, Abu Usamah told us from Hisham bin Urwah, from his father, from Aisha, may God be pleased with her, who said: When the day of Uhud came, the polytheists were defeated, and Satan cried out: O servants of God, the last of you, so the first of them returned and fought with the last of them, and Hudhayfah saw his father Al-Yaman and said: O servants of God, my father, my father. He said: She said: By God, they did not hold back until they killed him, so Hudhayfah said: May God forgive you. Urwah said: By God, there was still good in Hudhayfah until he joined God Almighty. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said: Yahya ibn Abbad ibn Abdullah ibn al-Zubayr told me on the authority of his father on the authority of his grandfather that al-Zubayr ibn al-Awwam said: By God, I saw myself looking at Hind's servants and companions with their sleeves rolled up and running away, neither much nor little was enough to take them. The archers turned towards the army when the people fled from it, wanting to plunder, and our backs were left to the horses, so they came at us from behind, and a crier cried out: Behold, Muhammad has been killed. So we retreated and the people retreated upon us after we had taken the standard-bearers, until no one from the people could come near it. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said: The standard of the polytheists remained fallen until Umrah bint Alqamah al-Harithiya took it and gave it to the Quraysh, so they fought with it. Al-Suddi said, on the authority of Abd al-Khair, who said: Abdullah ibn Mas'ud said: I did not think that any of the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, wanted this world until what was revealed about us on the Day of Uhud was revealed: Among you are those who desire this world and among you are those who desire the Hereafter. It has been narrated from other sources on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud, and it was also narrated on the authority of Abd al-Rahman ibn A'waf and Abu Talhah, and Ibn Mardawayh narrated them in his interpretation. And the Almighty's statement: Then He turned you away from them to test you. Ibn Ishaq said: Al-Qasim ibn Abd al-Rahman ibn Rafi', one of the sons of 'Adi ibn al-Najjar, told me: Anas ibn al-Nadr, the uncle of Anas ibn Malik, went to 'Umar ibn al-Khattab and Talhah ibn 'Ubaydullah with some men from the Muhajireen and Ansar who had thrown down what was in their hands, and he said: What will leave you? They said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, has been killed. He said: What will you do with life after him? Then he faced the people and fought until he was killed, may God be pleased with him. Al-Bukhari said: Hassan bin Hassan told us, Muhammad bin Talha told us, Hamid told us on the authority of Anas bin Malik that his uncle, meaning Anas bin Al-Nadr, was absent from Badr and said: I was absent from the first battle of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace. If God makes me witness with the Messenger of God, God will see what I find. So he met the day of Uhud and defeated the people, so he said: O God, I apologize to You for what these people have done - meaning the Muslims - and I disavow before You what the polytheists have brought. So he advanced with his sword and met Saad bin Muadh, so he said: Where, Saad? I find the scent of Paradise before Uhud. So he went and was killed, and he was not recognized until his sister recognized him by a mole on his finger, and he had eighty-odd stab wounds, blows, and arrow wounds. This is the wording of Al-Bukhari. Muslim included it in a similar hadith from Thabit on the authority of Anas. Al-Bukhari also said: Abdun told us, Abu Hamza told us on the authority of Uthman bin Muhab, who said: A man came to perform Hajj to the House of God and saw some people sitting. He said: Who are these sitting? They said: These are Quraysh. He said: Who is the sheikh? They said: Ibn Umar. So he came to him and said: I am going to ask you about something, so tell me. He said: Ask. He said: I ask you by the sanctity of this House, do you know that Uthman ibn Affan fled on the day of Uhud? He said: Yes. He said: Do you know that he was absent from Badr and did not witness it? He said: Yes. He said: Do you know that he stayed away from the Pledge of Ridwan and did not witness it? He said: Yes. So he said: Allahu Akbar. Then Ibn Umar said: Come, so I may tell you and explain to you what you asked me about. As for his escape on the day of Uhud, I bear witness that God has forgiven him. As for his absence from Badr, he was married to the daughter of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and she was sick. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to him: You will have the reward and share of a man who witnessed Badr. As for his absence from the Pledge of Ridwan, if there had been anyone more honorable in the valley of Mecca than Uthman, he would have sent him in his place. So he sent Uthman, and the Pledge of Ridwan took place after Uthman had gone to Mecca. So the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said with his right hand: This is the hand of Uthman, and he struck his hand with it and said: "This is the hand of Uthman. Go with it now." Then Al-Bukhari narrated it from another chain of transmission on the authority of Abu Awanah, on the authority of Uthman ibn Abdullah ibn Muhabb.

God the Almighty said: When you were ascending and not looking back at anyone meaning He turned you away from them while you were ascending, that is, in the mountain, fleeing from your enemies. Al-Hasan and Qatadah read When you were ascending meaning in the mountain, and not looking back at anyone meaning you were not looking back at anyone out of astonishment, fear and terror, and the Messenger is calling you from behind you meaning you had left him behind you calling you to stop fleeing from the enemies, and to return, come back and attack. Al-Suddi said: When the polytheists attacked the Muslims at Uhud and defeated them, some of them entered the city, and some of them went to the mountain on the rock and stood on it. So the Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, began calling the people to the servants of God, to the servants of God. God mentioned their ascension to the mountain, then He mentioned the Prophet's, may God bless him and grant him peace, calling them, saying: When you were ascending and not looking back at anyone, and the Messenger is calling you from behind you. Ibn Abbas, Qatadah, Al-Rabi' and Ibn Zayd said the same. Abdullah bin Al-Zubayri said: He mentions the defeat of the Muslims on the day of Uhud in his poem while he was a polytheist and had not yet converted to Islam, in which he says at the beginning:

O crow of separation, have you heard? Say, for you are only speaking of something that has already been done.

Good and evil have a limit, and both have a face and a face.

Until he said:

I wish my elders at Badr had witnessed the Khazraj's fear of the sound of the weapons.

When Quba narrated its ponds and the killing spread to Abd al-Ashel

Then they started dancing, like a camel dancing high up in the mountain.

So we killed twice as many of their nobles and we adjusted the slope of Badr, so it was balanced.

Al-Haffan: small camels. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, had singled out twelve of his companions, as Imam Ahmad said: Hasan ibn Musa told us, Zuhair told us, Abu Ishaq told us, on the authority of Al-Bara' ibn Azib, may God be pleased with him, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, appointed Abdullah

ibn Jubayr over the archers on the day of Uhud - and they were fifty men - and he put them in a position, and said: If you see us being snatched by birds, do not move until I send for you, and if you see us prevail over the enemy and trample them, do not move until I send for you. He said: So they defeated them. He said: By God, I saw the women rushing up the mountain, their anklets and their clothes lifted, and he said: The companions of Abdullah, the spoils, O people of the spoils, your companions have appeared, so what are you waiting for? Abdullah ibn Jubayr said: Have you forgotten what the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to you? They said: By God, we will go to the people, so we will take some of the spoils. So when they came to them, their faces were turned away and they came back defeated, and that is what the Messenger was calling them to in He left them, and there remained with the Messenger of God only twelve men, and they killed seventy of us. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his companions killed one hundred and forty of the polytheists on the day of Badr, seventy prisoners and seventy dead. Abu Sufyan said: Is Muhammad among the people? Is Muhammad among the people? - three times - he said. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, forbade them from answering him, then he said: Is Ibn Abi Quhafah among the people? Is Ibn Abi Quhafah among the people? Is Ibn Al-Khattab among the people? Is Ibn Al-Khattab among the people? Then he turned to his companions and said: As for these, they have been killed and you have been spared from them. Umar could not control himself but said: You have lied, O enemy of God, those whom you have counted are all alive, and there remains for you that which will upset you. He said: A day for the day of Badr, and war is a contest. And you will find among the people mutilation which I did not order, and which did not upset me. Then he began to recite: Hubal is exalted, Hubal is exalted. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Will you not answer him? They said: O Messenger of God, what should we say? He said: Say: God is higher and more exalted. He said: We have Al-Uzza, and you have no Uzza. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Will you not answer him? They said: O Messenger of God, what should we say? He said: Say: God is our Master, and you have no Master. Al-Bukhari narrated it from the hadith of Zuhair bin Muawiyah in an abbreviated form, and he narrated it from the hadith of Israhel from Abu Ishaq in a more detailed form than this as mentioned above, and God knows best. Al-Bayhaqi narrated in Dalil al-Nubuwwah from the hadith of Ammarah bin Ghaziyah, from Abu al-Zubayr, from Jabir, who said: "The people fled from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, on the day of Uhud, and eleven men from the Ansar remained with him, and Talhah bin Ubaydullah was climbing the mountain, and the polytheists met them, so he said: Is there no one for these? Talhah said: I am, O Messenger of God. He said: As you are, O Talhah. A man from the Ansar said: I am, O Messenger of God. So he fought on his behalf, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and those who remained with him climbed, then the Ansar was killed and they caught up with him, so he said: Is there no man for these? Talhah

Surat Al Imran 3:152

And God has already fulfilled His promise to you when you were oppressing them by His permission until you lost heart and disputed in the matter and disobeyed after He had shown you what you love - among you are those who desire this world and among you are those who desire the Hereafter. Then He turned you away from them to test you; and He has certainly pardoned you, and God is full of bounty to the believers.

said the same as he said, so the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said the same as he said, so a man from the Ansar said: I am, O Messenger of God. So he fought on his behalf and his companions were climbing, then he was killed and they caught up with him, and he kept saying the same as he said before. Talha said: So I will, O Messenger of God. So he detained him and a man from the Ansar asked his permission to fight, so he gave him permission, so he fought like those who had been before him, until no one remained with him except Talha, so they attacked them, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Who is with these? Talha said: I will. So he fought like all those who had been before him fought, and his fingers were injured, so he said: Hush, so the Messenger of God said: If you had said the name of God and mentioned the name of God, the angels would have raised you up with the people looking at you until you entered the atmosphere of heaven. Then the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, ascended to his companions while they were gathered. Al-Bukhari narrated on the authority of Abu Bakr bin Abi Shaybah, on the authority of Wakee', on the authority of Ismail, on the authority of Qais bin Abi Hazim, who said: I saw Talha's hand paralyzed, with which he protected the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, meaning the day of Uhud. And in the two Sahihs, on the authority of Mu'tamir bin Sulayman, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Abu Uthman al-Nahdi, who said: None remained with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, on some of the days in which the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, fought, except Talha bin Ubayd God and Sa'd, according to their hadith. Al-Hasan bin Arafah said: Marwan bin Muawiyah told us, on the authority of Hashim bin Hashim Al-Zuhri, who said: I heard Saeed bin Al-Musayyab say: I heard Saad bin Abi Waqqas say: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, handed me his quiver on the day of Uhud and said: 'Shoot, may my father and mother be sacrificed for you.'" Al-Bukhari narrated it on the authority of Abdullah bin Muhammad, on the authority of Marwan bin Muawiyah. Muhammad bin Ishaq said: Salih bin Kaysan told me on the authority of some of the family of Saad, on the authority of Saad bin Abi Waqqas, that he shot on the day of Uhud without the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. Saad said: "I saw the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, handing me arrows and saying: 'Shoot, may my father and mother be sacrificed for you.' He even handed me an arrow that had no point, so I shot with it." It was confirmed in the two Sahihs from the hadith of Ibrahim bin Saad, on the authority of his father, on the authority of his grandfather, on the authority of Saad bin Abi Waqqas, who said: "On the day of Uhud, I saw on the right of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and on his left two men wearing white clothes fighting on his behalf with the most intense fighting I had ever seen them before that day." And after him, meaning Gabriel and Michael, peace be upon them." And Hammad bin Salamah said on the authority of Ali bin Zaid and Thabit on the authority of Anas bin Malik: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was singled out on the day of Uhud with seven of the Ansar and two of the Quraysh. When they overwhelmed him, he said, 'Who will repel them from us and he will have Paradise?' or 'He is my companion in Paradise.' So a man from the Ansar came forward and fought until he was killed. Then they overwhelmed him again, and he said, 'Who will repel them from us and he will have Paradise?' So a man from the Ansar came forward and fought until he was killed. He continued like that until he killed the seven. Then the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to his two companions, 'We have not been fair to our companions.'" Narrated by Muslim on the authority of Hudbah bin Khalid, on the authority of Hammad bin Salamah, with something similar. Abu al-Aswad said on the authority of Urwah bin al-Zubayr, who said: Ubayy bin Khalaf, the brother of Banu Jumah, had sworn while he was in Mecca to kill the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. When his oath reached the Messenger of God, he said, 'Rather, I will kill him, God willing.' So when the day of Uhud came, Ubayy came in iron, masked, and he was saying, 'No.'" I was saved if Muhammad was saved. He attacked the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, intending to kill him. Mus'ab ibn `Umair, the brother of Banu `Abd al-Dar, met him, protecting the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, with himself. Mus'ab ibn `Umair was killed. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, saw the collarbone of Abi ibn Khalaf through a gap between the hem of his armor and the blade, and stabbed him in it with his spear. He fell to the ground from his horse, and no blood came out of his stab wound. His companions came to him and carried him while he was mooing like a bull. They said to him: What has made you so upset? It is only a scratch. He mentioned to them the saying of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, Rather, I will kill Ubayy. Then he said: By the One in Whose Hand is my soul, if this had happened to me, to the people of Dhu'l-Majaz, they would all have died. So he died in the Fire, So, damnation to the companions of the Blaze. Musa ibn Uqbah narrated it in his Maghāzī, on the authority of al-Zuhri, on the authority of Sa'id ibn al-Musayyab, in a similar manner. Muhammad ibn Ishaq mentioned that when the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, leaned against the ravine, Ubayy ibn Khalaf caught up with him and said: I will not be saved if I am saved. The people said: O Messenger of God, let one of us help him. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Leave him. When he approached, the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, took the spear from al-Harith ibn al-Samma. Some of the people said: What was mentioned to me? When the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, took it from him, he shook it so hard that we all flew away from him as hair flies from the back of a camel when it shakes. Then the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, faced him and stabbed him in the neck with a stab that caused him to fall off his horse. Repeatedly - Al-Waqidi mentioned on the authority of Yunus bin Bakir on the authority of Muhammad bin Ishaq, on the authority of Asim bin Amr bin Qatada, on the authority of Abdullah bin Kaab bin Malik, on the authority of his father, something similar to that. Al-Waqidi said: Ibn Omar used to say, "My father bin Khalaf died in Batn Rabigh. I was walking in Batn Rabigh after a part of the night, when I saw a blazing fire. I woke up and saw a man coming out of it with a chain, pulling it, arousing his thirst. A man said, "Do not give him a drink, for this is the one who was killed by the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace." This is Abi bin Khalaf - and it was proven in the two Sahihis from the narration of Abd al-Razzaq from Muammar, from Hammam bin Munabbih from Abu Hurayrah, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'God's wrath was intense against a people who did something to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace' - and he was pointing to his front teeth - and God's wrath was intense against a man whom the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, killed in the way of God." Al-Bukhari also included it from the hadith of Ibn Jurayj from Amr bin Dinar, from Ikrimah, from Ibn Abbas, who said: "God's wrath was intense against a person whom the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, killed with his own hand in the way of God, and God's wrath was intense against a people who caused blood to flow from the face of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace." Ibn Ishaq said: "The front teeth of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, were injured, his cheek was wounded, and his lip was wounded." The one who injured him was Utbah bin Abi Waqqas, and Salih bin Kaysan told me, from someone who told him, from Saad bin Abi Waqqas, who said: I have never been so keen on killing anyone as I was keen on killing Utbah. Ibn Abi Waqqas, if what I know is of a man of bad character who is hated by his people, and the saying of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, "God's wrath is severe on whoever bleeds the face of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace," is sufficient for me. Abd al-Razzaq said: Muammar informed us on the authority of al-Zuhri, on the authority of Uthman al-Jazari, on the authority of Muqsim, that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, "supplanted against Utbah bin Abi Waqqas on the day of Uhud when his front tooth was broken and his face was bleed, and he said: O God, do not let a year pass over him until he dies as a disbeliever." So a year had not passed over him until he died as a disbeliever in the Fire. Al-Waqidi mentioned on the authority of Ibn Abi Sabra, on the authority of Ishaq ibn Abdullah ibn Abi Farwah, on the authority of Abu al-Huwayrith, on the authority of Nafi' ibn Jubayr, who said: I heard a man from the Muhajireen say: I witnessed Uhud and I saw arrows coming from every direction and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was in the middle of them, all of that was being diverted from him. I saw Abdullah ibn Shihab al-Zuhri saying on that day: Show me Muhammad, I will not be saved if he is saved, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was beside him with no one with him, then... He passed by him, and Safwan rebuked him for that. He said, "By God, I have never seen him. I swear to God that he is forbidden from us!" We went out four of us and we pledged and agreed to kill him, but we did not succeed in that. Al-Waqidi said: What is established with us is that the one who shot the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, in the cheeks was Ibn Qami'ah, and the one who caused his lip to bleed and his front tooth to be damaged was Utbah ibn Abi Waqqas. Abu Dawud al-Tayalisi said: Ibn al-Mubarak told us on the authority of Ishaq ibn Yahya ibn Talhah ibn Ubayd God, Isa ibn Talhah told me on the authority of the Mother of the Believers Aisha, may God be pleased with her, she said: Whenever Abu Bakr mentioned the Battle of Uhud, he would say: That day was all for Talhah. Then he began to narrate, he said: I was the first to return on the Battle of Uhud, and I saw a man fighting with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, behind him, and I think he said it was out of zeal. He said: I said: Talhah was where I missed what I missed, so I said: There is a man from my people who is dearer to me, and between me and the polytheists is a man I do not know, and I am closer to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, than he, and he walks quickly, and I do not remember it, and it was Abu Ubaydah ibn al-Jarrah. We went to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and he said: His front tooth was broken and his face was wounded, and two rings from the helmet's ring entered his cheek. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said, Your companion wants Talhah, and he was bleeding, but we did not pay attention to what he said. He said, "I went to remove that from his face, but Abu Ubaidah said, 'I swear to you by my right that you left me,' so I left him. He did not want to take it with his hand and hurt the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, so he leaned on him with his mouth and pulled out one of the rings, and his front tooth fell out with the ring. I went to do what he did, but he said, 'I swear to you by my right that you left me.' He said, 'So he did the same as he did the first time, and his other front tooth fell out with the ring. Abu Ubaidah was the best of people in his wounds. We fixed the matter of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, then we came to Talhah in one of those graves, and there were seventy-odd, or less, or more, from stab wounds, arrows, and blows, and his finger had been cut off, so we fixed the matter of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace.'" And when Al-Haitham came, Abu Ubaidah said: I ask you by God, O Abu Bakr, to leave me alone? So Abu Ubaidah took the arrow in his mouth and began to shake it out of dislike of hurting the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, then he pulled out the arrow in his mouth and Abu Ubaidah's front tooth fell out. He mentioned the rest of it, and Al-Hafiz Al-Dhiya Al-Maqdisi chose it in his book. Ali

Surat Al Imran 3:152

And God has already fulfilled His promise to you when you were oppressing them by His permission until you lost heart and disputed in the matter and disobeyed after He had shown you what you love - among you are those who desire this world and among you are those who desire the Hereafter. Then He turned you away from them to test you; and He has certainly pardoned you, and God is full of bounty to the believers.

bin Al-Madini declared this hadith weak on the authority of Ishaq bin Yahya, because Yahya bin Saeed Al-Qattan, Ahmad, Yahya bin Ma'een, Al-Bukhari, Abu Zur'ah, Abu Hatim, Muhammad bin Sa'd, Al-Nasa'i and others spoke about him. Ibn Wahb said: Amr bin Al-Harith informed me that Umar bin Al-Sa'ib told him that he had heard that when Malik, Abu Abi Saeed Al-Khudri, was wounded by the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, on the day of Uhud, he sucked the wound until it became clean and white, so it was said to him: Suck it in. He said: No, by God, I will never suck it in. Then he turned back to fight. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever wants to look at a man from the people of Paradise, let him look at this man, and he was martyred. It has been proven in the two Sahihs on the authority of Abdul Aziz bin Abi Hazim, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Sahl bin Sa'd, that he was asked about the wound of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and he said: The face of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was wounded, his front tooth was broken, and the egg was smashed on his head, may God bless him and grant him peace. Fatima, the daughter of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was washing the blood, and Ali was pouring water on him with a shield. When Fatima saw that the water only increased the blood, she took a piece of matting and burned it until it became ashes, then she stuck it to the wound and the blood stopped. God Almighty said: So He rewarded you with grief for grief meaning He repaid you with grief for grief, as the Arabs say: It descended upon the Banu so-and-so, and it descended upon the Banu so-and-so. Ibn Jarir said: And likewise his saying, And I will crucify you on the trunks of palm trees, meaning on the trunks of palm trees. Ibn Abbas said: The first grief was due to the defeat, and when it was said that Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, was killed, and the second was when the polytheists overtook them on the mountain, and the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: O God, they have no right to overtake us. And from Abd al-Rahman ibn Awf: The first grief was due to the defeat, and the second was when it was said that Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, was killed. That was more severe and greater for them than the defeat. Both were narrated by Ibn Mardawayh, and something similar was narrated from Umar ibn al-Khattab, and Ibn Abi Hatim mentioned something similar from Qatadah as well. Al-Suddi said: The first grief was due to what they missed of the spoils and conquest, and the second was due to the enemy's presence over them. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said: So He rewarded you with grief after grief, meaning distress after distress from the killing of those of your brothers, and the superiority of your enemy over you, and what occurred in your souls from the saying of those who said: Your Prophet was killed, so that was one grief after another for you. Mujahid and Qatadah said: The first is their hearing of the killing of Muhammad, and the second is what happened to them in terms of killing and wounds. Qatadah and Al-Rabi' bin Anas said the opposite. Al-Suddi said: The first is what they missed out on in terms of victory and spoils, and the second is the enemy's presence upon them. This statement from Al-Suddi has already been mentioned. Ibn Jarir said: The most correct of these sayings is the saying of the one who said, So He rewarded you with grief for grief. So He rewarded you with your grief, O believers, by God's deprivation of you of the spoils of the polytheists and victory over them and the victory over them, and what befell you of killing and wounds, on that day after He had shown you in all of that what you love by your disobedience to the command of your Lord, and your opposition to the command of your Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, the grief of your thinking that your Prophet had been killed and the enemy had turned against you after your remnants from them. And the Almighty's saying, So that you may not grieve over what has escaped you, meaning over what has escaped you of the spoils and victory over your enemy, nor over what has befallen you, of wounds and killing, said Ibn Abbas, Abd al-Rahman ibn Awf, al-Hasan, Qatadah, and al-Suddi, And God is Aware of what you do. Glory be to Him and praise be to Him, there is no god but Him, the Most High.

Fath al-Qadir

His saying 152- And God has fulfilled His promise to you. It was revealed when some Muslims said, How did this happen to us when God promised us victory? That is because they were victorious at the beginning, until they killed the standard-bearer of the polytheists and nine men after him. When they were busy with the spoils and the archers left their post in pursuit of the spoils, that was the reason for the defeat. And has: is extermination by killing, said Abu Ubaid. It is said that a locust is felt: if the wilderness kills it, and its year is hasus: meaning a drought that eats everything. It was said: Its origin is from has which is perception by the senses, so the meaning of hashu is: he removed his sense by killing, and tahasunhum means you kill them and eradicate them. The poet said:

We made them feel the sword, and the rest of them were scattered and dispersed.

Jarir said:

Swords feel them as the fire rises in the harvested thickets

By His permission meaning: by His knowledge and judgment until you failed meaning: you became cowardly and weak. It was said: The answer to until is omitted, meaning: you were tested. Al-Farra' said: The answer to until is his saying and you disputed and the waw is an intrusive addition like his saying then when they both submitted and he laid him down on his forehead Abu Ali said: It is possible that the answer is that he turned you away from them. It was said that there is an inversion of it: meaning until when you disputed and disobeyed, you failed. It was said: The answer is you disobeyed, and the waw is an intrusive addition. Al-Akhfash permitted something similar in the saying of God Almighty: until when the earth, vast as it is, became strait for them and narrowed for them, and it was said: until means until, and then there is no answer for it. The dispute mentioned is what happened from the archers when some of them said: We will catch up with the spoils, and some of them said: We will remain in our place as the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, commanded us. The meaning of his statement, After He showed you what you love, is what happened to them of victory in the beginning on the Day of Uhud, as mentioned above. Among you are those who desire this world, meaning the spoils. And among you are those who desire the Hereafter, meaning the reward for remaining in their positions in compliance with the command of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. Then He turned you away from them to test you, meaning God turned you away from them by defeat after you had taken control of them, to test you. And He has pardoned you, because He knew of your remorse, so He did not eradicate you after your disobedience and opposition. The address is to all those who were defeated, and it was said: to the archers only.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

152- The Almighty said: And God has fulfilled His promise to you. Muhammad bin Ka'b Al-Qurazi said: When the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his companions returned to Medina from Uhud, and what had befallen them had befallen them, some of his companions said: Where did this come from? And God has promised us victory. So God Almighty revealed:

And God has fulfilled His promise to you with victory and triumph, that is, victory and triumph were for the Muslims at the beginning, when you were attacking them by His permission that is, the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, placed Uhud behind his back and faced Medina and placed Aynin, which is a mountain, on his left and stationed archers on it and put Abdullah bin Jubair in charge of them, and said to them: Protect our backs, and if you see us taking spoils, do not share with us, and if you see us being killed, do not help us, and the polytheists came and began fighting, and the archers began to shoot arrows at the horses of the polytheists, and the Muslims struck them with swords, until they turned and fled, so that is what God the Almighty said when you were attacking them by His permission meaning you killed them in a terrible killing by the decree of God.

Abu Ubaidah said: The sense is the eradication by killing.

Until you fail means: if you are cowardly. It was said that its meaning is: when you fail, and dispute over the matter and disobey. The waw is redundant in and dispute over, meaning: until if you fail, you dispute. It was said that there is an advancement and delay in it, its meaning: until if you dispute over the matter and disobey, you fail. The meaning of dispute is disagreement.

Their disagreement was that the archers disagreed when the polytheists were defeated. Some of them said: The people have been defeated, so what is our position? And they turned to the spoils. Some of them said: Do not exceed the command of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. Abdullah bin Jubair remained steadfast with a small group of less than ten.

When Khalid bin Al-Walid and Ikrimah bin Abi Jahl saw that, they attacked the archers and killed Abdullah bin Jubair and his companions. They turned towards the Muslims and the wind changed and became a gale after it had been pouring. The ranks of the Muslims fell apart and they mixed together and began to kill without any sign, striking each other in shock. Satan cried out that Muhammad had been killed, and that was the reason for the defeat of the Muslims.

God the Almighty said: And you disobeyed meaning: the Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, and you disobeyed his command, after He had shown you God what you love O group of Muslims of victory and spoils, among you are those who desire this world meaning: those who left the position and turned to plunder, and among you are those who desire the Hereafter meaning: those who stood firm with Abdullah bin Jubair until they were killed. Abdullah bin Masoud said: I did not feel that any of the companions of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, wanted this world until the day of Uhud, and this verse was revealed: Then He turned you away from them meaning: He turned you back from them with defeat, to test you to examine you, and it was said: to bring down the affliction upon you, and He has pardoned you meaning He did not eradicate you after the disobedience and disobedience, and God is full of bounty to the believers.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

152 And God has fulfilled His promise to you meaning, He promised you victory on condition of piety and patience, and this was the case until the archers disagreed. When the polytheists approached, the archers began to shoot arrows at them, while the rest struck them with swords until they were defeated and the Muslims were on their heels. When you were killing them by His permission you were killing them, from His sense if he invalidated his sense. Until when you were weak you became cowardly and your opinion weakened, or you turned to the spoils, for greed is from weakness of mind. And you disputed about the matter means the archers differed when the polytheists were defeated. Some of them said, What is our position here? Others said, We will not disobey the command of the Messenger. So their leader remained in his place with a group of less than ten, and the rest went out to plunder, which is what is meant by His statement, And you disobeyed after He had shown you what you love of victory and spoils and the defeat of the enemy. The answer to if is omitted, which is He tested you. Among you are those who desire this world and they are those who leave the center for the spoils. And among you are those who desire the Hereafter and they are those who are steadfast in preserving the command of the Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace. Then He turned you away from them then He restrained you from them until the situation changed and they overcame you. To test you for the calamities and to test your steadfastness in faith at that time. And He has pardoned you out of favor and because He knows of your regret for disobeying. And God is full of bounty to the believers He favors them with pardon, or in all circumstances, whether He has given them or against them, since testing is also mercy.

Surat Al Imran 3:152

And God has already fulfilled His promise to you when you were oppressing them by His permission until you lost heart and disputed in the matter and disobeyed after He had shown you what you love - among you are those who desire this world and among you are those who desire the Hereafter. Then He turned you away from them to test you; and He has certainly pardoned you, and God is full of bounty to the believers.

Surat Al Imran 3:153

When you were ascending and did not look back at anyone, and the Messenger was calling you from behind you. So He rewarded you with grief for grief, so that you would not grieve over what had escaped you or what had befallen you. And God is Acquainted with what you do.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

Remember when you ascended far away in the land, fleeing and did not turn back did not deviate to anyone, and the Messenger was calling you from behind you that is, from behind you, saying: To me, servants of God and He rewarded you so He recompensed you with grief with defeat with grief because of your grief for the Messenger for disobeying him. It was said that the ba' has the meaning of upon, that is, doubled over the grief of missing the spoils so that related to pardon or to reward you you would not grieve over what you missed of the spoils nor over what befell you of killing and defeat and God is Acquainted with what you do.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: By that, may His praise be glorified, He means: And He has pardoned you, O believers, since He did not uproot you in order to destroy you and gather you together because of your sins and your flight, when you ascended and did not turn back to anyone.

There are different readings of this.

The majority of the reciters of the Hijaz, Iraq and the Levant, except for Al-Hasan Al-Basri, read it as idh ta'as'dun with a damma on the ta' and a kasra on the 'ayn. This is the reading according to us, because the majority of the reciters have agreed on reading it with this reading, and they have denounced anything that contradicts it.

It was narrated on the authority of Al-Hasan Al-Basri that he used to read it: When you ascend, with the opening of the ta' and the 'ayn.

Ahmad bin Yusuf told me that, he said, Al-Qasim bin Salam told us, he said, Hajjaj told us, on the authority of Harun, on the authority of Yunus bin Ubaid, on the authority of Al-Hasan.

As for those who read tas'adun with a damma on the ta' and a kasra on the 'ayn, they directed the meaning of that to the fact that when the people were defeated by their enemy, they took to the valley, fleeing.

They mentioned that this is in Abu's reading: When you ascend in the valley.

Ahmad bin Yusuf told us [that], he said, Abu Ubaid told us, he said, Hajjaj told us, on the authority of Harun.

They said: Fleeing at ground level, in valleys and ravines is an ascent, not an ascent. They said: Ascending is only on mountains, ladders and stairs, because the meaning of ascending is rising and rising above something.

They said: As for taking the ground level and descending, it is an ascent, just as it is said: We ascended from Mecca, if you began traveling from it and leaving, and we ascended from Kufa to Khorasan, meaning: We left it traveling to it, and we began leaving from it to it.

They said: The interpretation of most of the interpreters is that the people were taken by their enemy in the valley when they were defeated.

Who said that?

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada: And do not turn back to anyone, that was on the day of Uhud. They went up into the valley fleeing, and the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was calling them at the back: To the servants of God, to the servants of God!

Abu Ja'far said: As for Al-Hasan, I think that he went in his reading: When you ascend with the opening of the ta' and the 'ayn, to the point that when the people were defeated by the polytheists, they ascended the mountain. A number of the people of interpretation have said that.

Who said that?

Muhammad ibn al-Husayn told us, Ahmad told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of al-Suddi, who said: "When the polytheists rose up against the Muslims at Uhud and defeated them, some of them entered the city, and some of them set out on the mountain to the rock and stood on it. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, began calling the al-Nas 114: 'To the servants of God, to the servants of God.' God mentioned their ascent to the mountain, then He mentioned the supplication of the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, to them, and He said: 'When you ascended and did not turn back to anyone, and the Messenger was calling you from behind you.'"

Muhammad bin Amr told me, he said, Abu Asim told us, on the authority of Isa, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, he said: They withdrew to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and they began to turn away on the mountain, and the Messenger was calling them from behind them.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Abu Hudhayfah told us, he said, Shibl told us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, similarly. Al-Qasim told us, he said, Al-Husayn told us, he said, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, he said, Ibn Abbas said, regarding his statement: When you were ascending and did not look back at anyone, he said, they ascended to Uhud fleeing.

Abu Ja'far said: We have mentioned that the first of the two readings is correct, the reading of those who read: When you ascend, with a damma on the ta' and

Surat Al Imran 3:153

When you were ascending and did not look back at anyone, and the Messenger was calling you from behind you. So He rewarded you with grief for grief, so that you would not grieve over what had escaped you or what had befallen you. And God is Acquainted with what you do.

a kasra on the 'ayn, meaning: racing and fleeing at ground level or in the descents, because the hujjah has agreed that this is the correct reading. In their consensus on this, there is clear evidence that the first of the two interpretations of the verse is the interpretation of those who said: They ascended into the valley and proceeded in it, rather than the saying of those who said: They turned back on the mountain.

Abu Ja'far said: As for his saying: And do not turn to anyone, he means: Do not turn to anyone among you, and do not turn to one another, fleeing from your enemy ascending into the valley.

What he means by his saying: And the Messenger calls you to your rear, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, calls you, O believers in him from among his companions, to your rear, meaning: He calls you from behind you: To the servants of God, to the servants of God! Just as:

Al-Qasim told us, Al-Hussein told us, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, who said, Ibn Abbas said: And the Messenger calls you in your afterlife, to the servants of God, return, to the servants of God, return!

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada: And the Messenger calls you to your rear, they saw the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, calling them: To me, servants of God!

Muhammad bin Al-Hussein told us, he said, Ahmad told us, he said, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi, similarly.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq, he said: God warned them to flee from their Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, while he was calling them, and they did not show sympathy for him because of his calling them, so He said: When you were ascending and did not turn back to anyone, and the Messenger was calling you from behind you.

Yunus told me, he said, Ibn Wahb told us, he said, Ibn Zayd said regarding his statement: And the Messenger calls you to your rear, this was on the day of Uhud when the people turned away from him.

Abu Ja'far said: What He, the Most High, means by His saying: So He rewarded you with grief for grief, is: So He rewarded you for fleeing from your Prophet, failing to confront your enemy, and disobeying your Lord, grief for grief, meaning: grief upon grief.

And he called the punishment with which he inflicted upon them, by giving their enemy power over them until he gained from them what he gained a reward, since it was a compensation for their work that angered him and was not pleased with them. Thus, may His praise be glorified, he indicated that every compensation that was given to someone for something of work, whether good or bad, or the compensation that a man gave to a man, or a hand that he extended to him, then it is deserving of the name reward, whether that compensation was an honor or a punishment. Similar to that is the saying of the poet:

I fear that Ziyad's gift may have been given to them black or brown.

So he made giving restrictions. This is like what someone says to another who has done something unpleasant to him: I will reward you for your action and give you your reward.

As for his saying: Grief upon grief, it was said: Grief upon grief, meaning: grief upon grief, just as it was said: And I will crucify you on the trunks of palm trees (Ta-Ha 20:71), meaning: And I will crucify you on the trunks of palm trees. This is permissible because the meaning of the speaker's saying: May God reward you grief upon grief, is May God reward you grief after grief that preceded it. So the meaning of: So He rewarded you grief upon grief, because its meaning is: May God reward you grief after grief that preceded it. It is similar to the speaker's saying: I descended upon the Banu so-and-so, and I descended upon the Banu so-and-so, and I struck him with the sword and on the sword.

The people of interpretation differed about the grief that the people were rewarded for their grief, and what was their first and second grief?

Some of them said: As for the first sorrow, it was what the people were saying, that their Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, had been killed. As for the other gossip, it was what had befallen them of killing and wounds.

Who said that?

Bishr told us, Yazid told us, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada: So He rewarded you with grief for grief, they were talking on that day that the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, had been wounded, and the other grief was the killing of their companions and the wounds that had befallen them. He said: And it was mentioned to us that seventy men of the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, were killed on that day, sixty-six men from the Ansar and four from the Muhajireen. And His saying, So that you may not grieve over what has escaped you, means what you have missed of the spoils of the people, nor what has befallen you, in yourselves of killing and wounds.

Muhammad ibn Amr told me, he said, Abu Asim told us, on the authority of Isa, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding his statement: So He rewarded you with grief after grief, he said: One panic after another: the first when they heard the voice that Muhammad had been killed, and the second when the infidels returned, so they struck them as they fled, until they killed seventy men of them, then they withdrew to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and they began to climb the mountain, and the Messenger was calling them at the back of them.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Abu Hudhayfah told us, he said, Shibl told us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, similarly. And others said: Rather, their first grief was because of the killing of those among them who were killed and the wounding of those among them who were wounded. And the second grief was from hearing the voice of the one who said: Muhammad has been killed, because he was bitten by them.

Who said that?

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said: Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said: Muammad told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: grief for grief, he said: The first grief was the wounds and killing, and the second grief was when they heard that the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, had been killed. So the second grief made them forget what had befallen them of wounds and killing, and what they had hoped for of the spoils, and that was when He said: So that you may not grieve over what has escaped you or over what has befallen you.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Ishaq told us, he said, Abdullah bin Abi Ja'far told us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-Rabi': So He rewarded you with grief for grief, he said: The first grief was the wounds and killing, and the second grief was when they heard that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, had been killed. So the second grief made them forget what had befallen them of wounds and killing, and what they had hoped for of the spoils, and that was when God said: So that you may not grieve over what has escaped you or over what has befallen you.

Others said: Rather, the first grief was the conquest and spoils they had missed, and the second was Abu Sufyan's supervision of them in the ravine. This is because Abu Sufyan - according to what some of the biographers claim - when he inflicted on the Muslims what he inflicted, and the Muslims fled, he came until he supervised them and among them was the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, in the ravine of Uhud, to which they had fled when they were defeated, and they feared that Abu Sufyan and his companions would crush them.

The report mentioned that:

Muhammad ibn al-Husayn narrated, Ahmad ibn al-Mufaddal narrated, Asbat narrated, on the authority of al-Suddi, who said: The Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) set out that day calling the people until he reached the Companions of the Rock. When they saw him, a man put an arrow in his bow and wanted to shoot it, but he said: I am the Messenger of God! They were happy when they found the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) alive, and the Messenger of God was happy when he saw that there were those among his Companions who could resist. When they gathered and the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) was among them, and their sorrow had subsided, they began to mention the conquest and what they had missed of it, and to mention their Companions who had been killed. Abu Sufyan approached until he looked down upon them, and when they looked at him, they forgot what they had been doing, and Abu Sufyan was worried. The Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) said: They have no right to prevail over us. O God, if you kill this group, you will not be worshipped! Then he called upon his Companions and they threw stones at them until they brought them down. And Abu Sufyan said that day: Subdue Hubal! Hanzala for Hanzala, and one day for another in Badr! And they killed that day Hanzala bin Al-Rahib, who was in a state of ritual impurity, so the angels washed him. And Hanzala bin Abi Sufyan was killed on the day of Badr, and Abu Sufyan said: We have Al-Uzza, and you have no Uzza! Then the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to Umar: Say: God is our Master, and you have no Master! Abu Sufyan said: Is Muhammad among you? They said: Yes! He said: Indeed, there was a mutilation among you, which I did not command or forbid, and it did not please me nor did it displease me! Then God mentioned Abu Sufyan's supervision of them, saying: So He rewarded you with grief for grief, that you might not grieve over what escaped you or what befell you. The first grief was what they missed of the spoils and conquest, and the second grief was the enemy's supervision of them, that you might not grieve over what escaped you, of the spoils, or what befell you, of killing when you remembered. So Abu Sufyan distracted them.

Ibn Humayd narrated to us, he said: Salamah narrated to us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq, he said: Ibn Shihab al-Zuhri narrated to me, and Muhammad ibn Yahya ibn Habbab, and Asim ibn Umar ibn Qatada, and al-Husayn ibn Abd al-Rahman ibn Amr ibn Sa'd ibn Mu'adh, and others from our scholars, in what they mentioned from the hadith of Uhud, they said: The Muslims on that day - because of the severe calamity that befell them - were in thirds: a third killed, a third wounded, and a third defeated. The war had reached them until they did not know what to do, until the enemy reached the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and he threw stones until he fell on his side, and his front tooth was injured, and his face was cut, and his lip was wounded. The one who was wounded was Utbah ibn Abi Waqqas, and Mus'ab ibn Umair fought in defense of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and he had his standard with him until he was killed. The one who was wounded was Ibn Qumay'ah al-Laythi, and he thought that he was the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, so he returned to the Quraysh and said: I have killed Muhammad.

Ibn Humayd narrated, he said: Salamah narrated, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq, he said: The first one to recognize the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, after the defeat and the people saying: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, has been killed - as Ibn Humayd narrated, he said: Salamah narrated, on the authority of Muhammad ibn Ishaq, he said: Ibn Shihab al-Zuhri narrated to me - was Ka'b ibn Malik, the brother of Banu Salamah, he said: I recognized his eyes shining under the helmet, so I called out at the top of my voice: O group of Muslims, be glad, this is the Messenger of

Surat Al Imran 3:153

When you were ascending and did not look back at anyone, and the Messenger was calling you from behind you. So He rewarded you with grief for grief, so that you would not grieve over what had escaped you or what had befallen you. And God is Acquainted with what you do.

God, may God bless him and grant him peace. The Messenger of God motioned to me to be quiet. When the Muslims recognized the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, they rose up with him, and he rose up towards the ravine, with him were Ali ibn Abi Talib, Abu Bakr ibn Abi Quhafah, Umar ibn al-Khattab, Talhah ibn Ubaydullah, al-Zubayr ibn al-Awwam, and al-Harith ibn al-Summa, with a group of Muslims.

He said: While the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) was in the valley with those men from his companions, a high mountain of Quraysh climbed the mountain. "The Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) said: O God, it is not right for them to climb us!" So Umar ibn al-Khattab and a group of the Muhajireen fought with him until they were forced down from the mountain. The Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) went to a rock on the mountain to climb it. The Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) had become fat, so he appeared between two coats of mail. When he went to climb but could not, Talha ibn Ubaydullah sat beneath him, so he climbed until he was on top of it.

Then, when Abu Sufyan wanted to leave, he looked out over the mountain and shouted at the top of his voice: "Well done! War is a contest, one day for another. Make Hubal victorious." The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to Umar: "Get up and answer him, and say: 'God is higher and more sublime! They are not equal! Our dead are in Paradise and your dead are in Hellfire!'" When Umar, may God be pleased with him, answered Abu Sufyan, Abu Sufyan said to him: Come to me, Umar! The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to him: Go to him and see what is wrong with him. So he came to him, and Abu Sufyan said to him: I ask you by God, Umar, did we kill Muhammad? Umar said: By God, no, and he was listening. You are more truthful to me than Ibn Qami'ah and more pious. Ibn Qami'ah told them: I killed Muhammad. Then Abu Sufyan called out and said: There has been an example of your dead, and by God, I am neither pleased nor angry, nor have I forbidden nor commanded.

Ibn Humayd told us, Salamah told us, Ibn Ishaq told me: So He rewarded you with grief after grief, so that you would not grieve over what had escaped you or what had befallen you, meaning: distress after distress, the killing of those of your brothers who were killed, the dominance of your enemy over you, and what had occurred to you from the saying of those who said: Your Prophet was killed, so that was what had happened to you, grief after grief, so that you would not grieve over what had escaped you, of your victory over your enemy after you had seen him with your own eyes, or what had befallen you, of the killing of your brothers, until that distress was relieved from you, and God is Acquainted with what you do, and what relieved them of the distress and grief that had befallen them was that God Almighty repelled from them the lie of Satan by killing their Prophet. When they saw the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, alive among them, they felt light-hearted about what they had missed from the people after their victory over them, and the calamity that had befallen them in their brothers, when God had averted the killing of their Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace.

Al-Qasim narrated to us, he said, Al-Husayn narrated to us, he said, Hajjaj narrated to me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj: So He rewarded you with grief for grief, Ibn Jurayj said, Mujahid said: The people were afflicted with grief and sorrow over what had befallen them in their companions who had been killed. So when they entered the ravine and they were afflicted, Abu Sufyan and his companions stopped at the gate of the ravine, and the believers thought that they would attack them and kill them as well, so they were afflicted with grief over that as well, which made them forget their grief over their companions. That is what His statement: So He rewarded you with grief for grief that you might not grieve over what had escaped you, Ibn Jurayj said, His statement: for what had escaped you, means: for what you had missed of the spoils of the people, nor for what had befallen you, in yourselves.

Al-Qasim narrated to us, Al-Hussein narrated to us, Hajjaj narrated to me on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, who said: Abdullah bin Kathir informed me, on the authority of Ubaid bin Umair, who said: Abu Sufyan bin Harb and those with him came and stopped at the ravine, then he called out: Is Ibn Abi Kabsha among the people? They were silent. Abu Sufyan said: He was killed, by the Lord of the Kaaba! Then he said: Is Ibn Abi Quhafah among the people? They were silent. Then he said: He was killed, by the Lord of the Kaaba! Then he said: Is Umar bin Al-Khattab among the people? They were silent. Then he said: He was killed, by the Lord of the Kaaba! Then Abu Sufyan said: Hubal is exalted, one day for the day of Badr, and Hanzala for Hanzala, and you will find a proverb among the people, it was not according to the opinion of our leaders and best, and we did not dislike it when we saw it! So the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to Umar bin Al-Khattab: Get up and call out and say: God is Most High and Most Majestic! Yes, this is the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and this is Abu Bakr, and here I am! The companions of Hellfire and the companions of Paradise are not equal. The companions of Paradise are the winners. Our dead are in Paradise, and your dead are in Hellfire!

Others said about this, including:

Muhammad ibn Sa'd told me, he said, my father told me, he said, my uncle told me, he said, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn 'Abbas: When you were ascending and not turning back to anyone, and the Messenger was calling you from behind you, so they returned and said: By God, we will come to them and kill them! They have been wounded by us! The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Wait, for what has befallen you has only befallen you because you disobeyed me! While they were like that, the people came to them, fully armed and having drawn their swords. So there was the grief of defeat, and their grief when they came to them, so that you would not grieve for what escaped you, of killing, nor for what befell you, of wounds, so He rewarded you with grief for grief, so that you would not grieve, the verse, and it was the day of Uhud.

Abu Ja'far said: The most correct of these sayings in interpreting the verse is the saying of the one who said: The meaning of His statement, So He rewarded you with grief for grief, is, O believers, by God depriving you of the spoils of the polytheists and the victory and triumph over them, and what befell you of killing and wounding on that day - after He had shown you in all of that what you loved - because of your disobedience to your Lord and your opposition to the command of your Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, the grief of your thinking that your Prophet was killed, and the enemy's turning against you after your remnants from them.

What indicates that this is more appropriate for the interpretation of the verse than what contradicts it is His statement: So that you may not grieve over what has escaped you or what has befallen you. And what has escaped is undoubtedly what they hoped to attain from others, either from victory over them by defeating them, or from spoils that they would seize. And His statement: nor what has befallen you, is what has befallen them: either in their bodies or in their brothers.

If that is the case, then it is known that the second grief has a meaning other than these two. Because God Almighty informed His believing servants from the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, that He rewarded them grief for grief so that they would not be saddened by what befell them of grief arising from what they missed from others, nor by what had befallen them before that in themselves, which is the first grief, as we have explained before.

As for his saying: So that you may not grieve over what has escaped you or what has befallen you, its interpretation is as I have explained, that it is: So that you may not grieve over what has escaped you, for you did not attain what you were hoping to attain from your enemy by defeating them and prevailing, and taking possession of their spoils, nor what has befallen you, in yourselves, of the wounding of those who were wounded and the killing of those who were killed from among your brothers.

We have mentioned the differences of the people of interpretation regarding it before, regarding the way in which they differed, as:

Yunus told us, he said, Ibn Wahb told us, he said, Ibn Zayd said regarding His statement: So that you may not grieve over what has escaped you or what has befallen you, he said: Over what you have missed of the spoils that you were hoping for, and do not grieve over what has befallen you, of defeat.

As for His statement: And God is All-Knowing of what you do, He, the Most High, means: God, with regard to what you do, O believers - from your ascent into the valley fleeing from your enemy, your defeat by them, your abandonment of your Prophet while he was calling you in your rear, and your grief over what you have missed from your enemy and what has befallen you in yourselves - is All-Knowing and All-Aware, and He is recording all of that for you, until He rewards you for it: the good among you for his good, and the evildoer for his evil, or He pardons him.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

God Almighty says: "When you were ascending and did not look back at anyone, and the Messenger was calling you from behind you, then He rewarded you with grief for grief, so that you would not grieve over what had escaped you or what had befallen you. And God is Acquainted with what you do."

Idh is related to His saying, And He has pardoned you. The general reading is tas'adun with a damma on the ta' and a kasra on the 'ayn. Abu Raja' al-Attardi, Abu Abd al-Rahman al-Sulami, al-Hasan, and Qatadah read with a fatha on the ta' and the 'ayn, meaning you ascend the mountain. Ibn Muhaisin and Shibl read idh yas'adun wa la yalwan with a ya' in both of them. Al-Hasan read talawun with one waw. Abu Bakr ibn 'Ayyash narrated from 'Issam wa la tulwan with a damma on the ta', and it is an irregular language mentioned by al-Nahhas. Abu Hatim said: As'adat means you proceed in front of your face, and ascended means you climb a mountain or other than it. Ascending means walking on a level ground, valleys, and ravines, and ascending means rising on mountains, roofs, ladders, and stairs. It is possible that their ascension on the mountain was after their ascension in the valley, so the meaning is correct according to the reading tas'adun and tas'adun. Qatadah and al-Rabi' said: They ascended on the day of Uhud in the valley. And the reading of Abu when you ascend in the valley Ibn Abbas said: They ascended in Uhud fleeing, so both readings are correct: On that day there were among the defeated ascending and rising, and God knows best. Al-Qutbi and Al-Mubarrad said: Ascending means going far and deep in it, so ascending is as if going far into the ground like going far in height. The poet said:

Oh you who ask, where have you ascended? For there is an appointment for you in the valley of Yathrib.

Al-Farra' said: Ascending is the beginning of a journey, and descending is the return from it. It is said: We ascended from Baghdad to Mecca and to Khorasan and the like, if we went out to them and began the journey, and we descended if we returned. Abu Ubaidah recited:

You were crying over the ascent, but today you went out and the driver shouted

Al-Mufaddal said: Ascended, ascended, and ascended have the same meaning. The meaning of twilwan is that you limp and stay, meaning that some of you do not turn to others in order to flee, for the one who ascends to something turns his neck or the reins of his mount to it. On one means Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace. Al-Kalbi said: And the Messenger calls you in your rear, meaning in your rear. It is said: So-and-so came in the rear of the people, the rear of the people, the rear of the people, and the rear of the people. In Al-Bukhari your rear is the feminine of your rear. Amr bin Khalid told us, Zuhair told us, Abu Ishaq told us, he heard Al-Bara' bin Azib say: The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, appointed Abdullah bin Jubair as commander of the infantry on the day of Uhud, and they returned defeated. That was when the Messenger called them in their rear, and there remained with the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, only twelve men. Ibn Abbas and others said: "The supplication of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, was: O servants of God, go back," and his supplication was to change the evil, and it is impossible for him, peace be upon him, to see the evil while he was Defeat and then not forbid it.

When you were ascending and did not look back at anyone, and the Messenger was calling you from behind you. So He rewarded you with grief for grief, so that you would not grieve over what had escaped you or what had befallen you. And God is Acquainted with what you do.

I said: This is on the condition that defeat is a sin, and it is not so, as will be explained, God willing.

God the Almighty said: So He rewarded you with grief for grief. In the language, grief means covering. I covered something, and a day of grief and a night of grief if they were dark. From this comes the grief of the crescent moon if it is not seen, and the matter grieves me. Mujahid, Qatada and others said: The first grief is the killing and wounds, and the second grief is the rumor of the killing of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, when Satan shouted about it. It was said: The first grief is what they missed of victory and booty, and the second is what happened to them of killing and defeat. It was said: The first grief is the defeat, and the second is Abu Sufyan and Khalid looking down on them in the mountain. When the Muslims looked at them, that grieved them, and they thought that they would attack them and kill them, but this made them forget what had happened to them. At that time, the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: O God, do not announce it upon us, as mentioned above. The ba in bagham in this way means upon, and it was said: It is in its proper form, and the meaning is that they grieved the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, by disobeying him, so He rewarded them with their grief for those who were afflicted among them. Al-Hasan said: So He rewarded you with grief on the day of Uhud with grief on the day of Badr for the polytheists. He called grief a reward just as He called the punishment for sin a sin. It was said: God made them stand on their sin, so they were distracted by that from what had befallen them.

His saying: "So that you may not grieve over what has escaped you or what has befallen you. And God is Acquainted with what you do." The lam is related to His saying: And He has pardoned you. It was said: It is related to His saying: Then He rewarded you with grief for grief. That is, this grief was so that you would not grieve over what had escaped you of the spoils, or what had befallen you of defeat. The first is better. The ma in His saying What befell you is in the accusative case. It was said: La is a conjunction, that is, so that you may grieve over what has escaped you and what has befallen you as a punishment for your disobedience to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. It is like His saying: What prevented you from not prostrating when I commanded you? (al-A'raf 7:12), that is, from prostrating. His saying: So that the People of the Scripture would not know? (al-Hadid 57:29), that is, so that he would know. This is the saying of al-Mufaddal. It was said: He meant by His saying: Then He rewarded you with grief for grief that is, griefs followed one after the other, so that you would not be preoccupied after this with the spoils. And God is Acquainted with what you do. In it is the meaning of warning and threat.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The Almighty warns His believing servants against obeying the disbelievers and hypocrites, for obeying them brings ruin in this world and the Hereafter. That is why the Almighty said: If you obey those who disbelieve, they will turn you back on your heels, and you will become losers. Then He commanded them to obey Him, befriend Him, seek His help, and put their trust in Him. The Almighty said: Rather, God is your Protector, and He is the best of helpers. Then He gave them good report that He will cast fear of them and humiliation into the hearts of their enemies because of their disbelief and polytheism, along with what He has stored up for them in the Hereafter of torment and punishment. He said: "We will cast terror into the hearts of those who disbelieve because they have associated with God that for which He has not sent down any authority. Their refuge is the Fire, and wretched is the residence of the wrongdoers." It has been proven in the two Sahihs on the authority of Jabir ibn Abdullah that the Messenger of God said: "I have been given five things that were not given to any of the prophets before me: I have been aided by terror for a distance of a month's journey, the earth has been made a place of prostration and purification for me, and spoils of war have been made lawful for me." And I was given intercession, and the Prophet was sent to his people in particular, and I was sent to all people." Imam Ahmad said: Muhammad bin Abi Uday told us, on the authority of Sulayman al-Taymi, on the authority of Sayyar, on the authority of Abu Umamah, that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "My Lord has favored me over the prophets - or he said over the nations - in four things: He said: I was sent to all people, and the entire earth was made for me and for my nation a place of prostration and purification, so wherever a man of my nation finds prayer, his place of prostration and purification is with him, and I was aided by terror for a month's journey, which he casts into the hearts of my enemies, and spoils of war were made lawful for me."

Al-Tirmidhi narrated it from the hadith of Sulayman al-Taymi, on the authority of Sayyar al-Qurashi al-Umawi, their client from Damascus, who lived in Basra, on the authority of Abu Umamah Sadi bin Ajlan, may God be pleased with him, with it, and he said: It is good and authentic. Saeed bin Mansour said: Ibn Wahb informed us, Amr bin al-Harith informed me that Abu Yunus told him, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: I was aided by terror against the enemy. Muslim narrated it from the hadith of Ibn Wahb. Imam Ahmad said: Husayn ibn Muhammad told us, Isra'il told us, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Abu Burdah, on the authority of his father Abu Musa, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "I was given five things: I was sent to the red and the black, the earth was made pure for me and a place of prostration, spoils of war were made lawful for me but were not made lawful for those before me, I was aided by terror for a month, and I was given intercession, and there is no prophet who did not ask for his intercession. I kept my intercession hidden and then made it for whoever died not associating anything with God." Ahmad alone narrated it. Al-Awfi narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas regarding the words of God, the Most High: We will cast terror into the hearts of those who disbelieve, that God cast terror into the heart of Abu Sufyan, so he returned to Mecca. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Abu Sufyan has indeed taken a part of you, and he has returned and God has cast terror into his heart. Narrated by Ibn Abi Hatim. And the Almighty said: And God has fulfilled His promise to you when you were killing them by His permission. Ibn Abbas said: God promised them victory. This verse may be used as evidence for one of the two previous sayings in the Almighty's saying: "When you said to the believers, 'Is it not sufficient for you that your Lord should reinforce you with three thousand angels sent down?' Yes, if you are patient and fear God and they come to you at once, your Lord will reinforce you with five thousand angels with marks." That was on the day of Uhud, because their enemy was three thousand fighters. When they confronted them, victory and triumph were at the beginning of the day for Islam. When what happened of the disobedience of the archers and the failure of some of the fighters, the promise that was conditional on steadfastness and obedience was delayed. For this reason, He said: And God has fulfilled His promise to you, meaning at the beginning of the day, when you were killing them, meaning killing them, by His permission, meaning by His giving you power over them, until you failed. Ibn Jurayj said: Ibn Abbas said: Failure is cowardice. And you disputed about the matter and disobeyed, as happened to the archers, after what happened. "I saw you as you love" which is the victory over them among you are those who desire this world and they are those who desired the spoils when they saw the defeat "and among you are those who desire the Hereafter. Then He turned you away from them to test you" then He made them prevail over you to test you and examine you and He has certainly pardoned you meaning He forgave you for that action, and that, and God knows best, is due to the large number of the enemy and their numbers and the small number of the Muslims and their numbers. Ibn Jurayj said: His statement and He has certainly pardoned you he said: He did not eradicate you, and Muhammad ibn Ishaq said the same: Ibn Jarir narrated them both and God is full of bounty to the believers and Imam Ahmad said: Sulayman ibn Dawud told us, Abd al-Rahman ibn Abi al-Zinad told us on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ubaydullah on the authority of Ibn Abbas that he said: God has not given victory in a place like He gave victory on the day of Uhud, he said: So we denied that, and Ibn Abbas said: Between me and those who denied that is the Book of God, that God says on the day of Uhud and God had fulfilled His promise to you when you were killing them with His permission Ibn Abbas and al-Hasan say: killing until you failed and disputed In the matter and you disobeyed after He showed you what you love. Among you are those who desire this world and among you are those who desire the Hereafter. The verse, and what he meant by this were the archers, and that is because the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, stationed them in a place and then said: "Protect our backs. If you see us being killed, do not help us, and if you see us having taken spoils, do not share with us." So when the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, took spoils and allowed the camp of the polytheists to be invaded, the archers all rushed into the camp to plunder. The ranks of the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, met like this - and he interlaced his hands - and they took refuge. When the archers left that position they were in, the horses entered from that place upon the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and they struck each other, and they became confused and many Muslims were killed. Victory was for the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his companions at the beginning of the day until seven or nine of the standard-bearers of the polytheists were killed. The Muslims moved around towards the mountain, and they did not reach where people say the cave is, but they were under the hammer, and Satan cried out: Muhammad has been killed. They did not doubt that it was true, and we continued to do so, not doubting that it was true, until the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, appeared between the two Sa'dains. We recognized him by his glance when he walked. He said: We were so happy that it was as if what had happened to us had not happened to us. He said: He climbed towards us and he was saying: The wrath of God has intensified against a people who bloodied the face of the Messenger of God, and he said again: O God, they cannot surpass us, until he reached us. He remained for an hour, and then Abu Sufyan shouted at the bottom of the mountain: High is Hubal - twice, meaning his god - Where is the son of Abu Kabsha? Where is the son of Abu Quhafah? Where is the son of Ibn al-Khattab? Umar, may God be pleased with him, said: O Messenger of God, should I not answer him? He said: Yes. When he said: High is Hubal, Umar said: God is Most High and Most Majestic. Abu Sufyan said: Her eye has been comforted, so he turned away from it or something else. He said: Where is the son of Abu Kabsha? Where is the son of Abu Quhafah? Where is the son of Ibn al-Khattab? Umar said: "This is the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and this is Abu Bakr, and here I am Umar." He said: Abu Sufyan said, A day for the day of Badr, the days are cycles, and war is a game of chance. He said: Umar said: They are not the same, our dead are in Paradise, and your dead are in Hell. He said: You claim that, so we have failed and lost. Abu Sufyan said: You will find mutilation among your dead. And that was not according to the opinion of our leaders. He said: Then the zeal of the Age of Ignorance overtook him, so he said: If that was the case, we would not hate him. This is a strange hadith with a strange context, and it is from the mursals of Ibn Abbas, for no one witnessed it, nor his father. Al-Hakim included it in his Mustadrak on the authority of Abu al-Nadr al-Faqih, on the authority of Uthman ibn Sa'id, on the authority of Salman ibn Dawud ibn Ali ibn Abdullah ibn Abbas, and Ibn Abi Hatim and al-Bayhaqi narrated it in the same way in Dalā'il al-Nubuwwah from the hadith of Sulayman ibn Dawud al-Hashimi. And some of it has corroborating evidence in the Sahihis and elsewhere. Imam Ahmad said: Affan told us, Hammad told us, on the authority of Ata' ibn al-Sa'ib, on the authority of al-Sha'bi, on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud, who said: On the day of Uhud, the women were behind the Muslims, finishing off the wounded polytheists. If I had sworn on that day, I would have hoped to be righteous, for none of us wanted the world, until God revealed: "Among you are those who desire the world, and among you are those who desire the Hereafter. Then He turned you away from them that He might test you." So when the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, disobeyed and disobeyed what they were commanded to do, the Prophet singled them out. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was with nine men: seven from the Ansar, and two men from Quraysh, and he was the tenth of them, may God bless him and grant him peace. When they overwhelmed him, he said: May God have mercy on the man who repelled them from us. Then a man from the Ansar stood up and fought for an hour until he was killed. When they overwhelmed him again, he said: May God have mercy on the man who repelled them from us. He continued saying that until the seven were killed. Then the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to his two companions: We have not been fair to our companions. Then Abu Sufyan came and said: Hubal is superior. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "Say: God is higher and more majestic." They said: God is higher and more majestic. Abu Sufyan said: We have Al-Uzza, and you have no Uzza. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "Say: God is our Master, and the disbelievers have no master." Abu Sufyan said: "A day for the day of Badr. A day against us and a day for us, a day for women and a day for an eagle, Hanzala for Hanzala, so-and-so for so-and-so, and so-and-so for so-and-so." The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: They are not equal. As for our dead, they are alive and provided for, but as for your dead, they are being tortured in Hell. Abu Sufyan said: There was indeed an example among the people, and if he cursed, it was not from among us. I did not command or forbid, I did not like or dislike, it did not upset me or please me. He said: So they looked and saw that Hamza's stomach had been ripped open, and Hind had taken his liver and chewed it but was unable to eat it. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Did you eat something? They said: No. He said: God would not let anything of Hamzah enter the Fire. He said: So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, placed Hamzah and prayed over him, and a man from the Ansar was brought and placed beside him and prayed over him. The Ansar lifted him up and left Hamzah until another was brought and placed beside Hamzah and prayed over him. Then he lifted him up and left Hamzah, until he prayed over him seventy prayers that day. Ahmad also transmitted it alone. Al-Bukhari said: Ubaydullah bin Musa told us on the authority of Israel, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Al-Baraa, who said: We encountered the polytheists on that day and the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, seated an army of archers and put Abdullah bin Jubair in charge of them and said: Do not move. If you see us prevailing over them, do not move. If you see them prevailing over us, do not help us. So when we met them, they fled until I saw the women running hard on the mountain, raising their legs and their anklets showing, and they began to say: The spoils, the spoils. Abdullah bin Jubair said: The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, entrusted me with He (peace be upon him) ordered them not to leave, but they refused. When they refused, they turned their faces away and seventy people were killed. Abu Sufyan looked out and said, Is Muhammad among the people? He said, Do not answer him. He said, Is Ibn Abi Quhafah among the people? He said, Do not answer him. He said, Is Ibn al-Khattab among the people? He said, "These people have been killed. If they were alive, they would have answered." Umar could not control himself and said to him, "You lie, enemy of God. God has left for you that which grieves you." Abu Sufyan said, Have Hubal prevailed. The Prophet (peace be upon him) said, Answer him. They said, What should we say? He said, "Say: God is Most High and Most Majestic." Abu Sufyan said, We have al-Uzza, and you have no Uzza. The Prophet (peace be upon him) said, Answer him. They said, What should we say? He said, "Say: God is our Master, and you have no Master." Abu Sufyan said: A day for the day of Badr, and war is a contest, and you will find a mutilation that I did not command and it did not upset me. Al-Bukhari is the only one to narrate it from this source, then he narrated it from Amr bin Khalid from Zuhair bin Muawiyah, from Abu Ishaq, from Al-Baraa in a similar manner, and he will come with something simpler than this. Al-Bukhari also said: Ubaidullah bin Saeed told us, Abu Usamah told us from Hisham bin Urwah, from his father, from Aisha, may God be pleased with her, who said: When the day of Uhud came, the polytheists were defeated, and Satan cried out: O servants of God, the last of you, so the first of them returned and fought with the last of them, and

When you were ascending and did not look back at anyone, and the Messenger was calling you from behind you. So He rewarded you with grief for grief, so that you would not grieve over what had escaped you or what had befallen you. And God is Acquainted with what you do.

Hudhayfah saw his father Al-Yaman and said: O servants of God, my father, my father. He said: She said: By God, they did not hold back until they killed him, so Hudhayfah said: May God forgive you. Urwah said: By God, there was still good in Hudhayfah until he joined God Almighty. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said: Yahya ibn Abbad ibn Abdullah ibn al-Zubayr told me on the authority of his father on the authority of his grandfather that al-Zubayr ibn al-Awwam said: By God, I saw myself looking at Hind's servants and companions with their sleeves rolled up and running away, neither much nor little was enough to take them. The archers turned towards the army when the people fled from it, wanting to plunder, and our backs were left to the horses, so they came at us from behind, and a crier cried out: Behold, Muhammad has been killed. So we retreated and the people retreated upon us after we had taken the standard-bearers, until no one from the people could come near it. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said: The standard of the polytheists remained fallen until Umrah bint Alqamah al-Harithiya took it and gave it to the Quraysh, so they fought with it. Al-Suddi said, on the authority of Abd al-Khair, who said: Abdullah ibn Mas'ud said: I did not think that any of the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, wanted this world until what was revealed about us on the Day of Uhud was revealed: Among you are those who desire this world and among you are those who desire the Hereafter. It has been narrated from other sources on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud, and it was also narrated on the authority of Abd al-Rahman ibn Awf and Abu Talhah, and Ibn Mardawayh narrated them in his interpretation. And the Almighty's statement: Then He turned you away from them to test you. Ibn Ishaq said: Al-Qasim ibn Abd al-Rahman ibn Rafi', one of the sons of 'Adi ibn al-Najjar, told me: Anas ibn al-Nadr, the uncle of Anas ibn Malik, went to 'Umar ibn al-Khattab and Talhah ibn 'Ubaydullah with some men from the Muhajireen and Ansar who had thrown down what was in their hands, and he said: What will leave you? They said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, has been killed. He said: What will you do with life after him? Then he faced the people and fought until he was killed, may God be pleased with him. Al-Bukhari said: Hassan bin Hassan told us, Muhammad bin Talha told us, Hamid told us on the authority of Anas bin Malik that his uncle, meaning Anas bin Al-Nadr, was absent from Badr and said: I was absent from the first battle of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace. If God makes me witness with the Messenger of God, God will see what I find. So he met the day of Uhud and defeated the people, so he said: O God, I apologize to You for what these people have done - meaning the Muslims - and I disavow before You what the polytheists have brought. So he advanced with his sword and met Saad bin Muadh, so he said: Where, Saad? I find the scent of Paradise before Uhud. So he went and was killed, and he was not recognized until his sister recognized him by a mole on his finger, and he had eighty-odd stab wounds, blows, and arrow wounds. This is the wording of Al-Bukhari. Muslim included it in a similar hadith from Thabit on the authority of Anas. Al-Bukhari also said: Abdun told us, Abu Hamza told us on the authority of Uthman bin Muhab, who said: A man came to perform Hajj to the House of God and saw some people sitting. He said: Who are these sitting? They said: These are Quraysh. He said: Who is the sheikh? They said: Ibn Umar. So he came to him and said: I am going to ask you about something, so tell me. He said: Ask. He said: I ask you by the sanctity of this House, do you know that Uthman ibn Affan fled on the day of Uhud? He said: Yes. He said: Do you know that he was absent from Badr and did not witness it? He said: Yes. He said: Do you know that he stayed away from the Pledge of Ridwan and did not witness it? He said: Yes. So he said: Allahu Akbar. Then Ibn Umar said: Come, so I may tell you and explain to you what you asked me about. As for his escape on the day of Uhud, I bear witness that God has forgiven him. As for his absence from Badr, he was married to the daughter of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and she was sick. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to him: You will have the reward and share of a man who witnessed Badr. As for his absence from the Pledge of Ridwan, if there had been anyone more honorable in the valley of Mecca than Uthman, he would have sent him in his place. So he sent Uthman, and the Pledge of Ridwan took place after Uthman had gone to Mecca. So the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said with his right hand: This is the hand of Uthman, and he struck his hand with it and said: "This is the hand of Uthman. Go with it now." Then Al-Bukhari narrated it from another chain of transmission on the authority of Abu Awanah, on the authority of Uthman ibn Abdullah ibn Muhabb.

God the Almighty said: When you were ascending and not looking back at anyone meaning He turned you away from them while you were ascending, that is, in the mountain, fleeing from your enemies. Al-Hasan and Qatadah read When you were ascending meaning in the mountain, and not looking back at anyone meaning you were not looking back at anyone out of astonishment, fear and terror, and the Messenger is calling you from behind you meaning you had left him behind you calling you to stop fleeing from the enemies, and to return, come back and attack. Al-Suddi said: When the polytheists attacked the Muslims at Uhud and defeated them, some of them entered the city, and some of them went to the mountain on the rock and stood on it. So the Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, began calling the people to the servants of God, to the servants of God. God mentioned their ascension to the mountain, then He mentioned the Prophet's, may God bless him and grant him peace, calling them, saying: When you were ascending and not looking back at anyone, and the Messenger is calling you from behind you. Ibn Abbas, Qatadah, Al-Rabi' and Ibn Zayd said the same. Abdullah bin Al-Zubayr said: He mentions the defeat of the Muslims on the day of Uhud in his poem while he was a polytheist and had not yet converted to Islam, in which he says at the beginning:

O crow of separation, have you heard? Say, for you are only speaking of something that has already been done.

Good and evil have a limit, and both have a face and a face.

Until he said:

Surat Al Imran 3:153

When you were ascending and did not look back at anyone, and the Messenger was calling you from behind you. So He rewarded you with grief for grief, so that you would not grieve over what had escaped you or what had befallen you. And God is Acquainted with what you do.

I wish my elders at Badr had witnessed the Khazraj's fear of the sound of the weapons.

When Quba narrated its ponds and the killing spread to Abd al-Ashel

Then they started dancing, like a camel dancing high up in the mountain.

So we killed twice as many of their nobles and we adjusted the slope of Badr, so it was balanced.

Al-Haffan: small camels. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, had singled out twelve of his companions, as Imam Ahmad said: Hasan ibn Musa told us, Zuhair told us, Abu Ishaq told us, on the authority of Al-Bara' ibn Azib, may God be pleased with him, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, appointed Abdullah ibn Jubayr over the archers on the day of Uhud - and they were fifty men - and he put them in a position, and said: If you see us being snatched by birds, do not move until I send for you, and if you see us prevail over the enemy and trample them, do not move until I send for you. He said: So they defeated them. He said: By God, I saw the women rushing up the mountain, their anklets and their clothes lifted, and he said: The companions of Abdullah, the spoils, O people of the spoils, your companions have appeared, so what are you waiting for? Abdullah ibn Jubayr said: Have you forgotten what the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to you? They said: By God, we will go to the people, so we will take some of the spoils. So when they came to them, their faces were turned away and they came back defeated, and that is what the Messenger was calling them to in He left them, and there remained with the Messenger of God only twelve men, and they killed seventy of us. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his companions killed one hundred and forty of the polytheists on the day of Badr, seventy prisoners and seventy dead. Abu Sufyan said: Is Muhammad among the people? Is Muhammad among the people? - three times - he said. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, forbade them from answering him, then he said: Is Ibn Abi Quhafah among the people? Is Ibn Abi Quhafah among the people? Is Ibn Al-Khattab among the people? Is Ibn Al-Khattab among the people? Then he turned to his companions and said: As for these, they have been killed and you have been spared from them. Umar could not control himself but said: You have lied, O enemy of God, those whom you have counted are all alive, and there remains for you that which will upset you. He said: A day for the day of Badr, and war is a contest. And you will find among the people mutilation which I did not order, and which did not upset me. Then he began to recite: Hubal is exalted, Hubal is exalted. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Will you not answer him? They said: O Messenger of God, what should we say? He said: Say: God is higher and more exalted. He said: We have Al-Uzza, and you have no Uzza. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Will you not answer him? They said: O Messenger of God, what should we say? He said: Say: God is our Master, and you have no Master. Al-Bukhari narrated it from the hadith of Zuhair bin Muawiyah in an abbreviated form, and he narrated it from the hadith of Israel from Abu Ishaq in a more detailed form than this as mentioned above, and God knows best. Al-Bayhaqi narrated in Dalil al-Nubuwwah from the hadith of Ammarah bin Ghaziyah, from Abu al-Zubayr, from Jabir, who said: "The people fled from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, on the day of Uhud, and eleven men from the Ansar remained with him, and Talhah bin Ubaydullah was climbing the mountain, and the polytheists met them, so he said: Is there no one for these? Talhah said: I am, O Messenger of God. He said: As you are, O Talhah. A man from the Ansar said: I am, O Messenger of God. So he fought on his behalf, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and those who remained with him climbed, then the Ansar was killed and they caught up with him, so he said: Is there no man for these? Talhah said the same as he said, so the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said the same as he said, so a man from the Ansar said: I am, O Messenger of God. So he fought on his behalf and his companions were climbing, then he was killed and they caught up with him, and he kept saying the same as he said before. Talha said: So I will, O Messenger of God. So he detained him and a man from the Ansar asked his permission to fight, so he gave him permission, so he fought like those who had been before him, until no one remained with him except Talha, so they attacked them, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Who is with these? Talha said: I will. So he fought like all those who had been before him fought, and his fingers were injured, so he said: Hush, so the Messenger of God said: If you had said the name of God and mentioned the name of God, the angels would have raised you up with the people looking at you until you entered the atmosphere of heaven. Then the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, ascended to his companions while they were gathered. Al-Bukhari narrated on the authority of Abu Bakr bin Abi Shaybah, on the authority of Wakee', on the authority of Ismail, on the authority of Qais bin Abi Hazim, who said: I saw Talhah's hand paralyzed, with which he protected the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, meaning the day of Uhud. And in the two Sahihs, on the authority of Mu'tamir bin Sulayman, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Abu Uthman al-Nahdi, who said: None remained with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, on some of the days in which the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, fought, except Talhah bin Ubayd God and Sa'd, according to their hadith. Al-Hasan bin Arafa said: Marwan bin Muawiyah told us, on the authority of Hashim bin Hashim Al-Zuhri, who said: I heard Saeed bin Al-Musayyab say: I heard Saad bin Abi Waqqas say: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, handed me his quiver on the day of Uhud and said: 'Shoot, may my father and mother be sacrificed for you.'" Al-Bukhari narrated it on the authority of Abdullah bin Muhammad, on the authority of Marwan bin Muawiyah. Muhammad bin Ishaq said: Salih bin Kaysan told me on the authority of some of the family of Saad, on the authority of Saad bin Abi Waqqas, that he shot on the day of Uhud without the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. Saad said: "I saw the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, handing me arrows and saying: 'Shoot, may my father and mother be sacrificed for you.' He even handed me an arrow that had no point, so I shot with it." It was confirmed in the two Sahihs from the hadith of Ibrahim bin Saad, on the authority of his father, on the authority of his grandfather, on the authority of Saad bin Abi Waqqas, who said: "On the day of Uhud, I saw on the right of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and on his left two men wearing white clothes fighting on his behalf with the most intense fighting I had ever seen them before that day." And after him, meaning Gabriel and Michael, peace be upon them." And Hammad bin Salamah said on the authority of Ali bin Zaid and Thabit on the authority of Anas bin Malik: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was singled out on the day of Uhud with seven of the Ansar and two of the Quraysh. When they overwhelmed him, he said, 'Who will repel them from us and he will have Paradise?' or 'He is my companion in Paradise.' So a man from the Ansar came forward and fought until he was killed. Then they overwhelmed him again, and he said, 'Who will repel them from us and he will have Paradise?' So a man from the Ansar came forward and fought until he was killed. He continued like that until he killed the seven. Then the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to his two companions, 'We have not been fair to our companions.'" Narrated by Muslim on the authority of Hudbah bin Khalid, on the authority of Hammad bin Salamah, with something similar. Abu al-Aswad said on the authority of Urwah bin al-Zubayr, who said: Ubayy bin Khalaf, the brother of Banu Jumah, had sworn while he was in Mecca to kill the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. When his oath reached the Messenger of God, he said, 'Rather, I will kill him, God willing.' So when the day of Uhud came, Ubayy came in iron, masked, and he was saying, 'No.'" I was saved if Muhammad was saved. He attacked the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, intending to kill him. Mus'ab ibn 'Umair, the brother of Banu 'Abd al-Dar, met him, protecting the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, with himself. Mus'ab ibn 'Umair was killed. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, saw the collarbone of Abi ibn Khalaf through a gap between the hem of his armor and the blade, and stabbed him in it with his spear. He fell to the ground from his horse, and no blood came out of his stab wound. His companions came to him and carried him while he was mooing like a bull. They said to him: What has made you so upset? It is only a scratch. He mentioned to them the saying of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, Rather, I will kill Ubayy. Then he said: By the One in Whose Hand is my soul, if this had happened to me, to the people of Dhu'l-Majaz, they would all have died. So he died in the Fire, So, damnation to the companions of the Blaze. Musa ibn Uqbah narrated it in his Maghāzī, on the authority of al-Zuhri, on the authority of Sa'id ibn al-Musayyab, in a similar manner. Muhammad ibn Ishaq mentioned that when the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, leaned against the ravine, Ubayy ibn Khalaf caught up with him and said: I will not be saved if I am saved. The people said: O Messenger of God, let one of us help him. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Leave him. When he approached, the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, took the spear from al-Harith ibn al-Samma. Some of the people said: What was mentioned to me? When the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, took it from him, he shook it so hard that we all flew away from him as hair flies from the back of a camel when it shakes. Then the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, faced him and stabbed him in the neck with a stab that caused him to fall off his horse. Repeatedly - Al-Waqidi mentioned on the authority of Yunus bin Bakir on the authority of Muhammad bin Ishaq, on the authority of Asim bin Amr bin Qatada, on the authority of Abdullah bin Kaab bin Malik, on the authority of his father, something similar to that. Al-Waqidi said: Ibn Omar used to say, "My father bin Khalaf died in Batn Rabigh. I was walking in Batn Rabigh after a part of the night, when I saw a blazing fire. I woke up and saw a man coming out of it with a chain, pulling it, arousing his thirst. A man said, "Do not give him a drink, for this is the one who was killed by the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace." This is Abi bin Khalaf - and it was proven in the two Sahihs from the narration of Abd al-Razzaq from Muammar, from Hammam bin Munabbih from Abu Hurayrah, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'God's wrath was intense against a people who did something to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace' - and he was pointing to his front teeth - and God's wrath was intense against a man whom the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, killed in the way of God." Al-Bukhari also included it from the hadith of Ibn Jurayj from Amr bin Dinar, from Ikrimah, from Ibn Abbas, who said: "God's wrath was intense against a person whom the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, killed with his own hand in the way of God, and God's wrath was intense against a people who caused blood to flow from the face of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace." Ibn Ishaq said: "The front teeth of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, were injured, his cheek was wounded, and his lip was wounded." The one who injured him was Utbah bin Abi Waqqas, and Salih bin Kaysan told me, from someone who told him, from Saad bin Abi Waqqas, who said: I have never been so keen on killing anyone as I was keen on killing Utbah. Ibn Abi Waqqas, if what I know is of a man of bad character who is hated by his people, and the saying of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, "God's wrath is severe on whoever bleeds the face of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace," is sufficient for me. Abd al-Razzaq said: Muammar informed us on the authority of al-Zuhri, on the authority of Uthman al-Jazari, on the authority of Muqsim, that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, "supplicated against Utbah ibn Abi Waqqas on the day of Uhud when his front tooth was broken and his face was bleed, and he said: O God, do not let a year pass over him until he dies as a disbeliever." So a year had not passed over him until he died as a disbeliever in the Fire. Al-Waqidi mentioned on the authority of Ibn Abi Sabra, on the authority of Ishaq ibn Abdullah ibn Abi Farwah, on the authority of Abu al-Huwayrith, on the authority of Nafi' ibn Jubayr, who said: I heard a man from the Muhajireen say: I witnessed Uhud and I saw arrows coming from every direction and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was in the middle of them, all of that was being diverted from him. I saw Abdullah ibn Shihab al-Zuhri saying on that day: Show me Muhammad, I will not be saved if he is saved, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was beside him with no one with him, then... He passed by him, and Safwan rebuked him for that. He said, "By God, I have never seen him. I swear to God that he is forbidden from us!" We went out four of us and we pledged and agreed to kill him, but we did not succeed in that. Al-Waqidi said: What is established with us is that the one who shot the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, in the cheeks was Ibn Qami'ah, and the one who caused his lip to bleed and his front tooth to be damaged was Utbah ibn Abi Waqqas. Abu Dawud al-Tayalisi said: Ibn al-Mubarak told us on the authority of Ishaq ibn Yahya ibn Talhah ibn Ubayd God, Isa ibn Talhah told me on the authority of the Mother of the Believers Aisha, may God be pleased with her, she said: Whenever Abu Bakr mentioned the Battle of Uhud, he would say: That day was all for Talhah. Then he began to narrate, he said: I was the first to return on the Battle of Uhud, and I saw a man fighting with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, behind him, and I think he said it was out of zeal. He said: I said: Talhah was where I missed what I missed, so I said: There is a man from my people who is dearer to me, and between me and the polytheists is a man I do not know, and I am closer to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, than he, and he walks quickly, and I do not remember it, and it was Abu Ubaydah ibn al-Jarrah. We went to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and he said: His front tooth was broken and his face was wounded, and two rings from the helmet's ring entered his cheek. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said, Your companion wants Talhah, and he was bleeding, but we did not pay attention to what he said. He said, "I went to remove that from his face, but Abu Ubaidah said, 'I swear to you by my right that you left me,' so I left him. He did not want to take it with his hand and hurt the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, so he leaned on him with his mouth and pulled out one of the rings, and his front tooth fell out with the ring. I went to do what he did, but he said, 'I swear to you by my right that you left me.' He said, 'So he did the same as he did the first time, and his other front tooth fell out with the ring. Abu Ubaidah was the best of people in his wounds. We fixed the matter of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, then we came to Talhah in one of those graves, and there were seventy-odd, or less, or more, from stab wounds, arrows, and blows, and his finger had been cut off, so we fixed the matter of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace.'" And when Al-Haitham came, Abu Ubaidah said: I ask you by God, O Abu Bakr, to leave me alone? So Abu Ubaidah took the arrow in his mouth and began to shake it out of dislike of hurting the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, then he pulled out the arrow in his mouth and Abu Ubaidah's front tooth fell out. He mentioned the rest of it, and Al-Hafiz Al-Dhiya Al-Maqdisi chose it in his book. Ali bin Al-Madini declared this hadith weak on the authority of Ishaq bin Yahya, because Yahya bin Saeed Al-Qattan, Ahmad, Yahya bin Ma'een, Al-Bukhari, Abu Zur'ah, Abu Hatim, Muhammad bin Sa'd, Al-Nasa'i and others spoke about him. Ibn Wahb said: Amr bin Al-Harith informed me that Umar bin Al-Sa'ib told him that he had heard that when Malik, Abu Abi Saeed Al-Khudri, was wounded by the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, on the day of Uhud, he sucked the wound until it became clean and white, so it was said to him: Suck it in. He said: No, by God, I will never suck it in. Then he turned back to fight. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever wants to look at a man from the people of Paradise, let him look at this man, and he was martyred. It has been proven in the two Sahihs on the authority of Abdul Aziz bin Abi Hazim, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Sahl bin Sa'd, that he was asked about the wound of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and he said: The face of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was wounded, his front tooth was broken, and the egg was smashed on his head, may God bless him and grant him peace. Fatima, the daughter of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was washing the blood, and Ali was pouring water on him with a shield. When Fatima saw that the water only increased the blood, she took a piece of matting and burned it until it became ashes, then she stuck it to the wound and the blood stopped. God Almighty said: So He rewarded you with grief for grief meaning He repaid you with grief for grief, as the Arabs say: It descended upon the Banu so-and-so, and it descended upon the Banu so-and-so. Ibn Jarir said: And likewise his saying, And I will crucify you on the trunks of palm trees, meaning on the trunks of palm trees. Ibn Abbas said: The first grief was due to the defeat, and when it was said that Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, was killed, and the second was when the polytheists overtook them on the mountain, and the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: O God, they have no right to overtake us. And from Abd al-Rahman ibn Awf: The first grief was due to the defeat, and the second was when it was said that Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, was killed. That was more severe and greater for them than the defeat. Both were narrated by Ibn Mardawayh, and something similar was narrated from Umar ibn al-Khattab, and Ibn Abi Hatim mentioned something similar from Qatadah as well. Al-Suddi said: The first grief was due to what they missed of the spoils and conquest, and the second was due to the enemy's presence over them. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said: So He rewarded you with grief after grief, meaning distress after distress from the killing of those of your brothers, and the superiority of your enemy over you, and what occurred in your souls from the saying of those who said: Your Prophet was killed, so that was one grief after another for you. Mujahid and Qatadah said: The grief The first is their hearing of the killing of Muhammad, and the second is what happened to them in terms of killing and wounds. Qatadah and Al-Rabi' bin Anas said the opposite. Al-Suddi said: The first is what they missed out on in terms of victory and spoils, and the second is the enemy's presence upon them. This statement from Al-Suddi has already been mentioned. Ibn Jarir said: The most correct of these sayings is the saying of the one who said, So He rewarded you with grief for grief. So He rewarded you with your grief, O believers, by God's deprivation of you of the spoils of the polytheists and victory over them and the victory over them, and what befell you of killing and wounds, on that day after He had shown you in all of that what you love by your disobedience to the command of your Lord, and your opposition to the command of your Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, the grief of your thinking that your Prophet had been killed and the enemy had turned against you after your remnants from them. And the Almighty's saying, So that you may not grieve over what has escaped you, meaning over what has escaped you of the spoils and victory over your enemy, nor over what has befallen you, of wounds and killing, said Ibn Abbas, Abd al-Rahman ibn Awf, al-Hasan, Qatadah, and al-Suddi, And God is Aware of what you do. Glory be to Him and praise be to Him, there is no god but Him, the Most High.

When you were ascending and did not look back at anyone, and the Messenger was calling you from behind you. So He rewarded you with grief for grief, so that you would not grieve over what had escaped you or what had befallen you. And God is Acquainted with what you do.

Fath al-Qadir

His saying 153- When you ascend is related to his saying He turned you away or his saying And He has pardoned you or his saying To test you. The majority read it with a damma on the taa' and a kasra on the 'ayn, and Abu Raja' al-Attardi, Abu Abd al-Rahman al-Sulami, al-Hasan and Qatadah read it with a fatha on the taa' and the 'ayn. Ibn Muhaisin and Qanbal read you ascend with a taht. Abu Hatim said: I ascended if I went in front of you, and I ascended if I climbed a mountain, so ascending is walking on the ground level and in the valleys, and ascending is rising on mountains, roofs, stairs and steps, so it is possible that their ascension on the mountain was after their ascension in the valley, so the meaning is correct in both readings. Al-Qatibi said: I ascended if he went far and delved into it, and from this is the saying of the poet:

Oh you who ask, where have you ascended? For there is an appointment for you in the valley of Yathrib.

Al-Farra' said: Ascension is the beginning of a journey, and descent is the return from it. It is said: We ascended from Baghdad to Mecca and to Khorasan and the like meaning we set out to it and began the journey, and we descended when we returned. Al-Mufaddal said: Ascended and ascended have the same meaning. The meaning of talawn is you ascend and stay meaning: do not turn to one another in order to flee, because the one ascending to something turns his neck or the neck of his mount towards it. On someone means: on one of those with you, and it was said: on the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. Al-Hasan read talawn with one waw, and Asim read it in a narration from him with a damma on the ta and it is a language. His statement and the Messenger calls you in your last ones means: in the last group of you. It is said: So-and-so came at the end of the people, and the last of the people, and the last of the people. And the supplication of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, was: O servants of God, return. His statement, So He rewarded you is in apposition to your turning away: meaning: So God rewarded you with grief when He turned you away from him because of the grief you made the Messenger of God (may God bless him and grant him peace) taste with your disobedience, or grief connected to grief because of that rumour, injury, killing and victory of the polytheists. Grief originally means covering. I covered something, and a day of grief and a night of grief: if they were dark. And from this is the grief of the crescent moon. It was said: The first grief was the defeat, and the second was the overtaking of Abu Hurairah and Khalid ibn al-Walid upon them on the mountain. His statement, So that you would not grieve: the lam is connected to his statement, So He rewarded you meaning: This grief after grief is so that you would not grieve over what was lost of the spoils nor what befell you of defeat, as training for you for calamities and training to endure hardships. Al-Mufaddal said: The meaning of so that you will not grieve is so that you will grieve, and la is redundant like the Almighty's saying: What prevented you from prostrating? meaning: from prostrating, and His saying: so that the People of the Book would not know meaning so that they would know.

Ibn Jarir, Ibn Al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Ibn Jurayj regarding his statement: O you who have believed, if you obey those who disbelieve, he said: Do not advise the Jews and Christians about your religion and do not believe them in anything about your religion. Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Al-Suddi who said: If you obey Abu Sufyan bin Harb, he will turn you back into disbelievers. Ibn Jarir narrated on his authority regarding his statement: We will cast terror into the hearts of those who disbelieve, something similar to what we mentioned in the reason for the revelation of the verse. Al-Bayhaqi narrated in Al-Dala'il on the authority of Urwah regarding his statement: And God has fulfilled His promise to you, he said: God had promised them, for their patience and piety, that He would support them with five thousand marked angels, and He had done so. But when they disobeyed the command of the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) and left their ranks and the archers left, the Messenger promised them not to leave their homes, and they wanted the world, the support of angels was lifted from them. The story of Uhud is fully explained in biographies and histories, so there is no need to elaborate on it here. Ibn Jarir and Ibn Al-Mundhir narrated on the authority of Abd Al-Rahman Ibn Awf regarding his statement, When you were catching them, he said: catching means killing. Abd Ibn Hamid narrated the same on the authority of Ibn Abbas. Ibn Jarir and Ibn Al-Mundhir narrated on his authority. He said: Failure means cowardice. Ibn Al-Mundhir narrated on the authority of Al-Bara' Ibn Azib regarding his statement, After He showed you what you love, he said: spoils and the defeat of the people. Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of Al-Hasan regarding his statement, And He has pardoned you, he said: God says, I have pardoned you, that I did not exterminate you. He also narrated something similar on the authority of Ibn Jurayj. Ibn Jarir and Ibn Al-Mundhir narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas, When you ascend, he said: They ascended Uhud fleeing, and the Messenger was calling them from behind them: To Me, servants of God, return! To Me, servants of God, return. Ibn Mardawayh narrated on the authority of Abd al-Rahman ibn Awf, So He rewarded you with grief upon grief. He said: The first grief was due to the defeat, and the second was when it was said that Muhammad had been killed, and that was greater to them than the defeat. Abd ibn Humayd, Ibn Jarir, Ibn al-Mundhir, and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Mujahid regarding his statement, Grief upon grief. He said: A panic after the first panic when they heard the voice that Muhammad had been killed. Ibn Jarir, Ibn al-Mundhir, and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated, he said: The first panic was the wounds and killing, and the second panic was when they heard that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, had been killed. Ibn Jarir narrated something similar on the authority of al-Rabi'.

Surat Al Imran 3:153

When you were ascending and did not look back at anyone, and the Messenger was calling you from behind you. So He rewarded you with grief for grief, so that you would not grieve over what had escaped you or what had befallen you. And God is Acquainted with what you do.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

153- When you ascend, meaning: And He has pardoned you when you ascended fleeing. Abu Abd al-Rahman al-Salami, al-Hasan and Qatadah read you ascend with the ta' and 'ayn open, and the well-known reading is with the ta' closed and the 'ayn broken.

Ascending: walking on level ground, and climbing: rising on mountains and roofs. Abu Hatim said: It is said that you ascended if you walked in front of you, and you ascended if you climbed a mountain or something else. Al-Mubarrad said: Ascend if you went far, and both readings are correct, for on that day there were among the defeated ascending and ascending. Al-Mufaddal said: Ascended, ascended, and ascended have the same meaning.

And do not turn to anyone meaning: do not deviate from the path of anyone, and do not turn to one another, and the Messenger calls you at the rear of you meaning: at the rear of you and those behind you to me, servants of God, for I am the Messenger of God, whoever turns will have Paradise, and He rewarded you, so He recompensed you, He made reward mean punishment, and its origin is in good deeds because He put it in place of reward, like the saying of God Almighty: Then give them tidings of a painful punishment, He made the good report of the punishment, and its meaning is: He made the place of the reward that you were hoping for grief upon grief. It was said: The ba' means upon, meaning: grief upon grief, and it was said: grief connected to grief, so the first grief: what they missed of victory and booty, and the second grief: what they suffered of killing and defeat.

It was said: The first grief was when Khalid bin Al-Walid looked down on them with the polytheists' cavalry, and the second grief was when Abu Sufyan looked down on them. That was because the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, set out that day calling the people until he reached the people of the rock. When they saw him, a man put an arrow in his bow and wanted to shoot it, so he said, I am the Messenger of God. They were happy when they found the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, was happy when he saw that among his companions there were those who would resist. They began to mention the conquest and what they had missed of it, and to mention their companions who had been killed. Abu Sufyan and his companions came until they stopped at the gate of the valley. When the Muslims looked at them, this worried them and they thought that they would attack them and kill them, but this made them forget what had happened to them. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said, "They have no right to prevail over us. O God, if you kill this group, you will not be worshipped on earth." Then he called upon his companions and they threw stones at them until they brought them down.

It was said: They upset the Messenger by disobeying his command, so God rewarded them for that upset with the upset of killing and defeat.

God Almighty says: So that you may not grieve over what has escaped you, of conquest and spoils, nor over what has befallen you, meaning: nor over what has befallen you of killing and defeat. And God is Acquainted with what you do.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

153 When you ascend is related to your diversion, or to test you, or to something that is estimated, such as remember. Ascension means going and being far away on earth. It is said: We ascended in Mecca and Medina. And do not look back on anyone No one stops for anyone nor waits for him. And the Messenger calls you He used to say to me, servants of God, I am the Messenger of God, whoever returns will have Paradise. In your rear In your rear or in your other group. So He rewarded you with grief for grief In apposition to your diversion, and the meaning is So God rewarded you for your failure and disobedience with grief connected to grief, from grief over killing and wounding and the victory of the polytheists and the rumor of killing the Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, or So He rewarded you with grief because of the grief you made the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, taste by your disobedience to him. So that you may not grieve for what has escaped you or what has befallen you so that you may practice patience in times of hardship, so that you may not grieve later for a lost benefit or a subsequent harm. It was said that la is an additional word, and the meaning is so that you may regret what you have missed of victory and booty, and what you have suffered of injury and defeat as a punishment for you. It was said that the pronoun in atabakum refers to the Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, meaning that he consoled you in your grief, so he was grieved by what was revealed to you, just as you were grieved by what was revealed to him, and he did not stir up trouble in you for your disobedience, as a consolation for you, so that you may not grieve for what you have missed of victory or for what you have suffered of defeat. And God is Acquainted with what you do He is All-Knowing of your actions and what you intended by them.

Surat Al Imran 3:154

Then, after the distress, He sent down upon you security - a drowsiness that overcame a party of you, and a party who were concerned about themselves, assuming about God other than the truth - an assumption of the times of ignorance. They said, "Do we have any say in the matter?" Say, "Indeed, the matter, all of it, belongs to God." They conceal within themselves what they do not disclose to you, saying, "If we had any say in the matter, we would not have been killed here." Say, "If you had been in Your houses, so that those upon whom death was decreed may go forth to their beds, and that God may test what is in your breasts and purify what is in your hearts. And God is Knowing of that within the breasts.

Surat Al Imran 3:154

Then, after the distress, He sent down upon you security - a drowsiness that overcame a party of you, and a party who were concerned about themselves, assuming about God other than the truth - an assumption of the times of ignorance. They said, "Do we have any say in the matter?" Say, "Indeed, the matter, all of it, belongs to God." They conceal within themselves what they do not disclose to you, saying, "If we had any say in the matter, we would not have been killed here." Say, "If you had been in Your houses, so that those upon whom death was decreed may go forth to their beds, and that God may test what is in your breasts and purify what is in your hearts. And God is Knowing of that within the breasts.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

Then He sent down upon you, after the distress, security security a drowsiness instead of overwhelming with the ya and the ta a party of you and they are the believers so they were swaying under the shields and their swords were falling from them and a party whose souls were concerned that is, it made them anxious and they had no desire except for their salvation without the Prophet and his companions so they did not sleep and they are the hypocrites thinking about God a thought other than the thought of the time of ignorance when they believed that the Prophet was killed or would not be victorious (they say: Is there) for us any of the matter that is, the victory that we were promised of redundant say to them the matter is entirely God's in the accusative for emphasis and the nominative is the subject and predicate concealing in themselves what they do not reveal they reveal to you they say an explanation of what came before it if we had any of the matter we would not have been killed here that is, if the choice was up to us we would not have gone out and not been killed but we were taken out Say to them if you were in your houses and among you were those upon whom God had decreed death those upon whom death had been decreed would have come forth to their deathbeds their places of death and they would have been killed, and their sitting would not have saved them because His decree, the Most High, would have inevitably happened and done what He did to anyone that God might test examine what is in your breasts your hearts of sincerity and hypocrisy and that He might purify distinguish what is in your hearts and God is Knowing of what is in the breasts) what is in the hearts; nothing is hidden from Him, and He only tests so that it becomes apparent to the people.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

God Almighty said: Then He sent down upon you the verses. Ibn Rahawayh narrated on the authority of Al-Zubayr, who said: I saw myself on the day of Uhud when fear became intense upon us and sleep was sent upon us, and there was not one of us except that his chin was on his chest. By God, I heard, as if in a dream, the words of Mu'tab bin Qushair: If we had had any part in the matter, we would not have been killed here. So I memorized it, and God revealed in that regard: Then He sent down upon you, after the distress, security and drowsiness, until His saying: And God is Knowing of that within the breasts.

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: By that, may His praise be glorified, He meant: Then God revealed, O believers: after the grief with which your Lord rewarded you after the grief that preceded it, security, which is safety, for the people of sincerity and certainty among you, not the people of hypocrisy and doubt.

Then, most of His praise explained, about the security that He bestowed upon them, what it is? He said, sleepy, with the sleepiness in the accusative case as a replacement for the security.

Then the reading differed in the reading of his saying: covers.

This was read by most of the reciters of Hijaz, Medina, Basra, and some of the Kufians with the masculine ending ya: yaghsha.

A group of Kufian readers read it with the feminine ending: taghasha with the letter taa.

Those who read it as a reminder went to the point that drowsiness is what overwhelms the group of believers without security, so he mentioned it as a reminder of drowsiness.

Those who read it with the feminine form said that it is the security that covers them, so they feminized it because of the feminization of security.

Abu Ja'far said: The correct statement in this regard, in my opinion, is that they are two well-known readings that are widespread in the readings of the regions, and they do not differ in meaning or anything else. Because security in this place is drowsiness, and drowsiness is security. So it is the same, and the reader recites with their verses, then he is correct in his recitation. And likewise all that is in the Qur'an of similar examples, such as His saying: Indeed, the tree of Zaqqum is food for the sinful, Like molten metal, boiling within the bellies [Ad-Dukhan 43-45] and Was he not a drop of emitted semen? [Al-Qiyamah 37] and And shake toward you the trunk of the palm tree, it will fall (Maryam 19:25).

If someone were to say: What was the reason for which the two groups mentioned by God Almighty separated in the description in which they separated, so that one of them felt secure in itself until it dozed off, and the other was preoccupied with itself until it thought about God other than the truth, the thought of the ignorant? It would be said: The reason for that was what was mentioned to us, as:

Muhammad ibn al-Husayn narrated to us, Ahmad ibn al-Mufaddal narrated to us, Asbat narrated to us, on the authority of al-Suddi: "The polytheists turned back on the day of Uhud after what had happened to them and to the Muslims, and they made an appointment with the Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) for Badr the following year. He said, 'Yes! Yes!' The Muslims feared that they would descend to Medina, so the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) sent a man and said, 'Look, if you see them sitting on their baggage and keeping their horses away, then the people are going. If you see them sitting on their horses and keeping their baggage away, then the people are going to Medina, so fear God and be patient.' He prepared them for battle. When the Messenger saw them quickly and hastily on their baggage, he called out at the top of his voice that they were going. When the believers saw that, they believed the Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) and slept, while some of the hypocrites remained, thinking that the people were coming to them." Then God Almighty said, mentioning when the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, told them that if they had ridden the heavy loads, they would be leaving, and they slept: "Then He sent down upon you, after the distress, security, a drowsiness that overcame a party of you, and another party was concerned about themselves, thinking about God other than the truth - an assumption of the times of ignorance."

Al-Qasim told us, Al-Hussein told us, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, who said, Ibn Abbas said: He will make them feel safe on that day because of a drowsiness that will overwhelm them, and only one who feels safe will feel drowsy. It will overwhelm a party of you and another party whose souls are concerned, thinking about God other than the truth - the thought of the times of ignorance.

Ibn Bashar told us, he said, Ibn Abi Uday told us, on the authority of Hamid, on the authority of Anas bin Malik, on the authority of Abu Talha, he said: I was among those upon whom drowsiness descended on the day of the preparation of security, until it fell from my hand repeatedly. Abu Ja'far said: He meant his whip, or his sword.

Amr bin Ali told us, he said, Abd al-Rahman bin Mahdi told us, he said, Hammad bin Salamah told us, on the authority of Thabit, on the authority of Anas, on the authority of Abu Talha, he said: I raised my head on the day of Uhud, and I could not see anyone among the people except under his veil, tossing and turning from drowsiness.

Ibn Bashar and Ibn Al-Muthanna told us, Abu Dawud told us, Imran told us, on the authority of Qatada, on the authority of Anas, on the authority of Abu Talha, who said: I was among those who were overcome by drowsiness on the day of Uhud.

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, he said, Anas bin Malik told us, on the authority of Abu Talha: that he was one of those who were overcome by drowsiness on that day. He said: The sword would fall from my hand, then I would pick it up, from drowsiness.

It was narrated on the authority of Ammar, who said: Ibn Abi Ja'far narrated to us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of al-Rabi': It was mentioned to us, and God knows best, on the authority of Anas: That Abu Talha narrated to them: That on that day he was one of those who were overcome by drowsiness. He said: So my sword kept falling from my hand and I would take it, and it would fall and I would take it, and it would fall. The other group, the hypocrites, had no concern but themselves. They thought about God other than the truth, the thought of the times of ignorance, the entire verse.

Ahmad bin Al-Hasan Al-Tirmidhi told us, he said, Dharar bin Sard told us, he said, Abdul Aziz bin Muhammad told us, on the authority of Muhammad bin Abdul Aziz, on the authority of Al-Zuhri, on the authority of Abdul Rahman bin Al-Miswar bin Makhramah, on the authority of his father, he said: I asked Abdul Rahman bin Awfi about the statement of God Almighty: Then He sent down upon you, after the distress, security, drowsiness, he said: He cast sleep upon us on the day of Uhud.

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: Then He sent down upon you, after the distress, security, drowsiness, the verse, and that was the day of Uhud. On that day they were two groups, but as for the believers, God covered them with drowsiness as security from Him and mercy.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Ishaq told us, he said, Ibn Abi Ja'far told us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-Rabi' bin Anas, something similar.

Al-Muthanna told us, he said, Ishaq told us, he said, Ibn Abi Ja'far told us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-Rabi', his saying: He cast drowsiness upon them, he said: He cast drowsiness upon them, so that was a security for them.

Ibn Bashar told us, he said, Abd al-Rahman told us, he said, Sufyan told us, on the authority of Asim, on the authority of Abu Razin, he said, Abdullah said: Drowsiness in battle is a safety, and drowsiness in prayer is from Satan.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: Then He sent down upon you, after the distress, security, drowsiness. He said: He sent down drowsiness as security from Him upon the people who have certainty in Him, so they are asleep and not afraid.

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said: Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said: Muammar told us, on the authority of

Surat Al Imran 3:154

Then, after the distress, He sent down upon you security - a drowsiness that overcame a party of you, and a party who were concerned about themselves, assuming about God other than the truth - an assumption of the times of ignorance. They said, "Do we have any say in the matter?" Say, "Indeed, the matter, all of it, belongs to God." They conceal within themselves what they do not disclose to you, saying, "If we had any say in the matter, we would not have been killed here." Say, "If you had been in Your houses, so that those upon whom death was decreed may go forth to their beds, and that God may test what is in your breasts and purify what is in your hearts. And God is Knowing of that within the breasts.

Qatada, regarding his statement: A security of drowsiness, he said: God made drowsiness fall upon them, so it was a security for them. And he mentioned that Abu Talha said: I was thrown into drowsiness that day, and I would doze off until my sword fell from my hand.

Ibn Bashar told us, he said, Ishaq bin Idris told us, he said, Hammad bin Salamah told us, he said, Thabit told us, on the authority of Anas bin Malik, on the authority of Abu Talha, and Hisham bin Urwah, on the authority of Urwah, on the authority of Al-Zubayr, that they both said: We raised our heads on the day of Uhud, and we looked, and there was not one of them except that he leaned to the side of his shield. He said: And he recited this verse: Then He sent down upon you, after the distress, security, drowsiness.

Abu Ja'far said: By that, He, the Most High, means: And a group of you, O believers, "are concerned about themselves, meaning: They are the hypocrites, they have no concern other than themselves, they are those who fear death for themselves and fear death for them, they are busy, sleep has fled from their eyes, they think false thoughts about God, the thoughts of the ignorant among the polytheists, doubting the command of God, and denying His Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and thinking that God will forsake His Prophet and make the people of disbelief in Him superior to him, they say: Do we have any part in the matter! Like that which:-

Bishr told us, Yazid told us, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, who said: The other group are the hypocrites. They have no concern but themselves. They are the most cowardly, terrifying and neglectful of the truth. They think falsely about God. They are people of doubt and suspicion regarding God's command: "They say, 'If we had had any say in the matter, we would not have been killed here.' Say, 'If you had been in your houses, those for whom killing was decreed would have come forth to their deathbeds.'"

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Ishaq told us, he said, Abdullah bin Abi Jaafar told us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-Rabi', he said: The other group are the hypocrites, they have no concern except for themselves, they think about God other than the truth, the thoughts of the ignorant, They say, 'If we had had any say in the matter, we would not have been killed here.' God Almighty said: Say, 'If you had been in your houses, those upon whom killing was decreed would have come forth to their deathbeds.'

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: And a group who are concerned about themselves, he said: The hypocrites are concerned about themselves because of the fear of being killed, and that is because they do not hope for a consequence.

Yunus told me, he said, Ibn Wahb told us, he said, Ibn Zayd said regarding his statement: And a group who are concerned about themselves, to the end of the verse, he said: These are the hypocrites.

As for his saying: The pre-Islamic assumption, he means the people of polytheism, such as the one who:

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said, Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said, Muammar told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: The assumption of the Age of Ignorance, he said: The assumption of the people of polytheism.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Ishaq told us, he said, Ibn Abi Ja'far told us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-Rabi', regarding his statement: The assumption of the Age of Ignorance, he said: The assumption of the people of polytheism.

Abu Jaafar said: There are two aspects to the nominative case of his saying: and a group.

One of them is that it is raised by the pronoun referring to it in his saying: It has concerned them.

The other: In his saying: They think about God other than the truth. If it were in the accusative case, it would have been permissible, and the waw in his saying: and a group, would have been an adverb for the verb, meaning: and a group thought about themselves, as he said: And the heaven We constructed with power (al-Dharyat 51:47).

Abu Ja'far said: He means by that the hypocritical group who are concerned about themselves, saying: We have no part in the matter. Say: The matter is entirely up to God. If we had any part in the matter, we would not have gone out to fight those who fought us and killed us, as:

Al-Qasim narrated to us, Al-Husayn narrated to us, Hajjaj narrated to me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, who said: It was said to Abdullah bin Ubayy: Banu Khazraj were killed today! He said: Do we have any part in the matter? It was said: The matter is entirely in God's hands! This is a matter initiated by God Almighty, who says to His Prophet Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace: Say, O Muhammad, to these hypocrites: The matter is entirely in God's hands, He directs it as He wills and manages it as He likes.

Then he returned to the report about the hypocrisy of the hypocrites, saying: They hide within themselves what they do not reveal to you. He says: O Muhammad, these hypocrites whose characteristics I have described to you hide within themselves disbelief and doubt in God, what they do not reveal to you.

Then his Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, revealed what they were hiding among themselves of their hypocrisy, and the regret that had befallen them for their presence with the Muslims in their battle at Uhud. He said, informing about their talk of disbelief and their declaration of hypocrisy among themselves: They say, 'If we had any part in the matter, we would not have been killed here.' By that he meant that these hypocrites say: If we had gone out to fight the polytheists we went out to fight against, we would not have gone out to them, nor would any of us have been killed in the place where they were killed at Uhud.

It was mentioned that among those who said this statement was Mu'tab bin Qushair, the brother of Banu Amr bin Auf.

The report mentioned that:

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, he said, Ibn Ishaq said, Yahya ibn Abbad ibn Abdullah ibn al-Zubayr told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Abdullah ibn al-Zubayr, on the authority of al-Zubayr, he said: By God, I hear the words of Mu'tab ibn Qushayr, the brother of Banu Amr ibn Awf, and drowsiness overcomes me, I hear him only as if it were a dream when he said: If we had any part in the matter, we would not have been killed here!

Saeed bin Yahya Al-Umawi told me, he said, my father told me, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq, he said, Yahya bin Ibad bin Abdullah bin Al-Zubayr told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Abdullah bin Al-Zubayr, on the authority of his father, similarly.

Abu Jaafar said: The reading of this differed.

The general reading of the Hijaz and Iraq is: Say that the whole matter is, with the whole in the accusative case as an adjective for the matter and an attribute for it.

Some of the people of Basra read it: Say: The whole matter belongs to God, raising the whole, on the basis of directing the whole to be a name, and his saying to God is its predicate, like the saying of the one who says: The matter is partly for the servant of God.

It may be permissible for the whole word to be in the accusative case, in the accusative case as a substitute.

Abu Ja'far said: The reading that is the reading according to us is the accusative in all of them, due to the consensus of most of the reciters on it, without the other reading being an error in meaning or Arabic. If the reading in the nominative case in that was widespread in the recitation, then it would be the same to me whichever of the two readings was recited, due to the agreement of the meanings of that in the rest of the two readings.

Abu Ja'far said: By that, may His praise be glorified, He means: Say, O Muhammad, to those hypocrites whose description I have described to you: If you had been in your homes, you would not have witnessed their battle with the believers, nor attended with them the war of their enemies from among the polytheists, so that what you were hiding of your hypocrisy and concealing of your doubts about your religion would have become apparent to the believers. Those upon whom death was decreed would have come forth, meaning: those among them upon whom death was decreed would have come forth to the place where his death was decreed, and he would have gone out from his home to it until he was struck down in the place where he was decreed to be struck down.

As for his saying: And that God may test what is in your hearts, he means by it: And that God may test what is in your hearts, O hypocrites, you used to go forth from your homes to your beds.

What he means by his saying: And that God may test what is in your hearts, is that God may test what is in your hearts of doubt, and distinguish you - by what He shows the believers of your hypocrisy - from the believers.

We have previously demonstrated that the meanings of the words that God may test and that God may know and the like, even if they appear to be attributed to God in the apparent meaning of the statement, are intended to refer to His friends and those who obey Him. The meaning of this is: "And that God may test the friends and those who obey Him of what is in your hearts of doubt and illness, so that they may know you, [and distinguish you] from the people of sincerity and certainty, and that He may purify what is in your hearts," meaning, "and that He may make clear what is in your hearts of belief in God and in His Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, and in the believers of enmity or loyalty."

And God is All-Knowing of what is in the hearts, meaning: God is All-Knowing of what is in the hearts of His creation of good and evil, faith and disbelief. Nothing of their affairs is hidden from Him, their secrets and their outward appearances, and He is the Guardian of all of that, until He rewards all of them according to what they deserve.

In a similar vein to what we said about that, Ibn Ishaq used to say:

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq, he said: God mentioned their blaming - meaning the blaming of the hypocrites - and their regret for what happened to them, then He said to His Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: If you had been in your homes, you would not have been present in this place where God, may He be glorified and praised, revealed from you what He revealed of your secrets, for He would have brought out those upon whom death was decreed to another place where they would be struck down, so that He might test what is in your hearts, and to purify what is in your hearts, and God is Knowing of that within the breasts, meaning: nothing is hidden from Him in their breasts, of what they concealed from you.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Ishaq told us, he said, Al-Harith bin Muslim told us, on the authority of Bahr Al-Saqqah, on the authority of Amr bin Ubaid, on the authority of Al-Hasan, he said: He was asked about His statement: "Say, 'If you had been in your houses, those upon whom death was decreed would have gone forth to their deathbeds.'" He said: God has decreed upon the believers that they fight in His cause, and not everyone who fights is killed, but rather those upon whom God has decreed death are killed.

Surat Al Imran 3:154

Then, after the distress, He sent down upon you security - a drowsiness that overcame a party of you, and a party who were concerned about themselves, assuming about God other than the truth - an assumption of the times of ignorance. They said, "Do we have any say in the matter?" Say, "Indeed, the matter, all of it, belongs to God." They conceal within themselves what they do not disclose to you, saying, "If we had any say in the matter, we would not have been killed here." Say, "If you had been in Your houses, so that those upon whom death was decreed may go forth to their beds, and that God may test what is in your breasts and purify what is in your hearts. And God is Knowing of that within the breasts.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

The Almighty said: Then He sent down upon you, after the distress, security, drowsiness. Security and safety are the same. It was said: Security is only with causes of fear, and safety is with its absence. It is accusative with anzal and na'asan as a substitute for it. It was said: It is accusative as the object for it, as if he said: He sent down upon you for security drowsiness. Ibn Muhaisin read amna with a sukoon on the meem. God the Almighty favored the believers after these distresses on the day of Uhud with drowsiness until most of them slept. Only he who feels secure slumbers, and the fearful one does not sleep. Al-Bukhari narrated on the authority of Anas that Abu Talha said: Drowsiness overcame us while we were in our ranks on the day of Uhud. He said: My sword kept falling from my hand and I would grab it, and it would fall and I would grab it. Yaghsha was read with a ya' and a ta'. The ya' is for drowsiness, and the ta' is for safety. The group is used for one person and a group. And a group whose souls are concerned means al-Munafiqun 63: Mu'tab bin Qushair and his companions. They had gone out in the hope of the spoils and fear of the believers, but drowsiness did not overcome them and they began to regret their presence and to say sayings. The meaning of their souls had worried them is that they were driven to worry, and worry is what you are concerned with. It is said: The thing worried me meaning it was from my concern, and an important matter is severe. And the matter worried me and made me anxious, and worry melted me. The waw in his saying and a group is the waw of the state meaning when, meaning when a group thought that the matter of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, was false and that he would not be victorious. The thought of the Age of Ignorance means the thought of the Age of Ignorance, so it was deleted. "They say: Do we have any part in the matter?" Its wording is a question and its meaning is denial, meaning we have no part in the matter, meaning the matter of going out. We only went out reluctantly, as indicated by the saying of God Almighty, informing us about them: If we had any part in the matter, we would not have been killed here. Al-Zubayr said: Sleep was sent upon us that day, and I heard the people of Mu'tab bin Qushair and drowsiness overcame me saying: If We have something to do with the matter that we were killed here. It was said: The meaning is that he says we have nothing to do with the victory that Muhammad promised us, and God knows best.

God the Almighty said: "Say: The whole matter is God's." Abu Amr and Yaquub read all of it in the nominative case as the subject and its predicate is to God, and the sentence is the predicate of in, and it is like His saying: And on the Day of Resurrection you will see those who lied about God, their faces will be blackened (al-Zumar 39:60), and the rest in the accusative case, as you say: The whole matter is God's, so it is an emphasis, and it means all in encompassing and generalizing, and all can only be an emphasis, and it was said that it is an attribute of the matter, and Al-Akbfash said: It is a substitute, meaning victory is in the hand of God, He gives victory to whomever He wills and lets down whomever He wills, and Juwaybir said on the authority of Ad-Dahhak on the authority of Ibn Abbas regarding His saying: They think about God other than the truth, the thought of the ignorant, meaning the denial of destiny, and that is because they spoke about it, so God the Almighty said: "Say: The whole matter is God's," meaning destiny, its good and evil from God, they hide within themselves, meaning of polytheism, disbelief and denial, that which they do not reveal to you, "they reveal," saying: If we had any part in the matter, we would not have been killed here. What killed our tribes? It was said: The hypocrites said: If we had reason, we would not have gone out to fight the people of Mecca, and our leaders would not have been killed. God responded to them and said: "Say: If you had been in your houses, those upon whom killing was decreed would have gone out" meaning in the Preserved Tablet, to their resting places meaning their places of death. It was said: Death was decreed upon them meaning fighting was decreed upon them, so it was expressed as killing, because it could lead to it. Abu Haywah read labaraz with a damma on the ya and a shaddah on the ra, meaning he would make him go out. It was said: If you, O hypocrites, had stayed behind, you would have gone out to another place other than it, where you would be defeated until God tests what is in the hearts and reveals it to the believers. The waw in His statement and to test is inserted like His statement: and to be among those who are certain (Al-An'am: 75), meaning to be, and the verb with the lam of ki was deleted, and the meaning is: God what is in your hearts and to purify what is in your hearts, and God is Knowing. God imposed fighting and war upon you and He will give you victory on the Day of Uhud to test your patience and to purify your sins if you repent and are sincere. It was said: The meaning of to test is to treat you as someone who tests. It was said: So that you may witness what He knows in secret. It was said: It is with the deletion of an adjective, and the meaning is to test the friends of God Almighty. The meaning of testing has already been presented, with what is in the hearts meaning what is in them of good and evil. It was said: The heart of the heart is the chest, because the heart of the thing is itself.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The Almighty says, thanking His servants for what He sent down upon them of tranquility and security, which is the drowsiness that overcame them while they were ready to carry their weapons in a state of worry and grief, and drowsiness in such a state is evidence of safety, as the Almighty said in Surat Al-Anfal in the story of Badr, When drowsiness overcame you as a security from Him the verse, and Ibn Abi Hatim said: Abu Saeed Al-Ashj told us, Abu Naeem Waki' told us, on the authority of Sufyan, on the authority of Asim, on the authority of Abu Razin, on the authority of Abdullah bin Masoud, who said: Drowsiness in battle is from God and in prayer is from Satan, and Al-Bukhari said and Khalifa told me: Yazid bin Zurai' told us, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, on the authority of Anas, on the authority of Abu Talha, who said: I was among those who were overcome by drowsiness on the day of Uhud, until my sword fell from my hand repeatedly, it would fall and I would catch it, and it would fall and I would catch it, and thus he narrated it in Al-Maghazi with a chain of transmission, and he narrated it in the Book of Interpretation with a chain of transmission on the authority of Shaiban On the authority of Qatada, on the authority of Anas, on the authority of Abu Talha, he said: We were overcome by drowsiness while we were in our ranks on the day of Uhud. He said: My sword kept falling from my hand and I would grab it, and it would fall and I would grab it. It was narrated by Al-Tirmidhi, Al-Nasa'i and Al-Hakim from the hadith of Hammad bin Salamah, from Thabit, from Anas, from Abu Talhah, who said: I raised my head on the day of Uhud and looked, and there was not one of them that day except that he was leaning under his veil from drowsiness. The wording of Al-Tirmidhi, who said: Hasan Sahih. It was also narrated by Al-Nasa'i, from Muhammad bin Al-Muthanna, from Khalid bin Al-Harith, from Abu Qutaybah, from Ibn Abi Uday, both of them from Humayd, from Anas, who said: Abu Talhah said: I was among those upon whom drowsiness was cast. The hadith, and this is how it was narrated from Al-Zubayr and Abd Al-Rahman bin Awf. Al-Bayhaqi said: Abu Abdullah Al-Hafiz told us, Abu Al-Husayn Muhammad bin Ya'qub told me, Muhammad bin Ishaq Al-Thaqafi told us, Muhammad bin Abdullah bin Al-Mubarak Al-Makhzumi told us, Yunus bin Muhammad told us, Shaiban told us from Qatada, Anas bin Malik told us that Abu Talhah said: Drowsiness overcame us while we were in our ranks on the day of Uhud, so my sword was placed on the ground. It falls from my hand and I pick it up and it falls and I pick it up. He said: The other group, the hypocrites, have no concern but themselves, the most cowardly, reckless and neglectful of the truth. They think about God other than the truth, the thought of the Age of Ignorance. That is, they are liars, people of doubt and suspicion about God Almighty. This is how he narrated it with this addition, as if it were the words of Qatada, may God have mercy on him, and it is as he said, for God Almighty says: Then He sent down upon you, after the distress, security, a drowsiness that overcame a party of you. That is, the people of faith, certainty, steadfastness and sincere trust, and they are those who are certain that God Almighty will support His Messenger and fulfill his hopes. For this reason, He said: And a party whose souls are concerned, that is, they are not overcome by drowsiness from anxiety, panic and fear. They think about God other than the truth, the thought of the Age of Ignorance. As He said in the other verse: Rather, you thought that the Messenger and the believers would never return to their families. to the end of the verse. And thus these people believed that when the polytheists appeared at that moment, it was the decisive moment and that Islam and its people had perished. This is the way of the people of doubt and suspicion when something happens. The terrible thing is that these heinous suspicions happen to them, then the Almighty told about them that they say in that situation Do we have any part in the matter? So the Almighty said: "Say: The matter is entirely God's. They conceal within themselves that which they do not reveal to you." Then He explained what they concealed within themselves by saying: "They say: If we had any part in the matter, we would not have been killed here." That is, they concealed this statement from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. Ibn Ishaq said: Yahya bin Ibad bin Abdullah bin Az-Zubayr told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Abdullah bin Az-Zubayr, who said: Az-Zubayr said: I saw myself with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, when fear became intense for us, God sent sleep upon us, and there was not a man among us except that his chin was on his chest. He said: By God, I hear the words of Mu'tab bin Qushayr, and I hear them only as if they were in a dream, saying: If we had any part in the matter, we would not have been killed here. So I memorized it from him, and in that regard God revealed: "They say: If we had any part in the matter, we would not have been killed here," based on the words of Mu'tab. Narrated by Ibn Abi Hatim. God the Almighty said: "Say: 'If you had been in your houses, those for whom death was decreed would have come forth to their deathbeds.' " That is, this is a decree that God the Almighty has decreed and a definite judgment from which there is no escape or escape. God the Almighty said: And that God may test what is in your breasts and purify what is in your hearts. That is, He tests you with what happened to you to distinguish the wicked from the good and to reveal to people the matter of the believer from the hypocrite in words and deeds. And God is Knowing of that within the breasts. That is, what is in the breasts of the secrets and consciences. Then God the Almighty said: Indeed, those of you who turned back on the day the two armies met, Satan caused them to slip only because of what they had earned. That is, because of some of their previous sins, as some of the predecessors said: The reward for a good deed is a good deed after it, and the punishment for a bad deed is a bad deed after it. Then God the Almighty said: And God has pardoned

Surat Al Imran 3:154

Then, after the distress, He sent down upon you security - a drowsiness that overcame a party of you, and a party who were concerned about themselves, assuming about God other than the truth - an assumption of the times of ignorance. They said, "Do we have any say in the matter?" Say, "Indeed, the matter, all of it, belongs to God." They conceal within themselves what they do not disclose to you, saying, "If we had any say in the matter, we would not have been killed here." Say, "If you had been in Your houses, so that those upon whom death was decreed may go forth to their beds, and that God may test what is in your breasts and purify what is in your hearts. And God is Knowing of that within the breasts.

them. That is, what they had done of fleeing. Indeed, God is Forgiving and Forbearing. That is, He forgives sins and is patient with His creation and overlooks them. The hadith of Ibn Umar regarding Uthman and his turning back on the day of Uhud was presented, and that God pardoned him along with those who pardoned. On their authority when he said: And God has pardoned them. And it is appropriate to mention it here. Imam Ahmad said: Muawiyah bin Amr told us, Zaidah told us, on the authority of Asim, on the authority of Shuqaiq, who said: Abd al-Rahman bin Awf met al-Walid bin Uqbah, and al-Walid said to him: Why do I see you being so estranged from the Commander of the Faithful, Uthman? Abd al-Rahman said to him: Tell him that I did not flee on the day of Hunayn. Asim said: He says on the day of Uhud 11: And I did not stay behind from Badr, and I did not abandon the Sunnah of Umar. He said: So go and tell Uthman about that. He said: Uthman said: As for his saying that I did not flee on the day of Hunayn, how can he reproach me for a sin that God has pardoned? God the Almighty said: "Indeed, those of you who turned back on the day the two armies met, Satan only made them slip because of some of what they had earned. But God has pardoned them." As for his saying that I stayed behind on the day of Badr, I was nursing Ruqayyah, the daughter of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, until she died, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, struck me with an arrow, and whoever the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, struck an arrow for, then he has testified. As for his saying that I abandoned the Sunnah of Umar, then I do not... I can't stand her and neither can he, so go and tell him about it.

Fath al-Qadir

Security and security are the same. It was said that security is only with causes of fear, and security is with its absence. It is accusative with anzala. Na'asan is a substitute for it or an explanatory apposition or an object for it. As for what was said that amna is a state of na'as that precedes it or a state of the addressees or an object for it, then that is far-fetched. Ibn Muhaisin read amna with a sukoon on the meem. His statement 154- Yaghsha was read with a lower case on the basis that the pronoun refers to sleepiness and with a higher case on the basis that the pronoun refers to security. The other group is Mu'tab bin Qushair and his companions. They had gone out hoping for the spoils and they began to call for attendance and say sayings. The meaning of they worried themselves is that they were worried, the matter worried me and made me anxious. The and in his statement and a group is for the state, and it is permissible to begin with an indefinite noun because it depends on the and of the state. It was said that the meaning of they worried themselves is that their concern became their only concern. They think about God other than the truth This sentence is in the accusative case as a state: that is, they think about God other than the truth that should be thought about, and the thought of the Jahiliyyah is a substitute for it. It is the thought specific to the religion of Jahiliyyah, or the thought of the people of Jahiliyyah, which is their thought that the matter of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, is false, and that what he called for from the religion of truth will not be supported or fulfilled. His statement they say is a substitute for they think meaning: they say to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, Do we have any part in the matter? meaning: Do we have a share in the matter of God? The meaning of this question is denial: that is, we do not have any part in the matter. It is victory and supremacy over the enemy. It was said that it is the exit: that is, we only went out under duress. So God, the Most High, responded to them by saying, Say, 'Indeed, the matter is entirely God's. Neither you nor your enemy have any share of it, so victory is in His hand and triumph is from Him. And His saying, They conceal it within themselves, means: They conceal hypocrisy within themselves and do not reveal it to you, rather they ask you the question of those seeking guidance. And His saying, They say, 'If we had any part in the matter, we would not have been killed here,' is a new question, as if it was said: What is the matter that they conceal within themselves? So it was said: They say among themselves or within themselves, If we had any part in the matter, we would not have been killed here, meaning: those who were killed in this battle would not have been killed. So God, the Most High, responded to them by saying, Say, 'If you had been in your houses, those upon whom killing was decreed would have gone forth to their deathbeds,' meaning: If you had been sitting in your houses, there would have been no escape from those upon whom killing was decreed going out to these places where they were killed, for the decree of God cannot be reversed. His saying, And that God may test what is in your hearts, is a reason for an action that was understood before it, conjoined with other reasons for it that are folded to indicate their abundance, as if it were said: Perhaps what he did was for many interests, and that God may test, etc. It was said that it is conjoined with a folded reason that was prominent, and the meaning is: To test what is in your hearts of sincerity, and to purify what is in your hearts of the whisperings of Satan.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

154- Then He sent down upon you, O group of Muslims, after the distress, security, drowsiness. That is, security. Security and safety have the same meaning. It was said that security is when the cause of fear disappears, and safety is when the cause of fear remains. The cause of fear here was present, sleeping, instead of safety. It covers a group of you. Hamza and Al-Kisa'i read covers with a ta' referring to safety, and the others read it with a ya' referring to drowsiness.

Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with him, said: He will make them feel safe on that day, but they will be overcome by drowsiness. Only those who feel safe doze, and those who are afraid will not sleep.

Abdul Wahid Al-Malhi told us, Ahmad bin Abdullah Al-Naimi told us, Muhammad bin Yusuf told us, Muhammad bin Ismail told us, Ishaq bin Ibrahim bin Abdul Rahman told us, Hussein bin Muhammad told us, Shaiban told us, Qatada told us, Anas told us that Abu Talha said: We were overcome by drowsiness while we were in our ranks on the day of Uhud. He said: My sword kept falling from my hand, so I would grab it, and it would fall, and I would grab it.

Thabit said on the authority of Anas on the authority of Abu Talha, who said: I raised my head on the day of Uhud and I did not see anyone among the people except that he was leaning under his covers from drowsiness.

Abdullah bin Al-Zubayr bin Al-Awam said: I saw myself with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, when the war became intense against us. God sent sleep upon us. By God, I hear the words of Mu'tab bin Qushair, and drowsiness overwhelms me. I hear it only as if it were a dream. They say: If we had any control over the matter, we would not have been killed here. This is what God Almighty says: It overwhelms a party of you, meaning the believers, and a party whose souls are concerned, meaning the hypocrites. It was said: God intended by this to distinguish the hypocrites from the believers, so He caused drowsiness to fall upon the believers until they felt secure, but He did not cause sleep upon the hypocrites, so they remained in fear while their souls were concerned, meaning: It caused them to worry. It is said: An important matter.

They think of God other than the truth meaning: He will not support Muhammad. It was said that they thought that Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, had been killed. The thought of the Age of Ignorance meaning: like the thought of the people of ignorance and polytheism. "They say: Do we have anything?" meaning: What is ours? Its wording is a question and its meaning is: denial. Of the matter of something meaning: victory. "Say: The matter is entirely God's." The people of Basra read it with the lam raised as the subject and its predicate in God. The others read it with the accusative as a substitute and it was said: as an attribute.

They conceal within themselves what they do not reveal to you. They say, If we had any say in the matter, we would not have been killed here. This is because the hypocrites said to one another: If we had had sense, we would not have gone out with Muhammad to fight the people of Mecca, and our leaders would not have been killed. And it was said: If we were on the right path, we would not have been killed here.

Ad-Dahhak said on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both: They think of God other than the truth, the pre-Islamic assumption, meaning: the denial of predestination, which is their saying: If we had any part in the matter, we would not have been killed here, "Say: If you had been in your houses, those upon whom killing has been decreed would have come forth to their places of death," their places of death, and that God may test, and God may examine, what is in your breasts and purify, bring out and reveal, "what is in your hearts. And God is Knowing of that within the breasts," what is in the hearts of good and evil.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

154 Then He sent down upon you, after the distress, security, drowsiness. God sent down upon you security until drowsiness overcame you. Abu Talha said: Drowsiness overcame us in the ranks until the sword would fall from the hand of one of us and he would grab it, then it would fall and he would grab it. Security is security in the accusative case as the object and drowsiness is a substitute for it or it is the object, and security is a state of it that comes before it or an object for it or a state of those addressed in the sense of those with security or that it is a plural of secure, great and righteous. Security was read with a sukoon on the meem as if it were the time in the command overwhelms a group of you meaning drowsiness. Hamza and Al-Kisa'i read it with a ta' in response to security. The group are the true believers. A group are the hypocrites. Their souls have worried them their souls have caused them to fall into worries, or what concerns them is nothing but themselves and seeking their deliverance. They think about God other than the truth, the thought of the Age of Ignorance is another description of a group or state or a resumption of the explanation of what came before it, and other than the truth is in the accusative case as a source, meaning: they think about God other than the true thought that is right to think about Him, and the thought of the Age of Ignorance is its substitute, and it is the thought specific to the Age of Ignorance religion and its people. They say meaning to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and it is a substitute for they think. Do we have any part in the matter? Do we have any share in what God has commanded and promised of victory and triumph? It was said: Ibn Abi was informed of the killing of Banu Khazraj and he said that, and the meaning is that we were prevented from managing and disposing of ourselves by our own choice, so nothing of the matter remains for us, or will this oppression be removed from us so that we will have any part of the matter? "Say: The matter is entirely God's" meaning the true victory is for God the Most High and for His friends, for the party of God are the victorious, or the judgment is His, so He does what He wills and rules as He wills, and it is an objection. Abu Amr and Yaquub read it all in the nominative case as the beginning. They conceal within themselves what they do not reveal to you is a state of the pronoun they say, meaning they say, showing that they are seeking guidance and seeking victory, nullifying denial and lie. They say meaning within themselves and when some of them are alone with others, and it is a substitute for they conceal or a resumption of the explanation of it. If we had any part in the matter as Muhammad promised or claimed that the matter is entirely for God and His friends, or if we had choice and planning and did not leave as Ibn Abi and others did. We would not have been killed here we would not have been defeated, or those of us who were killed in this battle would not have been killed. Say, 'If you had been in your houses, those upon whom killing was decreed would have gone forth to their places of death' meaning those upon whom killing was decreed by God and which He wrote in the Preserved Tablet would have gone forth to their places of death, and staying in the city would not have benefited them, and none of them would have escaped, for He has decreed and managed all matters in His previous judgment, and there is no objection to His judgment. And that God may test what is in your hearts and to examine what is in your hearts and reveal their secrets of sincerity and hypocrisy. This is the reason for an omitted verb, meaning, And He did that to test or in apposition to an omitted verb, meaning, to reveal the fulfillment of the decree or for many interests and for the test, or so that you will not grieve. "And that He may purify what is in your hearts" and to reveal it and distinguish it or rid it of whispers. And God is Knowing of that within the breasts of their secrets, rarely revealing them. It contains a promise and a threat and a warning that He does not need to test, and He only did that to train the believers and reveal the state of the hypocrites.

Surat Al Imran 3:154

Then, after the distress, He sent down upon you security - a drowsiness that overcame a party of you, and a party who were concerned about themselves, assuming about God other than the truth - an assumption of the times of ignorance. They said, "Do we have any say in the matter?" Say, "Indeed, the matter, all of it, belongs to God." They conceal within themselves what they do not disclose to you, saying, "If we had any say in the matter, we would not have been killed here." Say, "If you had been in Your houses, so that those upon whom death was decreed may go forth to their beds, and that God may test what is in your breasts and purify what is in your hearts. And God is Knowing of that within the breasts.

Surat Al Imran 3:155

Indeed, those of you who turned back on the day the two armies met, it was Satan who caused them to slip because of some of what they had earned. And God has already pardoned them. Indeed, God is Forgiving and Forbearing.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

Indeed, those of you who turned back from fighting on the day the two armies met the group of Muslims and the group of disbelievers at Uhud - they were the Muslims except for twelve men it was only Satan who caused them to slip caused them to slip by his whispering (because of some of what they had earned) of sins, which was disobeying the command of the Prophet (and God has pardoned them. Indeed, God is Forgiving) of the believers and Forbearing He does not hasten upon the disobedient.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: By that, may His praise be glorified, He means: Those of the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, who turned away from the polytheists on the day of Uhud and fled from them.

His saying: They turned away, they turned away, from their saying: So-and-so turned his back.

His saying: On the day the two armies met, meaning: on the day the polytheists and Muslims met at Uhud, it was only Satan who caused them to slip, meaning: it was Satan who called them to slip.

His saying: He slipped is derived from the verb to slip. A slip is a sin.

For some of what they have earned, meaning for some of the sins they committed, and God has pardoned them, meaning: God has overlooked the punishment for their sins and has forgiven them for them. Indeed, God is Forgiving, meaning: He covers the sins of those who believe in Him and follow His Messenger, by pardoning them for their punishment. Forbearing, meaning that He is patient and does not hasten to punish those who disobey Him and go against His command.

Then the people of interpretation differed regarding the notables of the people meant by this verse.

Some of them said: It means everyone who turned his back on the polytheists at Uhud.

Who said that?

Abu Hisham Al-Rafai told us, he said, Abu Bakr bin Ayyash told us, he said, Asim bin Kulayb told us, on the authority of his father, he said: Umar delivered a sermon on Friday and recited Al Imran, and he liked to recite it when he preached. When he reached the verse: Indeed, those of you who turned back on the day the two armies met, he said: When the day of Uhud came, we defeated them, so I fled until I climbed the mountain. I saw myself running away as if I were a camel, and the people were saying: Muhammad has been killed! I said: I will not find anyone who says: Muhammad has been killed, except that I will kill him! Until we gathered on the mountain, then the verse: Indeed, those of you who turned back on the day the two armies met, was revealed, the whole verse.

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: Indeed, those of you who turned back on the day the two armies met, the verse, and that was on the day of Uhud, we are safe from the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, they turned back from the fighting and from the Prophet of God on that day, and that was from the matter of Satan and his intimidation, so God Almighty revealed what you hear: that He had pardoned them for that and forgiven them.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Ishaq told us, he said, Abdullah bin Abi Ja'far told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-Rabi' regarding his statement: Indeed, those among you who turned back on the day the two armies met, the verse, then he mentioned something similar to what Qatada said.

Others said: Rather, he meant by that specifically those who turned their backs on that day. They said: Rather, he meant by that those of them who went to Medina, not others.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Al-Hussein told us, Ahmad told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi, who said: When they were defeated that day, the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, dispersed. Some of them entered the city, and some of them went up the mountain to the rock and stood on it. Then God Almighty mentioned those who were defeated and entered the city, and He said: Indeed, those of you who turned back on the day the two armies met, the verse.

Others said: Rather, this was revealed about specific, well-known men.

Who said that?

Al-Qasim told us, Al-Husayn told us, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, who said, Ikrimah said, regarding his statement: Indeed, those of you who turned back on the day the two armies met, he said: It was revealed regarding Rafi' ibn al-Mu'alla and others from the Ansar, and Abu Hudhayfah ibn Utbah and another man. Ibn Jurayj said: And his statement: It was only Satan who caused them to slip because of some of what they had earned, but God has already pardoned them, because He did not punish them.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq, he said: Uthman ibn Affan, Uqbah ibn Uthman, and Sa'd ibn Uthman - two men from the Ansar - fled until they reached Al-Jal'ab, a mountain in the vicinity of Madinah, near Al-'A' was - and they stayed there for three days, then they returned to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and he said to them: You have gone too far in it!!

Surat Al Imran 3:155

Indeed, those of you who turned back on the day the two armies met, it was Satan who caused them to slip because of some of what they had earned. And God has already pardoned them.

Indeed, God is Forgiving and Forbearing.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq, his saying: Indeed, those of you who turned back on the day the two armies met - Satan only caused them to slip because of some of what they had earned verse, and those whom Satan caused to slip were: Uthman ibn Affan, Sa'd ibn Uthman, and Uqbah ibn Uthman, the two Ansars, then the two Zargas.

As for his saying: And God has pardoned them, its meaning is: And God has pardoned those of you who turned away on the day the two armies met, that He would not punish them for turning away from their enemy, as:

Al-Qasim told us, he said, Al-Hussein told us, he said, Hajjaj told me, he said, Ibn Jurayj said, his statement: And God has pardoned them, means: And God has pardoned them, because He did not punish them.

Yunus told me, he said, Ibn Wahb told us, he said, Ibn Zayd said regarding his statement about their turning away on the day of Uhud 11: And God has pardoned them, so I do not know whether that pardon is for that group, or pardon for all Muslims?

We have previously explained the interpretation of his saying: Indeed, God is Forgiving and Forbearing.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

God Almighty says: "Indeed, those of you who turned back on the day the two armies met - it was Satan who caused them to slip because of some of what they had earned. But God has pardoned them. Indeed, God is Forgiving and Forbearing."

God the Almighty said: The devil caused them to slip because of some of what they had earned. This sentence is the predicate of Indeed, those who turned away, and what is meant is those who turned away from the polytheists on the day of Uhud, according to Umar, may God be pleased with him, and others. As-Suddi said: He means those who fled to Medina at the time of their defeat, not those who climbed the mountain. It was said: It was about specific people who stayed behind from the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, at the time of their defeat for three days, then they turned away. The meaning of the devil caused them to slip is that he called for their slipping by reminding them of past sins from them, so they hated to remain steadfast lest they be killed, and this is the meaning of because of some of what they had earned. It was said: He caused them to slip and it is a verb derived from zalah, which is a sin. It was said: Zal and aza have the same meaning. Then it was said: They hated to fight before sincerely repenting, so they turned away for this reason. This is according to the first statement, and according to the second, by their disobedience to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, in abandoning the position and inclining toward the spoils. Al-Hasan said: What they had earned is their acceptance of what Satan whispered to them. Al-Kalbi said: Satan made them seem good to them. Their actions, and it was said: The defeat was not a sin, because they wanted to fortify themselves in the city, so that the enemy would cut off his hope for them when they heard that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, was killed, and it is permissible to say: They did not hear the supplication of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, due to the terror they were in, and it is permissible to say: The number of the enemy more than doubled, because they were seven hundred and the enemy was three thousand, and at this point the defeat is permissible, but the defeat of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, is a mistake that is not permissible, and perhaps they imagined that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, also took refuge in the mountain, and the first is better, and in general, if the matter is attributed to a proven sin, then God has forgiven it, and if it is attributed to a justified defeat, then the verse is about those who went far in the defeat and exceeded the justified limit, and Abu al-Layth al-Samarqandi mentioned Nasr bin Muhammad bin Ibrahim, he said: Al-Khalil bin Ahmad told us, he said Al-Siraj told us, he said Qutaybah told us, he said Abu Bakr bin Ghailan told us on the authority of Jarir: That there was a conversation between Uthman and Abd al-Rahman bin Awf, so Abd al-Rahman bin Awf said to him: Do you curse me when you witnessed Badr and you did not witness it, and He pledged allegiance under the tree but did not pledge allegiance. You were appointed with those who were appointed on the day of assembly, meaning the day of Uhud. Uthman responded to him and said: As for your saying: I witnessed Badr and you did not, I did not miss anything that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, witnessed, except that the daughter of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was sick and I was with her, tending to her. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, gave me a share among the shares of the Muslims. As for the pledge of allegiance under the tree, the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent me as a watchman over the polytheists in Mecca. The watchman is the observer, so the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, struck his right hand over his left and said: This is for Uthman, for the right hand of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his left hand is better for me than my right hand and my left hand. As for the day of assembly, God Almighty said: And God has pardoned them, so I was among those whom God pardoned. So Uthman performed the Hajj with Abd al-Rahman.

I said: This meaning is also correct from Ibn Umar, as in Sahih al-Bukhari. He said: Abdun told us, Abu Hamza told us, on the authority of Uthman bin Muhab, who said: "A man came to perform Hajj to the House and saw some people sitting, so he said: Who are these people sitting? They said: These are Quraysh. He said: Who is the old man? They said: Ibn Umar. So he came to him and said: I am going to ask you about something that you will tell me. He said: I ask you by the sanctity of this House, do you know that Uthman bin Affan fled on the day of Uhud? He said: Yes. He said: Do you know that he was absent from Badr and did not witness it? He said: Yes. He said: Do you know that he stayed away from the Pledge of Ridwan and did not witness it? He said: Yes. He said: Say Allahu Akbar. Ibn Umar said: Come, so I may tell you and explain to you what you asked me about. As for his fleeing on the day of Uhud, I bear witness that God has pardoned him. As for his absence from Badr, he had the daughter of the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) under him and she was sick. So the Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) said to him: You will have the reward and share of a man who witnessed Badr. As for his absence from the Pledge of Ridwan, if he had been one of the most honorable in the valley of Mecca, from Uthman bin Affan, to send him in his place, so he sent Uthman, and the Pledge of Ridwan was after Uthman went to Mecca, so the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said with his right hand: This is the hand of Uthman, so he struck his hand with it and said: This is for Uthman, go with this now with you.

I said: Similar to this verse is God's repentance to Adam, peace be upon him, and His saying, peace be upon him: "So Adam and Moses argued," meaning He defeated him with the argument. This is because Moses, peace be upon him, wanted to rebuke Adam and blame him for expelling himself and his offspring from Paradise because of his eating from the tree, so Adam said to him: Do you blame me for something that God Almighty decreed for me forty years before I was created, and he who repents to him has no sin, and he who has no sin is blamed, and likewise he who God pardons, and this was only because God Almighty informed him of that, and His report is true, and others of the repentant sinners hope for His mercy and fear His punishment, so they are in fear and apprehension that their repentance will not be accepted, and if it is accepted, then the fear is overwhelming them since they do not know about that, so know.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The Almighty says, thanking His servants for what He sent down upon them of tranquility and security, which is the drowsiness that overcame them while they were ready to carry their weapons in a state of worry and grief, and drowsiness in such a state is evidence of safety, as the Almighty said in Surat Al-Anfal in the story of Badr, When drowsiness overcame you as a security from Him the verse, and Ibn Abi Hatim said: Abu Saeed Al-Ashji told us, Abu Naeem Waki' told us, on the authority of Sufyan, on the authority of Asim, on the authority of Abu Razin, on the authority of Abdullah bin Masoud, who said: Drowsiness in battle is from God and in prayer is from Satan, and Al-Bukhari said and Khalifa told me: Yazid bin Zurair' told us, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, on the authority of Anas, on the authority of Abu Talha, who said: I was among those who were overcome by drowsiness on the day of Uhud, until my sword fell from my hand repeatedly, it would fall and I would catch it, and it would fall and I would catch it, and thus he narrated it in Al-Maghazi with a chain of transmission, and he narrated it in the Book of Interpretation with a chain of transmission on the authority of Shaiban On the authority of Qatada, on the authority of Anas, on the authority of Abu Talha, he said: We were overcome by drowsiness while we were in our ranks on the day of Uhud. He said: My sword kept falling from my hand and I would grab it, and it would fall and I would grab it. It was narrated by Al-Tirmidhi, Al-Nasa'i and Al-Hakim from the hadith of Hamad bin Salamah, from Thabit, from Anas, from Abu Talhah, who said: I raised my head on the day of Uhud and looked, and there was not one of them that day except that he was leaning under his veil from drowsiness. The wording of Al-Tirmidhi, who said: Hasan Sahih. It was also narrated by Al-Nasa'i, from Muhammad bin Al-Muthanna, from Khalid bin Al-Harith, from Abu Qutaybah, from Ibn Abi Uday, both of them from Humayd, from Anas, who said: Abu Talhah said: I was among those upon whom drowsiness was cast. The hadith, and this is how it was narrated from Al-Zubayr and Abd Al-Rahman bin Awf. Al-Bayhaqi said: Abu Abdullah Al-Hafiz told us, Abu Al-Husayn Muhammad bin Ya'qub told me, Muhammad bin Ishaq Al-Thaqafi told us, Muhammad bin Abdullah bin Al-Mubarak Al-Makhzumi told us, Yunus bin Muhammad told us, Shaiban told us from Qatada, Anas bin Malik told us that Abu Talhah said: Drowsiness overcame us while we were in our ranks on the day of Uhud, so my sword was placed on the ground. It falls from my hand and I pick it up and it falls and I pick it up. He said: The other group, the hypocrites, have no concern but themselves, the most cowardly, reckless and neglectful of the truth. They think about God other than the truth, the thought of the Age of Ignorance. That is, they are liars, people of doubt and suspicion about God Almighty. This is how he narrated it with this addition, as if it were the words of Qatada, may God have mercy on him, and it is as he said, for God Almighty says: Then He sent down upon you, after the distress, security, a drowsiness that overcame a party of you. That is, the people of faith, certainty, steadfastness and sincere trust, and they are those who are certain that God Almighty will support His Messenger and fulfill his hopes. For this reason, He said: And a party whose souls are concerned, that is, they are not overcome by drowsiness from anxiety, panic and fear. They think about God other than the truth, the thought of the Age of Ignorance. As He said in the other verse: Rather, you thought that the Messenger and the believers would never return to their families. to the end of the verse. And thus these people believed that when the polytheists appeared at that moment, it was the decisive moment and that Islam and its people had perished. This is the way of the people of doubt and suspicion when something happens. The terrible thing is that these heinous suspicions happen to them, then the Almighty told about them that they say in that situation Do we have any part in the matter? So the Almighty said: "Sari: The matter is entirely God's. They conceal within themselves that which they do not reveal to you.” Then He explained what they concealed within themselves by saying: “They say: If we had any part in the matter, we would not have been killed here.” That is, they concealed this statement from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. Ibn Ishaq said: Yahya bin Ibad bin Abdullah bin Az-Zubayr told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Abdullah bin Az-Zubayr, who said: Az-Zubayr said: I saw myself with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, when fear became intense for us, God sent sleep upon us, and there was not a man among us except that his chin was on his chest. He said: By God, I hear the words of Mu’tab bin Qushayr, and I hear them only as if they were in a dream, saying: If we had any part in the matter, we would not have been killed here. So I memorized it from him, and in that regard God revealed: “They say: If we had any part in the matter, we would not have been killed here,” based on the words of Mu’tab. Narrated by Ibn Abi Hatim. God the Almighty said: “Say: ‘If you had been in your houses, those for whom death was decreed would have come forth to their deathbeds.’” That is, this is a decree that God the Almighty has decreed and a definite judgment from which there is no escape or escape. God the Almighty said: And that God may test what is in your breasts and purify what is in your hearts. That is, He tests you with what happened to you to distinguish the wicked from the good and to reveal to people the matter of the believer from the hypocrite in words and deeds. And God is Knowing of that within the breasts. That is, what is in the breasts of the secrets and consciences. Then God the Almighty said: Indeed, those of you who turned back on the day the two armies met, Satan caused them to slip only because of what they had earned. That is, because of some of their previous sins, as some of the predecessors said: The reward for a good deed is a good deed after it, and the punishment for a bad deed is a bad deed after it. Then God the Almighty said: And God has pardoned them. That is, what they had done of fleeing. Indeed, God is Forgiving and Forbearing. That is, He forgives sins and is patient with His creation and overlooks them. The hadith of Ibn Umar regarding Uthman and his turning back on the day of Uhud was presented, and that God pardoned him along with those who pardoned. On their authority when he said: And God has pardoned them. And it is appropriate to mention it here. Imam Ahmad said: Muawiyah bin Amr told us, Zaidah told us, on the authority of Asim, on the authority of Shuqaiq, who said: Abd al-Rahman bin Awf met al-Walid bin Uqbah, and al-Walid said to him: Why do I see you being so estranged from the Commander of the Faithful, Uthman? Abd al-Rahman said to him: Tell him that I did not flee on the day of Hunayn. Asim said: He says on the day of Uhud 11: And I did not stay behind from Badr, and I did not abandon the Sunnah of Umar. He said: So go and tell Uthman about that. He said: Uthman said: As for his saying that I did not flee on the day of Hunayn, how can he reproach me for a sin that God has pardoned?

Indeed, those of you who turned back on the day the two armies met, it was Satan who caused them to slip because of some of what they had earned. And God has already pardoned them. Indeed, God is Forgiving and Forbearing.

God the Almighty said: “Indeed, those of you who turned back on the day the two armies met, Satan only made them slip because of some of what they had earned. But God has pardoned them.” As for his saying that I stayed behind on the day of Badr, I was nursing Ruqayyah, the daughter of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, until she died, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, struck me with an arrow, and whoever the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, struck an arrow for, then he has testified. As for his saying that I abandoned the Sunnah of Umar, then I do not... I can't stand her and neither can he, so go and tell him about it.

Fath al-Qadir

His statement 155 - Indeed, those of you who turned back on the day the two armies met meaning, they were defeated on the day of Uhud 11: It was said that the meaning is: Those who turned back to the polytheists on the day of Uhud were only caused to slip by Satan he caused them to slip because of some of the sins they had committed, including disobeying the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. And God has pardoned them because of their repentance and apology.

Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas regarding the verse, he said: God made them feel secure that day with a drowsiness that overcame them, and only he who feels secure feels drowsy. It has been proven in Sahih Al-Bukhari and others that Abu Talha said: We were overcome while we were in our ranks on the day of Uhud, and my sword kept falling from my hand and I would catch it, and it would fall and I would catch it. This is what God said: Then He sent down upon you, after the distress, security, a drowsiness Al-Madinah 14:15. Al-Tirmidhi narrated and authenticated it, and Ibn Jarir, Abu Al-Shaykh and Al-Bayhaqi in Al-Dala'il on the authority of Al-Zubayr bin Al-Awwam, he said: I raised my head on the day of Uhud and I kept looking, and there was not one of them except that he was leaning under his veil from drowsiness, and he recited this verse. Ibn Jarir and Ibn Al-Mundhir narrated on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, he said: The hypocrites said to Abdullah bin Ubayy, who was the leader of al-Munafiqun 63: Banu Khazraj were killed today, so he said: Do we have any say in the matter? By God, if we return to Medina, the more honorable will expel the more humble. Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of Qatada and Ar-Rabi' regarding his statement, the suspicion of the Age of Ignorance, he said: the suspicion of the polytheists. Ibn Ishaq and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas, he said: Mu'tab is the one who said on the day of Uhud 11: If only we had a part in the matter. Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Al-Hasan that the one who said that was Abdullah bin Ubayy. Ibn Al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Abd Al-Rahman bin Awf regarding his statement, Indeed, those of you who turned back on the day the two armies met, he said: They are three, one from the Muhajireen and two from the Ansar. Ibn Mandah and Ibn Asakir narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas regarding the verse, he said: It was revealed about Uthman, Rafi' bin Al-Mu'alla, and Kharijah bin Zaid. Many narrations have been narrated about identifying those in the verse.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

155- Those of you who turned back meaning were defeated, of you, O group of Muslims, on the day the two armies met, the group of Muslims and the group of polytheists on the day of Uhud. Most of the Muslims had been defeated and there remained with the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, only thirteen men, six of whom were from the Muhajireen: Abu Bakr, Umar, Ali, Talhah, Abd al-Rahman ibn Awf, and Sa'd ibn Abi Waqqas, may God be pleased with them.

The Almighty said: It was only Satan who caused them to slip meaning: he sought their slip, as it is said: I hastened someone if you sought his haste. It was also said: he made them slip, which is the sin. It was also said: azla and istazala have the same meaning.

Because of some of what they had earned meaning: because of the evil of their sins. Some of them said: because of their abandonment of the position.

Al-Hasan said: What they had earned was their acceptance of what Satan whispered to them of defeat. "But God has pardoned them. Indeed, God is Forgiving and Forbearing."

Tafsir al-Baidawi

155 Indeed, those of you who turned back on the day the two armies met, Satan caused them to slip because of some of what they had earned. That is, the reason for those who were defeated on the day of Uhud was that Satan asked them to slip, so they obeyed him and committed sins to deceive the Prophet, peace and blessings be upon him, by abandoning their position and being greedy for the spoils or life, so they prevented support and strength of heart. It was said that Satan caused them to turn back because of sins they had committed, for sins lead to one another, just like obedience. It was also said that he caused them to slip because of the mention of past sins they had committed, so they hated to fight before sincerely repenting and leaving the injustice. And God has pardoned them because of their repentance and apology. Indeed, God is Forgiving of sins, Forbearing, He does not hasten to punish sins so that people may repent.

Surat Al Imran 3:156

O you who have believed, do not be like those who disbelieved and said about their brothers when they traveled throughout the land or were engaged in combat, "If they had been with us, they would not have died, nor were they killed," so that God may make that a regret within their hearts. And God gives life and causes death, and God is Seeing of what you do.

Surat Al Imran 3:156

O you who have believed, do not be like those who disbelieved and said about their brothers when they traveled throughout the land or were engaged in combat, If they had been with us, they would not have died, nor were they killed, so that God may make that a regret within their hearts. And God gives life and causes death, and God is Seeing of what you do.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

O you who have believed, do not be like those who disbelieved i.e. the hypocrites and said to their brothers i.e. concerning them when they set out traveled throughout the land and died or were warriors plural of warrior, so they were killed if they had been with us they would not have died nor been killed i.e. do not say as they said that God may make that the statement regarding the outcome of their affair (a regret in their hearts. And God gives life and causes death) so death is not prevented by sitting and God, of what you do with the taa and the yaa is Seeing so He will reward you for it.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: By that, may His praise be exalted, He means: O you who have believed in God and His Messenger and acknowledged what Muhammad brought from God, do not be like those who disbelieved in God and His Messenger, so they denied the prophethood of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said to their brothers among the disbelievers, When they travel through the land, and left their country on a journey for trade, or were on a raid, meaning: or their departure from their country was on a raid and they perished and died on their journey, or were killed in their raid, If they had been with us, they would not have died nor been killed, informing of the saying of these disbelievers that they say to those among them who fought and were killed, or died on a journey in which they went out in obedience to God, or for trade: If they had not left us and had stayed in their country, they would not have died nor been killed, so that God may make that a regret in their hearts, meaning: that they say that, so that God may make their saying that a sorrow and grief in their hearts, and they are ignorant that that is up to God, may He be glorified and exalted. His praise and his hand.

It has been said: Those whom God forbade the believers in this verse from imitating in what He forbade them from of having bad faith in God, are Abdullah bin Ubayy bin Salul and his companions.

Who said that?

Muhammad told me, he said, Ahmad told us, he said, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi: O you who have believed, do not be like those who disbelieved and said about their brothers the verse, he said: These are the hypocrites, the companions of Abdullah bin Ubay.

Muhammad bin Amr told me, he said, Abu Asim told us, on the authority of Isa, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding his statement: And they said to their brothers when they were travelling in the land or were engaged in war, these the statement of the hypocrite Abdullah bin Ubayy bin Salul.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Abu Hudhayfah told us, he said, Shabl told us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, similarly.

Others said about that: They are all hypocrites.

Who said that?

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: O you who have believed, do not be like those who disbelieved and said about their brothers the verse, meaning: Do not be like the hypocrites who forbid their brothers from jihad in the way of God and from traveling the earth in obedience to God and obedience to His Messenger, and they say when they die or are killed: If they had obeyed us, they would not have died and they would not have been killed.

As for his saying: When they travel through the land, there is a difference of opinion regarding its interpretation.

Some of them said: It is travelling for trade and walking on the earth to seek a living.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Al-Hussein told us, Ahmad bin Al-Mufaddal told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi: If they travel the earth, which is trade.

Others said: Rather, it is walking in obedience to God and obedience to His Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace.

Who said that?

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: When they travel the earth, traveling the earth in obedience to God and obedience to His Messenger.

The origin of striking the ground is to walk far away.

As for his saying: Or they were raiders, he means: Or they were raiders in the way of God.

Ghazi is the plural of Ghaz, the plural of Fa'l, just as Shahid is the plural of Shahid, and Qayil is the plural of Qawl. And the verse of Ru'bah may be recited:

Today I have finished my dream and my first dream is not a foolish one

And say: Except for this, there is no this

He also chants:

And they say: Except for this, there is no such thing

It was said: Do not be like those who disbelieved and said to their brothers when they traveled throughout the land or were fighting, so the past tense of the verb was accompanied by the letter that is not accompanied with the past tense except the future tense, so it was said: And they said to their brothers, then it was said: When they traveled, and the speech is said to me: I honored you when you visited me, and it is not said: I honored you when you visited me. Because the statement in His statement: And they said to their brothers, even if it is in the past tense, it has the meaning of the future. This is because the Arabs use who as a clause, and treat it in that as who and what, due to the similarity of the meanings of that in many things, and that all of them are unknown things that are not timed like the timing of Amr and Zaid.

So since that was the case, and it was correct and eloquent in speech to say to a man: Honor whoever honors you and honor every man who honors you, then the speech would be in the past tense with min and kull being unknown and meaning the future, since the one described by the action was not temporary, and those in His statement: Do not be like those who disbelieved and said to their brothers when they traveled throughout the land, were not temporary, it was made like min and ma in its translation that follows the method of the penalty, and its connection with the past tense of the verbs was excluded and it has the meaning of the future, as the poet said in ma:

I come to you to thank you for what has passed and to fulfill what will be in the future.

He said: What was in tomorrow, meaning: What will be in tomorrow. If he had meant the past, he would have said: What was in yesterday, and it would not have been permissible for him to say: What was in tomorrow.

If that which was temporary, it would not be permissible to say that. It is wrong to say: You will honor this one who honored you when you visit him, because that which here is temporary, so it has left the meaning of reward. If this were not in the speech, it would have been permissible and eloquent, because that which then becomes unknown is not temporary. And from that is the statement of God the Almighty: Indeed, those who disbelieve and avert [people] from the way of God (al-Hajj 22:25), so He responded to avert with disbelieve, because those is not temporary. So His statement: disbelieved, even though it is in the past tense, its meaning is the future. Likewise His statement: Except for those who repent, believe and do righteous deeds (Maryam 19:60), and His statement: Except for those who repent before you have them in your power (al-Ma'idah 5:34), meaning: except for those who repent before you have them in your power, and except for those who repent and believe. There are many similar examples in the Qur'an and speech, but the reason for all of that is the same.

As for his saying: So that God may make that a regret in their hearts, he means by that: sadness in their hearts, as:

Muhammad bin Amr told us, he said, Abu Asim told us, on the authority of Isa, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding his statement: in their hearts, he said: Their words sadden them, but they do not benefit them at all.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Abu Hudhayfah told us, he said, Shabl told us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, similarly.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: So that God may make that a regret in their hearts, due to their lack of certainty in their Lord, may His praise be exalted.

Abu Ja'far said: What He, may His praise be exalted, meant by His saying: And God gives life and causes death, is that God hastens death to whomever He wills from wherever He wills, and causes death to whomever He wills whenever He wills, unlike any other of His creation.

This is from God Almighty, encouraging His believing servants to fight His enemy and to be patient in fighting them, and to remove their awe from their hearts, even if their number is small and the number of their enemies and the enemies of God is large, and informing them that death and life are in His hand, and that no one will die or be killed except after the end of his appointed time, and forbidding them, since this is the case, to be distressed by the death of those among them who died or were killed in the war with the polytheists.

Then He, the Most High, said: And God is Seeing of what you do. He says: God sees what you do of good and evil, so fear Him, O believers, for He is the One who examines all of that, until He rewards every worker for his work according to what he deserves.

Ibn Ishaq said something similar to what we said about that.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: And God gives life and causes death, meaning: He hastens what He wills, and delays what He wills of their lives by His power.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

The Almighty said: O you who have believed, do not be like those who disbelieved meaning the hypocrites, and said to their brothers meaning in hypocrisy or in lineage in the raids that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent to Bir Ma'unah, if they had been with us, they would not have died or been killed so the Muslims were forbidden to say the same as they said, and His saying if they struck refers to what has passed, that is, when they struck, because in

Surat Al Imran 3:156

O you who have believed, do not be like those who disbelieved and said about their brothers when they traveled throughout the land or were engaged in combat, "If they had been with us, they would not have died, nor were they killed," so that God may make that a regret within their hearts. And God gives life and causes death, and God is Seeing of what you do.

the speech there is a meaning of condition, since those were vague and not timed, so if occurred as the past occurs in the conditional clause in place of the future, and the meaning of struck in the land is that they traveled in it and went for trade or something else and died, or were on a raid raiders and were killed, and the word ghazy is a defective plural that does not change its wording in the nominative and genitive, and its singular is ghazy, like rak'i and rak'u, and sa'im and sawm, and na'im and na'im, and shahed and shahed, and ghayb and ghayb, and in the plural ghazyis permissible, like qada and ghazy. With a long vowel, like darab and sawwam, and it is said: ghazi is the plural of ghazzah. The poet said:

Tell the caravans and the invaders when they invade

It was narrated on the authority of Al-Zuhri that he read it ghazī with a light pronunciation. Al-Maghziyah is the woman whose husband went on a raid, and a she-camel who gave birth late and then gave birth. A she-camel who was unable to conceive was called a ghazāt. Ghazwī is the intention of something, and al-Maghzā is the destination. It is said in relation to the raid: Ghazwī.

The Almighty says: That God may make that a regret in their hearts meaning their assumption and their saying, and the lam is related to His saying they said, meaning that He may make their assumption that if they had not gone out they would not have been killed a regret meaning remorse in their hearts and regret is concern for something that has passed and was not able to be attained. The poet said:

Alas, I did not fulfill my desires and did not enjoy the neighborhood and the closeness

It was said: It is related to something omitted, and the meaning is: Do not be like them, so that God may make that statement a regret in their hearts because their hypocrisy has become apparent. It was said: The meaning is do not believe them and do not pay attention to them, so that was a regret in their hearts. It was said: so that God may make that a regret in their hearts on the Day of Resurrection because of the shame and regret they are in, and because of the bliss and dignity that the Muslims are in.

The Almighty says: And God gives life and causes death. That is, He is able to give life to whoever goes out to fight, and cause death to whoever stays with his family. And God is Seeing of what you do. It was read with the letter ya and the letter ta. Then the Almighty informed us that being killed in the way of God and dying in it is better than the entire world.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

God Almighty forbids His believing servants from resembling the infidels in their corrupt belief, indicated by their statement about their brothers who died in travels and wars, if they had abandoned that what happened to them would not have happened to them, so God Almighty said: O you who have believed, do not be like those who disbelieved and said about their brothers meaning about their brothers when they traveled throughout the land meaning they traveled for trade and the like or were fighting meaning they were in a war if they had been with us meaning in the country they would not have died nor been killed meaning they would not have died in the travels, nor were they killed in the war. And God Almighty said: that God may make that a regret in their hearts meaning He created this belief in their souls so that they would increase their regret over their death and killing. Then God Almighty said in response to them: And God gives life and causes death meaning in His hand is creation and to Him the matter returns, and no one lives or dies except by His will and decree, and no one's life is increased or decreased except by His judgment and decree. And God is Knowing of what you do. "All-Seeing" means that His knowledge and insight are penetrating into all of His creation. Nothing of their affairs is hidden from Him. The Almighty's statement: And if you are killed in the cause of God or die, forgiveness from God and mercy are better than what they accumulate. This includes that killing in the cause of God and death as well are a means to attaining God's mercy, pardon and pleasure, and that is better than remaining in this world collecting its perishable debris. Then the Almighty informed us that everyone who dies or is killed, his fate and return is to God, the Almighty, the Majestic, and He will reward him for his deeds, if good then good, and if evil then evil, so the Almighty said: And if you die or are killed, to God you will be gathered.

Fath al-Qadir

His saying 156- Do not be like those who disbelieved They are the hypocrites who said: If we had any part in the matter, we would not be here. His saying And they said to their brothers in hypocrisy or in lineage: That is, they said on their behalf When they traveled through the land If they traveled in it for trade or something similar. It was said: If here is useful for the meaning of the future with the same meaning as when it is useful for the meaning of the past. It was said: It is in its meaning, and what is meant here is the narration of the past state. Al-Zajaj said: If here is a substitute for what has passed of time and what will come or they were a raid The plural of raid is like bowing and bowing, and absent and absent. The poet said:

Tell the caravans and the invaders when they invade

That God may make it a regret in their hearts. The lam is related to His statement, They said, meaning: They said that and believed it so that it would be a regret in their hearts. What is meant is that their belief that if they had not gone out they would not have been killed became a regret, or it is related to His statement, Do not be, meaning: Do not be like them in believing that so that God may make it a regret in their hearts only and not your hearts. It was said: The meaning is: Do not pay attention to them so that God may make your not paying attention to them a regret in their hearts. It was said: What is meant is a regret in their hearts on the Day of Resurrection because of the shame and remorse in it. And God gives life and causes death, in it is a response to their statement, meaning: That is in the hand of God, the Most High. He does what He wills and rules as He wills, so He gives life to whomever He wills and causes death to whomever He wills without travel or conquest having any effect on that.

ya as a warning to those who disbelieved.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

156- O you who have believed, do not be like those who disbelieved, meaning: the hypocrites Abdullah bin Ubayy and his companions, and said to their brothers, in hypocrisy and disbelief, and it was said: in lineage, when they traveled through the land meaning: traveled in it for trade or other, or were on a raid meaning: raiders, plural of raider, and killed, If they had been with us, they would not have died or been killed, so that God might make that meaning: their saying and their assumption, regret "anguish" in their hearts. And God gives life and causes death, and God is Seeing of what you do." Ibn Kathir, Hamza, and Al-Kisa'i read they work with a ya', and the others read it with a ta'.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

156 O you who have believed, do not be like those who disbelieved meaning the hypocrites. And they said to their brothers for their sake and in them, and the meaning of their brothers is their agreement in lineage or doctrine when they traveled in the land if they traveled in it and went far for trade or other, and it was right because of his saying they said, but it came as a narration of the past situation or they were a raid plural of raid is ka'a and af. If they had been with us, they would not have died or been killed the verbal noun of said indicates that their brothers were not addressed by it. That God may make that a regret in their hearts is related to they said on the basis that the lam is the lam of consequence like it in that he may be an enemy and a grief for them, or do not be, meaning do not be like them in uttering that saying and belief in order to make it a regret in their hearts in particular, so that is an indication of what their saying indicates of belief. It was said that it refers to what the prohibition indicates, i.e. do not be like them, so that God may make the fact that you are not like them a regret in their hearts, for opposing and contradicting them is what saddens them. And God gives life and causes death is a response to their statement, i.e. He is the one who influences life and death, not residence and travel, for He, the Most High, may give life to the traveler and the fighter and cause death to the resident and the seated. And God is Seeing of what you do is a threat to the believers that they should be like them. Ibn Kathir, Hamza, and Al-Kisa'i read it with the letter

Surat Al Imran 3:157

And if you are killed in the cause of God or die, forgiveness from God and mercy are better than what they accumulate.

Surat Al Imran 3:157

And if you are killed in the cause of God or die, forgiveness from God and mercy are better than what they accumulate.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And if the lam of an oath you are killed in the way of God meaning jihad or die with a damma on the meem and a kasra from matā yamūtu, death comes to you in it for forgiveness coming from God for your sins and mercy from Him to you for that, and the lam and what it contains is the answer to the oath and it is the subject of the verb, its predicate is better than what you accumulate of the world with the ta' and the ya'

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: God, the Most High, addresses His believing servants, saying to them: Do not be in doubt, O believers, that all matters are in God's hand, and that to Him belongs life and death, as the hypocrites doubted that, but strive in the cause of God and fight the enemies of God, certain that no one is killed in war or dies in a journey except he who has reached his appointed time and his death has come. Then He promised them forgiveness and mercy for their striving in His cause, and He informed them that death in the cause of God or being killed in the cause of God is better for them than what they accumulate in this world of its debris and its comfortable life for which they are reluctant to strive in the cause of God and delay meeting the enemy, as:

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: And if you are killed in the cause of God or die - forgiveness from God and mercy are better than what they accumulate, meaning: Death is inevitable, so death in the cause of God or being killed is better - if they knew and were certain - than what they accumulate in this world, for which they delay jihad, fearing death and being killed because of what they accumulated of the pleasures of this world, and out of asceticism in the Hereafter.

Abu Ja'far said: God Almighty said: For forgiveness from God and mercy is better than what they accumulate, and He began the speech: And if you die or are killed, by deleting the answer to if, because in His saying: For forgiveness from God and mercy is better than what they accumulate, there is the meaning of an answer to the reward, and that is because it is a promise that came out in the form of a report.

The interpretation of the statement: And if you are killed in the way of God or die, God will surely forgive you and have mercy upon you. He indicated that with his statement: Forgiveness from God and mercy are better than what they accumulate. He combined with the indication of it, the report of the superiority of that over what they prefer of this world and what they accumulate in it.

Some of the Arabists from Basra claimed that if it is said: How can for forgiveness from God and mercy be an answer to his statement: And if you are killed in the way of God or die? The correct way is to say it as if he said: And if you die or are killed, that is for you mercy from God and forgiveness, since that was in my way, so he said: for forgiveness from God and mercy, meaning: for that is better than what you accumulate, meaning: for that forgiveness and mercy is better than what you accumulate.

The letter lam was included in His statement: for forgiveness from God, because it was included in His statement: and if, as it was said: and if they aided them, they would turn their backs (al-Hashr 59:12).

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

God Almighty says: And if you are killed in the way of God or die - forgiveness from God and mercy are better than what they accumulate.

The answer to the penalty is omitted, and it was dispensed with by the answer to the oath in His statement: for forgiveness from God and mercy. It would have been more appropriate to dispense with the answer to the oath, because it is the beginning of the speech, and its meaning is that He will forgive you. The people of Hijaz say: matam, with a kasra on the m, like namattum, from mata yamout, like khafat yakhaf, and the lower Mudar say: matam, with a damma on the m, like samtum, from mata yamout, like you say kan yakun, and qala yaqool, this is the saying of the Kufians and it is good.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

God Almighty forbids His believing servants from resembling the infidels in their corrupt belief, indicated by their statement about their brothers who died in travels and wars, if they had abandoned that what happened to them would not have happened to them, so God Almighty said: O you who have believed, do not be like those who disbelieved and said about their brothers meaning about their brothers when they traveled throughout the land meaning they traveled for trade and the like or were fighting meaning they were in a war if they had been with us meaning in the country they would not have died nor been killed meaning they would not have died in the travels, nor were they killed in the war. And God Almighty said: that God may make that a regret in their hearts meaning He created this belief in their souls so that they would increase their regret over their death and killing. Then God Almighty said in response to them:

And God gives life and causes death meaning in His hand is creation and to Him the matter returns, and no one lives or dies except by His will and decree, and no one's life is increased or decreased except by His judgment and decree. And God is Knowing of what you do. "All-Seeing" means that His knowledge and insight are penetrating into all of His creation. Nothing of their affairs is hidden from Him. The Almighty's statement: And if you are killed in the cause of God or die, forgiveness from God and mercy are better than what they accumulate. This includes that killing in the cause of God and death as well are a means to attaining God's mercy, pardon and pleasure, and that is better than remaining in this world collecting its perishable debris. Then the Almighty informed us that everyone who dies or is killed, his fate and return is to God, the Almighty, the Majestic, and He will reward him for his deeds, if good then good, and if evil then evil, so the Almighty said: And if you die or are killed, to God you will be gathered.

which is the same as the reward. The meaning is: Travel and conquest are not among the things that bring death and advance the appointed time. If that happens in the way of God, then what you attain of forgiveness and mercy through death is better than what you accumulate of the world and its benefits, even if you do not die. Hafs read with a ya'.

Fath al-Qadir

The lam in his saying 157- And if you are killed is an introduction. His saying for forgiveness is the answer to the oath that takes the place of the answer to the condition, and the meaning is: Travel and conquest are not among the things that bring death, and if that happened by the command of God, the Most High, for forgiveness from God and mercy is better than what they accumulate meaning: the infidels of the benefits and pleasures of this world during their lives according to the reading of those who read with the lower yaa, or better than what you Muslims accumulate of this world and its benefits according to the reading of those who read with the upper yaa. The purpose of the verse is to explain the advantage of killing or dying in the way of God and increasing their effect in bringing forgiveness and mercy.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

157- And if you are killed in the way of God or die Nafi', Hamza and Al-Kisa'i read mutam with a kasra on the meem, and the others read it with a damma. Whoever reads it with a damma is from the one who died yamout, like you say: Whoever said yaqool qult, with a damma on the qaf, and whoever reads it with a kasra is from the one who died yamout, like you say: Whoever feared yakhuf: I feared, for forgiveness from God, in the end, and mercy is better than what they accumulate, of spoils, the reading of the general public is tajamu'u with a ta', because of his saying and if you are killed, and Hafs from Asim read yajamu'un with a ya', meaning: better than what people accumulate.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

157 And if you are killed in the way of God or die meaning if you die in His way. Nafi', Hamza and Al-Kisa'i read with a kasra on the meem from mata yamat. For forgiveness from God and mercy are better than what they accumulate. The answer to the oath,

Surat Al Imran 3:158

And if you die or are killed, to God you will be gathered.

Surat Al Imran 3:158

And if you die or are killed, to God you will be gathered.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And if the lam of an oath you die in both ways or you are killed in jihad or otherwise to God not to anyone else you will be gathered in the Hereafter, and He will reward you.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja`far said: By that, may His praise be exalted, He means: And if you die or are killed, O believers, then to God is your return and your gathering place, and He will reward you for your deeds. So prefer that which brings you closer to God and brings you closer to His pleasure and brings you closer to Paradise, from jihad in the way of God and working in His obedience, over relying on the world and what you accumulate in it of its debris, which will not remain for you, but will rather vanish from you, and over abandoning the obedience of God and jihad, for that will distance you from your Lord, bring you closer to His wrath, and bring you closer to the Fire.

In a similar vein to what we said about that, Ibn Ishaq said:

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: And if you die or are killed, whichever it is, to God you will be gathered, meaning: to God is the return, so do not let the worldly life deceive you and do not be deceived by it, and let jihad and what God has made you desire from it be more important to you than it.

The letter lam was inserted in His statement: To God you will be gathered, because it was inserted in His statement: And if. If the letter lam had been added after His statement: You will be gathered, the heavy nun would have been inserted in it, as you say in speech: If you do good to me, I will surely do good to you, with a heavy nun. So it was the same in His statement: And if you die or are killed, you will surely be gathered to God. But since the lam was prevented from being inserted into the description, You will be gathered, it was inserted into the description, and You will be gathered was left intact, so the heavy nun was not inserted into it, as you say in speech: If you do good to me, I will do good to you, without a heavy nun.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

The Almighty said: And if you die or are killed, to God you will be gathered.

The Almighty's saying: To God you will be gathered is an admonition. God admonished them with this statement, meaning do not slacken in fighting and what He has commanded you to do, but rather flee from His punishment and painful torment, for your return is to Him and no one has the power to harm or benefit you except Him, and God Almighty is All-Knowing.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

God Almighty forbids His believing servants from resembling the infidels in their corrupt belief, indicated by their statement about their brothers who died in travels and wars, if they had abandoned that what happened to them would not have happened to them, so God Almighty said: O you who have believed, do not be like those who disbelieved and said about their brothers meaning about their brothers when they traveled throughout the land meaning they traveled for trade and the like or were fighting meaning they were in a war if they had been with us meaning in the country they would not have died nor been killed meaning they would not have died in the travels, nor were they killed in the war. And God Almighty said: that God may make that a regret in their hearts meaning He created this belief in their souls so that they would increase their regret over their death and killing. Then God Almighty said in response to them: And God gives life and causes death meaning in His hand is creation and to Him the matter returns, and no one lives or dies except by His will and decree, and no one's life is increased or decreased except by His judgment and decree. And God is Knowing of what you do. "All-Seeing" means that His knowledge and insight are penetrating into all of His creation. Nothing of their affairs is hidden from Him. The Almighty's statement: And if you are killed in the cause of God or die, forgiveness from God and mercy are better than what they accumulate. This includes that killing in the cause of God and death as well are a means to attaining God's mercy, pardon and pleasure, and that is better than remaining in this world collecting its perishable debris. Then the Almighty informed us that everyone who dies or is killed, his fate and return is to God, the Almighty, the Majestic, and He will reward him for his deeds, if good then good, and if evil then evil, so the Almighty said: And if you die or are killed, to God you will be gathered.

Fath al-Qadir

His statement 158- And if you die or are killed in any way according to the divine will, to God you will be gathered is the answer to the oath indicated by the preface lam, which takes the place of the answer to the condition as mentioned previously in the first sentence: that is, to the Lord, the Vast in forgiveness, you will be gathered, not to anyone else, as is indicated by the presentation of the circumstance before the verb, along with what is indicated in the specific mention of the name of God, the Most High, as is indicated by the kindness and power.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

158- And if you die or are killed, you will be gathered to God, in the end.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

158 And if you die or are killed meaning in whatever way you perish, to God you will be gathered to your deity to whom you turned and sacrificed your souls for His sake and not for anyone else. You will inevitably be gathered, and He will pay your recompense and magnify your reward. Nafi', Hamza, and Al-Kisa'i read mutam with a kasra.

Surat Al Imran 3:159

So by mercy from God, you are gentle with them. And if you had been rude [in speech] and harsh in heart, they would have disbanded from around you. So pardon them and ask forgiveness for them and consult them in the matter. And when you have decided, then rely upon God. Indeed, God loves those who rely [upon Him].

Surat Al Imran 3:159

So by mercy from God, you are gentle with them. And if you had been rude [in speech] and harsh in heart, they would have disbanded from around you. So pardon them and ask forgiveness for them and consult them in the matter. And when you have decided, then rely upon God. Indeed, God loves those who rely [upon Him].

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

So by mercy from God, you are gentle O Muhammad with them that is, you are easy-going in your manners when they oppose you and if you were rough of bad manners and harsh in heart harsh and you were harsh with them they would have dispersed dispersed (from around you. So pardon) overlook their sins what they have done and ask forgiveness for them their sin so that I may forgive them and consult them extract their opinions in the matter that is, your affair of war and other things to please their hearts and so that they may follow your example. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, often consulted them so when you have decided to carry out what you want after consultation then rely upon God trust after consultation for God loves those who rely upon Him.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: What God, the Most High, meant by His statement: Then by the mercy of God, is Then by the mercy of God, and what is a relative pronoun. I have explained how it was included in the speech in His statement: Indeed, God is not ashamed to set forth an example - that of a gnat or anything greater than that (al-Baqarah 2:26). The Arabs make what a relative pronoun in definite and indefinite words, as He said: Then because they broke their covenant (An-Nisa': 155 - al-Ma'idah 5:13), and the meaning is: Then because they broke their covenant. This is in definite words. He said in indefinite words: In a little while they will become regretful (Al-Mu'minun: 40), and the meaning is: In a little while. And sometimes it is made a noun while it is in the manner of a relative pronoun, so what comes after it is sometimes raised in the form of a relative pronoun, and what comes before it is lowered in order to follow the relative pronoun, as the poet said:

It is enough for us to have a superiority over others that we love our father, the Prophet Muhammad.

If you make it a non-relative, it is raised by implying huwa, and if you lower it, it is followed by min, so you parse it. So that is its rule as we described with indefinite nouns.

If the connection is definite, then the eloquent speech is following, as it was said: Because they broke their covenant. The nominative is permissible in Arabic.

And similar to what we said about His statement: So by mercy from God, you were lenient with them, a group of the people of interpretation said.

Who said that?

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: So by mercy from God, you were lenient with them, he said: So by mercy from God, you were lenient with them.

As for his saying: And if you had been rude [in speech] and harsh in heart, they would have disbanded from around you, he means by rude the harsh, and by harsh in heart the hard-hearted, without mercy or compassion. And this was his description, may God bless him and grant him peace, as God described him: to the believers, kind and merciful (al-Tawbah 9:128).

The interpretation of the words: By the mercy of God, O Muhammad, and His compassion for you and those of your companions who believed in you, you were gentle with them, for your followers and your companions, so you made your character easy for them, and your morals were good for them, to the point that you tolerated the harm of those who harmed you, and you pardoned the sinner among them for his sin, and you overlooked many of those who, if you had been harsh with them and been harsh with them, would have left you and departed from you and not followed you or what you were sent with of mercy, but God had mercy on them and had mercy on you with them, so by the mercy of God you were gentle with them, as:

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada: And if you had been rude and harsh in heart, they would have disbanded from around you. Yes, by God, God would have purified him from rudeness and harshness, and made him close, merciful, and compassionate to the believers. And He mentioned to us that the description of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, in the Torah is: He is not rude, nor harsh, nor loud in the markets, nor does he repay evil with the like of it, but he pardons and forgives.

It was narrated on the authority of Ammar, who said: Ibn Abi Ja'far narrated to us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of al-Rabi', something similar.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq, regarding his statement: "So by mercy from God, you were gentle with them. And if you had been harsh and hard-hearted, they would have disbanded from around you," he said: He mentioned his gentleness with them and his patience with them, due to their weakness and their lack of patience with harshness if it had been from him, in everything in which they disobeyed what was required of them in terms of obeying their Prophet.

As for his saying: They would have dispersed from around you, he means: They would have dispersed from you, as:

Al-Qasim told us, he said, Al-Hussein told us, he said, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, he said, Ibn Abbas said, regarding his statement: They would have dispersed from around you, he said: They would have turned away from you.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: They would have dispersed from around you, meaning: they would have left you.

Abu Ja'far said: God Almighty means by His saying: So pardon them, so pardon, O Muhammad, your followers and your companions who believe in you and in what you have brought from Me, for whatever harm they have done to you and whatever is disliked in your soul, and ask forgiveness for them, and supplicate to your Lord for forgiveness for them for the crime they have committed, for which they have deserved punishment from Him, as:

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: So pardon them, meaning: overlook them, and seek forgiveness for them, the sins of those who committed them from the people of faith among them.

Then the people of interpretation differed about the meaning for which God Almighty commanded His Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, to consult them, and what is the meaning for which He commanded him to consult them?

Some of them said: God commanded His Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, by saying: And consult them in the matter, to consult his companions in the plots of war and when meeting the enemy, in order to please them and to reconcile them in their religion, and so that they would see that he listens to them and seeks their help, even though God Almighty has made him independent of them - by managing his affairs, governing him, and correcting his causes.

Who said that?

Bishr told us, Yazid told us, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: "And consult them in the matter. And when you have decided, then rely upon God. Indeed, God loves those who rely [upon Him]." God the Almighty commanded His Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, to consult his companions in matters when the revelation from heaven comes to him, because it is better for the souls of the people, and that if the people consult each other and want thereby the pleasure of God, He will resolve for them what is most right.

It was narrated on the authority of Ammar, who said: Ibn Abi Ja'far narrated to us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of al-Rabi': And consult them in the matter. He said: God commanded His Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, to consult his companions in matters while the revelation came to him from heaven, because it was better for their souls.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: And consult them in the matter, meaning: to show them that you listen to them and seek their help, even if you are independent of them, and thereby bring them together in their religion.

Others said: Rather, He ordered him to do that in that regard, to clarify to him the opinion and the most correct matters in management, because of the knowledge of the Most High in consultation of the virtue mentioned.

Who said that?

Ibn Wakee' told us, he said, my father told us, on the authority of Salamah ibn Nabit, on the authority of Ad-Dahhak ibn Muzahim, regarding his statement: And consult them in the matter, he said: God Almighty did not command His Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, to consult, except because He knew of its virtue.

Al-Qasim told us, Al-Hussein told us, Mu'tamir bin Sulayman told us, on the authority of Iyas bin Daghfal, on the authority of Al-Hasan: No people have ever consulted except that they were guided to the most correct of their affairs.

Others said: God commanded him to consult his companions in what He commanded him to consult them in, while he was independent of their opinions through his correction of it and his management of its causes, so that the believers would follow him after him in what troubled them in the matter of their religion, and follow his example in that, and imitate the example that they saw him do in his life of consulting his companions in his affairs - with the status he has with God - and following him in the matter that he brings down to them in the matter of their religion and their worldly affairs, so they would consult among themselves and then issue what their leaders agreed upon. Because if the believers consult each other in the matters of their religion, following the truth in that, God the Almighty will not be without His kindness and His success in the correct opinion and statement in it. They said: This is similar to His statement, the Almighty, with which He praised the people of faith: And their affairs are by consultation among themselves (al-Shura 42:38).

Who said that?

Suwar bin Abdullah Al-Anbari told us that Sufyan bin Uyaynah said regarding his statement: And consult them in the matter, he said: It is for the believers to consult about what has not come to them from the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, in it.

Abu Ja'far said: The most correct of the sayings in this regard is to say: God the Almighty commanded His Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, to consult his companions regarding the affairs of his enemy and the plots of his war, in order to win over those who did not have the insight into Islam that would protect them from the temptations of Satan, and to inform his nation of the origin and purpose of the matters that would afflict them after him, so that they would follow his example in that when calamities befall them, and consult among themselves, as they used to see him doing during his lifetime. As for the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, God informed him of the purposes and aspects of the matters that afflicted him through His revelation or inspiration to him, and the correctness of that. As for his nation, if they consulted, they would follow his actions in that, in friendship and brotherhood for the sake of the truth, and all of them would desire what is right, without inclination to whims or deviating from guidance, so God is their guide and their successor.

Surat Al Imran 3:159

So by mercy from God, you are gentle with them. And if you had been rude [in speech] and harsh in heart, they would have disbanded from around you. So pardon them and ask forgiveness for them and consult them in the matter. And when you have decided, then rely upon God. Indeed, God loves those who rely [upon Him].

As for his saying: So when you have decided, then put your trust in God, it means: If your determination is sound because of our strengthening you and our guiding you in what befalls you and your affairs of religion and your worldly life, then proceed with what we have commanded you to do, as we have commanded you, whether that agrees with the opinions of your companions and what they have advised you to do, or contradicts them, and put your trust in your Lord in whatever you do of your affairs and leave, and try or undertake, so trust in Him in all of that, and be satisfied with His judgment in all of it, without the opinions of the rest of His creation and their assistance, Indeed, God loves those who put their trust, and they are those who are satisfied with His judgment and submit to His rule over them, whether that agrees with their desires or contradicts them, as:

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: "So when you have decided, then put your trust in God. Indeed, God loves those who put their trust in Him." So when you have decided, that is, on a matter that came to you from me, or a matter of your religion in jihad against your enemy that will not benefit you or them except that, then proceed with what you have been commanded to do, in opposition to those who disagree with you and in agreement with those who agree with you, and put your trust in God, that is, be satisfied with Him among the servants, for God loves those who put their trust in Him.

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: So when you have decided, then rely upon God, God commanded His Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, when he decided on a matter, to go ahead with it, adhere to God's command, and rely upon God.

It was narrated on the authority of Ammar, on the authority of Ibn Abi Jaafar, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-Rabi', regarding his statement: So when you have decided, then rely upon God, the verse, God commanded him, if he decided on a matter, to go ahead with it and rely on Him.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

ma is a conjunction that has the meaning of emphasis, i.e., by mercy, as in His saying: In a little while, "Because they broke their covenant, The army there is defeated," and it is not redundant at all, but rather Sibawayh gave it the meaning of redundancy from the point of view that its function was removed. Ibn Kaysan: ma is indefinite in the position of a genitive with the preposition "ba, and mercy" is a substitute for it. The meaning of the verse is that when he, peace be upon him, was gentle with those who turned away on the day of Uhud and did not reprimand them, the Lord Almighty explained that he did that with the guidance of God Almighty. It was said: ma is an interrogative, and the meaning is: By what mercy from God were you gentle with them? It is an expression of astonishment, and there is some distance in it, because if it were so, fa-ba-ma would have been without an alif. "La-nat is from lan to soften and layan to soften with the fat-ha, and the word vulgar" means rough and harsh.

To be rude, to be rude, rudeness, and rudeness, so you are rude. The female is rude, and the plural is rudeness. In describing the Prophet, peace be upon him: He is not rude, nor harsh, nor loud in the markets. Al-Mufaddal recited in the masculine:

It is not rude in the lower sense, and the first ones believe in its usefulness, but it is easy.

He was careful with his enemies, so they warned him, for his power was deadly and his reward was abundant.

Another said about the feminine:

I am dying of distress in my home, while others are dying of depression.

This world is generous to the ignorant, but harsh to the wise.

Hardness of heart is a gloomy face, lack of emotion in desires, and lack of compassion and mercy. This is what the poet said:

He cries for us, but we do not cry for anyone else, for we are more cruel than camels.

The meaning of lanafadhu is to disperse. I scattered them and they dispersed, meaning I separated them and they dispersed. From this is what Abu al-Najm said, describing camels:

The urgent summer months are not stripped of their pebbles, and the stones are shaken off them with the stick.

The root of the word fad is kasra, and from it is their saying: May God not break your mouth. The meaning is: O Muhammad, if it were not for your gentleness, modesty and awe would have prevented them from approaching you after what had happened of their turning away.

The Almighty's saying: So pardon them and ask forgiveness for them and consult them in the matter. There are eight issues in it.

The first: The scholars said: God Almighty commanded His Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, with these commands, which are in a very gradual manner, and that is that He commanded him to forgive them for what he has in his own regard for them of responsibility, and when they reached this level, He commanded him to seek forgiveness for what God has in regard for them of responsibility as well, and when they reached this level, they became worthy of consultation in matters. The linguists said, consultation is taken from the saying of the Arabs: I bought the animal and consulted it if you know its report by running or otherwise, and the place where it runs is called mishwar, and it may be from their saying: I bought the honey and bought it, so it is mashwar and mushtar if you took it from its place. Adi bin Zaid said:

In listening, the sheikh gives him permission and a hadith like what is mentioned

Second: Ibn Atiyah said: Shura is one of the principles of the Shariah and the firm rulings. Whoever does not consult the people of knowledge and religion, his dismissal is obligatory. There is no disagreement about this. God praised the believers by saying: And their affairs are by consultation among themselves (al-Shura 42:38). An Arab said: I have never been deceived to the point that my people were deceived. It was said: How is that? He said: I do not do anything until I consult them. Ibn Khuwaiz Mandad said: It is obligatory for the rulers to consult the scholars regarding what they do not know, and regarding matters of religion that are unclear to them, and the leaders of the army regarding what is related to war, and the leaders of the people regarding what is related to interests, and the leaders of the scribes, ministers and workers regarding what is related to the interests of the country and its development. It was said: He who consults does not regret it. It was also said: He who is impressed by his own opinion goes astray.

Third: The Almighty's saying: And consult them in the matter indicates the permissibility of ijtihad in matters and taking conjectures with the possibility of revelation, for God permitted His Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, to do so. The people of interpretation differed regarding the meaning in which God commanded His Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, to consult his companions. A group said: That is in the plots of war, and when meeting the enemy, and to comfort their souls, and to raise their status, and to reconcile them to their religion, even though God Almighty had made him independent of their opinion through His revelation. This was narrated on the authority of Qatada, al-Rabi', Ibn Ishaq, and al-Shafi'i. Al-Shafi'i said: It is like His saying: And the virgin is consulted, to comfort her heart, not that it is obligatory. Muqatil, Qatada, and al-Rabi' said: If the leaders of the Arabs did not consult in the matter, it would be difficult for them, so God Almighty commanded His Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, to consult them in the matter, for that is more affectionate to them, removes their grudges, and is better for their souls. So if he consults them, they will know that He honors them. Others said: This is in matters for which no revelation came to him. It was narrated on the authority of Al-Hasan Al-Basri and Al-Dahhak, who said: God Almighty did not command His Prophet to consult because he needed their opinion, but rather he wanted to teach them the virtue of consultation, and for his nation to follow his example after him. In the reading of Ibn Abbas: And consult them in some of the matter. And the speaker did well:

Consult your friend about the hidden problem and accept the advice of a kind advisor.

God has recommended this to His Prophet in His saying: Consult them and Trust.

Fourth: It was reported in Musannaf Abi Dawud on the authority of Abu Hurayrah who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'The advisor is trustworthy.' The scholars said: The description of the advisor, if it is in rulings, is that he be knowledgeable and religious, and that rarely happens except in a rational person. Al-Hasan said: 'A person's religion is not complete unless his mind is complete. So if someone of this description is consulted and he strives to do good and exerts his best effort and the advice falls into error, then there is no penalty upon him. Al-Khattabi and others said this:

Fifth: The description of the advisor in worldly matters is that he should be wise, experienced, and kind to the one he is consulting. He said:

Consult your friend about the hidden problem

It was presented, and another said:

If a matter becomes difficult for you, consult a wise person and do not disobey him.

In the verses, and consultation is a blessing, and he, peace be upon him, said: "He who consults does not regret, nor does he who seeks guidance be disappointed," and Sahl bin Saad Al-Sa'idi narrated: "On the authority of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace: A servant has never been miserable because of consultation, nor has he been happy because of his independent opinion," and some of them said: Consult someone who has experienced matters, for he will give you from his opinion what he usually agrees upon, and you will take it for free. Omar bin Al-Khattab, may God be pleased with him, made the caliphate, which is the greatest of calamities, consultation. Al-Bukhari said: The imams after the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, would consult trustworthy people from among the people of knowledge in permissible matters in order to take the easiest of them, and Sufyan Al-Thawri said: Let the people of your consultation be people of piety and trustworthiness, and those who fear God Almighty, and Al-Hasan said: By God, no people consult among themselves except that He guides them to the best of what they can bring with them, and it was narrated on the authority of Ali bin Abi Talib, may God be pleased with him, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: There is no people who had a consultation and someone named Ahmad or Muhammad was present with them, so they included him in their consultation except that it is better for them."

Surat Al Imran 3:159

So by mercy from God, you are gentle with them. And if you had been rude [in speech] and harsh in heart, they would have disbanded from around you. So pardon them and ask forgiveness for them and consult them in the matter. And when you have decided, then rely upon God. Indeed, God loves those who rely [upon Him].

Sixth: Consultation is based on differences of opinion, and the one seeking advice looks into that difference and looks for the statement that is closest to the Book if he is able to. Then if God Almighty guides him to what He wills of it, he resolves to do it and carries it out, relying on Him, because this is the ultimate goal of the required effort, and God Almighty commanded His Prophet with this in this verse.

Seventh: The Almighty's saying: So when you have decided, then rely upon God. Qatada said: God Almighty commanded His Prophet, peace be upon him, when he decided on a matter, to go ahead with it and rely upon God, not upon consulting them. Determination is the narrated and refined matter, and following an opinion without deliberation is not determination, except for the section of the apostles from the young Arabs, as he said:

If they cast their determination between their eyes and neglected to mention the consequences

He did not consult anyone but himself regarding his opinion, and he was not satisfied with anyone but the one who had the sword as his companion.

Al-Naqqash said: Resolve and firmness are one and the same, and the 'ha' is a substitute for the 'ain. Ibn 'Atiyyah said: "This is a mistake, for firmness is the quality of looking into a matter and purifying it and being careful not to make a mistake in it, and firmness is the intention to carry it out. God Almighty says: "And consult them in the matter, and when you have decided," so consultation and what is similar to it is firmness. The Arabs say: He has become firm if he has decided. Ja'far al-Sadiq and Jabir ibn Zayd read: So when you have resolved with a damma on the ta', attributing firmness to Himself, glory be to Him, as He is with His guidance and success, as He said: And you did not throw when you threw, but it was God who threw (al-Anfal 8:17). The meaning of the statement is that I resolved for you and granted you success and guided you. So put your trust in God, and the rest with a fatha on the ta'. Al-Muhallab said: This Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, complied with the command of his Lord, so He said: It is not appropriate for a prophet who wears clothes for his nation to put them down until God decides, meaning it is not appropriate for him, when he has resolved, to leave, because it is a violation of the trust that God Almighty has stipulated. With determination, he dressed for his nation when he advised him to go out on the day of Uhud from those whom God honored with martyrdom in it, and they were the righteous believers who had missed Badr: O Messenger of God, go out with us to our enemy, indicating determination. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, had advised sitting, and Abdullah bin Ubay also advised that and said: Stay, O Messenger of God, and do not go out to them with the people, for if they stay, they will stay in an evil council, and if they come to us to Medina, we will fight them in the courtyards and the mouths of the alleys, and the women and children will throw stones at them from the roofs. By God, we have never fought an enemy in Medina except that we defeated him, nor have we gone out from it to an enemy except that we were defeated. Those who mentioned us rejected this opinion, and encouraged the people and called for war. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, prayed the Friday prayer, and after his prayer he entered his house and put on his weapons. Those people regretted it and said: We forced the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. When he went out to them in his righteousness, they said: O Messenger of God, stay if you wish, for we do not want to force you. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: We do not want to. When a prophet puts on his weapon, he should put it down until he fights.

Eighth: The Almighty's saying: "So rely upon God. Indeed, God loves those who rely [upon Him]." Reliance is dependence on God while showing helplessness. The noun is taklan. It is said from it: I relied on Him in my affair. Its original form is: awtakaltu. The waw was changed to a ya' because of the kasra of what preceded it, then the ta' was replaced and assimilated into the ta' of ifti'al. It is also said: I entrusted him with my affair, tawkilan. The noun is agency, with the waw broken or open.

Scholars differed about trust. A group of Sufis said: Only he who does not have fear of anyone other than God in his heart, such as a lion or other, deserves it, and until he abandons the pursuit of sustenance for the guarantee of God Almighty. The majority of jurists said what was mentioned above regarding God Almighty's statement: And upon God let the believers put their trust, which is correct as we have explained. Moses and Aaron feared, as God Almighty informed us about them in His statement: Do not fear. (Ta-Ha 20:46), and He said: "So Moses felt fear within himself. We said, 'Do not fear.'" (Ta-Ha 20:67-68), and He informed us about Abraham in His statement: "But when he saw that their hands did not reach him, he was unaware of them and felt fear of them. They said, 'Do not fear.'" (Hud 11:70) So if Abraham and Moses, the one who spoke to God, feared, and that is enough for you, then others are more deserving, and this meaning will be explained.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The Almighty says, addressing His Messenger, thanking him and the believers for what He softened his heart with towards his nation who followed his command, abandoned his warning, and made his words pleasant to them: Then by the mercy of God, you were gentle with them. That is, what made you gentle with them, were it not for God's mercy upon you and them? Qatada said: Then by the mercy of God, you were gentle with them. He says: Then by the mercy of God, you were gentle with them. What is the connection? The Arabs connect it with the definite article, as in His statement: Then by their breaking of their covenant. And with the indefinite article, as in His statement: In a little while. And thus here he said: Then by the mercy of God, you were gentle with them. That is, by the mercy of God. Al-Hasan Al-Basri said: This is the character of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, with which God sent him. And this noble verse is similar to the statement of the Almighty: "There has certainly come to you a Messenger from among yourselves. Grievous to him is what you suffer; he is concerned over you and to the believers is kind and merciful." And Imam Ahmad said: Haywah told us, Baqiyah told us, Muhammad bin Ziyad told us. Abu Rashid Al-Habrani told me: Abu Umamah Al-Bahili took my hand and said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, took my hand and said: O Abu Umamah, among the believers is he whose heart is soft towards me. Ahmad alone transmitted this. Then God, the Most High, said: And if you had been rude [in speech] and harsh [in heart], they would have disbanded from around you. The rude is the harsh, and what is meant by it here is harsh in speech, because He said after that harsh in heart, meaning if you had been bad in speech and hard-hearted towards them, they would have disbanded from you and left you, but God gathered them around you and made you gentle towards them to win their hearts over, as Abdullah bin Amr said: "I see the description of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, in the earlier books that he is not rude, nor harsh, nor loud in the markets, and he does not repay evil with evil, but he pardons and forgives." Abu Ismail Muhammad bin Ismail Al-Tirmidhi said: Bishr bin Ubaid Al-Darimi informed us, Ammar bin Abd Al-Rahman informed us, on the authority of Al-Mas'udi, on the authority of Ibn Abi Malekah, on the authority of Aisha, may God be pleased with her, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) said: God has commanded me to be lenient with people, just as He has commanded me to establish the obligatory duties. This is a strange hadith. That is why God the Almighty said: So pardon them and ask forgiveness for them, and consult them in the matter. That is why the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) used to consult his companions about a matter whenever it happened, to please their hearts so that they would be more active in what they did, as he consulted them on the day of Badr about going to the caravan, and they said: "O Messenger of God, if you were to parade us across the sea, we would cross it with you, and if you were to take us to Barak al-Ghamad, we would go with you, and we will not say to you as the people of Moses said to Moses: Go, you and your Lord, and fight, for we are sitting here. Rather, we say: Go, for we are with you, in front of you, and on your right and on your left, fighting." He also consulted them about where the camp would be, until Al-Mundhir bin Amr Al-Mu'naq indicated to die by advancing to the front of the people. He consulted them about whether he should stay in the city or go out to the enemy. Most of them suggested going out to them. So he went out to them and consulted them on the day of the Trench about reconciling with the confederates for a third of the fruits of the city that year. The two Saads, Saad bin Muadh and Saad bin Ubadah, refused him that, so he left that. He consulted them on the day of Hudaibiyyah about attacking the children of the polytheists. Abu Bakr said to him: We did not come to fight anyone, but we came to perform Umrah. So he agreed to what he said. The Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) said in the story of the slander: "Advise me, O Muslims, about a people who destroyed my family and threw stones at them. By God, I do not know of any evil against my family, and who did they destroy them for? By God, I only know of good about him." He consulted Ali and Usama about separating from Aisha may God be pleased with her. The Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) used to consult them in wars and the like. The jurists differed as to whether that was obligatory upon him or recommended to please their hearts. There are two opinions. Al-Hakim said in his Mustadrak: Abu Ja'far Muhammad ibn Muhammad al-Baghdadi informed us, Yahya ibn Ayyub al-'Alaf told us in Egypt, Sa'id ibn Abi Maryam told us, Sufyan ibn 'Uyaynah told us, on the authority of 'Amr ibn Dinar, on the authority of Ibn 'Abbas, regarding the words of God the Almighty: And consult them in the matter. He said: Abu Bakr and 'Umar, may God be pleased with them. Then he said: It is authentic according to the conditions of the two sheikhs, and they did not include it. Al-Kalbi narrated it likewise on the authority of Abu Salih on the authority of Ibn 'Abbas, who said: It was revealed about Abu Bakr and 'Umar, and they were the disciples of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his ministers, and the fathers of the Muslims. Imam Ahmad narrated: Waki' told us, 'Abd al-Hamid told us on the authority of Shahr ibn Hawshab, on the authority of 'Abd al-Rahman ibn Ghanim, "That the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to Abu Bakr and 'Umar, 'If we met in consultation, I would not oppose you.'" Ibn Mardawayh narrated on the authority of 'Ali ibn Abi Talib, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was asked about determination. He said: Consulting people of opinion, then following them." Ibn Majah said: Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shaybah narrated to us, Yahya ibn Bakir narrated to us, on the authority of Shaiban, on the authority of Abdul Malik ibn Umair, on the authority of Abu Salamah, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: The one who is consulted is trustworthy. Abu Dawud and al-Tirmidhi narrated it, and al-Nasa'i authenticated it from the hadith of Abdul Malik ibn Umair with a more detailed chain of transmission than this. Then Ibn Majah said: Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shaybah narrated to us, Aswad ibn Amir narrated to us, on the authority of Sharik, on the authority of al-A'mash, on the authority of Abu Amr al-Shaibani, on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The one who is consulted is trustworthy." He was the only one to narrate it. He also said: Abu Bakr narrated to us, Yahya ibn Zakariya ibn Abi Zaydah and Ali ibn Hashim narrated to us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Laila, on the authority of Abu al-Zubayr, on the authority of Jabir, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: If one of you consults his brother, let him advise him. He was also the only one to narrate it. And the Almighty's saying: So when you have decided, then rely upon God meaning if you consult them about the matter and are determined to do it, then rely upon God in it Indeed, God loves those who rely [upon Him]. And the Almighty's saying: If God helps you, none can overcome you; but if He forsakes you, who is there that can help you after Him? And in God let the believers rely. And this verse is as it was mentioned before from His saying: And victory comes only from God, the Exalted in Might, the Wise. Then He commanded them to rely upon Him, saying: And in God let the believers rely. And the Almighty's saying: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils, Ibn Abbas, Mujahid, Al-Hasan and more than one said: It is not befitting for a prophet to betray. And Ibn Abi Hatim said: My father told us, Al-Musayyab bin Wadheeh told us, Abu Ishaq Al-Fazari told us on the authority of Sufyan bin Khasif on the authority of Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: They lost a quilt on the day of Badr, so they said: Perhaps the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, took it, so God revealed: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils, meaning betray. Ibn Jarir said: Muhammad ibn Abd al-Malik ibn Abi al-Shawarib told us, Abd al-Wahid ibn Ziyad told us, Khasif told us, Muqsim told us, Ibn Abbas told me that this verse, And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war, was revealed concerning a red cloak that was lost on the day of Badr. Some people said: Perhaps the Messenger of God had taken it, and they talked a lot about that, so God revealed, "And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war. And whoever takes spoils of war will come with what he has taken on the Day of Resurrection." Abu Dawud and al-Tirmidhi both narrated it in the same way on the authority of Qutaybah, on the authority of Abd al-Wahid ibn Ziyad. Al-Tirmidhi said: It is good and strange. Some of them narrated it on the authority of Khasif, on the authority of Muqsim, meaning in a mural form. Ibn Mardawayh narrated on the authority of Abu Amr ibn al-Ala', on the authority of Mujahid, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: The hypocrites accused the Messenger of God (blessings and peace of God be upon him) of something he had lost, so God revealed: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war. It was narrated from Ibn Abbas through other chains of transmission similar to what was mentioned above. This is to exonerate him (blessings and peace of God be upon him) from all forms of treachery in fulfilling the trust, dividing the spoils of war, and other things. Al-Awfi said on the authority of Ibn Abbas: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war meaning that he would divide some of the spoils for the sake of the army and leave others. Ad-Dahhak said the same. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war meaning that he would leave some of what was revealed to him and not convey it to his nation. Al-Hasan al-Basri, Tawus, Mujahid, and Ad-Dahhak recited: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war with a damma on the ya', meaning that he would betray. Qatada and Ar-Rabi' ibn Anas said: This verse was revealed on the day of Badr, and some of his companions had taken spoils of war. Ibn Jarir narrated it from them, then he narrated from some of them that he interpreted this reading to mean that he is accused of treason, then God Almighty said: "And whoever embezzles will come with what he embezzled on the Day of Resurrection. Then every soul will be fully compensated for what it earned, and they will not be wronged." This is a severe threat and a definite warning. The Sunnah also forbade this in multiple hadiths. Imam Ahmad said: Abdul Malik told us, Zuhair told us, meaning Ibn Muhammad, from Abdullah Ibn Muhammad Ibn Aqil, from Ata Ibn Yasar, from Abu Malik Al-Ashja'i, from the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "The greatest embezzlement before God is an arm's length of land. You will find two men running after each other on the land - or in the house - and one of them will cut off an arm's length from the share of his companion, and if he cuts it off, he will be hung around his neck from seven earths until the Day of Resurrection."

So by mercy from God, you are gentle with them. And if you had been rude [in speech] and harsh in heart, they would have disbanded from around you. So pardon them and ask forgiveness for them and consult them in the matter. And when you have decided, then rely upon God. Indeed, God loves those who rely [upon Him].

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Musa bin Dawud told us, Ibn Lahi'ah told us, on the authority of Ibn Hubayrah and Al-Harith bin Yazid, on the authority of Abd Al-Rahman bin Jubayr, who said: I heard Al-Mustawrid bin Shaddad say: I heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: "Whoever is given a job and does not have a house, let him get a house. Or he does not have a wife, let him get married. Or he does not have a servant, let him get a servant. Or he does not have a mount, let him get a mount. And whoever acquires something other than that, then he is a thief." This is how Imam Ahmad narrated it. Abu Dawud narrated it with another chain of narration and context, saying: Musa bin Marwan al-Raqi narrated to us, al-Mu'afi narrated to us, al-Awza'i narrated to us, on the authority of al-Harith bin Yazid, on the authority of Jubayr bin Nufayr, on the authority of al-Mustawrid bin Shaddad, who said: I heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: "Whoever works for us, let him acquire a wife. If he does not have a servant, let him acquire a servant. If he does not have a home, let him acquire a home." He said: Abu Bakr said: I was told that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "Whoever does anything other than that is a transgressor or a thief." Our Sheikh al-Hafiz al-Mizzi, may God have mercy on him, said: It was narrated by Ja'far bin Muhammad al-Faryabi on the authority of Musa bin Marwan, and he said: On the authority of Abd al-Rahman bin Jubayr instead of Jubayr bin Nufayr, and this is more likely to be correct.

Another hadith - Ibn Jarir said: Abu Kurayb told us, Hafs ibn Bishr told us, Yaqub al-Qummi told us, Hafs ibn Humayd told us on the authority of Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'I do not know any one of you who will come on the Day of Resurrection carrying a bleating sheep and calling out: O Muhammad, O Muhammad.' I will say: 'I have no power over anything from God for you, I have conveyed it to you.' I do not know any one of you who will come on the Day of Resurrection carrying a braying camel and calling out: O Muhammad, O Muhammad.' I will say: 'I have no power over anything from God for you, I have conveyed it to you.' I do not know any one of you who will come on the Day of Resurrection carrying a neighing horse and calling out: O Muhammad, O Muhammad.' I will say: 'I have no power over anything from God for you, I have conveyed it to you.' I do not know any one of you who will come on the Day of Resurrection carrying a leather husk and calling out: O Muhammad, O Muhammad.' I will say: 'I have no power over anything from God for you, I have conveyed it to you.'" None of the people of the six books narrated it.

Another hadith. Imam Ahmad said: Sufyan narrated to us on the authority of Al-Zuhri, he heard Urwah say: Abu Hamid Al-Sa'idi narrated to us: He said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, appointed a man from Azd called Ibn Al-Lutbiyyah to collect the zakat. He came and said: This is for you and this was given to me. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, stood on the pulpit and said: What is the matter with the worker whom we send and he comes and says: This is for you and this was given to me. Why did he not sit in the house of his father and mother and see whether he was given a gift or not? By the One in Whose hand is the soul of Muhammad, none of you will bring anything of it except that he will bring it on the Day of Resurrection on his neck, whether it is a camel that roars, or a cow that moos, or a sheep that bleats. Then he raised his hands until we saw the whiteness of his armpits. Then he said: O God, have I conveyed the message?" Hisham bin Urwah added: Abu Hamid said: I saw it with my eyes and heard it with my ears. Ask Zaid bin Thabit. They both narrated it on the authority of Sufyan bin Uyaynah. Al-Bukhari has: Ask Zaid bin Thabit. And others. A face on the authority of Al-Zuhri, and through a path on the authority of Hisham bin Urwah, both on the authority of Urwah, on his authority.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Ishaq bin Isa told us, Ismail bin Ayyash told us, on the authority of Yahya bin Saeed, on the authority of Urwah bin Al-Zubayr, on the authority of Abu Hamid, "that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The gifts of workers are misappropriation." This hadith is one of the individual hadiths of Ahmad, and its chain of transmission is weak, and it seems to be an abbreviation of the one before it, and God knows best.

Another hadith - Abu Isa Al-Tirmidhi said in the Book of Rulings: Abu Kurayb told us, Abu Usamah told us, on the authority of Dawud bin Yazid Al-Awdi, on the authority of Al-Mughirah bin Shibl, on the authority of Qais bin Abi Hazim, on the authority of Muadh bin Jabal, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent me to Yemen, and when I set out, he sent after me, but I returned. He said, 'Do you know why I sent to you? Do not take anything without my permission, for it is embezzlement.' And whoever embezzles will come with what he embezzled on the Day of Resurrection." This is why I have called you, so go on with your work." This is a good, strange hadith that we do not know except from this source. There are hadiths on this topic from Adi bin Umairah, Buraydah, Al-Mustawrid bin Shaddad, Abu Hamid, and Ibn Umar.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Ismail bin Aliyah told us, Abu Hayyan Yahya bin Saeed Al-Taymi told us, on the authority of Abu Zur'ah bin Umar bin Jarir, on the authority of Abu Hurairah, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, stood up among us one day and mentioned theft, and he magnified it and magnified its matter, then he said: 'I will not find one of you coming on the Day of Resurrection with a camel roaring on his neck, and he will say: O Messenger of God, help me,' and I will say: 'I have no power over God for you, I have conveyed the message to you.' I will not find one of you coming on the Day of Resurrection with a horse neighing on his neck, and he will say: O Messenger of God, help me,' and I will say: 'I have no power over God for you, I have conveyed the message to you.' I will not find one of you coming on the Day of Resurrection with a bandage on his neck that is strangling him, and he will say: O Messenger of God, help me,' and I will say: 'I have no power over God for you, I have conveyed the message to you.' I will not find one of you coming on the Day of Resurrection with a silent person on his neck, and he will say: O Messenger of God, help me,' and I will say: 'I have no power over God for you, I have conveyed the message to you.' You have something from God that I have conveyed to you." They narrated it from the hadith of Abu Hayyan.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Yahya bin Saeed told us on the authority of Ismail bin Abi Khalid, Qais told me on the authority of Adi bin Umairah Al-Kindi who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: O people, whoever among you does work for us and conceals from us a needle or more of it, it is a stipulation that he will bring on the Day of Resurrection. He said: A black man from the Ansar stood up - Mujalid said: He is Saeed bin Ubadah, it is as if I am looking at him - and said: O Messenger of God, accept your work from me. He said: What is that? He said: I heard you say: such and such. He said: And I am saying that now. Whoever we appoint to a job, let him come with it, little or much, and whatever he is given from it, he takes, and whatever he is forbidden from, he ends." And Muslim and Abu Dawud narrated it in the same way through various chains of transmission on the authority of Ismail bin Abi Khalid.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Abu Muawiyah told us on the authority of Abu Ishaq Al-Fazari, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, Manbuth, a man from the family of Abu Rafi', told me on the authority of Al-Fadl bin Ubaidullah bin Abu Rafi', on the authority of Abu Rafi', who said: "When the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) prayed the afternoon prayer, he would sometimes go to Banu Abd Al-Ashhal and talk to them until sunset. Abu Rafi' said: "While the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) was hurrying to the sunset prayer, he passed by Al-Baqi' and said: 'Uff to you, uff to you' twice. He shouted at me and I held back and thought that he wanted me. He said: 'What is the matter with you? Walk.' I said: 'I have done something new, O Messenger of God.' He said: 'What is that?' I said: 'Uff to me.' He said: 'No, but this is the grave of so-and-so. I sent him to seek out the family of so-and-so, and he stole a tiger and now his armor is like it, made of fire.'"

Surat Al Imran 3:159

So by mercy from God, you are gentle with them. And if you had been rude [in speech] and harsh in heart, they would have disbanded from around you. So pardon them and ask forgiveness for them and consult them in the matter. And when you have decided, then rely upon God. Indeed, God loves those who rely [upon Him].

Another hadith - Abdullah bin Imam Ahmad said: Abdullah bin Salem Al-Kufi, the paralytic, told us - and he was in Mecca - Ubaidah bin Al-Aswad told us, on the authority of Al-Qasim bin Al-Waleed, on the authority of Abu Sadiq, on the authority of Rabia bin Najed, on the authority of Ubadah bin Al-Samit, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, would take a hair from the side of the camel from the spoils of war and then say: I have nothing in it except what one of you has. Beware of embezzlement, for embezzlement is a disgrace for its perpetrator on the Day of Resurrection. Give back the thread and needle and what is above that, and strive in the cause of God near and far, at home and on the journey, for striving is one of the gates of Paradise, for God saves from worry and grief through it, and establish the limits of God in those near and far, and do not let the blame of a blamer deter you in God's cause." Ibn Majah narrated some of it on the authority of the paralytic.

Another hadith - On the authority of Amr bin Shuaib, on the authority of his father, on the authority of his grandfather, he said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Return the tailor and the needle, for embezzlement is a disgrace, a fire, and a shame upon its people on the Day of Resurrection."

Another hadith - Abu Dawud said: Uthman bin Abi Shaybah told us, Jarir told us, on the authority of Mutraf, on the authority of Abu al-Jahm, on the authority of Abu Mas'ud al-Ansari, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent me as a messenger, then he said: Go, Abu Mas'ud, lest I find you on the Day of Resurrection with a camel from the charity camels coming on your back, roaring, and you have tied it up." He said: Then I will not go. He said: Then I will not hate you. Abu Dawud is the only one to report it.

Another hadith - Abu Bakr bin Mardawayh said: Muhammad bin Ahmad bin Ibrahim informed us, Muhammad bin Uthman bin Abi Shaybah informed us, Abdul Hamid bin Saleh informed us, Ahmad bin Aban informed us on the authority of Alqamah bin Murthad, on the authority of Ibn Buraidah, on the authority of his father, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "A stone is thrown into Hell and it falls for seventy years without reaching its bottom, and the stolen goods are brought and thrown with them, then it is said to the one who stole them, 'Bring them.' This is what His statement means:

'And whoever steals will bring what he stole on the Day of Resurrection.'"

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Hashim bin Al-Qasim told us, Ikrimah bin Ammar told us, Samak Al-Hanafi Abu Zamil told me, Abdullah bin Abbas told me, Umar bin Al-Khattab told me: When the day of Khaybar came, a group of the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, came and said: So-and-so is a martyr and so-and-so is a martyr, until they came to a man and said: So-and-so is a martyr. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: No, I saw him in the Fire in a cloak that he had stolen. Then the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "O son of Al-Khattab, go and announce to the al-Nas 114: 'None shall enter Paradise except the believers.' So I went out and announced: 'None shall enter Paradise except the believers.'" Muslim and Al-Tirmidhi narrated it in the same way from the hadith of Ikrimah bin Ammar. Al-Tirmidhi said: Hasan Sahih.

Another hadith - Ibn Jarir said: Saeed bin Yahya Al-Umawi told us, my father told us, Yahya bin Saeed told us on the authority of Nafi' on the authority of Ibn Umar that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, "sent Saad bin Ubadah as a tax collector, and he said: Beware, Saad, of coming on the Day of Resurrection with a camel that you are carrying and it is bellowing. He said: I will not take it nor will I come with it, so he excused him." Then he narrated it on the authority of Ubaidullah on the authority of Nafi' in a similar manner.

Another hadith - Ahmad said: Abu Saeed told us, Abdul Aziz bin Muhammad told us, Saleh bin Muhammad bin Zaida told us, on the authority of Salim bin Abdullah, that he was with Muslimah bin Abdul Malik in the land of the Romans, and he found stolen goods in a man's belongings. He said: So he asked Salim bin Abdullah, and he said: My father Abdullah told me, on the authority of Umar bin Al-Khattab, may God be pleased with him, "that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: If you find stolen goods in someone's belongings, burn them - he said: And I think he said: And beat him. He said: So he took out his belongings in the market and found a Qur'an in them, so he asked Salim, and he said: Sell it and give its price in charity." And this is how Ali bin Al-Madini, Abu Dawud, and Al-Tirmidhi narrated it from the hadith of Abdul Aziz bin Muhammad Al-Atdarwardi. Abu Dawud and Abu Ishaq Al-Fazari added, both of them on the authority of Abu Waqid Al-Laithi Al-Sagheer, Saleh bin Muhammad bin Zaida with it. Ali ibn al-Madini, al-Bukhari and others said: This is a rejected hadith narrated by Abu Waqid. Al-Daraqutni said: The correct view is that it is only from the fatwa of Salim. Imam Ahmad ibn Hanbal, may God have mercy on him, and those of his companions who followed him held the view based on this hadith. Al-Umawi narrated it on the authority of Muawiyah, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Yunus ibn Ubayd, on the authority of al-Hasan, who said: The punishment for the transgressor is that his saddlebags are taken out and burned with what is in them. Then he narrated on the authority of Muawiyah, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Uthman ibn Ata', on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ali, who said: The transgressor's saddlebags are gathered together and burned and he is flogged without a prescribed punishment. Abu Hanifa, Malik, al-Shafi'i and the majority disagreed with him and said: The transgressor's belongings are not to be burned, but he is to be punished with a punishment similar to his. Al-Bukhari said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, refrained from praying over the transgressor, but his belongings were not burned." And God knows best.

Another hadith on the authority of Umar, may God be pleased with him - Ibn Jarir said: Ahmad ibn Abd al-Rahman ibn Wahb told me, Abdullah ibn Wahb told me, Amr ibn al-Harith told me that Musa ibn Jubayr told him: Abdullah ibn Abd al-Rahman ibn al-Habbab al-Ansari told him: Abdullah ibn Unais told him: He and Umar ibn al-Khattab were discussing charity one day, and he said: Didn't you hear the words of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, when he mentioned the embezzlement of charity: Whoever embezzles a camel or a sheep from it, he will carry it on the Day of Resurrection? Abdullah ibn Unais said: Yes. Ibn Majah narrated it on the authority of Amr ibn Sawad on the authority of Abdullah ibn Wahb on his authority. Al-Umawi narrated it on the authority of Muawiyah, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Yunus ibn Ubayd, on the authority of al-Hasan, who said: The punishment of the embezzler is that his saddle be taken out and burned with what is in it. Then he narrated on the authority of Muawiyah, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Uthman ibn Ata', on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ali, who said: The embezzler's saddle is gathered up and burned and he is flogged without a prescribed punishment.

Imam Ahmad said: Aswad bin Aamer told us, Israel told us, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Jubayr bin Malik, who said: The copies of the Qur'an were ordered to be changed. He said: Ibn Masoud said: Whoever among you can steal a copy of the Qur'an, let him steal it, for whoever steals something will bring it on the Day of Resurrection. Then he said: I recited from the mouth of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, seventy surahs. Should I abandon what I took from the mouth of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace? And Wakee' narrated in his interpretation on the authority of Sharik, on the authority of Ibrahim bin Muhajir, on the authority of Ibrahim, who said: When the copies of the Qur'an were ordered to be burned, Abdullah bin Masoud, may God be pleased with him, said: O people, steal the copies of the Qur'an, for whoever steals it will bring what he stole on the Day of Resurrection. And what a good stealing copy of the Qur'an one of you will bring on the Day of Resurrection. Abu Dawud said, on the authority of Samurah bin Jundub, who said: When the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, captured a booty, he would command Bilal to call out to the people, and they would bring their spoils, and he would take a fifth of it and divide it. Then a man came one day after The call was made with a bridle of hair. He said: O Messenger of God, this was from what we obtained from the spoils. He said: Did you hear Bilal calling three times? He said: Yes. He said: What prevented you from coming? So he apologized to him. He said: No, you will come with it on the Day of Resurrection and I will not accept it from you.

And the Almighty said: Is he who pursues the pleasure of God like he who incurs the wrath of God and whose refuge is Hell, and an evil destination? That is, he who pursues the pleasure of God in what He has prescribed and thus deserves the pleasure of God and His abundant reward, and is protected from His severe punishment, is not equal to he who deserves the wrath of God and is bound by it, and there is no escape for him from it, and his refuge on the Day of Resurrection is Hell, and an evil destination. This verse has many parallels in the Qur'an, such as the Almighty's saying: Is he who knows that what has been revealed to you from your Lord is the truth like he who is blind? and His saying: Is he to whom We have promised a good promise and he will attain it like he to whom We have given enjoyment of the enjoyment of worldly life? Then God the Almighty said: They are of degrees with God. Al-Hasan Al-Basri and Muhammad bin Ishaq said: meaning the people of good and the people of evil have degrees. Abu Ubaidah and Al-Kisa'i said: Stations, meaning they differ in their stations and degrees in Paradise and their levels in Hell, like the Almighty's saying: And for all are degrees according to what they have done verse. That is why the Almighty said: And God is Seeing of what they do verse, meaning He will give them what they deserve. He will not wrong them with good nor increase their evil, rather He will reward each worker according to his work. The Almighty said: God has certainly conferred a great favor upon the believers when He sent among them a Messenger from among themselves verse, meaning from their own kind so that they could address him, ask him, sit with him, and benefit from him, as the Almighty said: And among His signs is that He created for you from among yourselves mates that you may find tranquility in them verse, meaning from your own kind. The Almighty said: "Say, 'I am only a man like you. It has been revealed to me that your God is one God'" verse. God the Almighty said: And We did not send before you any messengers except that they ate food and walked in the markets. God the Almighty said: And We did not send before you any except men to whom We revealed from the people of the towns. God the Almighty said: O company of jinn and mankind, did there not come to you messengers from among you? This is more eloquent in gratitude that the messenger to them should be from among them, such that they can address him and consult him in understanding the speech on his behalf. For this reason God the Almighty said: He recites to them His verses meaning the Qur'an and purifies them meaning he commands them to do good and forbids them from evil so that their souls may be purified and cleansed from the filth and evil that they were immersed in during their state of polytheism and ignorance, and teaches them the Book and wisdom meaning the Qur'an and the Sunnah, although they were before

Surat Al Imran 3:159

So by mercy from God, you are gentle with them. And if you had been rude [in speech] and harsh in heart, they would have disbanded from around you. So pardon them and ask forgiveness for them and consult them in the matter. And when you have decided, then rely upon God. Indeed, God loves those who rely [upon Him].

meaning before this Messenger in manifest error meaning in clear error and ignorance that is evident to everyone.

Fath al-Qadir

And in his saying 159- "So because of the mercy of God" is an additional emphasis, as Sibawayh and others said, and Ibn Kaysan said: It is an indefinite noun in the position of a genitive with a ya', and mercy is a substitute for it, and the first is more appropriate according to the rules of Arabic and similar to it is the saying of the Most High: "So because they broke their covenant and the preposition and the noun are related to his saying You were gentle with them" and it was presented before it to indicate restriction, and the tanween of mercy is for glorification, and the meaning is: His gentleness with them was only because of the great mercy from him, and it was said: Ma is an interrogative, and the meaning is: So by what mercy from God were you gentle with them, and it has a meaning of astonishment which is far-fetched, and if it were like that, the alif would have been deleted from Ma, and it was said: So by what mercy from God. And the rude: the rough and harsh. Al-Raghib said: The rude is the one with a bad character, and its origin is rudeness like caution. And the roughness of the heart is its hardness and lack of compassion and lack of reaction to good. And annihilation means dispersal. It is said: I scattered them and they dispersed, meaning they dispersed and the meaning is: If you were rough and hard-hearted and not gentle with them, they would have dispersed from around you out of awe of you and shyness from you because of what they had done in their charge. And if the matter is as mentioned, pardon them in what concerns you of rights, and ask forgiveness for them from God, the Most High, in what is up to God, the Most High, and consult them in the matter meaning: that which comes to you: any matter that is something that one consults about, or in the matter of war in particular as the context indicates, because that will please their feelings and gain their affection, and to inform the nation of the permissibility of that so that no one after you will be disgusted by it. What is meant here is consultation in matters other than those that the Shari'ah refers to. Linguists said: Consultation is taken from the Arabs' saying: I bought the animal and consulted it if you knew its report, and it was said that it comes from their saying: I bought honey if you took it from its place. Ibn Khuz Mandad said: It is obligatory for the governors to consult the scholars regarding matters they do not know and regarding matters of this world that are unclear to them, and to consult the leaders of the army regarding matters related to war, and the leaders of the people regarding matters related to interests, and the leaders of the scribes, workers and ministers regarding matters related to the interests of the country and its development. Al-Qurtubi narrated from Ibn Atiyyah that there is no disagreement regarding the obligation to dismiss those who do not consult the people of knowledge and religion. His statement, Then when you have decided, then put your trust in God means: If you decide after consultation on something and your soul is reassured by it, then put your trust in God in doing that: that is, rely on Him and entrust Him. It was said that the meaning is: If you decide to carry out a matter, then put your trust in God, not in consultation. Determination originally means the intention to carry it out: that is, if you intend to carry out a matter, then put your trust in God. Ja'far al-Sadiq and Jabir ibn Zayd read If you have decided with a damma on the ta', attributing the determination to God the Most High: that is, if I decide for you on something and guide you to it, then put your trust in God.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

159- The Almighty said: "Then by the mercy of God" meaning: by the mercy of God, and "what" is a conjunction, like His saying: "Then by the fact that He broke their covenant, You were gentle with them" meaning: you made your manners easy for them, and your patience was great, and you did not rush to them in what they did on the day of Uhud, "And if you had been rude" meaning: harsh, ill-mannered, and of little patience, "hard-hearted", Al-Kalbi said: rough in speech and hard-hearted in action, "they would have dispersed from around you" meaning: they would have fled and scattered from you, it is said: you dispersed them and they dispersed, meaning they separated them and they dispersed. "So pardon them, overlook what they did on the day of Uhud, and ask forgiveness for them until I intercede for them, and consult them in the matter" meaning: extract their opinions and know what they have, from the saying of the Arabs: I bought the animal and consulted it, if you extracted its gait, and I bought honey and consulted it if you took it from its location, and extracted it.

They differed about the meaning for which God commanded His Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, to consult, despite his perfect mind, sound opinion, and the revelation that came down to him, and the obligation of people to obey him in what they liked and disliked.

Some of them said: It is specific in meaning, that is: And consult them in what you do not have a covenant with God Almighty about. Al-Kalbi said: It means, debate them in meeting the enemy and the war plots during the invasion.

Muqatil and Qatada said: God Almighty commanded that they be consulted to please their hearts, for that would make them more affectionate towards Him and remove their grudges. For if the leaders of the Arabs did not consult them in a matter, that would be difficult for them.

Al-Hassan said: God Almighty knew that he did not need to consult them, but he wanted those who came after him to follow his example.

Abu Tahir bin Ali bin Abdullah Al-Farsi told us: Abu Dharr Muhammad bin Ibrahim bin Ali Al-Salihani told us: Abdullah bin Muhammad bin Jaafar bin Hayyan told us: Ali bin Al-Abbas Al-Muqana'i told us: Ahmad bin Mahan told us: My father told us: Talha bin Zaid told us, on the authority of Aqeel, on the authority of Al-Zuhri, on the authority of Urwah, on the authority of Aisha, may God be pleased with her, who said: I have never seen a man who consulted men more than the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace.

God Almighty says: So when you have decided, then rely upon God, not upon consulting them. That is, carry out God's command, trust in Him, and seek His help. Indeed, God loves those who rely [upon Him].

Tafsir al-Baidawi

159 "So by mercy from God, you were gentle with them meaning, by mercy, and ma" is an additional emphasis, warning and indication that his gentleness with them was only by mercy from God, which is to control his temper and enable him to be gentle with them until he was saddened by them after they disobeyed him. "And if you had been rude" ill-tempered and harsh. "Harsh in heart" harsh. "They would have dispersed from around you" they would have dispersed from you and would not have been at ease with you. "So pardon them" in what pertains to you. "And ask forgiveness for them" in what belongs to God. "And consult them in the matter" meaning in the matter of war, since the discussion is about it, or in what it is appropriate to consult in, seeking their opinion and comforting their souls and preparing for the tradition of consultation in the nation. "So when you have decided" if you have settled your soul on something after consultation. "Then rely upon God" in carrying out your matter according to what is best for you, because no one knows it except Him. It was read as if you resolve to speak, meaning if I resolve something for you and specify it for you, then put your trust in God and do not consult anyone about it. Indeed, God loves those who trust so He will support them and guide them to righteousness.

Surat Al Imran 3:160

If God helps you, none can overcome you. But if He forsakes you, who is there that can help you after Him? And upon God let the believers put their trust.

Surat Al Imran 3:160

If God helps you, none can overcome you. But if He forsakes you, who is there that can help you after Him? And upon God let the believers put their trust.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

If God helps you He aids you against your enemy, as on the day of Badr, (none can overcome you. But if He forsakes you) He abandons your support, as on the day of Uhud, who is there that can help you after Him? That is, after His forsake, that is, you have no supporter. And upon God and none other let the believers put their trust let them have confidence.)

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: God Almighty means by that: If God helps you, O believers in God and His Messenger, against those who oppose and are hostile to you from among His enemies and disbelievers in Him, no one can overcome you, from among the people, meaning: No one can overcome you with His help for you, even if all His creation gathered against you from all corners of the earth. So do not fear the enemies of God due to your small number and their large number, as long as you are upon His command and steadfast in obeying Him and His Messenger, for victory and triumph are yours, without them. And if He forsakes you, who is there to help you after Him? Meaning: If your Lord forsakes you by disobeying His command and abandoning His obedience and the obedience of His Messenger, He leaves you to yourselves, who is there to help you after Him? He says: So despair of the help of the people, for you will not find [a helper] after God forsakes you. If He forsakes you, He says: Do not abandon My command, my obedience, and the obedience of my Messenger, so you will perish because of my abandonment of you. And in God let the believers put their trust. That is: But in your Lord, O believers, put your trust without the rest of His creation, and be satisfied with Him over all those besides Him, and submit to His judgment, and strive in it against His enemies, and He will suffice you with His help, and extend to you His victory, as:

Ibn Humayd told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: If God helps you, none can overcome you; but if He forsakes you, who is there that can help you after Him? And in God let the believers put their trust. That is, if God helps you, none can overcome you among the people - the abandonment of those who forsake you will not harm you, and if He forsakes you, the people will not help you. Then who is there that can help you after Him? That is, do not leave my affair to the people, and abandon [the affair of] the people to my affair, and in God, [not in the people], let the believers put their trust.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

The Almighty said: If God helps you, none can overcome you. That is, put your trust in Him, for if He helps you and protects you from your enemy, you will not be defeated. But if He forsakes you, He abandons you from His aid. Who is there that can help you after Him? That is, no one can help you after Him, that is, after He forsakes you, because He said, And if He forsakes you, and forsake means abandoning aid, and the forsworn is the one who is abandoned and no one cares about him. The wild animal was forsworn, so it stayed with its young in the pasture and abandoned its companions, so it was forsworn. Tarafa said:

Take care of the rhubarb with a tent, take the edges of the barren land and wear

He also said:

I looked at you with the eyes of a slave girl who has let her friends down for the sake of a child.

It was said: This is from the reverse, because it is the one that is abandoned if it is left, and his legs are abandoned if they are swayed. He said:

And let down the man without sweeping

A man who has let him down is someone who will continue to let him down. And God knows best.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The Almighty says, addressing His Messenger, thanking him and the believers for what He softened his heart with towards his nation who followed his command, abandoned his warning, and made his words pleasant to them: Then by the mercy of God, you were gentle with them. That is, what made you gentle with them, were it not for God's mercy upon you and them? Qatada said: Then by the mercy of God, you were gentle with them. He says: Then by the mercy of God, you were gentle with them. What is the connection? The Arabs connect it with the definite article, as in His statement: Then by their breaking of their covenant. And with the indefinite article, as in His statement: In a little while. And thus here he said: Then by the mercy of God, you were gentle with them. That is, by the mercy of God. Al-Hasan Al-Basri said: This is the character of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, with which God sent him. And this noble verse is similar to the statement of the Almighty: "There has certainly come to you a Messenger from among yourselves. Grievous to him is what you suffer; he is concerned over you and to the believers is kind and merciful." And Imam Ahmad said: Haywah told us, Baqiyah told us, Muhammad bin Ziyad told us. Abu Rashid Al-Habrani told me: Abu Umamah Al-Bahili took my hand and said: The Messenger of God, may

God bless him and grant him peace, took my hand and said: O Abu Umamah, among the believers is he whose heart is soft towards me. Ahmad alone transmitted this. Then God, the Most High, said: And if you had been rude [in speech] and harsh [in heart], they would have disbanded from around you. The rude is the harsh, and what is meant by it here is harsh in speech, because He said after that harsh in heart, meaning if you had been bad in speech and hard-hearted towards them, they would have disbanded from you and left you, but God gathered them around you and made you gentle towards them to win their hearts over, as Abdullah bin Amr said: "I see the description of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, in the earlier books that he is not rude, nor harsh, nor loud in the markets, and he does not repay evil with evil, but he pardons and forgives." Abu Ismail Muhammad bin Ismail Al-Tirmidhi said: Bishr bin Ubaid Al-Darimi informed us, Ammar bin Abd Al-Rahman informed us, on the authority of Al-Mas'udi, on the authority of Ibn Abi Malekah, on the authority of Aisha, may God be pleased with her, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) said: God has commanded me to be lenient with people, just as He has commanded me to establish the obligatory duties. This is a strange hadith. That is why God the Almighty said: So pardon them and ask forgiveness for them, and consult them in the matter. That is why the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) used to consult his companions about a matter whenever it happened, to please their hearts so that they would be more active in what they did, as he consulted them on the day of Badr about going to the caravan, and they said: "O Messenger of God, if you were to parade us across the sea, we would cross it with you, and if you were to take us to Barak al-Ghamad, we would go with you, and we will not say to you as the people of Moses said to Moses: Go, you and your Lord, and fight, for we are sitting here. Rather, we say: Go, for we are with you, in front of you, and on your right and on your left, fighting." He also consulted them about where the camp would be, until Al-Mundhir bin Amr Al-Mu'naq indicated to die by advancing to the front of the people. He consulted them about whether he should stay in the city or go out to the enemy. Most of them suggested going out to them. So he went out to them and consulted them on the day of the Trench about reconciling with the confederates for a third of the fruits of the city that year. The two Saads, Saad bin Muadh and Saad bin Ubadah, refused him that, so he left that. He consulted them on the day of Hudaibiyyah about attacking the children of the polytheists. Abu Bakr said to him: We did not come to fight anyone, but we came to perform Umrah. So he agreed to what he said. The Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) said in the story of the slander: "Advise me, O Muslims, about a people who destroyed my family and threw stones at them. By God, I do not know of any evil against my family, and who did they destroy them for? By God, I only know of good about him." He consulted Ali and Usama about separating from Aisha may God be pleased with her. The Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) used to consult them in wars and the like. The jurists differed as to whether that was obligatory upon him or recommended to please their hearts. There are two opinions. Al-Hakim said in his Mustadrak: Abu Ja'far Muhammad ibn Muhammad al-Baghdadi informed us, Yahya ibn Ayyub al-'Alaf told us in Egypt, Sa'id ibn Abi Maryam told us, Sufyan ibn 'Uyaynah told us, on the authority of 'Amr ibn Dinar, on the authority of Ibn 'Abbas, regarding the words of God the Almighty: And consult them in the matter. He said: Abu Bakr and 'Umar, may God be pleased with them. Then he said: It is authentic according to the conditions of the two sheikhs, and they did not include it. Al-Kalbi narrated it likewise on the authority of Abu Salih on the authority of Ibn 'Abbas, who said: It was revealed about Abu Bakr and 'Umar, and they were the disciples of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his ministers, and the fathers of the Muslims. Imam Ahmad narrated: Waki' told us, 'Abd al-Hamid told us on the authority of Shahr ibn Hawshab, on the authority of 'Abd al-Rahman ibn Ghanim, "That the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to Abu Bakr and 'Umar, 'If we met in consultation, I would not oppose you.'" Ibn Mardawayh narrated on the authority of 'Ali ibn Abi Talib, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was asked about determination. He said: Consulting people of opinion, then following them." Ibn Majah said: Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shaybah narrated to us, Yahya ibn Bakir narrated to us, on the authority of Shaiban, on the authority of Abdul Malik ibn Umair, on the authority of Abu Salamah, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: The one who is consulted is trustworthy. Abu Dawud and al-Tirmidhi narrated it, and al-Nasa'i authenticated it from the hadith of Abdul Malik ibn Umair with a more detailed chain of transmission than this. Then Ibn Majah said: Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shaybah narrated to us, Aswad ibn Amir narrated to us, on the authority of Sharik, on the authority of al-A'mash, on the authority of Abu Amr al-Shaibani, on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The one who is consulted is trustworthy." He was the only one to narrate it. He also said: Abu Bakr narrated to us, Yahya ibn Zakariya ibn Abi Zaydah and Ali ibn Hashim narrated to us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Laila, on the authority of Abu al-Zubayr, on the authority of Jabir, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: If one of you consults his brother, let him advise him. He was also the only one to narrate it. And the Almighty's saying: So when you have decided, then rely upon God meaning if you consult them about the matter and are determined to do it, then rely upon God in it Indeed, God loves those who rely [upon Him]. And the Almighty's saying: If God helps you, none can overcome you; but if He forsakes you, who is there that can help you after Him? And in God let the believers rely. And this verse is as it was mentioned before from His saying: And victory comes only from God, the Exalted in Might, the Wise. Then He commanded them to rely upon Him, saying: And in God let the believers rely. And the Almighty's saying: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils, Ibn Abbas, Mujahid, Al-Hasan and more than one said: It is not befitting for a prophet to betray. And Ibn Abi Hatim said: My father told us, Al-Musayyab bin Wadheeh told us,

Surat Al Imran 3:160

If God helps you, none can overcome you. But if He forsakes you, who is there that can help you after Him? And upon God let the believers put their trust.

Abu Ishaq Al-Fazari told us on the authority of Sufyan bin Khasif on the authority of Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: They lost a quilt on the day of Badr, so they said: Perhaps the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, took it, so God revealed: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils, meaning betray. Ibn Jarir said: Muhammad ibn Abd al-Malik ibn Abi al-Shawarib told us, Abd al-Wahid ibn Ziyad told us, Khasif told us, Muqsim told us, Ibn Abbas told me that this verse, And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war, was revealed concerning a red cloak that was lost on the day of Badr. Some people said: Perhaps the Messenger of God had taken it, and they talked a lot about that, so God revealed, "And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war. And whoever takes spoils of war will come with what he has taken on the Day of Resurrection." Abu Dawud and al-Tirmidhi both narrated it in the same way on the authority of Qutaybah, on the authority of Abd al-Wahid ibn Ziyad. Al-Tirmidhi said: It is good and strange. Some of them narrated it on the authority of Khasif, on the authority of Muqsim, meaning in a mural form. Ibn Mardawayh narrated on the authority of Abu Amr ibn al-Ala', on the authority of Mujahid, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: The hypocrites accused the Messenger of God (blessings and peace of God be upon him) of something he had lost, so God revealed: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war. It was narrated from Ibn Abbas through other chains of transmission similar to what was mentioned above. This is to exonerate him (blessings and peace of God be upon him) from all forms of treachery in fulfilling the trust, dividing the spoils of war, and other things. Al-Awfi said on the authority of Ibn Abbas: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war meaning that he would divide some of the spoils for the sake of the army and leave others. Ad-Dahhak said the same. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war meaning that he would leave some of what was revealed to him and not convey it to his nation. Al-Hasan al-Basri, Tawus, Mujahid, and Ad-Dahhak recited: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war with a damma on the ya', meaning that he would betray. Qatada and Ar-Rabi' ibn Anas said: This verse was revealed on the day of Badr, and some of his companions had taken spoils of war. Ibn Jarir narrated it from them, then he narrated from some of them that he interpreted this reading to mean that he is accused of treason, then God Almighty said: "And whoever embezzles will come with what he embezzled on the Day of Resurrection. Then every soul will be fully compensated for what it earned, and they will not be wronged." This is a severe threat and a definite warning. The Sunnah also forbade this in multiple hadiths. Imam Ahmad said: Abdul Malik told us, Zuhair told us, meaning Ibn Muhammad, from Abdullah Ibn Muhammad Ibn Aqil, from Ata Ibn Yasar, from Abu Malik Al-Ashja'i, from the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "The greatest embezzlement before God is an arm's length of land. You will find two men running after each other on the land - or in the house - and one of them will cut off an arm's length from the share of his companion, and if he cuts it off, he will be hung around his neck from seven earths until the Day of Resurrection."

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Musa bin Dawud told us, Ibn Lahi'ah told us, on the authority of Ibn Hubayrah and Al-Harith bin Yazid, on the authority of Abd Al-Rahman bin Jubayr, who said: I heard Al-Mustawrid bin Shaddad say: I heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: "Whoever is given a job and does not have a house, let him get a house. Or he does not have a wife, let him get married. Or he does not have a servant, let him get a servant. Or he does not have a mount, let him get a mount. And whoever acquires something other than that, then he is a thief." This is how Imam Ahmad narrated it. Abu Dawud narrated it with another chain of narration and context, saying: Musa bin Marwan al-Raqi narrated to us, al-Mu'afi narrated to us, al-Awza'i narrated to us, on the authority of al-Harith bin Yazid, on the authority of Jubayr bin Nufayr, on the authority of al-Mustawrid bin Shaddad, who said: I heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: "Whoever works for us, let him acquire a wife. If he does not have a servant, let him acquire a servant. If he does not have a home, let him acquire a home." He said: Abu Bakr said: I was told that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever does anything other than that is a transgressor or a thief. Our Sheikh, al-Hafiz al-Mizzi, may God have mercy on him, said: It was narrated by Ja'far bin Muhammad al-Faryabi on the authority of Musa bin Marwan, and he said: On the authority of Abd al-Rahman bin Jubayr instead of Jubayr bin Nufayr, and this is more likely to be correct.

Another hadith - Ibn Jarir said: Abu Kurayb told us, Hafs ibn Bishr told us, Yaqub al-Qummi told us, Hafs ibn Humayd told us on the authority of Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'I do not know any one of you who will come on the Day of Resurrection carrying a bleating sheep and calling out: O Muhammad, O Muhammad.' I will say: 'I have no power over anything from God for you, I have conveyed it to you.' I do not know any one of you who will come on the Day of Resurrection carrying a braying camel and calling out: O Muhammad, O Muhammad.' I will say: 'I have no power over anything from God for you, I have conveyed it to you.' I do not know any one of you who will come on the Day of Resurrection carrying a neighing horse and calling out: O Muhammad, O Muhammad.' I will say: 'I have no power over anything from God for you, I have conveyed it to you.' I do not know any one of you who will come on the Day of Resurrection carrying a leather husk and calling out: O Muhammad, O Muhammad.' I will say: 'I have no power over anything from God for you, I have conveyed it to you.'" None of the people of the six books narrated it.

Another hadith. Imam Ahmad said: Sufyan narrated to us on the authority of Al-Zuhri, he heard Urwah say: Abu Hamid Al-Sa'idi narrated to us: He said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, appointed a man from Azd called Ibn Al-Lutbiyyah to collect the zakat. He came and said:

This is for you and this was given to me. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, stood on the pulpit and said: What is the matter with the worker whom we send and he comes and says: This is for you and this was given to me. Why did he not sit in the house of his father and mother and see whether he was given a gift or not? By the One in Whose hand is the soul of Muhammad, none of you will bring anything of it except that he will bring it on the Day of Resurrection on his neck, whether it is a camel that roars, or a cow that moos, or a sheep that bleats. Then he raised his hands until we saw the whiteness of his armpits. Then he said: O God, have I conveyed the message?" Hisham bin Urwah added: Abu Hamid said: I saw it with my eyes and heard it with my ears. Ask Zaid bin Thabit. They both narrated it on the authority of Sufyan bin Uyaynah. Al-Bukhari has: Ask Zaid bin Thabit. And others. A face on the authority of Al-Zuhri, and through a path on the authority of Hisham bin Urwah, both on the authority of Urwah, on his authority.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Ishaq bin Isa told us, Ismail bin Ayyash told us, on the authority of Yahya bin Saeed, on the authority of Urwah bin Al-Zubayr, on the authority of Abu Hamid, "that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The gifts of workers are misappropriation." This hadith is one of the individual hadiths of Ahmad, and its chain of transmission is weak, and it seems to be an abbreviation of the one before it, and God knows best.

Another hadith - Abu Isa Al-Tirmidhi said in the Book of Rulings: Abu Kurayb told us, Abu Usamah told us, on the authority of Dawud bin Yazid Al-Awdi, on the authority of Al-Mughirah bin Shibl, on the authority of Qais bin Abi Hazim, on the authority of Muadh bin Jabal, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent me to Yemen, and when I set out, he sent after me, but I returned. He said, 'Do you know why I sent to you? Do not take anything without my permission, for it is embezzlement.' And whoever embezzles will come with what he embezzled on the Day of Resurrection." This is why I have called you, so go on with your work." This is a good, strange hadith that we do not know except from this source. There are hadiths on this topic from Adi bin Umairah, Buraydah, Al-Mustawrid bin Shaddad, Abu Hamid, and Ibn Umar.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Ismail bin Aliyah told us, Abu Hayyan Yahya bin Saeed Al-Taymi told us, on the authority of Abu Zur'ah bin Umar bin Jarir, on the authority of Abu Hurairah, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, stood up among us one day and mentioned theft, and he magnified it and magnified its matter, then he said: 'I will not find one of you coming on the Day of Resurrection with a camel roaring on his neck, and he will say: O Messenger of God, help me,' and I will say: 'I have no power over God for you, I have conveyed the message to you.' I will not find one of you coming on the Day of Resurrection with a horse neighing on his neck, and he will say: O Messenger of God, help me,' and I will say: 'I have no power over God for you, I have conveyed the message to you.' I will not find one of you coming on the Day of Resurrection with a bandage on his neck that is strangling him, and he will say: O Messenger of God, help me,' and I will say: 'I have no power over God for you, I have conveyed the message to you.' I will not find one of you coming on the Day of Resurrection with a silent person on his neck, and he will say: O Messenger of God, help me,' and I will say: 'I have no power over God for you, I have conveyed the message to you.' You have something from God that I have conveyed to you." They narrated it from the hadith of Abu Hayyan.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Yahya bin Saeed told us on the authority of Ismail bin Abi Khalid, Qais told me on the authority of Adi bin Umairah Al-Kindi who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: O people, whoever among you does work for us and conceals from us a needle or more of it, it is a stipulation that he will bring on the Day of Resurrection. He said: A black man from the Ansar stood up - Mujalid said: He is Saeed bin Ubadah, it is as if I am looking at him - and said: O Messenger of God, accept your work from me. He said: What is that? He said: I heard you say: such and such. He said: And I am saying that now. Whoever we appoint to a job, let him come with it, little or much, and whatever he is given from it, he takes, and whatever he is forbidden from, he ends." And Muslim and Abu Dawud narrated it in the same way through various chains of transmission on the authority of Ismail bin Abi Khalid.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Abu Muawiyah told us on the authority of Abu Ishaq Al-Fazari, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, Manbuth, a man from the family of Abu Rafi', told me on the authority of Al-Fadl bin Ubaidullah bin Abu Rafi', on the authority of Abu Rafi', who said: "When the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) prayed the afternoon prayer, he would sometimes go to Banu Abd Al-Ashhal and talk to them until sunset. Abu Rafi' said: "While the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) was hurrying to the sunset prayer, he passed by Al-Baqi' and said: 'Uff to you, uff to you' twice. He shouted at me and I held back and thought that he wanted me. He said: 'What is the matter with you? Walk.' I said: 'I have done something new, O Messenger of God.' He said: 'What is that?' I said: 'Uff to me.' He said: 'No, but this is the grave of so-and-so. I sent him to seek out the family of so-and-so, and he stole a tiger and now his armor is like it, made of fire.'"

Another hadith - Abdullah bin Imam Ahmad said: Abdullah bin Salem Al-Kufi, the paralytic, told us - and he was in Mecca - Ubaidah bin Al-Aswad told us, on the authority of Al-Qasim bin Al-Waleed, on the authority of Abu Sadiq, on the authority of Rabia bin Najed, on the authority of Ubadah bin Al-Samit, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, would take a hair from the side of the camel from the spoils of war and then say: I have nothing in it except what one of you has. Beware of embezzlement, for embezzlement is a disgrace for its perpetrator on the Day of Resurrection. Give back the thread and needle and what is above that, and strive in the cause of God near and far, at home and on the journey, for striving is one of the gates of Paradise, for God saves from worry and grief through it, and establish the limits of God in those near and far, and do not let the blame of a blamer deter you in God's cause.” Ibn Majah narrated some of it on the authority of the paralytic.

Surat Al Imran 3:160

If God helps you, none can overcome you. But if He forsakes you, who is there that can help you after Him? And upon God let the believers put their trust.

Another hadith - On the authority of Amr bin Shuaib, on the authority of his father, on the authority of his grandfather, he said: “The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Return the tailor and the needle, for embezzlement is a disgrace, a fire, and a shame upon its people on the Day of Resurrection.”

Another hadith - Abu Dawud said: Uthman bin Abi Shaybah told us, Jarir told us, on the authority of Mutraf, on the authority of Abu al-Jahm, on the authority of Abu Mas’ud al-Ansari, who said: “The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent me as a messenger, then he said: Go, Abu Mas’ud, lest I find you on the Day of Resurrection with a camel from the charity camels coming on your back, roaring, and you have tied it up.” He said: Then I will not go. He said: Then I will not hate you. Abu Dawud is the only one to report it.

Another hadith - Abu Bakr bin Mardawayh said: Muhammad bin Ahmad bin Ibrahim informed us, Muhammad bin Uthman bin Abi Shaybah informed us, Abdul Hamid bin Saleh informed us, Ahmad bin Aban informed us on the authority of Alqamah bin Murthad, on the authority of Ibn Buraidah, on the authority of his father, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: “A stone is thrown into Hell and it falls for seventy years without reaching its bottom, and the stolen goods are brought and thrown with them, then it is said to the one who stole them, ‘Bring them.’ This is what His statement means: ‘And whoever steals will bring what he stole on the Day of Resurrection.’”

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Hashim bin Al-Qasim told us, Ikrimah bin Ammar told us, Samak Al-Hanafi Abu Zamil told me, Abdullah bin Abbas told me, Umar bin Al-Khattab told me: When the day of Khaybar came, a group of the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, came and said: So-and-so is a martyr and so-and-so is a martyr, until they came to a man and said: So-and-so is a martyr. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: No, I saw him in the Fire in a cloak that he had stolen. Then the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: “O son of Al-Khattab, go and announce to the al-Nas 114: ‘None shall enter Paradise except the believers.’ So I went out and announced: ‘None shall enter Paradise except the believers.’” Muslim and Al-Tirmidhi narrated it in the same way from the hadith of Ikrimah bin Ammar. Al-Tirmidhi said: Hasan Sahih.

Another hadith - Ibn Jarir said: Saeed bin Yahya Al-Umawi told us, my father told us, Yahya bin Saeed told us on the authority of Nafi’ on the authority of Ibn Umar that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, “sent Saad bin Ubadah as a tax collector, and he said: Beware, Saad, of coming on the Day of Resurrection with a camel that you are carrying and it is bellowing. He said: I will not take it nor will I come with it, so he excused him.” Then he narrated it on the authority of Ubaidullah on the authority of Nafi’ in a similar manner.

Another hadith - Ahmad said: Abu Saeed told us, Abdul Aziz bin Muhammad told us, Saleh bin Muhammad bin Zaida told us, on the authority of Salim bin Abdullah, that he was with Muslimah bin Abdul Malik in the land of the Romans, and he found stolen goods in a man’s belongings. He said: So he asked Salim bin Abdullah, and he said: My father Abdullah told me, on the authority of Umar bin Al-Khattab, may God be pleased with him, “that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: If you find stolen goods in someone’s belongings, burn them - he said: And I think he said: And beat him. He said: So he took out his belongings in the market and found a Qur’an in them, so he asked Salim, and he said: Sell it and give its price in charity.” And this is how Ali bin Al-Madini, Abu Dawud, and Al-Tirmidhi narrated it from the hadith of Abdul Aziz bin Muhammad Al-Atdarwardi. Abu Dawud and Abu Ishaq Al-Fazari added, both of them on the authority of Abu Waqid Al-Laithi Al-Sagheer, Saleh bin Muhammad bin Zaida with it. Ali ibn al-Madini, al-Bukhari and others said: This is a rejected hadith narrated by Abu Waqid. Al-Daraqutni said: The correct view is that it is only from the fatwa of Salim. Imam Ahmad ibn Hanbal, may God have mercy on him, and those of his companions who followed him held the view based on this hadith. Al-Umawi narrated it on the authority of Muawiyah, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Yunus ibn Ubayd, on the authority of al-Hasan, who said: The punishment for the transgressor is that his saddlebags are taken out and burned with what is in them. Then he narrated on the authority of Muawiyah, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Uthman ibn Ata’, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ali, who said: The transgressor’s saddlebags are gathered together and burned and he is flogged without a prescribed punishment. Abu Hanifa, Malik, al-Shafi’i and the majority disagreed with him and said: The transgressor’s belongings are not to be burned, but he is to be punished with a punishment similar to his. Al-Bukhari said: “The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, refrained from praying over the transgressor, but his belongings were not burned.” And God knows best.

Another hadith on the authority of Umar, may God be pleased with him - Ibn Jarir said: Ahmad ibn Abd al-Rahman ibn Wahb told me, Abdullah ibn Wahb told me, Amr ibn al-Harith told me that Musa ibn Jubayr told him: Abdullah ibn Abd al-Rahman ibn al-Habbab al-Ansari told him: Abdullah ibn Unais told him: He and Umar ibn al-Khattab were discussing charity one day, and he said: Didn’t you hear the words of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, when he mentioned the embezzlement of charity: Whoever embezzles a camel or a sheep from it, he will carry it on the Day of Resurrection? Abdullah ibn Unais said: Yes. Ibn Majah narrated it on the authority of Amr ibn Sawad on the authority of Abdullah ibn Wahb on his authority. Al-Umawi narrated it on the authority of Muawiyah, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Yunus ibn Ubayd, on the authority of al-Hasan, who said: The punishment of the embezzler is that his saddle be taken out and burned with what is in it. Then he narrated on the authority of Muawiyah, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Uthman ibn Ata', on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ali, who said: The embezzler's saddle is gathered up and burned and he is flogged without a prescribed punishment.

Imam Ahmad said: Aswad bin Aamer told us, Israel told us, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Jubayr bin Malik, who said: The copies of the Qur'an were ordered to be changed. He said: Ibn Masoud said: Whoever among you can steal a copy of the Qur'an, let him steal it, for whoever steals something will bring it on the Day of Resurrection. Then he said: I recited from the mouth of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, seventy surahs. Should I abandon what I took from the mouth of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace? And Wakee' narrated in his interpretation on the authority of Sharik, on the authority of Ibrahim bin Muhajir, on the authority of Ibrahim, who said: When the copies of the Qur'an were ordered to be burned, Abdullah bin Masoud, may God be pleased with him, said: O people, steal the copies of the Qur'an, for whoever steals it will bring what he stole on the Day of Resurrection. And what a good stealing copy of the Qur'an one of you will bring on the Day of Resurrection. Abu Dawud said, on the authority of Samurah bin Jundub, who said: When the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, captured a booty, he would command Bilal to call out to the people, and they would bring their spoils, and he would take a fifth of it and divide it. Then a man came one day after The call was made with a bridle of hair. He said: O Messenger of God, this was from what we obtained from the spoils. He said: Did you hear Bilal calling three times? He said: Yes. He said: What prevented you from coming? So he apologized to him. He said: No, you will come with it on the Day of Resurrection and I will not accept it from you.

And the Almighty said: Is he who pursues the pleasure of God like he who incurs the wrath of God and whose refuge is Hell, and an evil destination? That is, he who pursues the pleasure of God in what He has prescribed and thus deserves the pleasure of God and His abundant reward, and is protected from His severe punishment, is not equal to he who deserves the wrath of God and is bound by it, and there is no escape for him from it, and his refuge on the Day of Resurrection is Hell, and an evil destination. This verse has many parallels in the Qur'an, such as the Almighty's saying: Is he who knows that what has been revealed to you from your Lord is the truth like he who is blind? and His saying: Is he to whom We have promised a good promise and he will attain it like he to whom We have given enjoyment of the enjoyment of worldly life? Then God the Almighty said: They are of degrees with God. Al-Hasan Al-Basri and Muhammad bin Ishaq said: meaning the people of good and the people of evil have degrees. Abu Ubaidah and Al-Kisa'i said: Stations, meaning they differ in their stations and degrees in Paradise and their levels in Hell, like the Almighty's saying: And for all are degrees according to what they have done verse. That is why the Almighty said: And God is Seeing of what they do verse, meaning He will give them what they deserve. He will not wrong them with good nor increase their evil, rather He will reward each worker according to his work. The Almighty said: God has certainly conferred a great favor upon the believers when He sent among them a Messenger from among themselves verse, meaning from their own kind so that they could address him, ask him, sit with him, and benefit from him, as the Almighty said: And among His signs is that He created for you from among yourselves mates that you may find tranquility in them verse, meaning from your own kind. The Almighty said: "Say, 'I am only a man like you. It has been revealed to me that your God is one God'" verse. God the Almighty said: And We did not send before you any messengers except that they ate food and walked in the markets. God the Almighty said: And We did not send before you any except men to whom We revealed from the people of the towns. God the Almighty said: O company of jinn and mankind, did there not come to you messengers from among you? This is more eloquent in gratitude that the messenger to them should be from among them, such that they can address him and consult him in understanding the speech on his behalf. For this reason God the Almighty said: He recites to them His verses meaning the Qur'an and purifies them meaning he commands them to do good and forbids them from evil so that their souls may be purified and cleansed from the filth and evil that they were immersed in during their state of polytheism and ignorance, and teaches them the Book and wisdom meaning the Qur'an and the Sunnah, although they were before meaning before this Messenger in manifest error meaning in clear error and ignorance that is evident to everyone.

Fath al-Qadir

And His saying 160- If God helps you, none can overcome you is a renewed sentence to emphasize trust and urge it, and abandonment is abandoning support: that is, if God abandons your support, who is there who can help you after Him? This question is rhetorical. The pronoun in His saying: after Him refers to abandonment indicated by His saying and if He forsakes you or to God, and whoever knows that he has no supporter except God, the Exalted, and that whoever God helps, none can overcome him, and whoever He forsakes, none can support him, entrusts his affairs to Him and relies on Him and does not concern himself with anyone else. The prepositional phrase precedes the verb in His saying and upon God let the believers rely to indicate that it is restricted to Him.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

160- If God helps you, God helps you and protects you from your enemy, then none can overcome you, like the day of Badr, and if He forsakes you, He leaves you without helping you as He did with Uhud, and forsake is to refrain from support and submission to destruction, then who is there who can help you after Him, that is, after His forsake, and in God let the believers put their trust, it was said: trust means that you do not disobey God for the sake of your provision, and it was said: that you do not seek for yourself a supporter other than God, nor for your provision a treasurer other than Him, nor for your work a witness other than Him.

Surat Al Imran 3:160

If God helps you, none can overcome you. But if He forsakes you, who is there that can help you after Him? And upon God let the believers put their trust.

Abu Al-Qasim Abdul Karim bin Hawazin Al-Qushayri told us, Abu Abdullah Al-Hussein bin Shuja Al-Bazzaz told us in Baghdad, Abu Bakr Muhammad bin Jaafar Al-Haym Al-Anbari told us, Muhammad bin Abi Al-Awam told us, Wahb bin Jarir told us, Hisham bin Hassan told us, on the authority of Al-Hasan, on the authority of Imran bin Husain, may God be pleased with him, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Seventy thousand of my nation will enter Paradise without being brought to account. It was said: O Messenger of God, who are they? He said: They are those who do not cauterize, nor seek omens, nor believe in omens, and who put their trust in their Lord. Then Ukasha bin Muhsin said: O Messenger of God, ask God to make me one of them. He said: You are one of them. Then another stood up and said: O Messenger of God, ask God to make me one of them. He said: Ukasha has preceded you in that.

Abu Bakr Muhammad ibn Abdullah ibn Abi Tuba told us, Muhammad ibn Ahmad ibn al-Harith told us, Muhammad ibn Yaqub al-Kisa'i told us, Abdullah ibn Mahmoud told us, Ibrahim ibn Abdullah al-Khalal told us, Abdullah ibn al-Mubarak told us, Hayat ibn Shuraih told us, Bakr ibn Amr told us, Abdullah ibn Hubayrah told us that he heard Abu Tamim al-Jaishani say: I heard Umar ibn al-Khattab, may God be pleased with him, say: I heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: "If you were to put your trust in God as He should be put into practice, He would provide for you as He provides for the birds, which go out in the morning hungry and return in the evening with full crops."

Tafsir al-Baidawi

160 If God helps you as He helped you on the day of Badr. No one can overcome you so no one can overcome you. But if He forsakes you as He forsook you on the day of Uhud. Who is there that can help you after Him? after His forsake, or after God, meaning if you go beyond Him, then you will have no helper. This is a warning of what is required for trust and an incitement to do what deserves help from God and a warning against what brings about His forsake. And upon God let the believers put their trust so let them put their trust in Him specifically because they know that they have no helper but Him and believe in Him.

Surat Al Imran 3:161

And it is not for a prophet to take spoils. And whoever takes spoils will bring what he took on the Day of Resurrection. Then every soul will be fully compensated for what it earned, and they will not be wronged.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And it was revealed when a red velvet was lost on the day of Uhud, and some people said: Perhaps the Prophet took it. And it is not it is not appropriate for a Prophet to commit treason betray the spoils, so do not think that of him. And in a reading with the passive voice, it is attributed to the treason And whoever commits treason will bring what he has committed on the Day of Resurrection carrying it on his neck Then every soul will be compensated the traitor and others for what it has earned its work and they will not be wronged in the least.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

The Almighty said: It is not for a prophet to take spoils of war verse. Abu Dawud and Al-Tirmidhi narrated it and authenticated it on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: This verse was revealed regarding a red velvet that was lost on the day of Badr. Some people said: Perhaps the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, took it. Then God revealed: It is not for a prophet to take spoils of war verse.

Al-Tabarani included in Al-Kabeer with a chain of transmission of trustworthy men on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent an army and its banner was returned. Then he sent it and it was returned. Then he sent it and it was returned with the spoils of a gazelle's head made of gold. Then the following was revealed: It is not for a prophet to take spoils.

Tafsir al-Tabari

There are different readings of this.

A group of reciters from Hijaz and Iraq read it as: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war, meaning: to betray his companions in the wealth of their enemies that God has bestowed upon them. Some reciters of this reading argued that this verse was revealed to the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) regarding a quilt that was lost from the spoils of war on the day of Badr. Some of those who were with the Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) said: Perhaps the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) took it! They narrated narrations about this, including the following:

Muhammad ibn Abd al-Malik ibn Abi al-Shawarib narrated to us, saying: Abd al-Wahid ibn Ziyad narrated to us, saying: Khasif narrated to us, saying: Muqsim narrated to us, saying: Ibn Abbas narrated to me: This verse: It is not for a prophet to take spoils of war, was revealed concerning a red cloak that was lost on the day of Badr. He said: Some people said: He took it! They talked a lot about that, then God the Almighty revealed: "It is not for a prophet to take spoils of war. And whoever takes spoils of war will come with what he took on the Day of Resurrection."

Ibn Abi Al-Shawareb told us, he said, Abdul Wahid told us, he said, Khasif told us, he said, I asked Saeed bin Jubair: How do you read this verse: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war or: take spoils of war? He said: No, rather take spoils of war, for the Prophet, by God, used to take spoils of war and kill.

Ishaq bin Ibrahim bin Habib bin Al-Shaheed told me, he said, Atab bin Bashir told us, on the authority of Khasif, on the authority of Muqsim, on the authority of Ibn Abbas: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war, he said: That was about a red quilt that was lost in the Battle of Badr, and some of the companions of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Perhaps the Prophet took it! So God Almighty revealed: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war, Saeed said: Yes, by God, the Prophet takes spoils of war and is killed.

Abu Kuraib told us, he said, Khallad told us, on the authority of Zuhair, on the authority of Khasif, on the authority of Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, he said: A velvet garment was lost on the day of Badr, and they said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, took it. Then God Almighty revealed: It is not for a prophet to take spoils of war.

Abu Kuraib told us, he said, Malik bin Ismail told us, he said, Zuhair told us, he said, Khasif told us, on the authority of Saeed bin Jubair and Ikrimah, regarding his statement: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war, they said: Take spoils of war. Ikrimah or someone else said, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, he said: There was a velvet garment that was lost on the day of Badr, and they said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, took it! He said: So God revealed this verse: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war.

Mujahid bin Musa told us, Yazid told us, Qaza'ah bin Suwaid al-Bahili told us, on the authority of Hamid al-A'raj, on the authority of Saeed bin Jubayr, who said: This verse was revealed: It is not for a prophet to take spoils of war, regarding a red cloak that was lost on the day of Badr from the spoils.

Nasr bin Ali Al-Jahdhami told us, he said, Mu'tamir told us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Sulayman Al-A'mash, he said: Ibn Mas'ud used to recite: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war, so Ibn Abbas said: Yes, and to be killed. Ibn Abbas said: "So it was in a piece of cloth. They said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, took it on the day of Badr." So God revealed: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war.

Others who read it in this way, with the opening of the ya' and the closing of the ghayn, said: This verse was revealed about the vanguards whom the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was facing. Then the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, took the spoils and did not divide them among the vanguards. So God Almighty revealed this verse to His Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, informing him that what he did was wrong, and that what was obligatory upon him in the ruling was to divide among the vanguards as he divided among others, and informing him of what was obligatory upon him in the ruling regarding the spoils that God bestowed upon him, and that he does not have the right to single out anyone who witnessed the battle - or who was a support to them in their conquest - over anyone else.

Surat Al Imran 3:161

And it is not for a prophet to take spoils. And whoever takes spoils will bring what he took on the Day of Resurrection. Then every soul will be fully compensated for what it earned, and they will not be wronged.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Saad told me, he said, my father told me, he said, my uncle told me, he said, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding his statement: "And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war. And whoever takes spoils of war will come with what he took on the Day of Resurrection," meaning: It is not for a prophet to divide among a group of Muslims and leave out a group and be unjust in the division, but he should divide with justice, and take it according to the command of God, and rule in it according to what God has revealed. He says: God would not make a prophet who would take spoils of war from his companions, so if the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, did that, then they would follow his example.

Yaqub bin Ibrahim told us, he said, Hisham told us, on the authority of Juwaybir, on the authority of Ad-Dahhak: that he used to recite: It is not for a prophet to take spoils of war, he said: to give some and leave some, if he acquired spoils.

Ibn Wakee' told us, he said, my father told us, on the authority of Salamah ibn Nabit, on the authority of Ad-Dahhak, he said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent out a scout group, and the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, took spoils, but he did not divide them among the scouts, so God Almighty revealed: It is not for a prophet to take spoils.

It was narrated on the authority of Al-Husayn, who said: I heard Abu Muadh say: Ubayd ibn Sulayman told us, on the authority of Ad-Dahhak: It was not for a prophet to take spoils of war, meaning: It was not for a prophet to divide among a group of his companions and leave out a group, but rather he should be just and take into account the command of God Almighty, and rule in it according to what God has revealed.

Yahya bin Abi Talib told me, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Juwaybir told us, on the authority of Ad-Dahhak, regarding his statement: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war, he said: It is not for him, if he acquires spoils, to divide them among some of his companions and leave some, but to divide them equally among them.

Others who read it with the opening of the ya' and the closing of the ghayn said: This was revealed to inform the people that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, does not conceal anything from God's revelation.

Who said that?

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: "And it is not for a prophet to conceal from the people what God sent him with, out of fear of the people or desire, and whoever does that will bring it on the Day of Resurrection. Then every soul will be compensated for what it earned, and they will not be wronged." That is, it is not for a prophet to conceal from the people what God sent him with, out of fear of the people or desire, and whoever does that will bring it on the Day of Resurrection.

Abu Jaafar said: The interpretation of whoever reads it in this way is: It is not appropriate for a prophet to be a traitor - meaning that it is not among the actions of the prophets to betray their nations.

It is said: The man cheated, so he cheats, if he betrayed, cheating. It is also said: The man cheated, so he cheated, cheating, as Shuraih said: The borrower who is not a cheater is not liable, meaning: the one who is not a traitor. It is also said: The butcher cheated, if he stole some of the meat along with the skin.

And what we said about that came the interpretation of the people of interpretation.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Al-Hussein told us, Ahmad bin Al-Mufaddal told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi: It was not appropriate for a prophet to betray, meaning: It was not appropriate for him to betray, so just as it was not appropriate for him to betray, do not betray.

Muhammad bin Amr told me, he said, Abu Asim told us, he said, Isa told us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding his statement: It is not for a prophet to take spoils of war, he said: to betray.

Others read it as: And it was not for a prophet to take spoils of war, with a damma on the ya' and a fatha on the ghayn. This is the reading most widely recited by the people of Medina and Kufa.

Readers of this also differed in their interpretation of it.

Some of them said: Its meaning is: It is not for a prophet to be betrayed by his companions. Then he omitted the companions, so the verb remained without its subject being named. Its interpretation is: It is not for a prophet to be betrayed.

Who said that?

Yaqub bin Ibrahim told me, he said, Hisham told us, he said, Aouf told us, on the authority of Al-Hasan, that he used to recite: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils, Aouf said, Al-Hasan said: To be betrayed.

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war, meaning: And it is not for a prophet to be taken spoils of war by his believing companions who are with him - he mentioned to us this verse that was revealed to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, on the day of Badr, and groups of his companions had taken spoils of war.

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said, Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said, Muammar told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: It is not for a prophet to take spoils of war, he said: that his companions should take spoils of war from him.

It was narrated on the authority of Ammar, who said: Ibn Abi Ja'far narrated to us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of al-Rabi', regarding his statement: It is not for a prophet to take spoils of war, al-Rabi' ibn Anas said: It is not for a prophet to take spoils of war from his companions who are with him. He said: It was mentioned to us, and God knows best, that this verse was revealed to the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, on the day of Badr, and groups of his companions had taken spoils of war.

Others among them said: The meaning of this is: It is not for a prophet to be accused of embezzlement, so that he would betray and steal. And the interpreters of this were like that, they directed his statement: It is not for a prophet to embezzle, to the meaning of it: embezzles, then the 'ayn was lightened from yaf'al, so it became yaf'al as was read by those who read his statement: For they do not deny you (al-An'am 6:33), with the interpretation: they deny you.

Abu Ja'far said: The most correct of the two readings in this regard, in my opinion, is the reading of the one who read: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war, meaning: spoils of war are not among the attributes of prophets, and a prophet cannot be one who takes spoils of war.

We chose this because God the Almighty threatened those who commit treachery after His statement: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils, saying: And whoever takes spoils will bring what he took on the Day of Resurrection, and the verse that follows it. So in His threat after that to those who commit treachery, there is clear evidence that He only forbade treachery, and informed His servants that treachery is not one of the characteristics of His prophets by His statement: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils. Because if He only forbade the companions of the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) from accusing the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) of treachery, He would have followed that with a threat for the accusation and bad opinion of the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him), not a threat for treachery. And in His following that with a threat for treachery, there is a clear statement that He only made known to the believers and other than His servants that treachery is absent from the characteristics and morals of the prophets, because that is a great crime, and the prophets do not commit such a thing.

If someone who reads it in this way says: It is more appropriate than: And it is not for a prophet that his companions should betray him, if that is as you mentioned, and God did not follow up His statement: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils except with a threat against taking spoils, but it is only necessary to rule that it is correct because of the reading of the one who reads: yaghl with a damma on the ya and a fatha on the ghain, because the meaning of that is: And it is not for a prophet that his companions should take spoils of war and betray him in the spoils?

It was said to him: Was it possible for them to betray anyone other than the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, so that they were specifically prohibited from betraying the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace?

If they say: Yes, then they have left the statement of the people of Islam, because God has never permitted betrayal of anyone in the statement of any of the people of Islam.

If someone says: They did not have that in any prophet or anyone else.

It was said: What is the reason for their being singled out, then, for the prohibition of betraying the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his embezzlement and the embezzlement of some Jews, in the same way that God has forbidden the embezzler from their money, and what is required of the trustee in fulfilling the trust to them?

And since that is the case, it is known that the meaning of that is what we said, that God Almighty denied that treachery and betrayal were among the characteristics of His prophets, forbidding His servants from treachery, and commanding them to follow the example of their prophet, as Ibn Abbas said in the narration that we mentioned from the narration of Atiyah, then God Almighty followed up His prohibition of treachery with a threat against him, saying: And whoever commits treachery will come with what he has stolen on the Day of Resurrection, both verses together.

Abu Ja'far said: By that, the Most High means: And whoever betrays any of the spoils of the Muslims, their booty, or anything else, he will be brought on the Day of Resurrection in the place of assembly, as:

Abu Kuraib narrated: Ibn Fadil narrated to us, on the authority of Yahya bin Saeed Abi Hayyan, on the authority of Abu Zur'ah, on the authority of Abu Hurairah, on the authority of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace: "He stood up as a preacher and preached and reminded, then he said: 'Is it possible that a man among you will come on the Day of Resurrection with a bleating sheep on his neck, saying: O Messenger of God, help me!' But I will say: 'I have no power over you, I have conveyed the message to you! Is it possible that a man among you will come on the Day of Resurrection with a neighing horse on his neck, saying: O Messenger of God, help me!' But I will say: 'I have no power over you, I have conveyed the message to you! Is it possible that a man among you will come on the Day of Resurrection with a silent horse on his neck, saying: O Messenger of God, help me!' But I will say: 'I have no power over you, I have conveyed the message to you! Is it possible that a man among you will come on the Day of Resurrection with a cow mooing on his neck, saying: O

And it is not for a prophet to take spoils. And whoever takes spoils will bring what he took on the Day of Resurrection. Then every soul will be fully compensated for what it earned, and they will not be wronged.

Messenger of God, help me!' But I will say: 'I have no power over you, I have conveyed the message to you!' On the Day of Resurrection, there will be fluttering papers around his neck, and he will say: O Messenger of God, help me! I will say: I have no power to do anything for you, I have conveyed the message to you!

Abu Kuraib told us, he said, Abd al-Rahman told us, on the authority of Abu Hayyan, on the authority of Abu Zur'ah, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, like this, and he added to it: I do not want to find any of you with a soul on his neck screaming.

Yaqub told me, he said, Ibn Ulayyah told us, he said, Abu Hayyan told us, on the authority of Abu Zur'ah ibn Amr ibn Jarir, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, he said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, stood up among us one day and mentioned theft, and he made it very serious and its matter very serious, and he said: 'I do not want to find one of you coming on the Day of Resurrection with a roaring camel on his neck, saying: O Messenger of God, help me.'" Then he mentioned something similar to the hadith of Abu Kurayb on the authority of Abd al-Rahman.

Abu Kuraib narrated to us, he said, Hafs bin Bishr narrated to us, on the authority of Yaqub al-Qummi, he said, Hafs bin Hamid narrated to us, on the authority of Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, he said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'I do not know any one of you who will come on the Day of Resurrection carrying a bleating sheep calling out: O Muhammad! O Muhammad! I will say: I have no power over God for you, I have conveyed the message to you.' I do not know any one of you who will come on the Day of Resurrection carrying a braying camel calling out: O Muhammad! O Muhammad! I will say: I have no power over God for you, I have conveyed the message to you. I do not know any one of you who will come on the Day of Resurrection carrying a neighing horse calling out: O Muhammad! O Muhammad! I will say: I have no power over God for you, I have conveyed the message to you.' I do not know any one of you who will come on the Day of Resurrection carrying a leather husk calling out: O Muhammad! O Muhammad! I will say: I have no power over God for you, I have conveyed the message to you."

Abu Kuraib narrated to us, he said, Asbat bin Muhammad narrated to us, he said, Abu Ishaq Al-Shaibani narrated to us, on the authority of Abdullah bin Dhakwan, on the authority of Urwah bin Az-Zubayr, on the authority of Abu Hamid, he said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent a collector of alms, and he came back with a large quantity of black money. He said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent someone to collect it from him. When they came to him, he began to say: This is for me, and this is for you. They said: Where did you get this from? He said: It was given to me! So they came to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and informed him of that. So he went out and delivered a sermon, saying: O people, why do I send people to collect alms, and one of them comes back with a large quantity of black money, and when I send someone to collect it, he says: This is for me, and this is for you! If he is truthful, should I not give him a gift while he is in his father's house or in his mother's house? Then he said: O people, whoever we send to do a job and he steals something, he will come on the Day of Resurrection with it on his neck, carrying it. So fear God, lest one of you come on the Day of Resurrection with a camel on his neck, roaring, or..." A cow bellowing, or a sheep bleating.

Abu Kuraib narrated to us, he said, Abu Muawiyah, Ibn Numayr and Abdah ibn Sulayman narrated to us, on the authority of Hisham ibn Urwah, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Abu Hamid al-Sa'di, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, appointed a man from Azd called Ibn al-Atbiyyah to collect the alms of Banu Salim. When he came, he said: 'This is for you, and this is a gift that was given to me.' The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Why does not one of you sit in his house and receive his gift?' Then he praised God and extolled Him, then said: 'As for what follows, I appoint men from among you to handle matters that God has entrusted me with, and one of them says: 'This is for you, and this is a gift that was given to me! Why does he not sit in his father's house or his mother's house and receive his gift?' By the One in Whose Hand is my soul, none of you takes anything from that except that he will come on the Day of Resurrection carrying it on his neck. So I do not know when a man comes carrying a camel that is bellowing, or a cow that is mooing, or a sheep that is bleating!' Then he raised his hand and said: 'Have I not conveyed the message?'"

Abu Kuraib told us, he said, Abd al-Rahim told us, on the authority of Hisham ibn Urwah, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Abu Hamid, he told him a similar hadith, he said: Why didn't you sit in the house of your father and mother until your gift came to you? Then he raised his hand until I could see the whiteness of his armpits, then he said: O God, have I conveyed the message? Abu Hamid said: My eyes see and my ears hear.

Ahmad ibn Abd al-Rahman ibn Wahb narrated to us, saying, my uncle Abd God ibn Wahb narrated to me, saying, Amr ibn al-Harith informed me, that Musa ibn Jubayr narrated to him, that Abd God ibn Abd al-Rahman ibn al-Habbab al-Ansari narrated to him, that Abd God ibn Unais narrated to him, that he and Umar were discussing charity one day, and he said, Did you not hear the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) when he mentioned the embezzlement of charity: Whoever embezzles a camel or a sheep from it, he will carry it on the Day of Resurrection? Abd God ibn Unais said: Yes. Saeed ibn Yahya al-Umawi narrated to us, saying, my father narrated to us, saying, Yahya ibn Saeed al-Ansari narrated to us, on the authority of Nafi', on the authority of Ibn Umar, that the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) sent Sa'd ibn Ubadah as a collector of charity, and he said: Beware, Sa'd, of coming on the Day of Resurrection with a camel carrying it bellowing for him! He said: I will neither take it nor bring it! So he pardoned him.

Ahmad bin Al-Mughira Al-Himsi Abu Hamid narrated, Al-Rabi bin Ruh narrated, Ibn Ayyash narrated, Ubaidullah bin Umar bin Hafs narrated, on the authority of Nafi', the freed slave of Ibn Umar, on the authority of Abdullah bin Umar, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace: That he appointed Sa'd bin Ubadah, so he came to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and greeted him. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to him: Beware, Sa'd, of coming on the Day of Resurrection carrying a roaring camel on your neck! Sa'd said: If I do that, O Messenger of God, will that happen? He said: Yes! Sa'd said: I know, O Messenger of God, that I ask and am given! So pardon me. So he pardoned him.

Abu Kuraib narrated, Zaid bin Habban narrated, Abdurrahman bin Al-Harith narrated, my grandfather Ubaid bin Abi Ubaid - who was the first person born in Madinah - narrated: I was appointed to collect the Zakat of the tribe of Daws, and Abu Hurairah came to me on the day I went out and greeted me. So I went out to him and greeted him, and he said: How are you with the camel? How are you with the cow? How are you with the sheep? Then he said: I heard my beloved the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: Whoever takes a camel unjustly will bring it on the Day of Resurrection roaring. Whoever takes a cow unjustly will bring it on the Day of Resurrection mooing. Whoever takes a sheep unjustly will bring it on the Day of Resurrection on his neck bleating. So beware of cows, for they have sharp horns and sharp hooves.

Abu Kuraib told us, he said, Khalid bin Mukhallad told us, he said, Muhammad told me, on the authority of Abd al-Rahman bin al-Harith, on the authority of his grandfather Ubayd bin Abi Ubayd, he said: I was appointed over the charity of Daws, and when I had finished the work I came back, and Abu Hurayrah came to me and greeted me and said: Tell me, how are you and the camels? Then he mentioned something similar to what Hudhayfah narrated on the authority of Zayd, except that he said: He will be brought on the Day of Resurrection with it roaring on its neck.

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said: Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said: Muammar told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: "And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war. And whoever takes spoils of war will come with what he took on the Day of Resurrection," Qatada said: "Whenever the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, took spoils of war, he would send out a crier: 'Let no man take a needle or anything less than that of war, let no man take a camel and bring it on his back on the Day of Resurrection, roaring with it, let no man take a horse and bring it on its back on the Day of Resurrection, neighing with it.'"

Abu Ja'far said: What He, may His praise be exalted, means by His saying: Then every soul will be paid in full, then every soul will be given the recompense for what it earned by its earnings, in full and without any reduction in what it deserved and deserved from that, and they will not be wronged, meaning: nothing will be done to them except what should be done to them, without transgression against them so that they are reduced from what they deserved, as:

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: Then every soul will be fully compensated for what it has earned, and they will not be wronged. Then he will be rewarded for what he has earned, neither wronged nor transgressed against.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

It contains eleven issues:

First: When the archers abandoned their positions on the day of Uhud, as mentioned above, for fear that the Muslims would seize the spoils and nothing would be given to them, God Almighty made it clear that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, was not permitted to divide them, so it was not right for you to accuse him. Ad-Dahhak said: Rather, the reason is that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent out scouts in some of his battles and then took spoils before they came, so he divided them for the people and did not divide them for the scouts, so God sent down a rebuke to him: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war, and whoever takes spoils of war means dividing for some and leaving others. A similar statement was narrated from Ibn Abbas. Ibn Abbas also said, and Ikrimah, Ibn Jubayr, and others said: It was revealed because of a red velvet that was lost in the spoils on the day of Badr, so some of those who were with the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Perhaps the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, took it, so the verse was revealed. Abu Dawud and At-Tirmidhi narrated it, and he said: This is a good and strange hadith. Ibn Atiyyah said: It was said that this statement was from believers who did not think that there was any harm in that, and it was said: It was from the hypocrites, and it has been narrated that the missing was a sword, and these sayings come out on the reading yaghl with the opening of the ya and the damma of the ghain, and Abu Sakhr narrated on the authority of Muhammad bin Kaab and it was not for a prophet to yaghl he said: you say and it was not for a prophet to conceal anything from the Book of God, and it was said: the lam in it is transferred, meaning and it was not for a prophet to yaghl, like his saying: It was not for God to take a son, glory be to Him meaning it was not for God to take a son, and it was read yaghl with the damma of the ya and the opening of the ghain, and Ibn al-Sikkit said: we did not hear about the spoils except ghal ghululan, and it was read and it was not for a prophet to yaghl and yaghl, he said: so the meaning of yaghl is to betray, and the meaning of yaghl is to betray, and it is possible for two meanings: one of them is to betray, meaning it is taken from his spoils,

Surat Al Imran 3:161

And it is not for a prophet to take spoils. And whoever takes spoils will bring what he took on the Day of Resurrection. Then every soul will be fully compensated for what it earned, and they will not be wronged.

and the other is to betray that he is attributed to yaghlul: then it was said: whoever yaghl something secretly has yaghl yaghl ghlulul, Ibn Arafah said: it is called yaghlul because the hands it is restricted from it, meaning it is forbidden. Abu Ubaid said: Gholul is specifically from spoils of war, and we do not see it as being from treachery or hatred. What makes this clear is that it is said from treachery: aghal yaghl, and from hatred: ghal yaghl with the kasra, and from gholul: ghal yaghl with the damma, and the camel's ghal is also yaghl if it does not finish its watering, and the man is aghal treachery, Al-Nimr said:

May God reward Hamza bint Nawfal on our behalf with the reward of a liar who betrays trust.

In the hadith: No iqlal nor islal meaning no betrayal or theft. It is also said: no bribery. Shuraih said: There is no guarantee for the borrower other than the one who has been betrayed. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: There are three things that a believer's heart will not be betrayed by. Whoever narrates it with the fat-ha, it is from the word dhughn. "Ghal" is transitive and intransitive. It is said:

So-and-so entered the desert, meaning he entered it and entered it. Ghal means he betrayed. Ghal means he betrayed. Ghal means the water flows between the trees if it runs in them. Yaghal with the damma is used in all of that. It was said: Ghalul in the language means taking something from the spoils to hide it from its owners. From this comes the word ghalal meaning it penetrates the trees. Ghalal means the water flowing in the roots of the trees because it is hidden by the trees, as he said:

The floods played with it, and its water became a sludge that cut into the roots of the castor bean.

And from it is the ghalala for the garment that is worn under the clothes, and ghal: a peaceful land with trees, and the growing places of salam and acacia, it is called ghal, and ghal is also a plant, and the plural is ghalān with dammah, and some people said: the meaning of yaghl is to find ghalān, as you say: I praised the man and found him praiseworthy, so this reading according to this interpretation goes back to the meaning of yaghl with the fathah of the ya and the dammah of the ghain, and the meaning of yaghl according to the majority of scholars is that no one has the right to cheat him, that is, to betray him in the spoils, so the verse is in the meaning of forbidding people from cheating in the spoils, and threatening him with it, and just as it is not permissible to betray the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, it is not permissible to betray anyone else, but he was mentioned specifically because betrayal with him is more severe and has a greater burden, because sins are magnified in his presence to make him respected, and the rulers are only on the command of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, so they have their share of respect. And it was said: the meaning of yaghl is that no prophet has ever cheated, The purpose is not to prohibit.

The second: The Almighty's saying: And whoever steals will bring what he stole on the Day of Resurrection. That is, he will bring it carrying it on his back and neck, tormented by its weight and its burden, terrified by its voice, and rebuked by the display of his treachery in front of all witnesses, as will come. And this disgrace that God Almighty inflicts on the one who steals is similar to the disgrace that befalls the traitor, in that a banner is raised for him at his backside according to the extent of his treachery. And God Almighty made these punishments according to what people know and understand. Do you not see the words of the poet:

My name is Waheek, have you heard of the treachery with which the banner was raised for us in the assembly?

The Arabs used to raise a banner for the traitor, and the criminal would also be paraded with his crime. In Sahih Muslim, it is narrated on the authority of Abu Hurairah who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, stood up among us one day and mentioned theft, and he magnified it and magnified its matter, then he said: I will not find one of you coming on the Day of Resurrection with a camel on his neck that roars, saying: O Messenger of God, help me, and I will say: I have no power over you, I have conveyed the message to you. I will not find one of you coming on the Day of Resurrection with a neighing horse on his neck, saying: O Messenger of God, help me, and I will say: I have no power over you, I have conveyed the message to you. I will not find one of you coming on the Day of Resurrection with a bleating sheep on his neck, saying: O Messenger of God, help me, and I will say: I have no power over you, I have conveyed the message to you. I will not find one of you coming on the Day of Resurrection with a soul on his neck that cries, and he says: O Messenger of God, help me, and I will say: I have no power over you, I have conveyed the message to you. I will not find one of you coming on the Day of Resurrection with fluttering papers on his neck, and he says: O Messenger of God, help me, and I will say: I have no power over you, I have conveyed the message to you. "I do not want to find any of you coming on the Day of Resurrection with a mute person on his neck and saying, 'O Messenger of God, help me,' and I will say, 'I do not have anything for you, I have conveyed the message to you.'" Abu Dawud narrated on the authority of Samurah ibn Jundub who said: "Whenever the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, acquired spoils of war, he would order Bilal to call out to the people and they would bring their spoils and he would take a fifth of it and divide it up. One day after the call, a man came with a rein of hair and said, 'O Messenger of God, this was part of what we acquired of the spoils of war.' He said, 'Did you hear Bilal calling out three times?' He said, 'Yes.' He said, 'What prevented you from bringing it?' So he apologized to him, and he said: No, you will bring it on the Day of Resurrection, and I will not accept it from you. Some scholars said: He meant that he will be burdened with that on the Day of Resurrection, as He said in another verse: "And they will bear their burdens on their backs. Unquestionably, evil is that which they bear." (Al-An'am: 31) It was said: The report is based on the fame of the matter, meaning that he will come on the Day of Resurrection with his matter famous, as it would be famous if he carried a camel that was roaring or a horse that was neighing.

I said: This is a departure from the truth to metaphor and simile. If the discussion revolves around the truth and metaphor, then the truth is the origin, as in the books of principles. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, informed us of the truth, and there is no perfume after the bride. It is said: Whoever steals something in this world will be presented to him on the Day of Resurrection in the Fire, then it will be said to him: Go down to it and take it. So he will go down to it, and when he reaches it, he will carry it, until when he reaches the door, it will fall from him to the bottom of Hell. So he will return to it and take it, and it will remain like this until God wills. It is said: He will come with what he stole, meaning that that betrayal and theft will bear witness against him on the Day of Resurrection.

Third: The scholars said: Stealing is a major sin, as evidenced by this verse and what we mentioned from the hadith of Abu Hurayrah: He carries it on his neck. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said about Mud'am: By the One in Whose Hand is my soul, the cloak that was taken from the spoils on the day of Khaybar was not divided up and it would have caught fire on him. He said: When the people heard that, a man came with one or two straps to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace: One or two straps of fire. Narrated by Al-Muwatta'. So his saying, may God bless him and grant him peace: By the One in Whose Hand is my soul, and his abstention from praying for the one who stole is evidence of the greatness of stealing and the greatness of the sin in it and that it is one of the major sins. It is one of the rights of humans and there must be retribution for it with good and bad deeds, then its owner in the will. His saying: One or two straps of fire, is like his saying: Give back the tailor and the needle. This indicates that it is not permissible to take a small or large amount in a conquest before the division, except for what they agreed upon of eating food in the conquest area and from... Firewood gathering and hunting. It was narrated on the authority of Al-Zuhri that he said: Food should not be taken in the land of the enemy except with the permission of the Imam. This has no basis, because the reports contradict it, as follows. Al-Hasan said: When the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, conquered a city or a fortress, they would eat from the gruel, flour, ghee, and honey. Ibrahim said: They would eat food from the land of the enemy in the land of war and feed it before it was given a fifth. Ata' said: In the raids, they would be in the secret and obtain various types of ghee, honey, and food and eat, and whatever remained they would return to their Imam. This is the view of the group of scholars.

Fourth: This hadith is evidence that the thief should not burn his belongings, because the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, did not burn the belongings of the man who took the cloak.

And I do not burn the belongings of the owner of the beads who did not pray over them. If burning his belongings was obligatory, the Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) would have done so. If he had done so, it would have been mentioned in the hadith. As for what was narrated on the authority of Umar ibn al-Khattab may God be pleased with him, "On the authority of the Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him), who said: If you find a man who has stolen, burn his belongings and beat him," Abu Dawud and al-Tirmidhi narrated it on the authority of Salih ibn Muhammad ibn Za'idah, who is weak and cannot be relied upon. Al-Tirmidhi said: I asked Muhammad, meaning al-Bukhari, about this hadith and he said: This was only narrated by Salih ibn Muhammad, who is Abu Waqid al-Laythi, and he is a fabricator of hadith. Abu Dawud also narrated on his authority that he said: We went on a raid with al-Walid ibn Hisham, and with us were Salim ibn Abdullah ibn Umar and Umar ibn Abdul Aziz. A man stole some belongings, so al-Walid ordered his belongings to be burned and paraded around, but he did not give him his share. Abu Dawud said: This is the more authentic of the two hadiths. It was narrated from the hadith of Amr ibn Shu'ayb on the authority of his father on the authority of his grandfather that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, Abu Bakr and Umar burned the belongings of the usurper and beat him. Abu Dawud said: Ali ibn Bahr added to it on the authority of al-Walid, and I did not hear it from him: and they denied him his share. Abu Umar said: Some of the narrators of this hadith said: and strike his neck and burn his belongings. This hadith is based on Salih ibn Muhammad, and he is not one of those who can be relied upon. It has been proven that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The blood of a Muslim is not permissible except in one of three cases, and he denies killing in the case of usurpation. Ibn Jurayj narrated on the authority of Abu al-Zubayr on the authority of Jabir on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: There is no amputation for the traitor, the plunderer, or the embezzler. This contradicts the hadith of Salih ibn Muhammad, which is stronger in terms of chain of transmission. The usurper is a traitor in language and Sharia, and if amputation is denied him, then killing is more appropriate. At-Tahawi said: If the hadith of Salih mentioned is authentic, it is possible that it was when the punishments were in the case of wealth, as he said about the one who withheld zakat: We will take it and half of his wealth, a determination from The determination of God Almighty, and as Abu Hurairah said about the lost camel that was concealed: There is a fine for it and a similar amount with it, and as Abdullah bin Amr bin Al-Aas narrated about the hanging fruit: a fine of twice its amount and lashes as punishment. All of this has been abrogated, and God knows best.

Fifth: If a man steals from the spoils of war and finds it, it is taken from him, and he is disciplined and punished with discretionary punishment. According to Malik, Al-Shafi'i, Abu Hanifah, their companions, and Al-Layth: His belongings are not to be burned. Al-Shafi'i, Al-Layth, and Dawud said: If he was aware of the prohibition, he is to be punished. Al-Awza'i said:

Surat Al Imran 3:161

And it is not for a prophet to take spoils. And whoever takes spoils will bring what he took on the Day of Resurrection. Then every soul will be fully compensated for what it earned, and they will not be wronged.

All of the stealer's belongings are to be burned except for his weapons, the clothes he is wearing, and his saddle. His mount is not to be taken away from him, and the thing he stole is not to be burned. This is the opinion of Ahmad and Ishaq, and Al-Hasan said the same, unless it is an animal or a copy of the Qur'an. Ibn Khuwayz Mandad said: It was narrated that Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with them both, beat the stealer and burned his belongings. Ibn Abd Al-Barr said: Among those who said that the stealer's saddle and belongings are to be burned are Makhul and Sa'id ibn Abd Al-Aziz. The proof of those who held this view is the aforementioned hadith of Salih, which we consider a hadith that does not require violating the sanctity or enforcing a ruling, because of the reports that contradict it that are stronger than it. What Malik and those who followed him held in this matter is more correct from the point of view and the correct report, and God knows best.

Sixth: Malik's school of thought did not differ regarding the punishment for the body. As for the money, he said regarding a dhimmi who sells wine to a Muslim: The wine is spilled on the Muslim, and the price is taken from the dhimmi as a punishment for him, so that he does not sell wine to Muslims. Based on this, it is permissible to say: The punishment for the money is permissible, and Umar, may God be pleased with him, spilled milk that had been mixed with water.

Seventh: The scholars agreed that the one who has stolen the property may return all that he has stolen to the owner of the shares before the people disperse if he finds a way to do so, and that if he does so, it is repentance for him and an exoneration from his sin. They differed about what should be done with it if the people of the army disperse and he does not reach it. A group of scholars said: He should pay the Imam a fifth of it and give the rest in charity. This is the view of Al-Zuhri, Malik, Al-Awza'i, Al-Layth, and Al-Thawri. It was narrated from Ubadah ibn Al-Samit, Mu'awiyah, and Al-Hasan Al-Basri. It is similar to the view of Ibn Mas'ud and Ibn Abbas, because they were of the view that the money whose owner is not known should be given in charity. This is the view of Ahmad ibn Hanbal. Al-Shafi'i said: He does not have the right to give charity with someone else's money. Abu Omar said: This is in my opinion with regard to what its owner can be found and reached or to his heirs. However, if none of that is the case, Al-Shafi'i does not dislike giving charity in that case, God willing. They agreed on the permissibility of giving charity with regard to lost property after identifying it and its owner being absent, and they made him, if he comes, have the choice between reward and guarantee. The same applies to usurped property. And God is the Grantor of success. In The prohibition of embezzlement is evidence of the participation of the conquerors in the spoils, so it is not permissible for one person to monopolize part of it without the other. Whoever usurps part of it will be disciplined by consensus, as mentioned above.

Eighth: If he had intercourse with a female slave or stole a minimum amount, the scholars differed about the punishment to be carried out on him. A group of scholars held that there should be no amputation of his hand.

Ninth: Among the embezzlements are the gifts of workers, and the ruling on them in terms of disgrace in the Hereafter is the ruling on the embezzler. Abu Dawud narrated in his Sunan and Muslim in his Sahih on the authority of Abu Humayd al-Sa'idi: "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, employed a man from Azd called Ibn al-Latibiyyah, Ibn al-Sarh Ibn al-Atbiyyah, to collect the zakat. He came and said: This is for you and this was given to me. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, stood on the pulpit and praised God and thanked Him and said: What is wrong with the worker whom we send and he comes and says: This is for you and this was given to me? Why does he not sit in the house of his mother or father and see whether he is given a gift or not? No one among you will come with anything of that except that he will come with it on the Day of Resurrection. If it is a camel, it will roar, and if it is a cow, it will moo, or a sheep will bleat. Then he raised his hands until we saw the whiteness of his armpits, then he said: O God, have I conveyed the message? O God, have I conveyed the message." Abu Dawud narrated on the authority of Buraidah, "On the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, he said: Whoever we employ in a job and provide for him, and whatever he takes after that is embezzlement." It was also narrated on the authority of Abu Mas'ud al-Ansari said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent me as a messenger and then said: Go, Abu Mas'ud, lest I find you on the Day of Resurrection carrying a camel from the charity camels, roaring and you have stolen it. He said: Then I will not go. He said: Then I will not hate you. These hadiths were also restricted by what Abu Dawud narrated on the authority of al-Mustawrid ibn Shaddad, who said: I heard the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: Whoever works for us should acquire a wife. If he does not have a servant, then let him acquire a servant. If he does not have a home, then let him acquire a home. Abu Bakr said: I was informed that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever takes anything other than that is a thief and a thief. And God knows best.

Tenth: Among the forms of embezzlement is withholding books from their owners, and other things are included in its meaning. Al-Zuhri said: Beware of embezzling books. It was said to him: What is embezzling books? He said: Withholding them from their owners. It has been said in the interpretation of the words of God Almighty: And it is not for a prophet to commit embezzlement that he conceals something from the revelation out of desire, fear, or flattery. This is because they hated what was in the Qur'an of faults in their religion and insults to their gods, so they asked him to conceal that, so God revealed this verse. Muhammad ibn Bashar said this, and what we began with is the opinion of the majority.

Eleventh: The Almighty's saying: Then every soul will be fully compensated for what it earned, and they will not be wronged. This has been discussed previously.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The Almighty says, addressing His Messenger, thanking him and the believers for what He softened his heart with towards his nation who followed his command, abandoned his warning, and made his words pleasant to them: Then by the mercy of God, you were gentle with them. That is, what made you gentle with them, were it not for God's mercy upon you and them? Qatada said: Then by the mercy of God, you were gentle with them. He says: Then by the mercy of God, you were gentle with them. What is the connection? The Arabs connect it with the definite article, as in His statement: Then by their breaking of their covenant. And with the indefinite article, as in His statement: In a little while. And thus here he said: Then by the mercy of God, you were gentle with them. That is, by the mercy of God. Al-Hasan Al-Basri said: This is the character of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, with which God sent him. And this noble verse is similar to the statement of the Almighty: "There has certainly come to you a Messenger from among yourselves. Grievous to him is what you suffer; he is concerned over you and to the believers is kind and merciful." And Imam Ahmad said: Haywah told us, Baqiyah told us, Muhammad bin Ziyad told us. Abu Rashid Al-Habrani told me: Abu Umamah Al-Bahili took my hand and said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, took my hand and said: O Abu Umamah, among the believers is he whose heart is soft towards me. Ahmad alone transmitted this. Then God, the Most High, said: And if you had been rude [in speech] and harsh [in heart], they would have disbanded from around you. The rude is the harsh, and what is meant by it here is harsh in speech, because He said after that harsh in heart, meaning if you had been bad in speech and hard-hearted towards them, they would have disbanded from you and left you, but God gathered them around you and made you gentle towards them to win their hearts over, as Abdullah bin Amr said: "I see the description of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, in the earlier books that he is not rude, nor harsh, nor loud in the markets, and he does not repay evil with evil, but he pardons and forgives." Abu Ismail Muhammad bin Ismail Al-Tirmidhi said: Bishr bin Ubaid Al-Darimi informed us, Ammar bin Abd Al-Rahman informed us, on the authority of Al-Mas'udi, on the authority of Ibn Abi Malekah, on the authority of Aisha, may God be pleased with her, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) said: God has commanded me to be lenient with people, just as He has commanded me to establish the obligatory duties. This is a strange hadith. That is why God the Almighty said: So pardon them and ask forgiveness for them, and consult them in the matter. That is why the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) used to consult his companions about a matter whenever it happened, to please their hearts so that they would be more active in what they did, as he consulted them on the day of Badr about going to the caravan, and they said: "O Messenger of God, if you were to parade us across the sea, we would cross it with you, and if you were to take us to Barak al-Ghamad, we would go with you, and we will not say to you as the people of Moses said to Moses: Go, you and your Lord, and fight, for we are sitting here. Rather, we say: Go, for we are with you, in front of you, and on your right and on your left, fighting." He also consulted them about where the camp would be, until Al-Mundhir bin Amr Al-Mu'naq indicated to die by advancing to the front of the people. He consulted them about whether he should stay in the city or go out to the enemy. Most of them suggested going out to them. So he went out to them and consulted them on the day of the Trench about reconciling with the confederates for a third of the fruits of the city that year. The two Saads, Saad bin Mu'adh and Saad bin Ubadah, refused him that, so he left that. He consulted them on the day of Hudaibiyyah about attacking the children of the polytheists. Abu Bakr said to him: We did not come to fight anyone, but we came to perform Umrah. So he agreed to what he said. The Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) said in the story of the slander: "Advise me, O Muslims, about a people who destroyed my family and threw stones at them. By God, I do not know of any evil against my family, and who did they destroy them for? By God, I only know of good about him." He consulted Ali and Usama about separating from Aisha may God be pleased with her. The Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) used to consult them in wars and the like. The jurists differed as to whether that was obligatory upon him or recommended to please their hearts. There are two opinions. Al-Hakim said in his Mustadrak: Abu Ja'far Muhammad ibn Muhammad al-Baghdadi informed us, Yahya ibn Ayyub al-'Alaf told us in Egypt, Sa'id ibn Abi Maryam told us, Sufyan ibn 'Uyaynah told us, on the authority of 'Amr ibn Dinar, on the authority of Ibn 'Abbas, regarding the words of God the Almighty: And consult them in the matter. He said: Abu Bakr and 'Umar, may God be pleased with them. Then he said: It is authentic according to the conditions of the two sheikhs, and they did not include it. Al-Kalbi narrated it likewise on the authority of Abu Salih on the authority of Ibn 'Abbas, who said: It was revealed about Abu Bakr and 'Umar, and they were the disciples of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his ministers, and the fathers of the Muslims. Imam Ahmad narrated: Waki' told us, 'Abd al-Hamid told us on the authority of Shahr ibn Hawshab, on the authority of 'Abd al-Rahman ibn Ghanim, "That the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to Abu Bakr and 'Umar, 'If we met in consultation, I would not oppose you.'" Ibn Mardawayh narrated on the authority of 'Ali ibn Abi Talib, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was asked about determination. He said: Consulting people of opinion, then following them." Ibn Majah said: Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shaybah narrated to us, Yahya ibn Bakir narrated to us, on the authority of Shaiban, on the authority of Abdul Malik ibn Umair, on the authority of Abu Salamah, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: The one who is consulted is trustworthy. Abu Dawud and al-Tirmidhi narrated it, and al-Nasa'i authenticated it from the hadith of Abdul Malik ibn Umair with a more detailed chain of transmission than this. Then Ibn Majah said: Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shaybah narrated to us, Aswad ibn Amir narrated to us, on the authority of Sharik, on the authority of al-A'mash, on the authority of Abu Amr al-Shaibani, on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The one who is consulted is trustworthy." He was the only one to narrate it. He also said: Abu Bakr narrated to us, Yahya ibn Zakariya ibn Abi Zaydah and Ali ibn Hashim narrated to us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Laila, on the authority of Abu al-Zubayr, on the authority of Jabir, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: If one of you consults his brother, let him advise him. He was also the only one to narrate it. And the Almighty's saying: So when you have decided, then rely upon God meaning if you consult them about the matter and are determined to do it, then rely upon God in it Indeed, God loves those who rely [upon Him]. And the Almighty's saying: If God helps you, none can overcome you; but if He forsakes you, who is there that can help you after Him? And in God let the believers rely. And this verse is as it was mentioned before from His saying: And victory comes only from God, the Exalted in Might, the Wise. Then He commanded them to rely upon Him, saying: And in God let the believers rely. And the Almighty's saying: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils, Ibn Abbas, Mujahid, Al-Hasan and more than one said: It is not befitting for a prophet to betray. And Ibn Abi Hatim said: My father told us, Al-Musayyab bin Wadheeh told us, Abu Ishaq Al-Fazari told us on the authority of Sufyan bin Khasif on the authority of Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: They lost a quilt on the day of Badr, so they said: Perhaps the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, took it, so God revealed: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils, meaning betray. Ibn Jarir said: Muhammad ibn Abd al-Malik ibn Abi al-Shawarib told us, Abd al-Wahid ibn Ziyad told us, Khasif told us, Muqsim told us, Ibn Abbas told me that this verse, And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war, was revealed concerning a red cloak that was lost on the day of Badr. Some people said: Perhaps the Messenger of God had taken it, and they talked a lot about that, so God revealed, "And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war. And whoever takes spoils of war will come with what he has taken on the Day of Resurrection." Abu Dawud and al-Tirmidhi both narrated it in the same way on the authority of Qutaybah, on the authority of Abd al-Wahid ibn Ziyad. Al-Tirmidhi said: It is good and strange. Some of them narrated it on the authority of Khasif, on the authority of Muqsim, meaning in a mural form. Ibn Mardawayh narrated on the authority of Abu Amr ibn al-Ala', on the authority of Mujahid, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: The hypocrites accused the Messenger of God (blessings and peace of God be upon him) of something he had lost, so God revealed: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war. It was narrated from Ibn Abbas through other chains of transmission similar to what was mentioned above. This is to exonerate him (blessings and peace of God be upon him) from all forms of treachery in fulfilling the trust, dividing the spoils of war, and other things. Al-Awfi said on the authority of Ibn Abbas: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war meaning that he would divide some of the spoils for the sake of the army and leave others. Ad-Dahhak said the same. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war meaning that he would leave some of what was revealed to him and not convey it to his nation. Al-Hasan al-Basri, Tawus, Mujahid, and Ad-Dahhak recited: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war with a damma on the ya', meaning that he would betray. Qatada and Ar-Rabi' ibn Anas said: This verse was revealed on the day of Badr, and some of his companions had taken spoils of war. Ibn Jarir narrated it from them, then he narrated from some of them that he interpreted this reading to mean that he is accused of treason, then God Almighty said: "And whoever embezzles will come with what he embezzled on the Day of Resurrection. Then every soul will be fully compensated for what it earned, and they will not be wronged." This is a severe threat and a definite warning. The Sunnah also forbade this in multiple hadiths. Imam Ahmad said: Abdul Malik told us, Zuhair told us, meaning Ibn Muhammad, from Abdullah Ibn Muhammad Ibn Aqil, from Ata Ibn Yasar, from Abu Malik Al-Ashja'i, from the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "The greatest embezzlement before God is an arm's length of land. You will find two men running after each other on the land - or in the house - and one of them will cut off an arm's length from the share of his companion, and if he cuts it off, he will be hung around his neck from seven earths until the Day of Resurrection."

And it is not for a prophet to take spoils. And whoever takes spoils will bring what he took on the Day of Resurrection. Then every soul will be fully compensated for what it earned, and they will not be wronged.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Musa bin Dawud told us, Ibn Lahi'ah told us, on the authority of Ibn Hubayrah and Al-Harith bin Yazid, on the authority of Abd Al-Rahman bin Jubayr, who said: I heard Al-Mustawrid bin Shaddad say: I heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: "Whoever is given a job and does not have a house, let him get a house. Or he does not have a wife, let him get married. Or he does not have a servant, let him get a servant. Or he does not have a mount, let him get a mount. And whoever acquires something other than that, then he is a thief." This is how Imam Ahmad narrated it. Abu Dawud narrated it with another chain of narration and context, saying: Musa bin Marwan al-Raqi narrated to us, al-Mu'afi narrated to us, al-Awza'i narrated to us, on the authority of al-Harith bin Yazid, on the authority of Jubayr bin Nufayr, on the authority of al-Mustawrid bin Shaddad, who said: I heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: "Whoever works for us, let him acquire a wife. If he does not have a servant, let him acquire a servant. If he does not have a home, let him acquire a home." He said: Abu Bakr said: I was told that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever does anything other than that is a transgressor or a thief. Our Sheikh, al-Hafiz al-Mizzi, may God have mercy on him, said: It was narrated by Ja'far bin Muhammad al-Faryabi on the authority of Musa bin Marwan, and he said: On the authority of Abd al-Rahman bin Jubayr instead of Jubayr bin Nufayr, and this is more likely to be correct.

Another hadith - Ibn Jarir said: Abu Kurayb told us, Hafs ibn Bishr told us, Yaqub al-Qummi told us, Hafs ibn Humayd told us on the authority of Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'I do not know any one of you who will come on the Day of Resurrection carrying a bleating sheep and calling out: O Muhammad, O Muhammad.' I will say: 'I have no power over anything from God for you, I have conveyed it to you.' I do not know any one of you who will come on the Day of Resurrection carrying a braying camel and calling out: O Muhammad, O Muhammad.' I will say: 'I have no power over anything from God for you, I have conveyed it to you.' I do not know any one of you who will come on the Day of Resurrection carrying a neighing horse and calling out: O Muhammad, O Muhammad.' I will say: 'I have no power over anything from God for you, I have conveyed it to you.' I do not know any one of you who will come on the Day of Resurrection carrying a leather husk and calling out: O Muhammad, O Muhammad.' I will say: 'I have no power over anything from God for you, I have conveyed it to you.'" None of the people of the six books narrated it.

Another hadith. Imam Ahmad said: Sufyan narrated to us on the authority of Al-Zuhri, he heard Urwah say: Abu Hamid Al-Sa'idi narrated to us: He said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, appointed a man from Azd called Ibn Al-Lutbiyyah to collect the zakat. He came and said: This is for you and this was given to me. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, stood on the pulpit and said: What is the matter with the worker whom we send and he comes and says: This is for you and this was given to me. Why did he not sit in the house of his father and mother and see whether he was given a gift or not? By the One in Whose hand is the soul of Muhammad, none of you will bring anything of it except that he will bring it on the Day of Resurrection on his neck, whether it is a camel that roars, or a cow that moos, or a sheep that bleats. Then he raised his hands until we saw the whiteness of his armpits. Then he said: O God, have I conveyed the message?" Hisham bin Urwah added: Abu Hamid said: I saw it with my eyes and heard it with my ears. Ask Zaid bin Thabit. They both narrated it on the authority of Sufyan bin Uyaynah. Al-Bukhari has: Ask Zaid bin Thabit. And others. A face on the authority of Al-Zuhri, and through a path on the authority of Hisham bin Urwah, both on the authority of Urwah, on his authority.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Ishaq bin Isa told us, Ismail bin Ayyash told us, on the authority of Yahya bin Saeed, on the authority of Urwah bin Al-Zubayr, on the authority of Abu Hamid, "that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The gifts of workers are misappropriation." This hadith is one of the individual hadiths of Ahmad, and its chain of transmission is weak, and it seems to be an abbreviation of the one before it, and God knows best.

Another hadith - Abu Isa Al-Tirmidhi said in the Book of Rulings: Abu Kurayb told us, Abu Usamah told us, on the authority of Dawud bin Yazid Al-Awdi, on the authority of Al-Mughirah bin Shibl, on the authority of Qais bin Abi Hazim, on the authority of Muadh bin Jabal, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent me to Yemen, and when I set out, he sent after me, but I returned. He said, 'Do you know why I sent to you? Do not take anything without my permission, for it is embezzlement.' And whoever embezzles will come with what he embezzled on the Day of Resurrection." This is why I have called you, so go on with your work." This is a good, strange hadith that we do not know except from this source. There are hadiths on this topic from Adi bin Umairah, Buraydah, Al-Mustawrid bin Shaddad, Abu Hamid, and Ibn Umar.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Ismail bin Aliyah told us, Abu Hayyan Yahya bin Saeed Al-Taymi told us, on the authority of Abu Zur'ah bin Umar bin Jarir, on the authority of Abu Hurairah, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, stood up among us one day and mentioned theft, and he magnified it and magnified its matter, then he said: 'I will not find one of you coming on the Day of Resurrection with a camel roaring on his neck, and he will say: O Messenger of God, help me,' and I will say: 'I have no power over God for you, I have conveyed the message to you.' I will not find one of you coming on the Day of Resurrection with a horse neighing on his neck, and he will say: O Messenger of God, help me,' and I will say: 'I have no power over God for you, I have conveyed the message to you.' I will not find one of you coming on the Day of Resurrection with a bandage on his neck that is strangling him, and he will say: O Messenger of God, help me,' and I will say: 'I have no power over God for you, I have conveyed the message to you.' I will not find one of you coming on the Day of Resurrection with a silent person on his neck, and he will say: O Messenger of God, help me,' and I will say: 'I have no power over God for you, I have conveyed the message to you.' You have something from God that I have conveyed to you." They narrated it from the hadith of Abu Hayyan.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Yahya bin Saeed told us on the authority of Ismail bin Abi Khalid, Qais told me on the authority of Adi bin Umairah Al-Kindi who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: O people, whoever among you does work for us and conceals from us a needle or more of it, it is a stipulation that he will bring on the Day of Resurrection. He said: A black man from the Ansar stood up - Mujalid said: He is Saeed bin Ubadah, it is as if I am looking at him - and said: O Messenger of God, accept your work from me. He said: What is that? He said: I heard you say: such and such. He said: And I am saying that now. Whoever we appoint to a job, let him come with it, little or much, and whatever he is given from it, he takes, and whatever he is forbidden from, he ends." And Muslim and Abu Dawud narrated it in the same way through various chains of transmission on the authority of Ismail bin Abi Khalid.

Surat Al Imran 3:161

And it is not for a prophet to take spoils. And whoever takes spoils will bring what he took on the Day of Resurrection. Then every soul will be fully compensated for what it earned, and they will not be wronged.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Abu Muawiyah told us on the authority of Abu Ishaq Al-Fazari, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, Manbuth, a man from the family of Abu Rafi', told me on the authority of Al-Fadl bin Ubaidullah bin Abu Rafi', on the authority of Abu Rafi', who said: "When the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) prayed the afternoon prayer, he would sometimes go to Banu Abd Al-Ashhal and talk to them until sunset. Abu Rafi' said: "While the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) was hurrying to the sunset prayer, he passed by Al-Baqi' and said: 'Uff to you, uff to you' twice. He shouted at me and I held back and thought that he wanted me. He said: 'What is the matter with you? Walk.' I said: 'I have done something new, O Messenger of God.' He said: 'What is that?' I said: 'Uff to me.' He said: 'No, but this is the grave of so-and-so. I sent him to seek out the family of so-and-so, and he stole a tiger and now his armor is like it, made of fire.'"

Another hadith - Abdullah bin Imam Ahmad said: Abdullah bin Salem Al-Kufi, the paralytic, told us - and he was in Mecca - Ubaidah bin Al-Aswad told us, on the authority of Al-Qasim bin Al-Waleed, on the authority of Abu Sadiq, on the authority of Rabia bin Najed, on the authority of Ubadah bin Al-Samit, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, would take a hair from the side of the camel from the spoils of war and then say: I have nothing in it except what one of you has. Beware of embezzlement, for embezzlement is a disgrace for its perpetrator on the Day of Resurrection. Give back the thread and needle and what is above that, and strive in the cause of God near and far, at home and on the journey, for striving is one of the gates of Paradise, for God saves from worry and grief through it, and establish the limits of God in those near and far, and do not let the blame of a blamer deter you in God's cause." Ibn Majah narrated some of it on the authority of the paralytic.

Another hadith - On the authority of Amr bin Shuaib, on the authority of his father, on the authority of his grandfather, he said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Return the tailor and the needle, for embezzlement is a disgrace, a fire, and a shame upon its people on the Day of Resurrection."

Another hadith - Abu Dawud said: Uthman bin Abi Shaybah told us, Jarir told us, on the authority of Mutraf, on the authority of Abu al-Jahm, on the authority of Abu Mas'ud al-Ansari, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent me as a messenger, then he said: Go, Abu Mas'ud, lest I find you on the Day of Resurrection with a camel from the charity camels coming on your back, roaring, and you have tied it up." He said: Then I will not go. He said: Then I will not hate you. Abu Dawud is the only one to report it.

Another hadith - Abu Bakr bin Mardawayh said: Muhammad bin Ahmad bin Ibrahim informed us, Muhammad bin Uthman bin Abi Shaybah informed us,

Abdul Hamid bin Saleh informed us, Ahmad bin Aban informed us on the authority of Alqamah bin Murthad, on the authority of Ibn Buraidah, on the authority of his father, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "A stone is thrown into Hell and it falls for seventy years without reaching its bottom, and the stolen goods are brought and thrown with them, then it is said to the one who stole them, 'Bring them.' This is what His statement means: 'And whoever steals will bring what he stole on the Day of Resurrection.'"

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Hashim bin Al-Qasim told us, Ikrimah bin Ammar told us, Samak Al-Hanafi Abu Zamil told me, Abdullah bin Abbas told me, Umar bin Al-Khattab told me: When the day of Khaybar came, a group of the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, came and said: So-and-so is a martyr and so-and-so is a martyr, until they came to a man and said: So-and-so is a martyr. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: No, I saw him in the Fire in a cloak that he had stolen. Then the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "O son of Al-Khattab, go and announce to the al-Nas 114: 'None shall enter Paradise except the believers.' So I went out and announced: 'None shall enter Paradise except the believers.'" Muslim and Al-Tirmidhi narrated it in the same way from the hadith of Ikrimah bin Ammar. Al-Tirmidhi said: Hasan Sahih.

Another hadith - Ibn Jarir said: Saeed bin Yahya Al-Umawi told us, my father told us, Yahya bin Saeed told us on the authority of Nafi' on the authority of Ibn Umar that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, "sent Saad bin Ubadah as a tax collector, and he said: Beware, Saad, of coming on the Day of Resurrection with a camel that you are carrying and it is bellowing. He said: I will not take it nor will I come with it, so he excused him." Then he narrated it on the authority of Ubaidullah on the authority of Nafi' in a similar manner.

Another hadith - Ahmad said: Abu Saeed told us, Abdul Aziz bin Muhammad told us, Saleh bin Muhammad bin Zaida told us, on the authority of Salim bin Abdullah, that he was with Muslimah bin Abdul Malik in the land of the Romans, and he found stolen goods in a man's belongings. He said: So he asked Salim bin Abdullah, and he said: My father Abdullah told me, on the authority of Umar bin Al-Khattab, may God be pleased with him, "that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: If you find stolen goods in someone's belongings, burn them - he said: And I think he said: And beat him. He said: So he took out his belongings in the market and found a Qur'an in them, so he asked Salim, and he said: Sell it and give its price in charity." And this is how Ali bin Al-Madini, Abu Dawud, and Al-Tirmidhi narrated it from the hadith of Abdul Aziz bin Muhammad Al-Atdarwardi. Abu Dawud and Abu Ishaq Al-Fazari added, both of them on the authority of Abu Waqid Al-Laithi

Al-Sagheer, Saleh bin Muhammad bin Zaida with it. Ali ibn al-Madini, al-Bukhari and others said: This is a rejected hadith narrated by Abu Waqid. Al-Daraqutni said: The correct view is that it is only from the fatwa of Salim. Imam Ahmad ibn Hanbal, may God have mercy on him, and those of his companions who followed him held the view based on this hadith. Al-Umawi narrated it on the authority of Muawiyah, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Yunus ibn Ubayd, on the authority of al-Hasan, who said: The punishment for the transgressor is that his saddlebags are taken out and burned with what is in them. Then he narrated on the authority of Muawiyah, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Uthman ibn Ata', on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ali, who said: The transgressor's saddlebags are gathered together and burned and he is flogged without a prescribed punishment. Abu Hanifa, Malik, al-Shafi'i and the majority disagreed with him and said: The transgressor's belongings are not to be burned, but he is to be punished with a punishment similar to his. Al-Bukhari said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, refrained from praying over the transgressor, but his belongings were not burned." And God knows best.

Another hadith on the authority of Umar, may God be pleased with him - Ibn Jarir said: Ahmad ibn Abd al-Rahman ibn Wahb told me, Abdullah ibn Wahb told me, Amr ibn al-Harith told me that Musa ibn Jubayr told him: Abdullah ibn Abd al-Rahman ibn al-Habbab al-Ansari told him: Abdullah ibn Unais told him: He and Umar ibn al-Khattab were discussing charity one day, and he said: Didn't you hear the words of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, when he mentioned the embezzlement of charity: Whoever embezzles a camel or a sheep from it, he will carry it on the Day of Resurrection? Abdullah ibn Unais said: Yes. Ibn Majah narrated it on the authority of Amr ibn Sawad on the authority of Abdullah ibn Wahb on his authority. Al-Umawi narrated it on the authority of Muawiyah, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Yunus ibn Ubayd, on the authority of al-Hasan, who said: The punishment of the embezzler is that his saddle be taken out and burned with what is in it. Then he narrated on the authority of Muawiyah, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Uthman ibn Ata', on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ali, who said: The embezzler's saddle is gathered up and burned and he is flogged without a prescribed punishment.

Imam Ahmad said: Aswad bin Aamer told us, Israel told us, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Jubayr bin Malik, who said: The copies of the Qur'an were ordered to be changed. He said: Ibn Masoud said: Whoever among you can steal a copy of the Qur'an, let him steal it, for whoever steals something will bring it on the Day of Resurrection. Then he said: I recited from the mouth of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, seventy surahs. Should I abandon what I took from the mouth of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace? And Wakee' narrated in his interpretation on the authority of Sharik, on the authority of Ibrahim bin Muhajir, on the authority of Ibrahim, who said: When the copies of the Qur'an were ordered to be burned, Abdullah bin Masoud, may God be pleased with him, said: O people, steal the copies of the Qur'an, for whoever steals it will bring what he stole on the Day of Resurrection. And what a good stealing copy of the Qur'an one of you will bring on the Day of Resurrection. Abu Dawud said, on the authority of Samurah bin Jundub, who said: When the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, captured a booty, he would command Bilal to call out to the people, and they would bring their spoils, and he would take a fifth of it and divide it. Then a man came one day after The call was made with a bridle of hair. He said: O Messenger of God, this was from what we obtained from the spoils. He said: Did you hear Bilal calling three times? He said: Yes. He said: What prevented you from coming? So he apologized to him. He said: No, you will come with it on the Day of Resurrection and I will not accept it from you.

And the Almighty said: Is he who pursues the pleasure of God like he who incurs the wrath of God and whose refuge is Hell, and an evil destination? That is, he who pursues the pleasure of God in what He has prescribed and thus deserves the pleasure of God and His abundant reward, and is protected from His severe punishment, is not equal to he who deserves the wrath of God and is bound by it, and there is no escape for him from it, and his refuge on the Day of Resurrection is Hell, and an evil destination. This verse has many parallels in the Qur'an, such as the Almighty's saying: Is he who knows that what has been revealed to you from your Lord is the truth like he who is blind? and His saying: Is he to whom We have promised a good promise and he will attain it like he to whom We have given enjoyment of the enjoyment of worldly life? Then God the Almighty said: They are of degrees with God. Al-Hasan Al-Basri and Muhammad bin Ishaq said: meaning the people of good and the people of evil have degrees. Abu Ubaidah and Al-Kisa'i said: Stations, meaning they differ in their stations and degrees in Paradise and their levels in Hell, like the Almighty's saying: And for all are degrees according to what they have done verse. That is why the Almighty said: And God is Seeing of what they do verse, meaning He will give them what they deserve. He will not wrong them with good nor increase their evil, rather He will reward each worker according to his work. The Almighty said: God has certainly conferred a great favor upon the believers when He sent among them a Messenger from among themselves verse, meaning from their own kind so that they could address him, ask him, sit with him, and benefit from him, as the Almighty said: And among His signs is that He created for you from among yourselves mates that you may find tranquility in them verse, meaning from your own kind. The Almighty said: "Say, 'I am only a man like you. It has been revealed to me that your God is one God'" verse. God the Almighty said: And We did not send before you any messengers except that they ate food and walked in the markets. God the Almighty said: And We did not send before you any except men to whom We revealed from the people of the towns. God the Almighty said: O company of jinn and mankind, did there not come to you messengers from among you? This is more eloquent in gratitude that the messenger to them should be from among them, such that they can address him and consult him in understanding the speech on his behalf. For this reason God the Almighty said: He recites to them His verses meaning the Qur'an and purifies them meaning he commands them to do good and forbids them from evil so that their souls may be purified and cleansed from the filth and evil that they were immersed in during their state of polytheism and ignorance, and teaches them the Book and wisdom meaning the Qur'an and the Sunnah, although they were before meaning before this Messenger in manifest error meaning in clear error and ignorance that is evident to everyone.

Surat Al Imran 3:161

And it is not for a prophet to take spoils. And whoever takes spoils will bring what he took on the Day of Resurrection. Then every soul will be fully compensated for what it earned, and they will not be wronged.

Fath al-Qadir

His saying 161- And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war means: it is not right for him to do so, because theft and prophethood are incompatible. Abu Ubaid said: Theft is specifically from spoils of war, and we do not see it as treachery or hatred. What makes this clear is that it is said from treachery, aghal yaghul, and from hatred, ghal yaghul with the kasra, and from ghulul, ghal yaghul with the damma. It is said: he took spoils of war, ghululan: meaning he betrayed by taking something for himself and taking it back from his companions. So the meaning of the verse, according to the reading in the active form, is: it is not right for a prophet to betray anything from the spoils of war and take it for himself without his companions knowing. And in it is the exoneration of the prophets from theft. And its meaning, according to the passive reading: It is not right for a prophet to be betrayed by any of his companions: that is, to betray him in the spoils. According to this other reading, it is a prohibition for people from embezzling in the spoils. It only specifically refers to the betrayal of the prophets, while the betrayal of others, such as imams, sultans, and princes, is forbidden, because the betrayal of the prophets is a greater sin and a greater burden. And whoever embezzles will come with what he embezzled on the Day of Resurrection, that is, he will come carrying it on his back, as was authenticated from the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and he will disgrace him among the creation. This sentence includes confirmation of the prohibition of embezzlement and warning against it, as it is a sin for which its perpetrator will be punished in public, and the people of the gathering will see it, which is his coming on the Day of Resurrection carrying what he embezzled before he is fully held accountable for good and evil. This verse includes everyone who has earned good or evil, and embezzlement is included under it primarily because the context is about it.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

161- The Almighty said: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war the verse, and Ikrimah and Muqsim narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both: that this verse was revealed regarding a red velvet that was lost on the day of Badr, and some people said that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, took it.

Al-Kalbi and Muqatil said: It was revealed about the spoils of Uhud when the archers left the post to take the spoils and said: We fear that the Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) will say, Whoever takes something, it belongs to him, and that the spoils will not be divided as they were not divided on the day of Badr. So they left the post and fell into the spoils. The Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) said to them: Did I not command you not to leave the post until my order came to you? They said: We left the rest of our brothers standing. The Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) said: Rather, you thought that we would take spoils and would not divide them among you. So God the Most High revealed this verse.

Qatada said: It was mentioned to us that it was revealed about a group of his companions who had gone astray.

It was said: The powerful insisted on him asking him about the spoils, so God Almighty revealed: It is not for a prophet to take spoils of war so that he would give to some people and withhold from others, but rather he must divide it equally among them.

Muhammad bin Ishaq bin Yasar said: This is about revelation. He says: It is not for a prophet to conceal anything from the revelation out of desire, fear, or flattery.

God the Almighty said: And it is not for a prophet to cheat. Ibn Kathir, the people of Basra, and Asim read yaghulul with a fatha on the ya' and a damma on the ghayn. Its meaning is: to betray, and what is meant by it is the nation. It was said that the lam in it is transferred, meaning: the prophet would not cheat. It was also said that its meaning is: that was not thought of him and it is not appropriate for him. The others read it with a damma on the ya' and a fatha on the ghayn. This has two aspects: that it is also from ghuluul, meaning: it is not for a prophet to betray, meaning: that his nation betrays him. The other aspect is that it is from iqlal, meaning: it is not for a prophet to betray, meaning that he is accused of treachery.

And whoever steals will bring what he stole on the Day of Resurrection. Al-Kalbi said: That thing will be presented to him in the Fire, then it will be said to him: Put it down and take it. So he will put it down and carry it on his back. When it reaches its place, it will fall into the Fire. Then he will be ordered to go down to it and take it out, and that was done to him.

Abu al-Hasan Muhammad ibn Muhammad al-Sarakhsi told us, Zahir ibn Ahmad al-Faqih told us, Abu Ishaq Ibrahim ibn Abd al-Samad al-Hashemi told us, Abu Mus'ab told us, on the authority of Malik, on the authority of Thawr ibn Zayd al-Dailami, on the authority of Abu al-Ghaith, the freed slave of Ibn Mut'î, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, may God be pleased with him, who said: "We went out with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, in the year of Khaybar, and we did not take any gold or silver as spoils of war, except for money, clothing, and goods. He said: So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, headed towards Wadi al-Qura, and Rafa'ah ibn Zayd had given the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, a black slave called Mud'am. He said: So we went out until we were in Wadi al-Qura, and while Mud'am was unloading the Messenger of God's saddlebags, a stray arrow came and struck him and killed him. The people said: 'May he be granted Paradise.' The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'No, by the One in Whose Hand is my soul, the cloak that he took on the day of Khaybar from the spoils was not divided, and it is burning on him.' When the people heard that, a man came with one or two straps to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "A strap of fire or two straps of fire."

Abu al-Hasan al-Sarakhsi told us, Zahir ibn Ahmad told us, Abu Ishaq al-Hashemi told us, Abu Musab told us, Malik told us, Yahya ibn Saeed told us, Muhammad ibn Yahya ibn Hayyan told us, Abu Umrah al-Ansari told us, Zayd ibn Khalid al-Juhani told us, "A man died on the day of Khaybar, and they mentioned him to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. He said, 'Pray for your companion.' The faces of the people changed because of that, and Zayd claimed that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said, 'Your companion has committed treason in the cause of God.' So we opened his belongings and found beads of the beads of the Jews, worth two dirhams."

Abdul Wahhab bin Muhammad al-Khatib al-Marwazi told us, Abdul Aziz bin Ahmad al-Khalal told us, Abu al-Abbas al-Asamm told us, al-Rabi bin Sulayman told us, al-Shafi'i told us, Sufyan told us, on the authority of al-Zuhri, on the authority of Urwah bin al-Zubayr, on the authority of Abu Hamid al-Sa'idi, who said: "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, appointed a man from Azd called Ibn al-Lutbiyyah to collect the zakat. When he arrived, he said: 'This is for you and this was given to me.' So the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, stood on the pulpit and said: 'What is the matter with the worker whom we send to do some of our work and he says: 'This is for you and this was given to me.' Why doesn't he sit in his mother's house or his father's house and see whether he will be given a gift or not? By the One in Whose hand is my soul, no one will take anything from it except that he will come on the Day of Resurrection carrying it on his neck, whether it is a camel that roars or a cow that moos or a sheep that bleats.' Then he raised his hands until we saw the whiteness of his armpits, then he said: 'O God, have I conveyed the message?'"

Qais bin Abi Hazim narrated on the authority of Muadh bin Jabal, may God be pleased with him, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent me to Yemen and said: Do not take anything without my permission, for it is embezzlement, and whoever embezzles will bring what he has embezzled on the Day of Resurrection."

It was narrated on the authority of Omar bin Al-Khattab, may God be pleased with him, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: If you find a man who has stolen, burn his belongings and beat him.

It was narrated on the authority of Amr bin Shuaib, on the authority of his father, on the authority of his grandfather, may God be pleased with him: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, Abu Bakr, and Umar burned the property of the usurper and beat him." God Almighty said: "And whoever embezzles will come with what he embezzled on the Day of Resurrection. Then every soul will be fully compensated for what it earned, and they will not be wronged."

Tafsir al-Baidawi

161 And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war It is not authentic for a prophet to betray in the spoils of war, for prophethood contradicts betrayal. It is said that he took something from the spoils of war, he took it secretly, and what is meant by it is either the innocence of the Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, from what he was accused of, as it was narrated that a red velvet was lost on the day of Badr, so some of the hypocrites said that perhaps the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, had taken it, or the archers thought so on the day of Uhud when they left the position for the spoils and said, "We fear that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, will say, 'Whoever takes something, it belongs to him,' and he will not divide the spoils of war." Or the exaggeration in the prohibition to the Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, based on what was narrated that he sent out scouts, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, took the spoils and divided them among those with him, but he did not divide them among the scouts, so this was revealed. So calling the deprivation of some of those who deserved it theft is a second exaggeration and severity. Nafi', Ibn 'Amir, Hamzah and Ya'qub read an yaghl in the passive voice, and the meaning is: It is not right for him to be found as a thief or to be attributed to ghulul. And whoever commits ghulul will bring what he has thwarted on the Day of Resurrection he will bring what he has thwarted, carrying it on his neck as mentioned in the hadith, or what he has borne of its burden and sin. Then every soul will be fully compensated for what it has earned meaning it will be given the full recompense for what it has earned. It would have been more appropriate for what came before it to say Then every soul will be fully compensated for what it has earned, but the ruling was generalized to be like proof of the intended meaning and to exaggerate it, because if every earner is rewarded for his work, then the thief, despite the enormity of his crime, is more deserving of that. And they will not be wronged so the reward of their obedient ones will not be diminished nor will the punishment of their disobedient ones be increased.

Surat Al Imran 3:161

And it is not for a prophet to take spoils. And whoever takes spoils will bring what he took on the Day of Resurrection. Then every soul will be fully compensated for what it earned, and they will not be wronged.

Surat Al Imran 3:162

Is he who pursues the pleasure of God like he who incurs the wrath of God and whose refuge is Hell, and wretched is the destination?

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

Is he who pursues the pleasure of God and obeys and does not cheat like he who returns returns with wrath from God for his disobedience and cheating and whose refuge is Hell, and wretched is the destination meaning the return? The answer is: No.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Jaafar said: The people of interpretation differed in the interpretation of that:

Some of them said: The meaning of this is: Is he who pursues the pleasure of God by abandoning theft like he who incurs the wrath of God by his theft?

Who said that?

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said, Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said, Ibn Uyaynah told us, on the authority of Mutraf, on the authority of al-Dahhak, regarding his statement: So whoever pursues the pleasure of God, he said: whoever does not commit adultery, is like one who incurs the wrath of God, like one who commits adultery.

Al-Qasim told us, he said, Al-Hussein told us, he said, Sufyan bin Uyaynah told me, on the authority of Mutraf bin Tarif, on the authority of Al-Dahhak, regarding his statement: So whoever pursues the pleasure of God he said: whoever pays the fifth, is like one who incurs the wrath of God, so he deserves the wrath of God.

Others said about it, including:

Ibn Humayd told me, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: So whoever pursues the pleasure of God, in what people like and dislike, is like one who incurs the wrath of God, in the pleasure and displeasure of people? He says: So whoever is obedient to Me, his reward is Paradise and the pleasure of his Lord, like one who incurs the wrath of God, thus deserving His wrath, and whose abode is Hell, and what an evil destination? Are these two examples worse? That is: So know.

Abu Ja'far said: The most correct of the two interpretations of the verse in my opinion is the statement of Ad-Dahhak bin Muzahim. Because that follows God's threat against embezzlement and His prohibition of it to His servants. Then He said to them after His prohibition and threat: Is the one who obeys God in what He has commanded and prohibited worse than the one who disobeys Him in that? That is, they are not equal, and their states are not equal before Him. Because the one who obeys God in what He has commanded and prohibited will go to Paradise, and the one who disobeys Him in what He has commanded and prohibited will go to Hell. So the meaning of His statement: So whoever pursues the pleasure of God is like one who incurs the wrath of God, is: So whoever abandons embezzlement and the sins that God has prohibited him from, and acts in obedience to God in abandoning that, and in other obligatory duties that He has commanded and prohibited him to do, pursuing the pleasure of God in all of that and avoiding His wrath, is like one who incurs the wrath of God, meaning: like the one who turns away bearing the wrath and anger of God, and thus deserves to reside in Hell? He says: They are not the same. As for his saying: And an evil destination, he means: And an evil destination - to which he who incurs the wrath of God will go and return - is Hell.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

God Almighty says: Is he who pursues the pleasure of God meaning by abandoning theft and being patient in jihad like he who incurs the wrath of God meaning by disbelief or theft or turning away from the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, in war, and their refuge is Hell meaning his abode is the Fire, meaning if he does not repent or God forgives him, and wretched is the destination meaning the return, and Ridwan is read with a kasra on the ra' and a damma on it like 'adwān and 'adwān.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The Almighty says, addressing His Messenger, thanking him and the believers for what He softened his heart with towards his nation who followed his command, abandoned his warning, and made his words pleasant to them: Then by the mercy of God, you were gentle with them. That is, what made you gentle with them, were it not for God's mercy upon you and them? Qatada said: Then by the mercy of God, you were gentle with them. He says: Then by the mercy of God, you were gentle with them. What is the connection? The Arabs connect it with the definite article, as in His statement: Then by their breaking of their covenant. And with the indefinite article, as in His statement: In a little while. And thus here he said: Then by the mercy of God, you were gentle with them. That is, by the mercy of God. Al-Hasan Al-Basri said: This is the character of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, with which God sent him. And this noble verse is similar to the statement of the Almighty: "There has certainly come to you a Messenger from among yourselves. Grievous to him is what you suffer; he is concerned over you and to the believers is kind and merciful." And Imam Ahmad said: Haywah told us, Baqiyah told us, Muhammad bin Ziyad told us. Abu Rashid Al-Habrani told me: Abu Umamah Al-Bahili took my hand and said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, took my hand and said: O Abu Umamah, among the believers is he whose heart is soft towards me. Ahmad alone transmitted this. Then God, the Most High, said: And if you had been rude [in speech] and harsh [in heart],

Is he who pursues the pleasure of God like he who incurs the wrath of God and whose refuge is Hell, and wretched is the destination?

they would have disbanded from around you. The rude is the harsh, and what is meant by it here is harsh in speech, because He said after that harsh in heart, meaning if you had been bad in speech and hard-hearted towards them, they would have disbanded from you and left you, but God gathered them around you and made you gentle towards them to win their hearts over, as Abdullah bin Amr said: "I see the description of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, in the earlier books that he is not rude, nor harsh, nor loud in the markets, and he does not repay evil with evil, but he pardons and forgives." Abu Ismail Muhammad bin Ismail Al-Tirmidhi said: Bishr bin Ubaid Al-Darimi informed us, Ammar bin Abd Al-Rahman informed us, on the authority of Al-Mas'udi, on the authority of Ibn Abi Malekah, on the authority of Aisha, may God be pleased with her, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) said: God has commanded me to be lenient with people, just as He has commanded me to establish the obligatory duties. This is a strange hadith. That is why God the Almighty said: So pardon them and ask forgiveness for them, and consult them in the matter. That is why the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) used to consult his companions about a matter whenever it happened, to please their hearts so that they would be more active in what they did, as he consulted them on the day of Badr about going to the caravan, and they said: "O Messenger of God, if you were to parade us across the sea, we would cross it with you, and if you were to take us to Barak al-Ghamad, we would go with you, and we will not say to you as the people of Moses said to Moses: Go, you and your Lord, and fight, for we are sitting here. Rather, we say: Go, for we are with you, in front of you, and on your right and on your left, fighting." He also consulted them about where the camp would be, until Al-Mundhir bin Amr Al-Mu'naq indicated to die by advancing to the front of the people. He consulted them about whether he should stay in the city or go out to the enemy. Most of them suggested going out to them. So he went out to them and consulted them on the day of the Trench about reconciling with the confederates for a third of the fruits of the city that year. The two Saads, Saad bin Muadh and Saad bin Ubadah, refused him that, so he left that. He consulted them on the day of Hudaibiyyah about attacking the children of the polytheists. Abu Bakr said to him: We did not come to fight anyone, but we came to perform Umrah. So he agreed to what he said. The Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) said in the story of the slander: "Advise me, O Muslims, about a people who destroyed my family and threw stones at them. By God, I do not know of any evil against my family, and who did they destroy them for? By God, I only know of good about him." He consulted Ali and Usama about separating from Aisha may God be pleased with her. The Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) used to consult them in wars and the like. The jurists differed as to whether that was obligatory upon him or recommended to please their hearts. There are two opinions. Al-Hakim said in his

Mustadrak: Abu Ja'far Muhammad ibn Muhammad al-Baghdadi informed us, Yahya ibn Ayyub al-'Alaf told us in Egypt, Sa'id ibn Abi Maryam told us, Sufyan ibn 'Uyaynah told us, on the authority of 'Amr ibn Dinar, on the authority of Ibn 'Abbas, regarding the words of God the Almighty: And consult them in the matter. He said: Abu Bakr and 'Umar, may God be pleased with them. Then he said: It is authentic according to the conditions of the two sheikhs, and they did not include it. Al-Kalbi narrated it likewise on the authority of Abu Salih on the authority of Ibn 'Abbas, who said: It was revealed about Abu Bakr and 'Umar, and they were the disciples of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his ministers, and the fathers of the Muslims. Imam Ahmad narrated: Waki' told us, 'Abd al-Hamid told us on the authority of Shahr ibn Hawshab, on the authority of 'Abd al-Rahman ibn Ghanim, "That the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to Abu Bakr and 'Umar, 'If we met in consultation, I would not oppose you.'" Ibn Mardawayh narrated on the authority of 'Ali ibn Abi Talib, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was asked about determination. He said: Consulting people of opinion, then following them." Ibn Majah said: Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shaybah narrated to us, Yahya ibn Bakir narrated to us, on the authority of Shaiban, on the authority of Abdul Malik ibn Umair, on the authority of Abu Salamah, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: The one who is consulted is trustworthy. Abu Dawud and al-Tirmidhi narrated it, and al-Nasa'i authenticated it from the hadith of Abdul Malik ibn Umair with a more detailed chain of transmission than this. Then Ibn Majah said: Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shaybah narrated to us, Aswad ibn Amir narrated to us, on the authority of Sharik, on the authority of al-A'mash, on the authority of Abu Amr al-Shaibani, on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The one who is consulted is trustworthy." He was the only one to narrate it. He also said: Abu Bakr narrated to us, Yahya ibn Zakariya ibn Abi Zaydah and Ali ibn Hashim narrated to us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Laila, on the authority of Abu al-Zubayr, on the authority of Jabir, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: If one of you consults his brother, let him advise him. He was also the only one to narrate it. And the Almighty's saying: So when you have decided, then rely upon God meaning if you consult them about the matter and are determined to do it, then rely upon God in it Indeed, God loves those who rely [upon Him]. And the Almighty's saying: If God helps you, none can overcome you; but if He forsakes you, who is there that can help you after Him? And in God let the believers rely. And this verse is as it was mentioned before from His saying: And victory comes only from God, the Exalted in Might, the Wise. Then He commanded them to rely upon Him, saying: And in God let the believers rely. And the Almighty's saying: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils, Ibn Abbas, Mujahid, Al-Hasan and more than one said: It is not befitting for a prophet to betray. And Ibn Abi Hatim said:

My father told us, Al-Musayyab bin Wadheeh told us, Abu Ishaq Al-Fazari told us on the authority of Sufyan bin Khasif on the authority of Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: They lost a quilt on the day of Badr, so they said: Perhaps the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, took it, so God revealed: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils, meaning betray. Ibn Jarir said: Muhammad ibn Abd al-Malik ibn Abi al-Shawarib told us, Abd al-Wahid ibn Ziyad told us, Khasif told us, Muqsim told us, Ibn Abbas told me that this verse, And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war, was revealed concerning a red cloak that was lost on the day of Badr. Some people said: Perhaps the Messenger of God had taken it, and they talked a lot about that, so God revealed, "And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war. And whoever takes spoils of war will come with what he has taken on the Day of Resurrection." Abu Dawud and al-Tirmidhi both narrated it in the same way on the authority of Qutaybah, on the authority of Abd al-Wahid ibn Ziyad. Al-Tirmidhi said: It is good and strange. Some of them narrated it on the authority of Khasif, on the authority of Muqsim, meaning in a mursal form. Ibn Mardawayh narrated on the authority of Abu Amr ibn al-Ala', on the authority of Mujahid, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: The hypocrites accused the Messenger of God (blessings and peace of God be upon him) of something he had lost, so God revealed: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war. It was narrated from Ibn Abbas through other chains of transmission similar to what was mentioned above. This is to exonerate him (blessings and peace of God be upon him) from all forms of treachery in fulfilling the trust, dividing the spoils of war, and other things. Al-Awfi said on the authority of Ibn Abbas: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war meaning that he would divide some of the spoils for the sake of the army and leave others. Ad-Dahhak said the same. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war meaning that he would leave some of what was revealed to him and not convey it to his nation. Al-Hasan al-Basri, Tawus, Mujahid, and Ad-Dahhak recited: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war with a damma on the ya', meaning that he would betray. Qatada and Ar-Rabi' ibn Anas said: This verse was revealed on the day of Badr, and some of his companions had taken spoils of war. Ibn Jarir narrated it from them, then he narrated from some of them that he interpreted this reading to mean that he is accused of treason, then God Almighty said: "And whoever embezzles will come with what he embezzled on the Day of Resurrection. Then every soul will be fully compensated for what it earned, and they will not be wronged." This is a severe threat and a definite warning. The Sunnah also forbade this in multiple hadiths. Imam Ahmad said: Abdul Malik told us, Zuhair told us, meaning Ibn Muhammad, from Abdullah Ibn Muhammad Ibn Aqil, from Ata Ibn Yasar, from Abu Malik Al-Ashja'i, from the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "The greatest embezzlement before God is an arm's length of land. You will find two men running after each other on the land - or in the house - and one of them will cut off an arm's length from the share of his companion, and if he cuts it off, he will be hung around his neck from seven earths until the Day of Resurrection."

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Musa bin Dawud told us, Ibn Lahi'ah told us, on the authority of Ibn Hubayrah and Al-Harith bin Yazid, on the authority of Abd Al-Rahman bin Jubayr, who said: I heard Al-Mustawrid bin Shaddad say: I heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: "Whoever is given a job and does not have a house, let him get a house. Or he does not have a wife, let him get married. Or he does not have a servant, let him get a servant. Or he does not have a mount, let him get a mount. And whoever acquires something other than that, then he is a thief." This is how Imam Ahmad narrated it. Abu Dawud narrated it with another chain of narration and context, saying: Musa bin Marwan al-Raqi narrated to us, al-Mu'afi narrated to us, al-Awza'i narrated to us, on the authority of al-Harith bin Yazid, on the authority of Jubayr bin Nufayr, on the authority of Al-Mustawrid bin Shaddad, who said: I heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: "Whoever works for us, let him acquire a wife. If he does not have a servant, let him acquire a servant. If he does not have a home, let him acquire a home." He said: Abu Bakr said: I was told that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever does anything other than that is a transgressor or a thief. Our Sheikh, al-Hafiz al-Mizzi, may God have mercy on him, said: It was narrated by Ja'far bin Muhammad al-Faryabi on the authority of Musa bin Marwan, and he said: On the authority of Abd al-Rahman bin Jubayr instead of Jubayr bin Nufayr, and this is more likely to be correct.

Another hadith - Ibn Jarir said: Abu Kurayb told us, Hafs ibn Bishr told us, Yaqub al-Qummi told us, Hafs ibn Humayd told us on the authority of Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'I do not know any one of you who will come on the Day of Resurrection carrying a bleating sheep and calling out: O Muhammad, O Muhammad.' I will say: 'I have no power over anything from God for you, I have conveyed it to you.' I do not know any one of you who will come on the Day of Resurrection carrying a braying camel and calling out: O Muhammad, O Muhammad.' I will say: 'I have no power over anything from God for you, I have conveyed it to you.' I do not know any one of you who will come on the Day of Resurrection carrying a neighing horse and calling out: O Muhammad, O Muhammad.' I will say: 'I have no power over anything from God for you, I have conveyed it to you.' I do not know any one of you who will come on the Day of Resurrection carrying a leather husk and calling out: O Muhammad, O Muhammad.' I will say: 'I have no power over anything from God for you, I have conveyed it to you.'" None of the people of the six books narrated it.

Another hadith. Imam Ahmad said: Sufyan narrated to us on the authority of Al-Zuhri, he heard Urwah say: Abu Hamid Al-Sa'idi narrated to us: He said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, appointed a man from Azd called Ibn Al-Lutbiyyah to collect the zakat. He came and said: This is for you and this was given to me. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, stood on the pulpit and said: What is the matter with the worker whom we send and he comes and says: This is for you and this was given to me. Why did he not sit in the house of his father and mother and see whether he was given a gift or not? By the One in Whose hand is the soul of Muhammad, none of you will bring anything of it except that he will bring it on the Day of Resurrection on his neck, whether it is a camel that roars, or a cow that moos, or a sheep that bleats. Then he raised his hands until we saw the whiteness of his armpits. Then he said: O God, have I conveyed the message?" Hisham bin Urwah added: Abu Hamid said: I saw it with my eyes and heard it with my ears. Ask Zaid bin Thabit. They both narrated it on the authority of Sufyan bin Uyaynah. Al-Bukhari has: Ask Zaid bin Thabit. And others. A face on the authority of Al-Zuhri, and through a path on the authority of Hisham bin Urwah, both on the authority of Urwah, on his authority.

Surat Al Imran 3:162

Is he who pursues the pleasure of God like he who incurs the wrath of God and whose refuge is Hell, and wretched is the destination?

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Ishaq bin Isa told us, Ismail bin Ayyash told us, on the authority of Yahya bin Saeed, on the authority of Urwah bin Al-Zubayr, on the authority of Abu Hamid, "that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The gifts of workers are misappropriation." This hadith is one of the individual hadiths of Ahmad, and its chain of transmission is weak, and it seems to be an abbreviation of the one before it, and God knows best.

Another hadith - Abu Isa Al-Tirmidhi said in the Book of Rulings: Abu Kurayb told us, Abu Usamah told us, on the authority of Dawud bin Yazid Al-Awdi, on the authority of Al-Mughirah bin Shibl, on the authority of Qais bin Abi Hazim, on the authority of Muadh bin Jabal, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent me to Yemen, and when I set out, he sent after me, but I returned. He said, 'Do you know why I sent to you? Do not take anything without my permission, for it is embezzlement.' And whoever embezzles will come with what he embezzled on the Day of Resurrection." This is why I have called you, so go on with your work." This is a good, strange hadith that we do not know except from this source. There are hadiths on this topic from Adi bin Umairah, Buraydah, Al-Mustawrid bin Shaddad, Abu Hamid, and Ibn Umar.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Ismail bin Aliyah told us, Abu Hayyan Yahya bin Saeed Al-Taymi told us, on the authority of Abu Zur'ah bin Umar bin Jarir, on the authority of Abu Hurairah, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, stood up among us one day and mentioned theft, and he magnified it and magnified its matter, then he said: 'I will not find one of you coming on the Day of Resurrection with a camel roaring on his neck, and he will say: O Messenger of God, help me,' and I will say: 'I have no power over God for you, I have conveyed the message to you.' I will not find one of you coming on the Day of Resurrection with a horse neighing on his neck, and he will say: O Messenger of God, help me,' and I will say: 'I have no power over God for you, I have conveyed the message to you.' I will not find one of you coming on the Day of Resurrection with a bandage on his neck that is strangling him, and he will say: O Messenger of God, help me,' and I will say: 'I have no power over God for you, I have conveyed the message to you.' I will not find one of you coming on the Day of Resurrection with a silent person on his neck, and he will say: O Messenger of God, help me,' and I will say: 'I have no power over God for you, I have conveyed the message to you.' You have something from God that I have conveyed to you." They narrated it from the hadith of Abu Hayyan.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Yahya bin Saeed told us on the authority of Ismail bin Abi Khalid, Qais told me on the authority of Adi bin Umairah Al-Kindi who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: O people, whoever among you does work for us and conceals from us a needle or more of it, it is a stipulation that he will bring on the Day of Resurrection. He said: A black man from the Ansar stood up - Mujalid said: He is Saeed bin Ubadah, it is as if I am looking at him - and said: O Messenger of God, accept your work from me. He said: What is that? He said: I heard you say: such and such. He said: And I am saying that now. Whoever we appoint to a job, let him come with it, little or much, and whatever he is given from it, he takes, and whatever he is forbidden from, he ends." And Muslim and Abu Dawud narrated it in the same way through various chains of transmission on the authority of Ismail bin Abi Khalid.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Abu Muawiyah told us on the authority of Abu Ishaq Al-Fazari, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, Manbuth, a man from the family of Abu Rafi', told me on the authority of Al-Fadl bin Ubaidullah bin Abu Rafi', on the authority of Abu Rafi', who said: "When the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) prayed the afternoon prayer, he would sometimes go to Banu Abd Al-Ashhal and talk to them until sunset. Abu Rafi' said: "While the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) was hurrying to the sunset prayer, he passed by Al-Baqi' and said: 'Uff to you, uff to you' twice. He shouted at me and I held back and thought that he wanted me. He said: 'What is the matter with you? Walk.' I said: 'I have done something new, O Messenger of God.' He said: 'What is that?' I said: 'Uff to me.' He said: 'No, but this is the grave of so-and-so. I sent him to seek out the family of so-and-so, and he stole a tiger and now his armor is like it, made of fire.'"

Another hadith - Abdullah bin Imam Ahmad said: Abdullah bin Salem Al-Kufi, the paralytic, told us - and he was in Mecca - Ubaidah bin Al-Aswad told us, on the authority of Al-Qasim bin Al-Waleed, on the authority of Abu Sadiq, on the authority of Rabia bin Najed, on the authority of Ubadah bin Al-Samit, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, would take a hair from the side of the camel from the spoils of war and then say: I have nothing in it except what one of you has. Beware of embezzlement, for embezzlement is a disgrace for its perpetrator on the Day of Resurrection. Give back the thread and needle and what is above that, and strive in the cause of God near and far, at home and on the journey, for striving is one of the gates of Paradise, for God saves from worry and grief through it, and establish the limits of God in those near and far, and do not let the blame of a blamer deter you in God's cause." Ibn Majah narrated some of it on the authority of the paralytic.

Another hadith - On the authority of Amr bin Shuaib, on the authority of his father, on the authority of his grandfather, he said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Return the tailor and the needle, for embezzlement is a disgrace, a fire, and a shame upon its people on the Day of Resurrection."

Another hadith - Abu Dawud said: Uthman bin Abi Shaybah told us, Jarir told us, on the authority of Mutraf, on the authority of Abu al-Jahm, on the authority of Abu Mas'ud al-Ansari, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent me as a messenger, then he said: Go, Abu Mas'ud, lest I find you on the Day of Resurrection with a camel from the charity camels coming on your back, roaring, and you have tied it up." He said: Then I will not go. He said: Then I will not hate you. Abu Dawud is the only one to report it.

Another hadith - Abu Bakr bin Mardawayh said: Muhammad bin Ahmad bin Ibrahim informed us, Muhammad bin Uthman bin Abi Shaybah informed us, Abdul Hamid bin Saleh informed us, Ahmad bin Aban informed us on the authority of Alqamah bin Murthad, on the authority of Ibn Buraidah, on the authority of his father, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "A stone is thrown into Hell and it falls for seventy years without reaching its bottom, and the stolen goods are brought and thrown with them, then it is said to the one who stole them, 'Bring them.' This is what His statement means: 'And whoever steals will bring what he stole on the Day of Resurrection.'"

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Hashim bin Al-Qasim told us, Ikrimah bin Ammar told us, Samak Al-Hanafi Abu Zamil told me, Abdullah bin Abbas told me, Umar bin Al-Khattab told me: When the day of Khaybar came, a group of the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, came and said: So-and-so is a martyr and so-and-so is a martyr, until they came to a man and said: So-and-so is a martyr. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: No, I saw him in the Fire in a cloak that he had stolen. Then the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "O son of Al-Khattab, go and announce to the al-Nas 114: 'None shall enter Paradise except the believers.' So I went out and announced: 'None shall enter Paradise except the believers.'" Muslim and Al-Tirmidhi narrated it in the same way from the hadith of Ikrimah bin Ammar. Al-Tirmidhi said: Hasan Sahih.

Another hadith - Ibn Jarir said: Saeed bin Yahya Al-Umawi told us, my father told us, Yahya bin Saeed told us on the authority of Nafi' on the authority of Ibn Umar that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, "sent Saad bin Ubadah as a tax collector, and he said: Beware, Saad, of coming on the Day of Resurrection with a camel that you are carrying and it is bellowing. He said: I will not take it nor will I come with it, so he excused him." Then he narrated it on the authority of Ubaidullah on the authority of Nafi' in a similar manner.

Another hadith - Ahmad said: Abu Saeed told us, Abdul Aziz bin Muhammad told us, Saleh bin Muhammad bin Zaida told us, on the authority of Salim bin Abdullah, that he was with Muslimah bin Abdul Malik in the land of the Romans, and he found stolen goods in a man's belongings. He said: So he asked Salim bin Abdullah, and he said: My father Abdullah told me, on the authority of Umar bin Al-Khattab, may God be pleased with him, "that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: If you find stolen goods in someone's belongings, burn them - he said: And I think he said: And beat him. He said: So he took out his belongings in the market and found a Qur'an in them, so he asked Salim, and he said: Sell it and give its price in charity." And this is how Ali bin Al-Madini, Abu Dawud, and Al-Tirmidhi narrated it from the hadith of Abdul Aziz bin Muhammad Al-Atdarwardi. Abu Dawud and Abu Ishaq Al-Fazari added, both of them on the authority of Abu Waqid Al-Laithi Al-Sagheer, Saleh bin Muhammad bin Zaida with it. Ali bin al-Madini, al-Bukhari and others said: This is a rejected hadith narrated by Abu Waqid. Al-Daraqutni said: The correct view is that it is only from the fatwa of Salim. Imam Ahmad ibn Hanbal, may God have mercy on him, and those of his companions who followed him held the view based on this hadith. Al-Umawi narrated it on the authority of Muawiyah, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Yunus ibn Ubayd, on the authority of al-Hasan, who said: The punishment for the transgressor is that his saddlebags are taken out and burned with what is in them. Then he narrated on the authority of Muawiyah, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Uthman ibn Ata', on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ali, who said: The transgressor's saddlebags are gathered together and burned and he is flogged without a prescribed punishment. Abu Hanifa, Malik, al-Shafi'i and the majority disagreed with him and said: The transgressor's belongings are not to be burned, but he is to be punished with a punishment similar to his. Al-Bukhari said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, refrained from praying over the transgressor, but his belongings were not burned." And God knows best.

Another hadith on the authority of Umar, may God be pleased with him - Ibn Jarir said: Ahmad ibn Abd al-Rahman ibn Wahb told me, Abdullah ibn Wahb told me, Amr ibn al-Harith told me that Musa ibn Jubayr told him: Abdullah ibn Abd al-Rahman ibn al-Habbab al-Ansari told him: Abdullah ibn Unais told him: He and Umar ibn al-Khattab were discussing charity one day, and he said: Didn't you hear the words of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, when he mentioned the embezzlement of charity: Whoever embezzles a camel or a sheep from it, he will carry it on the Day of Resurrection? Abdullah ibn Unais said: Yes. Ibn Majah narrated it on the authority of Amr ibn Sawad on the authority of Abdullah ibn Wahb on his authority. Al-Umawi narrated it on the authority of Muawiyah, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Yunus ibn Ubayd, on the authority of al-Hasan, who said: The punishment of the embezzler is that his saddle be taken out and burned with what is in it. Then he narrated on the authority of Muawiyah, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Uthman ibn Ata', on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ali, who said: The embezzler's saddle is gathered up and burned and he is flogged without a prescribed punishment.

Surat Al Imran 3:162

Is he who pursues the pleasure of God like he who incurs the wrath of God and whose refuge is Hell, and wretched is the destination?

Imam Ahmad said: Aswad bin Aamer told us, Israel told us, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Jubayr bin Malik, who said: The copies of the Qur'an were ordered to be changed. He said: Ibn Masoud said: Whoever among you can steal a copy of the Qur'an, let him steal it, for whoever steals something will bring it on the Day of Resurrection. Then he said: I recited from the mouth of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, seventy surahs. Should I abandon what I took from the mouth of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace? And Wakee' narrated in his interpretation on the authority of Sharik, on the authority of Ibrahim bin Muhajir, on the authority of Ibrahim, who said: When the copies of the Qur'an were ordered to be burned, Abdullah bin Masoud, may God be pleased with him, said: O people, steal the copies of the Qur'an, for whoever steals it will bring what he stole on the Day of Resurrection. And what a good stealing copy of the Qur'an one of you will bring on the Day of Resurrection. Abu Dawud said, on the authority of Samurah bin Jundub, who said: When the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, captured a booty, he would command Bilal to call out to the people, and they would bring their spoils, and he would take a fifth of it and divide it. Then a man came one day after The call was made with a bridle of hair. He said: O Messenger of God, this was from what we obtained from the spoils. He said: Did you hear Bilal calling three times? He said: Yes. He said: What prevented you from coming? So he apologized to him. He said: No, you will come with it on the Day of Resurrection and I will not accept it from you.

And the Almighty said: Is he who pursues the pleasure of God like he who incurs the wrath of God and whose refuge is Hell, and an evil destination? That is, he who pursues the pleasure of God in what He has prescribed and thus deserves the pleasure of God and His abundant reward, and is protected from His severe punishment, is not equal to he who deserves the wrath of God and is bound by it, and there is no escape for him from it, and his refuge on the Day of Resurrection is Hell, and an evil destination. This verse has many parallels in the Qur'an, such as the Almighty's saying: Is he who knows that what has been revealed to you from your Lord is the truth like he who is blind? and His saying: Is he to whom We have promised a good promise and he will attain it like he to whom We have given enjoyment of the enjoyment of worldly life? Then God the Almighty said: They are of degrees with God. Al-Hasan Al-Basri and Muhammad bin Ishaq said: meaning the people of good and the people of evil have degrees. Abu Ubaidah and Al-Kisa'i said: Stations, meaning they differ in their stations and degrees in Paradise and their levels in Hell, like the Almighty's saying: And for all are degrees according to what they have done verse. That is why the Almighty said: And God is Seeing of what they do verse, meaning He will give them what they deserve. He will not wrong them with good nor increase their evil, rather He will reward each worker according to his work. The Almighty said: God has certainly conferred a great favor upon the believers when He sent among them a Messenger from among themselves verse, meaning from their own kind so that they could address him, ask him, sit with him, and benefit from him, as the Almighty said: And among His signs is that He created for you from among yourselves mates that you may find tranquility in them verse, meaning from your own kind. The Almighty said: "Say, 'I am only a man like you. It has been revealed to me that your God is one God'" verse. God the Almighty said: And We did not send before you any messengers except that they ate food and walked in the markets. God the Almighty said: And We did not send before you any except men to whom We revealed from the people of the towns. God the Almighty said: O company of jinn and mankind, did there not come to you messengers from among you? This is more eloquent in gratitude that the messenger to them should be from among them, such that they can address him and consult him in understanding the speech on his behalf. For this reason God the Almighty said: He recites to them His verses meaning the Qur'an and purifies them meaning he commands them to do good and forbids them from evil so that their souls may be purified and cleansed from the filth and evil that they were immersed in during their state of polytheism and ignorance, and teaches them the Book and wisdom meaning the Qur'an and the Sunnah, although they were before meaning before this Messenger in manifest error meaning in clear error and ignorance that is evident to everyone.

Fath al-Qadir

His statement 162- Is he who pursues the pleasure of God like he who incurs the wrath of God? The question is for denial: meaning, he who pursues the pleasure of God in His commands and prohibitions, and acts according to His commands and avoids His prohibitions, is not like he who incurs: meaning, returns with great wrath from God because of his disobedience to what He commanded and prohibited. Included under this is he who pursues the pleasure of God by abandoning and avoiding embezzlement, and he who incurs the wrath of God because of his committing embezzlement.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

162- Is he who pursues the pleasure of God and abandons theft like he who incurs the wrath of God, he did, and his refuge is Hell, and wretched is the destination.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

162 Is he who pursues the pleasure of God through obedience like he who returns "with wrath from God because of sins and his refuge is Hell, and wretched is the destination" The difference between it and the reference is that the destination must be different from the first case, but the reference is not like that.

Surat Al Imran 3:163

They have degrees with God, and God is Seeing of what they do.

Surat Al Imran 3:163

They have degrees with God, and God is Seeing of what they do.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

They have degrees meaning they have degrees with God meaning they have different positions. So whoever pursues His pleasure will be rewarded, and whoever incurs His wrath will be punished. And God is Seeing of what they do so He will reward them for it.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: God Almighty means by that: Whoever pursues the pleasure of God and whoever incurs the wrath of God, will have different positions with God. For whoever pursues the pleasure of God, there is honor and great reward, and for whoever incurs the wrath of God, there is humiliation and painful punishment, as:

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: They have degrees with God, and God is All-Seeing of what they do, meaning: for each there are degrees of what they did in Heaven and Hell, for God does not hide from the people who obey Him from the people who disobey Him.

Muhammad bin Saad told me, he said, my father told me, he said, my uncle told me, he said, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn Abbas: They have degrees with God, he says: according to their deeds.

Others said: The meaning of this is: They have degrees with God, meaning: For those who seek God's pleasure, there are noble positions with God.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Amr told me, he said, Abu Asim told us, on the authority of Isa, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding his statement: They are degrees with God, he said: It is like his statement: They are degrees with God.

Muhammad told us, Ahmad told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi: They have degrees with God, meaning: They have degrees with God.

It was said: His saying, They are degrees, is like the saying of someone: They are classes, as Ibn Harmah said:

Will my people be stoned to death by the vicissitudes of time, or by the torrents?

As for his saying: And God is Seeing of what they do, it means: God is All-Knowing of what those who obey and disobey Him do. Nothing of their deeds is hidden from Him. He counts the deeds of both groups, until each soul is given the reward for what it has earned of good and evil, as:

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: And God is All-Seeing of what they do, meaning: God does not hide from the people who obey Him from the people who disobey Him.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

The Almighty said: They are degrees with God meaning that whoever follows the pleasure of God is not like whoever incurs His wrath. It was said: They are degrees are different, meaning that they are of different status with God. For whoever follows His pleasure is honor and great reward, and for whoever incurs His wrath is humiliation and painful torment. The meaning of They are degrees is that they have degrees, or are on degrees, or are in degrees, or have degrees. The people of Hell also have degrees, as He said: I found him in the depths of the Fire, so I brought him out to shallow water. So the believer and the disbeliever are not equal in degree. Then the believers also differ, as some of them are higher in degree than others, and so are the disbelievers. The degree is the rank, and from this comes the ladder: because it is folded up rank after rank. The most famous in the homes of Hell are levels, as He said: Indeed, the hypocrites will be in the lowest depth of the Fire (An-Nisa': 145). So for whoever does not exceed the levels, each of them is called a level, and the level is to the bottom. And the stairs up.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The Almighty says, addressing His Messenger, thanking him and the believers for what He softened his heart with towards his nation who followed his command, abandoned his warning, and made his words pleasant to them: Then by the mercy of God, you were gentle with them. That is, what made you gentle with them, were it not for God's mercy upon you and them? Qatada said: Then by the mercy of God, you were gentle with them. He says: Then by the mercy of God, you were gentle with them. What is the connection? The Arabs connect it with the definite article, as in His statement: Then by their breaking of their covenant. And with the indefinite article, as in His statement: In a little while. And thus here he said: Then by the mercy of God, you were gentle with them. That is, by the mercy of God. Al-Hasan Al-Basri said: This is the character of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, with which God sent him. And this noble verse is similar to the statement of the Almighty: "There has certainly come to you a Messenger from among yourselves. Grievous to him is what you suffer; he is concerned over you and to the believers is kind and merciful." And Imam Ahmad said: Haywah told us, Baqiyah told us, Muhammad bin Ziyad told us. Abu Rashid Al-Habrani told me: Abu Umamah Al-Bahili took my hand and said: The Messenger of God, may

God bless him and grant him peace, took my hand and said: O Abu Umamah, among the believers is he whose heart is soft towards me. Ahmad alone transmitted this. Then God, the Most High, said: And if you had been rude [in speech] and harsh [in heart], they would have disbanded from around you. The rude is the harsh, and what is meant by it here is harsh in speech, because He said after that harsh in heart, meaning if you had been bad in speech and hard-hearted towards them, they would have disbanded from you and left you, but God gathered them around you and made you gentle towards them to win their hearts over, as Abdullah bin Amr said: "I see the description of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, in the earlier books that he is not rude, nor harsh, nor loud in the markets, and he does not repay evil with evil, but he pardons and forgives." Abu Ismail Muhammad bin Ismail Al-Tirmidhi said: Bishr bin Ubaid Al-Darimi informed us, Ammar bin Abd Al-Rahman informed us, on the authority of Al-Mas'udi, on the authority of Ibn Abi Malekah, on the authority of Aisha, may God be pleased with her, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) said: God has commanded me to be lenient with people, just as He has commanded me to establish the obligatory duties. This is a strange hadith. That is why God the Almighty said: So pardon them and ask forgiveness for them, and consult them in the matter. That is why the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) used to consult his companions about a matter whenever it happened, to please their hearts so that they would be more active in what they did, as he consulted them on the day of Badr about going to the caravan, and they said: "O Messenger of God, if you were to parade us across the sea, we would cross it with you, and if you were to take us to Barak al-Ghamad, we would go with you, and we will not say to you as the people of Moses said to Moses: Go, you and your Lord, and fight, for we are sitting here. Rather, we say: Go, for we are with you, in front of you, and on your right and on your left, fighting." He also consulted them about where the camp would be, until Al-Mundhir bin Amr Al-Mu'naq indicated to die by advancing to the front of the people. He consulted them about whether he should stay in the city or go out to the enemy. Most of them suggested going out to them. So he went out to them and consulted them on the day of the Trench about reconciling with the confederates for a third of the fruits of the city that year. The two Saads, Saad bin Muadh and Saad bin Ubadah, refused him that, so he left that. He consulted them on the day of Hudaibiyyah about attacking the children of the polytheists. Abu Bakr said to him: We did not come to fight anyone, but we came to perform Umrah. So he agreed to what he said. The Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) said in the story of the slander: "Advise me, O Muslims, about a people who destroyed my family and threw stones at them. By God, I do not know of any evil against my family, and who did they destroy them for? By God, I only know of good about him." He consulted Ali and Usama about separating from Aisha may God be pleased with her. The Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) used to consult them in wars and the like. The jurists differed as to whether that was

obligatory upon him or recommended to please their hearts. There are two opinions. Al-Hakim said in his Mustadrak: Abu Ja'far Muhammad ibn Muhammad al-Baghdadi informed us, Yahya ibn Ayyub al-'Alaf told us in Egypt, Sa'id ibn Abi Maryam told us, Sufyan ibn 'Uyaynah told us, on the authority of 'Amr ibn Dinar, on the authority of Ibn 'Abbas, regarding the words of God the Almighty: And consult them in the matter. He said: Abu Bakr and 'Umar, may God be pleased with them. Then he said: It is authentic according to the conditions of the two sheikhs, and they did not include it. Al-Kalbi narrated it likewise on the authority of Abu Salih on the authority of Ibn 'Abbas, who said: It was revealed about Abu Bakr and 'Umar, and they were the disciples of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his ministers, and the fathers of the Muslims. Imam Ahmad narrated: Waki' told us, 'Abd al-Hamid told us on the authority of Shahr ibn Hawshab, on the authority of 'Abd al-Rahman ibn Ghanim, "That the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to Abu Bakr and 'Umar, 'If we met in consultation, I would not oppose you.'" Ibn Mardawayh narrated on the authority of 'Ali ibn Abi Talib, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was asked about determination. He said: Consulting people of opinion, then following them." Ibn Majah said: Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shaybah narrated to us, Yahya ibn Bakir narrated to us, on the authority of Shaiban, on the authority of Abdul Malik ibn Umair, on the authority of Abu Salamah, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: The one who is consulted is trustworthy. Abu Dawud and al-Tirmidhi narrated it, and al-Nasa'i authenticated it from the hadith of Abdul Malik ibn Umair with a more detailed chain of transmission than this. Then Ibn Majah said: Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shaybah narrated to us, Aswad ibn Amir narrated to us, on the authority of Sharik, on the authority of al-A'mash, on the authority of Abu Amr al-Shaibani, on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The one who is consulted is trustworthy." He was the only one to narrate it. He also said: Abu Bakr narrated to us, Yahya ibn Zakariya ibn Abi Zaydah and Ali ibn Hashim narrated to us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Laila, on the authority of Abu al-Zubayr, on the authority of Jabir, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: If one of you consults his brother, let him advise him. He was also the only one to narrate it. And the Almighty's saying: So when you have decided, then rely upon God meaning if you consult them about the matter and are determined to do it, then rely upon God in it Indeed, God loves those who rely [upon Him]. And the Almighty's saying: If God helps you, none can overcome you; but if He forsakes you, who is there that can help you after Him? And in God let the believers rely. And this verse is as it was mentioned before from His saying: And victory comes only from God, the Exalted in Might, the Wise. Then He commanded them to rely upon Him, saying: And in God let the believers rely. And the Almighty's saying: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils, Ibn Abbas, Mujahid, Al-Hasan and more than one said: It is not befitting for a prophet to betray. And Ibn Abi Hatim said: My father told us, Al-Musayyab bin Wadheeh told us,

They have degrees with God, and God is Seeing of what they do.

Abu Ishaq Al-Fazari told us on the authority of Sufyan bin Khasif on the authority of Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: They lost a quilt on the day of Badr, so they said: Perhaps the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, took it, so God revealed: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils, meaning betray. Ibn Jarir said: Muhammad ibn Abd al-Malik ibn Abi al-Shawarib told us, Abd al-Wahid ibn Ziyad told us, Khasif told us, Muqsim told us, Ibn Abbas told me that this verse, And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war, was revealed concerning a red cloak that was lost on the day of Badr. Some people said: Perhaps the Messenger of God had taken it, and they talked a lot about that, so God revealed, "And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war. And whoever takes spoils of war will come with what he has taken on the Day of Resurrection." Abu Dawud and al-Tirmidhi both narrated it in the same way on the authority of Qutaybah, on the authority of Abd al-Wahid ibn Ziyad. Al-Tirmidhi said: It is good and strange. Some of them narrated it on the authority of Khasif, on the authority of Muqsim, meaning in a mural form. Ibn Mardawayh narrated on the authority of Abu Amr ibn al-Ala', on the authority of Mujahid, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: The hypocrites accused the Messenger of God (blessings and peace of God be upon him) of something he had lost, so God revealed: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war. It was narrated from Ibn Abbas through other chains of transmission similar to what was mentioned above. This is to exonerate him (blessings and peace of God be upon him) from all forms of treachery in fulfilling the trust, dividing the spoils of war, and other things. Al-Awfi said on the authority of Ibn Abbas: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war meaning that he would divide some of the spoils for the sake of the army and leave others. Ad-Dahhak said the same. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war meaning that he would leave some of what was revealed to him and not convey it to his nation. Al-Hasan al-Basri, Tawus, Mujahid, and Ad-Dahhak recited: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war with a damma on the ya', meaning that he would betray. Qatada and Ar-Rabi' ibn Anas said: This verse was revealed on the day of Badr, and some of his companions had taken spoils of war. Ibn Jarir narrated it from them, then he narrated from some of them that he interpreted this reading to mean that he is accused of treason, then God Almighty said: "And whoever embezzles will come with what he embezzled on the Day of Resurrection. Then every soul will be fully compensated for what it earned, and they will not be wronged." This is a severe threat and a definite warning. The Sunnah also forbade this in multiple hadiths. Imam Ahmad said: Abdul Malik told us, Zuhair told us, meaning Ibn Muhammad, from Abdullah ibn Muhammad ibn Aqil, from Ata ibn Yasar, from Abu Malik Al-Ashja'i, from the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "The greatest embezzlement before God is an arm's length of land. You will find two men running after each other on the land - or in the house - and one of them will cut off an arm's length from the share of his companion, and if he cuts it off, he will be hung around his neck from seven earths until the Day of Resurrection."

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Musa bin Dawud told us, Ibn Lahi'ah told us, on the authority of Ibn Hubayrah and Al-Harith bin Yazid, on the authority of Abd Al-Rahman bin Jubayr, who said: I heard Al-Mustawrid bin Shaddad say: I heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: "Whoever is given a job and does not have a house, let him get a house. Or he does not have a wife, let him get married. Or he does not have a servant, let him get a servant. Or he does not have a mount, let him get a mount. And whoever acquires something other than that, then he is a thief." This is how Imam Ahmad narrated it. Abu Dawud narrated it with another chain of narration and context, saying: Musa bin Marwan al-Raqi narrated to us, al-Mu'afi narrated to us, al-Awza'i narrated to us, on the authority of al-Harith bin Yazid, on the authority of Jubayr bin Nufayr, on the authority of al-Mustawrid bin Shaddad, who said: I heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: "Whoever works for us, let him acquire a wife. If he does not have a servant, let him acquire a servant. If he does not have a home, let him acquire a home." He said: Abu Bakr said: I was told that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever does anything other than that is a transgressor or a thief. Our Sheikh, al-Hafiz al-Mizzī, may God have mercy on him, said: It was narrated by Ja'far bin Muhammad al-Faryabi on the authority of Musa bin Marwan, and he said: On the authority of Abd al-Rahman bin Jubayr instead of Jubayr bin Nufayr, and this is more likely to be correct.

Another hadith - Ibn Jarir said: Abu Kurayb told us, Hafs ibn Bishr told us, Yaqub al-Qummi told us, Hafs ibn Humayd told us on the authority of Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'I do not know any one of you who will come on the Day of Resurrection carrying a bleating sheep and calling out: O Muhammad, O Muhammad.' I will say: 'I have no power over anything from God for you, I have conveyed it to you.' I do not know any one of you who will come on the Day of Resurrection carrying a braying camel and calling out: O Muhammad, O Muhammad.' I will say: 'I have no power over anything from God for you, I have conveyed it to you.' I do not know any one of you who will come on the Day of Resurrection carrying a neighing horse and calling out: O Muhammad, O Muhammad.' I will say: 'I have no power over anything from God for you, I have conveyed it to you.' I do not know any one of you who will come on the Day of Resurrection carrying a leather husk and calling out: O Muhammad, O Muhammad.' I will say: 'I have no power over anything from God for you, I have conveyed it to you.'" None of the people of the six books narrated it.

Another hadith. Imam Ahmad said: Sufyan narrated to us on the authority of Al-Zuhri, he heard Urwah say: Abu Hamid Al-Sa'idi narrated to us: He said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, appointed a man from Azd called Ibn Al-Lutbiyyah to collect the zakat. He came and said: This is for you and this was given to me. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, stood on the pulpit and said: What is the matter with the worker whom we send and he comes and says: This is for you and this was given to me. Why did he not sit in the house of his father and mother and see whether he was given a gift or not? By the One in Whose hand is the soul of Muhammad, none of you will bring anything of it except that he will bring it on the Day of Resurrection on his neck, whether it is a camel that roars, or a cow that moos, or a sheep that bleats. Then he raised his hands until we saw the whiteness of his armpits. Then he said: O God, have I conveyed the message?" Hisham bin Urwah added: Abu Hamid said: I saw it with my eyes and heard it with my ears. Ask Zaid bin Thabit. They both narrated it on the authority of Sufyan bin Uyaynah. Al-Bukhari has: Ask Zaid bin Thabit. And others. A face on the authority of Al-Zuhri, and through a path on the authority of Hisham bin Urwah, both on the authority of Urwah, on his authority.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Ishaq bin Isa told us, Ismail bin Ayyash told us, on the authority of Yahya bin Saeed, on the authority of Urwah bin Al-Zubayr, on the authority of Abu Hamid, "that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The gifts of workers are misappropriation." This hadith is one of the individual hadiths of Ahmad, and its chain of transmission is weak, and it seems to be an abbreviation of the one before it, and God knows best.

Another hadith - Abu Isa Al-Tirmidhi said in the Book of Rulings: Abu Kurayb told us, Abu Usamah told us, on the authority of Dawud bin Yazid Al-Awdi, on the authority of Al-Mughirah bin Shibl, on the authority of Qais bin Abi Hazim, on the authority of Muadh bin Jabal, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent me to Yemen, and when I set out, he sent after me, but I returned. He said, 'Do you know why I sent to you? Do not take anything without my permission, for it is embezzlement.' And whoever embezzles will come with what he embezzled on the Day of Resurrection." This is why I have called you, so go on with your work." This is a good, strange hadith that we do not know except from this source. There are hadiths on this topic from Adi bin Umairah, Buraydah, Al-Mustawrid bin Shaddad, Abu Hamid, and Ibn Umar.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Ismail bin Aliyah told us, Abu Hayyan Yahya bin Saeed Al-Taymi told us, on the authority of Abu Zur'ah bin Umar bin Jarir, on the authority of Abu Hurairah, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, stood up among us one day and mentioned theft, and he magnified it and magnified its matter, then he said: 'I will not find one of you coming on the Day of Resurrection with a camel roaring on his neck, and he will say: O Messenger of God, help me,' and I will say: 'I have no power over God for you, I have conveyed the message to you.' I will not find one of you coming on the Day of Resurrection with a horse neighing on his neck, and he will say: O Messenger of God, help me,' and I will say: 'I have no power over God for you, I have conveyed the message to you.' I will not find one of you coming on the Day of Resurrection with a bandage on his neck that is strangling him, and he will say: O Messenger of God, help me,' and I will say: 'I have no power over God for you, I have conveyed the message to you.' I will not find one of you coming on the Day of Resurrection with a silent person on his neck, and he will say: O Messenger of God, help me,' and I will say: 'I have no power over God for you, I have conveyed the message to you.' You have something from God that I have conveyed to you." They narrated it from the hadith of Abu Hayyan.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Yahya bin Saeed told us on the authority of Ismail bin Abi Khalid, Qais told me on the authority of Adi bin Umairah Al-Kindi who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: O people, whoever among you does work for us and conceals from us a needle or more of it, it is a stipulation that he will bring on the Day of Resurrection. He said: A black man from the Ansar stood up - Mujalid said: He is Saeed bin Ubadah, it is as if I am looking at him - and said: O Messenger of God, accept your work from me. He said: What is that? He said: I heard you say: such and such. He said: And I am saying that now. Whoever we appoint to a job, let him come with it, little or much, and whatever he is given from it, he takes, and whatever he is forbidden from, he ends." And Muslim and Abu Dawud narrated it in the same way through various chains of transmission on the authority of Ismail bin Abi Khalid.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Abu Muawiyah told us on the authority of Abu Ishaq Al-Fazari, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, Manbuth, a man from the family of Abu Rafi', told me on the authority of Al-Fadl bin Ubaidullah bin Abu Rafi', on the authority of Abu Rafi', who said: "When the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) prayed the afternoon prayer, he would sometimes go to Banu Abd Al-Ashhal and talk to them until sunset. Abu Rafi' said: "While the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) was hurrying to the sunset prayer, he passed by Al-Baqi' and said: 'Uff to you, uff to you' twice. He shouted at me and I held back and thought that he wanted me. He said: 'What is the matter with you? Walk.' I said: 'I have done something new, O Messenger of God.' He said: 'What is that?' I said: 'Uff to me.' He said: 'No, but this is the grave of so-and-so. I sent him to seek out the family of so-and-so, and he stole a tiger and now his armor is like it, made of fire.'"

Another hadith - Abdullah bin Imam Ahmad said: Abdullah bin Salem Al-Kufi, the paralytic, told us - and he was in Mecca - Ubaidah bin Al-Aswad told us, on the authority of Al-Qasim bin Al-Waleed, on the authority of Abu Sadiq, on the authority of Rabia bin Najed, on the authority of Ubadah bin Al-Samit, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, would take a hair from the side of the camel from the spoils of war and then say: I have nothing in it except what one of you has. Beware of embezzlement, for embezzlement is a disgrace for its perpetrator on the Day of Resurrection. Give back the thread and needle and what is above that, and strive in the cause of God near and far, at home and on the journey, for striving is one of the gates of Paradise, for God saves from worry and grief through it, and establish the limits of God in those near and far, and do not let the blame of a blamer deter you in God's cause." Ibn Majah narrated some of it on the authority of the paralytic.

They have degrees with God, and God is Seeing of what they do.

Another hadith - On the authority of Amr bin Shuaib, on the authority of his father, on the authority of his grandfather, he said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Return the tailor and the needle, for embezzlement is a disgrace, a fire, and a shame upon its people on the Day of Resurrection."

Another hadith - Abu Dawud said: Uthman bin Abi Shaybah told us, Jarir told us, on the authority of Mutraf, on the authority of Abu al-Jahm, on the authority of Abu Mas'ud al-Ansari, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent me as a messenger, then he said: Go, Abu Mas'ud, lest I find you on the Day of Resurrection with a camel from the charity camels coming on your back, roaring, and you have tied it up." He said: Then I will not go. He said: Then I will not hate you. Abu Dawud is the only one to report it.

Another hadith - Abu Bakr bin Mardawayh said: Muhammad bin Ahmad bin Ibrahim informed us, Muhammad bin Uthman bin Abi Shaybah informed us, Abdul Hamid bin Saleh informed us, Ahmad bin Aban informed us on the authority of Alqamah bin Murthad, on the authority of Ibn Buraidah, on the authority of his father, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "A stone is thrown into Hell and it falls for seventy years without reaching its bottom, and the stolen goods are brought and thrown with them, then it is said to the one who stole them, 'Bring them.' This is what His statement means: 'And whoever steals will bring what he stole on the Day of Resurrection.'"

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Hashim bin Al-Qasim told us, Ikrimah bin Ammar told us, Samak Al-Hanafi Abu Zamil told me, Abdullah bin Abbas told me, Umar bin Al-Khattab told me: When the day of Khaybar came, a group of the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, came and said: So-and-so is a martyr and so-and-so is a martyr, until they came to a man and said: So-and-so is a martyr. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: No, I saw him in the Fire in a cloak that he had stolen. Then the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "O son of Al-Khattab, go and announce to the al-Nas 114: 'None shall enter Paradise except the believers.' So I went out and announced: 'None shall enter Paradise except the believers.'" Muslim and Al-Tirmidhi narrated it in the same way from the hadith of Ikrimah bin Ammar. Al-Tirmidhi said: Hasan Sahih.

Another hadith - Ibn Jarir said: Saeed bin Yahya Al-Umawi told us, my father told us, Yahya bin Saeed told us on the authority of Nafi' on the authority of Ibn Umar that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, "sent Saad bin Ubadah as a tax collector, and he said: Beware, Saad, of coming on the Day of Resurrection with a camel that you are carrying and it is bellowing. He said: I will not take it nor will I come with it, so he excused him." Then he narrated it on the authority of Ubaidullah on the authority of Nafi' in a similar manner.

Another hadith - Ahmad said: Abu Saeed told us, Abdul Aziz bin Muhammad told us, Saleh bin Muhammad bin Zaida told us, on the authority of Salim bin Abdullah, that he was with Muslimah bin Abdul Malik in the land of the Romans, and he found stolen goods in a man's belongings. He said: So he asked Salim bin Abdullah, and he said: My father Abdullah told me, on the authority of Umar bin Al-Khattab, may God be pleased with him, "that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: If you find stolen goods in someone's belongings, burn them - he said: And I think he said: And beat him. He said: So he took out his belongings in the market and found a Qur'an in them, so he asked Salim, and he said: Sell it and give its price in charity." And this is how Ali bin Al-Madini, Abu Dawud, and Al-Tirmidhi narrated it from the hadith of Abdul Aziz bin Muhammad Al-Atdarwardi. Abu Dawud and Abu Ishaq Al-Fazari added, both of them on the authority of Abu Waqid Al-Laithi Al-Sagheer, Saleh bin Muhammad bin Zaida with it. Ali ibn al-Madini, al-Bukhari and others said: This is a rejected hadith narrated by Abu Waqid. Al-Daraqutni said: The correct view is that it is only from the fatwa of Salim. Imam Ahmad ibn Hanbal, may God have mercy on him, and those of his companions who followed him held the view based on this hadith. Al-Umawi narrated it on the authority of Muawiyah, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Yunus ibn Ubayd, on the authority of al-Hasan, who said: The punishment for the transgressor is that his saddlebags are taken out and burned with what is in them. Then he narrated on the authority of Muawiyah, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Uthman ibn Ata', on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ali, who said: The transgressor's saddlebags are gathered together and burned and he is flogged without a prescribed punishment. Abu Hanifa, Malik, al-Shafi'i and the majority disagreed with him and said: The transgressor's belongings are not to be burned, but he is to be punished with a punishment similar to his. Al-Bukhari said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, refrained from praying over the transgressor, but his belongings were not burned." And God knows best.

Another hadith on the authority of Umar, may God be pleased with him - Ibn Jarir said: Ahmad ibn Abd al-Rahman ibn Wahb told me, Abdullah ibn Wahb told me, Amr ibn al-Harith told me that Musa ibn Jubayr told him: Abdullah ibn Abd al-Rahman ibn al-Habbab al-Ansari told him: Abdullah ibn Unais told him: He and Umar ibn al-Khattab were discussing charity one day, and he said: Didn't you hear the words of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, when he mentioned the embezzlement of charity: Whoever embezzles a camel or a sheep from it, he will carry it on the Day of Resurrection? Abdullah ibn Unais said: Yes. Ibn Majah narrated it on the authority of Amr ibn Sawad on the authority of Abdullah ibn Wahb on his authority. Al-Umawi narrated it on the authority of Muawiyah, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Yunus ibn Ubayd, on the authority of al-Hasan, who said: The punishment of the embezzler is that his saddle be taken out and burned with what is in it. Then he narrated on the authority of Muawiyah, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Uthman ibn Ata', on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ali, who said: The embezzler's saddle is gathered up and burned and he is flogged without a prescribed punishment.

Imam Ahmad said: Aswad bin Aamer told us, Israel told us, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Jubayr bin Malik, who said: The copies of the Qur'an were ordered to be changed. He said: Ibn Masoud said: Whoever among you can steal a copy of the Qur'an, let him steal it, for whoever steals something will bring it on the Day of Resurrection. Then he said: I recited from the mouth of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, seventy surahs. Should I abandon what I took from the mouth of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace? And Wakee' narrated in his interpretation on the authority of Sharik, on the authority of Ibrahim bin Muhajir, on the authority of Ibrahim, who said: When the copies of the Qur'an were ordered to be burned, Abdullah bin Masoud, may God be pleased with him, said: O people, steal the copies of the Qur'an, for whoever steals it will bring what he stole on the Day of Resurrection. And what a good stealing copy of the Qur'an one of you will bring on the Day of Resurrection. Abu Dawud said, on the authority of Samurah bin Jundub, who said: When the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, captured a booty, he would command Bilal to call out to the people, and they would bring their spoils, and he would take a fifth of it and divide it. Then a man came one day after The call was made with a bridle of hair. He said: O Messenger of God, this was from what we obtained from the spoils. He said: Did you hear Bilal calling three times? He said: Yes. He said: What prevented you from coming? So he apologized to him. He said: No, you will come with it on the Day of Resurrection and I will not accept it from you.

And the Almighty said: Is he who pursues the pleasure of God like he who incurs the wrath of God and whose refuge is Hell, and an evil destination? That is, he who pursues the pleasure of God in what He has prescribed and thus deserves the pleasure of God and His abundant reward, and is protected from His severe punishment, is not equal to he who deserves the wrath of God and is bound by it, and there is no escape for him from it, and his refuge on the Day of Resurrection is Hell, and an evil destination. This verse has many parallels in the Qur'an, such as the Almighty's saying: Is he who knows that what has been revealed to you from your Lord is the truth like he who is blind? and His saying: Is he to whom We have promised a good promise and he will attain it like he to whom We have given enjoyment of the enjoyment of worldly life? Then God the Almighty said: They are of degrees with God. Al-Hasan Al-Basri and Muhammad bin Ishaq said: meaning the people of good and the people of evil have degrees. Abu Ubaidah and Al-Kisa'i said: Stations, meaning they differ in their stations and degrees in Paradise and their levels in Hell, like the Almighty's saying: And for all are degrees according to what they have done verse. That is why the Almighty said: And God is Seeing of what they do verse, meaning He will give them what they deserve. He will not wrong them with good nor increase their evil, rather He will reward each worker according to his work. The Almighty said: God has certainly conferred a great favor upon the believers when He sent among them a Messenger from among themselves verse, meaning from their own kind so that they could address him, ask him, sit with him, and benefit from him, as the Almighty said: And among His signs is that He created for you from among yourselves mates that you may find tranquility in them verse, meaning from your own kind. The Almighty said: "Say, 'I am only a man like you. It has been revealed to me that your God is one God'" verse. God the Almighty said: And We did not send before you any messengers except that they ate food and walked in the markets. God the Almighty said: And We did not send before you any except men to whom We revealed from the people of the towns. God the Almighty said: O company of jinn and mankind, did there not come to you messengers from among you? This is more eloquent in gratitude that the messenger to them should be from among them, such that they can address him and consult him in understanding the speech on his behalf. For this reason God the Almighty said: He recites to them His verses meaning the Qur'an and purifies them meaning he commands them to do good and forbids them from evil so that their souls may be purified and cleansed from the filth and evil that they were immersed in during their state of polytheism and ignorance, and teaches them the Book and wisdom meaning the Qur'an and the Sunnah, although they were before meaning before this Messenger in manifest error meaning in clear error and ignorance that is evident to everyone.

Fath al-Qadir

Then he explained the difference between the two groups, saying: 163- They are of degrees with God, meaning: They differ in degrees, and the meaning is: They are of degrees, or they have degrees, so the degrees of those who follow the pleasure of God are not like the degrees of those who follow the wrath of God, for the first are in the highest degrees, and the last are in the lowest.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

163- They have degrees with God, meaning: they have degrees with God. Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with him, said: It means whoever pursues the pleasure of God and whoever incurs the wrath of God will have different degrees with God. For whoever pursues the pleasure of God is the great reward, and for whoever incurs the wrath of God is the painful punishment. And God is Seeing of what they do.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

163 They are of degrees with God. They were likened to degrees because of the difference between them in reward and punishment, or they have degrees. And God is Seeing of what they do. He knows their deeds and their degrees are issued by them, so He rewards them according to them.

Surat Al Imran 3:163

They have degrees with God, and God is Seeing of what they do.

Surat Al Imran 3:164

God has certainly conferred a great favor upon the believers when He sent among them a Messenger from among themselves, reciting to them His verses and purifying them and teaching them the Book and wisdom - although they were before in manifest error.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

God has conferred a great favor upon the believers when He sent among them a Messenger from among themselves meaning an Arab like them so that they would understand him and be honored by him, not a king or a foreigner reciting to them His verses the Qur'an and purifying them cleansing them from sins and teaching them the Book the Qur'an and wisdom the Sunnah even though lightened, meaning that they were before meaning before his sending in manifest error clear

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: By that he means: God has been long-winded with the believers, when He sent among them a Messenger, when He sent among them a Messenger, from among themselves, a Prophet from among the people of their language, and He did not make him from among those who were not from among their language so that they would not understand what he was saying, reciting to them His verses, meaning: He recites to them the verses of His Book and His revelation, and purifies them, meaning: He cleanses them from their sins by following Him and obeying Him in what He commanded and forbade them, and teaching them the Book and wisdom, meaning: He teaches them the Book of God that He revealed to him, and explains to them its interpretation and meanings, and wisdom, meaning by wisdom, the Sunnah that God, the Most High, has established for the believers through the tongue of His Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, and His explanation to them, and they were before in manifest error, meaning: and they were before God bestowed His favor upon them by sending His Messenger who has this description, in manifest error, meaning: in ignorance. Ignorant, blindly confused about guidance, they do not know the truth, nor do they reject falsehood.

We have previously explained the origin of misguidance, which is taking without guidance, so there is no need to repeat it in this place.

And the clear one, who shows to whoever contemplates it with his mind and ponders it with his understanding, that he is not on the right path or guidance.

A group of interpreters said something similar to what we said about this.

Who said that?

Bishr told us, Yazid told us, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, his saying: God has conferred a great favor upon the believers when He sent among them a Messenger from among themselves, God conferred a great favor upon them without this nation's invitation or desire. God made him a mercy to them to bring them out of darkness into the light and guide them to a straight path. His saying: And to teach them the Book and wisdom, wisdom, the Sunnah, in if they were before in manifest error, it is not, by God, as the people of Harura say: an overwhelming trial, whoever misses it will have his blood shed, but God sent His Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, to a people who do not know, so he taught them, and to a people who have no manners, so he punished them.

Ibn Humayd narrated to us, he said: Salamah narrated to us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq, he said: God has conferred a great favor upon the believers, until His saying: in manifest error, meaning: God has conferred a great favor upon you, O people of faith, when He sent among you a Messenger from among yourselves who recites to you His verses and purifies you in what you have innovated and in what you have done, and teaches you good and evil, so that you may know good and do it, and evil and avoid it, and informs you of His pleasure with you if you obey Him, so that you may increase your obedience to Him and avoid what He is angry with you in disobeying Him, so that you may be freed from His wrath and attain His reward from His Paradise, while they were before in manifest error, meaning: in blindness from ignorance, not knowing good nor seeking forgiveness for bad, deaf to the truth, blind to guidance.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

God Almighty explained the greatness of His favor upon them by sending Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace. There are several sayings about the meaning of the favor: One of them is that the meaning of from themselves is a human being like them. When he showed the proofs, and he was a human being like them, it was known that this was from God. It was also said: from themselves from them, so they were honored by him, may God bless him and grant him peace, and that was the favor. It was also said: from themselves so that they would know his situation and his method would not be hidden from them. If his position among them was like this, they would be more deserving of fighting for him and not being defeated without him. It was read in the exceptions from themselves (with an open fa') meaning from the most honorable of them, because he is from Banu Hashim, and Banu Hashim are better than Quraysh, and Quraysh are better than the Arabs, and the Arabs are better than others. Then it was said: The word believers is general and its meaning is specific to the Arabs, because there is no tribe from the tribes of the Arabs except that he was born, may God bless him and grant him peace, and they have a lineage in him, except for Banu Taghlib, for they were Christians, so God purified them from the filth of Christianity. And this is an explanation of the interpretation of the words of God the Almighty: It is He who sent among the unlettered a Messenger from among themselves (al-Jum'ah 62:2). Abu Muhammad Abd al-Ghani mentioned: Abu Ahmad al-Basri told us: Ahmad ibn Ali ibn Sa'id al-Qadi Abu Bakr al-Marwazi told us: Yahya ibn Ma'in told us: Hisham ibn Yusuf told us, on the authority of Abdullah ibn Sulayman al-Nawfali, on the authority of al-Zuhri, on the authority of Urwah, on the authority of Aisha, may God be pleased with her: God has conferred a great favor upon the believers when He sent among them a Messenger from among themselves. She said: This is specifically for the Arabs. Others said: He meant all the believers, and the meaning of from among themselves is that he is one of them and a human being like them, and he was only distinguished from them by revelation, and this is the meaning of His words: There has certainly come to you a Messenger from among yourselves. He singled out the believers for mention because they are the ones who benefit from him, so the favor upon them is greater. And the words of God the Almighty: He recites to them recites is in the accusative case as an attribute of Messenger, and its meaning is he reads, and recitation is reading, and teaches them the Book and wisdom were mentioned previously in al-Baqarah. The meaning of and they were before is that they were before in nothing but clear error. And similar to it is And you were before that among those astray, meaning, and you were not before that except among those astray. This is the doctrine of the Kufians, and the meaning of this verse was previously mentioned in Al-Baqarah.

God has certainly conferred a great favor upon the believers when He sent among them a Messenger from among themselves, reciting to them His verses and purifying them and teaching them the Book and wisdom - although they were before in manifest error.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The Almighty says, addressing His Messenger, thanking him and the believers for what He softened his heart with towards his nation who followed his command, abandoned his warning, and made his words pleasant to them: Then by the mercy of God, you were gentle with them. That is, what made you gentle with them, were it not for God's mercy upon you and them? Qatada said: Then by the mercy of God, you were gentle with them. He says: Then by the mercy of God, you were gentle with them. What is the connection? The Arabs connect it with the definite article, as in His statement: Then by their breaking of their covenant. And with the indefinite article, as in His statement: In a little while. And thus here he said: Then by the mercy of God, you were gentle with them. That is, by the mercy of God. Al-Hasan Al-Basri said: This is the character of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, with which God sent him. And this noble verse is similar to the statement of the Almighty: "There has certainly come to you a Messenger from among yourselves. Grievous to him is what you suffer; he is concerned over you and to the believers is kind and merciful." And Imam Ahmad said: Haywah told us, Baqiyah told us, Muhammad bin Ziyad told us. Abu Rashid Al-Habrani told me: Abu Umamah Al-Bahili took my hand and said: The Messenger of God, may

God bless him and grant him peace, took my hand and said: O Abu Umamah, among the believers is he whose heart is soft towards me. Ahmad alone transmitted this. Then God, the Most High, said: And if you had been rude [in speech] and harsh [in heart], they would have disbanded from around you. The rude is the harsh, and what is meant by it here is harsh in speech, because He said after that harsh in heart, meaning if you had been bad in speech and hard-hearted towards them, they would have disbanded from you and left you, but God gathered them around you and made you gentle towards them to win their hearts over, as Abdullah bin Amr said: "I see the description of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, in the earlier books that he is not rude, nor harsh, nor loud in the markets, and he does not repay evil with evil, but he pardons and forgives." Abu Ismail Muhammad bin Ismail Al-Tirmidhi said: Bishr bin Ubaid Al-Darimi informed us, Ammar bin Abd Al-Rahman informed us, on the authority of Al-Mas'udi, on the authority of Ibn Abi Malekah, on the authority of Aisha, may God be pleased with her, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) said: God has commanded me to be lenient with people, just as He has commanded me to establish the obligatory duties. This is a strange hadith. That is why God the Almighty said: So pardon them and ask forgiveness for them, and consult them in the matter. That is why the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) used to consult his companions about a matter whenever it happened, to please their hearts so that they would be more active in what they did, as he consulted them on the day of Badr about going to the caravan, and they said: "O Messenger of God, if you were to parade us across the sea, we would cross it with you, and if you were to take us to Barak al-Ghamad, we would go with you, and we will not say to you as the people of Moses said to Moses: Go, you and your Lord, and fight, for we are sitting here. Rather, we say: Go, for we are with you, in front of you, and on your right and on your left, fighting." He also consulted them about where the camp would be, until Al-Mundhir bin Amr Al-Mu'naq indicated to die by advancing to the front of the people. He consulted them about whether he should stay in the city or go out to the enemy. Most of them suggested going out to them. So he went out to them and consulted them on the day of the Trench about reconciling with the confederates for a third of the fruits of the city that year. The two Saads, Saad bin Mu'adh and Saad bin Ubadah, refused him that, so he left that. He consulted them on the day of Hudaibiyyah about attacking the children of the polytheists. Abu Bakr said to him: We did not come to fight anyone, but we came to perform Umrah. So he agreed to what he said. The Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) said in the story of the slander: "Advise me, O Muslims, about a people who destroyed my family and threw stones at them. By God, I do not know of any evil against my family, and who did they destroy them for? By God, I only know of good about him.” He consulted Ali and Usama about separating from Aisha may God be pleased with her. The Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) used to consult them in wars and the like. The jurists differed as to whether that was obligatory upon him or recommended to please their hearts. There are two opinions. Al-Hakim said in his Mustadrak: Abu Ja'far Muhammad ibn Muhammad al-Baghdadi informed us, Yahya ibn Ayyub al-'Alaf told us in Egypt, Sa'id ibn Abi Maryam told us, Sufyan ibn 'Uyaynah told us, on the authority of 'Amr ibn Dinar, on the authority of Ibn 'Abbas, regarding the words of God the Almighty: And consult them in the matter. He said: Abu Bakr and 'Umar, may God be pleased with them. Then he said: It is authentic according to the conditions of the two sheikhs, and they did not include it. Al-Kalbi narrated it likewise on the authority of Abu Salih on the authority of Ibn 'Abbas, who said: It was revealed about Abu Bakr and 'Umar, and they were the disciples of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his ministers, and the fathers of the Muslims. Imam Ahmad narrated: Waki' told us, 'Abd al-Hamid told us on the authority of Shahr ibn Hawshab, on the authority of 'Abd al-Rahman ibn Ghanim, “That the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to Abu Bakr and 'Umar, ‘If we met in consultation, I would not oppose you.’” Ibn Mardawayh narrated on the authority of 'Ali ibn Abi Talib, who said: “The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was asked about determination. He said: Consulting people of opinion, then following them.” Ibn Majah said: Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shaybah narrated to us, Yahya ibn Bakir narrated to us, on the authority of Shaiban, on the authority of Abdul Malik ibn Umair, on the authority of Abu Salamah, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: The one who is consulted is trustworthy. Abu Dawud and al-Tirmidhi narrated it, and al-Nasa'i authenticated it from the hadith of Abdul Malik ibn Umair with a more detailed chain of transmission than this. Then Ibn Majah said: Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shaybah narrated to us, Aswad ibn Amir narrated to us, on the authority of Sharik, on the authority of al-A'mash, on the authority of Abu Amr al-Shaibani, on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud, who said: “The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The one who is consulted is trustworthy.” He was the only one to narrate it. He also said: Abu Bakr narrated to us, Yahya ibn Zakariya ibn Abi Zaydah and Ali ibn Hashim narrated to us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Laila, on the authority of Abu al-Zubayr, on the authority of Jabir, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: If one of you consults his brother, let him advise him. He was also the only one to narrate it. And the Almighty's saying: So when you have decided, then rely upon God meaning if you consult them about the matter and are determined to do it, then rely upon God in it Indeed, God loves those who rely [upon Him]. And the Almighty's saying: If God helps you, none can overcome you; but if He forsakes you, who is there that can help you after Him? And in God let the believers rely. And this verse is as it was mentioned before from His saying: And victory comes only from God, the Exalted in Might, the Wise. Then He commanded them to rely upon Him, saying: And in God let the believers rely. And the Almighty's saying: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils, Ibn Abbas, Mujahid, Al-Hasan and more than one said: It is not befitting for a prophet to betray. And Ibn Abi Hatim said: My father told us, Al-Musayyab bin Wadheeh told us, Abu Ishaq Al-Fazari told us on the authority of Sufyan bin Khasif on the authority of Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: They lost a quilt on the day of Badr, so they said: Perhaps the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, took it, so God revealed: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils, meaning betray. Ibn Jarir said: Muhammad ibn Abd al-Malik ibn Abi al-Shawarib told us, Abd al-Wahid ibn Ziyad told us, Khasif told us, Muqsim told us, Ibn Abbas told me that this verse, And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war, was revealed concerning a red cloak that was lost on the day of Badr. Some people said: Perhaps the Messenger of God had taken it, and they talked a lot about that, so God revealed, “And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war. And whoever takes spoils of war will come with what he has taken on the Day of Resurrection.” Abu Dawud and al-Tirmidhi both narrated it in the same way on the authority of Qutaybah, on the authority of Abd al-Wahid ibn Ziyad. Al-Tirmidhi said: It is good and strange. Some of them narrated it on the authority of Khasif, on the authority of Muqsim, meaning in a mursal form. Ibn Mardawayh narrated on the authority of Abu Amr ibn al-Ala', on the authority of Mujahid, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: The hypocrites accused the Messenger of God (blessings and peace of God be upon him) of something he had lost, so God revealed: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war. It was narrated from Ibn Abbas through other chains of transmission similar to what was mentioned above. This is to exonerate him (blessings and peace of God be upon him) from all forms of treachery in fulfilling the trust, dividing the spoils of war, and other things. Al-Awfi said on the authority of Ibn Abbas: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war meaning that he would divide some of the spoils for the sake of the army and leave others. Ad-Dahhak said the same. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war meaning that he would leave some of what was revealed to him and not convey it to his nation. Al-Hasan al-Basri, Tawus, Mujahid, and Ad-Dahhak recited: And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war with a damma on the ya', meaning that he would betray. Qatada and Ar-Rabi' ibn Anas said: This verse was revealed on the day of Badr, and some of his companions had taken spoils of war. Ibn Jarir narrated it from them, then he narrated from some of them that he interpreted this reading to mean that he is accused of treason, then God Almighty said: “And whoever embezzles will come with what he embezzled on the Day of Resurrection. Then every soul will be fully compensated for what it earned, and they will not be wronged.” This is a severe threat and a definite warning. The Sunnah also forbade this in multiple hadiths. Imam Ahmad said: Abdul Malik told us, Zuhair told us, meaning Ibn Muhammad, from Abdullah ibn Muhammad Ibn Aqil, from Ata ibn Yasar, from Abu Malik Al-Ashja'i, from the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: “The greatest embezzlement before God is an arm's length of land. You will find two men running after each other on the land - or in the house - and one of them will cut off an arm's length from the share of his companion, and if he cuts it off, he will be hung around his neck from seven earths until the Day of Resurrection."

Surat Al Imran 3:164

God has certainly conferred a great favor upon the believers when He sent among them a Messenger from among themselves, reciting to them His verses and purifying them and teaching them the Book and wisdom - although they were before in manifest error.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Musa bin Dawud told us, Ibn Lahi'ah told us, on the authority of Ibn Hubayrah and Al-Harith bin Yazid, on the authority of Abd Al-Rahman bin Jubayr, who said: I heard Al-Mustawrid bin Shaddad say: I heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: "Whoever is given a job and does not have a house, let him get a house. Or he does not have a wife, let him get married. Or he does not have a servant, let him get a servant. Or he does not have a mount, let him get a mount. And whoever acquires something other than that, then he is a thief." This is how Imam Ahmad narrated it. Abu Dawud narrated it with another chain of narration and context, saying: Musa bin Marwan al-Raqi narrated to us, al-Mu'afi narrated to us, al-Awza'i narrated to us, on the authority of al-Harith bin Yazid, on the authority of Jubayr bin Nufayr, on the authority of al-Mustawrid bin Shaddad, who said: I heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: "Whoever works for us, let him acquire a wife. If he does not have a servant, let him acquire a servant. If he does not have a home, let him acquire a home." He said: Abu Bakr said: I was told that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever does anything other than that is a transgressor or a thief. Our Sheikh, al-Hafiz al-Mizzi, may God have mercy on him, said: It was narrated by Ja'far bin Muhammad al-Faryabi on the authority of Musa bin Marwan, and he said: On the authority of Abd al-Rahman bin Jubayr instead of Jubayr bin Nufayr, and this is more likely to be correct.

Another hadith - Ibn Jarir said: Abu Kurayb told us, Hafs ibn Bishr told us, Yaqub al-Qummi told us, Hafs ibn Humayd told us on the authority of Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'I do not know any one of you who will come on the Day of Resurrection carrying a bleating sheep and calling out: O Muhammad, O Muhammad.' I will say: 'I have no power over anything from God for you; I have conveyed it to you.' I do not know any one of you who will come on the Day of Resurrection carrying a braying camel and calling out: O Muhammad, O Muhammad.' I will say: 'I have no power over anything from God for you; I have conveyed it to you.' I do not know any one of you who will come on the Day of Resurrection carrying a neighing horse and calling out: O Muhammad, O Muhammad.' I will say: 'I have no power over anything from God for you; I have conveyed it to you.' I do not know any one of you who will come on the Day of Resurrection carrying a leather husk and calling out: O Muhammad, O Muhammad.' I will say: 'I have no power over anything from God for you; I have conveyed it to you.'" None of the people of the six books narrated it.

Another hadith. Imam Ahmad said: Sufyan narrated to us on the authority of Al-Zuhri, he heard Urwah say:

Abu Hamid Al-Sa'idi narrated to us: He said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, appointed a man from Azd called Ibn Al-Lutbiyyah to collect the zakat. He came and said: This is for you and this was given to me. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, stood on the pulpit and said: What is the matter with the worker whom we send and he comes and says: This is for you and this was given to me. Why did he not sit in the house of his father and mother and see whether he was given a gift or not? By the One in Whose hand is the soul of Muhammad, none of you will bring anything of it except that he will bring it on the Day of Resurrection on his neck, whether it is a camel that roars, or a cow that moos, or a sheep that bleats. Then he raised his hands until we saw the whiteness of his armpits. Then he said: O God, have I conveyed the message?" Hisham bin Urwah added: Abu Hamid said: I saw it with my eyes and heard it with my ears. Ask Zaid bin Thabit. They both narrated it on the authority of Sufyan bin Uyaynah. Al-Bukhari has: Ask Zaid bin Thabit. And others. A face on the authority of Al-Zuhri, and through a path on the authority of Hisham bin Urwah, both on the authority of Urwah, on his authority.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Ishaq bin Isa told us, Ismail bin Ayyash told us, on the authority of Yahya bin Saeed, on the authority of Urwah bin Al-Zubayr, on the authority of Abu Hamid, "that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The gifts of workers are misappropriation." This hadith is one of the individual hadiths of Ahmad, and its chain of transmission is weak, and it seems to be an abbreviation of the one before it, and God knows best.

Another hadith - Abu Isa Al-Tirmidhi said in the Book of Rulings: Abu Kurayb told us, Abu Usamah told us, on the authority of Dawud bin Yazid Al-Awdi, on the authority of Al-Mughirah bin Shibl, on the authority of Qais bin Abi Hazim, on the authority of Muadh bin Jabal, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent me to Yemen, and when I set out, he sent after me, but I returned. He said, 'Do you know why I sent to you? Do not take anything without my permission, for it is embezzlement.' And whoever embezzles will come with what he embezzled on the Day of Resurrection." This is why I have called you, so go on with your work." This is a good, strange hadith that we do not know except from this source. There are hadiths on this topic from Adi bin Umaira, Buraydah, Al-Mustawrid bin Shaddad, Abu Hamid, and Ibn Umar.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Ismail bin Aliyah told us, Abu Hayyan Yahya bin Saeed Al-Taymi told us, on the authority of Abu Zur'ah bin Umar bin Jarir, on the authority of Abu Hurairah, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, stood up among us one day and mentioned theft, and he magnified it and magnified its matter, then he said: 'I will not find one of you coming on the Day of Resurrection with a camel roaring on his neck, and he will say: O Messenger of God, help me,' and I will say: 'I have no power over God for you, I have conveyed the message to you.' I will not find one of you coming on the Day of Resurrection with a horse neighing on his neck, and he will say: O Messenger of God, help me,' and I will say: 'I have no power over God for you, I have conveyed the message to you.' I will not find one of you coming on the Day of Resurrection with a bandage on his neck that is strangling him, and he will say: O Messenger of God, help me,' and I will say: 'I have no power over God for you, I have conveyed the message to you.' I will not find one of you coming on the Day of Resurrection with a silent person on his neck, and he will say: O Messenger of God, help me,' and I will say: 'I have no power over God for you, I have conveyed the message to you.' You have something from God that I have conveyed to you." They narrated it from the hadith of Abu Hayyan.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Yahya bin Saeed told us on the authority of Ismail bin Abi Khalid, Qais told me on the authority of Adi bin Umairah Al-Kindi who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: O people, whoever among you does work for us and conceals from us a needle or more of it, it is a stipulation that he will bring on the Day of Resurrection. He said: A black man from the Ansar stood up - Mujalid said: He is Saeed bin Ubadah, it is as if I am looking at him - and said: O Messenger of God, accept your work from me. He said: What is that? He said: I heard you say: such and such. He said: And I am saying that now. Whoever we appoint to a job, let him come with it, little or much, and whatever he is given from it, he takes, and whatever he is forbidden from, he ends." And Muslim and Abu Dawud narrated it in the same way through various chains of transmission on the authority of Ismail bin Abi Khalid.

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Abu Muawiyah told us on the authority of Abu Ishaq Al-Fazari, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, Manbuth, a man from the family of Abu Rafi', told me on the authority of Al-Fadl bin Ubaidullah bin Abu Rafi', on the authority of Abu Rafi', who said: "When the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) prayed the afternoon prayer, he would sometimes go to Banu Abd Al-Ashhal and talk to them until sunset. Abu Rafi' said: "While the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) was hurrying to the sunset prayer, he passed by Al-Baqi' and said: 'Uff to you, uff to you' twice. He shouted at me and I held back and thought that he wanted me. He said: 'What is the matter with you? Walk.' I said: 'I have done something new, O Messenger of God.' He said: 'What is that?' I said: 'Uff to me.' He said: 'No, but this is the grave of so-and-so. I sent him to seek out the family of so-and-so, and he stole a tiger and now his armor is like it, made of fire.'"

Another hadith - Abdullah bin Imam Ahmad said: Abdullah bin Salem Al-Kufi, the paralytic, told us - and he was in Mecca - Ubaidah bin Al-Aswad told us, on the authority of Al-Qasim bin Al-Waleed, on the authority of Abu Sadiq, on the authority of Rabia bin Najed, on the authority of Ubadah bin Al-Samit, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, would take a hair from the side of the camel from the spoils of war and then say: I have nothing in it except what one of you has. Beware of embezzlement, for embezzlement is a disgrace for its perpetrator on the Day of Resurrection. Give back the thread and needle and what is above that, and strive in the cause of God near and far, at home and on the journey, for striving is one of the gates of Paradise, for God saves from worry and grief through it, and establish the limits of God in those near and far, and do not let the blame of a blamer deter you in God's cause." Ibn Majah narrated some of it on the authority of the paralytic.

Another hadith - On the authority of Amr bin Shuaib, on the authority of his father, on the authority of his grandfather, he said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Return the tailor and the needle, for embezzlement is a disgrace, a fire, and a shame upon its people on the Day of Resurrection."

Another hadith - Abu Dawud said: Uthman bin Abi Shaybah told us, Jarir told us, on the authority of Mutraf, on the authority of Abu al-Jahm, on the authority of Abu Mas'ud al-Ansari, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent me as a messenger, then he said: Go, Abu Mas'ud, lest I find you on the Day of Resurrection with a camel from the charity camels coming on your back, roaring, and you have tied it up." He said: Then I will not go. He said: Then I will not hate you. Abu Dawud is the only one to report it.

Another hadith - Abu Bakr bin Mardawayh said: Muhammad bin Ahmad bin Ibrahim informed us, Muhammad bin Uthman bin Abi Shaybah informed us, Abdul Hamid bin Saleh informed us, Ahmad bin Aban informed us on the authority of Alqamah bin Murthad, on the authority of Ibn Buraidah, on the authority of his father, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "A stone is thrown into Hell and it falls for seventy years without reaching its bottom, and the stolen goods are brought and thrown with them, then it is said to the one who stole them, 'Bring them.' This is what His statement means: 'And whoever steals will bring what he stole on the Day of Resurrection.'"

Another hadith - Imam Ahmad said: Hashim bin Al-Qasim told us, Ikrimah bin Ammar told us, Samak Al-Hanafi Abu Zamil told me, Abdullah bin Abbas told me, Umar bin Al-Khattab told me: When the day of Khaybar came, a group of the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, came and said: So-and-so is a martyr and so-and-so is a martyr, until they came to a man and said: So-and-so is a martyr. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: No, I saw him in the Fire in a cloak that he had stolen. Then the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "O son of Al-Khattab, go and announce to the al-Nas 114: 'None shall enter Paradise except the believers.' So I went out and announced: 'None shall enter Paradise except the believers.'" Muslim and Al-Tirmidhi narrated it in the same way from the hadith of Ikrimah bin Ammar. Al-Tirmidhi said: Hasan Sahih.

Another hadith - Ibn Jarir said: Saeed bin Yahya Al-Umawi told us, my father told us, Yahya bin Saeed told us on the authority of Nafi' on the authority of Ibn Umar that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, "sent Saad bin Ubadah as a tax collector, and he said: Beware, Saad, of coming on the Day of Resurrection with a camel that you are carrying and it is bellowing. He said: I will not take it nor will I come with it, so he excused him." Then he narrated it on the authority of Ubaidullah on the authority of Nafi' in a similar manner.

Surat Al Imran 3:164

God has certainly conferred a great favor upon the believers when He sent among them a Messenger from among themselves, reciting to them His verses and purifying them and teaching them the Book and wisdom - although they were before in manifest error.

Another hadith - Ahmad said: Abu Saeed told us, Abdul Aziz bin Muhammad told us, Saleh bin Muhammad bin Zaida told us, on the authority of Salim bin Abdullah, that he was with Muslimah bin Abdul Malik in the land of the Romans, and he found stolen goods in a man's belongings. He said: So he asked Salim bin Abdullah, and he said: My father Abdullah told me, on the authority of Umar bin Al-Khattab, may God be pleased with him, "that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: If you find stolen goods in someone's belongings, burn them - he said: And I think he said: And beat him. He said: So he took out his belongings in the market and found a Qur'an in them, so he asked Salim, and he said: Sell it and give its price in charity." And this is how Ali bin Al-Madini, Abu Dawud, and Al-Tirmidhi narrated it from the hadith of Abdul Aziz bin Muhammad Al-Atdarwardi. Abu Dawud and Abu Ishaq Al-Fazari added, both of them on the authority of Abu Waqid Al-Laiithi Al-Sagheer, Saleh bin Muhammad bin Zaida with it. Ali bin al-Madini, al-Bukhari and others said: This is a rejected hadith narrated by Abu Waqid. Al-Daraqutni said: The correct view is that it is only from the fatwa of Salim. Imam Ahmad ibn Hanbal, may God have mercy on him, and those of his companions who followed him held the view based on this hadith. Al-Umawi narrated it on the authority of Muawiyah, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Yunus ibn Ubayd, on the authority of al-Hasan, who said: The punishment for the transgressor is that his saddlebags are taken out and burned with what is in them. Then he narrated on the authority of Muawiyah, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Uthman ibn Ata', on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ali, who said: The transgressor's saddlebags are gathered together and burned and he is flogged without a prescribed punishment. Abu Hanifa, Malik, al-Shafi'i and the majority disagreed with him and said: The transgressor's belongings are not to be burned, but he is to be punished with a punishment similar to his. Al-Bukhari said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, refrained from praying over the transgressor, but his belongings were not burned." And God knows best.

Another hadith on the authority of Umar, may God be pleased with him - Ibn Jarir said: Ahmad ibn Abd al-Rahman ibn Wahb told me, Abdullah ibn Wahb told me, Amr ibn al-Harith told me that Musa ibn Jubayr told him: Abdullah ibn Abd al-Rahman ibn al-Habbab al-Ansari told him: Abdullah ibn Unais told him: He and Umar ibn al-Khattab were discussing charity one day, and he said: Didn't you hear the words of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, when he mentioned the embezzlement of charity: Whoever embezzles a camel or a sheep from it, he will carry it on the Day of Resurrection? Abdullah ibn Unais said: Yes. Ibn Majah narrated it on the authority of Amr ibn Sawad on the authority of Abdullah ibn Wahb on his authority. Al-Umawi narrated it on the authority of Muawiyah, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Yunus ibn Ubayd, on the authority of al-Hasan, who said: The punishment of the embezzler is that his saddle be taken out and burned with what is in it. Then he narrated on the authority of Muawiyah, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Uthman ibn Ata', on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ali, who said: The embezzler's saddle is gathered up and burned and he is flogged without a prescribed punishment.

Imam Ahmad said: Aswad bin Aamer told us, Israel told us, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Jubayr bin Malik, who said: The copies of the Qur'an were ordered to be changed. He said: Ibn Masoud said: Whoever among you can steal a copy of the Qur'an, let him steal it, for whoever steals something will bring it on the Day of Resurrection. Then he said: I recited from the mouth of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, seventy surahs. Should I abandon what I took from the mouth of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace? And Wakee' narrated in his interpretation on the authority of Sharik, on the authority of Ibrahim bin Muhajir, on the authority of Ibrahim, who said: When the copies of the Qur'an were ordered to be burned, Abdullah bin Masoud, may God be pleased with him, said: O people, steal the copies of the Qur'an, for whoever steals it will bring what he stole on the Day of Resurrection. And what a good stealing copy of the Qur'an one of you will bring on the Day of Resurrection. Abu Dawud said, on the authority of Samurah bin Jundub, who said: When the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, captured a booty, he would command Bilal to call out to the people, and they would bring their spoils, and he would take a fifth of it and divide it. Then a man came one day after The call was made with a bridle of hair. He said: O Messenger of God, this was from what we obtained from the spoils. He said: Did you hear Bilal calling three times? He said: Yes. He said: What prevented you from coming? So he apologized to him. He said: No, you will come with it on the Day of Resurrection and I will not accept it from you.

And the Almighty said: Is he who pursues the pleasure of God like he who incurs the wrath of God and whose refuge is Hell, and an evil destination? That is, he who pursues the pleasure of God in what He has prescribed and thus deserves the pleasure of God and His abundant reward, and is protected from His severe punishment, is not equal to he who deserves the wrath of God and is bound by it, and there is no escape for him from it, and his refuge on the Day of Resurrection is Hell, and an evil destination. This verse has many parallels in the Qur'an, such as the Almighty's saying:

Is he who knows that what has been revealed to you from your Lord is the truth like he who is blind? and His saying: Is he to whom We have promised a good promise and he will attain it like he to whom We have given enjoyment of the enjoyment of worldly life? Then God the Almighty said: They are of degrees with God. Al-Hasan Al-Basri and Muhammad bin Ishaq said: meaning the people of good and the people of evil have degrees. Abu Ubaidah and Al-Kisa'i said: Stations, meaning they differ in their stations and degrees in Paradise and their levels in Hell, like the Almighty's saying: And for all are degrees according to what they have done verse. That is why the Almighty said: And God is Seeing of what they do verse, meaning He will give them what they deserve. He will not wrong them with good nor increase their evil, rather He will reward each worker according to his work. The Almighty said: God has certainly conferred a great favor upon the believers when He sent among them a Messenger from among themselves verse, meaning from their own kind so that they could address him, ask him, sit with him, and benefit from him, as the Almighty said: And among His signs is that He created for you from among yourselves mates that you may find tranquility in them verse, meaning from your own kind. The Almighty said: "Say, 'I am only a man like you. It has been revealed to me that your God is one God'" verse. God the Almighty said: And We did not send before you any messengers except that they ate food and walked in the markets. God the Almighty said: And We did not send before you any except men to whom We revealed from the people of the towns. God the Almighty said: O company of jinn and mankind, did there not come to you messengers from among you? This is more eloquent in gratitude that the messenger to them should be from among them, such that they can address him and consult him in understanding the speech on his behalf. For this reason God the Almighty said: He recites to them His verses meaning the Qur'an and purifies them meaning he commands them to do good and forbids them from evil so that their souls may be purified and cleansed from the filth and evil that they were immersed in during their state of polytheism and ignorance, and teaches them the Book and wisdom meaning the Qur'an and the Sunnah, although they were before meaning before this Messenger in manifest error meaning in clear error and ignorance that is evident to everyone.

Fath al-Qadir

His saying 164- God has bestowed His favor upon the believers is the answer to an omitted oath, and He singled out the believers because they are the ones who benefit from His mission. The meaning of from themselves is that he is an Arab like them, and it was said: a human being like them, and the aspect of the favor on the first is that they understand him and comprehend his speech and do not need an interpreter, and its meaning on the second is that they are familiar with him due to the common humanity, and if he was a king, they would not have achieved complete familiarity with him due to the difference in nationality, and from themselves was read with the opening of the fa: meaning from the most noble of them because he is from Banu Hashim, and Banu

Hashim are the best of Quraysh, and Quraysh are the best of the Arabs, and the Arabs are better than others, and perhaps the aspect of the favor on this reading is that since he was from the most noble of them, they were more obedient to him and closer to believing him, and it is necessary to specify the believers in this verse to the Arabs on the first aspect, but as for the second aspect, there is no need for this specification, and likewise on the reading of the one who reads with the opening of the fa, there is no need for the specification, because Banu Hashim are the most noble of the Arabs and the non-Arabs in the nobility of origin, the generosity of the carpenter, and the high status of the offspring. The first aspect is indicated by the Almighty's saying: It is He who has sent among the unlettered a Messenger from among themselves and His saying: And indeed, it is a reminder for you and your people. His saying, He recites to them His verses, this is a second favor, meaning: He recites to them the Qur'an after they were people of ignorance who did not know anything about the laws. And purifies them, meaning: He cleanses them from the impurity of disbelief. This sentence is conjoined with the first sentence, and they are in the accusative case as a state, or as an attribute of the Messenger. Likewise, His saying, And teaches them the Book, and what is meant by the Book here is the Qur'an. And wisdom: the Sunnah. The explanation of that has already been presented in Al-Baqarah. And if they were before, meaning: before Muhammad, or before his mission, in manifest error, meaning: clear, without doubt. The lam is to differentiate between the lightened in from the heavy in, and the negative, so it enters into the predicate of the lightened in, not the negative, and its name is the pronoun of the matter, meaning: and the matter and the hadith. It was said: it is the negative, and the lam means except, meaning: and they were not before except in manifest error, and the Kufians said this, and the sentence, in both cases, is in the accusative case as a state.

Abd bin Hamid, Ibn Jarir, Ibn Al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Mujahid regarding the verse: And they said to their brothers when they traveled throughout the land Al-Baqarah 2:13, he said: This is the statement of Abdullah bin Abi Salul and the hypocrites. Ibn Jarir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated something similar on the authority of Al-Suddi. Abd bin Hamid, Ibn Jarir, Ibn Al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Mujahid regarding the verse: That God may make that a regret within their hearts he said: Their statement saddens them but does not benefit them at all. They narrated on the authority of Qatada regarding the verse: Then by mercy from God he said: By mercy from God you were lenient with them. Ibn Jarir and Ibn Al-Mundhir narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas regarding the verse: They would have dispersed from around you he said: They would have turned away from you. Ibn Adi and Al-Bayhaqi narrated in Al-Sha'b, Al-Suyuti said with a good chain of transmission on the authority of Ibn Abbas: He said, when the verse, And consult them in the matter, was revealed, the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said, "Indeed, God and His Messenger have no need of it, but God has made it a mercy for my nation. So whoever consults them will not be considered rightly guided, and whoever abandons it will not be without error."

Surat Al Imran 3:164

God has certainly conferred a great favor upon the believers when He sent among them a Messenger from among themselves, reciting to them His verses and purifying them and teaching them the Book and wisdom - although they were before in manifest error.

Al-Hakim narrated, and authenticated it, Al-Bayhaqi in his Sunan, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, And consult them in the matter. He said: Abu Bakr and Umar. Ibn Mardawayh narrated on the authority of Ali, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was asked about determination, and he said: Consulting people of opinion and then following them." Abd bin Hamid, Abu Dawud, Al-Tirmidhi, who authenticated it, Ibn Jarir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: This verse, And it is not for a prophet to take spoils, was revealed regarding a red quilt that was lost on the day of Badr, so some people said: Perhaps the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, took it, so it was revealed. Al-Bazzar, Ibn Abi Hatim, and Al-Tabarani narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas, And it is not for a prophet to take spoils of war, meaning: it is not for a prophet to be accused by his companions. Many hadiths have been narrated on the prohibition of spoils of war. Ibn Jarir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Al-Awfi on the authority of Ibn Abbas, They have degrees with God, meaning: according to their deeds. Ibn Al-Mundhir, Ibn Abi Hatim, and Al-Bayhaqi narrated in Shu'ab Al-Iman on the authority of Aisha regarding his statement, God has conferred a great favor upon the believers, the verse, she said: This is specific to the Arabs.

themselves" from their lineage, or from their race, an Arab like them, so that they would understand his words easily and be aware of his state of truthfulness and honesty, proud of him. It was read from "theirselves", meaning from the most noble of them, because he, may God bless him and grant him peace, was from the most noble of the tribes and clans of the Arabs. "Recites to them His verses" meaning the Qur'an after they were ignorant and had not heard the revelation. "And purifies them" purifies them from the filth of character and bad beliefs and deeds. "And teaches them the Book and wisdom" meaning the Qur'an and the Sunnah. And they were before in clear error. "In" is the lightened form of the heavy one, and lam is the distinguishing factor. The meaning is that they were before the mission of the Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, in clear error.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

164- God has conferred a great favor upon the believers when He sent among them a Messenger from among themselves. It was said that he meant the Arabs because there is no tribe among the Arabs who does not have a lineage among them except Banu Tha'laba. The evidence for this is the Almighty's statement: It is He who has sent among the unlettered a Messenger from among themselves. Others said: He meant all the believers. The meaning of the Almighty's statement: from among themselves is: by faith and compassion, not by lineage. The evidence for this is the Almighty's statement: There has certainly come to you a Messenger from among yourselves, "reciting to them His verses and purifying them and teaching them the Book and wisdom, although they were, and they were, before, meaning before his sending, in manifest error.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

164 God has conferred a great favor upon the believers" He bestowed a great favor upon those who believed with the Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, from his people, and He singled them out, although the blessing of the mission was general, in order to increase their benefit from it. "God has conferred a great favor" was read as the predicate of a deleted subject, such as from him or he sent him. "When He sent among them a Messenger from among

Surat Al Imran 3:165

Or when a disaster befell you, although you had inflicted twice as much, you said, From where is this? Say, It is from yourselves. Indeed, God is over all things competent.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

Or when a disaster befell you at Uhud, killing seventy of you and you had inflicted twice as much at Badr, killing seventy and taking seventy of them captive you said in astonishment how from where did we get this abandonment while we are Muslims and the Messenger of God is among us, the last sentence is the subject of the rhetorical question say to them it is from yourselves because you abandoned the center and were abandoned indeed God is over all things competent and from Him is victory and its prevention and He has rewarded you for your dissent

Tafsir al-Suyuti

The Almighty said: Or when a disaster befell you, the verse. Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Omar Ibn Al-Khattab, who said: They were punished on the day of Uhud for what they did on the day of Badr, when they took ransoms, so seventy of them were killed, and the companions of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, fled, and his front tooth was broken, and the shell was smashed on his head, and blood ran down his face, so God revealed: Or when a disaster befell you, the verse.

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: God Almighty means by that: When a calamity befell you, O believers, - namely, the dead who were killed among them on the day of Uhud, and the wounded who were wounded among them at Uhud - and the polytheists killed seventy of them that day - you have suffered twice as much, meaning: You, O believers, have suffered from the polytheists twice as much as this calamity that they have suffered from you, and it is the calamity that the Muslims suffered from the polytheists at Badr, and that is that they killed seventy of them and took seventy captive, you said, 'How is this?' meaning: you said when your calamity befell you at Uhud, How is this?, from what aspect is this? And from where did this that befell us befall us, and we are Muslims and they are polytheists, and among us is the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, to whom revelation comes from the heaven, and our enemies are people of disbelief in God and polytheism? Say, O Muhammad, to your believing companions, It is from yourselves, meaning: Say to them: What has befallen you has come upon you from yourselves, because you disobeyed My command and abandoned My obedience, not from anyone else, nor from anyone other than you. Indeed, God is over all things competent, meaning: God is over all that He wills for His creation of forgiveness and punishment, favor and vengeance. Powerful, meaning: He has power.

Then the people of interpretation differed in the interpretation of His statement: "Say: It is from yourselves," after all of them agreed that the interpretation of the rest of the verse is based on what we said about that interpretation. Some of them said: The interpretation of that is: "Say: It is from yourselves," unlike you with the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, when he advised you to stop going out to your enemy and to go out to them in the morning until they enter your city and are among your roofs, but you refused that and said: Let us go out to them so that we can go out to them in the morning and fight them outside the city.

Who said that?

Bishr told us, Yazid told us, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: Or when a disaster befell you, although you had inflicted twice as much, you said, 'From where is this?' They were afflicted on the Day of Uhud, seventy of them were killed that day, and they inflicted twice as much on the Day of Badr, they killed seventy of the polytheists and captured seventy. You said, 'From where is this? Say, 'It is from yourselves.' It was mentioned to us that the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to his companions on the Day of Uhud, when Abu Sufyan and the polytheists came, "Then the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to his companions: 'I am in a fortified garden,' meaning Medina, so invite the people to enter upon us so that we may fight them. Some of his companions from the Ansar said to him: 'O Prophet of God, we hate to be killed in the vicinity of Medina, and we used to refrain from fighting during the Jahiliyyah, so with Islam it is more appropriate for us to refrain from it!' So bring us out to the people. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, set out and dressed for his nation, and the people blamed each other and said: 'The Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, has presented a matter and you have presented it.'" Hamza came and said to him: O Prophet of God, the people have blamed each other and said: A command, not your command. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: It is not for a prophet who wears it for his nation to put it down until he fights, and there will be a calamity among you. They said: O Prophet of God, specific or general? He said: You will see it. It was mentioned to us that the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, saw in a dream that cows were being slaughtered, and he interpreted it as killing among his companions. He saw that his sword, Dhu al-Ghifar, was broken, and it was the killing of his uncle Hamza, who was killed that day, and he was called: The Lion of God. He saw that a ram was cut, and he interpreted it as the ram of the battalion, Uthman ibn Abi Talha, who was killed that day, and he was with the banner of the polytheists.

It was narrated on the authority of Ammar, on the authority of Ibn Abi Ja'far, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ar-Rabi', similarly, except that he said: You have inflicted twice as much, meaning: As much as you have inflicted. "You said, 'From where is this? Say, 'It is from yourselves,'" meaning: Because of your disobedience. Al-Hasan ibn Yahya narrated to us, saying: 'Abd al-Razzaq informed us, saying: Mu'mar informed us, on the authority of Qatada, who said: The Muslims were afflicted with a calamity on the Day of Uhud, and they had inflicted twice as much on the Day of Badr, among those killed and taken prisoner. Then God, the Almighty, said: Or when a disaster befell you, you inflicted twice as much.

Or when a disaster befell you, although you had inflicted twice as much, you said, "From where is this?" Say, "It is from yourselves." Indeed, God is over all things competent.

Al-Qasim told us, Al-Husayn told us, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, on the authority of Umar ibn Ata', on the authority of Ikrimah, who said: The Muslims killed seventy polytheists on the day of Badr and took seventy captive, and the polytheists killed seventy Muslims on the day of Uhud. This is what His statement, "You have inflicted double that. You said, 'From where is this?'" is because we are Muslims, fighting all together for the sake of God, and these are polytheists. Say, 'It is from yourselves.' This is a punishment for you for disobeying the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, when he said, What?

Al-Qasim told us, Al-Husayn told us, Hajjaj told us, on the authority of Mubarak, on the authority of Al-Hasan: Or when a disaster befell you, although you had inflicted twice as much, you said, 'From where is this?' Say, 'It is from yourselves.' They said: This only befell us when we accepted ransom on the day of Badr from the prisoners, and we disobeyed the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, on the day of Uhud. So whoever among us was killed was a martyr, and whoever among us remained was purified. We are pleased with our Lord!

Al-Qasim told us, he said, Al-Hussein told us, he said, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Mubarak, on the authority of Al-Hasan and Ibn Jurayj, they said: Their disobedience was that he said to them: Do not follow them, on the day of Uhud, so they followed them.

Muhammad told us, Ahmad told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of al-Suddi: Then he mentioned what was afflicted among the believers - meaning at Uhud - and seventy people were killed - Or when a disaster struck you, although you had inflicted twice as much, they were on the day of Badr, they had taken seventy men prisoner and killed seventy, You said, 'From where is this?' meaning: From where is this? Say, 'It is from yourselves,' that you disobeyed.

Muhammad bin Saad told me, he said, my father told me, he said, my uncle told me, he said, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding his statement: Or when a disaster struck you, you had inflicted double thereof, meaning: You inflicted on the polytheists on the day of Badr twice as much as they inflicted on you on the day of Uhud.

Ibn Humayd narrated to us, he said, Salamah narrated to us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: Then he mentioned the calamity that befell them and said: Or when a disaster befell you, although you had inflicted twice as much, you said, 'From where is this?' Say, 'It is from yourselves.' That is, if a disaster befell you among your brothers, then because of your sins, you had inflicted twice as much before from your enemy, on the day before it at Badr, in dead and captured, and you forgot your disobedience and your opposition to what your Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, had commanded you to do. You made that permissible for yourselves, Indeed, God is over all things competent. That is, God is capable of everything He intends for His servants, whether punishment or forgiveness.

It was narrated on the authority of Al-Husayn, who said: I heard Abu Muadh say: Ubayd told us, who said: I heard Al-Dahhak say regarding His statement: Or when a disaster struck you, you had inflicted double thereof, the verse, meaning by that: That you inflicted on the polytheists on the day of Badr twice as much as they inflicted on you on the day of Uhud.

Some of them said: Rather, the interpretation of that is: Say, it is from yourselves, by your taking the polytheists captive on the day of Badr, taking ransom from them, and leaving them to be killed.

Who said that?

Abu Kurayb narrated that Ibn Fadil narrated on the authority of Ash'ath ibn Suwar on the authority of Ibn Sirin on the authority of Ubaydah who said: The Muslims took seventy polytheists prisoner and killed seventy. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Choose between taking ransom from them and strengthening yourself against your enemy, or if you accept it, seventy of you will be killed, or you will kill them. They said: Rather, we will take ransom from them and kill seventy of us. He said: So they took ransom from them and killed seventy of them. Ubaydah said: They sought both options.

Yaqub ibn Ibrahim told me, he said, Ibn Ulayyah told us, he said, Ibn Awn told us, on the authority of Ibn Sirin, on the authority of Ubaydah: that he said regarding the prisoners of Badr: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: If you wish, you may kill them, and if you wish, you may ransom them and some of you may be martyred according to their number. They said: Rather, we will take the ransom and enjoy it, and some of us may be martyred according to their number.

Al-Qasim narrated, Al-Husayn narrated, Ismail narrated, on the authority of Ibn Awn, on the authority of Muhammad, on the authority of Ubaydah Al-Salmani, and Hajjaj narrated, on the authority of Jarir, on the authority of Muhammad, on the authority of Ubaydah Al-Salmani, on the authority of Ali, who said: Gabriel came to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said to him: O Muhammad, God has disliked what your people have done in taking prisoners, and He has commanded you to give them a choice between two things: that they come forward and have their necks struck, or that they take ransom on the condition that a number of them be killed. He said: So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, called the people and mentioned that to them, and they said: O Messenger of God, our tribes are our traitors!! Rather, we will take their ransom and thus gain strength to fight our enemy, and a number of us will be martyred, and there is nothing in that that we dislike! He said: So seventy men were killed from them on the Day of Uhud, the number of the prisoners of Badr.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

The alif is for interrogation, and the waw is for conjunction. A calamity means defeat. You have suffered double its [loss] on the day of Badr, by killing seventy of them and taking seventy captive. A captive is considered to be killed, because a captor can kill his captive if he wishes. So you defeated them on the day of Badr and also on the day of Uhud, in the beginning, and you killed close to twenty of them. You killed them in two days, and they took revenge on you on the day of Uhud. You said, 'How is this?' That is, from where did this defeat and killing come to us, while we are fighting in the way of God, and we are Muslims, and among us is the Prophet and the revelation, and they are polytheists! "Say: It is from yourselves" meaning opposing the archers. No people obeyed their Prophet in war except that they were victorious, because if they obeyed, they are the party of God, and the party of God is the victorious. Qatada and Ar-Rabi' bin Anas said: It means that they asked the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, to leave after he wanted to stay in Medina, and he interpreted it, in the vision he saw as a strong shield, Ali bin Abi Talib, may God be pleased with him, as their choice of ransom on the day of Badr over killing. It was said to them: If you ransom the prisoners, some of you will be killed according to their number. Al-Bayhaqi narrated: On the authority of Ali bin Abi Talib, may God be pleased with him, he said: "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said about the prisoners on the day of Badr: If you wish, you can kill them, and if you wish, you can ransom them and enjoy the ransom, and some of you will be martyred according to their number." So the last of the seventy was Thabit bin Qais, who was killed on the day of Yamamah. So the meaning of from yourselves according to the first two opinions is your sins, and according to the last opinion, it is your choice.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

God the Almighty says: Or when a disaster befell you which is what befell them on the day of Uhud, killing seventy of them, you inflicted twice as much meaning on the day of Badr, for they killed seventy of the polytheists and took seventy prisoners, you said, 'From where did this come to us?' Say, 'It is from yourselves.' Ibn Abi Hatim said: My father told us, Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shaybah told us, Qurad Abu Nuh told us, Ikrimah ibn Ammar told us, Samak al-Hanafi Abu Zamil told us, Ibn Abbas told me, Umar ibn al-Khattab told me, he said: When the day of Uhud came the following year, they were punished for what they did on the day of Badr, taking ransom, so seventy of them were killed, and the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, fled from him, and his front tooth was broken, and the shell was smashed on his head, and blood flowed down his face, so God revealed: Or when a disaster befell you, having inflicted twice as much, you said, 'From where did this come to us?' Say, 'It is from yourselves.' From yourselves, by taking the ransom. And thus Imam Ahmad narrated it on the authority of Abd al-Rahman ibn Ghazwan, who is Qurad Abu Nuh, with his chain of transmission but with a longer one. And thus al-Hasan al-Basri said, and Ibn Jarir said: Al-Qasim told us, Al-Husayn told us, Ismail ibn Ulayyah told us on the authority of Ibn Awn on the authority of Muhammad on the authority of Ubayd, H, Sanid said, who is Husayn: And Hajjaj told me on the authority of Jarir, on the authority of Muhammad on the authority of Ubaydah, on the authority of Ali, may God be pleased with him, who said: Gabriel came to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: "O Muhammad, God has disliked what your people have done in taking prisoners, and He has commanded you to give them a choice between two things: either they come forward and their necks are struck, or they take ransom on the condition that a number of them are killed." He said: So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, called the people and mentioned that to them, and they said: O Messenger of God, our tribes and our brothers, should we not take their ransom so that we may be strengthened to fight our enemy, and a number of them are martyred from among us? There is nothing in that that we dislike? He said: So seventy men were killed from them on the day of Uhud, a number of The prisoners of Badr," and thus it was narrated by al-Nasa'i and al-Tirmidhi from the hadith of Abu Dawud al-Hafri, on the authority of Yahya ibn Zakariya ibn Abi Zaydah, on the authority of Sufyan ibn Sa'id, on the authority of Hisham ibn Hassan, on the authority of Muhammad ibn Sirin, with it. Then al-Tirmidhi said: Hasan Gharib, we do not know it except from the hadith of Ibn Abi Zaydah, and Abu Usamah narrated something similar from Hisham, and it was narrated from Ibn Sirin, on the authority of Ubaydah, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, as a mursal. Muhammad ibn Ishaq, Ibn Jurayj, Ar-Rabi' ibn Anas and As-Suddi said: "Say: It is from yourselves" meaning because of your disobedience to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, when he ordered you not to move from your place, but you disobeyed, meaning the archers. Indeed, God has power over all things meaning He does what He wills and rules as He wills, there is no one to question His rule. Then God the Almighty said: And whatever befell you on the day the two armies met was by God's permission meaning your flight before your enemy and their killing of a group of you and their wounding of others, it was by God's decree and destiny, and He has wisdom in that. And that He may make evident the believers meaning those who were patient and steadfast and did not falter. "And that He may make evident those who were hypocrites and were told, 'Come, fight in the cause of God or defend yourselves.'" They said, 'If we had known there would be fighting, we would have followed you.'" Meaning the companions of Abdullah ibn Ubayy ibn Salul who returned with him in the middle of the road, and some men from the believers followed them, urging them to return, fight and help. That is why He said, Or defend yourselves. Ibn Abbas, Ikrimah, Sa'id ibn Jubayr and Ad-Dahhak said: Abu Salih, Al-Hasan and Al-Suddi said: They meant to increase the number of Muslims.

Or when a disaster befell you, although you had inflicted twice as much, you said, "From where is this?" Say, "It is from yourselves." Indeed, God is over all things competent.

Al-Hasan bin Salih said: They defended with supplication. Another said: They stayed, and they made excuses saying: If we knew that there would be fighting, we would have followed you. Mujahid said: They meant if we knew that you would encounter war, we would have come to you, but you will not encounter fighting. Muhammad bin Ishaq said: Muhammad bin Muslim bin Shihab Al-Zuhri, Muhammad bin Yahya bin Habban, Asim bin Omar bin Qatada, Al-Hussain bin Abdul Rahman bin Amr bin Saad bin Muadh, and others from our scholars told me, all of them have narrated, he said: The Messenger of God, peace and blessings be upon him, came out to us, meaning when he went out to Uhud with a thousand men from his companions, until he was in the middle of the road between Uhud and Medina, Abdullah bin Ubayy bin Salul with a third of the people withdrew from him and said: He obeyed them, so he went out and disobeyed me. By God, we do not know why we are killing ourselves here, O people? So he returned with those who followed him from his people, the hypocrites and the doubters. Abdullah bin Amr bin Haram, the brother of Banu Salamah, followed them, saying: O people, I remind you by God not to abandon your Prophet and your people when your enemy comes. They said: If we knew that you would fight, we would not have surrendered to you, but we do not see that there should be fighting. So when they resisted him and refused to do anything but leave them, he said: May God distance you, enemies of God, for God will suffice you. And the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, went on. God the Almighty said: They will be nearer to disbelief, that Day, than to faith. They used this as evidence that a person's circumstances may change, so that he may be in a state closer to disbelief, and in a state closer to faith, because of His saying: They will be nearer to disbelief, that Day, than to faith. Then God the Almighty said: They say with their mouths what is not in their hearts meaning that they say the statement without believing it to be true, and from this is their saying: If we had known there would be fighting, we would have followed you because they realized that an army of polytheists had come from a distant country burning with desire for the Muslims because of what happened to their leaders on the day of Badr. And they are many times the number of Muslims, so fighting will inevitably occur between them. For this reason God the Almighty said: And God knows best what they conceal Then God the Almighty said: Those who said to their brothers and sat [at home], 'If they had obeyed us, they would not have been killed' meaning if they had listened to our advice to sit [at home] and not go out, they would not have been killed with those who were killed. God the Almighty said: Say, 'Then avert death from yourselves, if you should be truthful' meaning if sitting saves a person from being killed and dying, then you should not die, and death will inevitably come to you even if you were in fortified towers, so avert death from yourselves if you are truthful. Mujahid said on the authority of Jabir ibn Abdullah: This verse was revealed about Abdullah ibn Ubayy ibn Salul.

Fath al-Qadir

His saying 165- Or when a disaster befell you The alif is for interrogation with the intention of rebuking, and the waw is for conjunction. The disaster is the defeat and killing that befell them on the day of Uhud. You have suffered twice as much on the day of Badr, and that is because those killed from the Muslims on the day of Uhud were seventy. And they had killed seventy from the polytheists on the day of Badr and taken seventy prisoners, so the total of those killed and taken prisoner on the day of Badr was twice as many as those killed from the Muslims on the day of Uhud. The meaning is: I like what befell you from the polytheists to be half of what befell them from you before that, so you became alarmed and said, From where did this befall us? And we were promised victory. And his saying From where did this befall us? means from where did this defeat and killing befall us while we were fighting in the way of God, and with us was the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and God had promised us victory over them. His saying, Say, 'It is from yourselves,' is an order to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, to answer their question with this answer: That is, what you asked about is from yourselves because the archers disobeyed what the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, ordered them to do, which was to remain in the place he had designated for them, and not to leave it under any circumstances. It was said that what was meant by his saying, It is from yourselves, was their leaving Medina. This is refuted by the fact that the promise of victory only came after that, and it was said that it was their choice of ransom on the day of Badr over killing.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

165- Or when i.e. when a calamity befell you, at Uhud, you had suffered twice as much, at Badr, and that was because the polytheists killed seventy Muslims on the day of Uhud and the Muslims killed seventy of them at Badr and took seventy captive, you said, 'How is this?' Where did we get this killing and defeat when we are Muslims and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, is among us? Say, it is from yourselves. Ubaydah al-Salmāni narrated on the authority of Ali, may God be pleased with him, who said: Gabriel came to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: God has disliked what your people did in taking ransom from the captives, and He has commanded you to give them the choice between coming forward and having their necks struck, or taking ransom on condition that a number of them be killed. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, mentioned that to the people, and they said: O Messenger of God, our tribes and brothers, rather we will take their ransom so that we will be able to fight our enemy and a number of us will be martyred [so seventy of them were killed on the day of Uhud]. The prisoners of Badr, this is the meaning of the Almighty's saying: "Say: It is from yourselves," meaning: by your taking the ransom and choosing to be killed, Indeed, God is over all things competent.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

165 Or when a disaster struck you, although you had suffered twice as much, you said, 'How is this?' The hamza is for rebuke and confirmation, and the waw is a conjunction for the sentence on what came before in the story of Uhud or on something omitted, such as you did such and such and you said, and when is its adverb added to what struck you, meaning you said when a disaster struck you, which was the killing of seventy of you on the day of Uhud, and the situation is that you received double on the day of Badr from the killing of seventy and the capture of seventy. How did this strike us when God promised us victory? "Say, 'It is from yourselves.' " That is, from what yourselves committed of disobeying the order by abandoning the position, for the promise was conditional upon steadfastness and obedience, or choosing to leave the city. And from Ali, may God be pleased with him, regarding your choosing the ransom on the day of Badr. Indeed, God is over all things competent. He is able to give victory and prevent it, and to strike you and strike from you.

Surat Al Imran 3:166

And whatever befell you on the day the two armies met was by permission of God and that He might make evident the believers.

Surat Al Imran 3:166

And whatever befell you on the day the two armies met was by permission of God and that He might make evident the believers.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And what befell you on the day the two armies met at Uhud was by permission of God by His will and that He might make evident God with knowledge of the emergence of the believers truly.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: God Almighty means by that: What befell you on the day the two armies met, which is the day of Uhud, when the Muslims and the polytheists met. He means by what befell them, what was killed from those who were killed, and what was wounded from those who were wounded, was by the permission of God, he says: So it was by the permission of God, meaning: by His judgment and decree for you. And he answered what with the letter fa, because what is a particle of recompense, and I have explained something similar to that previously. And that He may know the believers. And that He may know those who were hypocrites, meaning: And that God may know the believers, and that He may know those who were hypocrites, what befell you on the day the two armies met at Uhud befalls you, so that the people of faith in God and His Messenger may distinguish the believers among you from the hypocrites and recognize them, and the matter of the two groups will not be hidden from them.

We have explained the interpretation of his saying: And that He may know the believers previously, and the reason for that, which makes it unnecessary to repeat it in this place.

Ibn Ishaq said something similar to what we said about that.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: And whatever befell you on the day the two armies met was by permission of God, and that He might make evident the believers, meaning: Whatever befell you when you and your enemy met was by My permission, and that was when you did what you did, after My victory had come to you, and I had fulfilled My promise to you, to distinguish between the hypocrites and the believers, and to make evident those among you who were hypocrites, so that they might reveal what was in them.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

It means the day of Uhud, of killing, wounding and defeat. Then by the permission of God means by His knowledge. It was also said: by His decree and destiny. Al-Qaffal said: That is, by His leaving you alone with them, not that he intended that. This is the interpretation of the Mu'tazila. The letter fa was included in Then by the permission of God because ma means who, meaning that which befell you on the day the two armies met was by the permission of God. So the statement resembles the meaning of a condition, as Sibawayh said: The one who stood up will have a dirham. "And that He may teach the believers."

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

God the Almighty says: Or when a disaster befell you which is what befell them on the day of Uhud, killing seventy of them, you inflicted twice as much meaning on the day of Badr, for they killed seventy of the polytheists and took seventy prisoners, you said, 'From where did this come to us?' Say, 'It is from yourselves.' Ibn Abi Hatim said: My father told us, Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shaybah told us, Qurad Abu Nuh told us, Ikrimah ibn Ammar told us, Samak al-Hanafi Abu Zamil told us, Ibn Abbas told me, Umar ibn al-Khattab told me, he said: When the day of Uhud came the following year, they were punished for what they did on the day of Badr, taking ransom, so seventy of them were killed, and the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, fled from him, and his front tooth was broken, and the shell was smashed on his head, and blood flowed down his face, so God revealed: Or when a disaster befell you, having inflicted twice as much, you said, 'From where did this come to us?' Say, 'It is from yourselves.' From yourselves, by taking the ransom. And thus Imam Ahmad narrated it on the authority of Abd al-Rahman ibn Ghazwan, who is Qurad Abu Nuh, with his chain of transmission but with a longer one. And thus al-Hasan al-Basri said, and Ibn Jarir said: Al-Qasim told us, Al-Husayn told us, Ismail ibn Ulayyah told us on the authority of Ibn Awn on the authority of Muhammad on the authority of Ubayd, H, Sanid said, who is Husayn: And Hajjaj told me on the authority of Jarir, on the authority of Muhammad on the authority of Ubaydah, on the authority of Ali, may God be pleased with him, who said: Gabriel came to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: "O Muhammad, God has disliked what your people have done in taking prisoners, and He has commanded you to give them a choice between two things: either they come forward and their necks are struck, or they take ransom on the condition that a number of them are killed." He said: So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, called the people and mentioned that to them, and they said: O Messenger of God, our tribes and our brothers, should we not take their ransom so that we may be strengthened to fight our enemy, and a number of them are martyred from among us? There is nothing in that that we dislike? He said: So seventy men were killed from them on the day of Uhud, a number of The prisoners of Badr," and thus it was narrated by al-Nasa'i and al-Tirmidhi from the hadith of Abu Dawud al-Hafri, on the authority of Yahya ibn Zakariya ibn Abi Zaydah, on the authority of Sufyan ibn Sa'id, on the authority of Hisham ibn Hassan, on the authority of Muhammad ibn Sirin, with it. Then al-Tirmidhi said: Hasan Gharib, we do not know it except from the hadith of Ibn Abi Zaydah, and Abu Usamah narrated something similar from Hisham, and it was narrated from Ibn Sirin, on the authority of Ubaydah, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, as a mursal. Muhammad ibn Ishaq, Ibn Jurayj, Ar-Rabi' ibn Anas and As-Suddi said: "Say: It is from yourselves" meaning because of your disobedience to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, when he ordered you not to move from your place, but you disobeyed, meaning the archers. Indeed, God has power over all things meaning He does what He wills and rules as He wills, there is no one to question His rule. Then God the Almighty said: And whatever befell you on the day the two armies met was by God's permission meaning your flight before your enemy and their killing of a group of you and their wounding of others, it was by God's decree and destiny, and He has wisdom in that. And that He may make evident the believers meaning those who were patient and steadfast and did not falter. "And that He may make evident those who were hypocrites and were told, 'Come, fight in the cause of God or defend yourselves.' They said, 'If we had known there would be fighting, we would have followed you.'" Meaning the companions of Abdullah ibn Ubayy ibn Salul who returned with him in the middle of the road, and some men from the believers followed them, urging them to return, fight and help. That is why He said, Or defend yourselves. Ibn Abbas, Ikrimah, Sa'id ibn Jubayr and Ad-Dahhak said: Abu Salih, Al-Hasan and Al-Suddi said: They meant to increase the number of Muslims. Al-Hasan bin Salih said: They defended with supplication. Another said: They stayed, and they made excuses saying: If we knew that there would be fighting, we would have followed you. Mujahid said: They meant if we knew that you would encounter war, we would have come to you, but you will not encounter fighting. Muhammad bin Ishaq said: Muhammad bin Muslim bin Shihab Al-Zuhri, Muhammad bin Yahya bin Habban, Asim bin Omar bin Qatada, Al-Hussain bin Abdul Rahman bin Amr bin Saad bin Muadh, and others from our scholars told me, all of them have narrated, he said: The Messenger of God, peace and blessings be upon him, came out to us, meaning when he went out to Uhud with a thousand men from his companions, until he was in the middle of the road between Uhud and Medina, Abdullah bin Ubayy bin Salul with a third of the people withdrew from him and said: He obeyed them, so he went out and disobeyed me. By God, we do not know why we are killing ourselves here, O people? So he returned with those who followed him from his people, the hypocrites and the doubters. Abdullah bin Amr bin Haram, the brother of Banu Salamah, followed them, saying: O people, I remind you by God not to abandon your Prophet and your people when your enemy comes. They said: If we knew that you would fight, we would not have surrendered to you, but we do not see that there should be fighting. So when they resisted him and refused to do anything but leave them, he said: May God distance you, enemies of God, for God will suffice you. And the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, went on. God the Almighty said: They will be nearer to disbelief, that Day, than to faith. They used this as evidence that a person's circumstances may change, so that he may be in a state closer to disbelief, and in a state closer to faith, because of His saying: They will be nearer to disbelief, that Day, than to faith. Then God the Almighty said: They say with their mouths what is not in their hearts meaning that they say the statement without believing it to be true, and from this is their saying: If we had known there would be fighting, we would have followed you because they realized that an army of polytheists had come from a distant country burning with desire for the Muslims because of what happened to their leaders on the day of Badr. And they are many times the number of Muslims, so fighting will inevitably occur between them. For this reason God the Almighty said: And God knows best what they conceal Then God the Almighty said: Those who said to their brothers and sat [at home], 'If they had obeyed us, they would not have been killed' meaning if they had listened to our advice to sit [at home] and not go out, they would not have been killed with those who were killed. God the Almighty said: Say, 'Then avert death from yourselves, if you should be truthful' meaning if sitting saves a person from being killed and dying, then you should not die, and death will inevitably come to you even if you were in fortified towers, so avert death from yourselves if you are truthful. Mujahid said on the authority of Jabir ibn Abdullah: This verse was revealed about Abdullah ibn Ubayy ibn Salul.

Fath al-Qadir

166- The day the two armies met the day of Uhud 11: meaning what happened to you on the day of Uhud of killing, wounding and defeat was by the permission of God then by His knowledge, and it was said: by His decree and destiny, and it was said: by His imagination between you and them, and the fa entered into the answer to the relative pronoun because it resembles a condition as Sibawayh said. And his saying and that He may know the believers is in apposition to his saying then by the permission of God, in apposition of a cause to a cause.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

166- And whatever befell you on the day the two armies met, in the form of killing, wounding, and defeat, was by permission of God, that is, by His decree and destiny, and that He might make evident the believers, that is, to distinguish, and it was said, to see.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

166 And what befell you on the day the two armies met the armies of Muslims and the armies of polytheists, meaning the Day of Uhud. was by permission of God so it will happen by His decree or His release of the infidels. He called it permission because it is one of its requirements. And that He might make evident the believers.

Surat Al Imran 3:166

And whatever befell you on the day the two armies met was by permission of God and that He might make evident the believers.

Surat Al Imran 3:167

And that those who are hypocrites, and it is said to them, Come, fight in the cause of God or defend yourselves, may know, they say, If we knew there would be fighting, we would have followed you. They are nearer to disbelief that Day than to faith. They say with their mouths what is not in their hearts, and God is most knowing of what they conceal.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And let those who are hypocrites know those who were told when they turned away from fighting, and they were Abdullah bin Ubayy and his companions Come, fight in the way of God His enemies or repel the people from us by increasing your numbers if you do not fight they said, If we knew we know how to fight, we would have followed you) God Almighty said, denying them: They are nearer to disbelief that day than to faith because of what they showed of their abandonment of the believers and before they were closer to faith in terms of appearance They say with their mouths what is not in their hearts and if they knew how to fight, they would not have followed you and God knows best what they conceal of hypocrisy

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: God Almighty means by that Abdullah bin Ubayy bin Salul the hypocrite and his companions, who turned back from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and from his companions, when the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, marched to the polytheists at Uhud to fight them, and the Muslims said to them: Come and fight the polytheists with us, or repel our numbers with your numbers! They said: If we knew that you would fight, we would have marched with you to them, and we will be with you against them, but we do not see that there should be between you and the people, so he said! So they revealed from their hypocrisy what they had been concealing, and they revealed with their tongues by saying: If we knew that there would be fighting, we would have followed you, other than what they had been concealing and hiding of enmity towards the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and the people of faith in him, such as:

Ibn Humayd narrated, Salamah narrated, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq, who said: Muhammad ibn Muslim ibn Shihab al-Zuhri, Muhammad ibn Yahya ibn Habbab, Asim ibn Umar ibn Qatada, al-Husayn ibn Abd al-Rahman ibn Amr ibn Sa'd ibn Mu'adh, and others from our scholars narrated, all of them said: The Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) went out - meaning when he went out to Uhud - with a thousand men from his companions, until they were in the path between Uhud and Medina, Abdullah ibn Ubayy ibn Salul with a third of the people withdrew from them and said: He obeyed them and went out and disobeyed me! By God, we do not know why we are killing ourselves here, O people! So he returned with those who followed him from his people from the hypocrites and the doubtful, and Abdullah ibn Amr ibn Haram, the brother of Banu Salamah, followed them saying: O people, I remind you by God not to abandon your Prophet and your people when the enemy is present! They said: If we had known that you would fight, we would not have surrendered you, but we do not think that would happen. So he said: When they were stubborn and refused to leave him, he said: May God distance you, enemies of God! God will do without you! And the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, departed.

Ibn Humayd narrated to us, he said, Salamah narrated to us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: And it was said to them, 'Come, fight in the cause of God or defend yourselves,' meaning: Abdullah ibn Ubayy ibn Salul and his companions who turned back from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, when he marched against his enemy, the polytheists, at Uhud. And his saying: If we had known that there would be fighting, we would have followed you, means: If we had known that you would fight, we would have marched with you and defended you, but we do not think that would happen, so he said. So what they had been hiding in themselves became apparent from them. God the Almighty says: "They will be nearer to disbelief that Day than to faith. They say with their mouths what is not in their hearts," they show you faith, but it is not in their hearts, and God knows best what they conceal, meaning: what they conceal.

Muhammad told us, Ahmad told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of al-Suddi: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, went out - meaning on the day of Uhud - with a thousand men, and he promised them victory if they were patient. When they went out, Abdullah bin Ubayy bin Salul returned with three hundred, and Abu Jabir al-Sulami followed them calling them, but when they defeated him and said to him: We do not know, they said: If you obey us, you will return with us! He said: So he mentioned the companions of Abdullah bin Ubayy bin Salul, and the words of Abdullah Abu Jabir bin Abdullah al-Ansari when he called them and they said: We do not know, they said: If you obey us, you will return with us, so he said: 'Those who said to their brothers and sat back, "If they had obeyed us, they would not have been killed." Say: Then ward off death from yourselves.'"

Al-Qasim told us, Al-Husayn told us, Hajjaj told me, Ibn Jurayj said, Ikrimah said: They said, 'If we knew there would be fighting, we would have followed you.' He said: It was revealed about Abdullah bin Ubayy bin Salul. Ibn Jurayj said: Abdullah bin Kathir informed me, on the authority of Mujahid: If we knew there would be fighting, he said: If we knew that we would find fighting with you, if we knew where there would be fighting, we would have followed you.

They differed in the interpretation of his saying: Or pay.

Some of them said: It means: Or increase in number, because if you increase in number, you will repel the people.

Surat Al Imran 3:167

And that those who are hypocrites, and it is said to them, "Come, fight in the cause of God or defend yourselves," may know, they say, "If we knew there would be fighting, we would have followed you." They are nearer to disbelief than Day than to faith. They say with their mouths what is not in their hearts, and God is most knowing of what they conceal.

Who said that?

Muhammad told us, Ahmad told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi: Or pay, he said: Or multiply.

Al-Qasim told us, Al-Hussein told us, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj: Or repel, he said: With your great numbers, the enemy, even if there is no fighting. Others said: The meaning of that is: Or remain stationed if you do not fight.

Who said that?

Ismail bin Hafs Al-Ayli and Ali bin Sahl Al-Ramli told us, Al-Walid bin Muslim told us, Utbah bin Damrah told us: I heard Abu Awn Al-Ansari regarding his statement: Fight in the way of God or defend yourself, he said: Stay in the army.

As for His statement: And God knows best what they conceal, what he means by it is: And God knows best about these hypocrites who say to the believers: If we knew there would be fighting, we would have followed you, what they conceal in their souls for the believers and conceal it, covering it up from enmity and hatred, and that if they knew there would be fighting, they would not have followed them or defended them, and He, the Most High, is aware of what they conceal of that, and is aware of it, and is counting it against them, until He tears their veils in this worldly life and disgraces them with it, and sends them with it to the lowest level of Hell in the Hereafter.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

The Almighty said: And that He may know those who are hypocrites meaning to distinguish, and it was said to see, and it was said: to show the faith of the believers by their steadfastness in the battle, and to show the disbelief of the hypocrites by their display of gloating so that they may know that, and the reference in His saying: They were hypocrites and it was said to them is to Abdullah bin Ubayy and his companions who turned away with him from supporting the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and they were three hundred, so Abdullah bin Amr bin Haram Al-Ansari, Abu Jabir bin Abdullah, walked in their footsteps and said to them: Fear God and do not abandon your Prophet, and fight in the way of God or defend yourself, and similar to this of speech, so Ibn Ubayy said to him: I do not see that there will be fighting, and if we knew that there will be fighting we would have been with you, so when Abdullah was so bad from them he said: Go, enemies of God, for God and His Messenger will suffice you, and he went with the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and was martyred, may God Almighty have mercy on him.

People differed about the meaning of his saying: Or repel. Al-Suddi, Ibn Jurayj, and others said: Increase our blacks even if you do not fight with us, so that this will be a repelling and suppression of the enemy, because when the blacks are numerous, the enemy is repelled. Anas bin Malik said: On the day of Al-Qadisiyyah, I saw Abdullah bin Umm Maktum, the blind man, wearing a suit of armor whose edges were dragging, and in his hand was a black banner. It was said to him: Has not God revealed your excuse? He said: Yes! But I myself am the most black of the Muslims. It was narrated from him that he said: So how about my presence in the path of God! Abu Aoun Al-Ansari said, the meaning of or defend is to guard, and this is close to the first, and there is no doubt that the guard is a defender, because if it were not for the position of the guards on the borders, the enemy would have come to them. Some of the commentators said that the saying of Abdullah bin Amr or defend is only a call to fight out of zeal, because he called them to fight in the way of God, which is that the word of God is supreme. When he saw that they were not like that, he presented to them the way that would make them feel ashamed and arouse pride, that is, or fight in defense of the estate. Do you not see that Quzman said: By God, I only fought for the sake of my people's lineage? And do you not see that some of the Ansar said on the day of Uhud when he saw the Quraysh sending their backs to the crops of the canal, Are you grazing the crops of Bani Qaylah, and why should we fight? The meaning is that if you do not fight in the way of God, then fight to defend yourselves and your women.

The Almighty says: They will be nearer to disbelief than Day than to faith. That is, they will make their condition clear, tear down their veils, and reveal their hypocrisy to those who thought they were Muslims. Thus, they will appear to be closer to disbelief, even though they are truly disbelievers. The Almighty says: They say with their mouths what is not in their hearts. That is, they will show faith, but conceal disbelief. The mention of the mouths is an emphasis, like His saying: It flies with its two wings (al-An'am 6:38).

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

God the Almighty says: Or when a disaster befell you which is what befell them on the day of Uhud, killing seventy of them, you inflicted twice as much meaning on the day of Badr, for they killed seventy of the polytheists and took seventy prisoners, you said, 'From where did this come to us?' Say, 'It is from yourselves.' Ibn Abi Hatim said: My father told us, Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shaybah told us, Qurad Abu Nuh told us, Ikrimah ibn Ammar told us, Samak al-Hanafi Abu Zamil told us, Ibn Abbas told me, Umar ibn al-Khattab told me, he said: When the day of Uhud came the following year, they were punished for what they did on the day of Badr, taking ransom, so seventy of them were killed, and the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, fled from him, and his front tooth was broken, and the shell was smashed on his head, and blood flowed down his face, so God revealed: Or when a disaster befell you, having inflicted twice as much, you said, 'From where did this come to us?' Say, 'It is from yourselves.' From yourselves, by taking the ransom. And thus Imam Ahmad narrated it on the authority of Abd al-Rahman ibn Ghazwan, who is Qurad Abu Nuh, with his chain of transmission but with a longer one. And thus al-Hasan al-Basri said, and Ibn Jarir said: Al-Qasim told us, Al-Husayn told us, Ismail ibn Ulayyah told us on the authority of Ibn Awn on the authority of Muhammad on the authority of Ubayd, H, Sanid said, who is Husayn: And Hajjaj told me on the authority of Jarir, on the authority of Muhammad on the authority of Ubaydah, on the authority of Ali, may God be pleased with him, who said: Gabriel came to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: "O Muhammad, God has disliked what your people have done in taking prisoners, and He has commanded you to give them a choice between two things: either they come forward and their necks are struck, or they take ransom on the condition that a number of them are killed." He said: So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, called the people and mentioned that to them, and they said: O Messenger of God, our tribes and our brothers, should we not take their ransom so that we may be strengthened to fight our enemy, and a number of them are martyred from among us? There is nothing in that that we dislike? He said: So seventy men were killed from them on the day of Uhud, a number of The prisoners of Badr," and thus it was narrated by al-Nasa'i and al-Tirmidhi from the hadith of Abu Dawud al-Hafri, on the authority of Yahya ibn Zakariya ibn Abi Zaydah, on the authority of Sufyan ibn Sa'id, on the authority of Hisham ibn Hassan, on the authority of Muhammad ibn Sirin, with it. Then al-Tirmidhi said: Hasan Gharib, we do not know it except from the hadith of Ibn Abi Zaydah, and Abu Usamah narrated something similar from Hisham, and it was narrated from Ibn Sirin, on the authority of Ubaydah, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, as a mursal. Muhammad ibn Ishaq, Ibn Jurayj, Ar-Rabi' ibn Anas and As-Suddi said: "Say: It is from yourselves" meaning because of your disobedience to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, when he ordered you not to move from your place, but you disobeyed, meaning the archers. Indeed, God has power over all things meaning He does what He wills and rules as He wills, there is no one to question His rule. Then God the Almighty said: And whatever befell you on the day the two armies met was by God's permission meaning your flight before your enemy and their killing of a group of you and their wounding of others, it was by God's decree and destiny, and He has wisdom in that. And that He may make evident the believers meaning those who were patient and steadfast and did not falter. "And that He may make evident those who were hypocrites and were told, 'Come, fight in the cause of God or defend yourselves.' They said, 'If we had known there would be fighting, we would have followed you.'" Meaning the companions of Abdullah ibn Ubayy ibn Salul who returned with him in the middle of the road, and some men from the believers followed them, urging them to return, fight and help. That is why He said, Or defend yourselves. Ibn Abbas, Ikrimah, Sa'id ibn Jubayr and Ad-Dahhak said: Abu Salih, Al-Hasan and Al-Suddi said: They meant to increase the number of Muslims. Al-Hasan bin Salih said: They defended with supplication. Another said: They stayed, and they made excuses saying: If we knew that there would be fighting, we would have followed you. Mujahid said: They meant if we knew that you would encounter war, we would have come to you, but you will not encounter fighting. Muhammad bin Ishaq said: Muhammad bin Muslim bin Shihab Al-Zuhri, Muhammad bin Yahya bin Habban, Asim bin Omar bin Qatada, Al-Hussain bin Abdul Rahman bin Amr bin Saad bin Muadh, and others from our scholars told me, all of them have narrated, he said: The Messenger of God, peace and blessings be upon him, came out to us, meaning when he went out to Uhud with a thousand men from his companions, until he was in the middle of the road between Uhud and Medina, Abdullah bin Ubayy bin Salul with a third of the people withdrew from him and said: He obeyed them, so he went out and disobeyed me. By God, we do not know why we are killing ourselves here, O people? So he returned with those who followed him from his people, the hypocrites and the doubters. Abdullah bin Amr bin Haram, the brother of Banu Salamah, followed them, saying: O people, I remind you by God not to abandon your Prophet and your people when your enemy comes. They said: If we knew that you would fight, we would not have surrendered to you, but we do not see that there should be fighting. So when they resisted him and refused to do anything but leave them, he said: May God distance you, enemies of God, for God will suffice you. And the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, went on. God the Almighty said: They will be nearer to disbelief, that Day, than to faith. They used this as evidence that a person's circumstances may change, so that he may be in a state closer to disbelief, and in a state closer to faith, because of His saying: They will be nearer to disbelief, that Day, than to faith. Then God the Almighty said: They say with their mouths what is not in their hearts meaning that they say the statement without believing it to be true, and from this is their saying: If we had known there would be fighting, we would have followed you because they realized that an army of polytheists had come from a distant country burning with desire for the Muslims because of what happened to their leaders on the day of Badr. And they are many times the number of Muslims, so fighting will inevitably occur between them. For this reason God the Almighty said: And God knows best what they conceal Then God the Almighty said: Those who said to their brothers and sat [at home], 'If they had obeyed us, they would not have been killed' meaning if they had listened to our advice to sit [at home] and not go out, they would not have been killed with those who were killed. God the Almighty said: Say, 'Then avert death from yourselves, if you should be truthful' meaning if sitting saves a person from being killed and dying, then you should not die, and death will inevitably come to you even if you were in fortified towers, so avert death from yourselves if you are truthful. Mujahid said on the authority of Jabir ibn Abdullah: This verse was revealed about Abdullah ibn Ubayy ibn Salul.

Surat Al Imran 3:167

And that those who are hypocrites, and it is said to them, "Come, fight in the cause of God or defend yourselves," may know, they say, "If we knew there would be fighting, we would have followed you." They are nearer to disbelief than Day than to faith. They say with their mouths what is not in their hearts, and God is most knowing of what they conceal.

Fath al-Qadir

And His saying 167- And that He may know those who are hypocrites is in apposition to what preceded it. It was said: He repeated the verb in order to honor the believers so that the verb attributed to them and to the hypocrites is one. What is meant by knowledge here is differentiation and manifestation, because His knowledge was established before that, and what is meant by the hypocrites here is Abdullah bin Ubayy and his companions. His saying And it was said to them is in apposition to His saying They were hypocrites, meaning: So that God may know those who are hypocrites and those to whom it was said. It was said that it is a subject statement: meaning it was said to Abdullah bin Ubayy and his companions Come, fight in the way of God if you are among those who believe in God and the Last Day or defend yourselves if you do not believe in God and the Last Day. They refused all of that and said: If we knew that there would be fighting, we would have followed you and fought with you, but there is no fighting there. It was said that the meaning is: If we were able to fight and were good at it, we would have followed you, but we are not able to do that and we are not good at it. He expressed the negation of the ability to fight by negating knowledge of it because it entails it, and in it there is a distance to which there is no refuge. It was said that its meaning is: If we knew what could be called fighting, we would have followed you, but what you are about to do is not fighting, but rather throwing oneself into destruction, due to the inability of us and you to repel what came from the army by going out to them and leaving the city. This also has a distance that is not the distance of what came before it. It was said that the meaning of repelling here is increasing the number of Muslims. It was said that its meaning is stay put, and the one who said this statement to the hypocrites that God the Almighty narrated was Abdullah bin Amr bin Haram Al-Ansari, the father of Jabir bin Abdullah. His statement, They are nearer to disbelief than Day than to faith means: On this day in which they were abandoned by the believers to disbelief they are nearer to faith in the eyes of those who thought that they were Muslims, because they had made their condition clear, torn their veils and exposed their hypocrisy at that time. It was said that the meaning is: They are nearer to the people of disbelief than Day than to the people of faith. His saying, They say with their mouths what is not in their hearts is a new sentence confirming the content of what preceded it: that is, they showed faith but concealed disbelief. The mouths are mentioned for emphasis, like his saying, He flies with his wings.

of God's religion and obedience to Him, or defend, from your families and women, and Al-Suddi said: meaning, increase the number of Muslims and remain stationed. If you do not fight, that will be a repelling and suppression of the enemy, they said, 'If we had known of fighting, we would have followed you', and they are Abdullah bin Ubayy and his companions who left Uhud and they were three hundred. God the Most High said: They are nearer to disbelief than Day meaning: closer to disbelief than Day than to faith (meaning: to faith), they say with their mouths meaning: the word of faith what is not in their hearts, and God knows best what they conceal.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

167And that those who are hypocrites may be known and that the believers and hypocrites may be distinguished, so that the faith of some may be revealed and the disbelief of others may be revealed. And it will be said to them is an apodosis to hypocrites and is included in the relative clause or a subject statement. Come, fight in the cause of God or defend dividing the matter among them and giving them a choice between fighting for the Hereafter or defending lives and property. It was said that its meaning is fight the disbelievers or repel them by increasing the number of the mujahideen, because the large number of people terrifies the enemy and defeats him. They said, 'If we knew how to fight, we would have followed you' If we knew what could be called fighting, we would have followed you in it, but what you are doing is not fighting, but throwing lives into destruction, or if we were good at fighting, we would have followed you in it, and they only said it out of deceit and mockery. They are nearer to disbelief than Day than to faith because of their failure and their words, for they were the first signs that appeared from them indicating their disbelief. It was said that they are closer to supporting the unbelievers than they are to the believers, since their failure and their words strengthen the polytheists and discourage the believers. They say with their mouths what is not in their hearts they show something other than what they conceal, their hearts do not agree with their tongues in faith. Adding the words to the mouths is an emphasis and a depiction. And God knows best what they conceal of hypocrisy. And what they secretly say to one another, He knows it in detail with obligatory knowledge, and you know it in general with signs.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

167- And let those who are hypocrites and were told, 'Come, fight in the cause of God' meaning: for the sake

Surat Al Imran 3:168

Those who said to their brothers while sitting back, If they had obeyed us, they would not have been killed. Say, Then avert death from yourselves, if you should be truthful.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

Those in place of those before it or an adjective said to their brothers in religion and they had sincerely from jihad if they had obeyed us meaning the martyrs of Uhud or our brothers in sitting (they would not have been killed. Say) to them then avert repel from yourselves death if you are truthful in that sitting saves from it.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Jaafar said: God Almighty means by that: And God will know those who are hypocrites, those who said to their brothers and sat back.

The position of those who is in the accusative case as a replacement for those who are hypocrites, and it may be permissible for it to be in the nominative case as a translation of what is in his saying: conceal of the mention of those who are hypocrites.

The meaning of the verse is: And that God may know those who said to their brothers who were wounded with the Muslims in their war against the polytheists at Uhud on the day of Uhud, and who killed there from their tribes and people - and sat back, meaning: and these hypocrites who said what they said - from what God the Almighty informed us about what they said - about jihad with their brothers and tribes in the way of God - If they had obeyed us, meaning: if those of our brothers and tribes who were killed at Uhud had obeyed us, they would not have been killed, meaning: they were not killed there. God the Almighty said to His Prophet Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace: Say, O Muhammad, to these hypocrites who said this statement, Then repel, meaning: then repel.

From the saying of the speaker: I averted killing from so-and-so, meaning I pushed him away, I averted him, and from it the saying of the poet:

She said, and I protected her from my wrath: Is this his religion and my religion forever?

God Almighty says: Say to them: So pay, if you, O hypocrites, are truthful in what you say: If our brothers had obeyed us in abandoning jihad in the way of God with Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and fighting Abu Sufyan and those of Quraysh with him, they would not have been killed there by the sword, and they would have been alive by sitting with you, and staying behind Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and witnessing the jihad against the enemies of God with him, from yourselves death, for you have sat back from fighting them and have stayed behind from jihad against them, and you are inevitably dead, as:

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: Those who said to their brothers, those who were afflicted with you from their tribes and people, If they had obeyed us, they would not have been killed, the verse, meaning: Death is inevitable, so if you are able to repel it from yourselves, then do so. That is because they were hypocrites and abandoned jihad in the way of God, out of eagerness to remain in this world and fleeing from death.

It was mentioned that those who said this to their brothers are the ones about whom God said: And that He may know those who are hypocrites.

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, his saying: Those who said to their brothers and sat back, 'If they had obeyed us, they would not have been killed,' the verse, he mentioned to us that it was revealed about the enemy of God, Abdullah bin Ubayy.

Muhammad told us, he said, Muhammad told us, he said, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi, he said: They are Abdullah bin Ubayy and his companions.

Al-Qasim told us, he said, Al-Husayn told us, he said, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, he said: He is Abdullah bin Ubayy who sat and said to his brothers who went out with the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, on the day of Uhud 11: If they had obeyed us, they would not have been killed, the verse. Ibn Jurayj said, on the authority of Mujahid, he said, Jabir bin Abdullah said: He is Abdullah bin Ubayy bin Salul.

It was narrated on the authority of Ammar, on the authority of Ibn Abi Jaafar, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Al-Rabi', regarding his statement: Those who said to their brothers and sat back, the verse, he said: It was revealed about the enemy of God, Abdullah bin Ubayy.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

The Almighty's saying: Those who said to their brothers means for the sake of their brothers, and they are the martyrs who were killed from the Khazraj, and they are brothers of lineage and neighborhood, not brothers of religion, that is, they said to these martyrs: If they had stayed, that is, in Medina, they would not have been killed. It was said: Abdullah bin Ubayy and his companions said to their brothers, that is, to their likes from al-Munafiqun 63: If they had obeyed us, these who were killed would not have been killed. His saying: If they had obeyed us means that they would not have gone out to Quraysh. His saying: And they sat means that they said this statement and sat back themselves from jihad, so God responded to them by saying: Say, then repel that is, say to them, O Muhammad: If you are truthful, then repel death from yourselves, and repelling means repelling. He explained with this that caution does not benefit from fate, and that the one who is killed is killed at his appointed time, and what God knows and informs of will inevitably happen. It was said: On the day this was said, seventy hypocrites died. Abu al-Layth al-Samarqandi said: I heard some The commentators in Samarkand say: When the verse was revealed: "Say: 'Then avert death from yourselves,'" seventy hypocrites died that day.

Surat Al Imran 3:168

Those who said to their brothers while sitting back, "If they had obeyed us, they would not have been killed." Say, "Then avert death from yourselves, if you should be truthful."

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

God the Almighty says: Or when a disaster befell you which is what befell them on the day of Uhud, killing seventy of them, you inflicted twice as much meaning on the day of Badr, for they killed seventy of the polytheists and took seventy prisoners, you said, 'From where did this come to us?' Say, 'It is from yourselves.' Ibn Abi Hatim said: My father told us, Abu Bakr ibn Abi Shaybah told us, Qurad Abu Nuh told us, Ikrimah ibn Ammar told us, Samak al-Hanafi Abu Zamil told us, Ibn Abbas told me, Umar ibn al-Khattab told me, he said: When the day of Uhud came the following year, they were punished for what they did on the day of Badr, taking ransom, so seventy of them were killed, and the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, fled from him, and his front tooth was broken, and the shell was smashed on his head, and blood flowed down his face, so God revealed: Or when a disaster befell you, having inflicted twice as much, you said, 'From where did this come to us?' Say, 'It is from yourselves.' From yourselves, by taking the ransom. And thus Imam Ahmad narrated it on the authority of Abd al-Rahman ibn Ghazwan, who is Qurad Abu Nuh, with his chain of transmission but with a longer one. And thus al-Hasan al-Basri said, and Ibn Jarir said: Al-Qasim told us, Al-Husayn told us, Ismail ibn Ulayyah told us on the authority of Ibn Awn on the authority of Muhammad on the authority of Ubayd, H, Sanid said, who is Husayn: And Hajjaj told me on the authority of Jarir, on the authority of Muhammad on the authority of Ubaydah, on the authority of Ali, may God be pleased with him, who said: Gabriel came to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: "O Muhammad, God has disliked what your people have done in taking prisoners, and He has commanded you to give them a choice between two things: either they come forward and their necks are struck, or they take ransom on the condition that a number of them are killed." He said: So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, called the people and mentioned that to them, and they said: O Messenger of God, our tribes and our brothers, should we not take their ransom so that we may be strengthened to fight our enemy, and a number of them are martyred from among us? There is nothing in that that we dislike? He said: So seventy men were killed from them on the day of Uhud, a number of The prisoners of Badr," and thus it was narrated by al-Nasa'i and al-Tirmidhi from the hadith of Abu Dawud al-Hafri, on the authority of Yahya ibn Zakariya ibn Abi Zaydah, on the authority of Sufyan ibn Sa'id, on the authority of Hisham ibn Hassan, on the authority of Muhammad ibn Sirin, with it. Then al-Tirmidhi said: Hasan Gharib, we do not know it except from the hadith of Ibn Abi Zaydah, and Abu Usamah narrated something similar from Hisham, and it was narrated from Ibn Sirin, on the authority of Ubaydah, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, as a mursal. Muhammad ibn Ishaq, Ibn Jurayj, Ar-Rabi' ibn Anas and As-Suddi said: "Say: It is from yourselves" meaning because of your disobedience to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, when he ordered you not to move from your place, but you disobeyed, meaning the archers.

Indeed, God has power over all things meaning He does what He wills and rules as He wills, there is no one to question His rule. Then God the Almighty said: And whatever befell you on the day the two armies met was by God's permission meaning your flight before your enemy and their killing of a group of you and their wounding of others, it was by God's decree and destiny, and He has wisdom in that. And that He may make evident the believers meaning those who were patient and steadfast and did not falter. "And that He may make evident those who were hypocrites and were told, 'Come, fight in the cause of God or defend yourselves.' They said, 'If we had known there would be fighting, we would have followed you.'" Meaning the companions of Abdullah ibn Ubayy ibn Salul who returned with him in the middle of the road, and some men from the believers followed them, urging them to return, fight and help. That is why He said, Or defend yourselves. Ibn Abbas, Ikrimah, Sa'id ibn Jubayr and Ad-Dahhak said: Abu Salih, Al-Hasan and Al-Suddi said: They meant to increase the number of Muslims. Al-Hasan bin Salih said: They defended with supplication. Another said: They stayed, and they made excuses saying: If we knew that there would be fighting, we would have followed you. Mujahid said: They meant if we knew that you would encounter war, we would have come to you, but you will not encounter fighting. Muhammad bin Ishaq said: Muhammad bin Muslim bin Shihab Al-Zuhri, Muhammad bin Yahya bin Habban, Asim bin Omar bin Qatada, Al-Hussain bin Abdul Rahman bin Amr bin Saad bin Muadh, and others from our scholars told me, all of them have narrated, he said: The Messenger of God, peace and blessings be upon him, came out to us, meaning when he went out to Uhud with a thousand men from his companions, until he was in the middle of the road between Uhud and Medina, Abdullah bin Ubayy bin Salul with a third of the people withdrew from him and said: He obeyed them, so he went out and disobeyed me. By God, we do not know why we are killing ourselves here, O people? So he returned with those who followed him from his people, the hypocrites and the doubters. Abdullah bin Amr bin Haram, the brother of Banu Salamah, followed them, saying: O people, I remind you by God not to abandon your Prophet and your people when your enemy comes. They said: If we knew that you would fight, we would not have surrendered to you, but we do not see that there should be fighting. So when they resisted him and refused to do anything but leave them, he said: May God distance you, enemies of God, for God will suffice

you. And the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, went on. God the Almighty said: They will be nearer to disbelief, that Day, than to faith. They used this as evidence that a person's circumstances may change, so that he may be in a state closer to disbelief, and in a state closer to faith, because of His saying: They will be nearer to disbelief, that Day, than to faith. Then God the Almighty said: They say with their mouths what is not in their hearts meaning that they say the statement without believing it to be true, and from this is their saying: If we had known there would be fighting, we would have followed you because they realized that an army of polytheists had come from a distant country burning with desire for the Muslims because of what happened to their leaders on the day of Badr. And they are many times the number of Muslims, so fighting will inevitably occur between them. For this reason God the Almighty said: And God knows best what they conceal Then God the Almighty said: Those who said to their brothers and sat [at home], 'If they had obeyed us, they would not have been killed' meaning if they had listened to our advice to sit [at home] and not go out, they would not have been killed with those who were killed. God the Almighty said: Say, 'Then avert death from yourselves, if you should be truthful' meaning if sitting saves a person from being killed and dying, then you should not die, and death will inevitably come to you even if you were in fortified towers, so avert death from yourselves if you are truthful. Mujahid said on the authority of Jabir ibn Abdullah: This verse was revealed about Abdullah ibn Ubayy ibn Salul.

Fath al-Qadir

His statement 168- Those who said to their brothers etc.: meaning they are those who said to their brothers as a predicate of a deleted subject, and it is possible that it is a substitute for the waw of they conceal, or accusative of blame, or a description of those who were hypocrites. The meaning of they said to their brothers has already been presented, meaning: they said that to them, and the situation is that these speakers had sat back from fighting if they had obeyed us by not leaving the city, they would not have been killed, so God responded to that with His statement "Say: Then avert death from yourselves, if you should be truthful" and averting means repelling, meaning caution from fate is of no use, because the one who is killed is killed at his appointed time.

Ibn Jarir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas regarding his statement, Or when a disaster befell you, the verse. He said: You have inflicted on the polytheists on the day of Badr twice as much as they inflicted on you on the day of Uhud. This was explained by Ikrimah. Ibn Jarir narrated on his authority that he said: The Muslims killed seventy polytheists on the day of Badr and took seventy captive, and the polytheists killed seventy Muslims on the day of Uhud. Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Al-Hasan regarding the verse that he said: When they saw those of them killed on the day of Uhud, they said, Where did this come from? It was not for the infidels to kill any of us. When God saw what they were saying about that, God said: They are like the captives you took on the day of Badr. God responded to them with that and hastened their punishment in this world so that they would be safe from it in the Hereafter. This is supported by what was narrated by Ibn Abi Shaybah, Al-Tirmidhi who authenticated it, Al-Nasa'i, Ibn Jarir and Ibn Mardawayh on the authority of Ali, who said: Gabriel came to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: O Muhammad, God has disliked what your people have done in taking prisoners, and He has commanded you to give them a choice between two things: either they come forward and their necks are struck, or they take ransom on the condition that you accept their number. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, called the people and mentioned that to them, and they said: O Messenger of God, our tribes and our brothers, rather we will take their ransom so that we will be strengthened to fight our enemy and their number will be martyred from us, so there is nothing in that that we dislike. So seventy men were killed from them on the Day of Uhud, the number of the prisoners of Badr. This hadith is in Sunan al-Tirmidhi and al-Nasa'i, on the authority of Abu Dawud al-Hafri, on the authority of Yahya ibn Zakariya ibn Abi Zaydah, on the authority of Sufyan ibn Sa'id, on the authority of Hisham ibn Hassan, on the authority of Muhammad ibn Sirin, on the authority of Ubaydah, on the authority of Ali. Al-Tirmidhi said after narrating it: It is hasan gharib, we do not know it except through the hadith of Ibn Abi Zaydah. Abu Usamah narrated something similar on the authority of Hisham. It was narrated on the authority of Ibn Sirin, on the authority of Ubaydah, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, in a mursal form. The chain of transmission of Ibn Jarir for this hadith is as follows: Al-Qasim narrated to us, Al-Husayn narrated to us, Ismail ibn Ulayyah narrated to us, on the authority of Ibn 'Awn, Sanid said, and he is Husayn, and Hajjaj narrated to me on the authority of Jarir, on the authority of Muhammad, on the authority of Zubaydah, on the authority of Ali, and he mentioned it. Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Abu Bakr bin Abi Shaybah, who said: Qurad bin Nuh told us, Ikrimah bin Ammar told us, Samak al-Hanafi Abu Zamil told us, Ibn Abbas told me on the authority of Umar bin al-Khattab, who said: When the day of Uhud came the following year, they were punished for what they had done on the day of Badr, by taking ransoms. Seventy of them were killed, and the companions of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, fled from him. His front tooth was broken, the skull was smashed on his head, and blood flowed down his face. Then God Almighty revealed: Or when a disaster befell you verse. Imam Ahmad narrated it on the authority of Abd al-Rahman ibn Azwan, who is Qurad ibn Nuh, but in a longer version. However, what is problematic about the previous hadith of choice is what was revealed of the rebuke from Him, the Most High, to those who took the ransom, in His saying: It is not for a prophet to have captives until he has inflicted a slaughter on the land. And what was narrated of his crying, may God bless him and grant him peace, and Abu Bakr, regretting taking the ransom. If he had taken that after the choice was given to them by God, the Most High, He would not have rebuked them for it, nor would what happened from the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and those with him of regret and sorrow, nor did the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, approve of the opinion of Umar, may God be pleased with him, when he indicated killing the captives and said something to the effect of: If a punishment were revealed, none would be saved from it except Umar. All of them are in the books of hadith and biography. Ibn al-Mundhir narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas, You said, 'How is this?' while we are Muslims fighting in anger for God, and these are polytheists. So He said, Say, 'It is from yourselves.' This is a punishment for you for disobeying the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, when he said, Do not follow them. Ibn al-Mundhir narrated on his authority regarding his statement, or defend, he said: Increase your numbers even if you do not fight. He also narrated something similar from al-Dahhak. Ibn Jarir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Abu Awn al-Ansari regarding his statement, or defend, he said: Stay stationed. Ibn Jarir and Ibn al-Mundhir narrated on the authority of Ibn Shihab and others who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, went out to Uhud with a thousand men from his companions, until when they were in the path between Uhud and Medina, Abdullah bin Ubayy with a third of the people withdrew from them and said: He obeyed them and disobeyed me, by God we do not know why we are killing ourselves here? So he returned with those who followed him from the hypocrites and the doubtful, and Abdullah bin Amr bin Haram from Banu Salamah followed them saying: O people, I remind you by God lest you abandon your Prophet and your people when their enemy confronts them. They said: If we had known that you would fight, we would not have surrendered you and we do not think that there will be fighting. Ibn Ishaq narrated: Muhammad ibn Muslim ibn Shihab al-Zuhri, Muhammad ibn Yahya ibn Habban, Asim ibn Umar ibn Qatada, al-Husayn ibn Abd al-Rahman ibn Umar ibn Sa'd ibn Mu'adh and other scholars of ours narrated to me, and he mentioned it. He added that when they were stubborn with him and refused to leave, he said: May God distance you, enemies of God, for God will do without you. Ibn Jarir, Ibn al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Mujahid regarding his statement, If we had known that there would be fighting, we would have followed you, he said: If we had known that we would find a place of fighting with you, we would have followed you.

Surat Al Imran 3:168

Those who said to their brothers while sitting back, "If they had obeyed us, they would not have been killed." Say, "Then avert death from yourselves, if you should be truthful."

Tafsir al-Baidawi

168 Those who said is raised instead of the waw of they conceal, or it is accusative as a censure or description of those who were hypocrites, or it is genitive instead of the pronoun in with their mouths or their hearts as in his saying:

If there was a generous Hatem among the people, Hatem would be stingy with water.

For their brothers meaning for their sake, meaning those who were killed on the Day of Uhud from their relatives or from their kind. And they sat is a state implied by qad meaning they said they were sitting from fighting. If they had obeyed us in sitting in the city. They would not have been killed just as we were not killed. Hashim read they were not killed with a shaddah on the ta'. "Say: Then avert death from yourselves, if you should be truthful" meaning if you are truthful that you are able to avert killing from those who have been decreed for them, then avert death and its causes from yourselves, for it is more appropriate for you. The meaning is that sitting is not a substitute for death, for the causes of death are many, just as fighting can be a cause of destruction and sitting is a cause of salvation. The opposite may be the case.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

168- Those who said to their brothers, in lineage not in religion, and they were the martyrs of Uhud, and sat back meaning: these people who said about jihad sat back if they had obeyed us, and turned away from Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and sat in their homes "they would not have been killed. Say", to them, O Muhammad, then avert, then repel, from yourselves death if you should be truthful, caution is no substitute for destiny.

Surat Al Imran 3:169

And never think of those who are killed in the way of God as dead. Rather, they are alive with their Lord, receiving provision.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And it was revealed about the martyrs: And never think of those who were killed with emphasis and emphasis in the cause of God that is, for the sake of His religion (as dead. Rather) they are alive with their Lord their souls are in the crops of green birds that roam in Paradise wherever they wish, as mentioned in the hadith and are provided for they eat from the fruits of Paradise.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

The Almighty said: And do not think, the verse Ahmad, Abu Dawud and Al-Hakim narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: When your brothers were afflicted at Uhud, God placed their souls in the bodies of green birds that frequent the rivers of Paradise, eat of its fruits and take refuge in golden lanterns in the shade of the Throne. When they found the goodness of their food and drink and the beauty of their resting place, they said: Oh, if only our brothers knew what God has done for us so that they would not give up jihad or turn away from war. God said: I will convey it to them on your behalf. Then God revealed this verse: And do not think that those who were killed, the verse and what follows it. Al-Tirmidhi narrated something similar on the authority of Jabir.

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: God Almighty means: And do not think, and do not assume, as Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: And do not think, and do not assume.

And His statement: Those who were killed in the way of God, meaning: those who were killed in one of the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, are dead, meaning: And do not think of them, O Muhammad, as dead, not feeling anything, nor enjoying anything, nor enjoying anything, for they are alive with Me, enjoying My provision, happy and pleased with what I have given them of My honor and grace, and what I have bestowed upon them of My abundant reward and bounty, as:

Ibn Humayd narrated to us, he said: Salamah narrated to us, on the authority of Muhammad ibn Ishaq, and Yunus ibn Abd al-A'la narrated to me, he said: Ibn Wahb informed us, he said: Ismail ibn Ayyash narrated to us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq, on the authority of Ismail ibn Umayyah, on the authority of Abu al-Zubayr al-Makki, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, he said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: When your brothers were afflicted at Uhud, God placed their souls in the bodies of green birds that frequent the rivers of Paradise, eat of its fruits, and take refuge in golden lamps in the shade of the Throne. When they found their drink and food pleasant and their resting place pleasant, they said: 'If only our brothers knew what God has done to us! So that they would not give up on jihad and become weak in war!' God Almighty said: 'I will convey to them on your behalf.'" So God Almighty revealed these verses to His Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace.

Ibn Humayd told us, he said, Jarir ibn Abdul Hamid told us, and Ibn Humayd told us, he said, Salamah told us, they both said, Muhammad ibn Ishaq told us, on the authority of Al-A'mash, on the authority of Abu Ad-Dhaha, on the authority of Masruq ibn Al-Ajda', he said, we asked Abdullah ibn Mas'ud about these verses: And never think that those who were killed in the way of God, the verse, he said: As for us, we asked about it and it was said to us: When your brothers were killed at Uhud, God placed their souls in the bodies of green birds that go to the rivers of Paradise and eat from its fruits, and take refuge in golden lamps in the shade of the Throne. Then God looks down upon them and says: O My servants, what do you desire that I may give you more? They say: Our Lord, not more than what You have given us! Paradise, we eat from it wherever we wish! Three times. Then He looks down and says: O My servants, what do you desire that I may give you more? They say: Our Lord, not more than what You have given us! Paradise, we eat from it wherever we wish! However, we love for our souls to return to our bodies! Then you return us to the world, so we fight for you until we are killed for you again.

Al-Hasan bin Yahya Al-Maqdisi told us, he said, Wahb bin Jarir told us, he said, Shu'bah told us, on the authority of Al-A'mash, on the authority of Abu Ad-Dhaha, on the authority of Masruq, he said: We asked Abdullah about this verse. Then he mentioned something similar to it and added to it: Indeed, I have decreed that you will not return.

Ibn Al-Muthanna told us, he said, Ibn Abi Uday told us, on the authority of Shu'bah, on the authority of Sulayman, on the authority of Abdullah bin Murrah, on the authority of Masruq, he said: We asked Abdullah about the souls of the martyrs, and if it were not for Abdullah, no one would have told us! He said: The souls of the martyrs are with God in the bellies of green birds in lanterns beneath the Throne, roaming in Paradise wherever He wishes, then they return to their lanterns, and their Lord looks down upon them and says: What do you want? They say: We want to return to the world and be killed once again.

Abu Kuraib narrated that Abd al-Raheem ibn Sulayman and Abdah ibn Sulayman narrated on the authority of Muhammad ibn Ishaq, on the authority of al-Harith ibn Fadil, on the authority of Mahmud ibn Labid, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The martyrs are not dead, but alive with their Lord, and they are provided for. He said: The souls of the martyrs are with God like green birds with lanterns hanging from the Throne, roaming in Paradise wherever they wish. He said: Then your Lord looked at them and said: Do you desire anything that I may give you more? They said: Our Lord, do we not roam in

Surat Al Imran 3:169

And never think of those who are killed in the way of God as dead. Rather, they are alive with their Lord, receiving provision.

Paradise wherever we wish? Then He looked at them a third time and said: Do you desire anything that I may give you more? They said: You will return our souls to our bodies so that we may fight in Your cause once again! So He remained silent.

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said, Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said, Ibn Uyaynah told us, on the authority of Ata bin al-Sa'ib, on the authority of Abu Ubaidah, on the authority of Abdullah: That they said the third time - when he said to them: Do you desire anything that I should give you more of? - they said: Give our Prophet our greetings, and tell him that we are pleased and he is pleased with us.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq, he said: God Almighty said to His Prophet Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, encouraging the believers to seek the reward of Paradise and making killing easy for them: "And never think of those who are killed in the way of God as dead. Rather, they are alive with their Lord, receiving provision." That is, I have revived them, so they are with Me, receiving provision in the spirit of Paradise and its bounty, happy with what God has given them of His reward for their jihad on His behalf.

It was narrated on the authority of Al-Husayn, who said: I heard Abu Muadh, who said: Ubayd ibn Sulayman narrated to us, who said: I heard Ad-Dahhak say: The Muslims used to ask their Lord to show them a day like the day of Badr, in which they would be tested with goodness, and in which they would be granted martyrdom, and in which they would be granted Paradise and life in provision. Then they encountered the polytheists on the day of Uhud, and God took martyrs from among them, and they are the ones whom God mentioned when He said: And never think of those who are killed in the way of God as dead, the verse.

Muhammad ibn al-Husayn narrated, Ahmad ibn al-Mufaddal narrated, Asbat narrated, on the authority of al-Suddi, who said: He mentioned the martyrs and said: "And never think of those who are killed in the way of God as dead. Rather, they are alive with their Lord," until His saying: nor will they grieve. He claimed that the souls of the martyrs are in the bodies of green birds, in golden lanterns suspended from the Throne. They graze morning and evening in Paradise, spending the night in the lanterns. When they set out to roam, a caller calls out: What do you want? What do you desire? They say: Our Lord, we are in what our souls desire! Their Lord asks them again: What do you desire? What do you want? They say: We are in what our souls desire! They are asked a third time, and they say what they said: But we would like our souls to return to our bodies! Because of what they saw of the great reward.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Ibad told us, he said, Ibrahim bin Muammar told us, on the authority of Al-Hasan, he said: The son of Adam continues to praise God until he becomes alive and does not die. Then he recited this verse: "And never think of those who are killed in the way of God as dead. Rather, they are alive with their Lord, receiving provision."

Muhammad bin Marzuq narrated, he said: Umar bin Yunus narrated, on the authority of Ikrimah, he said: Ishaq bin Abi Talhah narrated, he said: Anas bin Malik narrated to me regarding the companions of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, whom the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent to the people of Bir Ma'unah. He said: I do not know, forty or seventy. He said: And by that water was 'Amir bin At-Tufayl Al-Ja'fari. So those men from the companions of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, went out until they came to a cave overlooking the water. They sat in it, then some of them said to each other: Who among you will deliver the message of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, to the people of this water? He said - I think he was Ibn Milhan Al-Ansari -: I will deliver the message of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. So he went out until he came to a group of them, and he crouched in front of the houses and then he said: O people of Bir Ma'unah, I am the messenger of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, to you. I bear witness that there is no god but God and that Muhammad is His servant and Messenger, so believe in God and His Messenger. Then a man came out to him from the broken house with a spear and struck him in the side until he came out from the other side. He said: God is Great, I have won, by the Lord of the Kaaba! So they followed his tracks until they reached his companions, and Amir ibn Tufail killed them all. Ishaq said: Anas ibn Malik told me: God the Almighty revealed a Qur'an about them, which was lifted after we had recited it for a while. God revealed: "And never think of those who are killed in the way of God as dead. Rather, they are alive with their Lord, receiving provision."

Yahya ibn Abi Talib narrated, Yazid narrated, Juwaybir narrated, on the authority of Ad-Dahhak, who said: When those of the companions of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who were killed on the day of Uhud, met their Lord and He honored them, so they attained life, martyrdom, and good provision, they said: If only there were between us and our brothers someone who would tell them that we have met our Lord and He was pleased with us and pleased us! God Almighty said: I am your messenger to your Prophet and your brothers. Then God Almighty revealed to His Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace: "And never think of those who are killed in the way of God as dead. Rather, they are alive with their Lord, receiving provision," until His saying: nor will they grieve. This is the report that God conveyed to His Messenger and the believers, as the martyrs said.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

First: When God Almighty explained that what happened on the day of Uhud was a test to distinguish the hypocrite from the truthful, He explained that whoever was not defeated and killed has honor and life with him, and the verse is about the martyrs of Uhud, and it was said: It was revealed about the martyrs of Bir Ma'unah, and it was said: Rather, it is general for all martyrs, and in the book of Abu Dawud with a sound chain of transmission on the authority of Ibn Abbas, he said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: When your brothers were afflicted at Uhud, God placed their souls in the bodies of green birds that go to the rivers of Paradise, eat from its fruits, and take refuge in lamps of gold suspended in the shade of the Throne, so that they would not lose interest in jihad or retreat in war. God Almighty said: I will convey to them on your behalf," he said: So God revealed: And do not think that those who are killed in the way of God are dead to the end of the verses.

Baqi bin Mukhallad narrated, "On the authority of Jabir, he said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, met me and said: O Jabir, why do I see you downcast and worried? I said: O Messenger of God, my father was martyred and left behind children and a debt. He said: Shall I not give you good report of what God, the Almighty, met your father with? I said: Yes, O Messenger of God. He said: God brought your father back to life and spoke to him directly, and He never spoke to anyone except from behind a veil. He said to him: O My servant, wish and I will give you. He said: O Lord, return me to the world so that I may be killed in Your cause a second time. The Lord, the Blessed and Exalted, said: It has already been decreed by Me that they will not return to it. He said: O Lord, then convey it to those who come after me. Then God, the Almighty, revealed: "And never think that those who were killed in the way of God are dead. Rather, they are alive." He said: When Hamza bin Abdul Muttalib and Mus'ab bin Umair and they saw what they were given of goodness, they said: If only our brothers knew what goodness has befallen us, they would increase their desire for jihad. God Almighty said: I will convey it to them on your behalf. Then God Almighty revealed: And never think that those who are killed in the way of God are dead until His saying: The reward of the believers will not be lost. Abu al-Dhaha said: This verse was revealed about the people of Uhud in particular, and the first hadith requires the correctness of this statement. Some of them said: It was revealed about the martyrs of Badr, and they were fourteen men, eight from the Ansar and six from the Muhajireen. It was said: It was revealed about the martyrs of Bir Ma'unah, and their story is famous, and Muhammad ibn Ishaq and others mentioned it. Others said: When the guardians of the martyrs were afflicted with a blessing and joy, they would regret and say: We are in a blessing and joy, and our fathers and brothers are in the graves. So God Almighty revealed this verse to relieve them and inform them about the state of their dead.

I said: In short, even if it is possible that the revelation was due to the group, God Almighty informed us in it about the martyrs that they are alive in Paradise and are provided for, and there is no doubt that they died and their bodies are in the dust, and their souls are alive like the souls of all the believers, and they were given preference in provision in Paradise from the time of killing until it was as if the life of this world was permanent for them.

Scholars have differed on this meaning. The majority of scholars agree on what we have mentioned, and that the life of the martyrs is certain. Then some of them say: The souls return to them in their graves and they enjoy themselves just as the infidels live in their graves and are tormented. Mujahid said: They are provided with the fruits of Paradise, meaning they find its fragrance but are not in it. Some people have concluded that this is a metaphor, and the meaning is that they are, by the judgment of God, deserving of enjoyment in Paradise. It is like saying: So-and-so did not die, meaning his memory is alive, as it was said:

The death of the pious is an eternal life. Some people have died while they were alive among the people.

The meaning is that they are granted beautiful praise. Others said: Their souls are in the bellies of green birds and that they are granted provision in Paradise and eat and enjoy themselves. This is the correct statement, because whatever is authentically transmitted is the reality. The hadith of Ibn Abbas is a text that removes the dispute, as is the hadith of Ibn Mas'ud, which was included by Muslim. We have already explained this meaning in the book At-Tadhkirah bi-Ahwal Al-Mawta wa-Amr Al-Akhira. Praise be to God.

We have mentioned there how many martyrs there are, and that their condition varies. As for those who interpret the martyrs as being alive, meaning that they will come back to life, this is far-fetched and is rejected by the Qur'an and Sunnah, for the Most High's statement, Rather, they are alive, is evidence of their life, and that they are provided for, and no one is provided for except the living. It has been said that the reward of a battle is written for them every year, and they share in the reward of every jihad that came after them until the Day of Resurrection, because they established the matter of jihad. Similar to the statement of the Most High, Because of that, We decreed upon the Children of Israel that whoever kills a soul (al-Ma'idah 5:32), as will be explained there, God willing. It has also been said that their souls bow and prostrate under the Throne until the Day of Resurrection, like the souls of the living believers who spent the night in a state of ritual purity. It has also been said that the martyr does not decay in the grave, and the earth does not eat him. We have mentioned this meaning in al-Tadhkirah, and that the earth does not eat the prophets, martyrs, scholars, muezzins who seek reward, and bearers of the Qur'an.

Second: If the martyr is alive by law, then he is not prayed over, just like the living by sense. The scholars differed regarding washing the martyrs and praying over them. Malik, Al-Shafi'i, Abu Hanifa, and Al-Thawri went to wash all the martyrs and pray over them, except for those killed in battle while fighting the enemy specifically, based on the hadith of Jabir who said: "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Bury them with their blood,' meaning the day of Uhud, and he did not wash them. It was narrated by Al-Bukhari. Abu Dawud narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, ordered that the iron and leather be removed from the dead of Uhud and that they be buried with their blood and clothes. This is what Ahmad, Ishaq, Al-Awza'i, Dawud bin Ali, and a group of the jurists of the Ath-Thār and the people of hadith and Ibn Ulayyah said. Sa'id bin Al-Musayyab and Al-Hasan said: They are washed. One of them said: The martyrs of Uhud were not washed because of their large number and the preoccupation with that. Abu Umar said: None of the jurists of the regions said this statement of Sa'id and Al-Hasan except Ubaydullah bin Al-Hasan Al-Anbari, and what they mentioned about being preoccupied with washing the martyrs of Uhud is not what they mentioned about being preoccupied with washing the martyrs of Uhud. A reason, because each one of them had a guardian who would occupy himself with him and take care of his affairs, and the reason for that, and God knows best, is what came in the hadith about their blood: "It will come on the Day of Resurrection like the scent of a path." So it became clear that the reason is not the occupation as those who said about that said, and this issue has no place in analogy and consideration, but rather it is a matter of following the trace that was transmitted by all regarding those killed at Uhud who were not washed. Some of the later scholars who followed the school of al-Hasan used as evidence his saying, peace be upon him, regarding the martyrs of Uhud 11: I am a witness over these on the Day of Resurrection. He said: This indicates their exclusivity and that no one else shares in that with them. Abu Omar said: This resembles an anomaly, and the saying that they should not be washed is more appropriate, because that was proven from the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, regarding those killed at Uhud and others. Abu Dawud narrated on the authority of Jabir, who said: A man was shot with an arrow in his chest or throat and died, so he was wrapped in his clothes as he was. He said: And we were with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace.

And never think of those who are killed in the way of God as dead. Rather, they are alive with their Lord, receiving provision.

Third: As for praying over them, the scholars differed on that as well. Malik, Al-Layth, Al-Shafi'i, Ahmad and Dawud were of the opinion that they should not be prayed over, based on the hadith of Jabir who said: "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, would gather the two men killed at Uhud in one garment and then say: Which of them knew more of the Qur'an? If one of them was pointed out to him, he would put him forward in the grave and say: I will be a witness over these people on the Day of Resurrection. He ordered that they be buried with their blood and they were not washed and no prayer was said over them." The jurists of Kufa, Basra and Ash-Sham said: They should be prayed over, and they narrated many reports, most of which were mural.

The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, prayed over Hamza and all the martyrs of Uhud.

Fourth: The scholars agreed that if a martyr is carried alive and does not die in battle and lives and eats, then he should be prayed over, as was done with Omar, may God be pleased with him.

They differed about the one who was killed unjustly, such as the one killed by the Khawarij, the highway robbers, and the like. Abu Hanifa and al-Thawri said: Everyone who was killed unjustly is not washed, but he is prayed over, as is the case with every martyr. This is the opinion of all the people of Iraq. They narrated through many authentic chains of transmission on the authority of Zayd ibn Suhan, who was killed on the Day of the Camel: Do not remove my garment and do not wash my blood. It was proven on the authority of Ammar ibn Yasir that he said like the people of Zayd ibn Suhan, and Ammar ibn Yasir was killed at Siffin and Ali did not wash him. Al-Shafi'i has two opinions, one of which is that he is washed like all the dead except those killed by the people of war. This is the opinion of Malik. Malik said: The one who was killed by the infidels and died in battle is not washed. Every person killed other than the one killed in battle, killed by the infidels, is washed and the prayer is prayed over. This is the opinion of Ahmad ibn Hanbal, may God be pleased with him. The other opinion of al-Shafi'i is that the one killed by the rebels is not washed. The opinion of Malik is more correct, because washing the dead has been proven by consensus and transmitted by all, so washing every dead person is obligatory except... Whoever narrated it based on consensus or an established Sunnah, and success is from God.

Fifth: If an enemy attacks people in their home and they do not know about it and kills some of them, is his ruling the same as the ruling of those killed in battle, or the ruling of all the dead? This issue was revealed to us in Cordoba, may God restore it: The enemy, may God break him, attacked on the morning of the third of the great Ramadan in the year six hundred and twenty-seven, while the people were in their huts, unaware, so he killed and took captives. My father, may God have mercy on him, was among those killed. So I asked our Sheikh, the reciter, the teacher Abu Ja'far Ahmad, known as Abu Hujjah, and he said: Wash him and pray over him, because your father was not killed in battle between the two lines. Then I asked our Sheikh Rabi' ibn Abd al-Rahman ibn Ahmad ibn Rabi' ibn Abi, and he said: His ruling is the ruling of those killed in battle. Then I asked the judge of the group, Abu al-Hasan Ali ibn Qatral, and a group of jurists were around him, and they said: Wash him, shroud him, and pray over him. So I did. Then after that I came across the issue in al-Tabsira by Abu al-Hasan al-Lakhmi and others. If that had been before I washed him, I would have buried him with his blood in his clothes.

Sixth: This verse indicates the great reward of killing in the way of God and martyrdom in it, to the point that it expiates sins, as the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "Killing in the way of God expiates everything except debt. Gabriel, peace be upon him, said this to me just now." Our scholars said that mentioning debt is an indication of what is similar to it in terms of rights related to consciences, such as usurpation, taking money unjustly, premeditated murder, wounding, and other consequences. All of this is more deserving of not being forgiven by jihad than by debt, as it is more severe. Retribution in all of these is by good deeds and bad deeds, as stated in the established Sunnah.

"Abdullah bin Anas narrated that he heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: God will gather the servants, or he said the people, Hammam doubted, and he pointed with his hand to the Levant, naked, uncircumcised and mute. We said: What is wrong with them? He said: They have nothing with them. Then he will call out to them in a voice that will be heard from near and far: I am the King, I am the Judge. It is not appropriate for anyone from the people of Paradise to enter Paradise while one of the people of Hell seeks him out with a wrong, and it is not appropriate for anyone from the people of Hell to enter Hell while one of the people of Paradise seeks him out with a wrong, even a slap. We said: How is that, when we come to God barefoot, naked and uncircumcised? He said: With good deeds and bad deeds." Narrated by Al-Harith bin Abi Usamah, and in Sahih Muslim, "On the authority of Abu Hurairah: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Do you know who is bankrupt? They said: The bankrupt among us is the one who has no dirham or property. He said: The bankrupt among my nation is the one who comes on the Day of Resurrection with prayer, fasting and zakat, but he has insulted this one, slandered that one, consumed the wealth of this one, shed the blood of this one and struck this one. So this one will be given from his good deeds and this one from his bad deeds." His good deeds, but if his good deeds run out before he has paid off his debt, some of their sins will be taken and placed on him, then he will be thrown into the Fire." And "The Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) said: 'By the One in Whose Hand is my soul, if a man were killed in the cause of God, then brought back to life, then killed, then brought back to life, then killed, and he had a debt, he would not enter Paradise until it was paid off for him.'" Abu Hurayrah narrated that the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) said: 'The soul of the believer is suspended as long as he had a debt.' Ahmad ibn Zuhayr said: Yahya ibn Ma'een was asked about this hadeeth and he said: It is saheeh. If it is said: This indicates that some of the martyrs will not enter Paradise from the time of their killing, and their souls will not be in the bodies of birds as you mentioned, nor will they be in their graves, so where will they be? We say: It has been narrated from the Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) that he said: 'The souls of the martyrs are on a river at the gate of Paradise called Barq, and their provision comes out to them from Paradise morning and evening. Perhaps they are these.' And God knows best." And for this reason Imam Abu Muhammad bin Atiyah said: And these are different classes and conditions, and they are united by the fact that they are provided for. And Imam Abu Abdullah Muhammad bin Yazid bin Majah Al-Qazwini narrated in his Sunan, "On the authority of Salim bin Amir, who said: I heard Abu Umamah say: I heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: The martyr of the sea is like the martyrs of the land and the one who is drowning in his blood on land, and between the two waves is like the one who crosses the world in obedience to God. And God Almighty has assigned the Angel of Death to take the souls, except for the martyrs of the sea, for He, glory be to Him, takes charge of taking their souls, and forgives the martyr of the land all sins except debt, and forgives the martyr of the sea all sins and debt."

Seventh: The debt that prevents its owner from Paradise, and God knows best, is the debt that he left behind and did not bequeath, or was able to pay but did not pay, or he owed it extravagantly or foolishly and died without paying it. As for the one who owed a debt due to poverty and hardship and died without leaving behind payment, then God will not prevent him from Paradise, God willing, because it is obligatory upon the ruler to pay his debt, either from the charity, or from the share of the debtors, or from the spoils of war that are returned to the Muslims. "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Whoever leaves behind a debt or a loss, then it is upon God and His Messenger, and whoever leaves behind wealth, then it is for his heirs.'" We have added more clarification to this topic in the Book of Remembrance, and praise be to God.

Eighth: The Almighty's saying: With their Lord they will be provided for. There is an omission in it of an added word, the meaning of which is with the honor of their Lord. And with implies the utmost closeness, so it is like with and therefore it is not made diminutive, so it is said! Stubborn, said Sibawayh, this is with him the dignity, not with him the distance and nearness, and they are provided with provision is the provision known in customs, and whoever said: it is the life of remembrance said: they are provided with beautiful praise, and the first is the truth, and it has been said: the souls perceive in that state in which they roam of the scents of Paradise and its goodness and its bliss and its joy what is appropriate for the souls, from what they are provided with and refreshed by, and as for the physical pleasures, then if those souls are returned to their bodies they will receive from the bliss all that God has prepared for them, and this is a good statement, and if there is a kind of metaphor in it, it is in accordance with what we have chosen, and the one who grants success is God, and Farheen is accusative in the place of the state of the implied in they are provided with provision, and Farheen is permissible in speech as an adjective for the living, and it is from joy in the sense of joy, and the virtue in this verse is the mentioned bliss, and Ibn al-Samiq read Farheen with an alif and they are two languages like farah and farah, and hazar and hadhar, and greed and greed, and miserliness and miserliness, al-Nahhas said: It is permissible to raise it in places other than the Qur'an, as an adjective for living things.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

God the Almighty tells us about the martyrs that even if they are killed in this world, their souls are alive and provided for in the eternal home. Muhammad bin Jarir said: Muhammad bin Marzuq told us, Amr bin Yunus told us on the authority of Ikrimah, Ibn Ishaq bin Abi Talhah told us, Anas bin Malik told me about the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, whom the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent to the people of Bir Ma'unah. He said: I do not know, forty or seventy, and at that water was Amir bin At-Tufayl Al-Ja'fari. So those people from the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, went out until they came to a cave overlooking the water and sat in it. Then some of them said to one another: Who among you will deliver the message of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, to the people of this water? He said - I think he was Ibn Milhan Al-Ansari -: I am delivering the message of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. So he went out until he came to a group of them and hid in front of the houses. Then he said: "O people of Bir Ma'una, I am the Messenger of God to you. I bear witness that there is no god but God and that Muhammad is His servant and Messenger. So believe in God and His Messenger." Then a man came out to him from the house with a spear and struck him in the side until he came out from the other side. He said: God is Great, I have won, by the Lord of the Kaaba. So they followed his tracks until they reached his companions in the cave. Amir bin At-Tufayl killed them all. Ishaq said: Anas bin Malik told me that God revealed a Qur'an about them: Convey from us to our people that we have met our Lord, and He is pleased with us and we are pleased with Him. Then it was abrogated and lifted after we had read it for a while. Then God Almighty revealed: "And never think of those who are killed in the way of God as dead. Rather, they are alive with their Lord, receiving provision." Muslim said in his Sahih: : Muhammad ibn Abdullah ibn Numayr narrated to us, Abu Muawiyah narrated to us, Al-A'mash narrated to us, on the authority of Abdullah ibn Murrah, on the authority of Masruq, who said: We asked Abdullah about this verse: "And never think of those who are killed in the way of God as dead. Rather, they are alive with their Lord, and they are provided for." He said: We asked the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, about that, and he said: "Their souls are in the bodies of green birds, which have lanterns hanging from the Throne. They roam in Paradise wherever they wish, then they return to those lanterns. Then their Lord looked at them and said: Do you desire anything? They said: What do we desire when we roam in Paradise wherever we wish? He did that to them three times. When they saw that they would not be left without being asked, they said: O Lord, we want you to return our souls to our bodies so that we may be killed in Your way once again. When He saw that they had no need, they were left." Something similar to this was narrated from the hadith of Anas and Abu Saeed.

Surat Al Imran 3:169

And never think of those who are killed in the way of God as dead. Rather, they are alive with their Lord, receiving provision.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Abd al-Samad told us, Hammad told us, Thabit told us on the authority of Anas that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "There is no soul that dies and has goodness with God that would be pleased to return to the world except the martyr, for he would be pleased to return to the world and be killed again because of what he sees of the virtue of martyrdom."

Muslim transmitted it only on the authority of Hammad.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Ali ibn Abdullah al-Madini told us, Sufyan told us, on the authority of Muhammad ibn Ali ibn Rabi'ah al-Salami, on the authority of Abdullah ibn Muhammad ibn Aqil, on the authority of Jabir, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to me: Do you know that God brought your father back to life? He said to him: Make a wish of me. He said to him: I will be returned to the world so that I may be killed once again. He said: I have decided that they will not return to it. Ahmad is the only one to narrate it from this source. It has been proven in the two Sahih and others that Abu Jabir, who is Abdullah ibn Amr ibn Haram al-Ansari, may God be pleased with him, was killed as a martyr on the day of Uhud. Al-Bukhari said: Abu al-Walid said on the authority of Shu'bah on the authority of Ibn al-Munkadir: I heard Jabir say: When my father was killed, I began to cry and uncover the cloth from his face. The companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, began to forbid me, but the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, did not forbid me. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Do not cry for him - or do not cry for him - the angels continued to shade him with their wings until he was taken up. He, Muslim, and al-Nasa'i transmitted it through another chain of transmission on the authority of Shu'bah, on the authority of Muhammad ibn al-Munkadir, on the authority of Jabir, may God bless him: When my father was killed on the day of Uhud, I began to uncover the cloth from his face and cry. He mentioned the rest of it in a similar manner.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Yaqub told us, my father told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq, Ismail bin Umayyah bin Amr bin Saeed told us, on the authority of Abu al-Zubayr al-Makki, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "When your brothers were afflicted at Uhud, God placed their souls in the bodies of green birds, which would go to the rivers of Paradise, eat from its fruits, and take refuge in golden lanterns in the shade of the Throne. When they found the goodness of their drink and food, and the beauty of their resting place, they said: 'If only our brothers knew what God has done for us, so that they would not give up jihad and turn away from war.' God, the Almighty, said: 'I will convey it to them on your behalf.' Then God, the Almighty, revealed these verses: 'And never think of those who are killed in the way of God as dead. Rather, they are alive with their Lord, receiving provision.' and what follows." This is how Ahmad narrated it, and likewise Ibn Jarir narrated it on the authority of Yunus, on the authority of Ibn Wahb, on the authority of Ismail bin Ayyash, on the authority of Muhammad bin Ishaq. It was narrated by Abu Dawud and Al-Hakim in his Mustadrak from the hadith of Abdullah bin Idris from Muhammad bin Ishaq from Ismail bin Umayyah from Abu Al-Zubayr from Saeed bin Jubair from Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, and he mentioned it, and this is more authentic. Sufyan Al-Thawri narrated it likewise from Salim Al-Aftas from Saeed bin Jubair from Ibn Abbas - and Al-Hakim narrated in his Mustadrak from the hadith of Abu Ishaq Al-Fazari from Sufyan from Ismail bin Abi Khalid from Saeed bin Jubair from Ibn Abbas, who said: This verse was revealed about Hamzah and his companions: "And never think of those who are killed in the way of God as dead. Rather, they are alive with their Lord, receiving provision." Then he said: It is authentic according to the conditions of the two sheikhs, but they did not include it. Qatada, Al-Rabi' and Al-Dahhak also said: It was revealed about those killed at Uhud.

Another Hadith Abu Bakr bin Mardawayh said: Abdullah bin Jaafar told us, Harun bin Sulaiman told us, Ali bin Abdullah Al-Madini told us, Musa bin Ibrahim bin Katheer bin Bashir bin Al-Fakih Al-Ansari told us, I heard Talha bin Kharash bin Abdul Rahman bin Kharash bin Al-Sammah Al-Ansari, he said: I heard Jabir bin Abdullah say: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, looked at me one day and said: O Jabir, why do I see you worried? I said: O Messenger of God, my father was martyred and left behind a debt and children. He said: Shall I not tell you that God has never spoken to anyone except from behind a veil, and He spoke to your father directly? Ali said: Direct confrontation. He said: Ask Me and I will give it to you. He said: I ask You to return to the world so that I may be killed in Your cause a second time. The Lord Almighty said: Indeed, the word has already gone before from Me: They will not return to it. He said: O Lord, then convey it to those who are behind me. Then God revealed: And do not think that those who are killed in the way of God are dead. Then he narrated it from another chain of transmission on the authority of Muhammad ibn Sulayman ibn Salit al-Ansari, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Jabir, with a similar chain of transmission. And thus al-Bayhaqi narrated it in Dalā'il al-Nubuwwah on the authority of Ali ibn al-Madini with it. And al-Bayhaqi also narrated it from the hadith of Abu Ubadah al-Ansari, who is 'Isa ibn 'Abd al-Rahman, God willing, on the authority of al-Zuhri, on the authority of 'Urwah, on the authority of 'A'ishah, who said: "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to Jabir: 'O Jabir, shall I not give you good report?' He said: 'Yes, God has given you good report.' He said: 'I felt that God had brought your father back to life, and said: 'Ask of My servant whatever you wish, and I will give it to you.' He said: 'O Lord, I have not worshipped You as You should be worshipped. I hope that You will return me to the world so that I may fight with Your Prophet and be killed for You once again.' He said: 'It has already been said from me that it will not return to it.'"

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Yaqub told us, my father told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq, Al-Harith bin Fadil Al-Ansari told us, on the authority of Mahmud bin Labid, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The martyrs are on a river at the gate of Paradise, in a green dome, and their provision comes out to them from Paradise morning and evening." Ahmad is the only one to narrate it. Ibn Jarir narrated it on the authority of Abu Kurayb: Abd Al-Rahman bin Sulayman and Ubaydah told us on the authority of

Muhammad bin Ishaq with it, and it is a good chain of transmission. And as if the martyrs are divided into groups: some of their souls will roam in Paradise, and some of them will be on this river at the gate of Paradise, and it may be possible that their journey will end at this river, and they will gather there, and their provisions will be brought to them there and they will rest, and God knows best. We have narrated in Musnad al-Imam Ahmad a hadith in which there is good report for every believer that his soul will be in Paradise, roaming there as well, and eating from its fruits, and seeing the freshness and joy in it, and witnessing what God has prepared for it of honor, and it is with a sound, noble and great chain of transmission, in which three of the four imams, the owners of the followed schools of thought, have come together, for Imam Ahmad, may God have mercy on him, narrated it on the authority of Muhammad ibn Idris al-Shafi'i, may God have mercy on him, on the authority of Malik ibn Anas al-Asbahi, may God have mercy on him, on the authority of al-Zuhri, on the authority of Abd al-Rahman ibn Ka'b ibn Malik, on the authority of his father, may God be pleased with him, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The soul of the believer is a bird that hangs in the trees of Paradise until God returns it to its body on the Day of Resurrection." His saying hangs means eats, and in this hadith: The soul of the believer will be in the form of a bird in... "Paradise" As for the souls of the martyrs, as mentioned previously in the crops of green birds, they are like planets in relation to the souls of all believers, for they fly by themselves, so we ask God, the Generous, the Beneficent, to cause us to die in faith. And His Most High's saying: Rejoicing in what God has given them to the end of the verse, meaning the martyrs who were killed in the way of God are alive with their Lord, and they are happy with what they are in of grace and happiness, and they are glad for their brothers who are killed after them in the way of God, that they are advancing upon them, and that they do not fear what is ahead of them nor are they sad for what they left behind them. We ask God for Paradise. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said, And they are glad meaning they are happy for those of their brothers who are behind them to catch up with what they have done of their jihad, so that they may share with them in what they are in of the reward of God that He has given them. Al-Suddi said: The martyr will be brought a book in which it says: So-and-so will come to you on such-and-such a day, and so-and-so will come to you on such-and-such a day, and he will be happy with that as the people of this world are happy with their absent ones when they come back. Saeed bin Jubair said: When they entered Paradise and saw the honor it has for the martyrs, they said: Oh, if only our brothers in this world knew what we know of honor, so that when they witness battle they would engage in it themselves so that they may be martyred and attain what we have attained of goodness. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, informed them of their situation and the honor they are in, and he informed them, that is, their Lord, that I have revealed to your Prophet and informed him of your situation and what you are in, so they were happy with that, and that is what He said: And they rejoice for those who have not yet joined them from behind them Al-Bukhari and

And never think of those who are killed in the way of God as dead. Rather, they are alive with their Lord, receiving provision.

Muslim. It has been proven in the two Sahihs on the authority of Anas, may God be pleased with him, in the story of the companions of the well of Ma'unah, the seventy of the Ansar who were killed in one morning, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, prayed and cursed those who killed them. Anas said: And a Qur'an was revealed about them, which we recited until it was lifted. Convey to our people that we have met our Lord, and He was pleased with us and satisfied us.

Then God Almighty said: They rejoice in favor from God and in bounty and that God does not allow the reward of the believers to be lost. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said: They rejoiced and were pleased when they saw the fulfillment of the promise and the great reward. Abd al-Rahman ibn Zayd ibn Aslam said: This verse includes all believers, whether martyrs or others. God rarely mentions a bounty with which He mentioned the prophets or a reward that He gave them, except that He mentioned what He gave to the believers after them. And the Almighty said: Those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wounds had befallen them. This was on the day of Hamra' al-Asad, and that is because when the polytheists inflicted what they inflicted on the Muslims, they turned back to their country, and when they continued on their way, they regretted why they did not complete the battle with the people of Medina and make it the decisive battle. So when this reached the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, he urged the Muslims to go after them to frighten them and show them that they had strength and endurance, and he did not give permission to anyone except those who were present at the battle on the day of Uhud, except Jabir ibn Abdullah, may God be pleased with him, for what we will mention, so the Muslims volunteered despite their wounds and infliction, in obedience to God Almighty and His Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace. Ibn Abi Hatim said: Muhammad ibn Abdullah ibn Yazid told us, Sufyan ibn Uyaynah told us, on the authority of Amr, on the authority of Ikrimah, who said: When the polytheists returned from Uhud, they said: You did not kill Muhammad, nor did you take the young camels with you. What a bad thing you have done! Return. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, heard of that, so he called upon the Muslims, and they volunteered until they reached Hamra' al-Asad - or Bir Abi Uyaynah - the doubt is from Sufyan - and the polytheists said: We will return the next year. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, returned, and it was considered a raid, and God Almighty revealed: Those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound had afflicted them - for those among them who did good and feared God is a great reward. Ibn Mardawayh narrated it from the hadith of Muhammad ibn Mansur, on the authority of Sufyan ibn Uyaynah, on the authority of Amr, on the authority of Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, and he mentioned it. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said: The day of Uhud was Saturday, the middle of Shawwal, and when the next day was Sunday, I did not... Ten nights had passed in Shawwal, and the muezzin of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, called out to the people to seek out the enemy. His muezzin called out that no one should go out with us except those who had been present the day before. Jabir ibn Abdullah ibn Amr ibn Haram spoke to him and said: O Messenger of God, my father left me behind with my seven sisters, and he said: O my son, it is not appropriate for me or for you to leave these women without a man among them. I am not the one who would prefer you to fight with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, over myself, so stay behind with your sisters. So I stayed behind with them. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, gave him permission, so he went out with him. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, only went out to frighten the enemy and to inform them that he had gone out in pursuit of them so that they would think that he was strong, and that what had befallen them had not weakened them against their enemy. Muhammad bin Ishaq said: Abdullah bin Kharijah bin Zaid bin Thabit told me on the authority of Abu al-Sa'ib, the freed slave of Aisha bint Uthman: That a man from the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, from Banu Abd al-Ashhal, who had witnessed the Battle of Uhud, said: I witnessed Uhud with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, my brother and I, and we returned wounded. When the muezzin of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, gave the call to go out in pursuit of the enemy, I said to my brother - or he said to me -: Are we missing a raid with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace? By God, we do not have a mount to ride, and none of us is seriously wounded. So we went out with the Messenger of God, and I was less wounded than he was. Whenever he was overcome, I would carry him up a hill and he would walk up a hill, until we reached the point where the Muslims had reached. Al-Bukhari said: Muhammad bin Salam told us, Abu Muawiyah told us, on the authority of Hisham, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Aisha, may God be pleased with her, Those who responded to God and the Messenger the verse, I said to Urwah: O son of my sister, your parents were among them, Al-Zubayr and Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with them, when the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, suffered what he suffered on the day of Uhud, and the polytheists turned away from him, he feared that they would return, so he said, Who will return after them? So seventy men volunteered from among them, among them Abu Bakr and Al-Zubayr, may God be pleased with them, this is how Al-Bukhari narrated it alone with this chain of transmission, and this is how Al-Hakim narrated it in his Mustadrak on the authority of Al-Asamm, on the authority of Abbas Al-Duri, on the authority of Abu Al-Nadr, on the authority of Abu Saeed Al-Mu'addib, on the authority of Hisham bin Urwah, then he said: It is authentic, and they did not include it, this is what he said. Ibn Majah narrated it on the authority of Hisham bin Ammar, and Hadiyyah bin Abdul Wahhab on the authority of Sufyan bin Uyaynah. On the authority of Hisham bin Urwa, on his authority, and thus it was narrated by Saeed bin Mansour and Abu Bakr Al-Hamidi in his Musnad on the authority of Sufyan, on his authority. Al-Hakim also narrated it from the hadith of Ismail bin Abi Khalid from Al-Bahi, from Urwah, who said: Aisha said to me: O my son, your father is among those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound befell them, then he said: It is authentic according to the conditions of the two sheikhs, and they did not include it. Abu Bakr bin Mardawayh said: Abdullah bin Jaafar told us from the original book, Samuyah told us, Abdullah bin Al-Zubayr told us, Sufyan told us, Hisham told us from his father, from Aisha, may God be pleased with her, she said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to me: Your parents are among those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound befell them, Abu Bakr and Al-Zubayr, may God be pleased with them." And the attribution of this hadith is a complete mistake in terms of its chain of transmission because it contradicts the narration of trustworthy people from stopping at Aisha, may God be pleased with her, as we have presented, and in terms of its meaning, Al-Zubayr is not among the fathers of Aisha, but rather Aisha said that to Urwah bin Al-Zubayr, because he is the son of her sister Asma bint Abi Bakr. Al-Siddiq, may God be pleased with them, and Ibn Jarir said: Muhammad bin Saad told me, my father told me, my uncle told me, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: God cast terror into the heart of Abu Sufyan on the day of Uhud after what had happened to him, so he returned to Mecca, and the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Abu Sufyan has suffered a part of you, and he has returned and God has cast terror into his heart. The Battle of Uhud was in Shawwal, and the merchants used to come to Medina in Dhul-Qi'dah, and they would camp at Badr al-Sughra once every year, and they came after the Battle of Uhud, and the believers were afflicted with wounds, and they complained about that to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and what afflicted them was severe, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, urged the people to set out with him and follow what they had been following, and he said: They are only setting out now to come for Hajj, and they will not be able to do the same until the next year. Then Satan came and frightened his followers, and said: The people have gathered against you, but the people refused to follow him, so he said: I am going, even if no one follows me, to urge the people. So Abu Bakr al-Siddiq, Umar, Uthman, Ali, al-Zubayr, Sa'd, Talhah, Abd al-Rahman ibn Awf, Abdullah ibn Mas'ud, Hudhayfah ibn al-Yaman, and Abu Ubaidah ibn al-Jarrah volunteered with him, with seventy men. They set out in pursuit of Abu Sufyan, and they pursued him until they reached al-Safra'. Then God, the Most High, revealed: Those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound had afflicted them. Then Ibn Ishaq said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, set out until he reached Hamra' al-Asad, which is eight miles from Medina. Ibn Hisham said: He appointed Ibn Umm Maktum over Medina, and he stayed there on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, then he returned to Medina. Ma'bad ibn Abi Ma'bad al-Khuza'i passed by him, as Abdullah ibn Abi Bakr told me. The Khuza'ah, both

Muslims and polytheists, were a group of sincere advisers to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, in Tihamah. They made a deal with him, and they did not hide anything that was there from him. Ma'bad was a polytheist at that time, so he said: O Muhammad, by God, what has afflicted you has been very hard on us. In your companions, and we wish that God had spared you from them. Then he and the Messenger of God (peace be upon him) went out at Hamra' al-Asad until he met Abu Sufyan ibn Harb and those with him at al-Rawha', and they had decided to return to the Messenger of God (peace be upon him) and his companions, and they said: We have achieved the goal of his companions, their leaders and their nobles, then we return before we eradicate them? We will attack the rest of them and then we will finish with them. When Abu Sufyan saw Ma'bad, he said: What is behind you, Ma'bad? He said: Muhammad and his companions are pursuing you in a group the likes of which I have never seen, they are burning with desire for you. Those who had stayed behind from him on your day have gathered with him and regretted what they did. They have a resentment towards you that I have never seen before. He said: Woe to you, what are you saying? He said: By God, I do not think that you should set out until you see the forelocks of the horses. He said: By God, we have decided to attack them to eradicate the rest of them. He said: I forbid you from that, and by God, what I saw made me recite some verses of poetry about them. He said: What did you say? He said: I said:

My camel was almost knocked down by the sounds as the ground was covered with the locusts.

He was a noble lion, not a coward when meeting, nor a slender disposition when facing off.

I remained an enemy, I think the earth is tilted because of what they called a leader who will not be let down

I said, Woe to Ibn Harb from meeting you when the plain is covered with mud.

I am a warner to the people of valor, a warning to every one of them who has a desire and a sense.

From the army of Ahmed, do not be afraid of the Tanablah, and what you warned about cannot be described as mere talk.

He said: This made Abu Sufyan and those with him think twice, and a group of Banu Abd al-Qais passed by him and he said: Where are you going? They said: We are going to Medina. He said: Why? They said: We are going to provide provisions. He said: Will you deliver a message from me to Muhammad that I will send you to him and that I will carry these raisins for you in Ukaz tomorrow if you meet us? They said: Yes. He said: When you meet him, tell him that we have decided to march to him and his companions to eradicate their remnants. The group passed by the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) while he was at Hamra al-Asad, and they told him what Abu Sufyan and his companions had said. They said: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. Ibn Hisham narrated on the authority of Abu Ubaidah, who said: "When the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him

And never think of those who are killed in the way of God as dead. Rather, they are alive with their Lord, receiving provision.

peace, heard of their return, he said: 'By Him in Whose Hand is my soul, I have offered them stones, if they were to be brought to them in the morning, they would be as if they had gone yesterday.'" Al-Hasan al-Basri said regarding his statement: Those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound had afflicted them, that Abu Sufyan and his companions had afflicted the Muslims with what they had afflicted and had returned. "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Abu Sufyan has returned and God has cast terror into his heart, so who will volunteer to search for him?' So the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, Abu Bakr, Umar, Uthman, Ali, and some of the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, got up and followed them. Abu Sufyan was informed that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, was searching for him, so he met a caravan of merchants and said: 'Return Muhammad and you will have such and such a reward, and tell them that I have gathered a group for them and that I will return to them.' So the merchants came and informed the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, of that, and the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs.'" So God revealed this verse, and this is what Ikrimah, Qatada and others said: This context was revealed regarding Hamra al-Asad, and it was said: It was revealed regarding the Battle of Badr al-Maw'id, but the first is correct. And the Almighty's saying: Those to whom the people said, 'The people have gathered against you, so fear them,' but it only increased them in faith, the verse, meaning those whom the people threatened with crowds and frightened them with the large number of enemies, but they did not care about that, rather they put their trust in God and sought His help, and said, 'God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs.' Al-Bukhari said: Ahmad bin Yunus told us, he said: I think he said: Abu Bakr told us, on the authority of Abu Hasin, on the authority of Abu al-Dhaha, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs, Ibrahim, peace be upon him, said it when he was thrown into the fire, and Muhammad, peace be upon him, said it when the people said to them, 'The people have gathered against you, so fear them,' but it only increased their faith, and they said, 'God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs.'" Al-Nasa'i narrated it on the authority of Muhammad ibn Ismail ibn Ibrahim and Harun ibn Abdullah, both on the authority of Yahya ibn Abi Bakr, on the authority of Abu Bakr, who is Ibn Ayyash, on his authority. It is surprising that Al-Hakim Abu Abdullah narrated it on the authority of Ahmad ibn Yunus, then he said: It is authentic according to the conditions of the two sheikhs, and they did not include it. Then Al-Bukhari narrated it on the authority of Abu Ghassan Malik ibn Ismail, on the authority of Israel, on the authority of Abu Hasin, on the authority of Abu Ad-Dahha, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: The last words of Abraham, peace be upon him, when he was thrown into the fire were: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. And Abd Al-Razzaq said: Ibn Uyaynah said: Zakariya informed me on the authority of Al-Sha'bi, on the authority of Abdullah ibn Amr, who said: These are the words of Abraham, peace be upon him, when he was thrown into the fire. Narrated by Ibn Jarir. Abu Bakr bin Mardawayh said: Muhammad bin Muammar told us, Ibrahim bin Musa al-Thawri told us, Abdul Rahim bin Muhammad bin Ziyad al-Sakari told us, Abu Bakr bin Ayyash told us, on the authority of Hamid al-Tawil, on the authority of Anas bin Malik, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, that it was said to him on the day of UHud 11: The people have gathered against you, so fear them. So God revealed this verse. He also narrated on his authority on the authority of Muhammad bin Ubayd God al-Rafi'i, on the authority of his father, on the authority of his grandfather Abu Rafi': That the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent Ali with a group of people with him in pursuit of Abu Sufyan, and a Bedouin from Khuza'ah met them and said: The people have gathered against you. They said: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. So this verse was revealed about them. Then Ibn Mardawayh said: "Dulaj bin Ahmad told us, Al-Hasan bin Sufyan told us, Abu Khaithama Mus'ab bin Sa'id told us, Musa bin A'yan told us, on the authority of Al-A'mash, on the authority of Abu Salih, on the authority of Abu Hurairah, who said: 'The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "When you encounter a grave matter, say: 'God is sufficient for us, and He is the best disposer of affairs.'" This is a strange hadith from this source. Imam Ahmad said: Haywah bin Shuraih and Ibrahim bin Abi Al-Abbas told us, they said: Baqiyah told us, Buhair bin Sa'd told us, on the authority of Khalid bin Ma'dan, on the authority of Saif, on the authority of Awf bin Malik, that he told them: "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, judged between two men, and when the one against whom the judgment was made turned away, he said: 'God is sufficient for me, and He is the best disposer of affairs.' The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Bring me back to the man.' He said: 'What did you say?' He said: 'I said: God is sufficient for me, and He is the best disposer of affairs.' The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'God blames weakness, but you should be intelligent. If a matter overcomes you, say: God is sufficient for me.'" And what an excellent agent! And thus Abu Dawud and al-Nasa'i narrated it from the hadith of Baqiyyah from Buhayr from Khalid, from Sayf who is al-Shami, and it was not attributed from Awf ibn Malik from the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, in a similar manner. And Imam Ahmad said: Asbat told us, Mutraf told us from Atiyyah from Ibn Abbas regarding his statement: And when the trumpet is blown, he said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: How can I enjoy myself while the companion of the trumpet has taken hold of the trumpet and bent his forehead, hearing when he is commanded to blow? The companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: What should we say? He said: Say: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. In God we trust. This has been narrated from more than one source, and it is a good hadith. We narrated from the Mother of the Believers, Zainab and Aisha, may God be pleased with them, that they boasted, and Zainab said: God married me and your families married you. Aisha said: My innocence was revealed from the heavens in the Qur'an, so Zainab submitted to her, then she said: What did you say when you rode the mount of Safwan bin Mu'attal? She said: I said: God is sufficient for me, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. Zainab said: I said the word of the believers, and for this reason God the Almighty said: So they returned with favor from God and bounty, no harm had touched them, meaning when they put their trust in God, He sufficed them with what concerned them and repelled from them the harm of those who wanted to plot against them, so they returned to their country with favor from God and bounty, no harm had touched them from what their enemy had planned for them, and they pursued the pleasure of God, and God is the possessor of great bounty. Al-Bayhaqi said: Abu Abdullah al-Hafiz narrated to us, Abu Bakr bin Dawud al-Zahid narrated to us, Muhammad bin Na'im narrated to us, Bishr bin al-Hakam narrated to us. Mubashar bin Abdullah bin Razeen told us, Sufyan bin Husayn told us, on the authority of Ya'la bin Muslim, on the authority of Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding the statement of God Almighty: So they returned with favor and bounty from God, he said: The favor was that they were safe, and the bounty was that a caravan passed by during the season, so the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, bought it and made a profit on it, which he divided among his companions. Ibn Abi Nujayh said, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding the statement of God Almighty: Those to whom the people said, 'Indeed, the people have gathered against you, so fear them,' he said: This is Abu Sufyan, he said to Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, your meeting place is at Badr, where you killed our companions. Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, said, Perhaps. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, set out for his appointment until he reached Badr. They found the market there, and they bought. This is what God Almighty said: "So they returned with favor and bounty from God. No harm had touched them." The verse. He said: This was the minor Battle of Badr. It was narrated by Ibn Jarir. He also narrated on the authority of Al-Qasim, on the authority of Al-Husayn, on the authority of Hajjaj, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, who said: When the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, made an appointment with Abu Sufyan, they began to meet the polytheists and ask them about the Quraysh. They would say: They have gathered against you. They were plotting against them with that, wanting to frighten them. The believers would say: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. Until they reached Badr, and they found its markets healthy and no one had disputed with them in it. He said: A man from the polytheists informed the people of Mecca about Muhammad's cavalry, and he said about that:

My camels were frightened by Muhammad's horses, and dates were scattered like the Anjd.

I took dried water as my appointment

Ibn Jarir said: This is how Al-Qasim recited to us, but it is a mistake. Rather, it is:

I have been repelled by the company of Muhammad and Ajwa from Yathrib like the Anjad

She is following the religion of her father, the Atlad, and has made the water of Qadeed my appointment.

And the water of Djanan is poured for her at noon tomorrow

Then God the Almighty said: It is only Satan who frightens you with his allies, meaning he frightens you with his allies, and makes you think that they are powerful and strong. God the Almighty said: So fear them not, but fear Me, if you are believers, meaning if he tempts you and makes you think, then rely on Me and take refuge in Me, for I am sufficient for you and your supporter against them, as God the Almighty said: Is not God sufficient for His servant? And they frighten you with those besides Him, until His saying: "Say, 'God is sufficient for me. Upon Him do those who rely rely.'" And God the Almighty said: "So fight the allies of Satan. Indeed, the plot of Satan has ever been weak." And God the Almighty said: "Those are the party of Satan. Unquestionably, the party of Satan - they are the losers." And God the Almighty said: "God has decreed, 'I will surely prevail, I and My messengers. Indeed, God is Powerful and Exalted in Might.'" And He said: And God will surely support those who support Him. And God the Almighty said: O you who have believed, if you support God, He will support you. And God the Almighty said: "Indeed, We will support Our messengers and those who believe during the worldly life and on the Day when the witnesses will stand. The Day when their excuse will not benefit the wrongdoers, and for them is the curse, and they will have evil." The house.

Fath al-Qadir

When God Almighty explained that what happened to the believers on the day of Uhud was a test to distinguish the believer from the hypocrite, and the liar from the truthful, He explained here that whoever was not defeated and killed has this honor and blessing, and that such a thing is something that competitors compete over, not something that should be feared and guarded against as those whom God narrated said, If they had been with us, they would not have died or been killed, and they said, If they had obeyed us, they would not have been killed. So this sentence is a new sentence to explain this meaning, and the address is to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, or to everyone, and it was read with the letter ya below: meaning, let no one who thinks should think.

Scholars have differed about the martyrs mentioned in this verse. Who are they? Some say: The martyrs of Uhud, others say: The martyrs of Badr, and others say: The martyrs of Bir Ma'unah. Assuming that it was revealed for a specific reason, then the consideration is the generality of the wording, not the specificity of the reason. The meaning of the verse according to the majority is that they are alive with a confirmed life. Then they differed. Some of them say: That their souls are returned to them in their graves and they enjoy themselves. Mujahid said: They are provided with the fruits of Paradise: meaning they find its fragrance, but they are not in it. Others than the majority went to the view that it is a metaphorical life, and the meaning is: That they are under the judgment of God and deserve to enjoy themselves in Paradise. The first is correct, and there is no reason to resort to metaphor. The pure Sunnah has reported that their souls are in the bodies of green birds, and that they are in Paradise, provided with, eating, and enjoying themselves. His saying, "those who were killed" is the first object. The one who calculates is the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, or everyone as mentioned above. It has been said that the relative pronoun may be the subject of the verb, and the first object is omitted: that is, do not think that those who killed themselves are dead. This is an unnecessary effort, and the meaning of the Qur'anic system is extremely clear and evident. His statement, Rather, they are alive, is the predicate of a deleted subject, that is, rather, they are alive. It was read in the accusative case based on the estimation of the verb: that is, rather, I think that they are alive. His statement, With their Lord, is either a second predicate, or an attribute of alive, or in the accusative case as a state. It has been said that there is an omission in the speech and the estimation is: With the honor of their Lord. Sibawayh said: This is with the honor, not with the nearness. His statement, they are provided for, can be parsed in the same ways that we mentioned in his statement, With their Lord. What is meant by provision here is the provision known in customs according to what the majority believe, as mentioned above. According to those other than the majority, what is meant by it is beautiful praise, and there is no reason that requires distorting the Arabic words in the Book of God Almighty and interpreting them as far-fetched metaphors, for no reason that requires that.

Surat Al Imran 3:169

And never think of those who are killed in the way of God as dead. Rather, they are alive with their Lord, receiving provision.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

169- The Almighty said: And never think that those who were killed in the way of God are dead the verse. It was said: It was revealed about the martyrs of Badr, who were fourteen men, eight from the Ansar and six from the Muhajireen.

Others said: It was revealed about the martyrs of Uhud, who were seventy men, four of whom were from the Muhajireen: Hamza bin Abdul Muttalib, Mus'ab bin Umair, Uthman bin Shamas, and Abdullah bin Jahsh, and the rest of them were from the Ansar.

Ahmad bin Abdullah Al-Salihi told us, Abu Bakr Ahmad bin Al-Hasan Al-Hairi told us, Hajib bin Ahmad Al-Tusi told us, Muhammad bin Hammad told us, Abu Muawiyah told us, on the authority of Al-A'mash, on the authority of Abdullah bin Marra, on the authority of Masruq, who said: "We asked Abdullah he is Ibn Masoud, may God be pleased with them both, about this verse: 'And never think of those who are killed in the way of God as dead. Rather, they are alive with their Lord, receiving provision.' The verse. He said: As for me, we have already asked about that, and he said: Their souls are like green birds, and it is narrated: 'In the belly of green birds with lanterns hanging from the Throne, they roam in Paradise wherever they wish, then they return to lanterns hanging from the Throne. While they are like that, your Lord looks at them and says: Ask Me whatever you wish. They said: O Lord, how can we ask You when we roam in Paradise wherever we wish?' So when they saw that they would not be left without asking anything, they said: We ask You to return our souls to our bodies so that we may be killed in Your way once again. So when He saw that they would not ask anything except this, they left it."

Abu Saeed Al-Sharahi told us, Abu Ishaq Al-Tha'labi told us, Abdullah bin Hamid told us, Ahmad bin Muhammad bin Shadhan told us, Najji told us, Salih bin Muhammad told us, Sulayman bin Amr told us, Ismail bin Umayya told us, Ata bin Abi Rabah told us, Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "When your brothers were killed on the day of Uhud, God Almighty placed their souls in the bodies of green birds that go to the rivers of Paradise, eat from its fruits, and roam in Paradise wherever they wish, and take refuge in golden lamps beneath the Throne. When they saw the goodness of their resting place, their food, and their drink, and saw what honor God had prepared for them, they said: 'If only our people knew what bliss we are in and what God has done for us, so that they would desire jihad and not neglect it.' God Almighty said: 'I will inform you and convey the message to your brothers.' They rejoiced at that and were filled with good cheer. Then God Almighty revealed: 'And never think that those who are killed in the way of God are dead,' until His saying: 'The reward of the believers will not be lost.'"

I heard Abdul Wahid bin Ahmad Al-Malhi say: I heard Al-Hasan bin Ahmad Al-Qatibi say: I heard Muhammad bin Abdullah bin Yusuf say: I heard Muhammad bin Ismail Al-Bakri say: I heard Yahya bin Habib bin Arabi say: I heard Musa bin Ibrahim say: I heard Talha bin Kharash say: I heard Jabir bin Abdullah, may God be pleased with them both, say: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, met me and said to me: O Jabir, why do I see you so broken? I said: O Messenger of God, my father was martyred and left behind children and debt. He said: Shall I not give you good report of what God met your father with? I said: Yes, O Messenger of God. He said: God Almighty did not speak to anyone except from behind a veil, but He revived your father and spoke to him directly. He said: O My servant, ask of Me and I will give it to you. He said: O Lord, revive me so that I may be killed in Your cause a second time. The Lord, Blessed and Exalted be He, said: It has already been decreed from Me that they will not return. So the verse was revealed about them: 'And do not think that those who are killed in the way of God are dead.'"

Abu Abdullah Muhammad bin Al-Fadl Al-Kharqi told us, Abu Al-Hasan Al-Taysifuni told us, Abdullah bin Omar Al-Jawhari told us, Ahmad bin Ali Al-Kashmihani told us, Ali bin Hajar told us, Ismail bin Jaafar told us, Hamid told us, on the authority of Anas, may God be pleased with them, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "There is no servant who dies, and he has goodness with God, who would like to return to the world, even though he has the world and what is in it, except the martyr, because of what he sees of the virtue of martyrdom, for he would like to return to the world and be killed once again."

Some people said: This verse was revealed about the martyrs of Bir Ma'unah, and the reason for that was what Muhammad ibn Ishaq narrated on the authority of his father Ishaq ibn Yasar on the authority of Al-Mughira ibn Abd Al-Rahman ibn Al-Harith ibn Hisham and Abdullah ibn Abi Bakr ibn Muhammad ibn Amr ibn Hazm and Hamid Al-Tawil on the authority of Anas ibn Malik and others from the people of knowledge who said: Abu Bara' Amir ibn Malik ibn Ja'far, the spear player, and he was the chief of Banu Amir ibn Sa'sa'ah, came to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, in Medina and presented him with a gift, but the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, refused to accept it and said, "I do not accept the gift of a polytheist, so convert to Islam if you want me to accept your gift?" Then he offered him Islam and informed him of what he would gain from it and what God has prepared for the believers, and he recited the Qur'an to him but he did not convert to Islam, and he did not stay away and said: O Muhammad, what you are calling to is good and beautiful, so if you send some men from your companions to the people of Najd to invite them to your cause, I hope that they will respond to you.

The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: I fear for them the people of Najd.

Abu Al-Baraa said: I am their protector, so send them to call people to your cause.

The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent Al-Mundhir bin Amr, the brother of Banu Sa'idah, with seventy men from the best of the Muslims, including Al-Harith bin Al-Summah, Haram bin Milhan, Urwah bin Asma bin Al-Salt Al-Sulami, Nafi' bin Yazid bin Warqa' Al-Khuza'i, and Amir bin Fuhaira, the freed slave of Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him. This was in Safar of the year 4 AH, four months before the end of Uhud. They set out until they reached Bir Ma'unah, which is a piece of land between the land of Banu Amir and the lava field of Banu Sulaym. When they reached it, some of them said to each other, "Which of you will deliver the message of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, to the people of this water? Haram bin Milhan said, I will." So he went out with the letter of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, to Amir bin At-Tufayl in the letter of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. Haram bin Milhan said, "O people of Bir Ma'unah, I am the Messenger of God to you. I bear witness that there is no god but God and that Muhammad is His servant and Messenger. So believe in God and His Messenger." A man came out to him from the ruins of the Ka'bah with a spear and struck his forehead with it until it came out from the other side.

He said, "Allahu Akbar! I have won, by the Lord of the Ka'bah."

Then Aamer bin Tufail called for help from Banu Aamer against the Muslims, but they refused to respond to his call and said: We will not betray Abu Bara', who has made a pact and protection for them. Then he called for help from the tribes of Banu Salim - Asiya, Ra'l and Dhakwan - and they responded to him. They went out and surrounded the people in their tents. When they saw them, they took up their swords and fought them until they killed every last one of them, except for Ka'b bin Zaid, whom they left with a little breath left. He was left among the dead, and they preferred him over them. He lived until he was killed on the day of the Trench. Among the people's troops were Amr bin Umayya Ad-Damri and a man from the Ansar, one of Banu Amr bin Awf. Nothing alerted them to the affliction of their companions except the birds circling over the camp! They said: By God, this bird has something to do with it. They came to look and found the people covered in blood and the horses that had killed them standing still. The Ansari said to Amr bin Umayya Ad-Damri: What do you see? He said: I think we should catch up with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and inform him. The Ansari said: God is Great, but I would not prefer myself to a place where Al-Mundhir bin Amr was killed. Then he fought the people until he was killed, and they took Amr bin Umayya Ad-Damri as a prisoner. When he told them that he was from Mudar, Amir bin At-Tufayl released him, cut his forelock, and freed him from a slave he claimed was on his mother. Amr bin Umayya came to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and told him the report. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: This is the work of Abu Bara'. I used to hate this and fear it. Abu Bara' heard about this, and he was upset by Amir's concealment of him, and by what happened to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, because of him and his protection.

Among those who were killed was Amer bin Fuhaira. Muhammad bin Ishaq narrated on the authority of Hisham bin Urwa on the authority of his father that Amer bin Tufail used to say: Who was the man among them who, when he was killed, I saw him raised between the sky and the earth until I saw the sky below him? They said: He is Amer bin Fuhaira. Then after that, Rabi'a bin Abi Bara' attacked Amer bin Tufail and stabbed him on his horse, killing him.

Abdul Wahid Al-Malhi told us, I told Ahmad bin Abdullah Al-Nuaimi, I told Muhammad bin Yusuf, I told Muhammad bin Ismail, I told Abdul Ala bin Hammad, I told Yazid bin Zari', I told Saeed, on the authority of Qatada, on the authority of Anas bin Malik: "That Ra'l, Dhakwan, Asiya, and Banu Lihyan sought help from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, against an enemy of theirs, so he provided them with seventy of the Ansar, whom we used to call the reciters of the Qur'an in their time. They used to collect firewood during the day and pray at night, until they were at Bir Ma'unah, and they killed them and betrayed them. When the report reached the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, he prayed in the morning for a month against some of the Arab

Surat Al Imran 3:169

And never think of those who are killed in the way of God as dead. Rather, they are alive with their Lord, receiving provision.

tribes, against Ra'l, Dhakwan, Asiya, and Banu Lihyan."

Anas, may God be pleased with him, said: We recited the Qur'an to them, then it was lifted: Convey from us to our people that we have met our Lord, and He was pleased with us and pleased us. Then it was abrogated and lifted after we had recited it for a time, and God, the Most High, revealed: And never think that those who are killed in the way of God are dead the verse. It was said: When the guardians of the martyrs were blessed, they would grieve for the martyrs and say: We are in the blessing and our fathers, sons and brothers are in acceptance. So God, the Most High, revealed to relieve them and inform them about the state of their dead: And never think and do not suppose "those who are killed in the way of God" Ibn Amir read killed with emphasis, and the others with emphasis dead like the dead of those who were not killed in the way of God rather they are alive with their Lord It was said: alive in religion, and it was said: in remembrance, and it was said: because they are provided for and eat and enjoy themselves like the living, and it was said: because their souls bow and prostrate every night under the throne until the Day of Resurrection. It was said: Because the martyr does not decay in the grave, nor is the earth eaten away by him.

Ubayd ibn Umair said: "When the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, returned from Uhud, he passed by Mus'ab ibn Umair who had been killed. He stopped over him and prayed for him. Then he recited: 'Among the believers are men who have been true to what they pledged to God.' Then the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'I bear witness that these are witnesses before God on the Day of Resurrection. So go to them, visit them, and greet them. By the One in Whose Hand is my soul, no one will greet them until the Day of Resurrection except that they will respond to him. 'They will be provided with' from the fruits and treasures of Paradise."

Tafsir al-Baidawi

169 "And never think that those who are killed in the way of God are dead." This was revealed about the martyrs of Uhud. It was also said that it was about the martyrs of Badr, and the address is to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, or to everyone. It was read with the letter "ya" based on its attribution to the pronoun of the Messenger, or to whomever is considered, or to those who were killed. The first object is omitted because it is originally a subject that can be omitted based on the context. Ibn Amir read "killed" with emphasis due to the large number of speakers. "Rather, they are alive" meaning, rather, they are alive. It was read with the accusative meaning, rather, I think that they are alive. "With their Lord" with closeness to Him. "They are provided for" from Paradise, which is an emphasis on their being alive.

Surat Al Imran 3:170

Rejoicing in what God has given them of His bounty and rejoicing for those who have not yet joined them from behind them that there is no fear concerning them, nor will they grieve.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

rejoicing is a state of the pronoun they are provided with with what God has given them of His bounty and they and they rejoice they rejoice for those who have not yet joined them from behind them of their believing brothers. And it is replaced by those who a with n meaning that there is no fear for them meaning those who have not yet joined them nor will they grieve in the Hereafter. The meaning is they rejoice in their security and joy.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

There are two aspects to the accusative case of his saying: rejoicing.

One of them: that it is in the accusative case, as an exception to the statement: with their Lord.

The other is from his saying: They are provided for, and if it was raised in response to his saying: Rather, they are alive and joyful, it would be permissible.

Abu Ja'far said: By that, the Most High means: They rejoice over those of their brothers who have not joined them, who have departed from them while they were alive in this world, following their path of jihad against the enemies of God with His Messenger, because they know that if they are martyred and join them, they will have attained the same honor of God as they have attained. Therefore, they are happy about them, happy that if they become like that, there is no fear for them and they do not grieve. He means by that: There is no fear for them, because they have been secured from the punishment of God and have become certain of His pleasure with them. They have been secured from the fear that they used to fear from that in this world, and they do not grieve over what they left behind of the causes of this world and the hardships of its life, because of the humility, ease, and closeness to which they have attained.

The object of an is la meaning: they are happy for them that they have no fear and they do not grieve. A group of interpreters said something similar to what we said about that.

Who said that?

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: And they rejoice for those who have not yet joined them from behind them, the verse, he says: for their brothers who left them for their religion and their matter, for what they have come to of honor, favor, and bliss that He has given them.

Al-Qasim told us, he said, Al-Hussein told us, he said, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj: And they rejoice for those who have not yet joined them from behind them, the verse, he said, they say: Our brothers will be killed as we were killed, they will join us and will receive from the honor of God Almighty what we received.

Narrated on the authority of Ammar, who said: Ibn Abi Ja'far narrated to us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ar-Rabi': It was mentioned to us on the authority of some of them regarding His statement: "And never think that those who are killed in the way of God are dead. Rather, they are alive with their Lord, receiving provision." He said: They are those killed at Badr and Uhud. They claimed that when God, the Blessed and Exalted, took their souls and admitted them into Paradise, He placed their souls in green birds grazing in Paradise and taking refuge in golden lamps beneath the Throne. When they saw the honor that God had given them, they said: If only our brothers who will come after us knew what we are in! So when they witness a battle, they hasten to what we are in! So God, the Exalted, said: I am sending down to your Prophet and informing your brothers of what you are in. So they rejoiced at it and were glad, and said: God informs your Prophet and your brothers of what you are in, so when they witness a battle, they come to you! He said: That is what His statement: Rejoicing in what God has given them of His bounty, up to His statement: The reward of the believers.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: And they rejoice for those who have not yet joined them from behind them, meaning: They are happy for those of their brothers who have joined them to join them in what they have done of their jihad, so that they may share with them in what they are in of the reward of God that He has given them, and God has removed from them fear and sadness.

Yunus told me, he said, Ibn Wahb told us, he said, Ibn Zayd said regarding His statement: And they rejoice for those who have not yet joined them from behind them, he said: They are their brothers from the martyrs who will be martyred after them, No fear will there be concerning them, nor will they grieve, until he reached: And that God does not allow to be lost the reward of the believers.

Muhammad told us, Ahmad told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of al-Suddi: As for they rejoice for those who have not yet joined them from behind them, then the martyr is brought a book in which is who will come to him from among his brothers and family, and it is said: So-and-so will come to you on such-and-such a day, and so-and-so will come to you on such-and-such a day, so he rejoices when he comes to him, just as the family of the absent one rejoices at his arrival in this world.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

The Almighty said: And they rejoice for those who have not yet joined them from behind them meaning they have not yet joined them in virtue, even though they have virtue, and its origin is from the word bashara good report, because when a person rejoices, the effect of joy appears on his face. Al-Suddi said: The martyr is brought a book in which there is a mention of his brothers who will come to him, so he rejoices as the family of the absent one rejoices at his arrival in this world. Qatada, Ibn Jurayj, Al-Rabi' and others said: Their rejoicing is that they say: Our brothers whom we left behind us in this world are fighting in the way of God with their Prophet, so they are martyred and attain the same honor as we are, so they are happy and rejoice for them because of that. It was said: The reference to the rejoicing is for those who have not yet joined them to all the believers even if they were not killed, but when they witnessed the reward of God, they became certain that the religion of Islam is the truth for which God rewards, so they rejoice for themselves with what God has given them from His grace, rejoicing for the believers that there is no fear for them nor will they grieve. This meaning was adopted by Al-Zajaj and Ibn Furak.

Surat Al Imran 3:170

Rejoicing in what God has given them of His bounty and rejoicing for those who have not yet joined them from behind them that there is no fear concerning them, nor will they grieve.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

God the Almighty tells us about the martyrs that even if they are killed in this world, their souls are alive and provided for in the eternal home. Muhammad bin Jarir said: Muhammad bin Marzuq told us, Amr bin Yunus told us on the authority of Ikrimah, Ibn Ishaq bin Abi Talhah told us, Anas bin Malik told me about the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, whom the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent to the people of Bir Ma'unah. He said: I do not know, forty or seventy, and at that water was Amir bin At-Tufayl Al-Jafari. So those people from the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, went out until they came to a cave overlooking the water and sat in it. Then some of them said to one another: Who among you will deliver the message of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, to the people of this water? He said - I think he was Ibn Milhan Al-Ansari -: I am delivering the message of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. So he went out until he came to a group of them and hid in front of the houses. Then he said: "O people of Bir Ma'una, I am the Messenger of God to you. I bear witness that there is no god but God and that Muhammad is His servant and Messenger. So believe in God and His Messenger." Then a man came out to him from the house with a spear and struck him in the side until he came out from the other side. He said: God is Great, I have won, by the Lord of the Kaaba. So they followed his tracks until they reached his companions in the cave. Amir bin At-Tufayl killed them all. Ishaq said: Anas bin Malik told me that God revealed a Qur'an about them: Convey from us to our people that we have met our Lord, and He is pleased with us and we are pleased with Him. Then it was abrogated and lifted after we had read it for a while. Then God Almighty revealed: "And never think of those who are killed in the way of God as dead. Rather, they are alive with their Lord, receiving provision." Muslim said in his Sahih: : Muhammad ibn Abdullah ibn Numayr narrated to us, Abu Muawiyah narrated to us, Al-A'mash narrated to us, on the authority of Abdullah ibn Murrah, on the authority of Masruq, who said: We asked Abdullah about this verse: "And never think of those who are killed in the way of God as dead. Rather, they are alive with their Lord, and they are provided for." He said: We asked the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, about that, and he said: "Their souls are in the bodies of green birds, which have lanterns hanging from the Throne. They roam in Paradise wherever they wish, then they return to those lanterns. Then their Lord looked at them and said: Do you desire anything? They said: What do we desire when we roam in Paradise wherever we wish? He did that to them three times. When they saw that they would not be left without being asked, they said: O Lord, we want you to return our souls to our bodies so that we may be killed in Your way once again. When He saw that they had no need, they were left." Something similar to this was narrated from the hadith of Anas and Abu Saeed.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Abd al-Samad told us, Hammad told us, Thabit told us on the authority of Anas that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "There is no soul that dies and has goodness with God that would be pleased to return to the world except the martyr, for he would be pleased to return to the world and be killed again because of what he sees of the virtue of martyrdom." Muslim transmitted it only on the authority of Hammad.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Ali ibn Abdullah al-Madini told us, Sufyan told us, on the authority of Muhammad ibn Ali ibn Rabi'ah al-Salami, on the authority of Abdullah ibn Muhammad ibn Aqil, on the authority of Jabir, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to me: Do you know that God brought your father back to life? He said to him: Make a wish of me. He said to him: I will be returned to the world so that I may be killed once again. He said: I have decided that they will not return to it. Ahmad is the only one to narrate it from this source. It has been proven in the two Sahih and others that Abu Jabir, who is Abdullah ibn Amr ibn Haram al-Ansari, may God be pleased with him, was killed as a martyr on the day of Uhud. Al-Bukhari said: Abu al-Walid said on the authority of Shu'bah on the authority of Ibn al-Munkadir: I heard Jabir say: When my father was killed, I began to cry and uncover the cloth from his face. The companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, began to forbid me, but the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, did not forbid me. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Do not cry for him - or do not cry for him - the angels continued to shade him with their wings until he was taken up. He, Muslim, and al-Nasa'i transmitted it through another chain of transmission on the authority of Shu'bah, on the authority of Muhammad ibn al-Munkadir, on the authority of Jabir, who said: When my father was killed on the day of Uhud, I began to uncover the cloth from his face and cry. He mentioned the rest of it in a similar manner.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Yaqub told us, my father told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq, Ismail bin Umayyah bin Amr bin Saeed told us, on the authority of Abu al-Zubayr al-Makki, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "When your brothers were afflicted at Uhud, God placed their souls in the bodies of green birds, which would go to the rivers of Paradise, eat from its fruits, and take refuge in golden lanterns in the shade of the Throne. When they found the goodness of their drink and food, and the beauty of their resting place, they said: 'If only our brothers knew what God has done for us, so that they would not give up jihad and turn away from war.' God, the Almighty, said: 'I will convey it to them on your behalf.' Then God, the Almighty, revealed these verses: 'And never think of those who are killed in the way of God as dead. Rather, they are alive with their Lord, receiving provision.' and what follows." This is how Ahmad narrated it, and likewise Ibn Jarir narrated it on the authority of Yunus, on the authority of Ibn Wahb, on the authority of Ismail bin Ayyash, on the authority of Muhammad bin Ishaq. It was narrated by Abu Dawud and Al-Hakim in his Mustadrak from the hadith of Abdullah bin Idris from Muhammad bin Ishaq from Ismail bin Umayyah from Abu Al-Zubayr from Saeed bin Jubair from Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, and he mentioned it, and this is more authentic. Sufyan Al-Thawri narrated it likewise from Salim Al-Aftas from Saeed bin Jubair from Ibn Abbas - and Al-Hakim narrated in his Mustadrak from the hadith of Abu Ishaq Al-Fazari from Sufyan from Ismail bin Abi Khalid from Saeed bin Jubair from Ibn Abbas, who said: This verse was revealed about Hamzah and his companions: "And never think of those who are killed in the way of God as dead. Rather, they are alive with their Lord, receiving provision." Then he said: It is authentic according to the conditions of the two sheikhs, but they did not include it. Qatada, Al-Rabi' and Al-Dahhak also said: It was revealed about those killed at Uhud.

Another Hadith Abu Bakr bin Mardawayh said: Abdullah bin Jaafar told us, Harun bin Sulaiman told us, Ali bin Abdullah Al-Madini told us, Musa bin Ibrahim bin Katheer bin Bashir bin Al-Fakih Al-Ansari told us, I heard Talha bin Kharash bin Abdul Rahman bin Kharash bin Al-Sammah Al-Ansari, he said: I heard Jabir bin Abdullah say: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, looked at me one day and said: O Jabir, why do I see you worried? I said: O Messenger of God, my father was martyred and left behind a debt and children. He said: Shall I not tell you that God has never spoken to anyone except from behind a veil, and He spoke to your father directly? Ali said: Direct confrontation. He said: Ask Me and I will give it to you. He said: I ask You to return to the world so that I may be killed in Your cause a second time. The Lord Almighty said: Indeed, the word has already gone before from Me: They will not return to it. He said: O Lord, then convey it to those who are behind me. Then God revealed: And do not think that those who are killed in the way of God are dead. Then he narrated it from another chain of transmission on the authority of Muhammad ibn Sulayman ibn Salit al-Ansari, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Jabir, with a similar chain of transmission. And thus al-Bayhaqi narrated it in Dalā'il al-Nubuwwah on the authority of Ali ibn al-Madini with it. And al-Bayhaqi also narrated it from the hadith of Abu Ubadah al-Ansari, who is 'Isa ibn 'Abd al-Rahman, God willing, on the authority of al-Zuhri, on the authority of 'Urwah, on the authority of 'A'ishah, who said: "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to Jabir: 'O Jabir, shall I not give you good report?' He said: 'Yes, God has given you good report.' He said: 'I felt that God had brought your father back to life, and said: 'Ask of My servant whatever you wish, and I will give it to you.' He said: 'O Lord, I have not worshipped You as You should be worshipped. I hope that You will return me to the world so that I may fight with Your Prophet and be killed for You once again.' He said: 'It has already been said from me that it will not return to it.'"

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Yaqub told us, my father told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq, Al-Harith bin Fadil Al-Ansari told us, on the authority of Mahmud bin Labid, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The martyrs are on a river at the gate of Paradise, in a green dome, and their provision comes out to them from Paradise morning and evening." Ahmad is the only one to narrate it. Ibn Jarir narrated it on the authority of Abu Kurayb: Abd Al-Rahman bin Sulayman and Ubaydah told us on the authority of Muhammad bin Ishaq with it, and it is a good chain of transmission. And as if the martyrs are divided into groups: some of their souls will roam in Paradise, and some of them will be on this river at the gate of Paradise, and it may be possible that their journey will end at this river, and they will gather there, and their provisions will be brought to them there and they will rest, and God knows best. We have narrated in Musnad al-Imam Ahmad a hadith in which there is good report for every believer that his soul will be in Paradise, roaming there as well, and eating from its fruits, and seeing the freshness and joy in it, and witnessing what God has prepared for it of honor, and it is with a sound, noble and great chain of transmission, in which three of the four imams, the owners of the followed schools of thought, have come together, for Imam Ahmad, may God have mercy on him, narrated it on the authority of Muhammad ibn Idris al-Shafi'i, may God have mercy on him, on the authority of Malik ibn Anas al-Asbahi, may God have mercy on him, on the authority of al-Zuhri, on the authority of Abd al-Rahman ibn Ka'b ibn Malik, on the authority of his father, may God be pleased with him, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The soul of the believer is a bird that hangs in the trees of Paradise until God returns it to its body on the Day of Resurrection." His saying hangs means eats, and in this hadith: The soul of the believer will be in the form of a bird in... "Paradise" As for the souls of the martyrs, as mentioned previously in the crops of green birds, they are like planets in relation to the souls of all believers, for they fly by themselves, so we ask God, the Generous, the Beneficent, to cause us to die in faith. And His Most High's saying: Rejoicing in what God has given them to the end of the verse, meaning the martyrs who were killed in the way of God are alive with their Lord, and they are happy with what they are in of grace and happiness, and they are glad for their brothers who are killed after them in the way of God, that they are advancing upon them, and that they do not fear what is ahead of them nor are they sad for what they left behind them. We ask God for Paradise. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said, And they are glad meaning they are happy for those of their brothers who are behind them to catch up with what they have done of their jihad, so that they may share with them in what they are in of the reward of God that He has given them. Al-Suddi said: The martyr will be brought a book in which it says: So-and-so will come to you on such-and-such a day, and so-and-so will come to you on such-and-such a day, and he will be happy with that as the people of this world are happy with their absent ones when they come back. Saeed bin Jubair said: When they entered Paradise and saw the honor it has for the martyrs, they said: Oh, if only our brothers in this world knew what we know of honor, so that when they witness battle they would engage in it themselves so that they may be martyred and attain what we have attained of goodness. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, informed them of their situation and the honor they are in, and he informed them, that is, their Lord, that I have revealed to your Prophet and informed him of your situation and what you are in, so they were happy with that, and that is what He said: And they rejoice for those who have not yet joined them from behind them Al-Bukhari and Muslim. It has been proven in the two Sahihs on the authority of Anas, may God be pleased with him, in the story of the companions of the well of Ma'unah, the seventy of the Ansar who were killed in one morning, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, prayed and cursed those who killed them. Anas said: And a Qur'an was revealed about them, which we recited until it was lifted. Convey to our people that we have met our Lord, and He was pleased with us and satisfied us.

Rejoicing in what God has given them of His bounty and rejoicing for those who have not yet joined them from behind them that there is no fear concerning them, nor will they grieve.

Then God Almighty said: They rejoice in favor from God and in bounty and that God does not allow the reward of the believers to be lost. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said: They rejoiced and were pleased when they saw the fulfillment of the promise and the great reward. Abd al-Rahman ibn Zayd ibn Aslam said: This verse includes all believers, whether martyrs or others. God rarely mentions a bounty with which He mentioned the prophets or a reward that He gave them, except that He mentioned what He gave to the believers after them. And the Almighty said: Those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wounds had befallen them. This was on the day of Hamra' al-Asad, and that is because when the polytheists inflicted what they inflicted on the Muslims, they turned back to their country, and when they continued on their way, they regretted why they did not complete the battle with the people of Medina and make it the decisive battle. So when this reached the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, he urged the Muslims to go after them to frighten them and show them that they had strength and endurance, and he did not give permission to anyone except those who were present at the battle on the day of Uhud, except Jabir ibn Abdullah, may God be pleased with him, for what we will mention, so the Muslims volunteered despite their wounds and infliction, in obedience to God Almighty and His Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace. Ibn Abi Hatim said: Muhammad ibn Abdullah ibn Yazid told us, Sufyan ibn Uyaynah told us, on the authority of Amr, on the authority of Ikrimah, who said: When the polytheists returned from Uhud, they said: You did not kill Muhammad, nor did you take the young camels with you. What a bad thing you have done! Return. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, heard of that, so he called upon the Muslims, and they volunteered until they reached Hamra' al-Asad - or Bir Abi Uyaynah - the doubt is from Sufyan - and the polytheists said: We will return the next year. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, returned, and it was considered a raid, and God Almighty revealed: Those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound had afflicted them - for those among them who did good and feared God is a great reward. Ibn Mardawayh narrated it from the hadith of Muhammad ibn Mansur, on the authority of Sufyan ibn Uyaynah, on the authority of Amr, on the authority of Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, and he mentioned it. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said: The day of Uhud was Saturday, the middle of Shawwal, and when the next day was Sunday, I did not... Ten nights had passed in Shawwal, and the muezzin of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, called out to the people to seek out the enemy. His muezzin called out that no one should go out with us except those who had been present the day before. Jabir ibn Abdullah ibn Amr ibn Haram spoke to him and said: O Messenger of God, my father left me behind with my seven sisters, and he said: O my son, it is not appropriate for me or for you to leave these women without a man among them. I am not the one who would prefer you to fight with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, over myself, so stay behind with your sisters. So I stayed behind with them. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, gave him permission, so he went out with him. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, only went out to frighten the enemy and to inform them that he had gone out in pursuit of them so that they would think that he was strong, and that what had befallen them had not weakened them against their enemy. Muhammad bin Ishaq said: Abdullah bin Kharijah bin Zaid bin Thabit told me on the authority of Abu al-Sa'ib, the freed slave of Aisha bint Uthman: That a man from the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, from Banu Abd al-Ashhal, who had witnessed the Battle of Uhud, said: I witnessed Uhud with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, my brother and I, and we returned wounded. When the muezzin of the

Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, gave the call to go out in pursuit of the enemy, I said to my brother - or he said to me -: Are we missing a raid with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace? By God, we do not have a mount to ride, and none of us is seriously wounded. So we went out with the Messenger of God, and I was less wounded than he was. Whenever he was overcome, I would carry him up a hill and he would walk up a hill, until we reached the point where the Muslims had reached. Al-Bukhari said: Muhammad bin Salam told us, Abu Muawiyah told us, on the authority of Hisham, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Aisha, may God be pleased with her, Those who responded to God and the Messenger the verse, I said to Urwah: O son of my sister, your parents were among them, Al-Zubayr and Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with them, when the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, suffered what he suffered on the day of Uhud, and the polytheists turned away from him, he feared that they would return, so he said, Who will return after them? So seventy men volunteered from among them, among them Abu Bakr and Al-Zubayr, may God be pleased with them, this is how Al-Bukhari narrated it alone with this chain of transmission, and this is how Al-Hakim narrated it in his Mustadrak on the authority of Al-Asamm, on the authority of Abbas Al-Duri, on the authority of Abu Al-Nadr, on the authority of Abu Saeed Al-Mu'addib, on the authority of Hisham bin Urwah, then he said: It is authentic, and they did not include it, this is what he said. Ibn Majah narrated it on the authority of Hisham bin Ammar, and Hadiyyah bin Abdul Wahhab on the authority of Sufyan bin Uyaynah. On the authority of Hisham bin Urwa, on his authority, and thus it was narrated by Saeed bin Mansour and Abu Bakr Al-Hamidi in his Musnad on the authority of Sufyan, on his authority. Al-Hakim also narrated it from the hadith of Ismail bin Abi Khalid from Al-Bahi, from Urwah, who said: Aisha said to me: O my son, your father is among those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound befell them, then he said: It is authentic according to the conditions of the two sheikhs, and they did not include it. Abu Bakr bin Mardawayh said: Abdullah bin Jaafar told us from the original book, Samuyah told us, Abdullah bin Al-Zubayr told us, Sufyan told us, Hisham told us from his father, from Aisha, may God be pleased with her, she said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to me: Your parents are among those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound befell them, Abu Bakr and Al-Zubayr, may God be pleased with them." And the attribution of this hadith is a complete mistake in terms of its chain of transmission because it contradicts the narration of trustworthy people from stopping at Aisha, may God be pleased with her, as we have presented, and in terms of its meaning, Al-Zubayr is not among the fathers of Aisha, but rather Aisha said that to Urwah bin Al-Zubayr, because he is the son of her sister Asma bint Abi Bakr. Al-Siddiq, may God be pleased with them, and Ibn Jarir said: Muhammad bin Saad told me, my father told me, my uncle told me, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: God cast terror into the heart of Abu Sufyan on the day of Uhud after what had happened to him, so he returned to Mecca, and the

Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Abu Sufyan has suffered a part of you, and he has returned and God has cast terror into his heart. The Battle of Uhud was in Shawwal, and the merchants used to come to Medina in Dhul-Qi'dah, and they would camp at Badr al-Sughra once every year, and they came after the Battle of Uhud, and the believers were afflicted with wounds, and they complained about that to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and what afflicted them was severe, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, urged the people to set out with him and follow what they had been following, and he said: They are only setting out now to come for Hajj, and they will not be able to do the same until the next year. Then Satan came and frightened his followers, and said: The people have gathered against you, but the people refused to follow him, so he said: I am going, even if no one follows me, to urge the people. So Abu Bakr al-Siddiq, Umar, Uthman, Ali, al-Zubayr, Sa'd, Talhah, Abd al-Rahman ibn A'waf, Abdullah ibn Mas'ud, Hudhayfah ibn al-Yaman, and Abu Ubaidah ibn al-Jarrah volunteered with him, with seventy men. They set out in pursuit of Abu Sufyan, and they pursued him until they reached al-Safra'. Then God, the Most High, revealed: Those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound had afflicted them. Then Ibn Ishaq said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, set out until he reached Hamra' al-Asad, which is eight miles from Medina. Ibn Hisham said: He appointed Ibn Umm Maktum over Medina, and he stayed there on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, then he returned to Medina. Ma'bad ibn Abi Ma'bad al-Khuza'i passed by him, as Abdullah ibn Abi Bakr told me. The Khuza'ah, both Muslims and polytheists, were a group of sincere advisers to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, in Tihamah. They made a deal with him, and they did not hide anything that was there from him. Ma'bad was a polytheist at that time, so he said: O Muhammad, by God, what has afflicted you has been very hard on us. In your companions, and we wish that God had spared you from them. Then he and the Messenger of God (peace be upon him) went out at Hamra' al-Asad until he met Abu Sufyan ibn Harb and those with him at al-Rawha', and they had decided to return to the Messenger of God (peace be upon him) and his companions, and they said: We have achieved the goal of his companions, their leaders and their nobles, then we return before we eradicate them? We will attack the rest of them and then we will finish with them. When Abu Sufyan saw Ma'bad, he said: What is behind you, Ma'bad? He said: Muhammad and his companions are pursuing you in a group the likes of which I have never seen, they are burning with desire for you. Those who had stayed behind from him on your day have gathered with him and regretted what they did. They have a resentment towards you that I have never seen before. He said: Woe to you, what are you saying? He said: By God, I do not think that you should set out until you see the forelocks of the horses. He said: By God, we have decided to attack them to eradicate the rest of them. He said: I forbid you from that, and by God, what I saw made me recite some verses of poetry about them. He said: What did you say? He said: I said:

Surat Al Imran 3:170

Rejoicing in what God has given them of His bounty and rejoicing for those who have not yet joined them from behind them that there is no fear concerning them, nor will they grieve.

My camel was almost knocked down by the sounds as the ground was covered with the locusts.

He was a noble lion, not a coward when meeting, nor a slender disposition when facing off.

I remained an enemy, I think the earth is tilted because of what they called a leader who will not be let down

I said, Woe to Ibn Harb from meeting you when the plain is covered with mud.

I am a warner to the people of valor, a warning to every one of them who has a desire and a sense.

From the army of Ahmed, do not be afraid of the Tanablah, and what you warned about cannot be described as mere talk.

He said: This made Abu Sufyan and those with him think twice, and a group of Banu Abd al-Qais passed by him and he said: Where are you going? They said: We are going to Medina. He said: Why? They said: We are going to provide provisions. He said: Will you deliver a message from me to Muhammad that I will send you to him and that I will carry these raisins for you in Ukaz tomorrow if you meet us? They said: Yes. He said: When you meet him, tell him that we have decided to march to him and his companions to eradicate their remnants. The group passed by the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) while he was at Hamra al-Asad, and they told him what Abu Sufyan and his companions had said. They said: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. Ibn Hisham narrated on the authority of Abu Ubaidah, who said: "When the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, heard of their return, he said: 'By Him in Whose Hand is my soul, I have offered them stones, if they were to be brought to them in the morning, they would be as if they had gone yesterday.'" Al-Hasan al-Basri said regarding his statement: Those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound had afflicted them, that Abu Sufyan and his companions had afflicted the Muslims with what they had afflicted and had returned. "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Abu Sufyan has returned and God has cast terror into his heart, so who will volunteer to search for him?' So the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, Abu Bakr, Umar, Uthman, Ali, and some of the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, got up and followed them. Abu Sufyan was informed that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, was searching for him, so he met a caravan of merchants and said: 'Return Muhammad and you will have such and such a reward, and tell them that I have gathered a group for them and that I will return to them.' So the merchants came and informed the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, of that, and the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs.'" So God revealed this verse, and this is what Ikrimah, Qatada and others said: This context was revealed regarding Hamra al-Asad, and it was said: It was revealed regarding the Battle of Badr al-Maw'id, but the first is correct. And the Almighty's saying: Those to whom the people said, 'The people have gathered against you, so fear them,' but it only increased them in faith, the verse, meaning those whom the people threatened with crowds and frightened them with the large number of enemies, but they did not care about that, rather they put their trust in God and sought His help, and said, 'God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs.' Al-Bukhari said: Ahmad bin Yunus told us, he said: I think he said: Abu Bakr told us, on the authority of Abu Hasin, on the authority of Abu al-Dhaha, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs, Ibrahim, peace be upon him, said it when he was thrown into the fire, and Muhammad, peace be upon him, said it when the people said to them, 'The people have gathered against you, so fear them,' but it only increased their faith, and they said, 'God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs.'"

Al-Nasa'i narrated it on the authority of Muhammad ibn Ismail ibn Ibrahim and Harun ibn Abdullah, both on the authority of Yahya ibn Abi Bakr, on the authority of Abu Bakr, who is Ibn Ayyash, on his authority. It is surprising that Al-Hakim Abu Abdullah narrated it on the authority of Ahmad ibn Yunus, then he said: It is authentic according to the conditions of the two sheikhs, and they did not include it. Then Al-Bukhari narrated it on the authority of Abu Ghassan Malik ibn Ismail, on the authority of Israel, on the authority of Abu Hasin, on the authority of Abu Ad-Dahha, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: The last words of Abraham, peace be upon him, when he was thrown into the fire were: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. And Abd Al-Razzaq said: Ibn Uyaynah said: Zakariya informed me on the authority of Al-Sha'bi, on the authority of Abdullah ibn Amr, who said: These are the words of Abraham, peace be upon him, when he was thrown into the fire. Narrated by Ibn Jarir. Abu Bakr bin Mardawayh said: Muhammad bin Muammar told us, Ibrahim bin Musa al-Thawri told us, Abdul Rahim bin Muhammad bin Ziyad al-Sakari told us, Abu Bakr bin Ayyash told us, on the authority of Hamid al-Tawil, on the authority of Anas bin Malik, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, that it was said to him on the day of UHud 11: The people have gathered against you, so fear them. So God revealed this verse. He also narrated on his authority on the authority of Muhammad bin Ubayd God al-Rafi'i, on the authority of his father, on the authority of his grandfather Abu Rafi': That the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent Ali with a group of people with him in pursuit of Abu Sufyan, and a Bedouin from Khuza'ah met them and said: The people have gathered against you. They said: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. So this verse was revealed about them. Then Ibn Mardawayh said: "Dulaj bin Ahmad told us, Al-Hasan bin Sufyan told us, Abu Khaithama Mus'ab bin Sa'id told us, Musa bin A'yan told us, on the authority of Al-A'mash, on the authority of Abu Salih, on the authority of Abu Hurairah, who said: 'The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "When you encounter a grave matter, say: 'God is sufficient for us, and He is the best disposer of affairs.'" This is a strange hadith from this source. Imam Ahmad said: Haywah bin Shuraih and Ibrahim bin Abi Al-Abbas told us, they said: Baqiyah told us, Buhair bin Sa'd told us, on the authority of Khalid bin Ma'dan, on the authority of Saif, on the authority of Awf bin Malik, that he told them: "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, judged between two men, and when the one against whom the judgment was made turned away, he said: 'God is sufficient for me, and He is the best disposer of affairs.' The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Bring me back to the man.' He said: 'What did you say?' He said: 'I said: God is sufficient for me, and He is the best disposer of affairs.' The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'God blames weakness, but you should be intelligent. If a matter overcomes you, say: God is sufficient for me.'" And what an excellent agent! And thus Abu Dawud and al-Nasa'i narrated it from the hadith of Baqiyyah from Buhayr from Khalid, from Sayf who is al-Shami, and it was not attributed from Awf ibn Malik from the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, in a similar manner. And Imam Ahmad said: Asbat told us, Mutraf told us from Atiyyah from Ibn Abbas regarding his statement: And when the trumpet is blown, he said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: How can I enjoy myself while the companion of the trumpet has taken hold of the trumpet and bent his forehead, hearing when he is commanded to blow? The companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: What should we say? He said: Say: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. In God we trust. This has been narrated from more than one source, and it is a good hadith. We narrated from the Mother of the Believers, Zainab and Aisha, may God be pleased with them, that they boasted, and Zainab said: God married me and your families married you. Aisha said: My innocence was revealed from the heavens in the Qur'an, so Zainab submitted to her, then she said: What did you say when you rode the mount of Safwan bin Mu'attal? She said: I said: God is sufficient for me, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. Zainab said: I said the word of the believers, and for this reason God the Almighty said: So they returned with favor from God and bounty, no harm had touched them, meaning when they put their trust in God, He sufficed them with what concerned them and repelled from them the harm of those who wanted to plot against them, so they returned to their country with favor from God and bounty, no harm had touched them from what their enemy had planned for them, and they pursued the pleasure of God, and God is the possessor of great bounty. Al-Bayhaqi said: Abu Abdullah al-Hafiz narrated to us, Abu Bakr bin Dawud al-Zahid narrated to us, Muhammad bin Na'im narrated to us, Bishr bin al-Hakam narrated to us. Mubashar bin Abdullah bin Razeen told us, Sufyan bin Husayn told us, on the authority of Ya'la bin Muslim, on the authority of Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding the statement of God Almighty: So they returned with favor and bounty from God, he said: The favor was that they were safe, and the bounty was that a caravan passed by during the season, so the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, bought it and made a profit on it, which he divided among his companions. Ibn Abi Nujayh said, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding the statement of God Almighty: Those to whom the people said, 'Indeed, the people have gathered against you, so fear them,' he said: This is Abu Sufyan, he said to Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, your meeting place is at Badr, where you killed our companions. Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, said, Perhaps. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, set out for his appointment until he reached Badr. They found the market there, and they bought. This is what God Almighty said: "So they returned with favor and bounty from God. No harm had touched them." The verse. He said: This was the minor Battle of Badr. It was narrated by Ibn Jarir. He also narrated on the authority of Al-Qasim, on the authority of Al-Husayn, on the authority of Hajjaj, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, who said: When the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, made an appointment with Abu Sufyan, they began to meet the polytheists and ask them about the Quraysh. They would say: They have gathered against you. They were plotting against them with that, wanting to frighten them. The believers would say: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. Until they reached Badr, and they found its markets healthy and no one had disputed with them in it. He said: A man from the polytheists informed the people of Mecca about Muhammad's cavalry, and he said about that:

My camels were frightened by Muhammad's horses, and dates were scattered like the Anjad.

I took dried water as my appointment

Ibn Jarir said: This is how Al-Qasim recited to us, but it is a mistake. Rather, it is:

I have been repelled by the company of Muhammad and Ajwa from Yathrib like the Anjad

She is following the religion of her father, the Atlad, and has made the water of Qadeed my appointment.

And the water of Djanan is poured for her at noon tomorrow

Then God the Almighty said: It is only Satan who frightens you with his allies, meaning he frightens you with his allies, and makes you think that they are powerful and strong. God the Almighty said: So fear them not, but fear Me, if you are believers, meaning if he tempts you and makes you think, then rely on Me and take refuge in Me, for I am sufficient for you and your supporter against them, as God the Almighty said: Is not God sufficient for His servant? And they frighten you with those besides Him, until His saying: "Say, 'God is sufficient for me. Upon Him do those who rely rely.'" And God the Almighty said: "So fight the allies of Satan. Indeed, the plot of Satan has ever been weak." And God the Almighty said: "Those are the party of Satan. Unquestionably, the party of Satan - they are the losers." And God the Almighty said: "God has decreed, 'I will surely prevail, I and My messengers. Indeed, God is Powerful and Exalted in Might.'" And He said: And God will surely support those who support Him. And God the Almighty said: O you who have believed, if you support God, He will support you.

Surat Al Imran 3:170

Rejoicing in what God has given them of His bounty and rejoicing for those who have not yet joined them from behind them that there is no fear concerning them, nor will they grieve.

And God the Almighty said: "Indeed, We will support Our messengers and those who believe during the worldly life and on the Day when the witnesses will stand. The Day when their excuse will not benefit the wrongdoers, and for them is the curse, and they will have evil." The house.

Fath al-Qadir

And his saying 170- "Rejoicing is a state of the pronoun in they are provided for, and with what God has given them of His bounty" is related to it. Ibn al-Sameefa' read "Farihin" and they are two dialects like farah and farah, and hazar and hadhar. What is meant by "with what God has given them" is what God has brought to them of honor through martyrdom, and what they have become in of life, and what reaches them of God's provision. "And they rejoice for those who have not yet joined them" of their brothers the mujahideen who were not killed at that time. What is meant by catching up here is that they have not caught up with them in killing and martyrdom, but rather they will catch up with them later. It was said: What is meant is that they did not join them in virtue, even though they were people of virtue in general. The waw in and they rejoice is a conjunction to they are provided for, meaning: they are provided for and they rejoice. It was said: What is meant by their brothers here is all the Muslims, martyrs and others, because when they witnessed the reward of God and attained certainty in the truth of the religion of Islam, they rejoiced at that for all the people of Islam who are alive and have not died. This is stronger, because its meaning is broader and its benefit is greater, and the wording includes it, rather it is the apparent meaning. Al-Zajjaj and Ibn Furak said this. His statement that there is no fear for them, nor do they grieve is a substitute for those: meaning they rejoice at this state that has occurred for their brothers, that there is no fear for them, nor do they grieve. An is the light form of the heavy form, and its subject is the pronoun of the deleted subject.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

170- "Rejoicing in what God has given them of His bounty His provision and reward, and they rejoice, and are happy, for those who have not yet joined them from behind them", of their brothers whom they left alive in this world on the paths of faith and jihad, knowing that if they are martyred and join them and attain the honor they attained, they are therefore rejoicing, "that there is no fear concerning them, nor shall they grieve.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

170 Rejoicing in what God has given them of His bounty" which is the honor of martyrdom, winning eternal life, being close to God Almighty, and enjoying the bliss of Paradise. "And they rejoice" they are pleased with the good report. "For those who have not yet joined them" meaning their believing brothers who were not killed so that they could join them. "From behind them" meaning those who are behind them in time or rank. "There is no fear for them, nor shall they grieve is a substitute for those" and the meaning is: they rejoice in what has become clear to them about the matter of the Hereafter and the state of those believers they left behind them, which is that if they die or are killed they are alive with a life that is not troubled by the fear of something bad happening, nor the sadness of missing out on something beloved. The verse indicates that man is not a tangible structure, but rather an essence that is perceived in itself and does not perish with the destruction of the body, and his perception, pain and pleasure do not depend on it. This is supported by the Almighty's statement about the people of Pharaoh: The Fire will be exposed to them Al-Baqarah 2:170. And what Ibn Abbas may God be pleased with him narrated that the Prophet (blessings and peace of God be upon him) said: The souls of the martyrs are in the bodies of green birds that frequent the rivers of Paradise, eat from its fruits and take refuge in hanging lanterns in the shade of the Throne. And whoever denies this and sees the soul only as a wind and an exposure said that they are alive on the Day of Resurrection, but they were described thus in the present moment because of its realization and proximity, or alive through remembrance or faith. In it is an exhortation to jihad and an encouragement to martyrdom and an incentive to increase obedience and praise for those who wish for their brothers what they have been blessed with, and good tidings for the believers of success.

Surat Al Imran 3:171

They rejoice in the favor and bounty of God and that God does not allow the reward of the believers to be lost.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

They rejoice in a blessing reward from God and bounty in addition to it and that with the fat-ha in apposition to the blessing and with the kasra as a resumption God does not waste the reward of the believers rather He rewards them

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: God Almighty says: They rejoice, they rejoice, with a blessing from God, meaning: with what He Almighty bestowed upon them of His great honor when they came to Him, and favor, meaning: with what He bestowed upon them of favor and generous reward for what they had done before of obedience to God and His Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, and of jihad against His enemies, and that God does not waste the reward of the believers, as:

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq. They rejoice in the grace and bounty of God, the verse, when they witnessed the fulfillment of the promise and the great reward.

There is a difference in the reading of his saying: And that God does not waste the reward of the believers.

Some of them read it with the opening of the alif of an meaning: they are happy with the blessing and grace of God, and that God does not waste the reward of the believers.

And with the kasra on the alif, as a resumption. And those who read it like that argued that it is in Abdullah's reading: And God does not waste the reward of the believers. They said: So that is evidence that his saying: And God, is a resumption not connected to the first.

The meaning of his saying: The reward of the believers will not be lost is that the reward for the deeds of those who believed in their Messenger, followed him, and did what came to them from God will not be nullified.

Abu Ja'far said: The more correct of the two readings is the reading of the one who reads it: And that God with the opening of the alif, because the evidence from the readings agrees on that.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

That is, with a paradise from God. It is also said: with forgiveness from God. And grace. This is for the sake of further clarification, and grace is included in the blessing, and in it is evidence of its vastness, and that it is not like the blessings of this world. It was said: grace came after the blessing for the sake of emphasis:

Al-Tirmidhi narrated on the authority of Al-Miqdam bin Ma'dikarib who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The martyr has six qualities with God." This is how it is in Al-Tirmidhi and Ibn Majah, six, "and they are seven in number: he is forgiven at the first moment, he is shown his seat in Paradise, he is protected from the torment of the grave, he is safe from the greatest terror, a crown of dignity is placed on his head, a ruby of which is better than the world and what is in it, he is married to seventy-two wives from the houris, and he intercedes for seventy of his relatives." He said: This is a good, authentic, strange hadith, and this is an explanation of the blessing and the grace, and the narrations in this meaning are many. It was narrated on the authority of Mujahid that he said: Swords are the keys to Paradise. "It was narrated on the authority of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, that he said: God, the Most High, has honored the martyrs with five honors that He has not honored any of the prophets with, not even me: One of them is that the Angel of Death took the souls of all the prophets, and he is the one who will take my soul. As for the martyrs, God is the One who takes their souls with His power as He wills, and the Angel of Death is not empowered over their souls. The second is that all the prophets... They were washed after death, and I am washed after death, and the martyrs are not washed and they have no need for the water of this world. The third is that all the prophets were shrouded, and I am shrouded, and the martyrs are not shrouded, but are buried in their clothes. The fourth is that when the prophets died, they were called dead, and when I die, it is said that he died, and the martyrs are not called dead. The fifth is that the prophets are given intercession on the Day of Resurrection, and my intercession is also on the Day of Resurrection. As for the martyrs, they intercede every day for those for whom they intercede."

The Almighty's saying: And that God Al-Kisa'i read it with a kasra on the alif, and the rest with the accusative. So whoever reads with the accusative, its meaning is that they are happy with a blessing from God and are happy that God does not waste the reward of the believers. And whoever reads with the kasra, then it is based on the beginning, and its evidence is the reading of Ibn Mas'ud And God does not waste the reward of the believers.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

God the Almighty tells us about the martyrs that even if they are killed in this world, their souls are alive and provided for in the eternal home. Muhammad bin Jarir said: Muhammad bin Marzuq told us, Amr bin Yunus told us on the authority of Ikrimah, Ibn Ishaq bin Abi Talhah told us, Anas bin Malik told me about the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, whom the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent to the people of Bir Ma'unah. He said: I do not know, forty or seventy, and at that water was Amir bin At-Tufayl Al-Ja'fari. So those people from the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, went out until they came to a cave overlooking the water and sat in it. Then some of them said to one another: Who among you will deliver the message of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, to the people of this water? He said - I think he was Ibn Milhan Al-Ansari -: I am delivering the message of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. So he went out until he came to a group of them and hid in front of the houses. Then he said: "O people of Bir Ma'una, I am the Messenger of God to you. I bear witness that there is no god but God and that Muhammad is His servant and Messenger. So believe in God and His Messenger." Then a man came out to him from the house with a spear and struck him in the side until he came out from the other side. He said: God is Great, I have won, by the Lord of the Kaaba. So they followed his tracks until they reached his companions in the cave. Amir bin At-Tufayl killed them all. Ishaq said: Anas bin Malik told me that God revealed a Qur'an about them: Convey from us to our people that we have met our Lord, and He is pleased with us and we are pleased with Him. Then it was abrogated and lifted after we had read it for a while. Then God Almighty revealed: "And never think of those who are killed in the way of God as dead. Rather, they are alive with their Lord, receiving provision." Muslim said in his Sahih: : Muhammad ibn Abdullah ibn Numayr narrated to us, Abu Muawiyah narrated to us, Al-A'mash narrated to us, on the authority of Abdullah ibn Murrah, on the authority of Masruq, who said: We asked Abdullah about this verse: "And never think of those who are killed in the way of God as dead. Rather, they are alive with their Lord, and they are provided for." He said: We asked the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, about that, and he said: "Their souls are in the bodies of green birds, which have lanterns hanging from the Throne. They roam in Paradise wherever they wish, then they return to those lanterns. Then their Lord looked at them and said: Do you desire anything? They said: What do we desire when we roam in Paradise wherever we wish? He did that to them three times. When they saw that they would not be left without being asked, they said: O Lord, we want you to return our souls to our bodies so that we may be killed in Your way once again. When He saw that they had no need, they were left." Something similar to this was narrated from the hadith of Anas and Abu Saeed.

Surat Al Imran 3:171

They rejoice in the favor and bounty of God and that God does not allow the reward of the believers to be lost.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Abd al-Samad told us, Hammad told us, Thabit told us on the authority of Anas that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "There is no soul that dies and has goodness with God that would be pleased to return to the world except the martyr, for he would be pleased to return to the world and be killed again because of what he sees of the virtue of martyrdom." Muslim transmitted it only on the authority of Hammad.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Ali ibn Abdullah al-Madini told us, Sufyan told us, on the authority of Muhammad ibn Ali ibn Rabi'ah al-Salami, on the authority of Abdullah ibn Muhammad ibn Aqil, on the authority of Jabir, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to me: Do you know that God brought your father back to life? He said to him: Make a wish of me. He said to him: I will be returned to the world so that I may be killed once again. He said: I have decided that they will not return to it. Ahmad is the only one to narrate it from this source. It has been proven in the two Sahihs and others that Abu Jabir, who is Abdullah ibn Amr ibn Haram al-Ansari, may God be pleased with him, was killed as a martyr on the day of Uhud. Al-Bukhari said: Abu al-Walid said on the authority of Shu'bah on the authority of Ibn al-Munkadir: I heard Jabir say: When my father was killed, I began to cry and uncover the cloth from his face. The companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, began to forbid me, but the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Do not cry for him - or do not cry for him - the angels continued to shade him with their wings until he was taken up. He, Muslim, and al-Nasa'i transmitted it through another chain of transmission on the authority of Shu'bah, on the authority of Muhammad ibn al-Munkadir, on the authority of Jabir, who said: When my father was killed on the day of Uhud, I began to uncover the cloth from his face and cry. He mentioned the rest of it in a similar manner.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Yaqub told us, my father told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq, Ismail bin Umayyah bin Amr bin Saeed told us, on the authority of Abu al-Zubayr al-Makki, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "When your brothers were afflicted at Uhud, God placed their souls in the bodies of green birds, which would go to the rivers of Paradise, eat from its fruits, and take refuge in golden lanterns in the shade of the Throne. When they found the goodness of their drink and food, and the beauty of their resting place, they said: 'If only our brothers knew what God has done for us, so that they would not give up jihad and turn away from war.' God, the Almighty, said: 'I will convey it to them on your behalf.' Then God, the Almighty, revealed these verses: 'And never think of those who are killed in the way of God as dead. Rather, they are alive with their Lord, receiving provision.' and what follows." This is how Ahmad narrated it, and likewise Ibn Jarir narrated it on the authority of Yunus, on the authority of Ibn Wahb, on the authority of Ismail bin Ayyash, on the authority of Muhammad bin Ishaq. It was narrated by Abu Dawud and Al-Hakim in his Mustadrak from the hadith of Abdullah bin Idris from Muhammad bin Ishaq from Ismail bin Umayyah from Abu Al-Zubayr from Saeed bin Jubair from Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, and he mentioned it, and this is more authentic. Sufyan Al-Thawri narrated it likewise from Salim Al-Aftas from Saeed bin Jubair from Ibn Abbas - and Al-Hakim narrated in his Mustadrak from the hadith of Abu Ishaq Al-Fazari from Sufyan from Ismail bin Abi Khalid from Saeed bin Jubair from Ibn Abbas, who said: This verse was revealed about Hamzah and his companions: "And never think of those who are killed in the way of God as dead. Rather, they are alive with their Lord, receiving provision." Then he said: It is authentic according to the conditions of the two sheikhs, but they did not include it. Qatada, Al-Rabi' and Al-Dahhak also said: It was revealed about those killed at Uhud.

Another Hadith Abu Bakr bin Mardawayh said: Abdullah bin Jaafar told us, Harun bin Sulaiman told us, Ali bin Abdullah Al-Madini told us, Musa bin Ibrahim bin Katheer bin Bashir bin Al-Fakih Al-Ansari told us, I heard Talha bin Kharash bin Abdul Rahman bin Kharash bin Al-Sammah Al-Ansari, he said: I heard Jabir bin Abdullah say: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, looked at me one day and said: O Jabir, why do I see you worried? I said: O Messenger of God, my father was martyred and left behind a debt and children. He said: Shall I not tell you that God has never spoken to anyone except from behind a veil, and He spoke to your father directly? Ali said: Direct confrontation. He said: Ask Me and I will give it to you. He said: I ask You to return to the world so that I may be killed in Your cause a second time. The Lord Almighty said: Indeed, the word has already gone before from Me: They will not return to it. He said: O Lord, then convey it to those who are behind me. Then God revealed: And do not think that those who are killed in the way of God are dead. Then he narrated it from another chain of transmission on the authority of Muhammad ibn Sulayman ibn Salit al-Ansari, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Jabir, with a similar chain of transmission. And thus al-Bayhaqi narrated it in Dalā'il al-Nubuwwah on the authority of Ali ibn al-Madini with it. And al-Bayhaqi also narrated it from the hadith of Abu Ubadah al-Ansari, who is 'Isa ibn 'Abd al-Rahman, God willing, on the authority of al-Zuhri, on the authority of 'Urwah, on the authority of 'A'ishah, who said: "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to Jabir: 'O Jabir, shall I not give you good report?' He said: 'Yes, God has given you good report.' He said: 'I felt that God had brought your father back to life, and said: 'Ask of My servant whatever you wish, and I will give it to you.' He said: 'O Lord, I have not worshipped You as You should be worshipped. I hope that You will return me to the world so that I may fight with Your Prophet and be killed for You once again.' He said: 'It has already been said from me that it will not return to it.'"

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Yaqub told us, my father told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq, Al-Harith bin Fadil Al-Ansari told us, on the authority of Mahmud bin Labid, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The martyrs are on a river at the gate of Paradise, in a green dome, and their provision comes out to them from Paradise morning and evening." Ahmad is the only one to narrate it. Ibn Jarir narrated it on the authority of Abu Kurayb: Abd Al-Rahman bin Sulayman and Ubaydah told us on the authority of Muhammad bin Ishaq with it, and it is a good chain of transmission. And as if the martyrs are divided into groups: some of their souls will roam in Paradise, and some of them will be on this river at the gate of Paradise, and it may be possible that their journey will end at this river, and they will gather there, and their provisions will be brought to them there and they will rest, and God knows best. We have narrated in Musnad al-Imam Ahmad a hadith in which there is good report for every believer that his soul will be in Paradise, roaming there as well, and eating from its fruits, and seeing the freshness and joy in it, and witnessing what God has prepared for it of honor, and it is with a sound, noble and great chain of transmission, in which three of the four imams, the owners of the followed schools of thought, have come together, for Imam Ahmad, may God have mercy on him, narrated it on the authority of Muhammad ibn Idris al-Shafi'i, may God have mercy on him, on the authority of Malik ibn Anas al-Asbahi, may God have mercy on him, on the authority of al-Zuhri, on the authority of Abd al-Rahman ibn Ka'b ibn Malik, on the authority of his father, may God be pleased with him, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The soul of the believer is a bird that hangs in the trees of Paradise until God returns it to its body on the Day of Resurrection." His saying hangs means eats, and in this hadith: The soul of the believer will be in the form of a bird in...

"Paradise" As for the souls of the martyrs, as mentioned previously in the crops of green birds, they are like planets in relation to the souls of all believers, for they fly by themselves, so we ask God, the Generous, the Beneficent, to cause us to die in faith. And His Most High's saying: Rejoicing in what God has given them to the end of the verse, meaning the martyrs who were killed in the way of God are alive with their Lord, and they are happy with what they are in of grace and happiness, and they are glad for their brothers who are killed after them in the way of God, that they are advancing upon them, and that they do not fear what is ahead of them nor are they sad for what they left behind them. We ask God for Paradise. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said, And they are glad meaning they are happy for those of their brothers who are behind them to catch up with what they have done of their jihad, so that they may share with them in what they are in of the reward of God that He has given them. Al-Suddi said: The martyr will be brought a book in which it says: So-and-so will come to you on such-and-such a day, and so-and-so will come to you on such-and-such a day, and he will be happy with that as the people of this world are happy with their absent ones when they come back. Saeed bin Jubair said: When they entered Paradise and saw the honor it has for the martyrs, they said: Oh, if only our brothers in this world knew what we know of honor, so that when they witness battle they would engage in it themselves so that they may be martyred and attain what we have attained of goodness. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, informed them of their situation and the honor they are in, and he informed them, that is, their Lord, that I have revealed to your Prophet and informed him of your situation and what you are in, so they were happy with that, and that is what He said: And they rejoice for those who have not yet joined them from behind them Al-Bukhari and Muslim. It has been proven in the two Sahihs on the authority of Anas, may God be pleased with him, in the story of the companions of the well of Ma'unah, the seventy of the Ansar who were killed in one morning, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, prayed and cursed those who killed them. Anas said: And a Qur'an was revealed about them, which we recited until it was lifted. "Convey to our people that we have met our Lord, and He was pleased with us and satisfied us."

They rejoice in the favor and bounty of God and that God does not allow the reward of the believers to be lost.

Then God Almighty said: They rejoice in favor from God and in bounty and that God does not allow the reward of the believers to be lost. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said: They rejoiced and were pleased when they saw the fulfillment of the promise and the great reward. Abd al-Rahman ibn Zayd ibn Aslam said: This verse includes all believers, whether martyrs or others. God rarely mentions a bounty with which He mentioned the prophets or a reward that He gave them, except that He mentioned what He gave to the believers after them. And the Almighty said: Those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wounds had befallen them. This was on the day of Hamra' al-Asad, and that is because when the polytheists inflicted what they inflicted on the Muslims, they turned back to their country, and when they continued on their way, they regretted why they did not complete the battle with the people of Medina and make it the decisive battle. So when this reached the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, he urged the Muslims to go after them to frighten them and show them that they had strength and endurance, and he did not give permission to anyone except those who were present at the battle on the day of Uhud, except Jabir ibn Abdullah, may God be pleased with him, for what we will mention, so the Muslims volunteered despite their wounds and infliction, in obedience to God Almighty and His Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace. Ibn Abi Hatim said: Muhammad ibn Abdullah ibn Yazid told us, Sufyan ibn Uyaynah told us, on the authority of Amr, on the authority of Ikrimah, who said: When the polytheists returned from Uhud, they said: You did not kill Muhammad, nor did you take the young camels with you. What a bad thing you have done! Return. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, heard of that, so he called upon the Muslims, and they volunteered until they reached Hamra' al-Asad - or Bir Abi Uyaynah - the doubt is from Sufyan - and the polytheists said: We will return the next year. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, returned, and it was considered a raid, and God Almighty revealed: Those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound had afflicted them - for those among them who did good and feared God is a great reward. Ibn Mardawayh narrated it from the hadith of Muhammad ibn Mansur, on the authority of Sufyan ibn Uyaynah, on the authority of Amr, on the authority of Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, and he mentioned it. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said: The day of Uhud was Saturday, the middle of Shawwal, and when the next day was Sunday, I did not... Ten nights had passed in Shawwal, and the muezzin of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, called out to the people to seek out the enemy. His muezzin called out that no one should go out with us except those who had been present the day before. Jabir ibn Abdullah ibn Amr ibn Haram spoke to him and said: O Messenger of God, my father left me behind with my seven sisters, and he said: O my son, it is not appropriate for me or for you to leave these women without a man among them. I am not the one who would prefer you to fight with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, over myself, so stay behind with your sisters. So I stayed behind with them. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, gave him permission, so he went out with him. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, only went out to frighten the enemy and to inform them that he had gone out in pursuit of them so that they would think that he was strong, and that what had befallen them had not weakened them against their enemy. Muhammad bin Ishaq said: Abdullah bin Kharijah bin Zaid bin Thabit told me on the authority of Abu al-Sa'ib, the freed slave of Aisha bint Uthman: That a man from the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, from Banu Abd al-Ashhal, who had witnessed the Battle of Uhud, said: I witnessed Uhud with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, my brother and I, and we returned wounded. When the muezzin of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, gave the call to go out in pursuit of the enemy, I said to my brother - or he said to me -: Are we missing a raid with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace? By God, we do not have a mount to ride, and none of us is seriously wounded. So we went out with the Messenger of God, and I was less wounded than he was. Whenever he was overcome, I would carry him up a hill and he would walk up a hill, until we reached the point where the Muslims had reached. Al-Bukhari said: Muhammad bin Salam told us, Abu Muawiyah told us, on the authority of Hisham, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Aisha, may God be pleased with her, Those who responded to God and the Messenger the verse, I said to Urwah: O son of my sister, your parents were among them, Al-Zubayr and Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with them, when the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, suffered what he suffered on the day of Uhud, and the polytheists turned away from him, he feared that they would return, so he said, Who will return after them? So seventy men volunteered from among them, among them Abu Bakr and Al-Zubayr, may God be pleased with them, this is how Al-Bukhari narrated it alone with this chain of transmission, and this is how Al-Hakim narrated it in his Mustadrak on the authority of Al-Asamm, on the authority of Abbas Al-Duri, on the authority of Abu Al-Nadr, on the authority of Abu Saeed Al-Mu'addib, on the authority of Hisham bin Urwah, then he said: It is authentic, and they did not include it, this is what he said. Ibn Majah narrated it on the authority of Hisham bin Ammar, and Hadiyyah bin Abdul Wahhab on the authority of Sufyan bin Uyaynah. On the authority of Hisham bin Urwa, on his authority, and thus it was narrated by Saeed bin Mansour and Abu Bakr Al-Hamidi in his Musnad on the authority of Sufyan, on his authority. Al-Hakim also narrated it from the hadith of Ismail bin Abi Khalid from Al-Bahi, from Urwah, who said: Aisha said to me: O my son, your father is among those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound befell them, then he said: It is authentic according to the conditions of the two sheikhs, and they did not include it. Abu Bakr bin Mardawayh said: Abdullah bin Jaafar told us from the original book, Samuyah told us, Abdullah bin Al-Zubayr told us, Sufyan told us, Hisham told us from his father, from Aisha, may God be pleased with her, she said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to me: Your parents are among those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound befell them, Abu Bakr and Al-Zubayr, may God be pleased with them." And the attribution of this hadith is a complete mistake in terms of its chain of transmission because it contradicts the narration of trustworthy people from stopping at Aisha, may God be pleased with her, as we have presented, and in terms of its meaning, Al-Zubayr is not among the fathers of Aisha, but rather Aisha said that to Urwah bin Al-Zubayr, because he is the son of her sister Asma bint Abi Bakr. Al-Siddiq, may God be pleased with them, and Ibn Jarir said: Muhammad bin Saad told me, my father told me, my uncle told me, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: God cast terror into the heart of Abu Sufyan on the day of Uhud after what had happened to him, so he returned to Mecca, and the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Abu Sufyan has suffered a part of you, and he has returned and God has cast terror into his heart. The Battle of Uhud was in Shawwal, and the merchants used to come to Medina in Dhul-Qi'dah, and they would camp at Badr al-Sughra once every year, and they came after the Battle of Uhud, and the believers were afflicted with wounds, and they complained about that to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and what afflicted them was severe, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, urged the people to set out with him and follow what they had been following, and he said: They are only setting out now to come for Hajj, and they will not be able to do the same until the next year. Then Satan came and frightened his followers, and said: The people have gathered against you, but the people refused to follow him, so he said: I am going, even if no one follows me, to urge the people. So Abu Bakr al-Siddiq, Umar, Uthman, Ali, al-Zubayr, Sa'd, Talhah, Abd al-Rahman ibn Awf, Abdullah ibn Mas'ud, Hudhayfah ibn al-Yaman, and Abu Ubaidah ibn al-Jarrah volunteered with him, with seventy men. They set out in pursuit of Abu Sufyan, and they pursued him until they reached al-Safra'. Then God, the Most High, revealed: Those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound had afflicted them. Then Ibn Ishaq said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, set out until he reached Hamra' al-Asad, which is eight miles from Medina. Ibn Hisham said: He appointed Ibn Umm Maktum over Medina, and he stayed there on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, then he returned to Medina. Ma'bad ibn Abi Ma'bad al-Khuza'i passed by him, as Abdullah ibn Abi Bakr told me. The Khuza'ah, both Muslims and polytheists, were a group of sincere advisers to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, in Tihamah. They made a deal with him, and they did not hide anything that was there from him. Ma'bad was a polytheist at that time, so he said: O Muhammad, by God, what has afflicted you has been very hard on us. In your companions, and we wish that God had spared you from them. Then he and the Messenger of God (peace be upon him) went out at Hamra' al-Asad until he met Abu Sufyan ibn Harb and those with him at al-Rawha', and they had decided to return to the Messenger of God (peace be upon him) and his companions, and they said: We have achieved the goal of his companions, their leaders and their nobles, then we return before we eradicate them? We will attack the rest of them and then we will finish with them. When Abu Sufyan saw Ma'bad, he said: What is behind you, Ma'bad? He said: Muhammad and his companions are pursuing you in a group the likes of which I have never seen, they are burning with desire for you. Those who had stayed behind from him on your day have gathered with him and regretted what they did. They have a resentment towards you that I have never seen before. He said: Woe to you, what are you saying? He said: By God, I do not think that you should set out until you see the forelocks of the horses. He said: By God, we have decided to attack them to eradicate the rest of them. He said: I forbid you from that, and by God, what I saw made me recite some verses of poetry about them. He said: What did you say? He said: I said:

My camel was almost knocked down by the sounds as the ground was covered with the locusts.

He was a noble lion, not a coward when meeting, nor a slender disposition when facing off.

I remained an enemy, I think the earth is tilted because of what they called a leader who will not be let down

I said, Woe to Ibn Harb from meeting you when the plain is covered with mud.

I am a warner to the people of valor, a warning to every one of them who has a desire and a sense.

From the army of Ahmed, do not be afraid of the Tanablah, and what you warned about cannot be described as mere talk.

He said: This made Abu Sufyan and those with him think twice, and a group of Banu Abd al-Qais passed by him and he said: Where are you going? They said: We are going to Medina. He said: Why? They said: We are going to provide provisions. He said: Will you deliver a message from me to Muhammad that I will send you to him and that I will carry these raisins for you in Ukaz tomorrow if you meet us? They said: Yes. He said: When you meet him, tell him that we have decided to march to him and his companions to eradicate their remnants. The group passed by the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) while he was at Hamra al-Asad, and they told him what Abu Sufyan and his companions had said. They said: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. Ibn Hisham narrated on the authority of Abu Ubaidah, who said: "When the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, heard of their return, he said: 'By Him in Whose Hand is my soul, I have offered them stones, if they were to be brought to them in the morning, they would be as if they had gone yesterday.” Al-Hasan al-Basri said regarding his statement: Those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound had afflicted them, that Abu Sufyan and his companions had afflicted the Muslims with what they had afflicted and had returned. “The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: ‘Abu Sufyan has returned and God has cast terror into his heart, so who will volunteer to search for him?’ So the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, Abu Bakr, Umar, Uthman, Ali, and some of the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, got up and followed them. Abu Sufyan was informed that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, was searching for him, so he met a caravan of merchants and said: ‘Return Muhammad and you will have such and such a reward, and tell them that I have gathered a group for them and that I will return to them.’ So the merchants came and informed the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, of that, and the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: ‘God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs.’” So God revealed this verse, and this is what Ikrimah, Qatada and others said: This context was revealed regarding Hamra al-Asad, and it was said: It was revealed regarding the Battle of Badr al-Maw'id, but the first is correct. And the Almighty's saying: "Those to whom the people said, 'The people have gathered against you, so fear them,' but it only increased them in faith," the verse, meaning those whom the people threatened with crowds and frightened them with the large number of enemies, but they did not care about that, rather they put their trust in God and sought His help, "and said, 'God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs.'" Al-Bukhari said: Ahmad bin Yunus told us, he said: I think he said: Abu Bakr told us, on the authority of Abu Hasin, on the authority of Abu al-Dhaha, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, "God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs," Ibrahim, peace be upon him, said it when he was thrown into the fire, and Muhammad, peace be upon him, said it when the people said to them, 'The people have gathered against you, so fear them,' but it only increased their faith, and they said, 'God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs.'" Al-Nasa'i narrated it on the authority of Muhammad ibn Ismail ibn Ibrahim and Harun ibn Abdullah, both on the authority of Yahya ibn Abi Bakr, on the authority of Abu Bakr, who is Ibn Ayyash, on his authority. It is surprising that Al-Hakim Abu Abdullah narrated it on the authority of Ahmad ibn Yunus, then he said: It is authentic according to the conditions of the two sheikhs, and they did not include it. Then Al-Bukhari narrated it on the authority of Abu Ghassan Malik ibn Ismail, on the authority of Israel, on the authority of Abu Hasin, on the authority of Abu Ad-Dahha, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: The last words of Abraham, peace be upon him, when he was thrown into the fire were: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. And Abd Al-Razzaq said: Ibn Uyaynah said: Zakariya informed me on the authority of Al-Sha'bi, on the authority of Abdullah ibn Amr, who said: These are the words of Abraham, peace be upon him, when he was thrown into the fire. Narrated by Ibn Jarir. Abu Bakr bin Mardawayh said: Muhammad bin Muammar told us, Ibrahim bin Musa al-Thawri told us, Abdul Rahim bin Muhammad bin Ziyad al-Sakari told us, Abu Bakr bin Ayyash told us, on the authority of Hamid al-Tawil, on the authority of Anas bin Malik, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, that it was said to him on the day of UHud 11: The people have gathered against you, so fear them. So God revealed this verse. He also narrated on his authority on the authority of Muhammad bin Ubayd God al-Rafi'i, on the authority of his father, on the authority of his grandfather Abu Rafi': That the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent Ali with a group of people with him in pursuit of Abu Sufyan, and a Bedouin from Khuza'ah met them and said: The people have gathered against you. They said: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. So this verse was revealed about them. Then Ibn Mardawayh said: "Dulaj bin Ahmad told us, Al-Hasan bin Sufyan told us, Abu Khaithama Mus'ab bin Sa'id told us, Musa bin A'yan told us, on the authority of Al-A'mash, on the authority of Abu Salih, on the authority of Abu Hurairah, who said: 'The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "When you encounter a grave matter, say: 'God is sufficient for us, and He is the best disposer of affairs.'" This is a strange hadith from this source. Imam Ahmad said: Haywah bin Shuraih and Ibrahim bin Abi Al-Abbas told us, they said: Baqiyah told us, Buhair bin Sa'd told us, on the authority of Khalid bin Ma'dan, on the authority of Saif, on the authority of Awf bin Malik, that he told them: "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, judged between two men, and when the one against whom the judgment was made turned away, he said: 'God is sufficient for me, and He is the best disposer of affairs.' The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Bring me back to the man.' He said: 'What did you say?' He said: 'I said: God is sufficient for me, and He is the best disposer of affairs.' The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'God blames weakness, but you should be intelligent. If a matter overcomes you, say: God is sufficient for me.'" And what an excellent agent! And thus Abu Dawud and al-Nasa'i narrated it from the hadith of Baqiyyah from Buhayr from Khalid, from Sayf who is al-Shami, and it was not attributed from Awf ibn Malik from the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, in a similar manner. And Imam Ahmad said: Asbat told us, Mutraf told us from Atiyyah from Ibn Abbas regarding his statement: And when the trumpet is blown, he said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: How can I enjoy myself while the companion of the trumpet has taken hold of the trumpet and bent his forehead, hearing when he is commanded to blow? The companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: What should we say? He said: Say: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. In God we trust. This has been narrated from more than one source, and it is a good hadith. We narrated from the Mother of the Believers, Zainab and Aisha, may God be pleased with them, that they boasted, and Zainab said: God married me and your families married you. Aisha said: My innocence was revealed from the heavens in the Qur'an, so Zainab submitted to her, then she said: What did you say when you rode the mount of Safwan bin Mu'attal? She said: I said: God is sufficient for me, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. Zainab said: I said the word of the believers, and for this reason God the Almighty said: So they returned with favor from God and bounty, no harm had touched them, meaning when they put their trust in God, He sufficed them with what concerned them and repelled from them the harm of those who wanted to plot against them, so they returned to their country with favor from God and bounty, no harm had touched them from what their enemy had planned for them, and they pursued the pleasure of God, and God is the possessor of great bounty. Al-Bayhaqi said: Abu Abdullah al-Hafiz narrated to us, Abu Bakr bin Dawud al-Zahid narrated to us, Muhammad bin Na'im narrated to us, Bishr bin al-Hakam narrated to us. Mubashar bin Abdullah bin Razeen told us, Sufyan bin Husayn told us, on the authority of Ya'la bin Muslim, on the authority of Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding the statement of God Almighty: So they returned with favor and bounty from God, he said: The favor was that they were safe, and the bounty was that a caravan passed by during the season, so the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, bought it and made a profit on it, which he divided among his companions. Ibn Abi Nujayh said, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding the statement of God Almighty: Those to whom the people said, 'Indeed, the people have gathered against you, so fear them,' he said: This is Abu Sufyan, he said to Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, your meeting place is at Badr, where you killed our companions. Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, said, Perhaps. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, set out for his appointment until he reached Badr. They found the market there, and they bought. This is what God Almighty said: "So they returned with favor and bounty from God. No harm had touched them." The verse. He said: This was the minor Battle of Badr. It was narrated by Ibn Jarir. He also narrated on the authority of Al-Qasim, on the authority of Al-Husayn, on the authority of Hajjaj, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, who said: When the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, made an appointment with Abu Sufyan, they began to meet the polytheists and ask them about the Quraysh. They would say: They have gathered against you. They were plotting against them with that, wanting to frighten them. The believers would say: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. Until they reached Badr, and they found its markets healthy and no one had disputed with them in it. He said: A man from the polytheists informed the people of Mecca about Muhammad's cavalry, and he said about that:

They rejoice in the favor and bounty of God and that God does not allow the reward of the believers to be lost.

My camels were frightened by Muhammad's horses, and dates were scattered like the Anjad.

I took dried water as my appointment

Ibn Jarir said: This is how Al-Qasim recited to us, but it is a mistake. Rather, it is:

I have been repelled by the company of Muhammad and Ajwa from Yathrib like the Anjad

She is following the religion of her father, the Atlad, and has made the water of Qadeed my appointment.

And the water of Djanan is poured for her at noon tomorrow

Then God the Almighty said: It is only Satan who frightens you with his allies, meaning he frightens you with his allies, and makes you think that they are powerful and strong. God the Almighty said: So fear them not, but fear Me, if you are believers, meaning if he tempts you and makes you think, then rely on Me and take refuge in Me, for I am sufficient for you and your supporter against them, as God the Almighty said: Is not God sufficient for His servant? And they frighten you with those besides Him, until His saying: "Say, 'God is sufficient for me. Upon Him do those who rely rely.'" And God the Almighty said: "So fight the allies of Satan. Indeed, the plot of Satan has ever been weak." And God the Almighty said: "Those are the party of Satan. Unquestionably, the party of Satan - they are the losers." And God the Almighty said: "God has decreed, 'I will surely prevail, I and My messengers. Indeed, God is Powerful and Exalted in Might.'" And He said: And God will surely support those who support Him. And God the Almighty said: O you who have believed, if you support God, He will support you. And God the Almighty said: "Indeed, We will support Our messengers and those who believe during the worldly life and on the Day when the witnesses will stand. The Day when their excuse will not benefit the wrongdoers, and for them is the curse, and they will have evil." The house.

Fath al-Qadir

And he repeated his statement 172- they are rejoicing to emphasize the first, and to show that rejoicing is not merely due to the absence of fear and sadness, but rather due to it and to the grace and favor of God. And the grace is what God bestows upon His servants. And the favor is what He bestows upon them. And it was said that the grace is the reward, and the additional favor, and it was said that the grace is Paradise, and the favor is included in the grace mentioned after it to emphasize it, and it was said that the first rejoicing is related to the state of their brothers, and the second rejoicing is related to the state of themselves. His statement and that God does not waste the reward of the believers Al-Kisa'i read it with a kasra on the hamza of an, and the rest read it with a fatha, so according to the first reading it is a new objection. And in it is an indication that God does not waste the reward of any of the deeds of the believers, and this is supported by the reading of Ibn Mas'ud, and God does not waste the reward of the believers. And according to the second reading the sentence is an appositive to the favor included in the sentence of what they are rejoicing about.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

171- They rejoice in the grace and favor of God and

Surat Al Imran 3:171

They rejoice in the favor and bounty of God and that God does not allow the reward of the believers to be lost.

that God meaning: and that God, and Al-Kisa'i read with a kasra on the alif as a new sentence.

The reward of the believers will not be lost. Abu al-Hasan al-Sarakhsi told us, Zahir ibn Ahmad told us, Abu Ishaq al-Hashemi told us, Abu Mus'ab told us, Malik told us, Abu al-Zinad told us, al-A'raj told us, Abu Hurayrah told us, may God be pleased with him, that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "God has guaranteed to whoever strives in His cause, and nothing drives him out of his home except striving in His cause and believing in His word, that He will admit him into Paradise or return him to the home from which he left with whatever reward and spoils he has attained."

He said: "By the One in Whose Hand is my soul, no one is wounded in the cause of God - and God knows best who is wounded in His cause - except that he will come on the Day of Resurrection with his wound gushing with blood, the color of blood and the smell of musk."

Imam Abu Ali al-Husayn ibn Muhammad al-Qadi told us, Abu Tahir Muhammad ibn Muhammad ibn Mahmash al-Ziyadi told us, Abu Bakr Muhammad ibn al-Husayn al-Qattan told us, Ali ibn al-Hasan al-Darabajirdi told us, Abdullah ibn Yazid al-Muqri told us, Saeed told us, Muhammad ibn Ajlan told us, on the authority of al-Qa'qa' ibn Hakim, on the authority of Abu Salih, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, may God be pleased with him, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The martyr does not feel the pain of death except as one of you feels the pain of a pinch.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

171 They rejoice He repeated it for emphasis and to attach to it what is an explanation of his saying: There is no fear for them. It is possible that the first is regarding the condition of their brothers and this is regarding the condition of themselves. With a blessing from God as a reward for their deeds. And bounty as an addition to it, like the Almighty's saying: For those who do good is the best and more. And their indefiniteness is for emphasis. And that God does not allow to be lost the reward of the believers is from the group of those who rejoice in it, in apposition to bounty. Al-Kisa'i read it with the kasra as an interjecting resumption indicating that this is a reward for them for their faith, indicating that the deeds of the one who has no faith are nullified and his rewards are lost.

Surat Al Imran 3:172

Those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound had afflicted them - for those among them who did good and feared God is a great reward.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

Those subject responded to God and the Messenger his call to go out to fight when Abu Sufyan and his companions wanted to return and they made an appointment with the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his companions at the market of Badr the following year on the day of Uhud after the wound had afflicted them at Uhud and the predicate of the subject for those among them who did good by obeying him and feared opposing him is a great reward which is Paradise.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

The Almighty said: Those who responded, the verse: Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of Al-Awfi on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: God cast terror into the heart of Abu Sufyan on the day of Uhud after what happened to him, so he returned to Mecca. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Abu Sufyan has taken a part of you and has returned, and God cast terror into his heart. The Battle of Uhud was in Shawwal, and the merchants used to come to Medina in Dhu al-Qi'dah and camp at Badr.

The younger one is that they came after the Battle of Uhud and the believers were afflicted with ulcers and complained of that, so the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, called upon the people to go with him. Then Satan came and frightened his followers, saying, The people have gathered against you. But the people refused to follow him, so he said, I will go even if no one follows me. So Abu Bakr, Umar, Uthman, Ali, al-Zubayr, Sa'd, Talhah, Abd al-Rahman ibn Awf, Abdullah ibn Mas'ud, Hudhayfah ibn al-Yaman, and Abu Ubaydah ibn al-Jarrah volunteered with him with seventy men. They set out in pursuit of Abu Sufyan and they pursued him until they reached al-Safra'. Then God revealed, Those who responded to God and the Messenger, the verse.

And Al-Tabarani narrated with a sound chain of transmission on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: When the polytheists returned from Uhud, they said: You did not kill Muhammad, nor did you take the young maidens with you. What an evil thing you have done! Go back. The Messenger of God heard this and called upon the Muslims, so they volunteered until they reached Hamra' al-Asad or Bir Abu Utaybah. Then God revealed the verse: Those who responded to God and the Messenger. Abu Sufyan had said to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, Your meeting place is the season of Badr, where you killed our companions. As for the coward, he returned, and as for the brave, he prepared for battle and trade. They came to him but did not find anyone there, and they went back. Then God revealed: They returned with a blessing from God.

Ibn Mardawayh narrated on the authority of Abu Rafi'

that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent Ali with a group of people with him to pursue Abu Sufyan. They were met by a Bedouin from Khuza'ah who said, The people have gathered against you. They said, God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. So this verse was revealed about them.

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Jaafar said: By that, may His praise be glorified, He means: And that God does not waste the reward of the believers, those who respond to God and the Messenger after they have been wounded and injured.

And what God Almighty meant by that was: those who followed the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, to Hamra' al-Asad in pursuit of the enemy - Abu Sufyan and those of the polytheists of Quraysh who were with him - on their way back from Uhud. That is because when Abu Sufyan turned back from Uhud, the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, went out after him until he reached Hamra' al-Asad, which is eight miles from Medina, so that the people would see that he and his companions had power over their enemy, like someone who:

Ibn Humayd narrated to us, he said: Salamah narrated to us, on the authority of Muhammad ibn Ishaq, he said: Husayn ibn Abdullah narrated to me, on the authority of Ikrimah, he said: The day of Uhud was Saturday, the middle of Shawwal. When it was the next day of Uhud, Sunday, sixteen nights had passed of Shawwal, the muezzin of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, called out to the people to seek out the enemy, and his muezzin announced: No one should go out with us except those who were present on our day the day before. So Jabir ibn Abdullah ibn Amr ibn Haram spoke to him and said: O Messenger of God, my father left me behind in charge of my seven sisters, and he said to me: O my son, it is not appropriate for me and for you to leave these women without a man among them, and I am not one who would prefer you to fight with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, over myself! So stay behind in charge of your sisters, so I stayed behind in charge of them. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, gave him permission, so he went out with him. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, went out to terrify the enemy, to inform them that he had gone out in pursuit of them, so that they would think he was strong, and that what had happened to them had not weakened them against their enemy.

Ibn Humayd narrated, he said: Salamah narrated, on the authority of Muhammad ibn Ishaq, he said: Abdullah ibn Kharijah ibn Zayd ibn Thabit narrated to me, on the authority of Abu al-Sa'ib, the freed slave of Aisha bint Uthman: A man from the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, from Banu Abd al-Ashhal, who had witnessed Uhud, said: I witnessed Uhud with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, I and a brother of mine, and we returned wounded. When the muezzin of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, gave the call to go out in pursuit of the enemy, I said to my brother - or he said to me -: Are we missing a raid with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace? By God, we do not have a mount to ride, and none of us is seriously wounded! So we went out with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and I was less wounded than he was. Whenever he was defeated, I would carry him up a hill and he would walk up a hill, until we reached where the Muslims had reached. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, went out until he reached Hamra al-Asad, which is eight miles from Medina, and he stayed there for three days, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, then he returned to Medina.

Surat Al Imran 3:172

Those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound had afflicted them - for those among them who did good and feared God is a great reward.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq, he said: God Almighty said: Those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound had afflicted them, meaning the wounds, and they are those who traveled with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, the next day from the day of Uhud to Hamra al-Asad, despite the pain of the wounds they were suffering from, for those among them who did good and feared God is a great reward.

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: Those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wounds had afflicted them, the verse, and that was on the day of Uhud, after the killing and wounds, and after the polytheists - Abu Sufyan and his companions - had departed, so the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to his companions: Is there not a group that will volunteer for the command of God, seeking out its enemy? For that is more effective for the enemy, and more distant for hearing! So a group of them set out, with what God knows of the effort.

Muhammad ibn al-Husayn narrated, Ahmad ibn al-Mufaddal narrated, Asbat narrated, on the authority of al-Suddi: Abu Sufyan set out on his way back from Uhud, until he reached part of the road, then they regretted it and said: What a bad thing you have done! You killed them, and when none remained but the fugitives, you left them! Go back and exterminate them. So God cast terror into their hearts, and they were defeated. Then God informed His Messenger, so he pursued them until he reached Hamra' al-Asad, then they returned from Hamra' al-Asad, so God, the Most High, revealed about them: Those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound had afflicted them.

Muhammad bin Saad told me, he said, my father told me, he said, my uncle told me, he said, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, he said: God, the Almighty, cast terror into the heart of Abu Sufyan - meaning the day of Uhud - after what happened from him, he returned to Mecca, and the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Abu Sufyan has indeed afflicted a part of you, and he has returned and God has cast terror into his heart! The Battle of Uhud was in Shawwal, and the merchants used to come to Medina in Dhul-Qi'dah, and they would camp at Badr al-Sughra once every year, because they came after the Battle of Uhud, and the believers were afflicted with wounds, and they complained about that to the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and what afflicted them was severe. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, urged the people to set out with him, and to follow what they had been following, and he said: They are only setting out now to perform Hajj, and they will not be able to do the same until the next year, so Satan came and frightened his followers, and he said: The people have gathered against you! The people refused to follow him, so he said: I am going even if no one follows me, to urge the people. So Abu Bakr As-Siddiq, Umar, Uthman, Ali, Az-Zubayr, Sa'd, Talhah, Abdur-Rahman ibn Awf, Abdullah ibn Mas'ud, Hudhayfah ibn Al-Yaman, and Abu Ubaidah ibn Al-Jarrah volunteered with him, with seventy men, and they set out in search of Abu Sufyan, and they searched for him until they reached As-Safra', then God the Almighty revealed: Those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound had afflicted them - for those among them who did good and feared God is a great reward.

Yaqub bin Ibrahim told me, he said, Hashim bin Al-Qasim told us, he said, Abu Saeed told us, on the authority of Hisham bin Urwa, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Aisha, that she said to Abdullah bin Al-Zubayr: O son of my sister, by God, your father and grandfather - meaning Abu Bakr and Al-Zubayr - are among those about whom God Almighty said: Those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound had afflicted them.

Al-Qasim narrated to us, Al-Husayn narrated to us, Hajjaj narrated to me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, who said: "I was informed that when Abu Sufyan ibn Harb and his companions set out on the day of Uhud, the Muslims said to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace: They are heading to Medina! He said: If they ride the horses and leave the heavy loads, then they are heading to Medina, and if they sit on the heavy loads and leave the horses, then God has terrified them, and they are not heading to them. So they rode the heavy loads, and God terrified them. Then He called upon people to follow them to see that they had the strength, so they followed them for two or three nights, and then this verse was revealed: 'Those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound had afflicted them.'"

Saeed bin Al-Rabi' told me, he said, Sufyan told us, on the authority of Hisham bin Urwa, on the authority of his father, he said: Aisha said to me: Your parents were among those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound had befallen them - meaning Abu Bakr and Al-Zubayr.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Jarir told us, on the authority of Mughira, on the authority of Ibrahim, he said: Abdullah was among those who responded to God and the Messenger.

Abu Ja'far said: God Almighty promised the doer of good among the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound had befallen them, if he feared God and feared Him, performed His obligations and obeyed Him in His commands and prohibitions in the future of his life, a great reward. That is the abundant reward and great recompense for the good deeds he had done in this world.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

The Almighty's saying: Those who is in the nominative case as the subject, and its predicate is after the wounds had afflicted them. It is also possible that it is in the accusative case, in place of the believers, or of those who have not yet joined. "They responded" means they answered, and the sin and the ta' are extra letters, and from this is His saying:

No one responded to him at that time.

In the two Sahihs, on the authority of Urwah ibn al-Zubayr, he said: Aisha, may God be pleased with her, said: Your father was among those who responded to God and the Messenger after they were afflicted with a wound. Muslim's wording is from him on the authority of Aisha: O son of my sister, your parents, meaning al-Zubayr and Abu Bakr, were among those who responded to God and the Messenger after they were afflicted with a wound. She said: When the polytheists returned from Uhud and the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his companions suffered what they suffered, he feared that they would return, so he said: Who will volunteer for these so that they may know that we have strength? Abu Bakr and al-Zubayr volunteered with seventy, so they went out in the footsteps of the people, and they heard about them and returned with a blessing and grace from God. Aisha, may God be pleased with her, referred to what happened in the Battle of Hamra al-Asad, which is about eight miles from Madinah.

And when it was Sunday, which was the second day of Uhud, the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, called out to the people to follow the polytheists, and he said: No one should go out with us except those who witnessed it yesterday. So two hundred men of the believers rose up with him, in Bukhari, and he said: Who will go after them? So seventy men volunteered from among them. He said: Abu Bakr and al-Zubayr were among them, as mentioned above, until he reached Hamra al-Asad, terrifying the enemy. And perhaps among them was one who was burdened with wounds and could not walk and could not find a mount, so perhaps he would be carried on the shoulders, and all of that was in compliance with the command of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and a desire for jihad.

It was said: The verse was revealed about two men from Banu Abd al-Ashhal who were severely wounded, one of them leaning on the other, and they went out with the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace. When they reached Hamra al-Asad, Nu'aym ibn Mas'ud met them and informed them that Abu Sufyan ibn Harb and those with him from Quraysh had gathered their forces and agreed to come to Medina and exterminate its people. They said what God has told us about them: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. While Quraysh had agreed on that, Ma'bad al-Khuza'i came to them:

Khuza'ah were allies of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and he advised him. He had seen the condition of the Prophet's companions and what they were like. When he saw the Quraysh's determination to return to exterminate the people of Medina, he was overcome by fear of that, and he sincerely advised the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his companions, but he feared the Quraysh by saying to them: I have left Muhammad and his companions at Hamra' al-Asad with a great army, and those who had stayed behind have gathered around it, and they have burned for you, so escape, escape! For I forbid you from that, and by God, what I saw made me say some verses of poetry about it. He said: What did you say? He said: I said:

My camel was almost knocked down by the sounds as the ground was covered with the locusts.

Dress up like a noble lion, do not be rude when meeting, nor do you lean towards the isolated ones.

I remained an enemy, I think the earth is tilted towards what they called a leader who will not be disappointed

I said, Woe to Ibn Harb from meeting you when the plain is covered with horses.

I am a warner to the people of valor, a warning to every one of them who has a desire and a sense.

From the army of Ahmed, do not be afraid of his bombs, and what you warned about cannot be described in words.

He said: This made Abu Sufyan and those with him afraid, and God cast terror into their hearts, and they returned to Mecca in fear and haste, and the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, returned with his companions to Medina victorious, as God Almighty said: So they returned with favor and bounty from God, no harm touched them, meaning fighting and terror. Jabir ibn Abdullah asked permission from the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, to go out with him, and he gave him permission, and God Almighty informed them that a great reward had been obtained for them with this return.

The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said that it was a raid. This is the interpretation of the majority of scholars for this verse. Mujahid and Ikrimah, may God have mercy on them, deviated and said: This verse is from His statement: Those to whom the people said to His statement: Great.

It was revealed about the Prophet's (peace and blessings of God be upon him) going out to Badr al-Sughra, and that was because he went out to meet Abu Sufyan at Uhud, when he said: Our meeting is at Badr next year. The Prophet (peace and blessings of

Surat Al Imran 3:172

Those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound had afflicted them - for those among them who did good and feared God is a great reward.

God be upon him) said: Say yes. So the Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) went out before Badr, and there was a great market there. The Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) gave his companions dirhams, and he approached Badr when Nu'aym ibn Mas'ud al-Ashja'i came to him and informed him that the Quraysh had gathered and were coming to fight him and those who joined them. The Muslims were afraid of that, but they said: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. So they persisted until they came to Badr, but they did not find anyone. They found the market and bought leather and merchandise with their dirhams, and they returned without encountering any plot, and they made a profit in their trade. That is what God the Almighty said: And they returned with favor and bounty from God. That is, bounty in those trades, and God knows best.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

God the Almighty tells us about the martyrs that even if they are killed in this world, their souls are alive and provided for in the eternal home. Muhammad bin Jarir said: Muhammad bin Marzuq told us, Amr bin Yunus told us on the authority of Ikrimah, Ibn Ishaq bin Abi Talhah told us, Anas bin Malik told me about the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, whom the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent to the people of Bir Ma'unah. He said: I do not know, forty or seventy, and at that water was Amir bin At-Tufayl Al-Jafari. So those people from the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, went out until they came to a cave overlooking the water and sat in it. Then some of them said to one another: Who among you will deliver the message of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, to the people of this water? He said - I think he was Ibn Milhan Al-Ansari -: I am delivering the message of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. So he went out until he came to a group of them and hid in front of the houses. Then he said: "O people of Bir Ma'una, I am the Messenger of God to you. I bear witness that there is no god but God and that Muhammad is His servant and Messenger. So believe in God and His Messenger." Then a man came out to him from the house with a spear and struck him in the side until he came out from the other side. He said: God is Great, I have won, by the Lord of the Kaaba. So they followed his tracks until they reached his companions in the cave. Amir bin At-Tufayl killed them all. Ishaq said: Anas bin Malik told me that God revealed a Qur'an about them: Convey from us to our people that we have met our Lord, and He is pleased with us and we are pleased with Him. Then it was abrogated and lifted after we had read it for a while. Then God Almighty revealed: "And never think of those who are killed in the way of God as dead. Rather, they are alive with their Lord, receiving provision." Muslim said in his Sahih: : Muhammad ibn Abdullah ibn Numayr narrated to us, Abu Muawiyah narrated to us, Al-A'mash narrated to us, on the authority of Abdullah ibn Murrah, on the authority of Masruq, who said: We asked Abdullah about this verse: "And never think of those who are killed in the way of God as dead. Rather, they are alive with their Lord, and they are provided for." He said: We asked the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, about that, and he said: "Their souls are in the bodies of green birds, which have lanterns hanging from the Throne. They roam in Paradise wherever they wish, then they return to those lanterns. Then their Lord looked at them and said: Do you desire anything? They said: What do we desire when we roam in Paradise wherever we wish? He did that to them three times. When they saw that they would not be left without being asked, they said: O Lord, we want you to return our souls to our bodies so that we may be killed in Your way once again. When He saw that they had no need, they were left." Something similar to this was narrated from the hadith of Anas and Abu Saeed.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Abd al-Samad told us, Hammad told us, Thabit told us on the authority of Anas that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "There is no soul that dies and has goodness with God that would be pleased to return to the world except the martyr, for he would be pleased to return to the world and be killed again because of what he sees of the virtue of martyrdom." Muslim transmitted it only on the authority of Hammad.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Ali ibn Abdullah al-Madini told us, Sufyan told us, on the authority of Muhammad ibn Ali ibn Rabi'ah al-Salami, on the authority of Abdullah ibn Muhammad ibn Aqil, on the authority of Jabir, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to me: Do you know that God brought your father back to life? He said to him: Make a wish of me. He said to him: I will be returned to the world so that I may be killed once again. He said: I have decided that they will not return to it. Ahmad is the only one to narrate it from this source. It has been proven in the two Sahihis and others that Abu Jabir, who is Abdullah ibn Amr ibn Haram al-Ansari, may God be pleased with him, was killed as a martyr on the day of Uhud. Al-Bukhari said: Abu al-Walid said on the authority of Shu'bah on the authority of Ibn al-Munkadir: I heard Jabir say: When my father was killed, I began to cry and uncover the cloth from his face. The companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, began to forbid me, but the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, did not forbid me. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Do not cry for him - or do not cry for him - the angels continued to shade him with their wings until he was taken up. He, Muslim, and al-Nasa'i transmitted it through another chain of transmission on the authority of Shu'bah, on the authority of Muhammad ibn al-Munkadir, on the authority of Jabir, who said: When my father was killed on the day of Uhud, I began to uncover the cloth from his face and cry. He mentioned the rest of it in a similar manner.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Yaqub told us, my father told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq, Ismail bin Umayyah bin Amr bin Saeed told us, on the authority of Abu al-Zubayr al-Makki, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "When your brothers were afflicted at Uhud, God placed their souls in the bodies of green birds, which would go to the rivers of Paradise, eat from its fruits, and take refuge in golden lanterns in the shade of the Throne. When they found the goodness of their drink and food, and the beauty of their resting place, they said: 'If only our brothers knew what God has done for us, so that they would not give up jihad and turn away from war.' God, the Almighty, said: 'I will convey it to them on your behalf.' Then God, the Almighty, revealed these verses: 'And never think of those who are killed in the way of God as dead. Rather, they are alive with their Lord, receiving provision.' and what follows." This is how Ahmad narrated it, and likewise Ibn Jarir narrated it on the authority of Yunus, on the authority of Ibn Wahb, on the authority of Ismail bin Ayyash, on the authority of Muhammad bin Ishaq. It was narrated by Abu Dawud and Al-Hakim in his Mustadrak from the hadith of Abdullah bin Idris from Muhammad bin Ishaq from Ismail bin Umayyah from Abu Al-Zubayr from Saeed bin Jubair from Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, and he mentioned it, and this is more authentic. Sufyan Al-Thawri narrated it likewise from Salim Al-Aftas from Saeed bin Jubair from Ibn Abbas - and Al-Hakim narrated in his Mustadrak from the hadith of Abu Ishaq Al-Fazari from Sufyan from Ismail bin Abi Khalid from Saeed bin Jubair from Ibn Abbas, who said: This verse was revealed about Hamzah and his companions: "And never think of those who are killed in the way of God as dead. Rather, they are alive with their Lord, receiving provision." Then he said: It is authentic according to the conditions of the two sheikhs, but they did not include it. Qatada, Al-Rabi' and Al-Dahhak also said: It was revealed about those killed at Uhud.

Another Hadith Abu Bakr bin Mardawayh said: Abdullah bin Jaafar told us, Harun bin Sulaiman told us, Ali bin Abdullah Al-Madini told us, Musa bin Ibrahim bin Katheer bin Bashir bin Al-Fakih Al-Ansari told us, I heard Talha bin Kharash bin Abdul Rahman bin Kharash bin Al-Sammah Al-Ansari, he said: I heard Jabir bin Abdullah say: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, looked at me one day and said: O Jabir, why do I see you worried? I said: O Messenger of God, my father was martyred and left behind a debt and children. He said: Shall I not tell you that God has never spoken to anyone except from behind a veil, and He spoke to your father directly? Ali said: Direct confrontation. He said: Ask Me and I will give it to you. He said: I ask You to return to the world so that I may be killed in Your cause a second time. The Lord Almighty said: Indeed, the word has already gone before from Me: They will not return to it. He said: O Lord, then convey it to those who are behind me. Then God revealed: And do not think that those who are killed in the way of God are dead. Then he narrated it from another chain of transmission on the authority of Muhammad ibn Sulayman ibn Salit al-Ansari, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Jabir, with a similar chain of transmission. And thus al-Bayhaqi narrated it in Dalā'il al-Nubuwwah on the authority of Ali ibn al-Madini with it. And al-Bayhaqi also narrated it from the hadith of Abu Ubadah al-Ansari, who is 'Isa ibn 'Abd al-Rahman, God willing, on the authority of al-Zuhri, on the authority of 'Urwah, on the authority of 'A'ishah, who said: "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to Jabir: 'O Jabir, shall I not give you good report?' ' He said: 'Yes, God has given you good report.' ' He said: 'I felt that God had brought your father back to life, and said: 'Ask of My servant whatever you wish, and I will give it to you.' ' He said: 'O Lord, I have not worshipped You as You should be worshipped. I hope that You will return me to the world so that I may fight with Your Prophet and be killed for You once again.' ' He said: 'It has already been said from me that it will not return to it.' "

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Yaqub told us, my father told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq, Al-Harith bin Fadil Al-Ansari told us, on the authority of Mahmud bin Labid, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The martyrs are on a river at the gate of Paradise, in a green dome, and their provision comes out to them from Paradise morning and evening." Ahmad is the only one to narrate it. Ibn Jarir narrated it on the authority of Abu Kurayb: Abd Al-Rahman bin Sulayman and Ubaydah told us on the authority of Muhammad bin Ishaq with it, and it is a good chain of transmission. And as if the martyrs are divided into groups: some of their souls will roam in Paradise, and some of them will be on this river at the gate of Paradise, and it may be possible that their journey will end at this river, and they will gather there, and their provisions will be brought to them there and they will rest, and God knows best. We have narrated in Musnad al-Imam Ahmad a hadith in which there is good report for every believer that his soul will be in Paradise, roaming there as well, and eating from its fruits, and seeing the freshness and joy in it, and witnessing what God has prepared for it of honor, and it is with a sound, noble and great chain of transmission, in which three of the four imams, the owners of the followed schools of thought, have come together, for Imam Ahmad, may God have mercy on him, narrated it on the authority of Muhammad ibn Idris al-Shafi'i, may God have mercy on him, on the authority of Malik ibn Anas al-Asbahi, may God have mercy on him, on the authority of al-Zuhri, on the authority of Abd al-Rahman ibn Ka'b ibn Malik, on the authority of his father, may God be pleased with him, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The soul of the believer is a bird that hangs in the trees of Paradise until God returns it to its body on the Day of Resurrection." His saying hangs means eats, and in this hadith: The soul of the believer will be in the form of a bird in... "Paradise" As for the souls of the martyrs, as mentioned previously in the crops of green birds, they are like planets in relation to the souls of all believers, for they fly by themselves, so we ask God, the Generous, the Beneficent, to cause us to die in faith. And His Most High's saying: Rejoicing in what God has given them to the end of the verse, meaning the martyrs who were killed in the way of God are alive with their Lord, and they are happy with what they are in of grace and happiness, and they are glad for their brothers who are killed after them in the way of God, that they are advancing upon them, and that they do not fear what is ahead of them nor are they sad for what they left behind them. We ask God for Paradise. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said, And they are glad meaning they are happy for those of their brothers who are behind them to catch up with what they have done of their jihad, so that they may share with them in what they are in of the reward of God that He has given them. Al-Suddi said: The martyr will be brought a book in which it says: So-and-so will come to you on such-and-such a day, and so-and-so will come to you on such-and-such a day, and he will be happy with that as the people of this world are happy with their absent ones when they come back. Saeed bin Jubair said: When they entered Paradise and saw the honor it has for the martyrs, they said: Oh, if only our brothers in this world knew what we know of honor, so that when they witness battle they would engage in it themselves so that they may be martyred and attain what we have attained of goodness. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, informed them of their situation and the honor they are in, and he informed them, that is, their Lord, that I have revealed to your Prophet and informed him of your situation and what you are in, so they were happy with that, and that is what He said: And they rejoice for those who have not yet joined them from behind them Al-Bukhari and Muslim. It has been proven in the two Sahihs on the authority of Anas, may God be pleased with him, in the story of the companions of the well of Ma'unah, the seventy of the Ansar who were killed in one morning, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, prayed and cursed those who killed them. Anas said: And a Qur'an was revealed about them, which we recited until it was lifted. Convey to our people that we have met our Lord, and He was pleased with us and satisfied us.

Surat Al Imran 3:172

Those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound had afflicted them - for those among them who did good and feared God is a great reward.

Then God Almighty said: They rejoice in favor from God and in bounty and that God does not allow the reward of the believers to be lost. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said: They rejoiced and were pleased when they saw the fulfillment of the promise and the great reward. Abd al-Rahman ibn Zayd ibn Aslam said: This verse includes all believers, whether martyrs or others. God rarely mentions a bounty with which He mentioned the prophets or a reward that He gave them, except that He mentioned what He gave to the believers after them. And the Almighty said: Those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wounds had befallen them. This was on the day of Hamra' al-Asad, and that is because when the polytheists inflicted what they inflicted on the Muslims, they turned back to their country, and when they continued on their way, they regretted why they did not complete the battle with the people of Medina and make it the decisive battle. So when this reached the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, he urged the Muslims to go after them to frighten them and show them that they had strength and endurance, and he did not give permission to anyone except those who were present at the battle on the day of Uhud, except Jabir ibn Abdullah, may God be pleased with him, for what we will mention, so the Muslims volunteered despite their wounds and infliction, in obedience to God Almighty and His Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace. Ibn Abi Hatim said: Muhammad ibn Abdullah ibn Yazid told us, Sufyan ibn Uyaynah told us, on the authority of Amr, on the authority of Ikrimah, who said: When the polytheists returned from Uhud, they said: You did not kill Muhammad, nor did you take the young camels with you. What a bad thing you have done! Return. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, heard of that, so he called upon the Muslims, and they volunteered until they reached Hamra' al-Asad - or Bir Abi Uyaynah - the doubt is from Sufyan - and the polytheists said: We will return the next year. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, returned, and it was considered a raid, and God Almighty revealed: Those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound had afflicted them - for those among them who did good and feared God is a great reward. Ibn Mardawayh narrated it from the hadith of Muhammad ibn Mansur, on the authority of Sufyan ibn Uyaynah, on the authority of Amr, on the authority of Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, and he mentioned it. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said: The day of Uhud was Saturday, the middle of Shawwal, and when the next day was Sunday, I did not... Ten nights had passed in Shawwal, and the muezzin of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, called out to the people to seek out the enemy. His muezzin called out that no one should go out with us except those who had been present the day before. Jabir ibn Abdullah ibn Amr ibn Haram spoke to him and said: O Messenger of God, my father left me behind with my seven sisters, and he said: O my son, it is not appropriate for me or for you to leave these women without a man among them. I am not the one who would prefer you to fight with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, over myself, so stay behind with your sisters. So I stayed behind with them. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, gave him permission, so he went out with him. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, only went out to frighten the enemy and to inform them that he had gone out in pursuit of them so that they would think that he was strong, and that what had befallen them had not weakened them against their enemy. Muhammad bin Ishaq said: Abdullah bin Kharijah bin Zaid bin Thabit told me on the authority of Abu al-Sa'ib, the freed slave of Aisha bint Uthman: That a man from the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, from Banu Abd al-Ashhal, who had witnessed the Battle of Uhud, said: I witnessed Uhud with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, my brother and I, and we returned wounded. When the muezzin of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, gave the call to go out in pursuit of the enemy, I said to my brother - or he said to me -: Are we missing a raid with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace? By God, we do not have a mount to ride, and none of us is seriously wounded. So we went out with the Messenger of God, and I was less wounded than he was. Whenever he was overcome, I would carry him up a hill and he would walk up a hill, until we reached the point where the Muslims had reached. Al-Bukhari said: Muhammad bin Salam told us, Abu Muawiyah told us, on the authority of Hisham, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Aisha, may God be pleased with her, Those who responded to God and the Messenger the verse, I said to Urwah: O son of my sister, your parents were among them, Al-Zubayr and Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with them, when the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, suffered what he suffered on the day of Uhud, and the polytheists turned away from him, he feared that they would return, so he said, Who will return after them? So seventy men volunteered from among them, among them Abu Bakr and Al-Zubayr, may God be pleased with them, this is how Al-Bukhari narrated it alone with this chain of transmission, and this is how Al-Hakim narrated it in his Mustadrak on the authority of Al-Asamm, on the authority of Abbas Al-Duri, on the authority of Abu Al-Nadr, on the authority of Abu Saeed Al-Mu'addib, on the authority of Hisham bin Urwah, then he said: It is authentic, and they did not include it, this is what he said. Ibn Majah narrated it on the authority of Hisham bin Ammar, and Hadiyyah bin Abdul Wahhab on the authority of Sufyan bin Uyaynah. On the authority of Hisham bin Urwa, on his authority, and thus it was narrated by Saeed bin Mansour and Abu Bakr Al-Hamidi in his Musnad on the authority of Sufyan, on his authority. Al-Hakim also narrated it from the hadith of Ismail bin Abi Khalid from Al-Bahi, from Urwah, who said: Aisha said to me: O my son, your father is among those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound befell them, then he said: It is authentic according to the conditions of the two sheikhs, and they did not include it. Abu Bakr bin Mardawayh said: Abdullah bin Jaafar told us from the original book, Samuyah told us, Abdullah bin Al-Zubayr told us, Sufyan told us, Hisham told us from his father, from Aisha, may God be pleased with her, she said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to me: Your parents are among those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound befell them, Abu Bakr and Al-Zubayr, may God be pleased with them." And the attribution of this hadith is a complete mistake in terms of its chain of transmission because it contradicts the narration of trustworthy people from stopping at Aisha, may God be pleased with her, as we have presented, and in terms of its meaning, Al-Zubayr is not among the fathers of Aisha, but rather Aisha said that to Urwah bin Al-Zubayr, because he is the son of her sister Asma bint Abi Bakr. Al-Siddiq, may God be pleased with them, and Ibn Jarir said: Muhammad bin Saad told me, my father told me, my uncle told me, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: God cast terror into the heart of Abu Sufyan on the day of Uhud after what had happened to him, so he returned to Mecca, and the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Abu Sufyan has suffered a part of you, and he has returned and God has cast terror into his heart. The Battle of Uhud was in Shawwal, and the merchants used to come to Medina in Dhul-Qi'dah, and they would camp at Badr al-Sughra once every year, and they came after the Battle of Uhud, and the believers were afflicted with wounds, and they complained about that to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and what afflicted them was severe, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, urged the people to set out with him and follow what they had been following, and he said: They are only setting out now to come for Hajj, and they will not be able to do the same until the next year. Then Satan came and frightened his followers, and said: The people have gathered against you, but the people refused to follow him, so he said: I am going, even if no one follows me, to urge the people. So Abu Bakr al-Siddiq, Umar, Uthman, Ali, al-Zubayr, Sa'd, Talhah, Abd al-Rahman ibn Awf, Abdullah ibn Mas'ud, Hudhayfah ibn al-Yaman, and Abu Ubaidah ibn al-Jarrah volunteered with him, with seventy men. They set out in pursuit of Abu Sufyan, and they pursued him until they reached al-Safra'. Then God, the Most High, revealed: Those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound had afflicted them. Then Ibn Ishaq said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, set out until he reached Hamra' al-Asad, which is eight miles from Medina. Ibn Hisham said: He appointed Ibn Umm Maktum over Medina, and he stayed there on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, then he returned to Medina. Ma'bad ibn Abi Ma'bad al-Khuza'i passed by him, as Abdullah ibn Abi Bakr told me. The Khuza'ah, both Muslims and polytheists, were a group of sincere advisers to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, in Tihamah. They made a deal with him, and they did not hide anything that was there from him. Ma'bad was a polytheist at that time, so he said: O Muhammad, by God, what has afflicted you has been very hard on us. In your companions, and we wish that God had spared you from them. Then he and the Messenger of God (peace be upon him) went out at Hamra' al-Asad until he met Abu Sufyan ibn Harb and those with him at al-Rawha', and they had decided to return to the Messenger of God (peace be upon him) and his companions, and they said: We have achieved the goal of his companions, their leaders and their nobles, then we return before we eradicate them? We will attack the rest of them and then we will finish with them. When Abu Sufyan saw Ma'bad, he said: What is behind you, Ma'bad? He said: Muhammad and his companions are pursuing you in a group the likes of which I have never seen, they are burning with desire for you. Those who had stayed behind from him on your day have gathered with him and regretted what they did. They have a resentment towards you that I have never seen before. He said: Woe to you, what are you saying? He said: By God, I do not think that you should set out until you see the forelocks of the horses. He said: By God, we have decided to attack them to eradicate the rest of them. He said: I forbid you from that, and by God, what I saw made me recite some verses of poetry about them. He said: What did you say? He said: I said:

My camel was almost knocked down by the sounds as the ground was covered with the locusts.

He was a noble lion, not a coward when meeting, nor a slender disposition when facing off.

Surat Al Imran 3:172

Those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound had afflicted them - for those among them who did good and feared God is a great reward.

I remained an enemy, I think the earth is tilted because of what they called a leader who will not be let down

I said, Woe to Ibn Harb from meeting you when the plain is covered with mud.

I am a warner to the people of valor, a warning to every one of them who has a desire and a sense.

From the army of Ahmed, do not be afraid of the Tanablah, and what you warned about cannot be described as mere talk.

He said: This made Abu Sufyan and those with him think twice, and a group of Banu Abd al-Qais passed by him and he said: Where are you going? They said: We are going to Medina. He said: Why? They said: Yes. We are going to provide provisions. He said: Will you deliver a message from me to Muhammad that I will send you to him and that I will carry these raisins for you in Ukaz tomorrow if you meet us? They said: Yes. He said: When you meet him, tell him that we have decided to march to him and his companions to eradicate their remnants. The group passed by the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) while he was at Hamra al-Asad, and they told him what Abu Sufyan and his companions had said. They said: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. Ibn Hisham narrated on the authority of Abu Ubaidah, who said: "When the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, heard of their return, he said: 'By Him in Whose Hand is my soul, I have offered them stones, if they were to be brought to them in the morning, they would be as if they had gone yesterday.'" Al-Hasan al-Basri said regarding his statement: Those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound had afflicted them, that Abu Sufyan and his companions had afflicted the Muslims with what they had afflicted and had returned. "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Abu Sufyan has returned and God has cast terror into his heart, so who will volunteer to search for him?' So the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, Abu Bakr, Umar, Uthman, Ali, and some of the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, got up and followed them. Abu Sufyan was informed that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, was searching for him, so he met a caravan of merchants and said: 'Return Muhammad and you will have such and such a reward, and tell them that I have gathered a group for them and that I will return to them.' So the merchants came and informed the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, of that, and the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs.'" So God revealed this verse, and this is what Ikrimah, Qatada and others said: This context was revealed regarding Hamra al-Asad, and it was said: It was revealed regarding the Battle of Badr al-Maw'id, but the first is correct. And the Almighty's saying: Those to whom the people said, 'The people have gathered against you, so fear them,' but it only increased them in faith, the verse, meaning those whom the people threatened with crowds and frightened them with the large number of enemies, but they did not care about that, rather they put their trust in God and sought His help, and said, 'God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs.' Al-Bukhari said: Ahmad bin Yunus told us, he said: I think he said: Abu Bakr told us, on the authority of Abu Hasin, on the authority of Abu al-Dhaha, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs, Ibrahim, peace be upon him, said it when he was thrown into the fire, and Muhammad, peace be upon him, said it when the people said to them, 'The people have gathered against you, so fear them,' but it only increased their faith, and they said, 'God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs.'" Al-Nasa'i narrated it on the authority of Muhammad bin Ismail ibn Ibrahim and Harun ibn Abdullah, both on the authority of Yahya ibn Abi Bakr, on the authority of Abu Bakr, who is Ibn Ayyash, on his authority. It is surprising that Al-Hakim Abu Abdullah narrated it on the authority of Ahmad ibn Yunus, then he said: It is authentic according to the conditions of the two sheikhs, and they did not include it. Then Al-Bukhari narrated it on the authority of Abu Ghassan Malik ibn Ismail, on the authority of Israel, on the authority of Abu Hasin, on the authority of Abu Ad-Dahha, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: The last words of Abraham, peace be upon him, when he was thrown into the fire were: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. And Abd Al-Razzaq said: Ibn Uyaynah said: Zakariya informed me on the authority of Al-Sha'bi, on the authority of Abdullah ibn Amr, who said: These are the words of Abraham, peace be upon him, when he was thrown into the fire. Narrated by Ibn Jarir. Abu Bakr bin Mardawayh said: Muhammad bin Muammar told us, Ibrahim bin Musa al-Thawri told us, Abdul Rahim bin Muhammad bin Ziyad al-Sakari told us, Abu Bakr bin Ayyash told us, on the authority of Hamid al-Tawil, on the authority of Anas bin Malik, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, that it was said to him on the day of Uhud 11: The people have gathered against you, so fear them. So God revealed this verse. He also narrated on his authority on the authority of Muhammad bin Ubayd God al-Rafi'i, on the authority of his father, on the authority of his grandfather Abu Rafi': That the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent Ali with a group of people with him in pursuit of Abu Sufyan, and a Bedouin from Khuza'ah met them and said: The people have gathered against you. They said: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. So this verse was revealed about them. Then Ibn Mardawayh said: "Dulaj bin Ahmad told us, Al-Hasan bin Sufyan told us, Abu Khaithama Mus'ab bin Sa'id told us, Musa bin A'yan told us, on the authority of Al-A'mash, on the authority of Abu Salih, on the authority of Abu Hurairah, who said: 'The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "When you encounter a grave matter, say: 'God is sufficient for us, and He is the best disposer of affairs.'" This is a strange hadith from this source. Imam Ahmad said: Haywah bin Shuraih and Ibrahim bin Abi Al-Abbas told us, they said: Baqiyah told us, Buhair bin Sa'd told us, on the authority of

Khalid bin Ma'dan, on the authority of Saif, on the authority of Awf bin Malik, that he told them: "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, judged between two men, and when the one against whom the judgment was made turned away, he said: 'God is sufficient for me, and He is the best disposer of affairs.' The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Bring me back to the man.' He said: 'What did you say?' He said: 'I said: God is sufficient for me, and He is the best disposer of affairs.' The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'God blames weakness, but you should be intelligent. If a matter overcomes you, say: God is sufficient for me.'" And what an excellent agent! And thus Abu Dawud and al-Nasa'i narrated it from the hadith of Baqiyyah from Buhayr from Khalid, from Sayf who is al-Shami, and it was not attributed from Awf ibn Malik from the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, in a similar manner. And Imam Ahmad said: Asbat told us, Mutraf told us from Atiyyah from Ibn Abbas regarding his statement: And when the trumpet is blown, he said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: How can I enjoy myself while the companion of the trumpet has taken hold of the trumpet and bent his forehead, hearing when he is commanded to blow? The companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: What should we say? He said: Say: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. In God we trust. This has been narrated from more than one source, and it is a good hadith. We narrated from the Mother of the Believers, Zainab and Aisha, may God be pleased with them, that they boasted, and Zainab said: God married me and your families married you. Aisha said: My innocence was revealed from the heavens in the Qur'an, so Zainab submitted to her, then she said: What did you say when you rode the mount of Safwan bin Mu'attal? She said: I said: God is sufficient for me, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. Zainab said: I said the word of the believers, and for this reason God the Almighty said: So they returned with favor from God and bounty, no harm had touched them, meaning when they put their trust in God, He sufficed them with what concerned them and repelled from them the harm of those who wanted to plot against them, so they returned to their country with favor from God and bounty, no harm had touched them from what their enemy had planned for them, and they pursued the pleasure of God, and God is the possessor of great bounty. Al-Bayhaqi said: Abu Abdullah al-Hafiz narrated to us, Abu Bakr bin Dawud al-Zahid narrated to us, Muhammad bin Na'im narrated to us, Bishr bin al-Hakam narrated to us. Mubashar bin Abdullah bin Razeen told us, Sufyan bin Husayn told us, on the authority of Ya'la bin Muslim, on the authority of Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding the statement of God Almighty: So they returned with favor and bounty from God, he said: The favor was that they were safe, and the bounty was that a caravan passed by during the season, so the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, bought it and made a profit on it, which he divided among his companions. Ibn Abi Nujayh said, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding the statement of God Almighty: Those to whom the people said, 'Indeed, the people have gathered against you, so fear them,' he said: This is Abu Sufyan, he said to Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, your meeting place is at Badr, where you killed our companions. Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, said, Perhaps. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, set out for his appointment until he reached Badr. They found the market there, and they bought. This is what God Almighty said: "So they returned with favor and bounty from God. No harm had touched them." The verse. He said: This was the minor Battle of Badr. It was narrated by Ibn Jarir. He also narrated on the authority of Al-Qasim, on the authority of Al-Husayn, on the authority of Hajjaj, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, who said: When the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, made an appointment with Abu Sufyan, they began to meet the polytheists and ask them about the Quraysh. They would say: They have gathered against you. They were plotting against them with that, wanting to frighten them. The believers would say: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. Until they reached Badr, and they found its markets healthy and no one had disputed with them in it. He said: A man from the polytheists informed the people of Mecca about Muhammad's cavalry, and he said about that:

My camels were frightened by Muhammad's horses, and dates were scattered like the Anjd.

I took dried water as my appointment

Ibn Jarir said: This is how Al-Qasim recited to us, but it is a mistake. Rather, it is:

I have been repelled by the company of Muhammad and Ajwa from Yathrib like the Anjad

She is following the religion of her father, the Atlad, and has made the water of Qadeed my appointment.

And the water of Djan is poured for her at noon tomorrow

Then God the Almighty said: It is only Satan who frightens you with his allies, meaning he frightens you with his allies, and makes you think that they are powerful and strong. God the Almighty said: So fear them not, but fear Me, if you are believers, meaning if he tempts you and makes you think, then rely on Me and take refuge in Me, for I am sufficient for you and your supporter against them, as God the Almighty said: Is not God sufficient for His servant? And they frighten you with those besides Him, until His saying: "Say, 'God is sufficient for me. Upon Him do those who rely rely.'" And God the Almighty said: "So fight the allies of Satan. Indeed, the plot of Satan has ever been weak." And God the Almighty said: "Those are the party of Satan. Unquestionably, the party of Satan - they are the losers." And God the Almighty said: "God has decreed, 'I will surely prevail, I and My messengers. Indeed, God is Powerful and Exalted in Might.'" And He said: And God will surely support those who support Him. And God the Almighty said: O you who have believed, if you support God, He will support you. And God the Almighty said: "Indeed, We will support Our messengers and those who believe during the worldly life and on the Day when the witnesses will stand. The Day when their excuse will not benefit the wrongdoers, and for them is the curse, and they will have evil." The house.

Surat Al Imran 3:172

Those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound had afflicted them - for those among them who did good and feared God is a great reward.

Fath al-Qadir

And his saying 172- Those who responded is an attribute of the believers, or a substitute for them, or for those who did not join them, or it is a subject whose predicate is For those among them who did good and feared God is a great reward as a whole, or it is accusative for praise and the explanation of the ulcer has been presented.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

172- The Almighty said: Those who responded to God and the Messenger the verse, and that is because when Abu Sufyan and his companions left Uhud and reached Ar-Rawha, they regretted their departure and blamed each other and said: You did not kill Muhammad nor did you follow the young women, you killed them until there was no one left except the fugitive and you left them? The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, heard about this and wanted to terrify the enemy and show them the strength of himself and his companions, so he called his companions to go out in search of Abu Sufyan. A group of them volunteered, despite the wounds they had suffered the day before. Then Jabir ibn Abdullah spoke and said: O Messenger of God, my father left me behind with seven sisters of mine, and he said to me, O my son, it is not appropriate for me or for you to leave these women without a man among them. I am not one who would prefer you over myself in jihad with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. So stay behind with your sisters. So I stayed behind with them, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, gave him permission and he went out with him.

The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, went out to frighten the enemy and to inform them that he had gone out in pursuit of them, so that they would think he was strong and that what had happened to them had not weakened them, so they would turn back.

The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, went out with Abu Bakr, Umar, Uthman, Ali, Talha, Al-Zubayr, Sa'd, Sa'id, Abd al-Rahman ibn Awf, Abdullah ibn Mas'ud, Hudhayfah ibn al-Yaman, and Abu Ubaydah ibn al-Jarrah, with seventy men, may God be pleased with them, until they reached Hamra' al-Asad, which is eight miles from Medina.

It was narrated on the authority of Aisha, may God be pleased with her, that she said to Abdullah bin Al-Zubayr: O son of my sister, by God, your father and grandfather - meaning Abu Bakr and Al-Zubayr - are among those about whom God Almighty said: Those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound had befallen them. Then Ma'bad Al-Khuza'i passed by the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, at Hamra' Al-Asad. The Khuza'a

- Muslims and unbelievers alike - were the backbone of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, in Tihamah. They made a deal with him and did not hide anything that was there from him. Ma'bad was a polytheist at that time, so he said: O Muhammad, by God, what has befallen you and your companions has been hard on us, and we wish that God Almighty had spared you from them. Then he left the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, until he met Abu Sufyan and those with him at Al-Rawha'. They had decided to return to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and they said: We have killed most of his companions and their leaders, so we will attack the rest of them, so let us finish with them. When Abu Sufyan saw Ma'bad, he said: What is behind you, O Ma'bad? He said: Muhammad has gone out with his companions to seek you out in a gathering the likes of which I have never seen before. They are burning with desire for you. Those who stayed behind on your day have gathered with him and regretted what they did, and they have a hatred for you that I have never seen before. He said: Woe to you, what are you saying? He said: By God, I do not see you departing until you see the forelocks of the horses. He said: By God, we have decided to attack them to eradicate their remnants. He said: By God, I forbid you from that. By God, what I saw made me say some verses about him:

My camel was almost knocked down by the sounds as the ground was covered with the locusts.

He mentioned some verses, but Abu Sufyan and those with him rejected that.

A group of Abd al-Qais passed by him, so he said: Where are you going? They said: We want to go to Medina. He said: Why? They said: We want provisions. He said: Will you deliver a message from Muhammad to me and shall I load your camels with raisins for you in Ukaz tomorrow when you meet us? They said: Yes. He said: When you reach him, tell him that we have decided to march against him and his companions to eradicate their remnants. Abu Sufyan returned to Mecca, and the group passed by the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) who was a lion, and they told him what Abu Sufyan had said. The Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) and his companions said: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. Then the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) returned to Medina after the third time. This is what most of the commentators say.

Mujahid and Ikrimah said: This verse was revealed about the Battle of Badr Al-Sughra. On the day of Uhud, when Abu Sufyan wanted to leave, he said: O Muhammad, the appointment between us and you is the season of Badr Al-Sughra next year, if you wish. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: That is between us and you, God willing. So when the next year came, Abu Sufyan went out with the people of Mecca until they reached Majannah in the direction of Marr Al-Dhahran. Then God cast terror into his heart, so he decided to return.

He met Nu'aym bin Mas'ud Al-Ashja'i who had arrived as a pilgrim. Abu Sufyan said to him: O Nu'aym, I have made an appointment with Muhammad and his companions that we would meet at the season of Badr Al-Sughra. This is a year of drought, and nothing will suit us except a year in which we graze trees and drink milk. It has come to my mind that I should not go out to it, and I hate for Muhammad to go out and I not to go out, as that would increase their boldness, and for the successor to be from them is more beloved to me than for it to be from me. So head to Medina, delay them, and inform them that I am in a large group that they cannot handle us. I have ten camels with me that I will set aside for you on Suhayl ibn Amr's hand and he guaranteed it, he said: So Suhayl came and Na'im said to him, O Abu Yazid: Will you guarantee me these she-camels so that I may go to Muhammad and deter him? He said: Yes, so Na'im went out until he reached Medina / and found the people preparing for the appointment with Abu Sufyan, so he said: Where are you going? They said: Abu Sufyan promised us at the Battle of Badr al-Sughra that we would fight for it, you have seen a bad opinion, they came to you in your homes and settlements and none of you escaped except the fugitive, and you want to go out while they have gathered for you at the season, and by God, none of you will escape, so the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, disliked going out, so the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: By the One in Whose Hand is my soul, I will go out even if I am alone, as for the coward he has returned, and as for the brave he has prepared to fight, and he said: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs.

The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, went out with his companions until they reached Badr al-Sughra. They began to meet the polytheists and ask them about Quraysh, saying, They have gathered against you, intending to terrify the Muslims. The believers would say, God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. Until they reached Badr, which was a market place for them in the pre-Islamic era, where they would gather every year for eight days. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, stayed at Badr waiting for Abu Sufyan, and Abu Sufyan had returned from Majannah to Mecca. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his companions did not meet any of the polytheists. They happened upon the market, and they had merchandise and expenses with them, so they sold and obtained two dirhams for a dirham, and they returned to Medina safe and sound. This is what God, the Most High, said: Those who responded to God and the Messenger, meaning responded. The position of those is in the accusative case, describing the believers, meaning: God does not waste the reward of the believers who responded to God and the Messenger, after the wounds have afflicted them, meaning: the wounds have afflicted them. The speech ended here, then he began and said: For those who did well among them, by obeying the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and responding to his call to war, and avoiding disobeying him, there is a great reward.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

172 "Those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound had befallen them" is an attribute of the believers, or an accusative of praise or a subject whose predicate is. "For those among them who do good and fear God is a great reward" in its entirety and from the statement, and the purpose of mentioning the two attributes is praise and explanation, not restriction, because all of those who responded were good and fear God. It was narrated that "when Abu Sufyan and his companions returned and reached Ar-Rawha, they regretted it and intended to return, so the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, heard of that, so he urged his companions to go out in search of him and said, Let none go out with us except those who were present with us yesterday. So he, may God bless him and grant him peace, went out with a group until they reached Hamra' Al-Asad - which is eight miles from Madinah - and his companions were suffering from wounds, so they forced themselves to not miss out on the reward, and God cast terror into the hearts of the polytheists, so they left." So it was revealed.

Surat Al Imran 3:173

Those to whom the people said, "Indeed, the people have gathered against you, so fear them." But it only increased them in faith, and they said, "Sufficient for us is God, and [He is] the best Disposer of affairs."

Surat Al Imran 3:173

Those to whom the people said, Indeed, the people have gathered against you, so fear them. But it only increased them in faith, and they said, Sufficient for us is God, and [He is] the best Disposer of affairs.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

those instead of those before it or an adjective the people said to them meaning Na'im bin Mas'ud al-Ashja'i the people Abu Sufyan and his companions have gathered against you the crowds to eradicate you so fear them and do not come to them but that statement only increased them that statement in faith belief in God and certainty and they said, God is sufficient for us We will suffice them and He is the best Disposer of affairs the one to whom the matter is entrusted is he, and they went out with the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and they arrived at the market of Badr and God cast terror into the hearts of Abu Sufyan and his companions so they did not come and they had merchandise with them so they sold and made a profit. God Almighty said:

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: God Almighty means: And that God does not waste the reward of the believers, "Those to whom the people said, 'The people have gathered against you.'"

Those is in the accusative case, referring back to the believers, and this attribute is an attribute of those who responded to God and the Messenger.

The first people are people - as we have been told - whom Abu Sufyan asked to discourage the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his companions who went out in pursuit of him after he had returned from Uhud to Hamra al-Asad.

The second people are Abu Sufyan and his companions from Quraysh, who were with him at Uhud.

And by his saying: They have gathered against you, he means they have gathered men to meet you and the ball is upon you to fight you, so fear them, he says: so beware of them, and avoid meeting them, for you will not be able to defeat them, so it increased their faith, he says: so it increased their fear from their fear of the matter of Abu Sufyan and his companions from the polytheists, certainty to their certainty, and belief in God and His promise and the promise of His Messenger to their belief, and that did not deter them from the path that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, ordered them to follow, but they continued until they attained the pleasure of God from Him, and they said, trusting in God and relying on Him, since their fear from their fear of Abu Sufyan and his companions from the polytheists: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs, he means by his saying: God is sufficient for us, God is sufficient for us, meaning: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs, he says: and the best Master for whomever He takes care of and provides for.

The Almighty described Himself with this because the agent, in the speech of the Arabs, is the one to whom the task of carrying out the task of someone is entrusted. So since the people whom God described in these verses had entrusted their matter to God and trusted in Him, and entrusted that to Him, He described Himself as carrying that out for them, and entrusting their matter to Him by proxy, so He said: And what an excellent agent is God Almighty for them.

The people of interpretation differed about the time when someone said to the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace: The people have gathered against you.

Some of them said: This was said to them on the day they went out with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, from Uhud to Hamra al-Asad, in pursuit of Abu Sufyan and the polytheists who were with him.

Mention who said that, and mention the reason for which it was said, and among those who said it:

Muhammad bin Humayd narrated, Salamah narrated, on the authority of Muhammad bin Ishaq, on the authority of Abdullah bin Abi Bakr bin Muhammad bin Amr bin Hazm, who said: Ma'bad Al-Khuza'i passed by him - meaning the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace - in Hamra' Al-Asad.

Khuza'ah, both Muslims and polytheists, were a group of sincere advisers to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, in Tihamah. They made a deal with him, not hiding anything that was there from him - and Ma'bad was a polytheist at that time - so he said: By God, O Muhammad, by God, what happened to you and your companions has been hard on us, and we wish that God had pardoned you regarding them! Then he left the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, in Hamra' Al-Asad until he met Abu Sufyan bin Harb and those with him in Ar-Rawha'. They had decided to return to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his companions, and they said: We have done well! We have punished his companions, their leaders, and their nobles, and then we return before we eradicate them?! Let us attack the rest of them, and we will flee from them. So when Abu Sufyan saw Ma'bad, he said: What is behind you, O Ma'bad? He said: Muhammad has come out with his companions seeking you in a gathering the likes of which I have never seen before. They are burning with desire for you. Those who stayed behind on your day have gathered with him, and they regretted what they did. They have a hatred for you that I have never seen before! He said: Woe to you! What do you say? He said: By God, I do not see you moving on until you see the forelocks of the horses! He said: By God, we have decided to attack them to eradicate their remnants! He said: I forbid you from that, for by God, what I saw has made me so angry that I have recited some verses of poetry about them! He said: What did you say? He said: I said:

My camel was almost knocked down by the sounds as the ground was covered with the locusts.

Dress like a noble lion, do not be rude when meeting, nor do you break the barriers.

So I remained an enemy, I think the earth is tilted towards what they called a leader who will not be disappointed

I said: Woe to Ibn Harb from meeting you when the plain is covered with horses.

I am a warner to the people of valor, a warning to every one of them who has a desire and a sense.

From the army of Ahmed, do not fear his bombs, and what you warned about cannot be described as a joke

He said: That made Abu Sufyan and those with him think twice. A group of Abd al-Qais passed by him and he said: Where are you going? They said: We are going to Medina. He said: Why? They said: We are going to provide provisions. He said: Will you deliver a message from me to Muhammad that I am sending you with, and shall I load your camels with raisins tomorrow in Ukaz when you reach them? They said: Yes. He said: When you reach him, tell him that we have decided to march against him and his companions to eradicate their remnants! The group passed by the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) while he was at Hamra al-Asad and told him what Abu Sufyan had said. The Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) and his companions said: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq, he said: Then God said: "Those to whom the people said, 'The people have gathered against you, so fear them.' But it only increased their faith, and they said, 'God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs.'" The people are those who said to them what they said - the group of Abd al-Qais to whom Abu Sufyan said what he said - Abu Sufyan and those with him are returning to you! God, the Blessed and Exalted, says: So they returned with favor and bounty from God, no harm having touched them verse.

Muhammad told us, Ahmad bin Mufaddal told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi, who said: When they - meaning Abu Sufyan and his companions - regretted turning back from the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) and his companions, and they said: Go back and eradicate them, God cast terror into their hearts and they were defeated. Then they met a Bedouin and gave him a reward, and they said to him: If you meet Muhammad and his companions, tell them that we have gathered against them! So God, the Most High, informed His Messenger (peace and blessings of God be upon him), and he pursued them until he reached Hamra' Al-Asad. They met the Bedouin on the road, and he told them the report, and they said: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs! Then they returned from Hamra' Al-Asad. Then God, the Most High, revealed about them and the Bedouin whom they had met: "Those to whom the people said, 'The people have gathered against you, so fear them.' But it only increased them in faith, and they said, 'God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs.'"

Muhammad ibn Sa'd told me, he said, my father told me, he said, my uncle told me, he said, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn 'Abbas, he said: Abu Sufyan, on his way back from Uhud, met a caravan coming to Medina with their merchandise, and there were covenants between them and the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace. He said: I will be pleased with you if you turn Muhammad and those with him away from me, if you find him in pursuit of me, and inform him that I have gathered a large army against him. So the caravan met the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and they said to him: O Muhammad, we inform you that Abu Sufyan has gathered a large army against you, and that he is coming to Medina. If you wish to return, then do so! But that only increased his and those with him in certainty, and they said: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. Then God, the Blessed and Exalted, revealed: Those to whom the people said, 'The people have gathered against you' (al-Baqarah 2:17).

Bishr told us, Yazid told us, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and a group of his companions set out after Abu Sufyan and his companions had left Uhud behind them, until they reached Dhu al-Hulayfah. The Bedouins and the people came to them and said to them: This is Abu Sufyan, who has attacked you with the people! They said: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. So God, the Most High, revealed about them: "Those to whom the people said, 'The people have gathered against you, so fear them.' But it only increased them in faith, and they said, 'God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs.'"

Others said: Rather, the one who said that to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his companions said that to him, in the minor Battle of Badr, and that was during the Prophet's march, may God bless him and grant him peace, the following year after the Battle of Uhud, to meet his enemy Abu Sufyan and his companions, at the appointment he had made to meet them.

Who said that?

Muhammad ibn Amr told me, he said, Abu Asim told us, on the authority of Isa, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding His statement: Those to whom the people said, 'The people have gathered against you,' he said: This is Abu Sufyan who said to Muhammad: Your meeting place is at Badr, where you killed our companions. Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Perhaps! So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, set out for his meeting place until he stopped at Badr, and they happened upon the market there and bought, and that is what God Almighty said: So they returned with favor and bounty from God, no harm having touched them, and it is the minor Battle of Badr.

Surat Al Imran 3:173

Those to whom the people said, "Indeed, the people have gathered against you, so fear them." But it only increased them in faith, and they said, "Sufficient for us is God, and [He is] the best Disposer of affairs."

Al-Qasim narrated to us, he said, Al-Husayn narrated to us, he said, Hajjaj narrated to me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, on the authority of Mujahid, similarly - and he added to it: And it is the Lesser Badr - Ibn Jurayj said: When the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, prepared for the meeting with Abu Sufyan, they began to meet the polytheists and ask them about the Quraysh, and they would say: They have gathered against you! They plotted against them with that, wanting to frighten them, but the believers would say: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs, until they arrived at Badr, and they found its markets in good condition, and no one had disputed with them in it. He said: And a man from the polytheists came and informed the people of Mecca about the cavalry of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and he said about that:

My camel was frightened away from my horses, Muhammad, and dates were scattered like the Anjd

I took dried water as my appointment

Abu Jaafar said: This is how Al-Qasim recited to us, but it is a mistake. Rather, it is:

I have been repelled by the company of Muhammad and Ajwa from Yathrib like the Anjad

She is infatuated with her father's religion, and has made the water of Qadeed my destination.

And the water of Djanan is poured for her at noon tomorrow

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told me, he said, Abdul-Razzaq told us, he said, Ibn Uyyaynah told us, on the authority of Amr, on the authority of Ikrimah, he said: Badr was a place of trade in the pre-Islamic era. Some Muslims went out intending to go there, but some polytheists met them and said to them: The people have gathered against you, so fear them! As for the coward, he turned back, and as for the brave man, he prepared himself for battle and prepared himself for trade, and they said: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs! So they went to them and did not encounter anyone, so God, the Almighty, revealed about them: The people have gathered against you, so fear them. Ibn Yahya said, Abdul-Razzaq said, Ibn Uyyaynah said: Zakariya told me, on the authority of Al-Sha'bi, on the authority of Abdullah bin Amr, he said: These are the words of Abraham, peace be upon him, when he was thrown into the fire, he said: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs.

Abu Ja'far said: The more correct of the two opinions on this matter is the opinion of the one who said: What was said to the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) and his companions, that the people have gathered, so fear them, was when the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) and those who went out with him, following Abu Sufyan and those who were with him from the polytheists of Quraysh, were leaving Uhud to Hamra' al-'Asad. Because God, the Most High, only praised those whom He described by saying: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs, when it was said to them: The people have gathered against you, so fear them, after what had befallen them of wounds and injuries, by His saying: Those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wounds had afflicted them, and this description was only a description of those who followed the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) from his wounded companions from Uhud to Hamra' al-'Asad.

As for those who went out with him to the minor battle of Badr, there was not one wounded person among them except one wounded person whose wound had already healed and whose word had already healed. This is because the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) only went out to the second Badr to meet Abu Sufyan, who had promised him to meet there, one year after the Battle of Uhud, in Sha'ban of the year 4 AH. This is because the Battle of Uhud was in the middle of Shawwal of the year 3, and the Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) went out to the minor battle of Badr to it in Sha'ban of the year 4. Between that, the Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) did not have a battle with the polytheists in which there was a war between them in which his companions were wounded. However, a group of his companions were killed in the Battle of Raji', none of whom had witnessed the minor Battle of Badr. The Battle of Raji' was between the Battle of Uhud and the Prophet's (peace and blessings of God be upon him) minor battle of Badr.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

There is a difference of opinion regarding the Almighty's statement: Those to whom the people said, Mujahid, Muqatil, Ikrimah, and Al-Kalbi said: He is Na'im bin Mas'ud Al-Ashja'i, and the wording is general but its meaning is specific, like His statement: Or do they envy the people, meaning Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace. Al-Suddi: He is a Bedouin who was given a reward for that. Ibn Ishaq and a group said: He means by the people the caravan of Abd Al-Qais, who passed by Abu Sufyan and he sent them to the Muslims to discourage them. It was said: The people here are the hypocrites. Al-Suddi said: The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his companions prepared to march to Badr Al-Sughra for the appointment with Abu Sufyan. The hypocrites came to them and said: We are your companions who forbade you from going out to them and you disobeyed us, and they fought you in your homes and were victorious, so if you come to them in their homes, then no one among you will return. They said: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. Abu Ma'shar said: Some people from Hudhayl from the people of Tihamah entered Medina, so the companions asked them The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, on the authority of Abu Sufyan, said: They have gathered against you large groups, so fear them, meaning fear them and beware of them, for you will not be able to withstand them. So the people are according to these sayings on the same level of gathering, and God knows best.

God the Almighty said: So He increased them in faith meaning, the people's words increased their faith, meaning belief and certainty in their religion, and steadfastness in supporting them, and strength, courage and readiness. So the increase in faith in this regard is in deeds. The scholars have differed regarding the increase and decrease of faith in statements, and the belief in this is that faith itself, which is a single crown, and a single belief in something, is only an individual meaning, with which no increase enters if it occurs, and nothing remains of it if it disappears. So nothing remains except that the increase and decrease are in its attachments and not its essence. So a group of scholars went to the view that it increases and decreases in terms of the deeds that emanate from it, especially since many scholars apply the name of faith to acts of obedience, based on the saying of the Prophet (blessings and peace of God be upon him): Faith has seventy-odd chapters, the highest of which is the statement, 'There is no god but God,' and the lowest of which is removing something harmful from the road. Narrated by al-Tirmidhi. Muslim added, And modesty is a branch of faith. And in the hadith of Ali may God be pleased with him, faith appears as a white spot in the heart, and whenever faith increases, the spot increases. And his saying (Al-Asma'i said: Al-Lamza is like a dot and similar whiteness, and from it is said: a horse of Al-Maz, if there is some whiteness in its hooves, and the modernists say (Lamza) with the fat-ha, but as for the speech of the Arabs, it is with the damma, like Shubah, Dahmah, and Khumrah, and in it is an argument against those who deny that faith increases and decreases, do you not see him say: whenever faith increases, the lamza increases until the whole heart turns white, and likewise hypocrisy appears as a black lamza in the heart whenever hypocrisy increases, the heart turns black until the whole heart turns black, and among them is he who said: faith is an accident, and it does not remain for two times, so it is for the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and for the righteous, it is successive, so it increases in consideration of the succession of its likes in the heart of the believer, and in consideration of the continuity of its presence, and it decreases in consideration of the succession of heedlessness in the heart of the believer, Abu Al-Ma'ali indicated this, and this meaning is found in the hadith of intercession, the hadith of Abu Sa'id

Al-Khudri narrated by Muslim, and in it: "The believers will say, O our Lord, our brothers used to fast, pray, and perform Hajj, and it will be said to them, 'Come out of You have known that their images are forbidden to the Fire. They will bring out a large number of people, the Fire having taken up half of their legs and up to their knees. Then they will say, "Our Lord, there is no one left in it of those whom You have commanded us to have." He will say, "Go back. Whoever you find in his heart the weight of a dinar of goodness, bring him out." They will bring out a large number of people. Then they will say, Our Lord, we have not left in it anyone of those whom You have commanded us. Then He will say, "Go back. Whoever you find in his heart the weight of half a dinar of goodness, bring him out." They will bring out a large number of people. Then they will say, Our Lord, we have not left in it anyone of those whom You have commanded us. Then He will say, "Go back. Whoever you find in his heart the weight of an atom of goodness, bring him out." And he mentioned the hadith. It has been said that what is meant by faith in this hadith are the deeds of the heart, such as intention, sincerity, fear, advice, and the like. He called it faith because it is in the place of faith, or he meant faith, according to the custom of the Arabs in naming a thing by its name if it is adjacent to it, or was due to it. Evidence for this interpretation is the statement of the Shafi'is after bringing out whoever had in his heart the weight of an atom of goodness: We have not left in it any good. Although the Almighty will bring out after that large groups. Whoever says there is no god but God, and they are certainly believers, and if they were not believers, He would not have expelled them. Then the non-existence of the first existence upon which the example is based was neither an increase nor a decrease, and that was measured in the movement, for if God, the Exalted, created a single knowledge and created with it its like or its likes with information, then His knowledge has increased. If God annihilated the likes, then it has decreased, meaning the increase has disappeared. Likewise, if He created a movement and created with it its like or its likes. A group of scholars went to the view that the increase and decrease of faith is only through evidence, so the evidence increases according to one, and it is said in that: It is an increase in faith, and in this sense according to one of the opinions, the superiority of the prophets over creation, for they taught it in many ways, more than the ways in which creation taught it. This opinion is outside the meaning of the verse, since it is not conceivable that the increase in it is from the side of evidence. A group went to the view that the increase in faith is only through the revelation of the obligations and report during the time of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and in knowledge of them after ignorance for a long time, and this is only an increase in faith, so the statement in it that faith increases is a metaphorical statement, and a decrease in it is not conceivable. This limit, but it is only conceivable in addition to the one who knows, so know.

God Almighty says: And they said, 'God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs.' That is, God is sufficient for us. Hasab is derived from ihsab, which means sufficiency. The poet said:

Fill our house with cheese and butter, and you are rich

Surat Al Imran 3:173

Those to whom the people said, "Indeed, the people have gathered against you, so fear them." But it only increased them in faith, and they said, "Sufficient for us is God, and [He is] the best Disposer of affairs."

enough to satisfy and quench your thirst.

Al-Bukhari narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said regarding the Almighty's statement: Those to whom the people said, 'The people have gathered against you,' until His statement: And they said, 'Sufficient for us is God, and He is the best Disposer of affairs.' This was said by Abraham, peace be upon him, when he was thrown into the fire, and it was said by Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, when the people said to them, The people have gathered against you, and God knows best.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

God the Almighty tells us about the martyrs that even if they are killed in this world, their souls are alive and provided for in the eternal home. Muhammad bin Jarir said: Muhammad bin Marzuq told us, Amr bin Yunus told us on the authority of Ikrimah, Ibn Ishaq bin Abi Talhah told us, Anas bin Malik told me about the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, whom the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent to the people of Bir Ma'unah. He said: I do not know, forty or seventy, and at that water was Amir bin At-Tufayl Al-Ja'fari. So those people from the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, went out until they came to a cave overlooking the water and sat in it. Then some of them said to one another: Who among you will deliver the message of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, to the people of this water? He said - I think he was Ibn Milhan Al-Ansari -: I am delivering the message of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. So he went out until he came to a group of them and hid in front of the houses. Then he said: "O people of Bir Ma'una, I am the Messenger of God to you. I bear witness that there is no god but God and that Muhammad is His servant and Messenger. So believe in God and His Messenger." Then a man came out to him from the house with a spear and struck him in the side until he came out from the other side. He said: God is Great, I have won, by the Lord of the Kaaba. So they followed his tracks until they reached his companions in the cave. Amir bin At-Tufayl killed them all. Ishaq said: Anas bin Malik told me that God revealed a Qur'an about them: Convey from us to our people that we have met our Lord, and He is pleased with us and we are pleased with Him. Then it was abrogated and lifted after we had read it for a while. Then God Almighty revealed: "And never think of those who are killed in the way of God as dead. Rather, they are alive with their Lord, receiving provision." Muslim said in his Sahih: : Muhammad ibn Abdullah ibn Numayr narrated to us, Abu Muawiyah narrated to us, Al-A'mash narrated to us, on the authority of Abdullah ibn Murrah, on the authority of Masruq, who said: We asked Abdullah about this verse: "And never think of those who are killed in the way of God as dead. Rather, they are alive with their Lord, and they are provided for." He said: We asked the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, about that, and he said: "Their souls are in the bodies of green birds, which have lanterns hanging from the Throne. They roam in Paradise wherever they wish, then they return to those lanterns. Then their Lord looked at them and said: Do you desire anything? They said: What do we desire when we roam in Paradise wherever we wish? He did that to them three times. When they saw that they would not be left without being asked, they said: O Lord, we want you to return our souls to our bodies so that we may be killed in Your way once again. When He saw that they had no need, they were left." Something similar to this was narrated from the hadith of Anas and Abu Saeed.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Abd al-Samad told us, Hammad told us, Thabit told us on the authority of Anas that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "There is no soul that dies and has goodness with God that would be pleased to return to the world except the martyr, for he would be pleased to return to the world and be killed again because of what he sees of the virtue of martyrdom." Muslim transmitted it only on the authority of Hammad.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Ali ibn Abdullah al-Madini told us, Sufyan told us, on the authority of Muhammad ibn Ali ibn Rabi'ah al-Salami, on the authority of Abdullah ibn Muhammad ibn Aqil, on the authority of Jabir, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to me: Do you know that God brought your father back to life? He said to him: Make a wish of me. He said to him: I will be returned to the world so that I may be killed once again. He said: I have decided that they will not return to it. Ahmad is the only one to narrate it from this source. It has been proven in the two Sahih and others that Abu Jabir, who is Abdullah ibn Amr ibn Haram al-Ansari, may God be pleased with him, was killed as a martyr on the day of Uhud. Al-Bukhari said: Abu al-Walid said on the authority of Shu'bah on the authority of Ibn al-Munkadir: I heard Jabir say: When my father was killed, I began to cry and uncover the cloth from his face. The companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, began to forbid me, but the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, did not forbid me. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Do not cry for him - or do not cry for him - the angels continued to shade him with their wings until he was taken up. He, Muslim, and al-Nasa'i transmitted it through another chain of transmission on the authority of Shu'bah, on the authority of Muhammad ibn al-Munkadir, on the authority of Jabir, who said: When my father was killed on the day of Uhud, I began to uncover the cloth from his face and cry. He mentioned the rest of it in a similar manner.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Yaqub told us, my father told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq, Ismail bin Umayyah bin Amr bin Saeed told us, on the authority of Abu al-Zubayr al-Makki, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "When your brothers were afflicted at Uhud, God placed their souls in the bodies of green birds, which would go to the rivers of Paradise, eat from its fruits, and take refuge in golden lanterns in the shade of the Throne. When they found the goodness of their drink and food, and the beauty of their resting place, they said: 'If only our brothers knew what God has done for us, so that they would not give up jihad and turn away from war.' God, the Almighty, said: 'I will convey it to them on your behalf.' Then God, the Almighty, revealed these verses: 'And never think of those who are killed in the way of God as dead. Rather, they are alive with their Lord, receiving provision.' and what follows." This is how Ahmad narrated it, and likewise Ibn Jarir narrated it on the authority of Yunus, on the authority of Ibn Wahb, on the authority of Ismail bin Ayyash, on the authority of Muhammad bin Ishaq. It was narrated by Abu Dawud and Al-Hakim in his Mustadrak from the hadith of Abdullah bin Idris from Muhammad bin Ishaq from Ismail bin Umayyah from Abu Al-Zubayr from Saeed bin Jubair from Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, and he mentioned it, and this is more authentic. Sufyan Al-Thawri narrated it likewise from Salim Al-Aftas from Saeed bin Jubair from Ibn Abbas - and Al-Hakim narrated in his Mustadrak from the hadith of Abu Ishaq Al-Fazari from Sufyan from Ismail bin Abi Khalid from Saeed bin Jubair from Ibn Abbas, who said: This verse was revealed about Hamzah and his companions: "And never think of those who are killed in the way of God as dead. Rather, they are alive with their Lord, receiving provision." Then he said: It is authentic according to the conditions of the two sheikhs, but they did not include it. Qatada, Al-Rabi' and Al-Dahhak also said: It was revealed about those killed at Uhud.

Another Hadith Abu Bakr bin Mardawayh said: Abdullah bin Jaafar told us, Harun bin Sulaiman told us, Ali bin Abdullah Al-Madini told us, Musa bin Ibrahim bin Katheer bin Bashir bin Al-Fakih Al-Ansari told us, I heard Talha bin Kharash bin Abdul Rahman bin Kharash bin Al-Sammah Al-Ansari, he said: I heard Jabir bin Abdullah say: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, looked at me one day and said: O Jabir, why do I see you worried? I said: O Messenger of God, my father was martyred and left behind a debt and children. He said: Shall I not tell you that God has never spoken to anyone except from behind a veil, and He spoke to your father directly? Ali said: Direct confrontation. He said: Ask Me and I will give it to you. He said: I ask You to return to the world so that I may be killed in Your cause a second time. The Lord Almighty said: Indeed, the word has already gone before from Me: They will not return to it. He said: O Lord, then convey it to those who are behind me. Then God revealed: And do not think that those who are killed in the way of God are dead. Then he narrated it from another chain of transmission on the authority of Muhammad ibn Sulayman ibn Salit al-Ansari, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Jabir, with a similar chain of transmission. And thus al-Bayhaqi narrated it in Dalā'il al-Nubuwwah on the authority of Ali ibn al-Madini with it. And al-Bayhaqi also narrated it from the hadith of Abu Ubadah al-Ansari, who is 'Isa ibn 'Abd al-Rahman, God willing, on the authority of al-Zuhri, on the authority of 'Urwah, on the authority of 'A'ishah, who said: "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to Jabir: 'O Jabir, shall I not give you good report?' He said: 'Yes, God has given you good report.' He said: 'I felt that God had brought your father back to life, and said: 'Ask of My servant whatever you wish, and I will give it to you.' He said: 'O Lord, I have not worshipped You as You should be worshipped. I hope that You will return me to the world so that I may fight with Your Prophet and be killed for You once again.' He said: 'It has already been said from me that it will not return to it.'"

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Yaqub told us, my father told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq, Al-Harith bin Fadil Al-Ansari told us, on the authority of Mahmud bin Labid, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The martyrs are on a river at the gate of Paradise, in a green dome, and their provision comes out to them from Paradise morning and evening." Ahmad is the only one to narrate it. Ibn Jarir narrated it on the authority of Abu Kurayb: Abd Al-Rahman bin Sulayman and Ubaydah told us on the authority of Muhammad bin Ishaq with it, and it is a good chain of transmission. And as if the martyrs are divided into groups: some of their souls will roam in Paradise, and some of them will be on this river at the gate of Paradise, and it may be possible that their journey will end at this river, and they will gather there, and their provisions will be brought to them there and they will rest, and God knows best. We have narrated in Musnad al-Imam Ahmad a hadith in which there is good report for every believer that his soul will be in Paradise, roaming there as well, and eating from its fruits, and seeing the freshness and joy in it, and witnessing what God has prepared for it of honor, and it is with a sound, noble and great chain of transmission, in which three of the four imams, the owners of the followed schools of thought, have come together, for Imam Ahmad, may God have mercy on him, narrated it on the authority of Muhammad ibn Idris al-Shafi'i, may God have mercy on him, on the authority of Malik ibn Anas al-Asbahi, may God have mercy on him, on the authority of al-Zuhri, on the authority of Abd al-Rahman ibn Ka'b ibn Malik, on the authority of his father, may God be pleased with him, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The soul of the believer is a bird that hangs in the trees of Paradise until God returns it to its body on the Day of Resurrection." His saying hangs means eats, and in this hadith: The soul of the believer will be in the form of a bird in... "Paradise" As for the souls of the martyrs, as mentioned previously in the crops of green birds, they are like planets in relation to the souls of all believers, for they fly by themselves, so we ask God, the Generous, the Beneficent, to cause us to die in faith. And His Most High's saying: Rejoicing in what God has given them to the end of the verse, meaning the martyrs who were killed in the way of God are alive with their Lord, and they are happy with what they are in of grace and happiness, and they are glad for their brothers who are killed after them in the way of God, that they are advancing upon them, and that they do not fear what is ahead of them nor are they sad for what they left behind them. We ask God for Paradise. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said, And they are glad meaning they are happy for those of their brothers who are behind them to catch up with what they have done of their jihad, so that they may share with them in what they are in of the reward of God that He has given them. Al-Suddi said: The martyr will be brought a book in which it says: So-and-so will come to you on such-and-such a day, and so-and-so will come to you on such-and-such a day, and he will be happy with that as the people of this world are happy with their absent ones when they come back. Saeed bin Jubair said: When they entered Paradise and saw the honor it has for the martyrs, they said: Oh, if only our brothers in this world knew what we know of honor, so that when they witness battle they would engage in it themselves so that they may be martyred and attain what we have attained of goodness. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, informed them of their situation and the honor they are in, and he informed them, that is, their Lord, that I have revealed to your Prophet and informed him of your situation and what you are in, so they were happy with that, and that is what He said: And they rejoice for those who have not yet joined them from behind them Al-Bukhari and Muslim. It has been proven in the two Sahihs on the authority of Anas, may God be pleased with him, in the story of the companions of the well of Ma'unah, the seventy of the Ansar who were killed in one morning, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, prayed and cursed those who killed them. Anas said: And a Qur'an was revealed about them, which we recited until it was lifted. "Convey to our people that we have met our Lord, and He was pleased with us and satisfied us."

Those to whom the people said, "Indeed, the people have gathered against you, so fear them." But it only increased them in faith, and they said, "Sufficient for us is God, and [He is] the best Disposer of affairs."

Then God Almighty said: They rejoice in favor from God and in bounty and that God does not allow the reward of the believers to be lost. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said: They rejoiced and were pleased when they saw the fulfillment of the promise and the great reward. Abd al-Rahman ibn Zayd ibn Aslam said: This verse includes all believers, whether martyrs or others. God rarely mentions a bounty with which He mentioned the prophets or a reward that He gave them, except that He mentioned what He gave to the believers after them. And the Almighty said: Those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wounds had befallen them. This was on the day of Hamra' al-Asad, and that is because when the polytheists inflicted what they inflicted on the Muslims, they turned back to their country, and when they continued on their way, they regretted why they did not complete the battle with the people of Medina and make it the decisive battle. So when this reached the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, he urged the Muslims to go after them to frighten them and show them that they had strength and endurance, and he did not give permission to anyone except those who were present at the battle on the day of Uhud, except Jabir ibn Abdullah, may God be pleased with him, for what we will mention, so the Muslims volunteered despite their wounds and infliction, in obedience to God Almighty and His Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace. Ibn Abi Hatim said: Muhammad ibn Abdullah ibn Yazid told us, Sufyan ibn Uyaynah told us, on the authority of Amr, on the authority of Ikrimah, who said: When the polytheists returned from Uhud, they said: You did not kill Muhammad, nor did you take the young camels with you. What a bad thing you have done! Return. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, heard of that, so he called upon the Muslims, and they volunteered until they reached Hamra' al-Asad - or Bir Abi Uyaynah - the doubt is from Sufyan - and the polytheists said: We will return the next year. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, returned, and it was considered a raid, and God Almighty revealed: Those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound had afflicted them - for those among them who did good and feared God is a great reward. Ibn Mardawayh narrated it from the hadith of Muhammad ibn Mansur, on the authority of Sufyan ibn Uyaynah, on the authority of Amr, on the authority of Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, and he mentioned it. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said: The day of Uhud was Saturday, the middle of Shawwal, and when the next day was Sunday, I did not... Ten nights had passed in Shawwal, and the muezzin of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, called out to the people to seek out the enemy. His muezzin called out that no one should go out with us except those who had been present the day before. Jabir ibn Abdullah ibn Amr ibn Haram spoke to him and said: O Messenger of God, my father left me behind with my seven sisters, and he said: O my son, it is not appropriate for me or for you to leave these women without a man among them. I am not the one who would prefer you to fight with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, over myself, so stay behind with your sisters. So I stayed behind with them. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, gave him permission, so he went out with him. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, only went out to frighten the enemy and to inform them that he had gone out in pursuit of them so that they would think that he was strong, and that what had befallen them had not weakened them against their enemy. Muhammad bin Ishaq said: Abdullah bin Kharijah bin Zaid bin Thabit told me on the authority of Abu al-Sa'ib, the freed slave of Aisha bint Uthman: That a man from the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, from Banu Abd al-Ashhal, who had witnessed the Battle of Uhud, said: I witnessed Uhud with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, my brother and I, and we returned wounded. When the muezzin of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, gave the call to go out in pursuit of the enemy, I said to my brother - or he said to me -: Are we missing a raid with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace? By God, we do not have a mount to ride, and none of us is seriously wounded. So we went out with the Messenger of God, and I was less wounded than he was. Whenever he was overcome, I would carry him up a hill and he would walk up a hill, until we reached the point where the Muslims had reached. Al-Bukhari said: Muhammad bin Salam told us, Abu Muawiyah told us, on the authority of Hisham, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Aisha, may God be pleased with her, Those who responded to God and the Messenger the verse, I said to Urwah: O son of my sister, your parents were among them, Al-Zubayr and Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with them, when the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, suffered what he suffered on the day of Uhud, and the polytheists turned away from him, he feared that they would return, so he said, Who will return after them? So seventy men volunteered from among them, among them Abu Bakr and Al-Zubayr, may God be pleased with them, this is how Al-Bukhari narrated it alone with this chain of transmission, and this is how Al-Hakim narrated it in his Mustadrak on the authority of Al-Asamm, on the authority of Abbas Al-Duri, on the authority of Abu Al-Nadr, on the authority of Abu Saeed Al-Mu'addib, on the authority of Hisham bin Urwah, then he said: It is authentic, and they did not include it, this is what he said. Ibn Majah narrated it on the authority of Hisham bin Ammar, and Hadiyyah bin Abdul Wahhab on the authority of Sufyan bin Uyaynah. On the authority of Hisham bin Urwa, on his authority, and thus it was narrated by Saeed bin Mansour and Abu Bakr Al-Hamidi in his Musnad on the authority of Sufyan, on his authority. Al-Hakim also narrated it from the hadith of Ismail bin Abi Khalid from Al-Bahi, from Urwah, who said: Aisha said to me: O my son, your father is among those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound befell them, then he said: It is authentic according to the conditions of the two sheikhs, and they did not include it. Abu Bakr bin Mardawayh said: Abdullah bin Jaafar told us from the original book, Samuyah told us, Abdullah bin Al-Zubayr told us, Sufyan told us, Hisham told us from his father, from Aisha, may God be pleased with her, she said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to me: Your parents are among those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound befell them, Abu Bakr and Al-Zubayr, may God be pleased with them." And the attribution of this hadith is a complete mistake in terms of its chain of transmission because it contradicts the narration of trustworthy people from stopping at Aisha, may God be pleased with her, as we have presented, and in terms of its meaning, Al-Zubayr is not among the fathers of Aisha, but rather Aisha said that to Urwah bin Al-Zubayr, because he is the son of her sister Asma bint Abi Bakr. Al-Siddiq, may God be pleased with them, and Ibn Jarir said: Muhammad bin Saad told me, my father told me, my uncle told me, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: God cast terror into the heart of Abu Sufyan on the day of Uhud after what had happened to him, so he returned to Mecca, and the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Abu Sufyan has suffered a part of you, and he has returned and God has cast terror into his heart. The Battle of Uhud was in Shawwal, and the merchants used to come to Medina in Dhul-Qi'dah, and they would camp at Badr al-Sughra once every year, and they came after the Battle of Uhud, and the believers were afflicted with wounds, and they complained about that to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and what afflicted them was severe, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, urged the people to set out with him and follow what they had been following, and he said: They are only setting out now to come for Hajj, and they will not be able to do the same until the next year. Then Satan came and frightened his followers, and said: The people have gathered against you, but the people refused to follow him, so he said: I am going, even if no one follows me, to urge the people. So Abu Bakr al-Siddiq, Umar, Uthman, Ali, al-Zubayr, Sa'd, Talhah, Abd al-Rahman ibn Awf, Abdullah ibn Mas'ud, Hudhayfah ibn al-Yaman, and Abu Ubaidah ibn al-Jarrah volunteered with him, with seventy men. They set out in pursuit of Abu Sufyan, and they pursued him until they reached al-Safra'. Then God, the Most High, revealed: Those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound had afflicted them. Then Ibn Ishaq said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, set out until he reached Hamra' al-Asad, which is eight miles from Medina. Ibn Hisham said: He appointed Ibn Umm Maktum over Medina, and he stayed there on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, then he returned to Medina. Ma'bad ibn Abi Ma'bad al-Khuza'i passed by him, as Abdullah ibn Abi Bakr told me. The Khuza'ah, both Muslims and polytheists, were a group of sincere advisers to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, in Tihamah. They made a deal with him, and they did not hide anything that was there from him. Ma'bad was a polytheist at that time, so he said: O Muhammad, by God, what has afflicted you has been very hard on us. In your companions, and we wish that God had spared you from them. Then he and the Messenger of God (peace be upon him) went out at Hamra' al-Asad until he met Abu Sufyan ibn Harb and those with him at al-Rawha', and they had decided to return to the Messenger of God (peace be upon him) and his companions, and they said: We have achieved the goal of his companions, their leaders and their nobles, then we return before we eradicate them? We will attack the rest of them and then we will finish with them. When Abu Sufyan saw Ma'bad, he said: What is behind you, Ma'bad? He said: Muhammad and his companions are pursuing you in a group the likes of which I have never seen, they are burning with desire for you. Those who had stayed behind from him on your day have gathered with him and regretted what they did. They have a resentment towards you that I have never seen before. He said: Woe to you, what are you saying? He said: By God, I do not think that you should set out until you see the forelocks of the horses. He said: By God, we have decided to attack them to eradicate the rest of them. He said: I forbid you from that, and by God, what I saw made me recite some verses of poetry about them. He said: What did you say? He said: I said:

My camel was almost knocked down by the sounds as the ground was covered with the locusts.

He was a noble lion, not a coward when meeting, nor a slender disposition when facing off.

Surat Al Imran 3:173

Those to whom the people said, "Indeed, the people have gathered against you, so fear them." But it only increased them in faith, and they said, "Sufficient for us is God, and [He is] the best Disposer of affairs."

I remained an enemy, I think the earth is tilted because of what they called a leader who will not be let down

I said, Woe to Ibn Harb from meeting you when the plain is covered with mud.

I am a warner to the people of valor, a warning to every one of them who has a desire and a sense.

From the army of Ahmed, do not be afraid of the Tanablah, and what you warned about cannot be described as mere talk.

He said: This made Abu Sufyan and those with him think twice, and a group of Banu Abd al-Qais passed by him and he said: Where are you going? They said: We are going to Medina. He said: Why? They said: We are going to provide provisions. He said: Will you deliver a message from me to Muhammad that I will send you to him and that I will carry these raisins for you in Ukaz tomorrow if you meet us? They said: Yes. He said: When you meet him, tell him that we have decided to march to him and his companions to eradicate their remnants. The group passed by the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) while he was at Hamra al-Asad, and they told him what Abu Sufyan and his companions had said. They said: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. Ibn Hisham narrated on the authority of Abu Ubaidah, who said: "When the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, heard of their return, he said: 'By Him in Whose Hand is my soul, I have offered them stones, if they were to be brought to them in the morning, they would be as if they had gone yesterday.'" Al-Hasan al-Basri said regarding his statement: Those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound had afflicted them, that Abu Sufyan and his companions had afflicted the Muslims with what they had afflicted and had returned. "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Abu Sufyan has returned and God has cast terror into his heart, so who will volunteer to search for him?' So the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, Abu Bakr, Umar, Uthman, Ali, and some of the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, got up and followed them. Abu Sufyan was informed that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, was searching for him, so he met a caravan of merchants and said: 'Return Muhammad and you will have such and such a reward, and tell them that I have gathered a group for them and that I will return to them.' So the merchants came and informed the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, of that, and the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs.'" So God revealed this verse, and this is what Ikrimah, Qatada and others said: This context was revealed regarding Hamra al-Asad, and it was said: It was revealed regarding the Battle of Badr al-Maw'id, but the first is correct. And the Almighty's saying: "Those to whom the people said, 'The people have gathered against you, so fear them,' but it only increased them in faith," the verse, meaning those whom the people threatened with crowds and frightened them with the large number of enemies, but they did not care about that, rather they put their trust in God and sought His help, "and said, 'God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs.'" Al-Bukhari said: Ahmad bin Yunus told us, he said: I think he said: Abu Bakr told us, on the authority of Abu Hasin, on the authority of Abu al-Dhaha, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, "God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs," Ibrahim, peace be upon him, said it when he was thrown into the fire, and Muhammad, peace be upon him, said it when the people said to them, 'The people have gathered against you, so fear them,' but it only increased their faith, and they said, 'God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs.'"

Al-Nasa'i narrated it on the authority of Muhammad bin Ismail ibn Ibrahim and Harun ibn Abdullah, both on the authority of Yahya ibn Abi Bakr, on the authority of Abu Bakr, who is Ibn Ayyash, on his authority. It is surprising that Al-Hakim Abu Abdullah narrated it on the authority of Ahmad ibn Yunus, then he said: It is authentic according to the conditions of the two sheikhs, and they did not include it. Then Al-Bukhari narrated it on the authority of Abu Ghassan Malik ibn Ismail, on the authority of Israel, on the authority of Abu Hasin, on the authority of Abu Ad-Dahha, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: The last words of Abraham, peace be upon him, when he was thrown into the fire were: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. And Abd Al-Razzaq said: Ibn Uyaynah said: Zakariya informed me on the authority of Al-Sha'bi, on the authority of Abdullah ibn Amr, who said: These are the words of Abraham, peace be upon him, when he was thrown into the fire. Narrated by Ibn Jarir. Abu Bakr bin Mardawayh said: Muhammad bin Muammar told us, Ibrahim bin Musa al-Thawri told us, Abdul Rahim bin Muhammad bin Ziyad al-Sakari told us, Abu Bakr bin Ayyash told us, on the authority of Hamid al-Tawil, on the authority of Anas bin Malik, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, that it was said to him on the day of UHud 11: The people have gathered against you, so fear them. So God revealed this verse. He also narrated on his authority on the authority of Muhammad bin Ubayd God al-Rafi'i, on the authority of his father, on the authority of his grandfather Abu Rafi': That the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent Ali with a group of people with him in pursuit of Abu Sufyan, and a Bedouin from Khuza'ah met them and said: The people have gathered against you. They said: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. So this verse was revealed about them. Then Ibn Mardawayh said: "Dulaj bin Ahmad told us, Al-Hasan bin Sufyan told us, Abu Khaithama Mus'ab bin Sa'id told us, Musa bin A'yan told us, on the authority of Al-A'mash, on the authority of Abu Salih, on the authority of Abu Hurairah, who said: 'The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "When you encounter a grave matter, say: 'God is sufficient for us, and He is the best disposer of affairs.'" This is a strange hadith from this source. Imam Ahmad said: Haywah bin Shuraih and Ibrahim bin Abi Al-Abbas told us, they said: Baqiyah told us, Buhair bin Sa'd told us, on the authority of Khalid bin Ma'dan, on the authority of Saif, on the authority of Awf bin Malik, that he told them: "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, judged between two men, and when the one against whom the judgment was made turned away, he said: 'God is sufficient for me, and He is the best disposer of affairs.' The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Bring me back to the man.' He said: 'What did you say?' He said: 'I said: God is sufficient for me, and He is the best disposer of affairs.' The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'God blames weakness, but you should be intelligent. If a matter overcomes you, say: God is sufficient for me.'" And what an excellent agent! And thus Abu Dawud and al-Nasa'i narrated it from the hadith of Baqiyyah from Buhayr from Khalid, from Sayf who is al-Shami, and it was not attributed from Awf ibn Malik from the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, in a similar manner. And Imam Ahmad said: Asbat told us, Mutraf told us from Atiyyah from Ibn Abbas regarding his statement: And when the trumpet is blown, he said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: How can I enjoy myself while the companion of the trumpet has taken hold of the trumpet and bent his forehead, hearing when he is commanded to blow? The companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: What should we say? He said: Say: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. In God we trust. This has been narrated from more than one source, and it is a good hadith. We narrated from the Mother of the Believers, Zainab and Aisha, may God be pleased with them, that they boasted, and Zainab said: God married me and your families married you. Aisha said: My innocence was revealed from the heavens in the Qur'an, so Zainab submitted to her, then she said: What did you say when you rode the mount of Safwan bin Mu'attal? She said: I said: God is sufficient for me, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. Zainab said: I said the word of the believers, and for this reason God the Almighty said: So they returned with favor from God and bounty, no harm had touched them, meaning when they put their trust in God, He sufficed them with what concerned them and repelled from them the harm of those who wanted to plot against them, so they returned to their country with favor from God and bounty, no harm had touched them from what their enemy had planned for them, and they pursued the pleasure of God, and God is the possessor of great bounty. Al-Bayhaqi said: Abu Abdullah al-Hafiz narrated to us, Abu Bakr bin Dawud al-Zahid narrated to us, Muhammad bin Na'im narrated to us, Bishr bin al-Hakam narrated to us. Mubashar bin Abdullah bin Razeen told us, Sufyan bin Husayn told us, on the authority of Ya'la bin Muslim, on the authority of Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding the statement of God Almighty: So they returned with favor and bounty from God, he said: The favor was that they were safe, and the bounty was that a caravan passed by during the season, so the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, bought it and made a profit on it, which he divided among his companions. Ibn Abi Nujayh said, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding the statement of God Almighty: Those to whom the people said, 'Indeed, the people have gathered against you, so fear them,' he said: This is Abu Sufyan, he said to Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, your meeting place is at Badr, where you killed our companions. Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, said, Perhaps. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, set out for his appointment until he reached Badr. They found the market there, and they bought. This is what God Almighty said: "So they returned with favor and bounty from God. No harm had touched them." The verse. He said: This was the minor Battle of Badr. It was narrated by Ibn Jarir. He also narrated on the authority of Al-Qasim, on the authority of Al-Husayn, on the authority of Hajjaj, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, who said: When the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, made an appointment with Abu Sufyan, they began to meet the polytheists and ask them about the Quraysh. They would say: They have gathered against you. They were plotting against them with that, wanting to frighten them. The believers would say: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. Until they reached Badr, and they found its markets healthy and no one had disputed with them in it. He said: A man from the polytheists informed the people of Mecca about Muhammad's cavalry, and he said about that:

My camels were frightened by Muhammad's horses, and dates were scattered like the Anjd.

I took dried water as my appointment

Ibn Jarir said: This is how Al-Qasim recited to us, but it is a mistake. Rather, it is:

I have been repelled by the company of Muhammad and Ajwa from Yathrib like the Anjad

She is following the religion of her father, the Atlad, and has made the water of Qadeed my appointment.

And the water of Djanan is poured for her at noon tomorrow

Then God the Almighty said: It is only Satan who frightens you with his allies, meaning he frightens you with his allies, and makes you think that they are powerful and strong. God the Almighty said: So fear them not, but fear Me, if you are believers, meaning if he tempts you and makes you think, then rely on Me and take refuge in Me, for I am sufficient for you and your supporter against them, as God the Almighty said: Is not God sufficient for His servant? And they frighten you with those besides Him, until His saying: "Say, 'God is sufficient for me. Upon Him do those who rely rely.'" And God the Almighty said: "So fight the allies of Satan. Indeed, the plot of Satan has ever been weak." And God the Almighty said: "Those are the party of Satan. Unquestionably, the party of Satan - they are the losers." And God the Almighty said: "God has decreed, 'I will surely prevail, I and My messengers. Indeed, God is Powerful and Exalted in Might.'" And He said: And God will surely support those who support Him. And God the Almighty said: O you who have believed, if you support God, He will support you. And God the Almighty said: "Indeed, We will support Our messengers and those who believe during the worldly life and on the Day when the witnesses will stand. The Day when their excuse will not benefit the wrongdoers, and for them is the curse, and they will have evil." The house.

Surat Al Imran 3:173

Those to whom the people said, "Indeed, the people have gathered against you, so fear them." But it only increased them in faith, and they said, "Sufficient for us is God, and [He is] the best Disposer of affairs."

Fath al-Qadir

His statement 172- Those to whom the people said What is meant by the people here is Nu'aym ibn Mas'ud as will be explained, and it is permissible to use the term people for him because he is from their kind, and it was said: What is meant by the people is the caravan of Abd al-Qays who passed by Abu Sufyan, and it was said: They are the hypocrites. What is meant by his statement The people have gathered against you is Abu Sufyan and his companions, and the pronoun in his statement And increased them refers to the statement indicated by the speaker or to the said, which is The people have gathered against you, so fear them or to the speaker, and the meaning is: They did not lose heart when they heard that nor did they pay attention to it, but rather they were sincere to God and increased in reassurance and certainty. And in it is evidence that faith increases and decreases. His statement And they said, God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs is according to the source of hasabahu: meaning He sufficed him and it means the doer: meaning muhsab means sufficiency. He said in Al-Kashshaf: The evidence that it has the meaning of the one who is sufficient is that you say: This man is sufficient for you, so you describe an indefinite noun with it because adding it to the meaning of an active participle is not real. End quote. And the agent is the one to whom matters are entrusted, meaning: Yes, the one to whom our matter is entrusted, or the sufficient one, or the guarantor, and the one specifically praised is omitted: meaning, yes, the agent is God, glory be to Him.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

173- Those to whom the people said and the place of those is also a noun referring back to the first those and what is meant by the people is: Na'im ibn Mas'ud, according to the statement of Mujahid and Ikrimah, so it is from the general that is intended by the specific like the statement of the Most High: Or do they envy the people meaning: Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, alone, and Muhammad ibn Ishaq and a group said: What is meant by the people is the caravan of Abd al-Qays, Indeed, the people have gathered against you meaning Abu Sufyan and his companions, So fear them, so fear them and beware of them, for you have no power over them, So it increased their faith belief, certainty and strength, "And they said: God is sufficient for us" meaning: God is sufficient for us, And He is the best Disposer of affairs meaning: the one to whom matters are entrusted, fa'il with the meaning of maf'ul.

Abdul Wahid bin Ahmed Al-Malhi told us, Ahmed bin

Abdullah Al-Nuaimi told us, Muhammad bin Yusuf told us, Muhammad bin Ismail told us, Ahmed bin Yunus told us, Abu Bakr told us, on the authority of Abu Haseen, on the authority of Abu Al-Dhaha, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, who said: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. Ibrahim said it when he was thrown into the fire, and Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, said it when they said: The people have gathered against you, so fear them. But it only increased their faith, and they said: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

173 Those to whom the people said meaning the caravan that they received from Abd Qays or Na'im bin Mas'ud al-Ashja'i, and the people called him that because he was from their kind, just as it is said that someone rides horses and he only has one horse because people from Medina joined him and spread his words. The people have gathered against you, so fear them meaning Abu Sufyan and his companions. It was narrated that he called out when he was returning from UHud 11:O Muhammad, our meeting place is the next Badr season if you wish. So he said, peace and blessings be upon him: God willing. So when the next year came, he went out with the people of Mecca until he stopped at Marr al-Dhahran, and God sent terror into his heart and he decided to return, but a caravan from Abd Qays passed by him intending to go to Medina for provisions, so he stipulated for them a camel load of raisins if they delayed the Muslims. It was said: Na'im met Ibn Mas'ud when he had come to perform Umrah, so he asked him about that and pledged ten camels for him. Na'im went out and found the Muslims getting ready, so he said to them, "They came to you in your homes and none of you escaped except a fugitive. Do you think you will go out when they have gathered against you and weakened?" He, peace be upon him, said, By the One in Whose Hand is my soul, I will go out even if no one went out with me. So he went out with seventy riders and they said, God is sufficient for us. "So He increased their faith. The pronoun is implied for the one being said or for the source of the verb said" or for its agent, meaning that Na'im alone was intended by it, and the apparent one is for those to whom it was said, and the meaning is: They did not pay attention to it and did not weaken, but rather their certainty in God was strengthened by it and their faith increased and they showed the zeal of Islam and were sincere in their intentions towards Him. This is evidence that faith increases and decreases, and it is supported by the statement of Ibn 'Umar, may God be pleased with them both, "We said, O Messenger of God, faith increases and decreases. He said, Yes, it increases until its owner enters Paradise and decreases until its owner enters Hell." This is clear if obedience is made part of faith, and likewise if it is not made, for faith increases with familiarity, much contemplation, and the support of arguments. And they said, God is sufficient for us. He is sufficient for us and He is sufficient for us, from ahsabhu which means to suffice him. And it indicates that it means the one who is sufficient because it does not benefit from the addition of definition in your saying, This man is sufficient for you. “And He is the best Disposer of affairs.” And He is the best Disposer of affairs, and He is in it.

Surat Al Imran 3:174

So they returned with favor and bounty from God. No harm had touched them, and they pursued the pleasure of God. And God is the possessor of great bounty.

Surat Al Imran 3:174

So they returned with favor and bounty from God. No harm had touched them, and they pursued the pleasure of God. And God is the possessor of great bounty.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

So they returned they returned from Badr with favor and grace from God in safety and profit no harm touched them of killing or wounding and they pursued the pleasure of God by obeying Him and obeying His Messenger in going out and God is possessor of great bounty to the people of His obedience.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: What He, the Most High, meant by His statement: And they returned with favor from God, was that those who responded to God and the Messenger returned after the wound had befallen them, from the direction in which they had set out - which was their march in the footsteps of their enemy - to Hamra al-Asad, with favor from God, meaning: with well-being from their Lord, in which they did not encounter an enemy, and bounty, meaning: they obtained profits therein from the trade in which they traded, the reward that they had earned. No harm touched them means: no harm or injury came to them from their enemy, and they pursued the pleasure of God, meaning by that: they pleased God by doing that, and by following His Messenger to what he called them to of following the enemy's trail and obeying them, and God is the possessor of great bounty, meaning: God is the possessor of kindness and generosity towards them - by turning away their enemy who had intended to attack them, and other than that of His favors towards them and others - with His blessings, great in the eyes of those upon whom He bestowed His blessings from among His creation.

A group of interpreters said something similar to what we said about this.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Amr told me, he said, Abu Asim told us, on the authority of Isa, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid: And they returned with favor and bounty from God. He said: And the bounty is what they obtained of trade and reward.

Al-Qasim told us, Al-Husayn told us, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, on the authority of Mujahid, who said: They came across the market and bought, and that is His statement: And they returned with favor and bounty from God. He said: The bounty is what they obtained from trade and reward. Ibn Jurayj said:

What they obtained from the sale was a favor and bounty from God. They obtained His pardon and His grace, and no one disputed it with them. He said: And His statement: No harm touched them, he said: killing, and they pursued the pleasure of God, he said: obedience to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: And God is the possessor of great bounty, because He turned them away from meeting their enemy.

Muhammad bin Saad told us, he said, my father told me, he said, my uncle told me, he said, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, he said: They obeyed God and sought their need, and no one harmed them, "So they returned with favor and bounty from God. No harm had touched them, and they pursued the pleasure of God, and God is the possessor of great bounty."

Muhammad told us, Ahmad told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of al-Suddi, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was given dirhams at Badr - that is, when he went out to the minor Battle of Badr - with which they bought goods from the season of Badr, and they acquired trade. This is what God said: "So they returned with favor from God and bounty. No harm had touched them, and they pursued the pleasure of God." As for the favor, it is well-being, and as for the bounty, it is trade, and the evil is killing.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

Our scholars said: When they entrusted their affairs to Him and relied on Him with their hearts, He gave them four meanings of reward: grace, favor, averting evil, and following contentment, so He pleased them with Him and He was pleased with them.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

God the Almighty tells us about the martyrs that even if they are killed in this world, their souls are alive and provided for in the eternal home. Muhammad bin Jarir said: Muhammad bin Marzuq told us, Amr bin Yunus told us on the authority of Ikrimah, Ibn Ishaq bin Abi Talhah told us, Anas bin Malik told me about the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, whom the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent to the people of Bir Ma'unah. He said: I do not know, forty or seventy, and at that water was Amir bin At-Tufayl Al-Ja'fari. So those people from the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, went out until they came to a cave overlooking the water and sat in it. Then some of them said to one another: Who among you will deliver the message of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, to the people of this water? He said - I think he was Ibn Milhan Al-Ansari -: I am delivering the message of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. So he went out until he came to a group of them and hid in front of the houses. Then he said: "O people of Bir Ma'una, I am the Messenger of God to you. I bear witness that there is no god but God and that Muhammad is His servant and Messenger. So believe in God and His Messenger." Then a man came out to him from the house with a spear and struck him in the side until he came out from the other side. He said: God is Great, I have won, by the Lord of the Kaaba. So they followed his tracks until they reached his companions in the cave. Amir bin At-Tufayl killed them all. Ishaq said: Anas bin Malik told me that God revealed a Qur'an about them: Convey from us to our people that we have met our Lord, and He is pleased with us and we are pleased with Him. Then it was abrogated and lifted after we had read it for a while. Then God Almighty revealed: "And never think of those who are killed in the way of God as dead. Rather, they are alive with their Lord, receiving provision." Muslim said in his Sahih: : Muhammad ibn Abdullah ibn Numayr narrated to us, Abu Muawiyah narrated to us, Al-A'mash narrated to us, on the authority of Abdullah ibn Murrah, on the authority of Masruq, who said: We asked Abdullah about this verse: "And never think of those who are killed in the way of God as dead. Rather, they are alive with their Lord, and they are provided for." He said: We asked the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, about that, and he said: "Their souls are in the bodies of green birds, which have lanterns hanging from the Throne. They roam in Paradise wherever they wish, then they return to those lanterns. Then their Lord looked at them and said: Do you desire anything? They said: What do we desire when we roam in Paradise wherever we wish? He did that to them three times. When they saw that they would not be left without being asked, they said: O Lord, we want you to return our souls to our bodies so that we may be killed in Your way once again. When He saw that they had no need, they were left." Something similar to this was narrated from the hadith of Anas and Abu Saeed.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Abd al-Samad told us, Hammad told us, Thabit told us on the authority of Anas that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "There is no soul that dies and has goodness with God that would be pleased to return to the world except the martyr, for he would be pleased to return to the world and be killed again because of what he sees of the virtue of martyrdom." Muslim transmitted it only on the authority of Hammad.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Ali ibn Abdullah al-Madini told us, Sufyan told us, on the authority of Muhammad ibn Ali ibn Rabi'ah al-Salami, on the authority of Abdullah ibn Muhammad ibn Aqil, on the authority of Jabir, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to me: Do you know that God brought your father back to life? He said to him: Make a wish of me. He said to him: I will be returned to the world so that I may be killed once again. He said: I have decided that they will not return to it. Ahmad is the only one to narrate it from this source. It has been proven in the two Sahihis and others that Abu Jabir, who is Abdullah ibn Amr ibn Haram al-Ansari, may God be pleased with him, was killed as a martyr on the day of Uhud. Al-Bukhari said: Abu al-Walid said on the authority of Shu'bah on the authority of Ibn al-Munkadir: I heard Jabir say: When my father was killed, I began to cry and uncover the cloth from his face. The companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, began to forbid me, but the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, did not forbid me. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Do not cry for him - or do not cry for him - the angels continued to shade him with their wings until he was taken up. He, Muslim, and al-Nasa'i transmitted it through another chain of transmission on the authority of Shu'bah, on the authority of Muhammad ibn al-Munkadir, on the authority of Jabir, who said: When my father was killed on the day of Uhud, I began to uncover the cloth from his face and cry. He mentioned the rest of it in a similar manner.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Yaqub told us, my father told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq, Ismail bin Umayyah bin Amr bin Saeed told us, on the authority of Abu al-Zubayr al-Makki, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "When your brothers were afflicted at Uhud, God placed their souls in the bodies of green birds, which would go to the rivers of Paradise, eat from its fruits, and take refuge in golden lanterns in the shade of the Throne. When they found the goodness of their drink and food, and the beauty of their resting place, they said: 'If only our brothers knew what God has done for us, so that they would not give up jihad and turn away from war.' God, the Almighty, said: 'I will convey it to them on your behalf.' Then God, the Almighty, revealed these verses: 'And never think of those who are killed in the way of God as dead. Rather, they are alive with their Lord, receiving provision.' and what follows." This is how Ahmad narrated it, and likewise Ibn Jarir narrated it on the authority of Yunus, on the authority of Ibn Wahb, on the authority of Ismail bin Ayyash, on the authority of Muhammad bin Ishaq. It was narrated by Abu Dawud and Al-Hakim in his Mustadrak from the hadith of Abdullah bin Idris from Muhammad bin Ishaq from Ismail bin Umayyah from Abu Al-Zubayr from Saeed bin Jubair from Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, and he mentioned it, and this is more authentic. Sufyan Al-Thawri narrated it likewise from Salim Al-Aftas from Saeed bin Jubair from Ibn Abbas - and Al-Hakim narrated in his Mustadrak from the hadith of Abu Ishaq Al-Fazari from Sufyan from Ismail bin Abi Khalid from Saeed bin Jubair from Ibn Abbas, who said: This verse was revealed about Hamzah and his companions: "And never think of those who are killed in the way of God as dead. Rather, they are alive with their Lord, receiving provision." Then he said: It is authentic according to the conditions of the two sheikhs, but they did not include it. Qatada, Al-Rabi' and Al-Dahhak also said: It was revealed about those killed at Uhud.

Another Hadith Abu Bakr bin Mardawayh said: Abdullah bin Jaafar told us, Harun bin Sulaiman told us, Ali bin Abdullah Al-Madini told us, Musa bin Ibrahim bin Katheer bin Bashir bin Al-Fakih Al-Ansari told us, I heard Talha bin Kharash bin Abdul Rahman bin Kharash bin Al-Sammah Al-Ansari, he said: I heard Jabir bin Abdullah say: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, looked at me one day and said: O Jabir, why do I see you worried? I said: O Messenger of God, my father was martyred and left behind a debt and children. He said: Shall I not tell you that God has never spoken to anyone except from behind a veil, and He spoke to your father directly? Ali said: Direct confrontation. He said: Ask Me and I will give it to you. He said: I ask You to return to the world so that I may be killed in Your cause a second time. The Lord Almighty said: Indeed, the word has already gone before from Me: They will not return to it. He said: O Lord, then convey it to those who are behind me. Then God revealed: And do not think that those who are killed in the way of God are dead. Then he narrated it from another chain of transmission on the authority of Muhammad ibn Sulayman ibn Salit al-Ansari, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Jabir, with a similar chain of transmission. And thus al-Bayhaqi narrated it in Dalā'il al-Nubuwwah on the authority of Ali ibn al-Madini with it. And al-Bayhaqi also narrated it from the hadith of Abu Ubadah al-Ansari, who is 'Isa ibn 'Abd al-Rahman, God willing, on the authority of al-Zuhri, on the authority of 'Urwah, on the authority of 'A'ishah, who said: "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to Jabir: 'O Jabir, shall I not give you good report?' He said: 'Yes, God has given you good report.' He said: 'I felt that God had brought your father back to life, and said: 'Ask of My servant whatever you wish, and I will give it to you.' He said: 'O Lord, I have not worshipped You as You should be worshipped. I hope that You will return me to the world so that I may fight with Your Prophet and be killed for You once again.' He said: 'It has already been said from me that it will not return to it.'"

So they returned with favor and bounty from God. No harm had touched them, and they pursued the pleasure of God. And God is the possessor of great bounty.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Yaqub told us, my father told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq, Al-Harith bin Fadil Al-Ansari told us, on the authority of Mahmud bin Labid, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The martyrs are on a river at the gate of Paradise, in a green dome, and their provision comes out to them from Paradise morning and evening." Ahmad is the only one to narrate it. Ibn Jarir narrated it on the authority of Abu Kurayb: Abd Al-Rahman bin Sulayman and Ubaydah told us on the authority of Muhammad bin Ishaq with it, and it is a good chain of transmission. And as if the martyrs are divided into groups: some of their souls will roam in Paradise, and some of them will be on this river at the gate of Paradise, and it may be possible that their journey will end at this river, and they will gather there, and their provisions will be brought to them there and they will rest, and God knows best. We have narrated in Musnad al-Imam Ahmad a hadith in which there is good report for every believer that his soul will be in Paradise, roaming there as well, and eating from its fruits, and seeing the freshness and joy in it, and witnessing what God has prepared for it of honor, and it is with a sound, noble and great chain of transmission, in which three of the four imams, the owners of the followed schools of thought, have come together, for Imam Ahmad, may God have mercy on him, narrated it on the authority of Muhammad ibn Idris al-Shafi'i, may God have mercy on him, on the authority of Malik ibn Anas al-Asbahi, may God have mercy on him, on the authority of al-Zuhri, on the authority of Abd al-Rahman ibn Ka'b ibn Malik, on the authority of his father, may God be pleased with him, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The soul of the believer is a bird that hangs in the trees of Paradise until God returns it to its body on the Day of Resurrection." His saying hangs means eats, and in this hadith: The soul of the believer will be in the form of a bird in... "Paradise" As for the souls of the martyrs, as mentioned previously in the crops of green birds, they are like planets in relation to the souls of all believers, for they fly by themselves, so we ask God, the Generous, the Beneficent, to cause us to die in faith. And His Most High's saying: Rejoicing in what God has given them to the end of the verse, meaning the martyrs who were killed in the way of God are alive with their Lord, and they are happy with what they are in of grace and happiness, and they are glad for their brothers who are killed after them in the way of God, that they are advancing upon them, and that they do not fear what is ahead of them nor are they sad for what they left behind them. We ask God for Paradise. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said, And they are glad meaning they are happy for those of their brothers who are behind them to catch up with what they have done of their jihad, so that they may share with them in what they are in of the reward of God that He has given them. Al-Suddi said: The martyr will be brought a book in which it says: So-and-so will come to you on such-and-such a day, and so-and-so will come to you on such-and-such a day, and he will be happy with that as the people of this world are happy with their absent ones when they come back. Saeed bin Jubair said: When they entered Paradise and saw the honor it has for the martyrs, they said: Oh, if only our brothers in this world knew what we know of honor, so that when they witness battle they would engage in it themselves so that they may be martyred and attain what we have attained of goodness. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, informed them of their situation and the honor they are in, and he informed them, that is, their Lord, that I have revealed to your Prophet and informed him of your situation and what you are in, so they were happy with that, and that is what He said: And they rejoice for those who have not yet joined them from behind them Al-Bukhari and Muslim. It has been proven in the two Sahihis on the authority of Anas, may God be pleased with him, in the story of the companions of the well of Ma'unah, the seventy of the Ansar who were killed in one morning, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, prayed and cursed those who killed them. Anas said: And a Qur'an was revealed about them, which we recited until it was lifted. Convey to our people that we have met our Lord, and He was pleased with us and satisfied us.

Then God Almighty said: They rejoice in favor from God and in bounty and that God does not allow the reward of the believers to be lost. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said: They rejoiced and were pleased when they saw the fulfillment of the promise and the great reward. Abd al-Rahman ibn Zayd ibn Aslam said: This verse includes all believers, whether martyrs or others. God rarely mentions a bounty with which He mentioned the prophets or a reward that He gave them, except that He mentioned what He gave to the believers after them. And the Almighty said: Those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wounds had befallen them. This was on the day of Hamra' al-Asad, and that is because when the polytheists inflicted what they inflicted on the Muslims, they turned back to their country, and when they continued on their way, they regretted why they did not complete the battle with the people of Medina and make it the decisive battle. So when this reached the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, he urged the Muslims to go after them to frighten them and show them that they had strength and endurance, and he did not give permission to anyone except those who were present at the battle on the day of Uhud, except Jabir ibn Abdullah, may God be pleased with him, for what we will mention, so the Muslims volunteered despite their wounds and infliction, in obedience to God Almighty and His Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace. Ibn Abi Hatim said: Muhammad ibn Abdullah ibn Yazid told us, Sufyan ibn Uyaynah told us, on the authority of Amr, on the authority of Ikrimah, who said: When the polytheists returned from Uhud, they said: You did not kill Muhammad, nor did you take the young camels with you. What a bad thing you have done! Return. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, heard of that, so he called upon the Muslims, and they volunteered until they reached Hamra' al-Asad - or Bir Abi Uyaynah - the doubt is from Sufyan - and the polytheists said: We will return the next year. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, returned, and it was considered a raid, and God Almighty revealed: Those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound had afflicted them - for those among them who did good and feared God is a great reward. Ibn Mardawayh narrated it from the hadith of Muhammad ibn Mansur, on the authority of Sufyan ibn Uyaynah, on the authority of Amr, on the authority of Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, and he mentioned it. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said: The day of Uhud was Saturday, the middle of Shawwal, and when the next day was Sunday, I did not... Ten nights had passed in Shawwal, and the muezzin of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, called out to the people to seek out the enemy. His muezzin called out that no one should go out with us except those who had been present the day before. Jabir ibn Abdullah ibn Amr ibn Haram spoke to him and said: O Messenger of God, my father left me behind with my seven sisters, and he said: O my son, it is not appropriate for me or for you to leave these women without a man among them. I am not the one who would prefer you to fight with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, over myself, so stay behind with your sisters. So I stayed behind with them. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, gave him permission, so he went out with him. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, only went out to frighten the enemy and to inform them that he had gone out in pursuit of them so that they would think that he was strong, and that what had befallen them had not weakened them against their enemy. Muhammad bin Ishaq said: Abdullah bin Kharijah bin Zaid bin Thabit told me on the authority of Abu al-Sa'ib, the freed slave of Aisha bint Uthman: That a man from the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, from Banu Abd al-Ashhal, who had witnessed the Battle of Uhud, said: I witnessed Uhud with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, my brother and I, and we returned wounded. When the muezzin of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, gave the call to go out in pursuit of the enemy, I said to my brother - or he said to me -: Are we missing a raid with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace? By God, we do not have a mount to ride, and none of us is seriously wounded. So we went out with the Messenger of God, and I was less wounded than he was. Whenever he was overcome, I would carry him up a hill and he would walk up a hill, until we reached the point where the Muslims had reached. Al-Bukhari said: Muhammad bin Salam told us, Abu Muawiyah told us, on the authority of Hisham, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Aisha, may God be pleased with her, Those who responded to God and the Messenger the verse, I said to Urwah: O son of my sister, your parents were among them, Al-Zubayr and Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with them, when the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, suffered what he suffered on the day of Uhud, and the polytheists turned away from him, he feared that they would return, so he said, Who will return after them? So seventy men volunteered from among them, among them Abu Bakr and Al-Zubayr, may God be pleased with them, this is how Al-Bukhari narrated it alone with this chain of transmission, and this is how Al-Hakim narrated it in his Mustadrak on the authority of Al-Asamm, on the authority of Abbas Al-Duri, on the authority of Abu Al-Nadr, on the authority of Abu Saeed Al-Mu'addib, on the authority of Hisham bin Urwah, then he said: It is authentic, and they did not include it, this is what he said. Ibn Majah narrated it on the authority of Hisham bin Ammar, and Hadiyyah bin Abdul Wahhab on the authority of Sufyan bin Uyaynah. On the authority of Hisham bin Urwa, on his authority, and thus it was narrated by Saeed bin Mansour and Abu Bakr Al-Hamidi in his Musnad on the authority of Sufyan, on his authority. Al-Hakim also narrated it from the hadith of Ismail bin Abi Khalid from Al-Bahi, from Urwah, who said: Aisha said to me: O my son, your father is among those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound befell them, then he said: It is authentic according to the conditions of the two sheikhs, and they did not include it. Abu Bakr bin Mardawayh said: Abdullah bin Jaafar told us from the original book, Samuyah told us, Abdullah bin Al-Zubayr told us, Sufyan told us, Hisham told us from his father, from Aisha, may God be pleased with her, she said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to me: Your parents are among those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound befell them, Abu Bakr and Al-Zubayr, may God be pleased with them.” And the attribution of this hadith is a complete mistake in terms of its chain of transmission because it contradicts the narration of trustworthy people from stopping at Aisha, may God be pleased with her, as we have presented, and in terms of its meaning, Al-Zubayr is not among the fathers of Aisha, but rather Aisha said that to Urwah bin Al-Zubayr, because he is the son of her sister Asma bint Abi Bakr. Al-Siddiq, may God be pleased with them, and Ibn Jarir said: Muhammad bin Saad told me, my father told me, my uncle told me, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: God cast terror into the heart of Abu Sufyan on the day of Uhud after what had happened to him, so he returned to Mecca, and the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Abu Sufyan has suffered a part of you, and he has returned and God has cast terror into his heart. The Battle of Uhud was in Shawwal, and the merchants used to come to Medina in Dhul-Qi’dah, and they would camp at Badr al-Sughra once every year, and they came after the Battle of Uhud, and the believers were afflicted with wounds, and they complained about that to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and what afflicted them was severe, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, urged the people to set out with him and follow what they had been following, and he said: They are only setting out now to come for Hajj, and they will not be able to do the same until the next year. Then Satan came and frightened his followers, and said: The people have gathered against you, but the people refused to follow him, so he said: I am going, even if no one follows me, to urge the people. So Abu Bakr al-Siddiq, Umar, Uthman, Ali, al-Zubayr, Sa’d, Talhah, Abd al-Rahman ibn Awf, Abdullah ibn Mas’ud, Hudhayfah ibn al-Yaman, and Abu Ubaidah ibn al-Jarrah volunteered with him, with seventy men. They set out in pursuit of Abu Sufyan, and they pursued him until they reached al-Safra’. Then God, the Most High, revealed: Those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound had afflicted them. Then Ibn Ishaq said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, set out until he reached Hamra’ al-Asad, which is eight miles from Medina. Ibn Hisham said: He appointed Ibn Umm Maktum over Medina, and he stayed there on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, then he returned to Medina. Ma’bad ibn Abi Ma’bad al-Khuza’i passed by him, as Abdullah ibn Abi Bakr told me. The Khuza’ah, both Muslims and polytheists, were a group of sincere advisers to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, in Tihamah. They made a deal with him, and they did not hide anything that was there from him. Ma’bad was a polytheist at that time, so he said: O Muhammad, by God, what has afflicted you has been very hard on us. In your companions, and we wish that God had spared you from them. Then he and the Messenger of God (peace be upon him) went out at Hamra’ al-Asad until he met Abu Sufyan ibn Harb and those with him at al-Rawha’, and they had decided to return to the Messenger of God (peace be upon him) and his companions, and they said: We have achieved the goal of his companions, their leaders and their nobles, then we return before we eradicate them? We will attack the rest of them and then we will finish with them. When Abu Sufyan saw Ma’bad, he said: What is behind you, Ma’bad? He said: Muhammad and his companions are pursuing you in a group the likes of which I have never seen, they are burning with desire for you. Those who had stayed behind from him on your day have gathered with him and regretted what they did. They have a resentment towards you that I have never seen before. He said: Woe to you, what are you saying? He said: By God, I do not think that you should set out until you see the forelocks of the horses. He said: By God, we have decided to attack them to eradicate the rest of them. He said: I forbid you from that, and by God, what I saw made me recite some verses of poetry about them. He said: What did you say? He said: I said:

So they returned with favor and bounty from God. No harm had touched them, and they pursued the pleasure of God. And God is the possessor of great bounty.

My camel was almost knocked down by the sounds as the ground was covered with the locusts.

He was a noble lion, not a coward when meeting, nor a slender disposition when facing off.

I remained an enemy, I think the earth is tilted because of what they called a leader who will not be let down

I said, Woe to Ibn Harb from meeting you when the plain is covered with mud.

I am a warner to the people of valor, a warning to every one of them who has a desire and a sense.

From the army of Ahmed, do not be afraid of the Tanablah, and what you warned about cannot be described as mere talk.

He said: This made Abu Sufyan and those with him think twice, and a group of Banu Abd al-Qais passed by him and he said: Where are you going? They said: We are going to Medina. He said: Why? They said: We are going to provide provisions. He said: Will you deliver a message from me to Muhammad that I will send you to him and that I will carry these raisins for you in Ukaz tomorrow if you meet us? They said: Yes. He said: When you meet him, tell him that we have decided to march to him and his companions to eradicate their remnants. The group passed by the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) while he was at Hamra al-Asad, and they told him what Abu Sufyan and his companions had said. They said: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. Ibn Hisham narrated on the authority of Abu Ubaidah, who said: “When the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, heard of their return, he said: ‘By Him in Whose Hand is my soul, I have offered them stones, if they were to be brought to them in the morning, they would be as if they had gone yesterday.’” Al-Hasan al-Basri said regarding his statement: Those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound had afflicted them, that Abu Sufyan and his companions had afflicted the Muslims with what they had afflicted and had returned. “The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: ‘Abu Sufyan has returned and God has cast terror into his heart, so who will volunteer to search for him?' So the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, Abu Bakr, Umar, Uthman, Ali, and some of the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, got up and followed them. Abu Sufyan was informed that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, was searching for him, so he met a caravan of merchants and said: 'Return Muhammad and you will have such and such a reward, and tell them that I have gathered a group for them and that I will return to them.' So the merchants came and informed the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, of that, and the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs.'" So God revealed this verse, and this is what Ikrimah, Qatada and others said: This context was revealed regarding Hamra al-Asad, and it was said: It was revealed regarding the Battle of Badr al-Maw'id, but the first is correct. And the Almighty's saying: Those to whom the people said, 'The people have gathered against you, so fear them,' but it only increased them in faith, the verse, meaning those whom the people threatened with crowds and frightened them with the large number of enemies, but they did not care about that, rather they put their trust in God and sought His help, and said, 'God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs.' Al-Bukhari said: Ahmad bin Yunus told us, he said: I think he said: Abu Bakr told us, on the authority of Abu Hasin, on the authority of Abu al-Dhaha, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs, Ibrahim, peace be upon him, said it when he was thrown into the fire, and Muhammad, peace be upon him, said it when the people said to them, 'The people have gathered against you, so fear them,' but it only increased their faith, and they said, 'God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs.'" Al-Nasa'i narrated it on the authority of Muhammad ibn Ismail ibn Ibrahim and Harun ibn Abdullah, both on the authority of Yahya ibn Abi Bakr, on the authority of Abu Bakr, who is Ibn Ayyash, on his authority. It is surprising that Al-Hakim Abu Abdullah narrated it on the authority of Ahmad bin Yunus, then he said: It is authentic according to the conditions of the two sheikhs, and they did not include it. Then Al-Bukhari narrated it on the authority of Abu Ghassan Malik ibn Ismail, on the authority of Israel, on the authority of Abu Hasin, on the authority of Abu Ad-Dahha, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: The last words of Abraham, peace be upon him, when he was thrown into the fire were: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. And Abd Al-Razzaq said: Ibn Uyaynah said: Zakariya informed me on the authority of Al-Sha'bi, on the authority of Abdullah ibn Amr, who said: These are the words of Abraham, peace be upon him, when he was thrown into the fire. Narrated by Ibn Jarir. Abu Bakr bin Mardawayh said: Muhammad bin Muammar told us, Ibrahim bin Musa al-Thawri told us, Abdul Rahim bin Muhammad bin Ziyad al-Sakari told us, Abu Bakr bin Ayyash told us, on the authority of Hamid al-Tawil, on the authority of Anas bin Malik, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, that it was said to him on the day of UHud 11: The people have gathered against you, so fear them. So God revealed this verse. He also narrated on his authority on the authority of Muhammad bin Ubayd God al-Rafi'i, on the authority of his father, on the authority of his grandfather Abu Rafi': That the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent Ali with a group of people with him in pursuit of Abu Sufyan, and a Bedouin from Khuza'ah met them and said: The people have gathered against you. They said: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. So this verse was revealed about them. Then Ibn Mardawayh said: "Dulaj bin Ahmad told us, Al-Hasan bin Sufyan told us, Abu Khaithama Mus'ab bin Sa'id told us, Musa bin A'yan told us, on the authority of Al-A'mash, on the authority of Abu Salih, on the authority of Abu Hurairah, who said: 'The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "When you encounter a grave matter, say: 'God is sufficient for us, and He is the best disposer of affairs.'" This is a strange hadith from this source. Imam Ahmad said: Haywah bin Shuraih and Ibrahim bin Abi Al-Abbas told us, they said: Baqiyah told us, Buhair bin Sa'd told us, on the authority of Khalid bin Awf bin Malik, that he told them: "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, judged between two men, and when the one against whom the judgment was made turned away, he said: 'God is sufficient for me, and He is the best disposer of affairs.' The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Bring me back to the man.' He said: 'What did you say?' He said: 'I said: God is sufficient for me, and He is the best disposer of affairs.'" The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'God blames weakness, but you should be intelligent. If a matter overcomes you, say: God is sufficient for me.'" And what an excellent agent! And thus Abu Dawud and al-Nasa'i narrated it from the hadith of Baqiyah from Buhayr from Khalid, from Sayf who is al-Shami, and it was not attributed from Awf ibn Malik from the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, in a similar manner. And Imam Ahmad said: Asbat told us, Mutraf told us from Atiyyah from Ibn Abbas regarding his statement: And when the trumpet is blown, he said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: How can I enjoy myself while the companion of the trumpet has taken hold of the trumpet and bent his forehead, hearing when he is commanded to blow? The companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: What should we say? He said: Say: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. In God we trust. This has been narrated from more than one source, and it is a good hadith. We narrated from the Mother of the Believers, Zainab and Aisha, may God be pleased with them, that they boasted, and Zainab said: God married me and your families married you. Aisha said: My innocence was revealed from the heavens in the Qur'an, so Zainab submitted to her, then she said: What did you say when you rode the mount of Safwan bin Mu'attal? She said: I said: God is sufficient for me, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. Zainab said: I said the word of the believers, and for this reason God the Almighty said: So they returned with favor from God and bounty, no harm had touched them, meaning when they put their trust in God, He sufficed them with what concerned them and repelled from them the harm of those who wanted to plot against them, so they returned to their country with favor from God and bounty, no harm had touched them from what their enemy had planned for them, and they pursued the pleasure of God, and God is the possessor of great bounty. Al-Bayhaqi said: Abu Abdullah al-Hafiz narrated to us, Abu Bakr bin Dawud al-Zahid narrated to us, Muhammad bin Na'im narrated to us, Bishr bin al-Hakam narrated to us. Mubashar bin Abdullah bin Razeen told us, Sufyan bin Husayn told us, on the authority of Ya'la bin Muslim, on the authority of Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding the statement of God Almighty: So they returned with favor and bounty from God, he said: The favor was that they were safe, and the bounty was that a caravan passed by during the season, so the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, bought it and made a profit on it, which he divided among his companions. Ibn Abi Nujayh said, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding the statement of God Almighty: Those to whom the people said, 'Indeed, the people have gathered against you, so fear them,' he said: This is Abu Sufyan, he said to Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, your meeting place is at Badr, where you killed our companions. Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, said, Perhaps. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, set out for his appointment until he reached Badr. They found the market there, and they bought. This is what God Almighty said: "So they returned with favor and bounty from God. No harm had touched them." The verse. He said: This was the minor Battle of Badr. It was narrated by Ibn Jarir. He also narrated on the authority of Al-Qasim, on the authority of Al-Husayn, on the authority of Hajjaj, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, who said: When the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, made an appointment with Abu Sufyan, they began to meet the polytheists and ask them about the Quraysh. They would say: They have gathered against you. They were plotting against them with that, wanting to frighten them. The believers would say: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. Until they reached Badr, and they found its markets healthy and no one had disputed with them in it. He said: A man from the polytheists informed the people of Mecca about Muhammad's cavalry, and he said about that:

Surat Al Imran 3:174

So they returned with favor and bounty from God. No harm had touched them, and they pursued the pleasure of God. And God is the possessor of great bounty.

My camels were frightened by Muhammad's horses, and dates were scattered like the Anj.

I took dried water as my appointment

Ibn Jarir said: This is how Al-Qasim recited to us, but it is a mistake. Rather, it is:

I have been repelled by the company of Muhammad and Ajwa from Yathrib like the Anjad

She is following the religion of her father, the Atlad, and has made the water of Qadeed my appointment.

And the water of Djan is poured for her at noon tomorrow

Then God the Almighty said: It is only Satan who frightens you with his allies, meaning he frightens you with his allies, and makes you think that they are powerful and strong. God the Almighty said: So fear them not, but fear Me, if you are believers, meaning if he tempts you and makes you think, then rely on Me and take refuge in Me, for I am sufficient for you and your supporter against them, as God the Almighty said: Is not God sufficient for His servant? And they frighten you with those besides Him, until His saying: "Say, 'God is sufficient for me. Upon Him do those who rely rely.'" And God the Almighty said: "So fight the allies of Satan. Indeed, the plot of Satan has ever been weak." And God the Almighty said: "Those are the party of Satan. Unquestionably, the party of Satan - they are the losers." And God the Almighty said: "God has decreed, 'I will surely prevail, I and My messengers. Indeed, God is Powerful and Exalted in Might.'" And He said: And God will surely support those who support Him. And God the Almighty said: O you who have believed, if you support God, He will support you. And God the Almighty said: "Indeed, We will support Our messengers and those who believe during the worldly life and on the Day when the witnesses will stand. The Day when their excuse will not benefit the wrongdoers, and for them is the curse, and they will have evil." The house.

Fath al-Qadir

His statement 174- "So they returned" is in apposition to something omitted: that is, they went out to them and returned with a blessing. It is related to something omitted that occurred as a state. The tanween is for emphasis: that is, they returned clothed in a great "blessing", which is safety from their enemy and well-being. "And bounty", that is, a reward that God bestowed upon them. It was said: profit in trade. It was said: the blessing is specifically for the benefits of this world, and bounty is for the benefits of the Hereafter. Its interpretation was presented shortly in a manner that suits that situation, since the speech in it is with the martyrs who have already reached the Hereafter, and the speech here is with the living. His statement, No harm touched them is in the accusative case as a state: meaning, they were safe from harm, neither killing nor wounding nor anything they feared had befallen them. And they pursued the pleasure of God in what they did and left, including their going out for this raid. And God is possessor of great bounty whose value cannot be measured nor its extent reached. Among His bounty upon them is their steadfastness and their going out to meet their enemy and guiding them to say this statement which brings about all good and repels all evil.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

174- "So they returned, so they departed, by the grace of God with good health, they did not encounter an enemy, and bounty of trade and profit, which is what they obtained in the market, no harm touched them, no harm or misfortune befell them, and they followed the pleasure of God" in obeying God and obeying His Messenger, and that is because they said: Could this be a raid? So God gave them the reward of the raid and was pleased with them, "and God is possessor of great bounty.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

174So they returned" from Badr. "With favor from God", well-being and steadfastness in faith and increase. "And bounty" and profit in trade, for when they came to Badr and fulfilled their market, they traded and profited. "No harm touched them" from injury and enemy plots. "And they pursued the pleasure of God", which is the basis for winning the best of both worlds through their courage and their departure. "And God is possessor of great bounty", He favored them with steadfastness and increase in faith and success in taking the initiative to jihad, and steadfastness in religion and showing boldness towards the enemy, and with preserving everything that would harm them, and achieving benefit with a guarantee of reward until they returned with favor from God and bounty. In it is regret for the one who stayed behind and the error of his opinion, as he deprived himself of what they won.

Surat Al Imran 3:175

That is only Satan frightening his supporters, so do not fear them, but fear Me, if you are believers.

Surat Al Imran 3:175

That is only Satan frightening his supporters, so do not fear them, but fear Me, if you are believers.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

That meaning the one who says to you that people etc. Satan only frightens you his allies the disbelievers so do not fear them but fear Me in abandoning My command if you are believers truly.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: By that, the Most High means: The One who said to you, O believers, The people have gathered against you, frightened you with the crowds of your enemy and their march towards you, from the action of the devil who was speaking through the mouths of the one who said that to you, frightening you with his allies from the polytheists - Abu Sufyan and his companions from Quraysh - so that you would be terrified of them and be cowardly towards them, as:

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: That is only Satan frightening his allies, God frightens the believer with the disbeliever, and terrifies the believer with the disbeliever.

Al-Qasim told us, he said, Al-Hussein told us, he said, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, he said, Mujahid said: That is only Satan frightening his allies, he said: He frightens the believers with the disbelievers.

Muhammad bin Saad told me, he said, my father told me, he said, my uncle told me, he said, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn Abbas: That is only Satan frightening you with his allies, he says: Satan frightens the believers with his allies.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: That is only Satan frightening you with his allies, meaning: that group, meaning the group of Abd al-Qays, who said to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, what they said, and what Satan put in their mouths, frightening his allies, meaning: he terrifies you with his allies.

Yunus told me, he said, Ali bin Ma'bad told us, on the authority of Atab bin Bashir, a client of Quraysh, on the authority of Salim Al-Aftas, regarding his statement: That is only Satan frightening you with his allies, he said: He frightens you with his allies.

Others said: The meaning of this is: It is only Satan who magnifies the matter of the polytheists, O hypocrites, in your souls, so you fear them.

Who said that?

Muhammad told us, Ahmad told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi, who said: He mentioned the matter of the polytheists and their greatness in the eyes of the hypocrites, so he said: That is only Satan frightening his allies, he magnifies his allies in your hearts, so you fear them.

Abu Ja'far said: If someone were to say: How is it said: He frightens His friends? Does Satan frighten his friends? [And how] is it said - if its meaning is that He frightens you with His friends - He frightens His friends?

It was said: This is similar to His saying: To warn of a severe punishment (al-Kahf 18:2), meaning: To warn you of His severe punishment, because punishment is not a warning, but rather it is a warning.

Some of the Arab scholars from Basra used to say: The meaning of this is: He frightens people with his followers, like the saying of someone: He gives dirhams and dresses them in clothes, meaning: He gives people dirhams and dresses them in clothes, so this was omitted because it is not needed.

Abu Ja'far said: What is similar to that is not ambiguous, because the dirhams in the statement of the speaker: He gives the dirhams, it is known that what is given is the dirhams, and likewise the guardians - in his statement: He frightens His guardians - are not frightened, rather the frightening is from the guardians to others, and for that reason they differed.

Abu Ja'far said: He says: So do not fear, O believers, the polytheists, and do not let their matter be too great for you, and do not be intimidated by their gathering, while you obey Me, as long as you obey Me and follow My command, and I guarantee you victory and triumph, but fear and beware lest you disobey Me and go against My command and perish, if you are believers, meaning: And you fear, more than the polytheists and more than all of My creation, that you go against My command, if you believe in My Messenger and what he brought to you from Me.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

Ibn Abbas and others said: The meaning is that He frightens you with His allies, that is, with His allies, or from His allies, so the preposition was deleted and the verb was connected to the noun and was made accusative, as God Almighty said: To warn of a severe punishment, that is, to warn you of a severe punishment, that is, to frighten the believer with the disbeliever. Al-Hasan and Al-Suddi said: The meaning is that He frightens His allies, the hypocrites, so that they refrain from fighting the polytheists. As for God's allies, they do not fear Him when He frightens them. It has been said that what is meant by this one who frightens you is a devil from among the devils of mankind, either Nu'aym ibn Mas'ud or someone else, based on the disagreement on that as mentioned above. So do not fear them, that is, do not fear the disbelievers mentioned in His statement: Indeed, the people have gathered against you, that is, it refers to the allies. If you say: The meaning is that He frightens with His allies, that is, He frightens you with His allies.

God Almighty says: And fearful meaning fearful of abandoning My command if you are to believe in My promise. Fear in the speech of the Arabs means panic. So-and-so made me fear him, meaning I was more afraid of him. Fearful is a desert without water. It is said: a she-camel is fearful, meaning a mangy one. Fear is like a leather bag in which honey is bought. Sahl ibn Abdullah said: Some of the truthful ones gathered with Abraham the Friend and said: What is fear? He said: Do not feel safe until you reach safety. Sahl said: Whenever Al-Rabi' bin Khathim passed by Bakir, he would faint. Ali bin Abi Talib was told about that, so he said: If that happens to him, inform me. So he happened to him, so inform him. He came to him and put his hand in his shirt and found that he was moving a lot, so he said: I bear witness that this is the most fearful of the people of your time. The one who fears God Almighty is the one who fears that He will punish him either in this world or in the Hereafter. For this reason it was said: The one who fears is not the one who cries and wipes his eyes, but the one who fears is the one who leaves what he fears will be punished for. So God Almighty imposed on His servants to fear Him, so He said: And fear, if you are believers. And He said: And fear Me. And He praised the believers for fear, so He said: They fear their Lord above them. (al-Nahl 16:50) And the masters of signs about fear have expressions that refer to what we mentioned. Professor Abu Ali Al-Daqqaq said: I entered upon Abu Bakr bin Furak, may God have mercy on him, to visit him, and when he saw me, his eyes teared up, so I said to him: God May God heal you and cure you. He said to me: Do you think that I fear death? I only fear what is beyond death. In Sunan Ibn Majah, on the authority of Abu Dharr, he said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'I see what you do not see and hear what you do not hear. The heaven groans, and it has every right to groan. There is not in it the space of four fingers but there is an angel prostrating his forehead to God. By God, if you knew what I know, you would laugh little and cry much, and you would not take pleasure in women on the beds, and you would go out to the high places, beseeching God. By God, I would wish that I were a tree that is being cut down.'" Narrated by Al-Tirmidhi, who said: A hasan ghareeb hadith. It is narrated from other sources that Abu Dharr said: I would wish that I were a tree that is being cut down. And God knows best.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

God the Almighty tells us about the martyrs that even if they are killed in this world, their souls are alive and provided for in the eternal home. Muhammad bin Jarir said: Muhammad bin Marzuq told us, Amr bin Yunus told us on the authority of Ikrimah, Ibn Ishaq bin Abi Talhah told us, Anas bin Malik told me about the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, whom the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent to the people of Bir Ma'unah. He said: I do not know, forty or seventy, and at that water was Amir bin At-Tufayl Al-Ja'fari. So those people from the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, went out until they came to a cave overlooking the water and sat in it. Then some of them said to one another: Who among you will deliver the message of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, to the people of this water? He said - I think he was Ibn Milhan Al-Ansari -: I am delivering the message of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. So he went out until he came to a group of them and hid in front of the houses. Then he said: "O people of Bir Ma'una, I am the Messenger of God to you. I bear witness that there is no god but God and that Muhammad is His servant and Messenger. So believe in God and His Messenger." Then a man came out to him from the house with a spear and struck him in the side until he came out from the other side. He said: God is Great, I have won, by the Lord of the Kaaba. So they followed his tracks until they reached his companions in the cave. Amir bin At-Tufayl killed them all. Ishaq said: Anas bin Malik told me that God revealed a Qur'an about them: Convey from us to our people that we have met our Lord, and He is pleased with us and we are pleased with Him. Then it was abrogated and lifted after we had read it for a while. Then God Almighty revealed: "And never think of those who are killed in the way of God as dead. Rather, they are alive with their Lord, receiving provision." Muslim said in his Sahih: : Muhammad ibn Abdullah ibn Numayr narrated to us, Abu Muawiyah narrated to us, Al-A'mash narrated to us, on the authority of Abdullah ibn Murrah, on the authority of Masruq, who said: We asked Abdullah about this verse: "And never think of those who are killed in the way of God as dead. Rather, they are alive with their Lord, and they are provided for." He said: We asked the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, about that, and he said: "Their souls are in the bodies of green birds, which have lanterns hanging from the Throne. They roam in Paradise wherever they wish, then they return to those lanterns. Then their Lord looked at them and said: Do you desire anything? They said: What do we desire when we roam in Paradise wherever we wish? He did that to them three times. When they saw that they would not be left without being asked, they said: O Lord, we want you to return our souls to our bodies so that we may be killed in Your way once again. When He saw that they had no need, they were left." Something similar to this was narrated from the hadith of Anas and Abu Saeed.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Abd al-Samad told us, Hammad told us, Thabit told us on the authority of Anas that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "There is no soul that dies and has goodness with God that would be pleased to return to the world except the martyr, for he would be pleased to return to the world and be killed again because of what he sees of the virtue of martyrdom." Muslim transmitted it only on the authority of Hammad.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Ali ibn Abdullah al-Madini told us, Sufyan told us, on the authority of

That is only Satan frightening his supporters, so do not fear them, but fear Me, if you are believers.

Muhammad ibn Ali ibn Rabi'ah al-Salami, on the authority of Abdullah ibn Muhammad ibn Aqil, on the authority of Jabir, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to me: Do you know that God brought your father back to life? He said to him: Make a wish of me. He said to him: I will be returned to the world so that I may be killed once again. He said: I have decided that they will not return to it. Ahmad is the only one to narrate it from this source. It has been proven in the two Sahihs and others that Abu Jabir, who is Abdullah ibn Amr ibn Haram al-Ansari, may God be pleased with him, was killed as a martyr on the day of Uhud. Al-Bukhari said: Abu al-Walid said on the authority of Shu'bah on the authority of Ibn al-Munkadir: I heard Jabir say: When my father was killed, I began to cry and uncover the cloth from his face. The companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, began to forbid me, but the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, did not forbid me. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Do not cry for him - or do not cry for him - the angels continued to shade him with their wings until he was taken up. He, Muslim, and al-Nasa'i transmitted it through another chain of transmission on the authority of Shu'bah, on the authority of Muhammad ibn al-Munkadir, on the authority of Jabir, who said: When my father was killed on the day of Uhud, I began to uncover the cloth from his face and cry. He mentioned the rest of it in a similar manner.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Yaqub told us, my father told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq, Ismail bin Umayyah bin Amr bin Saeed told us, on the authority of Abu al-Zubayr al-Makki, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "When your brothers were afflicted at Uhud, God placed their souls in the bodies of green birds, which would go to the rivers of Paradise, eat from its fruits, and take refuge in golden lanterns in the shade of the Throne. When they found the goodness of their drink and food, and the beauty of their resting place, they said: 'If only our brothers knew what God has done for us, so that they would not give up jihad and turn away from war.' God, the Almighty, said: 'I will convey it to them on your behalf.' Then God, the Almighty, revealed these verses: 'And never think of those who are killed in the way of God as dead. Rather, they are alive with their Lord, receiving provision.' and what follows." This is how Ahmad narrated it, and likewise Ibn Jarir narrated it on the authority of Yunus, on the authority of Ibn Wahb, on the authority of Ismail bin Ayyash, on the authority of Muhammad bin Ishaq. It was narrated by Abu Dawud and Al-Hakim in his Mustadrak from the hadith of Abdullah bin Idris from Muhammad bin Ishaq from Ismail bin Umayyah from Abu Al-Zubayr from Saeed bin Jubair from Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, and he mentioned it, and this is more authentic. Sufyan Al-Thawri narrated it likewise from Salim Al-Aftas from Saeed bin Jubair from Ibn Abbas - and Al-Hakim narrated in his Mustadrak from the hadith of Abu Ishaq Al-Fazari from Sufyan from Ismail bin Abi Khalid from Saeed bin Jubair from Ibn Abbas, who said: This verse was revealed about Hamzah and his companions: "And never think of those who are killed in the way of God as dead. Rather, they are alive with their Lord, receiving provision." Then he said: It is authentic according to the conditions of the two sheikhs, but they did not include it. Qatada, Al-Rabi' and Al-Dahhak also said: It was revealed about those killed at Uhud.

Another Hadith Abu Bakr bin Mardawayh said: Abdullah bin Jaafar told us, Harun bin Sulaiman told us, Ali bin Abdullah Al-Madini told us, Musa bin Ibrahim bin Katheer bin Bashir bin Al-Fakih Al-Ansari told us, I heard Talha bin Kharash bin Abdul Rahman bin Kharash bin Al-Sammah Al-Ansari, he said: I heard Jabir bin Abdullah say: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, looked at me one day and said: O Jabir, why do I see you worried? I said: O Messenger of God, my father was martyred and left behind a debt and children. He said: Shall I not tell you that God has never spoken to anyone except from behind a veil, and He spoke to your father directly? Ali said: Direct confrontation. He said: Ask Me and I will give it to you. He said: I ask You to return to the world so that I may be killed in Your cause a second time. The Lord Almighty said: Indeed, the word has already gone before from Me: They will not return to it. He said: O Lord, then convey it to those who are behind me. Then God revealed: And do not think that those who are killed in the way of God are dead. Then he narrated it from another chain of transmission on the authority of Muhammad ibn Sulayman ibn Salit al-Ansari, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Jabir, with a similar chain of transmission. And thus al-Bayhaqi narrated it in Dal'il al-Nubuwwah on the authority of Ali ibn al-Madini with it. And al-Bayhaqi also narrated it from the hadith of Abu Ubadah al-Ansari, who is 'Isa ibn 'Abd al-Rahman, God willing, on the authority of al-Zuhri, on the authority of 'Urwah, on the authority of 'A'ishah, who said: "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to Jabir: 'O Jabir, shall I not give you good report?' He said: 'Yes, God has given you good report.' He said: 'I felt that God had brought your father back to life, and said: 'Ask of My servant whatever you wish, and I will give it to you.' He said: 'O Lord, I have not worshipped You as You should be worshipped. I hope that You will return me to the world so that I may fight with Your Prophet and be killed for You once again.' He said: 'It has already been said from me that it will not return to it.'"

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Yaqub told us, my father told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq, Al-Harith bin Fadil Al-Ansari told us, on the authority of Mahmud bin Labid, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The martyrs are on a river at the gate of Paradise, in a green dome, and their provision comes out to them from Paradise morning and evening." Ahmad is the only one to narrate it. Ibn Jarir narrated it on the authority of Abu Kurayb: Abd Al-Rahman bin Sulayman and Ubaydah told us on the authority of Muhammad bin Ishaq with it, and it is a good chain of transmission. And as if the martyrs are divided into groups: some of their souls will roam in Paradise, and some of them will be on this river at the gate of Paradise, and it may be possible that their journey will end at this river, and they will gather there, and their provisions will be brought to them there and they will rest, and God knows best. We have narrated in Musnad al-Imam Ahmad a hadith in which there is good report for every believer that his soul will be in Paradise, roaming there as well, and eating from its fruits, and seeing the freshness and joy in it, and witnessing what God has prepared for it of honor, and it is with a sound, noble and great chain of transmission, in which three of the four imams, the owners of the followed schools of thought, have come together, for Imam Ahmad, may God have mercy on him, narrated it on the authority of Muhammad ibn Idris al-Shafi'i, may God have mercy on him, on the authority of Malik ibn Anas al-Asbahi, may God have mercy on him, on the authority of al-Zuhri, on the authority of Abd al-Rahman ibn Ka'b ibn Malik, on the authority of his father, may God be pleased with him, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The soul of the believer is a bird that hangs in the trees of Paradise until God returns it to its body on the Day of Resurrection." His saying hangs means eats, and in this hadith: The soul of the believer will be in the form of a bird in...

"Paradise" As for the souls of the martyrs, as mentioned previously in the crops of green birds, they are like planets in relation to the souls of all believers, for they fly by themselves, so we ask God, the Generous, the Beneficent, to cause us to die in faith. And His Most High's saying: Rejoicing in what God has given them to the end of the verse, meaning the martyrs who were killed in the way of God are alive with their Lord, and they are happy with what they are in of grace and happiness, and they are glad for their brothers who are killed after them in the way of God, that they are advancing upon them, and that they do not fear what is ahead of them nor are they sad for what they left behind them. We ask God for Paradise. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said, And they are glad meaning they are happy for those of their brothers who are behind them to catch up with what they have done of their jihad, so that they may share with them in what they are in of the reward of God that He has given them. Al-Suddi said: The martyr will be brought a book in which it says: So-and-so will come to you on such-and-such a day, and so-and-so will come to you on such-and-such a day, and he will be happy with that as the people of this world are happy with their absent ones when they come back. Saeed bin Jubair said: When they entered Paradise and saw the honor it has for the martyrs, they said: Oh, if only our brothers in this world knew what we know of honor, so that when they witness battle they would engage in it themselves so that they may be martyred and attain what we have attained of goodness. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, informed them of their situation and the honor they are in, and he informed them, that is, their Lord, that I have revealed to your Prophet and informed him of your situation and what you are in, so they were happy with that, and that is what He said: And they rejoice for those who have not yet joined them from behind them Al-Bukhari and Muslim. It has been proven in the two Sahihs on the authority of Anas, may God be pleased with him, in the story of the companions of the well of Ma'unah, the seventy of the Ansar who were killed in one morning, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, prayed and cursed those who killed them. Anas said: And a Qur'an was revealed about them, which we recited until it was lifted. Convey to our people that we have met our Lord, and He was pleased with us and satisfied us.

Then God Almighty said: They rejoice in favor from God and in bounty and that God does not allow the reward of the believers to be lost. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said: They rejoiced and were pleased when they saw the fulfillment of the promise and the great reward. Abd al-Rahman ibn Zayd ibn Aslam said: This verse includes all believers, whether martyrs or others. God rarely mentions a bounty with which He mentioned the prophets or a reward that He gave them, except that He mentioned what He gave to the believers after them. And the Almighty said: Those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wounds had befallen them. This was on the day of Hamra' al-Asad, and that is because when the polytheists inflicted what they inflicted on the Muslims, they turned back to their country, and when they continued on their way, they regretted why they did not complete the battle with the people of Medina and make it the decisive battle. So when this reached the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, he urged the Muslims to go after them to frighten them and show them that they had strength and endurance, and he did not give permission to anyone except those who were present at the battle on the day of Uhud, except Jabir ibn Abdullah, may God be pleased with him, for what we will mention, so the Muslims volunteered despite their wounds and infliction, in obedience to God Almighty and His Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace. Ibn Abi Hatim said: Muhammad ibn Abdullah ibn Yazid told us, Sufyan ibn Uyaynah told us, on the authority of Amr, on the authority of Ikrimah, who said: When the polytheists returned from Uhud, they said: You did not kill Muhammad, nor did you take the young camels with you. What a bad thing you have done! Return. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, heard of that, so he called upon the Muslims, and they volunteered until they reached Hamra' al-Asad - or Bir Abi Uyaynah - the doubt is from Sufyan - and the polytheists said: We will return the next year. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, returned, and it was considered a raid, and God Almighty revealed: Those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound had afflicted them - for those among them who did good and feared God is a great reward. Ibn Mardawayh narrated it from the hadith of Muhammad ibn Mansur, on the authority of Sufyan ibn Uyaynah, on the authority of Amr, on the authority of Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, and he mentioned it. Muhammad ibn Ishaq said: The day of Uhud was Saturday, the middle of Shawwal, and when the next day was Sunday, I did not... Ten nights had passed in Shawwal, and the muezzin of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, called out to the people to seek out the enemy. His muezzin called out that no one should go out with us except those who had been present the day before. Jabir ibn Abdullah ibn Amr ibn Haram spoke to him and said: O Messenger of God, my father left me behind with my seven sisters, and he said: O my son, it is not appropriate for me or for you to leave these women without a man among them. I am not the one who would prefer you to fight with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, over myself, so stay behind with your sisters. So I stayed behind with them. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, gave him permission, so he went out with him. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, only went out to frighten the enemy and to inform them that he had gone out in pursuit of them so that they would think that he was strong, and that what had befallen them had not weakened them against their enemy. Muhammad bin Ishaq said: Abdullah bin Kharijah bin Zaid bin Thabit told me on the authority of Abu al-Sa'ib, the freed slave of Aisha bint Uthman: That a man from the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, from Banu Abd al-Ashhal, who had witnessed the Battle of Uhud, said: I witnessed Uhud with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, my brother and I, and we returned wounded. When the muezzin of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, gave the call to go out in pursuit of the enemy, I said to my brother - or he said to me -: Are we missing a raid with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace? By God, we do not have a mount to ride, and none of us is seriously wounded. So we went out with the Messenger of God, and I was less wounded than he was. Whenever he was overcome, I would carry him up a hill and he would walk up a hill, until we reached the point where the Muslims had reached. Al-Bukhari said: Muhammad bin Salam told us, Abu Muawiyah told us, on the authority of Hisham, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Aisha, may God be pleased with her, Those who responded to God and the Messenger the verse, I said to Urwah: O son of my sister, your parents were among them, Al-Zubayr and Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with them, when the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, suffered what he suffered on the day of Uhud, and the polytheists turned away from him, he feared that they would return, so he said, Who will return after them? So seventy men volunteered from among them, among them Abu Bakr and Al-Zubayr, may God be pleased with them, this is how Al-Bukhari narrated it alone with this chain of transmission, and this is how Al-Hakim narrated it in his Mustadrak on the authority of Al-Asamm, on the authority of Abbas Al-Duri, on the authority of Abu Al-Nadr, on the authority of Abu Saeed Al-Mu'addib, on the authority of Hisham bin Urwah, then he said: It is authentic, and they did not include it, this is what he said. Ibn Majah narrated it on the authority of Hisham bin Ammar, and Hadiyyah bin Abdul Wahhab on the authority of Sufyan bin Uyaynah. On the authority of Hisham bin Urwa, on his authority, and thus it was narrated by Saeed bin Mansour and Abu Bakr Al-Hamidi in his Musnad on the authority of Sufyan, on his authority. Al-Hakim also narrated it from the hadith of Ismail bin Abi Khalid from Al-Bahi, from Urwah, who said: Aisha said to me: O my son, your father is among those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound befell them, then he said: It is authentic according to the conditions of the two sheikhs, and they did not include it. Abu Bakr bin Mardawayh said: Abdullah bin Jaafar told us from the original book, Samuyah told us, Abdullah bin Al-Zubayr told us, Sufyan told us, Hisham told us from his father, from Aisha, may God be pleased with her, she said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to me: Your parents are among those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound befell them, Abu Bakr and Al-Zubayr, may God be pleased with them." And the attribution of this hadith is a complete mistake in terms of its chain of transmission because it contradicts the narration of trustworthy people from stopping at Aisha, may God be pleased with her, as we have presented, and in terms of its meaning, Al-Zubayr is not among the fathers of Aisha, but rather Aisha said that to Urwah bin Al-Zubayr, because he is the son of her sister Asma bint Abi Bakr. Al-Siddiq, may God be pleased with them, and Ibn Jarir said: Muhammad bin Saad told me, my father told me, my uncle told me, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: God cast terror into the heart of Abu Sufyan on the day of Uhud after what had happened to him, so he returned to Mecca, and the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Abu Sufyan has suffered a part of you, and he has returned and God has cast terror into his heart. The Battle of Uhud was in Shawwal, and the merchants used to come to Medina in Dhul-Qi'dah, and they would camp at Badr al-Sughra once every year, and they came after the Battle of Uhud, and the believers were afflicted with wounds, and they complained about that to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and what afflicted them was severe, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, urged the people to set out with him and follow what they had been following, and he said: They are only setting out now to come for Hajj, and they will not be able to do the same until the next year. Then Satan came and frightened his followers, and said: The people have gathered against you, but the people refused to follow him, so he said: I am going, even if no one follows me, to urge the people. So Abu Bakr al-Siddiq, Umar, Uthman, Ali, al-Zubayr, Sa'd, Talhah, Abd al-Rahman ibn A'waf, Abdullah ibn Mas'ud, Hudhayfah ibn al-Yaman, and Abu Ubaidah ibn al-Jarrah volunteered with him, with seventy men. They set out in pursuit of Abu Sufyan, and they pursued him until they reached al-Safra'. Then God, the Most High, revealed: Those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound had afflicted them. Then Ibn Ishaq said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, set out until he reached Hamra' al-Asad, which is eight miles from Medina. Ibn Hisham said: He appointed Ibn Umm Maktum over Medina, and he stayed there on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, then he returned to Medina. Ma'bad ibn Abi Ma'bad al-Khuza'i passed by him, as Abdullah ibn Abi Bakr told me. The Khuza'ah, both Muslims and polytheists, were a group of sincere advisers to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, in Tihamah. They made a deal with him, and they did not hide anything that was there from him. Ma'bad was a polytheist at that time, so he said: O Muhammad, by God, what has afflicted you has been very hard on us. In your companions, and we wish that God had spared you from them. Then he and the Messenger of God (peace be upon him) went out at Hamra' al-Asad until he met Abu Sufyan ibn Harb and those with him at al-Rawha', and they had decided to return to the Messenger of God (peace be upon him) and his companions, and they said: We have achieved the goal of his companions, their leaders and their nobles, then we return before we eradicate them? We will attack the rest of them and then we will finish with them. When Abu Sufyan saw Ma'bad, he said: What is behind you, Ma'bad? He said: Muhammad and his companions are pursuing you in a group the likes of which I have never seen, they are burning with desire for you. Those who had stayed behind from him on your day have gathered with him and regretted what they did. They have a resentment towards you that I have never seen before. He said: Woe to you, what are you saying? He said: By God, I do not think that you should set out until you see the forelocks of the horses. He said: By God, we have decided to attack them to eradicate the rest of them. He said: I forbid you from that, and by God, what I saw made me recite some verses of poetry about them. He said: What did you say? He said: I said:

That is only Satan frightening his supporters, so do not fear them, but fear Me, if you are believers.

My camel was almost knocked down by the sounds as the ground was covered with the locusts.

He was a noble lion, not a coward when meeting, nor a slender disposition when facing off.

I remained an enemy, I think the earth is tilted because of what they called a leader who will not be let down

I said, Woe to Ibn Harb from meeting you when the plain is covered with mud.

I am a warner to the people of valor, a warning to every one of them who has a desire and a sense.

From the army of Ahmed, do not be afraid of the Tanablah, and what you warned about cannot be described as mere talk.

He said: This made Abu Sufyan and those with him think twice, and a group of Banu Abd al-Qais passed by him and he said: Where are you going? They said: We are going to Medina. He said: Why? They said: We are going to provide provisions. He said: Will you deliver a message from me to Muhammad that I will send you to him and that I will carry these raisins for you in Ukaz tomorrow if you meet us? They said: Yes. He said: When you meet him, tell him that we have decided to march to him and his companions to eradicate their remnants. The group passed by the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) while he was at Hamra al-Asad, and they told him what Abu Sufyan and his companions had said. They said: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. Ibn Hisham narrated on the authority of Abu Ubaidah, who said: "When the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, heard of their return, he said: 'By Him in Whose Hand is my soul, I have offered them stones, if they were to be brought to them in the morning, they would be as if they had gone yesterday.'" Al-Hasan al-Basri said regarding his statement: Those who responded to God and the Messenger after the wound had afflicted them, that Abu Sufyan and his companions had afflicted the Muslims with what they had afflicted and had returned. "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Abu Sufyan has returned and God has cast terror into his heart, so who will volunteer to search for him?' So the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, Abu Bakr, Umar, Uthman, Ali, and some of the companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, got up and followed them. Abu Sufyan was informed that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, was searching for him, so he met a caravan of merchants and said: 'Return Muhammad and you will have such and such a reward, and tell them that I have gathered a group for them and that I will return to them.' So the merchants came and informed the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, of that, and the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs.'" So God revealed this verse, and this is what Ikrimah, Qatada and others said: This context was revealed regarding Hamra al-Asad, and it was said: It was revealed regarding the Battle of Badr al-Maw'id, but the first is correct. And the Almighty's saying: Those to whom the people said, 'The people have gathered against you, so fear them,' but it only increased them in faith, the verse, meaning those whom the people threatened with crowds and frightened them with the large number of enemies, but they did not care about that, rather they put their trust in God and sought His help, and said, 'God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs.' Al-Bukhari said: Ahmad bin Yunus told us, he said: I think he said: Abu Bakr told us, on the authority of Abu Hasin, on the authority of Abu al-Dhaha, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs, Ibrahim, peace be upon him, said it when he was thrown into the fire, and Muhammad, peace be upon him, said it when the people said to them, 'The people have gathered against you, so fear them,' but it only increased their faith, and they said, 'God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs.'" Al-Nasa'i narrated it on the authority of Muhammad ibn Ismail ibn Ibrahim and Harun ibn Abdullah, both on the authority of Yahya ibn Abi Bakr, on the authority of Abu Bakr, who is Ibn Ayyash, on his authority. It is surprising that Al-Hakim Abu Abdullah narrated it on the authority of Ahmad ibn Yunus, then he said: It is authentic according to the conditions of the two sheikhs, and they did not include it. Then Al-Bukhari narrated it on the authority of Abu Ghassan Malik ibn Ismail, on the authority of Israel, on the authority of Abu Hasin, on the authority of Abu Ad-Dahha, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: The last words of Abraham, peace be upon him, when he was thrown into the fire were: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. And Abd Al-Razzaq said: Ibn Uyaynah said: Zakariya informed me on the authority of Al-Sha'bi, on the authority of Abdullah ibn Amr, who said: These are the words of Abraham, peace be upon him, when he was thrown into the fire. Narrated by Ibn Jarir. Abu Bakr bin Mardawayh said: Muhammad bin Muammad told us, Ibrahim bin Musa al-Thawri told us, Abdul Rahim bin Muhammad bin Ziyad al-Sakari told us, Abu Bakr bin Ayyash told us, on the authority of

That is only Satan frightening his supporters, so do not fear them, but fear Me, if you are believers.

Hamid al-Tawil, on the authority of Anas bin Malik, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, that it was said to him on the day of UHud 11: The people have gathered against you, so fear them. So God revealed this verse. He also narrated on his authority on the authority of Muhammad bin Ubayd God al-Rafi'i, on the authority of his father, on the authority of his grandfather Abu Rafi': That the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent Ali with a group of people with him in pursuit of Abu Sufyan, and a Bedouin from Khuza'ah met them and said: The people have gathered against you. They said: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. So this verse was revealed about them. Then Ibn Mardawayh said: "Dulaj bin Ahmad told us, Al-Hasan bin Sufyan told us, Abu Khaithama Mus'ab bin Sa'id told us, Musa bin A'yan told us, on the authority of Al-A'mash, on the authority of Abu Salih, on the authority of Abu Hurairah, who said: 'The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "When you encounter a grave matter, say: 'God is sufficient for us, and He is the best disposer of affairs.'" This is a strange hadith from this source. Imam Ahmad said: Haywah bin Shuraih and Ibrahim bin Abi Al-Abbas told us, they said: Baqiyah told us, Buhair bin Sa'd told us, on the authority of Khalid bin Ma'dan, on the authority of Saif, on the authority of Awf bin Malik, that he told them: "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, judged between two men, and when the one against whom the judgment was made turned away, he said: 'God is sufficient for me, and He is the best disposer of affairs.' The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Bring me back to the man.' He said: 'What did you say?' He said: 'I said: God is sufficient for me, and He is the best disposer of affairs.'" The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'God blames weakness, but you should be intelligent. If a matter overcomes you, say: God is sufficient for me.'" And what an excellent agent! And thus Abu Dawud and al-Nasa'i narrated it from the hadith of Baqiyyah from Buhayr from Khalid, from Sayf who is al-Shami, and it was not attributed from Awf ibn Malik from the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, in a similar manner. And Imam Ahmad said: Asbat told us, Mutraf told us from Atiyyah from Ibn Abbas regarding his statement: And when the trumpet is blown, he said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: How can I enjoy myself while the companion of the trumpet has taken hold of the trumpet and bent his forehead, hearing when he is commanded to blow? The companions of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: What should we say? He said: Say: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. In God we trust. This has been narrated from more than one source, and it is a good hadith. We narrated from the Mother of the Believers, Zainab and Aisha, may God be pleased with them, that they boasted, and Zainab said: God married me and your families married you. Aisha said: My innocence was revealed from the heavens in the Qur'an, so Zainab submitted to her, then she said: What did you say when you rode the mount of Safwan bin Mu'attal? She said: I said: God is sufficient for me, and He is the best

Disposer of affairs. Zainab said: I said the word of the believers, and for this reason God the Almighty said: So they returned with favor from God and bounty, no harm had touched them, meaning when they put their trust in God, He sufficed them with what concerned them and repelled from them the harm of those who wanted to plot against them, so they returned to their country with favor from God and bounty, no harm had touched them from what their enemy had planned for them, and they pursued the pleasure of God, and God is the possessor of great bounty. Al-Bayhaqi said: Abu Abdullah al-Hafiz narrated to us, Abu Bakr bin Dawud al-Zahid narrated to us, Muhammad bin Na'im narrated to us, Bishr bin al-Hakam narrated to us. Mubashar bin Abdullah bin Razeen told us, Sufyan bin Husayn told us, on the authority of Ya'la bin Muslim, on the authority of Ikrimah, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding the statement of God Almighty: So they returned with favor and bounty from God, he said: The favor was that they were safe, and the bounty was that a caravan passed by during the season, so the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, bought it and made a profit on it, which he divided among his companions. Ibn Abi Nujayh said, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding the statement of God Almighty: Those to whom the people said, 'Indeed, the people have gathered against you, so fear them,' he said: This is Abu Sufyan, he said to Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, your meeting place is at Badr, where you killed our companions. Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, said, Perhaps. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, set out for his appointment until he reached Badr. They found the market there, and they bought. This is what God Almighty said: "So they returned with favor and bounty from God. No harm had touched them." The verse. He said: This was the minor Battle of Badr. It was narrated by Ibn Jarir. He also narrated on the authority of Al-Qasim, on the authority of Al-Husayn, on the authority of Hajjaj, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, who said: When the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, made an appointment with Abu Sufyan, they began to meet the polytheists and ask them about the Quraysh. They would say: They have gathered against you. They were plotting against them with that, wanting to frighten them. The believers would say: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. Until they reached Badr, and they found its markets healthy and no one had disputed with them in it. He said: A man from the polytheists informed the people of Mecca about Muhammad's cavalry, and he said about that:

My camels were frightened by Muhammad's horses, and dates were scattered like the Anjd.

I took dried water as my appointment

Ibn Jarir said: This is how Al-Qasim recited to us, but it is a mistake. Rather, it is:

I have been repelled by the company of Muhammad and Ajwa from Yathrib like the Anjad

She is following the religion of her father, the Atlad, and has made the water of Qadeed my appointment.

And the water of Djanan is poured for her at noon tomorrow

Then God the Almighty said: It is only Satan who frightens you with his allies, meaning he frightens you with his allies, and makes you think that they are powerful and strong. God the Almighty said: So fear them not, but fear Me, if you are believers, meaning if he tempts you and makes you think, then rely on Me and take refuge in Me, for I am sufficient for you and your supporter against them, as God the Almighty said: Is not God sufficient for His servant? And they frighten you with those besides Him, until His saying: "Say, 'God is sufficient for me. Upon Him do those who rely rely.'" And God the Almighty said: "So fight the allies of Satan. Indeed, the plot of Satan has ever been weak." And God the Almighty said: "Those are the party of Satan. Unquestionably, the party of Satan - they are the losers." And God the Almighty said: "God has decreed, 'I will surely prevail, I and My messengers. Indeed, God is Powerful and Exalted in Might.'" And He said: And God will surely support those who support Him. And God the Almighty said: O you who have believed, if you support God, He will support you. And God the Almighty said: "Indeed, We will support Our messengers and those who believe during the worldly life and on the Day when the witnesses will stand. The Day when their excuse will not benefit the wrongdoers, and for them is the curse, and they will have evil." The house.

Fath al-Qadir

His saying "That is only" meaning: the one who discourages you, O believers, "the devil is the best demonstrative pronoun, and it is possible that the devil is an attribute of the demonstrative pronoun and the predicate is his saying He frightens his allies, so according to the first, his saying He frightens his allies" is a new or circumstantial sentence, and it appears that what is meant here is the devil himself in consideration of what issues from him of whispering that requires discouragement, and it was said: what is meant is Nu'aym bin Mas'ud when he said that statement to them, and it was said Abu Sufyan when he issued a threat to them, and the meaning is: that the devil frightens the believers with his allies who are the disbelievers, and it was said that his saying "his allies" is accusative by removing the preposition, meaning he frightens you with his allies or from his allies, as stated by al-Farra', al-Zajaj and Abu Ali al-Farsi. Ibn al-Anbari rejected it by saying that frightening can take two objects by itself, so there is no need to omit the preposition. According to al-Farra' and those with him, the object of frightens is omitted: meaning he frightens you. According to the first, the first object is omitted and the second is mentioned. It is possible that what is meant is that Satan frightens his allies, who are the hypocrites who sit back, so there is no omission. His statement, So do not fear them, meaning his allies with whom Satan frightens you, or do not fear the people mentioned in His statement, Indeed, the people have gathered against you, He, the Exalted, forbade them from fearing them lest they become cowardly in the encounter and fail to go out, and He commanded them to fear Him, the Exalted, so He said, And fear, so do what I command you to do and leave what I forbid you to do, because I am the one who deserves to be feared, and to be watched over for My command and prohibition, because good and evil are in My hands. He restricted it with His statement, If you are believers, because belief requires that.

Al-Hakim narrated and authenticated it on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: This verse, And never think that those who are killed in the way of God was revealed about Hamza and his companions. Saeed bin Mansour and Abd bin Hamid narrated on the authority of Abu Al-Dhaha that it was revealed about the killing of Uhud, and Hamza was one of them. And Abd bin Hamid, Abu Dawud, Ibn Jarir, Al-Hakim who authenticated it, and Al-Bayhaqi in Al-Dala'il narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "When your brothers were afflicted with Uhud, God placed their souls in the bodies of green birds that frequent the rivers of Paradise, eat of its fruits, and take refuge in golden lanterns suspended in the shade of the Throne. When they found the goodness of their food and drink and the beauty of their resting place, they said: 'If only our brothers knew what God has done for us.'" In another version: "They said: 'And their drink and their resting place.' They said: 'Who will inform our brothers that we are alive in Paradise and are provided for, so that they do not lose interest in jihad or turn away from war?' God said: 'I will inform them on your behalf.' Then God revealed these verses: 'And do not think that those who have been killed...' and what follows." Al-Tirmidhi narrated with a hasan chain of transmission, Ibn Majah, Ibn Khuzaymah, Al-Tabarani, Al-Hakim who authenticated it, Ibn Mardawayh, and Al-Bayhaqi in Al-Dala'il narrated on the authority of Jabir ibn Abdullah that his father asked God, the Exalted, to grant him success in what he was in, so this verse was revealed while he was among those killed at Uhud. It has been narrated through many chains of transmission that the reason for the revelation of this verse was the killing of Uhud. Ibn Jarir and Ibn Al-Mundhir narrated on the authority of Anas that the reason for the revelation of this verse was the killing of Bir Ma'unah. In any case, the verse, considering the generality of its wording, includes every martyr. It has been proven in many hadiths in Sahih and elsewhere that the souls of the martyrs are in the bodies of green birds. There is a long list of proven virtues of the martyrs that are well-known in the books of hadith. Al-Nasa'i, Ibn Majah, Ibn Abi Hatim and Al-Tabarani narrated with a saheeh chain of transmission on the authority of Ibn Abbas who said: When the polytheists returned from Uhud, they said: You did not kill Muhammad, nor did you take the young maidens with you. What a bad thing you have done! Return. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, heard of that, so he called upon the Muslims and they volunteered until they reached Hamra' al-Asad, or Bir Abi Utbah. Sufyan was not sure, so the polytheists said: He will return the next year. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, returned, and it was considered a military campaign. Then God, the Exalted, revealed: Those who responded to God and the Messenger 1:13. Al-Bukhari, Muslim and others narrated on the authority of Aisha regarding the words of God, the

That is only Satan frightening his supporters, so do not fear them, but fear Me, if you are believers.

Exalted: Those who responded to God and the Messenger 7:13, that she said to Urwah ibn Az-Zubayr: O son of my sister, your parents were among them: Az-Zubayr and Abu Bakr. When the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, suffered what he suffered on the Day of Uhud, the polytheists turned away from him and he feared that they would return, so he said: Who will return after them? So seventy volunteered from them, including Abu Bakr and Az-Zubayr. Ibn Ishaq, Ibn Jarir, and Al-Bayhaqi narrated in Al-Dala'il on the authority of Abdullah bin Abi Bakr bin Muhammad bin Amr bin Hazm, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, went out to Hamra' Al-Asad, and Abu Sufyan had decided to return to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his companions, and they said: We have returned before we eradicate them so that we may attack the rest of them. Then he heard that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, had gone out with his companions seeking them, so Abu Sufyan and his companions thought about that, and a group of Abd Al-Qais passed by, and Abu Sufyan said to them: Inform Muhammad that we have decided to return to his companions so that we may eradicate them. When the group passed by the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, at Hamra' Al-Asad, they told him what Abu Sufyan had said, so the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and the Muslims with him said: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. So God revealed about that: Those who responded to God and the Messenger 7:13. Musa bin Uqbah narrated in his Maghazi and Al-Bayhaqi in Ad-Dala'il on the authority of Ibn Shihab who said: The Messenger of God (peace be upon him) called the Muslims to meet Abu Sufyan at Badr. Then Satan took his followers from among the people and they walked among the people, frightening them, and they said: We have been informed that people have gathered against you like the night, hoping to attack you. There are many narrations on this subject that are included in the books of Hadith and Seerah. Ibn Al-Mundhir narrated on the authority of Saeed bin Jubair who said: Wounds are wounds. Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of As-Suddi that Abu Sufyan and his companions met a Bedouin and they promised him a reward to inform the Prophet (peace be upon him) and his companions that they had gathered against them. He informed the Prophet (peace be upon him) of that, and he and the companions said: God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. Then they returned from Hamra' Asad, and God revealed about them and the Bedouin, Those to whom the people said, the verse. Ibn Mardawayh narrated on the authority of Abu Rafi' that this Bedouin was from Khuza'ah.

There are hadiths that have been narrated about the virtue of this phrase, I mean Hasbun God wa ni'mal wakeel, including what Ibn Mardawayh narrated on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "When you are faced with a serious matter, say: 'Hasbun God wa ni'mal wakeel.'" Ibn Kathir said after narrating it: This is a strange hadith from this perspective. Abu Nu'aym narrated on the authority of Shaddad ibn Aws, who said: The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Hasbun God wa ni'mal wakeel, security for every fearful person. Ibn Abi al-Dunya narrated in al-Dhikr on the authority of Aisha, "When the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, was intensified by his grief, he would wipe his hand over his head and beard, then he sighed deeply and said: Hasbun God wa ni'mal wakeel." Al-Bukhari and others narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: Hasbun God wa ni'mal wakeel, Ibrahim said it when he was thrown into the fire, and Muhammad said it when they said: The people have gathered against you. Ahmad, Abu Dawud and al-Nasa'i narrated on the authority of Awf ibn Malik that he told them, "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, judged between two men. When the one against whom the judgment was passed turned away, he said, 'God is sufficient for me, and He is the best Disposer of affairs.' The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said, 'Bring the man back to me.' He said, 'What did you say?' He said, 'I said, 'God is sufficient for me, and He is the best Disposer of affairs.' The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said, 'God blames incompetence, but you should be intelligent. If a matter overcomes you, say, 'God is sufficient for me, and He is the best Disposer of affairs.'" Ahmad narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said, "How can I enjoy myself while the one with the horn has put the horn in his mouth and bent his forehead, hearing when he is commanded to blow? Then he ordered the Companions to say, 'God is sufficient for us, and He is the best Disposer of affairs. In God we trust.'" This is a good hadith. Al-Bayhaqi narrated in al-Dala'il on the authority of Ibn Abbas regarding the statement, "And they returned with favor and bounty from God, he said, The favor is that they were safe, and the bounty is that a caravan passed by during the season, so the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, bought it and was given a reward and divided it among his Companions." Ibn Jarir, Ibn Al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Mujahid regarding the verse, he said: The virtue is what they obtained from trade and reward. Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of Al-Suddi, he said: As for the blessing, it is well-being, and as for the virtue, it is trade, and evil is killing. Ibn Jarir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Al-Awfi on the authority of Ibn Abbas regarding his statement, No evil touched them, he said: No one harmed them, And they followed the pleasure of God, he said: They obeyed God and His Messenger. Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of Al-Awfi on his authority regarding his statement, That is only Satan frightening his allies, he said: Satan says that Satan frightens his allies. Abd bin Hamid and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Abu Malik, he said: He magnifies his allies in your eyes. Ibn Al-Mundhir narrated on the authority of Ikrimah something similar to what Ibn Abbas said. Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Al-Hasan: That was only to frighten Satan, and Satan fears no one except the allies of Satan.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

175- The Almighty said: That is only Satan, meaning: the one who said to you: The people have gathered against you, so fear them, from the action of Satan, he put it in their mouths to terrify them and make them cowardly towards them, frightens his allies, meaning he frightens you with his allies, and this is also the case in the reading of Abi bin Ka'b, meaning: he frightens the believers with the disbelievers. Al-Suddi said: he magnifies his allies in their hearts so that they fear them, this is indicated by the reading of Abdullah bin Mas'ud, frightens his allies, "so do not fear them but fear Me," in abandoning My command, if you are believers, believing in My promise, for I guarantee you victory and triumph.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

175 "That is only Satan meaning the one who dampens the joy of Abu Sufyan, and Satan is the predicate of that" and what follows is a statement of his devilishness or his description and what follows is the predicate, and it is possible that the reference to his saying is in the estimation of an added word, meaning that that is only the saying of Satan, meaning Iblis, upon him be the curse. "He frightens his allies" those who sit back from going out with the Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, or he frightens you his allies who are Abu Sufyan and his companions. "So do not fear them" the pronoun refers to the people, the second in the first case and to the allies in the second case. "And fear" in opposing My command, so strive with My Messenger. "If you are believers" for faith requires preferring the fear of God Almighty over the fear of people.

Surat Al Imran 3:176

And let not those who hasten into disbelief grieve you. Indeed, they will never harm God at all. God intends not to grant them any share in the Hereafter, and they will have a great punishment.

Surat Al Imran 3:176

And let not those who hasten into disbelief grieve you. Indeed, they will never harm God at all. God intends not to grant them any share in the Hereafter, and they will have a great punishment.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And let not those who hasten into disbelief grieve you with the damma of the ya and the kasra of the zay and with the fatha of it and the damma of the zay from hazanahu, a language for ahzanahu those who hasten into disbelief they fall into it quickly by supporting him and they are the people of Mecca or the hypocrites, meaning do not pay attention to their disbelief They will never harm God at all with their actions, but they will only harm themselves God intends not to give them any portion a share in the Hereafter meaning Paradise, so God has let them down and for them is a great punishment in the Fire.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: God Almighty says: And let not the disbelief of those who hasten to disbelief, turning back on their heels, from among the hypocrites, grieve you, for they will not harm God in the least by their haste to disbelief. And just as their haste, if they had hastened to faith, would not have been of any benefit to Him, so too their haste to disbelief is not harmful to Him, as:

Muhammad bin Amr told me, he said, Abu Asim told us, on the authority of Isa, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding his statement: And let not those who hasten into disbelief grieve you, meaning: that they are the hypocrites.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: And let not those who hasten into disbelief grieve you, meaning: the hypocrites.

Abu Ja'far said: By that, may His praise be glorified, He means: God does not want to give those who hasten to disbelief a share in the reward of the Hereafter, so He let them down and they hastened to it. Then He informed that even though they are deprived of what they were deprived of of the reward of the Hereafter, they will have a great punishment in the Hereafter, and that is the punishment of the Fire. Ibn Ishaq said about that as follows:

Ibn Hamid told me, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: God wants to give them no share in the Hereafter, meaning to nullify their deeds.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

The Almighty said: And let not those who hasten into disbelief grieve you. These are people who converted to Islam and then apostatized out of fear of the polytheists, so the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, was distressed, so God Almighty revealed: And let not those who hasten into disbelief grieve you. Al-Kalbi said: He meant by it the hypocrites and the leaders of the Jews, they concealed the description of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, in the Book, so it was revealed. It is said: When the People of the Book did not believe, that was difficult for the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, because people would look at them and say that they were People of the Book, so if it were true they would have followed him, so it was revealed: And let not those who hasten into disbelief grieve you. The reading of Nafi' is with a damma on the ya' and a kasra on the zay wherever it occurred except in Al-Anbiya': The greatest terror will not grieve them (Al-Anbiya': 103), for it is with a fatha on the ya' and a damma on the zay, and Abu Ja'far is the opposite, and Ibn Muhaisin read it all with a damma on the ya' and a kasra on the zay, and the rest all with a fatha on the ya' and a damma on the zay, and they are two languages: The matter saddened me, it saddened me, and it also saddened me, and it is a rare language, and the first is the more eloquent of the two languages, said Al-Nahhas, and the poet said: In I sadden:

My friends have passed away and my home has made me sad

The general reading is yusara'un and Talhah read yusara'un fi al-kufr. Ad-Dahhak said: They are the infidels of Quraysh. Another said: They are the hypocrites. It was said: It is what we mentioned before. It was said: It is general for all infidels, and their hastening in disbelief is supporting Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace. Al-Qushayri said: And grief over the disbelief of the infidel is obedience, but the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, was excessive in grief over the disbelief of his people, so he was forbidden from that, as he said: So do not waste your soul over them in regret. And he said: Perhaps you will kill yourself over their traces if they do not believe in this hadith out of grief.

"They will never harm God at all," meaning they will never decrease God's kingdom and authority at all, meaning that it will never decrease because of their disbelief. As narrated on the authority of Abu Dharr: "On the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, in what he narrated on the authority of God, the Blessed and Exalted, that He said: O My servants, I have forbidden injustice for Myself and have made it forbidden amongst you, so do not wrong one another. O My servants, all of you are astray except for those I have guided, so seek guidance from Me and I will guide you. O My servants, all of you are hungry except for those I have fed, so seek food from Me and I will feed you. O My servants, all of you are naked except for those I have clothed, so seek clothing from Me and I will clothe you. O My servants, you sin by night and by day, and I forgive all sins, so seek forgiveness from Me and I will forgive you. O My servants, you will never attain harm by which you harm Me, nor will you attain benefit by which you benefit Me. O My servants, if the first and last of you, your humans and your jinn, were as pious as the most wicked heart of any man among you, that would not increase My kingdom at all. O My servants, if the first and last of you, your humans and your jinn, were as wicked as the most wicked," "The heart of one man, that would not decrease My kingdom in the least. O My servants, were the first of you and the last of you, the humans of you and the jinn of you, to stand on one plain and ask of Me, and I were to give each person what he asked for, that would not decrease what I have any more than a needle decreases the sea if put into it. O My servants, it is only your deeds that I count for you and then recompense you for. So whoever finds good, let him praise God, and whoever finds otherwise, let him blame no one but himself." Narrated by Muslim in his Sahih, and by al-Tirmidhi and others. It is a great hadith that is too long to be written in its entirety. It was said that the meaning of they will not harm God in the least is that they will not harm the friends of God when they abandon their support, since God, the Almighty and Majestic, is their supporter.

God the Almighty says: God intends not to give them any share in the Hereafter, and for them is a great punishment. That is, a portion. A portion is a share and a fortune. It is said: So-and-so is more fortunate than so-and-so, and he is fortunate. The plural of fortune is ahaaz, not in analogy. Abu Zayd said: It is said that a man is fortunate, meaning new, if he has a share of sustenance. And I was fortunate in a matter, and the plural of fortune is ahaaz, meaning He does not give them a share in Paradise. This is a text indicating that good and evil are by the will of God the Almighty.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

God Almighty says to His Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace: And let not those who hasten into disbelief grieve you. This is due to His intense concern for people. He was grieved by the infidels' haste to disobey, be stubborn, and dissent. So God Almighty said: Let not that grieve you. "Indeed, they will never harm God at all. God intends not to grant them any share in the Hereafter." That is, His wisdom in them is that He intends, by His will and power, not to grant them any share in the Hereafter. "And for them is a great punishment." Then God Almighty said, informing about that with a decisive statement: "Indeed, those who have purchased disbelief in exchange for faith." That is, they exchanged this for that. "They will never harm God at all." That is, they will harm themselves. "And for them is a painful punishment. Then God Almighty said, And let not those who disbelieve think that Our granting them respite is better for themselves. We only grant them respite so that they may increase in sin. And for them is a humiliating punishment." Like His statement: "Do they think that what We provide them with of wealth and children * We hasten for them in good things? Rather, they do not perceive." And like His saying: "So leave Me and he who denies this statement. We will lead them on gradually from where they do not know." And like His saying: "And do not let their wealth and their children impress you. God only wants to punish them with them in this world and that their souls should depart while they are disbelievers." Then the Most High said: God would not leave the believers in that state you are in until He distinguishes the wicked from the good. That is, He must establish a cause of trial, in which He reveals His friend and exposes His enemy, in which He knows the patient believer and the wicked hypocrite. He means by that the Day of Uhud, in which God tested the believers, and in which their faith, patience, endurance, steadfastness, and obedience to God and His Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, became apparent, and in which He exposed the veil of the hypocrites. Their opposition, their refusal to fight, and their betrayal of God and His Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, became apparent. For this reason, God the Almighty said: God would not leave the believers in the state you are in until He distinguishes the wicked from the good. Mujahid said: He distinguished between them on the day of Uhud. Qatadah said: He distinguished between them through jihad and migration. Al-Suddi said: They said: If Muhammad is truthful, then let him tell us who among us believes in him and who disbelieves. So God the Almighty revealed: God would not leave the believers in the state you are in until He distinguishes the wicked from the good. That is, until the believer emerges from the disbeliever. All of this was narrated by Ibn Jarir. Then God the Almighty said: And God would not inform you of the unseen. That is, you do not know the unseen of God in His creation until He distinguishes for you the believer from the hypocrite, were it not for the reasons He establishes that reveal that. Then the Almighty said: But God chooses from among His messengers whom He wills as in His saying: "He is the Knower of the unseen, and He reveals His secret to none * Except to a messenger with whom He is pleased. Then He makes a guard march before him and behind him." Then the Almighty said: So believe in God and His messengers meaning obey God and His Messenger and follow him in what He has prescribed for you And if you believe and fear God, then for you is a great reward. And His saying: "And let not those who withhold what God has given them of His bounty think that it is good for them. Rather, it is bad for them." That is, the miser should not think that his accumulation of money will benefit him, rather it is harmful to him in his religion, and perhaps in his worldly life. Then he told about the fate of his wealth on the Day of Resurrection, saying, They will be collared by what they were stingy with on the Day of Resurrection. Al-Bukhari said: Abdullah bin Munir told us, he heard Abu al-Nadr, Abdul Rahman told us - he is the son of Abdullah bin Dinar - on the authority of his father, on the authority of Abu Salih, on the authority of Abu Hurairah, he said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Whoever God gives wealth and he does not pay its zakat, it will be like a bald-headed serpent with two tufts of hair, collaring him on the Day of Resurrection, taking hold of his two jaws - meaning his cheeks - and saying, 'I am your wealth, I am your treasure.'" Then he recited this verse, "And let not those who are stingy with what God has given them of His bounty think that it is good for them. Rather, it is bad for them,” to the end of the verse. Al-Bukhari is the only one to narrate it from this source, not Muslim. Ibn Hibban narrated it in his Sahih on the authority of al-Layth bin Sa'd on the authority of Muhammad bin Ajlan, on the authority of al-Qa'qa' bin Hakim, on the authority of Abu Salih, on his authority.

Surat Al Imran 3:176

And let not those who hasten into disbelief grieve you. Indeed, they will never harm God at all. God intends not to grant them any share in the Hereafter, and they will have a great punishment.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Hajin bin Al-Muthanna told us, Abdul Aziz bin Abdullah bin Abi Salamah told us, on the authority of Abdullah bin Dinar, on the authority of Ibn Umar, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: “Whoever does not pay the zakat on his wealth, God will present his wealth to him on the Day of Resurrection in the form of a bald-headed serpent with two tufts of hair, then he will hold it and say: I am your treasure, I am your treasure.” And this is how An-Nasa'i narrated it on the authority of Al-Fadl bin Sahl, on the authority of Abu An-Nadr Hashim bin Al-Qasim, on the authority of Abdul Aziz bin Abdullah bin Abi Salamah, on his authority. Then An-Nasa'i said: The narration of Abdul Aziz on the authority of Abdullah bin Dinar, on the authority of Ibn Umar, is more authentic than the narration of Abdul Rahman on the authority of his father Abdullah bin Dinar, on the authority of Abu Salih, on the authority of Abu Hurairah. I said There is no contradiction between the two narrations, for it may be with Abdullah bin Dinar from both sources, and God knows best. Al-Hafiz Abu Bakr bin Mardawayh narrated it from more than one source on the authority of Abu Salih, on the authority of Abu Hurairah. And from the hadith of Muhammad bin Abi Hamid on the authority of Ziyad Al-Khatmi on the authority of Abu Hurairah, on his authority.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Sufyan narrated to us on the authority of Jami', on the authority of Abu Wa'il, on the authority of Abdullah, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, “There is no servant who does not pay the zakat of his wealth except that a bald-headed serpent will be made to follow him, fleeing from him while he follows him, and he will say: I am your treasure.” Then Abdullah recited the proof of this from the Book of God, They will be collared with what they hoarded on the Day of Resurrection. This is how At-Tirmidhi, An-Nasa'i, and Ibn Majah narrated it on the authority of Sufyan ibn Uyaynah on the authority of Jami' ibn Abi Rashid. At-Tirmidhi added: And Abdul Malik ibn A'yan, both on the authority of Abu Wa'il Shaqiq ibn Salamah on the authority of Abdullah ibn Mas'ud on his authority. At-Tirmidhi said: It is hasan sahih. Al-Hakim narrated it in his Mustadrak on the authority of Abu Bakr ibn Ayyash and Sufyan Ath-Thawri, both on the authority of Abu Ishaq As-Sabi'i, on the authority of Abu Wa'il, on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud on his authority. Ibn Jarir narrated it through other chains of transmission on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud as a mursal.

Another hadith Al-Hafiz Abu Ya'la said: Umayyah ibn Bastam told us, Yazid ibn Zari' told us, Sa'id told us, on the authority of Qatada, on the authority of Salim ibn Abi al-Ja'd, on the authority of Ma'dan ibn Abi Talhah, on the authority of Thawban, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, “He said: ‘Whoever leaves behind a treasure, it will appear to him on the Day of Resurrection as a bald-headed snake with two raisins, following him and saying: Who are you? Woe to you! It will say: I am your treasure that you left behind you. It will continue following him until it gives him his hand and he bites it, then it will follow the rest of his body.’” Its chain of transmission is good and strong, and they did not include it. It was narrated by Al-Tabarani on the authority of Jarir ibn Abdullah Al-Bajali, and it was narrated by Ibn Jarir and Ibn Mardawayh from the hadith of Bahz ibn Hakim on the authority of his father, on the authority of his grandfather, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: “No man comes to his master and asks him for some of his surplus wealth, and he refuses it to him, except that a brave man will be summoned for him on the Day of Resurrection, licking the excess that he refused.” This is the wording of Ibn Jarir. Ibn Jarir said: Ibn Al-Muthanna told us, Abd Al-A'la told us, Dawud told us on the authority of Abu Qaz'ah, on the authority of a man, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: “No relative comes to his relative and asks him for some of the excess that God has given him, and he is stingy with it, except that a brave man will be brought out for him from Hell, licking his excess until it encircles him.” Then he narrated it from another chain of transmission on the authority of Abu Qaz'ah, whose name is Hujayr ibn Bayan, on the authority of Abu Malik Al-Abdi, with no chain of transmission ending with him. He narrated it from another chain of transmission on the authority of Abu Qaz'ah, with no chain of transmission ending with him. Al-Awfi said on the authority of Ibn Abbas: It was revealed about the People of the Book who were stingy with what was in their hands of the revealed books, so that they would not explain them. Narrated by Ibn Jarir. The first is correct, although this is included in its meaning. It may be said that this is more appropriate to be included, and God Almighty knows best. God Almighty's statement, And to God belongs the inheritance of the heavens and the earth, means, And spend from that in which He has made you successors, for all matters are referred back to God Almighty. So present from your wealth what will benefit you on the Day of Resurrection. And God is Acquainted with what you do, meaning your intentions and your consciences.

Fath al-Qadir

His saying 176- "And let it not grieve you." Nafi' read it with a damma on the ya' and a kasra on the zay, and Ibn Muhaisin read it with a damma on the ya' and the zay, and the rest read it with a fatha on the ya' and a damma on the zay, and they are two dialects. It is said: The matter grieved me and it grieved me, and the first is more eloquent. Talhah read "yasari'un." It was said: They are people who apostatized, so the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, was saddened by that, so God consoled him and forbade him from grieving, and he explained that by saying that they would not harm God at all, but they only harmed themselves by noticing them in the Hereafter and that they will have a great punishment. It was said: They are the disbelievers of Quraysh, and it was said: They are the hypocrites, and it was said: It is general for all disbelievers. Al-Qushayri said: Grieving over the disbelief of a disbeliever is an act of obedience, but the Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) was excessive in his grief, so he was forbidden from that as God the Most High said: So let not your soul perish over them in regret "Perhaps you would kill yourself through grief over them, if they do not believe in this message" Al-Qushayri'un and the preposition fi instead of ila indicate that they are settled in it and will continue to be involved in it, and the same applies to they hasten in good deeds. His statement: Indeed, they will never harm God at all is an explanation of the prohibition, and the meaning is that their disbelief will not diminish the kingdom of God the Most High at all. It was said: What is meant is that they will never harm His friends, and it is possible that what is meant is that they will never harm His religion that He has legislated for His servants. Something is accusative as a source: meaning any harm, and it was said: accusative by removing the preposition: meaning with something. And fortune is the share. Abu Zaid said: It is said that a man is fortunate if he has a share of provision, and the meaning is that God does not want to give them a share in Paradise or a share of the reward, and the future tense is to indicate the permanence and continuity of the will and for them is a great punishment because of their haste in disbelief, so the harm of their disbelief returned to them, making clear to them the lack of fortune in the afterlife and their destiny in the great punishment.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

176- The Almighty said: "And let it not grieve you, Nafi' read grieve you with a damma on the ya' and a kasra on the zay, and so is the entire Qur'an except for His saying The greatest terror will not grieve them", Abu Ja'far said the opposite, and they are two languages: Hzn yhzn and ahzn yhzn, except that the predominant language is Hzn yhzn, "Those who hasten into disbelief", Ad-Dahhak said: They are the disbelievers of Quraysh, and someone else said: They are the hypocrites who hasten into disbelief by supporting the disbelievers. "They will never harm God at all, by their haste into disbelief, God wants not to give them a share in the Hereafter, a portion in the reward of the Hereafter, so that is how He let them down until they hastened into disbelief, and for them is a great punishment.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

176 And let not those who hasten into disbelief grieve you" They fall into it quickly out of eagerness for it, and they are the hypocrites who lagged behind, or people who turned away from Islam. The meaning is let not the fear that they will harm you or help against you grieve you, because of His statement: "Indeed, they will not harm God at all" meaning they will not harm the friends of God at all by their haste into disbelief, but they will harm themselves with it. And "thing may be an object or a source, and Nafi' read grieve you with a damma on the ya' and a kasra on the zay wherever it occurred except for His statement about the prophets the greatest terror will not grieve them", for he opened the ya' and closed the zay in it, and the rest did likewise in all of them. God intends that they should have no share in the Hereafter a portion of the reward in the Hereafter, and this indicates the persistence of their transgression and their death in disbelief. The mention of the will indicates that their disbelief reached the limit, to the point that the Most Merciful of the merciful intended that they should have no share of His mercy, and that their hastening to disbelief was because the Most High did not intend that they should have any share in the Hereafter. And for them is a great punishment along with deprivation of reward.

Surat Al Imran 3:177

Indeed, those who purchase disbelief at the price of faith will never harm God at all, and they will have a painful punishment.

Surat Al Imran 3:177

Indeed, those who purchase disbelief at the price of faith will never harm God at all, and they will have a painful punishment.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

Indeed, those who purchase disbelief in exchange for faith that is, they take it instead of it will never harm God with their disbelief at all, and they will have a painful punishment painful.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: By that, may His praise be glorified, He means the hypocrites about whom He had previously told His Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, that he should not be saddened by their haste to disbelieve. So He said to His Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace: These are the ones who bought disbelief with their faith, then turned away from their faith after entering it, and were satisfied with disbelief in God and His Messenger in exchange for faith. They will not harm God in the least with their disbelief and their turning away from the glory of their faith. Rather, they will only harm themselves by doing so, by making them subject to a punishment from God that they cannot bear.

Rather, God, the Most High, urged His believing servants with these verses, from His saying: And whatever befell you on the day the two armies met was by permission of God (Al Imran 3:116) to this verse, to sincerely believe, to turn to Him in their affairs, and to be content with Him alone as a supporter, without any other of His creation. And He encouraged them with them to fight against His enemies and the enemies of His religion, and encouraged their hearts with them, and informed them that whoever supports Him with His support will not be let down even if all those who oppose and deviate from Him were to unite against him, and that whoever lets him down, no supporter will support him whose support will benefit him, even if his helpers and supporters were many, as:

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: Indeed, those who purchase disbelief in exchange for faith, meaning the hypocrites, will never harm God at all, and they will have a painful punishment, meaning painful.

Muhammad bin Amr told me, he said, Abu Asim told us, on the authority of Isa, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, who said: They are the hypocrites.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

The Almighty's saying: Indeed, those who have purchased disbelief in exchange for faith was mentioned previously in Al-Baqarah, will never harm God at all was repeated for emphasis. It was said: that is, from his bad management, replacing faith with disbelief and selling it with it, so he does not fear its side or its management. A thing was in the accusative case in both places because it is in the position of a source, as if he said: they will never harm God, a little or a lot of harm. It is permissible to make it in the accusative case if the ba is omitted, as if he said: they will never harm God at all.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

God Almighty says to His Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace: And let not those who hasten into disbelief grieve you. This is due to His intense concern for people. He was grieved by the infidels' haste to disobey, be stubborn, and dissent. So God Almighty said: Let not that grieve you. "Indeed, they will never harm God at all. God intends not to grant them any share in the Hereafter." That is, His wisdom in them is that He intends, by His will and power, not to grant them any share in the Hereafter. "And for them is a great punishment." Then God Almighty said, informing about that with a decisive statement: "Indeed, those who have purchased disbelief in exchange for faith." That is, they exchanged this for that. "They will never harm God at all." That is, they will harm themselves. "And for them is a painful punishment. Then God Almighty said, And let not those who disbelieve think that Our granting them respite is better for themselves. We only grant them respite so that they may increase in sin. And for them is a humiliating punishment." Like His statement: "Do they think that what We provide them with of wealth and children * We hasten for them in good things? Rather, they do not perceive." And like His saying: "So leave Me and he who denies this statement. We will lead them on gradually from where they do not know." And like His saying: "And do not let their wealth and their children impress you. God only wants to punish them with them in this world and that their souls should depart while they are disbelievers." Then the Most High said: God would not leave the believers in that state you are in until He distinguishes the wicked from the good. That is, He must establish a cause of trial, in which He reveals His friend and exposes His enemy, in which He knows the patient believer and the wicked hypocrite. He means by that the Day of Uhud, in which God tested the believers, and in which their faith, patience, endurance, steadfastness, and obedience to God and His Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, became apparent, and in which He exposed the veil of the hypocrites. Their opposition, their refusal to fight, and their betrayal of God and His Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, became apparent. For this reason, God the Almighty said: God would not leave the believers in the state

you are in until He distinguishes the wicked from the good. Mujahid said: He distinguished between them on the day of Uhud. Qatadah said: He distinguished between them through jihad and migration. Al-Suddi said: They said: If Muhammad is truthful, then let him tell us who among us believes in him and who disbelieves. So God the Almighty revealed: God would not leave the believers in the state you are in until He distinguishes the wicked from the good. That is, until the believer emerges from the disbeliever. All of this was narrated by Ibn Jarir. Then God the Almighty said: And God would not inform you of the unseen. That is, you do not know the unseen of God in His creation until He distinguishes for you the believer from the hypocrite, were it not for the reasons He establishes that reveal that. Then the Almighty said: But God chooses from among His messengers whom He wills as in His saying: "He is the Knower of the unseen, and He reveals His secret to none * Except to a messenger with whom He is pleased. Then He makes a guard march before him and behind him." Then the Almighty said: So believe in God and His messengers meaning obey God and His Messenger and follow him in what He has prescribed for you And if you believe and fear God, then for you is a great reward. And His saying: "And let not those who withhold what God has given them of His bounty think that it is good for them. Rather, it is bad for them." That is, the miser should not think that his accumulation of money will benefit him, rather it is harmful to him in his religion, and perhaps in his worldly life. Then he told about the fate of his wealth on the Day of Resurrection, saying, They will be collared by what they were stingy with on the Day of Resurrection. Al-Bukhari said: Abdullah bin Munir told us, he heard Abu al-Nadr, Abdul Rahman told us - he is the son of Abdullah bin Dinar - on the authority of his father, on the authority of Abu Salih, on the authority of Abu Hurairah, he said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Whoever God gives wealth and he does not pay its zakat, it will be like a bald-headed serpent with two tufts of hair, collaring him on the Day of Resurrection, taking hold of his two jaws - meaning his cheeks - and saying, 'I am your wealth, I am your treasure.'" Then he recited this verse, "And let not those who are stingy with what God has given them of His bounty think that it is good for them. Rather, it is bad for them," to the end of the verse. Al-Bukhari is the only one to narrate it from this source, not Muslim. Ibn Hibban narrated it in his Sahih on the authority of al-Layth bin Sa'd on the authority of Muhammad bin Ajlan, on the authority of al-Qa'qa' bin Hakim, on the authority of Abu Salih, on his authority.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Hajin bin Al-Muthanna told us, Abdul Aziz bin Abdullah bin Abi Salamah told us, on the authority of Abdullah bin Dinar, on the authority of Ibn Umar, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "Whoever does not pay the zakat on his wealth, God will present his wealth to him on the Day of Resurrection in the form of a bald-headed serpent with two tufts of hair, then he will hold it and say: I am your treasure, I am your treasure." And this is how An-Nasa'i narrated it on the authority of Al-Fadl bin Sahl, on the authority of Abu An-Nadr Hashim bin Al-Qasim, on the authority of Abdul Aziz bin Abdullah bin Abi Salamah, on his authority. Then An-Nasa'i said: The narration of Abdul Aziz on the authority of Abdullah bin Dinar, on the authority of Ibn Umar, is more authentic than the narration of Abdul Rahman on the authority of his father Abdullah bin Dinar, on the authority of Abu Salih, on the authority of Abu Hurairah. I said There is no contradiction between the two narrations, for it may be with Abdullah bin Dinar from both sources, and God knows best. Al-Hafiz Abu Bakr bin Mardawayh narrated it from more than one source on the authority of Abu Salih, on the authority of Abu Hurairah. And from the hadith of Muhammad bin Abi Hamid on the authority of Ziyad Al-Khatmi on the authority of Abu Hurairah, on his authority.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Sufyan narrated to us on the authority of Jami', on the authority of Abu Wa'il, on the authority of Abdullah, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, "There is no servant who does not pay the zakat of his wealth except that a bald-headed serpent will be made to follow him, fleeing from him while he follows him, and he will say: I am your treasure." Then Abdullah recited the proof of this from the Book of God, They will be collared by what they hoarded on the Day of Resurrection. This is how At-Tirmidhi, An-Nasa'i, and Ibn Majah narrated it on the authority of Sufyan ibn Uyaynah on the authority of Jami' ibn Abi Rashid. At-Tirmidhi added: And Abdul Malik ibn A'yan, both on the authority of Abu Wa'il Shaqiq ibn Salamah on the authority of Abdullah ibn Mas'ud on his authority. At-Tirmidhi said: It is hasan sahih. Al-Hakim narrated it in his Mustadrak on the authority of Abu Bakr ibn Ayyash and Sufyan Ath-Thawri, both on the authority of Abu Ishaq As-Sabi'i, on the authority of Abu Wa'il, on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud on his authority. Ibn Jarir narrated it through other chains of transmission on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud as a mursal.

Another hadith Al-Hafiz Abu Ya'la said: Umayyah ibn Bastam told us, Yazid ibn Zari' told us, Sa'id told us, on the authority of Qatada, on the authority of Salim ibn Abi al-Ja'd, on the authority of Ma'dan ibn Abi Talhah, on the authority of Thawban, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, "He said: 'Whoever leaves behind a treasure, it will appear to him on the Day of Resurrection as a bald-headed snake with two raisins, following him and saying: Who are you? Woe to you! It will say: I am your treasure that you left behind you. It will continue following him until it gives him his hand and he bites it, then it will follow the rest of his body.'" Its chain of transmission is good and strong, and they did not include it. It was narrated by Al-Tabarani on the authority of Jarir ibn Abdullah Al-Bajali, and it was narrated by Ibn Jarir and Ibn Mardawayh from the hadith of Bahz ibn Hakim on the authority of his father, on the authority of his grandfather, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "No man comes to his master and asks him for some of his surplus wealth, and he refuses it to him, except that a brave man will be summoned for him on the Day of Resurrection, licking the excess that he refused." This is the wording of Ibn Jarir. Ibn Jarir said: Ibn Al-Muthanna told us, Abd Al-A'la told us, Dawud told us on the authority of Abu Qaz'ah, on the authority of a man, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "No relative comes to his relative and asks him for some of the excess that God has given him, and he is stingy with it, except that a brave man will be brought out for him from Hell, licking his excess until it encircles him."

Surat Al Imran 3:177

Indeed, those who purchase disbelief at the price of faith will never harm God at all, and they will have a painful punishment.

Then he narrated it from another chain of transmission on the authority of Abu Qaz'ah, whose name is Hujayr ibn Bayan, on the authority of Abu Malik Al-Abdi, with no chain of transmission ending with him. He narrated it from another chain of transmission on the authority of Abu Qaz'ah, with no chain of transmission ending with him. Al-Awfi said on the authority of Ibn Abbas: It was revealed about the People of the Book who were stingy with what was in their hands of the revealed books, so that they would not explain them. Narrated by Ibn Jarir. The first is correct, although this is included in its meaning. It may be said that this is more appropriate to be included, and God Almighty knows best. God Almighty's statement, And to God belongs the inheritance of the heavens and the earth, means, And spend from that in which He has made you successors, for all matters are referred back to God Almighty. So present from your wealth what will benefit you on the Day of Resurrection. And God is Acquainted with what you do, meaning your intentions and your consciences.

Fath al-Qadir

His statement 177 - Indeed, those who have purchased disbelief in exchange for faith means: they have exchanged disbelief for faith. The realization of this metaphor has already been presented. They will not harm God at all means the same as the first, and it is to emphasize what was presented. It has been said: The first is specific to the hypocrites, and the second includes all disbelievers, and the first is more appropriate.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

177- "Indeed, those who exchanged faith for disbelief will never harm God at all, but they will only harm themselves, and they will have a painful punishment.

Tafsir al-Baldawi

177 Indeed, those who purchase disbelief in exchange for faith will never harm God at all, and they will have a painful punishment." Repetition for emphasis, or generalization of the disbelievers after specifying those who were hypocrites among those who stayed behind, or who apostatized from among the Arabs.

Surat Al Imran 3:178

And let not those who disbelieve think that Our granting them respite is better for themselves. We only grant them respite that they may increase in sin, and for them is a humiliating punishment.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And let not those who disbelieve think with the letter ya and the letter ta that Our granting them respite that is, Our granting them respite by extending their lives and delaying them (is better for themselves) and that and its dependents replace the two objects in the lower reading and replace the second in the other We only grant them respite We grant them respite that they may increase in sin by committing many sins and for them is a humiliating punishment of humiliation in the Hereafter.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Jaafar said: By this, the Almighty means: And let not those who disbelieve in God and His Messenger and what he brought from God think that Our granting them respite is better for themselves.

By imla' it means to prolong life and delay the appointed time. From this is the saying of God Almighty: And leave me alone for a long time (Maryam 19:46), meaning: for a long time. From this is the saying: I lived a long time and I was bored with a lover. The word imla itself is time, and al-mulwan is the night and the day. From this is the saying of Tamim bin Muqbil:

Oh, the homes of the living, be filled with the seventy-year-olds, and be filled with colorful decay.

Meaning: in the colors, night and day.

There is a difference in the reading of His statement: And let not those who disbelieve think that Our granting them respite is better for themselves.

A group of them read it: And do not think, with a ya, and with a fat-ha on the alif from his saying: only, according to the meaning that I described of its interpretation.

Others read it: Do not think with the letter ta and anma also with the letter alif open from anma meaning: And do not think, O Muhammad, that those who disbelieve, that Our granting them respite is better for themselves.

If someone were to say: Why is the alif in his saying anma opened in the reading of those who read with the ta', and you know that if it is read with the ta', then you have applied tahsabna in those who disbelieve, and if you apply it in that, it does not make it sufficient. That it falls on anma, because anma inma has an agent that works on two things in the accusative case?

It was said: As for the correct way in Arabic and the well-known way of speaking from the speech of the Arabs, is to break the word in when it is read tahsabna with a taa, because tahsabna when it is read with a taa then it has made those who disbelieve a noun in an. But I think that whoever read it with a taa in tahsabna and opened the alif of anma, only wanted to repeat tahsabna on anma, as if he intended that the meaning of the speech is: And do not think, O Muhammad, you, those who disbelieved, do not think that what We grant them is better for themselves, as He, the Most High, said: Do they then await anything but the Hour, that it should come upon them suddenly? (Muhammad 47:18), with the interpretation: Do they await anything but the Hour, do they await anything but that it should come upon them suddenly? This is because it was a permissible way in Arabic, so the way of speaking of the Arabs is what we described before.

Abu Ja'far said: The correct reading in this regard, according to us, is the reading of those who read: And let not those who disbelieve think with the ya' of yahsabna and with the fatha on the alif of anma, meaning that the reckoning is for those who disbelieved and not for others. Then the accusative is used in anma because yahsabna then was not occupied with anything that worked on it, and it requires two accusatives.

We chose this because of the consensus of the readers on opening the alif of anma the first, so this indicates that the correct reading of yahsabna is with the ya' for what we described.

As for the second alif of inma, the kasra is at the beginning, according to the consensus of the reciters.

The interpretation of His statement: We only grant them respite so that they may increase in sin is that We only delay their lives and lengthen them so that they may increase in sin. He says: So that they may acquire sins and their sins may increase and multiply. And for them is a humiliating punishment. He says: And for those who disbelieved in God and His Messenger in the Hereafter is a humiliating and disgraceful punishment.

And in the same way as we said in that, the effect came:

Muhammad ibn Bashir told us, Abd al-Rahman told us, Sufyan told us, on the authority of al-A'mash, on the authority of Khaithamah, on the authority of al-Aswad, who said, Abdullah said: There is no soul, righteous or wicked, but that death is better for it. And he recited: "And let not those who disbelieve think that Our granting them respite is better for themselves. We only grant them respite that they may increase in sin." And he recited: "A provision from God. And what is with God is better for the righteous." (Al Imran 3:198)

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

God the Almighty said: And let not those who disbelieve think that Our granting them respite is better for themselves. Granting them respite means a long life and a comfortable life. The meaning is: These people who frighten the Muslims should not think that

Surat Al Imran 3:178

And let not those who disbelieve think that Our granting them respite is better for themselves. We only grant them respite that they may increase in sin, and for them is a humiliating punishment.

God is able to destroy them. Rather, He extends their lives so that they commit sins, not because it is better for them. It is said: We grant them respite because of the victory they achieved on the Day of Uhud. That was not good for them, but rather it was so that they would be punished more. It was narrated on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud that he said: There is no one, righteous or wicked, except that death is better for him, because if he is righteous, God the Almighty said: And what is with God is better for the righteous. And if he is wicked, God the Almighty said: We grant them respite only so that they may increase in sin. Ibn 'Amir and 'Asim read and do not think with a ya' and a fat-ha on the seen. Hamza read it with a ta' and a fat-ha on the seen. The rest read it with a ya' and a kasra on the seen. Whoever reads it with a ya', then those who do so are the doers. , that is, let not the disbelievers think, that Our granting them respite is better for themselves is a substitute for the two objects, and ma means who, and the pronoun is omitted, and khayr is the predicate of an and it is permissible to estimate ma and the verb as a source, and the estimate is that those who disbelieve should not think that Our granting them respite is better for themselves, and whoever reads with the ta', then the subject is the one addressed, and he is Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and alladhina is in the accusative case as the first object of tahsab, and that and what follows it is a substitute for alladhina, and it replaces the two objects, as it would if it were not a substitute, and it is not appropriate for an and what follows it to be a second object of tahsab, because the second object in this chapter is the first in meaning, because hasab and its sisters are included in the subject and predicate, so the estimate is: and do not think that Our granting them respite is better, this is what al-Zajjaj said. Abu Ali said: If this was correct, he would have said khayr in the accusative case, because an becomes a substitute for alladhina al-disbelievers, so it is as if he said: Do not think that the granting of respite to those They disbelieved in good, so his saying: report is the second object of hasab, so it is not permissible to read la tahsabna with a taa' unless the kasra in in anma makes khayrān accusative, and this was not narrated from Hamza, and the reading from Hamza is with a taa', so this reading is not correct, and al-Farra' and al-Kisa'i said: Hamza's reading is permissible on repetition, its meaning is do not think those who disbelieve, and do not think that what we extend to them is good, an is corrupted as the place of the two objects of la hasab the second, and it and what it worked as a second object of la hasab the first, al-Qushayri said, and this is close to what al-Zajjaj mentioned in the claim of substitution, and the reading is correct, so Abu Ali intended to mislead al-Zajjaj, al-Nahas said: Abu Hatim claimed that Hamza's reading with a taa' here, and his saying: and do not think those who are stingy is a mistake that is not permissible, and a group followed him in that.

I said: This is nothing, because of what was previously explained regarding the grammar, and because of the correctness of the reading and its confirmation by transmission. Yahya bin Waththab read innama namli lihum with a kasra on the inn in both of them. Abu Ja'far said: Yahya's reading is good, as you say: I thought that Umar, his father Khalid, Abu Hatim said: I heard Al-Akhfash mention the kasra on inn as evidence for the people of destiny, because he was one of them, and he makes it an example of precedence and delay (and let not those who disbelieve think that We only grant them respite that they may increase in sin. We only grant them respite that is better for themselves) He said: And I saw in a copy of the Qur'an in the congregational mosque that they had added a letter to it, so it became innama namli lihum fiman so Ya'qub the reader looked at it and saw the mistake, so he erased it. The verse is a text in the invalidity of the doctrine of the Qadarites, because he informed us that He extends their lives so that they may increase in disbelief by committing sins, and the succession of similar things in the heart, as was previously explained regarding its opposite, which is faith. And from Ibn Abbas, he said: There is no righteousness nor... A wicked person is not to be blamed for his sins, but death is better for him. Then he recited: We only grant them respite so that they may increase in sin. And he recited: What is with God is better for the righteous. Narrated by Razin.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

God Almighty says to His Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace: And let not those who hasten into disbelief grieve you. This is due to His intense concern for people. He was grieved by the infidels' haste to disobey, be stubborn, and dissent. So God Almighty said: Let not that grieve you. "Indeed, they will never harm God at all. God intends not to grant them any share in the Hereafter." That is, His wisdom in them is that He intends, by His will and power, not to grant them any share in the Hereafter. "And for them is a great punishment." Then God Almighty said, informing about that with a decisive statement: "Indeed, those who have purchased disbelief in exchange for faith." That is, they exchanged this for that. "They will never harm God at all." That is, they will harm themselves. "And for them is a painful punishment. Then God Almighty said, And let not those who disbelieve think that Our granting them respite is better for themselves. We only grant them respite so that they may increase in sin. And for them is a humiliating punishment." Like His statement: "Do they think that what We provide them with of wealth and children * We hasten for them in good things? Rather, they do not perceive." And like His saying: "So leave Me and he who denies this statement. We will lead them on gradually from where they do not know." And like His saying: "And do not let their wealth and their children impress you. God only wants to punish them with them in this world and that their souls should depart while they are disbelievers." Then the Most High said: God would not leave the believers in that state you are in until He distinguishes the wicked from the good. That is, He must establish a cause of trial, in which He reveals His friend and exposes His enemy, in which

He knows the patient believer and the wicked hypocrite. He means by that the Day of Uhud, in which God tested the believers, and in which their faith, patience, endurance, steadfastness, and obedience to God and His Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, became apparent, and in which He exposed the veil of the hypocrites. Their opposition, their refusal to fight, and their betrayal of God and His Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, became apparent. For this reason, God the Almighty said: God would not leave the believers in the state you are in until He distinguishes the wicked from the good. Mujahid said: He distinguished between them on the day of Uhud. Qatadah said: He distinguished between them through jihad and migration. Al-Suddi said: They said: If Muhammad is truthful, then let him tell us who among us believes in him and who disbelieves. So God the Almighty revealed: God would not leave the believers in the state you are in until He distinguishes the wicked from the good. That is, until the believer emerges from the disbeliever. All of this was narrated by Ibn Jarir. Then God the Almighty said: And God would not inform you of the unseen. That is, you do not know the unseen of God in His creation until He distinguishes for you the believer from the hypocrite, were it not for the reasons He establishes that reveal that. Then the Almighty said: But God chooses from among His messengers whom He wills as in His saying: "He is the Knower of the unseen, and He reveals His secret to none * Except to a messenger with whom He is pleased. Then He makes a guard march before him and behind him." Then the Almighty said: So believe in God and His messengers meaning obey God and His Messenger and follow him in what He has prescribed for you And if you believe and fear God, then for you is a great reward. And His saying: "And let not those who withhold what God has given them of His bounty think that it is good for them. Rather, it is bad for them." That is, the miser should not think that his accumulation of money will benefit him, rather it is harmful to him in his religion, and perhaps in his worldly life. Then he told about the fate of his wealth on the Day of Resurrection, saying, They will be collared by what they were stingy with on the Day of Resurrection. Al-Bukhari said: Abdullah bin Munir told us, he heard Abu al-Nadr, Abdul Rahman told us - he is the son of Abdullah bin Dinar - on the authority of his father, on the authority of Abu Salih, on the authority of Abu Hurairah, he said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Whoever God gives wealth and he does not pay its zakat, it will be like a bald-headed serpent with two tufts of hair, collaring him on the Day of Resurrection, taking hold of his two jaws - meaning his cheeks - and saying, 'I am your wealth, I am your treasure.'" Then he recited this verse, "And let not those who are stingy with what God has given them of His bounty think that it is good for them. Rather, it is bad for them," to the end of the verse. Al-Bukhari is the only one to narrate it from this source, not Muslim. Ibn Hibban narrated it in his Sahih on the authority of al-Layth bin Sa'd on the authority of Muhammad bin Ajlan, on the authority of al-Qa'qa' bin Hakim, on the authority of Abu Salih, on his authority.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Hajin bin Al-Muthanna told us, Abdul Aziz bin Abdullah bin Abi

Salamah told us, on the authority of Abdullah bin Dinar, on the authority of Ibn Umar, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "Whoever does not pay the zakat on his wealth, God will present his wealth to him on the Day of Resurrection in the form of a bald-headed serpent with two tufts of hair, then he will hold it and say: I am your treasure, I am your treasure." And this is how An-Nasa'i narrated it on the authority of Al-Fadl bin Sahl, on the authority of Abu An-Nadr Hashim bin Al-Qasim, on the authority of Abdul Aziz bin Abdullah bin Abi Salamah, on his authority. Then An-Nasa'i said: The narration of Abdul Aziz on the authority of Abdullah bin Dinar, on the authority of Ibn Umar, is more authentic than the narration of Abdul Rahman on the authority of his father Abdullah bin Dinar, on the authority of Abu Salih, on the authority of Abu Hurairah. I said There is no contradiction between the two narrations, for it may be with Abdullah bin Dinar from both sources, and God knows best. Al-Hafiz Abu Bakr bin Mardawayh narrated it from more than one source on the authority of Abu Salih, on the authority of Abu Hurairah. And from the hadith of Muhammad bin Abi Hamid on the authority of Ziyad Al-Khatmi on the authority of Abu Hurairah, on his authority.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Sufyan narrated to us on the authority of Jami', on the authority of Abu Wa'il, on the authority of Abdullah, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, "There is no servant who does not pay the zakat of his wealth except that a bald-headed serpent will be made to follow him, fleeing from him while he follows him, and he will say: I am your treasure." Then Abdullah recited the proof of this from the Book of God, They will be collared with what they hoarded on the Day of Resurrection. This is how At-Tirmidhi, An-Nasa'i, and Ibn Majah narrated it on the authority of Sufyan ibn Uyaynah on the authority of Jami' ibn Abi Rashid. At-Tirmidhi added: And Abdul Malik ibn A'yan, both on the authority of Abu Wa'il Shagiq ibn Salamah on the authority of Abdullah ibn Mas'ud on his authority. At-Tirmidhi said: It is hasan sahih. Al-Hakim narrated it in his Mustadrak on the authority of Abu Bakr ibn Ayyash and Sufyan Ath-Thawri, both on the authority of Abu Ishaq As-Sabi'i, on the authority of Abu Wa'il, on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud on his authority. Ibn Jarir narrated it through other chains of transmission on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud as a mursal.

Another hadith Al-Hafiz Abu Ya'la said: Umayyah ibn Bastam told us, Yazid ibn Zari' told us, Sa'id told us, on the authority of Qatada, on the authority of Salim ibn Abi al-Ja'd, on the authority of Ma'dan ibn Abi Talhah, on the authority of Thawban, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, "He said: 'Whoever leaves behind a treasure, it will appear to him on the Day of Resurrection as a bald-headed snake with two raisins, following him and saying: Who are you? Woe to you! It will say: I am your treasure that you left behind you. It will continue following him until it gives him his hand and he bites it, then it will follow the rest of his body.'" Its chain of transmission is good and strong, and they did not include it. It was narrated by Al-Tabarani on the authority of Jarir ibn Abdullah Al-Bajali, and it was narrated by Ibn Jarir and Ibn Mardawayh from the hadith of Bahz ibn Hakim on the authority of his father, on the authority of his grandfather, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "No man comes to his master and asks him for some of his surplus wealth, and he refuses it to him, except that a brave man will be summoned for him on the Day of Resurrection, licking the excess that he refused." This is the wording of Ibn Jarir. Ibn Jarir said: Ibn Al-Muthanna told us, Abd Al-A'la told us, Dawud told us on the authority of Abu Qaz'ah, on the authority of a man, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "No relative comes to his relative and asks him for some of the excess that God has given him, and he is stingy with it, except that a brave man will be brought out for him from Hell, licking his excess until it encircles him." Then he narrated it from another chain of transmission on the authority of Abu Qaz'ah, whose name is Hujayr ibn Bayan, on the authority of Abu Malik Al-Abdi, with no chain of transmission ending with him. He narrated it from another chain of transmission on the authority of Abu Qaz'ah, with no chain of transmission ending with him. Al-Awfi said on the authority of Ibn Abbas: It was revealed about the People of the Book who were stingy with what was in their hands of the revealed books, so that they would not explain them. Narrated by Ibn Jarir. The first is correct, although this is included in its meaning. It may be said that this is more appropriate to be included, and God Almighty knows best. God Almighty's statement, And to God belongs the inheritance of the heavens and the earth, means, And spend from that in which He has made you successors, for all matters are referred back to God Almighty. So present from your wealth what will benefit you on the Day of Resurrection. And God is Acquainted with what you do, meaning your intentions and your consciences.

And let not those who disbelieve think that Our granting them respite is better for themselves. We only grant them respite that they may increase in sin, and for them is a humiliating punishment.

Fath al-Qadir

His saying 178- "And let not those who disbelieve think that Our granting them respite is better for themselves. Ibn Amir, Asim, and others read yasibna" with a lower ya', and Hamza read it with a higher ya'. The meaning according to the first reading is: Let not the disbelievers think that Our granting them respite by giving them a long life and a comfortable life or by what they achieved of victory on the day of Uhud "is better for themselves." This is not the case, rather We grant them respite so that they may increase in sin, and for them is a humiliating punishment. According to the second reading: Do not think, O Muhammad, that granting respite to those who disbelieved in what was mentioned is better for themselves. Rather, it is an evil that has befallen them and descended upon them. That is, granting respite to those who disbelieved in what was mentioned is better for themselves. Rather, it is an evil that has befallen them and descended upon them. That is, the respite that We grant them is so that they may increase in sin. The relative pronoun in the first reading is the subject of the verb, and anma namli and what follows it replaces the two objects of hisabān according to Sibawayh, or replaces one of them, and the other is omitted according to al-Akhfash.

As for the second reading according to Sibawayh, or replaces one of them, and the other is omitted according to al-Akhfash. As for the second reading, al-Zajaj said: The relative pronoun is the first object, and anma and what follows it is a substitute for the relative pronoun and replaces the two objects. It is not correct for anma and what follows it to be the second object, because the second object in this case is the first in meaning. Abu Ali al-Farsi said: If this were correct, it would have been khayr in the accusative case because basir is a substitute for alladhī kāfiru, so it is as if he said: Do not think that granting respite to those who disbelieve is good. Al-Kisa'i and al-Farra' said: The verb can be repeated as if he said: Do not think that those who disbelieve and do not think that "anma namli for them, then it replaces the two objects. Al-Kashāf said: If you say: How can the substitute be correct when only one of the two objects is mentioned, and it is not permissible to limit the verb of hisabān to one object? I said: This is correct in that relying on the substitute and the substituted is in the ruling of the gift, do you not see that you have placed some of your belongings on top of each other while it is not permissible for you to remain silent about your belongings? End. Yahya bin Watthab read innama namli with a kasra on in in both of them, and this is a weak reading considering the Arabic language. And his statement: innama namli lahum so that they may increase in sin is a renewed sentence explaining the reason for granting respite to the disbelievers. The majority have used this verse as evidence to prove the invalidity of what the Mu'tazila say, because God Almighty has informed us that He extends the lives of the disbelievers and makes their life comfortable so that they may increase in sin. Abu Hatim said: I heard Al-Akhfash mention the kasra of the first innama namli and the fatha of the second, and he uses this as evidence for the people of predestination because he is one of them, and he makes it on this estimation: And let not those who disbelieve think that We grant them respite so that they may increase in sin. We grant them respite only for their own good. He said in Al-Kashaf: The increase in sin is a cause, and not every cause is an accident. Do you not see yourself saying: I stayed away from the war due to inability and poverty, and I left the country for fear of evil, and nothing happened to you, but rather they are causes and reasons.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

178- "And let not those who disbelieve think, Hamza read this and the one after it with a taa in both, and the others read with a yaa, so whoever reads with a yaa Fal-ladheen" is in the nominative case as an agent, meaning: And let not the disbelievers think that Our respite for them is good, and whoever reads with a taa means: And do not think, O Muhammad, those who disbelieve, but it is in the accusative case as a substitute for those, "that We only grant them respite is better for themselves", and respite is delay and postponement, it is said: I lived a long and praiseworthy life and I was granted respite for a while, and from this is the saying of the Most High: "And leave me alone for a long time" Maryam - 46 meaning: a long time, then He began and said: "We only grant them respite, We grant them respite so that they may increase in sin, and for them is a humiliating punishment".

Muqatil said: It was revealed about the polytheists of Mecca. Ata' said: About Qurayzah and Nadir.

Abdul Rahman bin Abdullah Al-Qaffal told us, Abu Mansur Ahmad bin Al-Fadl Al-Burjunjirdi told us, Abu Ahmad Bakr bin Muhammad Hamdan Al-Sayrafi told us, Muhammad bin Yunus told us, Abu Dawud Al-Tayalisi told us, Shu'bah told us, on the authority of Ali bin Zaid, on the authority of Abdul Rahman bin Abi Bakra, on the authority of his father, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was asked, 'Which people are best?' He said, 'He who lives long and does good deeds.' It was said, 'Which people are worst?' He said, 'He who lives long but does bad deeds.'"

Tafsir al-Baidawi

178 "And let not those who disbelieve think that Our granting them respite is better for themselves" is addressed to the Messenger, peace and blessings be upon him, or to everyone who thinks. "And those is the object and that We grant them respite" is a substitute for it, and it was limited to one object because the reliance is on the substitute and it replaces the two objects as in the saying of the Most High: "Or do you think that most of them listen?" Or the second object in the estimation of an added word such as: And let not those who disbelieve think that the people of dictation are better for themselves, or let not the state of those who disbelieve think that dictation is better for themselves, and "ma" is a source and it should have been separated in the line but it was connected in the imam so it was followed. Ibn Kathir, Abu Amr, Asim, Al-Kisa'i and Ya'qub read with a ya on "that those as the subject and that" with what is in its scope is the object and the opening of its seen in all of the Qur'an is Ibn Amir, Hamza and Asim. And dictation means respite and prolongation of life. It was said that He left them to their own devices, from the verb amla li-farasu if he let down the reins for him to graze as he wished. We only grant them respite that they may increase in sin is a resumption of what is the cause of the ruling before it, and ma is a general term and the lam is the lam of will. And according to the Mu'tazila, it is the lam of consequence. Innama was read with the fatha here and with the kasra in the first, and La yuhasabna with the ya' meaning And let not those who disbelieve think that Our granting them respite is for an increase in sin, but rather for repentance and entering into faith, and Innama yuhasabna is better for them is an objection. Its meaning is that Our granting them respite is better for them if they pay attention and make up for what they have neglected. And for them is a humiliating punishment According to this, it is permissible for it to be a state of the waw, meaning that they may increase in sin, a humiliating punishment is prepared for them.

Surat Al Imran 3:179

God would not leave the believers in the state you are in until He distinguishes the evil from the good. And God would not inform you of the unseen, but God chooses from among His messengers whom He wills. So believe in God and His messengers. And if you believe and fear God, you will have a great reward.

Surat Al Imran 3:179

God would not leave the believers in the state you are in until He distinguishes the evil from the good. And God would not inform you of the unseen, but God chooses from among His messengers whom He wills. So believe in God and His messengers. And if you believe and fear God, you will have a great reward.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

God would not leave to leave the believers as you are O people in the state you are of mixing the sincere with others until He distinguishes with the lightening and emphasis separating the wicked the hypocrite from the good the believer with the difficult duties explained for that, so He did that on the day of Uhud and God would not inform you of the unseen so that you would know the hypocrite from others before distinguishing but God chooses He selects from among His messengers whom He wills and informs him of His unseen as He informed the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, of the state of the hypocrites so believe in God and His messengers, and if you believe and fear God hypocrisy then for you is a great reward

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: What he means by his saying: God would not leave the believers is that God would not leave the believers in the state you are in of confusing the believer among you with the hypocrite, so that one cannot be distinguished from the other, until He distinguishes the wicked from the good, meaning by that: until He distinguishes the wicked, which is the hypocrite who hides his disbelief, from the good, which is the sincere believer who is true to his faith, through trials and testing, just as He distinguished between them on the Day of Uhud when they met the enemy when they went out to them.

The interpreters differed about the evl that God meant in this verse.

Some of them said about it, like what we said.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Amr told me, he said, Abu Asim told me, on the authority of Isa, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding the statement of God: God would not leave the believers in that state you are in until He distinguishes the wicked from the good, he said: He distinguished between them on the day of Uhud, the hypocrite from the believer.

Al-Qasim told us, Al-Husayn told us, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj: God would not leave the believers in the state you are in until He distinguishes the wicked from the good. Ibn Jurayj said: He says: To distinguish the truthful in his faith from the liar. Ibn Jurayj said: Mujahid said: On the day of Uhud, He distinguished some of them from others, the hypocrite from the believer.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: God would not leave the believers in the state you are in until He distinguishes the wicked from the good, meaning: the hypocrites.

Others said: The meaning of this is: so that the believer may be distinguished from the disbeliever through migration and jihad.

Who said that?

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: God would not leave the believers in the state you are in, meaning the disbelievers. He says: God would not leave the believers in the state you are in of misguidance, until He distinguishes the wicked from the good, distinguishing between them in jihad and migration.

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said, Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said, Muammar told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: Until the wicked is distinguished from the good, he said: Until the wicked is distinguished from the believer.

Muhammad told us, Ahmad told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi: God would not leave the believers in the state you are in until He distinguishes the wicked from the good. They said: If Muhammad is truthful, then let him tell us who believes in God and who disbelieves!! So God revealed: God would not leave the believers in the state you are in until He distinguishes the wicked from the good, until He distinguishes the believer from the disbeliever.

Abu Jaafar said: The first interpretation is more appropriate for the interpretation of the verse, because the verses before it mention the hypocrites, and this one is in its context, so it is more likely that it is about them than it is about others.

Abu Jaafar said: The people of interpretation differed in the interpretation of that.

Some of them said:

Muhammad bin Al-Hussein told us, he said, Ahmad bin Al-Mufaddal told us, he said, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi: And God would not inform you of the unseen, and God would not inform Muhammad of the unseen, but God chose him and made him a messenger.

Others said:

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: And God would not inform you of the unseen, meaning: of what He wants to test you with, so that you may beware of what He wills upon you, but God chooses from among His messengers whom He wills, He knows him.

Abu Ja'far said: The most correct interpretation of this statement is: God would not let you know the secrets of the hearts of His servants so that you would know the believers among them from the hypocrites and the disbelievers. Rather, He distinguishes between them through trials and tribulations - as He distinguished between them through hardship on the Day of Uhud - and jihad against His enemy, and similar types of trials, so that you would know their believers, disbelievers, and hypocrites. However, He, the Most High, chooses from among His messengers whomever He wills and selects him, so He shows him some of what is in the secrets of some of them, through His revelation to him and His message, as:

Muhammad bin Amr told us, he said, Abu Asim told us, on the authority of Isa, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding his statement: But God chooses from among His messengers whom He wills, he said: He purifies them for Himself.

Rather, we said that this interpretation is more appropriate for the interpretation of the verse, because its beginning is a report from God Almighty that He will not leave His servants - meaning without trials - until He distinguishes through trial between their believers and their disbelievers and the hypocrites. Then He followed that with His saying: And God would not inform you of the unseen. So in what He began with of the description of God revealing the hypocrisy of the hypocrite and the disbelief of the disbeliever, there is a clear indication that what took charge of that was the report that He would not inform them of what is hidden from them of the innermost secrets of their hearts, except by that which He mentioned that He distinguishes them with His description, except for those whom He excepted from His messengers whom He singled out with His knowledge.

Abu Ja'far said: What He, may His praise be exalted, means by His saying: And if you believe, and if you give truth to those whom I have chosen from among My messengers with My knowledge and which I have revealed to the hypocrites among you, and fear your Lord by obeying Him in what your Prophet Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, has commanded you to do and in what He has forbidden you to do, then for you is a great reward, meaning: For that you will have, from your faith and fear of your Lord, a great reward, just as:

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq: So believe in God and His messengers, and if you believe and fear God, meaning: if you return and repent, then you will have a great reward.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

Abu Al-Aaliyah said: The believers asked to be given a sign by which they could differentiate between a believer and a hypocrite, so God the Almighty revealed: God would never leave the believers in the state you are in, and they differed as to who was addressed by the verse. Ibn Abbas, Ad-Dahhak, Muqatil, Al-Kalbi and most of the commentators said: The address is to the disbelievers and hypocrites, meaning God would never leave the believers in the state you are in of disbelief, hypocrisy and enmity towards the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace. Al-Kalbi said: The Quraysh of Mecca said to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace: A man from among us you claim is in Hell, and if he abandons our religion and follows your religion you say he is from the people of Paradise! So tell us about this, where is he from? And tell us who from among us comes to you? And who does not come to you? God the Almighty revealed: God would not leave the believers in the state you are upon of disbelief and hypocrisy, until He distinguishes the wicked from the good. It was said that this is addressed to the polytheists, and what is meant by the believers in His statement: to leave the believers are those in the loins and wombs who believe, meaning that God would not leave your children whom He has decreed to believe in the state you are upon of polytheism, until He separates you from them. Based on this, and God would not inform you is a new statement, and this is the opinion of Ibn Abbas and most of the commentators. It was said that the address is to the believers, until He distinguishes between you through the trial and the assignment, so that you recognize the wicked hypocrite and the good believer. On the Day of Uhud, He distinguished between the two groups, and this is the opinion of most of the scholars of meanings. and God would not inform you of the unseen, O group of believers, meaning that God would not appoint the hypocrites for you until you recognize them, but He makes that clear to you through the assignment and the trial, and that became clear on the Day of Uhud, for the hypocrites stayed behind and showed gloating, so you did not know this unseen before this, but now it has become clear. God informed Muhammad, peace be upon him, and his companions of that. It was said: The meaning of to inform you is that God would not have informed you of what would happen from them. So his saying: And God would not have informed you of the unseen is connected according to this, and according to the first two sayings it is disconnected. That is because when the infidels said: Why was there no revelation to us? He said: And God would not inform you of the unseen, that is, of those who deserve prophethood, until the revelation is by your choice. But God selects, that is, chooses, from among His messengers to inform of His unseen, whoever He wills. It is said: I looked at such-and-such, and I informed others about it. It is intransitive and transitive. It was read hatta yamayz with a shaddah from maiz, and likewise in al-Anfal, and it is the reading of Hamza. The rest yamayz with a light shaddah from maza yamayz. It is said: I distinguished something some of it from some other, I distinguish it, and I distinguished it with a distinction. Abu Muadh said: I distinguished something, I distinguish it with a distinction, if you separate between two things. If they are things, you say: I distinguished them with a distinction. And similarly, if you make one thing into two things, you say: I separated between them, with a light shaddah, and from this is the parting of poetry. If you make it things, you say: I separated it with a distinction.

Surat Al Imran 3:179

God would not leave the believers in the state you are in until He distinguishes the evil from the good. And God would not inform you of the unseen, but God chooses from among His messengers whom He wills. So believe in God and His messengers. And if you believe and fear God, you will have a great reward.

I said: And from it the people were distinguished, some of them were distinguished from others, and almost distinguished: they were torn apart, and with this the saying of God Almighty was interpreted: You almost burst with rage (al-Mulk 67:8), and in the hadith: Whoever removes something harmful from the road, it is charity for him.

God the Almighty says: So believe in God and His Messenger. It is said that when the infidels asked the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, to clarify to them who among them would believe, God revealed: So believe in God and His Messenger. That is, do not occupy yourself with what does not concern you, but occupy yourself with what concerns you, which is belief. So believe, that is, you must believe, not long for knowledge of the unseen. And if you believe and fear God, then for you is a great reward, that is, Paradise. It is mentioned that a man was an astrologer with Al-Hajjaj bin Yusuf Al-Thaqafi. Al-Hajjaj took pebbles in his hand, and he knew their number, so he said to the astrologer: How many are in my hand? So he counted and the astrologer got it right. Al-Hajjaj ignored him and took pebbles that he had not counted, so he said to the astrologer: How many are in my hand? So he counted and got it wrong. Then he counted again and got it wrong. So he said: O prince, I think you do not know the number of what is in your hand? He said: No. He said: So what is the difference between them? He said: I counted that and it went beyond the limits of the unseen, so I calculated and was correct. But this, you did not know its number, so it became unseen, and no one knows the unseen except God Almighty. This chapter will come in the livestock, God Almighty willing.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

God Almighty says to His Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace: And let not those who hasten into disbelief grieve you. This is due to His intense concern for people. He was grieved by the infidels' haste to disobey, be stubborn, and dissent. So God Almighty said: Let not that grieve you. "Indeed, they will never harm God at all. God intends not to grant them any share in the Hereafter." That is, His wisdom in them is that He intends, by His will and power, not to grant them any share in the Hereafter. "And for them is a great punishment." Then God Almighty said, informing about that with a decisive statement: "Indeed, those who have purchased disbelief in exchange for faith." That is, they exchanged this for that. "They will never harm God at all." That is, they will harm themselves. "And for them is a painful punishment. Then God Almighty said, And let not those who disbelieve think that Our granting them respite is better for themselves. We only grant them respite so that they may increase in sin. And for them is a humiliating punishment." Like His statement: "Do they think that what We provide them with of wealth and children * We hasten for them in good things? Rather, they do not perceive." And like His saying: "So leave Me and he who denies this statement. We will lead them on gradually from where they do not know." And like His saying: "And do not let their wealth and their children impress you. God only wants to punish them with them in this world and that their souls should depart while they are disbelievers." Then the Most High said: God would not leave the believers in that state you are in until He distinguishes the wicked from the good. That is, He must establish a cause of trial, in which He reveals His friend and exposes His enemy, in which He knows the patient believer and the wicked hypocrite. He means by that the Day of Uhud, in which God tested the believers, and in which their faith, patience, endurance, steadfastness, and obedience to God and His Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, became apparent, and in which He exposed the veil of the hypocrites. Their opposition, their refusal to fight, and their betrayal of God and His Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, became apparent. For this reason, God the Almighty said: God would not leave the believers in the state you are in until He distinguishes the wicked from the good. Mujahid said: He distinguished between them on the day of Uhud. Qatadah said: He distinguished between them through jihad and migration. Al-Suddi said: They said: If Muhammad is truthful, then let him tell us who among us believes in him and who disbelieves. So God the Almighty revealed: God would not leave the believers in the state you are in until He distinguishes the wicked from the good. That is, until the believer emerges from the disbeliever. All of this was narrated by Ibn Jarir. Then God the Almighty said: And God would not inform you of the unseen. That is, you do not know the unseen of God in His creation until He distinguishes for you the believer from the hypocrite, were it not for the reasons He establishes that reveal that. Then the Almighty said: But God chooses from among His messengers whom He wills as in His saying: "He is the Knower of the unseen, and He reveals His secret to none * Except to a messenger with whom He is pleased. Then He makes a guard march before him and behind him." Then the Almighty said: So believe in God and His messengers meaning obey God and His Messenger and follow him in what He has prescribed for you And if you believe and fear God, then for you is a great reward. And His saying: "And let not those who withhold what God has given them of His bounty think that it is good for them. Rather, it is bad for them." That is, the miser should not think that his accumulation of money will benefit him, rather it is harmful to him in his religion, and perhaps in his worldly life. Then he told about the fate of his wealth on the Day of Resurrection, saying, They will be collared by what they were stingy with on the Day of Resurrection. Al-Bukhari said: Abdullah bin Munir told us, he heard Abu al-Nadr, Abdul Rahman told us - he is the son of Abdullah bin Dinar - on the authority of his father, on the authority of Abu Salih, on the authority of Abu Hurairah, he said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Whoever God gives wealth and he does not pay its zakat, it will be like a bald-headed serpent with two tufts of hair, collaring him on the Day of Resurrection, taking hold of his two jaws - meaning his cheeks - and saying, 'I am your wealth, I am your treasure.'" Then he recited this verse, "And let not those who are stingy with what God has given them of His bounty think that it is good for them. Rather, it is bad for them," to the end of the verse. Al-Bukhari is the only one to narrate it from this source, not Muslim. Ibn Hibban narrated it in his Sahih on the authority of al-Layth bin Sa'd on the authority of Muhammad bin Ajlan, on the authority of al-Qa'qa' bin Hakim, on the authority of Abu Salih, on his authority.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Hajin bin Al-Muthanna told us, Abdul Aziz bin Abdullah bin Abi Salamah told us, on the authority of Abdullah bin Dinar, on the authority of Ibn Umar, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "Whoever does not pay the zakat on his wealth, God will present his wealth to him on the Day of Resurrection in the form of a bald-headed serpent with two tufts of hair, then he will hold it and say: I am your treasure, I am your treasure." And this is how An-Nasa'i narrated it on the authority of Al-Fadl bin Sahl, on the authority of Abu An-Nadr Hashim bin Al-Qasim, on the authority of Abdul Aziz bin Abdullah bin Abi Salamah, on his authority. Then An-Nasa'i said: The narration of Abdul Aziz on the authority of Abdullah bin Dinar, on the authority of Ibn Umar, is more authentic than the narration of Abdul Rahman on the authority of his father Abdullah bin Dinar, on the authority of Abu Salih, on the authority of Abu Hurairah. I said There is no contradiction between the two narrations, for it may be with Abdullah bin Dinar from both sources, and God knows best. Al-Hafiz Abu Bakr bin Mardawayh narrated it from more than one source on the authority of Abu Salih, on the authority of Abu Hurairah. And from the hadith of Muhammad bin Abi Hamid on the authority of Ziyad Al-Khatmi on the authority of Abu Hurairah, on his authority.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Sufyan narrated to us on the authority of Jami', on the authority of Abu Wa'il, on the authority of Abdullah, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, "There is no servant who does not pay the zakat of his wealth except that a bald-headed serpent will be made to follow him, fleeing from him while he follows him, and he will say: I am your treasure." Then Abdullah recited the proof of this from the Book of God, They will be collared with what they hoarded on the Day of Resurrection. This is how At-Tirmidhi, An-Nasa'i, and Ibn Majah narrated it on the authority of Sufyan ibn Uyaynah on the authority of Jami' ibn Abi Rashid. At-Tirmidhi added: And Abdul Malik ibn A'yan, both on the authority of Abu Wa'il Shaqiq ibn Salamah on the authority of Abdullah ibn Mas'ud on his authority. At-Tirmidhi said: It is hasan sahih. Al-Hakim narrated it in his Mustadrak on the authority of Abu Bakr ibn Ayyash and Sufyan Ath-Thawri, both on the authority of Abu Ishaq As-Sabi'i, on the authority of Abu Wa'il, on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud on his authority. Ibn Jarir narrated it through other chains of transmission on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud as a mursal.

Another hadith Al-Hafiz Abu Ya'la said: Umayyah ibn Bastam told us, Yazid ibn Zari' told us, Sa'id told us, on the authority of Qatada, on the authority of Salim ibn Abi al-Ja'd, on the authority of Ma'dan ibn Abi Talhah, on the authority of Thawban, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, "He said: 'Whoever leaves behind a treasure, it will appear to him on the Day of Resurrection as a bald-headed snake with two raisins, following him and saying: Who are you? Woe to you! It will say: I am your treasure that you left behind you. It will continue following him until it gives him his hand and he bites it, then it will follow the rest of his body.'" Its chain of transmission is good and strong, and they did not include it. It was narrated by Al-Tabarani on the authority of Jarir ibn Abdullah Al-Bajali, and it was narrated by Ibn Jarir and Ibn Mardawayh from the hadith of Bahz ibn Hakim on the authority of his father, on the authority of his grandfather, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "No man comes to his master and asks him for some of his surplus wealth, and he refuses it to him, except that a brave man will be summoned for him on the Day of Resurrection, licking the excess that he refused." This is the wording of Ibn Jarir. Ibn Jarir said: Ibn Al-Muthanna told us, Abd Al-A'la told us, Dawud told us on the authority of Abu Qaz'ah, on the authority of a man, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "No relative comes to his relative and asks him for some of the excess that God has given him, and he is stingy with it, except that a brave man will be brought out for him from Hell, licking his excess until it encircles him." Then he narrated it from another chain of transmission on the authority of Abu Qaz'ah, whose name is Hujayr ibn Bayan, on the authority of Abu Malik Al-Abdi, with no chain of transmission ending with him. He narrated it from another chain of transmission on the authority of Abu Qaz'ah, with no chain of transmission ending with him. Al-Awfi said on the authority of Ibn Abbas: It was revealed about the People of the Book who were stingy with what was in their hands of the revealed books, so that they would not explain them. Narrated by Ibn Jarir. The first is correct, although this is included in its meaning. It may be said that this is more appropriate to be included, and God Almighty knows best. God Almighty's statement, And to God belongs the inheritance of the heavens and the earth, means, And spend from that in which He has made you successors, for all matters are referred back to God Almighty. So present from your wealth what will benefit you on the Day of Resurrection. And God is Acquainted with what you do, meaning your intentions and your consciences.

Fath al-Qadir

His statement 179- "God would not leave the believers in the state you are in" is a new statement, and the address according to the majority of commentators is to the disbelievers and hypocrites: meaning God would not leave the believers in the state you are in of disbelief and hypocrisy "until He distinguishes the wicked from the good." It was said: The address is to the believers and hypocrites: meaning God would not leave you in the state you are in of mixing until He distinguishes some of you from others. It was said: The address is to the polytheists. What is meant by the believers are those in the loins and wombs: meaning God would not leave your children in the state you are in until He separates you from them. It was said: The address is to the believers: meaning God would not leave you, O group of believers, in the state you are in of mixing with the hypocrites until He distinguishes between you. In this way, and the second way there is a shift in the speech. And it was read "yamiz" with emphasis for the lighter one, from maza a thing yamizhu yamizan if he differentiates between two things, if they are things it is said: mazhu tamayzan "And God would not inform you of the unseen" so that you could differentiate between the good and the bad, for He is the One who keeps the knowledge of the unseen to Himself and does not reveal His unseen to anyone except whomever He chooses from among His messengers, whom He chooses and informs of something from His unseen so that he can differentiate between you, as happened with our Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, when he appointed many of the hypocrites, for that was by God teaching him, not by his knowing the unseen, and it was said that the meaning is: And God would not inform you of the unseen in who deserves prophethood, so that the revelation would be by your choice "but God selects that is, He chooses from among His messengers whomever He wills." His statement, So believe in God and His Messengers, meaning: Do the faith required of you and leave being occupied with what is not your concern, such as seeking knowledge of God Almighty. And if you believe in what was mentioned, and fear God, then for you, instead of that, is a great reward, the extent of which is unknown and the nature of which is not attained.

Surat Al Imran 3:179

God would not leave the believers in the state you are in until He distinguishes the evil from the good. And God would not inform you of the unseen, but God chooses from among His messengers whom He wills. So believe in God and His messengers. And if you believe and fear God, you will have a great reward.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

179- The Almighty said: "God would not leave the believers in that state you are upon until He distinguishes the wicked from the good." They differed about it, and Al-Kalbi said: Quraysh said: O Muhammad, you claim that whoever opposes you is in the Fire and God is angry with him, and that whoever follows you in your religion is in Paradise and God is pleased with him, so inform us of who believes in you and who does not believe in you, so God the Almighty revealed this verse.

Al-Suddi said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: My nation was presented to me in their forms in clay as they were presented to Adam, and I was informed of who would believe in me and who would disbelieve in me. This reached the hypocrites, and they said in mockery: Muhammad claims that he knows who will believe in him and who will disbelieve among those who have not yet been created, and we are with him and he does not know us. This reached the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, so he stood on the pulpit and praised God and thanked Him, then he said: What is the matter with people who have questioned my knowledge? Do not ask me about anything between you and the Hour except that I will inform you of it. Abdullah bin Hudhafah as-Sahmi stood up and said: Who is my father, O Messenger of God? He said: Hudhafah. Then Umar stood up and said: O Messenger of God, we are pleased with God as our Lord, Islam as our religion, the Qur'an as our leader, and you as our Prophet, so forgive us, may God forgive you. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Will you then exult? Then he descended from the pulpit, and God, the Most High, revealed this verse.

They differed regarding the ruling on the verse and its organization. Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with him, Ad-Dahhak, Muqatil, Al-Kalbi and most of the commentators said: The address is to the infidels and hypocrites, meaning, God would not leave the believers in the state you are in, O group of infidels and hypocrites, of infidelity and hypocrisy, until He distinguishes the wicked from the good.

Some people said: The address is to the believers whom he spoke about, meaning: God would not leave you, O group of believers, in the state you are in, of confusing the believer with the hypocrite, so he returned from the report to the address.

"Until he distinguishes" Hamzah, Al-Kisa'i and Ya'qub read it with a damma on the ya' and with a shaddah, and so is the one in Al-Anfal. The rest read it with a light sukoon. It is said: mazā al-shay' yamīzūhu mizāzan and mayzāhu tamayzān if he separated it and distinguished it. It is only by itself. Abu Mu'adh said: If you separate between two things, you say: mazāt mizāt. If they are things, you say: mazātuhu tamayzān. Likewise, if you make one thing into two things, you say: farqāt with a light sukoon, and from this is parting of poetry. If you make it things, you say: farqātuhu tafriq. The meaning of the verse is until the hypocrite is distinguished from the sincere. So God distinguished the believers from the hypocrites on the day of Uhud when they showed hypocrisy and stayed behind from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace.

Qatada said: Until the infidel is distinguished from the believer through migration and jihad.

Ad-Dahhak said: God would not leave the believers as you are in the loins of men and the wombs of women, O group of hypocrites and polytheists, until He separates you from those in your loins and the wombs of your women of the believers. It was also said: until He distinguishes the wicked which is the sinner from the good which is the believer, until the sins are taken from the believer by what befalls him of calamity, trial and misfortune. And God would not inform you of the unseen because no one knows the unseen except Him. But God chooses from among His messengers whom He wills so He informs him of some of the knowledge of the unseen, similar to the words of God the Most High: Knower of the unseen, and He reveals not to anyone His secrets * Except to a messenger with whom He is pleased Surat Al-Jinn, verses 26-27.

Al-Saddī said: Its meaning is that God would not have informed Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, of the unseen, but God chose him. So believe in God and His messengers, and if you believe and fear God, then for you is a great reward.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

179 "God would not leave the believers as you are until He distinguishes the wicked from the good." The address is to all the sincere and hypocrites of his time, and the meaning is that He will not leave you mixed up, not knowing your sincere from your hypocrites, until He distinguishes the hypocrites from the sincere through revelation to His Prophet about your conditions, or through the difficult tasks that only the sincere and devoted among you can endure or submit to, such as spending money and lives in the way of God, so that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, may test your inner selves and use it as evidence for your beliefs. Hamza and Al-Kisa'i read "until He distinguishes", here and in Al-Anfal with a damma on the ya', a fatha on the meem, a kasra on the ya' and a shaddah on it, and the rest with a fatha on the ya', a kasra on the meem and a sukoon on the ya'. "And God would not inform you of the unseen, but God chooses from among His messengers whom He wills." God would not give any of you knowledge of the unseen, so that he would know what is in the hearts of disbelief and belief, but God chooses for His message whomever He wills, so He inspires him and informs him of some of the unseen, or He establishes for him what indicates it. "So believe in God and His messengers" with the attribute of sincerity, or by teaching Him alone as the Knower of the unseen and teaching them as chosen servants who do not know except what God has taught them and do not say except what has been revealed to them. It was narrated that "the disbelievers said: If Muhammad is truthful, then let him tell us who among us believes and who disbelieves." So it was revealed. On the authority of Al-Suddi that the Prophet, peace and blessings be upon him, said: "My nation was presented to me and I was informed who believes in me and who disbelieves." The hypocrites said: If he claims that he knows who believes in him and who disbelieves while we are with him, he does not know us. So it was revealed: "And if you believe" with true faith. "And fear" hypocrisy. "Then you will have a great reward" whose value cannot be measured.

Surat Al Imran 3:180

And let not those who withhold what God has given them of His bounty think that it is good for them. Rather, it is bad for them. They will be collared by what they withheld on the Day of Resurrection. And to God belongs the inheritance of the heavens and the earth. And God is Acquainted with what you do.

Surat Al Imran 3:180

And let not those who withhold what God has given them of His bounty think that it is good for them. Rather, it is bad for them. They will be collared by what they withheld on the Day of Resurrection. And to God belongs the inheritance of the heavens and the earth. And God is Acquainted with what you do.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And let not those who withhold what God has given them of His bounty think with the letter ya and the letter ta that it meaning their withholding is good for them is a second object and the pronoun is for separation and the first is their withholding, understood before the relative pronoun on the upper and before the pronoun on the lower (rather, it is worse for them. They will be collared by what they withheld) meaning their zakat of money on the Day of Resurrection by a snake being placed around his neck to bite him as mentioned in the hadith and to God belongs the inheritance of the heavens and the earth He inherits them after their people perish and God is All-Aware of what you do with the letter ta and the letter ya and He will reward you for it so He will reward you for it

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Jaafar said: The reading of that differed.

A group of people from Hijaz and Iraq read it: And do not think that those who are stingy with the letter ta are among those who think.

Another group read it as: And do not think with the letter ya.

Then the Arabs differed in their interpretation of that.

Some of the grammarians of Kufa said: The meaning of this is: The misers should not think that miserliness is good for them. So it is sufficient to mention yabghlūn from bukhl; just as you say: So-and-so arrived and I was pleased with him, but you mean: I was pleased with his arrival. And it is, not Imad.

Some of the grammarians of Basra said: What he meant by his saying: "And let not those who withhold what God has given them of His bounty think that it is good for them. Rather, it is bad for them," is that they should not think that miserliness is good for them. So he dropped the name that he attributed to it, which is miserliness, because he mentioned the calculation and mentioned what God has given them of His bounty, so he implied both of them when he mentioned them. He said: And there has been an omission that is more severe than this, he said: Not equal among you are those who spent before the conquest and fought (Al-Hadid 57:10) and he did not say: and those who spent after the conquest, because when he said: Those are greater in degree than those who spent afterwards (Al-Hadid 57:10), there was evidence in that that he meant them.

Some of those who denied the statement of the one we mentioned from the people of Basra said: The min in His statement: Not equal among you are those who spent before the conquest (al-Hadid 57:10) is in the sense of a plural. The meaning of the statement is: Not equal among you are those who spent before the conquest in their homes and conditions, so how about those who spent after the conquest? The first is sufficient. He said: In His statement: Let not those who are stingy with what God has given them of His bounty think that it is better for them, there is an omitted word, except that it was not omitted except in the statement that which took the place of the omitted word, because huwa refers to stinginess, and khayran lahum refers to nouns. These two referring words indicate that there are two nouns before them, and it is sufficient to say: yabghlun from stinginess.

He said: If this is read with the letter ta', then the word al-bukhl comes before al-ladhin, and if it is read with the letter ya', then the word al-bukhl comes after al-ladhin. It is sufficient to say al-ladhin yabkhalun from al-bukhl, as the poet said:

If a fool is forbidden, he will run after it and disobey it, and the fool will disobey.

As if he said: He ran to foolishness, so he was satisfied with foolishness by saying the foolish one, and likewise he was satisfied with those who are stingy, from stinginess.

Abu Ja'far said: The more correct of the two readings in this regard, in my opinion, is the reading of the one who reads: And do not think, O Muhammad, that the stinginess of those who are stingy with what God has given them of His bounty is better for them. Then he left out mentioning stinginess, since in his statement: It is better for them, there was an indication that it was intended in the speech, since it had been preceded by his statement: Those who are stingy with what God has given them of His bounty.

We said: Reading it with the taa is more correct than reading it with the yaa, because the nature of al-muhsaba requires a noun and a predicate. So if His statement, And let not those who are stingy think is read with the yaa, then al-muhsaba does not have a noun, and His statement, It is better for them is a predicate of it. And if it is read with the taa, then His statement, Those who are stingy is a noun for it, and it has conveyed the meaning of stinginess, which is the name of al-muhsaba that was abandoned, and His statement, It is better for them is a predicate of it, so it is in accordance with the well-known eloquent speech of the Arabs. Therefore, we chose the reading with the taa in that, as we have explained, even though the reading with the yaa is not wrong, but it is not the most eloquent nor the most famous of the speech of the Arabs.

Abu Ja'far said: As for the interpretation of the verse, which is its interpretation according to what we have chosen from the reading in that: And do not think, O Muhammad, that the miserliness of those who are miserly with what God has given them in this world of wealth, and do not give from it the right of God that He has imposed upon them in it of zakat, is better for them with God on the Day of Resurrection. Rather, it is worse for them with Him in the Hereafter, as:

Muhammad bin Al-Hussein told us, Ahmad bin Al-Mufaddal told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi: And do not think that those who are stingy with what God has given them of His bounty are better for them. Rather, it is worse for them. They are those to whom God has given of His bounty, but they are stingy in spending it in the way of God, and they do not pay its zakat.

Others said: Rather, he meant by that the Jews who were stingy in explaining to the people what God revealed in the Torah about the matter of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his description.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Saad told me, he said, my father told me, he said, my uncle told me, he said, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding his statement: And let not those who are stingy with what God has given them of His bounty think to that they will be collared by what they were stingy with on the Day of Resurrection, meaning by that the People of the Book were stingy with the Book and did not explain it to the people.

Al-Qasim told us, he said, Al-Hussein told us, he said, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding his statement: And do not think that those who withhold what God has given them of His bounty, he said: They are Jews, to His statement: And the enlightening Book (Al Imran 3:184).

The first of the two interpretations of this verse is the first interpretation, which is that what is meant by miserliness in this place is the withholding of zakat, because the reports from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, show that he interpreted his statement, They will be collared by what they withheld on the Day of Resurrection, as he said: The miser who withheld God's right from him, that it will become a snake around his neck. And because God said after this verse, God has heard the statement of those who said, 'God is poor, and we are rich,' so He, may His praise be glorified, described the statement of the polytheists among the Jews who claimed, when God commanded them to pay zakat, that God is poor.

Abu Ja'far said: What He, may His praise be exalted, means by His saying: They will be collared, is that God will make what those who withhold zakat were stingy with, a collar around their necks, like the well-known collars, like the one that:

Al-Hasan bin Qaz'ah told me, he said, Muslimah bin Alqamah told us, he said, Dawud told us, on the authority of Abu Qaz'ah, on the authority of Abu Malik Al-Abdi, he said: There is no servant to whom a relative comes asking him for something he has in excess and he is miserly with him, except that he will bring forth for him what he was miserly with in the form of a bald-headed snake. He said: And he recited: And do not think that those who are miserly with what God has given them of His bounty is good for them. Rather, it is bad for them. They will be collared by what they were miserly with on the Day of Resurrection, to the end of the verse.

Ibn Al-Muthanna told us, he said, Abd Al-A'la told us, he said, Dawud told us, on the authority of Abu Qaz'ah, on the authority of a man, "on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: 'There is no relative who comes to his relative and asks him for some of the bounty that God has given him, and he is stingy with it, except that a snake will be brought out for him from Hell, licking its lips until it encircles him.'"

Ibn Al-Muthanna told us, he said, Abu Muawiyah Muhammad bin Khazim told us, he said, Dawud told us, on the authority of Abu Qaza'ah Hajar bin Bayan, he said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "There is no relative who comes to his relative and asks him for some of the bounty that God has given him, and he is stingy with it, except that a snake will be brought out for him on the Day of Resurrection from the Fire, which will lick its lips until it encircles him. Then he recited: And never think that those who are stingy with what God has given them of His bounty will be encircled by what they were stingy with on the Day of Resurrection."

Ziyad bin Ubaidullah Al-Mari told me, he said: Marwan bin Muawiyah told us, and Abdullah bin Abdullah Al-Kalabi told me, he said: Abdullah bin Bakr Al-Sahmi told us, and Yaqub bin Ibrahim told me, he said: Abdul Wahid bin Wasil Abu Ubaidah Al-Haddad told us - and the wording is from Yaqub - all of them, on the authority of Bahz bin Hakim bin Muawiyah bin Haidah, on the authority of his father, on the authority of his grandfather, he said: I heard the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: "No man comes to his master and asks him for some surplus wealth that he has, and he refuses it to him, except that a brave man will be called for him on the Day of Resurrection, licking the surplus that he refused."

Ibn Bashir told us, he said, Abd al-Rahman told us, he said, Sufyan told us, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Abu Wa'il, on the authority of Abdullah ibn Mas'ud: They will be collared by what they were stingy with on the Day of Resurrection. He said: A snake will peck at the head of one of them, saying: I am your wealth that you were stingy with!

Muhammad ibn al-Muthanna told us, he said, Muhammad ibn Ja'far told us, he said, Shu'bah told us, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, he said: I heard Abu Wa'il narrating: that he heard Abdullah say about this verse: They will be collared with what they hoarded on the Day of Resurrection, he said: A spike that twists around the head of one of them.

Surat Al Imran 3:180

And let not those who withhold what God has given them of His bounty think that it is good for them. Rather, it is bad for them. They will be collared by what they withheld on the Day of Resurrection. And to God belongs the inheritance of the heavens and the earth. And God is Acquainted with what you do.

Ibn Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Ibn Abi Uday told us, on the authority of Shu'bah, he said, Khallad bin Aslam told us, he said, Al-Nadr bin Shumayl told us, he said, Shu'bah told us, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Abu Wa'il, on the authority of Abdullah, similarly - except that they both said: He said: A brave black man.

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said: Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said: Al-Thawri told us, on the authority of Abu Ishaq, on the authority of Abu Wa'il, on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud, he said: On the Day of Resurrection, his wealth will come to him like a snake, which will peck at his head and say: I am your wealth that you were stingy with! Then it will wrap itself around his neck.

It was narrated on the authority of Sufyan ibn Uyaynah, who said: Jami' ibn Abi Rashid and Abd al-Malik ibn A'yan narrated to us, on the authority of Abu Wa'il, on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: There is no one who does not pay the zakat of his wealth except that a bald-headed, brave man will be placed around his neck. Then the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, recited to us: And do not think that those who withhold what God has given them of His bounty are better for them, the verse.

Muhammad bin Al-Hussein told us, Ahmad bin Al-Mufaddal told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi: As for they will be collared by what they were stingy with, then on the Day of Resurrection his wealth will be made into a bald-headed snake that will collar him, seize him by the neck, and follow him until it throws him into the Fire.

Al-Qasim told us, Al-Hussein told us, Khalaf bin Khalifa told us, on the authority of Abu Hashim, on the authority of Abu Wa'il, who said: He is the man whom God provides with wealth, but he prevents his relatives from the right that God has given them in his wealth, so he puts a snake around it and encircles it, and says: What do you have to do with me? He says: I am your wealth.

Al-Muthanna told us, he said, Abu Ghassan told us, he said, Israel told us, on the authority of Hakim bin Jubair, on the authority of Salim bin Abi Al-Jaad, on the authority of Masruq, he said: I asked Ibn Masoud about his statement: They will be collared with what they hoarded on the Day of Resurrection, he said: They will be collared with a bald man whose head will be torn off.

Others said: The meaning of this is: They will be encircled by what they were stingy with on the Day of Resurrection, so a collar of fire will be placed around their necks.

Who said that?

Ibn Bashar told us, he said, Abd al-Rahman told us, he said, Sufyan told us, on the authority of Mansur, on the authority of Ibrahim: They will be encircled by what they withheld on the Day of Resurrection, he said: A collar of fire.

Ibn Al-Muthanna told us, he said, Muhammad Ibn Ja'far told us, he said, Shu'bah told us, on the authority of Mansur, on the authority of Ibrahim, that he said regarding this verse: They will be collared with what they hoarded on the Day of Resurrection, he said: A collar of fire.

Al-Hasan told us: Abd al-Razzaq told us: Al-Thawri told us, on the authority of Mansur, on the authority of Ibrahim, regarding his statement: They will be collared, he said: A collar of fire.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Jarir told us, on the authority of Mansour, on the authority of Ibrahim: They will be collared with what they hoarded on the Day of Resurrection, he said: A collar of fire.

Others said: The meaning of this is: Those who concealed the prophethood of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, from the scholars of the effort, will bear what they concealed of that.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Saad told me, he said, my father told me, he said, my uncle told me, he said, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding his statement: They will be collared for what they withheld on the Day of Resurrection, have you not heard that he said: They are stingy and enjoin stinginess on people (An-Nisa': 37 - al-Hadid 57:24), meaning the People of the Book, he says: they conceal and enjoin concealment on people.

Others said: The meaning of this is: They will be asked on the Day of Resurrection to bring what they were stingy with in this world of their money.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Amr told me, he said, Abu Asim told us, he said, Isa told us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding his statement: They will be encircled by what they were stingy with on the Day of Resurrection, he said: They will be commanded to bring what they were stingy with, to his statement: and the enlightening Book.

Ibn Al-Muthanna told us, he said, Abu Hudhayfah told us, he said, Shibl told us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, They will be collared, they will be ordered to bring the same amount of their money that they were stingy with on the Day of Resurrection.

Abu Ja'far said: The most correct interpretation of this verse is the interpretation we mentioned at the beginning of His statement: They will be made to wear what they were stingy with, based on the reports we mentioned about that from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. No one is more knowledgeable about what God Almighty meant by His revelation than he, peace be upon him.

Abu Jaafar said: By that, may His praise be glorified, He means that He is the Living One who does not die, and the One who remains after the annihilation of all His creation.

If someone says: What is the meaning of his saying: He has the inheritance of the heavens and the earth, and the known inheritance is what is transferred from the possession of an owner to his heir upon his death, and to God belongs the world before the annihilation of His creation and after it?

It was said: The meaning of that is what we have described, of His describing Himself as eternal, and informing His creation that they are destined to perish. That is because the kingdom of the owner only becomes an inheritance after his death. Rather, the Most High said: And to God belongs the inheritance of the heavens and the earth, informing His servants that the kingdoms of all His creation are transferred from them with their death, and that there is no one except Him who will perish, other than Him. For He is the One who, if He destroys all of His creation and their kingdoms are removed from them, no one will remain who will have what they owned other than Him.

The meaning of the verse is: Do not think that those who are stingy with what God has given them of His bounty is good for them. Rather, it is bad for them. They will be surrounded by what they were stingy with on the Day of Resurrection, after they perish and their possessions are taken away from them, at a time when they do not own anything, and God's inheritance and the inheritance of all of His creation will be for Him.

Then the Most High informed us that He is aware and knowledgeable about what these people who are stingy with what God has given them of bounty do, and about what others from among His descendants do, and He is aware of all of that, so that He may reward each of them according to what he deserves, the doer of good with good, and the doer of evil according to what He, the Most High, sees fit.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

It has four issues:

The first: The Almighty's saying: And let not those who who is in the nominative case, and the first object is omitted. Al-Khalil, Sibawayh, and Al-Farra' said: The meaning is that miserliness is good for them, meaning that the misers should not think that miserliness is good for them. It was only omitted because they are miserly indicates miserliness, and it is like his saying: Whoever is truthful, it is better for him, meaning that truthfulness is better for him. And from this is the saying of the poet:

If a fool is forbidden, he will run after it and disobey, and the fool will go after disobedience.

The meaning is: He led to foolishness, so foolishness indicates foolishness. As for Hamza's reading with the letter ta', it is very far-fetched. An-Nahhas said: It is permissible for it to be interpreted as: Do not think that the stinginess of those who are stingy is good for them. Al-Zajjaj said: It is like And ask the town (Yusuf 12:82), and huwa in his saying: huwa khayran lahim is a separator according to the Basrans, and it is the pillar according to the Kufians. An-Nahhas said: It is permissible in Arabic to say huwa khayran lahim as a subject and a predicate.

The second: The Almighty's saying: Rather, it is worse for them is the subject and predicate, meaning miserliness is worse for them, and the seen in saytooqoon is the seen of the threat, meaning they will be surrounded, said Al-Mubarrad, and this verse was revealed about miserliness with money and spending in the way of God, and paying the obligatory zakat, and this is like His saying: And they do not spend it in the way of God, a group of interpreters went to this, including Ibn Masoud, Ibn Abbas, Abu Wa'il, Abu Malik, Al-Suddi, and Al-Sha'bi, they said: The meaning of they will be surrounded by what they were stingy with is what was mentioned in the hadith on the authority of Abu Hurairah, "on the authority of the Prophet, may God's prayers and peace be upon him, he said: Whoever God gives wealth and he does not pay its zakat, it will be likened to him on the Day of Resurrection to a bald-headed snake with two tufts, which will encircle him on the Day of Resurrection, then seize him by the two sides and say, 'I am your wealth, I am your treasure.' Then he recited this verse: "And let not those who are miserly think," narrated by Al-Nasa'i, and narrated by Ibn Majah on the authority of Ibn Masoud, "on the authority of the Messenger of God, may God's prayers and peace be upon him, he said: There is no one who does not pay "Whoever pays the Zakat of his wealth, he will be given a bald-headed, scorpion-like figure on the Day of Resurrection, until it is placed around his neck." Then the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, recited to us the proof of this from the Book of God Almighty: And let not those who are stingy with what God has given them of His bounty think. It was narrated from him, may God bless him and grant him peace, that he said: "There is no relative who comes to his relative and asks him for some of the bounty he has, and he is stingy with it, except that a scorpion will be brought out for him on the Day of Resurrection from the Fire, licking his lips until it encircles him." Ibn Abbas also said: It was revealed about the People of the Book and their stinginess, explaining what they knew about the matter of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace. This was said by Mujahid and a group of scholars. The meaning of they will be encircled according to this interpretation is that they will bear the punishment for what they were stingy with, so it is from the word capacity as God Almighty said: And upon those who are able to bear it (al-Baqarah 2:184), and it is not from the word encircling. Ibrahim al-Nakha'i said: The meaning of they will be encircled is that a collar of fire will be placed for them on the Day of Resurrection. This is consistent with the first interpretation, i.e. the statement of al-Suddi. It was also said: They will be bound by their deeds as The collar is attached to the neck. It is said: So-and-so tied his work to the collar of a dove, meaning he bound his work. God Almighty said: And every man We have fastened his bird to his neck (al-Isra' 17:13). From this meaning is the saying of Abdullah bin Jahsh to Abu Sufyan:

Surat Al Imran 3:180

And let not those who withhold what God has given them of His bounty think that it is good for them. Rather, it is bad for them. They will be collared by what they withheld on the Day of Resurrection. And to God belongs the inheritance of the heavens and the earth. And God is Acquainted with what you do.

Tell Abu Sufyan about a matter that will lead to regret.

I sold your cousin's house to pay the fine on your behalf.

Your ally is God, the Lord of mankind, the diligent Qassam

Go with her, go with her, I put a dove's necklace around her

This is consistent with the second interpretation. Stinginess and miserliness in the language means that a person prevents a right that is due to him. As for the one who prevents what is not due to him, he is not miserly, because he is not blamed for that. The people of Hijaz say: they are miserly, and they were miserly. The rest of the Arabs say: they were miserly, they are miserly. An-Nahhas narrated it. And miserliness means miserliness and miserliness, on the authority of Ibn Faris.

Third: In the fruit of miserliness and its benefit, which is what was narrated: "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to the Ansar: Who is your master? They said: Al-Jadd bin Qais, despite his miserliness. So he, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: What disease is worse than miserliness? They said: How is that, O Messenger of God? He said: A people settled on the coast of the sea and, due to their miserliness, they hated for guests to stay with them, so they said: Let the men among us stay away from the women, so that the men will apologize to the guests for the distance of the women, and the women will apologize for the distance of the men. So they did and it lasted a long time, so the men were busy with the men and the women with the women." Al-Mawardi mentioned it in the book Adab al-Dunya wa al-Din, and God knows best.

Fourth: There is a difference of opinion regarding miserliness and stinginess, whether they have one meaning or two. It was said: Stinginess is refraining from giving what you have, and stinginess is eagerness to obtain what you do not have. It was also said that stinginess is miserliness with eagerness, and this is correct, because Muslim narrated on the authority of Jabir ibn Abdullah, "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Beware of injustice, for injustice will be darkness on the Day of Resurrection, and beware of stinginess, for stinginess destroyed those who came before you, for it led them to shed each other's blood and make permissible what is forbidden.' This refutes the statement of those who said: Stinginess prevents what is obligatory, and stinginess prevents what is recommended, because if stinginess prevented what is recommended, it would not have come under this great threat and severe blame that leads to the destruction of this world and the Hereafter. This meaning is supported by what al-Nasa'i narrated on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, 'The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'The dust of the path of God and the smoke of Hell will never come together in the nostrils of a Muslim man, and stinginess and faith will never come together in the heart of a Muslim man.' " This indicates that stinginess is more severely blamed than Stinginess, except that what has come indicates their equality, which is his saying: And he was asked: Can a believer be stingy? He said: No. And Al-Mawardi mentioned in the book Adab Al-Dunya Wa Al-Din "that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to the Ansar: Who is your master? They said: Al-Jadd bin Qais, despite his stinginess," and it has been mentioned before.

God the Almighty says: And to God belongs the inheritance of the heavens and the earth. God the Almighty informed us of His permanence and the permanence of His kingdom, and that He is eternal as He is in eternity, independent of the worlds. He inherits the earth after His creation perishes and their possessions disappear, so the possessions and wealth remain unclaimed. This is the course of inheritance in the custom of creation, but this is not inheritance in reality, because the inheritor in reality is the one who inherits something that was not his before. God the Almighty is the owner of the heavens and the earth, and what is between them. The heavens and what is in them, and the earth and what is in them, belong to Him. The wealth was a loan to its owners, so when they died, the loan was returned to its owner who originally had it. Similar to this verse is God the Almighty's saying: Indeed, it is We who inherit the earth and whoever is on it (Maryam 19:40). The meaning of the two verses is that God the Almighty commanded His servants to spend and not be stingy before they die and to leave that as an inheritance for God the Almighty, and nothing will benefit them except what they spend.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

God Almighty says to His Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace: And let not those who hasten into disbelief grieve you. This is due to His intense concern for people. He was grieved by the infidels' haste to disobey, be stubborn, and dissent. So God Almighty said: Let not that grieve you. "Indeed, they will never harm God at all. God intends not to grant them any share in the Hereafter." That is, His wisdom in them is that He intends, by His will and power, not to grant them any share in the Hereafter. "And for them is a great punishment." Then God Almighty said, informing about that with a decisive statement: "Indeed, those who have purchased disbelief in exchange for faith." That is, they exchanged this for that. "They will never harm God at all." That is, they will harm themselves. "And for them is a painful punishment.

Then God Almighty said, And let not those who disbelieve think that Our granting them respite is better for themselves. We only grant them respite so that they may increase in sin. And for them is a humiliating punishment." Like His statement: "Do they think that what We provide them with of wealth and children * We hasten for them in good things? Rather, they do not perceive." And like His saying: "So leave Me and he who denies this statement. We will lead them on gradually from where they do not know." And like His saying: "And do not let their wealth and their children impress you. God only wants to punish them with them in this world and that their souls should depart while they are disbelievers." Then the Most High said: God would not leave the believers in that state you are in until He distinguishes the wicked from the good. That is, He must establish a cause of trial, in which He reveals His friend and exposes His enemy, in which He knows the patient believer and the wicked hypocrite. He means by that the Day of Uhud, in which God tested the believers, and in which their faith, patience, endurance, steadfastness, and obedience to God and His Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, became apparent, and in which He exposed the veil of the hypocrites. Their opposition, their refusal to fight, and their betrayal of God and His Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, became apparent. For this reason, God the Almighty said: God would not leave the believers in the state you are in until He distinguishes the wicked from the good. Mujahid said: He distinguished between them on the day of Uhud. Qatadah said: He distinguished between them through jihad and migration. Al-Suddi said: They said: If Muhammad is truthful, then let him tell us who among us believes in him and who disbelieves. So God the Almighty revealed: God would not leave the believers in the state you are in until He distinguishes the wicked from the good. That is, until the believer emerges from the disbeliever. All of this was narrated by Ibn Jarir. Then God the Almighty said: And God would not inform you of the unseen. That is, you do not know the unseen of God in His creation until He distinguishes for you the believer from the hypocrite, were it not for the reasons He establishes that reveal that. Then the Almighty said: But God chooses from among His messengers whom He wills as in His saying: "He is the Knower of the unseen, and He reveals His secret to none * Except to a messenger with whom He is pleased. Then He makes a guard march before him and behind him." Then the Almighty said: So believe in God and His messengers meaning obey God and His Messenger and follow him in what He has prescribed for you And if you believe and fear God, then for you is a great reward. And His saying: "And let not those who withhold what God has given them of His bounty think that it is good for them. Rather, it is bad for them." That is, the miser should not think that his accumulation of money will benefit him, rather it is harmful to him in his religion, and perhaps in his worldly life. Then he told about the fate of his wealth on the Day of Resurrection, saying, They will be collared by what they were stingy with on the Day of Resurrection. Al-Bukhari said: Abdullah bin Munir told us, he heard Abu al-Nadr, Abdul Rahman told us - he is the son of Abdullah bin Dinar - on the authority of his father, on the authority of Abu Salih, on the authority of Abu Hurairah, he said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Whoever God gives wealth and he does not pay its zakat, it will be like a bald-headed serpent with two tufts of hair, collaring him on the Day of Resurrection, taking hold of his two jaws - meaning his cheeks - and saying, 'I am your wealth, I am your treasure.'" Then he recited this verse, "And let not those who are stingy with what God has given them of His bounty think that it is good for them. Rather, it is bad for them," to the end of the verse. Al-Bukhari is the only one to narrate it from this source, not Muslim. Ibn Hibban narrated it in his Sahih on the authority of al-Layth bin Sa'd on the authority of Muhammad bin Ajlan, on the authority of al-Qa'qa' bin Hakim, on the authority of Abu Salih, on his authority.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Hajin bin Al-Muthanna told us, Abdul Aziz bin Abdullah bin Abi Salamah told us, on the authority of Abdullah bin Dinar, on the authority of Ibn Umar, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "Whoever does not pay the zakat on his wealth, God will present his wealth to him on the Day of Resurrection in the form of a bald-headed serpent with two tufts of hair, then he will hold it and say: I am your treasure, I am your treasure." And this is how An-Nasa'i narrated it on the authority of Al-Fadl bin Sahl, on the authority of Abu An-Nadr Hashim bin Al-Qasim, on the authority of Abdul Aziz bin Abdullah bin Abi Salamah, on his authority. Then An-Nasa'i said: The narration of Abdul Aziz on the authority of Abdullah bin Dinar, on the authority of Ibn Umar, is more authentic than the narration of Abdul Rahman on the authority of his father Abdullah bin Dinar, on the authority of Abu Salih, on the authority of Abu Hurairah. I said There is no contradiction between the two narrations, for it may be with Abdullah bin Dinar from both sources, and God knows best. Al-Hafiz Abu Bakr bin Mardawayh narrated it from more than one source on the authority of Abu Salih, on the authority of Abu Hurairah. And from the hadith of Muhammad bin Abi Hamid on the authority of Ziyad Al-Khatmi on the authority of Abu Hurairah, on his authority.

Another hadith Imam Ahmad said: Sufyan narrated to us on the authority of Jami', on the authority of Abu Wa'il, on the authority of Abdullah, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, "There is no servant who does not pay the zakat of his wealth except that a bald-headed serpent will be made to follow him, fleeing from him while he follows him, and he will say: I am your treasure." Then Abdullah recited the proof of this from the Book of God, They will be collared with what they hoarded on the Day of Resurrection. This is how At-Tirmidhi, An-Nasa'i, and Ibn Majah narrated it on the authority of Sufyan ibn Uyaynah on the authority of Jami' ibn Abi Rashid. At-Tirmidhi added: And Abdul Malik ibn A'yan, both on the authority of Abu Wa'il Shaiq ibn Salamah on the authority of Abdullah ibn Mas'ud on his authority. At-Tirmidhi said: It is hasan sahih. Al-Hakim narrated it in his Mustadrak on the authority of Abu Bakr ibn Ayyash and Sufyan Ath-Thawri, both on the authority of Abu Ishaq As-Sabi'i, on the authority of Abu Wa'il, on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud on his authority. Ibn Jarir narrated it through other chains of transmission on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud as a mursal.

Surat Al Imran 3:180

And let not those who withhold what God has given them of His bounty think that it is good for them. Rather, it is bad for them. They will be collared by what they withheld on the Day of Resurrection. And to God belongs the inheritance of the heavens and the earth. And God is Acquainted with what you do.

Another hadith Al-Hafiz Abu Ya'la said: Umayyah ibn Bastam told us, Yazid ibn Zari' told us, Sa'id told us, on the authority of Qatada, on the authority of Salim ibn Abi al-Ja'd, on the authority of Ma'dan ibn Abi Talhah, on the authority of Thawban, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, "He said: 'Whoever leaves behind a treasure, it will appear to him on the Day of Resurrection as a bald-headed snake with two raisins, following him and saying: Who are you? Woe to you! It will say: I am your treasure that you left behind you. It will continue following him until it gives him his hand and he bites it, then it will follow the rest of his body.'" Its chain of transmission is good and strong, and they did not include it. It was narrated by Al-Tabarani on the authority of Jarir ibn Abdullah Al-Bajali, and it was narrated by Ibn Jarir and Ibn Mardawayh from the hadith of Bahz ibn Hakim on the authority of his father, on the authority of his grandfather, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "No man comes to his master and asks him for some of his surplus wealth, and he refuses to it him, except that a brave man will be summoned for him on the Day of Resurrection, licking the excess that he refused." This is the wording of Ibn Jarir. Ibn Jarir said: Ibn Al-Muthanna told us, Abd Al-A'la told us, Dawud told us on the authority of Abu Qaz'ah, on the authority of a man, on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "No relative comes to his relative and asks him for some of the excess that God has given him, and he is stingy with it, except that a brave man will be brought out for him from Hell, licking his excess until it encircles him." Then he narrated it from another chain of transmission on the authority of Abu Qaz'ah, whose name is Hujayr ibn Bayan, on the authority of Abu Malik Al-Abdi, with no chain of transmission ending with him. He narrated it from another chain of transmission on the authority of Abu Qaz'ah, with no chain of transmission ending with him. Al-Awfi said on the authority of Ibn Abbas: It was revealed about the People of the Book who were stingy with what was in their hands of the revealed books, so that they would not explain them. Narrated by Ibn Jarir. The first is correct, although this is included in its meaning. It may be said that this is more appropriate to be included, and God Almighty knows best. God Almighty's statement, And to God belongs the inheritance of the heavens and the earth, means, And spend from that in which He has made you successors, for all matters are referred back to God Almighty. So present from your wealth what will benefit you on the Day of Resurrection. And God is Acquainted with what you do, meaning your intentions and your consciences.

Fath al-Qadir

His saying 180- And let not those who are stingy with what God has given them of His bounty think that it is good for them. The relative pronoun is in the nominative case as the subject of the verb according to the reading of those who read with the lower ya', and the first object is omitted: that is, let not the stingy people think that stinginess is good for them. This was said by Al-Khalil, Sibawayh, and Al-Farra'. They said: It was omitted because they are stingy with it, and from that is the saying of the poet:

If a fool is forbidden, he will run after it and disobey, and the fool will go after disobedience.

That is, it led to foolishness, so the foolish person indicates foolishness. As for the reading of those who read with the superior, the verb is attributed to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and the first object is omitted: that is, do not think, O Muhammad, that the miserliness of those who are miserly is good for them. Al-Zajaj said: It is like And ask the town, and the pronoun mentioned is the pronoun of separation. Al-Mubarrad said: The seen in his statement They will be encircled by what they were miserly with is the seen of threat, and this sentence explains the meaning of his statement Rather, it is worse for them. It was said: The meaning of encircling here is that what they were miserly with of money will be a collar of fire around their necks. It was said: Its meaning is that they will bear the punishment for what they were miserly with, so it is from energy and not from encircling. It was said that the meaning is that they are bound by their deeds as a collar binds the neck. It is said: So-and-so encircled his deeds with the collar of a dove, meaning he was bound by the punishment for his deeds. It was said: That which is not paid in zakat from money will be represented to him as a bald-headed snake until it is encircled around his neck, as was reported in a chain traced back to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace. Al-Qurtubi said: Stinginess in the language means that a person prevents a right that is due to him. As for the one who prevents what is not due to him, he is not stingy. His statement, And to God belongs the inheritance of the heavens and the earth, means: It belongs to Him alone and not to anyone else, as the introduction indicates. The meaning is: He owns what is in them that is inherited by its people, so why are they stingy with that and do not spend it when it belongs to God, the Most High, not to them? Rather, it was with them as a loan that can be returned. Similar to this verse is the statement of God, the Most High, Indeed, it is We who inherit the earth and whoever is on it, and His statement, And spend out of that which He has made you successors therein. Inheritance in origin is what is transferred from one owner to another and was not owned by that other before it was transferred to him by inheritance. It is known that God, the Most High, is the true owner of all His creations.

Ibn Jarir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Mujahid, Indeed, those who have purchased disbelief at the price of faith, he said: They are the hypocrites. Abd al-Razzaq, Ibn Abi Shaybah, Ibn Jarir, Ibn al-Mundhir, Ibn Abi Hatim, al-Tabarani and al-Hakim narrated and authenticated it on the authority of Ibn Mas'ud, who said: There is no soul, righteous or wicked, but death is better for it than life, if he was righteous, for God said: And what is with God is better for the righteous, and if he was wicked, for He said: And let not those who disbelieve think, the verse. Sa'id ibn Mansur, Abd ibn Humayd, Ibn Jarir and Ibn al-Mundhir narrated something similar on the authority of Abu al-Darda'. Sa'id ibn Mansur and Ibn al-Mundhir narrated something similar on the authority of Muhammad ibn Ka'b. Abd ibn Humayd narrated something similar on the authority of Abu Barzah as well. Ibn Jarir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated something similar on the authority of al-Suddi, who said: They said: If Muhammad is truthful, then let him inform us who among us believes in him and who disbelieves. So God revealed: God would never leave the believers, the verse. Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: He distinguishes the people of happiness from the people of misery. Abd bin Hamid, Ibn Jarir, Ibn al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Qatadah, who said: He distinguishes between them in jihad and migration. Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Al-Hasan, regarding the statement: And God would not inform you of the unseen, he said: No one knows the unseen except a Messenger. Abd bin Hamid, Ibn Jarir, Ibn al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Mujahid, But God selects, he said: He singles out. Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Malik, who said: He extracts. Ibn Jarir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding the statement: And let not those who are stingy think, he said: They are the People of the Book, who were stingy in explaining it to the people. Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of Mujahid, who said: They are the Jews. Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of Al-Suddi, who said: They were stingy in spending it in the way of God, they did not pay its zakat. Al-Bukhari narrated on the authority of Abu Hurairah, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "Whoever God gives wealth and he does not pay its zakat, a bald-headed snake with two tufts of hair will appear before him on the Day of Resurrection, and it will take hold of his jaw and say: 'I am your wealth, I am your treasure.' Then he recited this verse." This meaning was mentioned in many hadiths on the authority of a group of the Companions, with chains of transmission traceable to the Prophet.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

180- "And let not those who withhold what God has given them of His bounty think that it is good for them," meaning: And let not the misers think that miserliness is good for them, "rather it is," meaning: miserliness, "evil for them. They will be encircled by what they withheld," meaning: They will be encircled by "what they withheld on the Day of Resurrection," meaning: He will make what he withheld of zakat a snake that will encircle his neck on the Day of Resurrection, biting him from head to toe. This is the saying of Ibn Mas'ud, Ibn 'Abbas, Abu Wa'il, al-Sha'bi, and al-Suddi.

Abdul Wahid Al-Malhi told us, I told Ahmad bin Abdullah Al-Naimi, I told Muhammad bin Yusuf, I told Muhammad bin Ismail, I told Ali bin Abdullah Al-Madini, I told Hashim bin Al-Qasim, Abdul Rahman bin Abdullah bin Dinar told us, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Abu Saleh Al-Samman, on the authority of Abu Hurairah, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "Whoever God gives wealth to, and he does not pay its zakat, his wealth will be like a bald-headed serpent with two tufts of hair on the Day of Resurrection, which will encircle him on the Day of Resurrection, then seize him by his two jaws, and say: 'I am your wealth, I am your treasure.' Then he recited: 'And let not those who withhold [from God] think...'"

Abdul Wahid Al-Malhi told us, I told Ahmad bin Abdullah Al-Nuaimi, I told Muhammad bin Yusuf, I told Muhammad bin Ismail, I told Amr bin Hafs bin Ghayath, I told my father, I told Al-A'mash, on the authority of Al-Ma'rur bin Suwaid, on the authority of Abu Dharr, may God be pleased with him, who said: I went to him, meaning: the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: "By the One in Whose Hand is my soul, or by the One besides Whom there is no god, or as he swore, there is no man who has camels, cows, or sheep and does not pay their dues except that they will be brought on the Day of Resurrection, the largest and fattest they can be, trampling him under their hooves and butting him with their horns. Whenever the last one passes, the first one returns to him until judgment is passed between the people."

Ibrahim Al-Nakha'i said: The meaning of the verse is that on the Day of Resurrection a collar of fire will be placed around their necks. Mujahid said: They will be required on the Day of Resurrection to bring what they were stingy with in this world of their wealth.

Atiyah narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas: This verse was revealed about the Jewish rabbis who concealed the description of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his prophethood. He meant by miserliness concealing knowledge, as He said in Surat An-Nisa': Those who are miserly and enjoin miserliness on people and conceal what God has given them of His bounty (An-Nisa': 37).

The meaning of his statement, They will be encircled by what they hoarded on the Day of Resurrection, is: they will bear its burden and sin, as God Almighty says, And they will bear their burdens on their backs (al-An'am 6:31).

And to God belongs the inheritance of the heavens and the earth, meaning: He is the everlasting and everlasting after His creation perishes and their possessions disappear, and they die and He inherits them. Similar to the Almighty's statement: Indeed, it is We who inherit the earth and whoever is on it (Maryam 19:40) And God is Acquainted with what you do. The people of Basra and Mecca read ya'mal with the letter ya, and the others read it with the letter ta.

Surat Al Imran 3:180

And let not those who withhold what God has given them of His bounty think that it is good for them. Rather, it is bad for them. They will be collared by what they withheld on the Day of Resurrection. And to God belongs the inheritance of the heavens and the earth. And God is Acquainted with what you do.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

180 "And let not those who are stingy with what God has given them of His bounty think that it is better for them." The readings of it are as mentioned above. And whoever reads with the taa', he estimated the addition so that its two objects are consistent, i.e., do not think that the stinginess of those who are stingy is better for them. And likewise whoever reads with the yaa', if he makes the subject the pronoun of the Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, or of whoever thinks, and if he makes it the relative pronoun, the first object is omitted to indicate that they are stingy with it, i.e., do not let the stingy people think that their stinginess is better for them. "Rather, it", i.e. stinginess, "is worse for them" to bring punishment upon them. "They will be made to wear what they were stingy with on the Day of Resurrection" is an explanation of that, they will be made to wear what they were stingy with, as a collar is required, and from him, may God bless him and grant him peace: "There is no man who does not pay the zakat of his wealth except that God will put a sting on his neck on the Day of Resurrection." And to God belongs the inheritance of the heavens and the earth, and whatever is in them is His, which is inherited. So why do these people withhold their wealth from Him and do not spend it in His cause, or that He inherits from them what they hold back and do not spend in His cause, by their destruction and regret and punishment remain upon them. And God is aware of what you do, of withholding and giving. Aware, so He will reward them. Nafi', Ibn 'Amir, 'Asim, Hamza, and Al-Kisa'i read it with the ta' as a turning, and it is more eloquent in the threat.

Surat Al Imran 3:181

God has certainly heard the statement of those who said, Indeed, God is poor, and we are rich. We will record what they said and their killing of the prophets without right, and We will say, Taste the punishment of the Burning Fire.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

God has heard the statement of those who said, God is poor, and we are rich, and they are the Jews. They said it when the verse {Who is it that would loan God a goodly loan} was revealed. They said, If He were rich, He would not have borrowed from us. We will write down we will order the writing down of what they said in their books of deeds so that they may be rewarded for it. In another reading, {It will be written down} with the letter ya, in the passive form and we will write their killing in the accusative and nominative of the prophets without right, and we will say with the letter nun and the letter ya, meaning God will tell them in the Hereafter on the tongues of the angels Taste the punishment of the burning the Fire.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

God Almighty said: God has heard. Ibn Ishaq and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas that Abu Bakr entered the school house and found the Jews gathered around a man from among them called Finhas. He said to him: By God, O Abu Bakr, we have no poverty towards God and He is indeed poor towards us. If He were rich, He would not have borrowed from us as your companion claims. Abu Bakr became angry and slapped him in the face. Finhas went to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: O Muhammad, look at what your companion did to me. He said: O Abu Bakr, what made you do what you did? He said: O Messenger of God, a terrible statement. He claims that God is poor and they are rich from Him. Finhas denied it, so God revealed: God has heard the statement of those who said the verse.

Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: The Jews came to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, when God revealed: Who is it that would loan God a goodly loan? They said: O Muhammad, your Lord is poor and asks His servants. So God revealed: "God has heard the statement of those who say: God is poor."

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Jaafar said: It was mentioned that this verse and the verses after it were revealed about some Jews who lived during the time of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace.

Mention the effects of that.

Abu Kuraib narrated, Yunus bin Bakir narrated, Muhammad bin Ishaq narrated, Muhammad bin Abi Muhammad, the client of Zaid bin Thabit narrated, on the authority of Ikrimah, that he narrated to him on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: Abu Bakr As-Siddiq may God be pleased with him entered the school and found many Jews gathered around a man called Finhas, who was one of their scholars and rabbis, and with him was a rabbi called Ashya. Abu Bakr may God be pleased with him said to Finhas: Woe to you, Finhas! Fear God and submit to Islam, for by God you know that Muhammad is the Messenger of God, and he has come to you with the truth from God, which you will find written in your Torah and Gospel! Finhas said: By God, Abu Bakr, we are not poor before God, and He is poor before us! We do not supplicate to Him as He supplicates to us, and we are rich before Him. If He were rich before us, He would not have borrowed from us, as your companion claims! He forbids you from usury, but we give it to you! If He were rich before us, He would not have given us usury! Abu Bakr became angry and slapped Finhas hard in the face and said: By the One in Whose Hand is my soul, were it not for the covenant between us and you, I would have struck your neck, O enemy of God! So lie to us as much as you can, if you are truthful. Finhas went to the Messenger of God (may God bless him and grant him peace) and said: O Muhammad, look at what your companion did to me! The Messenger of God (may God bless him and grant him peace) said to Abu Bakr: What made you do what you did? He said: O Messenger of God, the enemy of God said a terrible thing. He claimed that God is poor and they are rich without need of Him! When he said that, I became angry for the sake of God because of what he said, so I slapped him in the face. Finhas denied it and said: I did not say that! Then God Almighty revealed what Phinehas said, in response to him and in confirmation of Abu Bakr's statement: "God has certainly heard the statement of those who say, 'God is poor, and we are rich.' We will record what they said and their killing of the prophets without right, and We will say, 'Taste the punishment of the burning fire.'" And regarding Abu Bakr's statement and the anger he received about that: "And you will surely hear from those who were given the Scripture before you and from those who associate others with God much abuse. But if you are patient and fear God - indeed, that is of the matters [worthy] of determination." (Al Imran 3:186)

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq, on the authority of Muhammad ibn Abi Muhammad, the freed slave of Zayd ibn Thabit, on the authority of Ikrimah, the freed slave of Ibn Abbas, he said: Abu Bakr entered and mentioned something similar, except that he said: And we are rich from him, and he is not rich from us, even if he were rich, then he mentioned the rest of the hadith similarly.

Muhammad bin Al-Husayn narrated, Ahmad bin Mufaddal narrated, Asbat narrated, on the authority of Al-Suddi: God has heard the statement of those who say, 'God is poor, and we are rich.' This was said by Phinehas the Jew from Banu Marthad. Abu Bakr met him and spoke to him, saying: O Phinehas, fear God, believe, and be truthful, and lend God a good loan! Phinehas said: O Abu Bakr, you claim that our Lord is poor and borrows our money from us! And only the poor borrows from the rich! If what you say is true, then God is indeed poor! So God, the Almighty, revealed this, and Abu Bakr said: "Had it not been for a truce between the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and Banu Marthad, I would have killed him."

Surat Al Imran 3:181

God has certainly heard the statement of those who said, "Indeed, God is poor, and we are rich." We will record what they said and their killing of the prophets without right, and We will say, "Taste the punishment of the Burning Fire."

Muhammad bin Amr told me, he said, Abu Asim told us, on the authority of Isa, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, he said: Abu Bakr slapped a man from among those who said: God is poor and we are rich. Why did he not ask us for a loan while he was rich?! And they were Jews.

Al-Muthanna told us, he said, Abu Hudhayfah told us, he said, Shibl told us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, he said: Those who said, 'God is poor, and we are rich,' why did He not ask us for a loan even though He was rich? Shibl said: It has reached me that he was Phinehas the Jew, and he is the one who said, God is the third of three (al-Ma'idah 5:173), The hand of God is chained (al-Ma'idah 5:4).

Ibn Hamid told us, Yahya bin Wadheeh told us, on the authority of Ata', on the authority of Al-Hasan, who said: When the verse: Who is it that would loan God a goodly loan? (al-Baqarah 2:245 - al-Hadid 57:1 a) was revealed, the Jews said: Your Lord is borrowing from you! So God revealed: "God has certainly heard the statement of those who said: God is poor, and we are rich."

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Hakam told us, on the authority of Amr, on the authority of Ata', on the authority of Al-Hasan Al-Basri, he said: When the verse: Who is it that would loan God a goodly loan? (al-Baqarah 2:245) - al-Hadid 57:11] was revealed, he said: The Jews were amazed and said: God is poor and needs a loan! So the verse was revealed: "God has certainly heard the statement of those who said: God is poor, and we are rich."

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: Those who say, 'God is poor, while we are rich,' he mentioned to us that it was revealed about Huyy ibn Akhtab, when God revealed: Who is it that will loan God a goodly loan so He may multiply it for him many times over? (al-Baqarah 2:245), he said: Our Lord is asking us for a loan, only the poor person is asking the rich for a loan!

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said, Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said, Muammar told us, on the authority of Qatada, he said: When the verse: Who is it that would loan God a goodly loan? (al-Baqarah 2:245) - al-Hadid 57:1] was revealed, the Jews said: Only the poor borrow from the rich!! He said: So God revealed: God has certainly heard the statement of those who said, 'Indeed, God is poor, and we are rich.'

Yunus told me, he said, Ibn Wahb told us, he said, I heard Ibn Zayd say regarding His statement: God has heard the statement of those who said, 'God is poor, and we are rich,' he said: These are Jews.

Abu Ja'far said: The interpretation of the verse is: God has heard the statement of those who said among the Jews: God is poor in relation to us, and we are rich in relation to Him. We will record what they said of falsehood and slander against their Lord, and their killing of their prophets without right.

There is a difference in the reading of his saying: We will record what they said and their killing.

This was read by the people of Hijaz and the majority of the people of Iraq: We will record what they said with the letter nun, "and their killing of the prophets without right" with the word killing in the accusative case.

Some of the Kufi reciters read it as He will write what they said and their killing of the prophets unjustly with the ya' of He will write and with the damma, and raising the killing, according to the doctrine of what its agent is not named, considering a reading that is mentioned as being from the reading of Abdullah in his saying: And we say, taste, it is mentioned that in the reading of Abdullah: And it is said.

The reader of this has overlooked the correctness of what he intended to interpret in the reading attributed to Abdullah, and he has contradicted the proof of the reading of Islam. That is because what is appropriate for the one who reads He will write what they said and the prophets killed them, in the manner of what its agent is not named, is to read and it is said. Rather, his saying and we say is in apposition to his saying we will write. So the correct reading is to reconcile between them in meaning by reading them both in the manner of what its agent is not named, or in the manner of what its agent is named. As for one of them reading in the manner of what its agent is not named, and the other in the manner of what its agent is named, without the meaning of ignorance on that, then this is a choice outside the eloquent speech of the Arabs.

Abu Ja'far said: The correct reading of this in our view is: We will write with a nun and and kill them in the accusative, because of his saying: and we say. If the reading of will write had been with a ya and a damma on it, it would have been said: And it is said according to what we have explained.

If someone says: How was it said: And they killed the prophets unjustly, and it was mentioned in the narrations that were narrated that those meant by his saying: God has heard the statement of those who said, 'God is poor,' were some of the Jews who were at the time of our Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and none of them killed a prophet of the prophets, but they did not find a prophet of God's prophets to kill him?

It was said: The meaning of that is not in the way you have gone to. Rather, it was said thus, and that those whom God, the Blessed and Exalted, meant by this verse were satisfied with what their predecessors did in killing those prophets whom they killed, and they were among them and on their path of making that permissible and lawful. So God, the Most High, attributed the action of what those who followed his path and method did to all of them, since they were people of one religion and one sect, and with the satisfaction of all of them, what the doer of that did from them did, as we explained of its counterparts in what came before.

Abu Ja'far said: By that, may His praise be glorified, He means: And We say, to those who say that God is poor and we are rich, who kill God's prophets unjustly until the Day of Resurrection, Taste the punishment of the burning fire, meaning by that: the punishment of a burning, blazing fire.

Fire is a collective noun for both flaming and non-flaming fires. Fire is an adjective that means it is burning, just as it is said: painful torment meaning: painful, and painful meaning: painful.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

The Almighty said: God has certainly heard the statement of those who say, 'God is poor and we are rich.' God mentioned the ugly statement of the infidels, especially the Jews. The commentators said, when God revealed, Who is it that would loan God a goodly loan? some of the Jews, including Huyayy ibn Akhtab, said, according to Al-Hasan, and Ikrimah and others said: He is Phinehas ibn Azura, "God is poor and we are rich. He borrows from us." They only said this to deceive their weak ones, not because they believe this, because they are People of the Book. Rather, they disbelieved by this statement because they wanted to cast doubt on the weak ones among them and the believers, and to deny the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, meaning that he is poor according to what Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, said, because he borrowed from us. We will write down what they said, We will reward them for it, and it was said: We will write it in their records of deeds, meaning We will command the guardians to confirm their statement so that they will read it on the Day of Resurrection in their books that they will be given, so that it will be more conclusive as evidence against them. This is like His statement: And indeed, We are its scribes. It was said: The purpose of writing is to preserve, i.e. We will preserve what they said so that we may reward them. And in His statement what they said is in the accusative case with We will write. Al-A'mash and Hamza read sayyaktub with a ya', so what is the name of what its agent is not named, and this is considered by the reading of Ibn Mas'ud: And it will be said, Taste the punishment of the burning fire.

The Almighty said: And their killing of the prophets without right. That is, We write their killing of the prophets, that is, their approval of the killing, and what is meant is the killing of their prophet ancestors, but since they were satisfied with that, the attribution to them was valid. And a man was considered good by Al-Sha'bi for killing Uthman, may God be pleased with him, so Al-Sha'bi said to him, You have shared in his blood, so he made the approval of the killing a killing, may God be pleased with him.

I said: This is a major issue, where being pleased with a sin is a sin. Abu Dawud narrated on the authority of Al-Aras bin Umaira Al-Kindi, "On the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: If a sin is committed on earth, then whoever witnesses it, thinks about it and says it once and denies it is like someone who was absent from it, and whoever is absent from it and approves of it is like someone who witnessed it." This is the text of the Almighty's statement: Unjustly. The meaning of this was presented in Surat Al-Baqarah. And We will say, 'Taste the punishment of the Burning Fire.' That is, it will be said to them in Hell, or at death, or at the reckoning. This is what this statement is from God Almighty, or from the angels. There are two opinions. Ibn Masoud's reading is and it is said and the burning is the name of the blazing fire, and the fire includes the blazing and the non-blazing.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

Said bin Jubair said on the authority of Ibn Abbas: When the verse was revealed: Who is it that will loan God a goodly loan so He may multiply it for him many times over? The Jews said: O Muhammad, has your Lord become poor and asked His servants for a loan? So God revealed: God has certainly heard the statement of those who said, 'Indeed, God is poor, and we are rich.' The verse was narrated by Ibn Mardawayh and Ibn Abi Hatim. Muhammad bin Ishaq said: Muhammad bin Abi Muhammad told me on the authority of Ikrimah that he told him on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with him, who said: Abu Bakr al-Siddiq, may God be pleased with him, entered the school and found many Jews gathered around a man from among them called Finhas, who was one of their scholars and rabbis, and with him was a rabbi called Ashya. Abu Bakr said to him: Woe to you, Finhas! Fear God and submit to Islam, for by God, you know that Muhammad, the Messenger of God, has brought you the truth from Him, and you will find it written with you in the Torah and the Gospel. Then Phinehas said: By God, O Abu Bakr, we have no need of God because of poverty, and He is indeed needy of us. We do not supplicate to Him as He supplicates to us, and we are rich from Him. If He were rich from us, He would not have borrowed from us as your companion claims. He forbids you from usury and gives to us, and if He were rich, He would not have given us usury. Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him, became angry and struck Phinehas' face severely, and said: By the One in Whose Hand is my soul, were it not for the covenant between us and you, I would have struck your neck, O enemy of God. So lie to us as much as you can, if you are truthful. Then Phinehas went to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: O Muhammad, see what your companion did to me. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to Abu Bakr: What made you do what you did? He said: O Messenger of God, the enemy of God has said a terrible thing. He claimed that God is poor and that they are rich. When he said that, I became angry for God's sake because of what he said, so I slapped him in the face. Phinehas denied that and said: I did not say that. Then God revealed what Phinehas said in response to him and in confirmation of what Abu Bakr

God has certainly heard the statement of those who said, "Indeed, God is poor, and we are rich." We will record what they said and their killing of the prophets without right, and We will say, "Taste the punishment of the Burning Fire."

had said: God has heard the statement of those who said, 'God is poor and we are rich.' The verse was narrated by Ibn Abi Hatim. And His saying, We will record what they said, is a threat and a warning, and for this reason the Almighty linked it with His saying, And their killing of the prophets without right, meaning this is what they said about God and this is their treatment of God's messengers, and God will reward them for that with the worst reward, and for this reason the Almighty said, And We will say, 'Taste the punishment of the burning fire.' That is for what your hands have put forth, and because God is not unjust to His servants, meaning that this will be said to them as a rebuke, rebuke, humiliation, and belittlement. And the Almighty's saying, Those who said, 'Indeed, God has enjoined upon us that we should not believe in a messenger until he brings us an offering that is consumed by fire,' the Almighty also says, as a lie to those who claimed that God has enjoined upon them in their books that they should not believe in a messenger until one of his miracles is that if a person from his nation gives charity and it is accepted from him, fire will come down from the sky to consume it, as Ibn Abbas, Al-Hasan, and others said. God the Almighty said: "Say: Messengers have come to you before me with clear proofs" meaning with arguments and evidence, and with what you said meaning with a fire that consumes the accepted sacrifices, so why did you kill them? meaning why did you confront them with denial, opposition and opposition and kill them if you should be truthful that you follow the truth and submit to the messengers. Then God the Almighty said, consoling His Prophet Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace: If they deny you, then messengers were denied before you who came with clear proofs and scriptures and the enlightening Book meaning do not let the denial of these people weaken you, for you have an example from the messengers before you who were denied despite what they brought of clear proofs, which are the decisive arguments and evidence, and scriptures which are the books received from heaven like the scrolls sent down to the messengers, and the enlightening Book meaning the clear, obvious and manifest.

Fath al-Qadir

The commentators said: When God revealed, Who is it that would loan God a goodly loan? some of the Jews said this statement to deceive their weak ones, not because they believed it, because they are the People of the Book, but rather they meant that if what He asked of us regarding the loan on the tongue of Muhammad was true, then He is poor, so that they would cast doubt on their brothers in the religion of Islam. His statement 181- We will write down what they said We will write it down in the records of the angels, or We will preserve it. Or We will reward them for it. What is meant by the threat to them, and that this will not be missed by God, but rather it is prepared for them on the Day of Judgment. The phrase We will write down is a new sentence in response to an implied question, as if it was said: What did God do with those from whom He heard this heinous statement? He said: He said to them, We will write down what they said. Al-A'mash and Hamza read Sayyiktub with a doubled dot underneath, in the passive form. And he read with the raising of the lam from Qataluhum and Yaqul with a doubled ya underneath. His saying, And their killing of the prophets is in apposition to what they said: meaning, We write down their killing of the prophets: meaning, their ancestors killed the prophets. This was attributed to them because they were pleased with it. This saying was made a companion to the killing of the prophets, indicating that it is of a great and heinous nature, equal to the killing of the prophets. His saying, And We say is in apposition to We will write down meaning, We will take revenge on them after writing down with this saying that We will say to them in the fire, or at death, or at the reckoning. And burning is a name for blazing fire, and using the word tasting to refer to the feeling of torment is a significant exaggeration. Ibn Mas'ud read, And it is said, taste.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

181- The Almighty said: God has heard the statement of those who said, 'God is poor, and we are rich.' Al-Hasan and Mujahid said: When the verse, Who is it that would loan God a goodly loan, was revealed, the Jews said: God is poor, so he borrowed from us, and we are rich. Al-Hasan mentioned that the one who said this statement was Huyayy ibn Akhtab.

Akrima, Al-Suddi, Muqatil and Muhammad ibn Ishaq said: "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, wrote with Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him, to the Jews of Banu Qaynuqa', inviting them to Islam, to establish prayer, to pay zakat and to lend God a good loan. One day, Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him, entered their schoolhouse and found many Jews gathered around a man from among them called Finhas ibn Azura, who was one of their scholars, and with him was another rabbi called Ashya'. Abu Bakr said to Finhas: Fear God and become Muslim, for by God you know that Muhammad, the Messenger of God, has brought you the truth from God, which you find written in your Torah. So believe and be truthful and lend God a good loan that will admit you into Paradise and multiply your reward."

Phinehas said: O Abu Bakr, do you claim that our Lord borrows our money, and only the poor borrow from the rich? If what you say is true, then God is poor and we are rich, and He forbids you from usury and gives to us. If He were rich, He would not have given us usury.

Abu Bakr may God be pleased with him became angry and struck Finhas hard in the face and said: By the One in Whose Hand is my soul, were it not for the covenant between us, I would have struck your neck, O enemy of God. Finhas went to the Messenger of God (may God bless him and grant him peace) and said: O Muhammad, look at what your companion did to me. The Messenger of God (may God bless him and grant him peace) said to Abu Bakr may God be pleased with him: What made you do what you did? He said: O Messenger of God, the enemy of God said a terrible thing, claiming that God is poor and they are rich. So I became angry for the sake of God and struck him in the face. Finhas denied that, so God revealed in response to Finhas and confirming what Abu Bakr may God be pleased with him: God has certainly heard the statement of those who say, 'God is poor, and we are rich.'

"We will write down what they said," of slander and falsehood against God and punish them for it, and Muqatil said: We will record it for them, and Al-Waqidi said: We will order the recorders to write it down, similar to the words of God Almighty: And indeed, We are its recorders, "And their killing of the prophets without right, and We will say, 'Taste the punishment of the burning fire,'" and Hamza read li-yakatub with a damma on the ya', and wa-qatalahum with a fatha on the lam, and wa-yaqool with a ya', and taste the punishment of the burning fire meaning: the fire, and it means the burner, just as it is said: For them is a painful punishment, meaning: painful.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

181 God has heard the statement of those who say, 'God is poor, and we are rich.' The Jews said this when they heard, Who is it that would lend God a goodly loan? It was narrated that "he, peace and blessings be upon him, wrote with Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him, to the Jews of Banu Qaynuqa, inviting them to Islam, to establish prayer, to pay zakat, and to lend God a goodly loan. Finhas bin Azura said, 'God is poor,' until he asked for a loan. Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him, slapped him on the face and said, 'Were it not for the covenant between us, I would have struck off your head.' He complained about him to the Messenger of God, peace and blessings be upon him, and denied what he said." So it was revealed. The meaning is that he was not afraid of it and that he had prepared punishment for them for it. We will write down what they said and their killing of the prophets unjustly meaning we will write it down in the books of the scribes, or we will memorize it in our knowledge and not neglect it because it is a grave word as it is disbelief in God Almighty and mockery of the Quran and the Messenger, and therefore it was organized with the killing of the prophets, and in it is a warning that it is not the first crime they committed and that whoever dared to kill the prophets did not avoid saying such things. Hamza read will write with a ya and with a damma and a fatha on the ta and kill them with a damma and he says with a ya. And We will say, Taste the punishment of the burning fire meaning we will take revenge on them by saying to them, Taste the burning punishment, and in it there are exaggerations in the threat. Taste is the perception of tastes, and in general it is used to perceive all the senses and states, and it is mentioned here because the punishment is arranged according to their saying that arises from miserliness and the rush to obtain money, and most of a person's excuse for it is to obtain food and most of his miserliness with it is due to the fear of losing it, and therefore eating is often mentioned with money.

Surat Al Imran 3:182

That is because of what your hands have put forth, and because God is not unjust to His servants.

Surat Al Imran 3:182

That is because of what your hands have put forth, and because God is not unjust to His servants.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And it will be said to them when they are thrown into it: That punishment is for what your hands have put forth it is used to refer to humans because most actions are performed by them and that God is not unjust that is, unjust to the servants so He punishes them without sin.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

As for His statement: That is for what your hands have put forth, meaning: Our statement to them on the Day of Resurrection, Taste the punishment of the Burning Fire, for what your hands have put forth and acquired during your life in this world, and that God is just and does not wrong, so He punishes a servant of His without him deserving punishment, but He rewards every soul for what it has earned, and He pays every worker the recompense of what he has done. So He punished those to whom He said [that] on the Day of Resurrection - from among the Jews, whose characteristics He described, and He informed about them that they said: Indeed, God is poor and we are rich, and they killed the prophets unjustly - with what He punished them with of the punishment of the Burning Fire, for what they acquired of sins, and committed of evil deeds, and lied about God after He had warned them. So the Most High was not unjust in what He punished them with by making them taste the punishment of the Burning Fire, nor was He imposing His punishment on those who did not deserve it. And so He, may His praise be glorified, does not wrong any of His creation, but He is just among them, and bestows upon all of them what He loves of His bounties and blessings.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

The Almighty's saying: That is because of what your hands have put forth meaning that this punishment is for the sins that have gone before. He specifically mentioned the hands to indicate that they are in charge of the action and are directly involved in it, as the action may be attributed to a person in the sense that he is commanded to do it, like His saying: They slaughter their sons (al-Qasas 28:4). The root of your hands is your hands, so the damma was deleted because of its heaviness, and God knows best.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

Said bin Jubair said on the authority of Ibn Abbas: When the verse was revealed: Who is it that will loan God a goodly loan so He may multiply it for him many times over? The Jews said: O Muhammad, has your Lord become poor and asked His servants for a loan? So God revealed: God has certainly heard the statement of those who said, 'Indeed, God is poor, and we are rich.' The verse was narrated by Ibn Mardawayh and Ibn Abi Hatim. Muhammad bin Ishaq said: Muhammad bin Abi Muhammad told me on the authority of Ikrimah that he told him on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with him, who said: Abu Bakr al-Siddiq, may God be pleased with him, entered the school and found many Jews gathered around a man from among them called Finhas, who was one of their scholars and rabbis, and with him was a rabbi called Ashya. Abu Bakr said to him: Woe to you, Finhas! Fear God and submit to Islam, for by God, you know that Muhammad, the Messenger of God, has brought you the truth from Him, and you will find it written with you in the Torah and the Gospel. Then Phinehas said: By God, O Abu Bakr, we have no need of God because of poverty, and He is indeed needy of us. We do not supplicate to Him as He supplicates to us, and we are rich from Him. If He were rich from us, He would not have borrowed from us as your companion claims. He forbids you from usury and gives to us, and if He were rich, He would not have given us usury. Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him, became angry and struck Phinehas' face severely, and said: By the One in Whose Hand is my soul, were it not for the covenant between us and you, I would have struck your neck, O enemy of God. So lie to us as much as you can, if you are truthful. Then Phinehas went to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: O Muhammad, see what your companion did to me. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to Abu Bakr: What made you do what you did? He said: O Messenger of God, the enemy of God has said a terrible thing. He claimed that God is poor and that they are rich. When he said that, I became angry for God's sake because of what he said, so I slapped him in the face. Phinehas denied that and said: I did not say that. Then God revealed what Phinehas said in response to him and in confirmation of what Abu Bakr had said: God has heard the statement of those who said, 'God is poor and we are rich.' The verse was narrated by Ibn Abi Hatim. And His saying, We will record what they said, is a threat and a warning, and for this reason the Almighty linked it with His saying, And their killing of the prophets without right, meaning this is what they said about God and this is their treatment of God's messengers, and God will reward them for that with the worst reward, and for this reason the Almighty said, And We will say, 'Taste the punishment of the burning fire.' That is for what your hands have put forth, and because God is not unjust to His servants, meaning that this will be said to them as a rebuke, rebuke, humiliation, and belittlement. And the Almighty's saying, Those who said, 'Indeed, God has enjoined upon us that we should not believe in a messenger until he brings us an offering that is consumed by fire,' the Almighty also says, as a lie to those who claimed that God has enjoined upon them in their books that they should not believe in a messenger until one of his miracles is that if a person from his nation gives charity and it is accepted from him, fire will come down from the sky to consume it, as Ibn Abbas, Al-Hasan, and others said. God the Almighty said: "Say: Messengers have come to you before me with clear proofs" meaning with arguments and evidence, and with what you said meaning with a fire that consumes the accepted sacrifices, so why did you kill them? meaning why did you confront them with denial, opposition and opposition and kill them if you should be truthful that you follow the truth and submit to the messengers. Then God the Almighty said, consoling His Prophet Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace: If they deny you, then messengers were denied before you who came with clear proofs and scriptures and the enlightening Book meaning do not let the denial of these people weaken you, for you have an example from the messengers before you who were denied despite what they brought of clear proofs, which are the decisive arguments and evidence, and scriptures which are the books received from heaven like the scrolls sent down to the messengers, and the enlightening Book meaning the clear, obvious and manifest.

Fath al-Qadir

And the reference in his saying 182- that is to the punishment mentioned before it, and he referred to the near by the formula with which the distant is referred to to indicate the distance of its status in horror, and he mentioned the hands because they are the direct cause of most sins. And His saying, And that God is not unjust to the servants, is connected to for what your hands have put forth, and the reason is that He, glory be to Him, punished them for the sin they committed and rewarded them for their actions, so that was not injustice, or in the sense that He is the Owner of the kingdom, disposing of His kingdom as He wishes, and He is not unjust to those He punishes for their sin. It was said that the reason for it is that the negation of injustice entails justice, which requires rewarding the doer of good and punishing the wrongdoer. It was responded that leaving the punishment while its cause exists is not injustice rationally or legally. It was said that the sentence of His saying, And that God is not unjust to the servants, is in the nominative case as the predicate of a deleted subject: that is, the matter is that God is not unjust to the servants, and the expression of that is the negation of injustice, even though punishing them without sin is not injustice according to the people of the Sunnah, let alone being extreme injustice, to show that He is free from that, and the negation of the injustice of the one who feels the abundance indicates the establishment of the origin of injustice. The answer to that is that what he threatened to do to them, if it were injustice, would be great, so he denied it to the extent of its greatness if it were proven.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

182- That is because of what your hands have put forth, and because God is not unjust to His servants, so he is punished without sin.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

182 That refers to the punishment. Because of what your hands have put forth of killing the prophets and saying this and all their other sins. He used the words hands to refer to the souls because most of their actions are done by them. And that God is not unjust to the servants is in apposition to what you have put forth and its cause is punishment in that the negation of unjust necessitates justice that requires rewarding the doer of good and punishing the doer of evil.

Surat Al Imran 3:183

Those who said, "Indeed, God has enjoined upon us that we should not believe in a messenger until he brings us an offering consumed by fire." Say, "There have already come to you messengers before me with clear proofs and with what you have said. So why did you kill them, if you should be truthful?"

Surat Al Imran 3:183

Those who said, Indeed, God has enjoined upon us that we should not believe in a messenger until he brings us an offering consumed by fire. Say, "There have already come to you messengers before me with clear proofs and with what you have said. So why did you kill them, if you should be truthful?"

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

Those who are an adjective for those before him said to Muhammad Indeed, God has (enjoined upon us) in the Torah that we should not believe in a Messenger whom we believe until he brings us an offering that fire consumes so we will not believe in you until he brings it to us, which is what he brings to draw near to God with blessings and other things. If he accepts, a white fire will come from the sky and burn it, otherwise it will remain in its place. And this was enjoined upon the Children of Israel except in the Messiah and Muhammad. God Almighty said: Say to them as a rebuke There came to you messengers before me with clear proofs with miracles and with what you said such as Zachariah and John, so you killed them. The address is to those in the time of our Prophet Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, even though the action was for their ancestors because of their satisfaction with it so why did you kill them if you were truthful in that you believe when it is brought

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: By that, may His praise be glorified, He meant: God heard the words of those who said: God has commanded us not to believe in any Messenger.

His saying: Those who said that God is in the accusative case in response to his saying: Those who said that God is poor.

What he means by his saying: They said, 'God has enjoined upon us that we should not believe any Messenger,' he commanded us, and it came to us in His books and on the tongues of His prophets, that we should not believe any Messenger, meaning that we should not believe any Messenger in what he says he brought from God of commands and prohibitions and other things, until he brings us an offering that the Fire will consume, meaning that he brings us an offering: which is what the servant draws near to his Lord with in charity.

It is a source like aggression and loss from your saying:

I offered a sacrifice. And he said: The fire will eat it, and the fire eating what one of them offered to God at that time was evidence of God's acceptance of what he offered to Him, and evidence of the truthfulness of the one offering in what he claimed that he was right in what he disputed or said, like:

Muhammad bin Saad told us, he said, my father told me, he said, my uncle told me, he said, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, regarding his statement: Until he brings us an offering that the fire will consume, a man would give charity, and when it was accepted from him, fire would descend upon him from the sky and consume him.

It was narrated on the authority of Al-Husayn, who said: I heard Abu Muadh say: Ubayd told us, who said: I heard Al-Dahhak say regarding His statement: With an offering that the fire consumes, that if a man gave charity and it was accepted from him, God would send a fire from the sky that descended upon the offering and consumed it.

God the Almighty said to His Prophet Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace: Say, O Muhammad, to those who say: God has enjoined upon us that we should not believe in a Messenger until he brings us an offering that is consumed by fire: There have already come to you messengers before me with clear proofs, meaning: with arguments indicating the truth of their prophethood and the reality of their words, and with that which you have said, meaning: and with that which you claimed that if he brought it, you would have to believe him and acknowledge his prophethood, from the one whose offering is consumed by fire if he offers it to God as evidence of his truthfulness, so why did you kill them if you should be truthful? He says to him: Say to them: The messengers who were before me came to you with that which you claimed was their argument against you, so you killed them, so why did you kill them while you acknowledge that what they brought to you was their argument against you, if you should be truthful, in that God enjoined upon you to believe in whoever came to you from His messengers with an offering that is consumed by fire as an argument for his prophethood?

Abu Ja'far said: God informed His servants by this verse that those who described their description from the Jews who were at the time of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, will not be more than a spoil of their lies against God, their fabrications against their Lord, and their denial of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, while they knew him to be truthful and just, and their denial of his prophethood while they found it written with them in the covenant of God Almighty to them that he is His Messenger to His creation, and obedience to him is obligatory, except like those who passed from their ancestors who used to kill the prophets of God after cutting off their excuse with the arguments that God supported them with, and the evidence with which

He demonstrated their truthfulness, fabricating against God and belittling His rights.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

The Almighty's saying: those who is in the accusative case instead of those who in the Almighty's saying: God has heard the statement of those who said or an attribute of the servants or a predicate of the beginning, meaning they are the ones who said. Al-Kalbi and others said: It was revealed about Ka'b ibn al-Ashraf, Malik ibn al-Sayf, Wahb ibn Judah, Phinehas ibn Azura and a group who came to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said to him: Do you claim that God sent you to us, and that He sent down to us a book in which He commanded us not to believe in a messenger who claims to be from God until he brings us a sacrifice that is consumed by fire? If you bring it to us, we will believe you. So God revealed this verse. It was said: This was in the Torah, but the full statement was: Until the Messiah and Muhammad come to you. So when they come to you, believe in them without a sacrifice. And it was said: The matter of the sacrifices was established until it was abrogated by the tongue of Jesus, son of Mary. And the prophet among them would slaughter and supplicate, and a white fire would descend with a roar and a rustle without smoke, and it would consume the sacrifice. So this statement was a claim of the Jews, since there was an exception, so they concealed it, or it was abrogated. So they were stubborn in their adherence to it. The miracles of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, are conclusive evidence in invalidating their claim, as are the miracles of Jesus. And whoever must be believed must be believed. Verifying it, then the Almighty said to establish the argument against them: Say O Muhammad, Messengers have come to you O group of Jews: With clear proofs and with what you have said of the sacrifice So why did you kill them if you should be truthful meaning Zachariah, John, and Isaiah, and all of the prophets who were killed, peace be upon them, and you did not believe in them, he meant their ancestors, and this is the verse that was recited by Aamer Al-Sha'bi, may God be pleased with him, so he used it as evidence against the one who approved of the killing of Uthman, may God be pleased with him, as we have explained, and that God Almighty called the Jews killers because of their satisfaction with the actions of their ancestors, even though there were about seven hundred years between them, and the sacrifice is what one draws closer to God Almighty through rituals, charity, and good deeds, and it is a verb from the word qurbah, and it can be a noun and a verbal noun, so an example of the noun is sultan and proof, and the verbal noun is adwan and khusran, and Isa bin Omar used to read bi-qurban with a damma on the ra' following the damma on the qaf, as was said in the plural of thulmah: thulmah and in hujrah: hujrat.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

Said bin Jubair said on the authority of Ibn Abbas:

When the verse was revealed: Who is it that will loan God a goodly loan so He may multiply it for him many times over? The Jews said: O Muhammad, has your Lord become poor and asked His servants for a loan? So God revealed: God has certainly heard the statement of those who said, 'Indeed, God is poor, and we are rich.' The verse was narrated by Ibn Mardawayh and Ibn Abi Hatim. Muhammad bin Ishaq said: Muhammad bin Abi Muhammad told me on the authority of Ikrimah that he told him on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with him, who said: Abu Bakr al-Siddiq, may God be pleased with him, entered the school and found many Jews gathered around a man from among them called Finhas, who was one of their scholars and rabbis, and with him was a rabbi called Ashya. Abu Bakr said to him: Woe to you, Finhas! Fear God and submit to Islam, for by God, you know that Muhammad, the Messenger of God, has brought you the truth from Him, and you will find it written with you in the Torah and the Gospel. Then Phinehas said: By God, O Abu Bakr, we have no need of God because of poverty, and He is indeed needy of us. We do not supplicate to Him as He supplicates to us, and we are rich from Him. If He were rich from us, He would not have borrowed from us as your companion claims. He forbids you from usury and gives to us, and if He were rich, He would not have given us usury. Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him, became angry and struck Phinehas' face severely, and said: By the One in Whose Hand is my soul, were it not for the covenant between us and you, I would have struck your neck, O enemy of God. So lie to us as much as you can, if you are truthful. Then Phinehas went to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: O Muhammad, see what your companion did to me. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to Abu Bakr: What made you do what you did? He said: O Messenger of God, the enemy of God has said a terrible thing. He claimed that God is poor and that they are rich. When he said that, I became angry for God's sake because of what he said, so I slapped him in the face. Phinehas denied that and said: I did not say that. Then God revealed what Phinehas said in response to him and in confirmation of what Abu Bakr had said: God has heard the statement of those who said, 'God is poor and we are rich.' The verse was narrated by Ibn Abi Hatim. And His saying, We will record what they said, is a threat and a warning, and for this reason the Almighty linked it with His saying, And their killing of the prophets without right, meaning this is what they said about God and this is their treatment of God's messengers, and God will reward them for that with the worst reward, and for this reason the Almighty said, And We will say, 'Taste the punishment of the burning fire.' That is for what your hands have put forth, and because God is not unjust to His servants, meaning that this will be said to them as a rebuke, rebuke, humiliation, and belittlement. And the Almighty's saying, Those who said, 'Indeed, God has enjoined upon us that we should not believe in a messenger until he brings us an offering that is consumed by fire,' the Almighty also says, as a lie to those who claimed that God has enjoined upon them in their books that they should not believe in a messenger until one of his miracles is that if a person from his nation gives charity and it is accepted from him, fire will come down from the sky to consume it, as Ibn Abbas, Al-Hasan, and others said. God the Almighty said: "Say: Messengers have come to you before me with clear proofs" meaning with arguments and evidence, and with what you said meaning with a fire that consumes the accepted sacrifices, so why did you kill them? meaning why did you confront them with denial, opposition and opposition and kill them if you should be truthful that you follow the truth and submit to the messengers. Then God the Almighty said, consoling His Prophet Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace: If they deny you, then messengers were denied before you who came with clear proofs and scriptures and the enlightening Book meaning do not let the denial of these people weaken you, for you have an example from the messengers before you who were denied despite what they brought of clear proofs, which are the decisive arguments and evidence, and scriptures which are the books received from heaven like the scrolls sent down to the messengers, and the enlightening Book meaning the clear, obvious and manifest.

Surat Al Imran 3:183

Those who said, "Indeed, God has enjoined upon us that we should not believe in a messenger until he brings us an offering consumed by fire." Say, "There have already come to you messengers before me with clear proofs and with what you have said. So why did you kill them, if you should be truthful?"

Fath al-Qadir

His saying 183- Those who said is the predicate of a deleted subject, meaning: they are the ones who said. It was said: an adjective for the slaves, and it was said: it is accusative for blame, and it was said: it is in the place of a genitive substitute for God has heard the statement of those who said, and this is weak, because the substitute is what is intended and not what is substituted for, and the matter is not like that here, and these speakers are a group of Jews as will come, and this statement, which is that God commanded them not to believe in a messenger until he brings them a sacrifice, is among their false claims. It was the custom of the Children of Israel that they would bring a sacrifice. The prophet would stand up and call, and fire would come down from the sky and burn him, and God did not command all of His prophets to do that, nor did He make it evidence of the truth of the claim of prophethood, and for this reason God responded to them and said: "Say: Messengers came to you before me with clear proofs and with what you said" of the sacrifice so why did you kill them if you should be truthful? Like Yahya bin Zakariya and Isaiah and the rest of the prophets who were killed. The sacrifice: what one draws closer to God through sacrifice, charity, and good deeds. It is two forms of the act of drawing closer.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

183- The Almighty said: Those who said, 'God has made a covenant with us' the verse. Al-Kalbi said: It was revealed about Ka'b bin Al-Ashraf, Malik bin Al-Saif, Wahb bin Yahudah, Zaid bin Al-Tabut, Phinehas bin Azura, and Huyayy bin Akhtab. They came to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: O Muhammad, you claim that God, the Almighty, sent you to us as a messenger and revealed the Book to you, and that God, the Almighty, has made a covenant with us in the Torah, that we will not believe in a messenger, who claims that he came from God, until he brings us an offering that is consumed by fire, so if you bring him to us, we will believe you. He said, so God, the Almighty, revealed: Those who said, meaning: God heard the words of those who said, and the place of those is lowered in response to the first those, "God has made a covenant with us," meaning: He commanded us and instructed us in His Books not to believe in a messenger, meaning: We do not believe a messenger who claims that he came from God until he brings us an offering that is consumed by fire, so it is evidence of his truthfulness. And the offering: is everything that The servant draws closer to God Almighty through his sacrifice, charity, and good deeds. Both are derived from the verb to draw closer. Sacrifices and spoils of war were not permissible for the Children of Israel. When they offered a sacrifice or took spoils of war, a white fire would come from the sky, without smoke, and with a roar and rustle, and it would consume them and burn that sacrifice and that spoil of war. This would be a sign of acceptance. If it was not accepted, it would remain as it was.

Al-Suddi said: God Almighty commanded the Children of Israel: "Whoever comes to you claiming to be a Messenger of God, do not believe him until he brings you a sacrifice that will be consumed by fire, until the Messiah and Muhammad come to you. When they come to you, believe in them, for they will come without a sacrifice." God Almighty said, establishing the argument against them: "Say, O Muhammad, 'O company of Jews, there have come to you messengers before me with clear proofs and with what you said,' of the sacrifice. 'So why did you kill them?'" Meaning: Zachariah, John, and all the other prophets who were killed. He meant by that their ancestors, so he addressed them with that because they were satisfied with the actions of their ancestors, if you are truthful. Its meaning is to deny them despite their knowledge of your truthfulness, like killing their fathers the prophets, despite bringing sacrifices and miracles. Then he said, consoling his Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace:

Tafsir al-Baidawi

183 "Those who said" are Ka'b bin Al-Ashraf, Malik, Huyayy, Phinehas, and Wahb bin Judah. "God has enjoined upon us" He commanded us in the Torah and advised us. "Not to believe in a messenger until he brings us an offering that is consumed by fire" that we should not believe in a messenger until he brings us this special miracle that was for the prophets of the Children of Israel, which is that he brings an offering, and the prophet stands up and calls out, and a heavenly fire descends and consumes him, that is, it transforms him into its nature by burning. This is from their fabrications and falsehoods, because the fire consuming the offering did not necessitate belief except because it is a miracle, so it and all other miracles were prescribed in that. Say, 'There have come to you messengers before me with clear proofs and with what you say, so why did you kill them, if you should be truthful?' This is a denial and an obligation that messengers came to them before him, such as Zachariah and John, with other miracles that necessitated belief in what they proposed, so they killed them. If the necessitating belief was the bringing of it and their hesitation and refusal to believe was because of it, then why did they not believe in the one who brought it with other miracles and dared to kill him?

Surat Al Imran 3:184

But if they deny you, then messengers were denied before you who brought clear proofs and scriptures and the enlightening Book.

Surat Al Imran 3:184

But if they deny you, then messengers were denied before you who brought clear proofs and scriptures and the enlightening Book.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

If they deny you, then messengers were denied before you who came with clear proofs miracles and scriptures such as the scrolls of Abraham and the Book and in a reading with the confirmation of the ba' in both of them the enlightening the clear one is the Torah and the Gospel, so be patient as they were patient.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: This is a consolation from God, the Most High, to His Prophet Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, for the harm he was suffering from the Jews and the polytheists from all other religions. God the Most High says to him: Do not be sad, O Muhammad, for the lies of those who said: God is poor, and said: God has commanded us not to believe in any Messenger until he brings us a sacrifice that the fire will consume. And their fabrication against their Lord was deceived by God's respite for them. And do not let their denial of you and their false claims of God's covenants to them be too great for you, for if they did that to you, then they have lied about you and lied about God, for their predecessors from the Messengers of God before you lied about those who came to them with conclusive arguments, dazzling evidence, and miraculous signs of creation, and that is the clear evidence.

As for Zabar, it is the plural of Zabur, which is the book, and every book is a Zabur. From this comes the saying of Imru' al-Qais:

For whom did I see the ruins that made me sad like the lines of a psalm on a Yemeni palm branch?

By the Book he means the Torah and the Gospel. This is because the Jews denied Jesus and what he brought, and distorted what Moses, peace be upon him, brought about the description of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and changed his covenant with them about him, and the Christians denied what was in the Gospel about his description, and changed what he commanded them to do about him.

As for his saying: the semen, he means: that which illuminates and clarifies the truth for those who are confused and explains it.

Rather, it comes from light and illumination. It is said: This matter has illuminated you, meaning: it has become clear and evident to you. So it illuminates, and the thing is illuminated.

Al-Muthanna told me, he said, Ishaq told us, he said, Abu Zuhair told us, on the authority of Juwaybir, on the authority of Al-Dahhak: If they deny you, then messengers before you were denied. He said: He was consoling his Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace.

Al-Qasim told us, he said, Al-Hussein told us, he said, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, regarding his statement: If they deny you, then messengers before you were denied, he said: He is consoling his Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace.

This letter is in the Qur'ans of the people of Hijaz, Iraq, and Az-Zubar without the letter la, and in the Qur'an of the people of Ash-Sham it is: and Az-Zubar with the letter ba, like the one in Surat Fatir 35:25.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

God Almighty said, consoling and comforting His Prophet: If they deny you, then messengers before you were denied who came with clear proofs meaning with evidence and the scriptures meaning the written books. The scriptures are the plural of Zabur, which means book, and its origin is from Zabart, which means I wrote, and every Zabur is a book. Imru' al-Qais said:

For whom I saw him, he made me sad like the lines of a psalm on a Yemeni palm branch

I know my writing, and it was said: The Psalms are from the word Zabar meaning to warn, and Zabart the man means to rebuke him, and Zabart the well means to cover it with stones, and Ibn Amir read and with the Zabar and with the illuminating book with an addition of ba in both words, and this is how it is in the copies of the Mushafs of the people of Ash-Sham, and the illuminating book means the clear and shining, from your saying: I illuminated the thing, I illuminated it meaning I made it clear, it is said: He lit the thing and He illuminated it and He illuminated it and He illuminated it have the same meaning, and each one of them is intransitive and transitive, and he combined the word Zabar and the book and they have the same meaning because of the difference in their wording, and their origin is as we mentioned.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

Said bin Jubair said on the authority of Ibn Abbas: When the verse was revealed: Who is it that will loan God a goodly loan so He may multiply it for him many times over? The Jews said: O Muhammad, has your Lord become poor and asked His servants for a loan? So God revealed: God has certainly heard the statement of those who said, 'Indeed, God is poor, and we are rich.' The verse was narrated by Ibn

Mardawayh and Ibn Abi Hatim. Muhammad bin Ishaq said: Muhammad bin Abi Muhammad told me on the authority of Ikrimah that he told him on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with him, who said: Abu Bakr al-Siddiq, may God be pleased with him, entered the school and found many Jews gathered around a man from among them called Finhas, who was one of their scholars and rabbis, and with him was a rabbi called Ashya. Abu Bakr said to him: Woe to you, Finhas! Fear God and submit to Islam, for by God, you know that Muhammad, the Messenger of God, has brought you the truth from Him, and you will find it written with you in the Torah and the Gospel. Then Phinehas said: By God, O Abu Bakr, we have no need of God because of poverty, and He is indeed needy of us. We do not supplicate to Him as He supplicates to us, and we are rich from Him. If He were rich from us, He would not have borrowed from us as your companion claims. He forbids you from usury and gives to us, and if He were rich, He would not have given us usury. Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him, became angry and struck Phinehas' face severely, and said: By the One in Whose Hand is my soul, were it not for the covenant between us and you, I would have struck your neck, O enemy of God. So lie to us as much as you can, if you are truthful. Then Phinehas went to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: O Muhammad, see what your companion did to me. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to Abu Bakr: What made you do what you did? He said: O Messenger of God, the enemy of God has said a terrible thing. He claimed that God is poor and that they are rich. When he said that, I became angry for God's sake because of what he said, so I slapped him in the face. Phinehas denied that and said: I did not say that. Then God revealed what Phinehas said in response to him and in confirmation of what Abu Bakr had said: God has heard the statement of those who said, 'God is poor and we are rich.' The verse was narrated by Ibn Abi Hatim. And His saying, We will record what they said, is a threat and a warning, and for this reason the Almighty linked it with His saying, And their killing of the prophets without right, meaning this is what they said about God and this is their treatment of God's messengers, and God will reward them for that with the worst reward, and for this reason the Almighty said, And We will say, 'Taste the punishment of the burning fire.' That is for what your hands have put forth, and because God is not unjust to His servants, meaning that this will be said to them as a rebuke, rebuke, humiliation, and belittlement. And the Almighty's saying, Those who said, 'Indeed, God has enjoined upon us that we should not believe in a messenger until he brings us an offering that is consumed by fire,' the Almighty also says, as a lie to those who claimed that God has enjoined upon them in their books that they should not believe in a messenger until one of his miracles is that if a person from his nation gives charity and it is accepted from him, fire will come down from the sky to consume it, as Ibn Abbas, Al-Hasan, and others said. God the Almighty said: "Say: Messengers have come to you before me with clear proofs" meaning with arguments and evidence, and with what you said meaning with a fire that consumes the accepted sacrifices, so why did you kill them? meaning why did you confront them with denial, opposition and opposition and kill them if you should be truthful that you follow the truth and submit to the messengers. Then God the Almighty said, consoling His Prophet Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace: If they deny you, then messengers before you were denied before you who came with clear proofs and scriptures and the enlightening Book meaning do not let the denial of these people weaken you, for you have an example from the messengers before you who were denied despite what they brought of clear proofs, which are the decisive arguments and evidence, and scriptures which are the books received from heaven like the scrolls sent down to the messengers, and the enlightening Book meaning the clear, obvious and manifest.

Fath al-Qadir

Then God consoled His Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, by saying 184- If they deny you, then messengers before you were denied who came with the same clear proofs as you brought. And al-Zubur is the plural of al-Zabur which means the book, and its explanation has been presented. And the illuminating book is the clear, obvious, and luminous. It is said that something ignited, illuminated, and was illuminated, meaning it was illuminated.

Ibn Ishaq, Ibn Jarir, Ibn Al-Mundhir, and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: Abu Bakr entered the school and found the Jews gathered around a man among them called Finhas, who was one of their scholars and rabbis. Abu Bakr said: Woe to you, Phinehas! Fear God and submit, for by God you know that Muhammad, the Messenger of God, is written in your Torah. Phinehas said: By God, Abu Bakr, we are not poor before God, and He is poor before us. We do not supplicate to Him as He supplicates to us, and we are rich from Him. If He were rich without us, He would not have borrowed from us, as your companion claims. He forbids you from usury and gives to us. If He were rich without us, He would not have given us usury. Abu Bakr became angry and struck Phinehas' face with a severe blow, and said: By the One in Whose Hand is my soul, were it not for the covenant between us and you, I would have struck your neck, O enemy of God. Phinehas went to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: O Muhammad, look at what your companion did to me. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to Abu Bakr: What made you do what you did? He said: O Messenger of God, he said a terrible thing, claiming that God is poor and that they are rich in need of Him. When he said that, I became angry for God's sake because of what he said, so I slapped him in the face. Finhas denied it and said: I did not say that. So God revealed what Finhas said, confirming what Abu Bakr had said: God has heard the statement of those who said 3:10. And it was revealed about Abu Bakr and what he had become angry about that: And you will surely hear from those who were given the Scripture before you and from those who associate others with God much abuse 3:10. Ibn Jarir and Ibn al-Mundhir narrated this story on the authority of Ikrimah. Ibn Jarir narrated it on the authority of al-Suddi in a shorter version. Ibn Abi Hatim and Ibn Mardawayh, and

Surat Al Imran 3:184

But if they deny you, then messengers were denied before you who brought clear proofs and scriptures and the enlightening Book.

al-Dhiya' in al-Mukhtara narrated on the authority of Saeed ibn Jubayr on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: The Jews came to Muhammad (peace and blessings of God be upon him) when God revealed: Who is it that would loan God a goodly loan? They said: O Muhammad, is your Lord poor and would ask His servants for a loan? So God revealed the verse. Ibn Jarir and Ibn al-Mundhir narrated on the authority of Qatadah that the one who said this statement was Huyayy ibn Akhtab and that it was revealed about him. Ibn Al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Al-Ala' bin Badr that he was asked about his statement, And their killing of the prophets unjustly, and they did not realize that. He said: By their allegiance to those who killed the prophets. Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas regarding his statement, And that God is not unjust to His servants, he said: I will not punish those who did not commit a crime. Ibn Al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Ad-Dahhak regarding his statement, Those who said, 'God has made a covenant with us,' he said: They are the Jews. Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Al-Awfi on the authority of Ibn Abbas regarding his statement, Until he brings us an offering that the fire will consume, he said: A man from us gives charity, and when it is accepted from him, fire descends upon him from the sky and consumes him. Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Al-Hasan regarding his statement, Those who said, 'God has made a covenant with us,' he said: They lied about God. Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Qatadah regarding his statement, With clear proofs, he said: The lawful and the unlawful. And the Scriptures, he said: The books of the prophets. And the enlightening Book, he said: It is the Qur'an.

repeating the preposition to indicate that it is different from the clear proofs in itself.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

184- If they deny you, then messengers were denied before you who came with clear proofs and scriptures. Ibn Amir read and with scriptures, meaning: with the written books, the singular of which is Zabur like: Messenger and Messengers, and the enlightening book, the clear and luminous.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

184 If they deny you, then messengers before you were denied who came with clear proofs and scriptures and the enlightening Book. As a consolation to the Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, from the denial of his people and the Jews, and the zabar is the plural of zabur, which is the book limited to rulings from zabarat something if you calculate it, and the book in the terminology of the Qur'an is what includes laws and rulings, and therefore the book and wisdom came in conjunction in the general Qur'an. It was said that the zabar, sermons and deterrents are from zabaratu if you rebuked him. Ibn Amir read with zabar, Hisham and the book by

Surat Al Imran 3:185

Every soul will taste death, and you will only be given your full compensation on the Day of Resurrection. So he who is drawn away from the Fire and admitted to Paradise has attained [his desire]. And what is the life of this world except the enjoyment of delusion.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

Every soul will taste death, and you will only be given your full compensation the recompense for your deeds (on the Day of Resurrection. So whoever is drawn away) after from the Fire and admitted to Paradise has attained [his desire], and what is the life of this world that is, living in it except the enjoyment of delusion falsehood, which is enjoyed for a little while and then vanishes.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: By that, the Most High means: that the fate of these slanderers against God from among the Jews, who denied His Messenger, whose characteristics He described and informed about their audacity towards their Lord, and the fate of all others from among His creation, the Most High, and the return of all of them, is to Him. Because He has decreed death for all of them, so He said to His Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace: Do not be saddened by the denial of those who lied to you, O Muhammad, from among these Jews and others, and the slander of those who slandered me, for messengers before you denied the signs and proofs to whom they were sent, like what you brought to whom you were sent. So in them you have an example from which you can take comfort. The fate of those who lied about me and others and their return is to Me. I will give each soul the reward of their deeds on the Day of Resurrection, as the Most High said: And you will only be given your full compensation on the Day of Resurrection, meaning: the rewards for your deeds, if good, then good, and if evil, then evil. So whoever is drawn away from the Fire, meaning: whoever is removed from the Fire and kept farther from it, has attained success, meaning: he has been saved and has attained his need.

It is said: So-and-so won his request, he won a victory, a triumph, and a triumph, if he got it.

Rather, the meaning of this is: Whoever is kept away from the Fire, kept far from it, and admitted to Paradise, has been saved and attained great honor. And what is the life of this world except the enjoyment of delusion, meaning: And what are the pleasures and desires of this world, and what are its adornments and decorations, except the enjoyment of delusion, meaning: Except for the enjoyment that delusion and deception give you, which has no reality when tested, and no validity when tried. So you enjoy what delusion gives you of your world, then it will return to you with calamities, misfortunes, and hardships. God the Most High says: And do not incline toward this world, lest you become content with it. For you are only enjoying yourself in delusion from it, then after a short while you will depart from it.

It has been narrated in the interpretation of this, what:

Al-Muthanna narrated to me, he said, Ishaq narrated to us, he said, Juwaybir narrated to us, on the authority of Al-A'mash, on the authority of Bakir bin Al-Akhns, on the authority of Abd Al-Rahman bin Sabit, regarding his statement: And the life of this world is nothing but the enjoyment of delusion, he said: Like the provisions of a shepherd, who supplies him with a handful of dates, or some flour, or something with which he drinks milk. So Ibn Sabit went in this interpretation of his, to the meaning of the verse: And the life of this world is nothing but a little enjoyment, which does not reach his enjoyment, nor is it sufficient for his journey. And this interpretation, even if it is one of the aspects of interpretation, then the correct statement about it is what we have said. Because deception is only deception in the speech of the Arabs, and since that is the case, there is no reason to divert it to the meaning of little, because something may be little and its owner is not deceived or deluded by it.

As for the one who is in delusion, neither a little nor a lot of what is in his delusion is valid. Deception is a source of the saying of the one who says: So-and-so deceived me, so he deceives me with deception, with the damma of the ghain. As for if the ghain of delusion is opened, it is an attribute of the deceitful devil, who deceives the son of Adam until he enters into the disobedience of God in what deserves His punishment.

And:

Abu Kuraib told us, he said, Abda and Abd al-Rahim told us, they said, Muhammad ibn Amr told us, he said, Abu Salamah told us, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, he said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The space of a whip in Paradise is better than the world and everything in it. And read, if you wish: 'And the life of this world is nothing but the enjoyment of delusion.'"

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

It contains seven issues:

The first: When God Almighty informed about the misers and their disbelief in their saying: Indeed, God is poor and we are rich, and He commanded the believers to be patient with their harm in His saying You will surely be tested the verse, He made clear that this is something that will pass away and will not last, for the life of this world is near, and the Day of Resurrection is the Day of Judgment, the taste of death is from the taste, and this is something that there is no escape from for man, and no escape from which for an animal. Umayyah ibn Abi al-Salt said:

He who does not die in vain will die old. Death is a cup and a person will taste it.

Surat Al Imran 3:185

Every soul will taste death, and you will only be given your full compensation on the Day of Resurrection. So he who is drawn away from the Fire and admitted to Paradise has attained [his desire]. And what is the life of this world except the enjoyment of delusion.

Another said:

Death is a door and all people enter it. I wonder what the home is after the door.

The second: The reading of the common al-Nas 114: the taste of death with the addition, and Al-A'mash, Yahya, and Ibn Abi Ishaq read the taste of death with the tanween and the accusative of death, they said: because she has not tasted it yet, and that is because the active participle is of two types: one of them is that it has the meaning of the past, and the second is the meaning of the future, so if you want the first, then there is nothing in it except the addition to what comes after it, like your saying: this is the striker of Zaid yesterday, and the killer of Bakr yesterday, because it is like a static noun which is a proper noun, like the servant of Zaid, and the companion of Bakr, the poet said:

The guardians of the tribe's shame, no one can approach them from behind them.

If you want the second, then the accusative and tanween are permissible in this way, and this is the rule, because it runs the course of the present tense verb. If the verb is intransitive, then it is not transitive, like Zayd is standing. If it is transitive, then you make it transitive and accusative with it, so you say: Zayd is hitting 'Amr, meaning he is hitting 'Amr. And it is permissible to delete the tanween and the addition for the sake of lightness, as Al-Marar said:

Ask the carefree person about all those who give their heads, whether they are successful, mixed with miserable people.

A murderer, his neck is hanging from the shoulder of the saddle of the mount, Arandas

The tanween was deleted for the sake of brevity. The original is: He raised his head with the tanween and the accusative. An example of this is also in the revelation, the Almighty's saying: Are they removers of his distress? (al-Zumar 39:38), and what is similar to it.

Third: Then know that death has causes and signs. One of the signs of the death of a believer is sweat on the forehead. An-Nasa'i narrated it from "the hadith of Buraydah who said: I heard the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: The believer dies with sweat on the forehead." We have explained it in At-Tadhkirah. So when he is dying, he is taught the Shahada, based on his saying, may God bless him and grant him peace: Teach your dead 'There is no god but God' so that it will be his last words, and he will conclude with the Shahada, and it will not be repeated to him so that he will not become bored. It is recommended to recite Yasin at that time, based on his saying, may God bless him and grant him peace: Recite Yasin over your dead. Narrated by Abu Dawud. Al-Ajurri mentioned in the Book of Advice from the hadith of Umm Ad-Darda' that "the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'There is no dead person in whose presence Surat Yasin is recited except that death is made easy for him.'" So when he has passed away and the sight follows the soul, as he, may God bless him and grant him peace, informed us in Sahih Muslim, and acts of worship are lifted and obligations are removed, rulings are imposed on the living, including closing his eyes and informing his righteous brothers of his death. Some people disliked it and said: It is from the mourning, but the first is more correct. We have explained it in other places, including preparing it by washing and burying it so that it does not change quickly. "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to a group of people who delayed burying their dead: 'Hurry up to bury your corpse.' And he said: 'Hurry up with the funeral.' The hadith, and it will come."

Third: As for washing him, it is a Sunnah for all Muslims, except for the martyr, according to what was mentioned above. It was said that washing him is obligatory, as stated by Judge Abdul Wahhab. The first is the doctrine of the Book, and according to these two statements, the scholars. The reason for the disagreement is his saying, peace be upon him, to Umm Atiyah in washing his daughter Zainab, according to what is in the book of Muslim, and it was said: She is Umm Kulthum, according to what is in the book of Abu Dawud: Wash her three or five times or more than that if you see fit, the hadith, which is the origin according to the scholars in washing the dead. It was said: What is meant by this command is to explain the ruling on washing, so it is obligatory. It was said: What is meant by it is to teach how to wash, so there is nothing in it that indicates obligation. They said: And what is indicated by his saying: If you see that, and this requires excluding the apparent meaning of the command from obligation, because he delegated it to their consideration. It was said to them: There is a distance in this, because your referring If you see to the command is not the first to understanding, rather the first is the return of this condition to the closest mentioned, which is more than that or to the choice in numbers. In general, there is no disagreement that washing the dead is prescribed and practiced in the Sharia. It is not left, and its description is like the description of the ritual bath for major ritual impurity, as is well known, and it does not exceed seven washings in washing the dead by consensus, according to what Abu Omar narrated. If something comes out of him after the seven, he washes the place alone, and his ruling is the ruling of the one in a state of major ritual impurity if he breaks his ablution after his washing. So when he finishes his washing, he is shrouded in his clothes, which are:

Fourth: Shrouding is obligatory according to most scholars. If he has money, then it is from his capital, according to most scholars, except for what was narrated from Tawus, who said: From a third, whether the money is little or much. If the deceased is someone whose expenses are obligatory upon someone else during his life, such as a master, whether he is a slave, or a father, or a husband, or whoever, then it is upon the master by consensus, and upon the husband, father, and son, according to differences, then upon the public treasury or upon the group of Muslims, based on sufficiency. What is required from it by specifying the obligation is covering the private parts. If there is excess in it, but it does not include the entire body, then his head and face are covered, to honor his face and to cover what appears of the change in his appearance.

The origin of this is the story of Mus'ab ibn 'Umayr, who left a tiara on the day of Uhud, and if his head was covered, his feet would stick out, and if his feet were covered, his head would stick out. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Put it next to his head and put some idhkhir on his feet. The hadith was narrated by Muslim. The witr is recommended by all scholars in the shroud, and they all agree that there is no limit to it. The recommended type is white. "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Wear white from your clothes, for it is the best of your clothes, and shroud your dead in it.'" Narrated by Abu Dawud.

The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, was shrouded in three white, silken garments. A shroud other than white is permissible unless it is made of silk or brocade. If the heirs dispute over the shroud, they are to be ordered to wear the same clothing as he wore on Fridays and holidays. "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'If one of you shrouds his brother, let him shroud him well.'" Narrated by Muslim, unless he bequeaths less than that. If he bequeaths more than that, it is said that the excess is invalidated. It is said that it is in the third, and the first is more correct, based on the words of God Almighty: And do not be extravagant. Abu Bakr said: It is for the respite. When he is finished washing and shrouding him, he is placed on his bed and the men carry him on their shoulders, which is:

Fifth: The ruling is to walk quickly, based on the saying of the Prophet (peace be upon him): Hurry up with the funeral, for if it is good then you are bringing it forward to goodness, and if it is not then you are removing evil from your necks, not as the ignorant do today by walking slowly, standing with it time after time, and reciting the Qur'an with melodies to what is not permissible and not permitted, as the people of Egypt do with their dead. Al-Nasa'i narrated: Muhammad ibn Abd al-A'la told us, Khalid told us, Uwaynah ibn Abd al-Rahman told us, my father told me: I witnessed the funeral of Abd al-Rahman ibn Samurah, and Ziyad came out walking in front of the bier, so some men from the family of Abd al-Rahman and their clients began to face the bier and walk on their heels and say: Slowly, slowly, may God bless you! So they crawled, until when we were on some of the road to al-Marbad, Abu Bakra may God be pleased with him caught up with us on a mule. When he saw those who were doing that, he charged at them on his mule and whipped them and said: Leave! By the One Who honored the face of Abu al-Qasim, may God bless him and grant him peace, I saw us with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and we were almost walking with it at a trot. The people relaxed. Abu Majida narrated, "On the authority of Ibn Mas'ud, who said: We asked our Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, about walking with the funeral procession, and he said: Less than a trot. If it is good, then hasten to it, and if it is otherwise, then away with the people of the Fire." The hadith. Abu 'Umar said: What the group of scholars agree upon in this is to hasten a little beyond nature, and haste is more beloved to them than slowness, and haste that is difficult for the weak people who follow it is disliked. Ibrahim al-Nakha'i said: Slow down with it a little and do not crawl like the Jews and Christians. Some people have interpreted the haste in the hadith of Abu Hurayrah as hastening the burial, not walking, and that is not a thing for what we have mentioned. And God is the Grantor of success.

Sixth: As for praying over him, it is a communal obligation, like jihad. This is the well-known view of the scholars, Malik and others, based on the words of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, regarding the Negus: Stand up and pray over him. Asbagh said: It is a Sunnah, and it was narrated from Malik. This meaning will be further explained in Bara'ah.

Seventh: As for burying him in the dirt, covering him up and concealing him, that is obligatory, based on the Almighty's statement: Then God sent a crow scratching the ground to show him how to conceal the shame of his brother (al-Ma'idah 5:31), and there He mentions building a mosque over him, God willing.

This is a set of rulings on the dead and what is required of them by the living. On the authority of Aisha, she said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Do not dress the dead, for they have already passed away to what they sent forth.'" Narrated by Muslim. In Sunan al-Nasa'i, she also said: "A bad mention was made to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, of someone who had died, so he said: 'Do not mention your dead except in a good way.'"

God the Almighty said: And you will only be given your full compensation on the Day of Resurrection. The reward of the believer is a reward, and the reward of the disbeliever is a punishment. The blessing and affliction in this world are not considered as rewards or recompense, because it is the place of destruction. So whoever is removed from the Fire means farther away, and admitted to Paradise has attained he has attained what he hopes for, and escaped what he fears. Al-A'mash narrated on the authority of Zaid bin Wahb on the authority of Abd al-Rahman bin Abd Rabb al-Ka'bah on the authority of Abdullah bin Amr "on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, who said: Whoever is pleased to be removed from the Fire and to enter Paradise, let his death come to him while he bears witness that there is no god but God and that Muhammad is the Messenger of God, and he comes to the people as he would like to be come to." On the authority of Abu Hurayrah, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: The space of a whip in Paradise is better than the world and everything in it. Read if you wish So whoever is removed from the Fire and admitted to Paradise has attained."

And the life of this world is nothing but the enjoyment of delusion. That is, it deceives and tricks the believer into thinking that he will live long, while it is fleeting.

Surat Al Imran 3:185

Every soul will taste death, and you will only be given your full compensation on the Day of Resurrection. So he who is drawn away from the Fire and admitted to Paradise has attained [his desire]. And what is the life of this world except the enjoyment of delusion.

Enjoyment is that which is enjoyed and benefited from, such as an axe, a pot, or a bowl, then it disappears and its possession is no longer there. This is what most of the commentators have said. Al-Hasan said: Like the greenery of plants and girls' toys that have no result. Qatada said: It is an abandoned enjoyment that is about to vanish with its people. So a person should take from this enjoyment, by obeying God Almighty, as much as he can. And he who said well:

This is the house of harm and filth, the house of destruction and the house of others.

If you got it all, you would die without having had your fill of it.

Whoever hopes for long life, long life will be harmful to him.

If you are old and your youth has passed, there is no good in living after old age

And arrogance with the opening of the ghain is the devil, who deceives people with false hopes and promises. Ibn Arafa said: Arrogance is that which you see as having an appearance that you like, but in which there is an interior that is disliked or unknown. And the devil is arrogant, because he leads to what the self loves, and behind that is what is bad. He said: And from this is the sale of uncertainty, which is that which has an appearance of a sale that deceives and an interior that is unknown.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The Almighty informs us in a general manner that includes all of creation that every soul will taste death, as He says: Everything on it will perish, but the Face of your Lord, Owner of Majesty and Honor, will remain. He, the Almighty, is the only Living One who does not die, and the jinn and mankind will die, as will the angels and the bearers of the Throne. The One, the Sovereign, is unique in perpetuity and survival, so He will be the last as He was the first. This verse contains consolation for all people, for no one will remain on the face of the earth until he dies. So when the period has passed and the sperm that God has decreed to exist in the loins of Adam is emptied and creation has come to an end, God will establish the Resurrection and reward the creatures for their deeds, great and small, many and few, great and small, and He will not wrong anyone by the weight of an atom. For this reason, the Almighty says: And you will only be given your wages in full on the Day of Resurrection. Ibn Abi Hatim said: My father told us, Abdul Aziz Al-Awysi told us, Ali bin Abi Ali Al-Lahbi told us on the authority of Ja'far bin Muhammad bin Ali bin Al-Hussein, on the authority of his father, On the authority of Ali bin Abi Talib, may God be pleased with him, who said: When the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, died and condolences came, a messenger came to them whose voice they could hear but not see. He said: Peace be upon you, O people of the House, and the mercy and blessings of God. Every soul will taste death, and you will only be given your full compensation on the Day of Resurrection. Indeed, in God there is consolation for every calamity, a replacement for every lost one, and a catch-up for every missed opportunity. So trust in God and hope in Him, for the afflicted is he who is deprived of reward. Peace be upon you and the mercy and blessings of God. Ja'far ibn Muhammad said: My father told me that Ali ibn Abi Talib said: Do you know who this is? This is Al-Khidr, peace be upon him. And His statement: And whoever is drawn away from the Fire and admitted to Paradise has attained [his desire], meaning whoever is spared from the Fire, saved from it, and admitted to Paradise has attained complete attainment. Ibn Abi Hatim said: My father told us, Muhammad ibn Abdullah al-Ansari told us, Muhammad ibn Amr ibn Alqamah told us, on the authority of Abu Salamah, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'The place of a whip in Paradise is better than the world and everything in it. Read if you wish: "So whoever is drawn away from the Fire and admitted to Paradise has attained [his desire]." This is an authentic hadith in the two Sahihs, from other chains of transmission without this addition. Abu Hatim, Ibn Hibban in his Sahih, and al-Hakim in his Mustadrak have narrated it without this addition, and from this hadith of Muhammad ibn Amr. Ibn Mardawayh narrated it from another chain of transmission, and he said: Muhammad ibn Ahmad ibn Ibrahim told us, Muhammad ibn Yahya told us, Humayd ibn Mas'adah told us, `Amr ibn `Ali told us, on the authority of Abu Hazim, on the authority of Sahl ibn Sa'd, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'The place of a whip in Paradise is better than the world and everything in it.' Then he recited this verse: 'So whoever is drawn away from the Fire and admitted to Paradise has attained [his desire].'" It was mentioned earlier when God, the Most High, says: And do not die except as Muslims. Narrated by Imam Ahmad on the authority of Wakee' ibn al-Jarrah on the authority of al-A'mash, on the authority of Zaid ibn Wahb, on the authority of Abd al-Rahman ibn Abd Rabb al-Ka'bah, on the authority of Abdullah ibn Amr ibn al-Aas, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Whoever would like to be saved from the Fire and enter Paradise, let death overtake him while he believes in God and the Last Day, and let him treat people as he would like to be treated.'" And the Almighty's saying: And what is the life of this world except the enjoyment of delusion is a belittling of the world, and a disparagement of its matter, and that it is lowly, transient, little and fleeting, as the Almighty said: Rather, you prefer the life of this world * While the Hereafter is better and more lasting. And the Almighty said: And whatever you are given is but the enjoyment of the life of this world and its adornment, and what is with God is better and more lasting. And in the hadith: By God, the world is in comparison to the Hereafter only as one of you dips his finger in the sea, so let him see what it brings back to him. And Qatada said about the Almighty's saying: And what is the life of this world except the enjoyment of delusion, he said: "It is enjoyment, it is an abandoned enjoyment that is about to disappear from its people, by God, there is no god but Him, so take from this enjoyment the obedience of God if you are able, and there is no power except with God." And the Almighty's saying: You will surely be tested in your wealth and yourselves is like the Almighty's saying: And We will surely test you with something of fear and hunger and a loss of wealth and lives and fruits to the end of the two verses, meaning that the believer will inevitably be tested in some of his wealth. Or himself or his children or his family, and the believer is tested according to the extent of his religion, if his religion is firm, the test will increase, And you will surely hear from those who were given the Scripture before you and from those who associate others with God much abuse. God Almighty says to the believers when they arrive in Medina before the Battle of Badr, comforting them for the harm that befell them from the People of the Book and the polytheists, and commanding them to forgive, be patient and pardon until God relieves, so God Almighty says, But if you are patient and fear God - indeed, that is of the matters [worthy] of determination. Ibn Abi Hatim said: My father told us, Abu Al-Yaman told us, Shuaib bin Abi Hamza told us on the authority of Al-Zuhri, Urwah bin Al-Zubayr told me that Usamah bin Zaid told him, he said: "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his companions used to forgive the polytheists and the People of the Book as God commanded them, and they used to be patient with the harm, God Almighty says, "And you will surely hear from those who were given the Scripture before you and from those who associate others with God much abuse." He said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, used to interpret forgiveness as God commanded him until God permitted it for them." This is how he mentioned it in brief, and Al-Bukhari mentioned it in detail when interpreting this verse, and he said: Abu Al-Yaman told us, Shu'ayb told us on the authority of Al-Zuhri, Urwah bin Al-Zubayr told me that Usamah bin Zaid told him that "the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, rode on a donkey with a Fadak cloak on it, and Usamah bin Zaid rode behind him, visiting Sa'd bin Ubadah in Banu Al-Harith bin Al-Khazraj before the Battle of Badr. He said: Until he passed by a gathering in which was Abdullah bin Ubayy bin Salul, and that was before Abdullah bin Ubayy converted to Islam, and in the gathering were a mixture of Muslims and polytheists, idol worshippers, and People of the Book, Jews and Muslims, and in the gathering was Abdullah bin Rawahah. When the dust of the beast covered the gathering, Abdullah bin Ubayy covered his nose with his cloak and said: Do not dust us, so the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, greeted him, then he stood, got off, and called them to God Almighty and recited the Qur'an to them, and Abdullah bin Ubayy said: O man, there is nothing better than what you say. If it is true, then..." You harm us in our gatherings. Then the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, mounted his mount and rode until he entered upon Sa'd ibn 'Ubadah. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to him,

"O Sa'd, did you not hear what Abu Hubab said, meaning 'Abdullah ibn Ubayy? He said, 'So-and-so.' Sa'd said, 'O Messenger of God, pardon him and forgive him, for by God who sent down the Book to you, God has come with the truth that He sent down to you. The people of this lake agreed to crown him and tie him with a headband. But when God refused that with the truth that God gave you, he was pleased with that. That is what happened to him, as you saw. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, pardoned him. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his companions used to pardon the polytheists and the People of the Book as God commanded them, and they were patient with them.'" Harm, God the Almighty said: And you will surely hear from those who were given the Scripture before you and from those who associate others with God much abuse 3:10. And God the Almighty said: "Many of the People of the Scripture wish they could turn you back to disbelief after you have believed, out of envy from themselves [i.e., the truth has become clear to them]. So pardon and overlook until God brings about His command" 3:10. And the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, interpreted the pardon as God had commanded him to do until He gave him permission to do so. When the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, fought Badr, and God killed the leaders of the disbelievers of Quraysh, Abdullah bin Ubayy bin Salul and those who were with him from the polytheists and idol worshippers said: This is a matter that has been decided, so pledge allegiance to the Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, on Islam and submit. So everyone who stands up for what is right or commands what is right or forbids what is wrong will inevitably be harmed, and there is no cure for him except patience in God, seeking help from God, and returning to God the Almighty.

Fath al-Qadir

His saying 185- Taste comes from taste, and from it is the saying of Umayyah ibn Abi al-Salt:

He who does not die in happiness will die old. Death is a cup and one must taste it.

This verse includes the promise and the threat to the believer and the disbeliever after informing him about the misers who say, God is poor, and we are rich. Al-A'mash, Yahya ibn Waththab, and Ibn Abi Ishaq read the taste of death with tanween and the accusative of death. The majority read it with the addition. His statement, And you will only be given your wages in full on the Day of Resurrection, the reward of the believer is the reward, and the reward of the disbeliever is the punishment. That is, the payment and completion of wages will only be on that day, and whatever wages occur in this world or in the intermediate realm is only some of the wages. Al-Zahzaha: to move away, and al-Ibaad: repeating the word Zah which means to pull quickly. It was stated in Al-Kashshaf and it was previously discussed: Whoever is far from the Fire on that Day and is removed has succeeded: meaning he has attained what he wants and escaped from what he fears. This is the true success that no success can come close to, for every success, even if it is in all demands but Paradise, is nothing compared to it. O God, there is no success except the success of the Hereafter, and no life except its life, and no bliss except its bliss. So forgive our sins, and cover our faults and be pleased with us with a pleasure after which there is no discontent, and combine for us Your pleasure with us and Paradise." And enjoyment: what a person enjoys and benefits from, then it disappears and does not remain. This is what most of the commentators said. Arrogance: Satan deceives people with false hopes and false promises. God, the Almighty, likened the world to enjoyment that he deceives those who want it, and it has a beloved appearance and a hated interior.

Surat Al Imran 3:185

Every soul will taste death, and you will only be given your full compensation on the Day of Resurrection. So he who is drawn away from the Fire and admitted to Paradise has attained [his desire]. And what is the life of this world except the enjoyment of delusion.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

185- The Almighty said: Every soul, breathed, shall taste death, and in the hadith: "When God Almighty created Adam, the earth complained to its Lord about what was taken from it, so He promised to return to it what was taken from it, so there is no one but that he will be buried in the soil from which he was created." And you will only be given your wages, you will be given the reward for your deeds, on the Day of Resurrection, if good, then good, and if evil, then evil. So whoever is removed, saved and removed, from the Fire and admitted to Paradise has attained success, he has attained salvation and escaped fear. And the life of this world is nothing but the enjoyment of delusion, meaning benefit and enjoyment like an axe, a pot, and a bowl, then it disappears and does not remain.

Al-Hassan said: It is like the greenness of plants and the toys of girls, it has no result.

Qatada said: It is an abandoned commodity that is about to disappear with its owners, so take from this commodity what you can in obedience to God, and delusion is falsehood.

Ahmad ibn Abdullah al-Salihi told us, Abu Bakr Ahmad ibn al-Hasan al-Hayri told us, Hajib ibn Ahmad al-Tusi told us, Muhammad ibn Yahya told us, Yazid ibn Harun told us, Muhammad ibn Amr told us, on the authority of Abu Salamah, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, may God be pleased with him, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: "God Almighty says: 'I have prepared for My righteous servants what no eye has seen, no ear has heard, and has never crossed the mind of man.' And recite, if you wish, 'No soul knows what has been hidden for them of comfort for their eyes as reward for what they used to do.'" (al-Sajdah 32:17), and that in Paradise there is a tree in whose shade a rider can travel for a hundred years without crossing it. And recite, if you wish, 'and an extended shade.' (al-Waqi'ah 56:30), and the space of a whip in Paradise is better than the world and everything in it.

And recite, if you wish, 'So whoever is drawn away from the Fire and admitted to Paradise has attained [his desire]. And what is the life of this world except the enjoyment of delusion.'"

Tafsir al-Baidawi

185 Every soul will taste death is a promise and a threat to the believer and the disbeliever. The taste of death is read in the accusative with or without the tanween, as in His statement: And they do not remember God except a little. "And you will only be given your rewards in full" You will be given the reward for your deeds, whether good or evil, in full and complete. "The Day of Resurrection" is the day when you rise from the graves. The word "fulfillment" indicates that there may be some rewards before it, and this is supported by His statement, peace and blessings be upon him: "The grave is a garden from the gardens of Paradise or a pit from the pits of Hellfire. So whoever is removed from the Fire is far from it, and removal is originally a repetition of zahn" which is pulling with haste. "And enters Paradise has succeeded" in salvation and attaining what is desired, and success is the attainment of the goal. From the Prophet, peace and blessings be upon him: "Whoever loves to be removed from the Fire and enter Paradise, then his death overtakes him while he believes in God and the Last Day, and he brings to the people what he should be brought to. And what is the life of this world" meaning its pleasures and decorations. Except for the enjoyment of delusion. He likened it to the enjoyment that is used to deceive the buyer and mislead him until he buys it. This is for the one who prefers it over the Hereafter. As for the one who seeks the Hereafter through it, it is for him the enjoyment of delusion. Deception is a source or the plural of ghar.

Surat Al Imran 3:186

You will surely be tested in your wealth and yourselves, and you will surely hear from those who were given the Scripture before you and from those who associate others with God much abuse. But if you are patient and fear God - indeed, that is of the matters [worthy] of determination.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

You will surely be tested The nun of the subject was deleted from it due to the succession of nuns and the waw is the plural pronoun due to the meeting of two quiescent letters, you will surely be tested in your wealth with the obligations therein and the calamities and yourselves with the acts of worship and the calamities and you will surely hear from those who were given the Scripture before you the Jews and Christians and from those who associate others with God from the Arabs much abuse of cursing, slander and flirting with your women and if you are patient in that and fear God then indeed that is of the matters of determination that is, of its determined matters that are determined because they are obligatory.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

The Almighty said: And you will surely hear the verse. Ibn Abi Hatim and Ibn Al-Mundhir narrated with a good chain of transmission on the authority of Ibn Abbas that it was revealed regarding what happened between Abu Bakr and Phinehas, regarding his saying that God is poor and we are rich. And Abd Al-Razzaq mentioned on the authority of Muammar on the authority of Al-Zuhri on the authority of Abd Al-Rahman Ibn Kaab Ibn Malik that it was revealed regarding Kaab Ibn Al-Ashraf regarding the poetry he used to satirize the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his companions.

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: What is meant by the words of God Almighty: You will surely be tested in your wealth, you will be tested with calamities in your wealth, and yourselves, meaning: and with the destruction of relatives and clans from the people of your support and your religion, and you will surely hear from those who were given the Scripture before you, meaning: from the Jews and their saying: Indeed, God is poor and we are rich, and their saying: The hand of God is chained (al-Ma'idah 5:64), and what is similar to that of their fabrications against God, and from those who associate others with God, meaning the Christians, much harm, and the harm from the Jews is what we mentioned, and from the Christians their saying: The Messiah is the son of God (al-Tawbah 9:35), and what is similar to that of their disbelief in God, and if you are patient and fear God, meaning: and if you are patient with the command of God that He commanded you with regard to them and others of His obedience, and fear God, meaning: and fear God in what He commanded you and forbade you, so you act in This is by obeying Him, for this is among the matters that are determined. He says: For this patience and piety are among the matters that God has determined and commanded you to do.

It was said: All of this was revealed about Phinehas the Jew, the master of Banu Qaynuqa, as the one who:

Al-Qasim narrated to us, he said: Al-Husayn narrated to us, he said: Hajjaj narrated to us, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, he said: Ikrimah said regarding the words of God, You will surely be tested in your wealth and your lives, and you will hear from those who were given the Scripture before you and from those who associate others with God much abuse, he said: This verse was revealed about the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and about Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him, and about Finhas the Jew, the master of Banu Qaynuqa. He said: The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent Abu Bakr al-Siddiq, may God have mercy on him, to Finhas to ask for help, and he wrote to him a letter, and said to Abu Bakr: Do not tempt me with anything until you return. So Abu Bakr came wearing his sword, and he gave him the letter, and when he read it he said: Your Lord needs us to help Him! Abu Bakr wanted to strike him with the sword, then he remembered the words of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace: Do not tempt me with anything until you return, so he refrained, and the verse was revealed: "And let not those who withhold what God has given them of His bounty think that it is good for them. Rather, it is bad for them." (Al Imran 3:80). And between the two verses up to His saying: You will surely be tested in your wealth and yourselves, these verses were revealed about Banu Qaynuqa' up to His saying: If they deny you, [O Muhammad], [other] messengers before you were denied, Ibn Jurayj said: He was consoling His Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace. He said: You will surely be tested in your wealth and yourselves, he said: God informed the believers that He would test them, to see how patient they were in their religion. Then He said: And you will surely hear from those who were given the Scripture before you, meaning the Jews and Christians, and from those who associate others with God, much abuse, so the Muslims would hear the Jews say: Ezra is the son of God (al-Tawbah 9:30), and from the Christians: The Messiah is the son of God (al-Tawbah 9:30). So the Muslims would set up war against them when they heard their association with God, so God said: But if you are patient and fear God - indeed, that is of the matters [worthy] of determination, meaning: of the strength of what God has determined and commanded you to do.

Others said: Rather, it was revealed about Ka'b ibn al-Ashraf, because he used to satirize the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and flirt with Muslim women.

Who said that?

Al-Hasan bin Yahya narrated, he said: Abd al-Razzaq narrated, he said: Muammar narrated, on the authority of al-Zuhri, regarding the statement of God, And you will surely hear from those who were given the Scripture before you and from those who associate others with God, much abuse, he said: He is Ka'b bin al-Ashraf, and he used to incite the polytheists against the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his companions in his poetry, and he used to satirize the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace. Five men from the Ansar went to him, among them Muhammad bin Maslama and a man called Abu Abbas. They came to him while he was in a gathering of his people in al-Awali. When he saw them, he was terrified of them and disapproved of their behavior. They said: We have come to you for a need! He said: Let one of you come close to me and tell me about his need. Then one of them came to him and said: We have come to you to sell you some armor from us so that we may spend on it. He said: By God, if you do that, you will have been exhausted since this man has come to you! They promised to come to him at dinner when the people had calmed down. So they came to him and called him. His wife said: Why have these people come to you at this hour for something you like? He said: They told me about their story and their affairs.

Surat Al Imran 3:186

You will surely be tested in your wealth and yourselves, and you will surely hear from those who were given the Scripture before you and from those who associate others with God much abuse. But if you are patient and fear God - indeed, that is of the matters [worthy] of determination.

Muammar said: Ayoub informed me, on the authority of Ikrimah: He looked down upon them and spoke to them and said: Do you pledge your sons to me? They wanted to sell them dates. He said: They said: We are too shy to lend our sons and it would be said: This is a hostage of one wasq, and this is a hostage of two wasqs! He said: Do you pledge your women to me? They said: You are the most beautiful of people, and we do not trust you! And what woman would resist you because of your beauty! But we will pledge our weapons to you, for you know our need for weapons today. He said: Bring me your weapons, and take whatever you wish. They said: Then come down to us, so that we may take from you and you may take from us. So he went down, but his wife clung to him and said: Send for others like them from your people to be with you. He said: If these people had found me asleep, they would not have woken me! She said: So speak to them from the top of the house, but he refused, so he came down to them and his fragrance spread. They said: What is this smell, O so-and-so? He said: This is the perfume of so-and-so's wife. Some of them approached him, smelled his scent, then embraced him and said: Kill the enemy of God! Abu Abs stabbed him in the side, and Muhammad ibn Maslama struck him with the sword, and they killed him and then returned. The Jews were terrified, so they came to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: Our master was killed by treachery! The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, reminded them of what he had done, and how he had incited them and urged them to fight them and harm them, then he called upon them to write a peace treaty between him and them. He said: So that letter was with Ali, may God be pleased with him.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

This address is to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his nation, and the meaning is:

You will be tested and tried in your wealth by calamities and misfortunes by spending in the way of God and all the obligations of the Shari'ah, and the trials in the souls by death, illnesses, and the loss of loved ones. He began by mentioning wealth because of the many calamities in it. And you will hear. If it is said: Why was the waw established in Latabilun and deleted from Watisa'n, the answer is that the waw in Latabilun was preceded by a fatha, so it was moved due to the meeting of two quiescent letters, and it was made specific, with a damma because it is the waw of the plural, and it was not permissible to delete it because there is nothing before it that indicates it, and it was deleted from Watisa'n because there is nothing before it that indicates it, and it is not permissible to hamza the waw in Latabilun because its movement is incidental, as stated by An-Nahhas and others. It is said for one masculine: Latabilin ya rajul, and for two: Latabilian ya rajulan, and for a group of men: Latabilun, and it was revealed because Abu Bakr May God be pleased with him, he heard a Jew say: God is poor and we are rich, in response to the Qur'an and belittling it when God revealed: Who is it that would loan God a goodly loan? (al-Baqarah 2:245), so he slapped him, and he complained about him to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and it was revealed. It was said that the one who said it was Finhas the Jew, on the authority of Ikrimah, Al-Zuhri: He is Ka'b ibn Al-Ashraf, it was revealed because of him, and he was a poet, and he used to satirize the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his companions, and incite the infidels of Quraysh against him, and flirt with the women of the Muslims until the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent Muhammad ibn Maslama and his companions to him, and he killed him in the famous killing in the biography and the authentic report, and other than this was said, and when the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, came to Medina, there were Jews and polytheists in it, so he and his companions used to hear a lot of harm, and in the two Sahih: "He, peace be upon him, passed by Ibn Abi while he was on a donkey, so he called him to God Almighty, and Ibn Abi said, If what you say is true, then do not harm us with it in our gatherings!" Return to your journey, and whoever comes to you, tell him the story, and he held his nose so that the dust of the donkey would not touch him. Ibn Rawahah said, Yes, O Messenger of God, so entertain us in our gatherings, for we love that. The polytheists who were around Ibn Ubayy and the Muslims reviled him, and the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, continued to calm them down until they calmed down. Then he entered upon Sa'd ibn 'Ubadah to visit him while he was sick, and he said, Did you not hear what so-and-so said? Sa'd said, "Forgive him and pardon him, for by the One Who sent down the Book to you, God has brought you the truth that was sent down, and the people of this lake agreed to crown him and tie him with a headband. When God returned that to him with the truth that He gave you, he was pleased with him, and that is what you saw. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, forgave him, and this verse was revealed."

It was said: This was before the revelation of the battle, and God urged His servants to patience and piety and informed that it was from the determination of matters, and likewise in Bukhari in the context of the hadith, that this was before the revelation of the battle, and it is more apparent that it is not abrogated, for argument is in the best way and moderation is always recommended, and he, peace be upon him, with the command to fight, was friendly with the Jews and moderated them, and forgave the hypocrites, and this is clear, and the meaning of determination of matters is their firmness and solidity, and it has been mentioned previously.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

The Almighty informs us in a general manner that includes all of creation that every soul will taste death, as He says: Everything on it will perish, but the Face of your Lord, Owner of Majesty and Honor, will remain. He, the Almighty, is the only Living One who does not die, and the jinn and mankind will die, as will the angels and the bearers of the Throne. The One, the Sovereign, is unique in perpetuity and survival, so He will be the last as He was the first. This verse contains consolation for all people, for no one will remain on the face of the earth until he dies. So when the period has passed and the sperm that God has decreed to exist in the loins of Adam is emptied and creation has come to an end, God will establish the Resurrection and reward the creatures for their deeds, great and small, many and few, great and small, and He will not wrong anyone by the weight of an atom. For this reason, the Almighty says: And you will only be given your wages in full on the Day of Resurrection. Ibn Abi Hatim said: My father told us, Abdul Aziz Al-Awsi told us, Ali bin Abi Ali Al-Lahbi told us on the authority of Ja'far bin Muhammad bin Ali bin Al-Hussein, on the authority of his father, On the authority of Ali ibn Abi Talib, may God be pleased with him, who said: When the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, died and condolences came, a messenger came to them whose voice they could hear but not see. He said: Peace be upon you, O people of the House, and the mercy and blessings of God. Every soul will taste death, and you will only be given your full compensation on the Day of Resurrection. Indeed, in God there is consolation for every calamity, a replacement for every lost one, and a catch-up for every missed opportunity. So trust in God and hope in Him, for the afflicted is he who is deprived of reward. Peace be upon you and the mercy and blessings of God. Ja'far ibn Muhammad said: My father told me that Ali ibn Abi Talib said: Do you know who this is? This is Al-Khidr, peace be upon him. And His statement: And whoever is drawn away from the Fire and admitted to Paradise has attained [his desire], meaning whoever is spared from the Fire, saved from it, and admitted to Paradise has attained complete attainment. Ibn Abi Hatim said: My father told us, Muhammad ibn Abdullah al-Ansari told us, Muhammad ibn Amr ibn Alqamah told us, on the authority of Abu Salamah, on the authority of Abu

Hurayrah, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'The place of a whip in Paradise is better than the world and everything in it. Read if you wish: "So whoever is drawn away from the Fire and admitted to Paradise has attained [his desire]."' This is an authentic hadith in the two Sahihs, from other chains of transmission without this addition. Abu Hatim, Ibn Hibban in his Sahih, and al-Hakim in his Mustadrak have narrated it without this addition, and from this hadith of Muhammad ibn Amr. Ibn Mardawayh narrated it from another chain of transmission, and he said: Muhammad ibn Ahmad ibn Ibrahim told us, Muhammad ibn Yahya told us, Humayd ibn Mas'adah told us, 'Amr ibn 'Ali told us, on the authority of Abu Hazim, on the authority of Sahl ibn Sa'd, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'The place of a whip in Paradise is better than the world and everything in it.' Then he recited this verse: 'So whoever is drawn away from the Fire and admitted to Paradise has attained [his desire].'" It was mentioned earlier when God, the Most High, says: And do not die except as Muslims. Narrated by Imam Ahmad on the authority of Wakee' ibn al-Jarrah on the authority of al-A'mash, on the authority of Zaid ibn Wahb, on the authority of Abd al-Rahman ibn Abd Rabb al-Ka'bah, on the authority of Abdullah ibn Amr ibn al-Aas, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Whoever would like to be saved from the Fire and enter Paradise, let death overtake him while he believes in God and the Last Day, and let him treat people as he would like to be treated.'" And the Almighty's saying: And what is the life of this world except the enjoyment of delusion is a belittling of the world, and a disparagement of its matter, and that it is lowly, transient, little and fleeting, as the Almighty said: Rather, you prefer the life of this world * While the Hereafter is better and more lasting. And the Almighty said: And whatever you are given is but the enjoyment of the life of this world and its adornment, and what is with God is better and more lasting. And in the hadith: By God, the world is in comparison to the Hereafter only as one of you dips his finger in the sea, so let him see what it brings back to him. And Qatada said about the Almighty's saying: And what is the life of this world except the enjoyment of delusion, he said: "It is enjoyment, it is an abandoned enjoyment that is about to disappear from its people, by God, there is no god but Him, so take from this enjoyment the obedience of God if you are able, and there is no power except with God." And the Almighty's saying: You will surely be tested in your wealth and yourselves is like the Almighty's saying: And We will surely test you with something of fear and hunger and a loss of wealth and lives and fruits to the end of the two verses, meaning that the believer will inevitably be tested in some of his wealth. Or himself or his children or his family, and the believer is tested according to the extent of his religion, if his religion is firm, the test will increase, And you will surely hear from those who were given the Scripture before you and from those who associate others with God much abuse. God Almighty says to the believers when they arrive in Medina before the Battle of Badr, comforting them for the harm that befell them from the People of the Book and the polytheists, and commanding them to forgive, be patient and pardon

Surat Al Imran 3:186

You will surely be tested in your wealth and yourselves, and you will surely hear from those who were given the Scripture before you and from those who associate others with God much abuse. But if you are patient and fear God - indeed, that is of the matters [worthy] of determination.

until God relieves, so God Almighty says, But if you are patient and fear God - indeed, that is of the matters [worthy] of determination. Ibn Abi Hatim said: My father told us, Abu Al-Yaman told us, Shuaib bin Abi Hamza told us on the authority of Al-Zuhri, Urwah bin Al-Zubayr told me that Usamah bin Zaid told him, he said: "The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his companions used to forgive the polytheists and the People of the Book as God commanded them, and they used to be patient with the harm, God Almighty says, "And you will surely hear from those who were given the Scripture before you and from those who associate others with God much abuse." He said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, used to interpret forgiveness as God commanded him until God permitted it for them." This is how he mentioned it in brief, and Al-Bukhari mentioned it in detail when interpreting this verse, and he said: Abu Al-Yaman told us, Shu'ayb told us on the authority of Al-Zuhri, Urwah bin Al-Zubayr told me that Usamah bin Zaid told him that "the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, rode on a donkey with a Fadak cloak on it, and Usamah bin Zaid rode behind him, visiting Sa'd bin Ubadah in Banu Al-Harith bin Al-Khazraj before the Battle of Badr. He said: Until he passed by a gathering in which was Abdullah bin Ubayy bin Salul, and that was before Abdullah bin Ubayy converted to Islam, and in the gathering were a mixture of Muslims and polytheists, idol worshippers, and People of the Book, Jews and Muslims, and in the gathering was Abdullah bin Rawahah. When the dust of the beast covered the gathering, Abdullah bin Ubayy covered his nose with his cloak and said: Do not dust us, so the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, greeted him, then he stood, got off, and called them to God Almighty and recited the Qur'an to them, and Abdullah bin Ubayy said: O man, there is nothing better than what you say. If it is true, then..." You harm us in our gatherings. Then the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, mounted his mount and rode until he entered upon Sa'd ibn `Ubadah. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said to him, "O Sa'd, did you not hear what Abu Hubab said, meaning `Abdullah ibn Ubayy? He said, 'So-and-so.' Sa'd said, 'O Messenger of God, pardon him and forgive him, for by God who sent down the Book to you, God has come with the truth that He sent down to you. The people of this lake agreed to crown him and tie him with a headband. But when God refused that with the truth that God gave you, he was pleased with that. That is what happened to him, as you saw. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, pardoned him. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his companions used to pardon the polytheists and the People of the Book as God commanded them, and they were patient with them.'" Harm, God the Almighty said: And you will surely hear from those who were given the Scripture before you and from those who associate others with God much abuse 3:10. And God the Almighty said: "Many of the People of the Scripture wish they could turn you back to disbelief after you have believed, out of envy from themselves [i.e., the truth has become clear to them]. So pardon and overlook until God brings about His command" 3:10. And the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, interpreted the pardon as God had commanded him to do until He gave him permission to do so. When the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, fought Badr, and God killed the leaders of the disbelievers of Quraysh, Abdullah bin Ubayy bin Salul and those who were with him from the polytheists and idol worshippers said: This is a matter that has been decided, so pledge allegiance to the Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, on Islam and submit. So everyone who stands up for what is right or commands what is right or forbids what is wrong will inevitably be harmed, and there is no cure for him except patience in God, seeking help from God, and returning to God the Almighty.

Fath al-Qadir

His statement 186- You will surely be tested in your wealth and yourselves. This address is to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his nation, as a consolation for them regarding what they will encounter from the infidels and the wicked, so that they may prepare themselves for steadfastness and patience in the face of hardships. Testing is an examination and a test, and the meaning is: You will surely be tested and informed in your wealth of calamities, obligatory expenditures, and all other legal obligations related to wealth. Testing in the souls is through death and illness, the loss of loved ones, and being killed in the way of God. This sentence is the answer to an omitted oath indicated by the preambular lam. And you will surely hear from those who were given the Scripture before you, meaning the Jews and Christians, and from those who associate others with God, meaning all the infidel sects other than the People of the Book, much harm, from the slander of your religion and your honor. The reference in His statement, then that, is to patience and piety, which is indicated by a determination from God's determinations that He has obligated them to carry out. It is said that he determined a matter: meaning he strengthened it and fixed it.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

186- You will be tested in your wealth and your lives the verse, Akrima, Muqatil, Al-Kalbi and Ibn Jurayj said: The verse was revealed about Abu Bakr and Finhas bin Azura, and that is "that the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, sent Abu Bakr to Finhas bin Azura, the leader of Banu Qaynuqa, to ask for support, and he wrote him a letter and said to Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him, do not try anything against me until you return. So Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him, came wearing a sword and gave him the letter. When he read it, he said: Your Lord needs us to help him. Abu Bakr, may God be pleased with him, thought of striking him with the sword, then he remembered the words of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace: Do not try anything against me until you return, so he refrained, and this verse was revealed."

Al-Zuhri said: It was revealed about Ka'b ibn al-Ashraf, for he used to satirize the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and insult the Muslims, and incite the polytheists against the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his companions, in his poetry, and he used to flirt with the women of the Muslims. So the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Who will find me Ibn al-Ashraf, for he has harmed God and His Messenger?

Muhammad Maslama Al-Ansari said: I am yours, O Messenger of God. I will kill him. He said: Do so if you are able to do so.

Muhammad ibn Maslama returned and remained for three days, neither eating nor drinking except what he wanted. He mentioned that to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, so he called him and said to him: Why did you stop eating and drinking? He said: O Messenger of God, I said something and I do not know whether I will fulfill it or not. He said: You only have to make the effort.

He said: O Messenger of God, we must say something. He said: Say whatever you wish, for whatever you wish, you are absolved from that. So Muhammad ibn Maslama, Salkan ibn Salam, Abu Na'ila, who was Ka'b's foster brother, Ubad ibn Bishr, Al-Harith ibn Aws, and Abu 'Isa ibn Jubayr all gathered to kill him. So the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, walked with them to Baqi' al-Gharqad and then directed them. He said: Go in the name of God, O God, help them. Then the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, returned, and that was on a moonlit night.

So they came until they reached his fortress, and they suddenly brought Abu Na'ila and talked with him for a while and recited poetry, and Abu Na'ila used to recite poetry, then he said: Woe to you, O son of Ashraf, I have come to you for a need that I want to mention to you, so keep it a secret from me. He said: I will. He said: The arrival of this man in our country was a calamity, the Arabs used to us and they shot at us from one bow, and the roads were cut off from us until the children were lost and our souls were exhausted. Ka'b said: I am the son of Ashraf, but by God I told you, O son of Salamah, that the matter would come to this. Abu Na'ila said: I have companions with me and we wanted you to sell us your food and we would pledge you and give you a pledge and treat you well in that. He said: Will you pledge your children to me? He said: We are ashamed that our children would be lent and it would be said: This one is a pledge of a camel's weight, and this one is a pledge of two camels. He said: Will you pledge your women to me? They said: How can we pledge our women to you when you are the most beautiful of the Arabs and we do not trust you, and what woman would refrain from you because of your beauty? But we will mortgage you the ring, meaning: the weapon, and you know our need for the weapon. He said: Yes, and Abu Nailah wanted him not to deny the weapon if he saw it, so he promised him that he would bring it to him. So Abu Nailah returned to his companions and told them his story.

So they came until they reached his fortress at night, and Abu Nailah, who had recently been married, called out to him and jumped up from his cloak. His wife said: I hear a voice dripping with blood, and you are a warrior, and a warrior does not come down at such an hour. So he spoke to them from the top of the fortress and said: He is my brother Muhammad ibn Maslamah and my foster son Abu Nailah, and if these people found me asleep they would not wake me, and if a noble person is called to a fight at night he answers. So he went down to them and talked with them for an hour, then they said: O son of Ashraf, would you like us to walk to the old woman's ravine and talk there for the rest of our night? He said: If you wish? They went out walking, and Abu Na'ilah said to his companions: I am going to twist his hair and smell it, so if you see me get hold of his head, then go ahead and strike him. Then he smelled his hand in the blood of his head, then he smelled his hand, and said: I have never seen a bride's perfume like tonight. He said: It is the perfume of so-and-so's mother, meaning his wife. Then he walked for an hour, then returned for a similar time until he was calm. Then he walked for an hour, then returned for a similar time, then took hold of his blood of his head until he was secure. Then he said: Strike the enemy of God. Their swords clashed against him but were of no avail. Muhammad ibn Maslamah said: I remembered a thief in my sword, so I took him, and the enemy of God cried out a cry that left no fortress around us except that a fire was lit upon him. He said: I put him in his armpit, then I leaned on him until I reached his pubis, and the enemy of God fell. Al-Harith ibn Aws was wounded in the head by one of our swords, so we went out, and our companion Al-Harith was slow to reach us and bleeding, so we stopped for him for an hour, then he came to us following our tracks, so we carried him. We brought him to the Messenger of God at the end of the night while he was standing praying. We greeted him and he came out to us. We informed him of Ka'b's murder and brought his head to him. He spat on our companion's wound.

So we returned to our people and the morning came and the Jews feared that we would fall to the enemy of God. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever you capture from the Jews, kill him. Then Muhaysa bin Mas'ud attacked Sanayna, a Jewish merchant who used to deal with them and trade with them, and killed him. Huwaysa bin Mas'ud had not converted to Islam at that time and was older than Muhaysa. When he killed him, Huwaysa began to beat him and say: "O enemy of God, you killed him. By God, there is fat in your belly from his money."

Muhaisah said: By God, if the one who ordered me to kill him had ordered me to kill you, I would have struck your neck. He said: If Muhammad had ordered you to kill me, would you have killed me? He said: Yes. He said: By God, is it strange that a religion has brought

Surat Al Imran 3:186

You will surely be tested in your wealth and yourselves, and you will surely hear from those who were given the Scripture before you and from those who associate others with God much abuse. But if you are patient and fear God - indeed, that is of the matters [worthy] of determination.

you to this? So Huwaysa converted to Islam, and God Almighty revealed concerning Ka'b: You will surely be tested "You will surely be informed." The lam is for emphasis, and it has the meaning of an oath, and the nun is for emphasis of the oath. In your wealth with disasters, disabilities, and loss. And in your souls with diseases. It was said: with the calamities of relatives and clans. Ata' said: They are the emigrants whose wealth and homes were taken by the polytheists and they were tortured. Al-Hasan said: It is what was imposed on them in their wealth and souls of rights, such as prayer, fasting, Hajj, jihad, and zakat. And you will surely hear from those who were given the Scripture before you meaning: the Jews and Christians, and from those who associate others with God meaning: the polytheists of the Arabs, "much harm. But if you are patient" with their harm and fear God, "then indeed that is of the matters [worthy] of determination," of the right and best of matters. Ata' said: Of the reality of faith.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

186 You will surely be tested meaning, by God, you will be tested. In your wealth by the obligation to spend and the calamities that befall it. And yourselves by jihad, killing, captivity, and injuries, and the fears, diseases, and troubles that befall them. And you will surely hear from those who were given the Scripture before you and from those who associate others with God much harm from the satire of the Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace, and the slander of the religion and the incitement of the infidels against the Muslims. He informed them of that before it happened so that they would prepare themselves for patience and endurance, and prepare to meet it so that its descent would not exhaust them. And if you are patient in that. And fear disobeying God's command. For that means patience and fear. From the resolve of matters from the resolved matters that must be resolved upon, or from what God resolved upon, meaning He commanded it and went to great lengths in it. And resolve in origin is the firmness of opinion on something, such as carrying it out.

Surat Al Imran 3:187

And when God took a covenant from those who were given the Scripture, You shall make it clear to the people and not conceal it. But they threw it behind their backs and purchased with it a small price. So evil is that which they purchase.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And mention when God took a covenant from those who were given the Scripture that is, the covenant upon them in the Torah to make it clear that is, the Scripture to the people and not to conceal it that is, the Scripture with the ya and the ta with the two verbs but they cast it they threw the covenant behind their backs so they did not act upon it and purchased with it they took in exchange a small price of this world from their lowest selves with their leadership in knowledge so they concealed it for fear of losing it so evil is that which they purchase this purchase of theirs.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: By that, the Most High means: And also mention the [matter] of these Jews and others from the People of the Book among them, O Muhammad, when God took a covenant from them to make clear to the people your matter which He took a covenant from them to make clear to the people in their book which is in their hands, which is the Torah and the Gospel, and that you are a Messenger of God sent with the truth and they will not conceal it, but they cast it behind their backs, meaning: So they abandoned the matter of God and wasted it, and broke His covenant which He took from them regarding that, so they concealed your matter and denied you, and purchased with it a small price, meaning: And they purchased with their concealment what they took a covenant from not concealing the matter of your prophethood, in exchange for it a small, worthless worldly gain. Then the Most High condemned their purchase of what they purchased with that, saying: So evil is that which they purchase.

The interpreters differed as to who was meant by this verse. Some of them said: It was meant specifically for the Jews.

Who said that?

Abu Kuraib told us, he said, Yunus bin Bakir told us, he said, Muhammad bin Ishaq told us, he said, Muhammad bin Abi Muhammad, the client of Zaid bin Thabit, told me, on the authority of Ikrimah: that he told him, on the authority of Ibn Abbas: And when God took a covenant from those who were given the Scripture, 'You shall make it clear to the people and not conceal it,' until His saying: A painful punishment, meaning Phinehas, Ash'a, and those like them among the rabbis.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq, on the authority of Muhammad ibn Abi Muhammad, the client of Zaid bin Thabit, on the authority of Ikrimah, the client of Ibn Abbas, the same.

Muhammad ibn Sa'd told me, he said, my father told me, he said, my uncle told me, he said, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn 'Abbas, regarding his statement: And when God took a covenant from those who were given the Scripture, 'You shall make it clear to the people and not conceal it.' But they cast it behind their backs, He commanded them to follow the unlettered Prophet who believed in God and His words, and He said: Follow him that you may be guided. (Al-A'raf: 158). So when God sent Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, He said: "Fulfill My covenant, and I will fulfill your covenant. And fear only Me." (al-Baqarah 2:45), He made a covenant with them on that, and He said when He sent Muhammad: Believe in him, and you will find what you love with Me.

Muhammad told us, Ahmad told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of al-Suddi: And when God took a covenant from those who were given the Scripture, 'You shall make it clear to the people,' the verse. He said: God took a covenant from the Jews to make it clear to the people, Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and not to conceal it, but they threw it behind their backs and purchased with it a small price.

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said, Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said, al-Thawri told us, on the authority of Abu al-Juhaf, on the authority of Muslim al-Batin, he said: Al-Hajjaj bin Yusuf asked his companions about this verse: And when God took a covenant from those who were given the Scripture, so a man stood up to Saeed bin Jubair and asked him, so he said: And when God took a covenant from those who were given the Scripture, the Jews, to make it clear to the people, Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and not to conceal it, so they rejected it.

Al-Qasim told us, he said, Al-Hussein told us, he said, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, his saying: And when God took a covenant from those who were given the Scripture, 'You shall make it clear to the people and not conceal it.' He said: It was in it that Islam is the religion of God that He imposed upon His servants, and that they find Muhammad written with them in the Torah and the Gospel.

Others said: He meant by that everyone who was given knowledge of the matter of religion.

Who said that?

Bishr told us, Yazid told us, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada: And [mention] when God took a covenant from those who were given the Scripture, 'You shall make it clear to the people and not conceal it.' But they threw it behind their backs. This is a covenant that God took from the people of knowledge. Whoever knows something, let him teach it. Beware of concealing knowledge, for concealing knowledge is destruction. And let no man undertake what he has no knowledge of, lest he depart from the religion of God and be among those who undertake. It was said: The likeness of knowledge that is not spoken is like the likeness of a treasure from which no money is spent! And the likeness of wisdom that is not brought forth is like the likeness of an idol that neither eats nor drinks. And it was said: Blessed is the speaking scholar, and blessed is the attentive listener. This is a man who learned knowledge, taught it, gave it away, and called to it, and a man who heard good, memorized it, retained it, and benefited from it.

And when God took a covenant from those who were given the Scripture, "You shall make it clear to the people and not conceal it." But they threw it behind their backs and purchased with it a small price. So evil is that which they purchase.

Yahya bin Ibrahim Al-Masoudi told me, he said, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of his grandfather, on the authority of Al-A'mash, on the authority of Amr bin Murrah, on the authority of Abu Ubaidah, he said: A man came to some people in the mosque in which Abdullah bin Masoud was, and said: Your brother Ka'b sends you his greetings and gives you good report that this verse does not apply to you: And when God took a covenant from those who were given the Scripture to make it clear to the people and not to conceal it. Abdullah said to him: And you too. So he greeted him and told him that it was revealed while he was a Jew.

Ibn Hamid told us, he said, Jarir told us, on the authority of Al-A'mash, on the authority of Amr bin Murrah, on the authority of Abu Ubaidah, similarly, on the authority of Abdullah and Ka'b.

Others said: The meaning of this is: And when God took a covenant from the prophets from their people. Those who said this mentioned:

Ibn Bashar told us, he said, Yahya bin Saeed told us, on the authority of Sufyan, he said, Yahya bin Abi Thabit told me, on the authority of Saeed bin Jubair, he said: I said to Ibn Abbas: The companions of Abdullah read: And when your Lord took from those who were given the Scripture their covenant, he said: From the prophets over their people.

Abu Kuraib told us, Qubaysah told us, Sufyan told us, on the authority of Habib, on the authority of Saeed, who said, I said to Ibn Abbas: The companions of Abdullah used to recite: And when God took a covenant from those who were given the Scripture, "And when God took a covenant from the prophets," he said, so he said: God took a covenant from the prophets from their people. As for His statement: You will make it clear to the people, it is as follows:

Abdul Warith bin Abdul Samad bin Abdul Warith told us, he said, my father told me, he said, Muhammad bin Dhakwan told us, he said, Abu Naamah Al-Saadi told us: Al-Hasan used to interpret his statement: And when God took a covenant from those who were given the Scripture, 'You shall make it clear to the people and not conceal it,' as: You shall speak the truth and confirm it with your actions.

Abu Jaafar said: The reciters differed in the recitation of that:

Some of them read it as that you may make it clear to the people and not conceal it with a ta'. This is the reading most often recited by the people of Medina and Kufa, in the manner of the addressee, meaning: God said to them: that you may make it clear to the people and not conceal it.

Others read it: He will make it clear to the people and not conceal it with both yas, as a report on the absent person. However, at the time God informed His Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, of that about them, they were not present, so the report on them became like the report on the absent person.

Abu Jaafar said: The statement in this regard, according to us, is that they are two readings, their aspects are correct, they are widespread in the reading of Islam, and they do not differ in meanings. So whichever of them the reader reads, he has reached the truth and the right in that.

However, even if this is the case, the reading I prefer is: that you may make it clear to the people and not conceal it, with both ya's, based on his statement: so they cast it aside, since it had been presented as report of the absent person, in the manner of his statement: so they cast it aside, so that it would all be consistent with one meaning and one example. If the first had been in the sense of address, it would have been more appropriate to say: so you cast it behind your backs, than to say: so they cast it behind their backs.

As for his saying: And they threw it behind their backs, it is an example of their neglect of fulfilling the covenant and their failure to act upon it.

We have already explained the meaning for which this was said in the previous part of this book, so we did not want to repeat it.

And the people of interpretation said something similar to what we said about that.

Who said that?

Abu Kuraib told us, he said, Ibn Idris told us, he said, Yahya bin Ayoub Al-Bajali told us, on the authority of Al-Sha'bi, regarding his statement: And they threw it behind their backs, he said: They used to recite it, but they threw away the practice of it.

Al-Qasim told us, he said, Al-Hussein told us, he said, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj: And they cast it behind their backs, he said: They cast the covenant. Muhammad bin Sinan told me, he said, Uthman bin Umar told us, he said, Malik bin Mughul told us: I was told on the authority of Al-Sha'bi regarding this verse: And they cast it behind their backs, he said: They threw it in front of them, and stopped acting upon it.

As for his saying: And they bought with it a small price, its meaning is what we said, that they took what they took for concealing the truth and distorting the Book, as:

Muhammad bin Al-Hussein told us, Ahmad bin

Mufaddal told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of Al-Suddi: And they bought with it a small price, they took it out of greed, and concealed the name of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace.

And his saying: So evil is what they buy, meaning: So evil is what they buy in their neglect of the covenant and their alteration of the Book, as:

Muhammad bin Amr told us, he said, Abu Asim told us, on the authority of Isa, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid: How evil is that which they buy, he said: The Jews' alteration of the Torah.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

There are two issues:

The first: The Almighty's saying: And when God took a covenant from those who were given the Scripture. This is connected to the mention of the Jews, for they were commanded to believe in Muhammad, peace be upon him, and to explain his command, but they concealed his description, so the verse is a rebuke to them, and with that it is general report for them and others. Al-Hasan and Qatada said: It is for everyone who was given knowledge of something from the Scripture, so whoever knows something should teach it, and beware of concealing knowledge, for it is destruction. Muhammad bin Ka'b said: It is not permissible for a scholar to remain silent about his knowledge, nor for an ignorant person to remain silent about his ignorance. God the Almighty said: And when God took a covenant from those who were given the Scripture, and He said: So ask the people of the message if you do not know. (Al-Anbiya': 7), and Abu Hurairah said: If it were not for what God took from the People of the Scripture, I would not have told you anything. Then he recited this verse: And when God took a covenant from those who were given the Scripture. Al-Hasan bin 'Ammarah said: I came to Al-Zuhri after he had abandoned hadith, and I found him at his door, so I said: If you see, will you tell me? He said: Do you not know? I left the hadith? I said: Either you tell me or I tell you. He said: Tell me. I said: Al-Hakam bin Utaybah told me on the authority of Yahya bin Al-Jazzar who said: I heard Ali bin Abi Talib say: God did not take a duty from the ignorant to learn until He took a duty from the scholars to teach. He said: So he told me forty hadiths.

The second: The letter ha' in his saying: that you may make it clear to the people refers to Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, even if he is not mentioned. It was said: it refers to the book, and it includes the explanation of the command of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, because it is in the book. He said: and do not conceal it and did not say conceal it because it is in the meaning of the state, meaning that you will make it clear without concealing it. Abu Amr and Asim read in the narration of Abu Bakr and the people of Mecca li-tabayyinnahu with a ta' as a recitation of the address, and the rest with a ya' because they are absent. Ibn Abbas read and when God took the covenant of the prophets to make it clear so his saying then they cast it away comes referring to the people to whom the prophets made it clear. In the reading of Ibn Mas'ud li-tabayyinnahu without the heavy nun. Casting is throwing, and its explanation has been presented in Al-Baqarah. Behind their backs is an exaggeration in throwing, and from it and you took it behind your backs and its explanation has also been presented in Al-Baqarah. The meaning of his saying: and they bought with it a small price has been presented in Al-Baqarah, so there is no point in repeating it. What a bad purchase they are buying. It also came forward, praise be to God.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

This is a rebuke from God and a threat to the People of the Book from whom God took a covenant through the tongues of the prophets to believe in Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and to mention him among the people, so that they would be prepared for his command. Then, when God sent him, they followed him, but they concealed that and compensated for what they were promised of good in this world and the hereafter with insignificant and ridiculous worldly sins. So, their deal was a bad deal, and their pledge was a bad pledge. In this is a warning to the scholars not to follow their path, lest what happened to them befall them and their paths be taken with them. So, the scholars must give what they have in their hands of beneficial knowledge that indicates righteous deeds, and not conceal anything of it. It was reported in the hadith narrated through multiple chains of transmission from the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, that he said: Whoever is asked about knowledge and conceals it will be bridled with a bridle of fire on the Day of Resurrection. And the Almighty said: Do not think that those who rejoice in what they have done and love to be praised for what they have not done will be bridled with fire. They do," meaning by that the hypocrites who boast about what they have not been given, as it came in the two Sahihis on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace: Whoever makes a false claim in order to gain more, God will only increase his poverty. And in the Sahih also: He who pretends to have what he has not been given is like one who wears two false garments. Imam Ahmad said: Hajjaj told us on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, Ibn Abi Malekah told me that Humayd ibn Abd al-Rahman ibn Awf told him that Marwan said: Go, O Rafi', to his gatekeeper to Ibn Abbas and say: If every man among us who rejoices in what he has done and loves to be praised for what he has not done is to be punished, then we will all be punished. Ibn Abbas said: What do you have to do with this? This was only revealed about the People of the Book. Then Ibn Abbas recited: "And when God took a covenant from those who were given the Scripture to make it clear to the people and not to conceal it, but they threw it behind their backs and exchanged for it a small price. Evil is that which they buy. Do not think that those who rejoice in what they have done and love to be praised for what they have not done" verse. Ibn Abbas said: The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, asked them about something, but they concealed it from him and told him something else. They went out, showing him that they had told him what he had asked them about, and they praised him for that, and they were happy with what they had done in concealing what he had asked them about. This is how Al-Bukhari narrated it in his Tafsir, and Muslim, Al-Tirmidhi, and Al-Nasa'i in their Tafsirs, and Ibn Abi Hatim, Ibn Jarir, Al-Hakim in his Mustadrak, and Ibn Mardawayh, all of them from the hadith of Abd Al-Malik bin Jurayj in a similar manner. Al-Bukhari also narrated it from the hadith of Ibn Jurayj from Ibn Abi Malekah from Alqamah bin Waqqas, that Marwan said to his gatekeeper: Go, Rafi', to Ibn Abbas, so he mentioned it. Al-Bukhari said: Saeed bin Abi Maryam told us, Muhammad bin Ja'far told us, Zaid bin Aslam told me from Ata' bin Yasar, from Abu Saeed Al-Khudri, may God be pleased with him: That some men from the hypocrites during the time of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, when the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, went out to fight, they stayed behind and were happy. In their seat, they were against the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. When the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, returned from the battle, they would apologize to him and swear, and they would like to be praised for what they did not do. So the verse was revealed: Do not think that those who rejoice in what they have done and love to be praised for what they have not done, and Muslim narrated it similarly from the hadith of Ibn Abi Maryam. Ibn Mardawayh narrated it in his interpretation from the hadith of Al-Layth bin Sa'd from Hisham bin Sa'd from Zaid bin Aslam, who said: Abu Sa'id, Rafi' bin Khadij, and Zaid bin Thabit were with Marwan, and he said: O Abu Sa'id, have you seen the words of God, the Most High: Do not think that those who rejoice in what they have done and love to be praised for what they have not done, and we rejoice in what we have done and love to be praised for what we have not done? Abu Saeed said: This is not like that. Rather, it is that some hypocrites used to stay behind when the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) sent an expedition. If they suffered a calamity, they rejoiced in their staying behind, and if they had victory from God and conquest, they would swear to them in order to please them and praise them for their joy in victory and conquest. Marwan said: How does this compare to that? Abu Saeed said: And this one knows this? Marwan said: Is that so, O Zaid? He said: Yes, Abu Saeed spoke the truth. Then Abu Saeed said: And this one knows that - meaning Rafi' ibn Khadij - but he fears that if he tells you, his camels will be taken away for charity. When they went out, Zaid said to Abu Saeed al-Khudri: Will you not praise me for what I have testified for you? Abu Saeed said: I have testified to the truth. Zaid said: Will you not praise me for what I have testified to? Then he narrated it from the hadith of Malik on the authority of Zaid ibn Aslam, on the authority of Rafi' ibn Khadij: That he and Zaid ibn Thabit were with Marwan ibn al-Hakam, who was the governor of Medina, and Marwan said: O Rafi', about what was this verse revealed? He mentioned it as mentioned above on the authority of Abu Saeed, may God be pleased with them, and Marwan used to send after that to ask Ibn Abbas as mentioned above, so he said to him what we mentioned and there is no contradiction between what Ibn Abbas mentioned and what these people said, because the verse is general in all that was mentioned, and God knows best. Ibn Mardawayh also narrated from the hadith of Muhammad bin Abi Atiq and Musa bin Uqbah on the authority of Al-Zuhri, on the authority of Muhammad bin Thabit Al-Ansari, that Thabit bin Qais Al-Ansari said: O Messenger of God, by God, I feared that I was ruined. He said: Why? He said: "God forbade a person from loving to be praised for what he did not do, and I find myself loving praise. God forbade arrogance, and I find myself loving beauty. God forbade us from raising our voices above your voice, and I am a man with a loud voice." The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Are you not satisfied to live a praiseworthy life, be killed as a martyr, and enter Paradise? He said: Yes, O Messenger of God. So he lived a praiseworthy life and was killed as a martyr on the day of Musaylimah the Liar." And God Almighty said: So do not think that they are safe from the punishment. It is read with the letter ta' to address the singular, and with the letter ya' to inform about them, meaning they do not think that they will be saved from the punishment, but rather it is inevitable for them. For this reason, the Most High said: And for them is a painful punishment. Then the Most High said: And to God belongs the dominion of the heavens and the earth, and God is over all things competent. Meaning, He is the Owner of all things, and the Able to do all things, so nothing is beyond His power, so fear Him and do not disobey Him, and beware of His anger and vengeance, for He is the Great, than whom there is none greater, and the Powerful, than whom there is none more powerful.

Surat Al Imran 3:187

And when God took a covenant from those who were given the Scripture, "You shall make it clear to the people and not conceal it." But they threw it behind their backs and purchased with it a small price. So evil is that which they purchase.

Fath al-Qadir

His statement 187- And when God took a covenant from those who were given the Scripture This verse is a rebuke to the People of the Scripture, who are the Jews and Christians, or the Jews only, according to the disagreement on that - and it appears that what is meant by the People of the Scripture is everyone to whom God has given knowledge of something from the Scripture: any Scripture, as the generic definition in the Scripture indicates. Al-Hasan and Qatadah said: The verse is general for every scholar, and Muhammad bin Ka'b said the same, and evidence for that is the statement of Abu Hurairah: If it were not for what God took from the People of the Scripture, I would not have told you anything, then he recited this verse, and the pronoun in his statement to make it clear refers to the Scripture, and it was said: it refers to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, even if he was not mentioned before, because God took from the Jews and Christians that they would make his prophethood clear to the people and not conceal it, but they threw it behind their backs. Abu Amr and Asim, in the narration of Abu Bakr and the people of Medina, read to make it clear with the lower ya', and the rest read it with the upper tha'. Ibn Abbas read: And when God took a covenant from those who were given the Scripture, 'You shall make it clear'. This reading is problematic because the subject must be the people. In Ibn Mas'ud's reading, it is to make it clear. "Al-Nabdhu" means to throw away, and this has been mentioned in Surat Al-Baqarah. His saying behind their backs is an exaggeration of al-Nabdhu and al-Thamud, and the meaning of his saying they bought with it a small price has also been mentioned. The pronoun refers to the Book that they were commanded to make clear and forbidden to conceal. His saying a small price means: insignificant and insignificant from the debris and vanities of this world. His saying so evil is that which they buy is an indefinite noun in the accusative case explaining the subject of Ba'isa, and Ya-Shirtu is an adjective, and the specific thing being blamed is omitted: meaning, evil is what they buy with that price.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

187- And when God took a covenant from those who were given the Scripture, [saying], 'You shall make it clear to the people and not conceal it.' Ibn Kathir, the people of Basra, and Abu Bakr read with the letter ya in both of them, based on the Almighty's statement: Then they threw it behind their backs. The others read with the letter ta in them, implying the statement, Then they threw it behind their backs, meaning: they threw it away, wasted it, and stopped acting upon it, and bought with it a small price, meaning: food and bribes, so evil is that which they buy. Qatada said: This is a covenant that God Almighty took from the people of knowledge, so whoever knows something, let him teach it, and beware of concealing knowledge, for it is destruction.

Abu Hurairah, may God be pleased with him, said: If it were not for what God took from the People of the Book, I would not have told you anything. Then he recited this verse: And when God took a covenant from those who were given the Scripture verse.

Abu al-Fadl Ziyad ibn Muhammad al-Hanafi told us, Abu Muadh al-Shah ibn Abd al-Rahman told us, Abu Bakr Umar ibn Sahl ibn Ismail al-Dinawari told us, Ahmad ibn Muhammad ibn Isa al-Barti told us, Abu Hudhayfah Musa ibn Mas'ud told us, Ibrahim ibn Tahman told us, on the authority of Samak ibn Harb, on the authority of Ata' ibn Abi Rabah, on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, may God be pleased with him, who said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever is asked about knowledge that he knows and conceals it will be bridled on the Day of Resurrection with a bridle of fire.

Al-Hasan bin Ammarah said: I came to Al-Zuhri after he had abandoned hadith, and I found him at his door, so I said: What if you see that you narrate to me? He said: Didn't you know that I have abandoned hadith? I said: Either narrate to me or I will narrate to you. He said: Narrate to me. I said: Al-Hakam bin Utaybah narrated to me on the authority of Yahya bin Al-Jazzar, who said: I heard Ali bin Abi Talib, may God be pleased with him, say: God did not take a pledge from the ignorant to learn until He took a pledge from the people of knowledge to teach. He said: So he narrated to me forty hadith.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

187 And when God took meaning remember the time when He took it. The covenant of those who were given the Scripture meaning the scholars. To make it clear to the people and not to conceal it narrating how He addressed them. Ibn Kathir, Abu Amr, and Asim read in the narration of Ibn Ayyash with the letter ya because they are absent, and the letter lam is the answer to the oath that was replaced by his saying: God took the covenant of those and the pronoun refers to the Scripture. So they threw it meaning the covenant. Behind their backs so they did not pay attention to it or pay attention to it. Throwing it behind the back is an example of abandoning consideration and not paying attention, and its opposite is making it in front of one's eyes and throwing it between one's eyes. And they bought with it meaning they took its place.

A small price of the world's debris and its goods. How evil is that which they buy they choose for themselves. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Whoever conceals knowledge from his family will be bridled with a bridle of fire. And Ali, may God be pleased with him, said: God did not take a charge from the ignorant to learn until He took a charge from the people of knowledge to teach.

Surat Al Imran 3:188

Never think that those who rejoice in what they have done and love to be praised for what they have not done - never think that they are safe from the punishment. And for them is a painful punishment.

Surat Al Imran 3:188

Never think that those who rejoice in what they have done and love to be praised for what they have not done - never think that they are safe from the punishment. And for them is a painful punishment.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

Do not think with the ta' and the ya' those who rejoice in what they have done what they did in misleading people and love to be praised for what they have not done of adhering to the truth while they are in error so do not think them with both faces as an emphasis in a desert a place where they will be saved from the punishment of the Hereafter, rather they are in a place where they will be punished, which is Hell and for them is a painful punishment painful in it, and the first object of yasab' indicates them as the second object according to the lower reading, and according to the upper reading, only the second is deleted.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

The Almighty said: Do not think that those who rejoice in the verse. The two sheikhs and others narrated on the authority of Hamid bin Abd al-Rahman bin Awf that Marwan said to his gatekeeper: Go, O Rafi', to Ibn Abbas and say: If every man among us who rejoices in what he has done and loves to be praised for what he has not done will be punished, then we will all be punished. Ibn Abbas said: What is the matter with you? This verse was only revealed about the People of the Book. The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, asked them about something, so they concealed it from him and told him something else. So they left, showing him that they had told him what he had asked them about and had praised him for that, and they were happy with what they had done by concealing what he had asked them about.

Al-Bukhari and Muslim narrated on the authority of Ibn Sa'id al-Khudri that when the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, went out to fight, some of the hypocrites would stay behind and rejoice in their absence from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. But when he returned, they would apologize to him and swear and wish to be praised for what they had not done. So the verse was revealed: Do not think that those who rejoice in what they have done

Abd narrated in his interpretation on the authority of Zaid bin Aslam that Rafi bin Khadij and Zaid bin Thabit were with Marwan, and Marwan said: O Rafi, in what was this verse revealed?

Do not think that those who rejoice in what they have done. Rafi' said: It was revealed about some hypocrites who, when the Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) went out, would apologize and say: "We were kept from you only because of preoccupation. We wish we had been with you." So God revealed this verse about them. It seemed that Marwan denied that, so Rafi' was alarmed by that and said to Zaid bin Thabit: I ask you by God, do you know what I am saying? He said: Yes. Al-Hafiz Ibn Hajar said: This can be reconciled with what Ibn Abbas said, that it is possible that it was revealed about both groups together. Al-Farra' said: It was revealed about the Jews' saying: We are the people of the first Book, prayer, and obedience, and despite that they did not acknowledge Muhammad. Ibn Abi Hatim narrated something similar from a group of the Tabi'un, and Ibn Jarir preferred it. There is no objection to it being revealed about all of that. End quote.

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Jaafar said: The people of interpretation differed in the interpretation of that.

Some of them said: What he meant by that were a group of hypocrites who used to sit behind the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, when the enemy attacked. Then, when the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, left, they would apologize to him and would like to be praised for what they had not done.

Who said that?

Muhammad ibn Sahl ibn Askar and Ibn Abd al-Raheem al-Barqi told us, they said: Ibn Abi Maryam told us, he said: Muhammad ibn Ja'far ibn Abi Katheer told us, he said: Zayd ibn Aslam told me, on the authority of 'Ata' ibn Yasar, on the authority of Abu Sa'id al-Khudri: That there were men from among the hypocrites during the time of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, when the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, went out to fight, they stayed behind him, and they were happy to stay behind the Messenger of God. And when the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, returned from a journey, they would apologize to him, and they wanted to be praised for what they had not done. So God, the Most High, revealed about them: Think not of those who rejoice in what they have done, the verse.

Yunus told me, he said, Ibn Wahb told us, he said, Ibn Zayd said about His statement, Do not think that those who rejoice in what they have done and love to be praised for what they have not done, he said: These are the hypocrites, they say to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace: If you had gone out, we would have gone out with you! So when the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, went out, they stayed behind and lied, and they rejoiced at that, and they saw it as a trick they had devised.

Others said: He meant by that a group of Jewish rabbis, who were happy to mislead people and attribute knowledge to them.

Who said that?

Ibn Humayd told us, he said, Salamah told us, on the authority of Ibn Ishaq, on the authority of Muhammad ibn Abi Muhammad, the client of Zayd ibn Thabit, on the authority of Ikrimah, the client of Ibn Abbas or Sa'id ibn Jubayr: And when God took a covenant from those who were given the Scripture until His saying: And for them is a painful punishment, meaning Phinehas and Ash'a and those like them from the rabbis, who rejoice in what they become of this world because of the misguidance they have made attractive to the people, and they love to be praised for what they have not done, that people say to them they are scholars, although they are not people of knowledge, they did not carry it on guidance or goodness, and they love for people to say to them: they have done it.

Abu Kuraib told us, he said, Yunus bin Bakir told us, he said, Muhammad bin Ishaq told us, he said, Muhammad bin Abi Muhammad, the client of Zaid bin Thabit, told me, on the authority of Ikrimah: that he told him on the authority of Ibn Abbas something similar to that, except that he said: And they are not people of knowledge, they did not lead them to guidance.

Others said: Rather, he meant by that a group of Jews who were happy with their unanimous word in denying Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and they like to be praised by being told: People of prayer and fasting.

Who said that?

It was narrated on the authority of Al-Husayn ibn Al-Faraj who said, I heard Abu Muadh say, Ubayd ibn Sulayman told us, I heard Ad-Dahhak ibn Muzahim say regarding His statement, Think not that those who rejoice in what they have done, that they rejoiced in their unanimity in their disbelief in Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and they said, God has united our word, and none of us has contradicted anyone else that Muhammad is not a prophet. They said, We are the sons of God and His beloved, and we are the people of prayer and fasting. But they lied, rather they are people of disbelief, polytheism, and slander against God. God said, And they love to be praised for what they have not done.

Yahya bin Abi Talib told me, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Juwaybir told us, on the authority of Ad-Dahhak, regarding his statement: Do not think that those who rejoice in what they have done and love to be praised for what they have not done, he said: The Jews were in conflict with one another, so some of them wrote to each other: Muhammad is not a prophet, so unite your word, and hold fast to your religion and your book that is with you, so they did, and they rejoiced at that, and they rejoiced at their agreement on disbelief in Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace.

Muhammad told us, Ahmad told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of al-Suddi, who said: They concealed the name of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and were happy about that, and were happy when they gathered around him in disbelief in Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace.

Muhammad told us, Ahmad told us, Asbat told us, on the authority of al-Suddi, who said: They concealed the name of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and were happy about that when they gathered around him, and they were praising themselves and saying: We are the people of fasting and the people of prayer and the people of zakat, and we are on the religion of Abraham, may God bless him and grant him peace. So God revealed about them: Think not that those who rejoice in what they have done, from concealing Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and love to be praised for what they have not done, they loved for the Arabs to praise them, for what they praise themselves with, and they are not like that.

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said, Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said, al-Thawri told us, on the authority of Abu al-Juhaf, on the authority of Muslim al-Batin, he said: Al-Hajjaj asked his companions about this verse: Do not think that those who rejoice in what they have done, Saeed bin Jubair said: Think about their concealing Muhammad, "and love to be praised for what they have not done," he said: It is their saying: We are on the religion of Abraham, peace be upon him.

Muhammad ibn Sa'd told me, he said, my father told me, he said, my uncle told me, he said, my father told me, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ibn Abbas: Do not think that those who rejoice in what they have done and love to be praised for what they have not done are the People of the Book. The Book was revealed to them, but they ruled unjustly, and distorted the words from their places, and rejoiced in that, and loved to be praised for what they did not do. They rejoiced because they disbelieved in Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and in what God revealed, and they claim that they worship God, fast, pray, and obey God. So God Almighty said to Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace: Do not think that those who rejoice in what they have done are disbelievers in God and disbelievers in Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and love to be praised for what they have not done, of praying and fasting. So God Almighty said to Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace: "So do not think that they are beyond the reach of the punishment. And for them is a painful punishment."

Others said: Rather, the meaning of this is: Do not think that those who rejoice in what they have done are those who have changed the Book of God and love for people to praise them for that.

Who said that?

Muhammad bin Amr told us, he said, Abu Asim told us, he said, Isa told us, on the authority of Ibn Abi Nujayh, on the authority of Mujahid, regarding the statement of God Almighty: Do not think that those who rejoice in what they have given, he said: The Jews rejoiced at the people's admiring for their changing the Book and their praising them for it, and the Jews did not control that. Others said: The meaning of that is: They rejoiced at what God Almighty gave to the family of Abraham, peace be upon him.

Who said that?

Surat Al Imran 3:188

Never think that those who rejoice in what they have done and love to be praised for what they have not done - never think that they are safe from the punishment. And for them is a painful punishment.

Muhammad ibn al-Muthanna told me, he said, Muhammad ibn Ja'far told us, he said, Shu'bah told us, on the authority of Abu al-Mu'alla, on the authority of Sa'id ibn Jubayr, that he said regarding this verse: And they love to be praised for what they have not done, he said: The Jews rejoice in what God gave Abraham, peace be upon him.

Ibn Al-Muthanna told us, he said, Wahb bin Jarir told us, he said, Shu'bah told us, on the authority of Abu Al-Mu'alla Al-Attar, on the authority of Saeed bin Jubair, he said: They are the Jews, they rejoiced at what God Almighty gave to Abraham, peace be upon him.

Others said: Rather, he meant by that a group of Jews, whom the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, asked about something and they concealed it, so they were happy that they concealed it from him.

Who said that?

Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, Abd al-Razzaq told us, Ibn Jurayj told us, Ibn Abi Malekah told me: Alqamah bin Abi Waqqas told him: Marwan said to Rafi': Go, Rafi', to Ibn Abbas and say to him: If every man among us who rejoices in what he has done and loves to be praised for what he has not done is to be punished, then God will punish us all! Ibn Abbas said: What do you have to do with this? The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, called the Jews and asked them about something, but they concealed it from him and told him something else, so they showed him that they had responded to God with what they told him about what he asked them, and they were happy with what they had done by concealing it. Then he said: And when God took a covenant from those who were given the Scripture, the verse.

Al-Qasim narrated to us, Al-Husayn narrated to us, Hajjaj narrated to me, Ibn Jurayj said: Abdullah bin Abi Malekah informed me that Humayd bin Abdur-Rahman bin A'w'f informed him that Marwan bin Al-Hakam said to his gatekeeper: O Rafi', go to Ibn Abbas and say to him: If every man among us who rejoices in what he has done and loves to be praised for what he has not done is to be punished, then we will all be punished! Ibn Abbas said: What do you have to do with this verse? It was only revealed about the People of the Book! Then Ibn Abbas recited: And when God took a covenant from those who were given the Scripture to make it clear to the people until His saying: that they should be praised for what they did not do. Ibn Abbas said: The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, asked them about something and they concealed it from him and told him something else. They went out and showed him that they had informed him of what he had asked them about, so they praised him for that and rejoiced in what they had done by concealing from him what he had asked them about.

Others said: Rather, he meant by that a group of Jews who showed hypocrisy towards the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, out of their love for Al-Hamd, and God knows that they were different from him.

Who said that?

Bishr told us, Yazid told us, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada: It was mentioned to us that the enemies of God, the Jews, the Jews of Khaybar, came to the Prophet of God, peace and blessings be upon him, and claimed that they were pleased with what he had brought, and that they were following him, but they were clinging to their misguidance, and they wanted the Prophet of God, peace and blessings be upon him, to praise them for what they had not done. So God, the Most High, revealed: Think not of those who rejoice in what they have done and love to be praised for what they have not done, the verse. Al-Hasan bin Yahya told us, he said, Abd al-Razzaq told us, he said, Muammar told us? On the authority of Qatada, he said that the people of Khaybar came to the Prophet, peace and blessings be upon him, and his companions and said, We follow your opinion and your way, but you are only a support. So God denied them and said, Do not think of those who rejoice in what they have done, the two verses.

Ibn Bashir told us, he said, Abd al-Rahman told us, he said, Sufyan told us, on the authority of al-A'sathi, on the authority of Amr ibn Murrah, on the authority of Abu Ubaidah, he said: A man came to Abdullah and said: Ka'b recites the lam to you and says: This verse was not revealed about you: Do not think that those who rejoice in what they have done and love to be praised for what they have not done, he said: They told him that it was revealed and he was Jewish.

Abu Ja'far said: The most correct of these sayings in interpreting His statement, Think not of those who rejoice in what they have done, the verse, is the statement of the one who said: He meant by that the People of the Book about whom God Almighty informed that He took a covenant from them that they would make clear to the people the matter of Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and not conceal it. Because His statement, Think not of those who rejoice in what they have done, the verse, is in the context of reporting about them, and it is similar to their story, with the agreement of the people of interpretation that they are the ones meant by that.

So if that is the case, then the interpretation of the verse is: Do not think, O Muhammad, that those who rejoice in what they have done by concealing your matter from the people, and that you are a Messenger sent to Me with the truth, and they find you written with them in their books, and I have taken a covenant from them to acknowledge your prophethood, and to explain your matter to the people, and not to conceal it from them, and they, along with their breaking the covenant that I took from them in that, rejoice in their disobedience to Me in that, and their opposition to My command, and they love for the people to praise them as people of obedience to Him, worship, prayer, and fasting, and following His revelation and the revelation that He sent down to His prophets, and they are innocent and honest in that, because of their denial of His Messenger, and their breaking of the covenant that He took from them, they did not do anything for which they love for the people to praise them, So do not think that they are safe from the punishment, and for them is a painful punishment.

And His saying: So do not think that they are safe from the punishment, do not think that they are safe from the punishment of God that He has prepared for His enemies in this world, from subsidence, transformation, earthquake, killing, and the like of that of God's punishment, nor are they far from it, as:

Yunus told me, he said, Ibn Wahb told us, he said, Ibn Zayd said regarding His statement: So do not think that they are safe from the punishment, he said: Safe from the punishment.

Abu Jaafar said: And for them is a painful punishment, meaning: And for them is a painful punishment in the Hereafter as well, in addition to what they have in this world, which will be hastened.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

That is, because of what they did by sitting back and not participating in the invasion and the excuse they brought.

It was reported in the two Sahihs on the authority of Abu Sa'id al-Khudri that when some hypocrites stayed behind during the time of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, when the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, went out to fight, they would stay behind and rejoice in their absence from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. But when the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, returned, they would apologize to him and swear, and they would like him to praise them for what they did not do. So the verse was revealed: Think not of those who rejoice in what they have done and love to be praised for what they have not done.

It is also in the two Sahihs that Marwan said to his gatekeeper: Go, Rafi', to Ibn Abbas and say to him: If every man among us who rejoices in what he has been given and loves to be praised for what he has not done is to be punished, then we will all be punished. Ibn Abbas said: What do you have to do with this verse? This verse was only revealed about the People of the Book.

Then Ibn Abbas recited: And when God took a covenant from those who were given the Scripture, 'You shall make it clear to the people and not conceal it' and Do not think that those who rejoice in what they have done and love to be praised for what they have not done are beyond the pale of Paradise. Ibn Abbas said: The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, asked them about something and they concealed it from him and told him something else. So they left and showed him that they had told him what he had asked them about and praised him for that, and were happy with what they had done by concealing it and what he had asked them about. Muhammad bin Ka'b al-Qurazi said: It was revealed about the scholars of the Children of Israel who concealed the truth and gave their kings knowledge that agreed with their falsehood, and bought with it a small price, meaning with what the kings gave them of this world. So God said to His Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace: "Do not think that those who rejoice in what they have done and love to be praised for what they have not done are beyond the reach of punishment. And for them is a painful punishment." So He informed that they will have a painful punishment for what they corrupted of the religion for the servants of God, and He said: Ad-Dahhak: The Jews used to say to the kings, We find in our book that God will send a prophet at the end of time who will seal prophethood. So when God sent him, the kings asked them, Is this the one you find in your book? The Jews said, coveting the kings' wealth: It is not this, so the kings gave them the treasures, and God Almighty said: Do not think that those who rejoice in what they have given the kings are lying until they take the world's goods, and the first hadith is contrary to the implication of the second hadith, and it is possible that it was revealed for both reasons because they came together at the same time, so it was an answer to both groups, and God knows best. His saying: And they sought praise for that to Him, meaning they asked to be praised, and Marwan's saying: If every man of us, etc. is evidence that generality has specific forms, and that those is one of them, and this is certain from whoever understands that from the Qur'an and Sunnah, and God Almighty's saying: And they love to be praised for what they have not done if the verse is about the People of the Book, not about the hypocrites who stayed behind, because they used to say: We are on the religion of Abraham and they were not on his religion, and they used to say: We are the people of prayer, fasting, and the Book, wanting to be praised for that, and those is the subject of think with the letter ya, and this is the reading of Nafi', Ibn 'Amir, and Ibn 'Amir. Katheer and Abi Amr, that is, the joyful should not think that their joy will save them from the torment. It was said that the first object is omitted, which is themselves, and the second in a desert. The Kufians read tahsabna with a ta' as addressing the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, that is, do not think, O Muhammad, those who are joyful in the desert of torment. His saying: Do not think that they are with a ta' and a fatha on the ba' is a reiteration of emphasis, and its first object is the ha' and the mim, and the second object is omitted, that is, likewise, and the fa' is a conjunction or an extra particle in place of the second verb from the first. Ad-Dahhak and Isa bin Omar read with a ta' and a damma on the ba' do not think that they are, meaning Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his companions. Mujahid, Ibn Katheer, Abu Amr, and Yahya bin Ya'mar read with a ya' and a damma on the ba' as report about those who are joyful, that is, do not think that they are themselves, in a desert is the second object, and do not think that they are is an emphasis. It was said: those who is the subject of think that they are. Its two objects are omitted because they think they indicate it, as the poet said:

In what book or verse do you see their love as a

Surat Al Imran 3:188

Never think that those who rejoice in what they have done and love to be praised for what they have not done - never think that they are safe from the punishment. And for them is a painful punishment.

disgrace to me and consider it a sin?

The mention of the object of one verb dispensed with the mention of the object of the second, and the second in a desert, which is a substitute for the first verb, so its replacement dispensed with the mention of its two objects, and the fa' is redundant, and it was said: These verbs may come cancelled but not in the rule of useful sentences, such as the poet's saying:

I did not think that there would remain between us more affection than the two beautiful, intelligent, and intelligent women.

Al-Mudhaki: Horses that have been sore for a year or two, the singular is mudhk, like the camel al-mukhalaf, and in the proverb the running of the mudhkiyat is overwhelming, and the musnafat is a passive participle, it is said: Sanfat al-ba'ir asnafhu sanfan if you hold it back with its reins while you are riding it, and asnaf al-ba'il is a dialect for sanfa, and asnaf al-ba'il by itself if it raises its head, transitive and intransitive, and the Arabs used to ride camels and avoid horses, they say: War leaves no affection, and Ka'b ibn Abi Salma said:

I hope and wish that her affection will come closer, and I do not think we have any desire from you

The majority of the seven reciters and others read atawā with a short alif, meaning with what they brought of lies and concealment. Marwan ibn al-Hakam, al-A'mash, and Ibrahim al-Nakha'i read atawā with a long vowel, meaning they gave. Sa'id ibn Jubayr read atawā without naming its agent, meaning they gave. The desert is the escape, a verbal noun from fazā yafūz if he escaped, meaning they are not winners. The place of fears is called a desert as an expression of optimism, as al-Asma'i said. It was said: Because it is a place of escape and a place of possibility of destruction. The Arabs say: a man is successful if he dies. Tha'lab said: I told Ibn al-A'rabi what al-Asma'i said, and he said he made a mistake. Abu al-Makarim said to me. Ibn al-A'rabi said: Because he is resigned to what has befallen him. It was said: Do not think that they are in a place far from punishment, because success is distancing oneself from the disliked, and God knows best.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

This is a rebuke from God and a threat to the People of the Book from whom God took a covenant through the tongues of the prophets to believe in Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and to mention him among the people, so that they would be prepared for his command. Then, when God sent him, they followed him, but they concealed that and compensated for what they were promised of good in this world and the hereafter with insignificant and ridiculous worldly sins. So, their deal was a bad deal, and their pledge was a bad pledge. In this is a warning to the scholars not to follow their path, lest what happened to them befall them and their paths be taken with them. So, the scholars must give what they have in their hands of beneficial knowledge that indicates righteous deeds, and not conceal anything of it. It was reported in the hadith narrated through multiple chains of transmission from the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, that he said: Whoever is asked about knowledge and conceals it will be bridled with a bridle of fire on the Day of Resurrection. And the Almighty said: Do not think that those who rejoice in what they have done and love to be praised for what they have not done will be bridled with fire. They do," meaning by that the hypocrites who boast about what they have not been given, as it came in the two Sahih on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace: Whoever makes a false claim in order to gain more, God will only increase his poverty. And in the Sahih also: He who pretends to have what he has not been given is like one who wears two false garments. Imam Ahmad said: Hajjaj told us on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, Ibn Abi Malekah told me that Humayd ibn Abd al-Rahman ibn Awf told him that Marwan said: Go, O Rafi', to his gatekeeper to Ibn Abbas and say: If every man among us who rejoices in what he has done and loves to be praised for what he has not done is to be punished, then we will all be punished. Ibn Abbas said: What do you have to do with this? This was only revealed about the People of the Book. Then Ibn Abbas recited: "And when God took a covenant from those who were given the Scripture to make it clear to the people and not to conceal it, but they threw it behind their backs and exchanged for it a small price. Evil is that which they buy. Do not think that those who rejoice in what they have done and love to be praised for what they have not done" verse. Ibn Abbas said: The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, asked them about something, but they concealed it from him and told him something else. They went out, showing him that they had told him what he had asked them about, and they praised him for that, and they were happy with what they had done in concealing what he had asked them about. This is how Al-Bukhari narrated it in his Tafsir, and Muslim, Al-Tirmidhi, and Al-Nasa'i in their Tafsirs, and Ibn Abi Hatim, Ibn Jarir, Al-Hakim in his Mustadrak, and Ibn Mardawayh, all of them from the hadith of Abd Al-Malik bin Jurayj in a similar manner. Al-Bukhari also narrated it from the hadith of Ibn Jurayj from Ibn Abi Malekah from Alqamah bin Waqqas, that Marwan said to his gatekeeper: Go, Rafi', to Ibn Abbas, so he mentioned it. Al-Bukhari said: Saeed bin Abi Maryam told us, Muhammad bin Ja'far told us, Zaid bin Aslam told me from Ata' bin Yasar, from Abu Saeed Al-Khudri, may God be pleased with him: That some men from the hypocrites during the time of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, when the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, went out to fight, they stayed behind and were happy. In their seat, they were against the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. When the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, returned from the battle, they would apologize to him and swear, and they would like to be praised for what they did not do. So the verse was revealed: Do not think that those who rejoice in what they have done and love to be praised for what they have not done, and Muslim narrated it similarly from the hadith of Ibn Abi Maryam. Ibn Mardawayh narrated it in his interpretation from the hadith of Al-Layth bin Sa'd from Hisham bin Sa'd from Zaid bin Aslam, who said: Abu Sa'id, Rafi' bin Khadij, and Zaid bin Thabit were with Marwan, and he said: O Abu Sa'id, have you seen the words of God, the Most High: Do not think that those who rejoice in what they have done and love to be praised for what they have not done, and we rejoice in what we have done and love to be praised for what we have not done? Abu Saeed said: This is not like that. Rather, it is that some hypocrites used to stay behind when the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) sent an expedition. If they suffered a calamity, they rejoiced in their staying behind, and if they had victory from God and conquest, they would swear to them in order to please them and praise them for their joy in victory and conquest. Marwan said: How does this compare to that? Abu Saeed said: And this one knows this? Marwan said: Is that so, O Zaid? He said: Yes, Abu Saeed spoke the truth. Then Abu Saeed said: And this one knows that - meaning Rafi' ibn Khadij - but he fears that if he tells you, his camels will be taken away for charity. When they went out, Zaid said to Abu Saeed al-Khudri: Will you not praise me for what I have testified for you? Abu Saeed said: I have testified to the truth. Zaid said: Will you not praise me for what I have testified to? Then he narrated it from the hadith of Malik on the authority of Zaid ibn Aslam, on the authority of Rafi' ibn Khadij: That he and Zaid ibn Thabit were with Marwan ibn al-Hakam, who was the governor of Medina, and Marwan said: O Rafi', about what was this verse revealed? He mentioned it as mentioned above on the authority of Abu Saeed, may God be pleased with them, and Marwan used to send after that to ask Ibn Abbas as mentioned above, so he said to him what we mentioned and there is no contradiction between what Ibn Abbas mentioned and what these people said, because the verse is general in all that was mentioned, and God knows best. Ibn Mardawayh also narrated from the hadith of Muhammad bin Abi Atiq and Musa bin Uqbah on the authority of Al-Zuhri, on the authority of Muhammad bin Thabit Al-Ansari, that Thabit bin Qais Al-Ansari said: O Messenger of God, by God, I feared that I was ruined. He said: Why? He said: "God forbade a person from loving to be praised for what he did not do, and I find myself loving praise. God forbade arrogance, and I find myself loving beauty. God forbade us from raising our voices above your voice, and I am a man with a loud voice." The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Are you not satisfied to live a praiseworthy life, be killed as a martyr, and enter Paradise? He said: Yes, O Messenger of God. So he lived a praiseworthy life and was killed as a martyr on the day of Musaylimah the Liar." And God Almighty said: So do not think that they are safe from the punishment. It is read with the letter ta' to address the singular, and with the letter ya' to inform about them, meaning they do not think that they will be saved from the punishment, but rather it is inevitable for them. For this reason, the Most High said:

And for them is a painful punishment. Then the Most High said: And to God belongs the dominion of the heavens and the earth, and God is over all things competent. Meaning, He is the Owner of all things, and the Able to do all things, so nothing is beyond His power, so fear Him and do not disobey Him, and beware of His anger and vengeance, for He is the Great, than whom there is none greater, and the Powerful, than whom there is none more powerful.

Fath al-Qadir

His saying 188- Do not think that those who rejoice The Kufians read with the upper taa' and the address is to the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, or to everyone who is suitable for it. He recited it as with what they have brought meaning: with what they did. There is disagreement about the reason for the revelation of the verse as will come, and it appears that it includes everyone who has done what it includes, based on the generality of the wording, which is what is considered without the specific reason. So whoever rejoices in what he has done and wants people to praise him for what he has not done, do not think that he is safe from the punishment. Nafi', Ibn Amir, Ibn Kathir, and Abu Amr read la yahasban with the lower yaa': meaning that the rejoicing should not think that their joy will save them from the punishment, so the first object is omitted, which is their joy, and the second object is safe from the punishment. His saying Do not think them is an emphasis on the first verb in both readings. The wilderness is the escape, a passive participle from the verb faza yafuz if he escaped: meaning they are not victorious. The place of fear was called a wilderness as an expression of optimism, as Al-Asma'i said. It was also said that it is a place of escape and a place of possibility of destruction. The Arabs say: a man is victorious if he dies. Tha'lab said: I told Ibn Al-A'raabi what Al-Asma'i said, and he said: He made a mistake. Abu Al-Makarim told me: It was called a wilderness because whoever crosses it is victorious. Ibn Al-A'raabi said: Rather, because he is resigned to what has befallen him. It was also said that the meaning is: Do not think that they are in a place far from punishment, because success is distancing oneself from something unpleasant. Marwan bin Al-Hakam, Al-A'mash, and Ibrahim Al-Nakha'i read atawu with a long vowel, meaning they rejoice in what they have been given. The majority of the seven reciters and others read atawu with a short vowel.

Ibn Abi Shaybah, Hannad, Abd ibn Humayd, al-Tirmidhi who authenticated it, Ibn Hibban, Ibn Jarir, Ibn Abi Hatim, and al-Hakim who authenticated it narrated on the authority of Abu Hurayrah that the Messenger of God (blessings and peace of God be upon him) said: "The space of a whip in Paradise is better than the world and whatever is in it. Read if you wish, 'So whoever is drawn away from the Fire and admitted to Paradise has attained [his desire]. And what is the life of this world except the enjoyment of delusion.'" Ibn Mardawayh narrated on the authority of Sahl ibn Sa'd, with a similar chain of transmission traceable to the Prophet (blessings and peace of God be upon him). Ibn Jarir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of al-Zuhri, regarding his statement, And you will surely hear from those who were given the

Never think that those who rejoice in what they have done and love to be praised for what they have not done - never think that they are safe from the punishment. And for them is a painful punishment.

Scripture before you, that he was Ka'b ibn al-Ashraf, and he used to incite the polytheists against the Messenger of God (blessings and peace of God be upon him) and his companions in his poetry. Ibn al-Mundhir narrated on the authority of al-Zuhri on the authority of Abd al-Rahman ibn Ka'b ibn Malik, something similar. Ibn Jarir, Ibn Al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Ibn Jurayj regarding the verse, he said: He means the Jews and Christians, so the Muslims would hear the Jews say, Ezra is the son of God, and the Christians say, The Messiah is the son of God. "But if you are patient and fear God, then indeed, that is of the matters [worthy of] determination," he said: Of the strength that God has determined and commanded you to do. Ibn Ishaq and Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas regarding his statement, And when God took a covenant from those who were given the Scripture, 'You shall make it clear to the people,' he said: Phinehas, Ash'ya and their likes from the rabbis. Ibn Jarir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Al-Awfi from Ibn Abbas regarding his statement, And when God took a covenant from those who were given the Scripture, 'You shall make it clear to the people,' he said: God had commanded them to follow the unlettered Prophet. Ibn Al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on his authority regarding the verse, he said: In the Torah and the Gospel, Islam is the religion of God which He has made obligatory upon His servants, and that Muhammad is the Messenger of God, they find it written with them in the Torah and the Gospel, but they rejected it. Ibn Jarir, Ibn Al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Saeed Ibn Jubayr regarding the verse, he said: They are the Jews. You will make it clear to the people, he said: Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace. Ibn Jarir narrated on the authority of Al-Suddi something similar. Abd Ibn Hamid, Ibn Jarir, Ibn Al-Mundhir and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Qatada regarding the verse, he said: This is a covenant that God took from the people of knowledge, so whoever has knowledge should teach it to the people, and beware of concealing knowledge, for concealing knowledge is destruction. Ibn Saad narrated on the authority of Al-Hasan, he said: If it were not for the covenant that God took from the people of knowledge, I would not have told you much of what you are asking about. Al-Bukhari, Muslim and others narrated that Marwan said to his gatekeeper, "Go, Rafi", to Ibn Abbas and say: 'If a man among us rejoices in what he has been given and loves to be praised for what he has not done and is to be punished, we will all be punished.' Ibn Abbas said, 'What do you have to do with this verse? It was only revealed about the People of the Book.' Then he recited, 'And [mention] when God took a covenant from those who were given the Scripture,' (al-Baqarah 2:170). Ibn Abbas said: The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, asked them about something and they concealed it from him and told him something else. So they went out and showed him that they had told him what he had asked them about and they praised him for that, and they were happy with what they had done in concealing what he had asked them about. Al-Bukhari, Muslim and others narrated on the authority of Abu Sa'id al-Khudri that when the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, went out to fight, some hypocrites would stay behind and rejoice in their stay behind the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. But when the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, returned from the fight, they would apologize to him and swear an oath and wanted to be praised for what they had not done, so this verse was revealed. It has been narrated that it was revealed about Finhas, Ash'ya and their likes. It has been narrated that it was revealed about the Jews. Malik, Ibn Sa'd, At-Tabarani and Al-Bayhaqi in Ad-Dala'il narrated on the authority of Muhammad ibn Thabit that Thabit ibn Qays said: O Messenger of God, I fear that I may be ruined. He said: Why? He said: God has forbidden us to love to be praised for what we have not done, and I find myself loving praise. He has forbidden us from being arrogant, and I find myself loving beauty. He has forbidden us to raise our voices above your voice, and I am a man with a loud voice. He said: O Thabit, are you not satisfied to live a praiseworthy life, be killed as a martyr, and enter Paradise? So he lived a praiseworthy life, and was killed as a martyr on the day of Musaylimah the Liar. Ibn Al-Mundhir narrated on the authority of Ad-Dahhak regarding his statement: in a desert, he said: in a place of safety. Ibn Jarir narrated something similar on the authority of Ibn Zayd.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

188-His saying: Do not think that those who rejoice in what they have done the verse, Asim, Hamza and Al-Kisa'i read Do not think with a ta', meaning: Do not think, O Muhammad, that those who rejoice, and the others read with a ya', Do not think that those who rejoice in their joy will save them from the punishment, Do not think that they are, Ibn Kathir and Abu Amr read: with a ya' and a damma on the ba' as report about those who rejoice, meaning do not think that they are, and the others read with a ta' and a fatha on the ba', meaning: Do not think that they are, O Muhammad, and he repeated his saying Do not think that they are for emphasis, and in the wording of Abdullah bin Mas'ud Do not think that those who rejoice in what they have done and love to be praised for what they have not done, do not think that they are safe from the punishment without repetition.

They differed about who this verse was revealed to. Abdul Wahid bin Ahmad Al-Malhi told us, Ahmad bin Abdullah Al-Nuaimi told us, Muhammad bin Yusuf told us, Muhammad bin Ismail told us, Saeed bin Abi Maryam told us, Muhammad bin Jaafar told me, Zaid bin Aslam told me, on the authority of Ata bin Yasar, on the authority of Abu Saeed Al-Khudri, "That some men from the hypocrites during the time of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, when the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, went out to fight, they stayed behind and rejoiced at their stay behind the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. But when the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, returned, they apologized to him and swore and wanted to be praised for what they had not done, so the verse was revealed: 'Do not think that those who rejoice in what they have done'...

Abdul Wahid Al-Malhi told us, I told Ahmad bin Abdullah Al-Nuaimi, I told Muhammad bin Yusuf, I told Muhammad bin Ismail, I told Ibrahim bin Musa, I told Hisham, that Ibn Jurayj told them: Ibn Abi Malekah told me that Alqamah bin Waqqas told him that Marwan said to his gatekeeper: Go, O Rafi, to Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, and say to him: If every person who rejoices in what he has been given and loves to be praised for what he has not done will be punished, then we will all be punished. Ibn Abbas said: What is wrong with you? The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, called the Jews and asked them about something, but they concealed it from him, so they told him something else, showing him that they had sought praise from him for what they told him about what he asked them, and they rejoiced in what they had done by concealing it. Then Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, recited: "And when God took a covenant from those who were given the Scripture" like this until His saying: They rejoice in what they have done and love to be praised for what they have not done.

Ikrimah said: It was revealed about Phinehas, Ash'ya, and other rabbis who rejoiced in misleading people and in people's attribution of knowledge to them, even though they were not people of knowledge.

Mujahed said: They are the Jews who were happy with people's admiration for their changing the Book and their praise of them for it.

Saeed bin Jubair said: They are the Jews who rejoiced in what God gave to the family of Abraham, and they were innocent of that.

Qatada and Muqatil said: The Jews of Khaybar came to the Prophet of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: We know you and believe you, and we are of your opinion and we will support you, but that was not in their hearts. So when they left, the Muslims said to them: What did you do? They said: We know him and believe him. So the Muslims said to them: You did well, so do it. So they praised them and prayed for them, and God Almighty revealed this verse and said: They rejoice in what they have done Al-Farra' said: in what they did, as God Almighty said: You have certainly done a thing unprecedented Maryam 19:27, meaning: I did, and they love to be praised for what they have not done, so do not think that they are safe from the punishment, and for them is a painful punishment.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

188 Do not think that those who rejoice in what they have done and love to be praised for what they have not done - do not think that they are safe from the punishment. The address is to the Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace. Whoever adds the letter ba' to the letter ba' makes the address to him and to the believers. The first object is those who rejoice and the second is in a safe place. His saying do not think that they are is an emphasis and the meaning is: Do not think that those who rejoice in what they have done of deception and concealing the truth and love to be praised for what they have not done of fulfilling the covenant and revealing the truth and informing with the truth, are safe from the punishment, i.e. successful in escaping it. Ibn Kathir and Abu Amr read with the letter ya' and the opening of the letter ba' in the first and the closing of it in the second on the basis that those are the subject and the object of yabsabna are omitted and indicated by an emphasised object, so it is as if it was said, and do not think that those who rejoice in what they have done - do not think that they are safe from the punishment, or the first object is omitted. His saying, Do not think that they are is an emphasis on the verb, its subject, and the first object. And for them is a painful punishment because of their disbelief and deception. It was narrated that he, peace and blessings be upon him, asked the Jews about something in the Torah, and they told him something different.

What was in it and they showed him that they had believed him and were happy with what they had done, so it was revealed. It was said that it was revealed about a people who stayed behind from the conquest and then apologized by saying that they saw the benefit in staying behind and praised themselves for it. It was said that it was revealed about the hypocrites, for they were happy with their hypocrisy and praised the Muslims for the faith that they did not truly do.

Surat Al Imran 3:189

And to God belongs the dominion of the heavens and the earth, and God is over all things competent.

Surat Al Imran 3:189

And to God belongs the dominion of the heavens and the earth, and God is over all things competent.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

And to God belongs the dominion of the heavens and the earth the treasures of rain, sustenance, plants, and other things and God is over all things competent including the punishment of the unbelievers and the salvation of the believers

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: This is a denial from God, the Most High, of those who said: God is poor and we are rich. God, the Most High, says, refuting them: God owns all that the heavens and the earth contain. So how can someone who owns that be poor, you slanderers of God? Then God, the Most High, informed us that He is able to hasten the punishment for those who say that, and for everyone who denies and slanders Him, and for other things that He wants and loves, but He favored His creation with His forbearance, saying: And God has power over all things, meaning: from destroying those who say that, and hastening His punishment for them, and other matters.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

This is an argument against those who said that God is poor and we are rich, and a denial of them. It was said: The meaning is do not think that the happy ones will escape the punishment, for God has everything, and they are in the grip of the Almighty. So it is connected to the first statement, meaning that they will not escape His punishment, He takes them whenever He wills. And God is over all things, meaning possible, Powerful. This has already been mentioned in Surat Al-Baqarah.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

This is a rebuke from God and a threat to the People of the Book from whom God took a covenant through the tongues of the prophets to believe in Muhammad, may God bless him and grant him peace, and to mention him among the people, so that they would be prepared for his command. Then, when God sent him, they followed him, but they concealed that and compensated for what they were promised of good in this world and the hereafter with insignificant and ridiculous worldly sins. So, their deal was a bad deal, and their pledge was a bad pledge. In this is a warning to the scholars not to follow their path, lest what happened to them befall them and their paths be taken with them. So, the scholars must give what they have in their hands of beneficial knowledge that indicates righteous deeds, and not conceal anything of it. It was reported in the hadith narrated through multiple chains of transmission from the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, that he said: Whoever is asked about knowledge and conceals it will be bridled with a bridle of fire on the Day of Resurrection. And the Almighty said: Do not think that those who rejoice in what they have done and love to be praised for what they have not done will be bridled with fire. They do,” meaning by that the hypocrites who boast about what they have not been given, as it came in the two Sahih on the authority of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace: Whoever makes a false claim in order to gain more, God will only increase his poverty. And in the Sahih also: He who pretends to have what he has not been given is like one who wears two false garments. Imam Ahmad said: Hajjaj told us on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, Ibn Abi Malekah told me that Humayd ibn Abd al-Rahman ibn Awf told him that Marwan said: Go, O Rafi', to his gatekeeper to Ibn Abbas and say: If every man among us who rejoices in what he has done and loves to be praised for what he has not done is to be punished, then we will all be punished. Ibn Abbas said: What do you have to do with this? This was only revealed about the People of the Book. Then Ibn Abbas recited: “And when God took a covenant from those who were given the Scripture to make it clear to the people and not to conceal it, but they threw it behind their backs and exchanged for it a small price. Evil is that which they buy. Do not think that those who rejoice in what they have done and love to be praised for what they have not done” verse. Ibn Abbas said: The Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, asked them about something, but they concealed it from him and told him something else. They went out, showing him that they had told him what he had asked them about, and they praised him for that, and they were happy with what they had done in concealing what he had asked them about. This is how Al-Bukhari narrated it in his Tafsir, and Muslim, Al-Tirmidhi, and Al-Nasa'i in their Tafsirs, and Ibn Abi Hatim, Ibn Jarir, Al-Hakim in his Mustadrak, and Ibn Mardawayh, all of them from the hadith of Abd Al-Malik bin Jurayj in a similar manner. Al-Bukhari also narrated it from the hadith of Ibn Jurayj from Ibn Abi Malekah from Alqamah bin Waqqas, that Marwan said to his gatekeeper: Go, Rafi', to Ibn Abbas, so he mentioned it. Al-Bukhari said: Saeed bin Abi Maryam told us, Muhammad bin Ja'far told us, Zaid bin Aslam told me from Ata' bin Yasar, from Abu Saeed Al-Khudri, may God be pleased with him: That some men from the hypocrites during the time of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, when the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, went out to fight, they stayed behind and were happy. In their seat, they were against the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace. When the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, returned from the battle, they would apologize to him and swear, and they would like to be praised for what they did not do. So the verse was revealed: Do not think that those who rejoice in what they have done and love to be praised for what they have not done, and Muslim narrated it similarly from the hadith of Ibn Abi Maryam. Ibn Mardawayh narrated it in his interpretation from the hadith of Al-Layth bin Sa'd from Hisham bin Sa'd from Zaid bin Aslam, who said: Abu Sa'id, Rafi' bin Khadij, and Zaid bin Thabit were with Marwan, and he said: O Abu Sa'id, have you seen the words of God, the Most High: Do not think that those who rejoice in what they have done and love to be praised for what they have not done, and we rejoice in what we have done and love to be praised for what we have not done? Abu Saeed said: This is not like that. Rather, it is that some hypocrites used to stay behind when the Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) sent an expedition. If they suffered a calamity, they rejoiced in their staying behind, and if they had victory from God and conquest, they would swear to them in order to please them and praise them for their joy in victory and conquest. Marwan said: How does this compare to that? Abu Saeed said: And this one knows this? Marwan said: Is that so, O Zaid? He said: Yes, Abu Saeed spoke the truth. Then Abu Saeed said: And this one knows that - meaning Rafi' ibn Khadij - but he fears that if he tells you, his camels will be taken away for charity. When they went out, Zaid said to Abu Saeed al-Khudri: Will you not praise me for what I have testified for you? Abu Saeed said: I have testified to the truth. Zaid said: Will you not praise me for what I have testified to? Then he narrated it from the hadith of Malik on the authority of Zaid ibn Aslam, on the authority of Rafi' ibn Khadij: That he and Zaid ibn Thabit were with Marwan ibn al-Hakam, who was the governor of Medina, and Marwan said: O Rafi', about what was this verse revealed? He mentioned it as mentioned above on the authority of Abu Saeed, may God be pleased with them, and Marwan used to send after that to ask Ibn Abbas as mentioned above, so he said to him what we mentioned and there is no contradiction between what Ibn Abbas mentioned and what these people said, because the verse is general in all that was mentioned, and God knows best. Ibn Mardawayh also narrated from the hadith of Muhammad bin Abi Atiq and Musa bin Uqbah on the authority of Al-Zuhri, on the authority of Muhammad bin Thabit Al-Ansari, that Thabit bin Qais Al-Ansari said: O Messenger of God, by God, I feared that I was ruined. He said: Why? He said: "God forbade a person from loving to be praised for what he did not do, and I find myself loving praise. God forbade arrogance, and I find myself loving beauty. God forbade us from raising our voices above your voice, and I am a man with a loud voice." The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Are you not satisfied to live a praiseworthy life, be killed as a martyr, and enter Paradise? He said: Yes, O Messenger of God. So he lived a praiseworthy life and was killed as a martyr on the day of Musaylimah the Liar." And God Almighty said: So do not think that they are safe from the punishment. It is read with the letter ta' to address the singular, and with the letter ya' to inform about them, meaning they do not think that they will be saved from the punishment, but rather it is inevitable for them. For this reason, the Most High said:

And for them is a painful punishment. Then the Most High said: And to God belongs the dominion of the heavens and the earth, and God is over all things competent. Meaning, He is the Owner of all things, and the Able to do all things, so nothing is beyond His power, so fear Him and do not disobey Him, and beware of His anger and vengeance, for He is the Great, than whom there is none greater, and the Powerful, than whom there is none more powerful.

Fath al-Qadir

189- To God belongs the dominion of the heavens and the earth, and God is over all things competent.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

189- To God belongs the dominion of the heavens and the earth, He disposes of them as He wills, and God is over all things competent.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

189 And to God belongs the dominion of the heavens and the earth. So He owns their affairs. And God is over all things competent. So He is able to punish them. It was said that this is a response to their saying that God is poor.

Surat Al Imran 3:190

Indeed, in the creation of the heavens and the earth and the alternation of the night and the day are signs for those of understanding.

Surat Al Imran 3:190

Indeed, in the creation of the heavens and the earth and the alternation of the night and the day are signs for those of understanding.

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

Indeed, in the creation of the heavens and the earth and what is in them of wonders and the alternation of the night and the day in coming and going and increase and decrease are signs indications of His Almighty power for those of understanding for those with intellects.

Tafsir al-Suyuti

The Almighty said: Indeed, in the creation of the heavens and the earth, the verse. At-Tabarani and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated on the authority of Ibn Abbas that he said: The Quraysh came to the Jews and said: What signs did Moses bring to you? They said: His staff and a white hand for the beholders. And they came to the Christians and said: How was Jesus? They said: He used to heal the blind and the lepers and bring the dead to life. So they came to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: Call upon your Lord for us to make for us the rock of gold. So he called upon his Lord and this verse was revealed: Indeed, in the creation of the heavens and the earth and the alternation of the night and the day are signs for those of understanding, so let them reflect upon them.

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Ja'far said: This is an argument from God, the Most High, against the one who said that, and against all of His creation, that He is the Manager, the Disposer of things, and the One who subjects what He loves, and that enrichment and poverty are up to Him and in His hand. So He, the Most High, said: Ponder, O people, and consider. In what I created and created of the heavens and the earth for your livelihood, your sustenance, and your provisions, and in what I alternated between the night and the day, and made them differ and alternate for you, you use this for your livelihood, and you live in this for the comfort of your bodies, a lesson and a reminder, and verses and sermons. So whoever among you has a mind and intellect, knows that whoever attributes to me that I am poor while he is rich, is a liar and a slanderer, for all of that is in My hand, I turn it over and direct it, and if I invalidated that, you would perish. So how can poverty be attributed to He by whom all that is in the heavens and the earth is in His hand and to Him? Or how can he be rich if his provision is in someone else's hand, if he wants he can provide for him and if he wants he can deprive him of it? So take heed, you people of understanding.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

First: The Almighty's saying: Indeed, in the creation of the heavens and the earth has been mentioned in the meaning of this verse in Al-Baqarah in more than one place. So the Almighty concluded this surah with the command to look and reason in His verses, since they are not issued except by a Living, Self-Sustaining, Holy, Peaceful One who is independent of the worlds, so that their faith is based on certainty and not on imitation. Signs for those of understanding who use their minds to contemplate the evidence. It was narrated on the authority of Aisha, may God be pleased with her, that she said: When this verse was revealed to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, he stood up to pray, and Bilal came to him to call him to prayer. He saw him crying and said: O Messenger of God, are you crying when God has forgiven you your past and future sins! He said: O Bilal, should I not be a grateful servant, when God revealed to me last night the verse: Indeed, in the creation of the heavens and the earth and the alternation of the night and the day are signs for those of understanding. Then He said: Woe to the one who reads it and does not contemplate it.

Second: The scholars said: It is recommended for the one who wakes up from sleep to wipe his face and begin his standing by reciting these ten verses, following the example of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace. This has been proven in the two Sahih and others, and it will come. Then he prays what has been written for him, combining contemplation and action, and this is better, as will be explained in this verse after this.

It was narrated on the authority of Abu Hurairah that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, used to recite ten verses from the end of Surat Al Imran every night. It was narrated by Abu Nasr Al-Wa'ili Al-Sijistani Al-Hafiz in the book Al-Ibanah from the hadith of Sulayman bin Musa on the authority of Muzahir bin Aslam Al-Makhzumi on the authority of Al-Maqburi on the authority of Abu Hurairah, and the beginning of the surah was mentioned earlier on the authority of Uthman, who said: Whoever recites Al Imran at night will be credited with the reward of standing in prayer for a night.

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

Al-Tabarani said: Al-Husayn ibn Ishaq Al-Tastari told us, Yahya Al-Hamami told us, Yaquub Al-Qummi told us on the authority of Ja'far ibn Abi Al-Mughira, on the authority of Sa'id ibn Jubayr, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: The Quraysh came to the Jews and said: How did Moses come to you? They said: His staff and his hand were white for the onlookers. They came to the Christians and said: How was Jesus? They said: He used to heal the blind and the lepers, and revive the dead. So they came to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: Ask God to make

Safa gold for us. So he asked his Lord, and this verse was revealed: Indeed, in the creation of the heavens and the earth and the alternation of the night and the day are signs for those of understanding. So let them ponder over it. This is problematic, because this verse was revealed in Medina, and their question that Safa be gold was in Mecca, and God knows best. The meaning of the verse is that God Almighty says: Indeed, in the creation of the heavens and the earth meaning this in its height and breadth, and this in its lowness, density and lowliness, and what they contain of great visible signs of planets, fixed stars, seas, mountains, deserts, trees, plants, crops, fruits, animals and minerals, and benefits of different colors, scents, tastes and properties, and the alternation of the night and the day meaning their succession and their interchange of length and shortness, so sometimes one becomes long and the other short, then they become equal, then one takes from the other, and what was short becomes long and short. Which was long. And all of that is the estimation of the Almighty, the All-Knowing, and for this reason the Almighty said, Signs for those of understanding, meaning the complete, intelligent minds that perceive things in their true and obvious aspects, and they are not like the deaf and dumb who do not understand, about whom God said, "And how many a sign is there in the heavens and the earth which they pass by while they are turning away from it. And most of them do not believe in God except while they associate others with Him." Then the Almighty described those of understanding, saying, Those who remember God standing, sitting, and [lying] on their sides. As it was proven in Sahih Al-Bukhari on the authority of Imran bin Husain: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said, 'Pray standing, and if you cannot, then sitting, and if you cannot, then on your side,'" meaning they do not stop mentioning Him in all their states in their secrets, consciences, and tongues, and they reflect on the creation of the heavens and the earth, meaning they understand what is in them of wisdom indicating the greatness of the Creator, His power, knowledge, wisdom, choice, and mercy. Sheikh Abu Sulayman Al-Darani said: I leave my house and my eyes do not fall on anything except that I see that God has blessed me with it and I have a lesson in it. Narrated by Ibn Abi Al-Dunya in the book of trust and consideration and on the authority of Al-Hasan Al-Basri that he said: Thinking for an hour is better than standing all night. Al-Fudayl said: Al-Hasan said: Thinking is a mirror that shows you your good and bad deeds. Sufyan bin Uyaynah said: Thinking is a light that enters your heart and perhaps he would quote this verse:

If a person has an idea, then there is a lesson in everything.

It was narrated that Jesus, peace be upon him, said: Blessed is he whose speech is remembrance, whose silence is contemplation, and whose gaze is a lesson. Luqman the Wise said: Prolonged solitude inspires thought, and prolonged thought is evidence of knocking on the door of Paradise. Wahb ibn Munabbih said: No man's thought is prolonged without understanding, and no man has ever understood without knowledge, and no man has ever known without acting. Omar ibn Abdul Aziz said: Speaking in remembrance of God Almighty is good, and contemplating the blessings of God is the best form of worship. Mughis al-Aswad said: Visit the graves every day and contemplate, and see the situation with your hearts, and look at who will lead the two groups to Paradise or Hell, and let your hearts and bodies feel the remembrance of Hell, its whips and its chambers. He would cry at that until he was raised up dead from among his companions, his mind gone. Abdullah ibn al-Mubarak said: A man passed by a monk at a cemetery and a garbage dump, so he called out to him and said: O monk, you have two treasures from the treasures of this world in which you will learn: the treasure of men, and the treasure of money. On the authority of Ibn Omar: Whenever he wanted to examine his heart, he would go to a ruined place, stand at its door and call out in a sad voice, saying: Where are your people? Then he would return to himself and say: Everything will perish except His Face. On the authority of Ibn Abbas, he said: Two moderate rak'ahs of contemplation are better than standing all night while the heart is heedless. Al-Hasan Al-Basri said: O son of Adam, eat a third of your stomach, drink a third of it, and leave the other third to breathe for contemplation. Some of the wise men said: Whoever looks at the world without admiration, the sight of his heart will be obscured to the extent of that heedlessness. Bishr bin Al-Harith Al-Hafi said: If people contemplated the greatness of God Almighty, they would not disobey Him. Al-Hasan said on the authority of Amir bin Abdul Qais, he said: I heard more than one, two, or three of the companions of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: The light of faith or the radiance of faith is contemplation. It was narrated on the authority of Jesus, peace be upon him, that he said: O weak son of Adam, fear God wherever you are, and be a guest in this world, and make the mosques your home, and teach your eyes to weep, your body to be patient, and your heart to think, and do not worry about tomorrow's provision. And on the authority of the Commander of the Faithful, Omar bin Abdul Aziz, may God be pleased with him, that he cried one day among his companions, and he was asked about that, so he said: I thought about the world, its pleasures and desires, and I learned from it, and its desires are almost gone until its bitterness clouds them, and if there is no lesson in it for those who learn, then there are sermons in it for those who remember. And Ibn Abi Al-Dunya said: Al-Hussein bin Abdul Rahman recited to me:

The believer's walk is the believer's pleasure is the lesson

We thank God alone, we are all in danger

There is a man who is distracted and his life has passed and he does not feel it

There is a life that was beyond desire, full of flowers

In the murmur of the eyes and the shade of the trees

And joy from the plant and goodness from the fruit

His jealousy and his family's speed of time with jealousy

We thank God alone, for in this there is a lesson.

Indeed, in the creation of the heavens and the earth and the alternation of the night and the day are signs for those of understanding.

Indeed in this is a lesson for the wise if he takes heed.

God the Almighty has condemned those who do not consider His creations that indicate His Essence, Attributes, Law, Power and Signs, saying: And how many are the signs in the heavens and the earth which they pass by while they are turning away from them? And most of them do not believe in God except while they associate others with Him. And He praised His believing servants, Those who remember God while standing, sitting, and [lying] on their sides, and reflect on the creation of the heavens and the earth, saying: Our Lord, You did not create this in vain. That is, You did not create this creation in vain, but rather in truth, so that You may reward those who do evil for what they have done, and reward those who do good with goodness. Then He declared Him free from vainness and the creation of falsehood, saying: Glory be to You, that is, from creating anything in vain. Save us from the punishment of the Fire. That is, O He who created creation with truth and justice, O He who is free from deficiencies, faults and vainness. Save us from the punishment of the Fire by Your power and strength, and provide us with deeds that please You. And guide us to righteous deeds that will guide us to the Gardens of Bliss, and protect us from Your painful punishment. Then they said, Our Lord, whoever You admit to the Fire - You have disgraced him. That is, You have humiliated him and made his disgrace apparent to the people of the assembly. And for the wrongdoers there are no helpers. That is, on the Day of Resurrection, they will have no protector from You. Nor will they be able to escape from what You intended for them. Our Lord, indeed we have heard a caller calling to faith, that is, a caller calling to faith, and he is the Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace. Believe in your Lord, so we have believed. That is, he says, Believe in your Lord, so we have believed, that is, we responded to him and followed him, that is, with our faith and following of Your Prophet. Our Lord, so forgive us our sins, that is, cover them, and remove from us our misdeeds, between us and You, and cause us to die with the righteous, that is, join us with the righteous. Our Lord, and give us what You promised us through Your messengers, it was said: its meaning is through faith in Your messengers, and it was said: its meaning is through the tongues of Your messengers. This is more evident - and Imam Ahmad said: Abu Al-Yaman told us, Ismail bin Ayyash told us, on the authority of Amr bin Muhammad, on the authority of Abu Uqal, on the authority of Anas bin Malik, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: 'Asqalan is one of the two brides. God will raise from it on the Day of Resurrection seventy thousand who will not be held accountable, and He will raise from it fifty thousand martyrs who will come to God, and in it are rows of martyrs with their heads severed in their hands, their veins gushing with blood, saying, 'Our Lord, and give us what You promised us through Your messengers and do not disgrace us on the Day of Resurrection. Indeed, You do not fail to fulfill Your promise.' God will say, 'My servants have spoken the truth. Wash them in the River of the Egg.' So they will emerge from it pure and white. They will roam in Paradise wherever they wish." This hadith is considered one of the strange hadiths in the Musnad, and some consider it fabricated, and God knows best. And do not disgrace us on the Day of Resurrection meaning in front of all creation, Indeed, You do not fail to fulfill Your promise meaning the promise that Your messengers informed us about must come, which is the standing before You on the Day of Resurrection. Al-Hafiz Abu Ya'la said: Al-Harith bin Surayj told us, Al-Mu'tabar told us, Al-Fadl bin Isa told us, Muhammad bin Al-Munkadir told us that Jabir bin Abdullah told him that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Shame and disgrace will reach the son of Adam on the Day of Resurrection in his standing before God Almighty to the extent that a servant would wish to be ordered to the Fire. A strange hadith. It has been proven that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, used to recite these ten verses from the end of Al Imran when he got up at night to perform the night prayer. Al-Bukhari, may God have mercy on him, said: Saeed bin Abi Maryam told us, Muhammad bin Jaafar told us, Sharik bin Abdullah bin Abi Namir told me on the authority of Kurayb, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, who said: "I spent the night with my aunt Maymunah, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, talked with his family for an hour, then he went to sleep. When the last third of the night had passed, he sat up and looked at the sky and said: 'Indeed, in the creation of the heavens and the earth and the alternation of the night and the day are signs for those of understanding' [the verses]. Then he got up, performed ablution, used the siwa', and prayed eleven rak'ahs. Then Bilal called the adhan and prayed two rak'ahs, then he went out and led the people in the dawn prayer." Muslim narrated it in this way on the authority of Abu Bakr bin Ishaq al-San'ani, on the authority of Ibn Abi Maryam. Then Al-Bukhari narrated it through various chains of transmission on the authority of Malik, on the authority of Mukhrama bin Sulayman, on the authority of Kurayb, that Ibn Abbas informed him that he spent the night with Maymunah, the wife of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and she was his aunt. He said: "I lay down on the width of the pillow, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his family lay down on its length. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, slept until it was midnight, or a little before or after it. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, woke up from his sleep and began to wipe the sleep from his face with his hand. Then he recited the last ten verses of Surat Al Imran. Then he went to a hanging bag and performed ablution from it, and he performed his ablution well. Then he stood up to pray. Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, said: So I got up and did as he did, then I went and stood beside him. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, put his right hand on my head, and took hold of my right ear, twisting it. He prayed two rak'ahs, then two rak'ahs, then two rak'ahs, then two rak'ahs, then two rak'ahs, then two rak'ahs, then two rak'ahs, then he prayed the witr prayer. Then he lay down until..." The muezzin came to him, so he stood up and prayed two light rak'ahs, then he went out and prayed the dawn prayer." And the rest of the group narrated it in this way through various chains of transmission on the authority of Malik. Muslim also narrated it, and Abu Dawud narrated it through other chains of transmission on the authority of Mukhrimah ibn Sulayman on his authority.

Another way for this hadith on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both. Abu Bakr bin Mardawayh said: Muhammad bin Ahmad bin Muhammad bin Ali told us, Abu Yahya bin Abi Masarra told us, Khallad bin Yahya told us, Yunus bin Abi Ishaq told us, on the authority of Al-Munhal bin Amr, on the authority of Ali bin Abdullah bin Abbas, on the authority of Abdullah bin Abbas, who said: Al-Abbas ordered me to spend the night with the family of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and to preserve his prayers. He said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, led the people in the last 'Isha' prayer until there was no one left in the mosque except him. He stood up and passed by me and said: Who is this? 'Abdullah?' I said: Yes. He said: So who? I said: Al-Abbas ordered me to spend the night with you. He said: Then the truth, the truth. When he entered, he said: Did you spread out 'Abdullah? So a pillow of silk was brought. He said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, slept on it until I heard him snoring. Then he sat up on his bed. He said: He raised his head to the sky and said: Glory be to the King, the Holy, three times. Then he recited these verses from the end of Surat Al-Imran until he finished it." Muslim, Abu Dawud, and Al-Nasa'i also narrated a hadith on the authority of 'Ali ibn 'Abdullah ibn 'Abbas on the authority of his father on the authority of his father on this matter as well.

Another way Narrated by Ibn Mardawayh from the hadith of Asim bin Bahdalah from some of his companions, from Saeed bin Jubair, from Ibn Abbas, "That the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, went out one night after the night had passed, and he looked at the sky and recited this verse: 'Indeed, in the creation of the heavens and the earth and the alternation of the night and the day are signs for those of understanding.' to the end of the surah, then he said: O God, place in my heart light, and in my hearing light, and in my sight light, and on my right light, and on my left light, and in front of me light, and behind me light, and above me light, and below me light, and make my light greater on the Day of Resurrection." This supplication is proven in some ways of the Sahih from the narration of Kurayb from Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with him. Then Ibn Mardawayh and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated from the hadith of Ja'far bin Abi Al-Mughira from Saeed bin Jubair, from Ibn Abbas, who said: The Quraysh came to the Jews and said: What signs did Moses bring to you? They said: His staff and his white hand are for the onlookers. And they came to the Christians and said: How was Jesus among you? They said: He used to heal the blind and the lepers and bring the dead back to life. So they came to the Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) and said: Call upon your Lord to turn Safa into gold for us. So he called upon his Lord, the Mighty and Sublime, and the following verse was revealed: Indeed, in the creation of the heavens and the earth and the alternation of the night and the day are signs for those of understanding. He said: Let them ponder over them. This is the wording of Ibn Mardawayh. This hadeeth was mentioned earlier in the narration of al-Tabarani at the beginning of the verse. This necessitates that these verses were revealed in Makkah, but the well-known view is that they were revealed in Madinah. Its evidence is the other hadeeth. Ibn Mardawayh said: Isma'il ibn 'Ali ibn Isma'il told us, Ahmad ibn 'Ali al-Harrani told us, Shuja' ibn Ashras told us, Hashraj ibn Nabatah al-Waseeti Abu Makram told us on the authority of al-Kalbi, who is Abu Janab, on the authority of 'Ata' who said: I, Ibn 'Umar, and 'Ubaid ibn 'Umair went to 'Aa'ishah may God be pleased with her. We entered upon her and there was a veil between us and her. She said: O 'Ubaid, what prevents you from visiting us? He said: The poet said: Visit often and you will increase in love. Ibn Umar said: "Leave us and tell us about the most amazing thing you saw from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace." She cried and said: "Everything about him was amazing. He came to me during my night until his skin touched my skin, then he said: 'Leave me to worship my Lord, the Almighty and Majestic.'" She said: "I said: By God, I love being close to you, and I love that you worship your Lord." So he went to the water skin and performed ablution, but did not pour much water. Then he stood up to pray and cried until his beard was wet, then he prostrated and cried until the ground was wet, then he lay on his side and cried until Bilal came to call him to the dawn prayer. She said: "He said: O Messenger of God, what makes you cry when God has forgiven you your sins, past and future?" He said: "Woe to you, Bilal! What prevents me from crying when it was revealed to me this night: 'Indeed, in the creation of the heavens and the earth and the alternation of the night and the day are signs for those of understanding.' " Then he said: Woe to the one who recites it and does not reflect on it. Abd ibn Humayd narrated it in his interpretation on the authority of Ja'far ibn 'Awn on the authority of Abu Janab Al-Kalbi narrated on the authority of 'Ata' who said: I, Abdullah bin Omar, and Ubaid bin Umair entered upon the Mother of the Believers Aisha, may God be pleased with her, while she was in her chamber. We greeted her and she said: Who are these? We said: This is Abdullah bin Omar and Ubaid bin Umair. She said: O Ubaid bin Umair, what prevents you from visiting us? He said: What did the first one say: Visit often and you will increase in love. She said: We love visiting you and having intercourse with you. Abdullah bin Omar said: Leave this idleness of yours, "Tell us about the most amazing thing you saw from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace." She said: So she cried and then said: Everything about him was amazing. He came to me during my night until he entered my bed with me, until his skin stuck to my skin, then he said: O Aisha, give me permission to worship my Lord. She said: I love your closeness and I love your love. She said: So he went to a water skin in the house and poured water frequently, then he got up and recited the Qur'an, then he cried until I saw that his tears had reached his waist. She said: Then he sat and praised God and extolled Him, then he cried until I saw that his tears had reached his lap. She said: Then he leaned on his right side and put his hand under his cheek. She said: Then he cried until I saw that his tears had reached the ground. Bilal entered upon him and called him to the dawn prayer, then he said: The prayer, O Messenger of God. When Bilal saw him crying, he said: O Messenger of God, are you crying when God has forgiven you your past and future sins? He said: O Bilal, should I not be? A grateful servant? Why should I not cry when tonight the following verse was revealed to me: Indeed, in the creation of the heavens and the earth and the alternation of the night and the day are signs for those of understanding until His saying: Glory be to You! Save us from the punishment of the Fire. Then He said: Woe to the one who recites these verses and does not reflect upon them. This is how Abu Hatim Ibn Hibban narrated it in his Sahih on the authority of Imran Ibn Musa, on the authority of Uthman Ibn Abi Shaybah, on the authority of Yahya Ibn Zakariya, on the authority of Ibrahim Ibn Suwaid Al-Nakha'i, on the authority of Abdul Malik Ibn Abi Sulayman, on the authority of Ata', who said: I and Ubayd Ibn Umair entered upon Aisha and he mentioned something similar. This is how Abdullah Ibn Muhammad Ibn Abi Al-Dunya narrated it in the book Al-Tafkur wal-l'tibar on the authority of Shuja' Ibn Ashras. Then he said: Al-Hasan bin Abdul Aziz told me: I heard a chain of transmission on the authority of Sufyan, who is Al-Thawri, who traced it back to the Prophet, who said: Whoever recites the end of Al Imran and does not reflect on it, woe to him, counting ten on his fingers. Al-Hasan bin Abdul Aziz said: Ubayd bin Al-Sa'ib told me: It was said to Al-Awza'i: What is the limit of reflecting on them? He said: He recites them while understanding them. Ibn Abi Al-Dunya said: Qasim bin Hashim told me: Ali bin Ayyash told us: Abdul Rahman bin Sulayman told us: I asked Al-Awza'i about the minimum that a person who is attached to them can contemplate on them and what will save him from this woe? He lowered his head for a while, then said: He recites them while understanding them.

Surat Al Imran 3:190

Indeed, in the creation of the heavens and the earth and the alternation of the night and the day are signs for those of understanding.

Another hadith contains something strange. Abu Bakr bin Mardawayh said: Abd al-Rahman bin Bashir bin Numayr told us, Ishaq bin Ibrahim al-Basti told us /H and Ishaq bin Ibrahim bin Zaid told us, Ahmad bin Amr told us, Hisham bin Ammar told us, Sulayman bin Musa al-Zuhri told us, Muzahir bin Aslam al-Makhzumi told us, Saeed bin Abi Saeed al-Maqburi told us on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, used to recite ten verses from the end of Surat Al Imran every night." Muzahir bin Aslam is weak.

Fath al-Qadir

His statement 190- Indeed, in the creation of the heavens This is a new sentence to establish that He, the Most High, is the exclusive property of what He mentioned therein. What is meant is the essence of the heavens and the earth and their attributes. And the alternation of the night and the day meaning their succession, and the fact that each one of them succeeds the other, and the fact that the increase of one results in the decrease of the other and their difference in length and shortness, heat and cold, and other things are signs meaning: clear indications and evident proofs that point to the Creator, the Most High. The explanation of some of what is here has been presented in Surat Al-Baqarah. What is meant by those of understanding are: people of sound minds that are free from any impurities of deficiency, for merely thinking about what God has related in this verse is sufficient for the rational person and leads him to faith that is not shaken by doubts or repelled by skepticism.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

190- Indeed, in the creation of the heavens and the earth and the alternation of the night and the day are signs for those of understanding. Imam Abu Ali al-Husayn ibn Muhammad al-Qadi told us, on the authority of Abu Na'im Abd al-Malik ibn al-Husayn al-Isfarayni, on the authority of Abu 'Awanah Ya'qub ibn Ishaq al-Hafiz, on the authority of Ahmad ibn Abd al-Jabbar, on the authority of Ibn Fadil, on the authority of Hisayn ibn Abd al-Rahman, on the authority of Habib ibn Abi Thabit, on the authority of Muhammad ibn Ali ibn Abd God ibn Abbas, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Abd God ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, that he "slept with the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and saw him wake up, so he used a miswak, then performed ablution, saying: 'Indeed, in the creation of the heavens and the earth' until he finished the surah. Then he stood up and prayed two rak'ahs, in which he prolonged the standing, bowing, and prostration. Then he turned away and slept until he blew. Then he did that three times, six rak'ahs, each time using a miswak. Then he performed ablution, then recited these verses, then he prayed the witr with three rak'ahs. Then the muezzin came to him, so he went out to pray, saying: O God, place light in my sight, light in my hearing, and light in my My tongue is light, and make light behind me and light in front of me, and make light above me and light below me. O God, give me light."

Narrated by Krayb on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, and he added: O God, place light in my heart, light in my sight, light in my hearing, light to my right, and light to my left.

The Almighty said: Signs for those of understanding those with intellects. Then He described them and said:

Tafsir al-Baidawi

190 "Indeed, in the creation of the heavens and the earth and the alternation of the night and the day are signs for those of understanding." Clear evidence of the existence of the Creator, His Oneness, and the perfection of His knowledge and power for those with clear minds free from the impurities of the senses and imagination, as previously mentioned in Surat Al Imran, Al Baqarah. Perhaps the limitation to these three in this verse is because the basis of the evidence is change, and this is exposed to all its types, as it is either in the thing itself, such as the change of night and day, or part of it, such as the change of elements by changing their forms, or external to it, such as the change of the spheres by changing their positions. And from the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, "Woe to the one who reads it and does not reflect on it."

Surat Al Imran 3:191

Those who remember God while standing, sitting, and lying on their sides, and reflect on the creation of the heavens and the earth, [saying], “Our Lord, You did not create this in vain. Glory be to You. So protect us from the punishment of the Fire.”

Surat Al Imran 3:191

Those who remember God while standing, sitting, and lying on their sides, and reflect on the creation of the heavens and the earth, [saying], “Our Lord, You did not create this in vain. Glory be to You. So protect us from the punishment of the Fire.”

Tafsir al-Jalalayn

Those who is an adjective for what preceded it or a substitute remember God while standing, sitting, and lying on their sides in every situation, and according to Ibn Abbas they pray likewise according to their ability and reflect on the creation of the heavens and the earth to prove from it the power of their Creator, they say Our Lord, You did not create this the creation that we see in vain a state, in vain, but rather as evidence of the perfection of Your power Glory be to You purifying You from vainness Save us from the punishment of the Fire

Tafsir al-Suyuti

Tafsir al-Tabari

Abu Jaafar said: His saying: Those who remember God standing and sitting is a description of those with understanding, and those is in the accusative case in response to his saying: For those with understanding.

The meaning of the verse: Indeed, in the creation of the heavens and the earth and the alternation of the night and the day are signs for those of understanding, who remember God while standing, sitting, and lying on their sides. By that he means: standing in their prayers, sitting in their testimony of faith and outside of their prayers, and lying on their sides while sleeping, as:

Al-Qasim told us, Al-Hussein told us, Hajjaj told me, on the authority of Ibn Jurayj, regarding his statement: Those who remember God while standing and sitting, the verse, he said: It is the remembrance of God in prayer and outside of prayer, and the recitation of the Qur'an.

Bishr told us, he said, Yazid told us, he said, Saeed told us, on the authority of Qatada, regarding his statement: Those who remember God while standing, sitting, and lying on their sides. These are all your states, O son of Adam, so remember Him while you are on your side, as an ease and relief from God.

Abu Ja'far said: If someone were to say: How was it said: And on their sides? Then on which is an adjective was connected to standing and sitting which are two nouns? It was said: Because his saying: And on their sides is in the meaning of a noun, and its meaning is: and asleep, or: lying on their sides, so it was good to connect that to standing and sitting for that meaning, as it was said: And when harm touches man, he calls upon Us, lying on his side or sitting or standing (Yunus 10:12), so his saying or sitting or standing was connected to his saying: on his side, because the meaning of his saying on his side is lying down, so he connected the sitting and standing to their meaning. And so it is with his saying: And on their sides.

As for his saying: And they reflect on the creation of the heavens and the earth, he means by that that they consider the craftsmanship of the Maker of that, and they know that none can make that except the One who is like nothing, and who is the Owner of everything and its Provider, and the Creator and Manager of everything, and who is over all things competent, and in His hand is enrichment and poverty, honor and humiliation, life and death, misery and happiness.

Abu Ja'far said: By that, the Most High means: And they ponder the creation of the heavens and the earth, saying: Our Lord, You did not create this in vain. So he left out mentioning those who said it, since there was evidence of it in what appeared in the speech.

And His statement: I did not create this in vain, means: He did not create this creation in vain or for play, and He did not create it except for a great matter of reward and punishment, accountability and recompense. Rather, He said, I did not create this in vain, and did not say, I did not create this, or these, because He meant by this the creation in the heavens and the earth. This is indicated by His statement: Glory be to You, save us from the punishment of the Fire, and their desire to their Lord to save them from the punishment of Hell. If what was meant by His statement, I did not create this in vain, was the heavens and the earth, then His statement following that, Save us from the punishment of the Fire, would not have had an understood meaning, that the heavens and the earth are evidence of their Creator, not of reward and punishment. Rather, the evidence of reward and punishment is the command and prohibition.

Rather, the Most High described those of understanding, whom He mentioned in this verse: that when they see those who are commanded and forbidden, they will say: O our Lord, You did not create these in vain, glory be to You, meaning: Exalted be You from doing anything in vain, but You created them for a great matter, Paradise or Hell.

Then they turned to their Lord, asking Him to protect them from the torment of Hell, and not to make them among those who disobeyed Him and violated His command, so that they would be among the people of Hell.

Tafsir al-Qurtubi

Third : The Almighty said : " Those who remember God while standing, sitting, and lying on their sides. " God mentioned three states that the son of Adam is never without in most of his affairs, as if they limit his time. From this meaning is the saying of Aisha may God be pleased with her : " The Messenger of God (blessings and peace of God be upon him) used to remember God at all times. " Narrated by Muslim. This includes being in the bathroom or otherwise. The scholars differed on this. Abdullah ibn Amr, Ibn Sirin, and al-Nakha'i permitted it, while Ibn Abbas, Ata', and al-Sha'bi disliked it. The first is more correct due to the generality of the verse and the hadith. al-Nakha'i said : There is nothing wrong with remembering God while in the bathroom, for it ascends. The meaning is : the angels ascend with it written in their scrolls. So the complement was omitted. The evidence for this is the Almighty's saying : " Not a word does he utter but there is a watcher by him ready to record it. " (Qaf : 18) , and He said : " And indeed, over you are guardians , noble and recording . " (Al-Infitar : 10-11)] And because God Almighty commanded His servants to remember Him in every situation and did not make any exception, so He said : Remember God with much remembrance (Al-Ahzab : 41) , and He said : Then remember Me, and I will remember you (Al-Baqarah : 152) , and He said : Indeed, We do not allow to be lost the reward of one who does good work (Al-Kahf : 30) , so He is general, so remembering God Almighty in all his situations is rewarded, God willing. Abu Nu'aym said : Abu Bakr bin Malik told us, Abdullah bin Ahmad bin Hanbal told us, my father told us, Wakee' told us, Sufyan told us, on the authority of Ata' bin Abi Marwan, on the authority of his father, on the authority of Ka'b Al-Ahbar, who said : Moses, peace be upon him, said : O Lord, are You near so that I may commune with You, or are You far so that I may call out to You? He said : O Moses, I am the companion of the one who remembers Me. He said : O Lord, for we are in one state after another, we respect You and magnify You by remembering You. He said : What is it? He said : Major ritual impurity and defecation. He said : O Moses, remember Me in every situation. The dislike of those who dislike that is either to sanctify the remembrance of God Almighty in places where it is desirable not to mention Him, such as the dislike of reciting the Qur'an in the bathroom, or to keep the honorable scribes on the condition that they be placed in a place of filth and impurity to write down what is spoken, and God knows best. Standing and sitting is in the accusative case as a state , and on their sides is in the place of the state, meaning and lying down. Similar to it is the statement of God Almighty : He called us on his side or sitting or standing (Yunus : 12) , on the contrary, meaning he called us lying on his side. A group of commentators, including Al-Hasan and others, said that his statement they remember God to the end is only an expression of prayer, meaning they do not waste it, so in the case of an excuse they pray it sitting or on their sides, and it is like the statement of God Almighty : And when you have completed the prayer, remember God standing, sitting, and lying on your sides (An-Nisa' : 103) , according to the statement of Ibn Mas'ud, as will be explained. And if the verse is in Prayer and its understanding is that a person prays standing, and if he is unable to do so, then sitting, and if he is unable to do so, then on his side, as was proven on the authority of Imran bin Husayn, who said : I had hemorrhoids, so I asked the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, about prayer. He said : Pray standing, and if you are unable to do so, then sitting, and if you are unable to do so, then on your side . Narrated by the imams. And the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, used to pray sitting in voluntary prayers a year before his death, according to what is in Sahih Muslim. Al-Nasa'i narrated, " On the authority of Aisha, may God be pleased with her, who said : I saw the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, praying while sitting cross-legged. " Abu Abd al-Rahman said : I do not know of anyone who narrated this hadith other than Abu Dawud al-Hafri, who is trustworthy. I do not think this hadith is anything but a mistake, and God knows best .

Fourth : The scholars differed on the manner and form of the prayer of the sick and the one who is sitting. Ibn Abd al-Hakam reported on the authority of Malik that he should sit cross-legged while standing. Al-Buwayti said the same on the authority of al-Shafi'i. Then when he wants to prostrate, he should prepare for prostration to the extent that he is able. He said : The same applies to the one who is performing a voluntary prayer. A similar opinion is that of al-Thawri. Al-Layth, Ahmad, Ishaq, Abu Ayyusuf, and Muhammad also said the same. Al-Shafi'i said in the narration of al-Muzani : He should sit throughout his prayer like the sitting for the testimony of faith. This was narrated on the authority of Malik and his companions. The first is the well-known opinion and is the apparent meaning of al-Madwa. Abu Hanifa and Zufar said : He should sit like the sitting for the testimony of faith, and likewise he should prepare himself and prostrate .

Fifth : He said : If he is unable to sit, he should pray on his side or back, as a choice. This is the view of Al-Mudawwana. Ibn Habib narrated on the authority of Ibn Al-Qasim that he should pray on his back. If he is unable, then on his right side, then on his left side. In the book of Ibn Al-Mawaz, it is the opposite. He should pray on his right side, otherwise on the left, otherwise on his back. Sahnun said : He should pray on his right as he is placed in his grave, otherwise on his back, otherwise on his left. Malik and Abu Hanifah said : If he prays lying down, his feet should be towards the qiblah. Al-Shafi'i and Al-Thawri said : He should pray on his side and his face towards the qiblah .

Sixth : If he becomes strong due to a light illness while he is praying, Ibn al-Qasim said : He should stand for the rest of his prayer and continue from what he has gone before. This is the opinion of al-Shafi'i, Zufar, and al-Tabari. Abu Hanifah and his two companions, Ya'qub and Muhammad, said about someone who prays a rak'ah lying down and then it becomes valid : He should start the prayer from the beginning. If he was sitting, bowing and prostrating, then it becomes valid, he should continue according to Abu Hanifah's opinion, but not according to Muhammad's opinion. Abu Hanifah and his companions said : If someone begins the prayer standing and then reaches the point of gesturing, he should make it clear. This was narrated from Abu Yusuf. Malik said about a sick person who is unable to bow or prostrate but is able to stand and sit : He should pray standing and nod to bowing, and if he wants to prostrate, he should sit and nod to prostration. This is the opinion of Abu Yusuf and is analogous to the opinion of al-Shafi'i. Abu Hanifah and his companions said : He should pray sitting .

Surat Al Imran 3:191

Those who remember God while standing, sitting, and lying on their sides, and reflect on the creation of the heavens and the earth, [saying], “Our Lord, You did not create this in vain. Glory be to You. So protect us from the punishment of the Fire.”

Seventh : As for the prayer of one who is lying down, it was narrated in the hadith of Imran bin Husayn an addition that is not found in any other hadith, which is : “ The prayer of one who is lying down is like half the prayer of one who is sitting . ” Abu Omar said : The majority of scholars do not permit the voluntary prayer while lying down. This is a hadith that was only narrated by Husayn al-Mu'allim, namely Husayn bin Dhakwan, on the authority of Abdullah bin Buraidah, on the authority of Imran bin Husayn. There is a difference of opinion regarding Husayn's chain of transmission and text, a difference that requires us to stop regarding it. Even if it is authentic, I do not know what its basis is. If any of the scholars permitted the voluntary prayer while lying down for those who are able to sit or stand, then this hadith of Husayn is either wrong or abrogated. It was said : What is meant by the verse are those who use the creation of the heavens and the earth as evidence that what changes must have a changer, and that changer must be able to perfect it, and he has the right to send messengers. If he sends a messenger and indicates his truthfulness, With one miracle, no one has any excuse. These are the ones who remember God in every situation, and God knows best . Eighth : The Almighty's saying : “ And they reflect on the creation of the heavens and the earth . ” We have already explained the meaning of and they reflect, which is either remembrance with the tongue or prayer, its obligatory and voluntary acts. So God, the Almighty, connected another act of worship to one of them with another act of worship, which is reflecting on the power of God, His creations, and the lessons He has spread, so that this would increase their insight .

And in everything there is a sign that indicates that it is one. It was said : they disbelieve is in apposition to the state. It was said : it is disjunctive, and the first is more likely. Thought : the heart hesitates about something. It is said : he thought, and a thoughtful man thinks a lot . The Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) passed by some people who were contemplating God and said : Contemplate the creation but do not contemplate the Creator, for you cannot appreciate His value . Rather, contemplation, consideration and expansion of the mind are in the creation, as He said : and they contemplate the creation of the heavens and the earth . It was narrated that Sufyan al-Thawri may God be pleased with him prayed two rak'ahs behind the Maqam, then he raised his head to the sky. When he saw the stars, he fainted and was urinating blood from the length of his grief and contemplation. It was narrated on the authority of Abu Hurayrah may God be pleased with him who said : “ The Messenger of God (peace and blessings of God be upon him) said : ‘ While a man was lying on his bed, he raised his head and looked at the stars and at the sky and said, ‘I bear witness that you have a Lord and a Creator. O God, forgive me.’ So God looked at him and forgave him. ’ ” And he (peace and blessings of God be upon him) said : There is no worship like contemplation . It was narrated that he (peace and blessings of God be upon him) said : Contemplation for an hour is better than worship for a year . Ibn al-Qasim narrated on the authority of Malik who said : Umm al-Darda' was asked : ‘What was Abu al-Darda's main concern?’ She said : ‘Contemplation was his main concern.’ It was said to him : ‘Do you consider contemplation to be an action?’ He said : Yes, it is certainly. Ibn Al-Musayyab was asked about the prayer between Dhuhr and Asr. He said : This is not worship. Rather, worship is abstaining from what God has forbidden and contemplating the commands of God. Al-Hasan said : Contemplation for an hour is better than standing all night. Ibn Abbas and Abu Al-Darda' said the same. Al-Hasan said : Contemplation is the mirror of the believer in which he looks at his good and bad deeds. Among the things he contemplates are fears of the Hereafter, such as the gathering and resurrection, Paradise and its delights, and Hell and its torment. It is narrated that Abu Sulayman Al-Darani may God be pleased with him took a cup of water to perform ablution for the night prayer and he had a guest with him. When he put his finger in the ear of the cup, he saw that he remained contemplating until dawn came. He said to him : What is this, O Abu Sulayman? He said : When I put my finger in the ear of the cup, I thought about the words of God Almighty : When the shackles are around their necks and the chains are dragged (Ghafir : 71) . I thought about my condition and how I would receive the shackles if they were placed around my neck on the Day of Resurrection. I continued in that state until morning. Ibn Atiyyah said : This is the ultimate fear, and the best of matters are their middle ground. The scholars of the nation, who are the proof for this method, and reading the knowledge of the Book of God Almighty and the meanings of the Sunnah of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, for one who understands and hopes to benefit from it, are not better than this. Ibn al-Arabi said : People differed as to which of the two deeds is better : contemplation or prayer. The Sufis went to the view that contemplation is better, as it produces knowledge and is the best of the legal stations. The jurists went to the view that prayer is better, because of what was mentioned in the hadith about urging it, calling to it, and encouraging it. In the two Sahihs, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, that he spent the night with his aunt Maymunah, and in it : The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, stood up and wiped the letter nun from his face, then he recited the ten final verses of Surat Al Imran, and stood up to sing. He performed a light ablution and then prayed thirteen rak'ahs. Look, may God have mercy on you, at his combination of contemplating the creation and then turning to his prayer after that. This is the Sunnah that is relied upon. As for the way of the Sufis, that the sheikh should be among them, thinking for a day, a night, and a month without slackening, then this is a way that is not right for humans, nor does it continue according to the Sunnah. Ibn 'Atiyyah said : My father told me, on the authority of some scholars of the East, he said : I was spending the night in the Mosque of Al-Aqdam in Egypt, and I prayed the Isha prayer. I saw a man lying down in his cloak, covered with his cloak until morning. We prayed that night. When the dawn prayer was called, that man stood up, faced the qibla, and prayed with the people. I was astonished at his boldness in praying without ablution. When the prayer was finished, he went out, so I followed him to admonish him. When I approached him, I heard him recite poetry :

The body is lying down, absent, present and alert, the heart is silent and mindful

He is contracted in the unseen and expanded, like that of the one who knows and remembers.

He spends the night thinking, for he is asleep and awake all night.

He said : I knew that he was one of those who worship by thought, so I turned away from him . Ninth : The Almighty's saying : " Our Lord, You did not create this in vain. " That is, they say : You did not create it in vain or jest, but rather You created it as evidence of Your power and wisdom. Falsehood is the vanishing and passing away, and from it is the saying of Labid :

Verily, everything except God is false, meaning it will perish. And in vain is in the accusative case because it is a deleted verbal noun, meaning a false creation. And it was said : It is in the accusative case because the preposition was removed, meaning I did not create it for falsehood. And it was said : It is in the second object, and creation can mean making. " Glory be to You. " An- Nahhas narrated on the authority of Musa ibn Talhah, who said : The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, was asked about the meaning of Glory be to God , so he said : " To sanctify God from evil . " And its meaning has already been fully presented in Al-Baqarah. Save us from the punishment of the Fire means, Save us from its punishment. And it has already been presented .

Tafsir Ibn Kathir

Al-Tabarani said: Al-Husayn ibn Ishaq Al-Tastari told us, Yahya Al-Hamani told us, Yaqub Al-Qummi told us on the authority of Ja'far ibn Abi Al-Mughira, on the authority of Sa'id ibn Jubayr, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, who said: The Quraysh came to the Jews and said: How did Moses come to you? They said: His staff and his hand were white for the onlookers. They came to the Christians and said: How was Jesus? They said: He used to heal the blind and the lepers, and revive the dead. So they came to the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and said: Ask God to make

Safa gold for us. So he asked his Lord, and this verse was revealed: Indeed, in the creation of the heavens and the earth and the alternation of the night and the day are signs for those of understanding. So let them ponder over it. This is problematic, because this verse was revealed in Medina, and their question that Safa be gold was in Mecca, and God knows best. The meaning of the verse is that God Almighty says: Indeed, in the creation of the heavens and the earth meaning this in its height and breadth, and this in its lowness, density and lowliness, and what they contain of great visible signs of planets, fixed stars, seas, mountains, deserts, trees, plants, crops, fruits, animals and minerals, and benefits of different colors, scents, tastes and properties, and the alternation of the night and the day meaning their succession and their interchange of length and shortness, so sometimes one becomes long and the other short, then they become equal, then one takes from the other, and what was short becomes long and short. Which was long. And all of that is the estimation of the Almighty, the All-Knowing, and for this reason the Almighty said, Signs for those of understanding, meaning the complete, intelligent minds that perceive things in their true and obvious aspects, and they are not like the deaf and dumb who do not understand, about whom God said, "And how many a sign is there in the heavens and the earth which they pass by while they are turning away from it. And most of them do not believe in God except while they associate others with Him." Then the Almighty described those of understanding, saying, Those who remember God standing, sitting, and [lying] on their sides. As it was proven in Sahih Al-Bukhari on the authority of Imran bin Husain: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said, 'Pray standing, and if you cannot, then sitting, and if you cannot, then on your side,'" meaning they do not stop mentioning Him in all their states in their secrets, consciences, and tongues, and they reflect on the creation of the heavens and the earth, meaning they understand what is in them of wisdom indicating the greatness of the Creator, His power, knowledge, wisdom, choice, and mercy. Sheikh Abu Sulayman Al-Darani said: I leave my house and my eyes do not fall on anything except that I see that God has blessed me with it and I have a lesson in it. Narrated by Ibn Abi Al-Dunya in the book of trust and consideration and on the authority of Al-Hasan Al-Basri that he said: Thinking for an hour is better than standing all night. Al-Fudayl said: Al-Hasan said: Thinking is a mirror that shows you your good and bad deeds. Sufyan bin Uyaynah said: Thinking is a light that enters your heart and perhaps he would quote this verse:

If a person has an idea, then there is a lesson in everything.

It was narrated that Jesus, peace be upon him, said: Blessed is he whose speech is remembrance, whose silence is contemplation, and whose gaze is a lesson. Luqman the Wise said: Prolonged solitude inspires thought, and prolonged thought is evidence of knocking on the door of Paradise. Wahb ibn Munabbih said: No man's thought is prolonged without understanding, and no man has ever understood without knowledge, and no man has ever known without acting. Omar ibn Abdul Aziz said: Speaking in

Surat Al Imran 3:191

Those who remember God while standing, sitting, and lying on their sides, and reflect on the creation of the heavens and the earth, [saying], “Our Lord, You did not create this in vain. Glory be to You. So protect us from the punishment of the Fire.”

remembrance of God Almighty is good, and contemplating the blessings of God is the best form of worship. Mughis al-Aswad said: Visit the graves every day and contemplate, and see the situation with your hearts, and look at who will lead the two groups to Paradise or Hell, and let your hearts and bodies feel the remembrance of Hell, its whips and its chambers. He would cry at that until he was raised up dead from among his companions, his mind gone. Abdullah ibn al-Mubarak said: A man passed by a monk at a cemetery and a garbage dump, so he called out to him and said: O monk, you have two treasures from the treasures of this world in which you will learn: the treasure of men, and the treasure of money. On the authority of Ibn Omar: Whenever he wanted to examine his heart, he would go to a ruined place, stand at its door and call out in a sad voice, saying: Where are your people? Then he would return to himself and say: Everything will perish except His Face. On the authority of Ibn Abbas, he said: Two moderate rak'ahs of contemplation are better than standing all night while the heart is heedless. Al-Hasan Al-Basri said: O son of Adam, eat a third of your stomach, drink a third of it, and leave the other third to breathe for contemplation. Some of the wise men said: Whoever looks at the world without admiration, the sight of his heart will be obscured to the extent of that heedlessness. Bishr bin Al-Harith Al-Hafi said: If people contemplated the greatness of God Almighty, they would not disobey Him. Al-Hasan said on the authority of Amir bin Abdul Qais, he said: I heard more than one, two, or three of the companions of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, say: The light of faith or the radiance of faith is contemplation. It was narrated on the authority of Jesus, peace be upon him, that he said: O weak son of Adam, fear God wherever you are, and be a guest in this world, and make the mosques your home, and teach your eyes to weep, your body to be patient, and your heart to think, and do not worry about tomorrow's provision. On the authority of the Commander of the Faithful, Omar bin Abdul Aziz, may God be pleased with him, that he cried one day among his companions, and he was asked about that, so he said: I thought about the world, its pleasures and desires, and I learned from it, and its desires are almost gone until its bitterness clouds them, and if there is no lesson in it for those who learn, then there are sermons in it for those who remember. And Ibn Abi Al-Dunya said: Al-Hussein bin Abdul Rahman recited to me:

The believer's walk is the believer's pleasure is the lesson

We thank God alone, we are all in danger

There is a man who is distracted and his life has passed and he does not feel it

There is a life that was beyond desire, full of flowers

In the murmur of the eyes and the shade of the trees

And joy from the plant and goodness from the fruit

His jealousy and his family's speed of time with jealousy

We thank God alone, for in this there is a lesson.

Indeed in this is a lesson for the wise if he takes heed.

God the Almighty has condemned those who do not consider His creations that indicate His Essence, Attributes, Law, Power and Signs, saying: And how many are the signs in the heavens and the earth which they pass by while they are turning away from them? And most of them do not believe in God except while they associate others with Him. And He praised His believing servants, Those who remember God while standing, sitting, and [lying] on their sides, and reflect on the creation of the heavens and the earth, saying: Our Lord, You did not create this in vain. That is, You did not create this creation in vain, but rather in truth, so that You may reward those who do evil for what they have done, and reward those who do good with goodness. Then He declared Him free from vainness and the creation of falsehood, saying: Glory be to You, that is, from creating anything in vain. Save us from the punishment of the Fire. That is, O He who created creation with truth and justice, O He who is free from deficiencies, faults and vainness. Save us from the punishment of the Fire by Your power and strength, and provide us with deeds that please You. And guide us to righteous deeds that will guide us to the Gardens of Bliss, and protect us from Your painful punishment. Then they said, Our Lord, whoever You admit to the Fire - You have disgraced him. That is, You have humiliated him and made his disgrace apparent to the people of the assembly. And for the wrongdoers there are no helpers. That is, on the Day of Resurrection, they will have no protector from You. Nor will they be able to escape from what You intended for them. Our Lord, indeed we have heard a caller calling to faith, that is, a caller calling to faith, and he is the Messenger, may God bless him and grant him peace. Believe in your Lord, so we have believed. That is, he says, Believe in your Lord, so we have believed, that is, we responded to him and followed him, that is, with our faith and following of Your Prophet - Our Lord, so forgive us our sins, that is, cover them, and remove from us our misdeeds, between us and You, and cause us to die with the righteous, that is, join us with the righteous. Our Lord, and give us what You promised us through Your messengers, it was said: its meaning is through faith in Your messengers, and it was said: its meaning is through the tongues of Your messengers. This is more evident - and Imam Ahmad said: Abu Al-Yaman told us, Ismail bin Ayyash told us, on the authority of Amr bin Muhammad, on the authority of Abu Uqal, on the authority of Anas bin Malik, who said: “The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: ‘Asqalan is one of the two brides. God will raise from it on the Day of Resurrection seventy thousand who will not be held accountable, and He will raise from it fifty thousand martyrs who will come to God, and in it are rows of martyrs with their heads severed in their hands, their veins gushing with blood, saying, 'Our Lord, and give us what You promised us through Your messengers and do not disgrace us on the Day of Resurrection. Indeed, You do not fail to fulfill Your promise.' God will say, 'My servants have spoken the truth. Wash them in the River of the Egg.' So they will emerge from it pure and white. They will roam in Paradise wherever they wish." This hadith is considered one of the strange hadiths in the Musnad, and some consider it fabricated, and God knows best. And do not disgrace us on the Day of Resurrection meaning in front of all creation, Indeed, You do not fail to fulfill Your promise meaning the promise that Your messengers informed us about must come, which is the standing before You on the Day of Resurrection. Al-Hafiz Abu Ya'la said: Al-Harith bin Surayj told us, Al-Mu'tabar told us, Al-Fadl bin Isa told us, Muhammad bin Al-Munkadir told us that Jabir bin Abdullah told him that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, said: Shame and disgrace will reach the son of Adam on the Day of Resurrection in his standing before God Almighty to the extent that a servant would wish to be ordered to the Fire. A strange hadith. It has been proven that the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, used to recite these ten verses from the end of Al Imran when he got up at night to perform the night prayer. Al-Bukhari, may God have mercy on him, said: Saeed bin Abi Maryam told us, Muhammad bin Jaafar told us, Sharik bin Abdullah bin Abi Namir told me on the authority of Kurayb, on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, who said: "I spent the night with my aunt Maymunah, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, talked with his family for an hour, then he went to sleep. When the last third of the night had passed, he sat up and looked at the sky and said: 'Indeed, in the creation of the heavens and the earth and the alternation of the night and the day are signs for those of understanding' [the verses]. Then he got up, performed ablution, used the siwa', and prayed eleven rak'ahs. Then Bilal called the adhan and prayed two rak'ahs, then he went out and led the people in the dawn prayer." Muslim narrated it in this way on the authority of Abu Bakr bin Ishaq al-San'ani, on the authority of Ibn Abi Maryam. Then Al-Bukhari narrated it through various chains of transmission on the authority of Malik, on the authority of Mukhrama bin Sulayman, on the authority of Kurayb, that Ibn Abbas informed him that he spent the night with Maymunah, the wife of the Prophet, may God bless him and grant him peace, and she was his aunt. He said: "I lay down on the width of the pillow, and the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and his family lay down on its length. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, slept until it was midnight, or a little before or after it. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, woke up from his sleep and began to wipe the sleep from his face with his hand. Then he recited the last ten verses of Surat Al Imran. Then he went to a hanging bag and performed ablution from it, and he performed his ablution well. Then he stood up to pray. Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both, said: So I got up and did as he did, then I went and stood beside him. The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, put his right hand on my head, and took hold of my right ear, twisting it. He prayed two rak'ahs, then two rak'ahs, then two rak'ahs, then two rak'ahs, then two rak'ahs, then two rak'ahs, then he lay down until..." The muezzin came to him, so he stood up and prayed two light rak'ahs, then he went out and prayed the dawn prayer." And the rest of the group narrated it in this way through various chains of transmission on the authority of Malik. Muslim also narrated it, and Abu Dawud narrated it through other chains of transmission on the authority of Mukhramah ibn Sulayman on his authority.

Another way for this hadith on the authority of Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them both. Abu Bakr bin Mardawayh said: Muhammad bin Ahmad bin Muhammad bin Ali told us, Abu Yahya bin Abi Masarra told us, Khallad bin Yahya told us, Yunus bin Abi Ishaq told us, on the authority of Al-Munhal bin Amr, on the authority of Ali bin Abdullah bin Abbas, on the authority of Abdullah bin Abbas, who said: Al-Abbas ordered me to spend the night with the family of the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, and to preserve his prayers. He said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, led the people in the last 'Isha' prayer until there was no one left in the mosque except him. He stood up and passed by me and said: Who is this? 'Abdullah?' I said: Yes. He said: So who? I said: Al-Abbas ordered me to spend the night with you. He said: Then the truth, the truth. When he entered, he said: Did you spread out 'Abdullah? So a pillow of silk was brought. He said: The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, slept on it until I heard him snoring. Then he sat up on his bed. He said: He raised his head to the sky and said: Glory be to the King, the Holy, three times. Then he recited these verses from the end of Surat Al-Imran until he finished it." Muslim, Abu Dawud, and Al-Nasa'i also narrated a hadith on the authority of 'Ali ibn 'Abdullah ibn 'Abbas on the authority of his father on the authority of his father on this matter as well.

Another way Narrated by Ibn Mardawayh from the hadith of Asim bin Bahdalah from some of his companions, from Saeed bin Jubair, from Ibn Abbas, "That the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, went out one night after the night had passed, and he looked at the sky and recited this verse: 'Indeed, in the creation of the heavens and the earth and the alternation of the night and the day are signs for those of understanding.' to the end of the surah, then he said: O God, place in my heart light, and in my hearing light, and in my sight light, and on my right light, and on my left light, and in front of me light, and behind me light, and above me light, and below me light, and make my light greater on the Day of Resurrection." This supplication is proven in some ways of the Sahih from the narration of Kurayb from Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with him. Then Ibn Mardawayh and Ibn Abi Hatim narrated from the hadith of Ja'far bin Abi Al-Mughira from Saeed bin Jubair, from Ibn Abbas, who said: The Quraysh came to the Jews and said: What signs did Moses bring to you? They said: His staff and his white hand are for the onlookers. And they came to the Christians and said: How was Jesus among you? They said: He used to heal the blind and the lepers and bring the dead back to life. So they came to the Prophet (peace and blessings of God be upon him) and said: Call upon your Lord to turn Safa into gold for us. So he called upon his Lord, the Mighty and Sublime, and the following verse was revealed: Indeed, in the creation of the heavens and the earth and the alternation of the night and the day are signs for those of understanding. He said: Let them ponder over them. This is the wording of Ibn Mardawayh. This hadeeth was mentioned earlier in the narration of al-Tabarani at the beginning of the verse. This necessitates that these verses were revealed in Makkah, but the well-known view is that they were revealed in Madinah. Its evidence is the other hadeeth. Ibn Mardawayh said: Isma'il ibn 'Ali ibn Isma'il told us, Ahmad ibn 'Ali al-Harrani told us, Shuja' ibn Ashras told us, Hashraj ibn Nabatah al-Waseeti Abu Makram told us on the authority of al-Kalbi, who is Abu Janab, on the authority of 'Ata' who said: I, Ibn 'Umar, and 'Ubaid ibn 'Umair went to 'Aa'ishah may God be pleased with her. We entered upon her and there was a veil between us and her. She said: O 'Ubaid, what prevents you from visiting us? He said: The poet said: Visit often and you will increase in love. Ibn Umar said: "Leave us and tell us about the most amazing thing you saw from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace." She cried and said: "Everything about him was amazing. He came to me during my night until his skin touched my skin, then he said: 'Leave me to worship my Lord, the Almighty and Majestic.'" She said: "I said: By God, I love being close to you, and I love that you worship your Lord." So he went to the water skin and performed ablution, but did not pour much water. Then he stood up to pray and cried until his beard was wet, then he prostrated and cried until the ground was wet, then he lay on his side and cried until Bilal came to call him to the dawn prayer. She said: "He said: O Messenger of God, what makes you cry when God has forgiven you your sins, past and future?" He said: "Woe to you, Bilal! What prevents me from crying when it was revealed to me this night: 'Indeed, in the creation of the heavens and the earth and the alternation of the night and the day are signs for those of understanding.' " Then he said: Woe to the one who recites it and does not reflect on it. Abd ibn Humayd narrated it in his interpretation on the authority of Ja'far ibn 'Awn on the authority of Abu Janab Al-Kalbi narrated on the authority of 'Ata' who said: I, Abdullah bin Omar, and Ubaid bin Umair entered upon the Mother of the Believers Aisha, may God be pleased with her, while she was in her chamber. We greeted her and she said: Who are these? We said: This is Abdullah bin Omar and Ubaid bin Umair. She said: O Ubaid bin Umair, what prevents you from visiting us? He said: What did the first one say: Visit often and you will increase in love. She said: We love visiting you and having intercourse with you. Abdullah bin Omar said: Leave this idleness of yours, "Tell us about the most amazing thing you saw from the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace." She said: So she cried and then said: Everything about him was amazing. He came to me during my night until he entered my bed with me, until his skin stuck to my skin, then he said: O Aisha, give me permission to worship my Lord. She said: I love your closeness and I love your love. She said: So he went to a water skin in the house and poured water frequently, then he got up and recited the Qur'an, then he cried until I saw that his tears had reached his waist. She said: Then he sat and praised God and extolled Him, then he cried until I saw that his tears had reached his lap. She said: Then he leaned on his right side and put his hand under his cheek. She said: Then he cried until I saw that his tears had reached the ground. Bilal entered upon him and called him to the dawn prayer, then he said: The prayer, O Messenger of God. When Bilal saw him crying, he said: O Messenger of God, are you crying when God has forgiven you your past and future sins? He said: O Bilal, should I not be? A grateful servant? Why should I not cry when tonight the following verse was revealed to me: Indeed, in the creation of the heavens and the earth and the alternation of the night and the day are signs for those of understanding until His saying: Glory be to You! Save us from the punishment of the Fire. Then He said: Woe to the one who recites these verses and does not reflect upon them. This is how Abu Hatim Ibn Hibban narrated it in his Sahih on the authority of Imran Ibn Musa, on the authority of Uthman Ibn Abi Shaybah, on the authority of Yahya Ibn Zakariya, on the authority of Ibrahim Ibn Suwaid Al-Nakha'i, on the authority of Abdul Malik Ibn Abi Sulayman, on the authority of 'Ata', who said: I and Ubayd Ibn Umair entered upon Aisha and he mentioned something similar. This is how Abdullah Ibn Muhammad Ibn Abi Al-Dunya narrated it in the book Al-Tafkur wal-l'tibar on the authority of Shuja' Ibn Ashras. Then he said: Al-Hasan bin Abdul Aziz told me: I heard a chain of transmission on the authority of Sufyan, who is Al-Thawri, who traced it back to the Prophet, who said: Whoever recites the end of Al Imran and does not reflect on it, woe to him, counting ten on his fingers. Al-Hasan bin Abdul Aziz said: Ubayd bin Al-Sa'ib told me: It was said to Al-Awza'i: What is the limit of reflecting on them? He said: He recites them while understanding them. Ibn Abi Al-Dunya said: Qasim bin Hashim told me: Ali bin Ayyash told us: Abdul Rahman bin Sulayman told us: I asked Al-Awza'i about the minimum that a person who is attached to them can contemplate on them and what will save him from this woe? He lowered his head for a while, then said: He recites them while understanding them.

Those who remember God while standing, sitting, and lying on their sides, and reflect on the creation of the heavens and the earth, [saying], “Our Lord, You did not create this in vain. Glory be to You. So protect us from the punishment of the Fire.”

Another hadith contains something strange. Abu Bakr bin Mardawayh said: Abd al-Rahman bin Bashir bin Numayr told us, Ishaq bin Ibrahim al-Basti told us H and Ishaq bin Ibrahim bin Zaid told us, Ahmad bin Amr told us, Hisham bin Ammar told us, Sulayman bin Musa al-Zuhri told us, Muzahir bin Aslam al-Makhzumi told us, Saeed bin Abi Saeed al-Maqburi told us on the authority of Abu Hurayrah, who said: "The Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, used to recite ten verses from the end of Surat Al Imran every night." Muzahir bin Aslam is weak.

Fath al-Qadir

His statement 191- Those who remember God while standing, sitting, and lying on their sides The relative pronoun is an attribute of those with understanding. It was also said that it is separated from it as a predicate of a deleted subject, or it is accusative for praise. What is meant by remembrance here is His remembrance, glory be to Him, in these states, without any difference between the state of prayer and other states. A group of commentators went to the view that remembrance here is an expression for prayer: that is, they do not waste it in any state, so they pray it standing when they have no excuse, and sitting and lying on their sides when they have an excuse. His statement, and they reflect on the creation of the heavens and the earth is conjoined with his statement, they remember. It was also said that it is conjoined with the state, I mean standing and sitting. It was also said that it is separate from the first, and the meaning is that they reflect on the wonder of their creation and their perfection, despite the greatness of their bodies, for if this reflection is sincere, it will lead them to faith in God, glory be to Him. His saying, Our Lord, You did not create this in vain, is an estimation of the saying: that is, they say, You did not create this in vain and amusement, but rather You created it as evidence of Your wisdom and power. And vain means that which is fleeting and gone, and from it is the saying of Labid:

Everything except God is false

It is in the accusative case as an adjective for a deleted source: i.e., a false creation. It was said: It is in the accusative case by removing the preposition. It was said: It is a second object. And created means made, or it is in the accusative case as a state. The reference in His saying: This is to the heavens and the earth, or to creation as it means the created. His saying: Glory be to You means: Exaltation of You from what is not befitting of You from the matters, one of which is that Your creation of these creatures is in vain. And His saying: Save us from the punishment of the Fire the fa is to arrange this supplication after what preceded it.

Tafsir al-Baghawi

191- Those who remember God while standing, sitting, and lying on their sides. Ali ibn Abi Talib, Ibn Abbas, may God be pleased with them, Al-Nakha'i, and Qatadah said: This is in prayer. He prays standing, and if he is unable to do so, then sitting, and if he is unable to do so, then on his side.

Abu Uthman Saeed bin Ismail Al-Dhabi told us, Abu Muhammad Abdul-Jabbar bin Muhammad Al-Jarrah told us, Abu Al-Abbas Muhammad bin Ahmad Al-Mahboubi told us, Abu Isa Muhammad bin Isa Al-Tirmidhi told us, Hannad told us, Wakee' told us, Ibrahim bin Tahman told us, Hussain Al-Mu'allim told us, Abdullah bin Buraidah told us, Imran bin Husain said, I asked the Messenger of God, may God bless him and grant him peace, about the prayer of the sick person, and he said: Pray standing, and if you are unable to do so, then sitting, and if you are unable to do so, then on your side.

Other commentators said that he meant by it the persistence in remembrance in all circumstances because man rarely omits one of these three states, similar to it in Surat An-Nisa': So when you have completed the prayer, remember God while standing, sitting, or [lying] on your sides (An-Nisa': 103), and they reflect on the creation of the heavens and the earth, and what He has created in them, so that this may guide them to the power of God and they may know that it has a Creator, Able, Planner, and Wise. Ibn 'Awn said: Reflection removes heedlessness and creates fear in the heart, just as water creates plants, and hearts are not cleansed by sorrows, nor are they enlightened by reflection. Our Lord, that is, and they say, Our Lord, "You did not create this," referring it back to creation, so that is why He did not say this, "in vain," that is, in vain and playful, but rather You created it for a great matter, and falsehood is in the accusative case by removing the preposition, that is, by falsehood, Glory be to You, so save us from the punishment of the Fire.

Tafsir al-Baidawi

191 Those who remember God while standing, sitting, and lying on their sides meaning they remember Him constantly in all situations, standing, sitting, and lying down. And from him, peace and blessings be upon him, Whoever loves to graze in the gardens of Paradise, let him remember God often. It was said that its meaning is that they pray in the three positions according to their ability, based on his saying, peace and blessings be upon him, to Imran bin Husain: Pray standing, and if you cannot, then sitting, and if you cannot, then on your side, nodding. It is an argument for Al-Shafi'i, may God be pleased with him, that the sick person prays while lying on his right side, facing the front of his body. And they reflect on the creation of the heavens and the earth as evidence and consideration, and it is the best of acts of worship, as he, peace and blessings be upon him, said, There is no worship like reflection. Because it is specific to the heart and the intended purpose of creation, and from him, peace and blessings be upon him: "While a man was lying on his bed, he raised his head and looked at the sky and the stars and said: I bear witness that you have a Lord and Creator: O God, forgive me. So God looked at him and forgave him." This is clear evidence of the honor of the science of Usul and the excellence of its people. Our Lord, You did not create this in vain with the intention of saying, meaning they think while saying that, and this is an indication of what is being thought about, meaning creation, as it is intended by it the created from the heavens and the earth, or to them because they are in the meaning of the created, and the meaning is that You did not create it in vain and wasted without wisdom, but You created it for great wisdom, among which is that it be the beginning of man's existence and the reason for his livelihood and a guide that guides him to Your knowledge and urges him to obey You so that he may attain eternal life and everlasting happiness in Your company. Glory be to You is to exonerate You from frivolity and creating falsehood, and it is an objection. Save us from the punishment of the Fire for failing to contemplate it and do what it requires. The benefit of the letter fa is to indicate that their knowledge of the reason for which the heavens and the earth were created led them to seek refuge.

Surat Al Imran 3:191

Those who remember God while standing, sitting, and lying on their sides, and reflect on the creation of the heavens and the earth, [saying], “Our Lord, You did not create this in vain. Glory be to You. So protect us from the punishment of the Fire.”